The Wayne Senior Citizen Center celebrated St. Patrick's Day on March 15. The fun-filled day began with a noon lunch and Shamrock Bingo. Those present danced the afternoon away with Art and Gwen Schmidt. The afternoon ended with an Irish meal. More than 100 people attended the activities. The Bank of Norfolk sponsored a large portion of the afternoon and helped serve the meal. Danika Carroll, Carly Wacker and Renee Theobald, members of a confirmation group, also assisted with the activities. Tracy Keating, Senior Center Coordinator, said, "It is very exciting to see the participation levels at these meals increase. It is our goal to encourage younger seniors to get involved and as you can see, we are accomplishing this."

History of Red Cross Month

Each year, the president of the United States proclaims March "Red Cross Month." The American Red Cross uses this opportunity to promote its services to the American public and for fund raising. How did this tradition come about?

For the first quarter century of its existence, the Red Cross held no regular fund-raising drive. Since Clara Barton created the organization in 1881, it was largely dependent for publicity and funds on the spontaneous support of people who learned of catastrophic events and the Red Cross response to them.

News of an event broke, the American Red Cross rushed to the scene with help and people around the country came forth with outpourings of volunteer assistance and donations of funds and supplies. (This was most recently apparent following the 9-11 disaster last fall.)

This rather haphazard manner of operating changed abruptly in 1917 when the United States entered World War I. After declaring war, President Wilson ordered the American Red Cross to raise funds to support its aid to the military and civilians affected by war as Congress had mandated the Red Cross to do.

In response, the Red Cross held its first national War Fund drive in June 1917 and set as its goal $100 million, an astoundingly large sum at the time. Under the circumstances, however, the public response was immediate and overwhelming. Within a few days, more than $115 million was raised.

-Then in December, 1917, the Red Cross held its first Christmas Roll Call. People were supposed to and another Roll Call in 1918, the last year of the war. (As history seems to repeat itself - this could be similar to President Bush's request of $1 from every American child for relief to the children of Afghanistan!)

After the war, the Red Cross decided to make the Roll Call an annual membership and fundraising drive. In addition, it conducted special appeals from time to time in response to major disasters, such as the Dust Bowl drought of the early 1930s and periodic flooding on the Mississippi and Ohio rivers.

In November, 1941, war in Europe, the Red Cross conducted a highly successful 25th Annual Roll Call. A few days later the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor and the United States entered World War II. As it had done in the previous World War, the Red Cross responded immediately by declaring a War Fund campaign. By June, 1942, it had raised more than $66 million.

Rather than go back to the public with a third appeal in one year, the Red Cross decided to cancel its 1942 Roll Call. Instead, after discussion with President Roosevelt, the honorary chairman.

Food for thought Recently I begun to think about how far Wayne has come in the 6+ years that I have lived here. New businesses have slowly replaced ones that have started and just couldn't stay with the changing times. The police department is more professional and responsive than in the past. Local tax referendums for one-cent sales tax have been passed for the Wayne Senior Citizen/Library and Middle school.

In the case of the middle school, it took three times of failing before the community came together and made it pass. Now look what we have, a wonderful place for our children to learn. I still believe that a new building would have cost less, but what we have now is very nice and we should be proud of it.

A new Community Center and fire hall are in mid stages of being finished. Both will be welcome additions to our community and needed for a long time.

I guess what I am trying to get you to see, is Wayne is actually growing and for us to continue to grow, we need support our local business whenever we get a chance. Sales tax dollars govern the ability of our city and county governments to make our city and count more attractive for growth,

Think about that the next time you buy something in Norfolk or Sioux City. It's one thing not find it here, it another if you never gave your merchants a chance to find it for you.

Capital News

When economic doldrums hang around long enough to start prompting higher local property taxes, and consideration of higher state tax rates, nothing is safe. Okay, we acknowledge there is no danger of popular support diminishing for the Nebraska football team. Other than that, nothing is safe.

It is natural in such circumstances to start perusing the state budget for large amounts of money, regardless of their current use, and contemplate redirecting them to other things. Things that might make tax increases, local or state, unnecessary.

Nary a cow, or revenue source can maintain sacred status in such circumstances. One that has done so, however, is the state's considerable tax on gasoline.

Critics like to say Nebraska has the highest gasoline tax in the country. Others say that it just ain't so. The fact is, it all has to do with how you choose to interpret numbers.

