Council accepts bid for fire hall

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Crafts, Inc. of Norfolk was awarded the bid for construction of the new fire hall during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Following discussion of the base bid and options, including the installation of a canopy and bell tower at the facility, the council voted to accept the bid of $1,182,321.00 for the construction of the facility.

Councilman Doug Sturm questioned the necessity of the canopy and stressed the need to be conservative.

Several other council members stated that it would be less expensive to install the canopy at the time of construction, rather than add it on at a later date.

Construction could begin within two to three weeks and should be completed in late January of 2002.

The council voted 7-0 to stop accepting glass and motor oil containers at the Recycling Center.

Joel Hansen of the Public Works Department told the council that the amount of glass being received at the Center has increased recently and the city will be paying more to take the glass to Sioux City.

The motor oil containers contaminate the other plastics, resulting in lower prices when the material is sold.

Hansen said there is a possibility of obtaining grant funding for the purchase of a glass grinder which would then allow the city to begin accepting glass again.

Following a lengthy discussion, the council voted 5-1 to create a full-time digital design artist position for the city. Councilman Verdel Lutt voted against the hiring and Councilman Sturm abstained.

There is money for the position in this fiscal year's technology budget

Trip provides insight

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

For six weeks, from March 6 to April 11, Dan Rose of Wayne headed a group of people on a trip to Australia.

Rose, a member of the Wayne Rotary Club, was the team leader for Rotary District #5650's Group Study Exchange Team as they traveled to Australia.

The team was made up of four non-Rotarians, Tammy Alvis of Lincoln, Teresa Baird of Red Oak, Iowa, Dave Long of Hastings and Logan Otto of York. Planning for this trip began in October and according to Rose, "this trip was one of least stressful he has been involved in."

The group was a guest of Rotary District 9630 in Australia.

The trip began with a 14-hour flight from Los Angeles, Calif. to Sydney, Australia. From there it was on to Brisbane, a city of 1.6 million people along the coast.

"In all, the travel time was 24 hours. In addition, we crossed the international date line, so it was somewhat exhausting," Rose said.

The majority of the people in Australia and the majority of the Rotary groups, live along the east coast of the country.

Rose noted that the country is the size of the United States but the population is that of New York City.

Approximately one half of the group's time was spent in the country areas, 500 miles inland. It was here they observed the traditional red dirt and the grazing land with cattle and sheep.

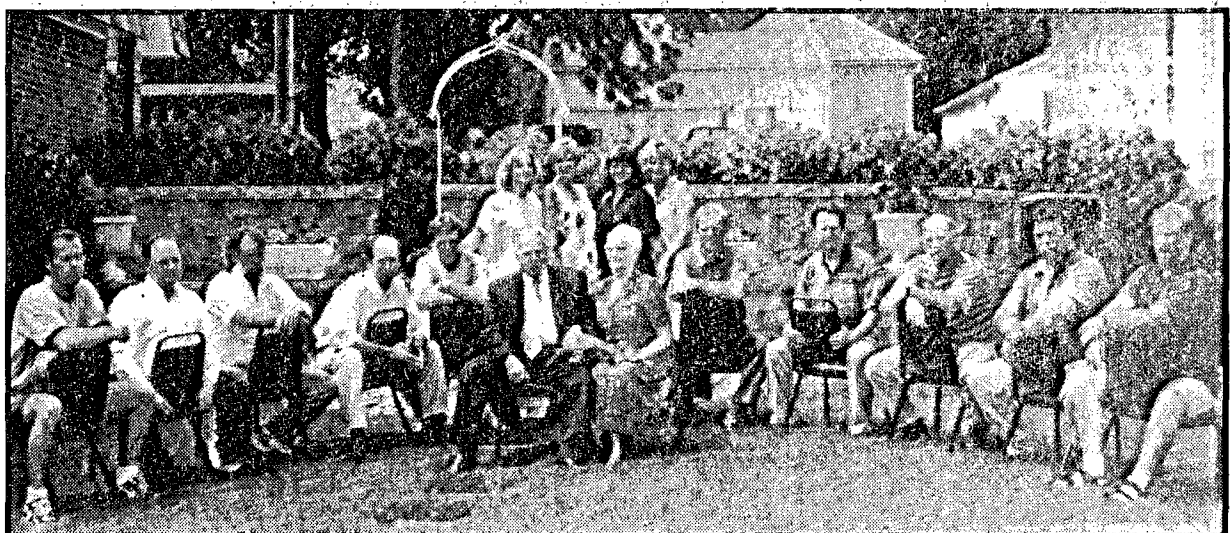

"The seasons there are reversed and they were just going into fall, with temperatures just starting to moderate," Rose said.

The sun is a concern for residents there, with students in schools wearing wide-brimmed hats as part of their uniforms.

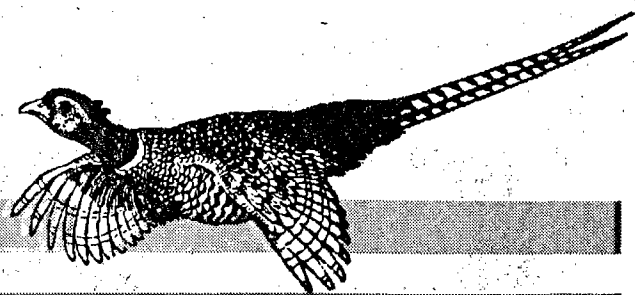

Although the country has a large amount of land available for grazing, the grass is very sparse and a number of acres are required to produce cattle and sheep.

While in Australia, the group presented programs on the Nebraska-Iowa District to nine different clubs and at the District Conference there.

They stayed with eight different host families.

Rose noted some similarities and differences between the two countries.

"The food there was very similar to what we have here. Fresh fruit and seafood were common. They eat more lamb than we do and the beef we had, because it was not corn fed, was leaner than what we were used to," he said.

The area the group traveled to looked very similar to Nebraska and members would often forget they were in Australia, thousands of miles from home.

"There is a lot of American influence in Australia, especially in the area of television. Nearly 70 percent of the television programs are U.S. shows. It has a big impact," Rose said.

Rose added that the group traveled to a number of different parts of the country and a number of areas within the cities they visited, but he did not observe any depressed areas such as could be found in large cities in the U.S.

"The homes were clean and very well-kept. In fact, the 'Garden City' was one of the most beautiful places we saw and all the members of our group said they would have no trouble moving there to live," he said.

With the exception of a major storm (13 inches of rain in a short time), the group did not have any problems throughout the trip.

"Probably the only negative of the trip was the bugs. We checked our beds for spiders every night.

Australia also has nine of the 10 most poisonous snakes in the world. A boy was bitten by a snake while we were there and died," Rose said.

Now that the group has returned home, they will be making presentations to Rotary Clubs and other groups within the area.

As part of the program, five members of the Australian team visited Nebraska and was in the Wayne area last week. While here they were able to visit with Wayne Rotary members and observe life in Nebraska.

Providence Medical Center becomes Critical Access facility

Marcile Thomas, Administrator of Providence Medical Center, has announced that effective May 1, the hospital is officially licensed as a Critical Hospital.

"The Critical Access designation is a unique opportunity for Providence Medical Center and will simply change how our hospital will be reimbursed for the services we provide Medicare patients," Thomas said.

