Foundation is asking for help

By Kevin Peterson
 For the Herald

Wayne High School alumni and friends are being called on to assist in the renovation of the school's track complex and football field, located south of the elementary school, which is in dire need of repair.

The Wayne Community Schools Foundation is the vehicle behind the drive and president Ken Dahl said the current project costs border around the $200,000 mark.

Over the past several years, the Nebraska Legislature has limited local tax levies that fund schools which is why school foundations such as the WCSF are more vigorously seeking alternative funding for programs like scholarships, athletics, fine arts, technology, etc.

The school has been unable to use the track for several years for practice and meets as well as the physical education program due to its deteriorated condition.

The total dollar amount being sought would include a total restoration of the track and football field.

As a result of the current budget restrictions mandated by the Nebraska Legislature, the school district is unable to designate the funds necessary for the project.

Around mid-January brochures will be sent out to alumni with phone calls following a couple weeks after in reference to the project. Calls will be made by the Board as well as volunteers.

Because the WCSF is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization, all gifts are tax deductible.

There are numerous ways to contribute:

Outright Gifts—includes donations of cash, securities, personal property or real estate.

*Recognition Gifts Cash gifts to honor a person or special occasion.

*Memorial Gifts Money donated to honor a deceased relative or friend.

*Special Gifts Money designated for a specified area of support (Athletics, Fine Arts, Scholarships, etc.).

Bequests—A gift by will.

*Specific Bequest The donor specifies a dollar amount or percentage of

Carroll library receives books

Patrons of the Carroll Public Library will notice more than 30 new children's books on the shelves this fall.

The library received the books as part of the Reading Rainbow Book Bonanza. This project of the Nebraska ETV Network and Reading Rainbow in cooperation with the Nebraska Library Commission is providing public libraries in more than 200 Nebraska communities under 2,000 a selection of children's books to add to their collection.

The books come to Nebraska from the New York City office of the "Reading Rainbow" public television series, which is co-produced by Nebraska Educational Telecommunication's GPN educational media marketing unit and Nebraska ETV. Each year the series has aired, publishers have sent books to be considered for selection as a "Reading Rainbow" featured book. When the decision was made last fall to relocate the New York office, one question was what to do with 18 seasons' worth of books.

The Nebraska-based Reading Rainbow staff quickly volunteered to take the 7,000 books and put them to a good use. Their chief objective was to

Checking his list

Santa has been busy checking his list as Christmas is fast approaching. He not only has a list of who's been naughty and who's been nice, but has lists for appropriate presents for all, as well as his 'to do' list for visits with local children, cookie recipes, reindeer check-ups and itinerary. Here, the Santa located at the corner of Second and Main Streets in Wayne, is surrounded by lights as evening nears.

Red Cross volunteer returns home

By Lynn Sievers
 Of the Herald

Returning recently from New York, Claire Hansen of Coleridge, a member of the local Red Cross, helped in Mass Care. His job was driving an Emergency Response Vehicle delivering food to firemen and policemen working in clean up efforts at Ground Zero at the World Trade Center site.

He also delivered food to the many other sites in the area where the Red Cross is helping to feed workers, volunteers and victims' family members.

Hansen worked in New York from Oct. 30 to Nov. 17. Being a farmer, Hansen was unable to travel with other area Red Cross workers who left right after the Sept. 11 attacks. He stayed behind until harvest was done.

While in New York, he stayed in a hotel near the JFK Airport so was close by when the cargo plane carrying people from the Dominican Republic went down in Queens recently. Hansen and other Red Cross volunteers fed the firemen and policemen who helped with clean up of that incident.

Hansen noted when the plane went down, New York shut down immediately as they were afraid it was another terrorist attack. Over 40,000 policemen were in the area. The crash was determined to be an accident. There were no survivors.

Besides working in Mass Care, Hansen is also trained in Damage Assessment, which is trying to assess how much damage has been done to homes, etc. hit by a disaster; that information is then used to determine how much assistance is needed. He is also trained in Logistics which is the transportation of supplies and people to a disaster and finding a facility to work out of once there.

Speaking on New York since Sept. 11, "The mood is getting better there," Hansen said. "Things are getting back to normal. Stores, restaurants, etc. are getting busier. More roads are opening up. Security is still pretty tight, though."

"As for Ground Zero, "I can't believe it; the devastation is awful. I can't believe more people weren't killed," Hansen said.

He noted a lot of the clean up work is done but there is still a lot to do. There are some buildings still standing near Ground Zero that are unsafe and must come down.

About emergency situations, Hansen said that even though you prepare for disasters, he's not sure you can ever really prepare; especially for something as destructive as the World Trade Center attacks.

"I'm really appreciative and glad to be here in Nebraska," Hansen said.

Traveling by himself to New York, Hansen said while there he ran into Bruce Kathol, a Red Cross worker from Norfolk and a Red Cross worker from Lincoln. He also saw other Red Cross volunteers he has worked with before at other disaster sites.

While in New York, Hansen's schedule included loading up with supplies and being on the road by 5 a.m., driving through bad traffic, dropping off deliveries, loading up again and delivering to other locations all day. His shift was supposed to end each day at 1 p.m. but he usually worked beyond that putting in 10 to 12 hour days.

The Red Cross kitchen, which was set up by the Baptists, was in Brooklyn which was 15 to 20 miles away from where a lot of his stops were each day. He notes in emergencies, members of each faith nearby the disaster site are responsible for certain jobs.

"Being in New York three weeks, I was surprised how well I got to know the city. I was getting around pretty good," Hansen said.

Besides helping in New York, Hansen has helped this year in Houston, Texas with a flood and in Hutchinson, Kan. for a gas explosion. He notes he has helped with many other disasters across the United States in the seven years he has been with Red Cross.

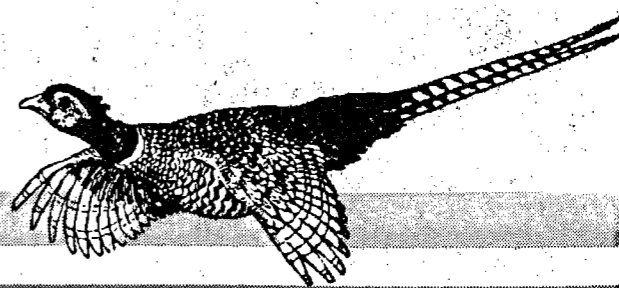

While Hansen said he probably won't be going back to New York to help, he

The City Council will meet Tuesday, Dec. 11 at 7 p.m. in City Hall at Third and Pearl Streets. Activity Center

The discussion of footing design for one section of the south wall that is built to accommodate future expansion was resolved. Late delivery of final blueprints called for additional rebar after the footing section was poured.

The footing section was built to carry the existing wall plus a future expansion load plus an 80 percent additional safety factor with substantially more concrete and 10 percent less steel rebar. The project engineer and a second structural engineer both approved the footing as built.

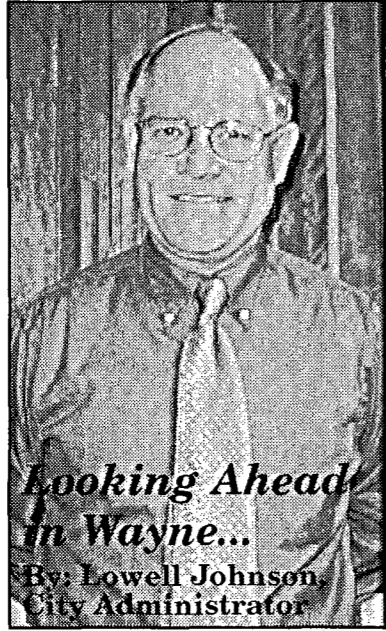

Future electric rates

At the Dec. 18 council meeting, we will have a proposal to increase Wayne electrical rates by six percent beginning with the February billing statement. This would be for all users and is calculated to cover the 11.5 percent increase last January in our cost to purchase power from NPPD and the six percent increase in NPPD rates beginning January 2002.

If you have questions, contact our billing office to see how this would affect your rate.

Putting things into perspective

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
Nebraska Press Association

There are those among us who need to get a grip on the spirit of the holidays. Since Nebraska lost to Colorado, some people have been acting as though they'd been sentenced to life in a dentist's chair. Or like they'd found out that Tom Osborne was a closet liberal. Take it easy. It was one football game. There are still blessings to be counted.

For one thing, it happened after Thanksgiving. That was a blessing.

Think of how many more people might have thrown up if they'd been watching that debacle after stuffing themselves with cranberries and pumpkin pie all day!

For another thing, the state was relieved of a certain anxiety, allowing everyone to relax and look forward to Christmas and Hanukkah and such.

Whatever Husker fans worry about next, they won't have to worry about who NU will play in the Rose Bowl. And another good thing: You won't have to listen to any of that, "What do you want for Christmas this year?" and, "What I really want is for Nebraska to win the national championship."

Now, Nebraskans can make Christmas wishes of genuine value. For one thing, they can wish for Steve Spurrier's face to permanently freeze in one of those scrunched up, whiney, juvenile faces he likes to make.

