Milestones noted at Premier Estates

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

Not one, but two women at Premier Estates in Wayne are celebrating their 100th birthdays during the month of January.

Mollie Rath turned 100 on Jan. 7 and Mary Echtenkamp will celebrate her special day on Jan.

The two women share a common northeast Nebraska bond, having lived nearly their entire lives in northeast Nebraska.

Mollie was born Jan. 7, 1902 in Mineola, Iowa. Her family lived in Missouri and Wakefield before moving to a farm north of Laurel in 1908. She attended Golden Prairie School, a one room school and later spent a year at Koester Sewing College, above a bank in Wayne.

"I remember getting our first car in 1913. It had no doors for the back seat. When we took trips from Laurel to Wayne, we thought it was a long way," she said, On rare occasions her family would travel to Council Bluffs, Iowa to visit her grandparents.

Main Street Focus

By Leo Ahmann

It's nearly Board election time for the Main Street Wayne Program. Our Nomination Committee is presently contacting a number of individuals about being interested in serving on our Board and being listed on our ballot that will be coming out soon. Who is eligible to vote? Any business or individual who has made a monetary or in-kind contribution to the Main Street Program.

Our hope is that those people . . YOU PEOPLE . . . understand that the Main Street Program is their . . . YOUR . . . program. There will also be a spot on the ballot for write-in candidates for the Board. We want to give our supporters, "Friends of Main Street," options on who they want to represent them in our program. Please be looking for the ballot in your mail soon.

The election of officers on our Board . . . chairperson, vice-chair, treasurer and secretary . . . will take place at the Annual meeting to be held Tuesday, Feb. 12. The meeting on the 12th is open to the public, as are the weekly Tuesday morning, "All Hands" meeting.

PLEASE NOTE . . . the Tuesday meetings now begin at 8 a.m. instead of 7. Again, all of the Tuesday meetings are open to the public. Come join us!

We were please to present last week a check in amount of $600 to the Chamber's Flag Committee for the purchase of new American flags for the downtown area (and hopefully beyond). This is the first installment of our commitment and we sincerely hope other groups, clubs and organizations will get involved. We ask that you contact the Chamber and find out how you may contribute. Individual donations are obviously very welcome also.

We had an opportunity last Friday evening to attend the viewing of the community art project and the mural that is being done for the community. A drawing of the complete mural is available for viewing at the high school. Main Street will be creating a book sculpture for the art project. (Notice, I did not say I would be doing the clay sculpturing!!). For more information, call 375-7356, 375-3150 or 375-2240.

After a quiet beginning the first couple of weeks of 2002, things are starting to pick up here at 208 North Main and that's the way we like it. Come join the 'get-it-done' bunch.

Until next time . . .

Main Street Wayne is among those organizations and individuals who have donated money for the Chamber's

Do what's right for the children

By Ed Howard Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

Gov. Mike Johanns and the Legislature should act promptly and effectively to see that children around the state don't suffer because government screwed up a change in the way child support is

It isn't important to point fingers in regards to the snafu connected with centralizing child support payments. The project, a brainchild of the feds, is to see that the payments run through the state instead of district court clerks. Big changes in big systems, in the private or public sectors, can cause nightmares. That's understand-

The issue of moment is not that the cyber space cadets and the bureaucrats didn't get a horse before they loaded everything into the cart. The issue of moment is that mothers and children could be forced to endure humiliation and suffering through no fault of their

Let's remember that the state took on a responsibility to do something simple: Take a check from one person and give it to another

And remember that we aren't talking about state money. These aren't tax dollars going to mothers and children. These are dollars that go from one private citizen to another. The state is simply a con-

Again, there is no question that getting a system running efficiently is a tough job, But the fact that the state can't meet a federal deadline in a legitimate way, or that the deadline might have been unreasonable, is government's problem. It should not, not, not be allowed to have the end result of punishing children whose fathers have met their court-ordered obligation.

What do you think would happen if the IRS demanded money from you, and you said: "Yeah, well. I've got a new system here for moving money around and it ain't working right. So, uh, just be patient." Huh?

And to those who would say, "It's not the same thing," the view here is: "It sure as hell is, buster!" Government took on a critical obligation and it's obligated to meet it. Period.

The state could set up a fund to let moms, whose former husbands have a good record of paying child support payments, get an advance on those payments when the state screws up the delivery. The definition of "good record" could be defined by the Legislature. If that idea doesn't fly, then something else should.

What's not acceptable is the notion that nothing can be done for the people who have had this mess inflicted upon them.

Nebraska is among those states that bend over backwards to help when business, especially big business, hollers for help.

The fact that some mothers and their children can't holler as loud as a corporate chorus doesn't mean that they shouldn't be heard.

This isn't a matter of the governor or the Legislature being bad guys. It's nothing of the sort. It's a matter of a very real problem for very real people who ought not to suffer for a botched up system over which they have no control.

One might also hope that those organizations, religious and otherwise, that concern themselves with the well-being of children (born and unborn) would get involved. After all, it doesn't do any good to believe that life begins at conception if you proceed to act as though it ends at birth.

New Legislature session begins lature, Second Session, began on Wednesday, January 9, 2002. Legislative sessions during evennumbered years last for 60 days. The date of adjournment has tentatively been set for either April 18th or 19th.

Legislative bills can be introduced during the first ten days of the legislative session. The number of bills introduced this year will most likely be lower than in previous years due to the economy of our state. During special session this fall, the Legislature cut $171 million from the budget. It is predicted that the Legislature will need to cut an additional $50 million during this session. However, the Governor has recommended that the Legislature wait to deal with the $50 million shortfall until after the Economic Forecasting Advisory Board meets in February and updates their projections. Irregardless, any legislation that has a fiscal impact does not stand a good chance of passage this year.

There are several emotional issues, with no price tag, that will most likely be discussed this year, They include changing the method of inflicting the death penalty from the electric chair to lethal injection; prohibiting the University of Nebraska from conducting research using fetal tissue and passing a fetal homicide law. Extended debate on rule changes in order to limit the amount of time that is spent on filibusters is also likely.

