Meeting held on corridor study

Area residents were on hand June 6 at Wayne State College to listen to representatives of URS Corp. of Omaha, a consultant hired by the state Department of Roads, discuss two alternative routes for construction of the Highway 35 expressway between Norfolk and South Sioux City.

The proposed project study area includes Madison, Stanton, Wayne, Dixon, and Dakota Counties and is adjacent to Thurston County. The proposed action is to improve a 70-mile corridor of Nebraska Highway 35 that extends from US Highway 275/Nebraska Highway 35/Nebraska Highway 24 intersection in Norfolk to South Sioux City.

Bill Tröe, URS Corp. project manager, noted the alignments are preliminary and could change. He requested those attending the meeting look at enlarged maps posted, ask questions and voice concerns. Residents in the corridor are encouraged to contact the consultants.

Following the existing highway between Norfolk and Winside, one alignment would diverge diagonally to intersect Highway 16 around two miles north of Wayne and rejoin at Highway 16 intersection two miles north of Wakefield.

The other route, a more diagonal one, would be from the existing highway around five miles east of Hoskins, intersect Highway 16 around two miles south of Wayne and then rejoin at Highway 16 two miles north of Wakefield. East of Emerson, it would be routed southeast of the existing highway and follow a new alignment. There are also crossover options with both alternate routes.

Roads near South Sioux City offer possible links. Involved are a new interchange with Highway 20 east of Jackson, or interchanges with Highway 110 east of Jackson, Highway 75 south of Dakota City and Dakota Avenue in Dakota City before linking with Interstate 29.

As the present highway stair-steps from Norfolk to South Sioux City, a more diagonal route is desired; the goals of the new expressway would be to improve mobility and accessibility, reduce travel time, and improve safety while minimizing environmental impacts.

The expressway would link with Highway 81 between Norfolk and the Kansas State Line. (South of the state line, Kansas is also improving US 81 to a four-lane expressway); US 75 and State Highway 60 from Sioux City, Iowa to Minneapolis, Minn.; US 20 between Sioux City, Iowa and Chicago, Ill.; US 151 between Dubuque, Iowa and Madison, Wis.

Looking back, in November, 2000, the NDOR completed a feasibility study which investigated need for an improved connection between Norfolk and Sioux City. It was decided there was a need for the expressway to be part of a regional improved plan creating a multi-state link between Minneapolis and Denver.

By driving through the area and taking aerial photographs, the routes were decided upon by the consultant. (Taking into consideration growth of the towns, Wayne and Wakefield were bypassed.)

There will be more study and consideration given in the months ahead as to

Area firemen have busy day

Area firefighters were kept busy Sunday when they received several calls in the area.

Around 9 a.m., the Wayne Volunteer Firemen were called to a vacant house fire on the Levi Thompson property 4 miles north, 1 mile west, and 1/2 mile north on the west side of the road. Needing more water, Wayne called in Winside and Carroll fire departments.

