PMC receives sub-grant for hearing program

The Nebraska Health and Human Services System Newborn Hearing Screening Program has received a federal grant which allows it to offer sub-grants in 2002 and 2003 to assist Nebraska birthing facilities in purchasing the equipment required for newborn hearing screening.

Providence Medical Center, through Providence Medical Center Foundation, is one of the 24 applicants to receive the $2,000 sub-grant to assist with their newborn hearing screening program.

In accepting the grant, PMC has agreed to purchase hearing screening equipment; arrange for and receive technical assistance and provide training to staff; assure 100 percent rate of newborn hearing screening by Dec. 1, 2002; submit regular reports to the Nebraska Newborn Hearing Screening Program; and submit quarterly reports to the NHHSP that will allow it to monitor quality, needs and progress of the system.

The purpose of newborn hearing screening is to identify children with hearing deficits as early as possible, so that follow-up treatment may be provided in a timely fashion.

The state of Nebraska passed the Infant Hearing Act in 2000 to promote early detection of hearing loss. The goal is to screen at least 95 percent of all newborns born in the state of Nebraska for hearing loss by Dec. 1, 2003.

According to PMC Foundation President Sandra Bartling, charitable contributions have been made to the hearing screening program at Providence Medical Center, including $250 from the Wayne Lions Club, $250 from the Lions Club of Nebraska and $500 from the Wayne Kiwanis Club.

"Unfortunately, statistics indicate that nearly 30,000 children are born in our nation each year with hearing loss. And many of those children are not identified until they are nearly three years old. The Foundation is very pleased that we were able to assist Providence Medical Center in the purchase of portable hearing screening equipment. Now we can be somewhat confident that babies born at our hospital with hearing impairment will be diagnosed in a timely and efficient manner," Bartling said.

Wish for 90th birthday comes true

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Birthday wishes consist of many things for many people but for Eleanor Ellis of Allen, hers was to get a hot-air balloon ride for her 90th birthday. Saturday, her wish came true.

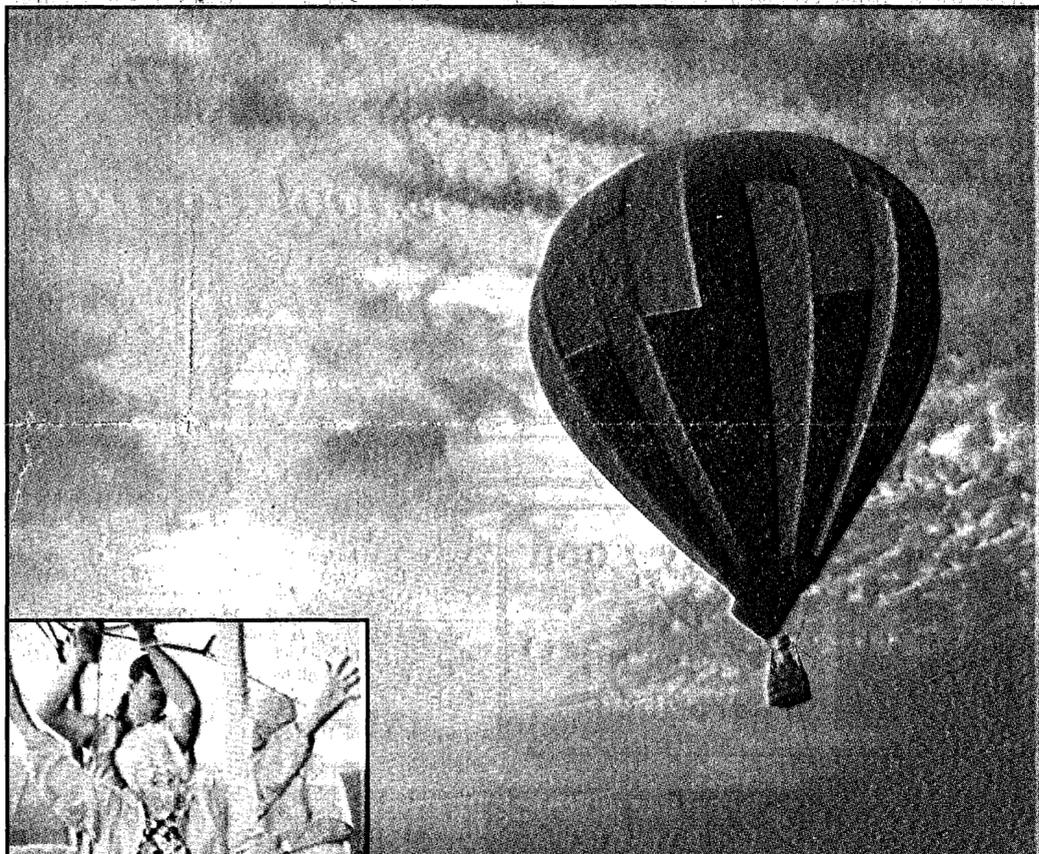

One of her relatives, Gordon Emry of Cozad (originally of Wayne) owns a balloon and plans have been in motion for some time to fulfill her wish. The location for lift off was the pasture by the Methodist Church parking lot in Allen. Ellis is a long-time resident of Allen.

Before starting out on Saturday, Emry called the weather service and found there was very little surface wind but there were stronger winds at higher elevations. Lift off would be tethered (attached by two ropes to Emry's pickup trailer).

Near the ground, weather conditions on Saturday were foggy and still. No wind or very little is needed for a lift off. Starting at daybreak, the sun soon burned off the fog and after sending up a pilot, a small helium-filled balloon to check on wind conditions, Emry decided it was a go on taking up his balloon, Fresh Air 3.

Many friends and relatives were on hand to see her off on her voyage. Most of her eight children were there because an open house was planned at

For her 90th birthday, Eleanor Ellis was able to get her wish of riding in a hot-air balloon. Luckily, weather conditions were good for the early morning balloon flight on Saturday. Ellis puts her arms up in excitement as behind her, balloon owner Gordon Emry, and Bill Snyder look on.

Bearnes wins tour of Costa Rica

As the agricultural community becomes increasingly global, it's crucial that young people considering careers in the industry understand the opportunities and challenges of international trade.

Kylie Bearnes of Laurel was among 56 national FFA award winners, and Curt Friedel, FFA instructor at Laurel-Concord Public School was among nine FFA advisors and three national FFA staff who toured agricultural sites in Costa Rica this summer. The group compared the industry in Central America and the United States. Following an orientation session in Miami, the group departed for a 10-day tour.

Besides Bearnes, there were two other FFA award winners from Nebraska. They were Lucas Haag of Gothenberg and Mark Reiman of Butte. To be eligible, they had to be finalists in their respected national agricultural proficiency, Star Farmer, or Star in Agribusiness at the National FFA Convention in Louisville, Ky. last fall. Her advisor, Curt Friedel of Laurel, also had the opportunity to attend as a sponsor.

First stop on the trip was Miami for two days of orientation and programming consisting of language lessons, cultural diversity activities, and an overview of Costa Rica. They were anxious to get to their final destination of Costa Rica and excitement began to peak after making it through customs and boarding. The group saw mountains, volcanos and oceans as their flight descended down into the tropical paradise.