Figures, standing alone, don't lie. But they can be organized into a fairy tale by people who know how to use them. Still, it's easy to tell who is lying in such circumstances. It's the guy with whom you disagree.

Now, about the state's gasoline tax. You could say that it is generally earmarked for highway projects. That would be like saying a mama bear is generally dedicated to protecting her cubs. Actually, those with economic interests in road building and such make a mama bear, even a grumpy one, a candidate for child neglect charges in comparison.

Tax woes continue to plague

For decades, use of the motor vehicle fuel tax was guarded by the late Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly. He knew that Nebraska had miles and miles of nothing but miles and miles that were covered with roads that constantly need repair. Warner enjoyed no shortage of allies in the Legislature, especially among rural lawmakers whose constituents would occasionally break an axle on what was regarded as one of the better thoroughfares in the county.

Make no mistake about it: The gasoline tax revenue is not even in remote danger of being redirected today. And if the aforementioned economic doldrums go away, no one will cast greedy eyes upon those revenues tomorrow, either. The issue is a political bombshell today.

The thing is, the Legislature has done about what it can do (given the voters' current mood) in regard to cutting state programs and reducing funding for various things, including the state university system. If, if, and only if the economy continues to falter might the revenues from the motor vehicle fuel tax become an inviting target for redistribution.

At least, such a thing would become a possible item for discussion. Any move to actually change state policy could, itself, generate a fight that might last longer than the Great Depression.

spending cuts and $41.6 million in transfers from reserves and other funds. The spending reductions include a 3 percent across-theboard cut for most state agencies, a $22 million cut in state aid to public schools, and a 1 percent acrossthe-board cut to the University of Nebraska and state colleges. The plan would leave $119 million to be made up in increased tax revenues. As a member of the Appropriations Committee, I've been in the thick of the budget debate. Although some of us on the committee wanted to come up with deeper spending cuts, we could not get a consensus. Spending is projected to grow by 4.9 percent in fiscal year 2002-03 under the Appropriations Committee's plan. This is the second round of budget last fall, we made $171 million in adjustments, including $97.2 million in spending cuts.

Pondering the facts

The trial held in the Wayne County Courtroom on Tuesday had a number of wild witnesses. The Wolf was on trial and witnesses included the Three Little Pigs. The event was one that has been held annually for a number of years and is organized by Sheryl Connolly. It involved members of the Wayne Police and Sheriff's Department, the County Attorney's office and the Clerk of the District Court.

tee's plan would raise the following amounts:

• $20 million by increasing the cigarette tax by 20 cents per pack. • $36 million by expanding the sales tax to certain services.

• $24.5 million by delaying business tax incentives.

• $35 million by offsetting a loss of revenue caused by the recent federal economic-stimulus package. Unless corrective action is taken, federal tax breaks for businesses will mean less tax revenue for Nebraska.

I believe cigarette taxes are a poor way to fund government. A hike in the cigarette tax will especially hurt border towns like South Sioux City as smokers will buy their cigarettes out of state.

I'm sure the Revenue Committee's plan will stir up much debate on the floor, because there is a wide range of views on how to raise revenues. A possible veto from Gov. Mike Johanns also is part of the picture since he opposes the proposed extension of the sales tax.

person's identity a specific crime in Nebraska. The bill attempts to deal with the situation where a thief obtains personal information from a person and then fraudulently uses it to obtain credit.

This is one of the fast-growing crimes in the nation. As a result of LB 276, it should be easier to prosecute identity theft and victims should be able to use state law to get restitution.

The Legislature voted 30-12 to give final passage to LB 752, which would make it tougher to get jailhouse informants' testimony admitted in court.

The bill's proponents argued that testimony of jailhouse informants is often unreliable. The bill would allow such testimony but subject it to safeguards.

of the Red Cross, the whole month of March, 1943, was declared "Red Cross Month."

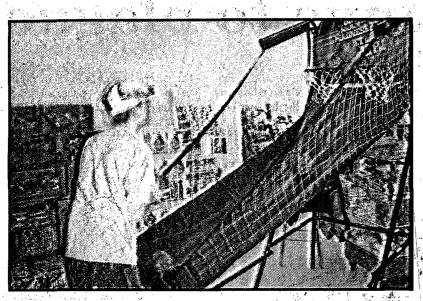

The American Red Cross (ARC) set a goal of $125 million, the largest amount ever requested in one campaign by any American organization. Again, the response overwhelming. It took less than six weeks to reach the target and by June, 1943, donations totaled nearly $146 million. Roosevelt called it "the greatest single crusade of mercy of all history.