Since this season has religious significance for a great many people, they can take a very practical and useful lesson from NU's defeat. After all, there are those who really do pray for the Huskers.

A youngster might say: "Grandpa, I prayed for Nebraska to win, but God didn't answer my prayer."

Grandpa can respond: "Yes, He did. He said 'no.' You need to get used to that. If you don't believe me, ask a Red Sox fan."

And if that isn't sufficient, ask a Red Sox fan who goes to Notre Dame.

Savings plan receives top honor

State Treasurer Lorelee Byrd has announced that "Smart Money" (the Wall Street Journal magazine of Personal Business) has rated the Nebraska College Savings Plan the "TOP plan in the Country"

In its December issue, "Smart Money" provides readers an analysis of the various state college savings plans and Nebraska's plan garnered the coveted "Top Plan" rating.

Treasurer Byrd, whose office administers the program, said, "We are very pleased at the continued national attention to our Nebraska College Savings Plan. Earlier this year nationally known expert Joe Hurley designated Nebraska's plan as a "5 Star" plan and Kiplinger's Magazine in its September issue called Nebraska's plan one of the top four plans in the country. This continued national exposure confirms the great work our State Senators, the Governor and the Treasurer's Office did to make our plan "the National Champion" of college savings plans.

"Our Nebraska State Senators passed the law, the Governor signed the law and the Treasurer's Office worked to develop a program that all Nebraskans could take advantage of," Byrd said. LB1003 was passed during the 2000 Legislative session. The plan began accepting contributions on Jan. 1, 2001.

According to Treasurer Byrd over $25 million has been contributed in the first 10 months of this year and over 6,200 accounts have been opened. The plan is structured to provide maximum flexibility to anyone wanting to save for college or other higher educational expenses. There are no age, income or residency requirements. The funds can be used at any college, public or private, nationwide. You can even open an account for yourself and you don't have to be a full-time student.

"What better gift could you give this holiday season?" asked Byrd. "Saving and providing for a friend or loved one's education is a gift that will last a lifetime. And, if you open an account before Dec. 31, 2001, you will qualify for a Nebraska income tax deduction on this year's return."

Multiple investment options and a low cost structure were mentioned as favorable features of the Nebraska plan. The Nebraska plan also provides a state income tax deduction for contributions to the plan, no age or residency requirements and the flexibility to use funds at schools anywhere in the country.

Starting Jan. 1, 2002 withdrawals for college expenses will be completely Tax Free, both federally and at the State level.

Chamber announces new board members

The following individuals were recently elected to the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors and will serve a three-year term.

The board welcomed Galen Wiser, Jack Hausmann and John Sinniger.

Wiser and his wife Kathy came to the community as college students more than 27 years ago and fell in love with Wayne.

Galen has been employed at State national Bank since his arrival and is now the Senior Vice President and Director.

He and his wife have two grown children. He was elected to the Chamber Board many years ago and now looks forward to being a part of the Board of Directors again.

Jack Hausmann is a graduate of Kearney State College. A former teacher, Jack is currently a business owner in Wayne. He has been a New York Life Agent for the past 14 1/2 years.

He is a member of Our Savior Lutheran Church and has been a member of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce and Wayne Ambassadors for many years.

Jack was very instrumental with the renovation project for the Chamber of Commerce building after the fire this past year. His hobbies include bowling, golf and construction.

Born and raised in La Crosse, Wis., John and his family have lived in Wayne for the past five years.

John began working for Chartwell's (formerly PFM) 18 years ago, having started as a student employee at the University of Wisconsin in La Crosse.

When the opening at Wayne State College for the Director of Dining Services was brought to his attention, he and his wife almost turned down the offer without coming to see the college or the community. All it took was one visit to Wayne and they were impressed with what they saw — not only at the college, but of the city as well. John and Carolyn have two sons, and consider Wayne their "home."

First-time starting point guard Ric Volk drew praise from Ruhl for his way of pushing the ball when the break presented itself.

"We got a lot of people involved and when the players came in off the bench, they produced," Ruhl added. "Our guys really responded well to what we asked them to do."

Winside wrestlers dominate field at season opening Creighton tourney

The Winside wrestling team opened the 2001-2002 season in impressive fashion as Paul Sok's troops racked up 202 points in winning the Creighton Invite.

The Wildcats filled all 14 weight classes for the first time since Nebraska went to a 14-weight class set-up in the mid 90's.

Another first for the Wildcats came when every wrestler won at least one match in the season opening tournament.

"I don't know if we've ever had a meet where every wrestler won at least one match," a jubilant Sok said.

Winside out-distanced Creighton by 37 points while Neligh-Oakdale settled for third with 148 points. Pender netted 135 and Elkhorn Valley, 107 while Osmond and Randolph netted 87 each.

Norfolk Reserves, Plainview, Crofton, Laurel-Concord, Rock County, Clearwater, Creighton JV's and Wakefield rounded out the field of teams in order:

It was Wakefield's first wrestling meet since the early 70's as the program was reinstated this fall under the tutelage of Justin Smith.

Ten of the 14 grapplers earned medals including three champions with Brandon Suehl at 130, Josh Sok at 152 and Mike Tomasek at heavyweight.

Suehl won his quarterfinal match by a 9-1 margin before winning the semifinals and championship match by pin. Suehl needed just 1:59 to stick Osmond's Mike Gansbom in the finals.

Sok won a 2-0 decision from Eric Marshall of Norfolk Reserves in the semifinals before pinning Jason Hofer of Neligh-Oakdale in just 1:37 of the finals.

Tomasek pinned his way to first place including a pin over Norfolk's Mike Lewin in the finals.

Bo Brummels, Jared Jaeger and Tom Schwedhelm each placed runner-up.

"It was a great start to the season," Sok added. "Our conditioning was good and everyone contributed."

Winside will compete in a triangular with Pender and West Point Central Catholic on Thursday before taking part in the North Bend Invite on Saturday.

Sok said all wrestlers must be certified for district weight by Christmas and despite the solid showing in the opener, there will most likely be some shuffling of wrestlers at different weights.

Five players score in double figures

Wayne State sprints past York

The Wayne State men's basketball team upped the season record to 3-2 with an 89-62 thumping of York College, Tuesday night in Wayne.

A well-balanced Wildcat attack saw five players in double figures led by Kevin Lingenfelter with 14.

Brett Watson, scored 13 and Brett Cain, 12 while Todd Klostermann and Derek Archer scored 11 each.

York's only lead in the game came at 2-0 before WSC went on a 12-2 run. The game was tied at 14 before WSC went on a 24-7 scoring run to close out the half with a 38-21 advantage.

The 'Cats lead grew to 33 points at one point in the second half at 74-41 before cruising to the 27-point win.

WSC dominated the boards, 47-35 as Klostermann led the way with nine caroms while Brett Cain had eight and Levi Cahill, six. Justin Sanny dished out four assists and the 'Cats had 17 turnovers while York also had 17 turnovers.

WSC's bench accounted for 50 of the 'Cats 89 points as 11 of the 14 WSC players that saw action, scored.

