Floral shop owner goes on trial

By Mike Groz
Of the Herald

The trial involving a former Wayne floral shop owner began this week in Wayne County District Court. Fifty-five year-old Roger Van is accused of torturing 37-year-old Jonathan Cooper of Houston, Texas in the basement of his flower shop, Nebraska Floral and Gift, last Dec. 8-17.

Cooper was allegedly held against his will for nine days. Van is charged with first-degree sexual assault, first-degree assault, second-degree assault, false imprisonment and terroristic threats.

Another man charged in the case, 36-year-old Jerry Marshall, reached a plea agreement with prosecutors before the trial. Marshall pleaded guilty to one charge of third-degree assault, receiving a sentence of no more than six months in jail and no fine. Third-degree assault is a Class I Misdemeanor that has a charge of up to one year in jail and up to a $1,000 fine.

Marshall was originally charged with first-degree assault, second-degree assault, false imprisonment and terroristic threats.

Jury selection began Monday morning with over 60 potential jurors to chose from. A jury of seven females, five males and one alternate, a female, was picked by Monday afternoon.

Opening arguments Monday afternoon saw prosecuting attorney Chris Connolly of the Wayne County Attorney's Office tell the jury this will be a difficult case to work and not a pleasant story to talk about, involving sex and violence.

Defense attorney Jim McGough of Norfolk told the jury that the Texas man came to Wayne voluntarily and staged his own abduction to participate in a "master-slave relationship" known as BDSM (Bondage-Discipline-Sado-Masochism).

The first witness testifying in the case was 41-year-old Frank Bonner of Houston, Texas. Bonner and Cooper have been involved in a BDSM relationship for the past three years. Bonner says the two were involved in a "vanilla relationship with nothing bizarre." Bonner described himself as the master in the relationship, saying

No fowling, Chicken Show is this weekend

Although several new attractions have been added to the list of activities, attendees of the 22nd annual Wayne Chicken Show and Henoween will still enjoy a number of old favorites.

"Twenty-two Hen Salute," is the theme of this year's Show and promotes patriotism.

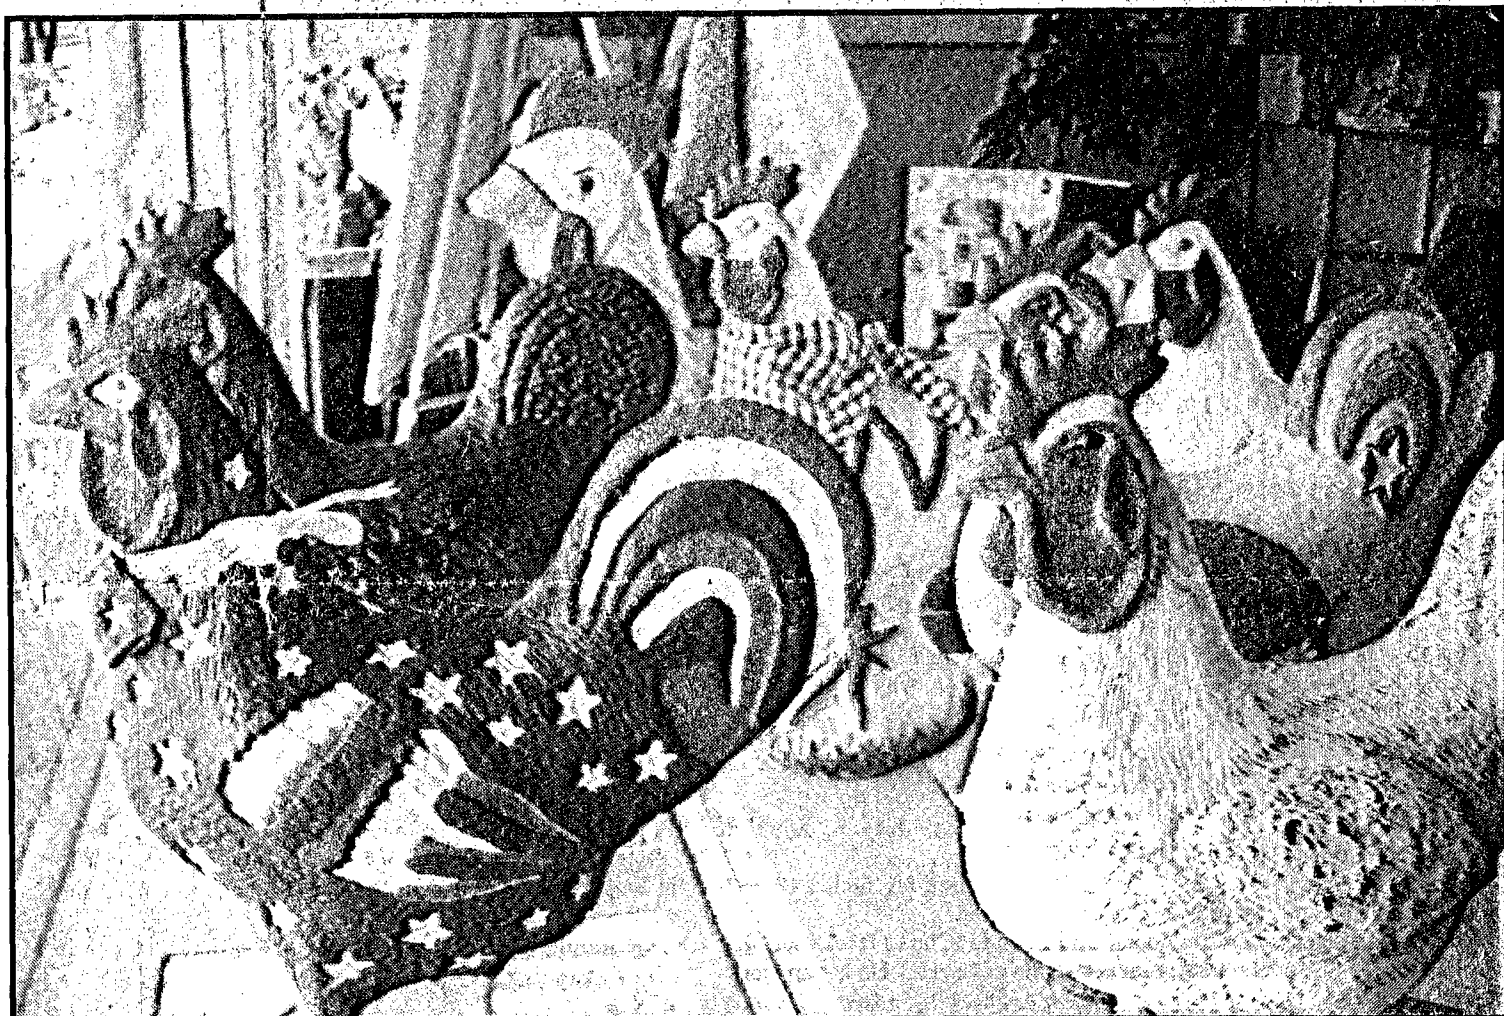

Henoween activities will take place in downtown Wayne, beginning at 6 p.m. on Friday and include the world's largest Chicken Dance, crafts, vendors, inflatable games and a teen dance from 10 p.m. to midnight in the Magic Wok parking lot. The dance is being sponsored by KTCH and the Northeast Nebraska Humane Society.

Among the traditional activities is that of the Omelet Feed, starting bright and early at 8 a.m. on Saturday, July 13. The event has been co-sponsored annually by TWJ Feeds and the Wayne Kiwanis Club. The omelets will be served just east of the Willow Bowl, near Berry Hall.

Another favorite Chicken Show event is the parade which begins at 10 a.m. at the corner of First and Main Streets. In past years, estimates of 10-15,000 persons have been on hand for the event.

Following the parade, activities will

Chickens on parade

These chickens are all dressed and ready for this weekend's Henoween and Chicken Show activities. The cement chickens were a Main Street Wayne project. They were originally a grey color and a number of area residents then decorated them in a variety of ways. They will be auctioned off by Randy Bargholz on Friday evening at 8 p.m. The 22nd annual Chicken Show will include a number of egg-citing events and thousands are expected to flock to Wayne this weekend.

Group from India enjoys stay in Wayne

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Eager to share their thoughts, GSE (Group Study Exchange) members Megha Dhawan, Swati Kulkarni, Sudhir Mangla (team leader), and Dr. Arpan Gandhi spoke of experiences they've had while here from New Dehli, India.

Staying with Rotary District #5650 host families, Dan and Kyle Rose; and Wilma Moore, the group said how impressed they were with Nebraska and the United States.

Group Study Exchange is an international program of the Rotary Foundation that was started 37 years ago. It gives a Rotary team member and non-Rotarian businessmen and women a chance to share thoughts, talk about their country and their jobs, and experience the lives and professions of people in the host's country.

This December, a team member of Rotary #5650 and businessmen and women from the Lincoln area will go to India. December is a good time to go as it's not so hot then. At this time of the year, average temperatures are around 20 degrees warmer than the highest temperatures here.

An exchange is done annually but because of 9/11,

Stearnses attend White House ceremony

As guests at a July 3 White House ceremony commemorating the upcoming bicentennial of the Lewis and Clark expedition, Hal and Sheila Stearns were seated three rows from President George W. Bush and First Lady Laura Bush.

And, although they didn't get to meet the president, the White House trip was "a wonderful experience," said Sheila Stearns, president of Wayne State College. Following the hour-long ceremony and reception, the 100-plus guests were able to stroll leisurely through some of the White House's most historic rooms.

Hal Stearns, a nationally-known Lewis and Clark scholar and lecturer, told the Missoulian (Montana) newspaper that he recognized his contributions to the president's speech and to the official bicentennial proclamation.

A member of both the Nebraska and Montana Lewis and Clark bicentennial commissions as well as a member of the governing board of the national Lewis and Clark Trail Heritage Foundation, Stearns was interviewed by Bush's speech writers a week before the ceremony. They wanted to know anecdotes from the expedition. Stearns was pleased to accommodate.

"No problem," he told them. "Just stop me when you've heard enough."

He described Lewis and Clark's trip across America as most of all, "an expedition of curiosity." President Thomas Jefferson sent the expedition westward to find and map a transcontinental water route to the Pacific Ocean. The expedition, which started out in January 1803 and returned in 1806, accomplished a variety of things. Some of those accomplishments, Stearns told the speech writers, included the relationships that Lewis and Clark developed with the Native American tribes they encountered between St. Louis and the Pacific Ocean. Many taught them about the landscape and the plants and animals of the West.

They also depended on the young Indian woman, Sacagawea, who guided them at times and made the trip from Fort Mandan to the Pacific with her baby boy.

President Bush's proclamation emphasized the resourcefulness, determination and bravery of the 33 members of the Corps of Discovery. The bicentennial will be an opportunity for all Americans "to learn more about the natural, historical and cultural resources that are significant components of the Lewis and Clark story," said Bush.

A rare portrait of Meriwether Lewis, part of a Western showcase created by first lady Laura Bush in the White House library, was unveiled at the July 3 event. Other archival documents were on display in the entrance hall, including the Louisiana Purchase Treaty of 1803, Jefferson's written instructions to Lewis, Lewis' letter to Jefferson from Fort Mandan in April 1805, a journal kept by expedition member Patrick Gass and the map published with the expedition's final report.

"Wow, just to see those documents," Hal Stearns told the Missoulian. "And the president and first lady. And the White House. It was an amazing experience. It was a very special moment."

Budget problems ongoing

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

It's a sad fact. Drought in one part of the country is one of the few things that usually guarantees good commodity prices for other parts of the country.

Of course it makes perfect sense. Supply and demand and all that.

It appears that it's Nebraska's turn to bolster the fortunes of farmers elsewhere, via the misfortunes of Cornhusker agricultural producers.

The whammy Nebraska has taken this summer, however, goes beyond the problems that accompany cyclical drought.

The economic effects of the drought have to be figured in with Nebraska's share of the troubles stemming from a discombobulated economy that has been slapped with everything from 9/11 to Enron to WorldCom.

Nebraska is pretty much at the edge of the nation's economic pond, but the ripples still get here. And in an economy no bigger than Nebraska's, a ripple is pretty much the same as a wave.

Give University of Nebraska President L. Dennis Smith credit for recognizing the current reality, and for saying so aloud.

In a recent memo to faculty and staff, Smith said NU's budget difficulties aren't going to go away in a year or so. He looked ahead to the need for some "restructuring" of NU. "Restructuring" means budgetary triage - some things will wait, some will suffer, some will die. The idea is to husband resources to save that which can be saved.

