Wayne students achieve success

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The national average for students taking the American College Test (ACT) is 21.0 on the 36 point test.

Leigh Campbell received a score of 33; Andy Martin and Brittini Bethune received 34's and Elysia Mann scored a perfect 36.

Brittini took the test in February and the other three students in April. All were somewhat surprised by their results.

"I would have been happy with a 30. I really wasn't expecting to get a 34. I didn't do a lot of preparation for the test, I just winged it," Bethune said.

Andy said that after Brittini received her results, the two of them made a bet on which one would receive a higher score. His score was exactly what he was hoping for. He, too, said he spent only a little time preparing for the test.

Both of them plan to take the test again before they graduate in an effort to raise their scores.

Elysia said she was a little surprised when she found out that she had received a 36, but had no secret for her academic ability.

Andy and Elysia took the ACT test as seventh graders as part of the Duke Talent Identification (TIP) program. Both received recognition in science, reasoning and math and Elysia received recognition in English also.

The four high achievers said that they really did not advance preparation for the test, but did credit Wayne High School's math and science department for providing excellent education.

"Mr. Blumenkamp is awesome. He is one of the smartest people I know," Brittini said.

The students said there really is little competition between them for the high scores, but instead they challenge each other to do well.

The students have different hopes and plans now they have received their test results.

Andy said his score will give him options, as he does not know what he wants to do in the future.

Lofquist makes strides toward goal

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Running has been a part of Kraig Lofquist's life for a long time.

The Director of Special Education at Wayne Community Schools, Lofquist has taken running to new heights as he recently returned home from a trip to Boston, Mass. where he was part of the 106th running of the Boston Marathon.

Lofquist, who was born in South Dakota and graduated high school from Langford, S.D., has lived in northeast Nebraska most of his life.

"I started running in junior high, always as a distance runner, but most of my running has been on my own. I ran while in high school but was not part of a track team in college," Lofquist said.

He said that participating in the Boston Marathon is a "whole new world. It is the standard for runners."

The 26.25 miles race was run April 15. Those participating need to qualify. The qualifying time for a man is three hours and 10 minutes or less. The 17,000 participants in this year's race came from 60 different countries.

Kraig Lofquist ran the Boston Marathon in memory of his father who died March 30.

Lofquist and his brother Paul both qualified for the race, and prior to the running, they raised more than $4,000 for the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

Kraig's father died on March 30 of this year, following a lengthy battle with cancer. The Lofquists ran the race in his honor.

Applications for the race must be turned in early. Kraig said he began the process in October and at the same time began raising money for cancer research.

"I ran a personal best at the Boston Marathon, three hours and three minutes," he said.

The race day was somewhat chilly and overcast and ideal for running. The temperature at the start of the race was 48 degrees and reached into the 60's by the time it was over.

The idea of a 26.2 mile race dates back to Ancient Greece and the first Olympic games. History indicates that a messenger ran 26.2 miles to deliver a message of victory in battle. The length of the race has remained constant throughout its history.

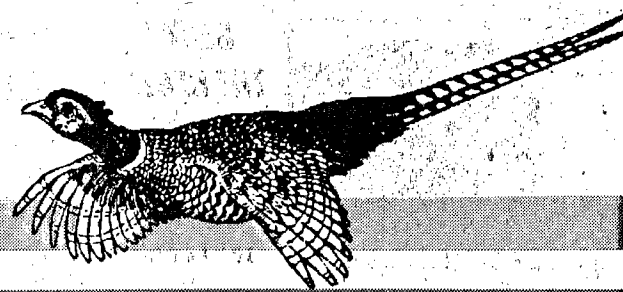

Lofquist said the last six miles of the race are the hardest, both mentally and physically. That part of the course includes an area known as Heartbreak.

Wayne Mercy Medical's Dexa team joins in fight

Bone densitometry is a type of mass, such as osteoporosis, some inherited diseases or treatments for chronic diseases.

which is a sign of bone strength. Bones that are not very dense become brittle and weak and are more likely to break. A number of conditions cause a loss of bone

Several imaging techniques may be used to measure bone density, including ultrasound computed tomography, but the most common method is the dual-energy x-ray absorptionmetry, or DXA. DXA pronounced "dexa" uses x-rays to analyze the amount of bone your skeleton has.

During a DXA scan, density measurements are taken of bones at specific areas of your body. Those measurements then are compared to a database of "normal" individuals of your same age, sex and race. The results show whether you have lost bone density. The measurements also help determine the presence of osteoporosis and can be used to estimate your risk of bone fracture. If you are being treated for bone loss, a follow-up DXA scan can show if the therapy is working.

There are 1.3 million osteoporosis related fractures per year in the USA. Of those, 250,000 are fractures of the hip. Of hip fractured patients, 15 to 25 percent need to enter long-term care institutions shortly after the fracture.

There are no reliable early warning signs of osteoporosis. A fracture is often the first sign that bone loss has occurred. Osteoporosis is detectable, preventable and treatable.

Main Street Focus

By Leo Ahmann

Our belated congratulations to all the Wayne State College graduates. Also, congratulations to all the graduates of Wayne High School and all the area high schools.

While we are passing out the congratulatory remarks, on behalf of Main Street, allow me to wish all the ladies a very happy Mothers' Day.

I haven't had any pictures taken at the TeamMates fundraiser returned, so we must have gotten all the pictures to the right places. Congratulations to the committee that did all the work on that evening. You people did a terrific job.

Many conversations in the community about the Highway 15 improvement/reconstruction project. Many questions are being raised... and many questions are answerable. Downtown will see a real change in scenery. Along with other entities, Main Street Wayne will continue to assist the business owners through the construction period in 2005. Someone said to me, "it's a long way off." My comment is, "No, it's not. Just think back three years and everything that's gone on in your life and how quickly it's passed. Dirt will be flying and cement breaking before we know it. That's why we are working on it and discussing it now."

I've just started surveying the people that have a business facing the highway and discussing with them whether they want it done in phases or done in one fell swoop. With the information I gather, I will give it to the city officials and then the city will make a recommendation to the Nebraska Department of Roads. Just to ease the minds of some, all the streetscape improvements that are being discussed, the Main Street Program simply makes recommendations to the city about what people have chosen, but the city will make the final determination. Many, many public meetings are scheduled before final designs are finalized.

To clarify another situation... yes, Main Street Wayne is now in charge of hanging/putting out the old (with the emphasis on the OLD) American and Welcome flags along Main Street. The reason that they were not displayed this past weekend for the college graduation is that the last time they were displayed, the wind whipped them to shreds. We are now trying to get the new American flags ready for their first appearance later this month. A reminder... Mothers' Day... Legends, Swans, Children's Collections, Antiques on Main and the Undercut are giving away (while supplies last), a potted flower with a purchase. Stop on in. If you have any suggestions or solutions, please give us a call at 375-5062.

Until next time...

The issue of term limits

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

The Nebraska electorate does not put much of a premium on experience in policymaking when it comes to state government.