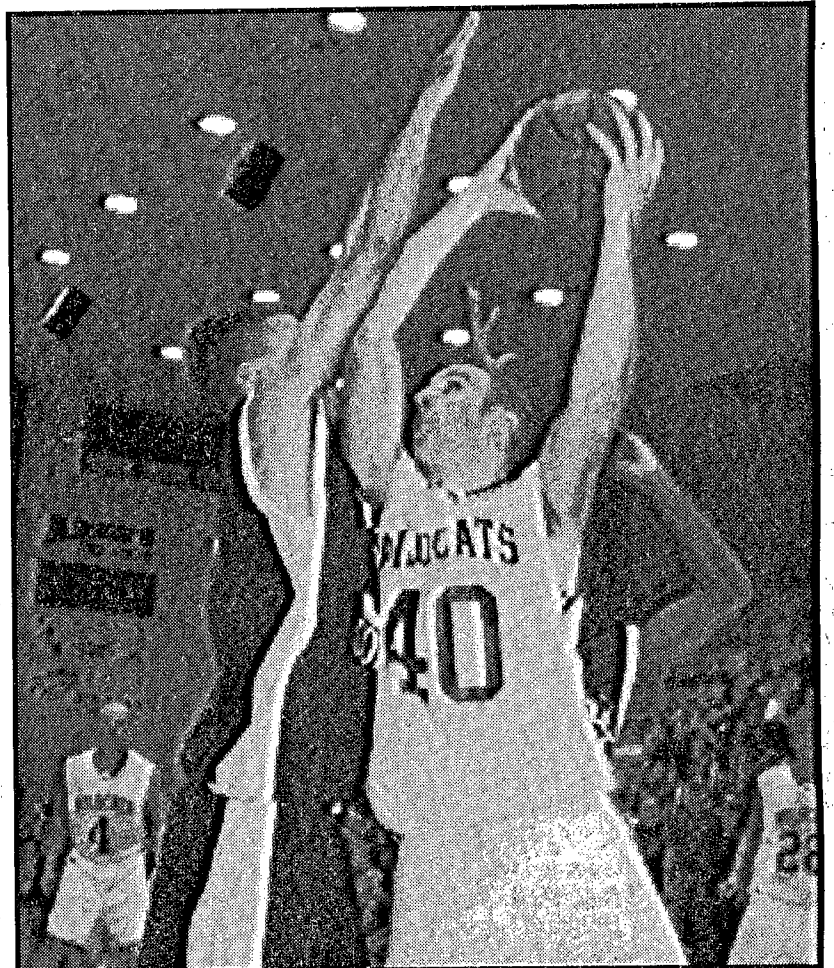

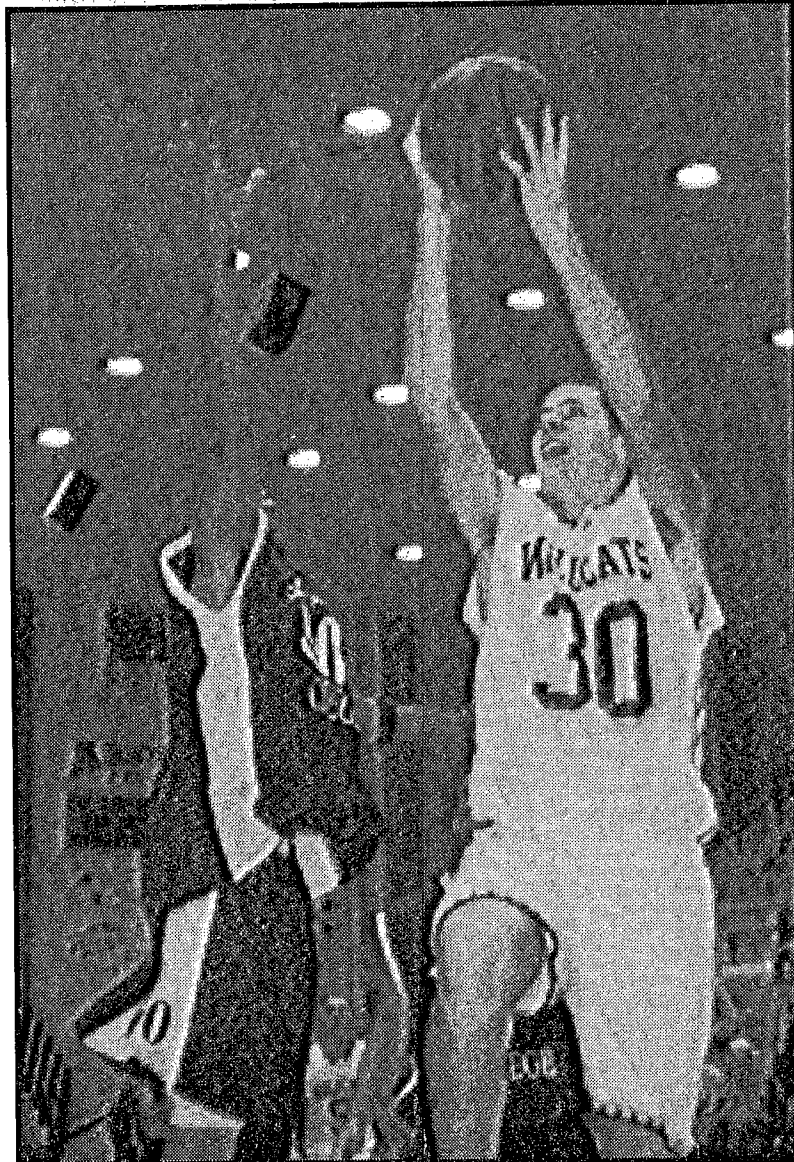

The 'Cats will enter NSIC play on Friday as they play at Bemidji State at 7:30 p.m. before playing a 5:30 p.m. game at Minnesota-Duluth on Saturday.

WSC, 89—York, 62
WSC: Kevin Lingenfelter, 14; Brett Watson, 13; Brett Cain, 12; Todd Klostermann, 11; Derek Archer, 11; Kevin Kobs, 7; Jon Moore, 5; Troy Malone, 5; Tim Gesell, 5; Colin Tague, 4; Levi Cahill, 2. FG's: 33-65-51%; FT's: 12-18-67%.

Wayne State's Tim Gesell does his Harlem Globetrotter imitation by dribbling on his knee before getting up and sinking a shot. In actuality, Gesell slipped but didn't lose his dribble before making the short jumper. At right, Bret Watson drives to the hole for two of his 13 points as he enjoyed a career-high in just his fifth game as a Wildcat. The 'Cats will begin NSIC play this weekend.

Todd Klostermann gets hacked in the act of shooting the ball but the call was made for a jump ball.

Derek Archer looks to dribble past his York defender during action, Tuesday in Wayne.

Allen boys win the season opener; girls are defeated

The Allen boys basketball team kicked off their season this week going 1-1 with a win over Winside and a loss against Coleridge.

The Eagles made their presence known in the first game of the season with a 73-70 overtime victory against Winside.

The Eagles took control early in the game by taking a 18-8 lead through the first period, and maintained the lead through the second period to take a 30-21 lead into the half.

With the Eagles lead being chipped away through the second half, Winside showed some life by grabbing a 62-60 lead late in the fourth quarter. As the final seconds ran off the clock, Allen's Duane Rahn converted two of three free throws to send the game into overtime.

With a Corey Uldrich three pointer in overtime, Allen escaped with a 73-70 victory.

Corey Uldrich led all scorers for the Eagles with a career high 32 points, 12 rebounds, and eight assists.

Prochaska signs to play at UNK

Allen volleyball standout Angela Prochaska signed a national letter of intent to play volleyball at the University of Nebraska-Kearney next fall.

Prochaska becomes the first Allen female athlete to play collegiate volleyball at the NCAA Division II level.

Prochaska lettered in volleyball and basketball for three years and holds several school records.

Prochaska led the Eagles to a 64-15 record the past three seasons.

School records include career kill spikes (661); kill spikes in a season (295); kill spikes in one match (27); spike attempts in one match (55); most kill spikes in a two-set match (21).

She averaged 5.28 kills per game with a .410 kill average—equivalent to a baseball players' batting average.

She helped the Eagles to a pair of conference titles and two state tournament appearances.

She posted 20-plus kill spikes in four matches last season. She was named to the World Herald All State D-2 Second Team.

Leading the way for Winside was Ben Lienemann with 21, Adam Hoffman with 19, and Denton Cushing with 15. Mike Hawkins had six points with Andy Roberts and Russ O'Connor scoring four each.

With a 1-0 start, Allen traveled to Coleridge where they suffered their first loss of the season 58-50, Friday night.

The game was close throughout with Allen trailing, 26-21 at the half and 41-35 after three quarters of play.

"We missed a lot of free throws which would have enabled us to get the win," coach Dave Uldrich said. "We were just 7-24 from the foul line and that won't get it done."

Corey Uldrich led the Eagles in scoring for the second straight game with 17 points and nine rebounds.

Other top scorers for Allen were Brett Keitges with 15, and Brett Koester with 11.

Allen will look for its second win of the season this week as they travel to Emerson-Hubbard on Friday to play Ponca in the first round of the E-H Tip Off Classic. Winside will also go for a victory as they host Bancroft, Tuesday. THE ALLEN girls basketball team opened their season this past week with a win over Wakefield and a loss to Winside.

"We missed a lot of shots in the paint," Allen coach Lori Koester said. "We're still coming together as a team and we've got to make better decisions and play more poised and I know we will."

Winside also got scoring from Makayla Marotz with six and Amy Rademacher with five. Susan Wittler added three.

Last Saturday the Eagles fell to 0-2 with a 46-43 setback to Wakefield.

Jacobsen signs to play at Wayne State

Julie Jacobsen of Winside High School is the most recent signed for the Wildcat volleyball team, announced head coach Sharon Vanis.

Jacobsen, a standout at right side hitter and setter in the third member of the class of 2002.

A four-year all-conference honoree, last season Jacobsen was honored as a first-team all-state honoree. Despite splitting time at right side hitter and setter, Jacobsen established a new Class C-2 record in career kills.

Jacobsen, the daughter of Randy and Donna Jacobsen of Winside, was also honored as the most valuable setter at the UNL, UNO and Briar Cliff individual camps.

She has also been an all-conference performer the last two seasons in basketball as well as a state track qualifier the last three years.

"I feel Julie is one of the most outstanding athletes in the area," head coach Sharon Vanis said. "I am very excited that she has decided to become a Wildcat! Because of Julie's athleticism and versatility, she is capable of playing two or three different positions. We plan to use Julie on the outside her freshman year as well as training her with our setters.

"I feel very good about the level of volleyball in Northeast Nebraska," Vanis added. "We added two of those players to our roster with the addition of Julie and Timaree Bebee of Wakefield."

Wakefield boys beaten by Pender

10. Wakefield will look for win number one on Friday when they host Wausa.

The Winside Girls suffered a 61-44 loss at Wynot on Friday which evened the season mark at 1-1.

