Last rural school in county closes doors

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

Marking the end of an era, the last remaining rural school in Wayne County, District 51, four miles west of Wayne, closed its doors. Students sang and provided entertainment to parents, former students and teachers, friends and neighbors at the last school picnic May, 10. The group shared food, fellowship, and memories for the final time in a rural school setting that once was a familiar site. Not only was District 51 Wayne County's last rural school but it was the last one in both Dixon and Cedar Counties, Bringing on the demise of District 51, was the state law saying that at least one child a Nebraska country attending school must live in the district the school is in. Eight of the 10 children attending District 51 were from Wayne and the other two did not live in the district. All angles had been covered to end rural schools in Nebraska. District 51 was formed in 1890.

Rural schools in Wayne County had long history of survival

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

Formal education started in Wayne County on Sept. 5, 1870, when Dr. R.B. Crawford was named superintendent. Soon after a levy of seven mills was set for a school building, two mills for a teacher and two-mill levy for a district contingent fund.

It was around 1871 that the county was divided into three school districts (District 1-Hancock, Brenna, Plum Creek, Leslie, and south half of Logan precincts), (District 2-near LaPorte), and (District 3- at Hoskins). At first, District 1 was known as the "bloody one" because of frequent fights among officers, employers, teachers and pupils.

One of the first school buildings in Wayne County was built near Hoskins by Solon Bevins at a cost of $1,500. By October of 1932, there were 88 rural school districts throughout Wayne County. District 51 was formed 1890.

from teachers filling roles such as educator, mother, nurse, custodian, secretary, bookkeeper, etc. Roles vitally important that teachers performed for little pay. Alone, rural teachers were daily responsible for the physical, mental, educational, and emotional well-being of a host of children.

Nebraska rural schools flourished for years; fanning their fuel of existence were tax advantages for staying open. Slowly but surely, schools started closing as laws changed and tax advantages for staying open ceased, Laws were also passed allowing parents to choose which district children. Thus, some country 1991, Altona Parochial closed 1970, Dist. their children could attend. With slower farm economy, many rural parents had to seek employment in towns to supplement their farm income. For convenience and security being nearby, many chose to have their children attend school in the same town in they worked.

While rural schools provided an extraordinary experience, some parents felt there were more opportunities for their children in a town school setting and others yearned for their children to have the unique rural school experience they had as schools hung on until loss of children and state aid forced them to closé.

Following the road to closing, by 1962-63, there were 48 of the original 88 rural schools open. By 1976, only 18 rural schools in Wayne County existed. Many of these school closings happened around the late 1950s to the early to mid-1960s because of redistricting at that time.

A list of Wayne County rural school closings follows: Dist. 1-1976, Dist. 2-1968, Dist. 3-1962, Dist. 4-1960, Dist. 56-1961, Dist, 7-1970, Dist. 8-1975, Dist. 9-1990, Dist. 10-1975, Dist. 11-1961, Dist. 12-1958, Dist. 13-1961, Dist. 14-1959, Dist. 15-1993, Dist. 16-1961, Dist. 18-1963, Dist. 19-1962, Dist. 20-1959, Dist. 21-1961, Dist. 22-1965, Dist. 23-1978, Dist. 24-1961, Dist. 25-1998, Dist. 26-1964, Dist. 27-1960, Dist. 28 N-1961, Dist. 285-1961, Dist. 29-1961,

On May 10, around 6 - 6:20 a.m. our family, and later on another family, found our family cats dead. There were no marks on these cats ' and no blood.

We are not sure if they were hit by a car or poisoned.

This is just a reminder to all drivers. I know it is early in the morning and it is hard to have your mind working, but please pay attention. And, if you do hit an animal, please stop to inform someone.

If this was an intentional poison-

Capitol news

It is that time of year when news stories about lobbying and its attendant costs begin showing up in newspapers.

That's a good thing. It's important to keep an eye on the lobbying, business because so much of it is done on behalf of those institutions and people who have a lot of power and influence. That's another way of saying that much of it is done for people who have a lot of money.

