Those attending are asked to be in their seats by 6:45 p.m. so as to be in place when the color guard enters the auditorium.

the rescue people of New York City who risked their lives and to those who lost their lives, to save thousands of others.

Event organizers state, "this will be an evening of reflection, inspiration and patriotism. The attacks on America on Sept. 11 were devastating and will see a change in how America now goes about her business. Although one evening and one rally, will not change the course of what has happened, it will be a way that northeast Nebraska can show it has not lost its spirit and beliefs."

Patriotic musical selections will be presented by the Wayne High School Choir, the 'For Thy Master' quartet of Ken Dahl, Bob Dyer, Eric Smith and Cliff Struble and by Pastor Mark Steinbach of Praise Assembly of God Church.

An address will be given by Mark Ahmann, the Public Relations Director for the American Legion.

The entire proceeds of the evening will be sent to the New York Firefighters 9-11 Disaster Relief Fund.

Red Cross chapter named Nakota Chapter of the Year

The Wayne County Red Cross Chapter has been named Nakota Red Cross Chapter of the Year.

The award is to be presented at the Nebraska-South Dakota two state conference Oct. 6 in Mitchell, S.D.

The Wayne Chapter was cited for its amazing turn-a-round in the Red Cross day-to-day activities with creative fundraising to stay alive and dedication to providing disaster, health and safety and military services.

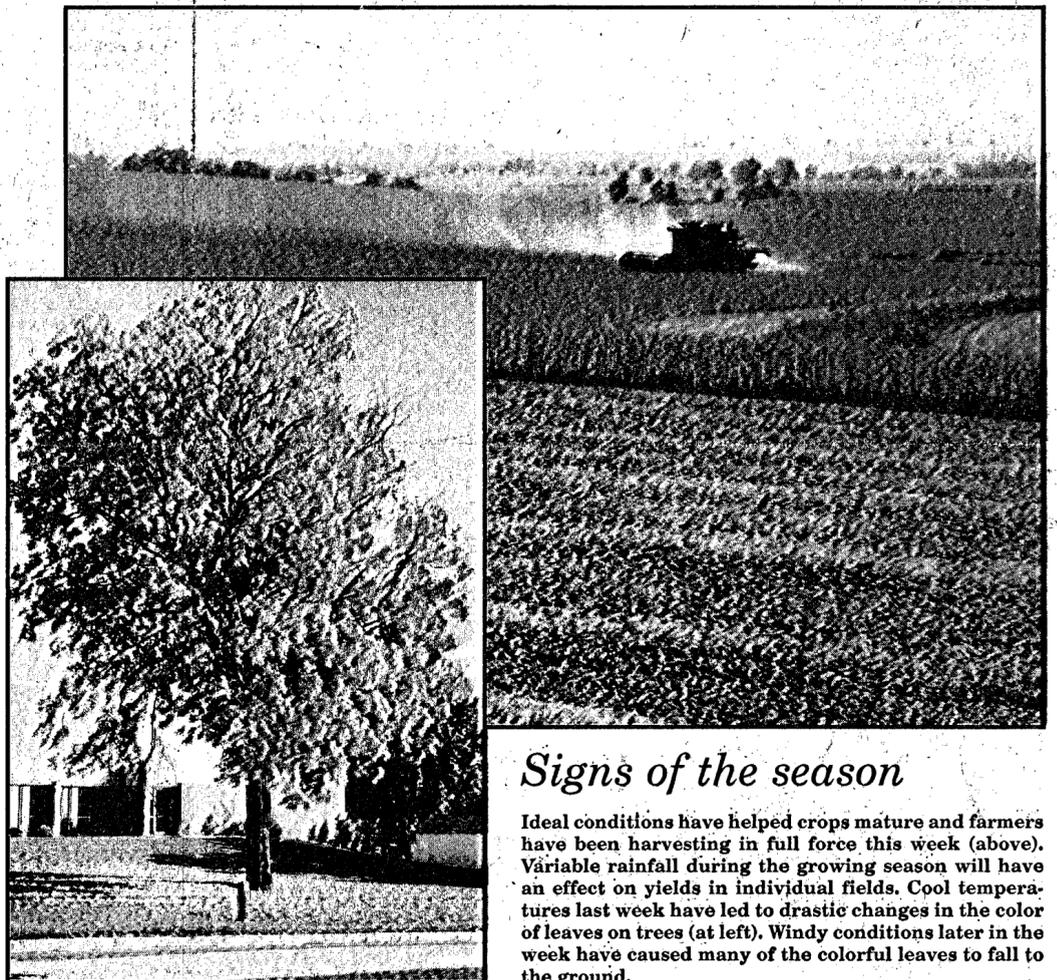

In the two states of Nebraska and South Dakota there are 28 Red Cross Chapters . . . down from 147 just a few years ago. Wayne is one of the smallest remaining chapters and was facing a sea of red ink . . . a true 'do-or-die' decision.

With that challenge, Executive Director Lori Carollo called a two hour strategic planning time in January. With the help of Nakota Executive Director Bill Zortman, the cards were laid on the table.

Zortman was in Wayne on Friday, during the Chamber Coffee, to make the presentation as well as two others earned by the local chapter.

According to Zortman, "The Wayne Chapter decided to 'do' rather than 'die' and the ideas for doing came from not only the determined Wayne Executive

Signs of the season

Ideal conditions have helped crops mature and farmers have been harvesting in full force this week (above). Variable rainfall during the growing season will have an effect on yields in individual fields. Cool temperatures last week have led to drastic changes in the color of leaves on trees (at left). Windy conditions later in the week have caused many of the colorful leaves to fall to the ground.

Church to celebrate 100 years

Trinity Lutheran Church in Winside will reach a milestone in its history when it observes 100 years as an established congregation on Sunday, Oct. 7.

There will be a coffee from 9 to 10:30 a.m. at the church in Winside. Church services will be held at 10:30 a.m. with the Rev. Martin Russell, Nebraska Synod Assistant to the Bishop delivering the sermon for the day.

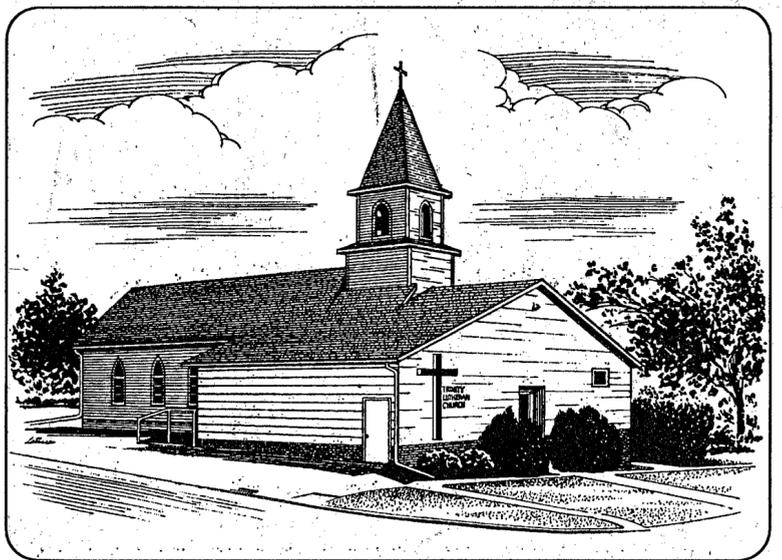

A catered dinner will be held at the city auditorium. The public is welcome to attend the program at the Winside Auditorium at 2 p.m.

Present and past members, former pastors and their families, neighbors and acquaintances of Trinity will all be present as we remember our special past our promising future.

Because of a misunderstanding with the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod over the question of membership in the Fraternal Insurance Organization, "The Sons of Herimann" Trinity Lutheran Church was organized on Nov. 10, 1901 at the home of Edward Krause. The name chosen for the new church was Dreieinigkeits Duetsche Evangelische Lutherische Kirche. It was changed to Evangelical Trinity Lutheran Church in 1930.

Church services were first held in the Old Winside Opera House and the frame school house. On Feb. 23, 1902 church

WSC students plan walk to fund Cystic Fibrosis cure research

Two classes of Wayne State students under the direction of Dr. Deb Whitt and Barb Engebretsen are involved in a service learning project to plan a 6.2-mile (10K) walk-a-thon at 4 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 5 at Wayne State College to help raise funds for finding a cure for cystic fibrosis.

All donations must be collected prior to the walk day and the money will be collected at registration. Two local students, Mary Turner and Scott Reinhardt of Wayne, are involved in the effort as part of an introductory speech communication class.

Turner is the daughter of Mark and In Sun Ortmeier of Wayne. Turner is a pre-pharmacy and chemistry major. A junior, she has been involved in Campus Crusade for Christ and Cross Point at WSC.

Reinhardt is a business management major and a junior. He has been involved in intramural sports and is the son of Bryon and Nancy Reinhardt of Wayne.

Cystic fibrosis is a genetic disease affecting approximately 30,000 children and adults in the United States. It causes the body to produce a thick, sticky mucus which clogs the lungs. This abnormal mucus leads to chronic lung infections, life-threatening lung damage and affects digestion. Last year, estimates stated the disease affects approximately 30,000 people in the United States. A child must inherit two cystic fibrosis genes, one from each parent, to have the disease. More than 10 million Americans are symptomless carriers of the gene.

In light of recent tragedies in New York, the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation has lost its national headquarters which makes this effort even more significant in contributing to the fight to find a cure.

For more information, please call Dr. Deb Whitt or Barb Engebretsen at (402) 375-7352.

Janssen is volunteer leader of the year for Red Cross

LeRoy Janssen, described as the calm in the center of a storm and, by one of the contest judges, as 'the glue in northeast Nebraska,' has been named Nakota Red Cross Council Volunteer of the Year.