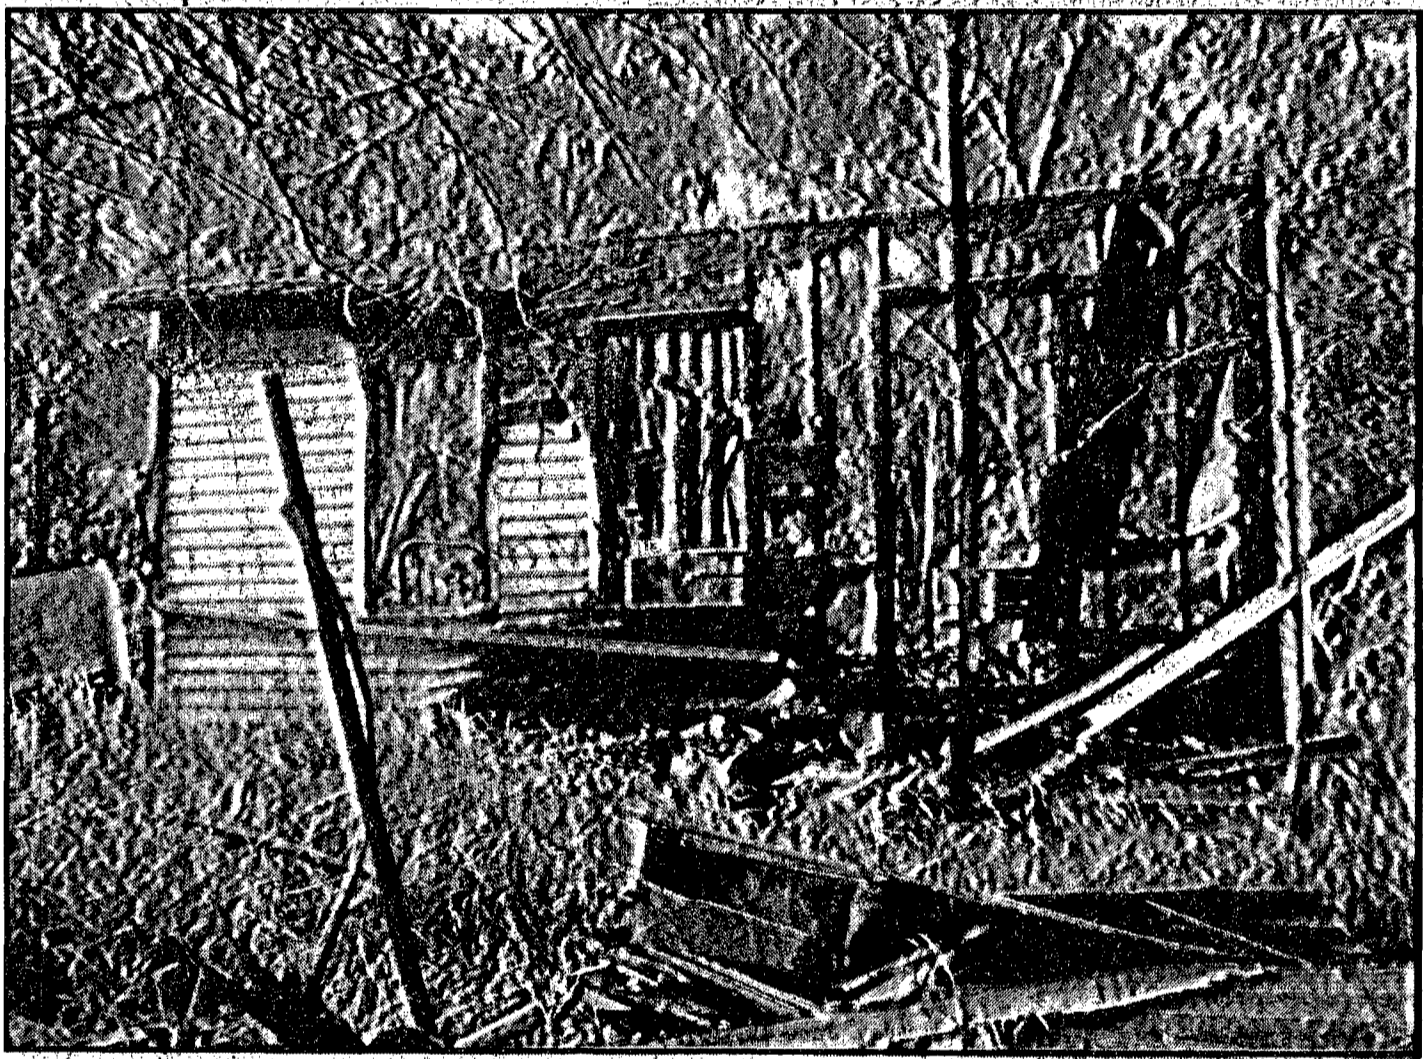

The structure as well as the grove were on fire. Firemen were on the scene until around 3 p.m. that afternoon securing the site so it could be investigated.

At 10:30 Sunday morning, Wakefield firemen were called to two fires. From Wakefield, one was located 2 miles north and 4 miles west and the other one was 4 miles north and 4 miles west. The first location involved a building and the second one involved a house plus the groves were on fire. Both places were vacant.

Wakefield called in firemen from Allen, Martinsburg, Carroll and Winside to help fight the fires and to bring in tankers. Firemen stayed until 2:30 p.m. Sunday afternoon while Wakefield firemen stayed until that evening to make sure the sites were secure.

The State Fire Marshall is investigating the cause of the fires.

Wayne Fire Chief Robert Woehler reminds people with vacant lots to watch them.

A house owned by Levi Thompson northwest of Wayne was destroyed by fire on Sunday.

For The Master releases CD

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

For more than a year, four local men have been providing musical entertainment throughout this area.

Now, For the Master has released its first compact disc, entitled "Loved and Forgiven."

Members of the group include Ken Dahl, Eric Smith and Bob Dyer, all of Wayne and Cliff Struble of Laurel. Since the spring of 2001 they have expanded their audiences to include numerous functions with various audiences.

Ken, Eric and Bob, all members of First Baptist Church in Wayne, had discussed the possibility of getting a quartet together, but were in need of a fourth member. At this time, Smith met Struble at Praise Assembly of God Church and asked him to join the group.

The group began practicing one night a week and later added a second practice session each week. Generally these sessions last two to three hours.

The Master's first public appearance was in July of 2001 at the Henoween Talent Contest.

"We expanded from that point. We were part of the Wayne County Talent Contest and have performed at churches, the After 5 Club, anniversary, and various Christian ladies groups," Ken said.

"As the gospel quartet became more well-known, audiences began asking for a tape or CD from the group."

After considering the possibility for some time, the group decided to move forward with the idea. They contacted Dan Kane of Power Base Studios in Wisner early this year and have been working for several months to produce the CD.

On June 5, the culmination of that effort was the release of 1,000 CD's, containing 13 songs.

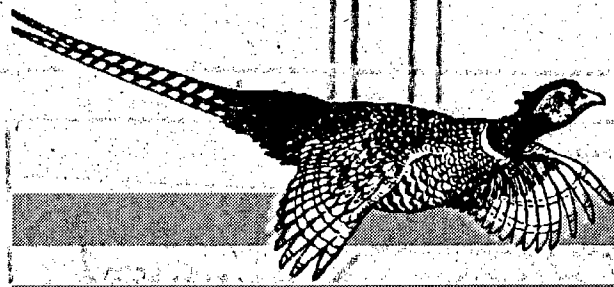

"Making the recording has definitely helped make us better. We have good balance and blend well with one another, but listening to ourselves on tape has really helped," Bob said.

Marketing of the CD will be local in nature. The group plans to contact local businesses and Christian book stores. The CD's will also be available at all of the concerts the group participates in.

Visitor says 'a job well done'

Dear Editor,
My wife and I returned to Wayne this past weekend to visit family and friends and to participate in the Memorial Day activities.

I am 87 years old, born in Wayne County and I am sure I have attended 50 or more Memorial Day celebrations at the Greenwood Cemetery in Wayne.

In all those times, I have never seen the cemetery grounds so well groomed as I did this year! Let me say, "a job well done" to the dedicated, hard working people who endured the sweating and aching muscles. Thanks for all your hard work! I will always remember the cemetery I saw in 2002.

Thanks again to the people who did the work!

Birthday of the flag

Flag Day, Friday, June 14, will be the 225th birthday of our nation's flag. The first Flag Day or anniversary of the Flag Resolution of 1777 is believed to have originated in 1885. President Woodrow Wilson established Flag Day in 1916 by proclamation. In 1949, President Truman signed a bill designating June 14 of each year as National Flag Day.

Our nation's flag is the most changed flag in the world, because of the addition of stars representing each state. Amidst change and turmoil, it delivers a constant message of freedom and liberty.

Our state flag is also a symbol of who we are and where we came from. The story actually begins with the Great Seal. This collage captures the essence of Nebraska. Purchased in 1867, the original Great Seal now resides in the office of the Secretary of State. The Secretary of State's office is also home to the first Nebraska flag.

Adopted as the State Banner in 1925, it was designated the Official State Flag in 1963. The banner and now the flag can be described as a "reproduction of the Great Seal of the State charged on the center in gold and silver on a field of national blue." The flag "may be displayed on such occasions, at such times, and under such conditions as the Flag of the United States of America."

Even though Flag Day was established as a holiday celebrating our nation's flag, let us all take this day to appreciate not only the undying symbol of freedom maintained in the stars and stripes, but also the symbols of hard work and pride that appear on Nebraska's flag and Great Seal.

Visitors of the Capitol Building can view these original symbols of Nebraska in the Secretary of State's office. For more information, please visit our website at www.sos.state.ne.us and remember to fly those flags on Friday.