A couple of decades ago I found myself in a program at Nebraska Wesleyan University and, as things turned out, it fell to me to defend lobbying in general (but not lobbyists in particular). Let me tell you that it was an altogether unnerving experience.

It is altogether important for those who care even the least bit about their community and their country to cast a rather suspicious eye on government. Ditto with lobbyists, only more so.

But the important thing, I said way back then, is to avoid damning a symptom while ignoring the systemic illness it represents.

Lobbying is a constitutionally protected right, you know. Right there in the First Amendment. It's the part about Congress not passing laws to prohibit a bunch of things, including the right of the people "peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

It's a mistake to get hung up on that "special interest" bugaboo by itself. You will never meet an interest that isn't special to someone. A lobbyist is someone who petitions the government on behalf of a client. The good news, you see, is that you know about lobbyists and lobbying, and how much money is spent on lobbying per se and how much various interests give to support politicians who support their programs. Remember, the public wouldn't have enough information to form and maintain a worthwhile snit if such stuff were not public record, and consistently reported.

Businesses and people with money are just doing what the law allows them to do (usually) and, as veteran lobbyist Walt Radcliffe said: "Democracy is not a spectator sport." If you don't get into the game, you aren't going to score any

Wayne raised electrical billing rates for all customers in the fall of 1999, after 17 years at the same rate. The Wayne utilities operate as non-profit entities because they are owned by the public.

The rate analyst used in 2000 projected that a two percent rate increase to our customers every other year would be need to cover rising wholesale power and generation costs, sale power by 11 percent in January and projects five percent more in January 2002. Council members have chosen to absorb rate increases so far but will take another look during the budget process this summer.

Bonneville Power Co. in Washington state is projecting a 250 percent rate increase to its California customers. Nebraska's power supply and rates are expected to remain stable because of coal and nuclear sources.

We have $735,000 on hand from the previous city sales tax collection for this project. The architect estimate for work planned is $730,000. This should cover the cost for new air conditioning and gas heating system, re-wiring the electrical system; larger men's and women's handicap accessible bathrooms, refurbishing the doors and windows and an overhead fire sprinkler system.

A new fire exit door ma be required through the south gym wall. Nothing is planned with the architect for the stage, gym floor or new seats but these can be done later through our maintenance program. Weed notices

National Community Action Month was established in 1997 by the National Association of Community Action Agencies to highlight the progress community action agencies have made to move people out of poverty. Throughout May, community action agencies nation wide will host a variety of events, including open houses, awards ceremonies and community festivals, Community action agencies were created in 1964 under legislation signed by President Lyndon B. Johnson. It is noteworthy that these agencies, about 1,000 in all, have stood the test of time and continue to provide vital services to lowincome Americans.

The agency's nutrition programs, rental and emergency assistance, early childhood education, weatherization, immunization and assorted health services are provided annually to more than 10,000 clients in 14 counties in Northeast Nebraska, including Antelope, Burt, Cedar, Cuming, Dakota, Dixon, Dodge, Knox, Madison, Pierce, Stanton, Thurston, Washington, and Wayne Counties.

viduals and businesses in Wayne, I am surprised to discover how many do not know what the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce is or what it does for the community.

I could not understand how a 60year old organization could remain so mysterious. Then I realized why - we have been so busy doing, that we have neglected to share the exciting things we are involved in.

The general consensus of the community is that the Chamber is an advocate for business, the information and referral center for the region, and the biggest cheerleader for our community. However, we also do quite a bit more to help make Wayne the outstanding community it is. Recently, I reflected on the current projects of the Wayne Area Chamber and was amazed to discover we are simultaneously working on 20 different projects.

Below you can read about each of them: 1) A grant to create sculptures and one mural in the community of Wayne has been applied for through the National Endowment for the Arts. This project is a collaborative effort between WSC, WHS and the Chamber.

