Allen is recognized for housing

U.S. Senator Ben Nelson (D-NE) joined Allen Mayor Rick Smith, the Nebraska Rural Development Commission, other housing agencies, and Fannie Mae (FNM/NYSE), the nation's largest source of financing for home mortgages, on April 19 at a breakfast to recognize the Allen Development Group, Inc., and the Village of Allen for more than 10 years of making homeownership and housing a focus of the local economic development.

These efforts have resulted in a 25 percent increase in population. Senator Nelson lauded the efforts by presenting the groups with a "Fulfilling the American Dream Award" and highlighting their recent designation as a Nebraska Top 10 Rural Development Initiative by the Nebraska Rural Development Commission.

The special award and recognition cited the community's efforts to encourage homeownership and the building of new homes. "Allen is a town that knows how to build for the future," said Sen. Nelson. "Through local leadership, planning, and action revolving around housing they have seen nearly a 25 percent population increase in the last decade."

Since its creation in 1991, the Allen Development Group, Inc., has helped 47 families purchase existing and newly built single-family homes. The effort was created to look for solutions to the increased demand for affordable housing caused by job growth in the Siouxland area.

In 1995, in partnership with the Village, the Allen Development Group, Inc., acquired land and began to develop phase one of the Village Estates subdivision. Phase two of Village Estates began in 1999 and includes new water, sewer lines, and streets that were paid for in part by a grant from the Nebraska

Affordable Housing Trust Fund to help keep the new homes affordable. So far, nine homes are occupied and three are underway.

When completed, Village Estates will add 25 homes and an estimated $2 million to the tax base, while providing a new source of affordable housing.

"Without the support of the Village Board and all our partners we would not have been able to create this strong economic tool to help keep and recruit new families to Allen," said Rob Bock, vice president of Security National Bank and president of the Allen Development Group, Inc. "This leadership has created innovative ways to help keep our children stay in the community and encourage others to find out what is so special about the area in which we live."

Last week, the Nebraska Rural Development Commission (NRDC) with Governor Johanns recognized the Allen effort as being one of the Top 10 Rural Development Initiatives for 2000. "It is important that housing is seen as a major economic development tool across our state," said Amy Larrick, community builders coordinator for NRDC. "With businesses moving to Nebraska, we can highlight communities like Allen for their proactive approach to affordable housing."

"We want to thank all our partners — especially the Allen Development Group, Inc., local lenders, guilders, NIFA, DED, the USDA, and Fannie Mae — for sharing our commitment to help house families," said Allen Mayor Rick Smith. "Senator Nelson, Fannie Mae and the Nebraska Rural Development Commission honor the approval of a new teacher contract for high school science. Lisa Janke will fill this position. She has teaching experience in Winside and Genoa Public Schools.

Arbor Day program to feature willow trees

Irv Hoffbauer of Des Moines, Iowa, a 1951 Wayne State College alumnus who provided funds for the refurbishing of the Willow Bowl, will be on hand for a willow tree-planting ceremony on Arbor Day, Friday, April 27, at 1:30 p.m. in the Willow Bowl. The public is invited to attend the program. There is no charge.

"We will plant two willow trees for each aging willow that had to be removed last fall," said Lea Clausen, WSC vice president and executive director of the Wayne State Foundation. "The Willow Bowl has been special to Irv since he first came to Wayne State in 1948. He wants to help ensure the Willow Bowl will be vibrant for future Wayne State College students, and we appreciate his generosity."

Hoffbauer, who hasn't been back to WSC since his graduation 50 years ago, said he is pleased to be part of the Willow Bowl's refurbishing. "When Lea told me of the need to replace the willow trees, it didn't take more than two seconds for me to decide I wanted to be involved with that project," he said.

During the Arbor Day program, members of the WSC campus landscape master plan committee and the Wayne State Foundation campus beautification committee will be introduced. Dr. Sheila Stearns, WSC president, will welcome the group and participate in the tree-planting ceremony. Curt Frye will be master of ceremonies.

Pastor Paul Judson, campus pastor with the Welcome House, Lutheran Ministries, will sing several selections. Short presentations on recycling and tree-planting will be given. Refreshments will be served. Tours of the campus arboretum will be offered following the program.

Special guests at the Arbor Day program will be sixth grade students from Wayne Middle School and fifth and sixth grade students from St.

Building projects reviewed

The Community Activity Center, the new firehall and fireworks were among the topics discussed at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

John Carlson of Carlson, West, Povondra was present at the meeting to explain the proposed materials for the interior and exterior of the Community Activity Center. He explained that the outside of the structure will be brick to a height of 8 feet, 8 inches with the remainder of the building being metal.

Bids were opened earlier on Tuesday for the fire hall and Stephen Granger of Johnson, Erickson, O'Brien was present to explain the differences and the next step in the process. There were a total of seven contractors who submitted bids for the project, all of which were relatively close to the estimated cost.

The Fire Hall Building Committee will meet on April 30 to make decisions based on the results of the bidding and results will be brought back to the council.

The council approved the annual request by the Wayne County Jaycees for use of the Water/Wastewater property to set off fireworks as well as a $500 contribution to the event.

A request from Randy Pick to sell fireworks on city property at the corner of Seventh and Dearborn Streets was denied. City codes prohibit the sale of such items on city property.

