Fauneil Bennett is 'unsung hero'

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

One of the people instrumental in bringing Tom Osborne to Wayne recently has also been a vital part of the community in other ways for many years and has been recommended for an "Unsung Hero" award.

Fauneil Bennett, who retired several years ago after serving as the Middle School Librarian for the Wayne-Carroll School system, was nominated by several persons for recognition as Educator of the Year while teaching at the Middle School. Although she was not chosen, she received letters of praise for her efforts in many areas of the community and due to her efforts with the TeamMates program, was again mentioned for recognition.

Mrs. Bennett is always ready to go the extra mile to improve the multimedia centers by attending meetings, conventions and staff meetings."

Fauneil has officially retired from the school system, but has remained very active with young people, serving as the coordinator for the Wayne TeamMates program.

Kelly's Kid Shop offers childrens clothing and more

By Lynn Sievers

Of the Herald Keeping her business in Wayne has been a top priority for Kelly Dalgliesh, owner of "Kelly's Kid Shop," located at 200C Main Street in Wayne (in the basement of Legends). A Wayne native, she likes the small town atmosphere for her store where she carries gently used childrens clothing, baby equipment, toys and more. She also carries a few new items, such as some toys and gift items.

In the line of clothing, she carries newborn to size 16 children's wear, infant blankets and bedding, infant equipment, shoes, "Little Tikes" toys, maternity clothing a few new items plus a lot more. Kelly likes to stick to name brand items, like Graco, Cosco and Evenflo infant equipment, and Old Navy, The We a whether bet the shit

Children's Place, Disney Store, Gap, Carters, and Healthtex clothing.

Starting in March, 2001, Kelly knew she wanted a "kid-oriented" business. "I love children and there wasn't anything like this in Wayne," Kelly said. "I thought it would be a good thing for Wayne." There is new merchandise added weekly. Kelly buys and sells size 0-16 childrens clothing, maternity clothing, 'toys and equipment and more.

Merchandise is accepted on Saturdays, and sorted for in-season items that are currently needed.

Common things that are needed are cribs, changing tables, pack n plays, exersaucers, and baby swings. Toys should be clean, not broken or have missing parts.

Equipment must be clean, not ripped and in good condition, Kelly checks guidelines before accepting equipment, such as if cribs meet government standards, for having slats no wider than 2 3/4 inches, and if there are any current recalls. Clothing must be clean, not forn or stained.

Kelly enjoys customers from Wayne, as well as the surrounding towns. Kelly notes they have had customers from all over, some even as far as Tennessee and Florida.

Looking back on Dalgliesh' background, she graduated from Wayne High School in 1994 and later moved to Sioux City, Iowa where she married Barry Dalgliesh. They have a 4year-old son. She works full time at IBP in Dakota Dunes.

Business hours at Kelly's Kid Shop are Mondays, Thursdays, and Fridays, 12:30-5:30, and Saturdays, 11 a.m. - 5 p.m.

People are invited to stop by and take a look. They will see friendly faces and more.

Capital News

The Wayne

Herald

The word came down last week. Revenues from the state tax system still are running below projections. The state's tax take for April fell $22 million short.

That's more than a little tough, when you remember that the Legislature just made, another round of spending reductions, and upped the state sales, income and cigarette tax rates. Those budget and tax policy moves didn't have a chance to take effect before word of the latest shortfall proclaimed that those efforts might not have been enough.

There is nothing for Nebraskans to do now but wait, and wonder whether Gov. Mike Johanns will need to call lawmakers into a special session - after the primary election.

Given the muscle that business flexed the last time out - when corporate income tax policy was on the table - there is no readily apparent reason for people to think that business is likely to be hammered into the "I'll pay some more for the sake of everyone" mode.

There's no need here for a rehash of the state of the treasury. It's a little short. If it gets shorter, the issue of legislative action prior to next January becomes a real one. But if Nebraska gets a special session before January of 2003, stand by for news. The choices will likely be clearer than ever: Increase tax rates again, or begin reducing whole programs.