Last year during the redistricting process that takes place every 10 years based on the new census figures, District #18 was moved from Northeast Nebraska to the Omaha area, (Although technically, my district has moved to the Omaha area, I intend to still represent the constituents that placed me in office.) The plan put Cedar County, Knox County, Pierce County and the eastern half of Holt County in District #40, thereby putting Senator M. L. Dierks and myself in the same district. I felt that we were both strong voices for agriculture and rural development and I hated to see Northeast Nebraska lose one vote on these issues. Senator Dierks and I strongly opposed the

if we have the necessary support to change the current boundaries. We realize that this will once again affect the voters of Nebraska but we feel it is important to try to retain both legislative districts in Northeast Nebraska.

take part in the Early Leave Incentive Plan and is resigning as a Middle School English teacher at the end of 2001-02 school year. She has taught in the Wayne school system32 years. The board also accepted the resignation of Shannon Dunning, assistant technology director. Other board action included the hiring of Ron Carnes and Mike Fehringer to teach Drivers Education for the summer of 2002.

Discussing gifts to the district, the school has received $5,000 from Wayne Boosters Club which has been used for backboards in the high school gym.

Also approved was the Interlocal Agreement with Wayne State College, Wayne County and the City of Wayne. According to Dr. Joe Reinert, Wayne Schools superintendent, the purpose of agreement is created to share information, resources and facilities whenever possible for the most efficient use of tax revenues collected in the Vayne County area.

The board also approved the Wayne High Spanish trip in June for 10 days which the students raise money for the trip. Kathryn Ley, Wayne High vocal director Spanish teacher, will sponsor the WHS Spanish students. They will travel with a group from Norfolk High School overseas from Madrid to Barcelona.

The board discussed the budget and recent cuts in state aid. Dr. Reinert spoke on the state aid available to District 17 for 2001-02 of 2,106,294 and the projection for 2002-03 of 1,689,829 (a decrease of $416,466). Budget for 2001-02 was $6,552,850 and the estimated budget for 2002-03 is $6,870,937 (an increase of $318,087). More discussion on the budget will be held at a special session at the First National Insurance Board Room on Thursday, Jan. 24 at 12:30 p.m. Executive session was held to discuss personnel and evaluation. The next regular meeting of the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education will be held on Monday, Feb. 11 at 7 p.m. at Wayne High School.

On the agenda is the sale of the modular buildings. With the move into the newly renovated Middle School, the mods are no longer needed by the school and are for sale at a minimum bid of $30,000 per building. Deadline for bids is Feb. 15, 2002.

City officials have condemned a downtown Wayne building at 111 North Main Street because structural problems have left the site unsafe. Occupants were told to evacuate the premises until further notice when remodeling is done to bring it up to specifications.

Auditorium renovation fate will be debated

At the Jan. 8 meeting of the senior citizens facility, storm Wayne City Council, Ken Kwapnoiski, chairman of the Auditorium Renovation Committee and Mike Thompson of Alley Poyner Architect, P.C., the architectural firm working with proposals, presented the a list of suggested improvements to the auditorium to the council.

Plans call for the heating system to be updated, air conditioning installed, the electrical system to be improved, the restrooms renovated and several other improvements. Currently, there is approximately $680,000 available for the renovation.

The auditorium is the final project being funded by a city sales tax that was implemented in Oct. of 1994 following a vote on the issue in May of that year.

At that time, voters agreed to a sales tax "to be used for capital projects, including a new library/ meeting.

drainage improvements, renovation of the City Auditorium and Highway 35 widening improvements."

At that time, it was estimated that the sales tax would generate approximately $400,000 per year. Additionally, the estimated cost of the renovation was to be approximately $425 - 480,000 and the sales tax would cover the entire

Council members postponed any action of the architect's plan, pending discussion of the details during a planned council retreat on Feb. 1-

Among the options the council has, is allowing for some of the renovation work to be done by city employees, which could result in a cost savings.

No action on the issue will be taken until the council's Feb. 12

'Cats get career high scoring from Nicole Gesell WSC gals knock off S.W. State

Wayne State women's basketball coach Ryun Williams watched his 'Cats post their biggest win of the season to date last Saturday at home with a 56-50 win over conference leader. Southwest

WSC led the Mustangs, 24-21 at the half and never trailed in the contest. They led by as many as 11 points in the opening stanza.

The visitors pulled to with in a point at 42-41 with just over four minutes in the game but WSC hit nine free throws out of 14 attempts in the final four minutes of the game to seal the win.

"That was definitely a big win for us," Williams said. "It should do wonders for our confidence."

Williams said defense was the key in posting the 'Cats seventh win of the season.

"This was two great defensive teams going at it," Williams added. "Our role players really stepped up for us in this game as

"Karen gets tons of attention from the opposition and it's always going to be that way," Williams said. "I still liked the way she fought and made things happen for us."

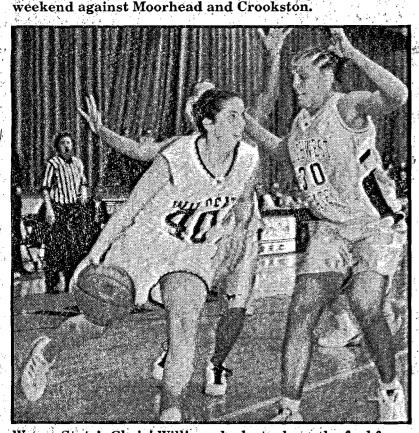

WSC was out-rebounded by a 39-33 margin with Hochstein leading the way with eight caroms while Martin had seven.

The Cats improved to 4-3 in NSIC play and will remain at home through the end of the month as they host Minnesota State-Moorhead on Friday and Minnesota-Crooktson

Winside boys edge Trojans while Wakefield girls win

Winside and Wakefield's basketball teams squared off last week with the host team prevailing in each game.

Wakefield's girls rolled past Winside by a 65-40 margin while Winside's boys got a last second shot from Adam Hoffman to give Winside its only lead of the game and the win, 68-66.

with Makayla Marotz and Amy Rademacher each adding three. Kalynda Hokamp and Stacey Rabe each scored two.

Jacobsen also had a dozen rebounds for game honors. "We played well in the first half but we got beat pretty good on the boards," Winside coach Marlon Erbst said.

In the boys game the score was tied at 32 at the half and Winside trailed 43-39 after three quarters of play.

Adam Hoffman led the winners with 23 points with Ben Lienemann pouring in 21 and Denton Cushing, 16. Michael Hawkins, Nate Wills, Russ O'Connor and Adam Pfeiffer each added two.

Cushing had a team-high eight rebounds with Hoffman garnering seven caroms.

"We just didn't get any flow on offense and our execution was slow," Uldrich said. "Defensively we played well enough to win but we have to execute on offense to have opportunities to win."

