'Takin' it to the strip'

By Mike Grosz Of the Herald

What starts out as a joy ride on the street has turned into a joy ride on the strip.

I'm talking about drag racing. To many, drag racing is a sport, but for about 10 drivers from the Wayne area, it's just an expensive hobby.

"Drag racing is as expensive as you want it to be," said Ron Heikes of Wayne, who has raced a 1972 Chevy Nova since 1994.

From late April to early October, you can find a number of local drivers at a drag strip in the tristate region.

The closest track to Wayne would be the Nebraska Motorplex near Scribner. The former air base is a popular place for local drivers to race. Wayne Denklau has raced the longest of the local drivers. He has been racing since 1978. "It was the thing everybody did when we were growing up," said Denklau. "I decided to race on the strip instead of the street." Denklau started out racing in ET (Elapsed time)

Dean's campaign a disaster

By Ed Howard Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association

How tough have things been for Stormy Dean?

If political campaigns were eligible for federal disaster aid, the Democratic candidate for governor would qualify.

We're talking about the kind of disaster declaration that comes with what's called "emergency relief." The kind aimed at preventing starvation.

Dean said recently that he would be able to run some ads on radio stations around the state. His campaign expressed hope for sufficient financing to do some television advertising, too.

Successful campaigning today is synonymous with advertising. In statewide races, candidates without money for ads are like talk show hosts without a scandal or a rumor. They don't get much of an

When candidates are short of money, they hope for some exposure via news organizations. To that end, it is has been a tradition within the Republic for candidates to make news, if they can, to bolster their fortunes.

Dean, whose political luck quotient has rivaled that of Jimmy Carter, took a big hit last week. A federal judge refused to revive an effort to put a petition for expanded gambling on the November ballot.

Expanded gambling is an issue that crosses party lines. Dean's greatest hope was to use that issue, referencing it in everything from economic development to taxes. He hoped to make news with it, keeping it in headlines and on the airwaves. It wasn't much, but it was something.

Now, Dean is rather like the mayor of that French city besieged by English forces in one of Shakespeare's plays. The English monarch, in language glorious and gory, promised to do all manner of bloody unkindness to the town's battered inhabitants unless surrender was forthcoming.

The mayor of the town replied that aid from higher authority had been hoped for; but, alas, it was not to be. With that, he gazed around and about the wreckage and havoc and concluded:

"We are no longer defensible." Dean's campaign won't qualify as a tragedy, Shakespearean or otherwise. But it may be a long, long time before Democrats again have a chance to sing "Happy Days Are Here Again!"

meeting

"On the Road to Fairness Nebraska's Journey From Anti-Gay Bias," facilitated by the Gay Lesbian Straight Education Network (GLSEN-Omaha) and Parents and Families of Gays and Lesbians (PFLAG - Omaha) Speakers Bureau 333-7064, was held recently on the Wayne State College campus.

The event was also sponsored by Citizens for Equal Protection As for respect and dignity, (CFEP), Nebraskans for Peace, and the WSC PRIDE organiza-

In a conversation format, a group of around 50 WSC students, staff, and community members listened to retired school counselor D. Moritz of PFLAG talk about the 'good life' in Nebraska, and what that means to different people. A variety of answers surfaced with several as what's expected in Nebraska. One would expect jobs, security, respect, and dignity in Nebraska. Yet, accord ing to D. Moritz, this is not true for all Nebraskans.

When it comes to jobs, it was noted many young people leave Nebraska and one reason may be that there is no legislation in Nebraska to assure fairness in the workplace, or guarantee job security, respect or dignity. While Nebraskans strive to have the good life, survey statistics show it isn't true for all; especially for gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender people.

The speaker noted there are no federal or state laws in force to protect Nebraskans from job discrimination based on sexual orientation or perceived sexual orientation if an employer decides an employee is gay, lesbian or bisexual. And, there's no where to legally file complaints for such actions.

according to the 2001 GLSEN National School Climate Survey, 84.3 percent of gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender (GLBT) students reported hearing anti-gay remarks such as "faggot" or "dyke" often; 23.6 percent reported hearing anti-gay remarks from faculty and school staff as least some of the time; 81.8 percent reported faculty or staff never intervened or intervened only some of the time when present when anti-gay remarks were made. Also shown in the GBLT survey, 68.6 percent of the students reported feeling unsafe in their school because of their sexual orientation and 39.7 percent of the students reported there were no teachers or school personnel who were supportive of GBLT students in their school. In 1993, a bill was introduced to the Nebraska Unicameral to add sexual orientation to the Fair Employment Practices Act and for the past nine years work has been done to have sexual orientation added to the Fair Employment Practices Act. But, only two times has a bill to add this advanced from committee and only one time has a bill adding sexual orientation to the Fair Employment Practices Act reached the General

A majority of Americans believe gay and lesbian people should have equal employment opportunities but many American voters don't know their gay friends, family members, neighbors and coworkers do not have job protec-

Part of the problem, Moritz feels, is a lack of understanding and lack of education on the subject of gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender persons.