Just read the feedbacks on vari-

Club Road and Claycomb if they are classified as collector streets and they are not classified that way at this time.

All cities in Nebraska are allowed to have up to 20 percent of . their streets classified as collectors and eligible for federal funding assistance for paving and storm sewers. Because the Department of Roads has already classified 20 percent of Wayne's existing paved streets as collector and arterial streets, Country Club Road and the Claycomb extension cannot become collector streets unless we give up the same number of blocks of existing classified streets in Wayne. The city council is proposing to the department of roads that we declassify Sherman Street from Seventh to 12th Streets, 12th Street from Sherman east to Main and 10th Street from Main east to Providence as collector streets and reclassify Country Club Road from Highway 15 east to the bridge and Claycomb from Country Club Road south to 14th Street. Sounds complicated. The purpose of the public hearing is to inform them of the changes in classification. For those streets being declassified the impact is not noticeable. When those streets are due to be torn out and repayed in the future, the paving will not be reassessed to the property owners because they have been assessed for the initial paving, the $511,000 allocation will transfer from Wayne to a statewide funding pool if not committed to a project in Wayne by September of 2003.

Wayne School Board Budget amendment approved

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

A special meeting of the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education preceded their regular meeting. The purpose of the special meeting was to approve the amendment of the 2001-02 budget. The amendment was needed due to increased spending and receipts in the Activity and Special Building Funds.

The Activity Funds came from fundraising for the Middle School and through clubs and organizations. Special Building funds came from the sale of the modulars and overruns in the Middle School. The amendment was approved.

At the regular meeting, it was approved that Dwaine Spieker, English teacher at the high school, receive a pay-scale credit as he has been selected to attend the National Endowment for the Humanities 2002 Summer Seminar and Institute for school teachers. He will be involved in the seminar "Dostoevsky, Tolstoy, Solovyov: Literature and Religion in Pre-Revolutionary Russia," June 24-July 26, 2002 in Winona, Minn.

Approved were the termination resolutions for the following staff not requesting a hearing: Winter Todd, Monica Sievers, and Colleen Janke. This action was taken because of a reduction in force (due to cuts in state aid and the upcoming closing of the school in Carroll).

Also approved was the amendment resolution for staff not requesting a hearing, Barbara Gillan and Cheryl Kopperud. Because of the school closing in Carroll and budget reductions, one period for Kopperud and two periods for Gillan are being eliminat-

The board also approved two resignations: Katie Crawford and John Reidel. Crawford has been a custodian in the Middle School and Reidel has been a custodian in the high school.

A new 3 year contract was approved with Nebraska School Bus, Inc. Due to the elimination of a Wednesday route to and from Carroll, and less miles traveled in the two Carroll routes next year, the bussing contract should be reduced by about $10,000. The superintendent was instructed to review the insurance provided by the bus company.

For prescheduled communication, a number of teachers attended the meeting with concerns on administrative rules and regulations 9001- technology- general and work flow, and how this may affect their access to computers and printers in their rooms in the future. The superintendent is considering placing computers and printers in labs as he feels it would be more cost effective. More discussion will be held on the subject at the next board meeting.

Also discussed were graduation requirements in Science. A vote will be held at the next meeting on adding three years mandatory in Science instead of 2 years. If passed, this would start with 2003-04 freshmen. Passed recently were Mathematics requirements from 2 years to 3 years starting with 2002-03 freshmen.

In old business, policy 4203 (personnel-all employees-sexual harassment (first reading) and policy 4205 (personnel-all employees-drug and substance use and abuse (first reading) were discussed.

Athletic Director Rocky Ruhl spoke on the new track. While money is coming in, more is needed to meet their goal of $200,000. He said they are expecting Sam Fischer of Fischer Track Co. to give them a proposal soon.

Future agenda items are second readings on policy 4203 and 4205, information on bussing insurance, and the graduation-science requirement.