Down by four at the end of the first quarter, 14-10 things began to go bad for Winside as Wynot opened up a 35-23 halftime lead.

Amy Rademacher also made her presence felt with 10 points, three rebounds, and two steals. Susan Wittler scored nine points and Stacey Rabe netted five with Kalynda Hokamp, Kayla Bowers and Melissa Bokemper scoring two apiece. Becky Krause added a free throw.

Winside will look to redeem themselves this week as they travel to Newcastle Thursday night before hosting Bancroft on Tuesday.

Winside's boys also fell to Wynot, 54-33. The Wildcats fell behind, 21-11 at the half before Wynot used a 21-10 scoring run in the third quarter to pull away as Winside fell to 0-2.

Tuesday in Winside the Wildcats fell victim to a pair of losses from Laurel-Concord.

In the girls game the Bears rolled to a 36-10 lead at the half and doubled the score on the host team in the second half, 32-16 to account for a lop-sided 68-26 victory.

Outdoorsmen need to be prepared for hypothermia

Waterfowl hunters and ice fishermen will be on the water and ice and need to be prepared for hypothermia, in case they fall into the water or are stuck on a sand bar or duck blind overnight.

Hypothermia, which is abnormally low body temperature, can be a killer and it doesn't take long for it to set in. Hypothermia is most likely to occur at very cold temperatures, but can occur at temperatures above 40 degrees.

Early and mild signs of hypothermia include: shivering, slurred speech, disorientation, stupor or coma, absence of shivering, mental slowness or lethargy, muscular stiffness and clumsiness.

Cold water can rob the body of heat 25-30 times faster than air. When someone falls through the ice or into the water, your body temperature begins to drop within 10 to 15 minutes.

The water doesn't have to be icy; it just has to be colder. In 32-degree water, you have about 15 minutes to get out of the water before you become unconscious.

To help prevent hypothermia, you should dress properly, which includes wearing several loose fitting layers of clothes, a hat, a scarf or knit mask to cover the face & mouth, mittens and a water resistant coat and boots. Hunters and boaters should wear a life jacket when on the water, this not only helps to keep them afloat in the water, the life jacket will help to prevent heat from escaping from the chest region.

If you fall into the cold water, don't panic because flailing around in the water will only help to reduce your body temperature more quickly.

Once you're in the water, you'll expend more energy trying to stay afloat and the more quickly your body temperature will drop.

Protect the areas of your body that where heat loss is most severe. Protect your head, neck, side of the chest and groin area as these areas lose heat most quickly.

When someone falls into the water they should button and tighten their collars, cuffs, shoes and hoods. Cover your head, because about half of the heat loss will be from the head.

You must get out of the water! Do this as quickly as possible before you lose full use of your hands. Board a boat, raft or anything that will get you out of the water.

Don't try to swim great distances, unless it is to reach a sandbar, nearby boat, another person or a floating object you can climb on. Remain as still as possible, this will help you to conserve body heat.

If there are several people in the water, huddle together for warmth. Hold your knees to your chest to protect your body from heat loss and clasp your hands around your calves.

If you fall through the ice, getting back onto the ice can be a problem. The ice may continue to break and the water on top of the ice makes it slippery and almost impossible to climb on to.

Ice fishermen should carry along ice claws or a set of sharp long spikes or nails tied together with twine or light rope. The spikes can be driven into the ice and the fishermen can work his way back onto the ice.

Once out of the water, get into a warm vehicle, shelter or room. Remove any wet clothing and get the victim dried off. Warm the center of the body first—chest-neck-head and groin with layers of blankets, clothing, towels or sheets.

Cold weather is here and precautions should be taken just in case you end up in the water.

Housing issues addressed

At the last meeting of the Dixon County Housing Partnership, participants learned what funding resources and technical assistance are available to make housing more affordable.

Members discussed the costs of financing and operating a housing project or program and the sources of funding available to support those costs.

Created with assistance from the Federal Home Loan Bank of Topeka (FHLBank), the housing partnership has brought together public and private organizations in the area to address affordable housing issues in the community. FHLBank member Security National Bank sponsors the program.

The group discussed ways to help make housing affordable including direct loans, grants, interest rate subsidies, loan guarantees and mortgage insurance, rental assistance, maturity linked funds, the secondary mortgage market, subordinate mortgages, tax abatements, tax credits, sweat equity and technical assistance.

Participants learned about funding resources, which included U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, USDA Rural Development, Nebraska Department of Investment Finance Authority, Nebraska Department of Economic Development, FHLBank of Topeka and private foundations.

Melissa Miller-Atwood of the FHLBank, said, "This partnership has worked diligently to research the housing needs of the county and the results of that effort are that Dixon County will have more options for meeting the affordable housing needs of all residents well into the future."

The partnership will meet again from noon to 2:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 12 at Dorcey's Pub in Wakefield to review the strategic plan of action that has been developed to address housing issues in the county and to determine the future direction of the partnership. Interested citizens are invited to attend. Lunch will be served. Please RSVP to Robert Bock at Security National Bank at (402) 635-2424.

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Topeka provides wholesale funding, related services and technical expertise to help financial institutions promote housing, economic development and general prosperity in their communities. The FHLBank has more than $28 billion in assets and serves more than 820 banks, thrifts and credit unions in Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska and Oklahoma. In addition to the RTAP, the FHLBank offers financial assistance through special programs such as its Affordable Housing Program, Rural First-time Homebuyer Program and discounted loans for community development projects.

Herbs for Health

Caffeine May Boost Mental Awareness in Some Persons

A study conducted at Hofstra University in New York suggests that heavy caffeine users may not get the same boost from the stimulant as do conservative users. Volunteers were divided into groups - frequent and infrequent users. Persons in each group were given either a moderately high dose of caffeine or an inactive placebo. All participants were then instructed to type a page of randomly selected words and phrases. Of those who received caffeine, typing speed increased among both the frequent and infrequent caffeine users. Interestingly, the infrequent caffeine users produced fewer errors, indicating that they may have been more mentally aware than were the heavy caffeine users.

The results of this study may support the occasional use of caffeine as a supplement for mental awareness. Yet, use of caffeine is not without its drawbacks. Caffeine can increase blood pressure and may not be appropriate for persons with high blood pressure, heart disease, and anxiety.

Project participants examine reading instruction

Advances in reading instruction were explained during the Fourth Armstrong Learning Differences Symposium with featured guest lecturers Arlene Sonday of St. Paul, Minn. and Dr. Joan Stoner of Lincoln, Nov. 14, on the Wayne State College campus.

The audience attending the event included college students and teachers from O'Neill to Columbus, according to Jan Dinsmore, organizer and assistant professor of education and counseling at WSC. Approximately 110 individuals attended the event. More than 20 teachers from South Sioux, O'Neill, Dodge, Norfolk, Battle Creek and Laurel were involved in the symposium.

"Wayne State is good about making things happen," Stoner said. "A project like this also wouldn't happen without Marge Armstrong (of Wayne). She is an asset and was a tutor, herself for many years."

One session focused on the definition of dyslexia, characteristics of effective reading programs and a review of how children learn to read. A second session, featured recent brain research concerning literacy development and an approach to helping students learn to read.

"Our passion is that all children be able to learn to read,"

Stoner said. Sonday and Stoner have expertise in the process of reading, writing, and spelling. Sonday has developed a step-by-step curriculum, the Sonday System®, that helps teach students to read, write and spell. The System incorporates an instructional package that includes tools and strategies. This teaching guide is a popular blueprint to the Orton-Gillingham Approach. It helps instructors to obtain meaningful direction while showing the essential components of teaching multi-sensory structured phonics.

Sonday, has been a leading reading therapist in America for 30 years. She is concerned about the number of students not reading at grade level in the school systems. Studies conducted by the NAEP (National Assessment of Education Progress) indicated that 46 percent of school children were reading below a basic level of achievement. Through Winsor Concepts, a successful product development company (Nerf Twister), Sonday's successful methods were converted into a system easily used by anyone who can read.

Sonday said the problems that children with dyslexia encounter involve the inability to put sounds together to read words. She said appropriate intervention means most children with dyslexia can go on to read. She also praised the efforts of the International (IMSLEC). Sonday teaches Orton-Gillingham courses offered in this country and around the world. Co-presenter and another nationally recognized expert, Stoner taught a multi-sensory reading class at Wayne State this fall. The class included techniques for assisting children with reading through the Orton-Gillingham approach for reading and writing instruction with intensive phonics information.

In addition to lectures, the class involved practicum experiences with a dozen children. "Some children made significant progress even though, there were really only five instructional sessions and two assessment sessions so real progress could not be expected for all," said Dr. Marilyn Mudge, a participant in the class and WSC professor of education and counseling.

"Following the symposium, teaching participants from Stoner's practicum class shared the reading and writing growth that some of their students had exhibited in only five weeks. It was remarkable," Dinsmore said. Stoner explained how the process of learning was approached during the five sessions. The children learned letter patterns and traced letters with their fingers to learn by touch.