2) We are in the process of applying for a grant to create at Tourism Information Center which will service area visitors and community members, especially after business hours and on the weekends.

3) Remodeling of the Chamber Office. After the fire, we need to repair the damage as well as bring the building up to compliance with ADA requirements.

4) Statistical data entry for NEDI (Nebraska Economic Development Information) Online, a database, for businesses, about our community. This website has been created by NPPD (Nebraska Public Power District) and the Nebraska Department of Economic Development.

5) Statistical data entry for LOIS (Location One Information System), a database, for businesses, about our community. This webiste has been made available to us through Peoples Natural Gas and the of Economic Department Development.

6) Visioning Project for Northeast NE on May 10 which will help unify our region by developing a strategic plan for our area. In today's econo-teamwork and partnering.

7) On a local level, we are working on our Community Strategic Plan, The Nebraska Workforce Development branch of the Department of Labor has developed, "A Guide to Community Planning." Through this program, we will be able to create a unified vision for our community so we can work together to accomplish tremendous things. We will be using the results of the many surveys that have inundated our community to determine the needs and wants of our town. The program is similar to the S.T.A.R.T. Program which was done about 10 years ago.

8) The Business Development Council is working on a Business Inventory of the businesses in our community. By cataloging the existing businesses, we can identify areas of need, existing services, assist with succession planning and in general, be able to better serve this population.

9) The Business Development Council is also working on creating a Facts Book for Small Business which will help us meet the needs of entrepreneurs and existing businesses looking at expansion possibilities. Over the last quarter, we have had approximately 10-15 businesses contact us about expansion or new business creation opportunities. This piece of literature will tie together all of the types of information needed for these endeavors.

10) The Agribusiness Council is working on putting together the Ninth Annual Steer and Heifer Show which will be held on Saturday, June 9, 2001. THis even is sanctioned by the Nebraska Junior Cattleman's Association and therefore attracts participants from across the state.

11) The Agribusiness Council is also developing a Profitability Plot which will serve as a tool to educate the non-farming public about crop production.

12) The 21st Annual Wayne Chicken Show is well underway. Several sub-projects, too numerous to mention in this article, are being worked on. A community briefing will be held on Thursday, May 24 at The Max. All those interested in learning about the location changes and general information about the event this summer are welcome to

13) The Wayne Industries Vendor Golf Tournament is rapidly approaching and will be held July 19. This tournament was designed to thank the vendors of our industries and to raise funds for economic development.

NATOP

14) Wayne Industries Annual Meeting held on May 14 at MPM Farms, Each year Wayne Industries tours one of the larger industries in the area to learn about their operation.

15) Plans for the second quarter Business After Hours are underway. This is a time for business persons to get together, get to know each other and network ideas and business possibilities.

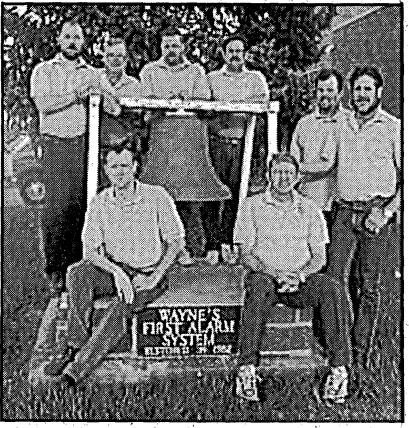

16) The Retail Council is working on a promotion during Henoween.

17) We are constantly in a state of updating and upgrading the Wayne Website.

18) We are lobbying on the issue of legislative redistricting. We are

We want to foster economic growth and partnership. WE WANT TO SEE WAYNE SUCCEED!

I hope this article has helped to identify our role and involvement in the community. We welcome new members and partnerships, and encourage anyone who is interested to contact our office at 375-2240.

pull him out of school each spring because of his asthma and taking him to a drier climate (Arizona) so he could breathe easier and not have attacks.