The next meeting will be Monday, June 10 at 7 p.m. at the Wayne High School.

The grant will also provide fund ing for three Wayne State Colleg students to attend one of three graduate universities for an eight week summer program. Upon returning to WSC, students will continue their research projects. Students who complete the BRIN program at WSC are guaranteed a position and stipend at BRIN-associated labs at the University of Nebraska Medical Center, Creighton University or the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Chiba Ene, Browns Mills, N.J. Marko Jovic, Wayne; and Jeremiah Lubke, Plainview, are the first three Wayne State students selected for the summer program, which will begin in June. "This is really designed to let students stay in the state for graduate school," said Dr. Doug Christensen, WSC assistant professor in natural sciences and associate in the BRIN research. Both Christensen and Pearcy will advise Wayne State's BRIN students.

They will also do their own research and order supplies for research to expand at WSC. While stem cell research is considered biomedicine, there will be no stem cell research at Wayne State College, Pearcy said.

The money for this grant comes from the National Institutes of Health. The grant was written by Jim Turpen from UNMC. Turpen, who is the principal investigator for BRIN research in Nebraska, contacted Pearcy and Christensen. Wayne State was selected because of Pearcy and Christensen's training and education in biomedicine

Other undergraduate schools participating in the BRIN project include the University of Nebraska - Omaha, University of Nebraska-Kearney, Chadron State College and Nebraska Wesleyan. The training institutions are Creighton University, University of Nebraska Medical Center and University of Nebraska - Lincoln.

Students who receive a degree in biomedicine from a graduate school. may work for universities, hospitals, pharmaceutical companies, biomedical companies that do gene research and the USDA, FDA and other government agencies like the Center for Disease Control.

Council awards bid for auditorium renovation

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

Otte Construction of Wayne was awarded the bid for the City Auditorium renovation project during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Otte's bid was $589,200 and calls for work inside the building to begin Nov. 1 of this year. It is anticipated that by that time the Community Activity Center will be completed and can be used in place of the auditorium. The auditorium renovation should be completed in April of 2003.

Della Pries of the Wayne Community Housing Development Corporation spoke to the council on projects currently being undertaken by her office. Following her presentation, the council voted in favor of the corporation receiving a perby the city.

A sidewalk cost share program was adopted by the council. It allows for 'fix-it' orders from city on a project by project basis, rather than creating a sidewalk district as has been done in the past. Property owners who need to replace all or portions of their sidewalks will be vided that the city's recommenda- the brick and block on the outside tions are followed. Those desiring to install new sidewalk will be eligible for $1.10 per square foot in city assistance. Limited funds are available for this program.

The city approved a recommendation to extend a water main from Well No. 6 to connect with a city water main on Highway 15. Water from this well will provide water to the front Nine of the Golf Course.

Well No. 6 was rebuilt last year, but following the repair work, it was discovered that the nitrate level in the water being pumped from that well were just over the limit to be used for human consumption. Water from Well No. 7, located on the Golf Course, will be used for city water.

The city will sell a lot to the centage of the money allocated to it Habitat for Humanity to construct a home on this year. The lot is located on the corner of South Nebraska Street and Fairgrounds Avenue. The city will retain a 20 foot easement on the property to allow access to underground infrastructure.

Several changes were discussed on the Community Activity eligible for up to $2.13 per square Project. The first of these allows foot of replacement sidewalk, pro- for a coat of sealant to be placed on Committee.

of the building. Approval was given for this change.

