WSC continues grant effort

Wayne State College has announced the continuation of a cooperative effort between Winnebago Public School and Wayne State College School of Education and Counseling through a $32,181 grant from the Dwight D. Eisenhower Professional Development Program and the Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education of Nebraska.

"The grant is focusing on developing a math assessment for Native Americans and how to teach children with real-life experiences that relate to their culture," said Dr. Daryl Wilcox, director of the project and professor of education at WSC. Last year, WSC and Winnebago received a grant to fund a program to improve mathematics instruction and enhance college students' pre-career experience. The Native American Education grant for 2000 was valued at $45,561 and was awarded by the Nebraska Commission on Higher Education.

"Every K-6 grade made significant advancements last year within our project with Winnebago," Wilcox said.

The Winnebago school system received a permit to develop customized achievement tests. Wilcox said this year Wayne State will be helping the school to improve their achievement tests by determining problems and other instruction that Winnebago students may relate to their culture.

Dr. Tamara Worner of Wayne State is also part of the project. She will be working with seventh and eighth grade math teachers. Dr. Robert Sweetland will continue to advise the Winnebago Public School teachers on mathematics methodology. Loren Park, a retired principal from Winnebago, will assist with the grant. Some of the Winnebago teachers taught under Park. At least 10 Wayne State College students from an introductory professional education course will work with Winnebago students and teachers. Eight WSC students from a methods class will teach in the elementary school.

An in-service for teachers at Winnebago on Thursday and Friday, Aug. 23 and 24, featured Dr. John Maag, a behavioral specialist from the University of Nebraska — Lincoln. Winnebago Public Schools contributed $6,000 to host Maag's presentation.

Charges will be filed in vandalism

Early on Aug. 11 the Wayne Police Department was called to investigate a red Oldsmobile driving through Bressler Park, running into picnic tables.

Police officers located the car and driver, David Beshorner, was arrested for Criminal Mischief, Driving While Intoxicated and Refusal to Submit to a Chemical Test.

After Beshorner's arrest, the Wayne Police Department was advised of a vandalism at the Wayne Country Club. A vehicle had driven onto the #13 fairway and had driven across the #13 green, causing thousands of dollars of damage.

Paint and soil samples from both Bressler Park and the Wayne Country Club were matched to David Beshorner's vehicle and witnesses placed him behind the wheel when these incidents of vandalism happened.

The filing of formal charges against Beshorner is pending in Wayne County Court.

Early morning accident

A one-car accident occurred on Aug. 26 at about 4 a.m., 1 mile south and 4 3/4 miles east of Winside. The driver, Paul Rathburn Sr. of Coleridge, swerved to avoid a deer. The car entered the south ditch. It appears the catalytic converter caught the grass on fire causing the car to burn. There were no reported injuries. The accident is under investigation by the Wayne County Sheriff's Office and the Nebraska Fire Marshal's Office.

Keidels return from mission trip

Returning this July from a medical mission trip to Guatemala, Dick and Becky Keidel reflect on the area and people visited. They found Guatemala to be beautiful and the people appreciative of their services. The Keidels were part of the clinical team with Small Miracles International and Dick was the pharmacist.

Small Miracles International is an organization originating in Oklahoma City, Okla. The Keidels were asked to attend by one of Dick's pharmacist friends who could not attend this trip. Dick has attended three Church-sponsored organization medical missions before to Mexico. This was Becky's first medical mission.

Small Miracles International promotes adoption of Guatemalan, Korean, Haitian, and children from war-torn areas. The medical missions are off-shoots of the adoption efforts as so much medical need is seen. Small Miracles sends medical mission teams to help children with their medical problems.

The group sends medical mission teams to Guatemala twice a year, in January and July. This is the 10th year of sending medical missions and the 20th team sent. The Keidels are two of 26 persons on the team and are the only ones from Nebraska. Others in the group were five doctors, four translators, three laypersons, two local health promoters and the driver of the 13-passenger van they take to the assigned village for the day, either 45 minutes to three hours away.

Flying into Guatemala City, the team travels three hours by motorcoach to Panajachel, a small city at the edge of Lake Atitlan. Becky notes the beauty of the Lake with three volcanos rising from its shores and reflecting in the azure water. Rain, late each day, she said, kept them from seeing the incredible sunsets they had heard about.

Several natives pose for a picture. The women and girls wear costumes native to the villages they are from.

Staying in the Bishop's retreat, the team members each have their own rooms with modest furnishings. The 26 split up each morning of their five-day stay into two groups; a surgical team and a medical team. The surgical team travels 20 minutes to the hospital at Solola. Packed along for their trip are many suitcases of supplies; six are labeled Pain, Antibiotics, Skin, Cough/ Cold/ Congestion, Eye/ Ear/Wheeze. Others contain vitamins, vials, bottles, tongue depressors, counting tray, towels, etc. Also doctor supplies and personal equipment.

Parents and children spend the night prior to surgery in the Bishop's retreat so doctors can verify surgeries are needed. If necessary, patients are brought back to the Bishop's retreat after the surgeries so doctors can see them one more time before they go home.

The clinical team is expected and there is plenty of help in setting up when reaching the village. Many mothers are there with more than one child. Each child is weighed, a process where the children usually cry as they are not used to it even though it's harmless.

This team is comprised of two surgeons, operating and recovery room nurses, translators and local health promoters. The team keeps two surgery rooms busy and the operations are mostly cleft palates, hernias, burn damage and ganglia. On their longest day, 29 surgeries are performed. Many of these surgeries were scheduled on the last visit in January along with a few new cases identified on this trip.

Four doctors exam patients and the fifth is the teaching doctor. Each doctor takes a turn each day as being the teaching doctor. The teaching doctor

Skate Park receives check

Verdel Lutt, representing Wayne East Texaco Truck Stop, presented George Holm of Wayne America Skate Park Association with a check for $1500. The funds came from the sale of pickle cards at Wayne East. Lutt said this is the third year the business has donated these funds to local youth organizations.

Lutt had observed the skateboard group cleaning up areas in the east part of Wayne and decided to donate to the group for safe, durable ramps.

Holm had told the youth that if they were serious about wanting a skate park they had to show the community by helping with clean up. The group swept sidewalks, streets, and alleys among other clean-up efforts. There were over 35 local youth involved in clean up efforts.

Holm noted with the amount Wayne East donated, materials could be purchased for more ramps which the local youth and other volunteers make themselves. Heritage Homes has also made one of the ramps. Last year, the local Lutheran Brotherhood (#5532) donated materials to resurface the ramps. Jim Milliken has been helping the group work on making a ramp out of a recycled fuel barrel, which Holm said will be a nice addition to the skate park. Milo Meyer Construction donated the barrel for the project.

Holm said that if other businesses would be interested in donating money for more ramps, it would be possible for the group to match funds. Each business could have a name plate on the ramp they donated to.

For those interested in giving to Wayne America Skate Park Association, donations can be dropped off to K & G Cleaners, 214 N. Main Street, Wayne, Neb. 68787. Donations are tax deductible. Wayne America Skate Park Association is non-profit. Anyone with questions can call George Holm at 402-375-1327.

Changes in law will take effect on September 1

Motorists need to be aware of several legislative bills passed into law this year which take effect Sept. 1.

