TeamMates of Nebraska is a mentoring program modeled after the original program begun by Tom and Nancy Osborne in 1991.

At the present time there are more than 30 youth in Wayne being served by the program. The majority of these students are at the Wayne Middle School. The remainder are at Wayne High School and Wayne Elementary School.

The following are testimonials from several of those who serve as mentors for the program. Additional stories will be printed in coming issues of the "Mentoring for me has been a great experience. Each week I find myself looking forward to making the trip to Wayne High School to meet with my mentee.

"We have great conversations and it is fun getting to know each other. We have learned so much about each others' lives and I hope my mentee has gotten as much out of this experience as I have.

Public encouraged to take precautions against problems

Editor's note: The following is one of a series of articles being submitted by the Wayne Water/Waste Water Department, which encourage residents to install backflow prevention devices on their water systems.

In this day of advanced technology, most people assume that the water they drink is safe. Few, if any, give a second thought to the possibility that a public water system might be the carrier of a dangerous - perhaps fatal - bacteria, chemical or other harmful agent to the human body.

Let's consider some modern occurrences and see if those assumptions are reasonable as they might seem:

In a bank in Atlanta, Ga. during Jan. 1970, employees and customers were surprised to see yellow water flowing from the drinking fountains and green ice tumbling forth from the cafeteria ice machines.

Fortunately, the unusual colors alerted bank personnel to a hazardous situation before harm occurred. Upon examination, it was learned that a maintenance man had inadvertently connected the air conditioning system to the potable water system and in doing so, introduced large amounts of bichromate of soda into the drinking water. If it had not been for the dramatic color change, the potential threat

Going into the woods

The happenings in the woods were revealed last week during the Wayne High musical production of "Into the Woods." The play, under the direction of Kathryn Ley, involved a number characters from several well-known fairy tales dealing with the effects of a spell that had been cast years earlier. Above, the characters gather to celebrate following the death of the giant's wife.

The Chicken Show is coming!

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

With less than three months to go, organizers of the 22nd annual Wayne Chicken Show are continuing to peck up new ideas and scratch out plans for this year's event.

As July 12-13 approach, additional volunteers are needed to help with a number of events, especially the Chicken Feed. In addition, coordinators for several activities are also needed.

During last week's Chicken Show Task Force meeting, several committee members gave updates on activities that have taken place in recent weeks.

Deb Dickey, Product Sales chairperson, said the "clucktables" have been ordered and t-shirts should be available in the near future.

A 5K fun run and walk will be held on Saturday morning, July 13, beginning at 9 a.m. Marlin Brink from Wayne State College will be in charge of the activity, which is being promoted and sponsored by the WSC Cross Country/Track and Field Teams. Runners will run from Memorial Stadium at WSC, down Main Street and then turn back and finish with a lap on the Wayne State track. Those gathered for the parade will be able to cheer on all of the participants.

Karin Vaughn noted several changes that will be made in the brochure before it gets printed. It is anticipated that the brochure will be made available by the end of April.

Leo Ahmann with Main Street Wayne discussed activities being planned for Henoween. A concert will be held after the talent show with Frankie Valen. "For the Master" will also perform.

It is anticipated that the giant slide, moon bounce and other inflatable toys will be available for youth that evening.

Vendors displaying goods this year will be located along 10th Street, east of Main Street. Electrical hook-ups will be available.

The 2001 Chicken Show received the "People's Choice Award" for the Best Community Event in northeast Nebraska.

An attempt is being made to restore the Chicken Coupe that has been used in parades for a number of years. Anyone interested in making a donation to the restoration fund, can do so by dropping off or sending a contribution to the Wayne Area Chamber Office, c/o "Save the Coupe Campaign."

The Chicken Show Council meets the first Friday of each month at noon at the Chamber Office and will meet more often as the dates of Henoween and the Chicken Show grow closer.

Anyone interested in being a member of the Council is asked to contact the Chamber Office at 375-2240.

Belz speaks on leadership

Butting heads with presidents of big businesses to protect citizens' rights and safety is all in a day's work for Rachael Belz, a 1992 graduate of Wayne State College.

Belz is the director of a grass-roots citizen's action coalition which helps promote safety and self-regulation from corporations.

Ohio Citizen Action has been the most recent employment for Belz, who got her start as part of the Nebraska Citizen Action.

