weekend. At about 6:30 p.m. on Friday, July 13, a two vehicle accident occurred one mile north and two miles west of Wayne. An eastbound pickup driven by Kurtis Daum of rural Wayne collided in that intersection with a southbound pickup driven by Sheryl Grone, also of rural Wayne. No serious injuries were reported.

At about 3:30 a.m. on Sunday, July 17, a one-vehicle accident occurred at the intersection south of Hoskins at Nebraska Highway spur 90 A. A car driven by Jason Larson of Norfolk went off the dead-end into the grove of trees at that location. The Hoskins Fire Department Rescue Squad transported Dustin Nachtman of Norfolk to Faith Regional Health Services for cuts and bruises.

This year's show will be held Friday, Aug. 3 at 8 p.m., following the annual barbecue.

The show includes two divisions, 13 years of age and under and 14 years of age and older. In each division there are four categories, dance, vocal, instrumental and miscellaneous.

for this year's event.

The first talent show was held in conjunction with the fair in 1991 and has been held periodically since.

"Our audiences have grown tremendously since the beginning. At first we were in the Little Theatre, but we have grown from inside the Theatre, to adding bleachers around the Theatre to holding the show in front of the Grandstand," said Carol Brugger, a member of the Talent Show Committee.

Inclement weather has also forced the show to be held in the Wayco Building on at least one occasion.

A $5 entry fee is required of each entry. However, this does entitle the entry to a one day pass for the fair. Prize money of $75 in each category in each division will be awarded to the first place entry. The second place winner will receive $50. For more information on the Talent Show or to obtain an entry blank, contact Harlin or Carol Brugger at (402) 286-4205 or Cyril or Bev Hansen at (402) 585-4878.

Entries need to be turned in as soon as possible to allow committee members ample time to complete programs prior to the show.

Tax fraud focus of investigation

-The Internal Revenue Service announced the established of a Web section designed to alert taxpayers and tax practitioners to tax scams and fraud schemes.

The Web site highlights priorities for IRS Criminal Investigation (CI). Currently, CI is focusing on abusive foreign and domestic trusts, employment tax evasion and nonfilers that do not comply with he requirement to file tax returns. Case summaries of individuals recently convicted of committing those crimes are included on these pages.

"For those looking for reliable information to counter claims by scam artists and snake-oil salesmen, this is the place to go," said IRS Commissioner Charles O. Rossotti. "Money is the motivating factor in fraud schemes and tax evasion cases," said Mark E. Matthews, Chief, Criminal Investigation. "Our Special Agents are experts at tracing the money and following financial transactions and the results of their work can be seen on these pages."

"The tax practitioner community and the bar associations have asked the IRS for useful information that would help them advise their clients on schemes that seem to be 'too good to be true.' We hope that this Web page will assist them, as well as taxpayers who are concerned about questionable tax arrangements," Rossotti said.

The Web section can be found at www.treas.gov/irs/ci or by going to www.irs.gov and clicking on a new sidebar link titled, "Tax Scams and Tax Fraud Alerts; IRS Criminal Investigation."

The IRS reminds taxpayers to take special precautions not to fall victim to tax scams. These schemes can take several shapes, ranging from promises of "secret" tax refunds to committing illegal acts to evade tax. If people think something may be unscrupulous, they can report sus-829-0433.

Carpenter in Scottsbluff. The thought was that the residence once used by "Terrible Terry" and wife Hazeldeane could become something of a "summer mansion" for the governor. It could also throw off some revenue as a meeting hall; or, so the theory went. The Carpenter family is willing to sell the place because of inheritance taxes. The idea, with some modifications, could be a very good one. How about turning the former Carpenter home, a two-story brick structure, into something of a Unicameral museum? This would be in addition to its service as the "summer mansion," and would not interfere with the building's use for other purposes.

Carpenter was among the most influential and important members in the history of the Legislature. He was an iconoclastic, mercurial political figure.

A sometimes Republican, sometimes Democrat; Carpenter served in Congress, ran for the U.S. Senate (among other things) and served as a brilliant observer and commentator on the state's business and its people. helped to pull the state toward the 20th Century - and in the Legislature of those days, it was often one heck of a pull

In short, Carpenter deserves a place, in Nebraska history and western Nebraska deserves all the help it can get. So, if a Terry Carpenter Curtis and Virginia Smith and During the 1960s and 70s he Legislative Museum and Part-Time Summer Mansion can be had, it should be.