An application for Wayne Revolving Loan Funds in the amount of $25,000 was approved for the Wayne Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber will use funds with the funds received from the insurance payout from the recent fire to renovate the Chamber Office and make it ADA accessible.

Christmas decorations were also discussed at Tuesday's meeting.

A company in Des Moines presented a proposal to refurbish the city's snowflakes at a cost of $5,400.

Speaker named for WSC commencement

Doris Buffett Bryant of Wilmington, N.C., will be the guest speaker at Wayne State College commencement ceremonies on Saturday, May 5, at 2 p.m. in the

Doris Buffett Bryant

Willow Bowl. Bryant is the president of the Sunshine Lady Foundation, Inc., a non-profit, philanthropic organization she founded in 1996 with $10 million in "seed money" from a bequest she received when her mother, Leila Stahl Buffett of Omaha, died.

In the four years since it was founded, the Sunshine Lady Foundation has awarded more than $6.2 million to a variety of beneficiaries, including organizations, families and individuals who need a helping hand. The foundation continues to grow, she says, thanks to her brother's business acumen—all of the money is invested in Warren Buffett's Berkshire Hathaway investment company.

At 72, Bryant says giving has kept her active. In an interview with Worth Magazine, she spoke of her philosophy of giving. She is determined to improve the situations of those she helps. "It's more of a hand up than a handout," she said. Her goal, she says, is to give away all of her money during her lifetime.

Most grant requests come to the Sunshine Lady Foundation through a nationwide network of friends and associates Bryant calls "Sunbeams," who forward names of worthy recipients to the Foundation. Several Wayne State College students have been beneficiaries of Sunshine Lady Foundation grants. Judy Johnson, WSC director of college relations, is one of Bryant's "Sunbeams."

Bryant has been featured on ABC's "Good Morning America," and has been the subject of national magazine and newspaper articles. She was born in Omaha, the oldest child of Howard and Leila Buffett. The Buffett family moved to Washington, D.C. in 1952 when Howard Buffett was elected to Congress to represent Nebraska's second district.

Bryant attended Mount Vernon College, George Washington University, and graduated from the University of Omaha with a bachelor of science in education. Among many other roles, she has been a first grade teacher, domestic violence crusader, political activist, mother and grandmother.

She is married to Alfred Bryant and has lived in North Carolina for 10 years.

Dalton to receive WSC achievement award

Robert "Robb" Dalton, a 1975 graduate of Wayne State College, will be the recipient of the Alumni Achievement Award presented at WSC commencement ceremonies on May 5. Dalton, who graduated Summa cum Laude with a bachelor of science in communications and history, is president of Fireworks Television located in Beverly Hills, Calif.

After more than two decades in the television industry, Dalton's experience has included conceptual development, physical production, international co-productions, sales, acquisitions and even station management. As president of Fireworks Television, he spearheads the company's Los Angeles office in the development, finance, production and sales of original programming to U.S. broadcast and cable networks.

Prior to joining Fireworks Television in the summer of 2000, Dalton was senior vice president of CBS, where he supervised West Coast development and production for Eyemark Entertainment, King World and CBS Enterprises.

Before joining CBS Enterprises, Dalton was president of Pinnacle Entertainment. He also spent 10 years with the San Francisco Chronicle Broadcasting Group, where he served as president of the company's ABC affiliate TV stations.

Dalton has won two Emmy awards, and is the author of a national best-seller and college-level text book, LifePlanning. He is currently working on a second text book. He has lectured since 1997 in the Television and Film Department of the University of Southern California, and is a member of the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences and the National Association of Television Program Executives. He resides in Malibu, Calif.

"Robb's exceptional accomplishments are an inspiration to our current students," said Deb Lundahl, WSC director of alumni services. "It is our privilege to extend this award to such a distinguished and worthy individual."

"Wayne State College's positive, nurturing, hands-on environment gave me more than an education," said Dalton. "It gave me the confidence to go out into the world and take on life's challenges." Dalton was born in Wayne, lived in Laurel until the age of 16 and moved to Sioux City, Iowa, graduating from Trinity High School.

Several attend workshop

Sandra Atkins of Wayne and Kevin Garvin of Dixon are among more than 50 individuals attending a Nebraska Emergency Medical Services Association pre-conference instructor workshop recently in Columbus.

The workshop was sponsored by the Nebraska Instructor Society

(NIS), NEMSA, Nebraska Health and Human Services System Emergency Medical Services Program and Central Community College-Columbus. It covered instructor certification, regulations and legislation, practical and written examinations, course curriculum and EMS education.

Wayne receives Tree City award

Wayne has been named a Tree City USA by the National Arbor Day Foundation.

It is the 10th year Wayne has received this national recognition. Wayne is also the recipient of a Tree City USA-Growth Award for demonstrating progress in its community forestry program for the eighth year.

The Tree City USA program is sponsored by the National Arbor Day Foundation in cooperation with the National Association of State Foresters and the USDA Forest Service.

According to John Rosenow, President of the National Arbor Day Foundation, "an effective community forestry program is an ongoing process of renewal and improvement — a program of tree planting and care that continues through the years. The Tree City USA award is an excellent indication that there is a solid foundation for the process of improvement."

Hospital acquires imager

The radiology department at PMC has acquired a dry thermal imager.