Their tour officially began when they went to InBiosparque in San Jose. Here they experienced 20 acres of Costa Rica's native ecosystems comprised of tropical rainforest, tropical dry forest, the Central Valley

School Board holds special meeting

A special meeting of the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education was held July 25 at noon.

Dr. Joe Reinert, superintendent, gave a preliminary budget of expenditure report. Based on a 6 percent wage package increase for all staff, Reinert figures with the reduction of staff due to the closing of the Carroll Elementary, they should stay within the budget for 2002-03.

He noted insurance costs are raising and that's a big concern. With the tight budget, there's also concern there won't be money for major expenses or foreseeable items such as replacing the older vans and repairing or replacing the roof of the high school.

More discussion will be held on the budget at the next school board meeting set for Monday, Aug. 12 at 7 p.m. at Wayne High School. By that time legislative session should be finished and there should be more definite numbers to work with. At this point, Wayne Community Schools are facing a $150,000 loss in state aid this year. The board will approve the final budget in September.

Reinert also spoke on the bond resolution. Three hundred eighty five thousand of the $500,000 unused bond budget authority (voted on September, 1998) was accessed on July 25, 2002 by the Wayne Board of Education. In terms of payments, the school will see an increase of approximately $20,597 a year.

The $385,000 will be used for unexpected items in the Wayne Middle School renovation which caused additional building costs.

Some of the additional costs include:

First floor-

1. Wooden floors were placed on 2x4 base directly on the dirt. Additional concrete was poured on the dirt to create a base for the flooring on the bottom floor.

2. There was only a partial foundation below the north inside staircase. A new foundation had to be added.

3. Pier supports located on the edge of the existing building were added to support the new construction.

Second floor-

4. The concrete ceiling in the shop area was poured too thin to support additional weight. A false floor was added above the existing floor to support the upper floors.

5. Asbestos pipe wrapping found in the old gym above the ceiling on the second floor had to be removed.

6. The floor joist system needed additional supports to improve the structural support.

7. Additional support was needed to support steel beams.

Third floor-

8. The floor joist system needed additional supports to improve the structural support.

9. Additional support was needed to support steel beams that were placed on non-load bearing walls.

10. Additional ceiling support was required to increase the structural support of the building.

Roof-

11. Shingled roof on the 1908 section of the building needed replacement due to water damage of the sheathing. The building also had an internal drainage system that was covered with plywood causing the rain water to run down between the lath and plaster. This problem caused additional water problems and damage throughout the building.

12. Double thickness drywall between the third floor and ceiling had to be added for fire separation.

13. Part of the flat roof on the 1939 section of the building was replaced.

14. Two cupolas on the north and south side of the 1908 roof section-were in such bad shape that they were falling through and off the roof. These were removed and the roof had to be repaired.

Other items-

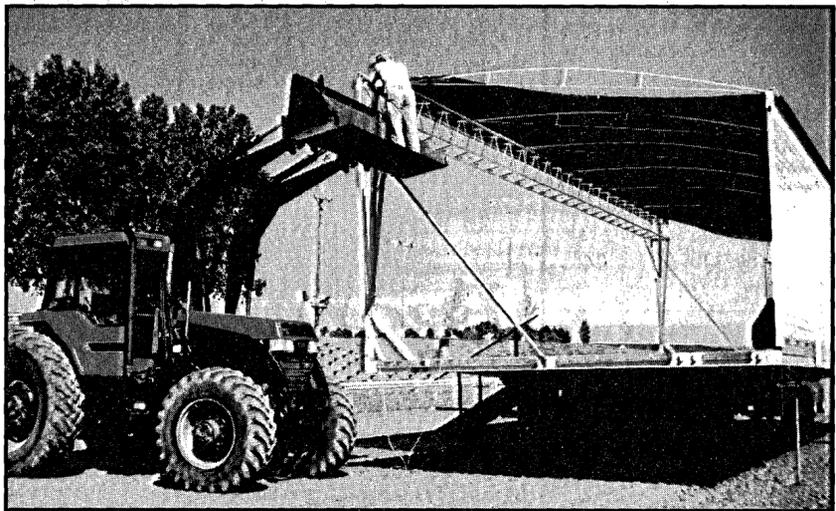

15. Additional reinforcement was required on the south side of the gym due to the slope of the lot and the height of the roof.

16. Working through the winter the building was covered with plastic so that the masons could work and work could proceed inside the building. Additional heating cost was the result of the bad winter in 2001.

17. Interest income from the bond was lower than projected.

No executive session was needed.

The next regular meeting of the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education will be held on Monday, Aug. 12 at 7 p.m. at the Wayne High School.

Blood donations still needed

Dear Editor,
Every day families face tragedies. Approximately 4.5 million Americans receive life saving blood transfusions each year. It is critical that blood remains on the shelves.
As volunteer donors you understand the tremendous need there is for blood donations and you know that when you donate blood you are making a difference in the lives of others. You donate despite the fact that you may never know the people who receive your gifts of life. What a wonderful way to touch the lives of others.

We appreciate the community and their efforts to help with the blood shortage. With your help many patients will have a brighter tomorrow.
The Siouxland Community Blood Bank will be having a community blood drive at: Providence Medical Center, Thursday, Aug. 22, 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

help YOU, YOUR BUSINESS and ultimately, Wayne.

On Monday, I had the pleasure of being involved in a focus group that met in Lincoln to work towards enhancing the Economic Restructuring component of a Main Street Program presently being offered to over 20 Nebraska communities.

The meeting was facilitated by Don Macke, the co-director of the Center for Rural Entrepreneurship. More than a dozen entities/agencies discussed a wide range of topics, from small business transfer to consumer preference surveys and everything in between that dealt with the economy, merchandising, retailing and more. Now it's necessary to tap these resources for the betterment of, not only Wayne, but the entire economic outlook for Nebraska.

A thank you goes out to everyone who shopped Wayne last Thursday through Saturday during the "Christmas in July Sales." Our Promotions Committee is already looking into ways to improve it. Right now they're working on back to school projects as the high school and college will be starting classes very soon.

We are also working on a project that will bring in a speaker to talk about business transition... when owners and operators are reaching a point in their careers where they would like to step away and pass the business on to someone else. We'll keep you posted as Main Street continues to work for Wayne!!!

'Options' could get the axe

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Government programs are something like motor vehicles.

Some people like the stripped down versions, with minimum power and no frills.

Some prefer the kind with bells and whistles. They go for all the options.

The biggest manufacturer of public policy vehicles (otherwise known as government programs) is Uncle Sam. When it comes to programs, the feds offer lots of models and lots of options.

Nowhere is the option list more extensive than in social services programs. Medicaid and Medicare have long been the most popular vehicles in the fleet, so to speak. Health care for the aged and the poor is an expensive, but socially and politically popular, thing. Neither the federal government (being the manufacturer) nor the states (being the consumers) would think of dropping either vehicle.

And when it comes to social services, the Nebraska Legislature - going back decades - has always preferred the model with lots of options. They add costs, but the costs represent available services for Nebraskans.

The Legislature has generally gone in for providing Nebraskans with access to more help than the federal government absolutely demands of a state. It doesn't matter if the subject is eyeglasses or false teeth or whatever.

