Look at him go!

Possibly the largest crowd ever braved the hot temperatures last Saturday to attend the 16th annual Carroll Truck and Tractor Pull. Organizers report that there were 83 hook-ups during the evening's pull. Pullers from several states took part in the pull. The Carroll Truck and Tractor Pulling Association has received the "Best Pull of the Year" award in three of the last five years. Generally, the tractors and pickups involved in the pull travel from town to town and state to state, participating in various pulls and accumulating points which are totalled at the end of the season for additional rewards.

Mystery trip was a good surprise

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

With anticipation, 34 people embarked on the State National Bank Century Club's annual Mystery Trip. The group boarded an Arrow Stage Line bus around 8:45 a.m. Sunday. As the bus was leaving Wayne, guesses were given as to what the destination would be.

Traveling south of Wayne, several people thought the bus was headed for Lincoln to see the Lied Center or a Melodrama; some thought the location would be somewhere in Iowa, and one thought they were going to Mitchell, S.D. - until the bus was heading the wrong direction.

At the intersection of Highway 15 and 275, the driver turned to the left. Maps came out and more guesses spewed forth. Several guesses were: to a casino, DeSoto Bend, the Grotto, or on the Lewis & Clark trail.

Ginny Otte, the escort, smiled and offered refreshments of cookies and coffee, juice and water. She also handed out nametags so everyone could get into Century Club members board the bus for their mystery trip. Members knew they would be gone for a day but they didn't know the destination or what they would be see.

Public Health gets boost in Nebraska

By Governor Mike Johanns

Dear Nebraska Neighbors:

There is no greater gift in life than good health. In being realists, however, we all know that our health can be a fragile thing.

In those instances when it begins to deteriorate, it's reassuring to know that help is just down the road. Whether you live near Chimney Rock or the Missouri River, access to public health care is paramount to the well being of all Nebraskans.

In the 2001 legislative session, we took a positive step forward in addressing the health care needs of rural Nebraskans through LB 692, the Nebraska Health Care Funding Act. The bill was designed to utilize funding from the state's tobacco settlement by allowing Nebraska communities to identify and meet their local health care needs.

Like other states, Nebraska received money through the national tobacco settlement as compensation for the high costs resulting from tobacco use. Tobacco contributes to the death of more than 2,600 Nebraskans annually and costs the state millions of dollars in health care expenses every year.

Unlike many other states, we have not diverted our tobacco settlement funds to pay for roads or the cost of lawsuits. Instead, we have honored the intent of the settlement and spend our dollars promoting and addressing health needs.

The Nebraska priorities funded through the settlement include mental health, minority health, local health departments, developmental disabilities, juvenile services, respite care, public health and biomedical research.

Thanks to settlement dollars, Nebraska has added 16 new public health departments in the last six months. This additional capacity means a health department now covers 84 of our state's 93 counties. That's significant progress when you consider only 22 counties were covered just a year ago.

As provided in LB 692, the local health departments are either single county agencies for counties with a population at or exceeding 50,000, or multi-county health departments formed with a minimum of three counties and at least 30,000 residents.

The new health departments have three important functions. First, they assess the needs of their communities by collecting and analyzing relevant information. Second, they develop policies to address health needs by determining priorities and selecting strategies. And finally, each new health department assures that appropriate and necessary services are available and accessible to meet the needs of their community. This can include linking people to medical and mental health services or providing services that are otherwise not available.

The benefits of establishing local health departments include having the opportunity to educate people about emerging health problems; providing early screening and detection for chronic diseases; finding the cause of infectious disease outbreaks; mobilizing community coalitions to reduce youth alcohol, tobacco and drug abuse; ensuring clean, water, and sanitation; and improving public safety.

Clearly, the new departments will continue to enhance public health while greatly improving our ability to respond to bioterrorism or a public health emergency.

Soon, all across our "Nebraska United," you will be able to access a local public health department to serve your needs and the needs of your family, friends, neighbors and community. To learn more about public health or to find an office near you, contact the Office of Public Health at (402) 471-7898.

Northeast student body has learners of all ages

A walk through the halls at Northeast Community College on a typical class day might surprise someone who hasn't been on a college campus in 30 years.

That's because the face of the typical college student has changed. Thirty years ago, most college students were 18-22 year olds. Today, it's not at all unusual to see a 40-something learner or even a 60-something student.

Adult learners over the age of 25 are typically called non-traditional students. Many return to college because they've lost a job or are displaced homemakers. Others are there because the farm economy is bad. Some have been hurt on a job and still others just want a career change.

"The enrollment growth of the non-traditional student is expected to continue to rise," said Chris Lahm, dean of enrollment management at Northeast. "According to statistics, the average person will make major career changes between three and five times during his or her lifetime of work."

"We also know that the average 18 year old will change jobs 9.2 times before he or she reaches the age of 34," Lahm said. "For many of these individuals that means additional education or training."

The average age of full- and part-time students at Northeast is 27, with the national average age of community college students being 32 years. During the Fall, 2001, semester, 37 percent of Northeast's students were non-traditional students.

Many Northeast courses are now available in the evening for those who work full-time jobs. Others are offered on-line using the Internet and others may be taken as off-campus classes in 38 different communities in northeast Nebraska. Students may also take a telecourse through a live television feed from a distant site.

David Ahlman, 62, Elgin, felt his transition back to college was fairly easy. "The faculty helped a lot and I found the kids courteous and friendly," he said. "Oh, sure, I was nervous at first, but it wasn't at all hard." Ahlman attends classes with his 19-year-old son, Edward, who is majoring in auto body technology.

"Although no hard, fast, grade point averages are available, a number of studies indicate that age does not impair basic skills for effective study and intellectual deficits do not occur with the aging process," Lahm said. "We also know that older students have more effective study strategies and better time management skills. This all adds up to success."

Because the non-traditional students often have more financial responsibilities, they are concerned about college costs and pay scales following completion of their two-year degrees or one-year diplomas. Tuition and fees at Northeast are $53.50 per credit hour for on-campus classes and $50.75 a credit hour for off-campus classes. Financial aid is available.

According to the Northeast Community College 2001 Graduate Employment Report, graduates with an associate of applied science degree in agribusiness can earn up to $15.38 an hour. Utility line graduates can earn up to $18 an hour while associate degree nursing students can make up to $20.50 an hour. Criminal justice majors with an associate of arts degree report up to $22 an hour.

Lyle Kathol, dean of Northeast's transportation/construction division, said that students with an associate of applied science degree in electromechanical technology can find maintenance positions in manufacturing plants, hospitals, public buildings and agriculture. Entry-level salaries range from $14-$18 an hour, he said.

"The older students are a great source of inspiration to the younger learner," Dr. Bill Path, president of Northeast Community College said. "Their experience, their patience, their determination all are an inspiration to an 18-year-old."

Do we really want this war, now?

Public enemy No. 1 has been declared and public enemy No. 2 is now coming to the front again. It was amazing to read the latest detailed plans for an invasion of Iraq in the New York Times last week. The general reaction of Americans to this news was even more amazing: Basically, there was no reaction. We seem to be distant observers of our own nation's preparation for war, watching with horror or approval or indifference a process we have nothing to do with and cannot affect. Which is just about the case.