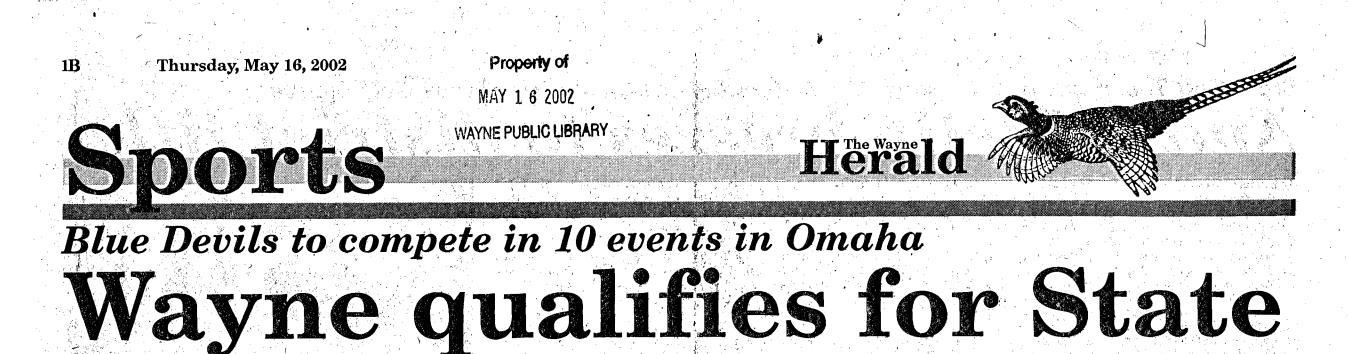

Other changes being considered include the installation of a water softener system in the restrooms and shower areas. The bid that has been received for this change was approximately $31,000. Council members are looking into a smaller system at a considerably lower cost.

Also discussed was lighting for the parking lot and the gym. Changes will be made in this area if suitable lighting can be found at a comparable price to that which is currently in the plans.

No action was taken on the proposal to install a flag pole in front of the Activity Center. A decision will be made after options are discussed.

No action was taken on Ordinance 2002-9 which would have amended several sections of the city code regarding display and sale of merchandise on sidewalks in the city's central business district. The item will be brought up at a future meeting.

In other action, Mayor Sheryl Lindau appointed Mick Kemp to the City Auditorium Renovation

After setting the course ablaze on the front nine with a 155 team score, Wayne looked unbeatable. While the Blue Devils were on cruise control on the back nine, Mother Nature decided to even the odds a little with a vicious wind that wreaked havoc.

Suddenly, it seemed it wasn't about golf, but about survival. The magical front nine scores of 38, 40, 41 and 42 turned in to scores of 47, 46, 46 and 52 on the back, allowing others to draw closer.

The trump card for Wayne however, came in the form of junior Andy Martin.

After starting the day with a par and double-bogey (#2), Martin settled down and played the final

"It was very exciting for our men's jumpers to sweep the triple jump with a 1-2-3 finish. Havranek moved from third to first on his last jump and Dooley moved from fourth to third on his final jump.

That shows the competitiveness and the composure that they have to perform so well under pressure.

"Darr ran exceptionally well. She had a 40 second improvement in the steeplechase on Friday. She then ran a very tough race on Saturday to win the 5000 meter run. It was great way for her to close out her career at WSC.

"Our senior group was a very special group. All five (Nickerson, Fehringer, DeMilt, Jackson, Tucknott) earned NSIC All-Conference, which I think says a lot about them individually and as a group. They will be missed next year."

Catching cold front fish can be tricky

I'd always heard that cold fronts caused fish to turn off, shut down and head for the bottom.

3.27 mm s **

I knew that a weather change caused the fish to shut down, especially in a lake, but I'd never thought much about it. The first time I really thought about it was when I was completing the final part of my open water diver test.

We were on Lake Francis Case in South Dakota diving in about 25 feet of water and swimming along a break that dropped into deeper water. The walleye and bass were swimming up onto the break line, cruising and then dropping off the break for a few feet and then coming back onto the break.

They swam between I and the other diver for a half hour, acting like we weren't even there.

Then it happened, for some unknown reason, the fish started to act skittish and then quickly disappeared over the edge into the deeper water. They were gone and moved off so quickly that you'd think someone had dropped an anchor or threw something into the water.

Both of us wondered what had spooked them, had we moved to quickly or had the bubbles escaping from our Scuba gear bothered them.