In the Legislature, for example, Nebraskans don't seem to think much of the need for seniority among lawmakers - particularly those from districts other than the ones in which they live. That is one reason, presumably, that voters approved term limits for lawmakers.

The other reason, we all know, is because a lot of Nebraskans were glad to change the Constitution for a chance to chase Omaha Sen. Ernie Chambers out of the Unicameral.

The "experience thing" could come into play just a little sooner than expected, depending on the mood of voters and the fate of a pending referendum petition.

The referendum petition seeks a statewide vote on the repeal of higher sales and income tax rates approved by the just-adjourned Legislature. If it makes it to the ballot in November and then wins approval, the state will need to revise its fiscal house, and policies dependent upon it, real quick.

And, putting the petition aside, if the economy does rebound noticeable in the near future, more policy/budget restructuring will be needed.

In that light, consider that in the space of a few months the Legislature has lost the services of Revenue Committee Chairman Bob Wickersham of Harrison, and Executive Board Chairman George Coordsen.

Add to the mix the fact that Speaker of the Legislature Doug Kristensen of Minden could be leaving the Unicameral to become chancellor of the University of Nebraska - Kearney.

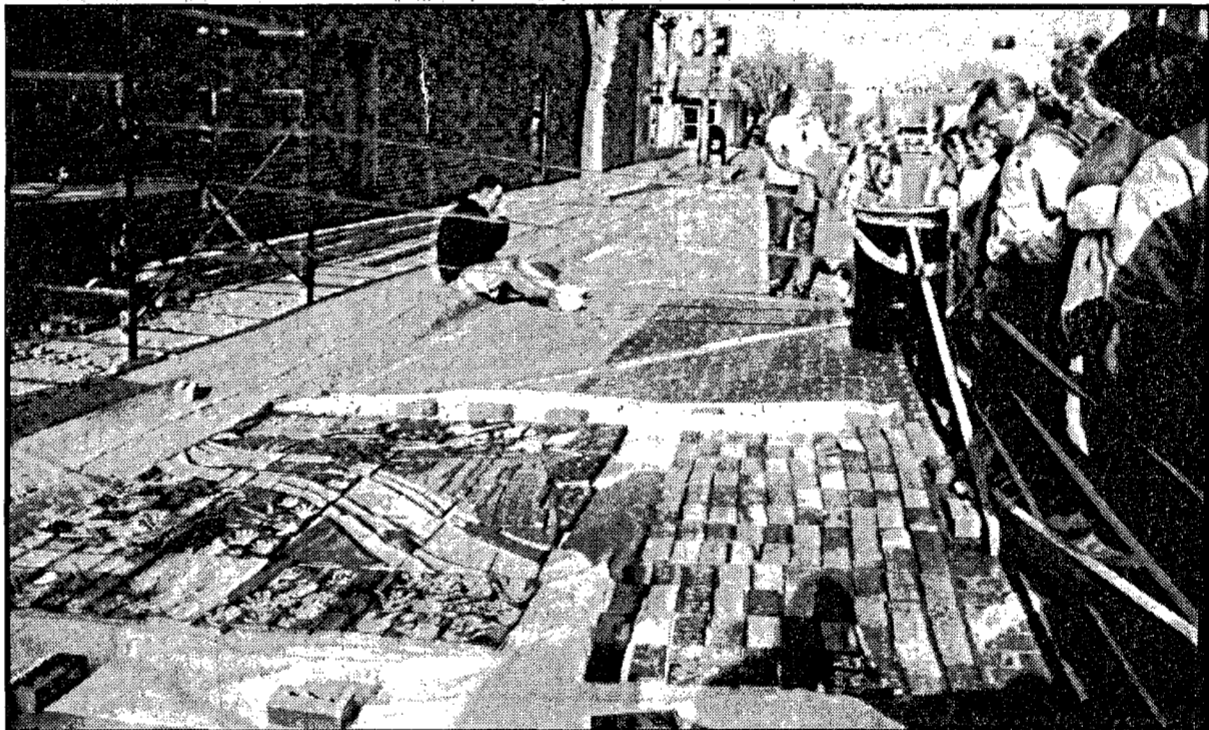

Interestingly, all that veteran leadership hails from western Nebraska. And all of it could be missing when the 2003 Legislature convenes.

Coordsen decided to retire, Wickersham took another job. Kristensen wants another job. Of course, there does seem to be a distinct view abroad in the land regarding lawmaking; this view being that lawmaking can't be that hard, and that the people doing it now aren't very good at it, anyway. Higher taxes always tend to bolster the ranks of those who subscribe to this philosophy.

Experienced lawmakers tend to have the capacity to build coalitions. The leadership, by definition, has had some trust vested in it by the rank and file.

If term limits remain the law of Nebraskaland indefinitely, it will be interesting to watch government evolve as real power is slowly transferred from the Capitol to the State Office Building.

The Legislature can be drained of experience as veteran lawmakers go home. But bureaucrats are forever. And they don't have to worry about elections.

Wet weather prevented the mural on Third Street from being put in place last week. However, Lenny and Jean Jones continue to put the puzzle-like pieces in place and hope to complete the project this week.

McCartney begins duties at Wayne State

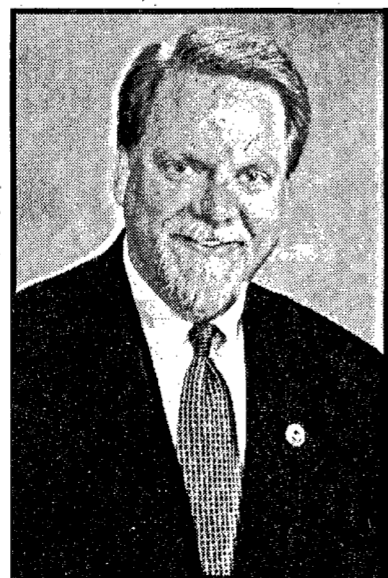

Douglas W. McCartney, J.D., has been named Vice President for Development at Wayne State College and Executive Director of the Wayne State Foundation. He began his duties on April 22.

Since 2000, McCartney, of Portsmouth, Va., served as Chief Deputy Director of the Department of Professional and Occupational Regulation for the Commonwealth of Virginia. In that position to which he was appointed by the governor of Virginia, he oversaw 18 regulatory boards ranging from accountants to architects.

Prior to that, McCartney served as Deputy Executive Director of Major Gifts and Director of Planned Giving for the Christian Broadcasting Network (CBN) in Virginia Beach, Va. for five-and-a-half years.

Before joining CBN, he was in the private law practice for ten years. McCartney received his juris doctorate from the O.W. Coburn School of Law at Oral Roberts

Douglas McCartney

University in Tulsa, Okla. in 1984. He earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration and Management from Oral Roberts University in 1976.

"We are very pleased to have Doug here at Wayne State," said WSC president Sheila Stearns. "He has considerable experience in development, and has an excellent background that fits very well with Wayne State College and the Wayne State Foundation."

"One of the most exciting things about development is matching people with great opportunities," McCartney said. "Planned giving lets you show people how they can financially do things they never imagined they could do."