After her years at District 51, Johnson taught at the "Bell School" close to Wakefield and then started teaching in Wakefield where she is still a substitute teacher.

"Those rural years taught you so much," Johnson said. "You had to be everything; a nurse, custodian, all-around maintenance, etc. We had to teach our own music and physical education (P.E.); in town school you can send the children to music and P.E. teachers. The children were respectful of teachers and the parents were very supportive.

* Adding, Johnson noted in a oneroom school, the older students heard the subjects over and over being taught to the younger students and they could be helpful by reinforcing what the teacher was saying. Having the older children help the younger ones gave them responsibility and independence,

Recalling being afraid of the superintendent then, Johnson noted she lived in fear of Mrs. Porter visiting her school to check on what she was doing. Broomfield recalled an experience while her principal Ted Raterman of Norfolk visited. A sick mouse was under a student's desk so she tried to be calm, she swept the mouse onto the dust pan and took it outside while the principal looked

Johnson said nothing was easy for teachers. Because there were no copiers, alphabet letters, etc. for bulletin boards had to be made with a hectograph which was copying by offset from a gelatin base. Even tests, papers to be handed out, etc, had to all be done by hand.

Another former teacher present was Morris lacobsen who teaches in the Wakefield School system now. Jacobsen noted he taught at District music at District 51 for at least 10 51, from 1975-1991. He said the school was mainly 5-8 grades then but for a couple of years it was 4-8. He added to Johnson's memory of hand copying, saying in the summers he used the copier at Wayne State College copying booklets, etc for the whole school year.

Mark Wacker, a parent of a third grader at District 51 (Zachery) and who was a former student there himself. attended K-8 starting around 1963. Transferring in Kindergarten from Winside, Wacker remembers two teachers at District 51 with K-4 being in the smaller room and 5-8 being in the larger room.

Thinking back, Wacker remembers when his father was on the school board in the 60s and the state was pushing for closing of rural schools then Another former teacher present, Carol Rethwisch of Wayne, taught years back in the 80s. She notes all four of her children attended there. She taught two days a week to around 48 children attending the school at that time. Rethwisch said she introduced the children to song flutes which they played at concerts. Some of the concerts they had were Mothers Day programs, Christmas programs, and others. She said she also accompanied the children on the plano. Rethwisch noted she wrote a song about District 51 while teaching there. While at District 51, she also taught part time at District 15 and at District 57. A recent teacher, Julie Hart of Laurel, was also present at the school picnic. Hart taught at District 51 from 1987-1998 to an average of 12-18 children. She started at District 51 teaching K-2 and then went to K-4. Hart now teaches Kindergarten in

Laurel. Memories Hart has of District 51 include putting on a Thanksgiving feast with parents, Christmas and Mothers Day productions, a yearly trip with the children to the Shrine" Circus in Sioux City, Track and Field year, catching mice and having to have the students help remove them, stick forts which students built on the embryology projects of hatching

A particularly stressful time Hart recalls is when she had to update the library at District 51 to meet state standards. A sad memory was when she and the children planted a tree in the school yard in memory of a child that was killed. A happy memory was getting the first computer at District 51. With the new computer, they all thought they were in heaven.

Hart noted she saw a former student she had at District 51 while shopping one day. The student by that time was in college. "I said hello and called her by her name," Hart said. "As she walked away I heard her

By Kevin Peterson Of the Herald

The Wayne State baseball team clawed their way in to the record books after earning the college's first ever trip to the NCAA-Division II Baseball Regional Tournament.

John Manganaro's team notched a school-record tying 34th win in the championship of the NSIC Tournament as WSC defeated host Winona State in back-to-back games, 3-0 & 4-3 last Saturday.

The 'Cats dropped the first game of the double-elimination tournament to Southwest State, 10-8 after leading by an 8-2 margin in the seventh inning.

WSC bounced back to thump Minnesota-Crookston, 16-2 before the rematch with the Mustangs.