"One little boy learning the system by tracing said, 'My brain is in my finger,'" Stoner said of a boy that she had been tutoring outside the class.

Stoner said she has been studying the work of Dr. Samuel T. Orton (1879-1948), a professor of neuropsychiatry and neuropathology at Columbia University. Orton identified the syndrome of developmental reading disabilities, separated it from mental defect and brain damage and offered a physiological explanation. Anna Gillingham (1878-1964), a psychologist and teacher in New York City, worked with Orton to develop a structured program that has been successfully used for more than 60 years.

The Orton-Gillingham approach is a structured, multi-sensory phonics approach. Multi-sensory reinforcement and practice cement new learning into long-term memory. Letters that represent the single sounds of speech are presented to students through the muscles of the mouth, tongue and throat that form the sound, the ears that hear it, the eyes that see it and the muscles that write it. Students learn to read, write and spell simultaneously.

For more information, contact Jan Dinsmore at (402) 375-7428.

RC & D council elects officers for next year

Approximately 43 people attended the annual meeting of the Northeast Nebraska RC&D Council held at the Corps of Discovery Welcome Center Monday, Dec. 3rd.

Willie Fanta, Creighton provided accordion music prior to the meal. Special guests were Senator Doug Cunningham and his wife Deb, Congressman Osborne staffers Barb Cooksley and Alison Meyer, and state RC&D president Lowell Daisley.

Following dinner Curt Arens, board member for the Welcome Center provided an update on efforts of the staff, volunteers and directors in welcoming guests at the Center. 12,000 people from 49 states and 19 foreign countries have visited the Center since Memorial Day weekend. And 86 volunteers have logged in over 1,500 hours. "The Center is in the right place, at the right time for the right reason. It is the front door to all communities around the area," he said.

Bob Porter, Vice President presided over the meeting. Carmen Shaffer, Randolph and Janet Eckmann, Lindy reported on their attendance at the Nebraska Travel Conference held in North Platte. Excellent information was given on branding products, opportunities for achieving national byway status, and more. A review of the tourism awards was also told.

The Council took on two new projects. One will focus on developing presentations appropriate to communities and businesses about the upcoming Lewis & Clark Bicentennial. The other is a stream-monitoring program being led by Wayne State College professor Barbara Hayford.

Current officers were re-elected for another one-year term. They are Bob Lingenfeller, President, Plainview; Bob Porter, Vice President, Wayne; Mary Rose Backhaus, Secretary, Randolph; Norm Kuhl, Treasurer, Bloomfield; Duane Fanta, Creighton and Myron Miller, Winside were appointed to a financial review committee.

Several Council members are considering attendance at the Western RC&D Association conference. A new Wayne County brochure guide was handed out. The Barn Again calendar features a number of northeast Nebraska barns, but the one on the cover is in Wayne and is owned by director Pearl Hansen. Santaland in Creighton has the Christmas lights on now through Dec. 24 and the workshop opens on the 7th.

The next meeting will be Jan. 28, 2002 at the office in Plainview. All are welcome and encouraged to attend.

Wayne State College communications honor society members Jeff Child, Heather Conley, Deb Allemann of Wayne (Family Service Coordinator for Goldenrod Hills) and Nick Tramp meet to arrange donated gloves on a Christmas tree in the student center on campus during an effort to provide winter clothes for those in need through the Gloves and Garland project for Christmas 2001. The public is welcome to join in donating articles of clothing until Dec. 11. For more information, please call (402) 375-7352.

Garland and Gloves project at Wayne State accepting donations

Wayne State College communications honor society members teamed up with Goldenrod Hills to create an opportunity for the public to provide winter clothes for those in need through the Gloves and Garland project for Christmas 2001.

The WSC group is collecting hats, gloves and scarves to decorate a large Christmas tree in the student center on campus. The collected items will be distributed to families in need through the Goldenrod Hills organization with the help of Family Service Coordinator Deb Allemann of Wayne.

"It's good to see the college and community working together. The project shows people care," Allemann said.

Allemann also works with the Coat Closet at the Presbyterian Church.

The Garland and Gloves project ties in with her work to distribute coats that have been donated and with the food pantry work. K and G Cleaners cleans the coats donated to the Coat Closet for free.

"We appreciate Deb Allemann's involvement to make the project possible," said WSC honor society member Nick Tramp of Wynot. "This is a great program that any college student or community member can become involved with. For the price of a couple of cans of pop, individuals can afford to donate gloves, hats or scarves. Our entire group brainstormed, came up with the idea and built on it from a meeting. We split up the work and divided the responsibilities."

"We hoped this project would be an easy way for students to get involved in the community without being too much of an expense for them," said WSC honor society member Heather Conley of Omaha.

"This is our first major project. We are hoping to do something like this every fall semester," said WSC honor society member Jeff Child of Draper, Utah.

Pamida donated the use of the tree bearing the gifts in the student center atrium. During a kickoff event, honor society members donated clothing items.

Individuals may donate hats, gloves and scarves to decorate the tree through Dec. 11. For more information, please contact Dr. Deb Whit, sponsor of the honor society and professor of arts and humanities at WSC, at (402) 375-7352.

Children's Memorial Day to be observed

The community of Wayne will recognize National Children's Memorial Day on Dec. 8 with an outdoor candle-lighting.

Begun in 1998, a world-wide candle lighting in remembrance of children is held in every time zone from 7 to 8 p.m. on the second Sunday in December. In this way, candles will be lit in for a 24-hour period to memorialize children.

In Wayne, families or friends of children who have died may light a luminaire in the small park between the Edward Jones building and Doescher Appliance.

Those attending are asked to cut half of the top of a plastic gallon milk container (it works best to leave the handle on) and decorate them as desired.

The plastic container and a small candle should be brought to the park before 7 p.m. Sand will be available near the back of the gazebo.

There will not be a program surrounding this event and the candles will be removed late in the evening.

For more information, contact Jane O'Leary at 375-2335 or Paula Schwarzen at 375-1911.

Bankers offer scholarship

The Nebraska Bankers Association (NBA) has announced a statewide scholarship program to assist students who are pursuing a business-related degree.

Beginning in the spring of 2002, the NBA will award up to six annual scholarships to a college junior- or senior-level student who is studying business at one of the state or privately funded colleges or universities in Nebraska. The program will award $1,000 to a college junior or senior with a qualifying major.

Three of these scholarships were formed through the Nebraska Bankers Educational Foundation in memory of William B. Brandt, a long-time friend of the Nebraska banking industry. Among his many accomplishments, Brandt was a banker, state senator, and NBA general counsel.

In announcing the program, NBA Executive Vice President George Beattie said, "Bill Brandt's efforts throughout his 25-year tenure with the NBA brought many successes for the Nebraska banking industry. Through this scholarship fund, Bill's service to the banking industry, his community, and the state of Nebraska will not be forgotten."

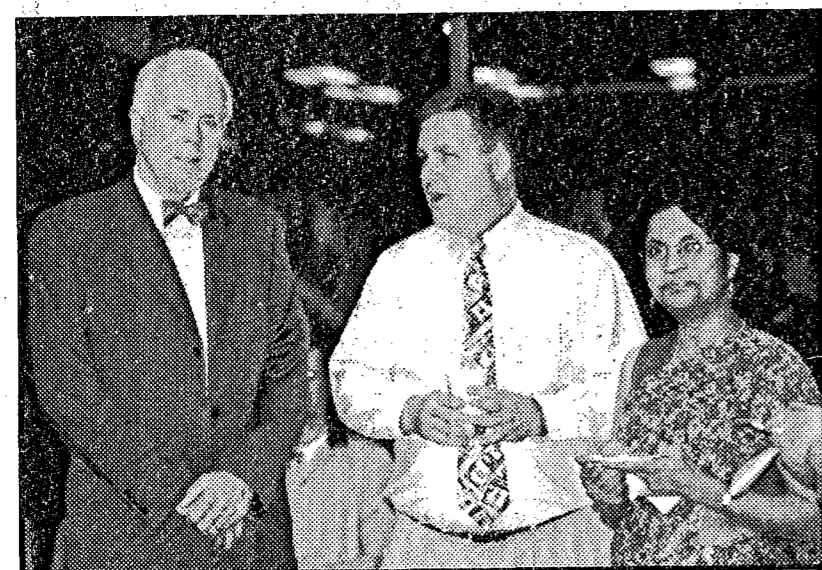

Students interested in applying for a Nebraska Bankers Educational Foundation Scholarship must have at least a college junior- or senior-level status with a minimum grade point average of 3.0 and must be pursuing a degree in business administration (including the areas of finance, accounting, or economics) at a state or privately funded Nebraska college or university (excluding the University of Nebraska).

Students and parents can learn more about the scholarship by contacting NBA Director of Professional Development Joyce Thomas at 402-474-1555 or jthomas@nebankers.org. Information about the program is also available on the NBA Web site at www.nebankers.org. The deadline to submit applications is Jan. 31, 2002.

