500 over last year.

After more than 37 years in the field of education, Richard Metteer has decided to make a career change.

The former principal of the Wayne Middle School said he is not retiring, "just changing careers."

Metteer, who was born in Denver, Colo. and lived in a number of locations in northeast Nebraska before graduating from Norfolk High School, recently ended a 34 year career as a principal with the Wayne Community Schools.

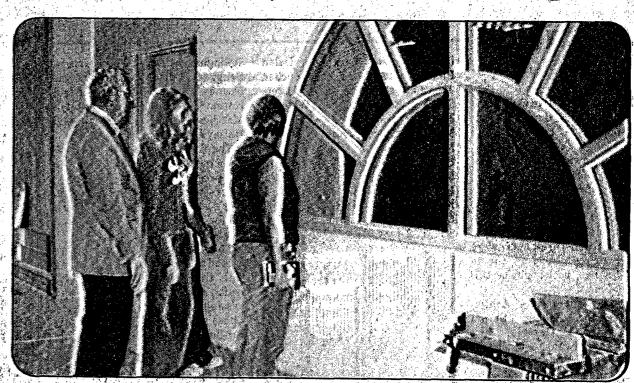

Following his graduation from high school, he attended Norfolk Junior College for two years, working toward an education major. He then transferred to Wayne State College.

"At that time I was working 40 hours a week as a cook with the Norfolk State Hospital and worked if out so that I could take classes early in the morning and still be back to work by 11:30 a.m.," Metteer

December of 1964, he had plans to go to Omaha and work for H&R Block. However, those plans did not work out and he learned of a job opening at Ravenna Junior

"A teacher at Ravenna had died and I finished out the second half of the school year. I received onehalf a year's salary, $2,325, for teaching Language Arts, Social Studies and Math," Metteer recalled.

The following year Metteer moved to the high school and taught Social Studies there for two years. He then moved to Fullerton where he taught for one year while he took night and summer classes to earn his Masters' degree.

Metteer came to Wayne in 1968, "the same day Robert Kennedy was in town," and applied for a position, as the principal of Wayne and Carroll Elementary Schools. He held this position for eight years.

"At first the Carroll school had students in kindergarten through sixth grade, but later, because of opportunities at the Middle School, the fifth and sixth grade students from Carroll came to Wayne."

In 1976, when Loren Park, who was principal at the Wayne Middle School decided to pursue other interests, Dr. Francis Haun, Metteer if he was interested in the position. Twenty-six years later, Mr. Metteer retired from that posi-

"People keep asking me how I like retirement. I don't know yet. I think retirement won't actually take effect until the fall when I won't be returning to school," Metteer said.

Although working with middle school aged children can be a challenge, Metteer said it was not difficult, "if you understand and love them. You have to understand all the things they are going through and the changes, physically and emotionally that they are going through," he said. "Kids need a lot of support."

Metteer said that changes in the more difficult since he began working with students. He said that organizations such as FRIENDs and TeamMates as well as counselors for students to talk to have helped students cope with issues facing them.

Metteer's career change will find Wayne Community Schools him working for the Wayne Superintendent, asked Mr. Community Schools Foundation, doing some substitute teaching and being a mentor for the TeamMates Program.

He and his wife Jeannette also would like to do some traveling now that both are semi-retired.

"We would like to visit New England and maybe visit Jeanette's home land of Germany and mine in the British Isles. I also have some grandchildren that I would like to take fishing," he said.

The Metteers have two children, R.J. who is a band director at Lincoln Southeast High School in Lincoln and Julie who teaches first grade in Crete. They also have three grandchildren.

"I know that when school starts in August, I will miss the contact with the teachers and students. Although the chemistry of each family structure have made things a class was different and challenging, I have enjoyed being a part of their lives."

Council expresses concern with fire hall completion

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

Concerns over the completion of over the need to make a decision so the Wayne Fire Hall and the quality of work done on the project were, expressed during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Prior to the start of the regular meeting, several council members, City Administrator Lowell Johnson and Mayor Sheryl Lindau had taken a tour through the facility, noting the work to be completed and work not done according to specifications. Construction was to have been completed by Feb. 28 but as of Tuesday a punch list of items that still need attention had not been taken care of.

Councilman Dennis Linster said he favored terminating the contract with Craft Construction of Norfolk. "I think we should walk away, put the money away and fix things on Mr. Metteer received a standing ovation during the open house for the renovated Middle ... our own. The quality of work is not Following discussion and input from Stephen Granger, architect with JEO, the council voted to pursue action with the bonding company for the contractor.

Other items on Tuesday's agenda included action on initial organization and staffing for the Community Activity Center.