This success caused the Red Cross to repeat the March drive during the remaining years of the war and then to make it the occasion of its annual membership and fund-raising efforts ever since. (As a historical footnote, the last radio speech President Roosevelt gave, a few days before this death, was in support of the 1945 Red Cross campaign.)

As part of the tradition, the current president customarily issues a proclamation each year declaring March as Red Cross Month!

Jason Carollo, son of John & Lori (Wayne chapter manager) trys his luck at the "Pop Shot" held March 16 at Pac 'N Save grocery store in Wayne. The event ran from 11-4 and raised $197 for the Wayne Red Cross chapter.

'Pop Shot' event raises funds for Wayne Red Cross

Editor's note: The following story was submitted by Lori Carollo, chapter manager of the Wayne County Red Cross.

A "Pop Shot" event was held March 16 at Pac 'n Save Grocery Store in Wayne and raised $197 for the Wayne Red Cross chapter.

Players were given three basketballs for $1 and if they made one basket they got a 24 oz. pop; 2 bas, kets they got a 2 liter; and for 3 they got a 12 pack.

Store owner, Don Endicott, had two rules: one was that EVERY-ONE was a winner so anyone who donated and tried at least got a 24 oz. AND the prizes were "continuous" which meant if someone made all'3 baskets, they got all three prizes. About a dozen really happy people who walked out with a 24 oz, pop, 2 liter bottle and a 12-pack for only $1.

Don also grilled hot dogs and sold them 3/$1 and cans of cold pop for 30 cents with those proceeds also going to the Red Cross. They did not have a total on the food sales as of this writing, but a VERY successful day for the Wayne chap-

And lots of fun, too, as Jared Temme and Julie Hansen from KTCH radio did a live remote broadcast out there for the first two hours. Don Endicott went on the air and "challenged his brother Rick (both brothers were named "Nakota Fundraisers of the Year" last year) to come out and see who the better brother was! Don put up $10 and Rick came out and matched it.

The game consisted of two hoops and once you started there was a 60 second clock that kept score, giving shooters 2 points for each basket until the last 15 seconds when each basket counts as a 3 pointer! The younger brother, Rick, edged out his brother 18-15 (but the crowd did feel there was some bad referee calls)!!!

Lots of kids (and adults!!), lots of fun and more money raised for the Red Cross!! Lori Carollo stated, "Pac 'n Save has been a great supporter of the Wayne chapter of the American Red Cross and this was just another example of the way they go above and beyond to help us raise money. We appreciate their

New Homeland Defense ribbon honors citizen soldiers who answer call to fight terrorism

By Governor Mike Johanns Dear Nebraska Neighbors:

Monday, March 11, marked the sixth-month anniversary of one of our nation's most horrible and saddening tragedies. While we remember the sadness of that day and the days since, we also remember and salute the countless acts of heroic service that comforted us and inspired us and continue to do so even now.

In the minutes, hours, days and weeks following the terrible events of Sept. 11, the men and women of Nebraska's national Guard stepped forward to answer their nation's call during a time of unprecedented national emergency. Before that fateful day, many of these traditional part-time national Guard members were fulltime students, airline pilots, police officers, firefighters and businessmen and women. Today, many of these man and women are serving our nation in uniform, patrolling the skies over our homes, keeping our state's airports safe and helping our country fight the war on terrorism both here in America as well as overseas.

Taking it off for Red Cross

Rick Endicott and Arnie's Ford Mercury in Wayne helped out the Wayne Red Cross Wednesday morning. For a $10 donation, people could stop in and watch Rick either take off a piece of clothing or watch him put one on. Bill Reeg of Arnie's gave $100 to the local chapter for Rick to walk downtown in his flowered shorts and solicit businesses. Along with individual donations, several businesses contributed rather large amounts to the total of $927.87 that was raised for the Wayne Red Cross chapter.

All of these national Gaurdsmen and women are performing a great and necessary service at high price to themselves, their families and in many cases their livelihoods. It is in their honor that the nebraska national Guard Homeland Defense Ribbons were established. On March 4, I presented the first 10 of these ribbons to several members of the Nebraska Air Guard, the Nebraska Army Guard and civilian support.