Jimmy Jo's Jams
By: James Shanks

Who really wants this war? Polls show that a modest and shrinking majority of Americans will choose military action to remove Saddam Hussein when someone holding a clipboard confronts them with a list of options. But does anything like a majority of the citizenry hold this view with the informed intensity that a decision for war deserves? I doubt it. And how many of that pro-"military action" majority imagine that it will be nearly blood-free on our side, based on the experience of the Gulf War, which turned out that way precisely because President Bush's father decided not to try to topple Saddam?

Abroad, nearly all of America's major allies are against it. The Arab states surely dream about being rid of Saddam Hussein. But they won't give public support or permission to use their land and airspace, which is not too much to ask if we're going to save them from a threat as great as Saddam is said to be. Even the Kurdish opposition within Iraq apparently thinks that being liberated by Superpower America, while nice, would be more trouble than it is worth. That's trouble to them, not to us! Their worries are due to the high population of Palestine refugees and born countryman. With the issue between Palestine and Israel no where to being solved, this would create an uneasy feeling within their population to possibly revolt. So you can understand why they are hesitant.

Ask around at work, or among your family: Is anyone truly gung-ho? It seems as if true enthusiasm for all-out war against Iraq is limited to the Bush administration and a subset of the Washington policy establishment. The Democratic leadership in Congress feigns enthusiasm, which amounts to the same thing in terms of responsibility for the consequences. You are what you pretend to be. The Democrats feign out of fear of seeming weak-kneed. Bush's enthusiasm seems genuine and is therefore more mysterious. Crude Oedipal theories (triumphing where Dad failed) are tempting, but not as plausible as the simple possibility that he sincerely believes Saddam poses a danger big enough to justify risking massive bloodshed and his own political ruin. And maybe he's right.

Or Bush may be bluffing. At his press conference Tuesday, he blamed the leak of those war plans on "somebody down there at level five flexing some 'know-how' muscle." He may be right about that, too—depending on what on earth he means. Or he may be lying, and the leak may be part of an official strategy of threatening all-out war in the hope of avoiding it, by encouraging a coup or persuading Saddam to take early retirement or in some other way getting him gone without a massive invasion.

It's often said that modern warfare has no place for an 18th century conceit like the declaration of war. People who usually insist quite strongly that the original intent of the constitution's framers requires no concessions to modernity say (this, in fact.) But despite the modern issues of terrorism and "weapons of mass destruction," there is an old-fashioned quality to our confrontation with Iraq. It is about an imperial power demanding acquiescence from a rogue state. That doesn't make the United States the bad guy. It does mean that events are proceeding in a deliberate, slow-motion way that leaves plenty of time for citizens to debate and decide—if that's the way we want to do it.

Drug use on the rise

Recently a group of approximately 24 people gathered to confidentially discuss the availability and use of illegal drugs in Wayne. Attending the meeting were people from the City, Wayne Public Schools, Wayne State College, Law enforcement personnel, the Medical/ Mental Health community and concerned citizens.

It was pointed out that there appears to be an increase in the use of marijuana among school age children. Some opinions expressed by those in attendance state that the number of high school age students trying and using marijuana has been quite high for years. In addition, it is believed by some that the number of middle school age kids trying marijuana has been increasing also.

An opinion was expressed that the increase could be the result of a couple factors. The first factor pointed out was that the fines for the possession of marijuana are less than the fines for Minor in Possession of Alcohol. Thus it appears to be sending a message to the youth of the community that marijuana must not be as bad. In addition, marijuana is easier to hide and in many cases parents do not know what kinds of signs to look for that would indicate the use of marijuana by their children.

An additional fact made available was that through testing it has been learned that some marijuana being used in the Wayne community is being laced or treated with other drugs including methamphetamine. It was explained that methamphetamine is extremely addictive and does cause a change in brain functioning with each use which is resulting in brain damage.

It was also noted that there appears to be an increase in the community in the availability and use of the drugs methamphetamine, cocaine and ecstasy. Ecstasy is often used at parties and has been considered as a contributing factor to date rapes.

Holding additional informational meetings with parents was discussed. Parents wanting additional information can contact the Police Department or Jill Belt at Providence Medical Center. A website was also suggested to the parents as a source for additional information on drugs. That website is www.theantidrug.com.

Perception causes problems

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

It was probably this summer's extraordinary heat.

That's why a few members of the Legislature got together to form a "sportsman's caucus."

Heat can make people do stuff that doesn't make sense. People suffering with the heat have been known to slap themselves in the face while trying to swat a fly - and holding a bowling ball in their swatting hand.

Forming a loosely-knit interest group within the Legislature is one thing. Giving it a name is another thing; and it's not a good thing.

The Legislature has only 49 members. The club is too small to support the idea of official cliques within itself.

Loyalty to an idea or a piece of legislation is one thing. Identifying a caucus around it can give the appearance of something more than that. That's why word of the sportsman's caucus made some non-members nervous.

In Congress and big-state legislatures, there are so many caucuses that their existence hardly matters. In the smallish, officially non-partisan Unicameral, something that could be perceived (fairly or otherwise) as a buddy-buddy voting bloc is problematic.

Lawmakers scuffle to gather support from their colleagues on myria issues, and sometimes feelings get hurt. The Legislature doesn't need the potential for more suspicions that someone's loyalty on one issue could be decided because of loyalty to an entirely different issue.

When Charley Thone was governor, a group of conservatives caused themselves all kinds of grief by forming a sort of ultraconservative caucus. They were known as "Thone's Clones." They got into all kinds of mischief and, eventually, they got into the newspapers for doing dumb stuff like generating an "enemies list."

Again: It is the perception of what a caucus means that causes trouble.

Can anyone doubt that there is what amounts to an anti-abortion caucus in the Legislature? Or that a "keep business happy" caucus exists?