The city had looked at several options and following Tuesday's meeting, voted to move forward on a plan that would include a fulltime department head, a part-time activity director, a full-time program coordinator and part-time activity center and coaching staff, It was noted that it would be easier to begin with this plan and increase the number of hours per employee rather than having to decrease from a full-time position to a parttime position.

use caution and watch construction equipment on the highway, as crews will still be working on earth shoulders and permanent seeding and with the Offile Also, the speed limit will be posted at 45 mph and fines for speeding will be doubled in the construction zone.

It is anticipated crews will be working through the end of August to complete the finishing touches on the project.

Chamber is interested in becoming a partner in the venture but expressed the Chamber's concern quickly and the uncertainty of the amount of commitment required.

Councilman Will Wiseman said that before the venture begins, he would like to see a utilization requirement drawn up that would indicate the number of riders needed to keep the service in operation. He also stated that should the venture not prove to be viable, the vehicle used for transportation could be sold and some of the initial investment returned to the entities involved.

The council voted to install sod on the two larger areas near the Fire Hall and have the remaining areas rocked. Several council members voiced concerns on the issue, including the need to water and mow grass and the possibility of rocks finding their way into Several members of the Community Activity Center were at Tuesday's meeting to discuss a proposal for fitness equipment for the Activity Center.

Lesa Backstrom, spokesperson for the group, said that five bids for equipment had been received. Those were then narrowed to three firms and the committee then recommended the bid from Push, Pedal and Pull in Omaha.

The firm has supplied equipment for the Wellness Center at Providence Medical Center and at Wayne State College. The group reported favorable reports from heads of those organizations.

The cost of the equipment was $55,433.

Action on the proposal will be taken at a later date, following an update to the council on the status of fund-raising for the facility.

Proposals were also presented for a group health care plan for Wayne Municipal employees. Council members voted to accept a plan from American Community, an insurance company handled by First National Agency.

The plan will result in a savings of approximately $7,000 per month for the city In exchange for the saving, the individual deductible for each employee will increase from $250 to $500. Following considerable discussion, the council voted to move forward with that option and to absorb the additional $250 for each employee:

At the current time there are 49 employees eligible for health insurance benefits and 43 of those are on the plan.

The council's next meeting will be Tuesday, July 8 at 7:30 p.m.

Dear Editor,

Concerning the new postage rates, in order to eliminate some confusion for readers I'd like to put things in perspective for the people in our community.

Why do rates go up at all? As the case with any other business, the Postal Service is not immune to inflationary pressures. We buy gas and oil, air and ground transportation and business supplies and equipment from the same sources as any other business or organization.

Compared to most products, postage increases are rare. At 37, cents, our letter rate is still among the lowest of major industrialized nations. Citizens in Japan, for - even at 37 cents - continues to, example, pay more than 60 cents be one of the world's best barto mail a letter in their own coun- gains, try — an area somewhat smaller than California.

For only 37 cents, the U.S. Postal Service delivers to every address in this vast nation, more than 138 million locations, from Key West, Florida, to Barrow, Alaska from Honolulu, Hawaii, to Freeport, Maine and to all the points in between.

We provide a service that binds the 274 million people of this nation together, regardless of their financial status or where they live. Remember too, that we do it without using taxpayer dollars to support our operations. We rely on the sale of our products and services to cover operating

By Ed Howard Company is came out of his tenure Statehouse Correspondent Nebraska Press Association

LINCOLN - The "nuke waste trial" continues at this writing and state officials are holding their breath, hoping that it won't be yet another fiscal disaster for Nebráska.

The multi-state compact that has wanted to stick Nebraska with a dump for low-yield nuclear waste is suing the state in federal court. Estimates are that, if Nebraska loses, it could cost the state treasury some $100 million or more.

What a mess. Interestingly, attorneys for the. five-state compact are alleging that the administration of then-Gov. Ben Nelson conspired to wrongly deny a license to put the dump in Boyd County.

If the state loses the cases, naturally enough, the speculation is that Nelson would get a political black eye.

Remember: In politics, perception is reality and "fair" is a word that only applies to those annual things that are held in various counties so that kids can show off their 4-H projects and eat cotton, candy.

Nebraska's problems with this damnable dump began when Bob Kerrey was governor. The Legislature should have known better. Next to Kerrey's deregulation of telecommunications, the joining of that goofy nuclear waste compact was the worst thing that

The interesting thing politically is that Kerrey never got dumped on because of the dump, Republican Gov. Kay Orr, whose political luck ran the gamut from bad to really, really bad, got hit with the full force of the controversy. Nelson's administration had to deal with the specifics of the licensing imbroglio.