According to Sr. Kevin Hermesen, Radiology Supervisor, "this imager will greatly enhance the networking capability of the department in so far as it will allow images from the CT scanner and ultrasounds to be filmed directly via digital signals."

The purchase of the imager was made possible through the provision of funding from Providence Medical Center Foundation and Marjorie Armstrong of Wayne.

According to Sr. Kevin, the dry imaging process provides a higher quality, which allows for greater convenience and less maintenance. It is possible to print up to 130 films (14 inches by 17 inches) per hour.

"Digital imaging is the future for radiology departments. It is anticipated that in the future this will lead to totally filmless x-ray departments and that all images will be stored on discs," said Sr. Kevin.

Sr. Kevin states that the purchase of this dry imager is the first step toward digital networking on the radiology department at PMC.

Projects

to re-do the 31 snowflakes. The bid was accepted on a 7-0 vote.

An agreement was made with the Wayne Child Care Board to refinance their paving and utility special assessments. Under the agreement, the city will refinance the $8,455 remaining at a 5 percent interest rate and collect the money directly from Rainbow World in $120 monthly payments. The action will prevent a tax foreclosure on the property and will save both Rainbow World and the city money.

Discussion was held on establishing fees for well permits. The current code requires that every new well drilled within the city's two mile jurisdiction must receive a permit before being installed. It is also required that an engineering study be conducted to determine if the well will have an "adverse affect" on any existing city well.

The current amount being collected for the permit and study do not cover the city's cost.

It was voted to make a change in the code to allow for a $200 permit fee and pass on the cost of the engineering study to those having the well installed. The total cost will vary from well to well, based on what studies need to be done.

The council will also continue to discuss the differences between domestic wells and irrigation wells. It is hoped that some type of agreement on the amount of water produced by a well before the engineering study is required.

No action was taken on Ordinance 2001-4 which would have amended the city code in regard to the size and height of signs located in the city.

Members of the Planning Commission have spent approximately a year looking at ordinances in other city's and State of Nebraska regulations.

While the council generally approved the Planning Commission's recommendations, they did question the necessity of requiring a permit for political signs.

Discussion will continue between the two groups before formal action is taken on the ordinance.

During Tuesday's meeting, Mayor Sheryl Lindau read proclamations in regard to Arbor Day (April 27) and Municipal Clerk's Week (April 29-May 5).

of hiring a teacher to cover English and social studies duties at Wayne High. Teachers Lauren Walton, Sylvia Ruhl, Dwaine Spieker, and Edith Zahniser were present to voice their concerns on the student load in the language department and to answer questions the board may have. The three teachers (Walton, Ruhl, and Spieker) have requested the board consider hiring another teacher to help in the English area.

In other action, considering the shape of the track located south of Wayne Elementary, Dr. Joe Reinert, Wayne Schools superintendent, noted it would take around $200,000 to re-do the track from the base up.

With these improvements, the track should be able to be used for at least five years or longer. Wayne Athletic Director Rocky Ruhl will have some ideas and prices for track improvements ready for discussion with the board at the next meeting. The board will also discuss some long-term plans for the track, either at the Wayne School's location or at Wayne State College.

Ending the meeting with executive session, the board discussed personnel matters.

The next regular meeting of the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education will be held on Monday, May 14 at 7 p.m. at the Wayne High School.

School board at Allen to attend retreat

The Allen Board of Education will be at a retreat at the United Methodist Church in Allen from 4 to 10 p.m. on Monday, April 30.

Burma Kroger, Director of Board Development for the Nebraska Association of School Boards, will lead the board members through a series of discussions about how effective boards function and how the development of a long-range plan provides direction for the district.

The retreat appears to be the first for an Allen board and members are looking forward to the opportunity to study the effectiveness of the board as a body charged with making policy decisions.

Visitors are welcome to stop in at their convenience at any time and watch the board grow in its own effectiveness.

Shift in district is planned

Main Street Focus

By Leo Ahmann

As I sit here and work on this column Monday morning, I look out the Main Street window and see SNOW!

As the say, "you know you're living in Nebraska when you run your furnace in the morning and your air-conditioner in the afternoon.

Last Thursday and Friday, I was in Plattsmouth for Main Street Training that had been, ironically, snowed out in February. The training included information regarding all of the Main Street's four committees . . . Organization, Economic Restructuring, Promotion and Design.

Scott Day of the National Main Street Office in Washington, D.C., was one of the facilitators and offered some interesting statistics about shoppers' preferences, nationwide. E-commerce has continued to grow . . . the big-box stores (Wal-Mart, etc.) continue to be built at a rapid rate. . . yet, Mr. and Mrs. Consumer are tiring of the customer service at the big-box stores and through the internet according to Jim Dion of Fionco in Chicago.

Customer services . . . two very key words for the commercial district of any downtown community. I guess it could be best said (and so many people have taken credit for this quote) . . . "People don't care how much you know, until they know how much you care." This from Ralph Utermohlen, an Extension Specialist from Kansas State University, the customer is everybody's boss. The customer is the most important person in your business . . . not a person to argue or match wits with . . . a person who is your prime source for re-orders. . . a person deserving of the most courteous and attentive treatment we can give. . . and the life-blood of every successful business. Thoughts every retailer and service oriented business person knows.