Nebraska's choices have historically reflected the needs of the state's aging population. From the beginning of these biggest of the "Great Society"-type programs, Nebraska looked to make the most of them.

Government services are a bit like the options on a motor vehicle. You can get by with a one-band radio instead of a stereo system. But once you're used to the stereo, who wants to go back to the base model? Does anyone even remember it?

Services for the poor and aged, obviously, are of enormous importance. Car stereos are not. (Honest, kids). But like every option, those provided for the benefit of the citizenry have costs attached, and they are long-term costs. So are the costs for promised property tax relief via aid to education, and higher education programs.

At the moment, it's hard to imagine the economy rebounding to its previous, somewhat ridiculous, high. It was during that high that the Legislature made some of its most important long-term commitments.

Now, it appears that some reconsideration of long-term public policy might be necessitated by fiscal reality. And that reconsideration could eventually center on everything from the grab-bag of popular social services to the basic structure of public education, and everything from daycare to doctoral programs.

Budget plan sets priorities without tax hike

Dear Nebraska Neighbors:

Last Thursday (July 25) I announced a plan to address the state's budget shortfall. The plan was based on three principles: 1) no tax increase; 2) protect priorities; and, 3) solve the problem.

Not only does my plan focus on balancing the budget by cutting spending and not by raising sales or income tax rates, it also mostly holds property taxes harmless. The three biggest users of property taxes are schools, counties, and cities. Under my plan, the largest state aid programs for those areas of local governments are not reduced. That's good news for local elected officials who may have turned to a property tax increase to address a loss of state aid.

Another good news item in my plan to balance the budget is the priorities I proposed protecting from budget cuts. The spending categories very widely but have a common theme: I believe most Nebraskans can agree that these programs and services do impact the most vulnerable of our citizens.

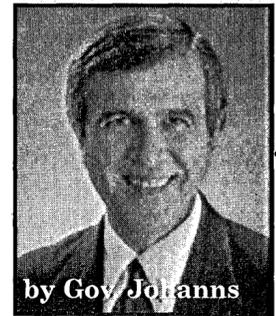

First, I am proposing that funding for nursing homes and assisted living facilities not be impacted during the special session. It is always fair to work with administrators to ensure the best financial management of these centers but let's leave them off the table in this special session. Seniors who live in those facilities should feel secure about their futures.

Second, my plan protects funding for the main state aid to schools program and special education. Together, these programs represent an annual commitment of nearly $800 million in state support for public K-through-12 education in Nebraska. This is good news for school districts including teachers and property taxpayers as well as the children we work so hard to educate.

Third, Nebraska's 24-hour care facilities will not be cut if my plan is adopted. Those facilities include the state veterans homes at Omaha, Grand Island, Norfolk, and Scottsbluff. They also include the regional centers at Norfolk, Hastings, and Lincoln, the youth rehabilitation and treatment centers in Kearney and Geneva, and the Beatrice State Developmental Center.

From veterans who served our nation to the developmentally disabled, these are Nebraskans who deserve special priority when cutting budgets.

The final priority I would mention is front line workers in human services. Many workers

by Gov. Johanns

in our human services system have experienced an increased caseload and reduction in support staff over time. We need to ensure that cases are being reviewed on a regular basis not only to assess eligibility but also to check up on children placed in foster families, for example. We have a responsibility to taxpayers who pay for the system and to those Nebraskans placed in the state's care to provide timely and accurate case reviews.

Even after protecting these priorities the budget plan I have proposed does solve the problem. It offers $119 million in budget adjustments in the current fiscal year including $88 million in general fund reductions. Projected over three years, the spending cuts and other actions in my plan adjust the budget by $342 million.

In the past year, the economic recession severely impacted the pocketbooks of families and businesses across Nebraska. That impact in turn was felt in state income and sales tax receipts as Nebraskans had less income and spent less than what had been projected. Undoubtedly the state's economy is recovering from the recession and in time state tax collections will rebound. However, in the short run our "Nebraska United" must reduce state spending, avoid tax increases, set priorities, and solve the budget problem.

If you want to learn more about the budget plan I've proposed visit the state budget website at www.budget.state.ne.us native forest, and a beautiful pond with aquatic plants and insects. They also got to see the butterfly farm and poison dart frogs. They learned that only by understanding biodiversity can they protect it, manage it, and help society use it without destroying it.

Later that day, they traveled to Turriabla where they stayed with host families for two nights and three days. "The host family stay was unforgettable," Bearnes said. "Every family was extremely hospitable. Most families had at least one person who could speak some English."

During this stay, they also traveled to Hacienda Juan Vinas where they learned about sugarcane and coffee production. "I learned that coffee is grown in mountainous regions and is interplanted with eucalyptus trees that provide shade and nitrogen, while sugarcane is grown in flatter regions," Bearnes said. "We also went to a macadamia nut nursery."

After saying goodbye to their host families, they visited the Rawlings Baseball plant. Turriabla has the only Rawlings baseball factory in the world. This factory employs approximately 600 people and they are very proud of their low turnover percentage. "The pay is low, but the work ethic is high," Bearnes said. "I now know that there are 102 stitches in every baseball and each person makes around 30 baseballs per day."

One of the many highlights of the trip was their white water rafting experience down the Pacuare River. "It was a fun filled day," Bearnes said. "The river, trees, waterfalls, and wildlife was amazing, not to mention the team challenge of not flipping the raft over." Their journey continued with a two-day stay at E.A.R.T.H. College in Pocora, (Escuela do la Agricultura de la Region Topical y Humeda). This school was established in 1990 with grant money from the U.S. Agency for International Development. E.A.R.T.H. emphasizes social commitment, environmental awareness, and development of human values. Each class of 100 students will graduate with a bachelor's degree in agricultural engineering.

The second day there consisted of a tour of the college's 8000-acre land. They looked at their waste management systems and their banana plantations. "I learned that bananas grow on a stalk (similar to a giant grass) that is 80 percent water," Bearnes said. "One of the went to Costa Flores, an ornamental plant farm. "The flowers were so beautiful," Bearnes said. "We also got the opportunity to tour a Tilapia fish farm and a pineapple plantation owned by Delmonte. Costa Rica is the #1 exporter of pineapples in the world. Here, one of the many things I learned was that yellow pineapples have higher sugar content than white pineapples, and therefore, taste sweeter." "After learning so much about agriculture and life in the humid tropics, it was nice to relax for a day," Bearnes said. "We saw the Arenal volcano before going to the Punta Leona Beach Resort. Punta Leona is comprised of 750 acres of lush tropical rainforest, beautiful white sand and gold sand beaches, and the Pacific Ocean."

The last stop before returning to San Jose was the ECAG- Central American Livestock Research Center. The goals of ECAG are to promote human resource development and to encourage environmental protection of the Central American Region. "We toured their production units: hydroponics and waste management, dairy foods processing plant, goats, and crocodile and boa constrictor small farms. It was fun and exciting to be able to hold a baby crocodile and have a boa constrictor around around my neck," Bearnes said.