That the Legislature couldn't see that this Trojan horse was loaded with manure (and lots worse) is the real tragedy in this episode. The other states in the compact include Louisiana. Anyone familiar with politics should have perceived the obvious: If this dump were anything but a bad deal, Louisiana would have used its pull and stolen the thing for itself!

Nelson's situation is rather like that of a relief pitcher who comes to the mound after his predecessors have pretty much given away the game. If he wins, he was just doing his job. If he loses, no one remembers the jam the team was in when he got there.

ple died in auto crashes during a shorter than usual Independence Day holiday, which fell on a Wednesday, the Fourth of July Safety Council (NSC) and the Nebraska Safety Council, Inc. That means many more deaths will be associated with this year's Fourth of July holiday period that stretches across 4 1/4 days, officially beginning at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, july 3, and ending at 11:59 p.m. on Sunday, July 7. On the positive side, the NSC estimates that 487 people involved in serious motor vehicle crashes will survive this Independence Day because they will be wearing their safety belts.

"That's the good news," said Laurie Klosterboer, executive director of the Nebraska Safety Council, Inc. "The bad news is that because of the long holiday, we're estimate that 648 people may die on the highways during the Fourth of July. The Council also estimates that 34,400 people will suffer disabling injuries from car crashes. If everyone were to buckle up, however, we would save 171 additional lives this Independence Day."

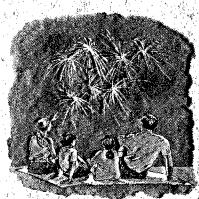

Last year, an estimated 198 peo- In the United States, 71 percent of motorists wear seat belts, which is one of the lowest safety-belt usage rates among all developed countries. For example, the safetyfalls on a Thursday this year, mak- belt usage rate in Canada is 93 pering for a much longer holiday peri-cent, and in Australia it's 99 perod as defined by the National cent. Both countries have strong safety belt laws that are strictly enforced. The 29 percent of motorists in the U.S. who don't buckle up tend to be high-risk drivers who are twice as likely to be involved in fatal crashes.

"We've made great strides in the effort to get motorists to buckle up," said Klosterboer, "but we need to do more. Safety belts are proven to save lives, yet nearly 3 out of 10 drivers and passengers still don't wear them."

The National Safety Council recommends that motorists make sure that everyone is properly buckled for every single trip over the Fourth of July holiday. In addition to wearing a safety belt, the Council urges motorists to:

•Make sure children are properly fastened in belts or child safety seats in the back seat every time they ride in a car. Six out of 10 children killed in crashes are not restrained. Children age 12 and under should always ride in the back seat, especially in vehicles

•Don't drink and drive. nearly 40 percent of all fatal vehicle crashes involve alcohol. If you know you will be drinking alcohol, use a designated driver or public transportation.

·Allow enough travel time for frequent breaks on longer trips. Drowsy drivers are an increasing problem in our fast-paced society. Remember, drowsiness can reduce reaction time almost as much as drinking.

Mothers Against Drink Driving (MADD) announces its July 4th holiday Designate a Driver campaign, which reminds Americans to designate a sober driver before their Independence Day celebrations begin. The campaign also offers a free Safe Party Guide in both English and Spanish to help educate community members of drunk driving and its dangers. The Guide is available http://www.madd.org/madd_programs/.

The Safe Party Guide urges hosts to be responsible by offering a variety of non-alcoholic beverages for designated drivers, never serving alcohol to those under the legal drinking age of 21, asking guests to appoint a designated driver before the evening begins, not letting guests mix their own drinks and never allowing guests who have had too much to drink to drive

The National Safety Council is a nonprofit, nongovernmental public service organization dedicated to reducing unintentional injuries in homes and communities, in the workplace and on the road, Highway safety is addressed in the Safety Agenda for the nation, a major NSC initiative to reduce unintentional injuries and deaths in America. The National Safety Council and the Nebraska Safety Council advise families to leave the fireworks to the professionals this year. Enjoy a public fireworks display at a public venue. Unfortunately, summer holidays are usually identified with backyard firecrackers, bottle rockets, cherry bombs and other dangerous explo-

Despite efforts to educate people about the hazards of home fireworks, the problem persists. Nationwide in 2000 (most recent available figures), 10 people were killed and 1,000 people were treated in a hospital emergency rooms for fireworks-related injuries. In 2001 in Nebraska there were no fatalities, but there were 184 injuries, the highest amount ever.

Nationally, almost half of the injuries happen to children 15 and younger. In Nebraska in 2001, 29 injuries occurred to children ages 0 to 5, 43 to ages 6 to 10 and 56 to ages 11-19.