Currently, Medicare does not pay many rural hospitals for the actual cost of providing care to their patients. According to Thomas, in the year 2000, Providence Medical Center wrote off a total of $949,244 in Medicare charges. Under the new system, this number will be reduced.

Of the hospitals in Nebraska eligible to become Critical Access facilities, the majority have already become re-licensed.

A Critical Access Hospital is allowed to have a total of 25 in-patients on a given day. Same-day surgery patients and those on observation are exempt from this number. Of the 25 in-patients, 15 of those can be acute. Because the average length of stay at PMC is only 3.2 days, and the regulations allow 96 hours or four days, it is not felt that there should be a problem, according to Thomas.

Current statistics compiled by PMC indicate that the hospital has an average of 11.4 patients per day, acute and skilled combined. The average stay on the acute care level is 3.2 days. Many are changed to the skilled level of care, thereby extending their stay in the hospital to an average of 8.3 days longer.

"Of course, skilled level patients remain in the hospital longer. On average, hospitals that become Critical Access have less than 15 patients at any one time, so there will always be beds available for patients who need care. Critical Access hospitals are not restricted from having other levels of service such as long-term care," Thomas said.

Increased flexibility allows hospital administrators to better manage their facilities and meet the needs of their communities. Because of the Critical Access designation, Providence Medical Center will have less federal restrictions, allowing them to operate more efficiently and in the best interest of patients.

"Even though we are now governed and monitored regarding a four-day average length of stay and a daily census limit of 25 patients, we want everyone to know that if past history dictates, we will not be changing anything about the way we care for our patients at PMC. This Critical Access designation will only affect how we, as a hospital, are paid for the services we render our Medicare patients," Mrs. Thomas said.

"All non-Medicare patients having private insurance coverage will continue to have their claims processed just as they have in the past," she added.

"We will continue to care for all our patients regardless of their designation . . . Medicare or non-Medicare, insurance or no insurance, young or old, male or female," Thomas stressed. "Providence Medical Center stands firm on providing quality health care to each and every individual in our service area."

The Critical Access Hospital program is new in Nebraska, but it is not new to the United States. Congress applied lessons learned from Critical Access Hospital models that have been operating successfully across the country when it created the program. The Nebraska Legislature approved the program in 1997.

Because many rural hospitals are so unique, they require more flexibility from government regulations in order to preserve access to cost-effective, quality health care services. This in part, is why Providence Medical Center has become a Critical Access Hospital.

Anyone having questions or concerns about the new Critical Access designation at PMC, is encouraged to contact Marcile Thomas, Administrator, 1200 Providence Road, Wayne, Neb. 68787 or by telephone, (402) 375-3800.

was born, her mother helped with the children already at home.

She down plays her accomplishments as a mother, saying only, "we were very busy."

The family lived on an acreage east of Wayne and expanded their house as the number of children increased.

"We had six bedrooms and two full baths. We added on or remodeled when necessary," she said.

Marge said that she did have all the children at home at one time, as Pam was 18 years old when Ted was born. The older children did help with household chores.

"We also had a number of animals, including cows, chickens and turkeys. We had a garden and raised sweet corn and cucumbers for sale."

As the children grew up, they began working at various jobs to earn their way through school.

The girls were in big demand for babysitting jobs. The others worked at the Igloo, a drive-in near the college.

Meal time was often like a restaurant at the McCright home. Meals were often scheduled around athletic events.

Marge said she made all the meals for her children and baked bread every other day. She often made as many as 300 cookies at one time and was known to her children's friends as "Mrs. Good Cookie."

Marge remembers doing a lot of washing and having "great" parties.

"We always had special birthday parties, even if it just meant having that person's favorite foods. We chaperoned a lot of proms and other dances. We are a partying people."

The family still gets together as often as possible. When son Ted was married last year in Denver, the family celebrated Mother's Day together following the wedding.

In addition to her own children, Marge said there were always a number of children at the McCright home. She indicated that she helped a mother attending Wayne State College by taking care of her seven children while she was in classes.

Marge began working outside the home after the birth of her youngest child.

She worked at night at the Wayne Care Centre from 1969 through 1977 to allow her to be home when her children left for school and to be there when they got home.

She worked at the El Toro for three years and then spent 16 years as a janitor at Wayne State College until retiring in 1997.

Now that her children have left the nest, Marge has taken on a number of other "mothering" jobs. She does volunteer work with the pre-school children at St. Mary's School. She helps serve cookies at the Wayne Care Centre once a month, takes people to the doctor and to other appointments and is involved in Bible Study.

Marge says she spends an hour in prayer, each morning, because, "even though they are not at home, I still have to make sure the kids are going to be okay."

In summing up her years of motherhood, Marge said, "I have had a great life. There really is no way to explain my life other than to say I am busy all the time and try to help people whenever I can."

and the position will then be a part of the administration's budget in the next fiscal year.

Both Lutt and Sturm questioned the need for spending additional money and the creation of an additional position with the city.

Karin Vaughn, representing the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, spoke to the council on the application for grant funds to be used for a tourist information kiosk in the Main Street area.

She stated that at the present time, there is no place open after regular business hours that has community tourism information available.

Following discussion, the council suggested that Main Street Wayne, which already has plans for the landscaping of such an area, and the Chamber co-sponsor the project. The city is required to be the applicant for the grant.

The council also approved a request from Vern Schultz to build concrete steps from Pearl Street to the parking lot in front of the Wayne Public Library. The project, which is estimated to cost $1,000 could be completed this summer.

Proposals from two insurance companies is being examined at the present time for a group health plan for the city's employees. This is being done following an anticipated increase in premium costs projected by the city's current insurance carrier, Mutual of Omaha.

In other action, Mayor Sheryl Lindau read proclamations designating the week of May 13 as Nursing Home Week; May 15 as Police Memorial Day and May 20-26 as Public Works Week.

Dates for graduation set

Soon seniors will adorn traditional caps and gowns and become high school graduates during commencement exercises at local high schools.

Graduation ceremonies at Allen High school and Laurel-Concord High School are set for Sunday, May 13 at 2 p.m.

Allen ceremonies will be held in the school gym. There are 12 graduates this year. Speeches will be given by Salutatorian Micky Oldenkamp and Valedictorian Melissa Wilmes. Class colors are navy blue and gold and the class flower is a red rose.

The class motto is: "The highest reward for a man's toil is not what he gets from it, but what he becomes by it." (John Ruskin).

Laurel-Concord commencement will be held in the high school auditorium. This class consists of 40 graduates. The orange rose is their class flower and orange and navy are their class colors.

Speeches will be given by Salutatorian and Valedictorian (who are undetermined by press time).

For their motto, the class has chosen: "Only those who risk going too far can possibly find how far they can go."

Both Winside High School and Wakefield High School have Sunday, May 20 as their graduation dates.

Winside High School will hold its graduation exercise at 2 p.m. in the high school gym.

The class flower they chose is a white rose tipped in blue. Their class colors are navy, black, and silver. The class motto is: To achieve all that is possible, we must attempt the impossible. To be as much as we can, we must dream of being more.

James Halferty (high school history instructor) will be the guest speaker. An announcement of seniors receiving scholarships will be made during the ceremony. Music will be provided by the seniors and the chorus.