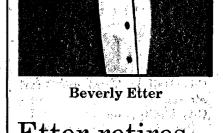

The recognition of civilian and employer support of the Army and Air National Guard is important. Today's military is more reliant than ever before upon our country's national Guard and Reserve Forces, and we cannot have a strong national Guard and Reserve Force without strong support from the families and the employers of those affected by military call-ups.

Military mobilizations affect not only the members of the military but also families that bear an immense burden when their loved ones deploy away from home for an extended period of time. Without their support and perseverance, the missions given to our state's military members would be virtually impossible to complete.

In many instances the absence of nebraska's citizen-soldiers also leaves a serious void in the workplace, i am gratified to report, however, that in nearly every case, Nebraska's employers have stood solidly behind our soldiers and airmen by ensuring that their civilian jobs will be waiting for them when their military duty is no longer required. We must remember that this support often comes with a cost that these employers alone must shoulder. It is an incredible burden that these patriotic employers have undertaken in support of America's welfare, and they deserve our state's eternal gratitude,

While the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11th have prompted the most immediate national emergency, this is not the first time Nebraskans have stepped forward to answer America's call in a time of need. From the battlefields of the Civil War, to the jungles of the Philippines, to the muddy trenches of World War I, to the hedgerows of Normandy to the shifting sands of Iraq, Nebraskans have served with great honor and distinction.

Today's generation of serviceman and women is no different. As we have learned since Sept. 11th, the men and women of the Nebraska Air and Army national Guard are equal to the tasks and missions before them. It is as a symbol of the gratitude our "Nebraska United" feels toward them that the Nebraska national Guard homeland Defense Ribbon was created.

Mercury 'bucket project' is launched

Sav-Mor Pharmacy of Wayne is a participating pharmacy in the Mercury "Bucket Project" to reduce health-threatening exposures to broken mercury-containing thermometers.

The project has been initiated and developed by the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services Regulation and Licensure Indoor Air Quality Program.

The "Bucket Project" is designed to collect thermometers containing mercury. At 67 locations across the state, these buckets will be available for disposal of old thermometers. The old ones can be exchanged for new digital thermometers while supplies last.

The "bucket project" includes one mercury-recycling kit and replacement digital thermometers. The kit contains everything needed to collect, package, mail and recycle the collected mercury thermometers in a safe manner appropriate for disposal and recycling. There is no charge for the buckets.

Pharmacies and local health agencies across the state have been very receptive to being involved in eliminating mercury thermometers from people's medicine cabinets, according to Molly Goedeker, administrator.

"This project is an innovative way of recycling," Goedeker said. "Because the buckets are shipped safely directly to the recycler, it's easier for pharmacies and local organizations to participate."

The 42 participating pharmacies have signed "mercury-free" pledges not to sell mercury-containing thermometers.

Approximately two dozen local health departments, hospitals, community action agencies and other organizations are also participating in the recycling effort.

The program is planning five mercury drives statewide this spring which will collect all other mercury-containing devices including liquid mercury and fluorescent bulbs.

For more information, contact Goedeker at (402) 669-9181.

Use herbs and spices for flavor

Use herbs and spices to help you lower your amount of dietary fat, sugar and sodium.

Reducing Fat. " ... removing a tablespoon of fat removes about 10 grams of fat and 100 calories-an amount which could represent a 10 pound weight loss in a year. The calories in herbs and spices are far less than in breadings, batters, gravies, sauces and fried foods.

Reducing Sugar. Reduce or eliminate sugar by using these sweet-tasting spices such as: -Allspice, Anise, Cardamom, Cinnamon, Cloves, Ginger, Mace, Nutmeg.

Reducing Salt. Here are some tips when using spices and herbs to help you reduce the salt in foods:

* Savory flavors, and flavors with "bite," such as black pepper, garlic powder, curry powder, cumin, dill seeds, basil, ginger, coriander and onion, are the most effective in replacing the taste of salt.

* Use minced or powdered garlic and onion rather than their salt form.

* Omit the salt when cooking pasta and flavor with basil, oregano, parsley or pepper.

* Check labels to see if "salt" or "sodium" are listed among the ingredients.

Common Substitutions-

2 . 1 . 1 . 1 .