The Allen boys lost a close 48-44 decision to Bancroft-Rosalie last Friday in Allen.

"This was a disappointing loss," Uldrich said. "We played well defensively for about 30 of the 32 minutes. We made some poor choices with the basketball when the game was in the balance."

Corey Uldrich led the Eagles with 15 points with Brett Keitges adding 13 and Duane Rahn 12.

Bryan Gotch rounded out the scoring with four points. Uldrich posted a double-double with 10 rebounds to go with his 15 points,

The sophomore also had a teamhigh five assists while Bart Sachau dished out four.

Allen will travel to play Walthill on Friday.

In last week's 9th-10th grad tournament in Allen the Eagles prevailed with a 50-33 championship win over Laurel-Concord,

Members of the team included: Andrew Gensler, David Rastede, Brett Koester, Duane Rahn, Andrew Sachau, Bart Sachau, Aaron Smith, Scott Blohm and Corey Uldrich.

Allen's girls dropped a close 54-51 decision to unbeaten Wynot on Tuesday as Lori Koester's Eagles had the game tied with under a minute left in regulation with a couple of chances for the win but couldn't quite pull off the victory.

"This was one of our best allaround games of the season against a very solid and unbeaten team," Koester said. "Wynot is ranked fourth in D-2 and our girls gave them all they could handle."

Allen erased a six-point deficit after three quarters of play to tie the game late.

"We tried to get the ball out and run on offense and on defense we played with reckless abandon like we wanted," Koester added.

Elizabeth Bock led the Eagles with 11 points while Angela Prochaska scored 10 and Angie Sullivan along with Alycia Stewart scored nine apiece. Alyssa Uldrich tossed in six and Kelli Rastede, four while Katie Koester tallied two.

John Murtaugh's Wayne wrestling team competed at the Invitational last Elkhorn Saturday with the Blue Devils netting 51.5 points for 12th place. Aurora won the team title with 201.5 with Elkhorn placing second at 187 followed by Valentine, 166.5 and Grand Island, 131. Gretna, Bennington, Crete, Falls City, Nebraska City and O'Neill followed in order.

Wayne had just seven wrestlers as a partial team went to the Pender Invite.

Three of Wayne's seven grapplers earned medals including Dana Schuett at 160 pounds as the freshman captured runner-up Matt Nelson placed third at 125 but the storyline for the Blue Devil sophomore was defeating Class B's top-ranked wrestler in Valentine's Tyler Eggert. He also took out the fifth-rated wrestler in Anders Erickson of Falls City.

Nelson lost to Brett Allgood of Bennington—the Class C wrestler bidding to become a four-time state champ this season. Allgood has never lost a high school wrestling match and Nelson's 16-7 setback was the closest score Allgood has seen this season.

Josh Pieper placed fourth for Wayne at 152 pounds.

"This was a good tournament for us because it is similar to the district tournament in terms of competitiveness," Murtaugh said. Josh Widner wrestled at 103 and went 0-2 including a 4-2 overtime loss while Matt Roeber went 0-2 at 130. Casey Campbell went 1-2 with a win by pin in his second match at 140 and Keyin Modrell went 0-2 at 189. Those competing in Pender's 9-10th grade tournament enjoyed success with seven-of-the-eight grapplers earning medals.

No team score was kept. Jacob Kay (130), Dan Reinhardt (135), Brandon Pilger (140) and Josh Hartwell (145) each placed first while Justin Modrell (112), Andrew Lowe (135) and Aaron Jorgensen (215) each placed third. Dusty Lutt competed at 119

Last Thursday Wayne won a dual at South Sioux, 46-30 as the Blue Devils came out on top of nine matches in which six came by pin.

There were 12 matches in the dual with South Sioux winning at 103, 112 and 119 by pin over Wayne's Josh Widner, Justin Modrell and Dusty Lutt.

The Cardinals also received forfeit points at 171 and 275.

Wakefield's Andy Jensen, (215) finished fourth and becomes the first medal winner at Wakefield since 1981 after which, the program ended until this season.

"We had a very good tournament considering the condition we were in coming in via injuries, etc.," coach Paul Sok said. "We had an exceptional number of pins which helped our team scoring.

"Josh Sok defeated a Battle Creek wrestler who hadn't lost this season prior to that match. and Brandon Suehl erased a 5-0 deficit in the finals to win by a 6-5 count. Tom Schwedhelm dominated his weight class winning by pin in all three matches."

Sok said he was extremely proud of his kids as every wrestler scored at least three points. "If you would have taken anyone else out of the lineup we likely would have finished lower," Sok added.

While Winside's varsity was competing at Battle Creek, five of its JV grapplers were competing at Pender's 9-10th grade tourna-. ment with all five placing. Kassius Holdorf (130), Brandon Bowers (135), Dan Morris (140). and Bryce Roberts (189) each placed first with James Neel (119) netting third.

Winside will compete at the Oakland-Craig Tournament on Saturday before hosting Wayne in a dual on Tuesday.

Tuesday in Winside the Wildcats coach celebrated his birthday in style as his squad won a dual with Elgin Pope John and Atkinson West Holt.

Winside downed Pope John by a 48-29 margin.

There were eight matches in the dual as forfeits were recorded in the other six weight classes. Vita On the mat Winside had posted two pins as Brandon Suehl (125) and Josh Sok (152) earned the falls while Bo Brummels (112) won 9-6 and Eric Morris (160) won, 4-3.

Daniel Morris (135), Brandon Bowers (140), Chris Hansen (145) and Katlin Pokorny (171) were defeated.

Winside thumped West Holt, 39-18 as 10 matches were held with the host team coming out on top of seven.

Brandon Suehl, Daniel Morris, Tom Schwedhelm and Mike Tomasek each won by pin while Bo Brummels won 3-1 and Josh Sok came out on top of a 2-1 decision. Eric Morris won 6-4. Nathan Stevens, Brandon Bowers and Chris Hansen were defeated.

Muzzleloading, a blast from the past

Over the years, I've dabbled in muzzleloading, thinking it was a good way to go back in time, to hunt like my fore fathers did.

The thing that kept me from really getting into it was the fact that you had to clean the weapon so often. I like many others hated the mess created when cleaning a muzzleloader.

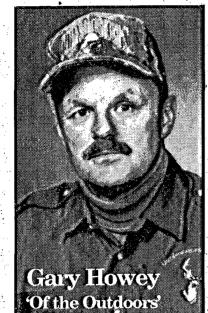

The rifle had to be completely torn down, flushed and dried, which took a lot of time. Many muzzleloaders were ruined because they weren't cleaned properly.