Reduced Alcohol limit — LB 166 reduces the legal limit of blood alcohol levels by 20 percent from .10 to .08. The reduction in the legal limit affects motorists and boat operators. This legislation had its origin in Congress and put states under notice that if they didn't adopt the .08 standard they would lose a substantial portion of their federal highway funds. To date, 29 states and the District of Columbia have complied with the mandate.

Accident reporting — LB 254 closes a loophole that worked to the advantage of accident-involved drivers who might have been under the influence. The passage of this law requires that motorists must immediately report all accidents that involve personal injury or damages that exceed $500. Prior to Sept. 1, motorists were given up to 12-hours to report a traffic accident, which allowed alcohol-impaired drivers the opportunity to "sober up" before contacting the police. After Sept. 1, those who fail to report an accident immediately could face license suspension of 30 days to a year, up to three months in jail and a $500 fine.

DWI Prior Offenses — LB 773 allows drunken-driving convictions under city ordinances in other states to be counted by Nebraska courts as prior offenses. This toughens sentences for multiple driving under the influence or driving while intoxicated offenses that can range up to heavy fines, jail time and loss of license, depending on the number of convictions.

Driver's license photo — LB 574 might be described as a "cosmetic" change in licensing. The new law dictates that digital photos be used on driver's licenses, which will make it tougher for fraudulent use of this photo I.D. Proponents claim that it will make it more difficult to alter licenses while providing retailers extending ability to verify age, photos and other information online.

Reporters face dilemma

Main Street Focus

By Leo Ahmann

I'm sure many youngsters and young adults are asking, "where did the summer go?"

Well, they can rest assured that the older adults are asking the same question. If you like sports, there will be many high school and college fall sports teams that will be having great seasons . . . it'll be fun to watch. Be sure to read the Wayne Herald and listen to KTCH for great coverage.

Have you strolled by "The Park" between Edward Jones and Doescher's Appliance lately? It's truly starting to take shape. Next up will be installation of a couple of park benches. We hope people will take advantage of that area when we get some seating in there.

Wayne State College Band Day is Sept. 15 . . . and our Promotions Committee piggybacks that and has the annual "Wake Up with Wayne" promotion. We have an early breakfast, art and craft vendors, a farmers' market and more. The College, Chamber and Main Street work together on the parade, so it looks like a great day in Wayne, America.

Our Organization Committee is working on a couple of fun (fund) projects to raise a bit of the green stuff. As plans develop, we'll keep you posted.

The Design Committee has been and continues to be busy. They are waiting to assist a couple of businesses that are planning signage changes and spruce-ups. Look for those as well.

Our Economic Restructuring Committee is getting ready to get into high gear. A couple of things they have planned have been waiting for the return of our college students. They're here and the work will begin soon.

The Main Street Program has chosen their Volunteer of the Year and Merchant of the Year, but we will tease you and wait for a more formal announcement to be made as to their identity. We are also submitting nominations for a business for their facade improvement, an entity for their partnership with Main Street, our best promotional event and one more categorical nomination is planned. I guess I should have waited with this information, but I'm very excited about the people and organizations in the community we are including in our nominations.

A question for everyone reading this column . . . What should be done with the old fire station (when it's vacated on the completion of the new one). Level it? Save it? And, if you said, "save it" . . . for what use? Yours truly's opinion??? . . . not this week! I would love to have your opinion. You can mail it to me at Box 43 or e-mail me at mainstreetwayne@midlands.net in Wayne, America.

I sincerely hope you have a safe, long Labor Day weekend. Until next time . . .

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

In Nebraska and around the nation this has been an interesting season for messengers of the reportorial type.

Although there are none at hand for me to quote, the fact is that every so often one survey or another shows that "the media" is generally regarded as just a cut above social diseases and serial killers.

Journalism, apparently, is a trade that lots of people love to hate. In most cases, it seems rather like a drunk who looks down his nose at bartenders.

Consider a couple of recent stories that have caught the attention and fired the imagination of the public. Stories like the disappearance of Chadra Levy and her involvement with Rep. Gary Condit, and the recent legal problems experienced by some University of Nebraska football players.

The interesting thing, to some of us who have been in the trade for a long, long time, is the perennial Catch 22 to be found in the public's attitude toward such stories.

As a practical matter, it wasn't until the 1970s that the press began to report on the personal peccadillos of Washington types.

Prior to that time, one was more likely to hear comments akin to: "Yah, well, everyone knows that Congressman So-and-so does thus-and-such, but you don't read about that in the papers! They cover that up."

Now, old So-and-so might turn up on Page 1. And the new rap on the press is akin to: "Yah, well, they'll write about anything to sell papers. It's disgusting. Why are they picking on him? Other people do it (did it). It's not news."

The same applies to Nebraska's football program.

The knock on the media is either that football players are somehow shown special treatment and get away with one thing or another - or that any time a football player gets jammed up he is a candidate for crucifixion by the criminal justice system, the press or both.

It seems there is a constant, dual personality within the public's collective persona.

On the one hand: "Tell me all about it! Tell me everything."

On the other: "Oh, that's disgusting! Why do you have to go into that stuff?"

There is no discernible reason to think that this inconsistency in the public personality is likely to mend itself.

It is, however, something that is interesting to contemplate from time to time.

It's like those local book committees that used to exist in some towns; the ones dedicated to keeping literature out of the public's hands if it, say, referenced too many of the human body's nasty bits.

You can't help but wonder if those committee people were really dedicated to their version of public morals, or if they just liked to get together and read "dirty" books - and didn't even know it.

Upset with snowmobilers

Dear Editor,

I really enjoyed your column on "Why It's Great to be a Guy." I enjoyed it so much that I read your column this week.

I'm glad to know you are a snowmobile enthusiast. I am not.

My reason for writing to you today is a problem I have with snowmobiles. I hope you, being a snowmobile owner and responsible journalist, will share this with others in the area.

With every good snowfall come the snowmobiles. I don't have a problem with the machine itself, I have a problem with the drivers.

On numerous occasions I have come home to snowmobile tracks through my yard, across my driveway and through my neighbor's yard and so on. It seems they are oblivious to the idea that, without permission, private property is off limits and riding them within city limits is against the law.

I almost hit one of these drivers while turning into my driveway last year.

Please use your column to inform these people of the law and that they are engaging in a very dangerous practice. Not only are there small family pets to watch out for, but more importantly, our neighborhood has seen a great increase in small children this year.

Thanks for your help. I know you'll do a great job.

Wayne

by Troy Smith

Do you know what Orville Redenbacher, Reba McIntire and Johnny Bench have in common? All were members of 4-H. The late popcorn purveyor, the ranch-raised songstress and the former big league catcher have praised their 4-H experiences for contributing to their success. Like many other 4-H alumni, they credit club work for helping them to establish good habits at an early age.

Since their inception, 4-H programs for young livestock producers have promoted the application of good husbandry practices. And soon, through a program supported by beef checkoff dollars, club members will become more aware of their responsibility to the consumers of food animal products. The Nebraska Beef Council recently endorsed a "Quality Assurance" program for youth livestock producers which will be launched next year. Developed and administered by University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension, the project represents an ongoing educational program for 4-H members, club leaders and parents.

According to youth extension specialist and project leader Rosie Nold, the quality assurance project stresses meat product safety while providing greater educational involvement of 4-H youth. While the primary audience will be 4-H members, a secondary audience consists of the volunteers who will be trained to present the program to the youngsters. Nold expects to reach yet another audience deserving of quality assurance education.