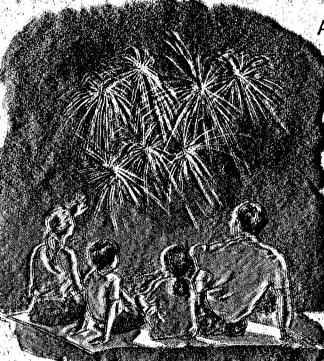

Almost two-thirds of the victims are male. Most fireworks injuries are caused by firecrackers, bottle rockets and sparklers, with firecrackers accounting for the 30 percent of the injuries. Even seemingly harmless sparklers burn at temperatures as high as 1,800 degrees Fahrenheit and can cause disfiguring burns. Most injuries result from misuse, including holding firecrackers too long, picking up lighted fireworks and having fireworks explode near a bystander. Common injuries include second- and third-degree burns, partial or total loss of sight, lacerations and fractures.

For those people who insist on putting themselves at risk, the National Safety Council reluctantly offers the following suggestions to minimize the chance of injuries from fireworks to users and bystanders:

- Always light fireworks outdoors in a clear area away from onlookers, houses and flammable materials.
- Light one device at a time; maintain a safe distance after lighting the devices.
- . Do not try to re-light or handle malfunctioning fireworks; douse and soak them with water and discard them safely.
- Them salely.

 Never allow young children to handle fireworks.

 Older children should use fireworks only under close adult supervision.
- Do not allow any running or horseplay while fireworks are being used.
- Never ignite devices in a container.
- the state of the s · Always store fireworks in a dry, cool place and avoid rough handling that might damage the fuse or han-

As a preventive measure, keep a bucket of water nearby when conducting a home display. Use the water to fully extinguish fireworks that don't go off immediately. Cool water should be applied to burns. If a person suffers a serious injury, get immediate medical assistance.

"Above all," said Laurie Klosterboer, executive director of the Nebraska Safety Council, "the best way to have a blast this summer, without endangering yourself or others, is to watch and safely enjoy a public fireworks display conducted by professionals."

Big fish can be found in small bodies of water

When most people think of trophy fishing waters, they think of huge lakes like Lake Oahe, Lake McConaughy or Waubay Lake.

The truth is that you don't need to have thousands of acres of water to have a trophy fishery. Some of the largest fish I've ever caught came from farm ponds and stock dams.

Year in and year out, in the Cornhusker state, there are more Master Angler fish taken from smaller bodies of water than there are taken from the larger lakes and reservoirs.

These smaller bodies of water weren't built as recreational pond, they were built to supply water to livestock.

Once they were built, fish found their way into the ponds. Some were stocked by the Game & Parks or the D.N.R., while others are stocked by landowners and some by neighbors.

The ponds that were stocked by or with the help of the Game & Parks and D.N.R. usually have a good balance between the predator and the prey fish. These ponds generally contain bass, bluegill and catfish.

The bass and the catfish are the predator species and the bluegills are the prey. If your pond is out of balance, you'll end up with stunted fish because there just aren't enough prey fish to feed the predabluegills will become the predator, attacking the bass nest eating the eggs and the small fry.

out west also contain good numbers of perch, crappies and north-be one that has both shallow and deep water areas. The shallows are needed for spawning, the deeper water gives the smaller fish a place to escape the prey fish and to move to once winter sets in.

Structure is another thing that a trophy pond must have! It doesn't have to be much, downed trees. brush piles or weeds will all fit the

The structure gives the smaller aquatic life a place to live, which in turn attracts minnows and smaller fish and they attract the larger fish. It gives them a place to tors. Once this happens, the look for food, to hide and keep from becoming food for another

If I come across a pond that Some ponds, especially those looks like it has deep water areas and structure in the shallow water, I'll spend a little time cast ing the shore line and along the An ideal trophy fish pond would structure trying to temp a fish into

I'll start with something small, like a 1/8 or 1/32 ounce jig. tipped with a piece of worm or a small minnow. I'll gently pitch it along the edge of the brush or along the weed edge. If the shallow water drops off quickly into deeper water, I'll pit a small slip bobber above it and let it bob along the edge of the weeds.

If the water looks "Bassy", I'll go to a larger jig or a jig and pig com-. bination and work the pockets, along the trees and brush piles. You'll need to lay the larger jigs down as gently as you can so as not to spook the fish. Hop the jig back to shore or along the edge of the weeds, keeping a tight line at all times. Bass don't always hit, like a freight train, they will suck the bait in and if you don't have a tight line, he'll spit it out before you know he has it in his mouth.

If your line moves to the side or your line goes slack before it. reaches the bottom, rear back and give your rod a hard jerk to set the hook because a Bass has probably picked up your bait.

Remember as an old friend of mine once said, "jerks are for free and if you don't jerk hard and set the hook every time your line slow or moves off, you'll miss a lot of

In the spring, these smaller ponds are really productive, as the Bass have moved shallow to spawn and can be caught from the shore using a plastic worm, jig and pig or live bait.