This time the game was never in doubt as WSC won, 12-5 setting up the must-win-two situation with Winona State.

The 'Cats eliminated all three teams at the tournament which is unusual considering it's a doubleelimination format.

Andre Duval was tagged with the loss against Southwest State, Brady Borner started on the mound and went 6 2/3 innings before Duval took over. Courie Weber pitched the final inning.

WSC was out-hit, 13-8 with Andy Schultz leading the 'Cats with three base hits while Tim Richt and Gary Redden each had homeruns. Joel Tremblay doubled with David Muryn and Gary Redden each notching a single,

Brian Zimmerman doubled and singled and Joel Tremblay singled twice while Joe Hartman tripled and Eric Fitch doubled. David Muryn and Andy Schultz each singled. In the rematch with Southwest State the 'Cats broke a 5-5 tie in the eighth inning with five runs and went on for a 12-5 win.

Aaron Hyde earned the pitching win in relief of starter Tony Manganaro and Andre Duval. Hyde pitched the final 3 2/3 innings and allowed just one hit before improving to a perfect 7-0

Andy Schultz singled three times and Joe Hartman had two base hits while Tim Richt doubled. Brian Zimmerman also had a base hit.

Super soph's place third at districts Wayne golf team earns state trip

The Wayne boys golf team battled extreme wind and tree debris on the greens at the Elks Country Club in Columbus, Monday afternoon but that didn't stop Terry Munson's Blue Devils from qualifying for next week's State Golf Tournament for the 15th time in the past 16 years.

Wayne, not favored to qualify this season after losing all five varsity players from last year's state championship team, responded in a big way...and so the tradition continues.

The sophomore quint showed great balance with Andy Martin leading the way with an 84 which placed him ninth overall. 🛬

Eric Sturm, playing the number five spot, fired an 86 and John Jensen, playing in the number four spot carded an 87 while Ric Volk tallied an 87. Brad Erickson finished with a 90.

Employees are certified

Newly certified as child Passenger Safety Technicians are Providence Medical Center employees Wendi Dwinell, Ward Clerk Supervisor, and Marcia Spahr, RN.

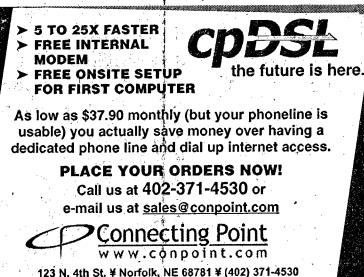

They were among 35 individuals who completed the Child Passenger Safety Technician Training which was held April 30-May 3 at the Lifelong Learning Center at Northeast Community College in Norfolk.

The training, which is standardized by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, was developed because of the increasingly complex issues involved in child passenger safety and because unintentional injuries, including motor vehicle crashes, continue to be a leading cause of death and injury to children.

Topics covered during the fourday course included: basics of injury prevention, crash dynamics, vehicle occupant protection systems, selection of child passenger restraints, correct installation of child safety seats, misuse and compatibility issues, safety in other vehicles and setting up a child safety seat check up event.

At the conclusion of the training, a child safety seat check up event was held at Clement's Chevrolet in Norfolk. The newly certified technicians, under the supervision of Child Passenger Safety Technician instructors, performed child safety seat checks on a total of 75 child safety seats. Ninety-eight percent of the seats were being used incorrectly.

Agencies supporting the training included the Nebraska SAFE KIDS Program of Nebraska Health and Human Services, the Nebraska Office of Highway Safety, the Northeast Early Childhood Training Partnership and Goldenrod Hills Community Services.

The Wayne Herald, Thursday, May 17, 2001 7B Senior Center Week is being observed in Wayne

The week of May 14-20 has been individuals needs by serving special designated Senior Center Week. The Wayne Senior Center's mission statement is "The Wayne Senior Citizen's Center exists to be a focal point and to provide for a comprehensive range of programs and services designated to acknowledge and enhance the value of human life, dignity and independence of the older adult."