"Today, many of our 4-H beef projects belong to members whose families aren't directly involved with the mainstream beef industry. Many aren't full-time beef producers. The quality assurance project is a way to reach a number of part-time producers that might not otherwise become involved in beef quality assurance training," explains Nold.

In fact, beef projects represent the third largest enrollment of any project area in Nebraska 4-H, and the largest animal project enrollment. Nearly 9,000 youth are involved with beef projects - twice the number involved with any other food animal project. Still, the quality assurance training will be multi-species. All youth exhibiting large animals (beef, swine, sheep, dairy and dairy goat) will be required to receive quality assurance training before exhibiting their animals at state or county fairs.

There was much discussion among the 4-H Advisory Council and extension personnel about making quality assurance training a prerequisite to exhibiting project animals," Nold offers. "It was agreed, however, that quality assurance training was too important to let it slip through a crack."

Nold says the training program is not just a lecture, but an ongoing educational process. The full breadth of quality assurance topics will be covered over three years, with club members receiving certificates of achievement for each section of training they complete.

Year-one emphasizes "Daily Care and Management" which includes responsibility to consumers, identification of animals, plus feed and water quality. The second section will cover "Animal Handling" and "Product Quality." The third year deals with "Medications" whose topics include reading labels, withdrawal times, injection placement and procedures, veterinarian-client relationships and prescription vs. over-the-counter drugs.

The step-by-step instruction targets younger 4-H members, ages 8 to 12 years, and while older youth also will be expected to gain expertise in quality assurance, those over 13 years of age will have options other than attending the training program. One example is the completion of a written test covering knowledge of quality assurance principles and current events in the livestock industry.

University of Nebraska extension staff will receive training necessary to present the program within their respective counties. Selected volunteers also will be trained to present the information at 4-H club meetings. To keep up with changes among volunteer personnel, new instructor/leader training will be conducted every three years. Instructional materials provided will include a training guide with background information and hands-on learning experiences for youth, a youth guide and video.

"We've done the final proof on our instructional booklets and the video is almost ready," says Nold. "We expect to begin training extension educators and volunteers during December and January. That means youth training should be underway in February."

Unadilla cattleman and Nebraska Beef Council Director Steve Windhorst sees value in making 4-H youth more knowledgeable regarding quality assurance practices. While they may not produce large numbers of livestock, club calves represent a highly visible facet of the beef industry. Many consumers otherwise unfamiliar with beef production, view 4-H members and project animals at various fairs and shows. According to Windhorst, the ability to proclaim that all exhibitors have completed quality assurance training, and are caring for their animals according to quality assurance guidelines, represents positive publicity for the beef industry.

"Not all of these young people will make careers of livestock production, but many will be involved in some aspect of the industry. Instilling good habits and a sense of responsibility to consumers is important. And through the youth, we also reach the parents," states Windhorst. "Those that choose careers outside of agriculture will be knowledgeable and understand the beef industry's efforts toward quality assurance. As they share that positive story with other consumers, they will continue to be an asset to the beef industry."

Thank you to community

Dear Editor,

If anyone in Wayne or the surrounding areas ever questions how influential our local media sources are, I would like to point out some interesting feedback.

As most everyone has either read or heard by now, the Wayne County Red Cross played a major role in the response to the town of Jackson following their recent tornado disaster. Once the Wayne Herald and KTCH were informed, they began putting their hearts into our efforts just as much as we were putting our hearts into helping the people of Jackson cope with and recover from this horrible disaster.

I have been even more overwhelmed by this town's response to our local media coverage. Following updates on KTCH and the wonderful coverage by the Wayne Herald, we have received numerous donations here at our Wayne office and almost everyone of them had a note attached stating that they had read about our response in the paper or heard about it on the radio and "just wanted to help" or tell us "thanks." So, don't ever underestimate the effects our local paper or radio have or question whether your message will be read or heard - it will be!!!

And thanks to the many people who have sent in or dropped off donations. We took many supplies up to Jackson over the weekend and things are progressing well there. A majority of our funds right now are going toward repairing our ERV (Emergency Response Vehicle) and re-supplying it so that it will be ready when it is needed again.

Our heartfelt thanks to the Wayne Herald and KTCH for all the publicity and to all the people who have helped support the Wayne County American Red Cross. Remember - "We'll be there - when help can't wait."

Lori Carollo,
Chapter Manager,
Wayne County Red Cross

instructs the local health promoters as to what ailments they're seeing and what can be done in the future to intervene.

The pharmacy sees between 75-185 patients each day. Each will need 3-10 prescriptions almost every patient needs vitamins and anti-parasitic medications along with the other prescriptions they need.

Becky helps out by collecting sheets that have been filled out on patient's age, weight, diagnosis and prescriptions on it. Age tells if they need liquid or chewable vitamins. She must keep the sheets in order as handed to her and all sheets of the children in a family together. She is also the runner between pharmacy and doctors.

Dick addresses each sheet in order. Meds need counted, reconstituted and dosages figured on age and weight. A job requiring a lot of thinking, reaching, working and calculating.

When sheets are ready for a family, Dick turns his attention to the pharmacy translator, Angel, 24, a former elementary teacher. She labels the medicines with pictorial labels showing how they are to be taken and when. Each label shows the sun in stages: dawn, noon, sunset, dark. These people live by the sun, not the clock. Each label also has the same directions printed in Spanish but many of these people speak their own Mayan dialects, so the Spanish is useless. Angel speaks to the Spanish speaking mothers and there is a Spanish dialect translator present to speak to the other mothers who cannot understand Spanish. Angel gives directions from Dick to the Spanish/dialect translator.

At noon each day, the meal is provided for the medical team by the village. Four of the five days it's chicken; baked, fried, stewed and in squash soup. The other meal is pork? (Becky notes the question mark is intended). Most everyone on the team takes medicines to ward off any upset or lingering problems. Pop they drink, but juices and rice milk possibly reconstituted with local water are declined.

By mid-afternoon, the team starts back to the bishop's retreat so they can get to bed by 9 p.m. and up by 5:30 a.m.

and work hard. Children attend school year round; 7:30 a.m. - 1 or 2 p.m., five days a week with time off for numerous holidays celebrated in Guatemala. Keidels were surprised to learn that many of the native people still wear everyday the attire distinctive to their respective villages.

Annual 'Ride for Life' held Saturday

Wayne area residents joined in the 13th annual Elworth Harley-Davidson Ride for Life on Saturday, Aug. 25. The event is sponsored by Elworth Harley Davidson of Norfolk and is held to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Around $3,200 was raised this year.

This year, there were 18 motorcycles and 24 riders involved in the Wayne ride to Norfolk where the group met up with others and continued the ride. Around 230 people participated.

Registration for the ride was held from 8:30-11:30 a.m. at the new Elworth Harley-Davidson building at 2311 Riverside Boulevard in Norfolk and continued from this location. The group made four stops to their final destination of Niobrara, stopping at Foster, Creighton, Verdigre, and at the casino north of the Niobrara bridge. Providing food and beverages for the stop in Niobrara were area businesses including Hy Vee and IBP. A number of volunteers help each year with the ride.

Muscular Dystrophy is a disease that weakens and destroys muscles. Many children and adults stricken with this disease cannot be active in biking and other activities due to this debilitating disease. Fundraising money goes to giving these individuals help and hope.