As the water warms, the fish will move deeper where the water temperatures are cooler or along the edge of the weed line where oxygen levels are higher.

When the water warms try fishing ponds with shallow diving crankbaits, jig & pig or live bait early in the morning or in the A dispublic than marked their Payris to Allen with

Fish will move from the deeper water into the shallows when the shallow water is cooler to feed on insects and other shallow water

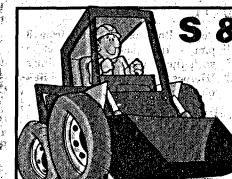

During the day go deep. You'll need to use deep diving crank baits, Texas rigged plastic baits or jig & pig in the deeper water along the weed edge or deeper submerged brush and trees to find the

One thing you'll need to remember when fishing these smaller bodies of water is to not over fish them. The predator/prey balance is very important in these smaller ponds. Once this balance is thrown off, you'll end up with a large population of prey fish and not enough predators to keep them in check.

A good rule of thumb to follow would be; for every one pound of predator fish (bass, pike, catfish) that's taken from a pound, you should be taking about four, pounds of prey fish (bluegill,) perch, crappie) in order to keep the balance in check.

Catch and release is very important in these smaller bodies of water of Dereca

Give these smaller bodies of water a try, you'll be surprised how big a fish can live in such a small body of water.

erbs for Health Three Natural Ways to Control High Blood Cholesterol

Prescription medicines are available to help persons reduce nigh cholesterol levels. These medicines are especially high cholesterol levels. These medicines are especially important to those individuals who have inherited the trait to overproduce cholesterol. Even with use of these medicines it is important to limit intake of foods containing large amounts of cholesterol (e.g., eggs, liver) and foods that contain saturated fat (e.g., any animal fat, including chicken and turkey skin, pork, beef). Therefore, one "natural" way to reduce cholesterol is the order attention to diet through attention to diet.

Another natural approach to cholesterol control involves the daily use of the fiber supplement psyllium. This fiber, which some people use to prevent constipation, can reduce cholesterol by as much as 20%. Psyllium apparently interferes with absorption of fats into the bloodstream from the intestine. Another natural approach involves eating foods that contain garlic or using garlic extracts in supplement form, Many studies have shown a significant drop in cholesterol among

Jan Zeiss holds the plaque she received as a Local Heroes Hall of Fame Honoree for "meaningful and endearing contributions to — our children, our schools and our future."

Receives award

Jan Zeiss, elementary guidance counselor at Emerson-Hubbard Elementary School has received the Local Heroes Hall of Fame

The award, which was presented by the National Association of Elementary School Principals, recognizes parents, community members, teachers or principal who have made extraordinary contributions to children's learning in their communities or who have helped to make their local school a better place.

Mrs. Zeiss, who has served as the elementary guidance counselor at Emerson Hubbard for 14 at the school.

years, was one of nine people nationwide to receive this honor.

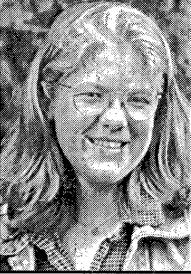

In the letter of recommendation, presented by a teacher's aid at the school and the president of the Elementary Student Council, Mrs. Zeiss' accomplishment are noted, "Jan has set up many programs at the school. She take the fourth grade class to the local nursing home every month, which teaches the children to volunteer and share time, talents and ideas with the senior citizens."

Don't Make This A Familiar Sight in Wayne

Don't make this a familiar sight!

Most stores close because local people did too much shopping out of town. In fact, there are many cases where most of the retail businesses in a community have closed.

If that were to happen in Wayne, who would be left to pay this community's taxes? The empty store fronts wouldn't be able to pay their share.

Who would be contributing work and money toward local groups and projects that we all are interested in?

Keeping Wayne healthy is everyone's responsibility & the results benefit us all.

Don Stenberg Attorney General

IS UNCLAIMED CASH WAITING FOR YOU? You Don't Have to Pay to Receive It

Many consumers have reported to the Nebraska Attorney General's Office that they have received post cards or letters implying that unclaimed cash is being held in their name by the State of Nebraska. They are told that by mailing in a fee, usually around $15, they will receive their "collection documentation".

Unclaimed money or property in Nebraska is required by law to be turned over to the Nebraska State Treasurer. The rightful recipient may claim the money or property with no costs involved."