Smith's memo also provided a succinct, altogether accurate recitation of some of the things that contributed to the state's current situation. He didn't comment upon or characterize those things, a decision that let him avoid saying stuff that would likely annoy a lot of lawmakers.

But what he said was right on the mark. To wit:

"During the strong economic times of the late 1990s state revenues grew at an unprecedented rate. In 1997, much-desired property tax relief was provided without raising additional taxes to pay for it. Then in 1998, state income taxes were reduced. These two actions created a $200 million, ongoing reduction in revenue available to operate state government."

As Bertie Wooster would say to Jeeves: "Well, there you have it!"

Smith was right. The effort toward property tax relief was "much desired" by a statewide constituency.

A nasty political reality facing the governor and Legislature: The fact that something was much desired doesn't necessarily mean it was much understood or appreciated.

When the state's in a budgetary jam, the public's message to the Legislature is: "You spent too much!"

The Legislature has never found a politically acceptable way to shout back: "Well, we spent it on you, sweetheart!"

Colin Engebretsen of Laurel kneels in front of the Air Force Academy in Colorado where he attended a seminar.

Attends Air Force Academy seminar

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Colin Engebretsen, who will be a senior at Laurel-Concord School, recently returned from a 7-day Air Force Academy Seminar held in Colorado Springs, Colo.

While there, he attended workshops where he made a rocket, wrote a program for a robot, made a catapult model that shoots as far as he programmed it to, made a small car in engineering, along with other science-related workshops.

Interested in aviation, Colin found out about the seminar through the Air Force liaison officer in Laurel. Last year, Colin sent in an application for the hands-on science and engineering seminar. This May he found out he had been chosen to attend.

"There were 1,200 applications for attendance and half of them were turned down," Colin said. "There were two sessions with 300 students in each session. We stayed in dorms where around 4,000 cadets stay. The seminar gives you a feel for the Academy and it was fun."

Some of the workshops were: Lasers & Optics, Military training session, Black & White photography, Glider design, Small scale rocketry, Field biology, and World Wide Web program.

In order to apply for the seminar and to the Academy, students must be in the top percentage of their class, be active in sports, their community, school and church.

Colin hopes to become a cadet but will not know until January, 2003 if he has been accepted.

"You have to get a recommendation from a senator and then go through a rigid physical exam process," Colin said.

If chosen to attend the Academy, Colin is looking at 9 years of school and service.

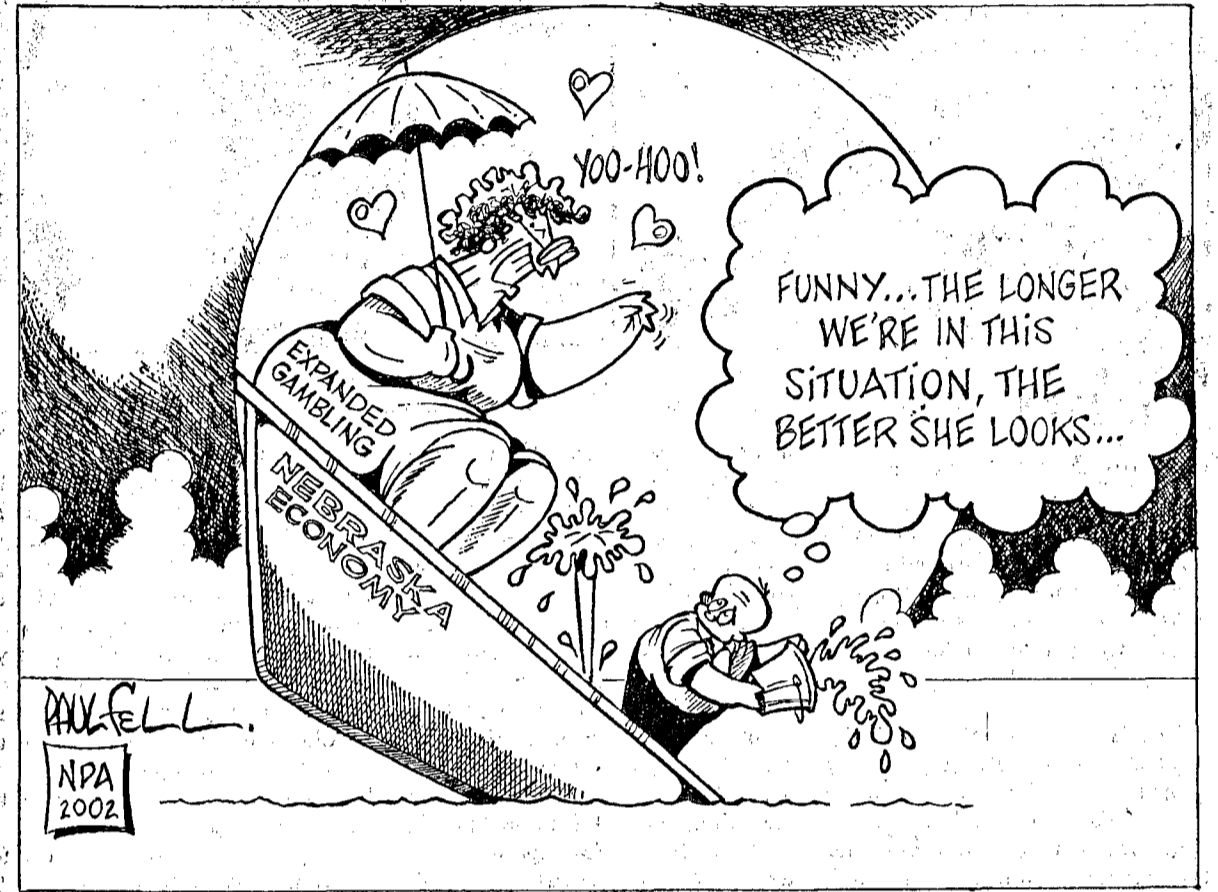

"The education is free," Colin said. "There's 4 years in the Academy and then 5 years of service in the Air Force. After that you can stay or go."

Colin has been interested in science for a long time. He will be in his third year of Independent Science Research at school. Ed Brogie is his teacher.

As for becoming a pilot, Colin has been working on that for awhile too.

Last year he started flying lessons at the airport in Wayne. He is half done in getting his 40 hours of flying to get his pilot license. He is going to Vermillion, S.D. to finish. When finished, he will take a test in Sioux City, Iowa and fly with a pilot there before receiving his license.

Many high school seniors are not sure of what they want to do in life; Colin is not one of them. He has been working towards his goal of being a pilot and attending the academy for some time now.

Prevent your assets from becoming 'unclaimed'

During these dog days of summer my two children and I often look for projects that will keep us inside! You may be looking for just such a project - and I have one for YOU.

I've educated Nebraskans about how to locate Unclaimed Property but now I want you to think about how to prevent your assets from becoming Unclaimed Property!

If you have a little time one of these hot summer evenings you may want to work through the following checklist. I developed the checklist as a means for Nebraskans to keep control of their assets. In these tight economic times you need to be certain that your assets remain under YOUR control.

This checklist is especially important if you care for an elderly sibling, parent or loved one. Please take a few moments and go over the list.

1. Have you moved and failed to provide your address to all financial, credit or investment institutions and your previous landlord? Always notify companies in writing of an address change and utilize the forms available at the U.S.

Post Office. Do not rely on phone calls to a company.

2. Have you ever been hospitalized, in a nursing home or in someone else's home for an extended period of time? If so, contact each financial, credit or investment institution and let them know your whereabouts. Ask for written confirmation of your current address from each company. That way you know that they have your current address on file and will be using it. As your status changes be certain to provide each company your new address.

3. At least ONCE a year make a deposit or withdrawal on each bank account. This prevents a bank, financial institution or investment firm from categorizing your account as "inactive" and transferring the funds to my office.

4. Cash all dividend checks. Often dividend checks for under $1.00 are not cashed. These uncashed checks can trigger your investment to be considered "abandoned" and transferred to my office. By cashing ALL dividend checks you are maintaining activity in your investment accounts.

5. Visit your safe deposit box annually. This prevents the bank from considering it "inactive" and sending the contents to my office. When you visit make certain the bank has your correct address associated with your safe deposit box.

6. Don't throw away mail without reading it. If you receive mail from your financial, banking or investment companies read it. They may be asking you to verify your address. This prevents them from classifying your assets as "unclaimed".

7. Keep an accurate and up to date listing of all assets and deposits. Deposits include such things as utility, rent and lease deposits. Look over the list every six months and verify it. Consider sharing this information with a trusted loved one.

Maintaining and updating this checklist may be just the thing to keep you inside during these long hot days of summer. It may also prevent you from losing control of your assets. If you have any questions about Unclaimed Property or how to prevent your assets from becoming Unclaimed Property please contact me at 402-471-2455 OR email me at lbyrd@treasurer.org

Thanks for reading and KEEP COOL.

Commenting on upcoming mill levy voting for Laurel school

Dear Editor,
I read with a great deal of interest in the June 27 Laurel Advocate that it was possible to send for an absentee ballot for a vote to increase the school district mill levy. According to the form you would fill out to receive that ballot, the vote will be taken on July 16.

I was not at all surprised that the mill levy increase is being asked for. What did alarm me is that I did not know how much or why. I did not remember seeing any published notices and I believe that law requires that be done 20 days prior to a vote of this type.

I set about researching the matter and found the following information:

1. A small group of would-be supporters were invited to attend a meeting with the board of education/finance committee to learn about this mill levy. This happened some weeks ago.

2. The proposed increase is $20 per $100 of valuation.

3. According to the Cedar

County Assessor, the current valuation of this district is $147,449,224.00. There is a valuation increase for 2002 that will increase that by approximately 2.5 percent, making the valuation for 2002 approximately $150,449,224.

4. The proposed $20 mill levy could mean an increase of $300,898.45 for the district, yet I see that the cut in state aide is $70,000.00. (Are they asking for 75 percent more than they need).

5. What does this mean to you, the taxpayer? If you have a piece of property valued at $100,000, your property taxes go up $200 a year. If you have a quarter section of land with improvements valued at $200,000, your taxes will increase $400 per year. Here's a math problem for you - it costs approximately $2 to raise a bushel of corn. The last few months, corn has been selling locally for approximately $1.85 a bushel. How many bushel of corn will it take to pay for this increase?

I realize that state aide has been cut by $70,000. I also realize that part of that cut comes because of a decline in enrollment in this district. I know that it takes a certain amount of money to provide for education and I do not believe that good teachers are over-paid.

However, there are other matters to be considered:

1. The heaviest burden for this increased tax levy will fall on agriculture. With very low commodity prices, high input costs and unusually dry weather coupled with increased valuations - how can we expect this part of our rural economy to dig even deeper in their pockets?

2. On the farm and in business when finances are tight, we try to find ways to cut costs and sometimes we have to live a little differently - plan a little differently and make some sacrifices. Could the school be any different?

In the past, when there were lulls and finances were tight, those in charge made difficult decisions that did not destroy the quality of education in this district.

I have been told that there have been some cuts made and then I watched as underground sprinklers were put in the old football field. That, to me, is a luxury - has nothing to do with a quality education and is just plain extravagant.

These are some things you may want to think about before you cast your vote. Incidentally, all voters will be required to vote at the Laurel City Auditorium, including those who reside in Dixon and Wayne Counties.

Respectfully,
Mary Ann Christensen,
Laurel

he could control the type of clothing that Cooper wore while at home. The two used such things as leather vests and restraints and gags, just to name a few things, during their sexual encounters.

Tuesday afternoon's testimony focused on Jonathan Gregory Cooper. The 37-year-old says he became dissatisfied in his relationship with Bonner, calling him "not the partner I wanted." He then began searching the Internet and made contact with Roger Van last September. The two exchanged nearly 300 e-mails and a couple of phone calls to work out details of Cooper coming to Wayne.

The two agreed to have a "no limit, no-safeword" relationship. The safeword meant that when the slave could not tolerate pain from the master any longer, the torture session would end. Cooper testified he was depressed with his job and needed to seek pain and punishment he felt he deserved.

That's when Cooper staged his own abduction. On Dec. 5 of last year, he drove from Houston to New Orleans and left his car in a restaurant parking lot near the airport, then hitched a taxi cab to the New Orleans bus station. Arrangements were made to have Jerry Marshall pick up Cooper at the bus station in Omaha and bring him to Wayne. Cooper was brought to Wayne and taken to the back of the Nebraska Floral and Gift Shop where he taken to the basement and put in a "dungeon room."