McCartney and his wife, Gale, are parents of three children: Sarah, 17; Brandon, 15; and Tyler, 13. They are building a home in Wayne; McCartney's family will join him here in June. "We are looking forward to being part of the community and region," McCartney said.

Brittini said her score will give her a better chance of going to the college of her choice, possibly MIT where she would major in a math or science field.

Leigh is hoping her score will aid in her search for scholarships to pursue her education. She plans to become a medical psychiatrist.

Elysia also hopes her score will lead to scholarships and stated that even a 36 does not guarantee getting into the college of her choice.

Nebraska statistics for those in the graduating class of 2001 indicate there were 16,677 students who took the test. Of these, only two received a perfect score of 36. In addition, there were 20 students who received 35's; 45 students who received 34's and 95 students who received 33's. Statistically, this means that one percent of the students in Nebraska taking the test received a 33 higher.

Dr. Donald Zeiss, Principal at Wayne High, said that Elysia's perfect score is the first in his 28 years at Wayne High. He said that there have been a number of high scores throughout the years that can be attributed to several factors.

"Education is important to families in our community. We also have a number of self-motivated students who push themselves to do well. In addition, our teachers have high expectations for their students and the students live up to those expectations."

Terry Munson, Guidance Counselor at Wayne High, said that 40 students out of the 72 in the junior class have taken the ACT. Of those, only three have received scores of less than 20.

Essay contest winners announced

The Northeast Nebraska Humane Society recently conducted a Kind Kid Essay in which young people were asked to write an essay describing how they had been kind to an animal.

The contest was in conjunction with National Pet Week activities conducted by the Humane Society.

More than 30 entries were received from Wayne, Wakefield, Laurel, Emerson and Carroll. Four independent judges judged the entries and the top three are being re-printed here.

"My name is Johnny Saunders. I am 10 years old. I love all animals. It is easy to be kind to them.

I have three horses that I feed and water everyday. My favorite horse is my 4-H horse named Racy. I make sure the other horses can't take away any of her hay. I pet her and curry comb her while she's eating. I like to bring the horses sugar lumps and apples. I never use spurs, I think they hurt the horses. If you talk nice to them, they usually do what you want them to.

I also have a full grown chicken that I've raised from a baby chick. She is black and I named her Big Bird. She is a good buddy of mine. She lets me pick her up and pet her and hug her. I make sure she has food and water and I let her get out and run around to exercise. She likes to sit on my shoulder and my forearm. I will show her to everyone in 4-H this summer. I make sure she is kept away from the dogs.

I also have a dog named Daisy. I got her at an animal swap meet about six years ago. I feed and water her and play fetch. She likes her ears and tummy scratched. I take her along for bike rides to the Dairy Queen. She loves to eat vanilla ice cream cones. She is a good hunting dog and my good friend.

Another dog I've been nice to is my Grandma's dog, Pepper. He is a small back toy poodle. He isn't doing very well right now. He is very old, he is 17. He can't see, hear or eat very well. When I go to Grandma's, I get his meat dog bonz and I take out the meat in the center and grind it up and feed Pepper a little at a time. He eats it out of my hand and then rests. I feel sorry for him, but petting him makes him feel better.

I love all animals and it is easy to be kind to all of them. I would have more, if only my mom and dad would let me. Animals are good friends to have."

I Love Cats

Hi, my name is Megan Mousel and I live in Wakefield. I'm 12 years old.

I love cats very much and treat them like me and you. Anyway, before I moved last summer, there was a landscape where at least 28 stray cats lived. The land was covered in flowers and had three trees along a fence. The cats lived in the two sheds to the north side of the landscape. Every day I would go over there and try to tame some of them. I would also feed them cat food. Sometimes I would find abandoned kittens and take them home and raise them myself.

Well, one time I found two half grown kittens calling for their mother in the rain. I picked them up and brought them home. My mom thought they were adorable, but my dad, well that's another story. Anyway, I brought them in the house and gave them formula. (My mom thought that would be better than skim milk.) One of them was pure white and the other one was orange. After a while my dad got mad and made me put them back. That made me cry because I didn't want a male cat to get to them.

Finally my mom made my dad let me go and get them, but only the orange one was there. That worried me a lot. I looked and looked but couldn't find him. So I picked the orange one and took him to the house. I unfolded a stroller and put a blanket in the bottom of it. I laid him down inside of it and he fell fast asleep. We left food by the stroller in case he got thirsty or hungry again.

In the morning I rushed to the stroller. When I got there, the mother cat was walking frantically around the stroller. I could hear the kitten calling its mother. I took both of them out of the garage and let them go.

My Essay on my Love for Animals

Hello, I am Maddy Moser. I have been a part of the Wayne Humane Society for one and one-half years. I have two dogs, two fish, two horses and two rats. I love animals and being with them.

I help the Love of Animals by saving $6 a month. I have been doing this for about one year now. I help walk dogs in my spare time. I enjoy just letting the dogs get out, and have time to stretch their legs. I also attend as many meetings as I can. I tell people at school and other places about the LOA.

One time a dog came to my house. He was friendly so I let him in because our dogs dislike him. I calmed him down and was able to see that he was wearing a heart-shaped tag. I knew that it was the sign of the Wayne Veterinary Clinic.

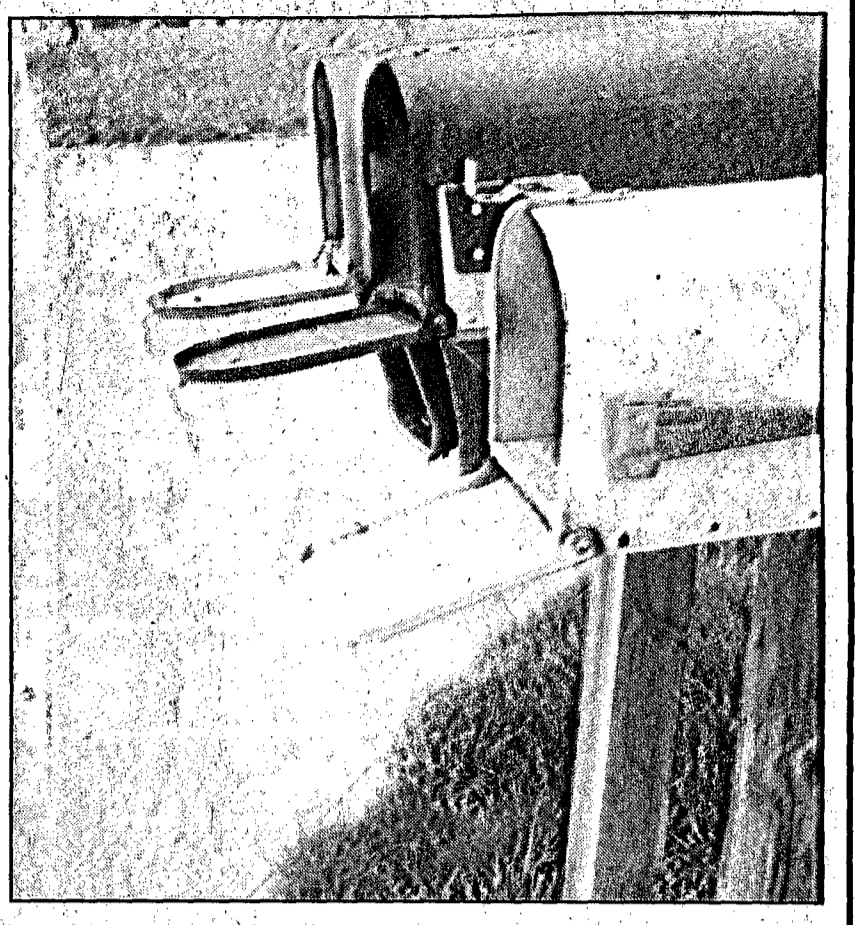

I called the phone number on the tag and I gave them the number on the tag. They told me that they would contact the owner and tell him where his dog was. They did not have connection until later in the day. When he came, he thanked me, but I told him it was no big deal and that Magnum was a good dog. He lets his dog in the truck and went home.