Blood Bank introduces new technology to units

Last fall, the Siouxland Community Blood Bank began using new blood services technology called "Double Red Cell Collection Systems" at its headquarters in Sioux City.

Beginning this summer, the blood bank will introduce the new blood collection technology in their mobile units. The new technology is an automated process that allows the blood bank to double the amount of red blood cells that can be collected from a donor.

This new technology allows the blood bank to collect a donor's red blood cells while returning the remaining components of the blood back to the donor. This automated procedure is similar to an apheresis process but only takes 20 minutes longer than the traditional whole blood donation.

According to Janette Twait, blood bank executive director, "the blood bank is dedicated to providing a safe and adequate blood supply to our twenty-five partnership hospitals and the many communities they serve. By offering this new technology on our mobile units, we demonstrate our commitment to the volunteer blood donors and the healthcare providers in our region."

The new double red cell collection process will not replace the traditional whole blood donation procedure, but will give the blood bank an enhanced service.

The new technology will benefit both the donor and healthcare

Money's on everyone's mind

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

How is writing about Nebraska government these days comparable to writing about Wall Street?

Answer: Because, most of the time, you're writing about money.

Government is always about money to some degree. But when the economy is in full flower, the reality of finance isn't always in the forefront.

When times are good, a senator can talk about a new reading program for young people, or a job-training idea for immigrants. The senator can add on a sentence or two about costs and how they might be met.

In this economy, virtually no one proposes anything new if there are costs attached. It would be like Mike Tyson greeting Evander Holyfield on the street with "Want to get together for a bite?"

At this writing, the chances seemed altogether good that Gov. Mike Johanns will need to tall yet another special session of the Legislature to consider further budget reductions. (These sessions have become to seem more routine than "special").

If that happens, you can bet your next tax increase that the governor and state lawmakers will talk in semi-stentorian tones about fiscal conservatism, the need to look hard at the value of every program in light of its costs.

Most won't do that, however, in one area.

A legislative majority will continue to fly blind when it comes to dealing with the tens of millions of dollars that it costs the state to provide business with the tax breaks contained in what is commonly called "the 775" program.

The state provides enormous tax credits for businesses that meet certain criteria for providing new jobs and various kinds of investment.

The jobs might be stinkers in some cases. They might be high-paying dream careers in others. They might be the kinds of investments that bring illegal aliens to a given community in droves, along with the attendant costs.

Given that the state's economic problems have been real and sustained, it doesn't seem unreasonable at this point that every program that represents tens of millions of dollars in spending be subject to a review based, at least in part, on costs.

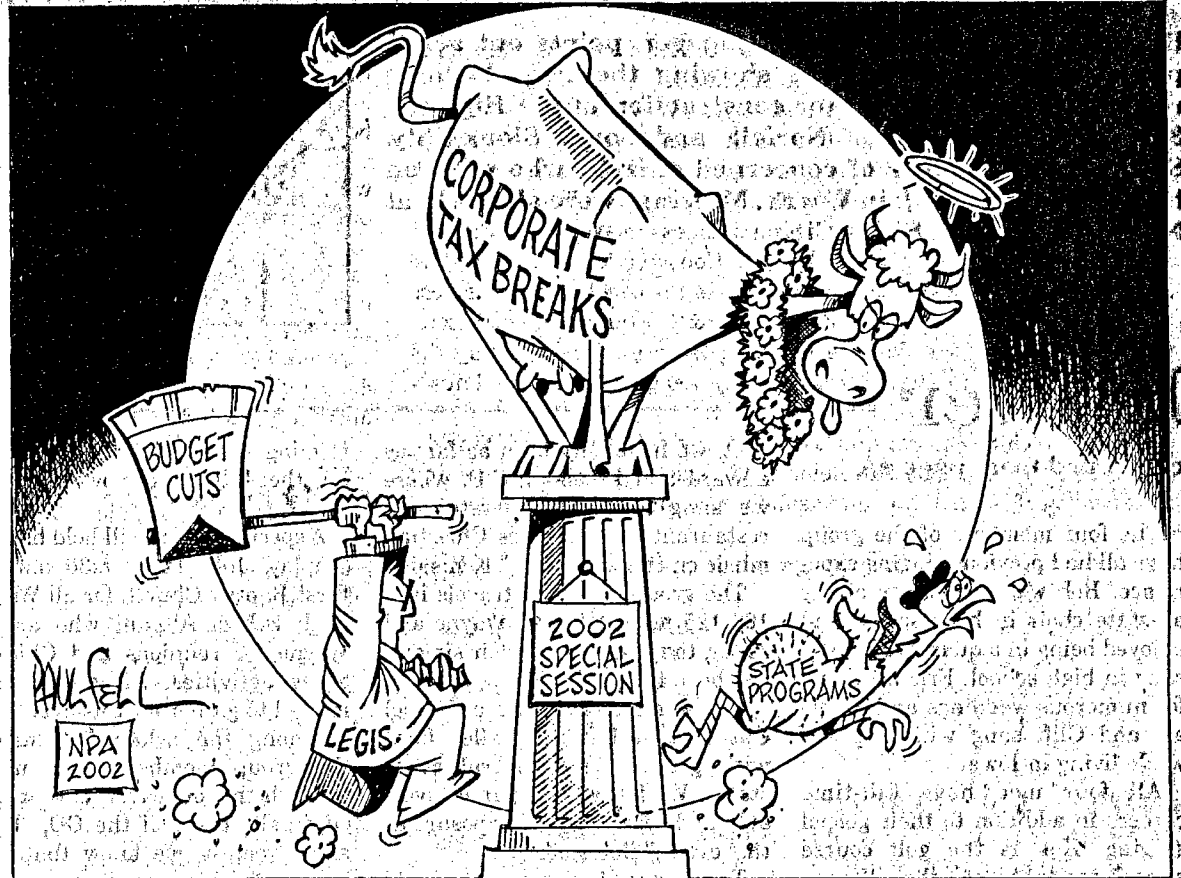

We know what it means to some parents when they lose subsidies for child care, and we know what those subsidies took from the common purse.

We can't really evaluate what we get for what we spend on tax breaks for business - because business has succeeded in stamping its sizeable political foot and telling lawmakers: "We don't want you to know what it costs!"