The Nakota Red Cross Council supports the work of 28 chapters across Nebraska and South Dakota as well as overseeing the needs of 109 counties without Red Cross Chapters.

The Wayne County Sheriff will be presented the award at the Nakota two-state Conference in Mitchell, S.D. on Oct. 6.

In the letter of nomination LeRoy Janssen was described as "the glue that held the Wayne County Red Cross Chapter together for the past two years."

In addition, the nomination letter reads, in part, "I admire LeRoy's leadership abilities a great deal. Like the Red Cross, he too is the calm in the center of a storm. There have been a couple of times when our chapter has been called upon for disaster services when both our Disaster Chair and the Executive Director were out of town. LeRoy spearheaded the plan and serviced the people and workers with outstanding ability. His experience with law enforcement gives him a keen sense of how things need to go, how things should be said and how situations needed to be handled," said Lori Carollo.

"LeRoy can motivate people through his encouragement and positive attitude. He is ALWAYS willing to help and is 'on call' 24 hours a day, seven days a week. He leads by example — he never expects anyone to complete a job that he was not willing to do himself, or probably at some time along the way has done himself. He is often referred to for his ability to do a job, but he is thinking ahead of what needs to be done next and the best way to get it accomplished. He is not satisfied to just sit back and allow things to happen," Mrs. Carollo said.

The nomination letter went on to indicate that "LeRoy includes everyone and makes each and every person, paid or volunteer, feel like they are important and needed. He takes that extra moment to say "thanks" or "good job."

LeRoy has been the chapter chair for Wayne County for the past two years with the term ending July 1, 2001. He became Wayne's representative to the Nakota State Service Council this past year and was elected to the executive committee secretary position. All these duties are volunteer positions, in addition to his full-time job as County Sheriff.

services were held in the new church that was built by the congregation.

John Dimmel bought the lot for the church from L.S. Needham for $50 and donated it to the church. The church was built for $109. The first congregational meeting was held March 9, 1902.

In 1919 the first organ was purchased and in 1921 electric lights were added. In 1925, the church was moved back 20 feet from the sidewalk and a basement was added along with a new vestibule and a stairway inside to the basement.

In 1979 ground breaking ceremonies for a new addition were held. In this addition the Narthex was enlarged, two Sunday School rooms and a bathroom were added to the north and a large reception room to the south upstairs was added. The basement was made larger with a room to the southwest of the church.

The ministry of Trinity has for 100 years been centered in the youth of the congregation, mission, evangelism and strong worship programs. These ministries will continue to be the major focus of the congregation into the future.

The Ladies Aid (WELCA) meet monthly for their business meeting and Bible Study. The ladies of the aid hold a Christmas potluck, Pentecost breakfast and host a Guest Day annually as a way of having fellowship experiences with other women. The Ladies Aid have furnished many items that have been needed at the church.

Trinity has two youth groups, the Junior High youth which consists of seventh and eighth graders and the Senior High Youth. Both groups sponsor various dinners and bake sales which help them to purchase needed items for the church. Both groups go on a trip each summer and help with mission activities. The sponsors for the groups are Bob and Peggy Krueger. Brad and Joanie Roberts help sponsor the Senior High Youth Group.

"Our mission of quality youth programs, women's groups, men's groups, visitation groups and Sunday worship have been our staples and our connections to our ancestry," said PMA Glenn Kietzmann.

"The people of Trinity and these same groups will continue to ensure our caring presence into the next 100 years and beyond. Our mission, therefore remains unchanged as we begin another 100 years together, but our way of conducting worship and the business of the church will become different from the past. In this day and age, and into the future, professional pastoral leadership is unavailable to all churches that request it. The Nebraska Synod of the ELCA in response to this has established a program by which qualified lay leaders are identified and trained to lead the worship life of our rural churches," PMA Kietzmann added.

Trinity has a membership of 234 baptized members and is located in northeast Nebraska, in Winside, a small town of approximately 300 people.

"As a small church in a rural setting, Trinity Lutheran Church has had a colorful existence that is based in the belief and worship of Jesus Christ Our Lord," PMA Kietzmann stressed.

"The Parish Ministry Associate Program (PMA), as it is called, has provided worship leadership for Trinity, so the word of God can continue to be heard within its walls. As a result of having PMA leadership, Trinity became a model church for how worship can continue in churches that are experiencing voids in their professional leadership teams. PMA leadership came to Trinity in July of 2001. Trinity is now at the door of their next 100 years, a century that will be as colorful and exciting as was the past 100 years. Our future is based in our people, and we would welcome all people who would like to be a part of our church family," PMA Kietzmann said.

Poem is composed and shared

Editor's note: The following poem was composed on Sept. 11, the day of the terrorist activities on the east coast and was written by the sister of Julia Shear of Wayne.

Dear Editor,

The Face of America
The face of America
was changed today;
Changed in many inexplicable ways.
Changed, but not in the way
terrorists sought;
Changed, but not in the way the cowards had thought.

The face of America
was changed today;
We suffered in many
inexplicable ways.
We suffered for the killing of innocents they wrought;
We suffered for the destruction of innocence that they brought.

The face of America
was changed today;
It hardened in many
inexplicable ways.
It hardened its resolve to stand up for what we've been taught
It hardened to protect freedom for which America has fought.

The face of America
was changed today;
Our spirits were raised in
inexplicable ways.
Our spirits united in a way a cowards' could not;

Our Spirits mindful of the courage Americans have got.

The face of America
was changed today;
As we count out loss in
inexplicable ways.
As we count all the death and destruction they brought;
As we count all the terror dispersed by a cruel, fanatical plot.

The face of America
was changed today;
We faced a cowardly enemy in
inexplicable ways.
We faced a cowardly enemy
whose hatred is hot;
We faced a cowardly enemy
who'll surely be caught.

The face of America
was changed today;
We looked to the heavens and inexplicable pray.
We look to the heavens when dark days are fraught;
We look to the heavens, praying for those who cannot.

Yes, the face of America
was changed today;
Changed in many
inexplicable ways.
Changed, but not in the way the
terrorist sought;
Changed... but not in the way
the cowards by thought.

Wants to have prayer back

Dear Editor,

On Sept. 11, 2001 a horrible attack was made on our country. We have all seen and heard of people in our great country doing brave, wonderful and inspiring deeds. We have cheered them and cried with them. We have mourned with those who lost someone they loved. We have also seen flags flying everywhere and a massive surge of patriotism and display of love for our great country; a people united behind our President and leaders.

We have also seen millions of our fellow Americans turning to God. There were services in the National Cathedral and churches everywhere. In Washington, the members of our House and Senate stood shoulder to shoulder and sang "God Bless America." This great nation was founded under God, and President Bush has asked for God's blessings in several of his speeches.

I'm sure there were prayers cried out from the people under tons of rubble and those on the planes. The last words of one flight attendant were, "Oh, my God! Oh, my God." Abraham Lincoln once said, "I've been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I have nowhere else to go."

Some years ago a small group of people demanded and achieved the separation of church and state. The events of the last three weeks shows clearly that this should not, and cannot be done. If

Wayne resident co-authors book

Longtime Wayne resident Kris Giese has recently co-authored a book with Stephen A. Frew, JD, entitled "EMTALA FAQ: The Facts About the Emergency Medical Treatment and Labor Act." Ms. Giese is employed at Providence Medical Center in Wayne as the Director of Risk Management and has been actively involved with EMTALA compliance issues at PMC since 1994. She compiled and rewrote more than 1,200 questions and answers into an authoritative resource for healthcare personnel and hospitals affected by the law.

As an attorney specializing in healthcare law, Stephen Frew is generally recognized as the premiere authority on EMTALA (Emergency Medical Treatment and Labor Act).

EMTALA is a governmental regulation that outlines the standards hospitals must meet when a person comes to the emergency room seeking medical treatment. Penalties for non-compliance involve steep fines and in some cases, loss of Medicare reimbursement.

The book will soon be available in electronic (eBook), PFD and printed formats at www.medlaw.com we separate God and government, we have no government. If we take prayers and faith out of our public buildings, town squares and schools, we won't need terrorists to destroy our children and grandchildren.

We have a 19 year-old grand-daughter in the Air Force stationed in England and our country is sending thousands of our young military personnel to foreign lands. Some of them may give their lives for us. They all live and work in American military installations and buildings. Do they all need to go outside to pray?

Last week thousands of children, here in Nebraska, had to gather outside their schools in order to pray together. It's time we stood up as Christian Americans and demand that this be changed. Put items, symbols and prayers of all faiths back into our public places. If there are those who don't want to see or hear them, they can turn their heads and ignore the words.

Every morning, in every school, the Pledge of Allegiance should be said, followed by five minutes of time so those who choose to, can pray to the God in their faith. If some don't want to pledge loyalty to our country, or say a prayer, let them be the ones to go outside.

We are sending this letter to our President and representatives in Washington. If you wish, you may copy it and do the same. Maybe it won't effect any change but, then again, maybe it will. At least we know that we tried.

Warnings of terroristic activities unheeded

Dear Editor,

It really amazes me how this government of ours is functioning at all. After the attacks in New York and Washington, D.C., it makes a person realize that the lights are really are out at the White House.

In the New Federalist Newspaper, which was founded by Lyndon LaRouche, a presidential candidate for 2004, there were warnings in the Aug. 6, Sept. 3 and Sept. 10 issues stating that reliable sources indicate that a terrorist attack beyond belief would take place in the nation's capitol and surrounding states, paralyzing institutions of government and that this would take place around the IMF/ World Bank meeting as the nation and world confront the worst financial crisis in centuries.

This newspaper gets circulated in many government agencies in D.C. Instead of tightening the security of this nation, it seems like it was shut down for the morning of Sept. 11 as these warn-

Capital News

There is only one Jim Exon

By Ed Howard

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

There is only one Jim Exon, and that's the problem for Nebraska Democrats.