While being held in the room, Cooper was naked, kept in restraints and some times blindfolded for his "punishment", which involved whippings and other torture. During the second day, Van asked Cooper to make out a list of bad things he has done in his life, part of the BDSM experience. It was at that time that Cooper realized "maybe I don't have it so bad and need to get my life back together" after writing a list of eight to nine pages of bad things.

Cooper then asked Van to get out of the relationship and that's when Van and Marshall became upset and delivered heavy beatings on Cooper.

During Tuesday's testimony, a 10-foot long table was brought in as evidence. Cooper was chained to that table during much of his ordeal and become emotional when asked to identify it.

Cooper also testified Tuesday that he had to eat cat food for supper each evening. He said he ate the cat food in fear that if he did not, he would receive more punishment. His other meals were a small box of cereal and sometimes a cookie for breakfast and either a Happy Meal or a mini-pizza for lunch.

On Wednesday Dec. 12, Cooper was asked by Jerry Marshall to enter some accounting information into a computer harddrive program. At the same time, Cooper was typing a "help" message and trying to e-mail a friend in Houston. Marshall caught Cooper typing the message and gathered Van for another beating session on Cooper. This time, clothes pins, needles and hot wax were used as some of the punishment on Cooper. Several death threats were also placed on Cooper.

Cooper testified Wednesday morning that there were two anal sex acts performed while he was held in the basement of the flower shop without his consent. Cooper added that he had to massage Van and Marshall to rebuild trust with the two before and after the sex acts.

Cooper also testified about a branding on his right buttocks. He was told the branding of the letter "W" declared him as property of Van.

Several days later, on Sunday Dec. 17, Marshall chose to help Cooper escape and drove him to the bus station in Omaha, where Cooper boarded a bus back to Texas and alerted Houston police, who were involved in a manhunt for Cooper at the time.

The trial is expected to last into next week and is being presided over by Wayne County District Court Judge Robert Ensz.

there has been trouble in securing passports. The group from India should have been here in April; instead they arrived June 6 in Omaha. They have been visiting Rotary clubs in this district which extends west to Aurora, east about 50 miles into Iowa, south to Falls City and to Wayne which is the northern boundary.

The group gave a presentation at the local Rotary club meeting recently with each talking about their own vocation and the team leader speaking on his Rotary club #3010. Kulkami is a teacher; Dhawan is a fashion coordinator; Dr. Gandhi is an oncologist; and Mangla owns three companies which specializes in hydraulics and cranes.

As a teacher, Kulkami felt her visit was very beneficial as now she's more comfortable in talking to her students about the United States and in showing them photographs she has taken while here. What she's noticed about Nebraskans, "People are very punctual which is a good thing," Kulkami said. "They respect the rights of others, try to fulfill what they tell you at any cost, and there's a dignity of labor." (An example- children are exposed to jobs of all kinds at an early age and they learn how to work and be responsible).

Dhawan noted how hospitable people are around here and that she really liked how patriotic Nebraskans are. "Many activities begin with the national anthem and U.S. flags are displayed inside and outside of homes. Especially with 9/11, unity is good and it was an amazing experience to see this."

Dr. Gandhi said he's been very interested in geriatrics here and the will of people to live, work and have longer lives. He noted doctors take on even complicated cases and they share in the desire for their patients longevity of life. (An estimated average age for men in India is 62.22 years and for women it's 63.53 years). "Also, people here want to learn about our culture," Gandhi said. "They are open to ideas. They are willing to change things for us."

Mangla feels people here are honest, affectionate, straightforward, hard working, on time, mean business, and don't waste away the hours which is probably why many are successful.

He spoke on Rotary clubs in India. In the Dehli area, there are 88 clubs with around 4,200 members. The motto of all Rotarians is "Service above Self" and they try to attain this through humanitarian acts and fellowship.

He noted their club focuses on health care and a project they've taken on is starting a "Rotary Blood Bank." Rotarians there give blood regularly and others have followed the example. The Rotarians own vans and buses so are able to provide good, safe blood throughout the area.

Rotary members there also run a cancer hospital.

Other projects their Rotary is involved in: helping the handicapped, orphans, and poor people (especially children); and running vocational centers, public schools, and economic foundation and pollution control centers.

"Illiteracy is a problem," Mangla said. "An example, we believe that if you educate little girls they will educate their children and it will carry on down the road. We want women to stand on their own." Also, in the education process they want to teach people about the need and ways to control population as the population number is getting so high. (There's 1.02 billion people in India).

Wrapping up their experiences while in this area, the excited group tells of begin caught in a storm where there was a tornado close by to them. While visiting the farm home of a Rotarian in Shenandoah, Iowa, they were outside taking photos of trees when black clouds in the west came closer and closer.

Suddenly, they had to rush inside as strong winds were bringing a heavy hail storm to them. They went to the basement as the trees they had been taking pictures of were crashing into the air conditioner and chimney.

While in the basement, as Kulkami described it, the house started dripping and their host had to place buckets around to catch the downpour. When the storm was over, the host told them they were special as they don't organize something like that for all their guests.

Claiming there are no tornadoes in India, the group had never seen Mother Nature's fury as many around here have seen before.

Laughing with the group, Rose commented that this was the best GSE team they've had.

Council has light agenda

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

A presentation on the possibility of acquiring a different shuttle bus than the one originally considered highlighted a rather light agenda at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Gary Van Meter with Main Street Wayne, Dr. Sheila Stearns, President of Wayne State College and Vern Schulz, Superintendent of the Public Works Department with the City of Wayne, all spoke in regard to obtaining a shuttle bus to begin operation yet this fall.

Van Meter said that preliminary ideas have been put down in regard to what is necessary for the shuttle service to be considered a success.

Dr. Stearns said that she felt a management team should be appointed, including Wayne State students, members of the city council and the other organizations with the purchase and operation of the shuttle. She said that she felt students at Wayne State could benefit from developing criteria for determining whether or not the shuttle service was a success. She also indicated that it may take some time before Wayne State students realize the shuttle service is available and take advantage of it.

Schulz said that after inspecting the shuttle that has been considered for purchase and determining that a number of repairs would be necessary on it, he has spent a considerable amount of time on the internet and in telephone conversations in an attempt to find another vehicle that would serve as a shuttle. He said he has located a 21-passenger shuttle in Missouri and has seen pictures of it. The price is somewhat higher ($11,900) than that of the first shuttle, but it is larger and appears to be in better mechanical condition.

Follow-up will be done on the possibility of purchasing the second shuttle, which is located in Missouri.

Following discussion, the council voted 5-1 to take ownership of the bus, should one be purchased.

Steve Granger with JEO, the architectural firm for the new fire hall, gave the council an update on the status of the fire hall.

He indicated that following the council's last meeting, the bonding company for the contractor had been contacted and many of the items on the punch list had been corrected. It is estimated that 90 percent of the work will be completed yet this week, but that all the necessary work to be re-done may take up to three weeks due to the need to order supplies.

Councilman Dennis Linster asked about the roof situation. Portions of the roof have been patched and Linster said he wanted a written guarantee that the roof would last at least as long as the warranty indicated it would.

The architectural firm has been in contact with the manufacturer of the roof and is awaiting an answer to that question.

Resolution 2002-45 was approved, allowing for the sharing of facilities and equipment between the City of Wayne and Wayne Community Schools.

The council's next meeting will be Tuesday, July 30 at 7:30 p.m.

Hochstein is recognized

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

The Wayne Community Schools Board of Education held an honor coffee prior to their meeting Monday night. Brad Hochstein was recognized for receiving the Channel 4 Sports Force Award recently.

To qualify, Hochstein had to be in two sports for three consecutive years. Three $1,000 scholarships were given; he was chosen as the representative in Nebraska and received one of the scholarships. Hochstein graduated from Wayne High School this spring and will be attending Doane College this fall. He will be playing basketball and baseball at Doane. At this time, he plans to major in biology and become a chiropractor later.

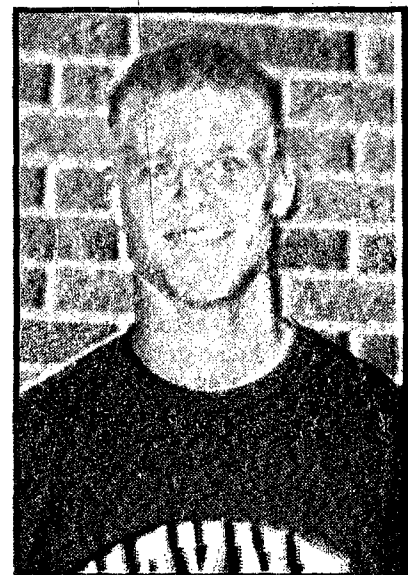

After the coffee, a public hearing on the proposed student fee policy was held. The new student fee policy will change what the school pays for and will allow policy to change if needed. The policy was approved during the regular meeting which followed.

During the regular meeting, Colleen Janke was approved for a full time teaching position for the 2002-03 school year. Janke will fill the position of first grade teacher vacated by James Gagner.

Also approved with regret were the resignations of Melanie Gagner, SPED paraprofessional, and Duane Blomenkamp, math and science teacher at Wayne High School.

Approved was the hiring of Jessica Essman as a SPED paraprofessional.

On bids and contracts, Dr. Joe Reinert, superintendent, noted Dennis Otte withdrew his bid to purchase the Carroll Elementary building as he had found removal of the building was going to be too expensive. The board is considering a previous bid but nothing has been decided at this time.

Discussion was held on bond reissuement. Plans are to hold a special meeting on this as well as a budget workshop.

Sandy Atkins, EMT-P and EMS instructor, was present and discussed the importance of CPR and the use of Automated External Defibrillators (AED). She urged the board to consider getting one for the school and noted the cost is around $2,000 which could be attained through a grant. More discussion will be held on this at the next meeting.

The board received a verbal compliment on Wayne Community School's Special Education department. Rodney Garwood of Wayne praised staff for the outstanding service his son receives.

John McClarnen, Middle School principal, talked about tours being given at the Middle School. He noted members of the Wayne High School class of 1967 recently toured the building and were impressed with the progress and change. More class reunions and other tours are scheduled in the near future.

Rocky Ruhl, athletic director, gave an update on the track. Some preliminary work has started such as cutting sod at the sides of the track for use in the middle of the football field. He noted they're looking at closing the track down Monday, July 15, so work can begin and he's hoping the work will be done by September. He said money is still coming in but they're not to the $200,000 goal yet. Asphalt will cost $100,000-$110,000 and latex sprays, etc. will cost around $72,000. The rest is needed for finishing work.

No executive session was held.

Agenda items for the next meeting on Monday, Aug. 12 at 7 p.m. at the high school includes: discussion on purchase agreement for sale of Carroll Elementary building, discussion on defibrillators, looking at policies, discussion on city/ school agreement-Community Activity Center, and fourth grade teachers report.

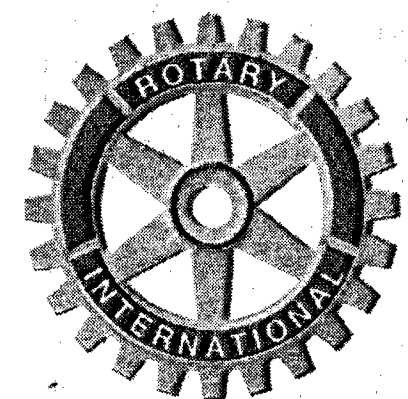

Wayne Rotary Club celebrates 15 years

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Wayne Rotary is celebrating 15 years of being a club. Wayne Rotary Club, in District #5650, has been involved with many projects through the years; especially youth related ones.

"In Wayne, we've tried to enrich programs that have already been here," Dan Rose said. "We try to enhance the quality of life."

A big project they've been involved in is bringing Teammates to Wayne three years ago. Teammates is a mentoring program started by Tom Osborne. For many years, the club has been interested in mentoring children. Back in the early 90s they started their own mentoring program, "RITIC" (Rotarians Investing Time In Kids).

According to the Rotary website, Rotary is an organization of business and professional leaders united worldwide who provide humanitarian service, encourage high ethical standards in all vocations, and help build goodwill and peace in the world. In more than 160 countries worldwide, approximately 1.2 million Rotarians belong to more than 30,000 Rotary clubs.

-profit corporation was called the Rotary Foundation. With the money, the Foundation has launched many programs.

By 1921, there were Rotary clubs

A number of awards were given out at the recent Rotary banquet. These Rotary members received perfect attendance. Left to right, Wilma Moore, Dan Rose, Deb Jensen, and Gil Haase (who's a charter member of the local club and was instrumental in starting the Wayne Rotary. He's had perfect attendance for the past 35 years). Others also received perfect attendance but were not present.