San Jose was the final destination before they returned to the states. That day consisted of visiting Museo Nacional, shopping at the markets, and saying their farewells at the Ram Luna restaurant overlooking the city of San Jose.

"Traveling Costa Rica was an unforgettable experience for me," Bearnes said. "I feel that I have gained a greater understanding of the problems and concerns of the rest of the world."

"The culture and lifestyles there are so different from our own, and it was a truly amazing to be able to put myself in their shoes. Pura vida, Costa Rica's way of saying the "good life," describes the once in a lifetime experience that we all enjoyed. I made many friends both from the United States and from Costa Rica. I hope that I will have the opportunity to see some of these people again. I have learned that success is a journey, not a destination. I hope that my life will take me on many more adventures."

FFA locally and internationally

In 1999, a FFA chapter was started at Laurel-Concord High School. Curt Friedel is the instructor. The program had been absent from Laurel-Concord H.S. curriculum since 1943. Presently, it ranks as one of the top 13 chapters in Nebraska. (There are 134 chapters in Nebraska). Recently they applied for national chapter ranking and will know in October if they have attained it.

Jared Hartman of Laurel, a State FFA officer, was elected to this position for the year 2002-03.

New at Laurel-Concord H.S. this year is an animal science class which will be offered as a college credit class with Northeast Community College in Norfolk.

The group has up-to-date equipment and can extract DNA in the classroom. Friedel hopes the group can get more research done at the Concord Station in the future.

After returning from the trip to Costa Rica, Friedel said he now has a better understanding of third world agriculture so he can teach it better to his students.

National FFA advisor Larry D. Case notes the global marketplace can be a difficult concept for students to grasp. Visiting agribusiness and talking to industry experts in Costa Rica helps students see the similarities to U.S. agriculture and better understand how what happens in Central America can have implications back home.

"Costa Rica is an ideal agricultural tour site because it includes some of the most diverse agriculture and geography in the world, and is small enough that the group could see most of the country during the trip," Case said.

Besides FFA at Laurel-Concord H.S., Friedel teaches Introduction to Agriculture, Agri-business (which includes distance education to three other schools), Welding and small engines class, Agri-leadership, Animal science, and Plant science.

FFA meets once a month.

Friedel is originally from Atkinson, went to Northwest Missouri State University, and interned for the National Association of Agricultural Education and the National 4-H Council.

A national youth organization, FFA has 457,278 student members preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business and technology of agriculture with 7,312 local chapters in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

FFA strives to make a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education. For more information on FFA, visit <http://www.ffa.org>

the Methodist Church on Sunday for her birthday.

With a smile from ear to ear, Ellis was helped into the basket of the balloon. Looking down on the crowd and waving, Ellis was in her height of glory. When she was aloft, one of her children yelled, "You're half way to heaven, Mom."

Once wasn't enough for Ellis, she received two rides that morning. Afterwards, on the way to the parking lot to sit on a chair and watch other receiving rides, she remarked, "I've always wanted to go up in a hot-air balloon. I've been in everything from horse and buggy to airplane; what else was there to do? That was so much fun!"

As for ballooning as a hobby, Emry started by helping other balloonists. In 1992, he bought his own balloon, got his license and started flying. In 1998, he started flying in the big fiesta balloon rally in Albuquerque, N.M. and has been attending rallies all over since then.

The person who taught Emry to fly a balloon was John Kugler of Mc Cook, launch director for Steve Fossett, the millionaire who recently flew around the world. Also, Fossett's systems director did the sewing on the envelope (the fabric part of the balloon). Emry has a balloon pilot's license; anyone flying a balloon has to have a pilot's license.

Emry, son of Arnold and Sandra Emry of Wayne, graduated from Wayne High School in 1975. He's a family practice doctor in Cozad and has lived there for the past 15 years. His wife's name is Robin and they have a son, Mason, who's 5-years-old.

Asking how often Emry goes ballooning, his wife answered by saying "he would say that it depends on the three Ws...wife, work, and wind." (which she said she has nothing to do with it). "But, he goes as often as he can."

When it comes to balloon flying, "There's a lot of dirt kicking and waiting around," Emry said. He notes you can't always put the balloon up because of weather conditions.

"Ballooning makes eyes open and dogs bark," Emry said. "I have more fun in my spare time than most people do in their lifetime."

Ellis was lucky the weather cooperated for her ride. Emry's sister Shelly Gilliland of Wayne noted their sister, Trish McPherson of Lincoln has never gone up yet as the weather has always been bad when she's in attendance.

Ellis summed up her ride by saying, "You can dream and when it comes true, it puts the frosting on the cake!"

Council debates several issues

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Fireworks and the firehall were among the topics debated at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

An ordinance received first round approval that would limit the hours during which fireworks could be discharged. These hours would begin June 25 and would run from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. through July 3. On July 4, the time limit would be extended until midnight.

Considerable discussion was held on the status of the new fire hall.

Dale Bowder of JEO, the architect for the project, said that his firm is still waiting for a letter from the roofing company stating that patches on the roof will meet or exceed warranty limits.

Councilman Dennis Linster voiced his disapproval with the manner in which the contractor, Crafts, Inc. of Norfolk, has treated the city throughout the project.

"The work is totally unacceptable. Why should we have to accept this? The contractor did not care about the community during this project," Linster said.

He said he felt the city should withhold the entire 10 percent of the project costs which have not yet been paid to the firm.

Chris Connolly of the Wayne County Attorney's Office said the city could withhold any amount of the remaining balance, but could also run the risk of being sued for breach of contract if there was not a valid reason for such withholding.

The council voted to give the contractor until 5 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 2 to complete any unfinished projects. At this time, the original Fire Hall Committee, made up of council persons, members of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department and several members of the community, would make documentation of the condition of the building. This documentation would be the justification for any money that will be deducted from the total project cost.

The council approved a sign design for the outside of the Community Activity Center. Bob Keating, a member of the Community Activity Center Committee, presented drawings of two proposed signs and said either would be considerably under the $10,000 amount budgeted for the sign. It will be a five-foot by 10-foot, double faced lighted sign constructed by Love Signs.

Also approved at the meeting was a change order to install lighting for the north parking lot of the Activity Center. The lights will cost approximately $5,000. However, even with the additional cost, Jeff Morlok, Project Manager for the Activity Center, said the building is still approximately $13,000 under budget.

Prior to the start of the meeting, Chris Connolly of the Wayne County Attorney's Office spoke to the council in appreciation for the Wayne Police Department's work in the recently completed court case involving former floral shop owner Roger Van.

Connolly said the police department and in particular, Police Chief Lance Webster and Lt. Phil Shear, spent a lot of time "going through some really disgusting stuff in an incredible case."

He added that everyone at the city and county level is to be commended for their work in the case.

In other action, the council gave first reading approval to an ordinance which would restrict parking on the west side of Walnut Street from 10th to 12th Street from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Both Police Chief Lance Webster and Roger Hochstein, Head of Security at Wayne State College, expressed approval for the change. They stated that during the school year, the street is congested and dangerous to pedestrians due to the number of cars parked along the street.

The council also set several dates in August for budget discussions.