The former U.S. Senator and governor is now an elder statesman of his party - the party that was virtually nonexistent before he came on the scene decades ago. (He is not the elder statesman of his party, because that title belongs to former Gov. Frank Morrison.)

Exon worked hard, at every job he ever had, whether as the head of a fledgling office supply business, or the cigar-chomping chairman of the state Democratic party, or as a two-term governor, or a veteran member of the U.S. Senate.

The big guy with the big, big voice exuded energy and authority, and he could be as tough as nails or as homespun as your great-grandma's bed spread. He seemed like a composite of a Great Plains "Everyman" through most of his political career. Big-boned and broad-shouldered, he looked like he could load hay in the field, work on a packinghouse killing floor, drive a truck or run a tavern that would be favored by hunters on Saturday night and church-goers for Sunday dinner.

The political gods smiled on him more than once. Beginning with Republican Gov. Norbert ("I never met a happy farmer") Tiemann, GOP opponents often seemed to self-destruct while he watched.

Exon's special gift, however, was his ability to categorize Republicans.

"The hierarchy of the Republican party," as Exon called it, was in one category. Every other registered Republican was in the other category. Exon made clear that the hierarchy consisted of a bunch of twits who didn't understand anything, and certainly not the needs and realities of ordinary Nebraskans, Republican or otherwise.

Long before "demonizing" one's opponents became a savage form of political science, Jim Exon (actually, he was J.J. Exon in the old days) was getting the same or better results, but without the vulgarity and personal attacks that were the hallmark of 1980s national politics. Some Republican official would criticize Exon and "Big Jim" would look into a TV camera, cock his head and say something.

Exactly what he said didn't always matter, because what he implied was: Look, this Republican hierarchy is a silk-suit crowd that doesn't know beans, even about beans. All they do is gripe and march in lockstep. Did you ever see one who looked like he'd done what you would consider a hard day's work?

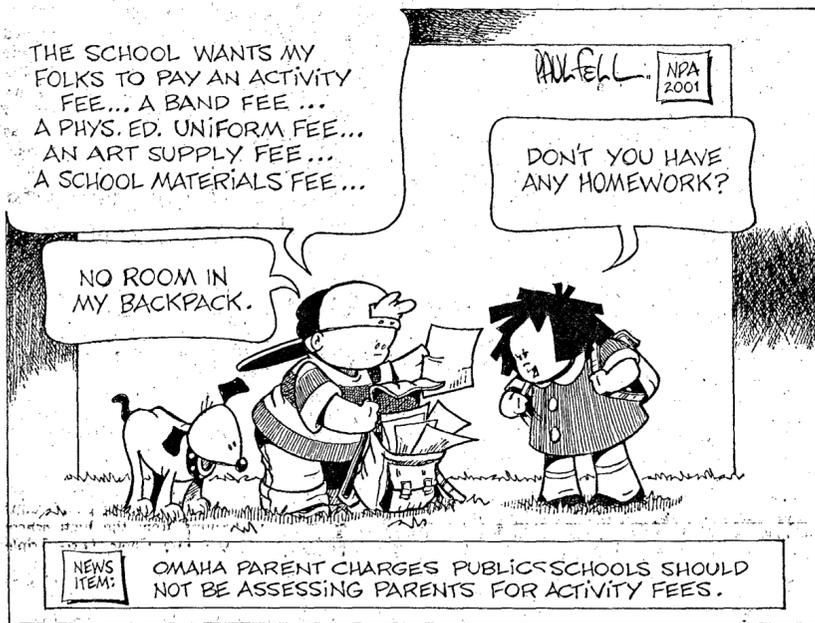

Critics often said that, fiscally,

Exon would "out-Republican the Republicans" and that, in some respects, he was only a marginal Democrat at best. Exon loved it. It gave him a chance to say that, yep, he was above your ordinary, petty politics - the kind that the Republican hierarchy put above all else, etc.

Like other Nebraska Democrats who enjoyed success as governors or U.S. Senators or both, Exon was often a "small d" Democrat. He was certainly more conservative in many policy areas than a lot of those who called themselves moderate Republicans. The late Ed Zorinsky, Bob Kerrey and Ben Nelson all succeeded in statewide races, in part, because they were not perceived as doctrinaire Democrats. (And none of them were, either).

But Exon was the only one of the bunch who, somehow, made Republicans play defense in a state where they enjoy an enormous advantage in voter registration. Exon made it seem okay, at least, to be a Democrat. He gave the party a sense of vitality, even though some "big D" Democrats resented him in a big way.

It is that sense of vitality that seems decidedly absent from Nebraska's Democratic circle today. It is a party, at this writing, that looks like it will be lucky to field candidates for all the major state offices next year - and those candidates, at this writing, seem destined for the duty of sacrificial lambs. What the Democrats need, if they want Nebraska to remain a legitimate two-party state, is another lion.

City Council

The City Council will meet Tuesday, Oct. 9 at 7 p.m. in City Hall at Third and Pearl Streets.

Wayne Recreation Trails

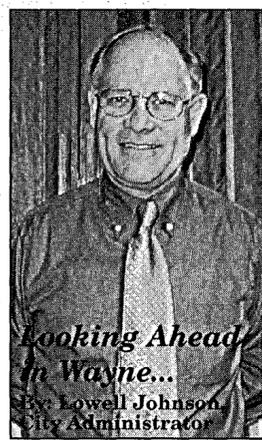

We have submitted a request for 80 percent cost share from the Nebraska Department of Roads Surface Transportation Programs to build 3.5 miles of concrete paved recreation trail in Wayne. The proposed trail segment starts at Victor Park on South Highway 15, goes south under Logan Creek Bridge and east along the creek to the softball complex, back to Hank Overin Field, northeast along the old rail road bed to Highway 35 and north to Sunnyview Park and the walking trail on the Wayne State College campus. We are also eligible for 10 percent additional cost share from the trails program of the Lower Elkhorn NRD.

The Department of Roads will announce trails funding awards in December. The Department of Roads gets their funding for the trails program from federal gas tax allocations back to each state.

Wayne Web site

Since last fall the city council has been working through proposals to set up a City Web Site that could be shared by the Chamber, Wayne Industries, Main Street and several other entities that may be interested. Last week we contracted with Midland Computer from Lincoln to start setting it up this fall. It should be on line by midwinter.

Next Tuesday the council will consider a new 20 year Wholesale Power Agreement and a new 20 year Capacity Lease Agreement with Nebraska Public Power District. Wayne contracts for about 80 percent of our power from NPPD and 20 percent of our power from the federal dams on the Missouri River. The hydro power is relatively low cost and NPPD sells its power to us on contract at cost regardless of the market price. NPPD leases our power plant from us, schedules when we run it and pays for the fuel. We furnish the skilled labor and repairs.

$20 for Police to Unlock cars

We have started charging this week and the dispatchers will be letting people know when they call for assistance.

We also need to stop allowing this mass media from controlling our minds toward hatred and going after someone with revenge before we have any proof of those who are really behind this mass murder.

We need to seek the truth before we send our sons and daughters to another foreign land where many human beings would be slaughtered just for the gains of those lurking in the shadows praising themselves for bringing on such horrendous atrocities waiting to strike again.

Let us use reason and find the real perpetrators instead of allowing them to lead us down the wrong path toward terrorist and destabilization.

Let's call our Congressmen and Senators and let them know we oppose this useless war against Afghanistan. If we want to sow our real patriotism let's do our part to put an end to this.

Instead of being ignorant, let's start thinking for a change.

Director but also the leadership team that learned quickly — 'give everyone a chance to say no.'

The nomination letter went on to say "Wayne's Red Cross found out quickly that the community was full of wonderful citizens that wanted to say 'yes' and keep the Chapter as an integral ingredient. The 'March Madness Campaign' recruited businesses to 'Round Up for the Red Cross' by rounding up purchases and dropping the extra in the canisters. Two brothers - one a salesman at a car dealership and the other who owns a grocery store, provided the true spirit. For each car sold during March, a donation went to the Red Cross. And, at the grocery store, a quarter from each 12 pack of Pepsi product went to the Red Cross. That alone raised $1,000.

"Wear Red" tickets were sold for 50 cents each and stores caught on to the red spirit giving 20 percent off for red clothing, red roses, red candles. The "green" support helped ease the Red Cross red ink.

"Add to that, a novel approach on 'sponsors' with businesses. More than 80 businesses have paid $250 each as a sponsor. The sponsors are given a plaque to display in their store showing their working relationship with the Wayne County Red Cross Chapter. The work of the outgoing chapter chair LeRoy Janssen, along with the new chair, Bill Claybaugh, the Financial Chairman Cap Peterson, Executive Director Lori Carollo and a new board member, Dan Rose brought in more than $21,000."

One of the two Nakota Contest Judges reacted to the Wayne success story by writing, "I was impressed with what they did — so impressed I wanted to give them money. What a magnificent story."

Other Wayne County Red Cross services have improved as well. The working relationship with Wayne State College has been reinstated. Working as a part of eastern Nebraska health and safety group, much more support is going to surrounding counties without chapters. Efforts are being made to develop a youth involvement program at Wayne High. Disaster Chair Loren Parks responds to disasters day or night and has recognized the need for more DAT (Disaster Action Team) responders and is getting them trained. Wayne county has developed a strong group of volunteer disaster responders. Just a few were listed as trained in 1999 — today the number is 30. They also have people trained in many State Service Deliver Areas that can cover the counties where they reside or work.

One of the DSHR workers in mental health was trained in Maryland last year in the CAIR Program. With the Terrorist Attack on New York City and Washington, D.C., Mary Lou George helped children through the crisis on the East Coast. Wayne Denklauf, the Wayne County Veteran's officer, serves as Armed Forces Emergency Services chair for the Wayne Board and boasts a maximum response time of four hours.