The Rotary motto is "Service Above Self." Rotary clubs meet weekly and are non-political, non-religious, and open to all cultures, races, and creeds. Even though Rotary clubs take on their own projects, Rotarians worldwide are devoted to the eradication of Polio.

The first Rotary club was formed in 1905 by Paul P. Harris in Chicago, Ill. In 1917, an endowment fund was set up by Rotarians to do good in the world; the not-for on six continents and the name "Rotary International" was adopted a year later.

Keeping up with the times, women were admitted into the organization for the first time in 1989; there are now more than 90,000 women members.

Anyone with questions about Rotary clubs or is interested in becoming a Rotary member can call Wayne Rotarian Dan Rose at 375-2340 (evenings).

Slow down, ducks are crossing!

This baby wood duck, along with its siblings, were seen crossing the street at the corner of 7th and Pearl in Wayne recently. Wood duck raise their young in hollow trees and similar spots in town as well as in the country. When the babies are a certain age, their mother calls them out of their nest and walks them to water. Three of this little duck's siblings were killed while trying to cross the street. So, when you're driving through town, slow down and watch for wildlife as they may be moving from one place to another.

Brufat in advanced placement

Dr. Alan Brufat was selected to participate this June in the annual reading and scoring of the College Board's Advanced Placement Examinations in Spanish.

Each year the Advanced Placement Program, sponsored by the College Board, gives hundreds of thousands of high school students an opportunity to take rigorous college-level courses and examinations and based on their exam performance, to receive credit and/or advanced placement when they enter college.

"The Advanced Placement reading draws upon the talents of some of the finest teachers and professors that America has to offer," said Dr. Lee Jones, vice-president, K-12 at the College Board. "It fosters professionalism, allows for the exchange of idea, and strengthens the commitment to students and to teaching. We are very grateful for the contributions of talented educators like Dr. Brufat."

Evaluated by more than 6,000 select faculty consultants from North American schools, almost 1.6 million examinations in 18 disciplines were taken by students.

Duck bag limit reduction likely

The US Fish and Wildlife Service's released its annual fall survey and indications are that hunters will have nothing to cheer at when it comes to the fall waterfowl flights.

The mallard breeding population dropped another 5 percent marking the third straight year that this key indicator has fallen.

After hitting a 41-year high of 10.8 million birds in 1999, the spring mallard population has now slid 31 percent to 7.5 million.

The other closely watched survey number — May ponds — revealed a significant 41 percent drop in wetlands across the drought-stricken prairie pothole region. The number of May ponds in Prairie Canada is the lowest since surveys were initiated in 1955.

"That's a double-whammy for ducks and duck hunters," says Rob Olson, Delta Waterfowl's Director Ron the United States office in Bismarck. "The mallard population has seen significant declines over the past three years and our other duck populations are falling as well. And now much of the prairie pothole region — the continent's duck factory — is as dry as it was at the peak of the last drought, which means production likely will continue to be low."

About the only good news from the breeding grounds is that some portions of Canada and the northern US received rain in mid-June after the survey was completed. While the rain may boost re-nesting efforts in some areas, Olson says that overall he expects another poor year of production.

Mallards weren't the only species that declined in the 2002 spring survey. Pintails saw a huge drop of 46 percent and is the lowest number of breeding Pintails since 1955. Gadwall dropped 17%, Wigeon -6%, Green wing teal -7%, Blue-wing teal -27%, Shoveler -30%, Redhead -21%, Canvasback -16% and Scaup declined 5%. In all the total breeding population dropped 14% to 31,181,000, 6% below the long-term average.

"After looking at the breeding population figures and viewing the pothole region first-hand, Delta is urging the Fish and Wildlife Service to exercise restraint in setting the fall hunting seasons," Olson says. "We don't know how long the drought will last, but history tells us that when the prairies go dry and duck populations are dropping, it's time to enact more restrictive season lengths and bag limits.

"Hunters across the country are telling us they're more concerned about doing what's best for ducks than they are about long seasons and liberal bag limits," Olson says. "We hope the Service will do what's best for the future of ducks, and that duck hunters across the country will support more conservative regulations."

A number of factors come into play when the prairies go dry, and most are bad for ducks. "When small wetlands go dry, the carrying capacity of the landscape is reduced," says Delta Scientific Director Serge Lariviere. "Seasonal and temporary wetlands provide nesting hens with the nutrition they need to carry them through the rigors of nesting and incubation. When seasons and temporaries are in short supply, nesting and re-nesting efforts are negatively impacted."

"Research has shown that small wetlands are also critical for brood survival. When you put all these factors together, they add up to a reduced fall flight."

The three-year drop in spring mallard numbers is particularly disturbing to Delta because it started in 2000, a year when water conditions on the prairies were still reasonably good. "We know duck numbers always drop during a drought," Olson says, "but the current downturn actually preceded the drought."

"History has shown that duck production falls dramatically when the prairies go dry. If the mallard breeding population is this low now, where will it be by the time the prairies get wet again?"

Olson concludes, "Hunters should not panic about the drought and its effects, but continue to remain focused on the biggest challenge facing ducks, that of poor production. We believe the time has come to begin delivering new tools to ensure we are seeing strong production from those hens that return to the breeding grounds."

"Olson mentions that Delta's research has identified techniques that can help nesting ducks in tough times. "Our findings on Hen Houses and predator management illustrate that these tools can significantly increase production and ensure nesting success in targeted areas even when habitat conditions are poor. And this recent drought also reaffirms the need for a landscape level habitat program in Prairie Canada similar to CRP. We need to use every arrow in our quiver of duck production tools to help ducks right now."

LB 1172: Student Fees Policy

The Public Elementary and Secondary Student Fee Authorization Act was adopted by Nebraska Legislature on April 11, 2002. It will become effective on July 20, 2002.

The Act details several requirements for collection of student fees for extra-curricular activities, curricular activities and non-school activities.

Fee waivers are allowed for students who qualify for free or reduced school lunch.

Administrative Regulation 5400 — Students Student Fee Waiver

To qualify for Student Fee Waiver the family must meet the federal guidelines to be eligible for the free and reduced lunch. A student does not have to be taking free and reduced lunch, they just have to be eligible to do so.

To receive the Fee Waiver, the following steps must be complete (prior to the fee being charged):

Step One - Complete and File with the school district "Free and Reduced Price School Meals Application" form (this form will be mailed out the beginning of the school year and is also available in the school district offices).

Step Two - Complete and File with the school district a "Sharing Information With Other Programs" form (this form will be mailed out the beginning of the school year and is also available in the school district offices).

For those students that qualify, a Fee Waiver can be used for fees in the following areas:

- Waiving fee or providing a musical instrument.
- Participation in extra-curricular activities.
- Admission fees and transportation charges (if school provided) for spectators attending home extra-curricular activities.
- Student Fees for Curricular Activities

• None.

Student Fees for Extra-Curricular Activities

(Fee Waiver is allowed) in the following areas:

- Extracurricular activities like sports and club fees.
- Admission fees and transportation charges for spectators attending extracurricular events.
- Costs associated with classes taken for college credit.
- Copies of student files.
- Before and after-school or pre-kindergarten services offered.
- Summer school or early morning or night school.

Fees charges for courses or classes students are required to take (Fee Waiver allowed):

- Minor personal or consumable items for specific courses or activities, including, but not limited to pencils or consumable items.
- Furnish and wear non-specialized attire for specified course and activities, like gym shorts and t-shirts.
- Tuition cost for college credit.

• Reimbursement for school property lost or damaged by the student.

• Furnish materials for course projects if, upon completion, the project becomes the property of the student.

• Furnish musical instruments for optional music courses that are not extracurricular activities. For music courses that are extracurricular activities, fees can be charged to students to provide specialized equipment and uniforms.

Water necessary for good health during the summer

As the temperature rises, it's more important than ever to remember to drink water frequently, according to the American Heart Association in Nebraska.

Physical activity increases your need for water. When you are physically active, your body warms and begins to perspire.

Perspiration is the body's internal air-conditioning system. Perspiration causes the body to lose more fluid, so the recommended eight, eight ounce glasses of water daily needs to be increased to replace the lost fluid.

It's important to drink water before, during and after physical activity, according to the American Heart Association. Before and activity, drink as much water as possible, so muscles have enough fluid to start the activity. During the activity, consume 5-12 fluid ounces for every 15-20 minutes of exercise. This ensures that there's enough fluid to carry on the activity efficiently. After exercise, drink more water than you are thirsty for.

There's no benefit to consuming sports drinks instead of water, unless you exercise for over an hour. For activities less than 60 minutes in length, water should be the drink of choice. Sports drinks also have extra calories that water doesn't have.

When packing a workout bag, don't forget the water bottle. Keep it in your car, in your bag, or on your kitchen counter for easy access and as a reminder.

RELATIVES VISIT

John and Cathy Rechtermann or Richmond, Missouri were guests of Julius and Esther Rechtermann. They also were dinner guests of Bill and Hildegard Fenske on July 2. John and Cathy arrived on July 1 and returned home on July 3.

FOURTH OF JULY EVENTS

Deb Krause, Pam Gruenke, and Barb Hawkins were in charge of the 8 a.m. parade on July 4 in Hoskins. Judges were: Bob Fletcher, Marceline Langenberg, and Ramona Puls. Parade winners were: first-Stanton High School; second-Zion Lutheran Church; third-Spring Branch 4-H Club.

A parade was held in Hoskins on July 4. Afterwards, an omelet feed was held at the Community Center with over 450 people attending. There were other activities held throughout the day. The celebration ended with a fireworks display at the ball field.

Following the parade, over 450 people attended the omelet feed at the community center.

Orville Anderson was in charge of the pitch playing tournament. Winners in this competition were: first-Tom Koll and Paul Roberts; second- Herb Jaeger and Norman Anderson; third-Darrin Schellenberg and Bob Hanks; fourth-Bob Schellpeper and Scott Deck; fifth-Julie Schellenberg and Marv Stueckrath.

There was also a tractor pull in the afternoon with many contestants.

The Hoskins firemen put on a barbecue in the late afternoon, with 400 attending. They took $50 in donations for Life Flight Memorial. Winners in the raffle were: James Storovith winning Pampered Chef cookware; Amy Fleer winning $100; Barb Maas winning $50; Dean Wookman winning a Bud Light mirror; and Wally Wendt winning a Miller High Life sign.

The day's activities concluded with a fireworks display at the ball field at 10 p.m. with Larry Bruggeman in charge.

Blood drive helped by radio teams

In preparation for the 4th of July holiday week, the Siouxland Community Blood Bank teamed-up with local radio celebrities to promote blood donations.

The blood bank was concerned about having an adequate supply of blood for emergencies and area medical patients because blood usage usually increases and donations decrease during holiday periods. The promotion asked donors to step forward to ensure that the blood supply was adequate.

On July 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, radio teams broadcasted morning shows from the blood bank to encourage blood donations. Radio participants were Jeff & Heidi from STAR 102.3, Tony & Ginger from KSUX 105.7, and Mark & Rita from KG 95. Because of their efforts 193 people registered to donate, and since each donation can help three people, up to 450 patients will benefit from the special promotion.

"We are grateful that these radio celebrities participated in promoting blood donations. Their encouragement helped donors step forward over the week of July 4th when traditionally donations decrease," said Janette Twait, blood bank executive director.

Herbs for Health

Ginger Can Prevent Motion Sickness

Dimenhydrinate is a popular nonprescription medicine that many individuals take when they want to prevent motion sickness in themselves or their children. Ginger may be an effective alternative - the same ginger root that is used as a spice.

The way in which ginger prevents motion sickness is not clear. The herb seems to work in the gastrointestinal tract rather than the central nervous system. In one study, ginger was found to be more effective than dimenhydrinate. Individuals who were prone to motion sickness were given 940 mg of ginger powder, 100 mg of dimenhydrinate, or a placebo. About one-half hour later, they were blindfolded and placed in a special rotating chair. Half of the participants who took ginger were able to remain in the chair for 6 minutes. None of the other participants were able to do so.

In another study, the herb was found to be more effective than a placebo. Eighty navy cadets who were unaccustomed to sailing were given capsules that contained either one gram of ginger or the placebo (sugar). Cadets who took ginger reported less nausea and cold sweats.

SCHOLARSHIP

Karen Schroeder of Wakefield has received a Heritage Homes of Nebraska Scholarship to continue her studies at Wayne State College.

She is the daughter of Jerel and LeAnn Schroeder. Karen is a junior majoring in criminal justice and sociology.