The segment on promotions was good re-enforcement for what Main Street Wayne is doing in this regard. The image of any Main Street District USA determines its potential for vitality and prosperity and carries over to the economic base of the entire community. Promotions strengthen the downtown's image and marketability. A promotion may be a first impression someone has of Wayne. It generates fresh activity and communicates progress and excitement. That's why I am so very proud of the Main Street Promotion Committee and its successful events from April through December.

The Design segment of the training focused on continuing to visit with building owners and manages about the importance of the outside and inside of their business. In Wayne, community pride is a strong asset and the main Street Program simply wants to continue to build on it with the assistance of everyone who cares about our entire community.

As I have said at a couple of speaking engagements in the community, we (the main Street Program) do not have a secret agenda, nor are we here to compete with anyone: The Main Street Wayne Program is here for the better of Wayne, and quite honestly, we're having fun working for Wayne.

Come join us. . . we're always happy to have new volunteers . . . for the short term or project, or for the long haul . . . volunteers are always welcome.

Remember, if you have questions or concerns about the main Street Program, give me a call at 375-5062 or stop in the office. Until next time. . .

Once upon a time there was a rural lawmaker who was almost never amenable to having his legislation amended if it meant moving the bill backwards in the legislative process.

"Never pay for the same real estate twice," was his admonition, his credo and his attitude.

Maybe some of that simply reflected an agricultural background. And there really are basic differences in the way some urban and some rural lawmakers look at things.

For example, Sen. Mark Quandahl of Omaha got himself connected with a little plan that would let rural Nebraska keep all of the legislative seats it now holds.

The fact is, if the urban folks wanted to play hardball, they could make a case for having a whack at two rural seats - but picking up at least one has been a foregone conclusion for those whose constituents live almost entirely along paved streets.

Two things are worth thinking about here.

One is that it would have been more fun than watching Bill Clinton take a lie detector test, if a fellow could have been a fly on the wall at the caucus of Omaha-area lawmakers after they learned of Quandahl's role in the "Save A Seat For The Sons Of The Soil" plan. It's anyone's guess as to the humidity in that room - but it most certainly had to be hot at times.

The other thing worth a thought. Can you imagine some farmer-rancher lawmaker piping up to say:

"Hey, let me help you city fellers and gals get a lil' bigger piece o' the pie here!"

If you can imagine such a thing, you are either delusional, exceedingly naive or so unaware of the realities of government and politics that you owe it to the Republic to avoid voting machines.

One former lawmaker was well known to some, and notorious to others, for consistently voting with rural solons on state aid to schools and virtually everything else that sent money west of Lincoln to help the cow and corn constituency. This lawmaker once told us that she wanted to keep on the good side of the rurals so that they would support her anti-abortion legislation.

I never did figure out who convinced her that conservative, rural lawmakers were going to vote against anti-abortion proposals. If I knew who it was, I'd have become a retailer just for the chance to hire that guy as a salesman!

In 2001, however, it is unlikely that anyone can sell a majority of lawmakers on the notion of not putting another legislative seat in the urban column. And even if such did happen, it would be even more unlikely that such a plan could slide by a federal judge.

Of course, the Nebraska Legislature has, over the decades, earned a reputation for trying its luck with a role of the judicial dice. It has also crapped out more often than a tipsy tourist on the loose in Las Vegas.

Current legislative issues are updated

Hello from Lincoln! The Legislature has a little over one month to go before adjournment. Our days are getting longer, but we have much to accomplish, and we are working hard to address priority legislation. Redistricting is becoming a major issue, as the Redistricting Committee has been advancing proposals for the various political offices. The Committee has not yet advanced a proposal for legislative districts.

We are getting closer to setting the State budget for the next two years. Tax revenue projections are down, according to the Economic Forecasting Advisory Board. The Forecasting Board is a panel of economists who set the tax-revenue forecasts that are the basis for the Legislature's two-year budget. Based upon projected revenue, the Appropriations Committee, of which I am a member, has not included the Governor's property tax relief plan in the proposed budget. Gov. Mike Johanns wanted to spend $60 million over the next two years for property tax relief.

The past two fiscal years we have been able to provide $30 million a year in direct property tax relief on a temporary basis. We used the $30 million a year to provide state aid to community colleges, which had the effect of reducing property taxes, because less property tax revenue was needed to support the colleges. Spending money on property tax relief in the past was advantageous because it prevented increases in spending, as well as providing tax relief. However, in anticipation of future revenues, we simply do not have room in the budget to provide property tax relief. Had the economic forecast been more favorable, the Appropriations Committee would have provided for property tax relief in the budget.

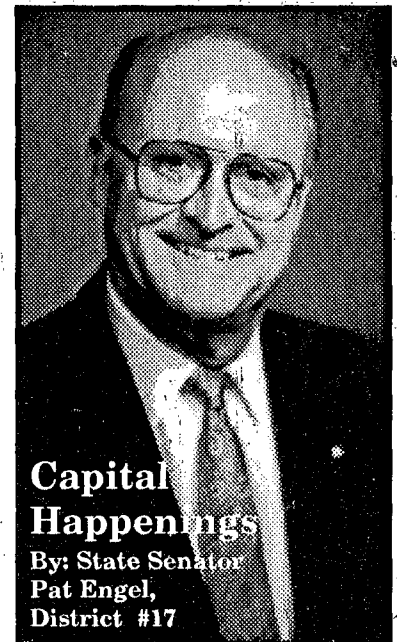

Last week we advanced LB 659, a bill relating to the testing of DNA evidence following criminal trials. The bill was sponsored and prioritized by Sen. Ernie Chambers of Omaha. LB 659 would allow some convicted offenders an opportunity to establish their innocence by having DNA test performed on biological evidence. In older convictions, DNA testing was not available at the time. Some prisoners have been able to have their convictions overturned with new testing of DNA evidence, but some are unable to afford the testing and the court costs associated with making a motion to request DNA testing. Such a motion could only be granted if certain conditions were met, including a requirement that the biological material was held under circumstances that could ensure its integrity.