а. С

When you don't have a spice or herb blend called for in your recipe, try these combinations of spices and herbs as a substitution: * For each 1 teaspoon of apple pie spice, substitute a combination of:

* 1 teaspoon cinnamon

* 1/8 teaspoon nutmeg

* For each 1 teaspoon of pumpkin pie spice, substitute a combination of:

* 1 teaspoon cinnamon

* 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger

* 1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg

* 1/8 teaspoon ground allspice * For each 1 1/2 teaspoon of Italian seasoning, substitute a combination of: * 1/4 teaspoon each of:

* oregano leaves

* marjoram leaves * basil leaves

* 3/4 teaspoon ground sage * 1/4 teaspoon ground thyme

How Much Herbs And Spices To Add-The amount to add varies with the type of spice or herb, type of recipe and personal preference. If possible, start with a tested recipe Cooperative tension tor from a reliable source. If you're creating your own recipe, begin with trying one or two spices or herbs.

Substituting Equivalent Amounts of Different Forms. What if your recipe calls for fresh herbs and all you have are dried herbs? Here are some approximate amounts of different forms of herbs equivalent to each other:

* 1 tablespoon finely cut fresh herbs

* 1 teaspoon dried leafy herbs * 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon ground dried herbs

General Rules for Amounts, If you don't know how much of a spice or herb to use, follow these recommendations from SpiceAdvice at http://spiceadvice.com -- remember to use more herbs if using a leafy or fresh form:

Boy Scouts teaches your son lifelong learning attitudes

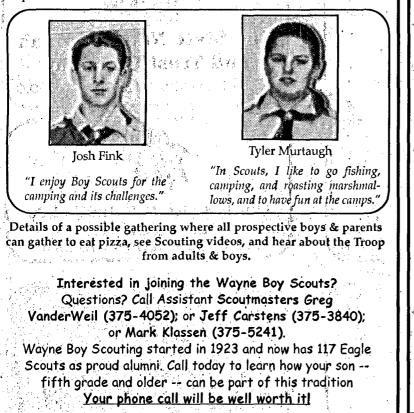

Learning has always been essential to improving one's position in life. We live in a society that rewards accomplishment. Today, and in the future, our youth will have to learn new skills and retrain themselves to succeed during their lifetimes. The Wayne Boy Scout program helps foster these skills during regular weekly meetings or on numerous camping trips or other special outing and activities. A generation ago, it was commonplace for workers to spend most, if not all, of their career in the same field and with the same employer. Theat trend is no longer true. Today's youth will have to constantly learn new skills and retrain themselves in order to be successful,

The Boy Scouts of America not only instills in youth the desire to learn throughout their lives, but also provides them with the resources and skills to do so, "Be Prepared" is more than just a motto for Scouts; it's a way of life. Scouting offers a wide array of programs for lifelong learning that prepares youth for success.

Scouting, beginning with its youngest programs for boys in grade school and continuing through to its older programs for high school-age youth, has always encouraged learning and exploring. The BSA's merit badge program allows youth to explore more than 100 fields of skill and knowledge. Scouts can explore new areas of interest and learn more about particular vocation and avocation choices.

Research has shown that developing the ability to read and a love for reading is a key to learning in every field of instruction. In addition to the Scouting program, the BSA provides insightful and engaging literature like th Boy Scout Handbook and Boys' Life Magazine. All BSA handbooks and magazines are written to be age-and grade-specific and become progressively more challenging as boys advance through the ranks.

Scouting teaches new skills to America's youth in a fun and exciting way, and parents are thrilled that their children are learning new skills and strong values in the process.

After having an unusually mild winter, the month of March has been a cold blast. I did see two signs of spring yesterday: a tractor in the field, and a lady in shorts. I don't mean a teen ager; this was a middle-aged adult. I was still in jeans and sweat shirt, and she was running around in shorts.

I figured the guy on the tractor must be celebrating Agriculture Week. Actually, I've seen tractors in fields off and on all winter; some plowing, some disking, and some spreading fertilizer.

I appreciate the celebration of Ag Week, as the number of farmers continues to shrink. A lot of our product is being produced abroad, just like everything else, at cheaper labor costs. That's why the family farm, with mom and the kids helping for free can still compete, at least a little bit.

We had a short trip to northeast Nebraska over the weekend. Jaxson Kant was baptized at the Saturday evening service. He was very good, but did complain a little when the water hit his head.