Ideas given for Carpenter home

It could also serve as a repository for the history of a great many public servants who hailed from the western part of the state. George Norris and Frank Morrison and Carl George Gerdes come to mind.

In fact, if Democrat Morrison and Republican Smith were to team up in support of the project, my guess is that the old Carpenter place could be purchased and renovated and up and running before the next general election!

As I watched this year's parade, I realized more fully than ever the thanks due all the parade entrants who came great distances to participate. When I saw so many Shriners' groups, many of which came from great distances, this was a real tribute to their generous support of Shriners Hospitals as well, their communities. When the announcement was made of the change of location for this year's event, it resolved to not pass judgement until I had seen this year's production. The first thing L noticed was that after I parked to find a good shady spot to view the parade, I could not enjoy the wonderful omelet feed that has always been a very special treat. Also, I dis-" covered that solar heated port-apotties are neither wheelchair accessible, nor is there a place to wash hands before enjoying chicken barbecue. The the two does a set myself with an ice cream bar for the grand finale of the day, instead of enjoying each and every contestant who enters into the spirit of the day. I really hope that the Chicken Show will return to Bressler Park next year, as I think the traffic problems for the residents in that area are miniscule compared to traffic problems that Wayne experiences on any parade day or any business day, because Wayne has no alter-

Thankful for help with airplane rides

To the Editor:

On behalf of EAA Chapter 291, I would like to thank all the kids and parents who participated in the Young Eagles program held at the Wayne Airport on July 14 .I'd also like to thank the Wayne Herald for the news article and other advertising, along with the Airport Managers and the Airport Board for allowing us to offer the plane rides. Also, many thanks to Carl Rump and Dave Zach for donating their time and the use of their aircraft. To Dave for suggesting we offer the rides and for his time spent in promoting the project. Due to the large number of participants, not everyone was able to ride and for that we apologize. Five airplanes were not enough to accomodate the large turnout. Next year we will be better prepared and have more planes available, Those who still want a ride should remember the August 26th Fly-In to be held at Martin Field at South Sioux City. We will be offering Young Eagle rides that day also.

It is too bad that when road construction has been done, that a good bypass around town, a mile east, near the industrial businesses of Great Dane, Heritage Homes, John Deere, International, etc. was not built so they didn't have to cope with so much city traffic. Touched by gift for 80th birthday

To the Editor,

How do you say thank you to all the thoughtful, gracious people in our "home town" and the surrounding area? To begin, the Wayne Greenhouse's 80th birthday.

What a thoughtful thing to do to recognize us 80 year olds with the mug and the beautiful red roses delivered to our door.

It was very meaningful to me as Hall family and my family have had a bond for more than 60 years.

Hattie Hall and I were clerks in the Brown McDonald store (which is now the Wayne Herald building) during World War II

There are numerous other things that I have in my memories --- flow-ers from the Wayne Greenhouse have been a facet of all our special occasions, births, birthdays, weddings, anniversaries and funerals,

Thanks to the Hall family through the four generations that have been there - and will continue for many more!

Thank you also from Wendell and me to family and friends who have , been helping us through this rough time. Wendell is still in Lincoln recuperating from a very serious surgery since the 8th of May. I have been home healing from a new hip surgery.

Saying good-bye to all in Wayne

Dear Editor,

Leaving your home is always difficult but after 33 years of living in Wayne and teaching at Wayne State, it is time for Manjit and I to move on to the next phase in our lives. It has been a joy to have met and become so close to so many of you in Wayne, America. We are truly, appreciative of the relationships we have formed with you and the city of Wayne. Our sincere appreciation goes to Wayne School System for providing excellent education to our three sons and the City for providing very safe and healthy environment. You have made it a wonderful place to raise a family and live our lives to the fullest. But as with all good things, our time in Wayne has come to an end. As many of you know, we will be moving to a suburb of St. Louis, Mo. to be near our grandkids and eldest. son, Ravi.

We know we will miss you and the city we call home, but we sincerely hope that if you ever have a chance, please give us a jingle or drop by for a visit. Sincerely,

Manjit and Jogindar Johar, Wayne

Missing music at Chicken Show

Dear Editor,

What a nice weekend for our Wayne Chicken Show. The parade was nice - only one thing I'd like to see more of is more bands or music. The players do not need uniforms or fancy dress. Years ago there was more music in the parade. The committee I know spent lots of money for ads of every kind on radio and T.V. We have lots of music in our high schools and college. Why aren't they encouraged to partake in the fun. Even local is out there.