Graduation ceremonies at Wakefield High School are set to begin at 2:30 p.m. in the high school gym.

This year's class has 33 graduates who have chosen a daisy as their class flower and maroon and silver as their class colors.

Speakers for this year's graduation will be seniors Todd McQuistan and Annie Bierbower.

Scholarships will be announced during the ceremony.

The class of 2001 has chosen as its motto- Do not follow where the path leads. Rather, go where there is no path and leave a trail.

Editorials

Honoring our officers

"Well, Mr. Citizen, it seems you've figured me out. I fit neatly into the category where you've placed me. I'm stereotyped, standardized, characterized, classified, grouped and always typical.

Unfortunately, the reverse is true. I can never figure you out. From birth you teach your children that I'm the bogeyman, then you're shocked when they identify with my traditional enemy . . . the criminal! You accuse me of coddling criminals . . . until I catch your kids doing wrong.

You make take an hour for lunch and several coffee breaks each day, but point me out as a loafer for having one cup. You pride yourself on your manners but think nothing of disrupting my meals with your troubles. You raise hell with the guy who cuts you off in traffic but let me catch you doing the same thing and I'm picking on you. You know all the traffic laws, but you've never gotten a single ticket that you deserved.

You shout 'foul' if you see me driving too fast to a call, but raise the roof if I take more than 10 seconds to respond to your complaint. You call it part of my job if someone strikes me, but call it Police Brutality if I strike back. You wouldn't think of telling your dentist how to pull a tooth or your doctor how to take out an appendix, yet you are always willing to give me pointers on the law. You talk to me in a manner that would get you a bloody nose from anyone else, but expect me to take it without batting an eye.

You yell something's got to be done to fight crime, but you can't be bothered to get involved. You have no use for me at all, but of course it's OK if I change a flat for your wife, deliver your child in the backseat of the patrol car, or perhaps save your son's life with mouth to mouth breathing, or work many hours of overtime looking for your lost daughter.

So, Mr. Citizen, you can stand there on your soapbox and rant and rave about the way I do my work, calling me every name in the book, while never stopping to think that your property, family and maybe even your life depends on me or one of my buddies. Yes, Mr. Citizen, it's me the cop!"

Trooper Mitchell Brown,
Virginia State Police

Trooper Brown was killed in the line of duty two months after writing "A Police Officer Speaks." May 11-19 is Police Officers Memorial Week. Please pray for all the fine men and women who are proud to call themselves law enforcement officers. As you can tell, law enforcement officers don't have easy jobs. No one is more second guessed than a law enforcement officer. We are often damned if we do and damned if we don't. We make decisions in the blink of an eye that critiqued and examined for hours on end by the public, attorneys, judges and politicians. We live in a "Catch 22" world and find that "Mr. Murphy" is almost always on patrol with us. We are generally black and white people in a world turned gray because our society no longer wants to recognize absolute rights and wrongs. But we are always expected to be "right." We aren't supposed to be wrong — ever. But don't forget, what is right to you may be wrong to someone else.

We are expected to be teachers, lawyers, psychologists, counselors, scientists, computer whizzes, authors, gunfighters, prizefighters, race car drivers, locksmiths and dog catchers. We are expected to solve all of your problems. The simple truth is we are just men and women who want to protect and serve you — the citizen, young or old, rich or poor.

At the end of 2000, a total of 15,400 federal, state and local law enforcement officers had been killed in the line of duty. In the year 2000, there were 150 law enforcement officers killed in the line of duty. Some were shot, stabbed or beaten by criminal suspects, some were killed in training accidents, some were killed in plane crashes, hit by other automobiles while outside their cars and 58 were killed in car accidents while responding to help people just like you.

Almost all of these brave men and women left loved ones behind, mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters, wives and children. Especially the children. Hundreds of children won't have "their" police officer at birthday parties, confirmations, baptisms, graduations or weddings.

Think about that the next time a police officer stops you and "treats you like a criminal." We don't know who you are or what you are thinking. We have to use certain tactics to keep safe and unfortunately, we may appear rude or stand-offish. We aren't, we just want to go home safe to our families every day.

When you see the flags flying at half-staff on May 15, remember to say a little prayer for us, we can always use the help. We have a tough job but most of us wouldn't have it any other way. We are driven by a desire to serve others. We want to make wrong things right and bad things good. We are your law enforcement officers and we are damn proud of it!!!

Regents behave badly

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Sometimes people and organizations serve a useful purpose, albeit unintentionally, by serving as a bad example.

Take, for instance, the University of Nebraska Board of Regents. The regents, it seems, have developed a propensity for behaving toward one another in a fashion generally associated with children who don't work well with others.

So, the board recently met to talk about people (mostly themselves) and things (of an undisclosed nature).

Sometimes, from where this columnist sits, useful and constructive purposes can be served by eschewing the bush and the beating of it, and asking a question as directly as possible. Our question for the Regents, for example, would be: HEY! What the hell do you think you're doing? Are you people ignorant, or arrogant, or both?

We'll forego questions for individual NU officials, such as NU President L. Dennis Smith, for the time being. This has to do primarily with the Regents.

Nebraska has an open meetings law. When officials who serve on publicly elected boards meet, such a meeting is by definition a public meeting. Exceptions are allowed for some budget and personnel matters; but there is no indication that this little got together qualified.

The view from here: There is neither explanation nor excuse for what the Regents did, and Attorney General Don Stenberg ought to weigh in on the subject PDQ.

Why is this important? Besides the fact that it seems a clear-cut violation of law, it sets a nasty precedent. How would you feel about your entire county board "meeting for coffee" behind closed doors somewhere? Same with your local city council.

The Republic is best served when public business is conducted in public. That goes for gatherings of elected boards, councils and commissions who make important policy decisions and spend money, to the state's execution of criminals.

One might contend the Regents, or any like-minded bunch of adults who lack manners requisite to conducting business, should be allowed to get together and talk about their problems.

It would be a lousy contention. It represents a mind set that seems contrary to Nebraska law and is, most definitely, contrary to the spirit of open government which Nebraska has fostered throughout its modern history.

The message that Nebraskans should ever send to those who would seek the public trust: If you are such a delicate flower that you might wilt under public scrutiny whilst conducting the public's business - go home!

The Regents, more than other elected folk, are the subject of inappropriate kow-towing and flattery. It probably has to do with the usually pretentious, virtually always self-important atmosphere that haunts academia at every corner of the world.

Regents and administrators can be as silly as they wish - but they can't close the door. They have to do it where adults can watch them.

Rugby team offers thanks

Dear Editor,

As a representative of the UNL Men's Rugby Football Club, I would like to extend a thank you to those who helped make possible our game against the University of Northern Iowa.

The teams met in Wayne on Saturday evening and enjoyed a meal from the local Runza. Form there it was off to the Wayne Bowling Alley to begin the competition. A special thanks to both the Bowling Alley and Runza for all their support in both the pre-game and post game festivities.

There are numerous people from the area who also deserve thank yous such as the parents of the UNL Mens and Women's teams who supplied food for the teams after the game.

I would also like to thank Wayne High School for the use of the field and all of the their cooperation.