Funds raised from the MDA Ride for Life help MDA provide a complete clinic program at the University of Nebraska Medical Center for anyone who has one of the 43 neuromuscular diseases covered by the Association. MDA also offers a summer camp program at no cost to children ages 6-21 who are registered with MDA. Money raised is directed to research projects.

The Harley Owner's Group is an established, broad-based rider's group that schedules events and activities of interest to most Harley-Davidson riders. A social, fun, family-oriented club, it has raised over $30 million for "Jerry's Kids" nationally.

Native Mayan mothers bring their children to see the doctors. The outfits worn are representative of the village each person is from.

Accident occurs by Hoskins

An accident with no serious injuries occurred 1/2 miles north of Hoskins. At approximately 4 p.m. on Aug. 28, 19-year-old, Amy S. Bretschneider of Norfolk, was traveling north on the county road and met, oncoming traffic at the crest of the hill. Bretschneider lost control of her 1992 Honda Accord and swerved on the road and her vehicle entered the ditch and rolled. Neither Bretschneider or her passenger was wearing a seatbelt.

Council votes to charge for unlocking vehicles

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Motorists who lock their keys in a vehicle in Wayne will now have to pay $20 to have the Wayne Police Department unlock the vehicle.

During Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council, the council voted 6-1 to establish the $20 fee for the service.

Police Chief Lance Webster told the council that his department unlocks between 480-520 vehicles each year, currently at no charge.

A portion of the money collected from the new charge will go toward the replacement of the tools necessary to unlock a vehicle.

Councilman Dennis Linster voted against implementing the fee, stating that he felt it would go against the attempt to maintain Wayne as a 'friendly city.'

In other action, the council voted unanimously to approve the request from the Wayne Community Housing Development Corporation (WCHDC) for the third and fourth quarter funding requests.

Donna Pedersen, Executive Director of the WCHDC was present at the meeting to explain several of the projects she is currently involved in which will allow for additional housing opportunities in the community.

A request from Vicki Pick to install an irrigation well 1,100 feet from City Well #7 near the golf course was approved.

Harold Reynolds, Water/Wastewater Superintendent, share with the council the stipulations proved by Johnson, Erickson, O'Brien, engineers for the city, on the installation of the well. These included installing the well according to municipal standards for added safety and test pumping the well to see the effect it will have on the city's ability to pump water from the city's well. Additionally, Reynolds recommended that no chemigation be allowed through the center pivot.

Three of the agenda items at Tuesday's meeting dealt with improvements to be done on Grainland Road.

Resolutions 2001-23 and 2001-24 allowed for hiring engineers for water and sanitary sewer improvements in the area.

Additionally, approval was given for a contract with Penro for the two blocks of line to be installed with the costs being assessed to property owners.

As part of the annual budget process, the council approved the allocation of property taxes to the Wayne Airport Authority.

The $46,695 request represents 3.5 cents of the city's 45 cent allowable levy per $100 property value.

Discussion was also held on the possibility of changing rental fees for the City Auditorium.

The application of Aaron Anderson for membership into the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department was also approved.

A change order from Craft's Inc. was approved, allowing for the addition of insulation under the floor of the new fire station.

The council's next meeting will be at 7 p.m. (note time change) on Tuesday, Sept. 11 at City Hall.

'Cats start season with three wins in first four games

WSC spikers sweep rated UNO

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

As a preseason favorite to win the Northern Sun volleyball title, Wayne State coach Sharon Vanis knows her team isn't about to sneak up on anyone.

However, after a near flawless start to the 2001 campaign including Tuesday's win over nationally ranked UNO in Omaha in straight games, 30-20, 30-27, 30-13, these 'Cats are taking center stage.

"I'd like to know the last time an unranked team went in to UNO and beat them, if it's ever happened," Vanis said. "We played a great match. The third game our offensive attack was at .636 (equivalent to a batting average in baseball) as we had no errors in 22 attacks with 14 kills."

Vanis said her team showed great composure in the second game after her squad trailed by a 24-20 margin.

WSC trailed in both the first and second game before storming back. The third game was total domination.

Lindsy Koch paced the winners with 14 kills with Rayna Nelsen notching 12 kills and Jessie Erwin, eight.

Kasey Meier tallied 39 kill assists and Heather Schuller netted three ace serves. Koch paced the defense with 19 digs while Janel Moody and Erwin had 10 each.

"There was a large crowd of Wayne State supporters which pleased us greatly," Vanis said.

Last weekend the 'Cats opened season play with a 2-1 record at the Burger King Classic in Brookings, S.D. on the campus of South Dakota State.

WSC defeated Dakota Wesleyan, 30-9, 30-16, 30-12. Rayna Nelsen had 12 kills and

Laurie Schroeder

Lindsey Koch

Jessie Erwin

Jessie Erwin, 11 with Kasey Meyer netting 38 kill assists.

Janel Moody had three ace serves and Erwin had a team-high 15 digs while Lindsey Koch had 10. Nelsen finished with five blocks at the net.

WSC pounded North Dakota, 31-29, 30-27, 30-24 in match two. Erwin had 13 kills, Nelsen, 12 and Koch, 11 while Kasey Meyer notched 44 kill assists. Moody had three service aces and Erwin had 19 digs for team tops. Kyla Batten had 15 digs and Lindsey Koch, 13.

The 'Cats were edged by the host Jackrabbits in match three, 38-26, 25-30, 19-30, 30-28, 12-15.

SDSU came in to the match ranked seventh in the nation and this week the Jackrabbits have jumped to fourth in NCAA-Division II.

Laurie Schroeder notched a career-high 21 kills with Lindsey Koch netting 19 kills and Jessie Erwin, 13. Rayna Nelsen was also in double figures in kills with 11. Kasey Meyer had 62 kill assists and Janel Moody led the team on defense with 21 digs while Erwin had 18 and Koch, 16. Kyla Batten finished with 14 digs.

Schroeder led the 'Cats at the net with five blocks.

"We competed hard against SDSU," Vanis said. "We don't like to be satisfied with losing though."

WSC will compete at the Southwest State Tournament this weekend with a noon game on Friday against Mississippi University for Women and a 5 p.m. rematch with UNO. The 'Cats play Mesa State at 10 a.m. on Saturday and Morningside at 12:30 p.m., Saturday.

LAST SEASON WSC finished with a disappointing 16-17 record but with every starter returning and three other letterwinners, 2001 looks to be a breakout year.

WSC finished with an 11-7 record in NSIC play last season and is the preseason pick to win the title this season.

Lindsy Koch enters her senior campaign after earning first-team all NSIC last season.

She was 12th in the nation last year in digs per game at 4.28. She is just the second Wildcat to ever record over 400 kills and 500 digs in one season. She's also just one of two players to ever notch over 1100 career kills and 1400 career digs.

The other senior is Jessie Erwin who came into her own last season as a consistent player, posting numbers only second to Koch.

Rayna Nelsen and Laurie Schroeder also return to the starting lineup as does setter Kasey Meyer. Janel Moody and Kyla Batten return with starting experience while Lindsy Boehm and Heather Schuller also saw action as starters at times last season as freshman.

Newcomers vying for playing time this season include Tiffany Sheperd, Angela Kraus and Kylie Balhen for depth at outside hitter. Chelse Schultz will push for time at right side hitter while Libby Nelon will play primarily defensive specialist and backup setter.

Sara Ellis, a medical redshirt from last year, looks to recover and be an integral part of the Wildcats at outside hitter.