A week later Magnum came back and the owner once again returned. I now know how to find a stray dog's owner. I love to help animals and it is no problem to take care of them for a while until they find their owners.

"I learned lots during the race, including the fact that I needed to drink lots of water and the fact that everyone is pulling for all the other runners. Lots of people kept yelling, 'hang in there' as we ran. As I was running, I kept yelling 'Dad' in memory of my father, who I was running for," he said.

Lofquist finished 1,462 in the race. This was considerably higher than he, and those in charge, had anticipated. Prior to the race he was given a number, 5916, which he wore through the race. That was the number he was expected to finish.

Free lead poisoning testing for children

Goldenrod Hills Community Services is providing FREE screening for possible lead poisoning on Tuesday, May 14 at the Women's Club Room in the City Auditorium located at 222 North Pearl Street in Wayne.

The screening will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Children between the ages of 12 months through 6 years are eligible for this FREE screening. The test involves a simple finger stick administered by a registered nurse. Parents/guardians are informed of the results by mail in two to three weeks.

According to Nebraska Health and Human Services and the "Keep You Child Lead Safe" pamphlet, lead poisoning is a disease caused by ingesting or inhaling lead. It can affect almost every system in the body and be harmful even in small amounts. Children most at risk are those who have a brother or sister with a high blood lead level; live with an adult whose job or hobby involves the use of lead; or live in or often spend time in homes built before 1978 - especially if they have peeling or chipping paint, or are being remodeled.

Potential sources of lead include lead-based paint, lead dust, chipped or peeling paint, and soil. Occupational exposures include smelting and refining of metals, plumbing fixture fittings and trim, motor vehicle parts and accessories, firing ranges, road construction, or automotive repairs.

Most children have no visible symptoms of lead poisoning. Low levels of lead can damage the nervous system which may lower IQ scores and make learning difficult. Growth loss, hearing loss, excitability or difficulty concentrat-

Following the race, Kraig said he drank lots of water, took Power Gels and potassium and walked around for an hour. He said he really didn't feel any negative side effects.

Preparation for Kraig includes running 60 miles a week, eating the proper foods and mental preparation.

"I get a lot benefits from running, including enjoying the solitude, the fact that it is a great stress-reliever and it helps me sleep."

Lofquist also ran a marathon in Lincoln on May 1, along with Monica Sievers, a fourth grade teacher at Wayne Elementary School, who ran a one-half marathon (13.1 miles). Lofquist ran the race in a time of three hours and four minutes. Monica finished her portion of the race in one hour and 50 minutes.

He has plans to run the Grandma's Marathon in Duluth, Minn. on June 22 and hopes to finish in three hours or less.

He has run races for a number of causes in the past and has run seven marathons in his career, including one in Canada.

"My goal is to run one marathon in each of the 50 states. I also would like to run in Berlin, Germany in October.

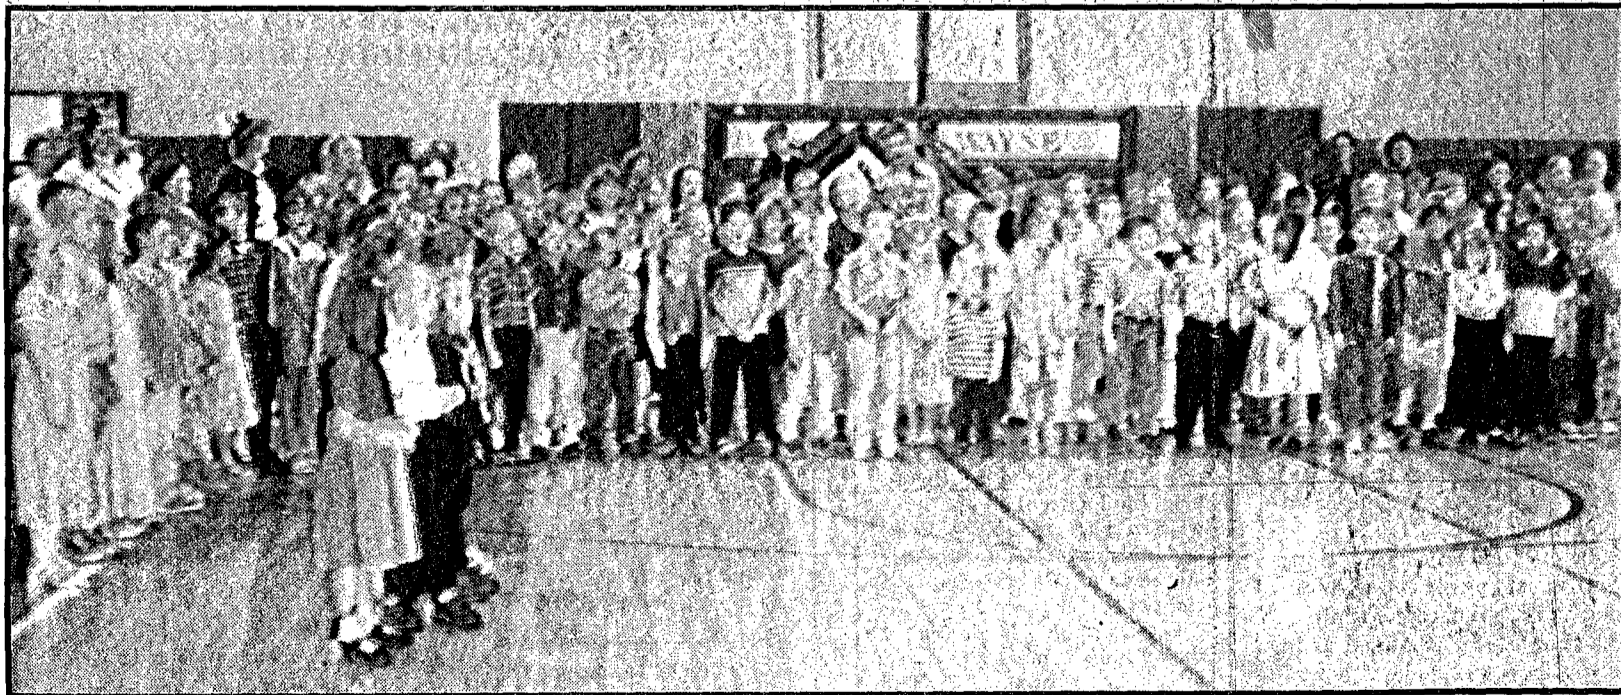

Until then, Lofquist will continue to run 8-12 miles a day, focus on training correctly and enjoying what he does.

and pregnant women away from any area being remodeled. Replace imported vinyl mini-blinds with lead-free vinyl blinds. People with an occupational exposure to lead should remove their clothes and shoes before entering their home and wash their hands before eating or preparing foods. Provide diets high in iron (meats, beans, peanut butter) and calcium (milk, cheese). Fatty foods should be avoided as they cause the body to absorb lead faster. If you have any questions about lead poisoning or would like to schedule a FREE screening, please contact Goldenrod Hills Community Services at (402) 529-3513 EXT. 45 or 1-800-445-2505, or check with your local physician.