Maybe they wouldn't blast our ears out — the truckers love to blow their horns. Will we get music?

Good move!

Have you ever seen as many people in Wayne in your life as last weekend? The 21st Annual Chicken Show was once again a big hit to people all over the Midwest. My guess is that it was a lot bigger than previous years. I also noticed a positive change to the venue, moving the activities to Wayne State College. Several people had concerns about this in the beginning but holding the activities up at the college was a great idea.

The vendors had more room, people had plenty of shade and could move around easier and entertainment could be provided in a "more friendly" atmosphere at the Willow Bowl. One vendor told me they were coming back next year because of the move.

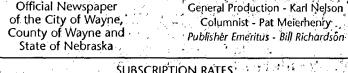

I also liked it because we had a chance to "spotlight" the Wayne State College facilities more. The College is very important to Wayne and anything we can do to put it into a positive light, we need to do. I would also bet the residents around Bressler Park liked it better too. Henoween Friday night was jammed packed with plenty of entertainment and great bargains from our local merchants and outside vendors. I heard estimates of the crowds' size at 4-5,000 people. Plenty of good foods, bargains and a lot of good fun were there if you wanted to participate.

We are lucky we have local people who are willing to donate their time to help put on this wonderful event here in Wayne. A lot of sleepless nights went into this and I hope that we all appreciate the hundred or so volunteers who made the event so successful.

This is just one of the many things we need to do as a town to insure our livelihood and our growth for the future.

The trip started with Horak riding about 1,000 miles in the two months before the trip to get in shape.

He and a friend rode together through Idaho, and the Yellowstone and the Tetons in Wyoming before splitting up in Denver, Colo. Matt has traveled across Nebraska by following Highway 92.

He said his trip has been relatively incident-free. The only problem he has encountered is the need to replace two tires on his bike.

As Matt continues his trip, he intends to visit with relatives in Des Moines, Iowa, Milwaukee, Wisc. and Detroit, Mich.

"I have been very impressed with other people's friendliness and kindness," he said. "People have been so helpful in helping me find the things I need and places to stay."

As he travels east, Horak's daily routine changes.

"When I was in Idaho, there was snow and it was much colder. I generally started later in the day. Here in Nebraska, I have tried to get out with sunrise."

Matt travels between 50 and 70 miles per day, averaging 70 miles a day,

Matt said that the reason he has chosen to spend his summer on a bike is "mainly for the challenge."

"I enjoy the outdoors and riding my bike. This is a good way to spend the summer. It's also the best geography lesson I've ever had."

'The main mission of our organization is to serve the youth of our community," the two said. "Thanks to the fine support of the community during this hole-in-one event, we were able to raise enough funds to make a sizeable donation to a very worthwhile project that will benefit the youth in our city for many years to come."

In addition to receiving "tremendous support" from golfers who participated in the competition, Linster and Foxhoven also thanked Golf Pro Troy Harder for his assistance during the event and the Country Club board for allowing Kiwanis to use the facility.

Matt Horak takes a break before beginning his trip to Schuyler on his bike. He was in Wayne last week as part of his summer trek from Oregon to New York.

Ambassador trip involves Allen youth

Jessica Warner of Allen turned 17 in June. Her birthday celebration included the traditional birthday cake and well wishes.

However, she was a considerable distance away from her home and family. She was on a 21 day People to People Student Ambassador Program South Pacific Adventure to Australia and New Zealand, The trip began June 4 when the group left home and ended june 26 when she returned to her family's dairy farm near Allen.

The Allen High School senior began preparations for the trip last fall when she received information about the program and filled out an application.

After she was notified that she had made it through the selection progress, she and the 34 students and three sponsors involved began orientation in January. Those involved included students from lowa, South Dakota and Nebraska. In addition, one of the participants was from California.

"The People to People Student Ambassador Program was started by Dwight Eisenhower and was originally for adults to promote world peace through interaction among people," Jessica said.

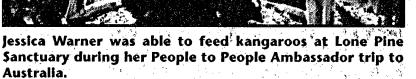

While on the trip, the group spent most of the time in larger cities. They did spend several nights in each country with host families and had the opportunity for a farm stay in Australia which included demonstrations on sheep breeds and cattle milking.

Among the activities the students They know about us but asked us a were able to enjoy were a trip to the lot of questions," Jessica said.