On Sunday, we drove to Winside

Since I've been involved in a few grant applications, I was especially intrigued by the fact that the money was awarded in response to a simple letter of inquiry. Most grant writing has pages of specifics, especially consisting of numbers, budgets, etc.

I decided long ago that being the woman who administers the Lied estate has to be one of the most fun jobs ever. To be the one who calls a community like Nebraska City, or Pierce, or Winside, to say they will have their new building would be pure joy.

I've always known my true calling in life was to be a philanthropist. There are so many worthy causes. But, alas, sometimes, we've been the worthy cause!

Then I read that Bill and Melinda Gates have established a foundation worth $24 billion. Surely that amount of money can alleviate a lot of hunger and sickness. And, it makes me totally content to use Microsoft daily. It all helps, even in a very small way. And, that's what life is really about.

Even if they don't have a relative on the team, the couple enjoys Wakefield sports events.

Nearly 300 people attended the banquet sponsored by the Athletic Boosters. Guest speaker was UN-L football coach Ron Brown. He delivered a strong message to the athletes and their supporters about how to live your life on and off the competitive arena.

He said, "I don't teach my players to cheat on the football field or in life." He has a strong faith in Jesus Christ and he portrays that in his message to people. Wakefield recognized all the students who have participated in athletics during the year and a number of items were given away, compliments of local and area businesses.

The funds raised from the event will be used to buy needed equipment for the school.

NEW CHILDREN'S BOOKS Graves Public Library in Wakefield recently received over 30 new children's books. the books are part of the Reading Rainbow and the Nebraska Library Commission to provide small public libraries with additional children's books.

Librarian Nancy Fredrickson said the books are currently in a special display and invites patrons to stop by and check them out.

The books came to Nebraska from the New York City office of the Reading Rainbow Public television series, which is co-produced Nebraska Educational by Telecommunication's GPN educational media marketing unit and Nebraska ETV. Each year the series has aired, publishers have sent books to be considered for selection as a Reading Rainbow featured book. When the decision was made last fall to relocate the New York office, one question was what to do with 18 seasons worth of books.

The Nebraska-based Reading Rainbow staff quickly volunteered to take the 7,000 books and put them to good use. Their chief objective was to make sure that the books benefitted the people of Nebraska and that the donations extended the goals of the Reading Rainbow series by encouraging . children to read.

By partnering with the Nebraska Library Commission, Nebraska ETV is able to achieve its objectives while helping smaller libraries throughout the state.

A season to truly remember

By Kevin Peterson For the Herald

The Wayne boys basketball season of 2001-2002 will not only be remembered by the individuals, coaches and the families of the players for a lifetime but this Blue Devils squad may well have a shelf life that lasts forever.

Coming in to the season there were many high school guru's that didn't expect Wayne to escape a brutal schedule with more than a .500 record.

After all, losing the likes of an Eric McLagan and Craig Olson along with a physical force in Trevor Wright and one might be able to argue the immediate team after would struggle some. One thing that has yet to be measured on any scale made on this planet is H-E-A-R-T — and this team had plenty-of-it.

Head coach Rocky Ruhl is a player's coach and no one works harder on the game than he does and the results show up in the win column.

Wayne possessed immeasurable team unity this season and that is an intangible that can lead to victories in close games.

The quality depth Wayne had this season led to having a solid five on the floor at all times.

Brad Hochstein and Brad Hansen drew the bulk of the attention and deservedly so after playing a starting role in last year's team.

The point guard play of first-year starter Ric Volk was exceptional and followers of high school basketball know the point guard position is like a key that starts a car — nothing can move unless the key works.

The junior-senior tandem of Jon Ehrhardt and Luke Christensen combined for a potent force. Caleb Garvin started nearly every game at the post and though only a sophomore, showed his promise for the future.

Ryan Schmeits provided super leadership as a back-up point guard and the junior's poise to shoot the ball came in more than just handy.

Senior Jeff Pippitt played a key role in the team's success with his leadership ability on the floor as a back-up guard and on the bench. Pippitt played his role to near perfection and his unselfishness came from with in.

Brady Heithold played every minute while he was on the floor with the heart of a lion.

nove unless the key works. The junior-senior tandem of Jon comes to the position he plays but he Ehrhardt and Luke Christensen combined for a potent force. Caleb Garvin back-up minutes.

> Freshman Bryan Fink gave Blue Devil fans a glimpse of the future with his play and let's just say the next few years will provide quite a ride.