The Senior Center strives to meet the needs of the elderly; physically, emotionally, mentally and socially. The social activities provided are music entertainers, educational programs, board games, bingo, crafts, daily card games, quilting, computer classes, billiards, bowling and special events.

"We provide a balanced diet and exercise classes to help people stay healthy. We also offer free blood pressure and hearing screens once monthly," said Tracy Keating, Senior Center Administrator.

The City of Wayne strives to support the senior age group with services through the Senior Center such as Congregate meals, Meals on Wheels, socialization and Handi-van services,

"We offer Congregate meals at the Senior Center. The name sums it up in a nut shell. It's a time to gather together and meet with friends to enjoy a balanced meal. This is very important because it is a proven fact that some who eat alone have a decreased appetite and do not eat balanced meals," Mrs. Keating said, A total of 9,886 congregate meals were served in the year 2000. The increase in the number of participants is credited to the increase in "outreach" efforts.

Meals on Wheels is a very valuable service to Wayne and Winside. These meals are delivered to homebound people. They provide these people with one-third of the daily recommended dietary needs established by the U.S.D.A.

"We have all of our meals catered by Providence Medical Center. We are fortunate to have home-cooked foods and specialize in meeting diets to those having medical needs," Keating said.

She added that delivering Meals on Wheels is one of the most rewarding experiences — "it's much more than just dropping a meal off - It's the companionship and checking on that individual daily, five days a week. It is a real comfort to those individuals and family members to know this."

"The people are so appreciated. A frequent comment heard is, "I don't know what I would do without this service because we cannot shop or prepare food anymore."

There were 5,016 Meals on Wheels served in the year 2000. Those involved would like to see the participation increase.

"We feel that in a town this size that there are many more people who could benefit from this program. If you yourself or a loved could use this program, please inquire," Keating said.

The Handi-van service is widely used in the community. The van transports individuals to doctor's appointments, errands, social events, hair appointments, work and to pharmacies. The van drivers stated, "With this harsh winter, the van was used more than ever." There were 9,720 passengers transported in the year 2000. Those needing a ride are asked to call the Senior Center.

The Senior Center programs and services are funded by various sources which include the Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging, Public Transportation Assistance funded through the Department of Roads, participants' contributions, the United Way, other donations and the City of Wayne. Participation is a major factor in the amount of grant money that is received.

The Senior Center and Handi-Van have five paid employees.

"We are very fortunate to have 75 volunteers who help serve in the kitchen, deliver meals, assist with entertainment, quilt or serve on the board. We have dedicated volunteers who truly love what they do. Their ability to help those less fortunate reflects in the success our Senior Center displays," Keating said.

She added, "we could never do it without all of these devoted volunteers. Their most comment is, 'I love volunteering, it makes me feel

Lions Club seeks eyeglasses

The Wayne Lions Cub will be taking paired lenses, used eye glasses and prescription/ regular sun glasses, as well as used hearing aids to the State Convention in Lincoln on june z. This summer the state truck will take a load to Geneva, Wisc.for sorting and distribution where requested in the world. Collection boxes are in the lobbies of Wayne Vision Center, N.E. Did you ever wonder where you came from?, could I be related to ...? What are my roots?

These are questions some people ask themselves or their oldest living relative at some point or another in their lives. Here is an opportunity to learn how to do Genealogy on the internet.

Judy Carlson of Wausa will provide two hours of hands-on Internet Genealogy instruction at the Dixon County Extension Haskell Ag Lab building located 1.5 miles east of Concord on Thursday, May 24 from 7 to 9 p.m. Judy has 16 years of experience doing Genealogy research.

To register for this two-hour session, call the Dixon County Extension office at (402) 584-2234 or the Northeast Nebraska RC&D office in Plainview at (402) 583-4866. Class size is limited and there will be a small fee. Pre-registration is required by May 21.

Day Program, placing flags on veterans' graves on Memorial Day, participated in the Troop's food drive, several color guards and helped in the community clean-ups.