Wayne State tracksters compete in Sioux Falls

The Wayne State College Track & Field teams competed at the 78th Annual Howard Wood Dakota Relays held Friday and Saturday in Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

The Wildcats did not score any victories, but had several athletes that placed in the top six and got on to the medal stand.

Leading the way for the Wildcats was freshman Zach Molacek (Stanton, Nebr.). Molacek earned a total of four medals on the weekend.

Individually, he placed fourth in the 100 meter dash in a time of 11.30. He also took sixth place in the 200 meter dash in 23.61.

The other two medals he picked up were on relays where he ran the second leg.

The 4 x 100 meter relay team placed fourth in a time of 43.34. Other team members included: Casey Cavanaugh, Travis Wookman, and Eric Havranek. The sprint medley relay team placed fifth in a time of 3:35.77. Other team members included: Cavanaugh, Andy Schmoltd, and Matt Rosauer.

Brian Dixon, a freshman hurdler, placed fourth in the 110 meter hurdles in a time of 15.00. However, in the prelims, he ran a time of 14.59 seconds, which is under the provisional national qualifying mark of 14.70 seconds. His time is currently the 19th best time in NCAA Division II.

Dave Dooley was the highest placing Wildcat in the meet. Dooley placed third in the javelin throw with a lifetime best mark of 156' 0. The mark is the second best WSC javelin mark ever, behind Mark Vollmer's record of 163' 11 set in 1987.

Sophomore Eric Havranek placed fourth in the long jump with a mark of 22' 8". The competition was the best he has faced this season with the top three jumpers going over 23'.

Other WSC athletes who placed in the top six included: Pole vault - 14' 6, Joe DeMilt - 4th; High jump - 6' 2, Shannon Schumacher - 5th; 400 meter dash - 50.80, Ryan Leriger - 6th; and 4 x 400 meter relay - 3:24.18, Leriger, Rosauer, Schmoltd, and Justin Farr - 6th.

On the women's side, Tracie Fehringer, a senior, was the top Wildcat finisher with a 5th place medal in the shot put with a mark of 41' 9". She did not compete in the discus throw on Saturday due to commencement exercises at WSC which she was participating in.

The next action for the track & field team will be at the NSIC Championships in Duluth, Minn. on Friday and Saturday.

Head Coach Marlon Brink stated, "The Howard Wood Relays is a very prestigious meet, so it was very exciting to see our athletes up on the medal stand on several occasions. This was about the nicest weather we have had this spring, and our marks reflected that."

"Zach Molacek had an excellent meet. He trained with the team during the indoor season, then was in spring football, before rejoining the squad two weeks ago. He looked very strong in the sprints and should have a good shot at placing well at the NSIC Meet."

"Brian Dixon really surprised me this week. He was battling a cold the last few days, so I didn't expect him to run as fast as he did in the prelims. The wind was just under the allowable limit, so it counts as a Provisional National Qualifying mark."

"That is very exciting for the team as it is our first this season. He will probably have to drop it a little this week yet in order to make the cut into the NCAA National Meet."

"We are looking about the best we have this season heading into the NSIC Meet. We have several athletes who are leading their events going into the meet, so we hope to bring home some individual championships."

The University of Minnesota-Duluth appears to be the heavy favorite on both the men's and women's sides. They have depth that no one else in the NSIC can match."

Late spring fishing techniques discussed

Late spring is the time of year when fish become active and more aggressive, since they're cold blooded, warmer water means more activity and more activity requires more food.

The prey fish will be on the move, cruising, looking for a meal, so you'll need to make some changes from the way you fished during the cold water period.

This is the time of year that you'll need to speed up your bait presentation. You'll still use many of the same lures, but you'll fish them a little faster.

If you're using a jig, you'll want to speed up your retrieve, jig a little more aggressively, drift the boat a little quicker or use your trolling motor to move the bait a bit quicker.

If you're using a live bait rig, this is a good time to switch from a minnow rig to a night crawler rig.

It's still a little early to troll a spinner, but a Lindy or Roach Rig drug or jigged just off the bottom will start to look pretty good to walleyes, bass and other predator fish.

Crankbaits will start to come into play and trolling or casting minnow shaped baits along the shore line will start to take fish.

Fast water presentations will also start to produce! The fast water below dams will hold catfish and walleyes that will lie in wait among the rocks and debris on the bottom, waiting for an easy meal to swim past.

By drifting through the fast water, and kicking your motor in and out of gear, which will help to slow your drift, you'll be able to get your bait in a somewhat vertical presentation.

Crappie rigs with rubber bands

Gary Howey
'Of the Outdoors'

hooked between the bottom snap and the sinker will help to keep your rig out of the snags and in the fish catching zone.

The rubber band, lets the sinker snap in and out of the rocks and if you do get hung up, you can pull back hard on the line, letting the line snap back, this will either kick the weight loose or break the rubber band. Now all you have to do is replace the rubber band and weight instead of putting together an entire crappie rig, which saves you time and gets your rig back into the water quickly.

Jigs cast along the shore line or off the points and retrieved in a hopping fashion will also take these fast water cruisers.

One thing you'll want to do when fishing fast water is to use fairly heavy line. Since the fish you're after are aggressive, water clarity is generally poor and the rig you'll be using heavier, so you won't need to use lighter line.

Heavier line, although a pain to fish with, will help you to pull any snagged lure from the bottom. Line in the 10 to 15 pound range will generally work well when fishing live bait rigs or jigs in the fast water.

Another method that works well in the fast water is a bottom bouncer with a 12 to 15 inch monofilament leader and a Shad Rap or Rapala.

Fish this rig just like you'd fish the crappie rig by taking your motor in and out of gear so that the rig will stay vertical and allowing the crankbait the opportunity to work its magic.

Drop your line down until you feel the bottom bouncer tick the bottom, now work it up and down as you would a jig. This causes the crankbait to dart and jump around resembling a wounded minnow.

Use just a heavy enough bottom bouncer to keep the bait vertical. If you aren't vertical, you'll know soon enough because you'll be snagged.