The post card that implies a $14.98 fee will bring you unclaimed money will only bring you a pamphlet on how to contact the Nebraska State Treasurer's Office to see if you are on the list of those who have unclaimed money or property waiting for them. There is no guarantee you will be on the list. The information you paid for is available free of charge on the State of Nebraska website, or by making a phone call to the Unclaimed Property Division of the Nebraska State Treasurer's Office, resistant strandary the base of elastic and the model

Other mailings may request an up-front fee to claim a sweepstakes prize that somehow or other was never received by you, the rightful recipient. These mailing may express an urgency to mail a small fee, many times $14.98, in order to receive the waiting cash. Of course, there is no cash prize, and if the $14.98 fee is sent, it is gone.

Another scam having to do with "unclaimed property" starts with a letter which, at first glance, appears to come from a law firm. The letter conveys to the recipient that property consisting of jewelry and works of art is being held in his name in Paris, France. He is told he can fly to Paris, France himself to retrieve the treasurers, or, for a fee, the writer of the letter will act on his behalf. If the fee is paid, it is pocketed by the scam artist and the exchange is over,

Always be suspicious of claims that say you are the rightful owner of money or prizes will be yours for simply sending an up-front, fee, as Checks out these offers with the Consumer Protection Division of the Nebraska Attorney General's Office. And remember, if the offer sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

Among those named to the list was Sarah Marie Holstedt of Wayne who was named to the President's Honor Roll.

Acre Project comes to Wayne

Bicyclists on the Tour de Nebraska traveled through the area last Thursday on their way from Wisner to Crofton. The 78-mile ride was the longest of the five day trip. Other stops on the trip, which began and ended in Blair, were in Ponca and Pender. The ride is now in its 10th year and includes riders from 17 states. The riders, their support vehicles and mascot, a dog named Sophie were photographed taking a break in the Laurel area.

The Wayne Chamber Commerce 'Agribusiness' Taskforce, in conjunction with Farmers National Company and farm operators Doug and Dale Spahr have developed an Acre Project.

Passing through

"The goal of the project is to demonstrate the magnitude, possibilities and interdependence of agriculture related to rural Nebraska and its communities," said Dan Pries, Farm Manager for Farmers National Company.

The acre of land is located within two miles of wayne on a paved road. The exact location will be released in the near future. At this time Pries encourages residents to attempt to locate the acre involved which has been marked off. However, in the future, signs indicating the exact location will be placed next to the property.

In attempting to achieve the goals of the project, the group will demonstrate what an acre is, what an acre costs and the impact of that on the local economy. In addition, the magnitude, diversity and interrelation of agriculture and rural communities will be

A third goal of the project is to demonstrate potential academic and vocational paths associated with United States agriculture.

Ag Task Force members include Frank Teach, Sam Schroeder, Bob Liska, Max Kathol, Bill Claybaugh, Mark Sorensen, Dan Pries, Dough Nissen, Jim Nelson, Elvin Bristol and Dr. Mark Zink.

Why are families so important?

ber of strong families.'

I agree with him, and for that reason I applaud the work being done in many Nebraska communities to strengthen and support families. Families, in all the diverse patterns, sizes, creeds and en, colors they come in, are, indeed, the heart and soul of our society.

Marriage and family are perhaps society's oldest and most resilient institutions. From the beginning of human life, people have grouped themselves into families to find emotional, physical and communal support. Although in recent years social commentators have predicated the demise of both marriage and the family, they not only survive but continue to change and evolve. Family structures may vary around the world, and yet, the value of "family" endures.

Families are the basic, foundational social units in society. Therefore, healthy individuals within healthy families are at the core of a healthy society. It's in everyone's best interest, then, to help create a positive environment for all families. This can be a labor of love for all of our social institutions: educational institutions, businesses, human and family service agencies, religious institutions, health organizations, literally everyone involved in the daily life of a community.

Families are our most intimate social environment. They are the places where we begin the vital processes of socializing our children, teaching them — in partner-ship with countless others in the community - how to survive and thrive in the world.

Many marriages are experiencing difficulties today, and part of the challenge to building family friendly communities is to also build marriage-friendly communities. A good way to do this is to develop couples enrichment courses and activities. This can be done through teamwork among various institutions, including schools and colleges, religious institutions, volunteer groups and family service organizations such as Cooperative Extension.

Involving fathers in the day-today life of families is crucial. Of course, there are countless single parent families who are strong and emotionally healthy in our important for communities to find r creative ways to strengthen and support two-parent families and make it possible for fathers to enjoy the benefits of increased time and involvement with their children. Moms shouldn't have to carry all the burdens of child rearing alone. And dads shouldn't miss al the wonderful feelings a parent experiences watching one's children grow and learn.

Sometimes marriages get lost in the hubbub surrounding modern life. We attend to the children's needs. We make the boss happy at work. But we often let our own personal health and well-being slide and we borrow time and energy from our marriages to satisfy other demands in our world. The problem with this is that a healthy marriage is at the heart of a healthy two-parent family. I'm reminded of the saying, "The best thing a father can do for his children is to love their mother."