Tax Time Again! We are ready to take Income Tax Appointments for filing your 2001 Income Taxes.

KEITH JECH AGENCY 316 Main, Wayne, NE 68787 Ph. 375-1429. Yes, We E-File

Another problem that muzzle

loaders ran into was misfires. Nothing could be worse than to spend an entire day in a tree stand only to have your muzzleloader misfire when the deer finally showed up.

Misfires occurred when the cap doesn't ignite the powder. If the cap doesn't fire, the powder won't ignite and you have a misfire.

As with anything, things have improved, making muzzleloading a lot less complicated.

With the introduction of inlines, muzzleloading became a lot' easier. Knight, C.V.A. and Markesbery, to name a few are some of the manufacturers that have the in-line rifles.

The in-line muzzleloaders load faster and have several ignition spark to ignite the powder or Pyrodex. The No. 10, 11, musket caps, rifle primers and 209 primers are now being used on inlines to quickly ignite the powder, making misfires less likely.

Muzzleloaders no longer need to measure out their powder charge as Hodgdon Powder manufactures the pre-measured Pyrodex Pellets that load quickly, ignite quicker and burn cleaner than regular powder. With my rifles, I use two of the 50 gr. Pyrodex pellets and have been able to pattern my muzzleloader at 50 to 70 yards.

Cleaning solvents have also been developed that make cleaning a lot quicker. Hodgdon EZ Clean made especially for hunters using Pyrodex helps to quickly cut the powder residue left after firing a muzzleloader.

Picking up your target quickly has also become much easier by the addition of fiber optic sights that many of the muzzleloaders now come equipped with. If your muzzleloader didn't come with fiber optics, there are several companies such as TRUGLO that manufacture after market magnetic or self-adhesive fiber optic sights. They're available at most sporting goods dealers, gun shops or your mass merchandisers.

Many states allow scopes on muzzleloaders and most manufacturers have scope mounts available for their in-lines.

I use a red dot sight when I hunt Nebraska. Nebraska is one of the states that don't allow sights with more than 1 power magnification. Bushnell, Aim Point, Tasco and BSA all manufacture this type of sights.

Many states such as Mississippi, where I hunted last January, allow the use of scopes on muzzleloaders. Any scope will fit on the new in-lines, so where they are legal, a muzzleloader can adapt his favorite rifle scope for use on his muzzleloader.

Before you travel to another state to muzzleload, you'll want to check the regulations and see if scopes with magnification are allowed.

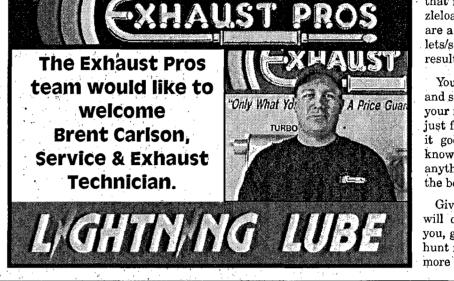

The main thing you want to do before heading out into the field is to spend a little time and shoot your muzzleloading. Some rifles will shoot well with bigger loads, while others will pattern better using lighter loads.

There are numerous companies that make bullets/sabots for muzzleloaders. Hornady, and C.V.A. are a couple of the companies bullets/sabots that I've had excellent results with.

You'll need try different loads and see which ones pattern best in your rifle before you go out. Don't just fire one or two loads and call it good, fire several and get to know your muzzleloader. Like anything, the more you practice, the better your hunt will be.

Give muzzleloading a "shot", it will open up another season for you, giving you the opportunity to hunt many states and spend some more time in the great outdoors.

Herbs for Health Caffeine May Boost Mental

Awareness in Some Persons

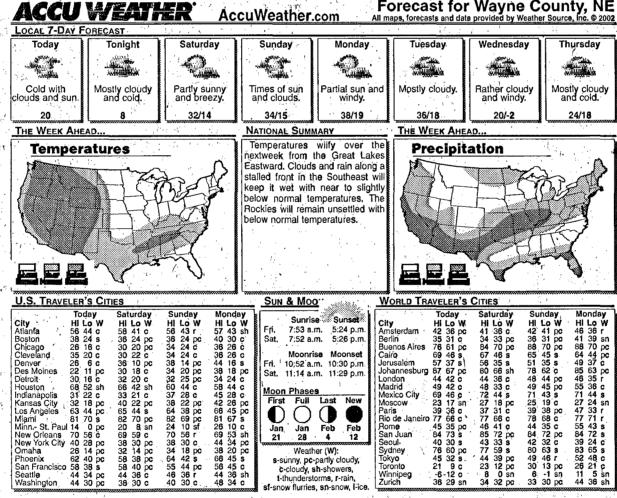

A study conducted at Hofstra University in New York suggests that heavy caffeine users may not get the same boost from the stimulant as do conservative users. Volunteers were divided into groups - frequent and infrequent users. Persons in each group were given either a moderately high dose of caffeine or an inactive placebo. All participants were then instructed to type a page of randomly selected words and phrases. Of those who received caffeine, typing speed increased among both the frequent and infrequent caffeine users. Interestingly, the infrequent caffeine users produced fewer errors, indicating that they may have been more mentally aware than were the heavy caffeine users.

The results of this study may support the occasional use of caffeine as a supplement for mental awareness. Yet, use of caffeine is not without its drawbacks. Caffeine can increase blood pressure and may not be appropriate for persons with high blood ssure, heart disease, and anxiety.

Raising 'can-do' teens

As parents, we admire teens with confident, "can-do" attitudes. Would you like to help your high schooler develop that attitude? Here are four simple ways to boost the "can-do" spirit.

1. Praise effort. When your child succeeds at something, praise the hard work that he put into it. Let him know that effort - not luck or talent - is the key to success. He'll feel more in control of his own success and be more willing to take on new challenges.

2. Make failure a learning experience. If your teen fails at something, try not to criticize her for it. Instead, ask what went wrong and what she might do differently next time. Help her see it as a learning experience, not a defeat. Instead of giving, she'll be more willing to try again until she does succeed.

3. Practice problem-solving. When your child has a problem, let' him try to solve it himself. Show him how to brainstorm solutions and weigh the pros and cons. He'll learn to trust his own judgment, even in difficult situations.

