Bank robber pleads not guilty

One of two men charged in the armed robbery of the State National Bank Drive-In location last November pled not guilty this week in Wayne County District Court.

18-year-old Delante Delano of Omaha entered his pleas Tuesday morning before Wayne County District Court Judge Robert Ensz.

Delano is charged with robbery and use of a weapon to commit a felony in connection with the Nov. 22 robbery of the State National Bank Drive-In location at 10th and Main Street in Wayne.

Each charge is a Class II felony, which carries a minimum of one year with a maximum of 50 years imprisonment.

Judge Ensz ordered bond to remain at $500,000 for Delano, who is being held in the Pierce County Jail. A trial date of March 24 was set for Delano.

The other suspect in the case, 18-year-old Jasper Falkner of Lincoln, filed a motion for continuance and will appear in Wayne County District Court on Feb. 5.

Falkner is charged with robbery in the same case. He was recently transferred from the Dodge County Jail in Fremont to a facility in Omaha.

Also in district court Tuesday, a Norfolk man was sentenced on two counts of distribution of a controlled substance (methamphetamine).

19-year-old Nicholas Brandt, formerly of Wayne, pled guilty on Nov. 6 to amended charges of the two counts, which occurred last September in Wayne County. He was originally charged with three counts, but one was dismissed as part of a plea agreement.

Wayne County District Judge Robert Ensz sentenced Brandt to 18 to 36 months in prison on each count with credit given for 109 days served before sentencing.

The sentences will be served consecutively after he serves time for a similar charge in Stanton County.

Brandt was sentenced to one year in prison in Stanton County District Court Monday afternoon after pleading guilty to possession of a controlled substance. He was arrested on the Stanton County charge last March.

Judge Ensz ordered treatment for Brandt at the Nebraska Correctional Treatment Center and also ordered him to pay costs of prosecution in the case.

The 47-year-old will now appear before Wayne County Court Judge Philip Riley of Norfolk on Feb. 3.

He is accused of helping Wayne fugitive Roger Van flee from the state last September when the former florist failed to appear for sentencing in a sexual torture case.

Adams faces charges of aiding and abetting, conspiracy, accessory to a felony, perjury and false reporting.

All charges, except false reporting, are felonies. False reporting is a Class I misdemeanor.

Adams was allegedly funneling money to Van, who was using identification and credit cards that belonged to Adams.

The Wayne Police Department arrested Adams at his home in Wayne on Dec. 14, one week after authorities in California apprehended Van.

After spending a short time in the Pierce County Jail, Adams' mother posted $50,000 cash, 10 percent of his $500,000 bond, and Adams was released from jail.

Theme for Chicken Show announced

By Clara Osten
 Of the Herald

"Wayne America's World -Chickens Rule; Egg-cellent" has been chosen as the theme for the 2003 Wayne Chicken Show.

The announcement was made following the Chicken Show Task Force's Jan. 3 meeting. The theme will be printed on, among other items, this year's t-shirt which will be teal in color.

Members of the task force are busy scratching out ideas for the 23rd annual event scheduled for Saturday, July 12.