Life in families can bring us great joy or excruciating pain, depending upon how well family relationships are going. A healthy marriage and family can be a valuable resource for helping us endure difficulties that life inevitably brings, Unhealthy or dysfunctional relationships can create terrible problems that persist from one generation to the next

By working together in our communities, we demonstrate the importance of families to the wellbeing of the total community, and we contribute to the happiness of

Staff devotes summer to giving and learning

Every year over 70 college-age adults join the Nebraska Lutheran Outdoor Ministries summer staff.

They join to share their faith, talents, time and energy with each other and about 3,500 summer campers. What they often don't expect are the countless life experiences that they learn so much

Melissa Ehrhardt, a third year, staff member from Wayne, is one of these devoted staffers. She is the daughter of Lonnie and Diane Ehrhardt and a member of Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne. She is spending her summer as a Program Specialist with Nebraska Lutheran Outdoor Ministries.

Melissa Ehrhardt

"When I interview staff, I ask them what they can offer to the campers that they will lead. I get lists of wonderful skills and qualities," said Sunni Richardson, NLOM Director/ Programs. "I don't think they fully comprehend what they personally will gain from their experiences until long after the

"This role modeling is what leads the campers in the right direction."

Besides the skills that the staff leave with, they each gain a new sense of themselves and their personal faith. "So many times, youth leave their homes with their parents' faith as their own. Camp, like many other experiences, allows the staff members to develop their own faith, based on what they learned throughout their childhood," Richardson said.

Nebraska Lutheran Outdoor Ministries, an agency of the Nebraska Synod/ Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, owns and operates Carol Joy Holling Camp near Ashland, Sullivan Hills near Lodgepole, a Day Camp program offered in 32 congregations throughout Nebraska and CrossWalk, a camping program for people with disabilities. CrossWalk is operated in cooperation with Bethphage. Nebraska Lutheran Outdoor Ministries annually serves over 11,000 people of all ages through its camping, conference and retreat programs.

Camp Luther to celebrate

Camp Luther of Nebraska has announced its 35th anniversary celebration, including a concert, hot-air balloon, meals and activities. The celebration will take place Saturday, July 6.

Free events include a concert by the Wissman Family Singers and various activities including swim, ming, boating and hiking. Paid events offered are tethered hot air balloon rides, horse rides and lunch and supper meals.

"We are thrilled about the many events we are offering at our Anniversary celebration and hope that the public will come and see Camp Luther for themselves. This is an opportunity for everyone to come experience Camp Luther first hand," said Camp Director. Kevin Bueltmann "Many folks have seen our signs on Highway. 30, but have never stopped in. We welcome everyone to come and be a part of our celebration.

The day begins with balloon des at 7 a.m. and horse rides and stagecoach tours following at 9. Lunch will be served at 11 a.m. (Camp Luther's famous Sloppy Joe sandwiches), with a reunion of past camp staff.

Oaks Mission trip is rewarding

Our Savior Lutheran Church's Mission group spent July 9-14 working at the Oaks Indian Center in Oaks, Okla. This was the fifthsummer mission trip for members of Our Savior Lutheran Church, Some of the members making this trip were with the group that made the trip two years ago to do repair work at the Oaks Indian Center.

The 16 people who made the trip spent the week completing a variety of projects. Some of the projects accomplished included: building fence, painting of dorm rooms and offices, exterior painting of buildings, painting propane tanks with aluminum paint, painting the Church cross, repairing tables, putting locks on kitchen doors to satisfy state inspection, cleaning and electrical repair.

MERGER AND RELOCATION

Effective at the beginning of the year the Northeast Cooperative and the Farmers Co-op of South Sioux City completed a merger. With the joint venture also came the relocation of the company's offices which are now in Wakefield.

The Community Club recently welcomed the merger and relocation with a ribbon cutting ceremony. Present were Wakefield location manager, Bob Puls, the co-op's general manager, Harold Johnson, Amy Nelson from the office, Mel Koppane, the petroleum manager, and Community Club vice president, Larry Clay.

The cooperative, known as Northeast, serves customers in Allen, Emerson, Pender, Ponca, South Sioux City, Thurston, West Point. Wisner and Wakefield. Offices for the two groups were located at West Point and South Sioux City.

BRAN SCHOLARSHIP

Persons who are a college student or plan to attend college (including those who will graduate in 2003) are encouraged to apply for the $500 scholarship which will be awarded by BRAN for being a host community.

Deadline to apply is July 1. Applications for the scholarship are available at the Wakefield City Office along with the complete outline of qualifications.

Qualifications include being a Wakefield High School graduate and a volunteer worker during the BRAN visit.