For those who are interested in finding out more about gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender issues, there are a number of websites: www.pflag.org; www.glsen, www.cfep-ne.org; www.nebraskansforpeace.org.

Anyone wanting to voice their opinion on the lack of federal or state law in force to protect Nebraskans from job discrimination based on sexual orientation or perceived sexual orientation, can contact State Senator L. Agriculture vital to community

By Dan Pries, Farmers National Company

The rural communities, towns and cities of the central United States were founded on a vigorous agricultural industry. And, even just 20 or 30 years ago, if you weren't actually raised on a farm. you likely had close family still connected with farming.

What about today? Few of us are farmers any longer. Still, the principle industry of this area is agriculture, and we all depend on it. The fortunes of our schools and businesses rise and fall with the tide of agribusiness.

So, just how dependable is agribusiness?

This past summer was tough. The crop production year began well, with pretty much timely planting into good conditions. Things looked good through about mid-June when the weather turned hot and dry and stayed that way right through early August.

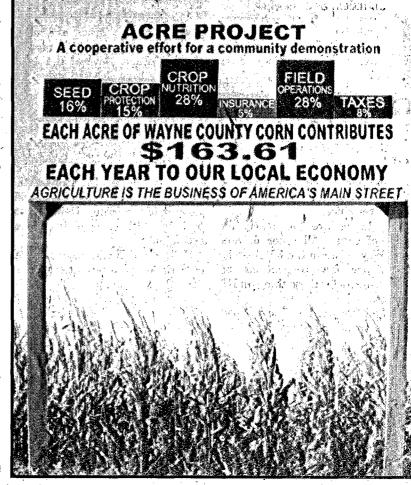

Crop production will be reduced across our area due to this past summer's dry weather, this may well reduce farm income, but what effect might it have on our commu-

The message here is for folks in town, not farmers. Whether farmers produce a bumper crop or not, each acre pays its taxes and purchases the inputs needed. On average, Wayne County has about 202,000 acres of row crops each year. Of that, usually about 106,500 acres are corn. Using corn as an example, each acre in general spends $163.61 into our local economy for annual production expenses. That is a total of $17,424,465 of economic activity for corn alone, and in Wayne County alone, whether it is a good year or a bad year.

Regardless of what the corn yield might be this year, Agriculture will have generated over $17.4 million of business and wages in Wayne

So how dependable is agribusiness? It is very dependable. Agriculture produces a product universally in demand, constantly being consumed and perpetually rewardable.

Even when yields may be down, agriculture is still the business of America's Main Street.

The Acre Project is located just north of Wayne along Highway 35 and is marked with this sign.

Farm Bureau opposes plan to diagonally bisect land

The Wayne County Farm Bureau recently announced that it opposes the diagonal bisecting of farm ground should a Highway 35 expressway be built in the Wayne area.

A number of Farm Bureau members and landowners have expressed concern about the value of their land and compensation for land used to construct such a highway.

More than 150 signatures have been collected from land owners in Wayne County that would be affected by the construction of a highway south of Wayne. The statement includes the following - "We are against diagonal severing of farm ground for the following reasons, • It disrupts the farming opera-

• It takes from building sites; • It causes more liability in out of production, and • Farm business helps economic conditions in this area." Estimates indicate that a minimum of 10 acres of land are taken out of production for every mile of highway that is constructed. Janet Kniesche of Wayne has six farms that could be affected if a new highway is built south of Wayne. Included in this is land that has been in her family for more than 100 years. "We have a hog operation and the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) has requirements for the number of acres needed to have a operation of our size. If any of our land were lost to a highway, we would not have enough left to keep our business," Kniesche said3 Kniesche and Joanna Berg of Winside have been gathering information on the effects of the highway for some time. "We have been told that the highmoving farm equipment; way shouldn't go through Wayne negative impact on out here for the quality of life we have. We shouldn't have to put up with the noise, either," Mrs. Berg said.