> The other varsity players also deserve credit for the day-in-day-out practice that enabled Wayne to a school record tying 21 wins. They include seniors Joe Holstedt and Brett Parker along with Mike Sturm and Travis Luhr.

> Joe Holstedt scored Wayne's final points of the season—his only basket of the season. (Congrats Joe).

Wayne Boys Basketball — The Wayne Herald — March 21, 2002 Blue Devils down Battle Creek in home-opener

Rocky Ruhl's Wayne boys basketball team opened the season impressively Nov. 30 at home with a 64-50 victory over a Battle Creek team that returned four starters.

Wayne led 12-10 after the first quarter and 31-26 at half before opening a 47-36 lead after three quarters of play. Wayne out-scored the visitors in each of the four quarters.

"I was pleased with the way our kids played together," Ruhl said. "I also liked our help defense. The guys did a nice job of finding the ball and helping as well as keeping track of the man they were covering."

First-time starting point guard Ric Volk drew praise from Ruhl for his way of pushing the ball when the break presented itself.

"We got a lot of people involved and when the players came in off the bench, they produced," Ruhl added. "Our guys really responded well to what we asked them to do."

Brad Hochstein led Wayne with 16 points with Brady Heithold adding 11 and Ric Volk, 10. Brad Hansen and Jon Ehrhardt each scored eight points and Caleb Garvin tallied four. Ryan Schmeits added three points and Jeff Pippitt along with Bryan Fink scored two each. Wayne won the battle of the boards, 39-30 with Brad Hansen leading the way with nine caroms while Hochstein had six and Pippitt, five.

Volk dished out six assists and Hochstein had four. Wayne was 7-9 from the free throw line and the Blue Devils committed 13 turnovers while Battle Creek had 14 while hitting 12 of 15 free throw attempts.

Wayne boys thump Logan View, fall to Columbus Lakeview

The Wayne boys basketball team blasted Lógan View on Dec. 7, 65-47 to improve to 2-0 before dropping their first game of the season at topranked Columbus Lakeview, Dec. 8 by a 51-33 margin.

Against Logan View the Blue Devils opened up a 40-20 halftime lead and expanded that to 54-29 after three quarters of play before substituting freely in the final stanza.

Brad Hochstein led the way with 22 points with Brad Hansen tossing in 16. Luke Christensen scored six and Ric Volk, Ryan Schmeits, Bryan Fink and Caleb Garvin scored four apiece. Jon Ehrhardt finished with three points and Brady Heithold, two.

Wayne was out-rebounded, 27-24 with Volk leading the way with five caroms from his point guard position. The game was marred by 48 total turnovers with Wayne forcing 28 while suffering 20. Volk and Schmeits each dished out five assists with Jeff Pippitt, Brad Hochstein and Brady Heithold netting four assists each.

"Our plan in every game will be to play very hard all four quarters and I thought we did that against Logan View," coach Rocky Ruhl said. "We needed to win this game with the weekend we knew we had facing us. I was a little disappointed with the number of turnovers as the second half got a little ragged."

Saturday at Lakeview the Blue Devils trailed 24-16 at the half before Lakeview used an 18-2 run to put the game out of reach.

An extreme physical contest, Wayne had three players need medical attention with cuts including Brad Hansen, Brad Hochstein and Ric Volk, Hochstein and Hansen scored 10 will learn from this points each to lead Wayne with Volk though, and be a better and Jon Ehrhardt adding four each. Caleb Garvin and Jeff Pippitt each sure well and held his scored two and Brett Parker added a all-stater Calvin Kapels.

Wayne was out-rebounded, 31-20 with Hochstein leading the Blue Devils with five caroms.

Wayne had 14 turnovers compared to just nine by the Vikings and Volk and Hochstein shared team honors in assists with three each.

"We never gave in despite the physical play and I was proud of that," Ruhl said. "We played hard and shot free throws well (12-16) but we didn't shoot the ball well from the field. We will learn from this experience though, and be a better team for it. I thought Ric Volk handled the pressure well and held his own against all-stater Calvin Kapels.

"It wasn't pretty but we got a win," Wayne coach Rocky Ruhl said. "Wisner played a good game. I think we had a little more depth which helped us win the game. We started out slow and I thought we showed signs of playing four games in seven days. Giving up 18 points in the first six minutes of the game will attest to that."