The Nebraska Bankers Assoc. (www.nebankers.org), founded in 1890, is a statewide association representing 276 of Nebraska's 277 commercial banks and nine of the 17 savings and loan institutions in the state. The association constantly monitors the banking scene, watchful for new ideas and approaches to help Nebraska's financial institutions respond to an everchanging environment.

The NBA strives to anticipate and respond quickly to events that impact its member institutions. Priorities include legislative representation, education, industry promotion and public relations, cost-saving products and services and an array of other services designed to meet the needs of Nebraska's banks and savings and loan institutions.

Tips offered for saving money this holiday season

LINCOLN, Neb. - The economic slump this holiday season may cause people to spend less than in recent years. However, consumers still can plan enjoyable holiday celebrations and give gifts while spending less, a University of Nebraska family economist said.

"American families will spend $500 to $700 on average for the holidays. But they can spend much less and still celebrate," said Kathy Prochaska-Cue, a specialist in NU's Institute of Agricultural and Natural Resources.

Keeping holiday meals simple is one way to save money, Prochaska-Cue said. Instead of preparing several meats, vegetables, salads and desserts, splurge on one special dish and make one or two side dishes.

Consumers also can use their creativity to save money on items such as wrapping paper or holiday cards, she said. Make homemade wrapping paper by decorating plain white paper or newspaper and use inexpensive ribbon instead of bows.

Sending holiday cards also can get expensive, Prochaska-Cue said. Consumers will save money on postage if they mail postcards to family members and friends instead. Making cards also can reduce costs.

To save money on gifts, plan a gift exchange with a set money limit or make homemade gifts, such as cookies, ornaments or a decorated T-shirt or pillow. Don't forget about garage sales, thrift stores or rummage sales, especially for one-of-a-kind gifts. People also may decide to give family members special heirlooms or family treasures instead of purchasing a gift. If money is really tight, consider cutting out gifts for adults and giving something small to children.

Holiday activities don't need to be pricey either. Going sledding, participating in community activities, singing carols or reading favorite holiday books are inexpensive ways to celebrate the season, she said.

The holiday season also gives people an opportunity to give back to their communities, Prochaska-Cue said. Consider volunteering at a soup kitchen, donating toys to needy children, or delivering holiday goodies to people who work on holidays, such as firefighters and police officers.

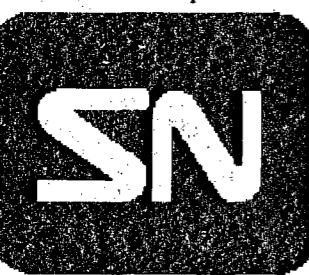

For more information about holiday spending, see the Nov./Dec. 2001 issue of the Cooperative Extension newsletter, Dollars and Sense, available from a local Cooperative Extension office or on the web at <http://cheyenne.unl.edu/DSNov01.pdf>.

Protecting homes against carbon monoxide

People often don't realize it's too late. Carbon monoxide poisoning shows few signs.

It is a clear, odorless gas that reduces the amount of oxygen carried by the blood by binding to the hemoglobin in the red blood cells. The signs of carbon monoxide — headache, dizziness and fatigue — often are blamed on other things.

Even relatively small amounts of the gas can cause serious health problems or even death. Carbon monoxide molecules stay bound to the hemoglobin for several days, which may cause the victim to have long-term health problems. The very young, the elderly and those with pre-existing respiratory problems are most susceptible to carbon monoxide poisoning. If any member of a family or group shows signs or symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning after exposure, all should be medically evaluated.

Space heaters, automobile fumes and flame furnaces are common producers of carbon monoxide gas in the home.

Amy Topp
Extension Educator
4-H & Youth

Adequate ventilation is necessary to disperse the gas from the home. Homeowners should have a certified heating and ventilation technician from a heating and air conditioning service, the power company or local co-op check furnaces. They can check for cracks and make sure all burners and jets are clean to prevent carbon monoxide from forming or leaking. Chimneys, furnaces exhausts and supply vents also should be checked for obstructions. Restricting fresh air supply to furnaces or heaters promotes carbon monoxide formation and obstructed chimneys or exhausts prevent combustion products being discharged outside the building.

Carbon monoxide detectors are

Wayne Eagles Auxiliary has Dec. 3 meeting

The Dec. 3 meeting of the Wayne Eagles Auxiliary was called to order by Madam President DeAnn Behlers.

A reminder was given that the group will be having Soup Suppers on Thursdays in December (6, 13 and 20) from 5:30 to 9 p.m. Volunteers are still needed to help make soup and sandwiches. Anyone who can help is asked to call the club at 375-9956 or stop in and ask what needs to be done.

The Club's Christmas party will be held on Saturday, Dec. 8 at 7 p.m. It will be a potluck (one meat dish and one other dish). There will be a $3 gift exchange. News from the North Pole indicates that Santa will be in the neighborhood that evening and would like to visit with the group.

The Men's State President, Kip Lytle, was in Wayne on Nov. 30 and was treated to a potluck supper.

A thank you note was extended to everyone who made a salad or dessert for the Steak Fry on Dec. 1. There was a good turn-out.

Heather Berg was welcomed back as a re-enrolled member. The auxiliary is slightly in the lead for the membership challenge against the men.

The last three meeting attendance drawings have not been won so members are encouraged to attend the meetings. A reminder to members — meetings are held the first and third Mondays of the month.

Christmas gifts will be given to a Premier Estates resident and the Eagle shut-in members.

Raffle tickets were sent in for the Nebraska Children's Home.

Lunch was served by Jessica Olson. Cheryl Henschke will serve lunch at the Dec. 17 meeting.

the best solution for warning since the gas can't be seen, smelled or tasted. If the detector alarm sounds, occupants should open doors and windows and get out of the house as fast as possible. Detectors are not a substitute for properly operating and maintaining flame heating systems.

"Immediately after my release from the hospital, following my accident five years ago, Providence Home Health Care has been here for me. They helped me both emotionally and physically. They came every day for a few weeks to bath and dress me and to exercise my stiff limbs. They also helped get me up in my chair. They filled my pill box and ordered meds as needed. Later, the visits were cut down to two or three times a week, as I got stronger and my husband could handle my care. At this time, I still have a Home Care Aide who comes once or twice a week. They are a group of cheerful workers and have helped both my husband and I through a very rough time. Keep up the good work."

Both those volunteering and those enjoying the food at the first Thanksgiving, Fellowship and Food expressed gratitude for the experience.

Thanksgiving made special

Because of one person's dream to share Thanksgiving dinner with people who would be alone, a small group of people from Our Savior Lutheran Church visited the Banquet Table in Yankton, S.D. to see how to make this dream a reality.

The group decided to widen the circle of influence by sharing the dream with Wayne Churches. Members from United Church of Christ, St. Mary's Catholic Church, First Presbyterian Church, United Methodist Church and Our Savior Lutheran Church joined forces to collect contributions, spread the invitations and prepare and serve the meal.

The targeted guests were people living and eating alone, people who live too far from families to share the holiday and people who may lack resources for a Thanksgiving feast. The group borrowed Yankton's credo: "If someone comes, they have a need."

With thankful hearts, people began arriving at 11:30 a.m. for the noon meal on Thanksgiving. Fellowship was obvious when conversation and laughter filled the dining room. Every place set at the tables was full, surpassing what the group had hoped would occur at the first community dinner.

The food was prepared by volunteers. Telephone calls and notes of appreciation from guests have been received to confirm the importance of the event.

Volunteers agreed that "Thanksgiving, Fellowship and Food" was an appropriate name for the event. Two Wisconsin hunters, who had heard of the meal, told those in charge that their hunting hadn't been great, but the goodwill and fellowship of this event were priceless.

Special appreciation and thanks go to all individuals who contributed cash and energy serving others. Special thanks were extended to Arnie's Ford Mercury, KTCH, Quality Food Center, Pac 'N' Save, Tacos & More, Vel's Bakery, Wayne Greenhouse, AAL and Lutheran Brotherhood for their contributions to the day's success.

"One hundred thirty-one people left Our Savior Lutheran Church on Thanksgiving Day, enriched by this fellowship. Many left the event with the intention of being a volunteer for the next Community Dinner," said Jim Hummel, one of those instrumental in organizing the Thanksgiving, Fellowship and Feast.

He added that in the days following Thanksgiving, community interest in the event was apparent. People inquired in order to share the day by hearing the story.

"Thanksgiving was a special day in a special way as we celebrated this community meal together."

Lutheran Brotherhood scholarships available

Two different scholarship programs for Lutherans are again being offered through Lutheran Brotherhood this year.

Lutheran Brotherhood members are eligible to apply for the organization's Member Scholarships.

Award amounts for these competitive, merit-based scholarships are determined by the type of institution that the student chooses to attend. Recipients attending private Lutheran colleges are eligible for $2,000, those attending private, non-Lutheran colleges are eligible for $1,000 and those attending public institutions and military academies are eligible for $500. Applications for Member Scholarships should be sent to Lutheran Brotherhood's home office and must be postmarked by Jan. 15, 2002.