This isn't a matter of bashing business. It is a matter of doing what lots of folk say government should do: Operate like a business. Do you know any business people who would go into a venture and promise to underwrite substantial costs, but not demand an accounting of those costs?

If you do know anyone who fits the above description, get shed of them. There's no telling what they'll cost you. Really.

New criteria could reduce blood supply

The Siouxland Community Blood Bank could lose blood donations after the first round of an FDA-mandated deferral policy goes into effect on May 31, 2002. The Food and Drug Administration's guidelines are being implemented to protect the blood supply against the theoretical risk of mad cow disease and focus mainly on European travel. These restrictions, combined with an increased usage of blood because of an aging population, may cause a national shortfall of about one million donations of blood by the end of 2002.

"As we learned in time of emergencies, it is the blood already on the shelves of hospitals and blood centers that saves lives. We are concerned that this new FDA deferral policy may increase blood shortages, especially as we head into summer months when it's most difficult to collect enough blood to keep up with demand," says Janette Twait, executive director of the Siouxland Community Blood Bank.

"Although we have had several months to prepare ourselves and our donors, we still have a concern about the impact of these deferrals. In order to assure that blood will be available when it's needed, regular donors need to give blood more often and new donors must replace those lost from the deferrals. We are hopeful people will respond to this challenge."

The following restrictions will become effective May 31 by the FDA. People who meet one or more of these guidelines will not be able to donate:

- If you lived in France for 5 years or more between 1980 and the present
- If you have visited or lived in the United Kingdom for a total of 3 months or more between 1980 and 1996
- If you received a blood transfusion in the UK between 1980 and the present.
- Military personnel (current and former), and their dependents, who spent time in military bases in northern Europe during 1980-1990, or southern Europe during 1980-1996, for 6 months or more.

The new deferral policy will have great impact on the U.S. military, which could lose up to 25% of its donor base nationally. Locally, we have a significant military presence in guard and reserve personnel. "These local units conduct regular blood drives for the blood bank," says Janette Twait, "and the new deferral guidelines could reduce our donation level there."

In addition to the May 31 deferrals, the FDA has already declared that another round of deferrals will go into effect October 31, 2002, also affecting travel abroad and recent immigrants from Europe. FDA will extend the deferral to people who have visited or lived in Europe for a total of 5 years or more between 1980 and present.

"Despite several years of looking, scientists and public health officials have found no evidence that mad cow disease is transmitted through blood transfusions," says Celso Bianco, MD, Executive Vice President of America's Blood Centers. "These deferrals are precautionary measures dealing with the theoretical risk to help insure the safety of the blood supply. We hope that ongoing research will provide definitive answers in the foreseeable future."

Red blood cells have a 42-day shelf life and platelets only 5 days, so the supply must constantly be replaced. People can donate blood every 56 days, or every eight weeks - up to six times annually. Plasma can be given twice a week and platelets 24 times a year. For further information, you may contact the Siouxland Community Blood Bank at (712) 252-4082 or 1-800-798-4208. Email messages can be routed through www.siouxlandbloodbank.org.

The four members of the group have all had previous singing experience. Bob was a member of the all-state choir in high school and enjoyed being in a quartet and Ken sang in high school. Eric has sung for numerous weddings and funerals and Cliff sang with a group while living in Iowa.

All four men have full-time careers in addition to their gospel singing. Ken is the golf course superintendent at the Wayne Country Club, Eric is a carpenter, Cliff is employed as an account collector at First Bankcard Center and Bob is an accountant and personnel manager at Great Dane Trailers.

"Our careers sometimes make it hard for us to do more than one night away from home. At the present, we have only been as far as Seward and Freeman, S.D. where we sang in the Cornerstone, a restaurant that features Christian music on the weekends," Ken said.

The group generally travels in a 100-125 mile radius of Wayne and so far, the response to their singing has been favorable.

"We sang recently at a Gospel Gathering in Missouri Valley, Iowa with groups from several other states. We felt we compared favorably and received good exposure at this event," Bob said.

The group has several events planned this summer to help promote their music and the CD.

On Friday, June 21 a kick off event will be held at 7 p.m. at First Baptist Church in Wayne. The public is invited to listen to the group. CD's will be available for purchase at this time.

For the Master will also be performing with Frankie Valens during the July 12 Henoween activities.

A special service will held on Sunday, July 14 at 8:30 a.m. at First Baptist Church for all Wayne High School Alumni who are in Wayne for reunions and Chicken Show activities. All alumni are invited to gather for this event.

Among the acknowledgements the group members have made through this endeavor, is that listed on the cover of the CD, "First and foremost, we know that God has made this recording possible. His sovereignty has given us our gifts of music, so our thanks and praise go to Him."

"We also give thanks to God for our families and friends who have been a constant support with encouragement, prayer and finances in this, our very first recording."

renewable for up to four consecutive years). To receive this honor, students must be in the top 10 percent of their graduating class. One thousand students applied.

Hansen's college plans include taking pre-medicine at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. He is the son of Gene and Karen Hansen of Wayne.

Fund raiser planned for Winside youth

A fund raiser will be held on Friday, June 21 in Winside for five-year old Allyson Rhode of Winside.

A hot dog concession stand will be held from 6 p.m. to 2 a.m. in conjunction with the Winside Fire and Rescue dance featuring the Rumbles. The event is sponsored in part by AAL/LBH.

Allyson has been diagnosed with renal cell carcinoma, which is generally found in adult men.

Allyson is the daughter of Jen and Curt Rhode of Winside. She has two brothers, Nathan, 3, and Christopher, 2. She will be a kindergartner at Winside Elementary School. She enjoys Barbies and swimming. Her grand-

On May 13 she had surgery to remove a tumor which was slightly larger than a softball. Her right kidney was also removed at that time.

The doctors initially thought the tumor was a Wilms Tumor, but after studying it, it was determined that it most closely matched a renal cell, a kidney cancer most often found in adult men.

The doctors and surgeons involved with Allyson's case feel confident that all of the cancer was removed.