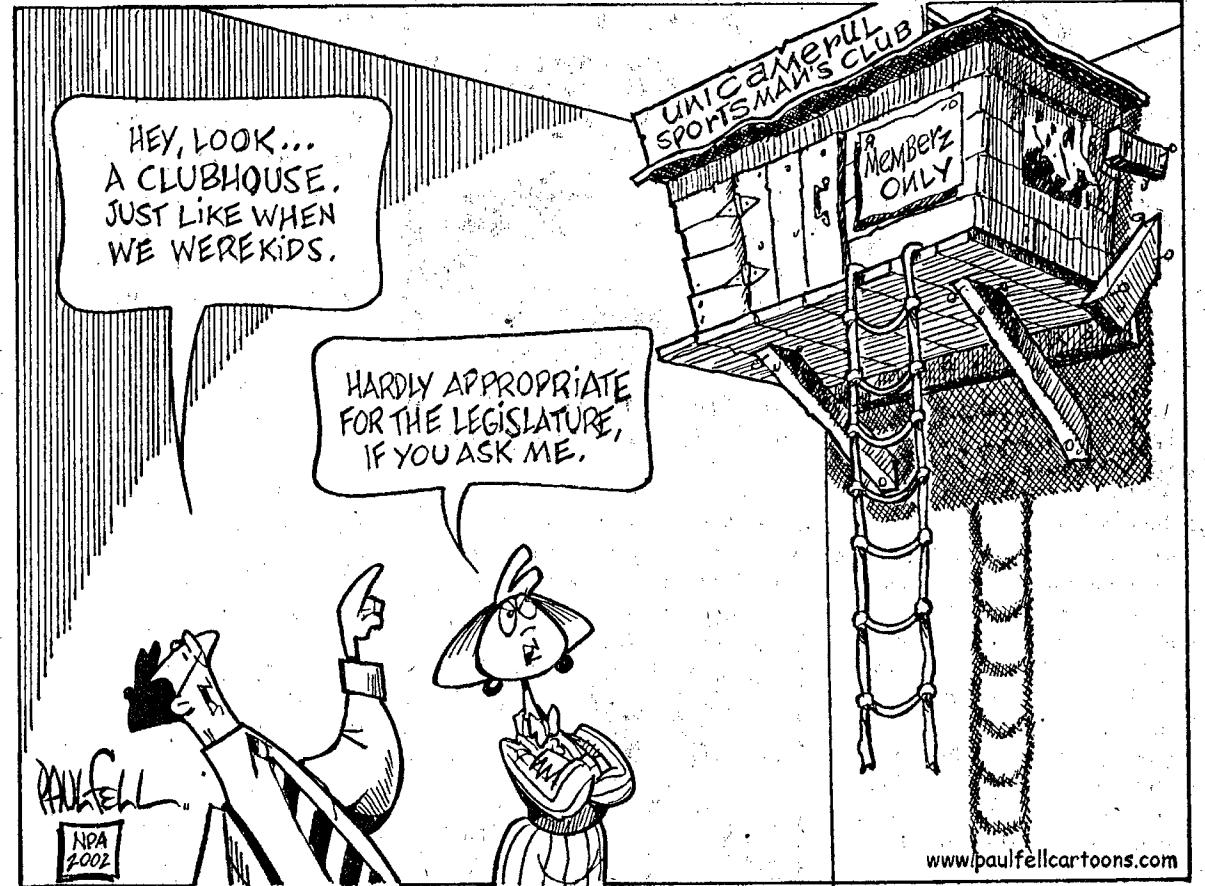

But if people who support individual causes begin meeting regularly in private, as an entity with a name on it, suspicion and trouble will follow.

Identify a group as a caucus and it creates barriers: Members on one side, everyone else on the other.

The Unicameral is known for "shifting alliances." That means two lawmakers can be "for" each other on one issue, and "agin" one another on something else.

Clubhouse gatherings of like-minded solons - in things called coalitions, dens, packs, coveys or covens - create perceptions that are likely to create more unrest than desired results.

Recreation trail to run through town

City Council City Hall at Third and Pearl.
The City Council will meet Tuesday, July 30 at 7:30 p.m. in Water Supply
Our city water system is currently handling the heavy turf watering use. Our current pumping capacity provides a comfortable reserve for city use and we have no problems with water supply or the pumping system at this time.

Contractors will begin laying the maple gymnasium flooring in August. Our expected open date remains Nov. 1.

Wayne Recreation Trail
The majority of Phase 1 of the trail will be built on city property. The trail is planned as a 2.5 mile, 10-foot wide concrete trail beginning at the southeast end of the Wayne State College fitness trail and ending at Henry Victor Park.

Only non-motorized use of the trail will be allowed. To connect some of the city owned areas, we have contacted some property owners about 14-foot easements on their property and most are okay with them. We will be working on the final trail location and design this summer and building the trail next spring.

Ninety percent of the cost of the trail will be paid with federal trail funds and Lower Elkhorn NRD funds.

During the community trail meetings in 2001, we put together a long term Master Plan for additional trails in and around Wayne that could be built in phases. We are taking requests for maps or questions in the city office.

Thank you for the hospitality

Nebraska Secretary of State John Gale experienced his first Wayne Chicken Days celebration recently.

Gale and his wife, Carol, rode in the Wayne Chicken Days parade Saturday morning. Full of Chicken Days spirit, the couple waved to onlookers with small chicken puppets.

"All the events had good crowds, great entertainment, and Grade A quality food," Gale said. "The parade was a real crowd pleaser."

Gale's attendance fulfilled a promise he made in March to Wayne residents Bill Reeg and Mark Ahlman. Both assured Gale he would have an "egg-citing" day if he attended the celebration.

At the time of his promise, Gale was in town speaking to the high school seniors about voting and citizenship. The stop was part of a statewide tour of 50 high schools by Gale, who is the state election officer.

Gale practiced law in North Platte for 30 years before being appointed Secretary of State in December 2000. In addition to serving as the state elections officer, Gale serves as a member of the State Pardon's Board, Real Estate Commission and the Brand Committee. The Secretary of State's office also handles corporation registration, notaries and Uniform Commercial Code filings.

On Saturday, Gale attended the morning Omelet Feed and watched the end of the parade after participating himself. Following the parade, Gale met with several local residents and attended the Chicken Feed. Lowell and Kathy Johnson, Rick Endicott and Bill Dickey served as hosts for John, his wife Carol, and his staff members.

Deciding which of several parades to attend each weekend is often a difficult decision for state officials, but Gale marked Wayne on his calendar well in advance. Coming back to Wayne was an easy decision, Gale said, because it felt like coming back to a hometown.

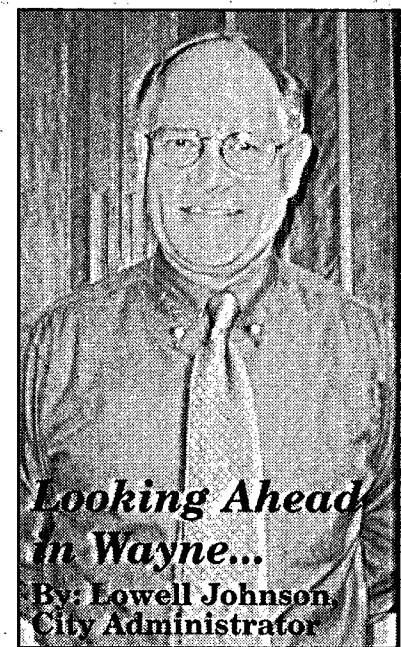

"Community festivals like Wayne's Chicken Days are part of the family fun and folklore of rural Americana," Gale said. "They give pride and spirit to all Nebraskans and I enjoy celebrating that spirit." Gale said he has enjoyed Wayne since the days his brother Jim, now a chiropractor in North Platte, attended Wayne State. At that time, Gale's family often came to Wayne to visit Gale's younger brother.

Gale promises he will be back in Wayne soon, including a stop next spring for the State's Birthday Party. The office of the Secretary of State annually hosts a Statehood Birthday party on or about March 1 of each year. Traditionally, over 2,000 fourth-graders celebrated the day in Lincoln, Omaha and Grand Island. The parties are for fun and entertainment, but also for education. Fourth-graders study Nebraska history, which reinforces what the students are learning and allows them to display their knowledge.

Next year, the festivities will expand to include celebrations in Wayne, Scottsbluff and North Platte. In Wayne, the celebration will be held at Wayne State College. With the new sites, Gale hopes 5,000 additional fourth-graders will now have the chance to celebrate Nebraska, which became a state on March 1, 1867.

"I'm pleased Dr. Stearns has graciously offered Wayne State as a site, and that the party will now be celebrated in Northeast Nebraska," Gale said. "Wayne will be an excellent town to host the anniversary of the birth of our state."

the day's events with ease and there would be no tickets to worry about.