City Administrator Lowell Johnson presented the council members with a booklet outlining the proposed budget. He noted that the budget assumes a slight increase in the tax base and the desire to stay within the levy lid. In addition, the fact that the Community Activity Center is to be operational by Nov. 1 will have an impact on the city's budget.

The next regularly scheduled council meeting will be Tuesday, Aug. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

Wakefield prepares for State Baseball

by Mike Grosz
Of the Herald

The average baseball fan is familiar with the line from the movie Field of Dreams that says "if you build it, they will come." The same can be said for Eaton Field in Wakefield, the Baseball Capital of Nebraska.

Starting tomorrow (Friday), baseball fans will gather in Wakefield for the start of the Class C State American Legion Junior Baseball Tournament. At the same time, the Wakefield Senior Legion team will be playing at the State Tournament in Crofton.

It's the second time that both Wakefield teams have qualified for state. The other year was 1996 when the Seniors, formerly known as Juniors, played in Wymore, while the Juniors, called Midgets in 1996, played in Wisner.

This will be the 12th state tour-namment that Wakefield has hosted since 1978, averaging out to one tournament every two years.

Long-time Wakefield Coach Paul Eaton, who is in his 36th year, said he hopes he can be at all of the games for both teams. "The first day we'll be OK, but will have to take it day to day after that."

The Wakefield Seniors will take a 31-16 record to the State Tournament while the Juniors boast a mark of 30-13. Eaton says the Junior team has surprised a lot of people. "We knew we would get in as the host team, but to get in as the area champion we didn't expect. The Junior team has worked really hard and we (coaches) didn't think they would develop this quick."

Eaton says he is fortunate to have a dedicated group of coaches assisting him. "Mike Hassler and Todd McQuistan have done a great job with the Juniors. Mike Mogus has helped with the program for a number of years and Mike Blohm has helped out the past couple of years."

Eaton says both tournament fields have quality teams. "In the Senior Tournament, Palmer-Wolbach-Greeley is back as the defending champion. I've heard good things about Overton and the team we play in the first game, Creighton, we split with this year. In the Junior Division, Wymore is 28-0, Crofton is 28-6, I've heard Overton is good and then there is Dannebrog-Cairo-Boelus. They beat us early in the season at a tournament in Greeley and I know they are solid as well."

Eaton also praised the community for its hard work in preparing Eaton Field for another state tournament. "In our program, all of the work is done by volunteers, whether it's a group of kids doing landscaping work to all of the parents who help run the tournament. A lot of improvements have been made and it's because of those people."

A group of Wakefield baseball players are shown laying down sod as crews put the finishing touches on Eaton Field, site of the Class C State American Legion Junior Baseball Tournament that opens Friday in Wakefield. Both Wakefield teams have qualified for this year's State Tournament.

Wound Healing Effects of Aloe Gel

We obtain two very different products from the aloe plant. One is aloe latex - also known as aloe juice or simply aloe. This bitter yellow material is a potent laxative. The other product is aloe gel - also known as aloe vera, aloe mucilage, or aloe vera extract (a diluted form of the gel). Many authorities believe that fresh aloe gel has wound healing properties. There are questions regarding the effectiveness of aloe gel in commercial sunburn lotions and cosmetics. Some individuals grow aloe house plants in order to have fresh juice from leaves for use on minor burns and wounds.

Aloe may speed wound healing for a variety of reasons. Chemicals in aloe gel may inhibit production of thromboxane which slows burn healing. Enzymes in fresh aloe gel may relieve pain and decrease redness and swelling by inhibiting certain proteases in the body and cleaning superoxide radicals. The moisturizing effects of aloe gel may play a role in wound healing, and mild antimicrobial activity may yield beneficial outcomes. Few adverse effects have been reported with aloe gel use.

Live bait fishing - easy as it gets

Catching fish is nothing more than giving the fish what they want!

Sometimes it's a crankbait and the next time it's a jig.

There's one group of baits that will take all species of fish no matter what the season or what body of water you're on.

It's livebait and it's the most effective presentation that you could ever throw at a fish.

Why, the answers simple, live bait is real live bait, just like the name implies.

You don't need to do anything to make it seem real, because it is real. It looks real, feels real and smells real!

Sure you're going to need a way to get the bait down to the fish, but once the live bait is down, it'll do its magic, which is to catch fish.

When some people think of live bait, they think of the old hook, line, sinker and a worm. Sure, this is a form of livebait fishing rig, but there's a lot more to live-bait fishing than just throwing out a worm!

Livebait will work on all species of fish!

Walleye fishermen use minnows, leeches and night crawlers. These baits are used in combination with bottom bouncers and spinners, jigs, Lindy, Roach Rigs or slip bobber rigs.

Some Bass fishermen use salamanders, crawlers, minnows and crawfish. They'll use them on a slip bobber rig or with a jig.

Cat fishermen use suckers, minnows, bluegills, crawfish, night crawlers and just about any other type of bait known to man. Cat fishermen will take cats using a slip sinker rig.

Pan fishermen go after bluegill, crappie, sunfish and perch with minnows, worms, maggots, wax worms or other small live baits. Pan fish can be taken using small jigs, hooks, split shot and slip bobbers.

There really isn't a species of game fish that can't be caught using livebait!

The key to catching fish using livebait is to have good, strong healthy bait.

It can be tough, especially this time of year to keep your bait lively.

Gary Howey
'Of the Outdoors'

Keeping bait well oxygenated and cool is the key to having healthy livebait.

Minnows will need to have their water changed more often in hot weather. If you're going to be out all day, your minnows will last longer if you add ice to your bait bucket.

The colder water will slow the minnows down, keeping the cooler. Anglers that use leeches will want to change the water often and the leeches will also last longer in an iced down container.

Crawlers are the most susceptible to the warm temperatures. You'll need to keep them in a cool container or a cooler filled with ice or your going to end up with a stinky goey mess, that even a catfish wouldn't touch.

I'll put my worms into a damp worm bedding and into a Hagen's Keep Kool.

The Keep Kool allows me to keep my bait cool even in the hottest weather.

It's a duo compartment cooler that allows me to pack ice in around the outside compartment, which because of the excellent insulation allows the ice to last all day.

At the end of the day, I'll drain off what little water there is and add more ice and then put it into my refrigerator and my worms are ready for the next trip.

The Keep Kool also works equally as well with leeches and minnows.

With the Keep Kool, I've also eliminated the mess inside my regular cooler. No more worms or leeches coming out of the Styrofoam containers and crawling all over my cold drinks and sandwiches.

Another thing that I like to do to insure good healthy bait is to prepare my crawlers before heading out onto the water.

Preparing them is quite easy and it makes the worms plump up and last longer in hot weather.

The first thing you'll need is a plastic container that will allow you to stack your crawlers in layers.

Then you'll need to soak a newspaper in ice water, next, put the cold saturated paper on the bottom of the container. Then put down a layer of crawlers and then another piece of the cold wet newspaper. Continue this until you have the last piece of newspaper just above the top of the container.

Now gently snap on the lid and put the container in the refrigerator.

The worms will soak up the cold icy water in less than a day and you'll end up with super crawlers that will help to entice even the fuzziest of fish.

Livebait is the original way to catch fish and still remains the most effective way to catch those finny critters.