The words of the second independent Nakota Judge perhaps puts a wrap on what the Wayne County Chapter has done. "While the Wayne County Chapter may not have responded to as many disasters created by Mother Nature as some, they had just as tremendous an obstacle to overcome — remaining open and viable! The community support and board, and their director are an inspiration to all — no task is too insurmountable!"

Zortman ended his tribute to the Wayne Chapter by stating, "we agree as well and the Nakota State Service Council is proud to name the Wayne County Red Cross Chapter as the Nakota Chapter of the Year for 2001. What a bright light we have found in Wayne's World. Congratulations."

Nakota Executive Director Bill Zortman poses with Lori Carollo following last week's Chamber Coffee.

Region IV regional office staying in Wayne

The Region IV Governing Board, comprised of 20 Northeast Nebraska County Commissioners, met on Sept. 20 to discuss the possible relocation of the Regional Office.

The decision was made to leave the Regional Office in Wayne and build a new Regional Office, as it is currently sharing with the Wayne Area Services.

A decision was made to change the Agency name from Region IV NorthStar to NORTHSTAR SERVICES.

The Region employs 525 staff, serves over 300 individuals and has an annual budget of over 11 million dollars.

Brothers are selected as fund raisers of the year for the Red Cross chapter

Editors' note: The following article was submitted by the Nakota American Red Cross following the nomination of Rick and Don Endicott of Wayne for fund raisers of the year.

Each charitable organization faces the task of recruiting volunteers to make their service to the community work. When two Wayne County brothers stepped forward in March of 2001, little did they know that their efforts would help save a Red Cross Chapter.

Wayne County Chapter Executive Lori Carollo wrote: "Rick Endicott called me at the Wayne office last January and had 'heard' that our chapter was struggling financially. We talked some on the phone and he said, 'we need to get the people in Wayne more aware of this and keep you people alive!'

"He phoned his brother — a week later the two of them met with Executive Director Lori Carollo and began brainstorming ways to raise funds and decided March would be the best opportunity.

"Rick is live on the radio station every morning promoting a 'car of the day'; however, in March he would start each morning off with a bit of information about the Red Cross to help raise awareness of what they do for the people in the community. The dealership, Arnie's Ford Mercury, also offered a promotion for March that saw a donation to the American Red Cross for every car that was sold.

"Don Endicott — the owner of Pac 'N' Save — set up a promotion in his store where 25 cents of every 12 pack of Pepsi products sold during March would go to the Wayne Red Cross. Both brothers set a goal to raise $1,000 each.

"Don also contacted the radio station which prompted them to come up with the idea 'Round-up for the Red Cross.' Donation canisters were distributed to various businesses in Wayne. The radio cut ads asking customers to 'round up' their purchases to the nearest dollar and put the change in the canisters.

"Thanks to Rick and Don, I don't believe there was one person in Wayne who did not know about the Red Cross by the end of March," Carollo said.

But their support did not end there. Both Rick and Don have continued to support and promote the Wayne Red Cross on a daily basis.

"Anytime there is a fire or any disaster of any type, Rick is on the air with it right away informing the public of the work of the Red Cross and asking for donations. Don opens his store any time, day or night, and provides any food or drink that is needed. Most recently, with the tornado in Jackson, their store had three pickups loaded with coolers, ice, bottled water and food to feed 300 people within half an hour."

Carollo added, "there is no doubt in my mind that our chapter is going to succeed and stay active due to the support of these two men. They have taken on the Red Cross fundraising cause as a part of their every day life. They are great community leaders and do many other activities within the community, but they never miss an opportunity to share the Red Cross story and never hesitate to make sure they ask for a donation.

"I would find it very hard to believe there are two more dedicated individuals who have no personal commitment with the Red Cross chapter other than promoting good will, knowledge, awareness and funds. They have promised that they will do whatever it takes to keep the chapter alive in the Wayne community," Zortman said.

The two Nakota Contest Judges, one in South Dakota and the other in Nebraska, judged the nominees independently. They both agreed Rick and Don Endicott were without question the Fund Raising Volunteers of the Year in Nakota. One judge wrote, "These two men rallied to save the Wayne County Chapter. They motivated themselves and the community to raise money for the local chapter."

Bill Zortman, Executive Director of Nakota, said, "at Nakota, we agree, and are proud to present Rick and Don Endicott the 2001 Nakota Fund Raising Volunteer(s) of the Year Award."

Wiser downs wild boar on recent hunt

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Heading to rough terrain a few weeks ago, Galen Wiser of Wayne was able to shoot his first wild boar during a hunt in Childress, Texas.

Accompanying him on the 12-hour trip was his son, Damon, and local friends Tim Heinemann and Cam Christensen. Several friends from Arkansas joined them in Texas. In fact, it was on his friends' ranch ground in Childress where he downed the trophy-sized boar of 410 pounds.

The opportunity to go on the hunt came from his Arkansas friends. Looking for a place to hunt pheasants a few years ago, John Atkins, John Kapp, and Jack Garrison found Wayne on the Chamber of Commerce website, made a trip here, met Wiser and have been hunting with him every pheasant season since. It was on their 3,800 acre Pease River Ranch in Texas where Wiser shot his wild boar.

Because of the rough topography in Childress, several people were needed to drive the boar from its hiding place on the canyon floor. Four people were above the canyon to help keep watch of the boar's location. One of the ranch owners spotted it running and relayed the message to Wiser.

Using a Ruger 22-250, Wiser brought down the boar at around 200 yards with his second shot. The group used a 4-wheeler to bring the boar out of the canyon where it was promptly butchered. Marinating the meat, the group enjoyed grilled pork chops that evening.

Wanting to preserve the memory of the hunt, Wiser brought the boar head back on dry ice and is having Mike Lutt, a taxidermist in Wayne, mount the head.

As for how common wild boar hunts are, many participate in this activity in Texas. Boar meat costs more per pound there as people of Asian descent use it for cooking and consider it sacred so are willing to pay more for it. Never thinking he would be part of a boar hunt, Wiser notes he would enjoy going back and trying his luck again.

"Having lived in south Texas while I was in the service," Wiser said, "I know how thick the brush is; there are many Mesquite trees and it's hot in Texas; it was 102 degrees the day I shot the boar. Bringing down a wild boar has to be team effort. Anyone who's a true hunter would probably enjoy this kind of hunt."

All five players place in top 10 at districts

Wayne golfers tame district foes

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

What a difference a few days makes. Last Thursday, Wayne girls golf coach Dave Hix watched his Blue Devils card a 370 in placing runner-up at the Columbus Scotus Invite at Quail Run Golf Course.

Just four days later on the same course, Wayne dazzled the B-3 District Tournament with a blistering 343—39 strokes ahead of runner-up Scotus.

Grand Island Northwest finished third with a 397 as the top three teams qualified for next week's State Golf Tournament to be held at Indian Head Golf Course in Grand Island, Monday and Tuesday.

O'Neill finished fourth at districts with a 409 followed by Seward at 413 and Blair, 448. Lakeview netted seventh place with a 453 while Schuyler finished last at 457.

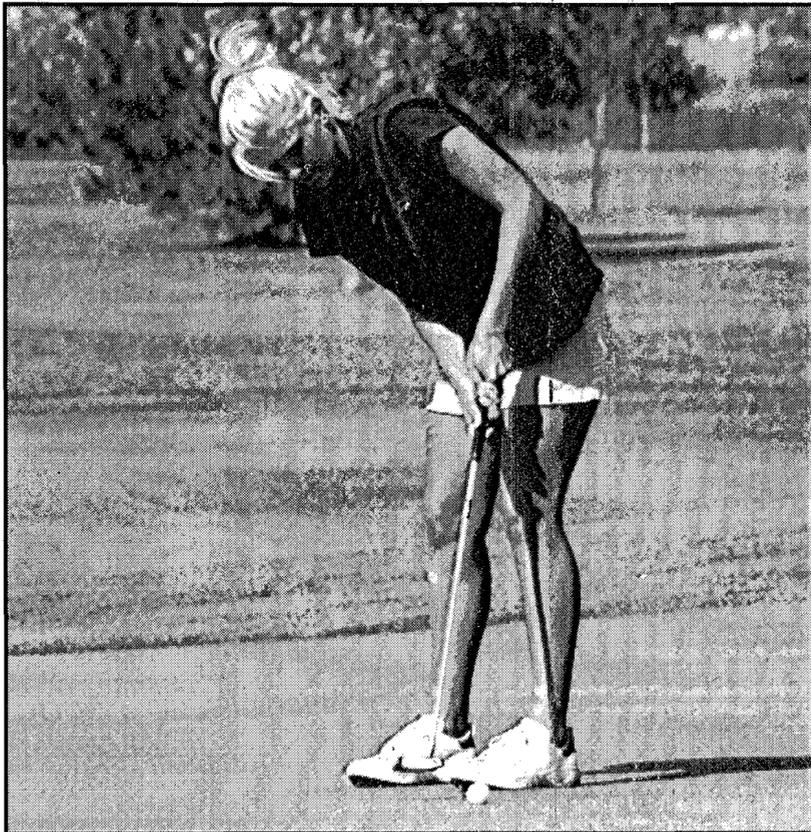

"This had to be our best performance of the year as a team," Hix said. "Quail Run is not an easy course. The girls managed the course well and had a good day on the greens. We still think we can play better and we believe we're just waiting for State."

Junior Amy Harder was medalist with an 81 including an uncharacteristic quadruple bogey on hole 15.