Everyone was busy talking when it was time for the lunch stop. The driver pulled into the Cracker Barrel in Council Bluffs, Iowa and everyone got out. Heading into the restaurant, which was full of people, a line formed along the wall until everyone could be seated. Besides a restaurant, the Cracker Barrel is also a store with many things to look at while waiting in line. As it turned out, the food was good but the service was slow which put the group behind in the day's schedule. With the aid of a cell phone, though, Ginny notified the next stop and had them wait major steamboat landing.

On the way home, chatter filled the bus and laughter echoed as members talked about the comedy play they had seen.

As the group crossed the Platte River, the water was lower than ever. Some of the corn fields along the way were brown, too. Clouds gathered with lightning off to the east. The group prayed for rain and hoped the clouds were near home too.

Ginny had everyone hand in their nametags and a drawing was held. There were four lucky winners: Joanne McNatt, Dorothy Johnson, Arlene Bargholz, and Mary Wax, who each received $5.

Conversation quieted down as the group traveled home. The driver turned towards Fremont where he stopped at Sapp Brothers Truck for the bus load.

Passing over the Missouri state line, comments of "Oh!" echoed as only one person had made that prediction. A person towards the back of the bus said the next stop would be St. Jo.; Ginny smiled and said, "Well, we'll see."

Nearing Brownville, Ginny announced that Francis Nichols was the winner of $5 as she had guessed where the group was going.

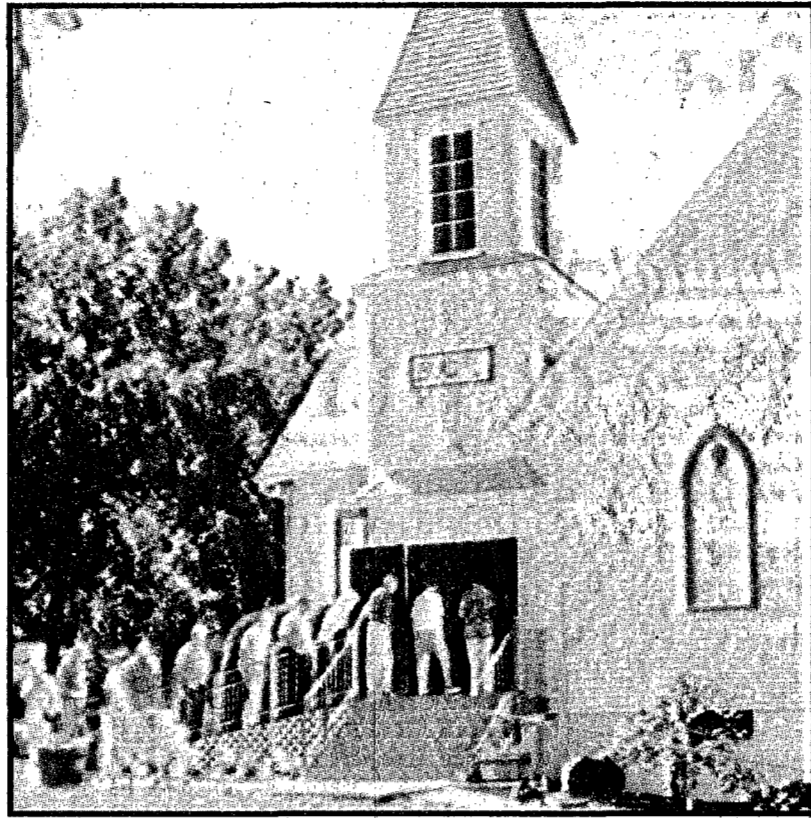

The driver parked by the Brownville Village Theatre and the group hurried to get to their seats as the crew of the play, "The Nerd" was waiting for them. The theatre was cool and felt good as the day was getting very warm.

Roars of laughter rang through the crowd as the play progressed. Afterwards, there was a chance to have lemonade and meet the actors and actresses.

Following the play, a cruise down the Missouri on the "Spirit of Brownville," was scheduled. The Spirit is reminiscent of the stern-wheeler era. The vessel has two decks, is 61 feet long, 21 feet wide, and can carry 150 passengers.

On board, the group headed to the lower deck where they were seated. The food was good but it was warm in the room as the air-conditioner couldn't quite keep up with the number of people. Jane Smith, the captain's wife, told Ginny this was the 33rd year for she and husband to be involved in the river cruises. Their family is involved too as their daughters helped take tickets when everyone boarded the vessel.

Some Century Club members toured the premises and found the music piped throughout the bottom deck was coming from a gal playing piano on the top floor. Standing on board, some of the sights to be seen along the shoreline included a big, bald eagle drinking water, a bridge that spanned the river, and a couple of granaries with augers on them to fill cargo barges for transportation on the Missouri. Sunday.

The break was a short one and once again everyone boarded the bus; this time for the final stretch. Out came the snacks again as Ginny felt it was time for some candy.

While traveling, sprinkles had turned into rain but then stopped before reaching home. When the group approached Wayne, water puddles were seen and cheers were heard. Everyone was tired as it had been a long day but a good one. The bus came to a stop and good-byes were said until the next time the group takes off on a journey.

There's always room for more on their adventures and the friendly bunch welcomes newcomers.

Parents urged to contact Federal Reviewers of CPS

July 15-19, there was a major review of Nebraska Child Protective Services, which was titled the Child and Family Services Review. The Final Report should be released within 30 days.

Nebraska parents active in parent advocacy organizations, such as CPS Watchers, CPS Watch, and VOCAL (Victims of Child Abuse Laws), are expressing grave concern that natural parents across the state were not notified of the Review process, or allowed to participate (except for a "random 50 cases").

CPS Watchers of Omaha is urging all natural parents (or other relatives) who have any complaints about Child Protective Services anywhere in Nebraska to send their written testimony, postmarked on or before July 31st, to: Mary McKee, Program Specialist, Administration of Children and Families, Region VII, 601 East 12th Street, Room 276, Kansas City, MO. 64106-2808

Citizens submitting written testimony should specifically state in their letter a request that their written testimony be accepted for the Nebraska Child and Family Services Review, because they have knowledge of illegal and/or unethical practices by CPS caseworkers or the juvenile court in Nebraska, and because they are the natural parent (or other relative) of a child placed in Nebraska foster care.

The reviewers are paid to evaluate: abuses in foster care; if parents were allowed input in the Case Planning Process; were Reasonable Efforts followed to keep the child in the home or to return the child to the home; was the length of stay in foster care appropriate; how effectively is the agency preserving or maintaining the important connections and relationships of children while they are in foster care; among other questions.

CPS Watchers, CPS Watch, and VOCAL are self-help and advocacy organizations, working to try to stop abuses against children and families by child protection caseworkers, foster homes, and other parts of the CPS system.

CPS Watch has an educational and self-help website for parents at: www.cpswatch.com

Wayne girls softball competes at state

by Mike Grosz
Of the Herald

The Wayne 16-under girls softball team ended its season sooner than expected Saturday at the Class C State Tournament in Auburn.

A 30-8-2 regular season record, including a league-leading 15-1 mark, had Wayne fans filled with high expectations heading into the 24-team, double-elimination tournament. But several errors cost Wayne in its two losses, sending the team home with a 1-2 record at state.

Saturday's first game saw

Wayne fall to Wakefield 4-3. Wayne had only one hit in the game, a single by Dawn Jensen. Wayne did use ten walks by Wakefield pitching to help score its three runs, but committed four errors which led to three of Wakefield's runs. Ashley Carroll was the losing pitcher despite

Wayne Legion begins Area play

by Mike Grosz
Of the Herald

The Wayne Senior Legion baseball team received no favors as the top-seed in the Class B Area 3 American Legion Baseball Tournament in North Bend.