4. Say "I love you." Kids who feel loved tend to feel more secure. They have higher self-esteem and are more confident about trying new things. So, tell your teen you love her — and watch her soar!

Bonds offer an array of benefits

If you're looking for an investment with multiple benefits, and you happen to be civic-minded, you might want to consider municipal bonds. They've got a lot to Municipal bonds, or "munis." are issued in two main categories: general obligation bonds and revenue bonds. General obligation bonds finance the ongoing activities of state and local governments, while revenue bonds pay for specific projects, such as airports, hospitals and other civic institutions.

Thus, when you invest in a muni, you're supporting a valuable project or service in your own state or community. And beyond that, you get some key advantages, including the following:

• Tax savings — If you're in one of the upper tax brackets, you may be able to achieve significant tax savings by owning munis. By owning any municipal bond, your interest payments will be free from federal taxes, although in some cases they may be subject to the alternative minimum tax. If the municipality that issues the bond is located in your state, your interest payments may also be exempt from state and local taxes. So, if you're concerned about the amount of taxes you're paying on your investments, munis could pay off for you. In fact, the tax advantage of municipal bonds may be so great that you'd have to earn a considerably higher interest rate on another type of bond — such as a corporate bond - just to get the same after-tax return.

• Diversification — If your portfolio is heavily weighted toward equities, munis can bring you a valuable element of diversification. Municipal bonds are impervious to many of the economic factors that cause volatility in the price of stocks. So, municipal bond prices generally do not move together with stock prices.

Stability — Municipal bonds are among the most secure investments you can own. The default rate on munis - especially general obligation bonds — is typically Virtually all municipal bonds offer the above benefits. But, beyond these similarities, variations do exist in the municipal bond market. Your choice of bonds depends, to a great extent, on your goals and investment personality. For example, longer-term munis - those bonds that mature in 10 years or more - will generally provide a higher rate than shorter term bonds. Yet, prices of the longer term offerings may also fluctuate more.

You may want to consider owning a variety of short-, intermediate- and long-term munis. This type of portfolio - known as a bond "ladder" - can help you in all types of interest-rate environments. When market rates are down, you'll have your long-term bonds locking in higher rates. But if market rates are up, you can use the proceeds of your short-term bonds to reinvest in issues with higher rates.

Finally, when you're shopping for municipal bonds, look for quality - those bonds that are rated at least "A" or higher by the major rating agencies.

A financial professional can help you determine if municipal bonds are right for your individual situation, and, if so, how you should go about investing in them. So, you may want to start exploring munis soon. You'll be helping your community — and yourself. This information was provided by Edward Jones Investments in Wayne. For more information, call 375-4172.

Activity continues

Construction workers have been able to take advantage of unseasonably warm temperatures to continue work on the Community Activity Center located near the Wayne High School. Jeff Morlok of Otte Construction is said that starting next week, the balance of the structural steel will be installed, followed by the wall and roof panels of the gymnasium. The anticipated completion date for the project is October of this year.

Several file for re-election

Wayne County Clerk Debra Finn has announced a number of recent filings for various county offices.

Republican incumbent filings include Joyce Reeg for County Assessor; Michael E. Pieper for County Attorney; Debra Finn for County Clerk; Kelvin Wurdeman for County Commissioner, District #1; Myron Miller for County Commissioner, District #3 and LeRoy W. Janssen for County Sheriff.

Democratic incumbent filings include Terry L. Schulz for County Surveyor.

Karen McDonald has filed as a Republican candidate for Wayne County Treasurer. McDonald was appointed County Treasurer in June by the Board of Commissioners.

Joni Tietz has filed as a Republican candidate for Wayne County Treasurer.

Joann Ostrander has announced that she will not seek re-election as Clerk of District

The incumbent filing deadline for the 2002 Primary election is Feb. 15, the non-incumbent filing deadline is March 1, 2002.

The primary election is Tuesday, May 14 and the general election is Tuesday, Nov. 5 this year.

The Senior Wheels USA Program's main purpose and goal is to develop public awareness that there are assistance options that allow senior citizens (as well as the permanently disabled) to remain independent in their own homes. Without this awareness and assistance, the family may prematurely choose a nursing home, or make an unnecessary retail purchase on power mobility equipment.

If the patient does not meet all the requirements of the program, they may still be able to help them through their donation program. This is made available when people call wanting to donate their power wheelchairs that are no longer needed.

Hill has been a professional potter for a number of years, and has been marketing his works since he was 14. Prior to locating in South Dakota, he was in production pottery in Minnesota and Iowa. His works are sold throughout the United States.

The public is encouraged to attend the exhibition. For more information, please call Wayne Anderson, director of the Nordstrand Gallery, at 375-7355.

Technology program trains technicians who install, maintain and repair industrial equipment in automated manufacturing facilities and other complex control environments.

"This electromechanical equipment grant will allow us to buy some highly-technical equipment needed in this new program," said Lyle Kathol, dean of the transportation and construction division at Northeast. "The program is already off to a good start. And this is a shot in the arm for this new instructional program that is already running at capacity."

The Professional Truck Driver Training Grant, totaling $63,000, was awarded to NECC from the Nebraska Department of Roads. The grant will be used to buy a truck-driving simulator for the Northeast Professional Truck Driver program and fund eight scholarships.

Kathol said, "The simulator will better prepare students for their on-the-road driving experience. The grant will also provide eight scholarships for eligible women, minorities and disadvantaged individuals who want to train for a truck driving position in the road construction industry."

The Midwest Center for Information Technology has awarded Northeast Community College $34,812 to help expand educational opportunities for students interested in careers as computer programmers, computer operators, and analysts.

"The grant will help Northeast promote and expand its Information Technology (IT) programs, increase student enrollment in those areas, and provide training so that IT program instructors can achieve industry certifications," explained John Blaylock, dean of Northeast's business/management division. The Center's ultimate goal is to expand the number of IT professionals with two- and four-year degrees in "This grant will expand current English-as-a-Second Language offerings to include higher-level, non-credit classes, and will add a credit component to the ESL program. Monies will also be allocated for a recruiter/advisor position that focuses on addressing learning and success needs of undereducated and/or minority populations so these groups can integrate more fully into the College or the said community," Donna Niemeyer, dean of the liberal arts division at Northeast.

The Northeast architectural drafting program also recently received a blue-line printer from Richard D. Nelson, Jr., of Omaha. Nelson was the contracted architect for NECC for many years and recently retired.