Belz, a native of Stanton, will visit WSC on April 15 and 16 to discuss the environment and student volunteerism. She will lead a public forum on April 16 at 11:30 a.m. in the Student Activities Board Room in upper level of the WSC Student Center. She will be discussing her role as a big business watchdog and professional environmentalist and how her college leadership roles have greatly aided her as a professional woman.

Tammy Tyson, a learning specialist with STRIDE, is organizing Belz's visit.

"The reason Belz appealed to STRIDE is because we are really into leadership and getting involved outside the classroom," Tyson said. "She's very involved and a very dynamic speaker."

Belz has been nationally recognized for her contribution to the "Good Neighbor" campaign victories with Cincinnati Specialties, a saccharine flavorings producer, and Morton/Rohm and Hass, a chemical producer for the poly-vinyl chloride industry. Belz and her staff are currently leading a "Good Neighbor" campaign with AK Steel in Ohio.

"She creates dialog between citizens and corporations and brings up issues that corporations may not want to hear like pollution and other negative effects," Tyson said.

In 2000, Rachael was named one of Cincinnati Magazine's "21 Leaders for the 21st Century." In 1995, Belz campaigned for the Clean Water Act for the Clean Water Action in Denver, Col. Her campaigns for Nebraska Citizen Action focused on renewable energy sources, like wind power, and groundwater issues.

Belz majored in journalism at WSC. She worked as an editor at the Wayne Stater newspaper and was a WSC honor student. Now she is the director of Ohio Citizen Action, which is the largest environmental and consumer organization of its kind in the U.S.

Locals named to dean's list at Milford

Lisa Mitchell and Jason Rethwisch, both of Wayne, and Joshua Sellin of Hoskins were recently named to the dean's list at Southeast Community College, Milford campus, for the winter quarter ending March 19.

At Southeast, a grade point average of 3.5 (B+) must be achieved on a 4.00 (A) scale to be so honored.

A total of 386 students were named to the Dean's List this quarter. The total enrollment for the winter quarter was 926 full-time day students.

Wayne State College technology teacher education students earned national championships in two events at the ITEA-TECA (International Technology Education Association-Technology Education Collegiate Association) Conference in Columbus, Ohio, recently.

One of the events was the technology quiz bowl, the group defeated Ohio State, 60-0, in semi-final competition and the College of New Jersey in the finals, 20-15.

"These results show how well our students have developed their knowledge and skills. Our program addressed problem solving throughout the year and provided students the opportunity to learn the skills necessary to meet national standards. We don't teach specifically for the contest, but the competition is over what students have learned in their courses to prepare them for teaching. Demand for technology teachers is exceeding supply," said Greg Vander Weil, Wayne State assistant professor.

Technology quiz bowl team members earned their second consecutive championship. Team members included Randy Stribley of Bellevue, Brad Wilken of Bloomfield, Dana Janssen of Gretna and Greg Worner of Wayne.

Problem solving team members

Steve Vergara (left), Wayne State assistant professor, was voted "Outstanding TECA Advisor" by the organization's national officers. David Shabram of Orchard won the distinguished service award. The two were awarded at the ITEA-TECA (International Technology Education Association - Technology Education Collegiate Association) Conference in Columbus, Ohio.

also earned a championship. They included Derik Jensen of Omaha, Janssen, Wilken and Stribley.

National third place finishers were members of the transportation and technical presentation teams. Transportation team members included Wilken, Stribley, Janssen and Mark Bengé of Manilla, Iowa. Technical presentation team members Worner and David Shabram of Orchard delivered a teacher education demonstration on information networks. Shabram also won the distinguished service award.

Steve Vergara, Wayne State assistant professor, was voted "Outstanding TECA Advisor" by the organization's national officers.

Poster presentations planned

The public is invited to attend a poster display of projects that have been completed at Wayne State College this school year. The poster presentations, which will showcase AQIP (Academic Quality Improvement Project) activities, will be open to the public on Tuesday, April 16, from 12:00 to 2:30 p.m. in the student center atrium on the Wayne State campus.

The poster displays will be a representative sample of more than 100 AQIP projects that have been completed on campus this year.

AQIP, a new process for accreditation developed by the Higher Learning Commission encourages institutions to use quality criteria to systematically examine how it is increasing its effectiveness in educating students and accomplishing its other key purposes. Wayne State College is among the first group of colleges and universities to be approved for AQIP participation.

"We are pleased with the number and the quality of projects that have been submitted this year," said Dr. Robert McCue, associate vice president and graduate dean. "I encourage people in the community to come to campus on Tuesday to see the poster presentations."