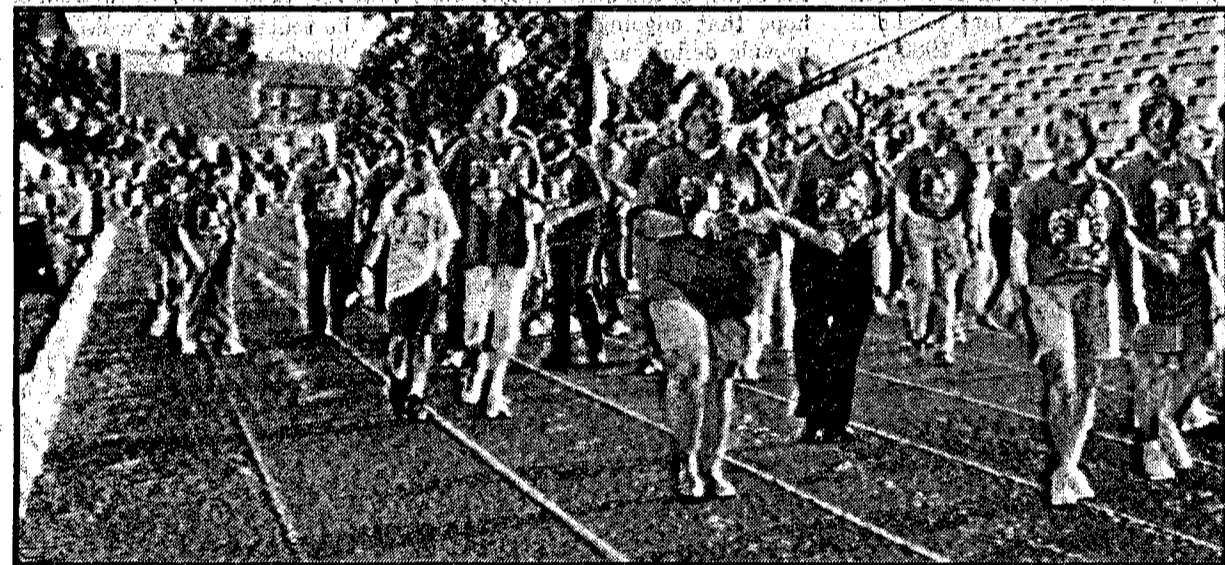

On Monday, June 17 Allyson will have her infuse-a-port (which was needed for chemotherapy) removed, because it will no longer be needed.

Follow-up treatment will include CT scans every three months and bone scans every six months.

Donations will help with medical bills incurred during Allyson's treatment. They can be made the night of the Winside Rumbles Dance or at Hoskins, Elkhorn Valley State Bank or by contacting Pat Miller at (402) 286-4262.

Allyson Rhode parents include Ron and Verna Mae Rhode of Winside.

Cancer survivors began activities with the survivor walk at the recent Relay For Life held on the WSC campus. Around 65 survivors participated in this year's Relay.

Relay For Life is held in Wayne

Residents of the Wayne area made a giant step toward a cure for cancer on June 7-8 when they walked during the American Cancer Society's Relay For Life.

Twenty teams came together during this year's Relay to raise in excess of $26,000. Money raised during Relay For Life helps fund the American Cancer Society's research, education, advocacy and service programs. The American Cancer Society is the largest non-profit supporter of new cancer research and the largest voluntary health organization fighting cancer in our country.

"We appreciate all the support we received from each of the teams as well as our sponsors," said Vicky Skokan, event chair. "We are especially grateful to the many volunteers and their families for all their hard work to make this event happen."

The Knockouts team was the top fundraising team at the event. Seth Harder was the winner of this year's quilt; and best decorated tent was Wayne Motors/ Winning Finish.

Relay for Life is a family-oriented event where participants enjoy the camaraderie of a team and also raise funds to support the activities of the American Cancer Society. Participants camp out and when they are not taking their turn walking or running, take part in fun activities, and enjoy local entertainment. The Relay also raises awareness about cancer by honoring cancer survivors.

The Relay began at 6 p.m. at Wayne State College Memorial Stadium when around 65 cancer survivors kicked off the event by walking the first lap. A luminaia ceremony (held earlier than the scheduled time of 10 p.m. because of inclement weather) illuminated the track as participants lit luminaia candles in memory of those who've lost the battle to cancer and in support of those still fighting the disease.

Because the weather worsened, the event was moved inside WSC Rice Auditorium thanks to Todd Barry, athletic director, who was present at the Relay.

Anyone with questions about the Relay can call Vicky Skokan at 375-3406; anyone with questions about cancer can call the American Cancer Society's 24-hour help line at 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit the web site www.cancer.org.

Wayne Senior Legion baseball team improves to 9-3; Juniors slip to 3-6

Wayne State soccer team lands three new recruits for new coach

Three high school seniors have signed national letters of intent recently to attend Wayne State College and play for the women's soccer team. Joining the 2002 WSC soccer team are Nicole Bishoff, Rachelle Jordan and Marie St. Martin. Rollie Bullock, first-year WSC soccer coach, also announced the transfer of Kelly Peterson from Northern State. Bishoff is a 5-6 defender from Omaha. As a three year starter, Bishoff led Skutt High School to four consecutive Class B state tournament appearances. "Nicki's speed and her ability to provide solid team defense will add depth on our defense,"

Bullock said. Jordan is a 5-3 defender from Omaha. She was a three-time letter winner and a one-year starter for Millard West High School. Jordan helped lead her team to two district runner-ups in 2000 and 2002. She was a finalist for the Youth of the Year award for the "Nakota" Region of the American Red Cross. "Rachelle is a hard-nosed and intelligent player who can both defend and push forward in the attack," Bullock said. St. Martin is a 5-3 midfielder from Sugarland, Tex. She was a four year letter winner at Stephen F. Austin High School. She was named first-team, all-district last season as her team's second leading scorer. "Marie has great playmaking skills and also has the ability to score goals," Bullock said. "She will be a great addition in the midfield." Peterson is a 5-10 forward from Vermillion, S.D. Peterson was named Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference Newcomer of the Year during her freshman year at Northern State. She was the team's leading scorer with 15 goals, while earning first-team all-conference. While at Vermillion High School, Peterson was a two-time all-state performer. She led Vermillion to the South Dakota State Championship in 2001. Peterson led the team in goals in 1999 and 2001, where she was also team captain. She lettered in volleyball, golf, track, basketball and cross country. "The three high school recruits have the technical skills to adapt quickly to this level of play," Bullock said. # Catching fish is easy once you locate them!