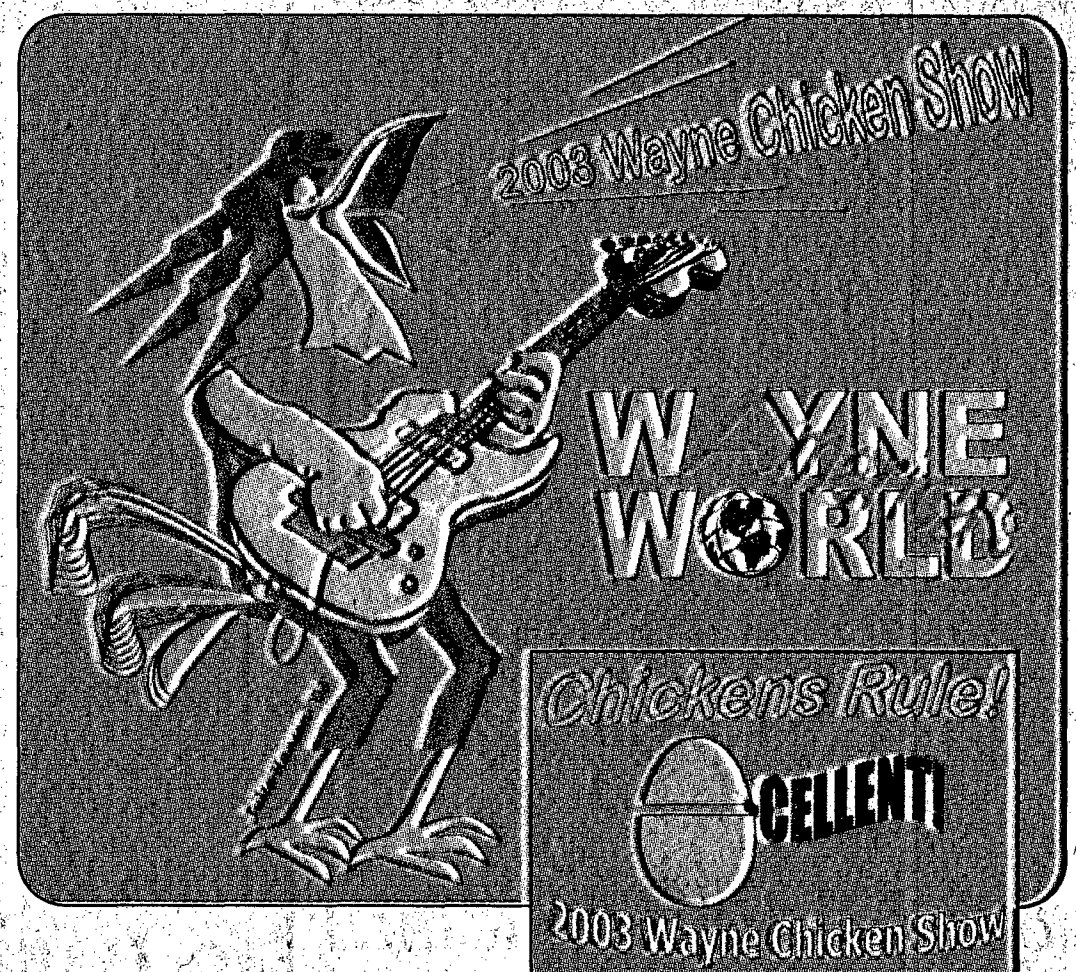

Among plans are to incorporate more music into this year's festivities. Individuals and/or groups are being sought who would be willing to perform during the show. Those interested should contact the Chamber Office.

During the January meeting, members also discussed the possibility of conducting some type of art show in conjunction with Wayne State College and adding games and other activities for children on the day of the event.

The Chicken Show is under the direction of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce with Henween activities (Friday, July 11) being coordinated by the Main Street Wayne Office.

Jared Temme is serving as the chairman of this year's Chicken Show. He is being assisted by Bill Trick and Vicki Meyer of the Chamber Office and a number of individuals who coordinate specific events and portions of the show.

Members of the Task Force meet each month from September through May and then more frequently as the date of the Chicken Show nears. Hundreds of volunteers are needed each year to make sure the event runs smoothly. Anyone interested in being a part of "Wayne America's World -Chickens Rule; Egg-cellent," is asked to contact the Chamber at (402) 375-2240.

Chamber Bucks help to boost the Wayne economy

"In 2002, the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce's Chamber Bucks program contributed over $160,000 to the local economy," proclaimed outgoing Chairman of the Board, Kevin Peterson.

This is 58 percent increase over 2001 and an all-time record for the Wayne Chamber. In 2002, the Chamber office "sold" $23,315 in Chamber Bucks. Experts have estimated that any dollar spent locally accounts for as much as seven times to the local economy.