In Brisbane, Australia, the group visited the Queensland Parliament House.

'We learned about the Parliament in both countries. It was interesting to note that the citizens are required to vote," Jessica said.

In Sydney, Australia a tour was given of the Sydney Opera House and the group learned about the Aboriginal culture during a stop at the Australian Museum. The students were allowed to be a part of several native dances at the museum.

"The people in both countries have lots of American news on T.V.

such as rugby and cricket.

In New Zealand, Jessica went to school for a half day, learned about native New Zealanders and spent lots of time talking and interacting with young people there.

"We were able to do so many things on this trip - 'hunt kangaroos, visit the opera house, dance with the native dancers and go on a cruise," she said.

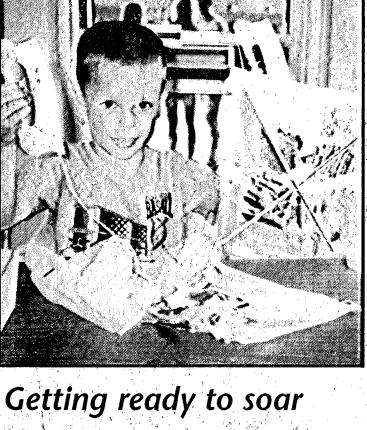

Jessica said the climate of the two countries is quite different.

"It was winter in both countries, but New Zealand is farther south and colder than Australia," she said.

Jessica is the daughter of Jack and Rhonda Warner of Allen. Her grandparents include Victor and Janet Kniesche of Wayne and Norma Warner of Allen.

Tax information is released

The Internal Revenue Service and the Treasury Department will begin sending out advance payments later this summer under a new tax law passed by Congress and signed by President Bush. The first checks will go out the week of July 23 and most of the mailings will be completed by the end of September.

Single taxpayers who paid Federal income taxes for 2000 could receive up to $300. Heads of households could get up to $500 and married couples could receive up to $600% Anyone who could have been claimed as a dependent on another person's 2000 tax return is not eligible for a check.

The amount of your payment is based on the taxable income shown on your 2000 return. The amount is 5 percent of your taxable income up to a maximum of $300 for a single taxpayer, $500 for head of household and $600 for a married couple filing jointly. If your tax liability after nonrefundable credits is less than these maximum amounts, your limit is the smaller of this amount or 5 percent of your taxable income. If you did not have a tax liability for 2000 but do have one for 2001, you may be able to claim the tax credit on your 2001 return.

Taxpayers should learn soon how much they will receive. The IRS will send taxpayers a letter describing the check amount and the week it will be sent. The agency will also send a letter of explanation for taxpayers not eligible for the advance payment. The IRS reminds taxpayers of several key points on the payments: *Taxpayers don't need to do anything to receive the checks. *Taxpayers should keep a copy of the letter sent in advance of the check for their records. *Individuals who have not yet filed a tax return for 2000 will not get any advance payment check until the IRS processes that return. *Taxpayers who have moved should file a change of address form with the U.S. Postal Service to ensure the checks go to the correct address. Taxpayers may also notify the IRS directly by filing form 8822, "Change of Address."

Wayne's eighth grade tandem of Renee Theobald, Emlyn Mann, Carly Wacker and Jessica Dickey captured the championship of their division at Oakland's 3-on-3 basketball tournament. The team was coached by Paul Theobald and Jessica Volk. It took five games to accomplish the feat.

Fishing 101 given

So you want to learn how to fish, but you really don't know where to start. Don't feel alone, you'd be surprised how many people would like to fish, but don't know where to start.

In the next two articles, I'll try to give you an idea on what you need to get started fishing.

The main thing that you need to remember when you are getting into fishing is to keep it simple. You don't need a $200 rod and reel to catch fish.

Start with something that is not complicated. Get yourself a closed face spinning reel. Any of the major fishing reel manufacturers have the closed face spinning reels.

Look for one that has a star drag on the handle. The drag is what allows the line to be pulled from the reel when the fish hits the lure. You can set the drag so that it will give line when there is pressure applied. To check your drag, grab onto the line in front of the reel and pull on the line, you should be able to pull line from the reel without applying much pressure.

With the drag set this way, your reel should be set right for all types of fishing.

It's a good idea to back the drag off when you put your rod and reel away for the winter. This prevents the drag from freezing up while it's not in use.