Fishing is not a real complicated sport, all you need to do is locate the fish and then give them what they want. Right!
 It's harder than it sounds, because it's said that 90% of the fish are located on about 10% of the lake.
 Locating fish can be easy at times! Just last weekend I took a little time to fish one of the many Glacial Lakes in north-eastern South Dakota. I with fishing with Roger Meyer from Watertown, S.D. We were after walleyes with crankbaits that were located along the flooded road beds in the lake.
 The roads that once ran along the lake, now were part of the lakes structure. The brush, plum thickets and other vegetation in the ditches, became excellent places for fresh water shrimp and smaller bait fish to take up residence.
 The structure change and the food source acted like a giant magnet attracting the walleye and other predator fish.
 Locating fish under this situation was really quite easy, because you could see where the old road ran into the lake and where it came out on the other side.

 In one area we looked at, there was a stop sign right in the middle of the lake that marked the submerged road for us. At that point, I thought to myself, it doesn't get any easier than this!
 The fact is, that the majority of the time, catching fish is the easy part, it's locating them, on thousands of acres of water that is the tough!
 How do you find fish on a big lake, like those in the Glacial Lakes area or on Lake Oahe?
 First you look for the things that fish need to survive. Fish, both predator and prey, like all creatures need a few essential things to make it through the day. They are food, cover, comfortable water temperatures and sufficient oxygen. All of these things give the fish a feeling of security and are things they need.
 The most important of these of course is food. Predator fish (walleye, bass etc.) have to follow their food around, so once you've located their food source, chances are that the predator fish won't be far away.
 Predator fish will stay in an

Gary Howey
Of the Outdoors

area as long as the bait fish are there. They may not be right on top of the bait fish, but it's a good bet that they'll be lying in the deeper water not too far away.
 Cover or structure, is no more than a place to hide or escape from danger. Some sort of change in the bottom configuration of the lake, it could be a change from sand to mud, gravel to rocks or a dramatic change in depth.
 All species of fish need cover or something to relate to, something to give them a sense of security. For the smaller bait fish, it might be small rocks that they can hide in or weeds or a brush pile. The bigger predators need something a little larger to relate to, it could be a drop off into deeper water, downed trees, rock piles or a sunken island.
 Comfortable water temperatures and oxygen seem to go hand and hand. Where the fish find their preferred water temperatures, they can also find ample oxygen that they need to survive.
 During the warm summer months as the water temperatures start to rise, fish will move deeper into the colder more oxygenated water to get comfortable, moving shallow as the sun gets lower to feed on the bait fish that are hiding there.

 An exception to this rule occurs when the weeds start to green up along the edge of the drop offs and break lines.
 Since weeds give off oxygen, the predator fish are able to cruise the shallow weedy areas looking for a meal. Because of the plentiful oxygen they're able to do this during the heat of the day and not be affected as much by the warmer temperatures!
 Armed with this information, I'll head for the local bait and tackle shop and talk with them about the fishing. They can give me a rough idea as to what the walleye are biting on, the general area the fish are being caught in and the depth that they've been caught at.
 If I can pick up a lake map of the area, it will get me one step closer to locating the fish. Now I know where the major structure and depth changes are and can eliminate a lot of unproductive water.
 Once on the water, I'll rely on my locator to verify the information from the map and to look for concentrations of bait fish.
 I'll start by trolling a crankbait because I can cover a lot more ground this way and locate the larger more aggressive fish quickly.
 Once I pick up a fish or two, I'll make a note of the depth and probe that specific depth with my crankbait.
 If I have an area that I'm able to take several fish on every pass, I might drop my trolling motor and work a jig or live bait through the area trying to pin point the concentration of walleyes.
 There's really no magic answer to the finding fish, it takes a little time and effort, but once you start looking for the things the fish need to survive and combine that information you received from local anglers, you'll be able to locate the fish quickly and be on your way to becoming a better angler.
 It's not rocket science, it's just

HAVE A SAFE TRIP

Tips on Tire Safety and Proper Tire Inflation

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) at the U.S. Department of Transportation, approximately 41,730 people were killed and 3,303,000 were injured on the nation's public roads and highways in the year 2001. NHTSA estimates that proper tire inflation could help save about 50 to 80 lives and prevent about 6,600 to 10,600 injuries each year.

A NHTSA study found that about one of every four passenger cars on U.S. roadways are driving with one or more substantially underinflated tires. A study in 1996 by the American Automobile Association found similar results: Of the 6,200 cars it inspected to determine whether drivers had prepared their cars and trucks for summer, almost half had worn or underinflated tires.

When a tire doesn't have enough air, its sides sag causing the middle section of the tire to pull away from the road, putting undue stress on the tires' rims. This can cause the tires to crack, split, and blow-out. This problem is not always visible to the naked eye, so making regular tire pressure checks is essential to tire safety.

Here are some key steps to tire safety:

- Check tire pressure at least once a month. Tires lose air through the rubber and at interfaces with the wheel and valve, making regular checks critical.
- Use a tire gauge to check the pressure in all four tires and your spare. Using a tire gauge is the only way to ensure tires are properly inflated.
- Check your tire pressure when tires are cool. Make sure that the vehicle has been off and in a cool place for several hours to ensure the most accurate reading.
- Use the automaker's recommended tire pressure. This is printed on a placard that usually appears in a vehicle on a doorjamb, inside the fuel-filler door, or on the inside of the glove box lid.
- Perform a monthly tread check. Take a penny, and put it in the grooves of your tire with Lincoln's head pointing toward the tire. As you look at the penny from the side, if you can see the top of Lincoln's head, then you may be ready for new tires.
- Don't overload your vehicle. Overloading your vehicle puts added stress on your tires and can magnify the risk of improper tire inflation. Be sure to adhere to the automaker's recommendation for car capacity.

Highlights of 2002 Relay for Life

Herbs for Health
Three Natural Ways to Control High Blood Cholesterol

Prescription medicines are available to help persons reduce high cholesterol levels. These medicines are especially important to those individuals who have inherited the trait to overproduce cholesterol. Even with use of these medicines it is important to limit intake of foods containing large amounts of cholesterol and foods that contain saturated fat. Therefore, one "natural" way to reduce cholesterol is through attention to diet.

Another natural approach to cholesterol control involves the daily use of the fiber supplement psyllium. This fiber, which some people use to prevent constipation, can reduce cholesterol by as much as 20%. Psyllium apparently interferes with absorption of fats into the bloodstream from the intestine. Another natural approach involves eating foods that contain garlic or using garlic extracts in supplement form. Many studies have shown a significant drop in cholesterol among garlic extract users.