• It takes too much farm ground because of the noise. But we live al community.

Mrs. Berg said she has done a considerable amount of work on her property southeast of Winside and is concerned about whether or not she would be compensated for this work, should her property be used for a highway.

The two women have spoken to a number of legislators and to other groups and organizations on the issue and the possible effects of having a four-lane highway bisect agricultural land in the area, including the devaluation of land that has been divided.

Mrs. Berg has done a great deal of research on the subject, including contacting those affected by highway construction in this area and a number of lawmakers. She said she feels other options are available that would have less of a negative impact on the agricultur-

Those mentors serving the Wayne program include a number of Wayne State College students, members of the work force and retired residents.

Funds are used by the organization to perform background checks on each potential mentor. In addition, a number of social activities are held during the school year for the mentees and mentors. Last year, a bowling party was held as was a kite flying activity.

Earlier this year, TeamMates founders Dr. Tom and Nancy Osborne were in Wayne for a fundraising activity. Money raised from this event will go toward TeamMates scholarships for those that have maintained TeamMates standards.

Currently, Loren Park serves as the head of the TeamMates program in Wayne. Fauneil Bennett corrdinates the mentors and mentees and plans activities for them. Craig Walling is the president of the Advisory board which includes representatives from a number of the service organizations in the community.

The instrument replaces a 1978 model which has become obsolete. The older model has half the suction ability of the new one. The new one also has a longer battery life going for six months before it needs to be charged. Also, it's maintenance-free;

The families became aware of the need for the suction device through the Foundation at PMC, which acquires a list from the hospital for items they could use. Mrs, Heinold, who lives in Pilger, noted her husband would be pleased with the purchase as he had been an EMT and a fireman for a long time.

Mr. Heinold had been a patient at PMC, coming from the outreach clinic in Wisner. There are also outreach clinics in Wakefield and Laurel which are staffed by Mercy Medical Clinic employees; formerly Northeast Nebraska Medical Group P.C. Linda Gamble of Wayne spoke of her mother, Marvel Corbit, and how she felt the hospital was very needed in Wayne. Mrs. Corbit worked with the hospital auxiliary for many years, "Mom would think getting this device was a good thing," Gamble said. Mentioning her cousin, Eugene Dendinger, she noted he also wanted to give to PMC in memory of Mrs. Corbit. Dendinger lives in Pennsylvania was originally from Hartington.

Speaking on emergency services at PMC, Denny Spangler, head of the ambulance crew and EMTs, said there are 20 nurses who are EMTs and they take most of the runs. There are 10 drivers who are also EMTs. There were around 410 runs last year and of those, 160 were responding to 911 calls (or of that nature), 180 were transfers, and around 20 were two-way trips to other hospitals for tests, etc. Besides the runs they make, walked, advanced to second on Jean Pieper's single and scored on a Tamara Schardt two-out single to put Wayne up 1-0.

In the seventh inning, Rachel Robins walked and scored on Jammer's two-out double.

"The girls played better," said head coach Rob Sweetland, "We didn't strike out as much, hit the ball harder and played better defense. We made plays when we had to and are gaining some confidence heading into the last week of the regular season."

Wayne is now 14-3 on the season and will host Boone Central in the regular season finale Tuesday at 4:30pm at the Wayne Softball. Complex.

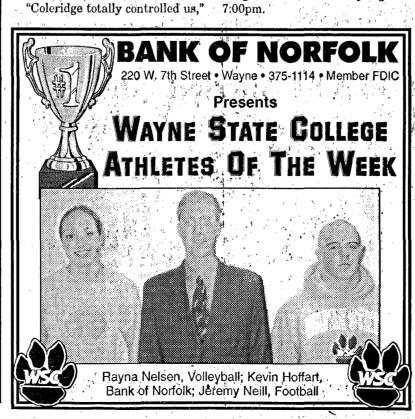

The Wayne JV team split their two games.

The Blue Devils won a twoinning, rain-shortened game at Twin River last Thursday 4-0. Kayla Hochstein, Danica Carroll and Brittni Sprouls each singled for Wayne. Ashley Carroll was the winning pitcher.

Tuesday, Wayne lost at Logan View 7-2. Leigh Campbell had the only hit for Wayne, a single. Campbell and Danica Carroll each scored a run.