JULY 4TH CELEBRATION

Wakefield is planning to celebrate July 4 with two American favorites: baseball and a fireworks display, plus some other added activities.

The Wakefield American Legion Teams will host Laurel for a pair of games. The Juniors will play at 5 p.m. and the Seniors will play at 7: 30 p.m. at Eaton Field.

It will be parent's night for the the ball teams. The baseball committee is planning a Diamond Dig.

The Wakefield Community Club has purchased fireworks to be displayed following the ball games. Volunteer firefighters will be responsible for discharging the

The journey down the creek will begin at 11 a.m. and will take three to four hours to navigate.

Rafters will start at the same location as in past years, from Highway 35 junction north of Wakefield, continue north two miles, two miles west and one quarter mile back north. The trek will end at the bridge just east of the Logan Valley Golf Course.

Any human powered craft is eligible. Organizers will be accepting a suggested donation of $5 per craft. The donations will be split with half going to the fastest craft and half to the most original Winners are encouraged to donate their prize to their favorite local charity or organization.

Judges are needed to decide the winner of the most original craft. For more information or if interested in being a judge, please contact Ed Haglund at 287-9085.

Absolutely no fireworks will be allowed to be discharged by participants or spectators. Water or water balloons should be the only things thrown from bridges or between rafts. Organizers of the raft regatta are not responsible for any accidents.
PESTICIDE CONTAINERS any accidents.

Pesticide applicators may recycle their empty plastic containers at area sites.

The Dixon County Northeast Co-op at Allen and Ponca will accept the containers between the hours of 8-10 a.m. on June 25, July 9 and 23. Precision Agronomy at Newcastle will also accept the containers during these same hours Precision Agronomy at Wayne will be from 8 a.m. to noon on June 24 and Aug. 6.

The Northeast Co-op at Emerson will take the containers every Wednesday during June and July between 9:30-10:30 a.m.

The sites, excluding Wayne, will also accept pesticide drums.

Nebraska's plastic pesticide container and crop protection druin recycling program is entering its 11th year and has collected nearly 400 tons of containers, according to Extension coordinator for the project.

The program accepts pressurerinsed, or triple-rinsed one and two and a half gallon containers. They must be dry and clean, inside and out. Caps, labels and slip-cover plastic labels must be removed. Some sites will also take 15 and 30 gallon drums. These drums must also be thoroughly rinsed before delivery to a collection site and should not be cut or opened in any way.

Proud to be from Nebraska

There is one flower bed at the Farm House that is doing well and that's the wild flowers. We got the seed at Stock Seed Farm, which provides the seed for the roadside flowers we all see.

The Big Farmer prepared the ground, raked it, and watered it. This year, there are 12" plants with blue, lavender, yellow and orange blooms. In fact, we're going to use more in the back yard. But this area is in dire need of rain.

The other thriving business in the Murdock area is Oxbow Hay Company. A local hay farmer has specialized in Timothy hay and other types that are especially good for small animals. Twenty years ago; be bagged pellets by hand and his parents glued on labels. He now has 35 employees, three international distributors, and UPS picks up three or four shipments a day. I had known about the canteen, but had never realized what an amazing feat it was until I heard Mr. Greene interviewed on a local Troop trains came through North Platte, night and day, for four years. Sometimes, as many as six or seven thousand young men s day, and they usually stopped in North Platte for about 10 minutes. The people of the town, and over 100 of the surrounding communities, met every train; and dispensed candy, gum, cake, cookies, and good will.

I was in tears as I listened to the interview, and I am again now, as I write about it. It made me so proud of Nebraska. It truly was a miracle. I don't know how they did it; and this was in the days of rationing. The veterans he interviewed all spoke of how much it meant to them, symbolically, if nothing else, Apparently, all of our soldiers

Scrap tire grant received

Sandy Patton, AmeriCorps member with the Northeast Nebraska RC&D office in Plainview, received word from the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality that the Scrap Tire Cleanup Grant she had applied for in January, has been partially funded in the amount of $6,282.50.

"We were told in early May that we would probably not receive the grant monies because of the large number of applicants this year," Patton said. Although the initial scarp tire grant awards were made in April, due to additional funds became available, NDEQ was able to partially fund a limited number of scrap tire cleanup events. Patton, along with the RC&D feels, very fortunate in being one of those funded.

The collection will be from within the RC&D's six county area, which includes Wayne, Cedar, Dixon, Antelope, Knox and Pierce counties.

The collection will be for one day only and at one site. Location, date and time of the scrap tire collection placed third in the adult division, will be released as soon as everyone involved is contacted. Tire retailers are not eligible to bring scrap tires for disposal at the grant-funded scrap tire cleanup.