Summer donor recruitment program has been announced

The Siouxland Community Blood Bank has announced its 2002 summer donor recruitment campaign, Heroes Unite, It's About Life!

The campaign is designed to help sustain the blood supply throughout the summer when blood donations trend down but the demand for blood goes up. The theme for the campaign is meant to honor not only lifesaving blood donors, but community fire, rescue, and law enforcement personnel. "They are all heroes to the communities they help and serve," said Japette Twait, blood bank executive director.

The summer campaign will help recruit blood donors by stressing community participation in blood drives. From June through September, the blood bank will be conducting blood drives in over ninety-five communities in the tri-state region. To help make the drives successful, the blood bank is asking city officials, fire, rescue, and law enforcement personnel to help encourage their communities to donate blood.

Commenting on the summer donor recruitment promotion, Janette Twait said "You will not only help save lives, but will help to remember those who sacrifice everyday to serve our community - the fire, rescue, and law enforcement personnel."

The campaign will not only help increase blood donations, but will reward a community's participation. One community will receive a sponsored, donated gift certificate of $1,000 to benefit local fire, rescue, and law enforcement squads. The sponsored gift certificate may be used for equipment and supplies. The winning community will be based on a participation formula, not population.

For the campaign, blood donors are asked to register under their community squad's name to receive credit. Whether donors register at their local, community blood drive, or at blood bank headquarters on 1019 Jones Street in Sioux City, they can request their donation be credited towards their community fire, rescue, and law enforcement squad.

For more information on blood donations and community blood drives, call the blood bank at (712) 252-4208, ext. 216, or 1-800-798-4208. Information is also available on the blood bank website, www.siouxlandbloodbank.org.

In addition to historic props, Stearns guided the group through a field trip to Lynch, the Nebraska Welcome Center at Yankton, S.D., Spirit Mound near Vermillion, S.D., Elk Point, S.D. and Ponca State Park.

"The opportunity to take this

I am totally excited to return to my classroom and share this with students. Dr. Stearns' enthusiasm and knowledge spawns interest to know more. ## Use of Medicine for Depression More Common Today

According to a report in The Journal of the American Medical Association, only 7 out of 1,000 persons in the US were treated on an outpatient basis with medicines for depression in 1987. Ten years later, in 1997, 23 out of 1,000 persons were treated on an outpatient basis for depression - a threefold increase. Any stigma associated with having depression and/or receiving treatment for depression seems to be declining.

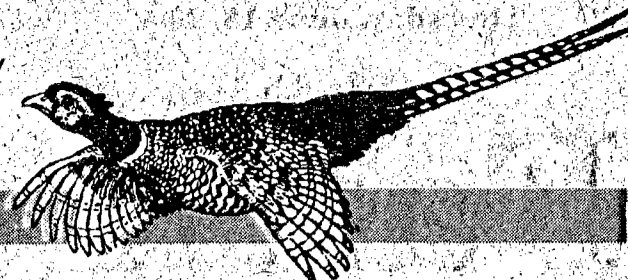

Various treatments are available in depression care. Among the most common are medicines and psychotherapy. According to the report, in 37% of individuals treated for depression received medicines in 1987. By 1997 this number doubled to 75%. The availability of newer medicines (called selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors) with fewer side effects and less complicated dosage regimens is one reason cited by the report authors for this increase in medicine use in depression.

Teens' diet should be balanced

The second-fastest growth stage of a child's life occurs during adolescence.

Amy Topp Extension Educator 4-H & Youth

To meet nutritional goals during that time, teens need a balanced diet. Most teens need to consume more calories than adults because growth spurts accelerate their energy and nutrient needs. Adolescent boys need 2,500-2,800 calories per day and adolescent girls need about 2,200.

Calories should come from foods rich in nutrients, such as vitamins and minerals.

Calories should come from foods rich in nutrients, such as vitamins and minerals. Many popular teen foods, such as soft drinks and candy, are high in fat and sugar and don't provide any nutrients.

Teens, especially girls, need calcium for strong bone development. Not getting enough calcium during adolescence may cause problems later in life, such as osteoporosis. Calcium-rich foods include milk, yogurt, cheese, broccoli, okra, salmon and greens. Some cereals and fruit juices also are calcium-fortified.

Iron is essential for warding off fatigue, and teen girls are especially vulnerable to low iron levels. A balanced diet that includes meat, poultry, seafood, legumes and enriched grains should provide an adequate amount of iron.

Since many adolescents eat on the run due to their busy schedules, parents should keep nutritious snacks on hand. Pretzels, butter-free popcorn, fruits, vegetables and cheese cubes are good choices. Water and 100 percent fruit juices are healthy alternatives to soft drinks.

Election of officers is held at Auxiliary meeting

The Irwin L. Sears Auxiliary #43 met June 3 at the Neva Lorenzen residence. Pro Tem President Eveline Thompson opened the meeting with colors in place.

Pro-Tem Chaplain was Frances Doring who gave the opening prayer for peace. Members sang one stanza of the "Star Spangled Banner," followed by the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag. The unit citation preamble to the constitution of the American Legion auxiliary was read.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by Neva Lorenzen and Eveline Thompson gave the treasurer's report.

A thank you was read from Theresa Samuelson for the memorial given by the auxiliary.

Election of officers was held with a motion made to have all officers stay in their current positions for another year.

Flag Day is Friday, June 14 and everyone is encouraged to fly flags that day.

Those helping with the Memorial Day activities on May 27 included Leona Kluge, Bonnie Otte, Neva Lorenzen, Eveline Thompson, Mabel Sommerfeld, Frances Doring, Margaret Korn. These women helped with flags and the placing of wreaths.

Frances Doring, Pro-Tem Chaplain, gave the prayer for peace, followed by one stanza of "America." Members had the Little Red School House March.

Pro-Tem Eveline Thompson closed the meeting to re-open on Monday, July 1. Bernita Sherbahn will serve lunch.

Aspirin For Your Heart
Aspirin has been shown to have beneficial effects for people with heart disease due to its anti-clotting effects. However, according to the New England Journal of Medicine, ibuprofen and other similar NSAIDS may block this important effect. The study found that taking ibuprofen (such as Advil or Motrin) a few hours before aspirin interfered with aspirin's protective effects. Regular use of ibuprofen interfered with aspirin's effects regardless of the timing of the aspirin dose. Acetaminophen (Tylenol) did not block the aspirin. Ask your pharmacist or doctor for advice.