The bites on this rig will generally come as you jerk the rig upward or when the bottom bouncer comes in contact with the bottom.

Late spring is also the time of the year when you need to keep your eyes open, looking for signs of activity on the surface.

Seagulls diving on an area or minnows hitting the surface is a good indicator that predator fish such as walleyes and bass are on a feeding spree. The fish force the minnows to the surface or up into the shallow water where the gulls and other shore birds take advantage of this easy meal.

If you spot this type of activity, it will pay to check it out as there are probably game fish near by.

This is the time of the year when walleyes and bass will move from the deeper water off the points and sandbars, especially when the water is rising. You'll also find them in areas where creeks, streams or runoffs enters the lake or river.

The water coming in is generally warmer and the incoming water brings a smorgasbord of fine dining to the hungry fish.

Grubs, worms and insects are carried along by the incoming water and the fish will set up below these areas waiting for lunch to come to them.

Late spring is an excellent time to head for your favorite fishing hole, as the fish are more active, the mosquitoes haven't come out yet and the temperatures are comfortable.

By speeding up your presentation and going to a bit larger bait, you should be able to take a few of these aggressive late spring fish.

Herbs for Health

Why Use Standardized Herbal Products?

In some ways herbs are like wine. Wine's vary in quality depending on many factors: grape type, extraction and processing methods, where grapes are grown, and growing season characteristics. The same is true with herbs which contain numerous complex chemical agents and which vary in quantity from plant to plant. In some respects, herbal products are more complicated than wine. Wine comes from one part of the plant - the fruit. Herbal medicines can come from flowers, leaves, stems, roots, and other parts. Medicinal agents may be concentrated in one part of the plant and not in others.

Standardization helps assure consumers that a consistent dose of active ingredient is in each dose of herbal medicines. Standardized herbal medicines typically cost more than non-standardized products. And although some products are labeled as "standardized," tests by independent laboratories may show that little or no medicinal agent actually is present in the product. Therefore, it pays to use quality brands of herbal medicines from reputable companies.

Nursing Home Week observed

National Nursing Home Week this year is being held May 12-18, beginning on Mother's Day with the theme of "Celebrating the Seasons of Life."

Sponsored by the American Health Care Association, this week spotlights the crucial role nursing facilities play in delivering quality care to our nation's seniors and disabled Americans, 1.5 million of whom reside in nursing facilities. This week brings awareness to nursing facilities and is also a vehicle for celebrating the exceptional care providers, volunteers, families and others from the community who foster the spirit of Celebrating the Season of Life throughout the year.

Premier Estates Senior Living Community of Wayne is planning a week filled with events to celebrate this special time. Highlighting the week's activities will be a free barbecue for the public on Friday, May 17, from 5 to 7 p.m.

Other events during the week will include a residents' family dinner, a "Kiss the Pig" contest, a "Birthday Bash" and special musical entertainment.

"Our residents have so much to share and we feel that activities such as these are a wonderful way of including not only residents and staff but also the whole community," said Mark Ahmann, Director of Marketing at Premier Estates.

"If you would like to join in our activities or come for a visit and tour, please contact us, we would love to include you."

Local Talent Search winners will compete for state championships in 12 divisions at the Family Fest, July 20 at State Fair Park in Lincoln. The fee is $15 and the contest is limited to amateur performers.

Landscaping workshop planned

A workshop on recommended landscaping practices will be held at the Laurel Learning Center on Tuesday, May 14 at 7:30 p.m. Landscaping, when done correctly, can greatly improve the pleasure one receives from his or her home, but it can also increase the home's value. This informative session will use a slide presentation to walk the learner through the do's and don'ts of landscaping for northeast Nebraska. Kate Schumacker, Nebraska Arboretum Coordinator, will make the presentation. The workshop is free and the public is encouraged to attend. Sponsoring the event is the Laurel-Concord School Adult Education Committee. For more information, contact Bob Fritschen at (402) 256-9205.

Financial planning provides security

Future financial planning remains important, even during uncertain economic times.

Saving money allows consumers to reach their long-term goals, such as buying a new house or car, paying for college or having cash available for emergencies and occasional splurges.

Consumers can prepare themselves financially by:

-- Saving money for a rainy day. Emergencies become more stressful when consumers can't pay their bills. Set aside three to six months worth of living expenses to prepare for unplanned expenses.

-- Paying off debt, especially credit card debt. Consumers who carry large amounts of unpaid debt may find it difficult to save for the future. To avoid credit card debt, choose cards with low interest rates and fees and use them only during emergency situations.

-- Creating a budget. Track expenses for a month and decide which purchases to reduce. Make sure the new budget includes contributions to a savings account.

-- Deciding how much to save. Consumers' lifestyles and health concerns are important factors when planning for the future.

-- Being insured. Families are more equipped to handle unexpected crises if members are covered by health insurance policies. Consumers also should consider homeowners', disability and long-term care policies.

-- Planning estates. A will protects family members from complications and legal expenses after someone's death. It may specify who will serve as the power of attorney and who will receive the estate's assets. Living wills allow people to decide who will make financial or health decisions if they're unable to.

-- Organizing records. Place original documents such as birth certificates, marriage certificates, Social Security cards and lists of credit card and account numbers, in a fireproof safe-deposit box. Create a document detailing financial accounts and insurance policies so loved ones can access important information.

Workshop to be held for summer temporary food establishments

Good food, good friends and summer celebrations go hand in hand. Food stands at town celebrations, special events and fairs help raise money for many worthy causes.

With many hands helping out a few food safety rules need to be in place so workers and consumers don't come in contact with a food borne illness.

The University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension in Northeast Nebraska is offering a two-hour workshop for those managing or working at a temporary food establishment.

Many times, these one, two or more day-long food stands, deal with little or no running water, bugs and dirt blowing through the air. There are important steps that can be taken to insure proper management for quality food safety.

Foodborne illnesses rise significantly during the summer months. It is important for as food is made and served this summer for large numbers of people that proper food safety guidelines are followed to reduce any risk. This workshop will provide information and have handouts and posters to take home.

This workshop will be offered May 16th at 7:00 p.m. in the Haskell Agriculture Lab, near Concord, NE. The workshop is free, but pre-registration is required by 4 p.m. the day of the workshop. To register or for more information call the Dixon County Extension Office at 584-2234.

Old Parkinson's Drug May Help Stroke Victims

Parkinson's disease affects persons of all ages with involuntary body movements. Levodopa is a mainstay of treatment. As levodopa is metabolized, brain levels of dopamine increase, reducing or eliminating abnormal body movements.

German researchers are finding that levodopa also may help persons with other brain malfunctions- including stroke.

According to the medical journal The Lancet, researchers studied 47 seriously affected stroke victims who were unable to walk by themselves. Thirty-five were unable to use their arms. Some were given levodopa and physical therapy, while others were given a placebo and physical therapy. Although all benefited from these treatments, those who received levodopa improved the most, walking alone earlier than persons who received the placebo and physical therapy.