It wouldn't be long before we'd figure it out! Twenty minutes after the fish raced off towards the deeper water, the sky lit up and rain begin to fall by the bucket loads. That night, the temperatures dropped, it thundered and stormed all night muddying up the water and shutting the fish off in the lake.

Somehow the fish knew way ahead of time that the weather was going to change, as they headed deep prior to any indication that a storm was building.

What do you do when a cold front comes through, stay home and watch outdoor TV programs, not a bad idea! There are things that you can do or places you can go that will up your percentage of catching fish and then you can watch outdoor TV when it gets too hot or when the snow starts to blow.

It's well known that cold fronts won't affect fish in a river as much as it will in the lakes! I don't know if it's because of the current flow, but I do know that river fish will bite during cold front periods when lake fish will be bellied to the bottom.

If you can re-locate to a river after a cold front comes through, chances are you'll find some fish that are willing to bite.

It really doesn't matter where you're fishing after a cold front goes through, you'll need to change your tactics in order to catch a few fish.

First, you'll want to go smaller! If your using a jig, go to a lighter one. I fish with Larry Myhre, from the Sioux City Journal and during cold fronts he'll go to the smallest jig I've ever seen, 1/32 or 1/64, man these are crappie jigs, but I've seen him take 8 pound plus bass using these munchkin jigs.

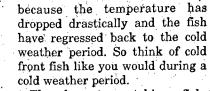

The key to using these micro jigs is a lighter line, so you're able to cast them and feel a strike. Sure you'll loose a few fish, but if these teeny, tiny jigs catch one or two fish for you during a cold front period, you're ahead of the game.

Since I and munchkin jigs don't get along well, I'll switch to a live bait rig, a Lindy or Roach rig.

I'll go to 6 pound test, with a lighter walking sinker and set right on top of the fish, teasing him and enticing him to bite.

You'll need a little more patience when fishing a cold front period,

Free Estimates

The key to catching fish, whether it's during a cold front or any other weather pattern, is consistency. If you have a two or three day cold front period, the fishing will improve just like it will when you have two or three days of warm weather.

The first day of a cold front is always the worst as it's a drastic change and once the fish become used to it, they'll get back into the routine and start to feed. If the cold front persists, they'll be in their slow mode so you'll have to make some changes in order to take these cold front fish.

By down sizing your bait, fishing slower or by moving back into the river during cold front conditions you'll be able to catch a few fish during the cold front period.

For many years in the US, thyroid replacement hormones (especially levothyroxine) have ranked among the most frequently dispensed prescription medicines. And indeed 13 million Americans have thyroid disease. yet, half of those affected are undiagnosed with thyroid health problems. And, according to the American Association of Clinical Endocrinologists, many Americans have little knowledge of thyroid problems that range from underactivity to overactivity.

HealthScountNews reported on Association survey results just released: Many Americans do not know that: • thyroid disease runs in families; • women are 5 to 8 times more likely than men to have thyroid problems; • there is a link between thyroid disease and diabetes; • persons with arthritis are at increased risk of thyroid disease; and • there is a link between thyroid disease and anemia.

Cataracts affect over 80% of our senior citizens. In fact over one million cataract surgeries are performed annually in the U.S. alone.

New technological developments in implants, ultrasonic equipment, lasers, diagnostic testing, and surgical techniques have made cataract surgery one of the most effective procedures today. Currently, over 98% of cataract patients experience significant improvements in vision, without major complications.

Until now, the high cost of this new technology for cataract surgery was only available in the larger surgical facilities, This meant that you would have to travel for a complete eye examination and surgery. Not any longer.

Complete eye care and cataract surgery is now available at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. You don't have to travel outside of your community to have your vision tested for cataracts. With Dr. Willcockson, Dr. Koeber and Dr. Magnuson offering comprehensive diagnostic and surgical services, you now have the most advanced eye care available right here in town.