The Library Card

This column is written occasionally to inform the Wayne area as to what types of reading material and other items are available at the Wayne Public Library.

"Outside of a dog, a book is man's best friend. Inside of a dog, it's too dark to read." — Groucho Marx

Winter Story Time has ended for another year, but the fun at the Wayne Public Library continues.

More Good News: Aspirin May Reduce Severity of Stroke

In the most common type of stroke a blood clot or some other form of blockage reduces blood flow to the brain. According to a new study reported in the medical journal Stroke, persons who took a single aspirin tablet during the week before they had such a stroke lowered their risk of severe stroke-related damage - including loss of speech or speech difficulty and paralysis. In the study of more than 1,200 persons it was found that about 50% of aspirin users had mild strokes, and only about 10% had severe strokes, however 43% of individuals who did not use aspirin had mild strokes, and 15% had severe strokes.

Many physicians recommend a small daily dose of aspirin for patients who are at special risk for heart disease or stroke. Yet, chronic use of aspirin is not without risk, including bleeding problems. Ask your physician if taking aspirin every day is right for you.

How to deal with unexpected situations

The way people respond to unexpected events may indicate how successful they will be in their family or on the job.

Nearly all people will encounter hardships during their lifetime, either in careers or personal lives. Some examples include: Dealing with loss of a job; Dealing with a long term illness; Loss of production due to weather or disease; Loss of income due to changing prices for inputs and commodities; Coping with need for off-farm income to meet cash flow needs; Not being able to continue business or family traditions; Loss of family member by death or divorce

Dealing with these unexpected

Sandy Preston
Dixon County

situations can be difficult, but three key factors will help make necessary changes easier.

The first factor is recognizing the problem or situation. The sooner the issue is identified, the better. This seems basic but many people can't get over this hurdle due to denial. Many individuals may not recognize a problem exists until a lender, friend or family member points it out. Communication between these people can help break down the denial barrier. If lenders, friends and family are saying similar things it's easier to notice patterns and recognize a problem.

After the problem is recognized, the second factor is identifying what needs to be done. This could be done with family members or individually. Sit down and brainstorm all possible solutions to the problem. Listing every possible solution without evaluation is important. Only one or two options may be feasible, but it helps people to realize they have many options and power over the future. After brainstorming all alternatives, choose one, develop a plan and use it.

The third factor, making the necessary changes, is often the toughest.

Breaking tradition and making changes is like breaking into uncharted territory. Doing something different is risky, but continuing bad behavior can be worse. Communication is a good way to get through this step. Talk to others who have gone through a similar change. Noticing the similarities and learning from others will encourage people to change their own life.

P.E.O. Chapter plans upcoming meetings

AREA - Chapter AZ of P.E.O. will meet Tuesday, April 16 at 4 p.m. in the home of Bonnie Lund. Lauren Walton will present the program.

The group will meet again on Tuesday, May 7 at 4 p.m. in the home of Jean Griess. The program, "Traditions of P.E.O.," will be given by Kris Giese.

On Tuesday, May 21, the chapter will meet at 4 p.m. in the home of Nancy Warnemunde with Pam Matthes giving the program.

Program is being offered on lowering risk of heart disease

Looking for the secret to a healthier, happier, longer life? Get up and walk once around the room. You've just found it. Regularly getting up and moving - in other words, being physically active - is probably the single most important thing you can do to protect and improve your health.

Disorders of the heart and blood vessels, known as cardiovascular disease (CVD) or heart disease, are the leading cause of death for both men and women in the United States. Cardiovascular disease is also the most common and serious complication of diabetes. People who have diabetes are two to four times more likely than others to develop CVD. Thus, the focus of the first "Control Your Diabetes for Life" program will be CVD and reducing stress.

University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension has offered an invitation to everyone to participate in a new and exciting diabetes education program. The series of programs is being offered via the two-way interactive distance education facilities. Participants will learn about current issues related to diabetes from educators with over 12 years of team-teaching experience with the in-depth Living with Diabetes series.

The first of three programs in the "Control Your Diabetes for Life" series will be presented Monday, April 29. Topics that will be addressed during the two hour program, include: Diabetes and Relationship to Heart Disease; Diet and Heart Disease; Stress Management and Making the Switch to Insulin. Participants will sample a new recipe for a diabetic appropriate dessert.