At Wayne State she is a member of the Criminal Justice Association. She has volunteered at the Wakefield Family Resource Center.

JUNIOR CADET PROGRAM

The 35th annual Junior Law Cadet Program, sponsored by the American Legion, was held at the Nebraska State Patrol Training Academy in Grand Island.

Lt. Col. Michael E. Behm, of the Nebraska State Patrol and a member of the Americanism Committee of the Nebraska American Legion, said that 30 high school juniors were involved in one week of intensive training in law enforcement and traffic safety. The girl's session was held the week of June 10 and the boy's session the following week.

Brian Schwarten of Wakefield was chosen to represent Legion District 3. Abbey Taylor of Ponca was the female representative from the area.

Speakers during each session included authorities representing the municipal police, county sheriff, health department, game commission, department of motor vehicles, Nebraska National Guard, court administration and Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Topics related to drug education, traffic law enforcement, accident investigation, first aid, human relations and alcohol education were presented by Patrol Personnel associated with the training center. Evening sessions were devoted to defensive driving and other topics.

The program concluded with ceremonies at the State Patrol Training on Friday.

Of special interest were the field activities on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons when the young cadets were directly involved in operating radar and participated in maximum performance driving, practice patrolling, fingerprinting, marksmanship and stopping distance demonstrations.

Jerry Bove, Commander of the Nebraska American Legion, reported that the program, the first of its kind when developed in 1968, has been adopted in 15 other states through the commanders of the American Legion and the Nebraska State Patrol.

The young cadets were picked by district selection committees and district commanders of the American Legion, following application, endorsement by the local school administration and competitive evaluations.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

The Wakefield Community School Board of Education met Wednesday, June 19.

Mr. Jacobson and Mrs. Knezevic reported on the Title I carnival and summer school activities.

Mr. Zulkosky presented information and costs for additional parking spaces of the city assisted in the work.

Elementary Principal Report: Summer school activities are concentrated in the reading and math skills. During June, Mrs. Widner has been compiling the Student Progress Report and the Title I Student Progress Report of the Nebraska Department of Education. The math curriculum team is currently attending a 3-day workshop at ESU #1. The science curriculum team will be writing assessments on June 25 at ESU #1.

Secondary Principal Report: We are reporting student achievement in the language arts and math areas to the Nebraska Department of Education for grades 4, 8, and 11. The multicultural report is complete by all the teachers. Mr. Heimann attended the student fees meeting in Grand Island on June 6. There are many different interpretations of the guidelines and raises many unanswered questions. The Nebraska Theatre Caravan Grant has been put on hold until after the special session of legislature.

Superintendent Report: Mr. Moody represented Nebraska at the Interstate Migrant Education council meeting in Portland. BRAN activities went very well.

Committee Reports: Budget committee will be meeting in July. Building and grounds will consider parking proposals and bring recommendations to the July meeting.

Old Business: They voted to put administration salaries on hold until the state aid issue is decided by the legislature.

They voted to waive the deadline date for option enrollment students Loren and Kaye Victor and allow them to attend Wakefield.

They tabled other option enrollment requests until next month.

They voted to decline the proposed settlement offer from Columbia Insurance Group for storm damage on the high school roof.

They voted to approve the continuation of the inter-local agreement with the City of Wakefield regarding mowing of school grounds.

They voted to deny credit as recommended by the attendance committee for two high school students.

Discussion was held on the student fee policy information. More information will be gathered before presenting the proposed policy in July.

The process of goal setting and evaluations was discussed. Lori Lueth will present more information on this next month.

The board met with Mr. Moody on achievements of 2001-2002 goals and upcoming goals for 2002-2003.

LEWIS AND CLARK SEMINAR

Dr. Hal Stearns guided 16 graduate students and educators through a variety of activities, videos, curriculum ideas, readings and field trips during the Nebraska Humanities Seminar: The Lewis and Clark Voyage of Discovery with educational initiatives and other events through 2006.

Stearns presented one of two teacher institutes sponsored by the Nebraska Humanities Council to explore issues relating to Lewis and Clark on their Voyage of Discovery 200 years ago including inhabitants of the area, the geography and ecology of the trail and the historical and present-day impact of their journey.

Teachers attending the institute spent one week in residence at Wayne State College and one week of independent study with Stearns. Participating teachers earned two or three hours of graduate credit and a stipend of $500.

Stearns has conducted many programs on Lewis and Clark, as a speaker bureau member for the Nebraska and Montana humanities councils.

Seminar participants included Mike Clark of Wakefield; Rob Simpson of Overton; Rae Brown of Wakefield; Mary Jo Hansen of Coleridge; Kara George of Lincoln; Julie C. Wisch of Wausa; Sharon Olson of Carroll; Peg Lutt of Wayne; Lori Ruskamp or Pender; Mary Critchfield of Gordon; Becky Feagan of Bellevue; Faith Fischer of North Platte; Julie Albrecht or Emerson; Sharon Sanders of South Sioux City, and Joanna Meehan or Sergeant Bluff, Iowa.

"We are doubly lucky in this area to be so close to the Lewis and Clark Trail and to have historian Dr. Hal Stearns help us understand the expedition," Rae Brown of Wakefield said.

Another Wakefield resident, Mike Clay, added, "This class was very interesting. I learned a wealth of interesting facts on Lewis and Clark. We also saw several sites in Northeast Nebraska where Lewis and Clark camped. Dr. Hal Stearns did a wonderful job of bringing Lewis and Clark to life."

Stearns brought a third of his Lewis and Clark artifact collection to share with his students.

"I want you to be able to touch and feel the history behind Lewis and Clark, rather than just reading about it," Stearns said during an outdoor seminar at Wayne State College.

A third of the items included a possible bag that Lewis and Clark used for collecting samples, an early flag from the time of the expedition, a few of the items mentioned in the expedition journals, like the gift of a doll for Sacajawea's baby, several viewing scopes the party used to scout the trail ahead and others of historic value.

"I like to use the slide ruler as and illustration to show students how in one lifetime technology changes," Stearns said.

In addition to historic props, Stearns guided the group through a field trip to Lynch, the Nebraska Welcome Center at Yankton, SD, Spirit Mound near Vermillion, SD, and Ponca State Park.

NEW YOUTH MINISTER

Dennis Wood is the new youth minister at the Evangelical Covenant Church. Dennis, wife Bonnie and 7-week-old daughter, Hannah, moved to Wakefield recently and began duties last week.

Dennis is 27 years old. The couple came to Wakefield from Chicago. He graduated from North Park University in 1997, earning a Bachelor of Art Degree in Youth Ministry. He also attended Covenant Bible College in Canada. Dennis has been working in the computer department at North Park University.

While at North Park, Dennis and Bonnie were co-leaders of a college group, and Dennis added that they are looking forward to the opportunity for a full-time vocational ministry.

"My wife shares my interest in youth ministry, and is an elementary education teacher," Dennis added.

The couple is at home at 706 Main Street, very conveniently located near the church.

SWIMMERS

Usual hot and humid temperatures at the end of May and throughout June contributed to a successful beginning of the swimming season at the Wakefield Pool. To date, over 3,300 people have taken advantage of cooling off in the water, according to manager, Mary Brudigam. This figure does not include those parents and toddlers using the wading pool, she added.

The first session of swimming lessons were completed on June 28, with over 50 children learning new swimming skills. The second session of lessons will run July 8-19. These lessons are taught by the Wakefield Pool staff, all of whom are American Red Cross Certified Lifeguards. In addition, the following are also certified Water Safety Instructors: Laurie Smith, Susan Brudigam, Tony Carollo, Megan Brown, Melissa Turney, Katie Barry and Cathy Stading.

Lifeguards are Katie Barry, Susan Brudigam, Tony Carollo, Megan Brown, Kayla Erwin, Nicole Hansen, Melissa Turney, Alissa Dunklau and Vanessa Nelson.

One of the most popular classes has been the Aquacise sessions taught by Megan Brown and Melissa Turney. The class is held from 6-6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The cost is $1 per session, or no charge if one has a season pass. No pre-registration is required. Come and cool off in a fun-filled workout.

NURSING SCHOOL HONORS

Katie Hoffman of Wakefield is among the students of the University of Nebraska Medical Center College of Nursing to be named to the Dean's List for the spring semester. Katie attends classes at the University of Nebraska Campus at Kearney.

The UNMC College of Nursing, based in Omaha, also has divisions in Lincoln and Scottsbluff.

Protect Your Skin In The Sun

Most of the skin cancers diagnosed in the U.S. are thought to be sun-related. Children and those with a family history of skin cancer need to be especially careful in the sun. Sunscreen should only be used on adults and children 6 months or older. Younger infants should be kept in the shade. Sunscreens can lose effectiveness over time, so discard products that are over two years old. Taking medications may also increase your sensitivity to the sun. Check with your doctor or pharmacist about the drugs you are taking.

PLANNING A SUMMER VACATION?
PROTECT YOUR HOME WHILE YOU ARE AWAY

The summer vacation season has arrived across Nebraska. Unfortunately, the burglary season has arrived, also. According to the Nebraska Crime Commission, July, August and September are the most popular months for burglary offenses in Nebraska with 61.2 percent of those burglaries involving residential properties. Nebraska Crime Commission statistics show that over $6.5 million in property was reported stolen in burglary offenses in Nebraska during 2000. The average loss to Nebraska consumers was $991 per burglary.

Before leaving on your family vacation this summer, consider the following security precautions:

- Arrange for a friend or neighbor to bring in mail, newspapers and other deliveries. Or, arrange to cancel all deliveries.
- If you leave a car at home, arrange to have it moved occasionally.
- Schedule to have your lawn work done during your absence.
- Arrange for garbage to be put out for pickup as usual.
- Arrange for safe storage of jewelry and other valuables away from the home while you are gone.
- If you have an alarm system, have it checked before departing.
- Leave shades and drapes in the position they would normally be in if you were home.
- If a neighbor is not available, use a dependable and trustworthy house sitter.
- Leave a trip itinerary with someone so that you can be notified in case of an emergency.
- Consider organizing a neighborhood patrol watch to function during your absence. Agree to return the favor to neighbors while they are away.
- Notify police or sheriff's department of your absence, providing them with the names of house sitters or neighbors who have possession of keys to your home.
- Before your departure, check to see that all doors and windows are locked and that you have taken all necessary keys.

"I Knew If I Ever Had To Have Cataract Surgery I was Going To Feidler Eye Clinic."

"I was having bad trouble with my vision, my right eye was real bad. When I had the cataracts it used to bother me to drive. Things just didn't look right going down the road. I had to close one eye.

I knew if I ever had to have cataract surgery I was going to Feidler Eye Clinic. There was nothing to the surgery, you're awake the whole time and you don't feel anything.

I had the surgery done on Friday, and Monday morning I had 20/20 vision! I had the other eye done two weeks later with the same result, 20/20 vision! My vision is now perfect, I only need glasses to read and I can drive safely."

Airport is under new management

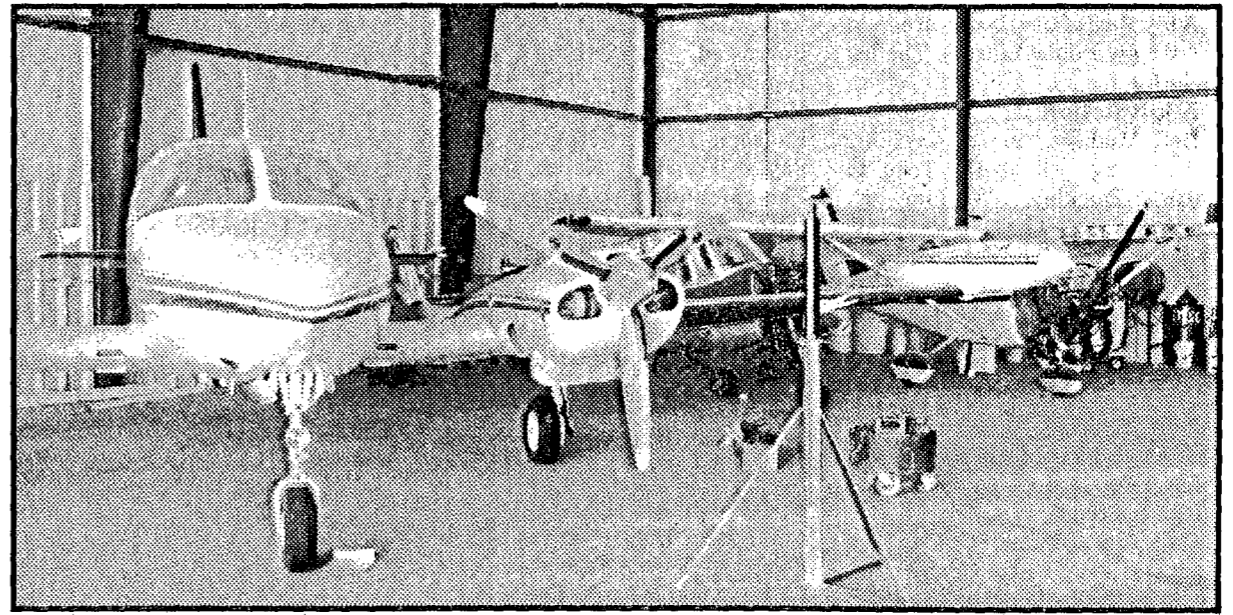

The Wayne airport has a new manager and a maintenance facility. Jerrod Whittaker recently opened GHL Aviation.