The bill also allows indigent defendants who cannot afford the costs of an attorney and testing to have the State pay the cost of the testing. The bill also prohibits the State from destroying any biological evidence used against an incarcerated person until the State has provided adequate notice to the individual. We voted 36-0 to advance the bill.

We advanced a bill that would provide more protection to farmers and ranchers in cases involving collisions with escaped livestock. The bill was introduced by Sen. Roger Wehrbein of Plattsmouth and was prioritized by Sen. Jim Jones of Eddyville. The bill was amended by the Judiciary Committee, and it essentially puts existing court-created case law on the subject into statute.

detasseling companies to provide at least two adult supervisors to each detasseling site and to give parents information about wages and safety.

Another amendment that was adopted would preserve current limits on the number of hours work can work at detasseling to forty-eight hours per week. The bill also makes violations of the law a Class II misdemeanor. The bill was advanced to select file by a vote of 28-0.

We advanced a bill that would change requirements relating to accountability and disclosure laws for public officials and employees. After three days of debate, we advanced the bill with amendments.

The purpose of the bill is clarify laws governing what public officials can and cannot do with respect to the use of their resources and position. The bill makes several clarifications covering many aspects of political accountability, including prohibitions on the hiring of family members by officials, conflicts of interest, and use of state resources for personal political or financial purposes. The bill advanced to select file by a 31-2 vote.

This week we are debating the teacher salary proposal advanced by the Education Committee. I know many people are anxiously awaiting the Legislature's action. As you may know, a sales tax increase is part of the bill in its current form. I have consistently maintained that I will not support a tax increase for teacher pay. I am sure debate on the bill will be extensive, and I will keep our district posted as debate develops.

I will continue to keep you updated. In the meantime, if you have any comments or questions about any matter pending in the Legislature, please do not hesitate to contact me at my office: Senator Pat Engel, District #17, Box 94604, State Capitol, Lincoln, NE 68509; 402.471.2716 or e-mail engel@unicam.state.ne.us.

Fraudulent letter circulating

Nebraska Attorney General Don Stenberg warns Nebraskans about the Nigerian Advanced Fee Fraud letter.

"An official looking letter from a foreign country with the offer to enter into a confidential 'business arrangement' is supposedly going to result in several million dollars being put into your bank account," the Attorney General said. "Don't be too quick to respond with the name, and address of your bank and your personal bank account number, as the letter requests. You have just been solicited by the Nigerian Advance Fee Fraud scam, and you are a potential victim, not a potential millionaire, Stenberg cautioned.

Nigerian Advance Fee Fraud letters have been circulating in the United States since the mid-1980's, according to the United States Department of State. The letters are a plea for help to get excess funds from supposedly over-invoiced contracts out of the country of Nigeria. For your help, you are promised 30 percent of the proceeds. That could be up to 10 million dollars!

This is the way the scam works. Once the potential victim responds to the initial letter by providing personal information, he or she is told that there are fees involved in getting the money transferred out of Nigeria. The victim is then asked to pay various "transaction fees" before the money can be released. The victim can be strung along for months or years, paying various "fees" and "taxes" before realizing that the promised money does not exist.

Some victims may even be invited to travel to Nigeria to complete the transaction of funds. Once in Nigeria, these criminals will attempt to solicit more money from the victim and may resort to physical intimidation.

Hundreds of Nebraska citizens and businesses have reported to the Nebraska Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division office that they have received the Nigerian Advance Fee Fraud letter through the U.S. Postal Service, or by fax or e-mail. If you are the recipient of one of these letters, here are our suggestions:

*Do not respond with your personal banking information, letterhead stationery, bank business statement forms or money.

*Send the letter to the office of the Nebraska Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division so that we may inform Federal authorities of this fraudulent activity.

Remember, if an offer sounds too good to be true, it probably is. Never provide bank account or other personal information without first checking out the business requesting the data. Always be cautious about submitting advance fees for any business or sweepstakes offer.

Herbs for Health

Older Antidepressants Often as Effective as Newer, Costlier Ones

According to new guidelines from the American College of Physicians - American Society of Internal Medicine, both newer and traditional antidepressant medicines are equally effective for many persons with depression. Older medicines typically are in the class termed tricyclics (e.g., Tofranil, Elavil). The newer agents include selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors, or SSRIs (e.g., Paxil, Zoloft, Prozac).