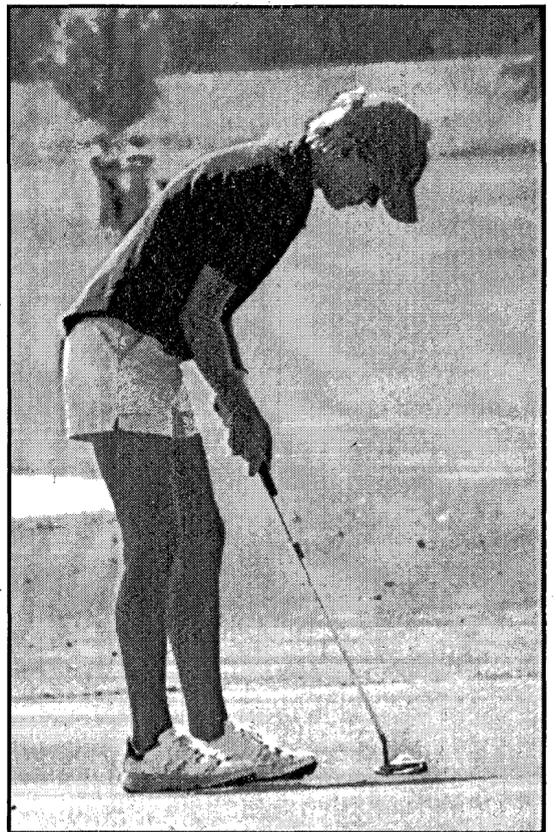

Senior Kari Harder fired an 82 to place runner-up while Megan Summerfield's 89 placed fourth. Karla Keller recorded a 91 for sixth place and Lindsey Stoltenberg carded a 93 which placed 10th.

The top 10 individuals qualify for State as well as the top three teams. Only O'Neill's Molly Johnson and Seward's Jenna Wierner managed to place in the top 10 from other schools in third and seventh, respectively.

"Karla is our post season specialist," Hix added. "She came through with a 41 on the front nine including a pair of birdies. Lindsey did a great job of bouncing back on the back nine with a 45 considering it was her first district appearance."

Wayne junior Amy Harder looks to roll in a putt during the Blue Devils district winning performance, Monday in Columbus. Harder was medalist with an 81.

Kari Harder looks to roll in a birdie putt during her round of 82 at districts. She placed runner-up.

LAST SATURDAY in Oakland the Blue Devils placed first in the Oakland-Craig Invite with a 361 while Omaha Duchesne netted a 393 and Scotus, 395. O'Neill was fourth at 413 and the host team was fifth with a 414 in the 12-team field.

Amy Harder fired an 87 for runner-up honors while Kari Harder's 88 was third. Karla Keller recorded a 93 for 10th place and Lindsey Stoltenberg's 97 was good enough for 13th.

At the Scotus Invite last Thursday, Wayne finished second with its 370 to Pius X of Lincoln (359).

Humphrey St. Francis was third at 378 while Beatrice was fourth at 381. Scotus finished fifth with a 388 and Grand Island Central Catholic, sixth at 409.

Amy Harder finished second with an 82 while Kari Harder netted eighth place with a 90. Karla Keller tallied a 96 and Lindsey Stoltenberg, 102 while Megan Summerfield scored a 105.

WAYNE'S JV TEAM stepped up to their challenge and won the Pender Invite with a 212. Pender was second at 220 and O'Neill was third at 220 while Tekamah-Herman finished fourth at 231 and Pierce, fifth at 236.

Karissa Dorsey led Wayne with a 47 to place runner-up while Mary Boehle's 48 was third overall.

Kelly Mitchell fired a 56 and Amy Hypse, 61 while Keely Reinert recorded a 76.

Wayne State gridgers fall to Winona

The Wayne State football team fell to 2-3 on the season with a 51-15 setback at Winona State last Saturday.

The 'Cats fell behind 10-0 after one quarter of play and 13-0 early in the second stanza before Justin Burhoop connected with Tavaris Johnson on a 95-yard scoring strike—the third longest pass play in Wildcat history.

Still, it was not enough to ignite a complete comeback as the host Warriors took a 26-7 halftime lead.

WSC eventually fell behind 51-7 before Bryce Teager broke loose for 82 yards and a score in the fourth quarter—the fourth longest run in 'Cats history. Josh Hopwood ran for the two point conversion for the final margin of 51-15.

177 of the 'Cats 306 total yards came on the two scoring plays of 95 and 82 yards, meaning WSC managed just 129 yards throughout the rest of the game.

Winona State meanwhile, racked up over 500 yards of offense.

The Warriors amassed 328 rushing yards while throwing for 210 for 538 total.

Turnovers plagued Scott Hoffman's team as WSC suffered six with three interceptions and three fumbles. Winona State had just two turnovers in the game as both came from interceptions.

Teager was the leading ground gainer for WSC with 106 yards on 14 carries while Burhoop was 2-6 through the air for 103 yards and one interception. Tyler Maas was 7-12 for 80 yards and an interception.

Tavaris Johnson continued his streak (four) of consecutive 100-yard plus receiving games with four catches for 125 yards.

Kyle Lingenfelter paced WSC's defense with 13 tackles and an interception while Adam Long had 12 tackles and Antonio Jackson, 11. Mike Baker finished with 10 tackles and Tim Rexius, eight.

Robert Sellers also had an interception.

The 'Cats will host Minnesota Crookston on Saturday for Homecoming in a 12:30 p.m. contest.

Wayne State soccer team wins NSIC tilt

The Wayne State Soccer team returned to action last week for a pair of conference games against Minnesota-Duluth and Bemidji State.

The 'Cats fell short in the first game against Minnesota-Duluth 3-1, while rebounding in the second game in a 4-1 victory over Bemidji State.

The 'Cats made their Northern Sun conference opener a tough one Saturday, with a 3-1 deficit to Minnesota-Duluth in Wayne.

After outshooting the Bulldogs 26-3 in the first half, the Wildcats still found themselves down 1-0.

Wayne State then responded with its only goal of the game in the second half from Sarah Herrick to make the game one goal apiece. The Bulldogs then went on to shut the door on the 'Cats by netting two late goals to pick up the win.

"Our team really played hard and that was the biggest adjustment we wanted to make as we entered the conference half of our season. We've had some injuries and unfortunate breaks, but I wanted to see if we were willing to overcome and persevere with effort and we had that against UMD. Now we just need to find ways to win," said head coach Justin Cole.

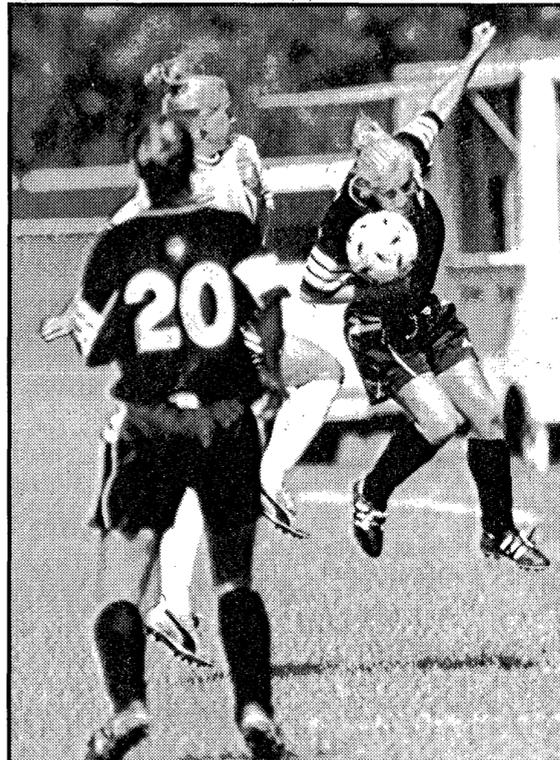

After a tough loss from the day before, the Wildcats quickly rebounded with a 4-1 victory over Bemidji State for their first conference win of the year.

The Wildcats outshot Bemidji State 46-10 in the victory. Sara Lund provided the scoring attack for the 'Cats by netting the first three goals of the game. Mary McDaniel provided an insurance goal late in the second half to secure the victory. Sarah Herrick and Bria Cunard contributed with two assists apiece in the outing.

"This was a nice win for us. We have had a couple of tough weeks and we needed a good win. After Saturday's disappointment I was anxious to see how we'd come out. Again we dominated the first half but couldn't put the game away. We outshot them 30-3 and only led 1-0. I know that's frustrating for the ladies, but we didn't lose our intensity and were able to put a couple away midway through the second half against a very quality keeper," said head coach Justin Cole.

The (8-4, 1-1) Wildcats will continue conference competition this weekend as they travel to Minnesota-Morris and Northern State.

Wayne State's soccer team went 1-1 in the first weekend of Northern Sun Conference play. The 'Cats are 8-4 overall.

Fever-Fighter May Help After Stroke

According to a recent Journal of the American Heart Association report, 20% to 50% of persons who experience stroke also have a slight rise in body temperature. Although not high enough to result in fever, this rise in body temperature is associated with increased risk of poor outcomes, including death. Researchers in The Netherlands tested the theory that giving the fever-fighter medicine acetaminophen (the active ingredient in Tylenol and many other nonprescription fever medicines) could improve stroke outcomes.

Stroke victims were given acetaminophen immediately after the type of stroke in which the blood supply is cut off from the brain. A temperature drop of 0.4 degrees C was noted. Although this decrease in temperature in stroke victims is modest, it has been estimated that risk of death doubles for every 1 degree C increase in body temperature. The researchers described the treatment as "very promising."

Habitat is key to healthy wildlife population

WSC Homecoming Queen Erin Myers and King Yano Jones.

WSC royalty named

Erin Myers, a senior from Curtis, and Yano Jones, a senior from Omaha, were crowned Wayne State College homecoming royalty at coronation ceremonies on Monday. They will reign over WSC homecoming activities on Oct. 5 and 6.

Myers, a chemistry major, is active in Alpha Lambda Delta, Lambda Delta Lambda, and serves as an intramural referee and captain. She is listed in Who's Who Among American College Students. She is the daughter of Bob and Jana Myers of Curtis. Jones, a wellness major with a coaching endorsement, is a resident assistant in Bowen Hall. He is active in the WSC Multicultural Center and American Black Collegiate. He has played football for the Omaha Beef.