Whittaker moved here from Greenville, S.C. with his two sons Anthony, 6, and Keith, 8. Previously, Whittaker was an independent consultant, and an aircraft mechanic and crew chief while serving in the Air Force.

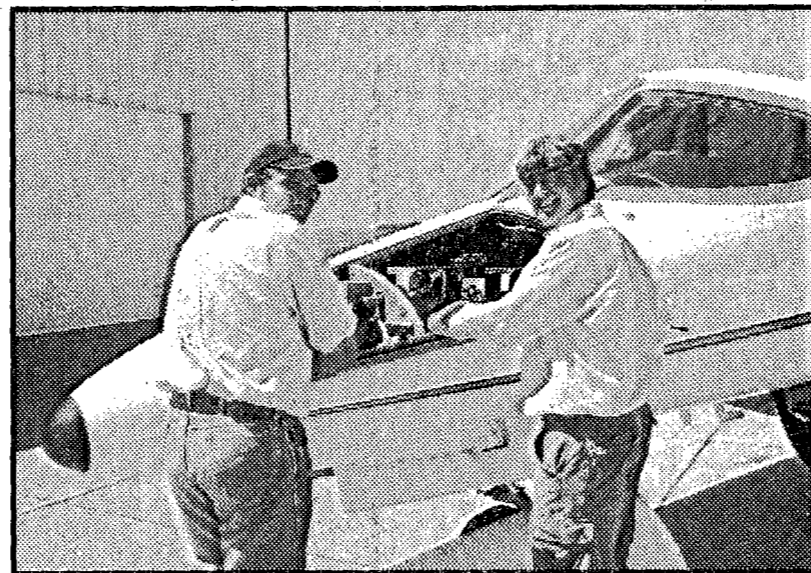

Staff at GHL includes: Chris Glassmeyer, shop chief; Richard Karr and Austin Christensen, both tech 1 mechanics.

A change at the airport is the addition of jet fuel. Besides refueling, jets can also be repaired. In the last three months, there's been seven jets in for repair or transient fueling. Also, he notes there's an average of 20-25 planes in per week with 10-15 in for refueling and 4-5 for maintenance.

With the addition of jet service, Whittaker hopes to attract the corporate sector of aviation which would help the airport as well as help Wayne. Since 9/11, corporate service has grown 300 percent.

There's plenty of room in the maintenance facility at the airport to repair airplanes and jets. There's an average of 4-5 planes under repair at the airport each week.

He feels one thing that's limiting the Wayne airport and industrial sector is accessibility due to the current size of the runway.

More length and width on the present runway would increase chances of getting corporate planes to land there. Whittaker said his business acquaintance Rodney Walton stated there wouldn't be a Walmart store in a place that he can't fly to.

Whittaker notes, "I want to do things for the town, not to the town." He adds that he tries to do most of his shopping locally to enhance the city and industry around here.

Other changes taking place at the airport includes a newer style of beacon and airport lighting issues have been corrected, plus new equipment has been purchased for working on jets.

Future plans at the airport includes having a pilot on hand so flying lessons can be provided. He also wants to add a building so planes and jets can be painted.

Whittaker wants to start a customer service hotline so aircraft crews for all service needs can be dispatched worldwide. Whittaker notes he has access to additional crews which can be sent anywhere. Whittaker figures 50 percent of his business is general aviation repair within around a 200 mile radius, 40 percent is worldwide and 10 percent is management (an example is they provide exclusive maintenance for the Wells Blue Bunny jet aircraft).

Whittaker also sells used aircraft and is a sales and purchase consultant.

Anyone with questions about the airport or services offered can call Whittaker at GHL Aviation, 402-375-1984 or 375-3300.

Jets can also be repaired and refueled at GHL Aviation. This is a Leer Jet which was recently at the airport.

Hosts career camp for high school students

Northeast Community College in Norfolk recently hosted 44 high school students for its eighth annual Career Camp.

The young women, from Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota, were given the opportunity to explore non-traditional-for-their-gender career options during the three-day camp. While on the Northeast campus, students participated hands-on or heard speakers from these career fields:

veterinary technology, horticulture, emergency medical technician, website development, computer programming, accounting, utility line, audio recording, auto body technology, psychogeometrics, and many others.

There were also sessions on dating violence, self-defense and etiquette for the participants.

Two speakers from the Speakers Bureau, Nebraska Humanities Council, also addressed the young women.

Mrs. Ruth Thone, Lincoln, author of Fat A Fate Worse Than Death?, Women and Aging, Celebrating Ourselves, and Being Home, spoke to the young women about body image in her address entitled, "The Beauty Myth."

"When I go to the doctor," she said. "I get on the scale backwards. The number doesn't matter. We're obsessed with looking how someone else tells us we should look. And we shouldn't be."

Jean Karlan, Wayne State College and another member of the Speakers Bureau, Nebraska Humanities Council, asked those in attendance at the Career Camp how being a girl affects their career choices in her speech entitled "A Women's Work, A Woman's Worth."

While guests of Northeast at the Career Camp, the young women experienced dorm life with a two-night stay in NECC dormitory.

"Career Camp provides young women the opportunity to gain exposure to career options they may not have previously considered," Dr. Karen Severson, Vice President of Student Services said.

"Our primary objective is to show the Career Camp participants that women have the opportunity to pursue a wide variety of career options. With the proper training and mentoring, they can achieve success in traditional female-dominated careers such as elementary education or nursing, or, they can excel in non-traditional career fields such as utility line, diesel mechanics, or auto body technology."

"Our goal is to present a realistic picture of the world of work - the barriers and challenges; but, most importantly, the multiple rewards of working in a career of their choice, whether it is a traditional or nontraditional career," said Dr. Severson.

The Wayne Herald

Happy birthday 4-H!!!

The year 2002 marks the Centennial Year for Nebraska 4-H. Many of you may have taken part in some of the events that have occurred relating to the 4-H Centennial. I will be highlighting some of those events but also sharing some opportunities for the weeks ahead.

Throughout the year many different activities have been taking place across the state to help celebrate the 4-H Centennial year. Early in February there was a week in which Nebraska 4-H planned various activities to help proclaim the 2002 4-H 4-H Centennial Year in Nebraska. During this week a Unicameral Youth Day took place at the State capital. At this event youth from across the state gathered to represent Nebraska 4-H.

Conversation with legislative representatives was focused around local youth development conversations held in two-thirds of the Nebraska counties. Wayne county held their conversation on Jan. 15. Nearly 2,000 youth and adults were involved in the initial conversations across Nebraska and approximately 175 youth and adults came together at the state event. Five themes have been formed based on the conversations.

Currently, Nebraska 4-H is utilizing the themes to establish a 4-H Vision: a Road Map to the 21st Century. The intent is to have the final five themes serve as guiding principles in the planning, implementing and evaluating of all Cooperative Extension youth programming completed through the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension youth program.

To do this, Nebraska 4-H is in the process of receiving feedback from Stakeholders. To make the process successful Nebraska 4-H has posted the five themes on the State 4-H website (4h.unl.edu) and they are asking for responses to the questions that they have listed. Involving the stakeholders in the process is important in determining how Nebraska 4-H will best meet the needs and desires of youth in the 21st Century.

The five themes that they're looking at are:

1. Create additional opportunities for youth and adults to partner in the community, school and 4-H.
2. Develop out-of-school and summer programs that attract youth and adults from a variety of backgrounds and provide learning and service opportunities.
3. Strengthen the 4-H program through marketing plans that result in the involvement of potential members, staff and financial supporters of diverse backgrounds.

4. Recognize youth and adults for their positive accomplishments and contributions to their communities.

5. Create and encourage inter-generational mentoring programs that provide opportunities for youth and adults to learn from one another. The 4-H Vision: A Road Map for the 21st Century can be found on the Nebraska 4-H website at 4h.unl.edu

I would also like to share local 4-H happenings within the next several weeks. If you are a former 4-H alum and have a past 4-H exhibit you would like to have on display at the Wayne County Fair, please contact the Wayne County Extension Office at (402) 375-3310. If you wish to share 4-H memories in our 4-H Memory Book, the Extension Office has a memory page for you to complete. During the Wayne County Fair, the Agricultural Society will also be hosting a 4-H Centennial Pageant on Friday evening, Aug. 2. Current 4-Hers will be participating in the pageant.

The Nebraska State 4-H Office is also looking for Four and Five Generation Families to be recognized during the Nebraska State Fair on Aug. 31 at the Alumni Breakfast from 8 to 11 a.m. in the 4-H Exhibit Hall Arena. Advanced tickets may be purchased for $5 at your local county extension office or $7 at the door. If you are a 4-H alum and would like to know more about this event, please contact your local extension office.

Also on Aug. 31, 2002 at the Nebraska State Fair there will be a 4-H Vintage Fashion Show in the Open-Air Auditorium. An Ice Cream Social will be held at 3 p.m. in the 4-H Exhibit Hall.

A complete list of activities can be viewed at <http://4h.unl.edu/centennial.htm>

We want to let everyone know that former 4-Hers, current 4-Hers, volunteers and 4-H supporters are welcome to attend.

Member Scholarships are awarded to selected undergraduate students who are AAL/LB members. Recipient selection is based on academic excellence, church and community involvement and leadership. Raabe was one of 870 recipients selected from over 2,800 applicants for this national award.

Raabe is a member of Wayne County Branch 8212, one of AAL/LB's 11,582 member-volunteer groups organized for fellowship

Raabe is the daughter of Leonard and Cynthia Raabe of Pilger.

Wayne church is chosen for promotional evening

First Baptist Church of Wayne, Fourth and Main, is the local recipient of one of seven "Church Nights at the Abbey" hosted by The Abbey Christian Bookstore in Norfolk this summer.

These promotional evenings will be held at the Abbey every Friday night from July 19 through Aug. 30.

The Abbey will offer 10 percent of all store sales from 6-10 pm to the designated church for that Friday evening.

The sponsored churches have been invited to add to the contributions by the Abbey, by hosting additional events or activities outside the store during the evening hours. On Friday, July 26, For the Master Gospel Quartet will be singing, ice cream cones and cool drinks will be available. Proceeds from these fund raising opportunities will go toward a specific project each church has identified on their application.

The designated churches and their assigned "Church Nights at the Abbey" are:

- July 19 - Victory Road Assembly of God, Norfolk.
- July 26 - First Baptist Church, Wayne.
- August 2 - New England Congregational UCC, Stanton.
- August 9 - Our Savior Lutheran Church, Norfolk.
- August 16 - Immanuel Lutheran Church, Tilden.
- August 23 - Trinity Lutheran Church, Madison.
- August 30 - United Church of Christ, Pierce.

Area residents are encouraged to enjoy an evening of entertainment and shopping on Friday nights this summer at the Abbey and know that they are also helping a church reach its goal.

Livestock Market Report

It was just about the most exhausting Fourth of July week I can remember! If it hadn't been for naps, I would not have survived. The heat doesn't help.

The folks from Texas consisted of three generations, visiting relatives in the area. The younger folks stayed out late; the older couple got up early, and took a cup of coffee to the porch first thing.

They didn't all leave until 11:00 on Friday, which caused a lot of scurrying to get all rooms clean and beds changed. The second group consisted of four generations; the oldest, 90, and the youngest was eight. They got in earlier; but their plane on Monday left at 8:00, which made for a very early breakfast.

In between, I've tried getting rid of the fox tail springing up in the rows of new trees west of the house. How does that stuff keep growing when the grass and flowers all die? For that matter, how do the volunteer petunias out there fare better than the ones planted and watered?