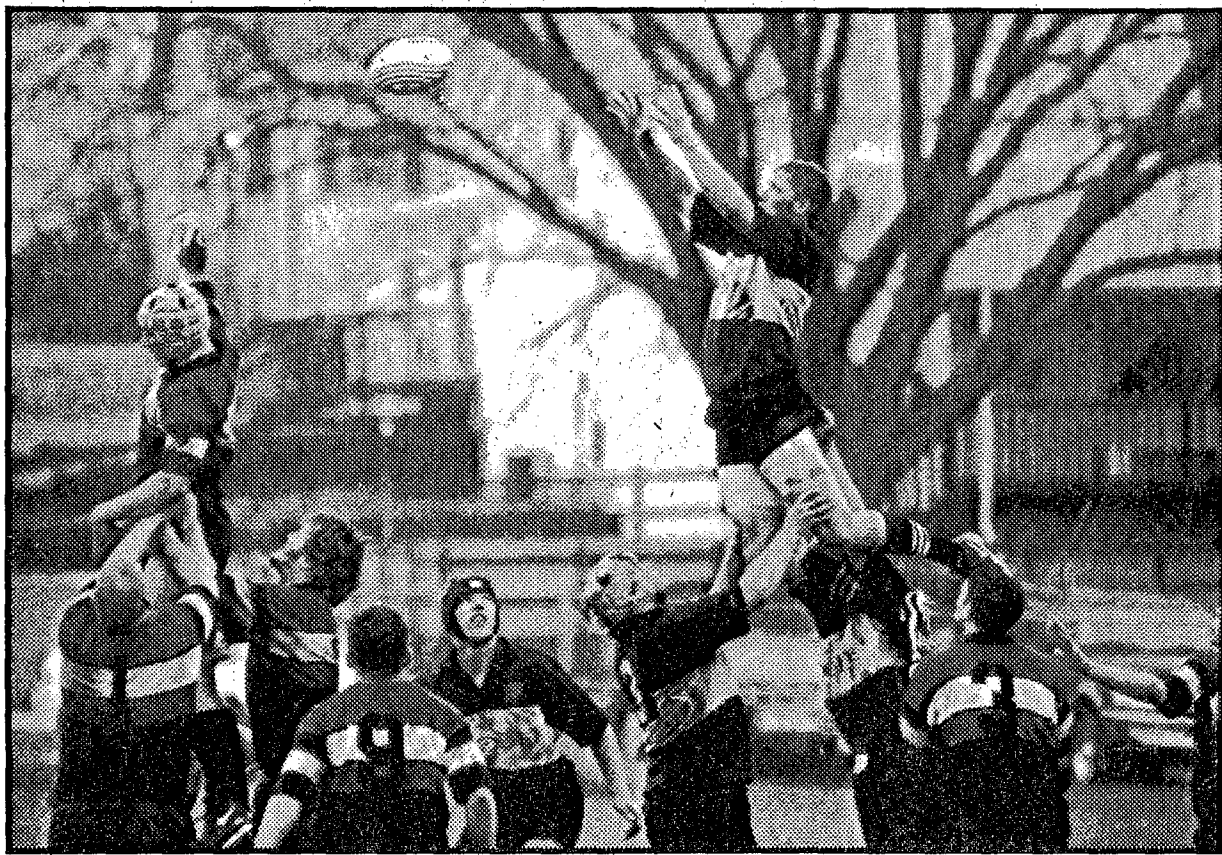

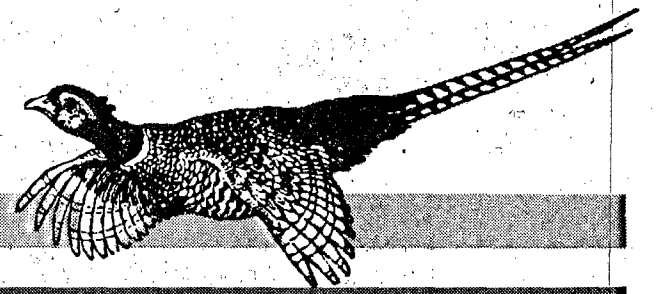

The major difference cited between tricyclics and SSRIs are side effects. SSRIs are more likely to cause diarrhea, nausea, headache, and sleeping difficulties. Tricyclics are more likely to cause blurred vision, constipation, dizziness, dry mouth, and tremors. Interestingly, according to the new guidelines it is noted that St. John's wort may be effective against mild depression, at least on a short-term basis.

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

"Truth is stranger than fiction, but not so popular" - Anonymous

SUMMER READING PROGRAM! The theme for the Library's 2001 SRP is "Reading Road Trip U.S.A." at the Wayne Public Library. The kickoff party will be held Wednesday, May 30 at WPL and will feature a Rescue Vehicle Exhibition. Pre-school through first graders are invited to attend the 1 to 1:45 p.m. session while second through sixth graders are invited to attend the 2 to 2:45 p.m. session. May 30 will also be the last day to register for the SRP. Come to the Library anytime between now and then to register. This year's themes and activities will include travel and tourism, vehicles and roads, places to go, as well as a classic car show, sand painting, balloon animals and much more. Catch the summer reading bug Wednesdays in June at the Library!

A big thank you to all of our patrons who helped Wayne Public Library celebrate National Library Week (April 1-7). Highlights included a "living history" performance by historian Carol Miles Petersen of noted Nebraska author Bess Streeter Aldrich; a successful Chamber of Commerce Coffee where several legislators were in attendance; a birthday party for Arthur; a bubbly final party for the Winter Storytime program (root beer floats were served!) and numerous contest winners for the week: Blanche Backstrom won a CD player; Nicole Francis, Ellen Emanuel, Megan Kardell and Alexander Austin were awarded book prizes. McDonald certificate winners included Griffin Knotwell, Tyler Echtenkamp, Bailey Bentjen, Kimme McNamara, Becca Jaixen, Collin Jeffries, Ellen Woodward, Emily Ramold, Jordan Eberhardt and Mike Kay.