WSC's first home game will be on Friday, Sept. 21 against Rockhurst at 2 p.m. and at 6 p.m. the same day against South Dakota.

Wayne State football team set to open 2001 campaign with UNK

By Kevin Peterson
For the Herald

The Wayne State football team will open the 2001 campaign tonight (Thursday) against arch-rival Kearney.

The 6 p.m. contest to be played at Wayne State begins the second year for WSC head coach Scott Hoffman who is eager to improve on last year's 2-8 mark.

Eighteen starters and 36 letterwinners return from that team and despite that, NSIC coaches have predicted WSC to finish near the cellar in the ninth position.

"We're not real pleased with where we've been predicted to finish," Hoffman said. "As if we needed any more incentive to have a better season, this is a good tool of motivation."

Hoffman said what his team has to realize is that respect is earned and in football that simply translates into W-I-N-N-I-N-G!

"Potential means nothing," Hoffman said. "Performance is what counts so when people talk of how we have the potential to be good that's basically irrelevant. Everyone has potential."

Eric Kjar will get the nod at quarterback with Justin Burhoop also seeing action from the signal caller's position.

Starting running back Bryce Teager will be out of action this week with an ankle sprain but Hoffman feels very comfortable with backups Johnnie Ostermeyer and Willie Burton.

Brian Gohr will get the nod at fullback with the receiving corp to be headlined by senior Tavaris Johnson.

WSC has a young receiving group with sophomore Ryan Kuester getting one starting wide-out spot with Curtis Boyd backing him—also a sophomore.

Brad Rippeke is the starting tight-end with John Sanders backing him up.

The offensive line will figure to be an area of strength for WSC with the return of four starters including center Heath Keim.

Scott Hoffman

Antonio Jackson

Defensively, WSC returns nine starters. In the secondary, all four positions return starters from part of last season.

Desmond Grace, a second-team all NSIC safety is back along with Ashley Toussaint and Dennie Chambliss. Kyle Lingenfelter also returns to the secondary.

The backbone of the defense will come from the linebacker corp with three returning starters in Mike Baker, Antonio Jackson and Nate Herbst.

Baker is getting the nod as a starter for the fourth straight year at linebacker after leading the team in tackles last season.

Jackson has been tabbed by the NSIC coaches as the preseason defensive player of the year. Joe Scheppers and Jared Jansen will also see comparable time at the linebacker position.

Alex Mohanna and Nick Wemhoff will be the familiar faces on the defensive line with assistance in first-year starters Mat Schaapveld and Chad Kumm. Cornelius Mitchell is getting the nod at defensive end.

Nate Hale returns as the place-kicker after connecting on 19-of-20 point after attempts last season.

"We addressed some needs in our recruiting and we got some speed and size that is needed to play in the NSIC," Hoffman said.

"Clyde Soappman, Joe Litel and Michael Giovanni will add depth at offensive line while John Smit, Joe Ortiz, Chris Myers and Dustin Wade vie for time at defensive line."

Hoffman said Jon Erwin and Jason Wittman will push for considerable time at either defensive end or linebacker positions.

Hoffman said he likes the attitude of this year's team. "One of our team leaders said he feels this is the tightest group of people he's ever been around and that included high school," Hoffman said. "We're looking forward to getting the season started and improving on last year."

WSC plays six home games this season and the 'Cats play in the Metrodome Classic in Minneapolis on Nov. 10 against Minnesota-Morris.

Wildcats to host Briar Cliff on Wednesday

WSC soccer team notches win

Justin Cole's Wayne State soccer team opened season play last weekend with a 2-1 win over Northwest Missouri State in Maryville, Mo.

The 'Cats freshman Tanya Mitchell scored the first goal unassisted off a steal midway through the first half.

Senior Sarah Herrick scored the

Erwin named Player of Week

Wayne State College volleyball senior Jessie Erwin earned the first Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference Player of the Week honor for her efforts last weekend.

Erwin, a 5-9 senior from Laurel, helped the Wildcats go 2-1 at the Burger King Classic in Brookings, S.D. Erwin, averaged 3.36 kills/game, 4.73 digs/game, and had a .304 hitting percentage.

The Wayne State Wildcats take on #13 Nebraska-Omaha on Tuesday in Omaha, Neb. Game time is set for 7 p.m. at Sapp Fieldhouse.

second goal off an assist from Mary McDaniel early in the second half.

The Bearcats' lone goal came late in the second half on a 30-yard shot.

"This was a nice way for us to start our season," Cole said. "Anytime you can go on the road and knock off an opponent on their turf, it's a nice accomplishment."

Cole said his team had a number of players stand out. "Brienne Abshier and Amanda Ferguson were outstanding defensively and Tanya Mitchell was a big boost to our offensive attack," Cole said. "We also had some nice contributions from our bench as well with Brea Rath, Anne Collins, and Andrea Haig coming up big."

The 'Cats will play at Augustana on Saturday before hosting Briar Cliff on Wednesday at 4 p.m.

FOLLOWING AN 18-4-1 record a year ago, expectations are high for the Wildcats in 2001.

WSC finished second last year in the conference standings and seventh in the Central Region.

Head coach Justin Cole is entering his fourth year at the helm and has never suffered a losing season. His career tally of 36-15-1 is a record and last year it landed him NSIC Coach of the Year honors.

Eight starters return from that team along with an additional 10 letterwinners.

The 'Cats will call on the leadership of three seniors including two-time all-conference forward Sarah Herrick, two-time all-conference defender Brienne Abshier and third-year starting defender Jill Eschliman.

Sarah Herrick

These three plus Alana Pfeiffer have been instrumental in the 'Cats transition from a new program to a regional power.

Junior Becky Woelfel and sophomore Sarah Lepak will join Abshier, Herrick and Eschliman to form the captains for 2001.

WSC will be solid on both sides of the ball. Offensively, Herrick and Mary McDaniel look to lead the way as the 'Cats were ranked 10th in the nation in total offense last season.

Sophomore forwards Amanda Keller, Sarah Lund and Anne Paulsen will all see action up front.

In the midfield, the 'Cats return three players who saw big action in Woelfel, Nikki Field and Bria Cunard. Pfeiffer and Anne Collins will also see time in the midfield.

WSC was one of the nation's stingiest defenses last season. They return three starters including Abshier, Eschliman and Lepak.

Brea Rath and Amanda Ferguson are also expected to be big contributors with the defense.

Kalle Wamsat and Erika Mather will share time at goal.

There will be several new faces on the team this season including Melissa Anderson, Michaela Blaylock, Andrea Haig, Tanya Mitchell and Desirae Paul should all compete for time early in their careers.

Cole will be assisted by Sara Zimmer, an all-conference performer for WSC last season and a three-year captain.

She will join Mike Crogan and Morry Abshier. Jason Novotny will also assist as will Asif Emdad.

"We are looking forward to the season," Cole said. "Our team is out to prove that last year wasn't a fluke. We've taken away the element of surprise, so I don't think anyone will be looking past us. That just means we have to play fundamentally sound soccer every time we take the field."

WSC's first home game will be Wednesday against Briar Cliff at 4 p.m.

Amy Harder smashes school record by five strokes

Wayne golfers break records

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

Defending Class C-1 State Golf Champs, Wayne, opened the 2001 season in crushing fashion with a 45-stroke win at the Wakefield Invite last Friday.

In doing so, coach Dave Hix watched his linksters fire a school record 341 and watched junior Amy Harder smash the school record for an individual 18-hole score.