Murdock, like Hoskins, has an annual small town celebration on the Fourth. It's an all day deal, beginning with breakfast and featuring a parade at 11 a.m. (The parade at Hoskins is at 8 a.m.

By: Pat Meierhenry

Sure would be cooler.)

Max brought his pickup and the Jenny Lind bed frame. Mike found a little table and chairs. Jacey wore an apron, and threw candy from a large mixing bowl. The boys had fun with water guns, and Jaxson went to sleep in the pickup cab.

It was a long wait in the heat for a four block show, and there were at least 50 entries. Each small town has a candidate for Miss Cass County, and they all send fire trucks and rescue units. There was even a limo from California, and a couple of hay racks loaded with softball players.

The pickup behind us featured Murdock's state tournament basketball team of 40 years ago, and their coach! What fun.

We spent the evening in front of the tube, watching broadcast fireworks. This week, we have a break until Saturday. At least we have enough money to pay the electricity bill!

The Norfolk Livestock Market fat cattle sale was held on Friday. Fat cattle were steady to $1 to $1.50 lower. Cows were $1 lower. There were 233 head sold.

Strictly choice fed steers and heifers were $61.50 to $62.40. Good and choice steers and heifers were $60.50 to $61.50. Medium and good steers and heifers were $59 to $60.50. Holstein steers were $50 to $53. Beef cows were $37 to $40. Utility cows were $38 to $42. Cannors and cutters were $35 to $39. Bologna bulls were $50 to $55.

Prices for dairy cattle at the Norfolk Livestock Market on Monday were steady. There were 14 head sold.

Top quality fresh and springing heifers were $950 to $1,250. Medium quality fresh and springing heifers were $750 to $950. Common heifers and older cows were $500 to $750; 300 to 500 lb. heifers were $300 to $500; 500 to 700 lb. heifers were $475 to $700. Crossbred calves were $150 to $200; holstein calves were $100 to $150.

The sheep sale was held at the Norfolk Livestock Market Monday with 601 head sold. The market was $1 lower on fat lambs. Feeder lambs were also lower and ewes were steady.

Fat lambs: 110 to 150 lbs., $78 to $82.50.

Feeder lambs: 40 to 60 lbs., $70 to $80 cwt.; 60 to 100 lbs., $60 to $70 cwt.

Ewes: Good, $30 to $50; Medium, $25 to $30; slaughter, $20 to $25.

The feeder pig sale was held Tuesday at the Norfolk Livestock Market. The market was steady on the 131 head sold.

Some fungicides to use are chorothalimil, Bayleton, or Chipco.

Lawn care practices to reduce the severity of the disease or reduce infection in future years include avoiding heavy early spring and mid-summer fertilization, particularly with fast release sources of nitrogen such as ammonium nitrate. When possible, use slower release nitrogen sources such as sulfur coated urea or milorganite.

Brown patch appearing in lawns

By Kelly Feehan, Extension Educator, Platte County

Brown patch disease is appearing in area lawns. As the heat stress takes its toll on cool season Kentucky blue grass, this disease and other problems can continue to appear.

Brown patch is a fungal disease. The symptoms are typically reddish-brown circular patches or rings in the lawn. On close inspection of the green grass blades in the infected area, leaf spots can be found.

Brown patch leaf lesions, or spots, are irregularly shaped tan or bleached spots with a red margin. They are found on individual grass blades. The best time to look for lesions is before mowing as they are often removed by mowing. Brown patch occurs on dense, heavily fertilized and watered lawns in hot, above 85 degrees Fahrenheit, humid weather when night temperatures remain above 60 degrees Fahrenheit. Poorly drained soils, thatch, dull mower blades and night irrigation promote the disease as well.

Once the disease appears, fungicides can be applied to prevent new infections. Fungicides will not cure infections already present. The symptoms of these infections will progress. In some cases the turf will recover. In others, dead patches will need to be reseeded in early September.

Use a fungicide labeled for use on turf grass and repeat applications as recommended. Some fungicides to use are chorothalimil, Bayleton, or Chipco.

Lawn care practices to reduce the severity of the disease or reduce infection in future years include avoiding heavy early spring and mid-summer fertilization, particularly with fast release sources of nitrogen such as ammonium nitrate. When possible, use slower release nitrogen sources such as sulfur coated urea or milorganite.

Remove and dispose of grass clippings from infected areas or when weather conditions are conducive to disease development.

Water deeply, four to six inches and only as needed. Kentucky blue grass needs watering when the grass color turns a darker shade and foot prints remain in the grass after walking across it. Avoid late evening and night watering. This lengthens the time the grass remains wet, providing ideal conditions for infection.

It the thatch layer, a reddish brown mat found between the green grass and soil, exceeds one-half inch, power rake in April or September. Core aerate the lawn at least once every three years to relieve soil compaction.

Mow the lawn often enough to avoid removing more than one-third of the grass blade during each mowing and use sharp mower blades. Using a dull mower blade frays the grass edges of cut blades and allows entrance of the fungus.

Deadline near to sign contracts

Farmers who have not signed their 2002 production flexibility contracts with USDA's Farm Service Agency by Aug. 1 will be ineligible for fiscal year 2002 benefits, according to FSA's Debra J. Pieper, CED.

"There is always a push in July to make sure farmers have signed their contracts," said Pieper, Count Executive Director for the Wayne County FSA. But this year there is a greater urgency linked to the deadline.

"The Agricultural Market Transition Act expires on Sept. 30, 2002, and FSA has no power to issue AMTA or PFC payments after that," she said.

August 1 is also the last date to report successions-in-interest, enroll a farm reconstituted in 2002 and solve payment share disputes for fiscal years 1996 through 2002.

Pieper said she has heard of some farmers who acquired interest in AMTA contract farms after the 2002 PFC payments, were made that may not want to sign revised AMTA contracts. They know that under Farm Security and Rural Investment Act, 2002 DCP payments will be reduced by the amount of 2002 PFC payments. Some of the farmers believe they will receive the full DCP payments for 2002 if the previous owners had to refund their PFC payments.

"It doesn't work that way," Pieper said. "Either the successor or a new owner or operator must sign the contract as a successor by Aug. 1 to be eligible for 2002 DCP benefits under FSRIA."

Farmers that reconstituted their farms need to make sure they sign their new AMTA contracts on the reconstituted farms by Aug. 1.

Pieper said farmers with valid payment share disputes for fiscal years 1996 through 2002 must have those disputes settled by Aug. 1 to receive any payments.

For additional information, contact Pieper at (402) 375-2453 or visit the Wayne County FSA Office at 709 Providence Road, Wayne, Neb. 68787.

Protein with Calcium Can Be Good for Bones in the Elderly

A high protein diet has been thought to be associated with an increased risk for bone fracture in the elderly. Protein hastens the excretion of calcium - a bone building block - into the urine.

However, according to a study described in American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, a high intake of dietary protein - from vegetables or animal sources - can be good for bones in the elderly. In a 3-year study- 342 elderly men and women were given vitamin D plus calcium or a placebo. Those who took the nutrient supplements and had the highest protein intake also had the largest increase in bone mineral content. But those who consumed a lot of protein and received the placebo (no calcium, no vitamin D) did not have a big increase in bone mineral content. It appears that protein can be good for the bones, just as long as there is plenty of calcium, and perhaps vitamin D present in the diet.

Wayne Chicken Show

July 12 & 13

History of the Chicken Show

The Wayne Chicken Show, sponsored by the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce, is a fun event held annually on the second Saturday in July.

The first Wayne Chicken Show was held in 1981 and was intended to be an arts and crafts show. It was a project of the Wayne Regional Arts Council and its purpose was to generate grass roots interest in art by demonstrating that art can exist around everyday objects or situations.

The theme of "chickens" was chosen because of the potential for art materials (feathers & egg shells), because nearly everyone has knowledge and familiarity with chickens and because chickens can be considered with humor. Some contests and a parade were planned in order to make the arts and crafts show an event.

Previous years' Cluck Off winners have appeared on the Tonight Show. The Chicken Show has been featured in nearly all of the larger Nebraskan newspapers; on radio interviews heard in every state of the United States, all provinces of Canada and the B.C. originating from Dublin, Ireland; in television news segments each year on Lincoln, Omaha and Sioux City stations, and on NBC, ABC, CBS and CNN; appearances on Good Moring America, the Mickey Mouse Club and a syndicated quiz show; and in articles in USA Today and Wall Street Journal, Stars and Stripes, regional magazines, national newspaper syndications throughout the Associated Press and UPI. In addition, English, Japanese and Saudi Arabian newspaper clippings have been sent to members of the chicken show committee.

The primary source of funds for the Chicken Show is the sale of Chicken Shirts and other "cluck"tible items.

Each year's t-shirt is unique, depicting the theme for that particular year. Thousands of shirts are sold each year, and calls and orders are taken all year.

The Wayne Chicken Show received the 1996 Nebraska Outstanding Tourism Award and was selected in 1999, along with four other community events in Nebraska, to be featured in the Library of Congress. In 2001, the Chicken Show was awarded the "People's Choice Award" for the Best Community Event in northeast Nebraska.

Many of the events have continued throughout the past 22 years, such as the Omelet Feed, the National Cluck-Off, the Egg Drop and the parade. In addition, new events have been added as the event has now been expanded to include Friday evening (Henoween) activities.

New attractions scheduled for Chicken Show Weekend

Several new attractions will have been added to the list of activities for the 22nd Annual Chicken Show and Henoween.

On Friday evening, July 12, Frankie and Phyllis Valens will be performing with For the Master in a concert at Third and Main Streets.

Frankie was a nightclub singer in the late 1960's and early 70's whose signature song was "This Magic Moment." He also recorded "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" and "She Cried." He toured the United States and Canada and was showcased in Las Vegas and was an extra in the movies "Ice Castles" and "Every Which Way But Loose."

Phyllis is an accomplished concert pianist and has written children's music for Standard Publishing's Vacation Bible School courses over 20 years, including the theme songs for 1979 and 1985. She writes some of the music the couple sings, has presented full piano concerts herself and currently teaches piano lessons.

The couple traveled full-time in the gospel music ministry for seven years before coming off the road in 1997. They often ministered in Rescue Missions, the Salvation Army and a prison as a part of their love for God's people everywhere.

"Unique" and "inspiring" are words often used to describe their family concerts. Their music varies from classical to contemporary, southern gospel to traditional. Solos, duets, concert piano numbers, hand-singing and skits are featured.

Former Wayne resident Travis Koester and the FlameKats will be on hand at the Willow Bowl on Saturday, July 13 from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Travis and the FlameKats got their start in Lincoln and have moved on with their 'straight from the heart original blues rock music.'

Travis Koester, who plays lead guitar, has caught the attention of several in today's blues scene and turned heads in clubs all across the midwest. The band has played at venues and events of all sizes that includes Lincoln's Zoo Bar.

The band's first CD is available from Homers stores in the Lincoln area and on the band's website at www.flamekats.com or at live shows.

The band is now working on a new CD that will feature more of the band's original blues rock music and more of the "unmatched soulful guitar work by Travis that makes their live show an unforgettable experience."

In addition to the new CD, the band will be touring and promoting beginning in October. The tour begins in Minnesota.

Travis is the son of former Wayne resident Lea Petersen.

Tidbits shared on how chicken show hatched

Editor's note — The following information was supplied by Jane O'Leary, one of the original founders of the Wayne Chicken Show.

Chicken Morsel #1

Everyone in town has heard the short version of why we have a Chicken Show, but I thought maybe the detailed (and true) version might be interesting.

By 1981 the Wayne Regional Arts Council had held many functions in its three year existence, including classes in art, landscaping, photography, guitar, small concerts of regional performers, Spring Arts Festivals, photography and local art shows. At our January meeting, we discussed the possibility of using a theme to get more local people involved in the art process and displays.

A couple of us had attended a State Arts Council meeting and had heard about the arts council of Scottsbluff holding a "Beet" show, in which everything was constructed of beets. We discussed what kind of them we could have in Wayne. Of course, the first idea presented was a pig sow, but at the time, the Muppet's Miss Piggy was a pop culture icon and we thought there would be too much Miss Piggy and not enough originality. Several other types were suggested, the most prominent of which was corn. Gail Korn fidgeted a little and I could tell that that them would not be her preference. Suddenly, she said, "I've got it! A Chicken Show."

We started talking about it and the possibilities seemed endless. We could have some games and perhaps even some "chicken" music. The minutes of the meeting in February indicate that it was announced that we could budget $80 for a chicken art show. Pearl Hansen thought that we might design and sell some silk-screened t-shirts and promised to look into the idea.