Ruhl said his team's defense picked up the intensity and with adjustments the Blue Devils came from behind.

Brad Hansen led the winners with 20 points with Brad Hochstein pouring in 18 while Ric Volk added eight. Luke Christensen finished with five points and Jon Ehrhardt scored three while Ryan Schmeits added a free throw.

Wayne was out-rebounded by the Gators. 21-18 with Jeff Pippitt and Brad Hansen hauling down four caroms each.

In the girls contest Wayne trailed 30-16 at the half before falling behind 40-23 after three quarters of play.

"We played competitive with one of the best teams in the state," Gagner said. "We went through a few bad spots at some very key parts of the game. Scotus scored four points in four seconds to end the first quarter." Kari Hochstein led Wayne with 11 points while Amy Harder and Karla Keller scored six each. Mary Boehle, Erin Jarvi, Lindsay Stoltenberg and Mary Munter tallied two each and Alissa Dunklau along with Lacey Wurdeman each scored one.

Scotus actually took a lead at 47-46 but the Shamrocks would not score again as Wayne closed the game on a 6-0 run.

"We came out the way we wanted and had a strong first half," Ruhl said. "Scotus made some adjustments at halftime and they played a great second half. We didn't make that many adjustments at the break because we played the first half exactly the way we wanted," Ruhl added.

Ruhl said he was pleased with the way his troops regrouped late in the game.

"We need to work on free throw shooting as we were just 8-17," Ruhl said. "We did a good job of getting to the line but once we got there we didn't convert."

Brad Hansen led the winners with 16 points with Brad Hochstein adding 15, Jon Ehrhardt and Caleb Garvin added six each with Luke Christensen scoring five. Brady Heithold and Ryan Schmeits each scored two.

Wayne out-rebounded Scotus, 26-22 with Hochstein leading the way with eight caroms while Hansen had seven.

Wayne Boys Basketball - The Wayne Herald - March 21, 2002 Wayne wins districts Blue Devils to play Fairbury at State

The Wayne High boys basketball team captured the Class C1-4 District Championship with a convincing 67-50 win over Ord, Feb. 18 at Columbus High School.

The win guaranteed Wayne a berth in next week's Nebraska State Boys Basketball Tournament in Lincoln.

The Blue Devils would have qualified anyway as one of two wildcard teams but winning the district title out-right was the goal all along.

"We came in with the attitude that in order to qualify for state we had to  $\cdot$ win this game and our kids responded by playing just like we have the past few games," coach Rocky Ruhl said. Ruhl, in his ninth year at the helm of the Blue Devil ship, will be making his third trip to State. Wayne is riding the four-year wave cycle after qualifying for State in 1994, 1998 and now in 2002.

The well-balanced Blue Devil attack had eight scorers with Caleb Garvin and Jon Ehrhardt each netting eight points with Luke Christensen netting seven and Ric Volk, six. The Jeffs continued to pressure Wayne in the third quarter and they took a 42-35 lead to the final stanza.

The never-say-die attitude of Wayne was prevalent throughout the fourth quarter and the Blue Devils made their run midway through the final period, erasing a double-digit lead.

Wayne took its first lead since early in the second quarter with just 20 seconds remaining at 53-52.

Fairbury's Tyler Stewart was fouled with just 5.1 seconds on the clock and the senior missed the first free throw attempt but made the second to knot the score at 53.

Volk drove the length of the court and bounced passed the ball to Ehrhardt who put the shot off the glass and in as the horn sounded to end the game in one of the most heroic comebacks in Wayne history.

That same duo combined to defeat Laurel-Concord in the finals of the Great-Northeast Nebraska Shootout in December but the encore replay had much higher stakes at risk.

Wayne battled with Lakeview the rest of the way despite trailing 37-22 at the half and 51-34 after three quarters of play.

Wayne had one of its patented come-from-behind tactics ploy in the fourth quarter and it nearly worked. The Blue Devils began chipping away at the 17-point deficit and got it down to seven and had possession of the ball but Lakeview stars Calvin Kapels and Dusty Jura quickly regrouped and pushed the lead back to 14 and it ended at 18 at 69-51. Senior Joe Holstedt sank the final bucket for Wavne.

Brad Hochstein ended his high school basketball career with 18 points with Luke Christensen scoring nine and Brad Hansen, eight. Ryan Schmeits and Jon Ehrhardt each scored five points while freshman Bryan Fink added four and