A final thank you goes out to the local newspapers, television stations and radio stations. The media did an excellent job of exposing the game and bringing to the fans who couldn't make it because of the weather.

Finally, a special thanks to the fans who came out despite the weather conditions and showed their support for the Huskers. The game itself was well played by both sides, considering the conditions and I believe both teams showed the sportsmanship both on and off the field that makes rugby a unique sport.

These same two teams are hoping to play in Wayne along with some of the nation's best competition again next spring next spring. We look forward to your cooperation again in the future and hope for better weather next spring so that more people can come out and see what the game of Rugby has to offer both Wayne State College and the community itself.

Main Street Focus

By Leo Ahmann

Last Thursday and Friday were training days in Alliance. In heading west, the decision was made to take the most direct route. WOW! It was truly an "interesting" drive.

The workshops were good and we had a chance to visit downtown Alliance. It is always fun to visit needed by the Nebraska State Historical Society Offices in Lincoln.

There is a great deal of assistance out there, waiting for individual business owners to step forward.

A presentation was also made by the Main Street Program in Gothenburg and their Reinvestment Program.

For the business owners contacted by this office about possible design work on their building, the School of Architecture at the University of Nebraska should be scheduling a visit in the very near future. They are, as this office is, about the enthusiasm and initiative shown by the business people who are interested in some facade work on their business. It's a great opportunity and the first step of the process is free, with NO obligation to continue with the steps that follow. If you're interested in some professional assistance, these architects, in conjunction with the Nebraska Lied Main Street Program in Lincoln, are standing by to assist you.

Another area discussed was the Development of Downtown Design Guidelines. This is a very methodical process that includes a very large number of community groups . . . i.e., the city, Chamber, Wayne Industries and many more . . . We'll take time to discuss the process at a later date.

Heavy column this week, huh? Time to lighten up. Congratulations to all the Wayne State College students who graduated last weekend, and to the upcoming Wayne High School students graduating this weekend. May your life be filled with successes and happiness.

Upcoming Main Street events . . . the conclusion of our Mothers' Day promotion (Friday) . . . in June, the popular Customer Appreciation Night . . . and Henoween in July!

I best put a wrap on this week's column. Questions, concerns, comments, call us at 375-5062, mail us at Box 43 or e-mail us at mainstreetwayne@midlands.net. Until next time. . .

Senator Nelson to sponsor resolution

Senator Ben Nelson has co-sponsored a bipartisan resolution to honor the professionalism, bravery, and courage exhibited by the 24 crew members of the EP-3E, which landed on Hainan Island after colliding with a Chinese fighter jet last month.

The crew, which had been stationed at Whidbey Island Naval Air Station in Washington state, was held in China for 11 days after an emergency landing, aborted their routine electronic reconnaissance mission.

"As we approach the one-month anniversary of their return to U.S. soil, it gives me great pleasure to co-sponsor this resolution recognizing the heroic efforts of the 'Whidbey 24,'" Nelson said. "They have served their country with selfless sacrifice, and they have given our nation reason to pause and reflect on the tremendous commitment made by all our men and women in uniform."

Nelson further noted that Nebraska's own Lt. Shane Osborn was specifically honored in the resolution for having "displayed courage and extraordinary skill by safely landing the badly damaged EP-3E."

Letters Proud to be part of choir trip

Dear Editor,

On April 28 and 29, the Wayne-Carroll High School Choir traveled to Worlds of Fun in Kansas City for competition.

Scott and I had the opportunity to be some of the sponsors for this trip. The choir received a one rating, which is the best they have ever done at this competition! The Wayne-Carroll Music Boosters fund this trip every four years through their magazine sales campaign, and their annual fund-raising event which in the past years has been a soup supper, and this year was a ice cream social.

So many times you hear only of the trouble or problems teenagers cause in today's society. Well, Wayne and Carroll, let me tell you how proud we are of these kids! Not only are they a very talented group of students, they were very organized, followed directions regarding times to meet, rules on the trip, kept the buses and their motel rooms clean, were polite to the sponsors and the bus drivers, and were a fun group of students to be around!

We are very blessed to have great music instructors in Mrs. Ley and Mr. Weber and talented high school students who really do care about what they are doing!!!

Sincerely,
Cindy Brummond

Dear Editor,

A special "thank you" to Vern Schulz, Wayne's Street Superintendent and the entire Public Works Department, for their expedient response to Main Street Wayne's request for repair and replacement of the flag brackets on the street lights. The Main Street Wayne Program sincerely appreciates the cooperation and support that we continue to receive from the City of Wayne.

Herbs for Health

Saw Palmetto for an Enlarged Prostate

Problems related to an enlarged prostate (called BPH or benign prostatic hyperplasia) most often occur in men after age 45. However, symptoms typically do not appear until age 60 or later. Up to 40 percent of men aged 70 years and older have symptoms that include an urge to urinate and difficulty emptying the bladder completely. If BPH is allowed to continue without treatment bladder infection and possibly kidney damage can occur. Prescription medicines used to treat BPH symptoms include finasteride (Proscar) and terazosin (Hytrin).

According to a recent report in The Journal of the American Medical Association, an extract from the saw palmetto plant may provide a safe and effective alternative to treating BPH. Dr. Timothy Wilt and colleagues reviewed 18 carefully controlled, scientific trials involving the use of saw palmetto in 2,939 men with BPH. Side effects from the herb were mild as compared with prescription medicines. They concluded that saw palmetto was effective in improving BPH symptoms and the flow of urine.

Three sign for softball

The Wayne State College softball team has signed three recruits for the 2002 team.

Whitney Wilczynski, a 5-6, pitcher, from Riverside, California, will add some depth to the Wayne State pitching staff. Whitney is currently 10-0 on the season for Riverside Poly High School and holds just a 0.31 ERA. The left-handed hurler is also a switch hitter for her team.

Head coach John Misfeldt said, "Whitney will remind fans of Atlanta Braves pitcher, Tom Glavine. Wilczynski is crafty and gets batters to hit pitches out of the strike zone. She has excellent movement on the ball and is an outstanding all-around player."

Amber Johnson, a 5-8, outfielder, from Kansas City, Missouri, is a three-sport letter winner in softball, basketball and track and field.

She was a first team all-conference and second team all-district selection while batting .372 her junior season. Amber also plays for the Kansas City Thunder in the summer.

The right-handed slugger hit

.567 at the ASA Regional Tournament in St. Louis, Mo. last season.

"Amber has a smooth glove as an outfielder. She makes most fly balls she can get to, look routine. Amber is an all-around great athlete and portrays great leadership qualities," stated Misfeldt.

Stephanie Brewster, a 5-4, utility player, from Butte, Nebraska, is a second team all-conference selection in both volleyball and basketball at Butte High School. Brewster has also qualified for the state track meet in the 200-meter dash and the 4x100 meter relay.

Stephanie has been a member of the North Platte Sensation teams that have won Class A state summer titles in '95, '96, '97, '98 and '99.

"Stephanie can play any position on the field except pitcher. She has great understanding of the game, no matter where she is playing on the field. She comes from an outstanding summer program in North Platte.

Brewster has great speed and natural ability for the game", mentioned coach Misfeldt.