At the March meeting we came up with some games — a chicken flying contest, a chicken song contest, a chicken hat show, a decorated egg contest and a chicken race, all of which could be held outside the auditorium while the art show was going on inside. Although only four months away, we thought that perhaps the second Saturday in July would be a time in which most rain showers occurred only in the evening — as usually happens on the Fourth.

I sent some press releases about our chicken art show to local media and included the Omaha and Sioux City newspapers, radio and television stations. Someone somewhere forwarded the press release to the Associated Press, and withing a week, my phone was ringing, usually from radio stations wanting interviews. A lady from Delaware heard of our show and decided to come. A man from Los Angeles, who claimed he was a "chicken artist" asked to show his photography.

At our April meeting, we realized we had to at least provide a chicken show that would meet the expectations of our press so we added a parade. We thought a chicken clucking contest would be fun, and KTCH radio agreed to hold a "pre-show, on-air screening of contestants" as a promotion for us. Pat Gross called and offered to go with us to ask Dan Gardner to help with an omelet feed in the morning and the result was that we would not only have a feed, but the Nebraska Poultry Industry would supply the people to cook for the first time.

We were able to find a silk-screen company who would let us "pay as we sold" printed shirts. Local screen printers were limited to one color print, so we took bids from out of town. The first year we sold 800 shirts!

Morsel #2, Chicken Shirts

Pearl Hansen designed shirts for the first three years. They were artistic in conception, the first being a single chicken on the front, the second a hen and rooster on the front and the third was a flock of many different kinds and colors of chickens. For approximately the next 15 years, after our first artist did not have the time to continue, Marla McCue designed the shirts. Her shirts were cartoon-like and humorous. Her first shirt had the front of a chicken on the front of the shirt and the back of a chicken on the back.

The Arts Council came to realize that the shirt design could direct the theme, rather than the other way around. In the fall of each year, several people would bring ideas for shirts, and, of course, Marla would have many ideas. From there we would decide on a theme and then the shirt idea would be finished into a design to compliment the theme.

The most popular shirt was a red shirt with a cowboy chicken, standing with a hat and holster on the front. On the back of the shirt he had exactly the same pose, but a hole in his foot and a look of pain on his face. That particular year we sold 2,400 Chicken Shirts.

Another red shirt was for the theme "Chickens in Song." I suppose, because we were all involved in art or music, we didn't think twice about the character of the chicken on the front. The shirt was, we believed, of a Brome Hilda chicken, dressed in Wagnerian opera helmet and armor. Unfortunately, people locally thought we were portraying Madonna in underwear and there were protests about the shirt. Always taking advantage of any potential press information, we sent a press release about our shirt and the reaction to it to national press services, and received orders from all over the U.S. for more shirts. That year we sold nearly 3,000 shirts, many of them by mail.

Morsel #3

One year, we received a call from the Governor of Arkansas' office. The person asked me if our town would be offended if their governor entered a chicken clucking contest. I remember my saying laughingly, that I didn't think we would be offended over anything that the governor of Arkansas did.

Then I asked why he was concerned about our reaction. She said that he was going to run for President. When she said his name, I said I was very sorry, I hadn't heard of him yet (Why didn't I make the condition that we get a tape of the contest, but who knew?).

Morsel #4

I received a call at home from the Wall Street Journal. I thought it was a joke, but didn't want to take the chance that it wasn't. I gave the reporter some non-joke answers to his questions and suggested some other people he could call, including the local Pork Association and Waldbaum's in Wakefield. One week later, there was an article on the front of the second section of the Wall Street Journal! I must admit that having one's name in the Wall Street Journal makes a real impression at succeeding high school reunions!

Morsel #5

After three years of holding the Chicken Show on Pearl Street near the auditorium, we decided to move to Bressler Park where it was shadier, and if there would be a rain shower, the deep leafing of the trees would provide some shelter. It is remarkable that, in all the years of the Chicken Show, it has never been rained out (knock on wood).

Henoween is 'The Night Before'

Henoween is held the evening the Chicken Show in downtown Wayne. It adds to the excitement of the weekend and helps prepare everyone for the egg-citement the next day.

This year, the Main Street Wayne Program is the host of Henoween. The Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce asked the Main Street Program to take over much of the planning and logistics of the evening to help lighten the burden of the Chicken Show Committee.

This year's Henoween activities will be held on Main Street, from First to Fourth Streets, beginning at 6 p.m.

Activities include kids' games sponsored by the Wayne County Jaycees, many food, art and craft vendors, a kiddie train, a kids' moon walk, a talent show for all ages, the world's largest chicken dance and a pie and ice cream social sponsored by the Eastern Star (which will be held in the Main Street Office).

At 8 p.m. Frankie Valens will be performing in concert with For the Master, a gospel group from Wayne and Laurel. They will be located on the main stage at Third and Main Streets.

All those involved in the Main Street Wayne Program and Henoween encourage everyone to "get yourself in the 'Chicken Spirit' by attending Henoween Friday night and all the activities Saturday, July 13 during the 22nd Annual Chicken Show.

The Main Street Wayne Program welcomes you to Wayne and hopes you'll have an egg-citing time.

Lions Club to sponsor unit

The Nebraska Lions Foundation and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Nebraska Mobile Screening Unit will offer free screenings for glaucoma, visual acuity, diabetes, hypertension and hearing problems in Wayne on July 13 in conjunction with the Wayne Chicken Show.

The unit will be set up northeast of the Willow Bowl on the campus of Wayne State College at 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on July 13 and is available for individuals 19 years and older.

Individuals under 19 can be screened with written parental consent.

The visit is sponsored by the Wayne Lions Club. Local health care personnel and Lions Club members will assist with screenings, which include:

- detecting glaucoma by measuring the pressure within the eyeball with a computerized puff tonometer;
- monitoring hearing loss by measuring the intensity of itches that an individual hears in a sound reduced booth;

• using a "finger-stick" blood sugar test to check glucose levels, which is among the most up-to-date, safest monitoring devices available.

Although a screening by the Lions Club and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Nebraska Mobile Screening Unit does not provide a complete examination, it can serve as an early alert in detecting conditions which require individuals to visit their physician for treatment of these illnesses.

2002 marks the 30th year of partnership between Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Nebraska, an independent licensee of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Association, and the Nebraska Lions Foundation to offer free health screenings to Nebraska.

Welcome to Wayne State College!

We are pleased to once again welcome the Wayne Chicken Show to the beautiful Wayne State campus.

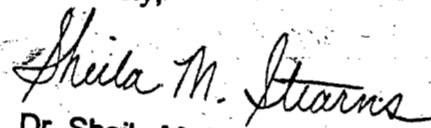

Chamber and community volunteers have put much planning into this year's event. Those attending will enjoy the results of this detailed preparation. The shuttle service between designated parking areas, the Willow Bowl (where most of the events will take place) and downtown Wayne will make it easy and convenient for those coming to the Wayne Chicken Show to take in all of the day's activities. The Willow Bowl with its amphitheater is an ideal location for the Chicken Show events and contests.

Hosting the Wayne Chicken Show on our campus provides the opportunity for families and individuals to get a first-hand look at Wayne State. We're proud of our college and the community of Wayne. Visitors from around the state, the nation and the world will not only have a day of fun, but will also have a chance to enjoy our community.

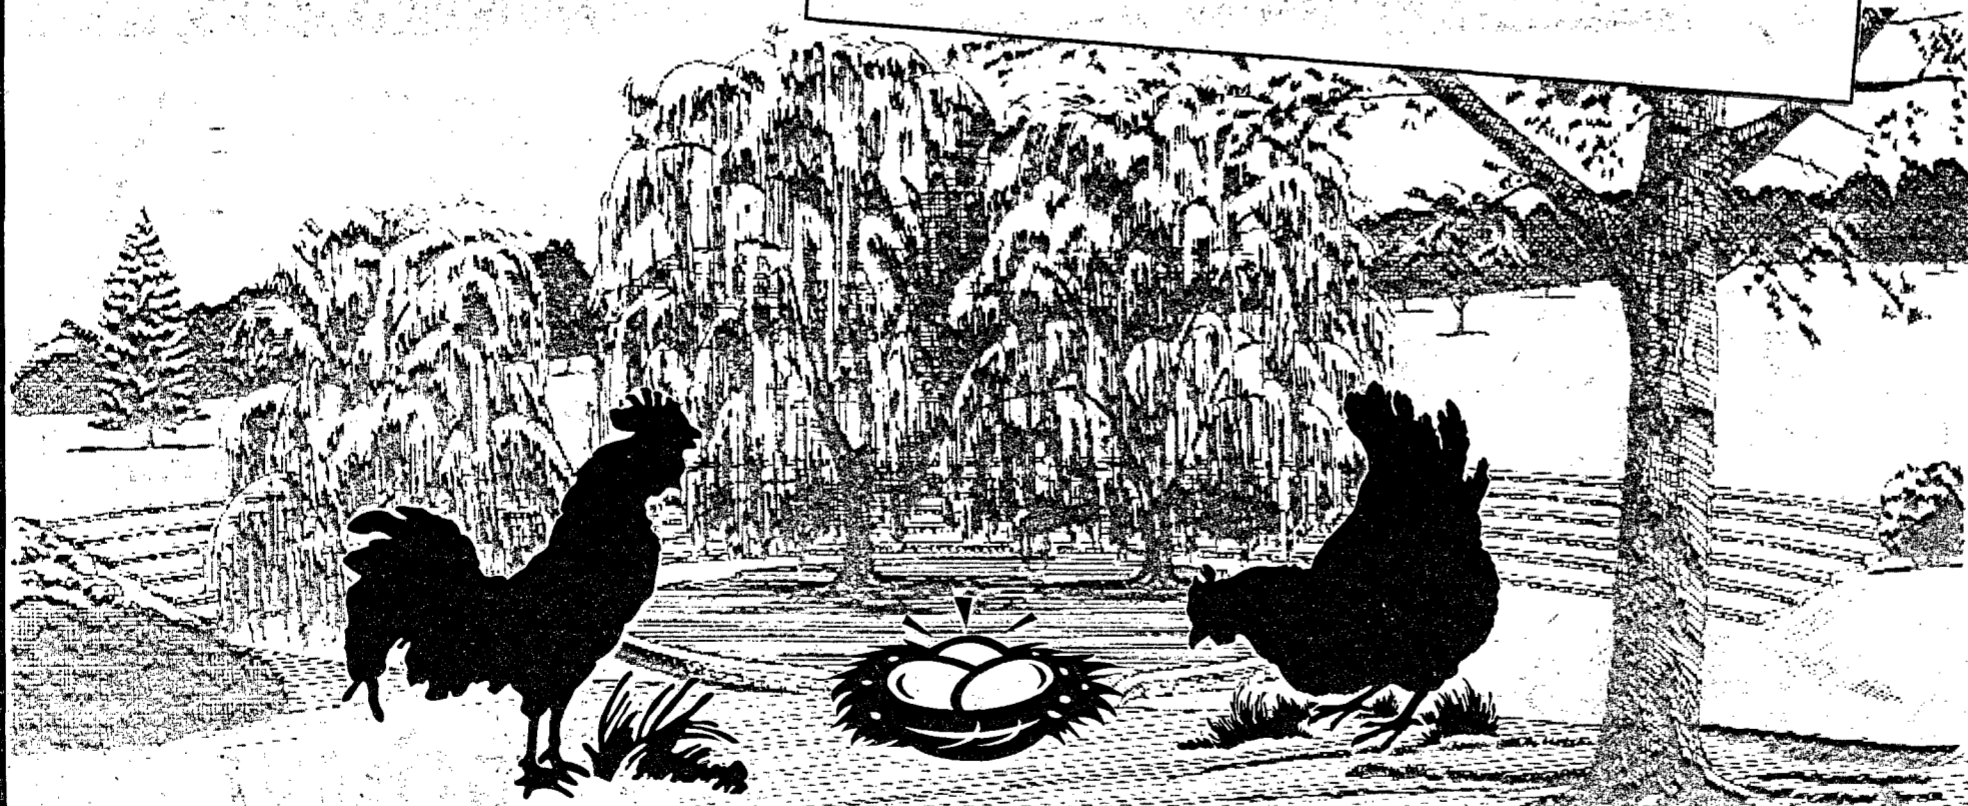

I hope you'll join us on Saturday, July 13 for a day of entertainment and enjoyment at the Wayne Chicken Show. We extend a hearty welcome, and look forward to greeting you.

Bring the whole brood for a fun-filled day at the Wayne Chicken Show on the Wayne State campus!

Sincerely,

Dr. Sheila M. Stearns