Keep your bait cool, use healthy, lively bait and when fish won't bite other baits, give livebait fishing a chance, you might have forgotten what you've been missing.

Herbs for Health
Pepper Extract for Pain: Capsaicin

Many people use capsaicin for chronic pain but do not realize it is an herbal extract. Capsaicin is the active component of Capsicum annuum - the common cayenne pepper. In the tropics the plant can grow as a bush to a height of 3 feet. The pepper it produces technically is a berry. Capsaicin causes the Capsicum berry to be "hot," pungent, and irritating.

Topically applied capsaicin has been studied in many types of pain, including post-herpetic neuralgia (shingles), trigeminal neuralgia (tic douloureux), rheumatoid and osteoarthritis, and psoriasis. Typically, creams containing less than 1 part per 1,000 capsaicin are applied to the skin up to 4 times a day.

Capsaicin may relieve pain by directly affecting pain fibers. A chemical called substance P is responsible for transmitting pain impulses to the brain from the periphery (e.g., skin or joints). Capsaicin first stimulates pain fibers and then depletes them of substance P. As a result, pain "messages" cannot be sent to the brain where they otherwise would be sensed.

TOWN HALL MEETING

In order to better acquaint citizens, both new and old, with program, ordinances, etc., the City of Wakefield is planning Town Hall style meetings on August 13. One will be at 8 a.m. and the other at 7 p.m.

The meetings will be at the school in the library-media center.

Discussions will be held about city ordinances regarding subjects such as property maintenance, red tags, dogs, abandoned property, etc.

Other information to be shared, especially for newer residents of the community, include garbage pickup, what's allowed, and snow removal policies.

There will also be a presentation about programs available through the city, such as the Down Payment Assistance, Rehab and Micro Business Loans.

Present for the meetings will be city officials, the representative of the Dixon County Sheriff's Office and an interpreter.

CURFEWS AND LOITERING

The Dixon County Sheriff's Department has stepped up their enforcement of Wakefield's ordinances on loitering and curfew.

The loitering ordinance states, "It shall be unlawful for any person to loiter on the streets, in the park, on the sidewalk or on any public ways and property at unreasonable hours, and those persons who are unable to give a good and satisfactory reason why they should be there, shall be deemed to be guilty of loitering."

The stricter enforcement has been brought about by the break-ins, vandalism and littering that has been occurring in town.

CHURCH BROADCAST

The City of Wakefield has been working on improving the programming on the local cable channel 24. Nicki Decker, administrative coordinator for the city, since she was hired, has been keeping the calendars updated and has added some digital photographing of Wakefield events.

Last week, it was announced that the channel will begin broadcasting weekly the video tape of the Sunday morning worship service at the Evangelical Covenant Church. The tape will be played on Tuesdays at 10 a.m. and repeated at 7 p.m.

COMMUNITY CLUB

Approximately 40 Community Club members and guest attended the coffee and meeting on July 11 at the Senior Center. The ribbon cutting at the dugout was postponed, but the new business did host the coffee.

President Marvin Borg presided at the meeting. Nicki Decker reported on the City of Wakefield projects including the new restroom facilities at the park, street improvements, electrical work, and said that work on the walking trail on the levee is scheduled to begin next spring.

Dennis Wood was introduced as the new youth minister of the Covenant Church.

Brief reports were heard from the Tree Board, Wakefield Care Center, Service Unit, WHO, library, theatre, Senior Center and school.

Michelle Tullberg thanked everyone who supported the hosting of BRAN. She termed the day a huge success and added that Wakefield will consider doing it again if asked. Battle Creek was chosen as the best host community.

Jim Clark reported on the demolition of the lounge building by the American Legion Post and said Legionnaires are working on plans for a military theme park.

BRAN SCHOLARSHIP

With many good memories of the 2002 BRAN experience on June 13, the Wakefield BRAN Scholarship Committee met last week to make selections on the recipient and alternate.

Randi Barge, daughter of Randall and Kim Barge, was named to receive the $500 scholarship. Josh Soderberg was named the alternate. Both will be seniors at Wakefield High School this fall.

BRAN (Bike Ride Across Nebraska) awards each host community $500 for a scholarship. The recipient must attend an accredited Nebraska post-secondary school for undergraduate studies.

To be considered for the scholarship, the applicants were asked to document times for volunteer involvement in hosting BRAN and submit a written essay. The committee asked the applicants to answer two questions in the essay: "What spirited you to want to participate in the BRAN project?"

"What positive impact on the community did you witness during the BRAN hosting project?"

Both Randi and Josh stated that the opportunity to meet new people was what prompted them to become involved.

"My biggest positive that I saw was Wakefield really worked together. People were donating supplies to other groups and helping set up. You could see the people who weren't helping were still happy to have the riders in town. They had fun and it made them feel good. It was great seeing the huge amount of town spirit," wrote Randi.

Josh's response was that the riders will reflect on Wakefield as a small, clean community with the people caring about their guests. "This could mean more visitors coming through town."

When the recipient enrolls at a college, the scholarship money will be forwarded directly to the school to the student's account. Each 2002 BRAN host community selected a winner and an alternate. The best host community, Battle Creek, received two $500 scholarships to award.

The Wakefield Committee expressed appreciation and thanks to all the applicants for their time volunteered and efforts to express the benefits gained personally and by the community from the experience.

MASONIC ALL-STAR BAND

Two students from Wakefield High School were among 245 high school students from across Nebraska who were members of the Eighth Annual Masonic All-Star Marching Band, which performed Saturday, July 20 during Shrine Bowl festivities in Lincoln.

Participating were Mindy Boeckenhauer, daughter of Tim and Shirlene Boeckenhauer, and Christy Witt, daughter of Larry and Karen Witt.

The band members devoted four days of intense practice, starting July 16, to learn the music, marching steps, and field formations. The culmination of their efforts started by leading the Shrine Bowl Parade down Havelock Avenue on Saturday morning. The band performed at halftime of the 44th Annual Shrine Bowl football game in Memorial Stadium on Tom Osborne Field, at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The band members were hosted by the Masons of Nebraska and were directed by Brad Weber, Dan Sodomka and Dave Bohnert, band directors from Wayne High School, St. Paul High School and Wayne State College. Boeckenhauer and Witt each received a scholarship from Corinthian Masonic Lodge No. 83, Wakefield. The scholarship covered their costs of the camp.

Coupled with hard work, the members also participated in a pool party, picnic, dance and a chance to just hang out. Many are looking forward to the opportunity to use the instruction provided by the band directors when they return to their respective high school bands.

Students complete internships

Students attending Northeast Community College in Norfolk are currently participating in Northeast's cooperative internship education program.

Cooperative education, a partnership between the student, business and industry, and education, provides on-the-job training for students in a position related to their major field of study and career goals.

Students are not relegated to just summer internships and businesses in Norfolk. They can work throughout the year with any employer wishing to participate in the program. Northeast students are currently interning with employees throughout Nebraska and in other states.

Internships are usually done after a student's first year of college. Several benefits are available to employers who hire cooperative education interns. It gives employers an opportunity to preview candidates for permanent employment, train potential employees, reduce their costs of recruiting and training employees, create closer ties between the business world and the educational community, and increase their company's visibility in the community.