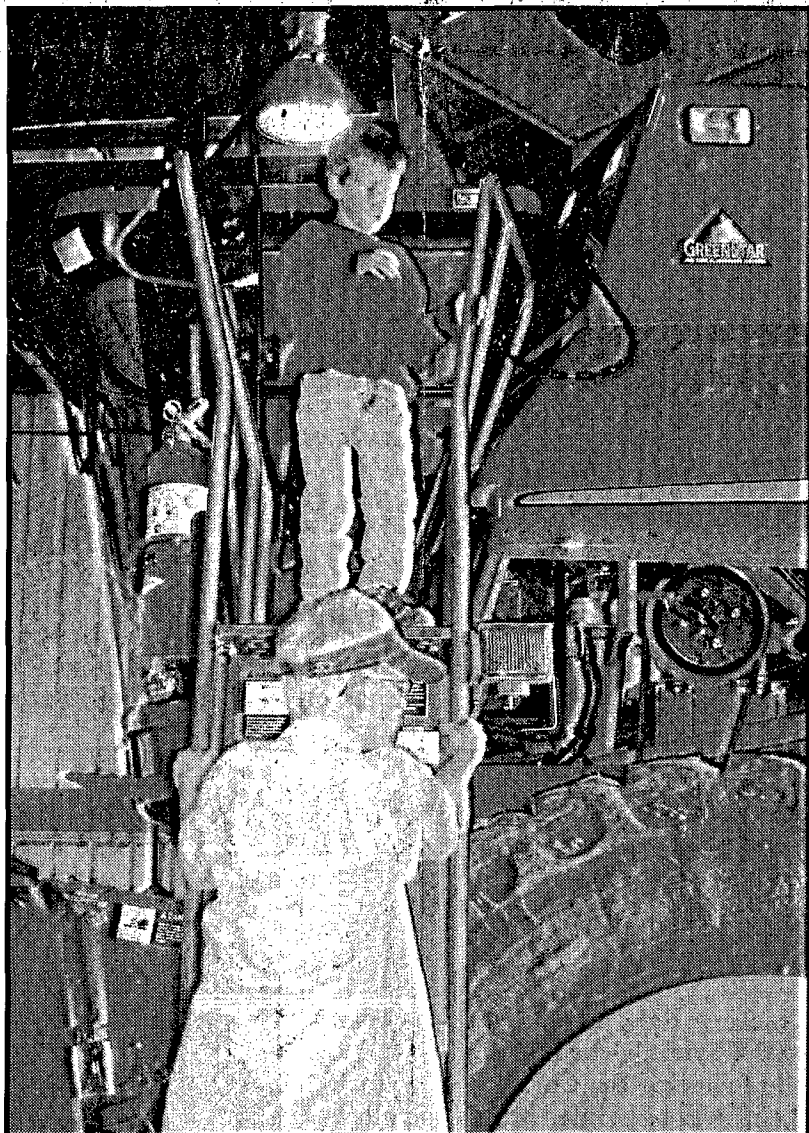

Administered by the Chamber Office in downtown Wayne, the Chamber Bucks program, is, according to Vicki Meyer, administrative assistant, "a very unique program that benefits both Wayne area citizens and local businesses."

Individuals and local businesses purchase gift certificates that are accepted as cash in most Wayne area chamber member retail establishments. They have been referred to as "the check that doesn't bounce" because they have been paid for in advance and all local banks accept the Chamber Bucks as cash when processed through their systems.

Chamber Bucks can be purchased in denominations of $5, $10 and $20 and given to others as gift certificates or used by the purchaser. There usually is an expiration date, normally 90-180 days from date of purchase. Many local employers are using Chamber Bucks as bonuses. They make excellent gifts for birthdays and Valentines Day. The Christmas season is an especially big time of the year when Chamber bucks are exchanged.

"Parents of Wayne State College students have found Chamber Bucks an excellent way to make funds available for their children if they do not have local checking accounts," Meyer added.