Available to Lutheran students attending Lutheran colleges, universities and Bible schools, Lutheran College Scholarships are awarded in the amounts of $800 for non-Lutheran Brotherhood members and $1,500 for members. The selection process is conducted by the Lutheran college(s) to which you apply. Those interested are asked to contact the college's financial aid offices for applications and deadline information.

To request a Member Scholarship application, contact Lynette or Doug Krie, Lutheran Brotherhood District Representatives serving Wayne, Cedar, Dixon, Thurston and Dakota Counties at (402) 375-5532 or call Lutheran Brotherhood at 1-800-328-7168.

Program questions can also be directed to Krie.

Lutheran Brotherhood is a fraternal benefit society of 1.2 million members joined for financial secuity, volunteer service and charitable outreach.

The organization helps Lutherans link faith, values and finances in everyday living.

Janelle (Athey) Stansberry, Fremont, has been chosen to receive the Alumni Achievement Award at the Wayne State College winter commencement ceremonies in Rice Auditorium on Dec. 14 at 2 p.m.

"We are pleased to recognize Janelle for her many achievements," said Deb Lundahl, WSC director of alumni relations. ## Making the holidays brighter

Carroll Junior Girl Scouts Troop #435 made gingerbread houses and brought them to the Premier Estates in Wayne recently. Their mothers also helped with the project. The girls stopped by to visit with their senior buddies who they send cards to and keep in touch with throughout the year. The girls do a couple of individual projects every year which help them in earning their badge work. Another recent project the girls were involved in was baking patriotic cookies which they took to the Norfolk Veterans Home on Veterans Day. Shown, left to right, back row, Megan Loberg, Becca Dowling, Brittany Jackson. Front row, L to R, Amanda Schmale, Katie Stoltenberg, and Liz Kenny. Not in photo, Michaela Staub. ## Alternative to spring break available

Students in two- and four-year colleges in Nebraska are welcome to participate in an Alternative Spring Break from March 17-22, 2002, to Denver, Colo.

According to Cheri Vossberg, service learning coordinator at Northeast Community College in Norfolk, the Alternative Spring Break trips are student-led, powerful partnerships between students and recognized community. The breaks, sponsored by the Nebraska Consortium for Service Learning, provide an excellent opportunity for students to make new friends and gain experience through service, Vossberg said.

The 2002 trip is planned by students who participated in Alternative Spring Break, 2001, in Southern Texas.

Last year, 26 students contributed over 600 hours of service to communities in Southern Texas. This year's trip will focus on inner city Denver, with opportunities to work within education and social programs.

There will be 40 spots available to students across Nebraska, and from those, there will be six available positions for student facilitators.

Applications must be returned to the Nebraska Consortium by Dec. 14. Students who need more information can contact Carolyn Nolte at (402)472-9636 or at carolinamoon1047@yahoo.com <mailto:carolinamoon1047@yahoo.com>

Or, they may contact Vossberg in the Northeast Service Learning Center, Maclay Building, Room 180, in Norfolk. Or call Vossberg at (402)844-7126.

Wireless phones donated to domestic violence victims

In an effort to help combat domestic violence, Cellular One and Motorola with CALL to PROTECT, a nationwide collaborative campaign founded by the Wireless Foundation, Motorola and wireless service providers in 1996, has donated cell phones and airtime minutes for victims of domestic violence.

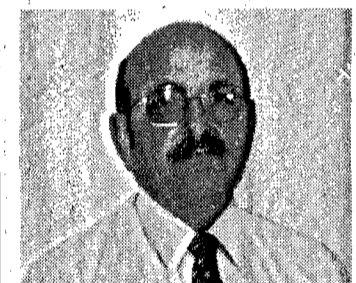

As a part of the program, Cellular One and Motorola are providing pre-programmed wireless phones so victims can call 911 and other emergency services with the push of a button.

In addition, CALL to PROTECT provides the public with information on how to recognize the signs of domestic violence and steps to take to help those in need. To date, the wireless industry has distributed nearly 30,000 CALL to PROTECT phones. These phones help to protect over 100,000 victims of domestic violence each year.

Haven House has received 10 cell phones to distribute throughout their service area of Cedar, Dakota, Dixon, Thurston, and Wayne Counties for domestic violence. These phones will be distributed between their offices in Wayne, Hartington, and South Sioux City.

For more information, please feel free to call Haven House at 402-375-5433.

Antibiotic - Resistant Pneumonia Increase

At one time bacterial infections responsible for pneumonia were relatively easy to treat with "old-time" antibiotics such as penicillin. According to a report in The Journal of the American Medical Association, this is now longer the case. Studies in 1995 showed that 11% of samples of invasion bacterium Streptococcus pneumoniae were resistant to macrolide antibiotics such as erythromycin, clarithromycin, and azithromycin. By 1999 resistance had increased over 20%. During this same time period the use of these antibiotics had increased 13% overall and 320% in children under age 5.

Everyone can do something about antibiotic resistance, a worldwide problem. First, we should not use antibiotics unless they are needed. Viral infections, for example, do not respond to antibiotics. Second, we should finish any course of a prescribed antibiotic, rather than taking only a portion of a prescription, which occurs frequently.

Activities keep us busy

The first Sunday in Advent, and it is 55 degrees out, with bright sunlight. Unlike areas to the north, and the south, of us; we've had no snow. In fact, the petunias are recovering from the freeze and are green again. We ate tomatoes from those volunteer plants until Thanksgiving day.

Six ladies from a local Red Hot Club were here last night. At one time, they had all worked together in Omaha. Now, they try to get together periodically, just to stay in touch.

If you don't know what a Red Hot Club is, check their web site. It's a lot like Art Chicks, whose motto is "Girls just want to have fun!" It's a club without dues or officers, or even agendas, and the members are all female.

These gals met here yesterday morning, got in one van, and headed for Ashland by way of South Bend, where they stopped at The General Store. By the time they finished the day at the local pizza place, it was 10 p.m. when they got back here.

They say they were up until 1:00, giggling, but we didn't hear them. And they were back down for breakfast at 8:00, because of all the other obligations they have today. But, if laughter is good medicine, they should stay well through the holidays.

The first one down came into the kitchen while I cooked, and

The Farmer's Wife
By: Pat Meierhenry

noticed the old phone on the wall. I informed her that it was the one we actually used on the farm; and she said it was much like the one at her aunt's house at Hoskins! I gasped, and said that was where we had lived, and asked what her aunt's name was. "Meierhenry," she replied, "did you know them?" (She had not known our last name.)

Good grief! Her aunt Bess was married to Mike's Uncle Eric: we were practically related. She had spent many summers and holidays on the farm they lived on; had even gathered cobs for the cook stove.

We started the holiday season on Friday night with Dave and Barb Anderson at their annual Celebration of Christmas tour. There were actually five talented musicians; six, counting a Swedish clarinetist.

The highlight of the program was the message by Dr. Oswald Hoffmann, speaker on the Lutheran Hour for 33 years. Our kids grew up listening to him at 12:30 on WJAG while they ate Sunday dinner.

Now 89-years-old, he seems frail. But when he began to preach, the old voice and mannerisms were still there.

It reminded me of Billy Graham at the memorial service in the Washington Cathedral. He had to be assisted to the podium, but once there, he could still preach!

Along with Pope John, these three patriarchs of the faith exemplify how remaining true to one's calling can transform old age. As Dr. Hoffmann would say "Ah-men!"

Selecting fresh Christmas trees key to quality

Many Nebraska families enjoy the tradition of selecting and decorating a real Christmas tree.

Cutting a live Christmas tree ensures freshness and quality, but even pre-cut trees from Nebraska are much fresher than trees cut and shipped from western and northern states — often months before Christmas. Buying a Nebraska-grown tree ensures freshness and supports the local economy.

To enjoy a real Christmas tree longer, buy a fresh tree and keep the stem base in water to prevent the needles from drying and the boughs from drooping. Check for freshness by gently stroking the needles or striking the trunk on the ground. If green needles drop off, the tree isn't fresh and it might be wise to reject it. After a tree is brought home, store it outdoors in an area protected from wind or sun to help the tree retain its moisture. Put the tree trunk in snow or a pail of water until it is ready to be used.

tree decorations. Avoid combustible decorations and check all electric lights and connects. Don't

Garden Clippings

Wayne Area Master Gardener Program

When the tree is brought inside to decorate, saw off about one inch of the trunk straight across. A fresh cut removes clotted resins that prevent the tree from absorbing water. Mount the tree in a stand that holds plenty of water and add water daily to keep the stand full. A Christmas tree may absorb a gallon or more of water each day, depending on size and condition. A new stem cut will be necessary if the water level drops below the trunk.

When Christmas trees are fresh, they are no more flammable than fresh flowers, but precautions need to be taken with use lights with worn or frayed cords, never use lighted candles and place the tree away from fireplaces, radiators, TV sets and other heat sources. Turn off the tree's lights when leaving a room and before going to bed.