WPL enters the 21st Century! In addition to our very popular books on cassette tape collection, the Library has recently purchased 25 books on compact disc, the first acquisitions in our new Books-on-CD collection. So whether you like to "read" your books on tape or CD or the old-fashioned way, the Library aims to meet your reading needs.

The display case at the entrance to the Library/Senior Center is available for community use throughout the year. In the past, service organizations, artists, clubs and special school classes have used this space to feature their wares and provide information about how their group works in Wayne. The display is changed at the beginning of each month and WPL invites community members to take advantage of this free and highly trafficked site.

Do you love to read paperbacks but hate to pay retail? All paperback lovers are invited to donate their gently used recent paperbacks to the Wayne Public Library's new Paperback Exchange program that kicked off in late February. How does the program work? You bring in one or more paperbacks and give them to a staff member at the circulation desk; select a similar number of paperbacks from the PE rack; keep them or exchange them for more paperbacks in the future. Since these books are not checked out there are no due dates to worry about. For now, you may also take one paperback from the rack without bringing one in. This will stop after the program becomes more established. Feel free to donate, donate, donate!

Do you need a space for a meeting in a hurry? Would your book club like to meet regularly at a neutral spot where no housecleaning is required? Think of the Conference Room located at the Library/Senior Center. The policies for using this room have recently been re-vamped. Reservations should now be made through the Library (375-3135). Two day's notice would be nice but next day notice is accepted. The hours available are 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. or the open hours of the Library/Senior Center. Non-profit groups will be required to make a $25 deposit for room use. This fee is completely refundable once the room has been inspected for damage. There is a non-refundable rental fee of $25 for for-profit groups. So whether you'd like to meet regularly or at the last minute, keep the Library/Senior Center Conference Room in mind.

Regular WPL Year Round Hours: Noon to 8:30 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday; 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday; noon to 6 p.m. on Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday. From Labor Day to Memorial Day, the Library will offer Sunday hours from 2 to 5 p.m. No Sunday hours in the summer. Our phone number is (402) 375-3135; fax number is (402) 375-5772 (sending or receiving fax charge is $1 per page).

Grass tetany in cattle can occur without grass

Many cattle producers consider grass tetany, also known as hypomagnesemia, a problem that affects cattle eating lush, spring grass. However, grass tetany also can occur in drylot situations, a University of Nebraska veterinarian said.

"Producers need to be aware that grass tetany can occur in a drylot situation. Cattle do not have to have access to green, growing grass to induce grass tetany. Any forage high in potassium has the potential to cause grass tetany," said Steve Ennsley, veterinarian at NU's North Platte Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory.

Ennsley said interactions between key nutrients in a cow's body can bring about grass tetany if the diet is unbalanced.

"Low levels of magnesium cause grass tetany. Magnesium enables a cow's nervous system to function properly. Calcium, phosphorous and potassium are able to interact with, or tie up magnesium, which can lower the availability of magnesium, even if it is in the diet," Ennsley said.

Don Adams, range beef nutritionist at NU's West Central Research and Extension Center, said producers may have a hard time recognizing the symptoms of grass tetany in a drylot situation.

"Typically, grass tetany is associated with lush, growing grass in the cool season because those plants have low levels of magnesium and high levels of potassium, but it is important producers understand any forage high in potassium has the potential to bring about grass tetany," Adams said. Grass tetany usually occurs in cows just before calving because of their diets, the NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist said. "When the cow is getting ready to lactate and she makes a bag, the magnesium is pulled out of the body and her serum magnesium level goes down. The free choice minerals or hay in the cow's diet are usually high in calcium and potassium. This combination will induce grass tetany," Adams said.

To prevent grass tetany, Ennsley recommends cattle producers replace their current mineral if it is high in potassium (greater than 1-2 percent potassium) with a mineral high in magnesium. He also suggests a mineral should contain 7 percent to 14 percent magnesium at all times. This translates to 10-25 grams of magnesium per head per day.

"Many producers put mineral out in their normal winter mineral supplementation that has high levels of potassium. This time of year, mineral consumption and dry matter intake is going up so more potassium is being consumed, which can promote grass tetany," Ennsley said.

Cows with grass tetany can exhibit hyperexcitability, reduced feed intake and muscular twitching around the face and ears. They also may appear uncoordinated and walk with a stiff gait.

"Many times people see the symptoms but don't think of grass tetany because the cows are in drylot situations or don't have access to green growing grass," Ennsley said.

An intravenous magnesium-salt solution is used in treating animals with grass tetany. If grass tetany goes untreated, cows can go down on their side with convulsions, which leads to death.

Additional information is available in NU Cooperative Extension NebGuide G73-32A, Grass Tetany, which is available at local extension offices or on the Internet at http://www.ianr.unl.edu/pubs/animaldisease/g32.htm.