Omaha Roncalli blanked Wayne 11-0 in Saturday's opening game of the tournament for the locals. Travis Luhr and Adam McGuire had the only hits for Wayne in the game.

Starting pitcher Brad Hochstein was tagged with the loss, allowing five runs, only two earned, in two-thirds of an inning. He allowed four hits in suffering just his second loss of the season against seven wins. Adam McGuire tossed three and one-third innings, allowing five runs on four hits. Travis Luhr tossed the final inning, giving up one run on two hits.

Wayne committed five errors in the game, leading to seven unearned runs scored by Roncalli.

Wayne bounced back in the loser's bracket Monday with a 13-3 win over Arlington.

Wayne scored at least one run in every inning and pounded out ten hits in the win. Offensively, Brad Hochstein was 3 for 3 and scored four times. Adam Hoffman and Eric Sturm each added two hits. Adam McGuire hit a two-run homer with Jon Ehrhardt adding a double and Andy Baker chipping in with a single.

Mike Sturm was the winning pitcher, allowing two runs on five hits in four innings of work. Travis Luhr pitched the final inning, allowing one run with three strikeouts.

On Tuesday, the team fell to Blair by a score of 3-2.

Adam McGuire suffered the loss, coming in relief of Brad Hochstein. Runs were scored by Adam Hoffman and Andy Baker.

Wayne left seven runners in scoring position, including a popped up into a triple play on a suicide squeeze in the eighth inning. The inning ended with bases loaded.

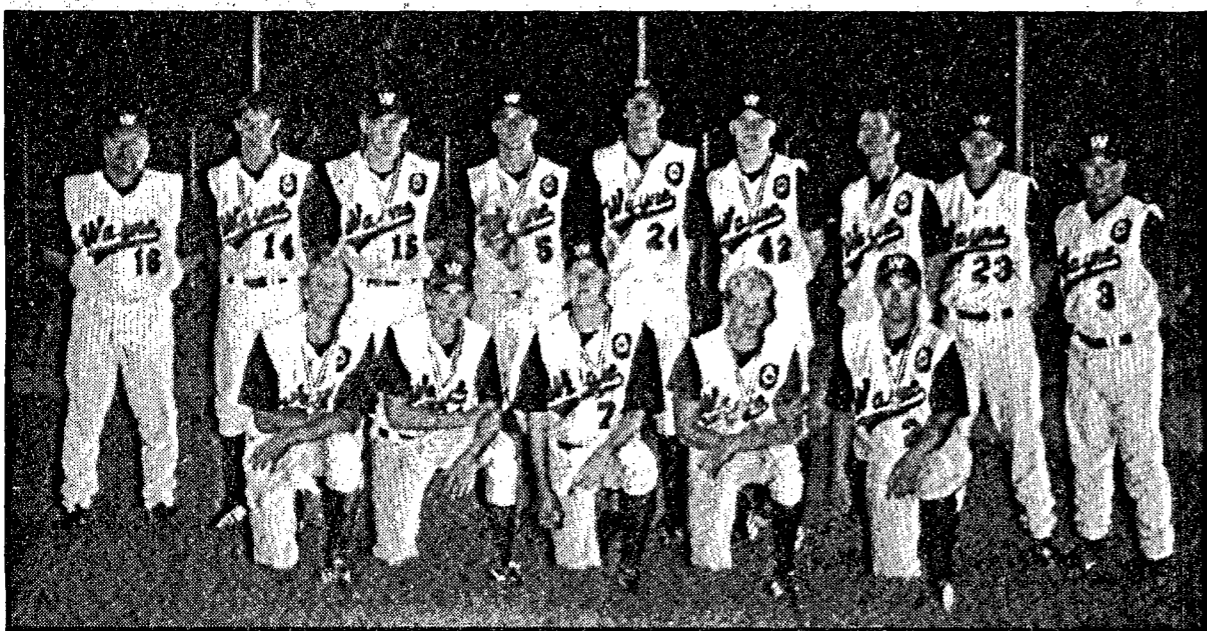

The Seniors end the season with a record of 25-8.

The Wayne Junior Legion team saw their season come to an end Sunday, falling in the first round to Omaha Roncalli 17-7. Wayne trailed 12-1 in the fourth inning, but scored five runs to make it a 12-7 game. Roncalli then scored five more runs to put the game away.

Aaron Jorgensen was 3 for 3 with two doubles to lead Wayne's offense. Wade Jarvi added two hits. Matt Roeder doubled and Josh Hartwell singled.

Nathan Milander was the losing pitcher for Wayne.

The Wayne Juniors end the season with a record of 8-16.

Wayne bounced back with a 16-0 win over Schuyler in a game that lasted just three innings. Erin Jarvi was the winning pitcher and had six strikeouts for Wayne. Offensively, Ashley Carroll and Jessica Jammer each had three singles, Jarvi had a double and single, Rachel Robins and Jessica Thomsen had two singles apiece with Tiffany Gagner and Dawn Jensen each recording a single.

The next game saw North Bend

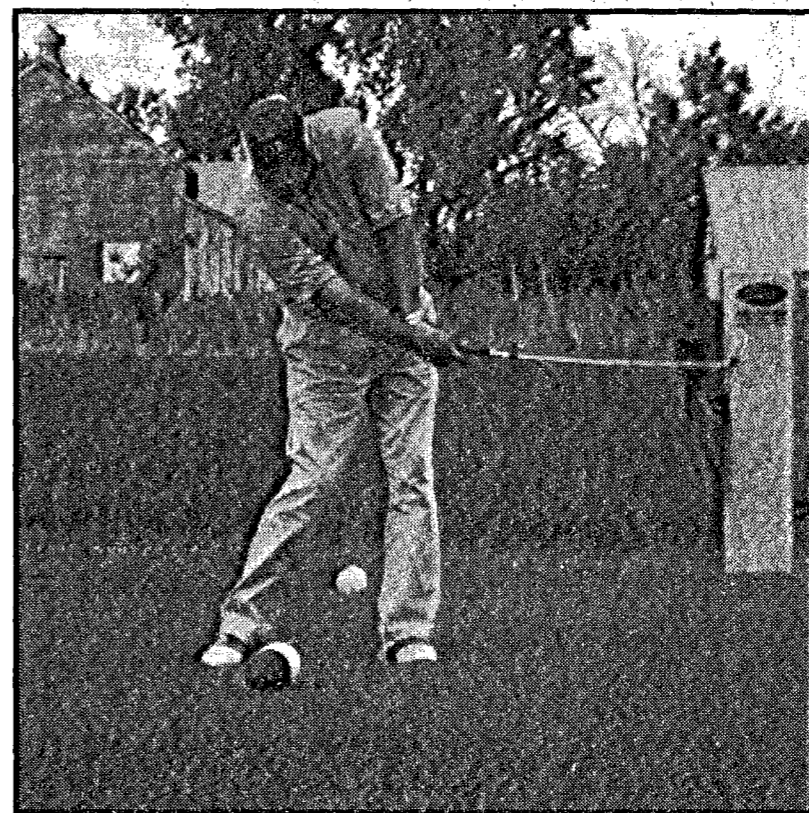

avenge several regular season losses to Wayne with a 10-5 win, knocking the Wayne girls out of the tournament. Four errors on defense helped North Bend in the win. Jenny Raveling had a triple and two singles to lead Wayne offensively. Other hitters were Jessica Thomsen with a double and Micaela Weber and Ashley Carroll each with a single. Carroll was the losing pitcher 31-10-2 record. Coach Joel Munson said "an unbelievably successful season ended on a sour note at state. Most of these girls will be a part of the new high school team and I hope their success will translate into success this fall.