Jones is the son of Veda Jones of Omaha.

Homecoming attendants include Andrea Benedict, Omaha; Elizabeth (Lisa) Lackey, Fremont; Amy Wiebelhaus, Neligh; Emily Hoeneman, Craig; Mindy Petersen, Kimballton, Iowa; Matt Nealeigh, Norfolk; Brandon McLaughlin, Hebron; Bryce Schwanke, Wayne; Rob Martinez, Alliance; and Barry Thomas, Omaha.

With the decline of pheasant numbers in some areas, people are wondering where have all the Pheasants gone.

The answer is quite simple; they went the same place that our Soil Bank and much of our CRP acres have. They're gone, disappeared, left the country, out of here!

Without habitat, we have no Pheasants and eventually no wildlife!

Habitat, what is it! Some people think it's a corn or bean field, a fence line with a few weeds or a shortly cropped road ditch while others think it's a small strip of slough.

Wrong! Habitat is an environment that supplies everything wildlife needs for life-food, cover, water and space. Habitat can consist of newly planted native grass, contour strips along creeks and rivers. It can be tree plantings or food plots in CRP. It needs to be big enough so the birds will be able to nest and roost safely.

Narrow vegetated strips, such as a fence line or road ditch aren't good habitat because it gives predators a trail or lane to follow making roosting and nesting bird easy prey for predators.

When these habitat factors are in good supply, they contribute to the well being of wildlife (Pheasants). If any of the habitat factors is in short supply, it limits the number and distribution of wildlife.

Another thing that determines wildlife numbers and distribution is the arrangement of food water and cover.

The best arrangement is when the food, cover and water occur in small blocks close to each other.

Wildlife is described as edge species, because they often live along the edge not in the centers.

When food, water and cover are close together, it creates an edge effect, giving wildlife several edges to relate to. It also allows them to move from their roosting, loafing and nesting areas to food or water without being easy targets of predators such as hawks and coyotes.

Pheasants feed on insects, grasses, weed seed, as well as row crops.

Water comes from the insects and from the dew off the plants that they feed on, so a flowing stream or water hole isn't a necessity.

Cover is anything that gives the Pheasant a place to roost, nest and escape from predators.

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) program created a diversity of habitat or cover in places where no or very little habitat had existed and Pheasant populations skyrocketed in many areas.

As the CRP plantings neared the end of its 10-year contract, the value of the habitat decreased because the plant diversity was gone. Instead of being a diversity of plants and weeds it became a switch grass or bluestem planting. It wasn't as effective habitat as it was when it contained a wide variety of plants and forbs.

Old CRP fields can become excellent habitat again by burning off the old habitat after the nesting season, allowing a variety of plants, forbs and weeds a chance to re-grow.

Man likes to see a neatly groomed back yard that is free of weeds. Wildlife can't survive in neatly trimmed fields; they need the weedy, brushy areas to survive.

Habitat is the key to healthy wildlife populations and once habitat is created or improved, wildlife populations will increase and the Pheasant will return.

Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) has released $1 million in fraternal funds to help those in need in the aftermath of the terrorist attack on the United States.

In announcing the release of funds, Fred Ohlde, AAL Senior Vice President of Fraternal Operations, said, "The prayers and sympathy of all AAL employees and their families go out to the victims of this terrible tragedy. AAL's members, branches and employees will do all they can to help in any way needed."

The released funds will be used to mobilize AAL members and branches to help disaster victims through fund-raising.

"I expect the total amount of support from AAL will grow considerably when branches begin to raise money and organize other events when the needs that result from these despicable terrorist acts begin to sort themselves out in the weeks and months to come," Ohlde said.

In addition to these funds, AAL's response to the tragedy includes:

- mobilizing AAL volunteer disaster coordinators in New York City and Washington, D.C. "They are helping us learn what we might be able to do that adds value to the current rescue and response efforts," said Mary Downs, Branch and Volunteer Performance Support. "It is too soon to say exactly what type of response we may have through our AAL Disaster Response Program, but we are looking for effective ways to help meet the basic human needs of people directly impacted."

- Urging employees and branch members to donate blood and plasma. Volunteers are also being encouraged to help busy local blood centers handle paperwork and serve refreshments to donors.

- Using AAL's web site (www.aal.org) and Lutherans Online site (www.lutheransonline.org) to encourage blood donations.
- Matching funds from employees dress-down day at AAL.
- Encouraging AAL employees and branch members to make donations to the following organizations:

Evangelical Lutheran Church in America Domestic Disaster Response,
"Sept. 11 Attack" P.O. Box 71764, Chicago, Ill. 60694-1764.
The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod World Relief
P.O. Box 66861, St. Louis, Mo. 63166-9810.

Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod Committee on Relief
2929 N. Mayfair Road,
Milwaukee, Wis. 53222

- For people who choose not to contribute to one of the church body funds:

AAL Disaster Response Fund,
c/o AAL Bank and Trust, FSB, 125 N. Superior Street, Appleton, Wis. 54919.

AAL President and CEO John Gilbert, who was delayed in Seattle because of the air travel shutdown, summed up AAL's response to this tragedy, "Because of the kind of organization we are, because of the kind of people we are, AAL has a unique opportunity to serve the people and communities assaulted on Tuesday (Sept. 11). We will do everything we can to help."

AAL's members are organized into more than 10,500 local volunteer groups called branches. They meet regularly to carry out a variety of volunteer efforts, fund-raising projects and educational programs to help themselves, their communities and people in need across the country.

Gary Wright goes over goals for Kiwanis with Jane Erickson, 2001-2002 Governor of the Nebraska-Iowa Kiwanis District.

Gets leadership role

Gary Wright of Wayne has been elected to a regional leadership position with the Nebraska-Iowa District of Kiwanis International.

He has been spending the past few months training for the position of 2001-2002 Lt. Governor of Division 18.

Wright will be working with Jane Erickson of Bellevue, who is serving as the Governor of the Nebraska-Iowa District of Kiwanis.

Recently, Lt. Governors received additional training from Governor Erickson at the group's 82nd annual convention in Sioux City, Iowa.

Wright's job of Lt. Governor requires him to provide training and assistance to five Kiwanis Clubs in the northeast Nebraska division. He also will conduct division council meetings several times during the year and hold a special dinner in honor of the Nebraska-Iowa Governor's official visit set for Thursday, Oct. 18 in Wayne.

During this Kiwanis year, all 24 Lt. Governors in Nebraska-Iowa will provide leadership in ensuring that Governor Erickson's goals are met. Erickson's theme is "Energize the Dream! Because Every Child Deserves to be Happy, Healthy and Safe!" in an effort to encourage members to serve children and share their enthusiasm for Kiwanis.

Wright's term of Lt. Governor officially began Oct. 1 and continues through Sept. 30, 2002.

Performances scheduled

Four performances have been scheduled for this year's Black & Gold Series at Wayne State College. The special program series, which brings world-class entertainment to the northeast Nebraska area, is celebrating its 50th season this year.

Performances this year include "UNFORGETTABLE: The Nat 'King' Cole Story" on Tuesday, Oct. 16; "A Celtic Christmas" on Monday, Nov. 26; John Amos in "Halley's Comet" on Thursday, Feb. 14; and Frederic Chiu, pianist, on Thursday, March 14. All performances begin at 8 p.m.

"UNFORGETTABLE: The Nat 'King' Cole Story" is a new musical based on the incredible life and music of the late singer. The son of an Alabama preacher, this soft-spoken jazz pianist became a world-wide singing sensation. In "UNFORGETTABLE," authors Clarke Peters and Larrington Walker use Cole's music to journey from his piano-playing days in dives and honky-tonks to his breakthrough contract with Capital Records and his glory days in television and on world tours. Hit songs like "Mona Lisa," "Route 66," "Too Young," and "Besame Mucho" are included.

Monroe Kent III, star of London's "Five Guys Named Moe," headlines "UNFORGETTABLE" as Nat 'King' Cole, his beloved valet Sparkey, and a host of other characters. His stellar reviews in London's West End during the first production of this show won him that role in the United Kingdom and Far East tours. This is the first North American tour of this sensational musical.

"UNFORGETTABLE: The Nat 'King' Cole Story" is scheduled for Ley Theatre, Brandenburg Education Building, on the Wayne State campus. Seating capacity in Ley Theatre is limited, and tickets are required for the performance. Tickets ($5.00 for adults, $3.00 for high school and younger students) are available in the Wayne State College business office in the Hahn Administration Building or by calling 402-375-7517.

Serves behind the scenes

Editor's note: The following is an update on the activities of one of the organizations which benefit from United Way Funds. Several additional articles will be published during the month of October which is United Way campaign month.

Rev. Mary Tyler-Browne, chairperson for the Salvation Army's local Service Unit said, "The Salvation Army serves behind the scenes and without fanfare in providing emergency assistance to those who are in need. "Because the Salvation Army does not have an office here, many people are unaware of their involvement in the human service arena." Last year the Salvation Army served a total of 21 needy or destitute families with food, lodging, transportation and assistance with rent and utility payments.

Colonel Milford Hickam, Field Representative for the Army said, "We are most grateful for the funding received each year from United Way. Our allocation from United Way represents about 30 percent of our total budget. Without these funds, we would have to drastically cut back on our services to the Wayne community. We appreciate the support of the United Way and the generosity of Wayne residents who give unselfishly of their time, talent and treasure in assuring a successful campaign each year."

Others who serve on the Salvation Army committee include Police Chief Lance Webster, Ilene Nichols and Beverly Etter.

Assistance is available

Since 1989, Northeast Nebraska Joint Housing Authority (NNJHA) has aided northeast Nebraska low-income residents with rental assistance.

This compensation is provided through the U.S. Department of Housing and Development (HUD) under the administration of SIMPCO. HUD has now developed a new program entitled Homeownership Mortgage Assistance.