Misfeldt said, "Overall, I think this is an outstanding recruiting class. It's got talent, speed, pitching, and defense. These three kids are interested in Wayne State because of the rebuilding process we're committed to, and they are committed players who spend a great deal of time with the game of softball."

Wayne State closed out its regular season one game over .500, with a 21-20 record. It was also the programs first winning season since 1992.

There's A Time And A Place For Everything - Except Smoking Around Children.

Please don't smoke around children. Every year, your second-hand smoke is contributing to over 2,000,000 ear infections, 530,000 doctor visits, 436,000 episodes of bronchitis, and 190,000 cases of pneumonia in children under five, and severe asthma attacks. Secondhand smoke is the third leading cause of preventable death, killing over 50,000 nonsmokers in the U.S. each year. If there are children around, then it is never the time or the place to smoke.

Character Counts! to be held in Concord

Why is it important to be on time to work? What does it mean to show respect to customers? Why is giving free merchandise to "your closest friends" a big deal?

If your business has struggled with answering these kinds of questions, CHARACTER COUNTS! At Work may be the workshop for you, your employees, and those with whom you work.

CHARACTER COUNTS! At Work, sponsored by University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension, is a workshop designed for entry-level workers and others who are interested in strengthening their job skills and understanding why strong character is so important in the workplace.

Those who participate in this workshop will leave with: An understanding of why ethical behavior is important in the workplace, hands-on examples of how concepts such as respect and responsibility fit their workplace setting, and ideas for enhancing their own ethical decision making.

Trainers for the program are Kathleen Lodl, Ph.D. and Fayrene

Hamouz, Ph.D., faculty members at the University of Nebraska. Dr. Lodl a 4-H Youth Development Specialist, has spent the past six years working with character education programs for youth and adults statewide.

Dr. Hamouz uses her background in foodservice management to create real-life examples that are stimulating and applied to the workplace setting. Their interactive presentation will be downlinked across the state and facilitated locally by Cooperative Extension staff. This downlinking capability will allow participants statewide to interact and discuss issues related to ethical decisions in the workplace. Local activities will be part of the discussion.

CHARACTER COUNTS! At Work will be held Wednesday, May 16, 4:30-6:30 p.m. at the Haskell Ag Lab near Concord. There is a registration cost of $10. To register, contact the Dixon County Extension Office at 402-584-2234. Pre-registration is requested by May 14.

Michelle is the daughter of Dennis and Linda Murray of Wayne. Her grandparents include Lowene Heaverlo of Council Bluffs, Iowa and Harold and Earlyne Murray of Wayne.

Receive recognition for yearbook efforts

Wayne High School students Jeanne Allemann and Faith Kroeker, claimed gold medals in the finals competition of state journalism held in Lincoln.

This represents the top students in the state of Nebraska for all classes of schools.

Jeanne received first place in yearbook layout and Faith and Jeanne won first for theme development.

Prior entries had placed these entries (and Jeff Ensz in theme development) in the top three of Class B. Finals for all classes then involved on-site activities for the top 12 students in the state.

As a team, Wayne High School placed fifth in Class B in sweepstakes rankings.

That placing is a result of preliminary entries in various categories of newspaper and yearbook work.

"Since over half of the entry categories are newspaper related, I am especially proud of our students for a fifth place ranking from only yearbook entries," Advisor Lauren Walton said.

Wayne High School does not produce a student newspaper but publishes a yearbook, "Devil Daze." It is produced by students enrolled in yearbook/journalism class.

WSC students attain valuable internships

Dr. Doug Christensen, assistant professor of biology in the Wayne State College math-science division, announced student competitive internship appointments.

Wayne State students Cory Lindsay of Laurel and Erik Settles of North Bend will complete their internships this summer.

Lindsay has accepted a competitive internship at the University of Florida in St. Augustine. He will work with molecular biology on the development of antiparasitic agents for schistosomes. Lindsay is a junior at Wayne State College and was one of eight students selected from across the United States to conduct research at the Whitney Laboratory in St. Augustine, Fla. this summer.

Lindsay will spend around 10 to 12 weeks at the Whitney Laboratory, a marine biomedical research institute of the University of Florida. He will be working with neurobiologist Dr. Robert M. Greenberg in developing antiparasitic agents to one of the world's most deadly diseases, schistosomiasis.

Upon graduation from WSC, Lindsay plans to attend medical school and obtain an M.D./PH.D in pathology.

Lindsay is the son of Archie and Virginia Lindsay of Laurel. Settles was accepted to three internship positions: Epply Institute for Cancer Research, Baylor School of Medicine and the University of Wisconsin-Madison. All three positions involve molecular biology associated research. He has decided to attend the University of Wisconsin and will be working on bacterial molecular biology.

Christensen is pleased with the quality of internships his students have completed.

Last summer, Melissa Yeska worked at the Baylor School of Medicine using cutting edge molecular biological techniques in the study of breast cancer.

Her work played a role in the decision of the lab at which she was employed, to utilize a specific assay procedure for cancer research. "Wayne State College provided me with an education that allowed me to work toe to toe with students from bigger schools such as MIT and Yale," said Melissa Yeska of Bloomington, Ind.

Another previous successful internship assignment involved Sam Settles. He was selected to do a research internship at the Epply Center in Omaha.

His internship experience led to acceptance to graduate school at UNMC where he utilizes molecular biology as a tool for health-related research.

Receives scholarships

Melinda Jane Flee, Hoskins, has received a Dr. Archie L. McPherran Scholarship and a Leadership

Melinda Flee

Scholarship to attend Wayne State College this fall.

The purpose of the Leadership scholarship is to attract active high school leaders who plan to continue that level of leadership in a residential college setting. The award provides students with renewable four-year waivers for on-campus housing.

Flee, the daughter of Robin and Jane Flee, is scheduled to graduate from Winside High School this spring. She plans to major in elementary/special education.

Her high school activities include National Honor Society, band, choir, swing choir and jazz band. She is a peer tutor, president of the senior class and a member of the one-act play and school musical casts, the Youth Leadership Council and a 4-H club. Flee volunteers with the Orphan Grain Train, Salvation Army and German Dinner.

Deadly Effects on Ephedra Reported

Ephedra Alkaloids often are included in popular nonprescription "weight loss" products. Because ephedra is obtained from a plant, some persons believe it can cause no harm. However, according to a report in the New England Journal of Medicine, there have been 140 reports of illness or death associated with ephedra between 1997 and 1999. Of the 140 reports which came to the US Food and Drug Administration, about a third were considered "definitely or probably" the result of ephedra.

Problems included 5 cardiac arrests, 4 strokes, and 3 deaths. Others included high blood pressure, abnormal heart rhythms, seizures, and palpitations. Millions of persons are likely to have taken products containing ephedra. These reports seem to indicate that problems have affected only a few users. But since any weight loss associated with taking ephedra is minimal at best, it may be wise to avoid ephedra altogether.

Some Dried Pet Treats Can Make You Ill

Treats for pets made from dried ears, hooves, lungs, and bones of pigs and cows have been implicated in salmonella poisoning in humans according to the FDA. More than 35 cases of salmonella poisoning linked to children's contact with pet treats made from pig ears have been reported in Canada. There have been recalls of treats containing salmonella in the U.S. Although no illnesses from these products have been reported in the U.S. the FDA recommends treats made from dried animal parts should be handled as you would raw meat. Keep off counter tops and wash your hands with soap and hot water after handling.