The Clerk of District Court is: An Office of the Court

The laws of the State of Nebraska dictate the responsibilities of the Court. And the Clerk must know the law to understand the duties of that office. Civil & criminal process, passports, monitoring pending cases, serving as jury commissioner, and working with the judge to ensure the swift and efficient service of justice.

Elect Experience
Sheryl Connolly for Clerk of District Court (Republican Candidate)

During my 20 years with the Court, I have worked under the laws of Nebraska and the Nebraska Supreme Court rules governing the Courts. I have worked in the courtroom with judges and juries. I have helped to write procedures manuals which provide instructions for paperwork and record keeping into one set of instructions for court personnel. Please help me bring my experience to work for Wayne County.

Strains & Sprains - Hot vs. Cold Treatment

For strained ligament, muscle or minor sprains it is usually best to apply cold first. Use cold for 20 minutes at a time every 4 hours for 1-3 days until the swelling and bruising stops. Cold reduces inflammation and speeds healing. It also acts as a local anesthetic to relieve pain. Commercial cold packs may be safer than ice as ice may be more likely to cause frostbite. Later on you can apply heat to relieve pain and help with muscle relaxation. Your pharmacist can assist you in choosing the right pain reliever for your injury.

Northeast women's head coach Matt Svehla and four Northeast players recently received post-season honors from the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) Region IX or the Nebraska Community College Athletic Conference (NCCAC).

Svehla, who recently completed his eighth season and has tallied a record of 194-52 at Northeast, was named the Region IX Coach of the Year and the NCCAC Coach of the Year. Four of the eight players named to the NCCAC team were from Northeast, DeCock and Chiles were the number one and two vote getters on the All-Conference team.

The 2001-2002 Hawks team finished with a 25-7 record. The team lost 82-73 in overtime in the semifinals of the Region IX Women's Basketball Tournament in Sterling Colo.

Random thoughts given

Random thoughts on a Tuesday morning in the Farm House kitchen in early spring:

The Easter eggs have all been deviled or creamed and eaten. I feel so thrifty.

The flower bed trash has been pulled and eliminated, making way for iris and day lily shoots. I feel achy!

The clocks have all been turned one hour forward, causing me to oversleep at least once already. And it makes me feel tired.

During Lent, I've had a tradition of listening to the New Testament on cassette tape in my car. I almost didn't get it finished this year, hearing Revelation on Good Friday. After listening to that book, and then reading the headlines regarding the Middle East, I find myself feeling apprehensive. Muslims finding sanctuary in a Christian church in Bethlehem surrounded by Jewish forces is an incredible happening.

As usual after choir practice, I have a melody repeating itself in my head. The Lincoln Lutheran choir rehearses on Sunday afternoons, and we are preparing for two concerts the end of the month. We're actually doing two pieces

By: Pat Meierhenry

in Latin. It's the longer one, "Venite, exultemus Domino," that is buzzing along in my brain, especially a phrase that says, "Prae-oc-cu-pe-mus." It means "we stand before Him," and recurs frequently in the song. It's beautiful; we sound like a convent at eventide; sort of like the one in "Sound of Music." But I wish I could forget it until next Sunday.

It's been 50 years since the last major epidemic of polio in the U.S. Now, the World Health Organization hopes to have this disease eradicated by the end of this decade. I feel amazed, and grateful.

The Big Farmer has had the tax forms and all kinds of paper spread out on the dining room table for weeks. He meets with the accountant this afternoon. I feel relief.

I'm checking email more faithfully, but three-fourths of it is junk mail. When you add it to what comes in the mail box, I am totally frustrated.

And, by the way, the new mail box Santa brought is now in place. It's quite an improvement.

It's time to begin spring cleaning. I feel over whelmed! I'm looking for someone who does do windows.

Students hatch eggs

Kindergarten students at the Wayne Elementary School had the opportunity to participate in the University of Nebraska 4-H

School Enrichment Embryology Project. The students had an incubator in their classroom for 21 days.

They learned about different types of eggs and had the opportunity to watch the chickens hatch. During this time they also focused on various things included in their agriculture unit.

The kindergarten teachers participating were Mrs. Pat Jenkins, Mrs. Tanya Heikes, Mrs. Nicki Tiedtke and student teacher Ms. Tessa Fuchser. Eleven of the 12 eggs hatched.

The UNL Cooperative Extension Office thanks Ann Ruwe of Wayne for providing eggs for the project.