Your rod should match your reel and your line. Most rods have the recommended lure and line size on the rod near the butt, A good rod to start with is a medium weight rod which will work well with 1/4 to 5/8'1 ounce lures and 10 to 20 pound test line. Medium rods work well on the harder hitting fish such as Bass, Pike and Catfish.

Medium Light rods also work well if you are fishing with smaller lures. The medium Light rod is made to work with 1/8 to 3/8 ounce lures and 4 to 10 pound test line. A medium light rod works well on walleye, bluegill, and crappie.

Most reels come with line that is matched to the reel. If your reel doesn't have line, look for a good quality line that will fit on your reel. Most fishing line companies make excellent line. I'd recommend that you' stay' away from the low end lines and go with brand that has been around awhile such as Berkley or Stren.

Use the lightest line that you feel comfortable with. If the line test is 8 pounds, this doesn't mean that the line will only handle an 8 pound fish. Most lines are rated at the average breaking strength, if you have a good rod and your drag is set properly, you can land almost any fish as long as you don't get in a hurry and try to horse the fish in.

If you are planning on fishing a pond or small lakes that holds predominately bluegill, bass and crappies, you can use 6 or 8 pound line. If you aren't comfortable with these lines, go to a 10 pound test.

Remember that the heavier line won't cast as far as the lighter line. It also won't sink as fast because of its larger diameter.

If you plan on using light lures for crappies or other panfish, then you best use a lighter line or you won't be able to cast the lure more than a couple of feet.

There are many manufacturers that sell matched sets or balanced tackle packages. In these packages, the rod, line and reel are matched to each other and all you need to do is take them out of the package, tie on a hook and weight and go fish-

If you do decide to buy a matched set, make sure you check out the package carefully, as there are matched sets for heavy fishing such as catfish and light sets for the panfish.

Match your rod and reel to whatever type of fish you'll be fishing for. The main thing you need to remember is to not make fishing too complicated, Keep it simple and you'll be on your way to enjoying one of the outdoors greatest pleasures., "Fishing." Next week we'll talk about what you need and don't need when it comes to fishing tackle.

Bed and breakfast businesses are popular in Nebraska

I'm back at the Aldrich House today; writing on the kitchen table instead of Bess' desk. The shades are all drawn to try to keep out the heat, so I'm sitting where I have the most light. This once a month, three hours hiatus has become a mini retreat for me, and I look forward to it. I usually have a couple of tourists, which takes an hour at the most, and the rest of the time is spent reading and relaxing.

This is our ninth year in the bed and breakfast business. I can hardly believe it. They say the average burn-out rate is 10 years, and I'm beginning to understand that. I think it depends on how tied down you are with it; we've always managed a few days away here and there.

We stayed in one in South Carolina last month that has been for sale for two years. It is formal, and lovely, with a pool in the back yard. There are five rooms, each with a private bath. The price? $450,000.

We also get a catalog listing some properties all over the U.S. and that price is low, compared to some. It's amazing.

In the decade we've been in business, the number of businesses in Nebraska that offer a bed and breakfast have tripled. There's everything from cottages to hotels to inns to log cabins to "painted lady" Victorians. More people are staying in them all the time.

I got a kick out of the latest such facility in our county. It's a barn! That's because it's for cows. Duane and Jill Glosshof live south of us on highway 50 about 20 miles south of the Interstate. Every Advent, their yards and barns are decorated; along with those of his father, Russ, across the road.

Duane milks Jersey cows; big, lovely, brown cows, as Russ did before him. But low milk prices are affecting him, too. He needed extra income. It seems that small dairy farmers are going out of business, and selling their cows to big dairies; sometimes across the country from them. The cows are trucked to their new owners.

You know what happens if cows aren't milked routinely. They go dry-So the semis pull in at Duane's to unload; Jill milks them, and Duane feeds and waters. After a few hours rest, they are on their way again. The article in the paper reported they may be starting at 3 a.m.

I shuddered. That's the middle of the night. When I stopped at the Murdock post office yesterday, Duane's sister, Sue, was working. I commented to her that it all sounded like a lot of work.

Sue's response: "But, just think, she doesn't have to clean house before her guests arrive." Point well taken.