Harder fired a 77 to break the mark of 82 set by herself, her sister Kari and Monica Novak.

Humphrey St. Francis was second at 386 with Pender placing third at 392. Oakland-Craig followed at 413 with Tekamah Herman netting a 418.

Wakefield finished at 430 followed by Hartington Cedar Catholic, Hartington, Pierce and Stanton.

"What a great way to start the season," Hix said. "I only hope there is more of this to come. The girls were relaxed and played to their potential."

Hix said Amy Harder struck the ball very well and hit 15 of 18 greens in regulation.

"Megan Summerville really played well, finishing second overall with a career-best 84," Hix added. "She got a shot of confidence that will go a long way."

Kari Harder placed fourth with an 87 and Lindsay Stoltenberg finished ninth with a 93. Karla Keller notched a 101 but her score was not included in the team total which is play five, score four."

Wayne will host Class A power Norfolk on Thursday at the country club at 4:30 p.m.

Wakefield was led by Jessi Dutcher with a 13th place finish of 98 while Andrea Salmon carded a 107 and Jenna Paulson, 112. Shannon Anderson netted a 113 and Jessica Schroeder, 136.

Hunting is an American heritage

Hunting has been around forever. The first Americans, the Native Indians, survived because of hunting. I'd like to see what the Sioux would have done to an animal rights group such as PETA if they told them they shouldn't hunt. That would have been a hoot.

Without the buffalo, deer and turkey, the early Americans wouldn't have survived.

Most of their food, clothing and tools came from the animals. Their hunting methods were a bit crude, but they needed the critters to survive.

Western writers like to depict buffalo hunts as a rider hanging off his horse with a bow and arrow pursuing a buffalo. Sounds good doesn't it?

Well, domesticated horses didn't exist in America until after the Spanish showed up. Makes it a little tough to chase down a stampeding herd of buffalo without a horse.

How did early man hunt buffalo and other animals? The answer is any way they could. The preferred way to hunt buffalo was to stampede them off a cliff.

Today, hunters are a bit more advanced. We learn about the animal by either reading, watching videos or spending hundreds of hours in the outdoors learning about their habitats, patterns and likes and dislikes.

For every hour that I've spent in the woods or field, I've spent two hours learning why the deer or turkey are in a certain area. I've watched them, listened to them and glassed them with my binoculars trying to learn as much about the animal as I could.

I want to be able to have an idea as to where that animal will be on opening day. If I don't fill my permit, it's no big deal, I was out there and saw all the wonderful things that were created, enjoyed what I saw, became a better person from experience and became closer to God.

Hunting has changed over the years. Heck, when I lived in Watertown, SD, in the sixties, you could go anywhere in South Dakota and get permission to hunt. Today, it is a lot tougher. Land is tougher to get on and non resident fees are ridiculously high. Many farmers and ranchers either lease their land or charge so much per gun to even get on the land.

I can't blame the landowners, but I hate it. It really limits the land that can be hunted and forces some parents and grandparents to make a decision based on dollars when it comes to teaching youngsters about hunting.

If a father would like to take his son pheasant hunting in South Dakota, first he will have to buy a non resident permit. This permit, which is good for two 5-day periods runs about $110. Then he has to find a place to hunt. This can run from $50 a day to as much as $100.

Now you tell me that this isn't going to make a difference! Not everyone can afford these prices.

Game, Fish & Parks officials realize that it is going to effect a certain number of hunters. They feel that the folks with the bucks will more than make up for the decrease from those that either don't have the money to take a kid hunting or refuse to pay for hunting.

There is a definite need for preserves and pay hunting, but I hate to see it all go to that.

Nebraska and South Dakota both have programs such as the Nebraska CRP Management Access Program (MAP) and the South Dakota Walk-In Program that help hunters to find a place to hunt. Pheasants Forever has their habitat program and also help with the MAP lands in Nebraska. Nebraska Natural Resource District (NRD's) also has the Wildlife Habitat Improvement Program (WHIP) program in conjunction with the Game & Parks that also provides hunting access.

These programs are great, but hunters like you and me need to become more involved. Watch for meetings that will effect wildlife habitat and hunting seasons. Join groups such as Ducks Unlimited, Pheasants Forever and local wildlife or sportsmen's groups.

Take a kid hunting, spend a few hours helping with a Hunter's Safety Course or just get vocal on county and state issues that effect the sport.

Hunting is an American heritage and unless the hunters promote it and protect it, we may be a dying breed.

The Importance of What You Teach at Home

As you listen to your child repeat what the teacher has said in school, do you ever wonder what stories your child's teachers hear at home? A teacher once remarked to a parent, "If you agree to believe only half of what your child tells you about my class, I promise to believe only half of what I hear about your family!"

This story illustrates some of our beliefs and fears about parenting as it relates to school. It is true that life at home can strongly impact a child's life at school. The question most parents ask is: What can we teach our children at home that can really make a positive difference at school?

First, in a home where knowledge is respected and appreciated, children learn its value. This could mean appreciating the skills of a carpenter, enjoying the stories a neighbor tells about the old country or valuing good literature and music. When a child watches a parent enjoy reading a book, delight in playing the piano or affirm knowledge in someone else, that child learns to associate learning with respect, enjoyment and discovery.

Second, children need to be taught that turning a dream into a reality requires setting goals. What child has not dreamed of success, whether as an athlete, a musician or a scientist? Parents can encourage children to dream and then team them to set goals, but this requires listening rather than preaching, guiding rather than telling and providing a good dose of appropriate encouragement.

Third, parents must reinforce the belief that success depends on effort. This can be a very difficult lesson. For the child — or adult — who believes that success is dependent on circumstances beyond his or her control, the dream is already lost. If we attribute the success of others to good fortune, connections or appearances, a child may conclude that he or she does not fit the profile of success. However, once a child understands the effort matters, positive results can happen as the child learns to practice perseverance and self-discipline.

Fourth, it's vital that parents teach children the importance of manners. It may sound old-fashioned to tell children to respect everyone, be polite, be on time, help others and keep their commitments, but it works. Having success in friendships, school and the workplace requires getting along and working productively with others. It is much easier to learn those lessons at home rather than later on in life.

The last important lesson is accountability. Children don't like to have parents checking up on them, but let's face it: That is what makes all of us responsible. Parents should hold daily conferences with their children about school, do daily assignment checks and verify completed assignments or chores before allowing extra activities. This follow-up is important if children are to learn that they are going to be held accountable now and all the way through life.

PARENTING TIPS

- Recognize that what you say and do teaches your children that learning is valued and valuable.
- Help your children set goals, guide them in learning the steps along the way and show them how organizational skills and self-discipline can keep them on track.
- Demonstrate that success depends on effort. Don't make excuses for your own shortcomings and failures, but talk about what helps you succeed.
- Model the manners and respect you want your children to practice.
- Find positive ways to help your child become accountable and responsibility will follow.

Sponsors needed for Red Cross

The Wayne County Red Cross is asking business people, as well as individuals, in Wayne County if they would like to "step up" and become a partnering Sponsor of the Wayne Red Cross. The Wayne Red Cross has been distributing packets and talking to some people about their current financial situation.

In looking at the 2001 Wayne Red Cross budget, the "estimated" revenue is a little over $12,000 short of their expenses for the current year. The Wayne Red Cross has been having to draw from funds in savings over the last several years to remain solvent. The time has come now, though, that they need to secure funding if they are to remain an active and viable chapter in Wayne County.