Nutritional needs of teens discussed

Adolescence is the second fastest growth stage in the life cycle; first is infancy. Genes are a major factor in how much an adolescent grows. However, diet is also a factor. Poor food choices can result in an adolescent not reaching his or her potential. Nutrients (or lack of nutrients) affect how a person grows.

The food guide pyramid, developed by USDA, provides a guideline for eating a variety of foods to meet nutritional needs. The food guide pyramid can be used by people of all ages, from preschoolers to teens to senior citizens. The major difference between these stages is the amount of food group servings recommended.

Because adolescents are growing, their energy and nutrient needs are high. Adolescent boys, ages 11-14, need about 2,500 calories a day. Teenage boys ages 15-18 need about 2,800 calories each day. Adolescent girls, ages 11-18, need about 2,200 calories per day. These amounts are guidelines some youth may need more calories depending on activity levels.

Foods chosen to fulfill caloric needs should be nutrient rich. Limit or avoid the empty calorie types of food that are high in sugar or fat and little else. Be aware of the types of beverages consumed and the calories that those items provide. Soft drinks provide calories and lots of sugar but nothing else water is by far the best beverage choice.

Adequate amounts of the nutrients calcium and iron are often missing in an adolescent diet. This is usually due to poor food choices or simply not eating enough food in a daily diet.

Calcium is essential for strong bone development. Almost half of an adult's bone mass is formed in the teenage years. Low intake of calcium in adolescence results in weak bone mass which can be a serious problem as a person goes through the life cycle, particularly in later years.

Foods such as milk, yogurt, and cheese are excellent sources of calcium and should be included in the daily diet. Non-dairy sources of calcium include canned salmon (with bones), greens, broccoli, and okra. Some foods such as orange juice and breakfast cereal are fortified with calcium.

Iron is important to maintain energy levels. Low levels of iron often leave a feeling of fatigue. Once again, poor food choices or limiting the intake of food are usually the cause of low iron levels. Teenage girls are particularly vulnerable to low levels of iron. By eating a variety of foods, an adequate intake of iron can be obtained. Choose a variety of meat, poultry, seafood, legumes, enriched grains, and fortified breakfast cereals.

What Can Adults Do?
* Have nutritious snacks readily available: Pretzels, popcorn (no butter - read the label), dried fruit (apricots, raisins), cut up vegetables (carrots, celery, cherry tomatoes, cucumbers, broccoli or cauliflower), cheese cubes, low fat crackers.

* Provide alternatives to soft drinks. Water and 100% fruit juice are excellent alternatives. Put water pitchers or water bottles in the refrigerator so that the water is a tempting choice. As an adult, don't forget to drink water yourself.

* Work with your adolescent to help him or her learn to make wise food choices, including snacks. Teach the adolescent basic cooking skills as well as how to shop for groceries. These are life skills.

Pastor Bill Koeber

Wayne and his wife, Valerie, will gather with other 2,000 people at Saddleback Church in Lake Forest, Calif. for the Purpose-Driven Church Conference May 15-17.

The conference is held each year and was founded by Rick Warren, founding Pastor of Saddleback Church. It is composed of over 16,000 people. Warren believes strongly that the key to a healthy, growing church is balance.

The conference is designed to help church leaders motivate their members to deeper levels of commitment.

In preparation of the conference, Pastor Koeber is studying the book authored by Rick Warren, "The Purpose Driven Church," which has sold more than a million copies and is translated into 22 languages.

"Starting in June, our church council will be reading and discussing this book," Pastor Koeber said.

Participants and their ribbon placings in the speech category from Dixon County were: Intermediate Division — Becky Hoising, Laurel, purple and Ashley Lunz, Wakefield, blue; Junior Division — Melissa Hohenstein, Jackson and Clint Lühr, Wakefield, blue.

Participants and their ribbon placings in the Public Service Announcement category were: Intermediate Division — Heather Bearnes, Laurel, and Doug Langhorst, Jackson, blue.

Students excel at Northeast

Northeast Community College students who have excelled in their programs of study and college activities were recognized at the recent Student Achievement Awards Program. The local honored students and the awards they were given are as follows:

Darci Bargholz, Phi Theta Kappa Member, and Bryce Heithold, Northeast Faculty Association Student Excellence Scholarship, both of Wayne; Joseph Paustian, Affiliated Food Scholarship, Danette Frahm, Donald F. Brennen Memorial Scholarship, Koby Loberg, Outstanding Freshman-Heating, Ventilation & Air Conditioning, all of Carroll; Mindy Walker of Hoskins, Wayne State Presidential Transfer Scholarship, Phi Theta Kappa Member.

The 4-H Public Speaking Program is designed to give young people the opportunity to speak before groups and tell the 4-H story. In the process, 4-H'ers improve their speaking skills and gestures, posture and movements become natural. This experience allows members to learn about speech development and the components involved in the art of public speaking.

All contestants qualified for district competition by being a top presenter in their county 4-H public speaking contest.

This year, there were 15 senior contestants from 11 counties in the Northeast District. There were 21 junior contestants from 14 counties and 17 intermediate contestants from 12 counties. Junior and intermediate contestants do not advance to state competition.

In addition, 23 contestants had the opportunity to compete in developing and presenting 30 or 60 second Public Service Announcements.

Contestants are judged on the basis of subject matter, organization, physical behavior, gestures, voice, effect and how well the subject is related to 4-H.

Soybean seeds need special care this year

Warm, sunny days bring farmers into their fields, anxious to plant this year's crops. But Nebraska soybean growers would be wise to wait until May to plant this year's supply of fragile beans, a University of Nebraska crops specialist said.

As a result of last year's hot, dry summer, this year's soybean seeds are smaller and have lower germination rates. The seed coats are thin, dry and susceptible to splits and cracks that further reduce seed quality.

"It has been a long time since we have seen it this bad," said Roger Elmore, a crops specialist at NU's South Central Research and Extension Center near Clay Center.

Because of poor seed quality, farmers should wait for optimum planting conditions to give seeds the best chance at germinating, Elmore said.

"This is the year to put the seed in the best environment possible," the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources agronomist said. "Putting low quality, low germination seed in the ground early, when it is too cool, subjects the seeds to unnecessary stress. The result is even lower germination rates and poor stands."

The month of May generally is considered the best time to plant soybeans in Nebraska, Elmore said. The soil temperature should be at least 60 degrees at planting depth. In Nebraska's main soybean growing areas, soil temperatures Tuesday

Bus ride brings memories of trips to Camp Luther

There was a time I rode a school bus every day. That was when I was in grade school. Then, there were a lot of years when I didn't go near one. Eventually, I put my kids on one. And, then, I ended up riding the things again: on field trips, to the circus, the Wayne State plays, the fourth grade trip to the state capitol, and the like. When they got into high school, we opted for the "booster bus" to games periodically. Those days are long gone, too. Last week, Sue called to say they needed volunteers to go to Camp Luther with the third grade. She was slated for training in Nebraska City, and Monte would be working. I have many fond memories of Camp Luther, a rustic bunch of acres north of highway 30 between North Bend and Schuyler.

about. After Mr. Wilcox prayed briefly, which I thought was a good idea, in light of all the bus accidents lately, we crawled on the big yellow bus. I was the only grey head in sight. Mr. Wilcox drove, and we headed out of town on highway 15.