Hagel sends letter urging relief action

In a letter to the Chairman of the closing quickly. U.S. Senate Agriculture Committee

"I urge the Senate Agriculture Committee to take immediate action to ensure these funds get to America's producers as soon as possible. Last year, the Senate passed additional farm aid on May 25 and the bill was signed into law in June. As a result, farmers received their emergency payments in September, allowing them to repay loans, make mortgage payments and pay suppli-

"The Senate should pass this package now, in order to get it to the President for his signature before the August recess. As you know so well, in this time of low commodity prices and high energy costs, farmers in Nebraska, Iowa and the rest of the country depend on this supplemental assistance," Hagel concluded.

Hagel (R-NE) urged the Committee to take immediate action on a relief package for farmers. Hagel stressed the importance of passing the supplemental funding soon so the President can sign the package and get relief to farmers as quickly as "On June 26, the House of Representatives approved a suppleers. mental relief package for farmers squeezed by low commodity prices and high production costs for 2001

Preventative planning is key

Provided by Home Instead Senior Care

"Panicked" is the best way to describe the adult daughter of a 79year-old woman when she discovered her mother had been diagnosed with dementia and could no longer live alone. She and her mother had never discussed how to handle such a crisis. And, from her home several hundred miles away-where she was running a family business and raising a young family--there was little the daughter could do in an emergency.

This situation is just one of the many dilemmas that adult children of aging parents may face -- a problem that is best handled by preventative planning before a crisis occurs.

"Dealing with the needs of aging parents and relatives has become a top concern for adult children in Wayne and surrounding communities, and one of the most difficult situations that many families face," according to Deanna (Dee) Nielsen, Office Manager for Home Instead Senior Care.

The problems appear to be the same everywhere. Throughout the U.S., some seven million "long-distance" family caregivers must find absentee care for their loved ones. Almost all, regardless of their situations, grapple with the worry of what to do to help the people who raised and cared for them. According to a Conference Board Report, which represents a consortium of human resource professionals, eldercare is expected to replace childcare as the top concern among U.S. employees by the year 2005.

'Because we work with the elderly and their families every day and see firsthand the stress that eldercare needs can place on a family, we know the importance of preventative planning," said Nielsen. I personally struggle with these issues, as my 91-year-old father and 82-yearold mother live 12 hours away from me, making my involvement extremely difficult."

According to Brian Duke, president of the board of directors of the advocacy organization -- children of aging parents--children generally face three major needs: *the need to find information and services to help them; *the need for access to care in an coordinated fashion, and; *the need for short-and long-term respite care.

"Preventative planning is one of the best things I recommend for the adult children of aging parents," said Duke, director of geriatric program initiatives for the Institute on Aging at the University of Pennsylvania: "It's vital that parents and children sit down to discuss financial, legal, housing, health and end-of-life issues," Duke said. "These are very important conversations that must take place."

Home Instead Senior Care can be a part of the planning process that helps meet the needs of local families, Nielsen said. "We are a great information resource for families, we can provide access to support in a coordinated fashion and we can arrange for short-and long-term respite care. We also try to become part of the solution. By providing the elderly with companionship services such as meal preparation, light housework, incidental transportation and shopping, we help them and also reduce worry and stress for their children."

Home Instead CAREGivers, who are bonded and insured, are available from a few hours per week to 24 hours a day, seven days a week, including holidays.

For more information about how to arrange for services for aging parents, or support groups that can help families, contact your local area agency on aging, your local Home Instead Senior Care office at 379-8225 (or 800-732-2577) or Children of Aging Parents. Choosing a mental health provider

All of us feel "mentally unhealthy" at times. We have bad days. We lose our tempers. We may need to be alone.

In February 2000, the U.S. Surgeon General said that one out of every five Americans experiences a mental disorder.

Mental illness can be "as disabling and serious as cancer and heart disease in terms of premature death and lost productivity," the surgeon general's report stated. Just as we choose a good physician for an injury that impedes our enjoyment of life, choosing a good mental health professional is a logical step when our lives are disrupted by mental illness.

Usually, the passage of time helps us work out our problems. However, when we are unable to work or personal and/ or family relationships are suffering, it may be time to get professional help.

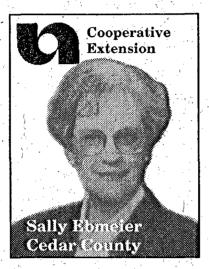

What are our options? As with any other health concern, good consumer skills are important when seeking appropriate mental health services.

Help is sometimes hard to find. For some rural Nebraskans, mental health care is several hours away. Over half of Nebraska's counties have four or fewer mental health care professionals: 30,1 percent have none, according to a 1997 Nebraska health Information Project study. At the same time, suicide, substance abuse, divorce and behavior problems in children and youth are all on the rise in rural communities, based on Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services statistics from 1998.