The Wayne JV team is now 4-3 on the season and plays Boone Central Tuesday at the Wayne Softball Complex.

Wildcat football team struggles at Bemidji slipped to 0-4 on the season Saturday afternoon, dropping a 38-2 decision at Bemidji State in Northern Sun Conference play.

The Wildcats managed just 147 yards of total offense in the game against a Beaver squad that won for the first time this season.

Bemidji State scored first on an 11-yard pass from Jason Smith to Preston Pettis, putting the Beavers up 7-0 with 7:30 left in the first quarter. Wayne State got on the board with 2:18 left in the quarter when the Wildcats' defense forced a team safety, making the score 7-2

The Beavers added two scores in the second quarter to take a 23-2 halftime lead. Smith found Adam Noble on a 27-yard strike

In the third quarter, Smith connected with Noble on a 27-yard pass play to make the score 29-2, then Shane Bundy added a fiveyard run to put the Beavers up 36-2 after three quarters.

The only scoring in the fourth quarter came on a Bemidji State team safety, making the final score 38-2.

Head Coach Scott Hoffman said the loss at Bemidji was disappointing. "We didn't seem to play as hard at Bemidji compared to previous weeks. For some reason, the kids weren't plugged in."

Hoffman added the team tried to force things when they got behind. "Bemidji is a very experience football team. They moved the ball and we didn't.

Wayne State had 64 yards rushing and 83 more passing. The rushing attack was led by Eric Wells, who had 20 yards on six carries. John Sanders followed with 18 yards on seven attempts.

Throwing the ball, Edwards completed five of eight passes for 42 yards. Justin Burhoop was three of seven for 41 yards and two interceptions. Ryan Kuester led Wayne State in receiving with three catches for 65 yards.

Defensively, linebackers Bump Christensen and Adam Long had 11 and 10 tackles respectively.

The Wildcats, now 0-2 in the NSIC, host Winona State in the annual homecoming game Saturday at Cunningham Field with kickoff set for 12:30pm. The Warriors are 2-2 overall and 2-0 in the NSIC.

Hoffman said, "I expect our team to bouce back and play hard. We have the ability to knock people off, we just to have to do it."

Diana Salerno (Asay) attended Wayne State College from 1983-88, lettering in volleyball and track. In volleyball, Salerno was a four-year starter at outside hitter, receiving honorable mention honors in the Nebraska Athletic Conference in 1986.

Salerno was also a four-year letterwinner in track and field. She was an NAIA All-American in the shotput in 1986 and currently holds both the indoor and outdoor record in the shotput at Wayne State College. She is currently Director of Program Management Office at First Data Resources in

Supplements May Not Strengthen Nails

Calcium supplements help fight osteoporosis, and many physicians recommend calcium to be taken by women throughout adult life. Nails contain some calcium – about 1/800 as much as bones – and some persons assume that taking calcium supplements will cause the nails to become stronger or less brittle. However calcium supplements do not appear to benefit nail quali-

According to a report in New England Journal of Medicine, researchers in New Zealand asked 683 women if their nails had become stronger or more brittle during the past year. Some of the women had been taking calcium supplements, and some had been taking a look-alike placebo. About 60% of the women in each group said that there had been no change; 29% indicated that there had been an improvement, regardless of whether or not they were taking the calcium supple-

We'd hunt with quite a large group, so we'd walk larger fields of brome grass fields, sweet clover and weed patches and unpicked corn fields: Since the birds would run ahead of the walkers, we had our blockers stationed at the end of the field to keep the birds from running out the end.

As the walkers got near the end, the dozens of birds would bust from the cover, grabbing air, trying to avoid our shooters on the

Back in the 50 & 60's, we had the Soil Bank program and now we

When the CRP was first put in, the first five years or so, it was a great deal as much of the upper Midwest went from no cover to thousands of acres. The bird numbers exploded and we had a tremendous pheasant population.

Once again, things changed and the price of corn went up and much of the CRP in Nebraska went back into crops. This concentrated the birds in smaller fields, which made them more assessable to coyotes, fox and the hunters.

Then much of Nebraska had a hard winter, followed by a wet spring and then a drought this year, which is a bad combination if you're a pheasant. The government released the CRP because of the drought, allowing farmers to harvest half of their CRP fields.