Tanzanian visitor to be in Wayne

John Mkenda, a Midland Lutheran College alumnus, from Marangu, Tanzania will be visiting in Nebraska during May and will be in Wayne from May 9-15. Our Savior Lutheran Church will serve as John's host during his stay in Wayne. John is an active member of the Kotela Lutheran Church in the Northern diocese of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in Tanzania.

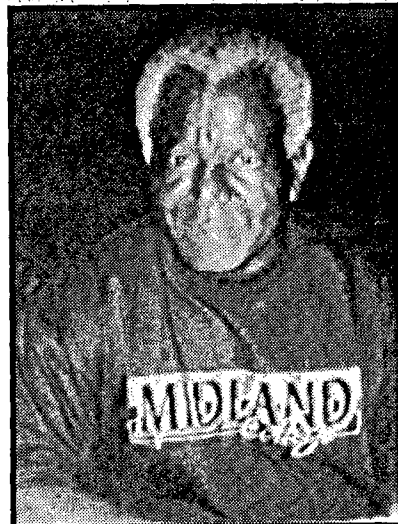

After graduating from Midland Lutheran College in 1965, Mkenda returned to his native land and has worked to give hope to people in an impoverished nation. He uses his own limited financial resources along with gifts from others to provide tuition-free education to students at the school he started.

Mkenda teaches various skills including vehicle mechanics, welding, carpentry, turning and fitting, English and math. He also runs a sewing school. His students learn how to market their products.

John will bring greetings at the worship services on Saturday evening at 6 p.m. and Sunday morning at 8 and 10:30 a.m. He will also speak at a special forum during the Sunday School learning hour at 9:15 a.m.

While visiting Wayne, Mkenda will visit with community leaders, touring some of the Wayne Industries and Wayne State College. He will also meet with the Mission Group from Our Savior which will be traveling to Tanzania in August.

John Mkenda

Mkenda will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree from Midland Lutheran College during their commencement ceremonies at 10 a.m. on Saturday, May 18 in Hopkins Arena on the campus in Fremont.

For more information concerning Mkenda's visit to Wayne or other ministries of Our Savior Lutheran Church, contact the office at (402) 375-2899.

Friends in Faith to present musical

Friends in Faith, directed by Wayne State College senior Gretchen Murphy, will present a spring musical on Sunday, May 12, at the 9:30 a.m. worship service.

Friends in Faith is the church's fifth through eighth grade choir. "Sermon on the Mount" is an energetic children's musical that teaches several important lessons for life. The musical centers around spring training for the Eagles baseball team. There is a new rookie, Mac Wire, who has been training with the team for 40 days and 40 nights, but is scared about tripping in the outfield, dropping the ball and striking out.

The main characters, assistant Coach Goodman, Dizzy Deano, Jacki Rawlings and Mr. Oscar Meyers, help Mac learn these important lessons: "We need to 'suit up' in the armor of God and should use God's Word when the heat is on"; "Each person is important and that it takes a team"; "The world says you're finished when you strike out, but that's not so with Jesus Christ"; and "The best players are the ones who spend the most time with their Head Coach."

The public is invited to attend this Christian message in song.

Helpful Hints for Snorers

Here are some self-help remedies for mild snorers. Establish regular sleep patterns. Sleep on your side rather than back. Tilt the head of your bed up 4 inches. Avoid tranquilizers, sleeping pills, and antihistamines before bedtime. Avoid alcohol and heavy snacks 3-4 hours before retiring. Reduce weight with exercise and healthy diet. If snoring is chronic and severe it can cause long-term health problems so consult with your doctor if that is the case.

Wayne's fourth grade students participate in pizza, agriculture

Sixty-two fourth grade students at Wayne Elementary School are completing an educational unit on agriculture in which their teachers, Mrs. Peg Lutt, Mrs. Lori Ruskamp and Miss Monica Sievers have planned various activities and educational pieces to share with students about the field of agriculture.

On April 30 and May 1, the teachers invited Amy Topp, UNL Extension Educator from the Cooperative Extension Office in Wayne County to share with students the role that agriculture plays in producing the ingredients of pizza.

Students related information that they knew about agriculture, learned about various ag related careers and also discussed the ingredients used in making their favorite pizza and became aware of the nutritional values of those ingredients.

During the second visit, students were able to make their own mini pizza. This project is sponsored by the Wayne Area Chamber Task Force in cooperation with the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension.

Students were asked to share something they learned about agriculture and some of their comments included:

"I learned that we need to have crops to make pizza!"

"I learned that pizza was a healthy thing to eat."

"That there are lots of jobs in agriculture."

"That pizza has a lot of agriculture in it."

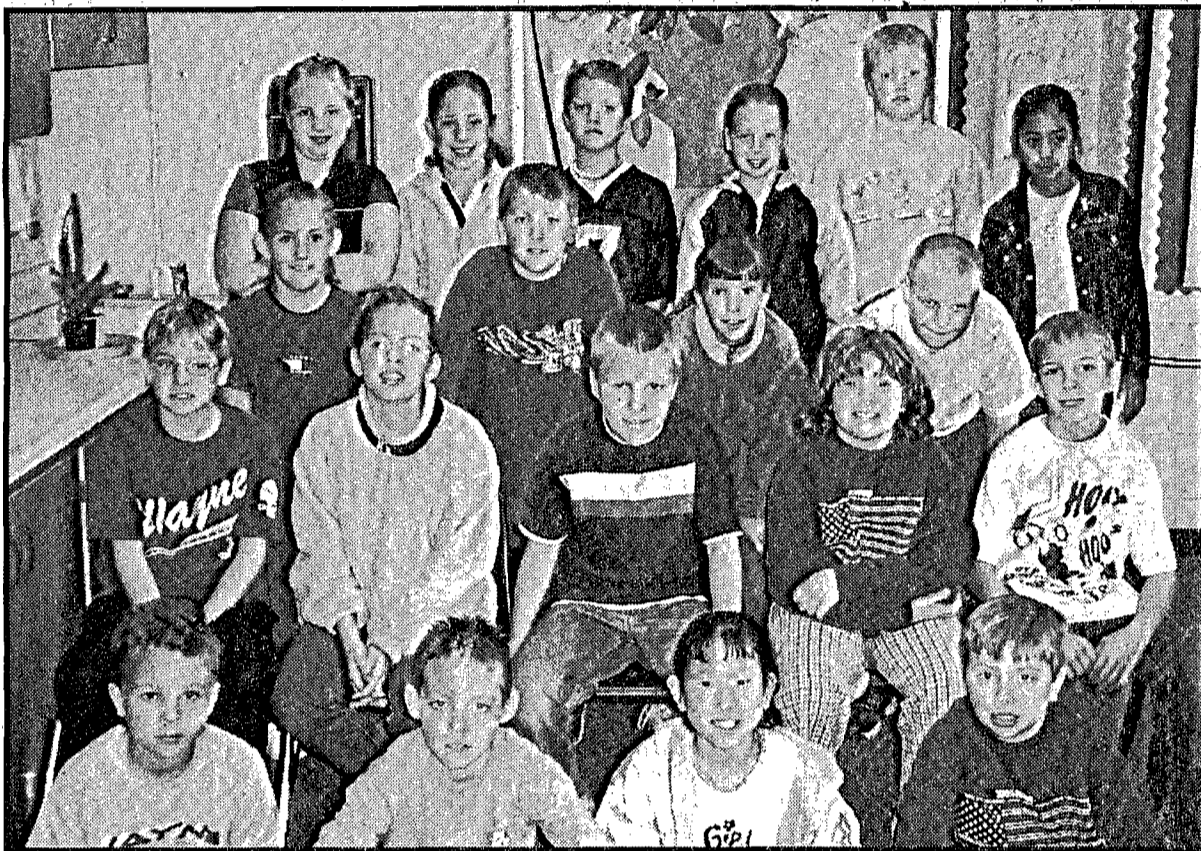

"That there are many steps to just make flour."