Being a responsible consumer is even more important with mental health providers. Fortunately, there are several different avenues to take in obtaining mental health care. Four professions recognized as providers of mental health care services are psychiatrists, psychologists, marriage and family therapists and licensed clinical social workers. Although the four fields have different approaches to treating mental illnesses, they may overlap in the kinds of mental illnesses they treat. Any of these therapists are qualified to help a client with most types of mental difficulties, such as depression, anxiety and anger management. Only psychiatrists are able to prescribe medications.

Other options may include licensed professional counselors (LPCs), mental health practioners, pastoral counselors or school guidance counselors. These counselors usually have less training and are not monitored by professional organizations.

Many of these counselors will provide mental health services that are

Wayne Chapter #194 Order of Eastern Star met July 9. Shirley Straight, Worthy Matron, opened the meeting.

by the Wayne Chapter at the Chicken Days event was a success The chapter is invited to South Sioux City on Aug. 3 for a reception honoring Grand Organist of Nebraska, Betty Garwood. That evening, the Grand Officers of Nebraska will be honored at a dinjust as effective as those provided by the more recognized professions. Nebraska law requires that all professionals providing counseling services in Nebraska be licensed.

This is your protection. Be an alert consumer and proceed with caution.

As with any purchased service, good consumer skills are essential to obtain quality mental health care. Some tips for finding the best mental health care professionals are:

• If multiple therapists are available, look for one that 'fits' you. Ask about counseling style. They should be able to describe their methods without getting into professional jargon.

• Look at credentials. Find out what the credentials mean regarding training, licensing and specialization.

 Ask abut per-session charges up front. If you hear, "Don't worry about price. We'll talk when you come in," this should be a RED FLAG for you.

 If mental health care providers are not readily available, seeing your family practitioner is a good first

• If you are referred to a mental health professional, don't drive farther for a therapist who has a doctorate (Ph.D) credential if other good licensed therapists are more accessible.

 Kňow your insurance plan. What mental health coverage exists? Is the co-pay different from physical care? Are you limited in number of sessions? Is there a 'preferred' list of therapists, or a preferred type of therapist?

• Do your homework. If you think you or a loved one may have a mental illness, use the Internet or library for definitions and direction. You may find others with your symptoms who have found help. Recognize the privacy limitations of the Internet.

 If you decide to try a book, check the author's training and credentials. Is her she a licensed thera-, pist? Where was he/she trained. Does he/she have real experience? Try to find out if his/her ideas are backed by solid research.

Building Renovation/Construction Update: Board members were provided with an updated timeline of events occurring on the Middle School project. Proposed completion date for the project is set for December 1, 2001. That would allow the teachers to move over Christmas vacation. It was also discussed to possibly not have school for one or two days to allow teachers to pack and get settled in. as it would not be fair to them to have to spend their break to get their rooms ready. Scoreboards and some basketball hoops are in the process of being taken down at the high school and moved over to the middle school. since Dr. Pepper purchased new ones for the high school. All of the concrete has been poured inside of the building. The top floor has been painted and grid work for the ceilings has been completed, as they are waiting to install the carpet and tile on the floors. Contractors are waiting to paint on the second and first floors. Electrical contractors hope to have everything ready in order for them to paint by next week. At the contractors monthly meeting, subcontractors have been warned to stay on task, as if one falls behind then it puts everyone else behind.

Community Activity Center: Grading plot plan was shown to Board members and illustrated where the building and practice fields would be located. The field on top of the hill will be a crowned field. They are beginning to pack dirt for the building site. An enormous amount of dirt has been moved. Changes are occurring weekly.

Board Committees: Facility -- No report

Foundation - Jean Blomenkamp has talked to Ken Dahl about the track facility and he is supportive of what the school is trying to accomplish.

Legislative - Sue Gilmore received 2001 Overview of the 97th Legislature First Session. Each board member should be receiving a copy in the mail. Also, she is trying to get Senator Pat Engel to tour the Middle School on August 8, 2001 as he will be in town for a meeting. Jean Blomenkamp attended the Greater Nebraska Schools Association (GNSA) meeting in Kearney. It was a very informational meeting. Senator Ron Raikes apologized for not getting anything passed in the Legislature. Mike Dulaney from the NCSA put together a booklet about how to approach Senators and it would be more beneficial for Board members to attend the Legislative sessions than school administrators because Board members and Senators are both elected officials. Copies will be made of the booklet and given to each Board member.