The Laurel 16-under team also competed in Auburn, going 1-2. Laurel lost its first game to Dawson-Verdon 13-6, then beat Osmond 10-8 before falling to Foster Fury 8-6.

New outdoor gear is unveiled at ICAST Show

I just returned from the 2002 ASA ICAST Show in Las Vegas and was really impressed with many of the things I saw at the show.

Many of the manufacturers have put a lot of time and research into getting youth involved in fishing.

South Bend has come up with a CD-ROM and rod and reel combo that will help not only give the kids the equipment to get started in fishing, it also has a CD-ROM that makes learning about fishing enjoyable.

The CD shows the kids all about the different species of fish, where they are located and why and what they eat. There's an equipment section that shows and talks the kids through the different types of equipment and how to use them.

As I mentioned, the CD talks the kids through the fishing process. As the kids read the information on the screen, an announcer is explaining the information and the fish, equipment and locations are shown on the screen.

This way, the kids see and hear about fishing.

There's also a game that the kids can play that allows them to cast to different areas and when the lure hits the water, the kids can see and hear why the fish are in that area and if they're lucky, the fish that are cruising the area will bite and they can catch a fish.

Designed for use on either Windows or Macintosh, the CD is a great way to get kids started in fishing and is free with the purchase of South Bend Character Spincast Pond Pals, Mr. Big Fish For Kids and Amazing Fisherman compos. I think that the CD will be a great way for parents, teachers and aquatic educators to get kids and even adults into the great outdoors and the sport of fishing.

If you'd like more information on this and other South Bend products, you can go to the web site at www.south-bend.com

Another piece of equipment that really peaked my interest was the new Minn Kota CoPilot remote control system that allows the you to run your Power Drive unit from any where in the boat without being tied to the foot pedal.

CoPilot, is a small wireless remote that can be attached to your reel, wrist or belt and it's waterproof and will float if you happen to drop it in the water.

There are five control buttons on the remote that allow you to:

increase the speed, decrease the speed, steer left, steer right and to turn the propeller on or off.

The neat thing is that the unit, which is economically priced, can be added to several of Minn Kota's most popular models. The unit will easily mount on an existing electric steer Minn Kota Power Drive, Power Drive with Auto Pilot or Riptide with Autopilot.

For more information on the new Minn Kota CoPilot or any of other Minn Kota products, you can check out their web site at www.minnkotamotors.com

Another item, that I think will be a big advantage to anglers in the upper Midwest will be the Tyger Leader. It's a super strong, small diameter stainless steel leader that you can tie your own leaders with.

Where this will be a big advantage is when you're trolling crankbaits for Walleyes in an area that has Northern Pike. Nothings more frustrating than having the Northerns keep ripping off your $5 and $6 crankbaits.

The Tyger Leader will allow you to tie a flexible small diameter leader, using a loop knot in front of your crankbait, which will let you land the Northerns and retrieve that crankbait instead of having the Northern swim off with it in it's jaws.

The Tyger Leaders smaller diameter lets you use a super strong leader in front of your crank bait or other rig and not take away from the action of the lure.

Tyger Leaders are available from 2 Lb., 5 Lb., 30 Lb., 50 Lb., 70 Lb. and 120 Lb strength.

They are available in 10, 30, 50 lengths and 100 foot spools.

For more information on the Tyger Leaders, check out their web site at www.tygerleaders.com

These items are just a few of the new things that were introduced this year at the ICAST show, next week we'll talk about some of the other new tackle and line that will help you to catch fish in all types of fishing conditions for all types of fish.

Herbs for Health

Leafy Vegetables May Decrease Macular Degeneration Risk

The macula is the part of the eye that is responsible for fine vision. When the macula is damaged, fine vision is lost or is diminished. In the US and Europe, macular degeneration is the most common cause of severe vision loss in persons aged 55 and older.

Numerous studies have shown that people who consume large quantities of dark, leafy green vegetables (herbs used for food) have less risk for this serious problem. These plants contain nutrients called carotenoids. (Some supplements contain carotenoids from plants.) Two carotenoids - lutein and zeaxanthin - are concentrated in the retinas of humans and other primates.

A report in a 1994 issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association describes the evaluation of 876 individuals aged 55 to 80. Of this number, 356 had age-related macular degeneration. Persons with the highest intake of dark, leafy green vegetables had 43% lower risk for macular degeneration as compared to those with the lowest intake.

Back-to-school tip is given

Getting an "A" on back-to-school shopping on a budget may be easier if you think "D" for denim. This versatile, durable fabric is always in fashion and can be dressed up or down, depending on the occasion.

Versatile, durable denim is always in fashion. It can help cost-conscious parents make the most of a back-to-school budget.

To keep things interesting, this simple wardrobe staple comes in fashionably different washes, finishes and cuts.

Here are a few tips from the experts at OshKosh B'Gosh:

*Buy solid color clothing items that can be layered and worn with a variety of other pieces to extend wear. A wide variety of colors and fabrics coordinate well with denim which makes it easier to get dressed and make the most of existing clothing.

*Elastic waistbands are comfortable and fit longer, as children grow. The same is true for adjustable straps for jumpers and overalls.

*Compose a list before shopping and take your child's measurements with you.

Because sizes differ between brands, many parents prefer to make shopping simpler by focusing on a trusted brand name known for its quality, durability and reliable sizing.

Quality clothes do not necessarily have to cost more, if you shop in advance and look for sales.

A good example is the children's clothing from OshKosh B'Gosh. OshKosh B'Gosh began as a maker of denim bib overalls. Today, the company is one of the top branded children's wear suppliers in the industry.

From their trademark bib overalls which now come in a variety of patterns and decorative styles, the line has grown to include baby clothes; swimwear; outerwear; shoes; and girls' and boys' accessories such as hats, bags and socks.

Work on the Lied Winside Public Library is progressing; plans and selections are being made for inside work.

chance to help and remember loved ones. Individuals or groups who purchase a bookshelf will have a plaque placed on the shelf designating in whose memory or name it was purchased for.

"The oak shelving will be made by Cornhusker State Industries, a Nebraska Correctional Service Program, and we will be able to purchase the oak shelves for approximately half what it would cost elsewhere," said Foundation chairwoman, Lydaisy Janke. "We estimate now that we will be needing about 20 shelves."

There are three sizes of shelves available and three individual prices. The larger, double shelves will be used in the center aisles and have books on both sides. They are 60" x 72" and cost $575. The next size is 72" x 72" and are single wall shelves at a cost of $450. The shorter ones which we will also need a few are 36" x 72" and are $350. Anyone who would be interested in purchasing any of these shelves as a memorial or a dedication can contact any of the committee members: Lydaisy Janke, 286-4488; Scott or Teresa Watters, 286-4118; Darci Frahm, 286-4872; Barb Stenwall, 286-4962 or Carolyn Backstrom, 286-4723.