"We are delighted to accept this blue-line printer from Mr. Nelson," said Anita Brenneman, dean of the health, science and drafting division at Northeast. "Gifts such as his are a great help to our drafting students."

The Custer County Public Power District has also donated a tool trailer, valued at $2,000, to the NECC utility line program. The trailer will be used to haul equipment when the students work in the field.

"We always appreciate gifts to our utility line program from those in the industry," said Chuck Pohlman, dean of Northeast's agriculture and technology division. "They always have a keen understanding of what we need. This trailer will help our students as they move their equipment in

This female cardinal is one of many common year-round and migratory birds that visit backyard bird feeders each winter. It's not too late to hang up a bird feeder and start attracting birds this winter.

holiday gifts, it's not too late to hang it up and start attracting Common year-round birds and migratory visitors make their way into residential areas each winter' searching for food. To keep birds flocking to a backyard feeder, it's best to have a consistent supply of bird seed through the winter season, said Ron Johnson, University of Nebraska wildlife specialist.

It may take awhile for birds to discover a newly placed feeder, but eventually some will add a new feeder to their dining rounds, the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist said.

Some people also may stop feeding during the winter or be away for a brief time, he said. This won't harm birds unless there are several days of snow cover and freezing temperatures. If feeders are empty, birds will use natural food sources or fly to someone else's feeder.

"Birds make many stops on their feeding route and yours is just one of many where they'll go to feed," he said. "They could be slow at coming to a new feeder and may be slow to come back to feed if you stop for awhile: But be patientand provide good seeds and they will come."

Cardinals, chickadees, nuthatches, blue jays and woodpeckers are common at feeders. Darkeyed juncos, Harris's sparrows, purple finches and pine siskins also can be spotted because they winter in Nebraska and nearby

Many variables affect birds' feeding habits. This fall and through much of December people may have noticed fewer birds in their backyards. Many birds still were foraging in fields and open

If a bird feeder was among your spaces over parts of Nebraska with little snow cover, Johnson said. Now that temperatures have fallen, birds' energy needs are up, less natural food is available and more seem to be showing up at feeders.

Landscape and habitat also play a key role in attracting birds.

"People can go out and look at their land in the winter and decide where birds might go to get out of the wind and cold or to find food," Johnson said. "Shrubs, trees and herbaceous plants form the basic habitat for birds in the backyard.

"If you have the habitat, plants, food and water to provide birds' needs, they will be there," Johnson

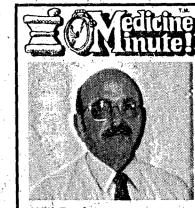

In the winter, evergreen trees that block the wind and offer protection are important. A heated bird bath also can be beneficial.

Its also important to keep bird feeders and baths clean.

"Keep an eye on what's going on around your feeders and give birds plenty of space," he said. "Part of the responsibility of feeding birds is to keep an eye out for the birds and their health issues.'

Severity of Stroke

In the most common type of stroke a blood clot or some other form of blockage reduces blood flow to the brain. According to a new study reported in the medical journal Stroke, persons who took a single aspirin tablet during the week before they had such a stroke lowered their risk of severe strokerelated damage - including loss of speech or speech difficulty and paralysis. In the study of more than 1,200 persons it was found that about 50% of aspirin users had mild strokes, and only about 10% had severe strokes, however 43% of individuals who did not use aspirin had mild strokes, and 15% had severe strokes. Many physicians recommend a small daily dose of aspirin for patients who are at special risk for heart disease or stroke. Yet, chronic use of aspirin is not without risk, including bleeding problems. Ask your physician if taking aspirin items now Most retailers have winter sales. If you buy clothing for next year, look things over carefully to see if they are the correct size and in good quality, as some items on the racks are returned.

Another idea is for adults to exchange gifts on New Year's Eve instead of Christmas. Christmas gifts are tied in with children. Adults are as tied up with that, so they could buy gifts after Christmas sales.

People should think about what was really important them this holiday season, and if spending the money on it was important. One idea is to have a spending limit of $50 to $100 on Christmas

Producers are urged to check grain for moisture and proper temperature

Nebraska producers should check the temperature and moisture levels in stored grain now to avoid costly damage, a University Nebraska Cooperative Extension educator said.

In a normal year, grain is aerated shortly after harvest in early fall and again in late fall as outdoor temperatures drop into the 30s and 40s.

Because of the warm fall, much of Nebraska's grain went into storage well above 50 degrees, said Tom Dorn, an NU extension educator in Lancaster County.

Keeping stored grain cool is important for several reasons, Dorn said, Maintaining a temperature below 70 degrees reduces insect reproduction. Insects become dormant below 50 degrees and many are killed below 32 degrees. Mold growth also is reduced below 50 degrees and nearly stops completely below 40 degrees.

"There were only a few opportunities to cool grain further until mid- to late December," he said. "If one did not take advantage of the opportunity to reduce grain temperatures during that period, moisture migration due to convection currents could be setting the stage for disaster."

When grain temperature is significantly higher than air temperature, convection currents can occur in the bin, he said. In a convection current, air sinks in cooler grain near bin walls and rises through warmer grain in the bin's center.

"When a convection current occurs in a bin, the warm air carries moisture up through the center of the grain mass," the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources educator said.

"When warm air reaches cold grain at the top, some of the moisture can condense and re-wet the grain, resulting in a wet spot in the top center of the bin. Crusted, moldy grain, sometimes with

Ready for Olympics

I'm watching the 50th anniversary of the "Today Show," and it's bringing back memories. I was an eighth grader and we did own a television set. I vaguely remember Dave Garoway and that chimp, but I'm sure I didn't watch it very much then.

I think I saw more of the Hugh Downs/Barbara Walters days, It's really only become a regular ritu-. al for us in the last few years. But its archives are literally loaded with history-it's amazing! As one column puts it, "when we get up in the morning and turn on the set, the "Today Show" reassures us, that the world has survived another night."

The other bit of television I caught last week was the Olympic torch run into Omaha. John Knicely of Channel 6 did his .2 of a mile; Bob Boozer lit the cauldron. My word, he's tall! I admit, I'm jealous of the police officers volunteering there. I had planned to go again; the committee turned me down. I didn't feel I could be there for three weeks, so I volunteered for one. They said they had

Plus, we would need to find our own room and board. Security people are being housed. So much for that dream. I'll have to watch from home; where, the big Farmer reminds me, you have a much bet-

We were reading about the Outland awards banquet in Omaha last week when Kay called to say she and Allan attended it. Since her employer sponsored it, there were tickets available. It helps that she has friends in key positions. They were at a table, in the first row, near Tom Shatel and Crag Bohl. She has both Bryant McKinnie's and Dean Steinkuhler's autograph.