Pre-Scheduled Communications from the Public: Paul Campbell, parent of softball player and board member of Wavne Girls Softball Association, presented to the Board about the high school implementing softball as a varsity sport for the 2001-02 school year; if not this upcoming school year, then for 2002-03 school year. Several parents were in attendance to show their support of implementing softball in the high school.

Benefits of adding softball as a varsity sport included: 1) compliance with Title IX, 2) opportunities for girls not involved in other sports, 3) facilities at the Wayne Softball Complex, owned by the City of Wayne, could be used for practices and games because they are not used in the fall, 4) equipment, facilities uniforms are owned by the City and would not have the cost of start-up, 5) ability to attract prospective teachers, students-teachers, and students, 6) would provide conditioning for girls interested in winter sports, 7) enhance cooperation between school and City Recreation program, to fulfill the Recreation Center project. 8) provide opportunity for girls to earn softball scholarships for their future education, and 9) allow more parents to support WHS athletics.

Cost obligations that would be the responsibility of the school include: fees to the state, insurance, employment of coach(es), and transportation. Wayne would be a member of Class C, District 4 including Albion, Columbus Lakeview, Schuyler, and David City, The season would consist of 16 games in a 7 week period. Other schools who already have soft ball as a varsity sport play doubleheader games or on the weekends. Of 40+ girls playing softball this summer, 7 of them are involved in other sports (4 volleyball, 2 crosscountry and 1 golf). If students chose to play softball, it may have a great impact on the other fall sports. Dr. Reinert stated that if the school decides to implement softball, we need to look at the long-term effects and survey the younger students to see what kind of an interest there is.

Another point of discussion was when the school offered baseball as a varsity sport. Dr. Zeiss stated that baseball was dropped in 1983, due mainly to transportation costs. The team would have to travel to Omaha and Lincoln schools to find comparable competition, with full missed days of school. At that

Communications from the Public on Agenda Items: Todd Barry, Athletic Director at Wayne State College, spoke to Board members about the possibility of a cooperative between WSC and the school regarding track facilities. One point made was what happens when Mr. Barry and Dr. Stearns are no longer at WSC and the school district has supported the venture financially but the next person comes and no longer wants to share the facilities. To be partners in a venture of this sort is the way of the future but there is still some uncertainty. He also spoke as the parent of a softball player, and encouraged the Board to

COACH PAUL EATON

Paul Eaton was recognized during the ball games on the Fourth of July for his 35 seasons as a baseball coach in Wakefield. He was presented a plaque by his first team. Members present were Kip Bressler, Terry Baker, Kevin Peters, Lyle Brown, Mark Bressler, Rich Kline, Kim Kline, Rob Eaton and Dale Lueders.

Coach Eaton was also presented an engraved watch from his current Midget and Junior Legion player.

Paul's coaching career began the summer following his first year of college in 1967. That year he was appointed director of the summer baseball program. This meant he coached all levels of youth baseball, including softball and American Legion. He also played town team baseball that summer under manager Hube Eaton, his father.

That season the Midget team won a late season tournament in Emerson. This was the beginning of many honors to be earned by Eaton coached teams. To his credit are 12 state titles and his juniors are in defending State Champs when they hosted the Class C Tournament in August.

In a season filled with highlights and winning teams, perhaps the 1995 season is at the top of the list. That was the year the Wakefield juniors qualified to play in the National Mid-South Regional Tournament at Gonzales, La.

Will Davis Sav-Mor Pharmacy Enjoy Coffee and Not Raise Cholesterol?

There are conflicting reports regarding whether or not coffee drinking raises cholesterol levels. According to a report in American Journal Epidemiology, researchers may have found the key to the conflict. Their finding may be good news to those who enjoy coffee - lots of coffee.

Researchers at Johns Hopkins University analyzed 14 studies on coffee and cholesterol and found that drinking 6 or more cups of coffee per day significantly raised total cholesterol, LDL or "bad" cholesterol, and triglycerides. Coffee drinking did not increase levels of HDL or "good" cholesterol.

The researchers indicate that coffee oils primarily are responsible for the increase in cholesterol and triglycerides. Filtering coffee removes much of the oil and greatly reduces the chances of increasing cholesterol levels. Don't drink boiled or unfiltered coffee if you want to help keep your cholesterol in check.