Several years ago, in much of the upper Midwest, a bad winter really beat up on the wildlife, including the pheasants. When the snow melted, the sloughs that once was nesting and roosting cover for upland game birds filled up with

This loss of this habitat once again put a hurt on the birds and. it would take several years before the numbers would rebound.

In South Dakota, many of the farmers and ranchers have realized the value of preserving habitat for wildlife and even creating nesting cover and food plots for pheasants.

This along with the numerous game preserves have helped to create excellent pheasant hunting in much of the state.

Well, now that we know what makes pheasants numbers decrease and increase, lets look at the bird populations in our area. Nebraska

Once again, the loss of habitat and a drought hasn't done a thing to increase or help the pheasant numbers.

In the areas where habitat and water are available, hunters will find decent bird numbers and should have good hunting.

Much of the state's pheasant population is about the same as last season.

Although Nebraska is still one of the top four pheasant producing states in the nation, the shortfall of nesting cover is the limiting factor in the state. South Dakota

There's good news and bad news for South Dakota pheasant hunters.

The good news is that there is a huge pheasant population in the state and that some areas of South Dakota have had a significant increase in birds.

The N.E. part of South Dakota, pheasant numbers are up including a 114% increase in the Watertown area, 64% increase in the Sisseton area and a 58% increase in the Brookings area.

The bad news is the drought has caused a decrease in pheasant numbers in several parts of the

In the Yankton area pheasant numbers were down 14%, Mitchell down 34%, Mobridge down 40%, Chamberlain down 38% and Pierre down 50%.

Overall the pheasant numbers in South Dakota are down 18%.

All in all, in South Dakota, there still should be excellent numbers as the areas that showed a decrease are the areas that have had tremendous bird numbers, so hunters shouldn't see much of a difference in the population.

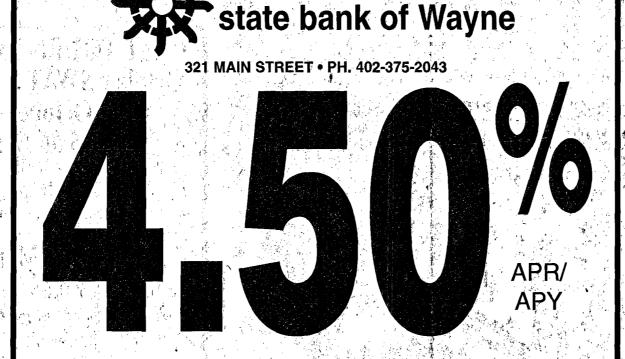

Hunters ion the N.E. part of the state will see a significant increase in numbers as that part of the state hasn't seen good numbers of birds since the soil bank days.

If you're looking for an area to hunt pheasant in this fall, habitat is the key to a good hunt. If you can find an area with good habitat (grasses, shelterbelts, sloughs, weedy creeks and draws) along with a water supply, then you're more than likely be able to find the birds.

Remember, it's not the number of birds you bag, it's the experience, the time you spend with family and friends.

It's the opportunity to get away from the everyday hassles and confusion and to get back out into the real world.

Enjoy the time you spend in the great outdoors, hunt hard, hunt great output., safe and hunt often!

Herbs for Health

Pepper Extract for Pain: Capsaicin Many people use capsaicin for chronic pain but do not realize it is an herbal extract. Capsaicin is the active componenet of Capsicum annum, - the common cayenne pepper. In the tropics the plant can grow as a bush to a height of 3 feet. The pepper it produces technically is a berry. Capsaicin causes the Capsicum berry to be "hot," pungent, and irritating.

Topically applied capsaicin has been studied in many types of pain, including post-herpetic neuralgia (shingles), trigeminal neuralgia (tic douloureaux), rheumatoid and osteoarthritis, and psoriasis. Typically, creams containing less than 1 part per ,000 capsaicin are applied to the skin up to 4 times a day. Capsaicin may relieve pain by directly affecting pain fibers. A chemical called substance P is responsible for transmitting pain impulses to the brain from the periphery (e.g., skin or joints). Capcaicin first stimulates pain fibers and then depletes them of substance P. As a result, pain "messages" cannot be sent to the brain where they otherwise would be sensed.

Merit Scholars are named

In the fall of 2001, over one million juniors across the United States took the PSAT test.

Among other things, this test is the qualifying exam for the National Merit Scholarship competition. The National Merit awards are allocated on a state representational basis according to the state's percentage of the national total of high school grad-schools across the state.