HUD's approval of the July 1, 2002, NNJHA Administration Plan, which includes this Homeownership Mortgage Assistance, allows current clients and new applicants a choice. They may choose rental assistance or homeownership assistance depending upon their own preference as long as they meet guideline qualifications. The HUD Housing Choice Voucher Program for low income clients is available for the elderly, disabled, single, family and displaced persons.

The community of Winside held a Day of Relief and Patriotism Sept. 28 in memory of all the victims of the Sept. 11 disaster. The day's events began with the decoration of downtown businesses windows as well as those of the school and the placement of patriotic signs in the village park and other areas of town.

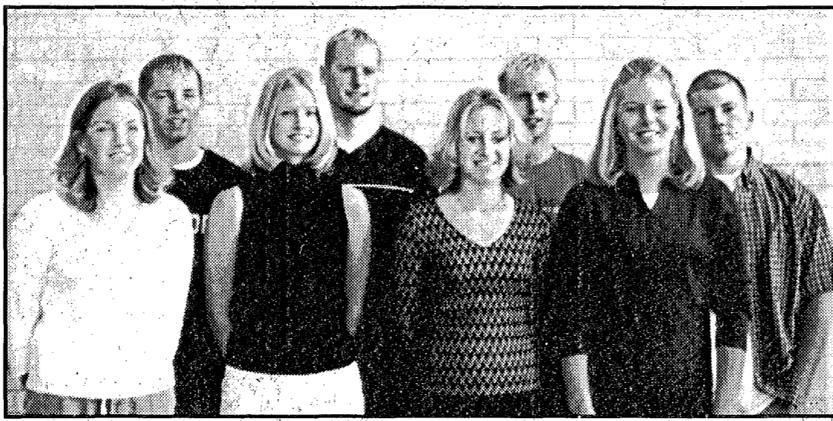

A fund raising campaign for the Wayne Chapter of the Red Cross began around 5:30 with members of the cub, boy and girl scouts selling ribbons for a donation and chances on winning an American Flag and pole. Todd Volwiler of Carroll was the winner.

Members of the Roy Reed Post 252 American Legion of Winside opened the football game with a flag presentation and the participation of the Winside High School Band. During half time of the football game LeNell Quinn, Winside School Music Instructor, read a moving article, "I Am The Flag of the United States of America" while members of the Winside Drill and Dance Team carried two large American flags on the football field. The Winside band then played "God Bless America," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "God Bless the U.S.A." with fireworks concluding the program.

The drill team also was holding a pie throwing fundraiser with Chris Olander, president of the Wayne County Jaycees and Lynn Pierce, Winside elementary principal/counselor as the recipients of the pies. Ten percent of all those funds were donated to the Red Cross too.

Others who helped coordinate with the days activities were boy scout leaders, Joni Jaeger, and Sandra Fuoss; Girls Scout leaders Kathy Meyer, Michele Jorgensen and Deb Janke; Drill team leaders Marcia Andersen, Cindy Abraham, and Laura Neel and Band Director Kathy Hansen. Things You Can Do To Help Relieve Heartburn

It is important to check your lifestyle and eating habits. Quit smoking and cut down on your alcohol consumption, both stimulate acid production. Don't overeat. Eat small meals more frequently to keep pressure down in your stomach. Coffee, citrus juices, high fat foods, and tomatoes can be irritating to your stomach. Avoid tight clothing or belts which put extra pressure on your stomach. Don't lie down after a big meal. The acid in your stomach regurgitates more easily when you are lying down.

Creating a strong family

By John DeFrain, Extension Specialist, Family Community Development- UNL

The late David R. Mace, a pioneer in the field of marriage and family enrichment, was fond of saying, "Nothing in the world would make human life happier than to greatly increase the number of strong families."

I agree with him, and for that reason I applaud the work being within healthy families are at the core of a healthy society. It's in everyone's best interest, then, to help create a positive environment for all families. This can be a labor of love for all of our social institutions: educational institutions, businesses, human and family service agencies, religious institutions, health organizations, literally everyone involved in the daily life of a community.

Families are our most intimate social environment. They are the places where we begin the vital process of socializing our children, teaching them - in partnership with countless others in the community - how to survive and thrive in the world.

Many marriages are experiencing difficulties today and part of the challenge to building family-friendly communities is to also build marriage-friendly communities. A good way to do this is to develop couples' enrichment courses and activities.

Involving fathers in the day-to-day life of families is also crucial. Of course, there are countless single-parent families who are strong and emotionally healthy in our country. Besides, in many cases involving violence, sexual abuse, alcohol or drug abuse, it's probably best that the father is out of the picture for the rest of the family's personal well-being and safety.

But in most cases, I think it's important for communities to find creative ways to strengthen and support two-parent families and make it possible for fathers to enjoy the benefits of increased time and involvement with their children. Moms shouldn't have to carry all the burdens of child rearing alone. And dads shouldn't miss all the wonderful feelings a parent experiences watching one's children grow and learn.

Sometimes marriages get lost in all the hubbub surrounding modern life. We attend to the children's needs. We make the boss happy at work. But we often let our own personal health and well-being slide, and we borrow time and energy from our marriages to satisfy our demands in our own world. The problem with this is that a healthy marriage is at the heart of a healthy two-parent family. I'm reminded of the saying, "The best thing a father can do for his children is to love their mother."

Life in families can bring us great joy or excruciating pain, depending upon how well family relationships are going. A healthy marriage and family can be a valuable resource for helping us endure difficulties that life inevitably brings. Unhealthy or dysfunctional relationships can create terrible problems that may persist from one generation to the next.

By working together in our communities, we demonstrate the importance of families to the well-being of the total community and we contribute to the happiness of all.

done in many Nebraska communities to strengthen and support families. Families, in all the diverse patterns, sizes, creeds and colors they come in, are, indeed, the heart and soul of our society.

Marriage and family are perhaps society's oldest and most resilient institutions. From the beginning of human life, people have grouped themselves into families to find emotional, physical and communal support. Although in recent years commentators have predicted the demise of both marriage and the family, they not only survive but continue to change and evolve. Family structures may vary around the world, yet, the value of 'family' endures.

Families are the basic, foundational social units in society. Therefore, healthy individuals

Our Savior Women hold convention

Phyllis Rahn and Lila Splittgerber represented the women Our Savior Lutheran Church at the Nebraska Women of the ELCA Convention in Kearney Sept. 28-30.

Marilyn Wallin, representing Concordia Lutheran Church in Concord, Mae Gree, Mardell Holm and Esther Oberg, representing Salem Lutheran Church in Wakefield, also attended from this area.

The convention theme, "Called to be God's Tapestry," emphasized Global Missions with women from Nebraska's Companion Synods in Argentina and the Northern Diocese of Tanzania attending. The theme was developed through worship, guest speakers and workshop leaders. Keynote speaker was Elaine Bickel, humorous and inspirational author from Millington, Mich. Mary Ann Johnson of Omaha was music leader for the convention.

Bible Study for the convention was centered around the theme verse from Ephesians 4:4-6. Pastor David deFreese, Bishop of the Nebraska Synod ELCA, lead the opening Festival Worship on Friday and Dr. Jennifer Braatan, President of Midland Lutheran College, preached the Sunday morning closing worship service.

Workshops which were offered Friday and Saturday afternoons also reflected the theme.

Saturday evening's Global Mission Fair booth educated and entertained convention participants. A Service Room was open throughout the convention for participants to both learn how to make quilts as well as making quilts which were donated to Lutheran World Relief following the convention.

President Karen Tjarks of Ceresco led the business meeting. New officers elected were Ardit Hains Davenport, vice president and Shirley Splittgerber of Omaha, secretary. LaDene Rutt of Chappell was re-elected treasurer. Karen Tjarks was re-elected president and Nina Kramer of West Point was elected Northeast Board Representative.

Special offerings received benefited ministries which serve women and children in crises in the organization's companion synods Argentina and Tanzania. A portion of this offering was used to support the churchwide ministry of the women's organization. An 'in-kind' offering of non-food items for the Nebraska Food Pantry Network was also collected at the convention.

Spiders have been common this fall in parts of state

Nebraskans seem to be reporting more spiders in their homes this fall thanks to a dry summer that's led to an increase in the insects they eat, a University of Nebraska entomology technologist said.

Spiders likely will continue to invade homes until a couple of hard freezes hit the state, said Jim Kalisch, NU Cooperative Extension entomology technologist.

Dry conditions this summer relieved insects of many of their natural diseases, caused by wet weather, that normally control their population. That means spiders have more to eat this fall.

"A lot more people are bringing spiders in," Kalisch said. "When insects thrive, spiders will too. When we hit late summer to early autumn, spiders are in the highest numbers. They also are in their adult stages producing egg sacs that will over winter and are active in finding prey for their young brood."

Kalisch said he's received the most calls about the wolf spider, which is large and hairy, but not poisonous.

"When they occur in homes or offices, people get disturbed by them," he said.

Besides wolf spiders, funnel weavers, which are responsible for the large, sheet-like webs sometimes found on shrubs, and barn spiders will stick around through October.

Kalisch said most spiders in Nebraska are not poisonous. However, he has received usual reports of the poisonous brown recluse spider in southeastern Nebraska. This brown spider with a fiddle-shaped mark on its back is confined to industrial areas, older buildings, warehouses and some apartment complexes but rarely in homes.

A bite from a brown recluse spider initially causes no pain. After about an hour, an intense localized pain develops, followed by inflammation and a white or mottled blister at the site of the wound. Early diagnosis is essential to alleviate pain, speed of healing and reduce a systemic reaction and infection.

However, brown recluse spiders are shy and usually don't prowl around outdoors, Kalisch said. They don't build webs and like to stay hidden until nighttime.