The offensive tackle from Miami has an unheard of record of never allowing a sack in four college seasons. That's the kind of protection a quarterback can use! I got a charge out of the story that there was talk of his leaving school early to go professional. His offensive line coach called his mother, who said, "Trust me, he's not going anywhere." He's huge, but she's still the boss. I'm sure we'll be seeing a lot more of him, on Sunday afternoons and Monday nights.

We've had no guests since New Year's and it's almost like a vacation at home: sleep in, read, watch videos. If you missed the little book by John Grisham, Skipping Christmas, be sure to read it before next December. It's hilari-

Boars: $13 to $22.

FFA is not extracurricular. The program completes a three-part model of education. Classroom instruction is applied to hands-on supervised agricultural experiencé programs (SAEs) which are further strengthened through curriculumenhancing activities and program. Students learn by doing, practicing the real skills they will need for future success. It's a formula that has worked since 1928, Nearly half a million young people nationwide already appreciate the genuine experiences created through FFA. On Feb. 16-23, 2002, these future leaders hope to help others realize their dreams and achieve success by joining FFA.

FFA is a national youth organization of 457,278 student members preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture with 7,312 local chapters in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. FFA strives to make a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education. Bt corn resistance management requirements are set for 2002

This year's resistance management regulations regarding Bt corn will not result in many changes for Nebraska producers who grow the crop, a University of Nebraska entomologist said.

"In practical terms, things will remain the same for 2002, although resistance management compliance requirements have been strengthened," said Tom. Hunt, an entomologist at NU's Haskell Agricultural Lab near Concord.

The resistance management requirements for Bt corn as stated by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for 2002 are:

•Growers must plant a refuge of at least 20 percent non-Bt corn that may be treated with insecticides as needed to control caterpillars, such as European corn borers, and other pests.

• Refuge planting options include separate fields, blocks within fields and strips across

• External refuges must be planted within one-half mile of the Bt field; one-quarter mile or closer is preferred.

• When planting the refuge in strips across the field, strips resistance is detected. should be at least four and preferably six rows wide.

• Insecticide treatments to control European corn borer, corn earworm, southwestern corn borer, fall armyworm and black cutworm in refuges are allowed only if an infestation reaches economic thresholds for these pests. Economic thresholds are determined using methods recommended by local or regional professionals. Microbial Bt insecticides must not be applied to non-Bt corn

"The EPA has clarified the language with respect to placement non-Bt refuges and relaxed a bit on row-width requirements for refuges planted as strips through a field," Hunt said.

Companies marketing Bt corn must monitor for the potential development of insect resistance.

provide annual reports on the efficacy of resistance management plans and implement remedial action plans in the event insect

> "Many companies that market Bt corn have been performing these compliance activities for the last few years," the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources specialist said. "For . Nebraska farmers, all this really means is that they may see some new language regarding resistance management in their contracts."

> These changes follow a twoyear-long EPA review. The EPA determined that Bt corn is safe and will be registered for another seven years.

> "The EPA has done an extensive scientific evaluation and review of reports on Bt corn for controlling European corn borer and other related insects," Hunt said. "Some studies considered during the review addressed potential risks to Monarch butterflies, effects on birds and human allergies to Bt. They determined that Bt corn poses no significant risk to environmental or human health."

Brunswick area for about 10 years. Her daughter and son-inlaw, along with their five children, make their home in Albion. Sandy has always loved animals and enjoys the outdoors. In April of 2000 she opened her own taxidermy business in Royal.

It was only natural that Sandy should join up with the AmeriCorps team. She has always loved the outdoors and nature and had concerns about our environment, not only for our children and grandchildren, but also for our wildlife. She is very much looking forward to learning all that she can in the next year and, hopefully, helping many others along the way.

active insect activity, can result if the condition is not discovered and corrected by breaking up the crust and aerating to cool the grain mass."

To reduce convection currents, producers should run aeration fans whenever the average outdoor temperature is 20 degrees lower than the grain temperature at the center of the bin, Dorn said. When cooling grain, be sure that the cooling front is pushed all the way through the grain mass before stopping aeration.

"A cooling front pushed partly through the grain can result in moisture condensation in the zone where the two temperatures. meet," he said. "This is especially important if grain temperature is being lowered more than 20 degrees in one step."

The goal is to cool the grain to a uniform temperature that is closto the average air temperature, Dorn said. However, producers should not cool grain to below freezing. This can create problems if an aeration cycle is necessary in the spring when the air is warmer and more humid,

Depending on the aeration fan size and bin capacity, it could take a few days to two weeks to move a cooling front through a bin of corn. The cooling time can be estimated by dividing 15 by the airflow rate, measured in cubic feet of air per minute per bushel

"Be sure to check grain temperature at several locations in the bin to be sure the cooling front has moved all the way through the grain mass," Dorn said. "When the aeration fans aren't running, remember to close roof hatches to prevent rain and snow from getting into the bin. Cover the fan when it's not running to prevent problems caused by the chimney effect that can draw in moist air at the bottom of the bin and up through the grain."

For producers who are unsure whether their grain condition will hold up through the spring, Dorn suggested running the fan on a cold day and checking the exhaust air for odors or steam. A musty smell, a steam plume or condensation on the underside of the bin roof indicates that the grain is heating in some parts of the bin.

"Remember that whenever there are serious signs of grain heating, no matter what the season or weather, run the fan continuously," Dorn said.

"Also, feed or sell such low quality grain as quickly as possible. Grain quality never improves during storage."

Take notice that a Petition for Adoption of Nathaniel Howard Hamer has been filed in the County Court of Cedar County, Nebraska, the purpose of which is to terminate the parental rights of Troy Howard Lea in said minor and establish the relationship of parent and child between Troy Howard Lee and Nathaniel Howard Hamer and to change the name of Nathaniel Howard Hamer to Nathaniel Howard Schmitt. Nathaniel Howard Hamer was conceived approximately November 1993. The child, Nathaniel Howard Hamer was born on July 22, 1994. Troy Howard Lee has been identified as the biological father of the minor child intended to be placed for adoption.