Students receive on-the-job experience prior to graduation, exposure to employers in their field of study and career alternatives before graduation, access to facilities and equipment not available on campus, college credit, and a salary while learning. Students are usually paid at a wage rate corresponding with their training and experience.

The cooperative internships are a requirement for Northeast's technical programs. When it's possible, summer cooperative education students work 40 hours per week. However, arrangements can be made for fewer hours if necessary. Students who do their on-the-job training during the fall and winter semesters must work a minimum of 10 hours per week.

Area students participating in Northeast's cooperative internship program are Justin Warner, Evan Uthoff and Lyle Rahn of Allen; Curt Asmus and Jed Marten of Hoskins; Tyler Kvols and Jesse Swanson of Laurel; Chris Henschke, Connie Kai, Cory Jensen and Tucker Greve of Wakefield; Jason Beiermann, Vance Denny and Jordan Widner of Wayne; and Chad O'Conner of Winside.

Employers interested in participating in the cooperative internship education program or students wishing to enroll in Northeast programs should contact Northeast Community College at 1-800-348-9033 or (402) 371-2020.

Class of 1952 holds 50th reunion

The Wayne High School class of 1952 held their 50th class reunion July 12-14, along with the Wayne Chicken Show. Several members of the class met at the Main Street Park on Friday evening for Henoween. Some class members also picked up their 50th Anniversary Book compiled by Joanne and Bob Nagel.

Saturday morning was spent watching the Chicken Days Parade from a viewing stand constructed for classmates in front of the Carhart Lumber Co.

Various Chicken Day activities were then enjoyed and in the afternoon, the class met at the newly remodeled Wayne Middle School which in 1952 was the Wayne High School. Mr. Metteer gave all a tour of the building and was presented with a proposed donation for the Wayne Public Schools Foundation from the Class of '52 former class president, Bob Carhart. Class members were also given the opportunity to tour the newly completed Wayne Community Activity Center, located near the present high school.

The Gardner Senior Center in Wakefield was the setting for the Saturday evening banquet. A total of 56 attended with 31 classmates present. Marjorie Roberts read a memorial poem in honor of 10 deceased classmates. The original class numbered 55 members. The invocation was given by Pastor Carol James, wife of Phil James.

An old Wayne High School paper, "The Harbinger," from December, 1951, was used to identify each classmate in attendance by a short poem written about them at that time. The class picture was taken outside by the Wakefield Republican. Bob

The Wayne High School class of 1952 recently celebrated their 50th class reunion. Carhart passed out a "Memory Jogger" map to classmates to have them identify the location of businesses on Main Street in 1952.

Bob Jensen again treated each classmate to a gift he had made from wood. Each received a small clip book-marker decorated with a circle of Wyoming sagebrush. He also made 10 wooden votive candle holders that were used as centerpieces. They were later sold by a silent auction with the proceeds going to the Wayne Public Schools Foundation.

Sunday morning several classmates and families met at Taco's & More for breakfast before returning home. Serving on the reunion committee were Bob Carhart, Harvey Brader, Joan Lackas, Shirley Pospishil and Bonnie Sandahl.

Classmates attending the Golden Anniversary were: Dwayne Atkins, Round Lake, Ill.; Alice (Benthack) Sala, Marcell, Minn.; Nell Burnham, Columbus; Bev (Carlson) Ingalls, Ellinwood, Kan.; Jim Colson, Pueblo, Colo.; Joanne (Damm) Nagel, Loveland, Colo.; Marjorie (Dorman) Roberts, Grand Island; Dorothy "Mickie" Finn, Lincoln; Gilbert Granquist, Colorado Springs, Colo.;

Area 4-H exhibitors know about quality assurance

There's more to preparing for the fair than just showing up for the show.

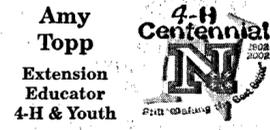

The University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension 4-H and Youth Development Program took part in training youth exhibitors in Quality Assurance during the winter and spring months of 2002. All exhibitors in beef, dairy, goats, sheep and swine completed an approved food animal quality assurance training program.

For the past four years, only those exhibitors in the swine project were required to go through a Pork Quality Assurance Program. To be proactive and informed about the industry, the other livestock programs followed with the quality assurance program.

This year's program focused on Daily Care and management. What does quality assurance mean? In regard to livestock, quality might mean how an animal looks, its potential breeding value or how meat looks and tastes. Assurance is a pledge and promise to the consumer. It means that livestock producers are promising the consumer that the meat, milk and eggs that come from their livestock will be of top quality and they will do everything they can to make the products safe to eat.

The goal of Quality Assurance is to provide many benefits to the livestock industry, consumers and youth producers. By following a QA program, individuals are improving the quality of food that consumers eat and confidence in the livestock industry. It also works to improve care and management practices and follow good health and nutrition. This will help make sure that animals perform at their highest level and provide safe and wholesome products for consumers.

In educating producers, we hope to make the consumers more confident in the livestock industry. Education may help increase consumption of animal products in the long run and eventually eliminate food safety "scare."

The 4-Hers learned that Quality Assurance is the responsibility of the producer, packer, retail/ food service and consumer. Everyone involved in food production is responsible. The role of a 4-H'er in Quality Assurance is taking care of his or her animals daily, preventing illnesses or things that could be harmful to the animals and handling them safely.

Carcass quality will be the topic of the 2003 Quality Assurance program and administering medications properly will be the topic of the 2004 Quality Assurance program. Those 4-Hers enrolled in livestock projects are able to attend a training each year, or those who are 12 years old or older may take a test that is good for three years.

The University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension System strives to educate youth on the latest happenings in the industry and helping prepare their exhibits for the consumer. 4-Hers are learning more than just how to show their animals at the fair. As they are the future of the livestock industry, the skill learned will impact industry in the years to come.

church building to the east edge of Allen, and make a family home out of it.

The building was moved on July 18, 2002 bringing with it 121 years of history, memories and reminding all of its service to the community.

The Springbank Friends Church was established in 1881 with 29 members. The Church played an important role in attracting early settlers to the area. Pioneers with family names of Smith, Roberts, Jones, Emry and Ellis were among those who belonged to the church.

Four buildings served the congregation. These buildings included a log school house, a 20x30 foot building built in 1883, and added in 1900, a 26x36 foot building, which was lit by carbide gas. The present building built was built in 1916 costing $7,500

Tea Helps Heart Patients

A recent study in Circulation showed that drinking certain teas on a regular basis helped people who had suffered heart attacks live longer. Green and Black teas help prevent LDL (bad cholesterol) from becoming oxidized which leads to hardening of the arteries. Black tea has an added benefit in that it also improves the ability of blood vessels to relax. The study's author, Dr. Kenneth Mukamal, cautioned that further controlled studies are needed to solidify this link. Nevertheless, it appears that enjoying these teas may reduce the risk of second heart attacks.

Several women from Meadow Grove receive tour of Wayne

The Emerick Goldenrod Juniors, a group of women from Meadow Grove, were in Wayne recently to receive a tour of the town, Nancy Heithold of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce/ Wayne Ambassadors took them around to local points of interest. Each summer the group tours a town in the area.