"The Foundation recently received a $1000 donation from Hawkins Construction Co. of Omaha, for which we are very thankful, as well as many memorials and donations locally since the German Dinner fund raiser we had. Counter tops, cupboards, and carpeting are now being decided on by the committee," Janke said.

"Besides shelves, the library will be needing a new or very clean nice used couch and some comfortable chairs and end tables for the adult reading areas," Janke said. "The children reading area has already been furnished through a generous donation in memory of the late Dr. N.L. Dittman."

"The meeting room will be needing a nice banquet table and chairs as well as a coffee pot and dishes for the kitchen. Two new computers have been donated for the computer area, but there will be room for as many as six."

The outside finishing touches consist of roofing and brick. Peter Construction of Winside has been overseeing the entire construction. Other individuals and contractors in the area have been helping. It is anticipated the library will be completed by November of 2002.

A program was held with Eileen Damme serving emcee. Musical selections by Eileen and daughters, Kim Forsberg and Kay Keenan, included solo, duet, and trio numbers on the piano. A dog skit was presented by Kay Keenan, Mason Forsberg and Eileen. A special dog number to "How Much is that Doggy in the Window?" was by Jeremy Keenan, who also shared special events of 1927. ## Participate in all-star marching band

Five area students were among 245 high school students from Nebraska who were members of the Eighth Annual Masonic All-Star Marching Band, which performed Saturday, July 20 during the Shrine Bowl festivities in Lincoln.

Participating were: from Wayne High School, Emily Brady, daughter of Jeff and Mary Brady of Wayne; Laura Jones, daughter of Jean and Perry Jones of Carroll; Jeffrey J.M. Meyer, son of Wendie and Jeffrey Meyer of Wayne; and Katie Straight, daughter of Rick and Laura Straight of Wayne; and from Allen High School, Jessie Bupp, daughter of Richard and Vicki Bupp of Allen.

The band members devoted four days of intense practice starting July 16, to learn the music, marching steps and field formations. The culmination of their efforts started by leading the Shrine Bowl Parade down Havelock Ave. on Saturday morning; July 20; the band performed at half-time of the 44th Annual Shrine Bowl Football Game in Memorial Stadium on Tom Osborne Field, at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The band members were hosted by the Masons of Nebraska, and were directed by Brad Weber, Dan Sodomka and Dave Bohnert, band directors from Wayne High School, St. Paul High School, and Wayne State College.

Brady, Jones, and Straight each received a scholarship from Wayne Masonic Lodge No. 120 and Wayne Chapter No. 194, Order of the Eastern Star; Meyer received a scholarship from Lincoln Chapter No. 148, Order of the Eastern Star; and Bupp received a scholarship from Golden Rule Masonic Lodge

No. 306, Allen. The scholarships covered the costs of the camp.

"It was rewarding to see the growth in the members over such a short time," Weber said. "These students truly are among the best high school band students in Nebraska. To put together a parade marching program and learn field formations and music in such a short time requires a top effort from every student, and they did it."

Coupled with hard work, the members also participated in a pool party, picnic, dance, and a chance to just hang out. Many are looking forward to the opportunity to use the instruction provided by the band directors when they return to their respective high school bands.

"This band camp was a memory-making experience for the members of the band as well as their adult chaperones," said Michael E. Jones, Grand Master of Masons of Nebraska. "Not only did the students provide support for the Shrine Hospital charity, they rekindled old friendships and made new ones during this past week of work and fun."

Family Services Coordinator Becky Gomez, left, and Family Services Assistant Director Krista Heineman were among the Goldenrod Hills staff who led Electronic Benefits Transfer training sessions throughout Northeast Nebraska.

Training for EBT cards offered

Goldenrod Hills Community Services staff have been offering Electronic Benefits Transfer or EBT card training through the 14-county area for which the community action agency provides programs.

purchase food items which could be paid for in the past by food stamps. Cards may be applied for at Health and Human Services offices and are based on income.

In addition to Family Services and Spanish Translation, Goldenrod Hills's programs include Weatherization; Kids Connection enrollment; Lead Poisoning Awareness and Screening; Public Health Nursing; Immunization; Women, Infants and Children Nutrition; Head Start; Early Development Network Services Coordination for children with disabilities; HOME; Maternal and Child Health Programs; and Every Woman Matters breast and cervical cancer screening.

Healthy competition builds character

Many 4-H exhibitors are now creating their projects with excited visions of the many congratulations that will be bestowed upon them for their achievements come county and state fair time.

Indeed, recognition has always been a part of the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension 4-H program. Recognition helps youth become capable and competent by building positive self-esteem and reliance. But exhibitors do not need top honors to be recognized and feel an accomplishment. Indeed, sometimes those who aren't champions learn more than the winners!

The 4-H recognition model is based on human development theory and can help volunteer leaders, parents and judges learn how different types of recognition motivate youth. Such recognition includes participation, acknowledging process toward self-set goals, achieving a standard of excellence, peer competition and cooperation.

Many county fair exhibits are judged based on standards of excellence. The standard serves as a sort of measuring stick. To let exhibitors know whether they have gone beyond or fallen short of an established benchmark. In 4-H, the benchmark is established by land-grant university research, in this case, the University of Nebraska. Evaluating achievement of standards compares each 4-H'er's efforts only against the standards, not against another person's efforts.

In Nebraska 4-H, each exhibit is awarded a ribbon based on the Danish Ribbon System:

Purple — project is outstanding and exceeds all standards.

Blue — project is above-average, with almost all of the standards met in a way that surpasses the norm.

Red — project is average, with the majority of standards met, but not exceeded.

White — project needs improvement, with many standards met.

Children learn resiliency from their challenges, and striving to do better and move up the ribbon ladder is just one way to do that.

Parents must remember that their children's accomplishments should be recognized in their own right, for what they have learned and for their progress in reaching goals. Unfortunately, some parents see their children's exhibits as being more important than the learning taking place. Sometimes, parents see the exhibit as being a way to advertise their own business ventures. This may send a message to the child that their efforts are valued only if they are named top winners, when in fact all exhibitors are winners because they have learned life skills in the process of creating the exhibit.

Lessman family holds reunion

Approximately 65 relatives of Charles Lessman, formerly of Dalton, spent July 5-6 renewing friendships and acquaintances. The Meround Lessmann family came from Wayne (the family root area); the Mitchells from Yankton, S.D.; the Hollmans from Clatonia; the Schilz' from Gering, Scottsbluff in Nebraska and Longmont and Northglenn, Colo.; Campions and Meyers from Loveland, Colo.; Rapps from Lakewood; Severns from Thorton; and Berrys from Alliance. The remainder of the relatives were from the local area. An evening banquet was served and the evening concluded playing cards. The next reunion is scheduled for July 3 and 4, 2005.

Among some of the milestones celebrated were the 60th wedding anniversary of Edward and Verena Lessman and the 50th anniversary of Verdell and Marilyn Lessman, the 100th year of the teddy bear as well as Marvin Aurich's 87th birthday. The Wayne Central Social Circle gathered at Tacos & More on July 11 to observe the club's 90th anniversary. Welcoming the group was Lillian Granquist. As each member was introduced, past memories were shared. A summary of club minutes were read and enjoyed. Verdelle Reeg read a humorous selection, "For All the Girls." A prayer was offered by Verna Creamer. On July 11, 1912, six charter members started the first Central Social Circle. Meetings are held the first Tuesday of each month. The club's purpose is "social, moral and intellectual welfare." The club flower is the goldenrod and the club colors are yellow and white. Former members were guests. They included Marjorie Bennett, Darlene Helgren, Mildred Gramlich, Darlene Gathje, Henrietta Hale, Edna Baier, Ruth Reed, Irene Blecke and Joy Gettman. Current members are Leora Austin, Verna Creamer, Lillian Granquist, Dorothy Meyer, Virginia Preston, Rose Sedivy and Verdelle Reeg. A decorated cake, coffee, mints and nuts were served.