A Christmas tree's usefulness is not over the holiday season. The tree can be erected in the yard adorned as a winter bird feeder. The boughs can be stripped and used for mulch around flower beds or the trunk may be sawed into firewood.

Crop land rental meetings slated

Anyone involved in renting agricultural land is encouraged to attend one of the meetings being held in the area.

Participants will have an opportunity to learn from NU extension farm management specialists Roger Selley and Doug Jose, who will discuss various topics of interest concerning the rental of agricultural land.

The local sponsor of the program is the Wayne County UNL Cooperative Extension Service.

In many counties in Nebraska, more than 60 percent of the cropland is rented. Share leasing is still the predominant type of agreement in the state but various forms of cash leasing are becoming more popular. Cash leases represent about 40 percent of the crop leases in the state.

A number of details should be considered when developing a lease agreement. These include land ownership costs, crop production costs, federal farm program benefits, the market value of the crops produced and the relative risks of the two parties in the agreement.

These half-day crop rental meetings will present information on the current trends in rental agreements and the essential elements to include when developing a fair and equitable agreement. Examples will be calculated for local conditions, including an opportunity to budget specific case situations.

Topics to be covered include:

- current cash rental rates;
- common share agreements;
- principles for fair and equitable leases;
- keys to maintaining good landowner-tenant relationships;
- how to adjust rental agreements.

Sites for the meetings throughout northeast Nebraska are:

Friday, Dec. 7: Center (Extension Office meeting room), 9:30 a.m. and Neligh (Extension Office meeting room), 1:30 p.m.

Thursday, Dec. 20: Hartington, (City Auditorium basement), 9 a.m. and Wayne, (County Courthouse Courtroom), 1:30 p.m.

CONTRIBUTION

Lions Club officers Ron Wenstrand and Larry Clay recently accepted a check for $500 from representatives of Pee Wee football. Making the presentation were players Joel Nixon and Brady Nicholson, along with coaches Rod Nixon and Tom Henderson.

Lions President Ron Wenstrand said the Lions' initial list includes 15 families and 35 children. Others may be added as the Christmas holiday nears.

Henderson said he hoped the donation would "kick-off" another successful project by the Lions for those less fortunate.

Henderson went on to explain that the Pee Wee football organization holds several fundraisers to support their needs and this year decided to donate some of the monies back to the community. The Pee Wee football program is designed to teach sportsmanship; help build character among young athletes, and also to have some fun along the way.

"We also appreciate all the Wakefield Lions Club does each year to support other youth activities like baseball and basketball, and this is a way we can in turn help them with their community project," Henderson added.

USE WAKEFIELD $$$

Anyone who received Wakefield Dollars during the past year is urged to spend them before the end of the year. The Wakefield Dollars sponsored by the Community Club are checks good for merchandise in any Wakefield business.

Wakefield Dollars are used throughout the year as gifts, prizes and incentives by Wakefield businesses, organizations and individuals.

Anyone may purchase Wakefield Dollars to use as a gift. The brightly colored dollars are available at Iowa-Nebraska State Bank of Wakefield. The recipient may use the dollars for purchases in Wakefield such as gift items at True Value or NAPA, for gas at the local stations, groceries at the Fair Store, or services in the beauty/barber shops, etc.

Businesses may then deposit the dollars in their account at the bank.

The 2001 dollars carry an expiration date of Dec. 31, so remember to spend them before the end of the year. New dollars are available to give for Christmas.

BEST ACTOR

Ross Hansen was named best actor in the Clark Division of the Lewis and Clark Conference One-Act Play Contest recently held in Hartington. The play "Happy Never Again" was rated among the eight schools competing.

BRAN IS COMING

Bike Ride Across Nebraska or BRAN has set their route for their 2002 ride and Wakefield has been chosen as one of their sites. Riders can be expected to arrive between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Thursday, June 13, 2002. The route will begin in Paxton and end at Safari Park in Omaha. Riders will cover roughly 500 miles in seven days and stay at six host communities.

This is an opportunity for Wakefield to gain some recognition as an outstanding community and increase interest in the area; it should provide an economic boost. Organizers state that BRAN brings in between $10,000 and $16,000 to each community they visit.

How can this be? Each rider is expected to pay an entry fee to ride but is also responsible for their own expenses enroute. Host communities offer dinner, supper and breakfast for over 600 riders along with approximately 150 support staff.

In addition, snacks, ice cream bars, as well as entertainment and activities can be planned. What a great way to boost economic development and good will in Wakefield advertising in the BRAN Tour Guide which is available to all to get the word out.

BRAN also provides one scholarship to each host community for $500 to a Wakefield graduate who attends a Nebraska College. One community is chosen as best host community by the riders themselves; that outstanding community's scholarship is increased to $1,000.

A meeting is planned for Thursday, Dec. 6 at 6:30 p.m. MORE CONTRIBUTIONS

The Wakefield Heritage Organization (WHO) has received an additional $1,340 in donations for the moving and restoring of the Round Barn. These donors will receive sculpture replicas of the barn number 21 through 27.

Donors of $150 included Wilma Johnson and Wendell Johnson, both of Norfolk, Mike and Tracy Heinemann of Wayne and Marilyn Roberder of Casper, Wyo.

A $400 donation was received from William R. Peters of Omaha, $175 from Clifford Wegner of Fremont and $165 from Mark and Janice Utecht of Papillion.

WHO is currently selling tickets for pork products which were donated to the group. The drawing will be held Dec. 18 during the halftime of the boys basketball game with Osmond.

MEETING SET

The WHO group has set a meeting for Saturday, Dec. 8 at 10 a.m. at the school. Agenda will include election of officers, constitution for the group, naming a restorative committee and discussion of non-profit status.

All interested persons are encouraged to attend. The meeting will be in the Industrial Tech classroom and people attending should use the West parking lot and enter on the South side of the building into the classroom.

Anyone with questions should contact Daryl Harrison, Kirby Mousel or Jennifer Goos.

SIGNS TO PLAY VOLLEYBALL

Timarie Bebee has signed a letter of intent during the early signing period to play volleyball for the Wayne State College Wildcats.

Timarie was selected as an all conference performer both her junior and senior year, and this year was the second top vote getter.

Other honors she has received during her volleyball career at Wakefield include Academic All-State her junior season, 2001 Lincoln Journal Star All-State volleyball team, Omaha World Herald All-State selection and Norfolk Daily News Elite Eight honorable mention.

Timarie was also named to the Northeast Nebraska Tournament All-Tournament team.

"Timarie will make the move from middle hitter to outside hitter," said WSC Head Coach Sharon Vanis. "She has a great deal of athletic ability that has been challenged day in and day out."

For the Lady Trojans in 2001, she tallied 235 kills, 38 service aces and 93 digs. She was a four-year starter during high school and a three-year starter on the basketball team. She will graduate from Wakefield High School in May.

FOOTBALL HONORS

Members of the Trojan Football team earned All-District honors for the play during the 2001 season. They are Toan Nguyen, Ryan Carson, Nick Ekberg, Luke Hoffman, Jake Osulka, Eric Klein, and James Felt.

Hoffman, a sophomore, along with juniors Nguyen and Miller were named to the All-District Team joining players from Cedar Catholic, Creighton, Laurel, Ponca and Randolph.

Carson, Felt, Klein, and Ekberg were all honorable mention selection and are Wakefield High seniors.

PLACED SECOND

If you live in this part of Nebraska, you're more likely to suffer a heart attack. In fact, this region has the highest rate of heart disease in the state. That's why Faith Regional has expanded its services to create the CardioVascular Institute - a complete cardiovascular care center right in the heart of Nebraska.

This is the heart of Nebraska

Using the most advanced technology and procedures possible, the Faith Regional CardioVascular Institute is dedicated to the prevention, detection, intervention and rehabilitation of heart related diseases. # International business classes scheduled

To prepare students for an increasingly global society, Northeast Community College in Norfolk has scheduled another International Business class to begin in January.

International Business, with course number BSAD 2250-01, will meet on Tuesday and Thursday afternoon from 2-3:15 p.m. beginning Tuesday, Jan. 8.

The same class, with course number BSAD 2250-02, will meet Tuesday evenings from 6-9 p.m. beginning Jan. 8.

The three-credit class will be team taught by Lin Behmer, Northeast business instructor, and Norfolk Gary Blinn. Blinn is an Air Force Academy graduate, Harvard business school graduate, former Toyko, banker and world traveler.

According to Behmer, globalization of markets, technological advancements, general global interconnectivity, and multicultural workforces are just a few of the trends that make this course vital to students.

Problems and opportunities in conducting business globally will be reviewed in this class. There will also be analysis of the concepts, tools, institutions and environmental factors controlling international flows of money, personnel, information, goods and services.

Behmer said that international trade generates more than 30,000 jobs in Nebraska and over $5 billion in new money comes into the state each year through international business. Nebraska exports to over 140 countries each year and export-related jobs have grown eight times faster than jobs in the U.S. economy as a whole, she said.

To register for either session of this International Business class, call Northeast Community College at (402)844-7267.