For his Eagle Scout Project, James built a sign for Winside's City Park. He raised the money for it by running games at McLean's Centennial and at Winside's Old Settlers. Love Signs of Norfolk helped with suggestions for the final design and helped with the materials. The project was completed in September of 2000 with the help of several volunteers.

Teaching respect through family volunteering

Parents want their children to are different, feeding prejudices and develop the value of respect, but teaching respect can be hard when society seems to be promoting negative values.

Intolerance, narrow mindedness and disrespect can be reinforced by spending time with cliques, and these attitudes can grow into a lack of respect for self, others and property.

How can over-committed parents find the time, energy and knowhow to teach positive values to children? There's the Golden Rule ---teat others as you'd want to be treated. However, the best method for teaching respect involves modeling respect and interacting with diverse groups of people.

Performing community service is one valuable method for teaching and developing respect. Helping others, especially those different from us, promotes understanding and appreciation for various cultures, beliefs and life circumstances. Here are some age-appropriate tips for teaching respect. Pre-School

Ask preschoolers to count the times they show respect and disrespect and tally them on a chart bearing their name and days of the week. Mark disrespectful acts such as interrupting or yelling with one color, and respectful acts such as being polite with another. At week's end, ask the kids to count the marks and compare how they felt when they were respectful versus how they felt when they were disrespectful.

Elementary School

Develop a list of categories of people and things that deserve respect and how it can be shown. Prepare a chart with columns labeled "who" and "how." Talk about how one can show respect for each. All Ages

Promote respect during family volunteering activities. Call a local volunteer center to identify volunteer opportunities where your children will meet people from all walks of life. Parents may want to visit the site before taking very young children. Before the family goes, discuss how all people merit respect and how some people have had bad luck or poor health that has made their lives hard.

Questions parents can use to start discussion include:

Should we respect the people we are helping as much as someone who is rich or famous?

What does the phrase "There but for good luck or the grace of God, go I" mean? What have I learned from this experience?

Parents can't isolate their kids from negative experiences, but they can foster respect within and outside of the family. Over time, the good behavior parents model can counteract and replace the negative value pull from other sources,

Family volunteering is a win-win situation for all involved. Parents win because it provides time for

FOURTH IN QUEEN CONTEST Annie Bierbower, a senior at Wakefield High school, was one of 15 finalists selected to compete in the Nebraska State Homecoming Queen competition. The selection process was held at Des Moines, lowa on April 21-22. Annie reigned over the Trojan's homecoming activities last fall. Following the various events of the contest, Annie was selected as the third runner up.

Each girl was individually interviewed by three different judges and "rated on appearance," confidence, enthusiasm and knowledge of current events: Questions included information about the candidate, their community and state.

A banquet was held on Saturday evening for the 15 finalists and their parents. The 1999 State Homecoming Queen was the guest speaker. On Sunday, the young ladies had breakfast together and then rehearsed for the evening gown competition. Following a Sunday luncheon for the finalists and their parents, an evening wear competition was held during the afternoon at the Holiday Inn ballroom. The finalists were judged on appearance and poise. Five finalists were then chosen from the 15 and each of the five were asked a question pertaining to current events and were judged on their presentation and speaking abilities. As the third runner up, Annie received a plaque, tiara, a school banner and American Homecoming Queen t-shirt. The Wakefield school will also receive a plaque with Annie's picture to display. Another part of the requirements as a candidate in the competition was for each girl to write a letter to the Nebraska Governor explaining how she would combat violence in

Recognizing our nurses

Ieral

This past week was nurse's week; and I'm staring at two newspaper articles that state 1) 43 percent of nurses burned out, and 2) past layoffs contribute to shortage.

STREET STREET

The first reports a survey that mentions inadequate numbers of nurses, rising patient loads, declining quality of patient care, and even verbal abuse on the job.

The second states that thousands of highly paid nurse specialists lost jobs in the 90s; then, when the numbers of acutely ill elderly soared, hospitals lacked enough experienced staff. The word, experienced, is the key.