The Wayne Red Cross is asking for an annual $250 donation, which can be made in whatever type payments that would fit a budget—whether it would be in one lump sum, a payment every six months, or if you are an individual and need monthly payments, you too, could be a sponsor for as little as $21 per month. The Wayne Red Cross will present you with an engraved plaque and a place to put a new medallion, each year that you continue to support their chapter and the important work they do.

Remember that the Red Cross receives no government funding and all disaster relief and response funding must be raised by local chapters. Nebraska and South Dakota have joined together as of July, 2001; there are only 28 chapters that remain open in the two states combined.

As Lori Carollo, Wayne Red Cross chapter manager notes, Wayne will NOT become one of those chapter-less counties! But as the budget shows, the time is critical to rebuild funds and secure the future.

The Wayne Red Cross thanks the local United Way for their consistent and continued support of the work they do. If they meet their goal this coming year, the Wayne Red Cross chapter will receive $3,350. (Note that amount in the estimated revenue part of the budget).

If you have not been contacted, and would like to help the Wayne County chapter by becoming a sponsor, contact Cap Peterson at 375-2696 or Dan Rose at 375-4555.

Remember, that 90 cents of every $1 donated goes directly back to aid in disaster relief or to train people to prepare, prevent and respond to emergencies. All money that is donated stays here in Wayne County to help others in time of need.

"WE NEED YOU—Imagine what we could do together," Carollo said.

Free water testing available

Nebraskans with private water wells can have their drinking water tested for nitrates during Husker Harvest Days in Grand Island Sept. 12-14.

To find out what the nitrate level is in the water they drink, well owners can bring a cup-size sample of water in a clean bottle to the Natural Resources Tent at the Husker Harvest grounds between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. and get the results while they wait. There is no charge for the test.

infants under six months of age and pregnant women. High levels of nitrates interfere with the blood's ability to carry oxygen and can cause "blue baby" syndrome.

Livestock, especially cattle, are also susceptible to nitrate poisoning, resulting in lower milk production and loss of cattle.

The testing is sponsored by the Department of Regulation and Licensure in the Nebraska Health and Human Services System. For more information, contact the Environmental Health Services Section at (402) 471-2541.

Herbs for Health

Purple Coneflower

Enhances Immunity

The purple coneflower was the most widely used herb in the US during the nineteenth century. This flower, which is one of the several from the species echinacea, is native to the great plains. It was used by American Indians to treat everything from coughs to snakebites. During the first half of this century, Echinacea was listed in the National Formulary, a book of "remedies" that generally were recognized as being useful. With the advent of antibiotics, the herb fell from widespread use by most physicians.

Echinacea seems to enhance a nonspecific type of immunity. The herb stimulates the body to make chemicals that fight illness caused by bacteria, viruses, and fungi. Numerous studies have shown that the herb does enhance immunity. One such study involved persons who were prone to have upper respiratory infections. Study participants were given either fresh juice from Echinacea purpurea or a placebo two times a day for 8 weeks. Those who received the herb had about 40% less illness. They also had 40 days between episodes of illness as compared to 25 days in the group that received the placebo.

Following storm damage Putting a roof overhead

Homeowners in several Nebraska communities have found hail and wind damage from the recent storms. Prevent costly mistakes. Evaluate the problem and needs, select products for the job, examine reroofing procedures and find reliable, qualified roofing companies and persons to help prevent problems.

A bid process and contract stipulations can ease the process from start to finish. An evaluation, before final payment for the job, helps ensure that the roofing materials and installation are suitable to specifications and allows time to ensure an immediate problem can be resolved.

Finding a Roofing Contractor

Referrals are a good place to start or ask local builders or lumber yard dealers who regularly work with roofing materials and with roofing professionals. Yellow pages offer some insight also. Interviewing two to three different contractors is suggested along with asking for three estimates. Ask for references, job-site locations or names of homeowners from each contractor and follow up with those contacts.

Consider length of time in business in the area, willingness and ability to handle complaints quickly and fairly, completeness of estimate offered and quality and job sites or photos shown, proper insurance coverage, references offered, and the proposal offered.

Knowledge of the roofing materials and procedures, professional associations and continuous updating are other things to consider. Evaluate and hire a contractor after personal interview, reviewing estimates and selecting products through comparison shopping and suitability for roof structure, climate and exposure and expected durability.

The services offered and materials included in the estimate should specify or address the complete roof system needed such as ventilation, waterproofing underlayment, special problem areas of potential or past leakage, decking or replacement boards and quality of product, removal of existing beds or gardens and landscaping around the house, determine how these areas will be protected.

The lowest bid or highest bid may not be the choice for the job. You and your professional roofer must make the choices of need and work processes.

Finally, deposit requirements vary with contractors. Normally a deposit is expected, but paying for the total job up-front is not. A rule of thumb is the total deposit and progress payments should be less than 75 percent of the total job price with the final installment following inspection and, if possible, a short trial period for exposure of the roof to rain and heat or cold weather. Make sure the price covers all materials, gutters, ventilation, clean-up, completion date, etc.

Warranties usually range from 20 to 40 years. However, the length of the warranty is not as meaningful to some as coverage in the first few years following application. This is the time, according to contractors, when problems caused by defects are most likely to occur.

Check with local ordinances to determine if permits are needed prior to starting roofing work. Ask about local building codes that may specify a certain Underwriters Laboratory class of shingle for fire resistance.

Read up on reroofing basics. Your job is to become knowledgeable about types of products, underlayments, water drainage systems and potential roof decking replacement or deck rot areas, as well as insurance packages that protect you from worker injuries and third person liabilities and damages resulting from work being done. Brenda Meier, far right, visits with the children and teachers at Uuwo when she delivered the students kits to them in July.

Meier to speak at Our Savior

Brenda Meier, will be a guest speaker at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne on Sunday, Sept. 2 at 9:15 a.m.

Brenda was part of a study group sponsored by Midland Lutheran College and the Nebraska Synod that visited the Northern Diocese of Tanzania in January.

She returned from her second trip in July. Prior to her second trip, she coordinated a project with her congregation in Omaha to collect school and health supplies for the students at the Uuwo and Naibili parish schools for children with disabilities. The tote bags used to hold the supplies were sewn by Brenda's mother, Maxine Meier, a member of Our Savior in Wayne.

Brenda currently works as the Creative Services Coordinator in the marketing department at Bethphage, an affiliate of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America that serves and advocates for people with disabilities. She will be leaving that position in September to be the Communication Associate for Parish Projects and Partnerships at Lutheran World Relief in Baltimore, Md.

Brenda is a former member of Our Savior Lutheran Church and is presently a member at Rejoice Lutheran Church in Omaha. She is a graduate of Wakefield High School and Midland Lutheran College. She resides in Ashland.

Our Savior Lutheran Church shares a strong relationship with the Kotela and Kimangaro congregations in Tanzania. This was begun in early 1999 when Pastor Samwel Kiwelu spent time in Wayne with the congregation and members of Our Savior. During Day Camp and Vacation Bible School this past summer many school supplies were brought by the children and youth. These were sent to Tanzania with the group in July.

The community is invited to hear Brenda Meier when she shares of her experiences while visiting in Tanzania on Sept. 2.