"Agriculture can be many things like food, plants and animals."

"That it is not good to eat a lot of fats and sweets."

"That agriculture has tons of steps before the stuff get to your plate."

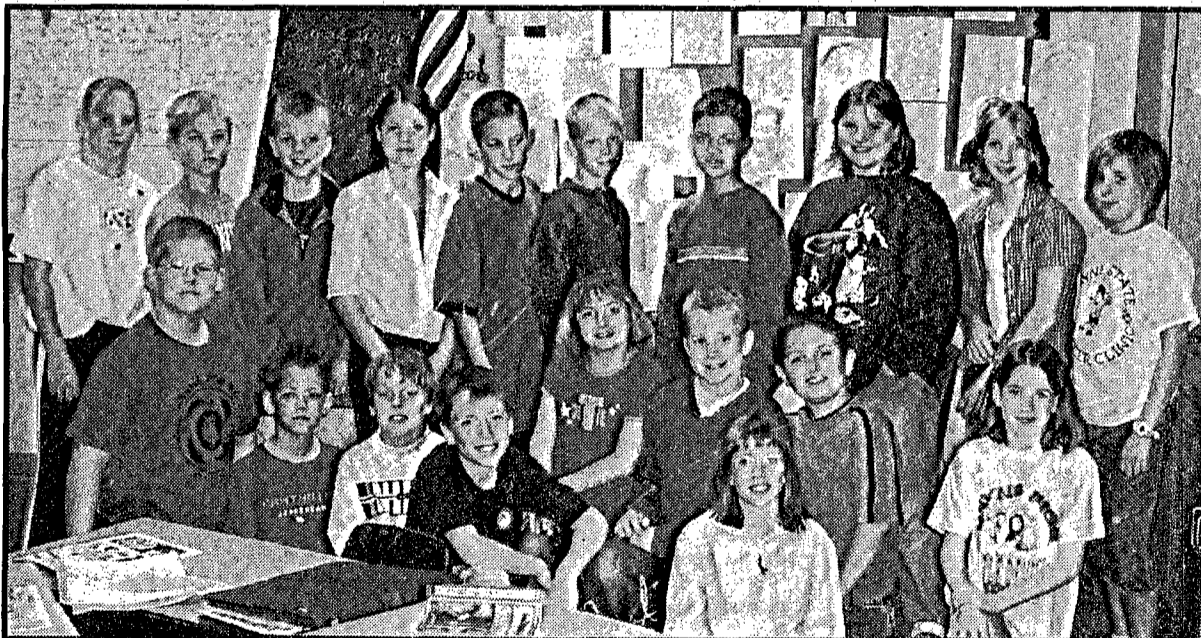

"I learned we need Agriculture to have pizza."

Miss Sievers' fourth grade class at Wayne Elementary.

Mrs. Lutt's class also took part in Pizza in Agriculture.

Mrs. Ruskamp's fourth graders learned the importance of agriculture in making pizza.

Kindergarten students at Wakefield Elementary hold the chicks that hatched in their classroom.

Chicks hatch in kindergarten class

Kindergarten students at the Wakefield Elementary School had the opportunity to participate in the University of Nebraska 4-H School Enrichment Embryology Project.

The students had an incubator in their classroom for 21 days. During this time their teacher, Mrs. Kathy Muller, shared various information about embryology through books and activities in the classroom.

One of the skills that the students worked on at the time was sequencing. Each of the students made their own book telling the sequence of events that took place from when the 12 eggs were laid by the mother hens, until the eight chicks hatched in their classroom.

Included below are several short stories randomly selected out of the kindergarten project.

"The hen laid eggs. The incubator keeps them warm. They stay in the incubator for 21 days. The chicks hatch. The chicks go back to the farm." By Luis

"The hen laid eggs. The incubator is turning the eggs. The chicks hatch. The chicks are yellow and black." By Kaylie

"The hen laid eggs. The incubator warms the chicks. The chick is hatched. The chicks are here they come bak to the farm." By Joshua

"The hen laid eggs. The chick broke out of the eggs. The chick was in the box.

The chick was going to the farm." By Zach

"The hen lays a egg. The eggs are in the incubator. The chick is comen out of a egg. Then the chick gow to the farm." By Jois

"The hen lays eggs. The incubator is warm. The egg is broke. The chick is in the born." By Gilberto

The UNL Cooperative Extension Office and the kindergarten students thank Ann Ruwe of Wayne for providing the eggs for the project.

Program is upgraded to full accreditation

Officials at Northeast Community College in Norfolk recently received word that the institution's Veterinary Technology program accreditation has been upgraded from provisional to full accreditation by the American Veterinary Medical Association.

This accreditation is good for five years.

The accreditation follows a three-day visit last February from an evaluation team made up of Dr. Bob Taylor of Madison, WI., Dr. Gary Leff, Schaumburg, IL., Dr. Shane Pedersen, Pierce, Robert D. Fritchen of Laurel, and Lisa Redington of Omaha.

While on the Northeast campus, the team members examined the curriculum, facilities, and faculty of the Northeast program and visited with students, advisory committee members, and alumni.

Since the fall of 1996, Northeast's veterinary technology curriculum, with its classroom study, laboratory, and clinical practice, has prepared students for entry-level jobs in private practice, teaching and research, regulatory medicine, public health, uniformed services, and private industry.

The program at Northeast provides two career tracks for students.

They may pursue a two-year associates of applied science (A.A.S.) degree that qualifies them to take the national board examination and gain a license as a veterinary technician to work under the supervision of a veterinarian in any of the above fields.

Or, graduates with the A.A.S. degree who have passed the national board examination can also continue their education at other universities to complete their bachelor of science degree.

Currently Northeast has articulation with Purdue University and the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. At the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, students can earn a veterinary technologist bachelor of science degree with options in veterinary science, science or business, using their Northeast A.A.S. degree and three years of study there.

Kim Reinhardt of Wayne was among several Northeast Community College students recently returning to campus with awards won at the National Association of Colleges and Teachers of Agriculture (NACTA) competition in Pomona, Calif.

The event was hosted by Cal Poly and drew approximately 350 students from 14 two-year schools and 11 four-year colleges.

In the Sweepstakes contest, Northeast Community College placed third in the two-year division.