And even though spiders look scary, they do offer some beneficial aspects, Kalisch said. Spiders feed on crickets, moths and cockroaches.

"If a spider doesn't get that chirping cricket, the cricket will keep you up all night," he said.

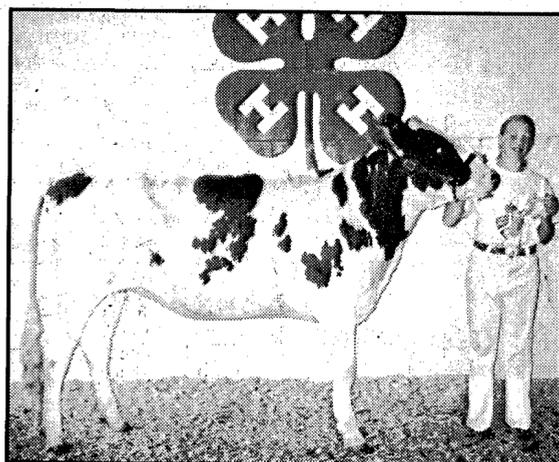

When spiders get inside homes and other buildings, it usually is through cracks, crevices and basements.

"The home serves as a retreat for staying warm," he said. There are sensible solutions to keep spiders and other insects from entering the home.

Kalisch recommends filling in the cracks and crevices and removing plant debris and piles of leaves that serve as a "bridge" for spiders to enter the home. It also is wise to keep shrubs and ornamentals around the home exterior well-trimmed and the inside of the home clean and free of clutter. Sweeping away webs also will disturb spiders and encourage them to go elsewhere.

Insecticides can be applied as a barrier around the home perimeter. Kalisch recommends spraying up and away from the house 2-3 feet wide. If using a granular insecticide, make sure it dispenses evenly in cracks and crevices. Anything labeled as a roach or crawling insect killer will work against spiders, he said. Check the products at the local garden center or hardware store.

For more information on spiders, consult NU Cooperative Extension NebGuide G86-792-A, Spiders, available at local extension offices and on the Web at <http://www.ianr.unl.edu/pubs/insects/g792.htm>.

Caring for all kinds of cactus

By Lou Wiltse
Member of the Master Gardening class

Many folks are confused about the identities of the flowering link type cactus. They refer to them all, receive a minimum of four hours of sunlight daily. Keep soil evenly moist. Protect from drafts, provide low night temps of 60 degrees.

- February: Cut off wilted flowers and straggly growth. Relocate to a cool shady place of 50 to 60 degrees. Do not water or fertilize.
- March: Move cactus to a sunnier place. Increase water frequency to once every three weeks. (Always let the extra water drain away from the plant, never let plant sit in tray of water). Repot only if needed.
- April: Increase watering to twice a month. Fertilize every two weeks until September. It is best to fertilize with a type of fertilizer you mix in water and pour through the soil.

- May and June: Water once a week.
- July and August: Water twice a week.
- September: Gradually decrease watering to twice a month. Stop fertilizing.
- October and November: Decrease watering to once every three weeks. Provide long nights and short days by covering your plant in a box or setting it in a closet for 14 hours of darkness and then back into a sunny window for 10 hours of sunlight every day. Avoid too cool of temperatures.
- December: Decrease watering to once a month. One day before you want your cactus to flower, place it in a very cool location overnight.

Stories about heroes abound since tragedy

I have a book about the Oklahoma bombing and it's full of the miracles and stories of heroism that took place that day. Those of the recent tragedy will fill more than one book.

Plus, there are many reports of Americans stranded elsewhere that week. Thursday's World Herald contains one about a group from Omaha who were just finishing a Carnival Cruise to Alaska and ended up chartering a bus.

The friends from California here a week ago were in Scotland. The tour originated in Glasgow and there were 15 people from all over the U.S. They began on Sunday with church services in a typical Scottish Presbyterian church. On Monday, they left the city. On Tuesday, the awful news. Their guide was very sympathetic and respectful, but the 15 Americans hung together like long lost brothers and sisters.

One member of the group conducted a prayer service, there were hugs and tears; suddenly, grace was said before every meal and of course, they congregated around TV sets. As so many have said: We are all Americans, black or white, conservative or liberal, rich or poor. It's just too bad it takes such a tragedy to remind us from whence our blessings originate.

The nurse friend whose daughter died last month has a son-in-law in the military. He was living in Colorado Springs at the time of the funeral. For what reason, I don't know, he was in D.C. on Sept. 11, due at the Pentagon. And, also, for whatever reason, the ride that was to pick him up did not come. So, he was delayed getting there, and arrived after the plane hit.

By: Pat Meierhenry

Mike's cousin, Kathy Riley, who lives in New Jersey, called her mother that morning to say she had not gone to work. We did not even know she worked at the World Trade Center.

Our neighbor's son is an attorney for the city of New York. He walked back to his apartment, over the Brookland Bridge. It took two hours; not a real hardship, comparatively.

Someone my aunt works with was stranded in Dallas airport, so ended up on a Greyhound bus. When a man traveling with her learned she was going to Lincoln he told her he was too and befriended her all the way home. It was Johnny Rodgers.

And I got a Rae Turnbull poem in the mail from friend Jan Heller with a note saying, "With all that's happened in our world the past few weeks...just wanted you to know...I love you...and have loved knowing you. You've brought lots of 'sunshine' into my life... That's truly what matters, isn't it?"

Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter Cactus as "Christmas Cactus."

Well, related they are, identical they aren't. If you let your fingers do the walking, you'll hit upon the solution. The secret, you see, lurks in the cactus' teeth, the ones surrounding the stem edges.

While the Thanksgiving Cactus has sharp teeth and the Easter Cactus has none, the Christmas variety has rounded ones. It's the one whose teeth can't bite.

The following is a calendar of sorts to re-bloom your Christmas Cactus.

Local schools join magnet curriculum

Beginning fall 2002, three more Nebraska high schools will emphasize agricultural sciences, funded by a $200,000 W.K. Kellogg Foundation grant.

Burwell Junior-Senior High School, Nebraska City High School and Laurel-Concord High School will base their new agricultural science curriculums on the magnet school within Mead High School.

The announcement came during a kickoff celebration Tuesday (Sept. 18) at MHS. Guests included Gov. Mike Johanns; Cynthia Milligan, representing Kellogg's foundation and dean of the University of Nebraska College of Business Administration; high school teachers and students; and NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources officials. The celebration included a tour of distance education facilities and demonstrations.

The magnet school within MHS has had 80 percent student enrollment since beginning in fall 2000, said Angela Leifeld, MHS principal. A magnet school is one that draws together students with similar interests -- in this case agricultural sciences emphasizing biotechnology, precision agriculture, global positioning and more.

"We're really encouraging (Burwell, Nebraska City and Laurel-Concord) to use Mead as a model," said Dan Duncan, director of NU's Agricultural Research and Development Center, which helped launch the magnet school. He said locations and local agribusinesses would help determine various career tracks. Mead's magnet school offers five career tracks: agricultural technology, agribusiness, food science, plant science and animal science. Although fewer than 2 percent of the nation's population is involved with production agriculture, in Nebraska one in four jobs depends on it. Such jobs include food processing, distribution, transportation, agribusiness, nutrition, horticulture and landscaping.

"Agriculture is crying out for people with agricultural backgrounds," Leifeld said. The magnet school has been so well received that MHS students, some without agricultural backgrounds, have taken two and three agricultural sciences courses at a time, she added. All MHS students are required to take agricultural literacy and select between introduction to agricultural business or entrepreneurship courses.

Mead's magnet school provides a seamless education for high school graduates to better prepare them for the NU system, the workforce or community colleges, said Bob Meduna, Saunders County Cooperative Extension educator. Meduna and Duncan are liaisons between MHS and NU, connecting high school instructors with NU experts to develop Mead's magnet curriculum.

"Extension is the tie we're banking on to move this across the state" because extension has a presence in every county, Meduna said. Businesses, he added, also determine magnet school success because they provide internships and other educational opportunities and support.

Meduna noted that the magnet agricultural sciences curriculum will not replace FFA, a traditional production agricultural education track, but rather enhance agricultural education without additional ag instructors. The grant will help distribute courses via the World Wide Web or satellite.

Casey Bryan, an MHS senior, said the magnet school has given him a wide range of experiences to his summer and after-school horticultural job at ARDC.

"It gets you started on an early career," Bryan said.

Having a solid school in a community is beneficial for everyone, Duncan said.

"The school system needs to be strong and viable to keep the community strong and viable ... if we can do this we can create communities the kids will want to come back to," Duncan said.

The M.E.A.D. project is coordinated by Susan Fritz, head of NU's Department of Agricultural Leadership, Education and Communication.

STATE OF NEBRASKA DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL RESOURCES
In the Matter of A-17678.)
Water Division 2-B.)

Notice is hereby given that Douglas Temme filed a petition, postmarked August 31, 2001, to extend the date of beneficial use proposed under water appropriation A-17678.

Water appropriation A-17678, with a priority date of June 1, 1998, is a permit to divert up 2.02 cubic feet per second (807 gallons per minute) from Dog Creek for irrigation of 141.6 acres located in Sections 35 and 36 in Township 27 North, Range 3 East. The Department's approval of water appropriation A-17678 contained the condition that water under this permit must be beneficially used to irrigate the lands described above by September 1, 2001.

Due to pumping restrictions placed on the petitioner by the Department during crop years 2000 and 2001, the petitioner was unable to irrigate all of his land in these years. The petitioner requests the deadline for applying water under the permit be extended three additional years.

Any interested person wanting to object to the granting of these requests or wanting to request a hearing shall file a formal objection/request with the Department of Natural Resources, P.O. Box 94676, Lincoln, Nebraska 68509-4676 by November 1, 2001. Each objection/request shall state the person's interest, the basis of the objection/request and shall be accompanied by a $10 filing fee.