For the class of 2002 from Nebraska, the state allocation was 127 National Merit semi-finalists.

A total of 17 high school in and earn confirming scores. Nebraska had three or more semifinalists. Wayne Public Schools and Kearney Catholic, a private school, were the only two high schools outside of the Omaha and Lincoln metro areas with three merit semi-finalists.

The three finalists from Wayne are Britni Bethune, Elysia Mann and Andy Martin.

To become a National Merit Finalist, a student must be enrolled full-time in high school; be a U.S. citizen; be fully endorsed and recommended by the school's principal; have a record of consistently high grades; compete a

Merit application and take SAT I

In April, National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) recognized the 50,000 highest scores in the nation on the PSAT. Some 16,000 students nation-wide were designated as Merit Semifinalists.

The other 34,000 high performers are now being named as commended students on the basis of a selection index score of 200 or above, but below the state National Merit qualifying score which is 208 in Nebraska.

The Wayne High School commended student is Campbell.

Boeing employees speak to RC& C Council

The RC & D Council met recently. Zoë and Brian Vakoc were the evening's speakers. Each are employed by Boeing, but are running their virtual offices from Verdigre. Thanks to the advances in technology they've made this a win-win situation for not only themselves, but for the Boeing company too.

Flexibility, increased productivity, retention, quality of life, empowerment, control over the work schedule and more led Zoë, Brian and their managers to the same conclusion: they could keep their jobs and live in rural! Nebraska.

Bob Lingenfelter, president, conducted the meeting. Carmen Shaffer reported that the Corps of Discovery Welcome Center will be having a fundraising dinner at the Argo Hotel on Oct. 13. Also an educational Lewis & Clark presentation by Dale Clark was held at noon on Sept 26 in Plainview and that evening at 7:30 p.m. in the Norfolk Arts Center.

Eighty people from around the state enjoyed both Lewis & Clark Autumn Outing motorcoach tours last Saturday. Bob Porter reported on the use of the RC&D's website and recommended renewing the agreement with Northeast Nebraska ComNet.

Ag related projects accepted were Small Farms Coop, Husker Ag assistance on opportunities, a beginning farmer business training course, and a community/ youth alternative forestry demonstration planting effort with AmeriCorps. Pesticide containers being collected will soon be shred for new product creation.

The fear, anger, disappointment and confusion, which are often a small part of daily life, have become enlarged and now threaten to overwhelm people.

In response to the need and desire to live positive, non-anxious lives, a new sermon series will begin at The Seven Praise Service (Sunday evenings at 7 p.m.) at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne. The series will begin on Sunday, Oct. 6.

The new sermon series is entitled "Handling Life's Hurts." It is a five part series, which will be preached by Pastor Kevin Ruffcorn, Senior Pastor of Our Savior Lutheran Church. Little relief seen from drought

Most of Nebraska will be dryer than normal this winter with normal to above normal temperatures, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln climatologist predicts.

Although recent rains in parts of Nebraska helped ease this summer's drought, most of the state remains dry. Agricultural Climatologist Steve Hu expects that dry pattern to continue statewide.

Reflecting on the tragedy in Norfolk and life in general

On the last day of September, we have 88 degrees and sunshine. In general, though, I have appreciated this month for its moisture, cooler weather, and greening of growing things.

Someone told me this morning that her Easter lily is blooming. She thinks the plants are all confused now; and may not be on schedule next spring. I just know that the trees are starting their annual fall colors and are generally beautiful.

Mike worked at the antique shop last Thursday, and I had chores to do at the Farm House. So, when I went to Louisville at noon, I stopped with his lunch. He had a distressed look on his face and asked if I had heard the news. No, I hadn't. By the time he told me about the awful bloodshed in Norfolk, cousin Gil had already heard it in Oregon on CNN.

I went on to the Senior Center, where I was giving a little talk. Back home, I had still more work to do, as we were expecting guests that evening. At 5:00, I turned on the T.V. Our old friend, Gordon Adams, who is now mayor of Norfolk, was standing beside the chief of police. The governor was Eventually, the names of those who had been shot were read and Chief Mizner almost broke down. Then, Dr. Adams extended sympathy to the families, appreciation to the law enforcement people, and referred to the "needless and stupid" actions. I could hear the anger in his voice; I had not seen him that angry very often. It was all so sad.