The survey goes on to say that one of every three U.S. nurses younger than 30 plans to leave their jobs within the next year. At 30, they are just acquiring that experience, and the necessary maturity.

I'm hearing sad stories from my colleagues in hospitals about mandatory overtime, poor staffing, and even poorer patient care. These stories are being confirmed by friends who have been hospitalized lately.

Solving this problem, and recruiting more nurses, will take creativity. Our state legislature is attempting to help with scholarships and tuition reimbursements. I have a quote from the Lincoln paper by Sen.Price, a huge understatement, "You just don't grow a nurse overnight." And, skill in specialities, like emergency room, and intensive care, requires even more knowledge and experience.

I guess the message is: stay well. If only it were that simple. Prevention should be the focus, but reimbursement is in illness.

Enough gloom. We're rejoicing in needed rain, while wishing for a little less wind. It's the month of May teas, mother-daughter affairs, graduations, and spring weddings.

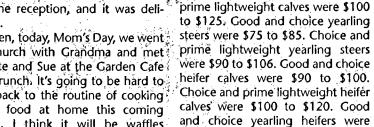

A local church decorated for their tea by asking all the ladies in the congregation to loan their tea pot; resulting in an amazing display.

My Mom's church has had a mother-daughter banquet on the Friday evening before Mother's Day for years. The men serve it, and they always have great entertainment.

This year, it was the Wissman family of Seward. A Mom and Dad, plus 10 talented children, singing Gospel music in bluegrass style. They utilize an electric keyboard, guitars, a dulcimer, harp, flute, trumpet, and harmonica.; and are truly amazing.

On Saturday, I made the trek to Howells for the wedding of Melissa Miller and Ryan Eusterwiemann, It was a wonderful opportunity to see . old friends from Hoskins. The groom is a chef and did all the food for the reception, and it was delicious.

Then, today, Mom's Day, we went to church with Grandma and met Monte and Sue at the Garden Cafe for brunch. It's going to be hard to get back to the routine of cooking plain food at home this coming week. I think it will be waffles tonight, with strawberries and cool whip. Yum!

The fed cattle sale at the Norfolk Livestock Market was held on Tuesday. The market was steady on ·all classes with 60 head sold.

Emergency loans are available for Dixon County family farmers

Farm Service Agency (FSA) Wayne County Office has announced that family farmers in Dixon County who suffered physical losses due to excessive snowfall that occurred on Feb. 24, 2001 may be eligible for FSA Emergency (EM) physical loss loans. Effective April 26, the FSA Acting Administrator in Washington, D.C. designated Clay County, S.D. as eligible for FSA EM physical loans due to excessive snowfall that occurred on Feb. 24, 2001. Cedar and Dixon Counties in Nebraska are eligible because they are contiguous to the designated South Dakota County. The current interest rate for the EM loans is 3,75 percent. Family farmers interested in finding out if they are eligible should contact either Daryl McGhee, CED for Dixon County or Mark Moser, Farm Loan Manager, Wayne County office for information. They can be reached Monday through Friday between 8 a.m and 4 p.m at the Dixon or Wayne County FSA offices at (402) 755-2277 or (402) 375-2453, extension #2. Emergency loan applications are available and must be submitted through the local FSA county office from any applicant who qualified for a physical loss in Dixon or Cedar counties. to qualify for an EM loan, an applicant must be an established family farm operator; provide evidence of having suffered a qualifying physical loss; and be unable to obtain suitable credit from a source other than FSA. The damaged or destroyed physical property must be essential to the successful operation of the farm to qualify for an EM Ioan. FSA loans covering actual physical losses may be used to repair equipment, repair or replace buildings (including home) or replace livestock, lost through this disaster. The deadline for submitting applications is Dec. 26, 2001. Applicants for all FSA program will be given equal consideration without regard to race, color, sex, creed, marital status or national origin.