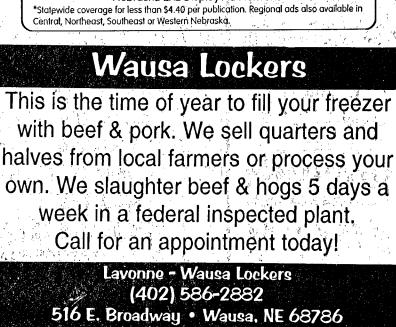

Call Dr. Koeber or Dr. Magnuson for a complete eye examination and cataract vision screening today. If you would like more information on cataracts for yourself or someone you know who may be experiencing loss of vision, call today for a free informational brochure.

Ross and Amber Rastede of Allen have been named United States National Award Winners in Leadership.

Frank Holm)

This award is a prestigious honor very students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students. Ross and Amber, who attend Allen Consolidated Schools, were nominated for this national award by Joyce Christiansen, a counselor at the school.

Their names will now appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting" our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects All-American Scholars upon the exclusive recommendation by teachers, coaches, counselors and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy.

The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Ross and Amber are the son and daughter of Mary and Wayne Rastede of Allen. Their grandparents are Jean and Norman Minola of Wakefield.

Teens are beneficial to communities

Youth are a valuable but often overlooked community asset.

In many communities, youth aren't given the opportunity to voice their opinions when important decisions are made. When communities consider teens as partners, the rewards are plentiful.

Organizations benefit from teens' energy, commitment and fresh ideas. Teens learn leadership and communication skills, develop confidence and recognize the importance of responsibility, goal setting and community pride. To encourage teen involvement, parents and community leaders can:

• Ask teens to plan and lead after-school activities. When teens are involved in the planning process, they're more likely to join clubs, teams and groups.

• appoint youth members to committees, advisory groups and coalitions. Encourage teens to through on ideas that seem viable. • Take teens to political or social events, such as election events, rallies, marches and peaceful protests.

• Discuss politics, morals and spirituality with teens. After-school clubs, youth groups in faith communities and classrooms provide good atmospheres for discussion.

• Invite youth to take leadership roles in organizations. assign responsibilities that require teens to research information. Ask teens to share their opinion and explain how formed their conclusions.

• Hold youth accountable for their assignments.

 Show appreciation for youth involvement.

Has had several 'terms' moments

Endearment" came out, I actually saw it twice: once, to identify all the familiar places in Lincoln where it was filmed; and again, to concentrate on the story.

In that movie, Debra Winger is a young woman who dies of cancer. Shirley Maclaine plays her mother. In one unforgettable scene, Debra asks for pain medication. It doesn't get there right away, and Shirley pounds on the nurse's desk and screams at them until they bring it. I've often used that moment to illustrate the importance to nurses to realize that the patient is someone's beloved family member.

Recently, a colleague's husband, age 30, had his tonsils out. When

When the movie, "Terms of she saw tears from his eyes because of the pain, she says she had a "Terms of Endearment" moment! I knew just what she meant.

This week, I've had a few of these moments myself. The Big Farmer has had pain in his "good" leg all winter. After xrays, MRIs, and bone scans, they finally decided it was caused by arthritis in the hip.

We didn't like to think of replacement because we knew. rehab would be difficult. Still, when two of your four extremities don't help you much, you like to have as much function of the other two as possible.

We learned of a surgeon in Council Bluffs who uses a less invasive technique, requiring fewer restrictions on weight bearing, and causing less rehab. We. went to see him, we were impressed.

He works in Council Bluffs. So, last week, Mike had a hip replacement at Mercy Hospital over there. It's only an hour away, but we are not familiar with the Bluffs.

I actually wrote a column about it in the surgery waiting room, and the young lady in the business office faxed it. But I guess it didn't go through.

It's been a rough week, mostly because of post polio. We hope to bring him home today, but it looks like a long haul yet. Everyone's been as kind and considerate as could be, but I've had several "Terms of Endearment moments."

We just hope and pray it will all be worth it. Next week, I'll tell you about Joint Camp!