On Friday afternoon, the word came that Trooper Zach had taken his life because of a feeling of responsibility. That just completed the tragedy. I asked what he must have been thinking; of course, he wasn't thinking. Not rationally, anyway,

My hat goes off to the folks at the McDonald's in O'Neill. I'm not sure I could have been so cool to wait on one of the assailants and tell him the fries would be delayed: thus giving the manager time to call police. These guys have to rank right up there when it comes to stupidity. What kind of person can participate in the shooting of five innocent people and order a Big Mac and fries two hours later?

We're so sad for the community. It's all so unnecessary. As far as I can tell, they didn't even come, away with any money. Not that that would have justified their actions. We've been keeping the families, the police and state patrol, and the other bank employees in our prayers. It's all we can do; it's the most we can do.

It kind of puts a football loss in perspective. Iowa State deserves to celebrate. But in the words of one sports writer, "They didn't beat the old Nebraska." Big Red may not be dead, but he is ailing. The dynasty has come to an end. And we will all

We are again reminded how fast our lives can change; and the necessity of "having our house in order." In case I haven't told you readers before; I appreciate each of you who reads this weekly missile, more than you know. Remember to appreciate each other; and don't take anything for granted.

amplify the historical data that Hu analyzes.

"Sophisticated data analysis and computer modeling greatly improves the accuracy of predicting weather trends and anomaly patterns. I think it's one of the best methods to predict local rainfall and I give it a confidence rating of better than 70 percent," Hu

His statistical analysis indicate that precipitation patterns follow 18 to 23-year cycles. This pattern accurately reflects Nebraska's intensive drought periods during the 1930s, 1950s and late 1970s. This pattern shows a 10-year wet period ending in the late 1990s, followed by the current extended dry pattern.

Those extended patterns form from an overall trend that can be examined on a year-to-year basis," Hu said, explaining that not all years in the extended dry period will be dry.

"We will have some periods of wet weather within the current (dry) pattern, but overall, in the. dry phase of the cycle, precipitation will be below normal," he said,

Hu said information from his analysis should be useful to all Nebraskans, especially agricultural producers. He hopes they'll use it to plan what type of crops to plant, plant density, tillage methods, as well as crop insurance to minimize impacts of the dry conditions.

More information on Hu's analysis is available at the Precipitation and Temperature Predictions for Nebraska Web site at http://snrs.unl.edu/climate/prediction/index.html.

Hu's research is conducted in cooperation with IANR's Agricultural Research Division and funded in part by the U.S. Geological Survey Global Change Program.

Building committee creates usable facility

Prior to the construction of the Inspector George Ellyson. new Wayne Volunteer Fire Department facility, a group was formed as the Fire Hall *Building Committee to provide input on a number of decisions er in that each member had that had to be made.

The committee, which was appointed by Wayne Mayor Shervi Lindau included two city ceeded with a fact-finding miscouncil members, Verdel Lutt and Lois Shelton; two citizen'sat-large, Karin Vaughn and Rick Endicott; two members of the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department, Robert Woehler Tom Mitzel; City Administrator Lowell Johnson: Superintendent of Public Works Vern Schulz and Building

According to Rick Endicott, who was selected as chair of the Building Committee, "the committee worked very well togethinput throughout the entire process."

Initially the committee prosion. The fire department members were asked to select several potential sites for the new fire hall. The department's internal building committee identified the facility needs of a new state of the art 21st century fire department and submitted an architectural design to the building committee.

A search for an architect concluded in the hiring of JEO & Associates, an architectural firm based out of Omaha, design specifications were written and bids were let for a contractor.