Weather and head cold make for miserable week

A week after Easter, and snow on the ground! I know it has happened later than this; in May, even, but it was still an unpleasant sight this morning. All the wind and tornado warnings all weekend had me planning to go to the basement. Spring is continuing in the fashion of winter, and I don't appreciate it.

I wonder if it's age that makes me less tolerant of the extremes in temperature. When I read about the crews at Antarctica with one hour of daylight and frigid temperatures, I shiver. And soon, I'll be complaining about heat. We can definitely use the moisture; I just don't know why it has to be accompanied by all the fireworks.

About three weeks ago, I commented that I had made it through the winter without one cold. Of course, staying home more probably had something to do with that. And, of course, after saying that, I caught a cold.

I had been using a lozenge combining zinc, echinacea, and vitamin C whenever I had symptoms; and I really believed in them. I didn't have any on hand, and didn't want to make a trip to town to buy some.

Mistake number one: I had some generic sudafed on hand, so took them every four hours. Mistake number two: I hardly slept at all that night. So, I've had the worst cold I can ever remember; and two weeks later, I'm still hacking and blowing my nose.

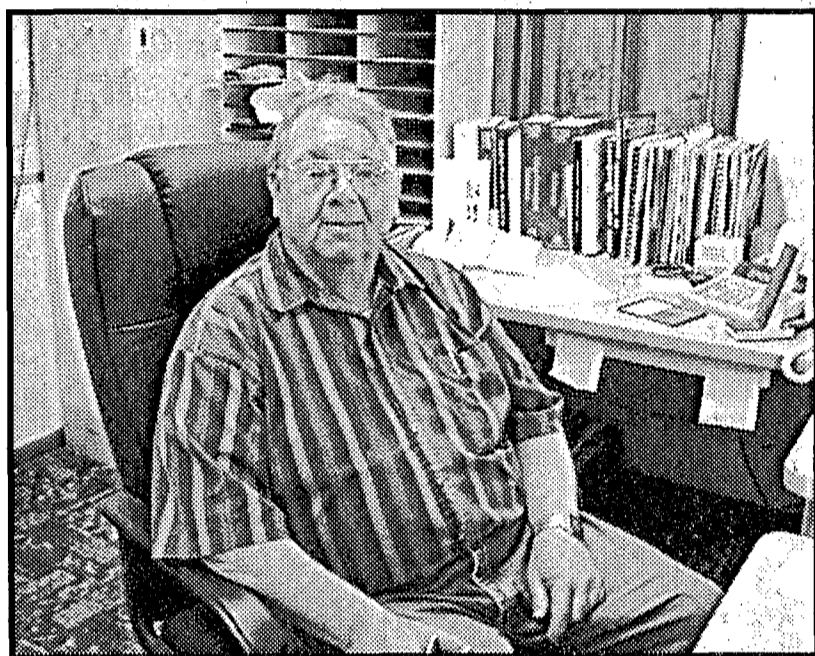

How can something so minor make us so miserable? My head felt swollen, my nose ran, and I coughed and coughed. Besides, I had agreed to do hospice visits for four days while someone was on vacation; and had invited family members for Easter dinner.

Somehow, I made it through that week; including three choir numbers at sunrise service. I washed my hands a lot, tried not to breath on patients and families, and resisted kissing the grandchildren.

In spite of the misery, Holy week was very emotional; due to the safe return of Ann Slutie to Kearney and Shane Osborn and his crew to Washington. They both made us so proud of Nebraska; and so grateful for the outcome. I wish I could be in Norfolk next week when Shane comes home.

Meanwhile, we kept an eye on the football draft and moaned as Kansas defeated the Huskers in a baseball game. Those guys are having a great season in spite of the weather. At least they can wear decent uniforms; as opposed to the "thin clad" track teams. Hoping for warm weather soon!

Drag adjustment makes a difference

Every reel has a drag of some sort; star, front mounted, center mounted rear mounted, etc.

But not matter how great that drag might be, it's the second one that you have along that can make a difference between a boated fish and the one that got away. In the case of a bait casting reel, ermen know that. But when it comes to spinning, fly fishing and spin-casting, most folks think the drag they set is the only drag they have.

Wrong! It's your fingers. Or two of them, maybe. But regardless, the manual finger drag which you apply to the line at any given time is invaluable when playing a big fish, especially a running fish.

Many anglers don't realize the importance of the lack of a heavy drag in playing a fish. While it's true a drag needs to be set tight enough to work fish out of heavy brush and trees, for normal fishing the drag should be set tight enough to work fish out of heavy brush and trees, for normal fishing the drag should be set at about 1/4 of the lines breaking test. For 10 pound line, you should have your drag set so that line will be released when 2-3 pounds of pressure is pulled against it.

Why? Because as more line is stripped off the reel, the friction of the line in the water actually increases the drag, at times doubling the set amount of drag.

Another reason that a drag should be set loosely is that it can always be tightened. A tight drag can't always be loosened.

Also, when a fish is brought to the boat or the shore, there's a good chance that it will make a sudden lunge. With your drag set too tight, it can break off or pull loose. With a loose drag this won't happen.

With the "second" drag in hand and the reels drag set loosely, you're always in control. If you need to tighten the drag, just apply finger pressure to the line or spool. This way, if the fish should make a sudden lunge, you can easily let off the finger drag and allow him to pull against the loosely set drag.

The important thing to remember is that the second drag will always be there if you need it.