The kids had brought things to do, and there was a lot of talking, but no one got rowdy. Finally, after about an hour and 15 minutes, we saw the sign that said Camp Luther. We pulled in and unloaded, and some out us headed for the restrooms. (Could have had something to do with the bumpy ride!)

Then, this friendly kid with a guitar led us in some fun songs, like "Who's the king of the jungle?"

(Who, Who) with all the appropriate actions. After the resident director briefed us on the five rules, we headed outside. No rain, and some sun, and the wind was not too strong.

The five rules bear repeating: 1) Respect the adults 2) Respect each other 3) Respect yourselves 4) Respect the camp ground. And 5) Respect God. That about covered behavior for the day.

The three games were all new to me. There was "Indiana Jones" with a huge ball, "Predator and Prey" with blindfolds and bells, and one that had to do with deer needing water, food, and shelter. Before we knew it, it was lunch time. And we had good appetites by then.

Now, came the nature hike. First, to the lake, where we saw turtles. Then, up the hill to the new tree houses. Up and down, by some deer carcasses, through some plum thickets, to the highest spot at the camp where there is a steeple with a cross. Then, back, back to the hall.

We don't know how far we walked. We just know we were very tired, and very thirsty, when we got back to the main hall. There, after a couple more songs, we said goodbye to the camp staff. THEN, would you believe, we had to WALK back down to the picnic shelter where the bus sat. MERCY!

It was another bouncy bus ride back to Seward. There really isn't any room to stretch out on those things. And there are no drinking fountains. When we got back to the school, we met little brother Alex and headed for the local DQ. (May as well contribute to Berkshire Hathaway). Four hours, and a shower, later; I think I'll sleep well tonight. I'm just not sure I'll be able to get out of bed in the morning!

In fact, I remember when the ground was donated by the Bergt family, and the first buildings were erected. I've attended many LWML retreats and conventions there; and even spoken at a few. All the kids attended camps there; learning lots of new songs and making new friends.

So, okay, I said I could go. When I crawled out of bed about an hour earlier than usual, the sky looked foreboding, dark and dreary. And, of course, the wind was blowing. I threw on jeans and shirt, gulped coffee and instant breakfast, and rove the hour to Seward; running into the usual highway work at least once. Oh, yea, I also took a sack lunch, which we don't have to do for LWML stuff.

In Thomas' classroom, about 20 excited third graders were milling

Youth gain speaking experience

Six 4-H'ers from Wayne County were among 70 4-H members from 15 counties in the Northeast District who competed in the 2001 District Public Speaking Contest held April 28 at the Lifelong Learning Center in Norfolk.

Participants and their ribbon placings in the speech category from Wayne County were: Senior Division — Karissa Dorsey, Wayne, red; Intermediate Division — Jara Settles, Hoskins, purple; Emilie Osten, Carroll, blue; Junior Division — Kaitlyn Braithwait, Norfolk, purple.

Participants and their ribbon placings in the Public Service Announcement category were: Intermediate Division — Derek Schardt, Wayne and Jara Settles, Hoskins, purple; Junior Division — Marisa Austin, Wayne and Kaitlyn Braithwait, Norfolk, purple.

The 4-H Public Speaking Program is designed to give young people the opportunity to speak before groups and tell the 4-H story. In the process, 4-H'ers improve their speaking skills and gestures, posture and movements become natural. This experience allows members to learn about speech development and the components involved in the art of public speaking.

All contestants qualified for district competition by being a top presenter in their county 4-H public speaking contest.

This year, there were 15 senior contestants from 11 counties in the Northeast District. There were 21 junior contestants from 14 counties and 17 intermediate contestants from 12 counties. Junior and intermediate contestants do not advance to state competition.

In addition, 23 contestants had the opportunity to compete in developing and presenting 30 or 60 second Public Service Announcements.

Contestants are judged on the basis of subject matter, organization, physical behavior, gestures, voice, effect and how well the subject is related to 4-H.

Soybeans

(April 24) ranged from 46.7 degrees at Concord to 57.1 degrees at Red Cloud, 52 degrees at Nebraska City and 56 degrees at McCook.

In most years, farmers who planted soybeans early and had poor germination, or those whose crops were destroyed by hail or frost, could simply replant their fields. This year, replanting may not be an option thanks to a shortage of seed.

"Roundup-Ready soybeans are already spoken for in most cases, and conventional varieties are also short in supply, but there may still be some available at this point," Elmore said. "If you need to replant this year, popular varieties will be very limited, so finding a good supply will be difficult. Don't risk it."

Farmers also should be careful when applying seed treatments this year, Elmore said. Seed treating equipment, which is used to add fungicides and inoculants to soybeans, often is hard on seeds, tumbling them around and cracking seed coats.

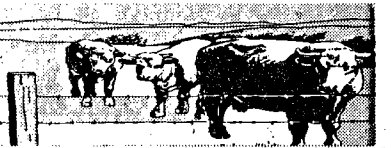

"With high quality beans you can afford to lose a few in the seed treater, but with low quality seed those extra cracked seed coats can cost you a lot," he said. "I'm not suggesting that farmers shouldn't treat their soybeans. I'm saying they need to be very careful."

In-furrow application of inocuplants may be a safer option this year, Elmore said.

More information on this year's soybean planting situation is available in Crop Watch, NU Cooperative Extension newsletter on crops and pests. It's available on the Web at <http://cropwatch.unl.edu/>.

Wayne State College hosting cheerleading, dance camps

Wayne State College will host cheerleading and dance camps on June 19-22 for about 130 high school, junior high school and middle school students. Instructors for the camps will be provided by the Universal Dance Association (UDA) and the Universal Cheerleaders Association (UCA).

"I believe this is about our 27th year for holding camps. Campers who attend these camps learn routines, etc. that are presented all over the country. Nebraska is right up there with schools everywhere using the most up-to-date, 'in' presentations," said Frank Teach, WSC director of student activities.

UDA creates the majority of camp dance material at regional choreography sessions, and some is contracted to professional studios in New York and California. All the choreography is evaluated on originality, variety and complexity. Camp instructors have completed an intense training course and have been selected from top colleges, pro dance teams and studios.

The two women competed in the Business Graphics Contest. For their hard work, artistic talents and graphic endeavors, they placed as one of the top 10 teams in the state. They were presented their award by FBLA sponsor Jennifer Goos during the honors convocation on April 30. Traci was also recognized at the state level for contributions to the Wakefield FBLA Chapter. She received the "Who's Who in Nebraska FBLA" Award. This award, according to Mrs. Goos, is only awarded to 39 other FBLA members in the state of Nebraska.

At the State Leadership Conference the students competed with over 1,600 FBLA members from across the state in 31 different competency contests. During the conference the Wakefield Chapter received a certificate of recognition from the Nebraska FBLA Competency/ Scholarship Fund.

All who attended the May 1

Spring Concert of grades K-12 were treated to an evening of food, dance, and song. The evening started with an elementary school musical under the direction of Richard Lacey, entitled "Americans All".