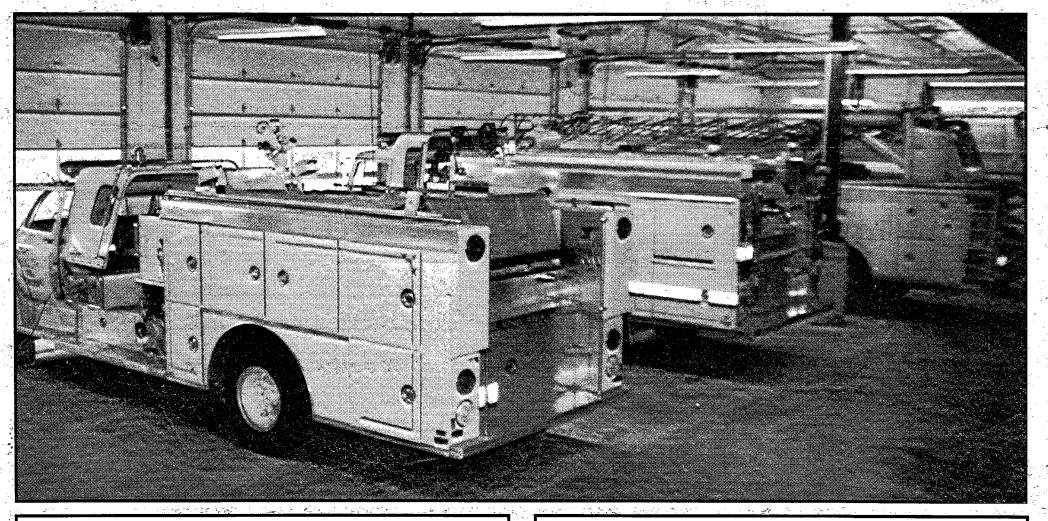

Crafts Inc. of Norfolk submitted the lowest of the approximately nine bids. The City Council approved the committee's recommendation and then approved the department's first choice for a building site located on Tomar Drive.

Construction began in June of 2001 and the City of Wayne took occupancy of the building in mid August this year.

Asked what a building of this stature will mean to the city and rural areas, Endicott said, "We are going to head forward into the 21st century with a brand new building that will last a long while. This fire department facility will take care of the needs of this community for at least 60 years."

Endicott also congratulated the city leaders for their foresight into the future. "This community is not standing still in the face of a poor economic climate. It is moving ahead with expansion, new construction and renovation. Wayne continues to improve upon itself."

Chief pleased with new facility

Robert Woehler. Fire Chief for designed for viewing training the Wayne volunteer Fire Department, has voiced his approval for the new facility.

"Probably one of the first advantages of the new fire station will be the boost to the morale of the membership. The old facilities were in such poor condition that this new, impressive facility will generate enthusiasm about spending time here." Woehler said.

He also indicated that the new facility will provide many new opportunities for training. The department will be able to offer a variety of classes taught by instructors from the State Fire Marshal's Division. A white projection wall (10 feet high and 24 feet wide) was specifically films, videos and PowerPoint presentations.

Fire departments from within the area will now be able to join the Wavne department for training both in the field and in the classroom.

"The expansive concrete area to the south of the building is ideal for conducting truck maneuvers and the indoor 20,000 gallon holding tank will enable firefighters to perform water pumping operations throughout the winter months," Woehler said.

Additionally, the new facility has adequate parking for fire personnel arriving at the building. Previously, the firefighters had to compete for available Post Office.

"In the event of a disaster, the new fire hall will be capable of housing many more area residents in a modern, environmentally friendly and energy efficient manner. Additionally, there will be capability to dispatch emergency personnel directly from the building if power is suspended at the central dispatch headquarters on Pearl Street," Woehler said.

design of the facility was to give the department's officers space for preparing reports, filing documents and to provide security for documentation.

The Staffing rooms, fully equipped with computer tech-parking spaces in front of the nology, offer both the Fire and Business Board officers the environment to do the paperwork required by both state and federal government agencies.

New facility allows for housing of Another consideration in the equipment

The Wayne Volunteer Fire Department's facility has allowed for all of the department's equipment to be housed in one location.

At the present time that equipment includes a 1936 Ford City Pumper housed in the Antique Bay; Truck 30, a city pumper; Truck 31, a rural pumper: Truck 50, a pumper with aerial capacity; Truck 40 and Truck 41, tankers; Truck 42, a state-of-the-art 2000 gallon tanker; Truck 20, a first response vehicle; and Truck 60, an equipment-truck.

Also housed in the new facility are the Chief's Command Car: Truck 14, a suburban personnel carrier and a van used as a personnel carrier. The department also has a cascade system for filling multiple air bottles in case of a fire.

The rural pumper, two tankers, the 2,000 gallon tankers and the equipment truck have been purchased by the Wayne Rural Board.

We are glad to be part of this great community project!

We create bonds.

It's nice to say that Kirkpatrick Pettis has been a leader in municipal bond underwriting in the state of Nebraska for over 75 years. However, we are more proud of the relationships we've established and improvements that have been made throughout our communities. We strongly believe in a hands-on approach while carrying every deal from start to finish. From publicity for bond elections to assistance accessing legal resources, if it has to do with financing, we do it and we do it well.