Carroll Branch #3019

Local AAL branch is being honored for its effectiveness

Aid Association for Lutherans/Lutheran Brotherhood (AAL/LB) is recognizing AAL Branch #3019 in Carroll for its effectiveness in bringing AAL/LB's charitable resources straight to its members' own community. The branch recently received a Gold Star rating, the highest given by the fraternal organization, for its community service efforts.

AAL/LB is a fraternal benefit society that was formed through the merger of Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) of Appleton, Wis. and Lutheran Brotherhood (LB) of Minneapolis at the beginning of this year. The organization is honoring its branch members for their service to Lutherans and to others in their communities during 2001.

To achieve a Gold Star rating, the branch must conduct regular business meetings, an election and a planning meeting and sponsor at least one benevolent, one educational and one member welcome or membership growth event. Three additional activities of any combination must be conducted to receive this superior rating. The branch must also submit an annual financial report and achieve an average of two volunteer hours per benefit member in the branch.

AAL/LB's more than 11,500 branches throughout the country meet regularly to carry out a variety of volunteer efforts, fund-raising projects and educational programs to help themselves, their communities and people in need.

Aid Association for Lutherans and Lutheran Brotherhood merged on Jan. 1, 2002 to create Aid Association for Lutherans/Lutheran Brotherhood (AAL/LB), the largest fraternal benefit society in the United States. Composed of nearly three million members, the organization offers a broad array of financial products and services, as well as charitable programs, to Lutherans, their families and their communities.

Theobald is winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced recently that Renee Theobald of Wayne has been named a United States National Award Winner in physical education.

This award is an honor very few students can attain. The Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students.

The Academy selects U.S.A.A. winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors and upon the standards of selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Theobald is the daughter of Jan Theobald and Paul Theobald of Wayne. The grandparents are Lois Simmons of White, S.D. and Gil and Page Theobald of Rochester, Minn.

Thanks for baseball

Thank heaven for Nebraska baseball! The Big Farmer gets mighty bored these days because of his limited mobility. So, he's following the team. We got to know Dave Van Horn, Shane Kominé, and Matt Hopper last year. He had to listen to the Big Twelve Tournament on the radio, and suffered defeat by Texas.

Then, the regional was actually in Lincoln and on Channel 12! That helped last weekend. And, we could rejoice that we were sitting in air-conditioned comfort while the spectators were getting sun burned. All the time, there was speculation about playing Wake Forest in a super-regional.

But, Richmond spoiled Wake Forest's plans and Nebraska hosted the next sequence. We're told that the Spiders packed for two weeks and in the words of Tom Shatel, "they did not plan to be sacrificial arachnids."

They did win on Saturday, but the Huskers cinched a second trip to Omaha in an exciting game on Sunday. That game was nerve wracking until the eighth inning, so much so, I had to provide Mike with something to munch on. Plus, our kids in K.C. at the Royals- Cards game kept calling home to check the score!

We did get to Norfolk on Friday for the big annual dance recital. It took a little effort, and help from Sue, but I saw Jacey do her Groovy chickens dance. Hopefully, they'll be at the Wayne Chicken Show and get a chance to show off those cute costumes again.

As you well know, I can't dance. I've always wished I could. And, I don't really dig ballet.

For years, I had looked at photos of colleague's children in their dance costumes and heard them talking about the recital. Frankly, I thought it was an expensive activity.

And it is. But I'm sure it's very good for the participants: coordination, poise, etc. And that show was amazing. The Johnny Carson Theatre is just a wonderful venue, and it was very professionally done.

Ironically, one of the cable channels was playing Footloose on Saturday. It seems very old-fashioned now, and in some places, dancing is mis-used, just as any of the arts can be.

But Paulyn's program featured many patriotic numbers, a variety of songs, beautiful costumes, and some fantastic dances. And, as she says, "now more than ever, the world needs dance."

Reminds me of the international square dance festival going on when we were in Austria. Time for me to dig out my line dance video!

Moths annoying but not harmful

Area residents have notice an abundance of "millers" in and around the house recently.

These moths, which are most likely army cutworm moths, may be annoying because of their activity and habit of invading homes, garages and vehicles. They may cause agitation when great clouds of moths suddenly disperse from landscape bushes, shrubs, doors and windows when disturbed.

Although these moths can be dispersed statewide, the potential for large moth aggregations increases the further west you go in Nebraska! They cause little harm and are present in large numbers for only a few weeks.

The young larvae of army cutworm moths feed above ground in the fall on the leaves of vegetation. They rest throughout the winter and resume feeding in early spring, completing their larval life cycle in late April and May. Army cutworm moths, or millers, begin to appear in early to late May. The moths are generally gray or light brown, with a wingspan of 1 1/2 to 2 inches, each forewing being marked with spots, wavy lines and other dark and light markings.

The moths prefer to feed at night on the nectar of flowering shrubs and trees. This feeding does not harm the plants. As dawn approaches, the millers may enter homes, garages, barns and sheds in search of resting sites.

If the moths are disturbed during the day, they will quickly escape and find new hiding places. At dusk, the moths re-emerge and continue feeding on nectar and migrate to other areas. Some, moths, however, may enter homes where they become a nuisance. With the exception of occasionally staining curtains and other surfaces with their droppings, they cause little harm.

To decrease the effect of the "millers," keep outside lighting to a minimum. The night-flying moths are attracted to lights. When lighting is necessary, use yellow light bulbs.

Seal cracks and crevices with caulking. Place weather stripping around doors and windows. Repair all screens in windows, doors and attic vents.

Experts also recommend considering using a landscape that minimizes flowering plants and dense vegetation near houses.

If "millers" enter a house or other building, they can be swatted, vacuumed or trapped. A simple trap can be made by placing a light bulb over a shallow pan of soapy water. Once in the trap, the moths cannot escape and can easily be disposed of in the trash!

Moths that remain inside a home may stain walls and articles with their droppings. The droppings are generally not difficult to remove. Stains on curtains or clothing can be removed by laundering. Stains on walls, furniture and other surfaces may be removed with mild household cleaners.

Experts say there is no need to use an insecticide to control these pests. An insecticide application will kill only those that come in contact with it and more are likely to arrive to take their place. They state that the best advice is to keep doors and windows closed and wait patiently for these migrants to move on.