NATHANIEL HOWARD HAMER

THEREFORE, Troy Howard Lee, or any person interested, has the right to:

A. Deny paternity;
B. Waive any parental rights he may have; C. Relinquish and consent to the adoption of the child; or

D. File a notice of intent to claim paternity and obtain custody of the child within five business days of this Notice, whichever is later, pursuant to the terms of Neb. Rev. Stat. § 43-10402. The biological father, in order to deny pater-nity, waive his parental rights, relinquish and consent to adoption, or receive additional information to determine whether he is the father of the child in question, he must contact Kathleen K. Rockey, the attorney for Steven L. Schmitt and Jennifer J. Schmitt, and if he wishes to seek custody of the child, he must seek legal counsel from his own attorney immedi-

NAME COMMITTEES

A number of committees have. been organized to assist with the various tasks of hosting the Bike Ride Across Nebraska (B.R.A.N.) group when it visits in Wakefield in June.

All the committees need volunteer workers, so if interested please contact a committee chair or Community Club President Michelle Tullberg.

Meals and food stands committee co-chairs are Leslie Bebee and Lori Haglund. This committee needs organizations to provide lunch, supper, breakfast and snacks. This is not a free service. Contact Leslie Bebee if your group is interested.

The activities committee (entertainment and events) are by Val Bard.

Facilities are by Daryl Harrison and Bruce Schut.

Advertising and informational signs are by Kathy Skinner and Linda Rischmueller.

Transportation needs (shuttle service) are by Michelle Tullberg and Dallas Roberts.

Overnight accommodations for bikers; Michelle Tullberg and Kathy Skinner. They are seeking residents to host riders from B.R.A.N. This would entail providECONOMIC BENEFITS

Michelle Tullberg attended a meeting several weeks ago with B.R.A.N. officials to learn what hosting the riders would entail for the community. At that time she was told the host communities could expect about 600 riders plus another 150 people serving as support staff. The visit is expected to generate from $10,000 to $16,000 in income for the community businesses and organizations which provide food stands and services, according to B.R.A.N. officials.

B.R.A.N. also awards a $500 college scholarship to each host community to be given to a graduating senior of the local high school. Plus after the ride the participants select the best host community and that town receives a $100. scholarship to award to a gradu-

The riders will arrive in Wakefield about 10 a.m., June 13 from Battle Creek. A large tent will be set up on the school grounds for the bikers. From there shuttle service will be provided to various activities, sites, like the park or downtown area, etc.

Wakefield has chosen a theme of "Baseball and Eggs" for the B.R.A.N. visit. The Community Club has voted to provide a $500 ing a bed, shower, washing for expenses that will be incurred machine and dryer facilities. in preparing for the Nebraska bikers visit.

> ENCOURAGES MEMBERSHIP The first of the new year brings the time to renew memberships in the Wakefield Community Club. The Club's officers and directors are encouraging new memberships along with renewals in 2002.

The main purpose of the Community Club is to promote Wakefield through activities and events. During the year the club hosts 11 monthly coffee meetings on the second Thursday morning of each month. The annual meeting and supper is in March. Also during the year the club organizes one or more F.Y.I. (For Your Information) informal meetings.

Anyone interested in becoming a member or with questions about the club is invited to contact President Michelle Tullberg or Treasurer Weldon Schwarten.

GIRLS SCOUT COOKIE SALES The year 2002 marks the 90th birthday of Girl Scouting and to celebrate the milestone, a new cookie is being offered during the annual fundraiser. Friendship Circles honor the occasion. They are made by sandwiching a creamy chocolatey filling between two vanilla cookies. Each cookie also has the word FRIEND embossed in one of 18 different languages. Girl Scouts received their cookie sales information of Friday and will be selling cookies through Monday, Jan. 21.

The cookies sell for $3 a box and also include Thin Mints, Caramel DeLites, Peanut Butter Patties, Butter Sandwich, Shortbread, Animal Treasures and the reduced fat cookie Lemon Pastry Cremes.

If you are not contacted through the girls' door-to-door sales, you may call a leader, Kim Barge or Val Bard, or cookie chairman

Leslie Bebee. The sale of the cookies not only provides funds for the local troops, but also to support council activities and Girls Scout Camp facilities like Camp Crossed Arrows near Nickerson.

GEOGRAPHY BEE

Students in grades four through eight took part in the National Geography Contest at the Wakefield School recently. Written exams were taken in each class.

The top students in each grade, plus additional top scorers qualified to participate in the oral bee set for Jan. 9.

Grade qualifiers were Sara Mousel (4), Tim Suing (5), Chelsey Victor (6), Eric Bodlak (7), Matt Erwin (6), Morgan Lunz (4), B/

Puckett (8) and Tyler Bodlak (4). Tom Anderson served as the moderator for the contest.

W.H.O. MEETING At its last meeting, the Wakefield Heritage Organization (W.H.O.) elected officers and set a regular meeting time. The group will meet monthly on the second Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Wakefield Fire Hall.

The group met on Jan. 12. Currently the group's main project is the presentation of the round barn which sits on a farm south of Wakefield. The goal is to find a new home for the barn and restore it and eventually use it to house Lefty Olson's Memorabilia Collection and for other activities.

Anyone interested in the project is invited and welcome to become active in the W.H.O group.

Currently the group is raising funds for the project by offering replicas of the barn created by Kirby Mousel. The barn is presented to donors for a donation of $150 or more towards the project. Last count of barns given away

Donations are being accepted at Iowa-Nebraska State Bank of Wakefield. Questions about the organization may be directed to Daryl Harrison, Kirby Mousel, Jennifer Goos or any other active member.

COLLECT PRODUCT LABELS

Students at Wakefield Elementary School continue to collect product labels which may be redeemed to acquire needed items for the classrooms. The fifth grade is in charge of keeping track of the labels collected.

The students reported in December they had collected $210 in General Mills Box Tops for Education. Their goal is $500 in

Also being collected is Tyson Project A+ labels. If you use any of the Tyson products, the students ask that you clip the Project A+ label from the package.

Labels collected may be brought to the elementary office or left in the container at the Republican

Making a difference

Mike Jaxien, second grade teacher at Wayne Elementary School, spoke to the Wayne Kiwanis Club about a project he and his students have been involved with entitled "Make a Difference." The student read books onto tapes which were then distributed throughout the town. For their efforts, the class was awarded second place from the 620 schools that entered. They will now receive a pizza party, t-shirts and $3,000 to be used for the purchase of