Our Savior Lutheran Church is located at Fifth and Main Streets in Wayne. For more information concerning this special presentation or any other ministry of Our Savior, contact the church office at (402) 375-2899.

Help For Chronic Heel Pain

The same shock wave treatment that has been used to break up kidney stones without surgery is now helping to relieve chronic heel pain. The FDA has approved the OssaTron device to treat chronic plantar fasciitis, a condition that causes severe pain in the heel of the foot. It is usually treated with physical therapy, pain relievers, cortisone injections, and, in severe cases, surgery. With the OssaTron, 60% of the patients were completely relieved of symptoms after one treatment, and 80% had significant relief.

Poll highlights rural Nebraskans' economic worries

Nearly two-thirds of rural Nebraskans say their income hasn't kept pace with the cost of living and 61 percent faced at least one economic hardship in the past year, according to the Nebraska Rural Poll.

Rural residents are less optimistic about their current and future well-being than they were a year ago, the University of Nebraska poll showed. For example, 32 percent of rural Nebraskans said they were better off than they were five years ago, the lowest percentage in the poll's six years.

"For the first time, we're seeing well-being decline and we're also seeing a relationship between declining well-being and economic hardship," said John Allen, the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources rural sociologist who heads the poll. The NU survey is the largest annual poll of rural Nebraskans' views on quality of life and policy issues.

The poll always has included general questions about current and future individual well-being. This year researchers added specific questions about everyday economic hardships, such as whether people are meeting monthly expenses and whether income had kept pace with living costs.

Some results surprised Allen. "We're finding a fairly high level of individuals facing some economic hardship fairly often," he said.

Overall, 62 percent of respondents said their income hasn't kept up with cost of living increases, 18 percent said it increased at the same rate, 8 percent said income growth outpaced the cost of living and 12 percent weren't sure.

Slightly over half of those responding said they have just enough money to make ends meet at month's end, 35 percent have money left over and 13 percent don't have enough.

The poll indicates many rural Nebraskans have trouble paying everyday household expenses. About 43 percent said they dipped into savings and 22 percent borrowed money to meet everyday expenses. Thirty-four percent couldn't save anything for retirement because they needed the money for household expenses and 20 percent took a second job to cover expenses. The poll also found that 25 percent of respondents could only make minimum monthly credit card payments.

"If they're using their savings, working two jobs to cover expenses now and making only minimum credit payments, what happens if we have a major economic downturn?" Allen asked. "They won't have savings for a buffer and they may not be able to get a second job."

The poll also found 17 percent of respondents couldn't fully pay their utility bills on time, 17 percent decided not to continue their education because of a lack of money, 9 percent couldn't pay their full mortgage or rent on time and 8 percent said a lack of money kept their children from participating in extra-curricular school activities.

Health care is out of reach for some rural Nebraskans. The poll found that 15 percent couldn't afford needed medical care in the past year and 12 percent couldn't afford health insurance for at least part of the year.

While 92 percent of respondents said they always had enough food, 7 percent said there were a few times when they didn't have enough to eat and 1 percent said there were many times. Young people, ages 19 to 29, were mostly like to report not having enough food - 20 percent compared with 3 percent for those 65 and older.

People in north central Nebraska, which includes the Sandhills, reported more financial hardships than those in other regions, the poll showed. Younger

Religion and humor mix well

It's been a "religious" weekend. The big Farmer and I treated my little sis and husband to the play at the Loft in honor of her birthday. The current production there is "Nonsense."

I'd seen "Nonsense II" five years ago, and felt the need to see the original. It is a lot of "nonsense," that showcases some amazing singing, dancing, and acting talent in this area. Of course, the "born in a barn" players always add their own special touches; and in this one, it gets a bit raunchy. But, I guess it was all in fun.

Which brings me to "The Joyful Newsletter" which arrived in the mail today. This is the epistle of the FMC, Fellowship of Merry Christians, which I subscribe to. And, it's also all in fun.

It's a little slick pamphlet full of clean jokes and cartoons, many of which help us to see the humor in religiosity. Its mission statement says, "our modest aim is to recapture the spirit of joy, humor, unity and healing power of the early Christians. We try to be merry more than twice a year."

Today's issue reports that: on the eighth day, God created the first teacher. It goes; on the sixth day, God created men and women. On the seventh day, He rested.

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

On the eighth day, God created the first teacher. God made the teacher more durable than other creatures. The teacher was made to arise at a very early hour and go to bed no earlier than midnight.

The teacher had to be able to survive being locked up in an airtight classroom for six hours with 30 sometimes rambunctious young people. The teacher had to be fit to correct 90 term papers over Easter vacation.

God made the teacher tough, but also gentle. The teacher could stand up to the class bully, but could also wipe away the tears of the girl who was not asked to the class dance.

God made the teacher patient. Patient when a student asks to repeat the directions the teacher has just repeated for someone else. Patient when 20 percent of the class fails the test.

And, God gave the teacher a big heart. Big enough to love the student who screams, "I hate this class! It's boring!"

And God gave the teacher an abundant supply of hope. For God knew that the teacher would always be hoping-hoping that the students would some day learn how to spell, hoping for a free day, hoping that Friday would come....

And when He looked at the teacher, God smiled, for He saw that the teacher was good.

And because God loves teachers, on the ninth day, God created Show Days!

This is for all my teacher friends: you know who you are. Grin.

Poll

people, women, laborers, those who are divorced/separated, and farmers and ranchers reported the most economic hardship.

"When I saw who this was, that was discouraging," Allen said. "My concern is how long can we expect them to stay in rural Nebraska facing those sorts of hardships?"

Along with specific economic indicators, poll results show overall well-being declined. Allen said this year's numbers may indicate a shift that bears watching in the future.

Becky Vogt, the poll's project manager, pointed out the poll was taken in March, a time when many people were struggling to pay high heating bills. This could have influenced some answers.

The 32 percent who felt they were better off than five years ago was down from 40 percent last year. The number feeling worse off grew to 19 percent compared with 16 percent in 2000; 49 percent said they were about the same, up from 44 percent last year.

Looking to the future, 34 percent of respondents said they would be better off 10 years from now, down from 38 percent last year. Those who think they'll be worse off in 10 years increased from 18 percent to 21 percent while those who expect to be about the same remained steady at 45 percent.

Farmers were less optimistic than people in other professions. Only 24 percent of farmers and ranchers said they were better off than five years ago while half of those in professional occupations said they were better off.

Rural Nebraskans continue to be most satisfied with their families, friends, religion/spirituality, marriages and greenery and open space, the poll showed. They continue to be very dissatisfied with financial security during retirement, current income and job opportunities.

"It's the social connection that keeps people attached to rural areas," he said. "My question has

Fever-Fighter May Help After Stroke
According to a recent Journal of the American Heart Association report, 20% to 50% of persons who experience stroke also have a slight rise in body temperature. Although not high enough to result in fever, this rise in body temperature is associated with increased risk of poor outcomes, including death. Researchers in The Netherlands tested the theory that giving the fever-fighter medicine acetaminophen (the active ingredient in Tylenol and many other nonprescription fever medicines) could improve stroke outcomes. Stroke victims were given acetaminophen immediately after the type of stroke in which the blood supply is cut off from the brain. A temperature drop of 0.4 degrees C was noted. Although this decrease in temperature in stroke victims is modest, it has been estimated that risk of death doubles for every 1 degree C increase in body temperature. The researchers described the treatment as "very promising."