The musical centered around the theme of browsing through computer websites and finding traditional songs and dances from the Caribbean, Ireland, Germany, Africa, Native-Americans, Korea, and Israel.

Each class was attired in costume of an area and danced while the rest of the student body sang a song of the locale. Band Parents served various foods of each culture before the program and during intermission to also carry out the theme.

The high school program then followed with vocal selections by the junior high and high school choirs, and instrumental selections by the jazz band, junior band, and senior high band. Between group performances, swards were given for speech, quiz bowl, yearbook, business, teacher aides, News bowl, and spelling bee. Legion, Auxiliary and VFW awards were also presented for essays written, poppy posters, playing taps, and girls/boys state.

Mr. Lacy announced the winners and winners of various awards. The John Philip Sousa award went to Melissa Wilmes, the Choral Award to Danielle Bertrand, and the Directors Award to Andrea Swetnam.

ARBOR DAY ASSEMBLY

The Allen Arbor Day Assembly was held in conjunction with the Spring Concert/Award Ceremony on May 1.

Tree Board Member Marcia Rastede announced to those present that Allen has again been recognized as a Tree City USA recipient. She then reviewed that she had met with fourth through twelfth grades individually to review information about tree shapes, leaf and branch patterns, and root systems. Then she had each student vote for a nomination for America's National Tree.

Thirty different trees were suggested, but the top vote getter was the Weeping Willow with 32 votes. Flowering Dogwood got 12 votes, and the Cottonwood received 11 votes. The voting was submitted to the Arbor Foundation at Nebraska City. She then gave some tips on caring for the seemingly - dead evergreen trees and updated information on the Nature Grove, which was created as a natural habitat for wildlife and village beautification.

This is a co-project of Allen Consolidated Schools, Pheasants Forever, and the Village of Allen with the advise of State Forester Steve Rasmussen and Clayton Stalling of the State Games and Parks Commission. Both men have visited the Nature Grove periodically to give advise on its maintenance.

The trees and wildflowers/native grasses are doing well because of the care given to the trees by many student and adult workers. These trees are not to be removed unless the need arises in the future and Steve and Clayton so indicate.

ALLEN BAND PARENTS MEETING

The next meeting of the Allen Band Parents will be held at 7 p.m. on May 22. Everyone is encouraged to attend. A work schedule will be made for the car wash and concession stand fundraiser on June 9 in conjunction with the Isom Lov-A-Lop Animal Swap Meet.

Anyone unable to work on that day should contact a Band Parent office; otherwise you will be expected to work at your scheduled time. If anyone would like to bake and donate a pie for the concession stand, please sign the list in the Cash Store or Senior Center by May 15.

NEWS BOWL 2001

Allen Consolidated Schools recently participated in the News Bowl 2001 March Contest. News Bowl is a state and national current events contest open to 3rd-8th graders.

The contest was administered on the Internet and tested student knowledge of current events from January 1st to February 28th. Teams competed in six different grade level divisions. The contest was administered in the individual schools during March. 2,060 teams from all 50 states took part in News Bowl 2001. The classrooms from Allen that participated were the seventh and eighth graders.

The objective of the News Bowl March Contest is to provide a quality educational program, which will enhance current events education, lifelong learning and increase proficiency in citizenship skills. Students were tested by a multiple choice question test covering all aspects of the news.

News Bowl USA is in partnership with students, educators, parents and business leaders to prepare responsible students to assume a leadership role in America's changing society by providing a valuable resource in America's educational process.

Tips shared for successful bobber fishing season

Your probably wondering why I'm writing about bobber or float fishing? Everyone knows about bobber fishing, right!

All you have to do is snap your bobber on the line at the depth you want your bait to be, cast it out and when the bobber goes under the water, you had a bite. Doesn't take a nuclear scientist to figure it out.

There are a couple of problems with this type of bobber fishing, especially if you're fishing very deep. First of all it's darn near impossible to cast without bouncing the bobber off your fishing partners head or piercing your ear with the hook. Once you've reeled the bobber up to your rod tip, you've still got a tremendous amount of line and your fish dangling below the bobber.

Slip bobbbers have solved all of these problems and allow you to fish areas that you were unable to fish with the traditional clip on bobber.

Slip bobbbers allow the angler to fish for suspended fish at any depth and not have to worry about the bobber being "attached" way above the bait. Slip bobbbers slide down against the weight, jig or hook allowing the angler to cast the line with ease.

Slip bobbbers are pretty basic, they slip up and down the line until they hit the bobber stop, which can be adjusted to a particular depth.

Bobber stops are pretty simple also. They can be the fancy bead and wire or as simple as a piece of braided line or rubber band tied around the line.

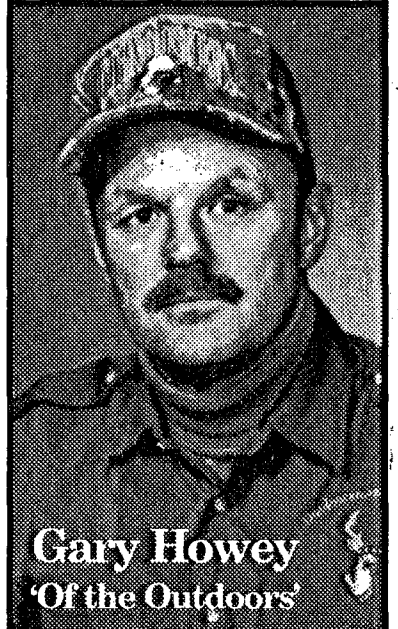

The rig that is attached below the slip bobber is also pretty basic. You can use a small jig or small hook and split shot. Attach a Jeech, minnow or crawler and your in business.

Slip bobbbers allow you to fish over deep or shallow water structure. Fish that are feeding on top of submerged island, rock bed or sand bar are perfect examples of structure that can be fished with a slip bobber. If you set your slip bobber so it floats just above the structure, your bait will drift or work it's way over the structure and right in the face of those fish that have moved up on the structure to feed.

If you try this with a jig or other live bait rig, you'd be snagged all the time. The slip bobber allows the bait to be at the right depth and not snagged in the rocks all the time.

Another place where slip bobbbers work well is in an area that has a lot of rocks, snags or debris with current. An area such as the fast water below a dam.

Using your locator, you'll need to find the depth that the fish are working and then set your slip bobber just above the fish.

Let your bait drift through the area and any active fish that are holding in the area will come up from behind the rocks and snags to take you bait.

Fast water areas below a dam are areas that will hold lots of fish, but eat up any other tackle that you might throw at the fish.

As with any bobber, you want to have as little of the bobber showing above the water as possible. Add enough weight below the bobber so that very little is actually above the surface. With the bobber adjusted this way, fish can easily pull the bait and bobber down and are more apt to hold onto the bait.

You'll need to have just enough of the bobber showing above the surface to keep sight of it.

The smaller the bobber the better. When it comes to slip bobber, the K.I.S.S., method is best. Keep It Simple Stupid may sound harsh, but like anything else, most people make things way too complicated. Taking all the fun out of something that could be real enjoyable family outgoing.

Give slip bobbbers a try and in certain situations, you'll find that you'll have more fish coming into the boat.