Love of land in everyone

We actually slept with windows open last night! I can't remember the last time we did that. I have a thing about getting fresh air once in awhile.

But we still had no rain. I watched the weather map on Sunday evening as the thunder storms moved to Winside, thinking that at least the farm at Hoskins was receiving moisture.

My cousin Dennis commented once that he thought the Creator had instilled a love of the land in each man, even though very few can actually act on the desire to farm. Those are probably the ones who have beautiful gardens and yards.

Somehow, the Big Farmer gravitates to doctors like that. His primary physician in Norfolk grew up on a farm, and had a large pasture behind his house. On Friday afternoons, you could often see him out there, fixing fence or chopping weeds.

Then, of course, there was the doctor who delivered our kids. He started a Christmas tree business on his farm. The last time I saw him, he was running around in denim and boots and leather gloves. The orthopedic surgeon in Norfolk has retired to organic produce and chickens and mohair goats, while his wife bakes bread and raises squash.

Right after we moved to this acreage, I had a neighbor, a retired surgeon on a small farm, as a hospice patient. His doctor was a pulmonologist in Lincoln who was a joy to work with. He always returned my calls, even after hours, and he acted as though he valued my opinion.

So, when the Big Farmer needed a lung doc, I encouraged him to see Bob Bleicher. Meanwhile, we had purchased a couple of Christmas trees from the Jacobmeier (a transplanted Wayne resident) farm at Eagle.

On his first office visit, Mike and the doc were discussing ways to eradicate musk thistles. It seems this fellow had just purchased the Jacobmeier land.

Anyway, you can imagine, these two got along great. On our visit last fall, the good doctor was telling us it was now a nursery, he had planted lots of different trees, and that he was retiring early. We could hardly believe it.

Yesterday was our last visit with a fine, intelligent, compassionate physician. He's tired of the Medicare hassles and next month is it. He spent last weekend in that heat, watering his trees. We're sad, and amazed, but I can understand his frustration. What a shame that regulations are causing all these mid-life changes. But we are gaining a dedicated tree planter!

Suggestions

ticular can be baled in round bales at around 20 percent moisture. If tonnage is too low to mechanically harvest, drought damaged crops can be grazed.

However, because of the potential for death loss, nitrate toxicity is a concern with corn and sorghum plants. Immature, drought damaged plants are likely to be highest in nitrate content. If nitrates are a concern, grazing should be controlled and cattle removed from the field before they are forced to graze the lower portion of the stalk, where nitrates tend to be in greatest concentration.

In more mature plants that have developed to near maturity, but with very low grain yields, nitrates are usually less of a problem and these can be grazed more heavily. To decrease nitrates in hay and silage, raise cutting height a few inches.

Many cattlemen feed drought-stricken crops as green chop. If the damaged crop is prone to being high in nitrates, take precautions to reduce the risk of livestock losses. A nitrate analysis is recommended. Also, an analysis on the lower 1/3 of the plant prior to harvesting is a good indication of what the highest levels of nitrates may be.

If a nitrate analysis is not conducted on the silage or green chop, then feeding it to a few animals for a couple of days for observation of toxic problems, before offering it to the whole herd, is advisable. Turning a few tester animals in first to screen for nitrates is a good idea if you are going to graze a drought-stricken field. Don't hold green chopped corn or sorghum overnight or let it heat or spoil. A delay in feeding the forage after it is chopped will increase the conversion of nitrates to nitrites by bacterial action and increase toxicity several-fold. Chop and feed on a daily basis using a relatively coarse cut. Do not feed more than the cattle will eat in a few hours.

If green chop is not needed immediately, ensiling can be a way to make high-nitrate forage a safer feed, since silage often loses 1/3 to 1/2 of its nitrate content once fermentation is complete. Of harvesting alternatives available for immature drought-stricken crops, ensiling is preferred.

Before beginning any harvesting, check into any crop insurance provisions that may apply. More information on nitrates and prussic acid may be obtained from the local extension office.

Farmers have option to change

Farm program payment limitations weren't changed in the 2002 Farm Bill, but because of other changes in the law, some producers may hit the $40,000 payment limit for the first time this year.

The changes - higher direct payment rates and the addition of soybeans as a contract commodity - may lead producers to add their spouses as joint operators when describing their operations to the Wayne County Farm Service Agency.

According to Debra J. Pieper, county executive director for the Wayne County FSA, many farming operations involve both a husband and wife who could qualify as separate "persons," but for various reasons, only one spouse has been the program participant and payment recipient. In these cases, both spouses were part of the farming operation as of April 1, but the farming operation was not necessarily represented to the Farm Service Agency as being comprised of both spouses.

Producers can normally add qualified spouses as program participants before April 1 of each year. Since the 2002 Farm Bill was signed into law on May 13 and the new commodity payment rates were announced after that, Pieper said FSA is giving eligible producers until Aug. 1 to add qualified spouses as program participants, effective for 2002.

Pieper cautioned that payment eligibility and payment limitation determinations that apply for 2002, apply to all 2002 payments and benefits, including those already made this year under the 1996 Farm Bill. If based on a revised 2002 "person" determination, the original spouse would not be eligible for 100 percent of the payments already received. The amount of the overpayment must be refunded before the revised determination can be applied.

Additional information about "person" determinations and payment limitations is available from the Wayne County FSA, 709 Providence Road, Wayne, Neb. 68787 or by calling (402) 375-2453, ext. 2.

Skyview Wetlands are given a new name

The Skyview Lake Wetlands in Norfolk have a new name. They will now be known as the Dennis E. Newland Wetlands ~ Outdoor Classroom. Newland was a member of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD) Board of directors for 26 years. After suffering a stroke, Newland resigned from the board in 2000.

Approximately 100 friends and family attended the dedication ceremony last June. Dennis received a plaque which read: "Dennis has been a strong supporter of Environmental Education for years. Throughout his teaching career, he provided leadership for the youth of our area and encouraged them to pursue their interests in the conservation of our natural resources. Dennis had a vision of an outdoor classroom that would be available to people of all ages. His dream was to involve the Norfolk FFA Chapter and other Environmental Education students in the promotion of conservation issues. This dream became reality in 1997 with the development of the Skyview Wetlands. This living laboratory will provide future generations with a year-round classroom of environmental learning."

In a special letter written to the LENRD board and staff, Dennis said, "My years on the board have been a great privilege to serve and be associated with the past and present directors and staff. Words cannot begin to express what serving on the Lower Elkhorn NRD board has meant to me, just know it has been a special part of my life. Thank you for naming the Skyview Wetlands in my honor." A rock has been placed in front of the Wetlands and displays a bronze plaque, honoring Mr. Newland.

Newland was a History Instructor at Norfolk Public Schools from 1965-1996. He served on the LENRD board from 1974-2000.