The women started the morning by having refreshments at the Renaissance Cafe and then visited at Garden Perennials south of Wayne. Afterwards they toured Heritage Homes and just before lunch stopped at Just Sew. After having lunch at the Santa Fe Grille, the group received an informative tour of the Wayne County Museum. Ending their stay in Wayne was a stop at Antiques on Main where Nana Peterson, owner, served them lemonade and cookies.

The Emerick Goldenrod Juniors have been in existence close to 15 years. The group was started so the younger rural women around Meadow Grove could get to know each other better plus it was a good way for the neighborhood to share information. There are 17 women who belong to this group.

Socializing is not the only thing the ladies do. The group makes

May baskets for their local nursing home; and donates money to various projects in their area. Each member recently made a block for a quilt that was made and given to a family near them who lost a loved one in the 9/11 tragedy on the east coast.

Last week is eventful

You know what? It's been an eventful week. We had six tenths of an inch of rain on Thursday and Friday, the first measurable amount in weeks. It may even have saved the beans; at least, if there is more coming. And it's overcast today, so we keep hoping. Otherwise, we'll have to water the 100 + spruce trees again.

All the stories of abducted children make my blood run cold. It also makes me a nervous grandmother. The only bright spot in the whole picture was the little black gal who chewed the duct tape, kicked open a basement door, and hollered for help. What a trooper.

By Thursday, we were aware of nine miners in a watery cave in Pennsylvania. I immediately shook my head and said, "no way are they going to be alive."

First, it took 20 hours to get the rescue equipment there. Then a huge drill bit broke. So frustrating. By 11 p.m. on Saturday, we heard that all nine were alive - a miracle!

By: Pat Meierhenry

That rescue crew deserves a lot of credit. And the fact that those men stuck together, kept each other warm, and kept each other's spirits up. I wonder if they realize how this whole nation's attention was focused on them; and how many prayers were being said for them.

There is one more news story I've been following. It doesn't make headlines but it should. There is a Chevron/Texaco oil rig in Nigeria. It's apparently been in this village for awhile. All of its native employees have modern homes, a school, and a hospital.

But the rest of the village lives in poverty. The men of the village had met with representatives of the company in an effort to spread some of the blessings around. But they had made no progress.

Finally, in desperation, the women of the village simply took over the rig and shut down the pumping. After a few days of no production, the guys in charge were ready to negotiate!

Sometimes, stories of "good old American capitalism" in foreign countries make me ill. This is an example of female persuasion that made me cheer.

Keep searching for the good news.

Tomorrow's Leaders Today, a Youth Leadership Conference was recently recognized as an Outstanding Rural Development Initiative. Kelli Rastede, Allen, a member of the current Youth Leadership Team and Sandy Preston, Extension Educator is Dixon County, and part of the leadership team participated in the award presentation.

Youth Leadership Conference selected as an outstanding 100 rural development initiative

The Nebraska Rural Development Commission (RDC) recently announced its Outstanding 100 Rural Development Initiatives for 2001. Carmen Shaffer, a Commission member was on hand at the Youth Leadership Training Session in Norfolk to present the Certificate.

Each year the Commission recognizes a variety of communities, businesses, programs, initiatives, and organizations for their great efforts to make rural Nebraska a better place to live and work, said Craig Schroeder, RDC Executive Director. "The Outstanding 100 Rural Development Initiatives of 2001 exemplify how rural communities can survive and thrive with the dedication, commitment and hard-working spirit of rural Nebraskans behind them."

Sandy Preston, Dixon County Extension and Vickie Greve, District 4-H Youth Specialist have been a member of the planning committee since the beginning in 1995. Kelli Rastede, Allen is a member of the youth leadership team for 2002.

"Tomorrow's Leaders Today" is a youth leadership program and more. It involves nearly 200 youth in leadership roles in planning the conference, carrying out the conference, and community involvement following the conference each year. Target audience was freshman and sophomores.

In the past six years, 895 youth from 27 schools have participated in Youth Leadership Conference. Fifteen of the sixteen counties in the Northeast Extension district have been represented. Eighty three youth have served on the Youth Leadership Team and conducted workshops on Decision Making, Communicating, Character Counts and team Building.

Eighteen schools have utilized $4,500 in mini grants to improve their communities. Lessons learned by students have been: 1) that they have valid ideas; 2) others will listen to their ideas when they organize their facts and thoughts and present them in a direct, competent manner; 3) people in the community will respect them for their efforts and 4) they have the abilities to initiate, plan, and complete good sized projects.

The Commission has honored Nebraska's Top 10 and Outstanding 100 Rural Development Initiatives since 1993.

Longtime NFBF president resigns after over 25 years

President of Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation and Affiliated Companies Bryce P. Neidig of Madison announced his resignation Wednesday, July 24 citing personal reasons for his decision. Doug Gibson, NFBF chief administrator and secretary/treasurer said July 24.

Neidig will return to farming with his son, Neal. The Neidigs produce corn and soybeans near Madison and Battle Creek. Neidig has served as NFBF president since December 1981. His resignation goes into affect Aug. 1.

"This has been a very difficult decision for me. Farm Bureau has been such a big part of my life, that there will be a tremendous void now that I'm stepping down. However, the time is right and our new president Keith Olsen can take the organization to the next level," Neidig said.

First Vice President Keith Olsen of Grant will become President of the organization August 1. Steve Nelson, of Axtell, Nebraska, will now serve as first vice president of the organization. He was elected NFBF Second Vice President last December in addition to serving as District Five Director.

Neidig first served as president of Madison County Farm Bureau and was elected to the Nebraska Farm Bureau Board of Directors in 1975. He was elected to the vice presidency in 1979 and to the presidency in 1981. Neidig served on the American Farm Bureau Board of Directors for nearly 14 years and has chaired the American Farm Bureau's Credit Committee and its Trade Advisory Committee. He has traveled on a number of trade missions on behalf of AFBF, as well as trade missions of Nebraska governors.

During his tenure, Neidig has been a longtime advocate for "Families that Farm" and always applying the "Rule of Reason" rather than emotion to promote issues. He has guided the organization through difficult political and economic times for Nebraska agriculture.

He was president during the agricultural crisis in the 1980's and led the organization through the

Used pesticide container recycling being planned

Nebraska's 2002 Used Pesticide Container Recycling Program is a way of helping protect Nebraska's water and the environment.

All properly pressure-rinsed or triple-rinsed 1.0 and 2.5 gallon plastic pesticide containers will be shredded and recycled into new 2.5 gallon pesticide containers, plastic pesticide shipping pallets, dimension lumber, fence posts and parking lot tire bumpers.

Be sure to remove the label booklets, slipcover plastic labels and lids. The containers, after properly rinsed, must be left to dry inside and out including the threads of the neck. Stained containers that are otherwise clean are acceptable.

Collection sites are at Central Farmers Cooperatives in Brunswick, Neligh, Clearwater, Elgin, Tilden and O'Neill; Northwest Cooperatives in Allen and Ponca; and Precision Agronomy in Newcastle, Wayne, Bloomfield and Hartington. Producers are asked to check with their local cooperative for collection dates and times.