Disgusted with dog owners

Dear Editor,
As I went on my morning walk around Bressler Park, I was again disgusted at the sight I beheld in our lovely park!
This offensive and disgusting thing which I see is "dog feces!" It is everywhere.
It is no longer a public park to enjoy but it has become a public litter box for dog owners who take their dogs on walks around the park! As far as that goes, I'm sure these same people wouldn't care if their dogs left their leavings in your yard or mine! So rude and inconsiderate!
It is time that people who walk their dogs in and around our park or for that matter, anywhere, start thinking of others and pick up their dog's feces!

A plastic bag would be all they need (save bread bags) to pick up the waste matter and deposit it in the trash barrels!
I love dogs and even owned a few, but their litter was my responsibility and not everyone else's. Maybe a few posted signs to this effect, in and around the park might wake up these insensitive dog owners!

Looking Ahead in Wayne

By Lowell Johnson,
City Administrator

City Council
Meets Tuesday, Jan. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall at Third and Pearl Streets.
New Rules on the Way
When Congress passed the Clean Water Act of 1974 it included a section that would begin requiring cities to begin monitoring and controlling contaminants in the storm water running out of town when it rains.
These contaminants include sediment, lawn fertilizer, waste oil and pesticides.
By 2007, cities the size of Wayne will be required to sample storm water running out of town each time it rains like we do now for the waste water from the sewer plant. We will also be required to have a plan to prevent contamination of this storm water run off and to treat it if necessary by building stilling basins, grass filters or other treatment systems.
Options to control run off include leaving more unpaved areas like parks, wider street terraces, small detention basins and grass strips in new areas of town as they are developed.
Farmers and feed lot operators are also having to deal with these same same types of requirements to keep contaminants out of streams and rivers. These new requirements probably won't be as bad as they seem. I don't see the feds backing off too much though and we all will have to comply.

Looking Ahead in Wayne...
By Lowell Johnson,
City Administrator

The Planning Commission and the City Council have approved a preliminary plat for Vintage Hills III. This will be a 30-lot residential development on the northeast edge of Wayne and will extend Claycomb Road out to Country Club Road, creating a new north entrance into Wayne.
At the same time, the council's intent is to pave Country club Road from the new Claycomb intersection west to Highway 15. This street project is currently scheduled for 2003 and will be 80 percent paid for with federal gas tax fund allocations. The remainder of the cost will be assessed to abutting property owners.

Education to face tough times

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
Hard times make it easier to set priorities.
Ask folks who survived the Great Depression. They can tell you that being warm, dry and fed is what really counts.
Some Nebraska football fans might be screaming for a national championship in 2003. Reality will make a convincing, winning season look pretty good to those who understand that hard times on the gridiron can sometimes pass very slowly.
A run of comparatively high prices for crops and beef is always good news for producers on the Great Plains. But a break in the drought and a market that covers production costs would look awfully good these days.
And then there are those who must deal with the federal "No Child Left Behind Law." Whatever their previous hopes for common sense help from Big Brother, many would gladly settle for something that is simply less stupid than that which now confronts them.
No matter what level of progress is being made among students who have had a hard time in the classroom, the federal system for evaluating a school's effort might easily make it look puny. Experts are saying that, all around the country, school systems that are making good progress in helping minority students, immigrants and others are likely to be labeled flops by the feds.
This raises an interesting question for Nebraska and other states. Although Nebraska invented its own testing system, a nightmare for parents but a dream come true for sociologists and soothsayers, it could still face problems. The feds' method of grading schools could leave every school behind.

The big federal hammer is traditionally made of money. "Do it our way or you won't get your share," is the standard operating procedure.
The thing is, most states are entirely strapped for money right now. They literally don't have funds for new testing systems, or anything else, to get around the federal obstacles in this program.

New or higher taxes are more likely than not in Nebraska and lots of other states, just to keep the store open, so to speak. Keeping the schoolhouse warm and dry, and the teachers paid, will be a challenge.
So, what happens if the feds wind up giving failing grades to enormous numbers of the nation's schools, based on the feds' own system? What's to be done? Will Washington cut funds to already cash-poor schools, and financially troubled states?

It puts one in mind of Wyoming's response when Washington slapped a 55 MPH speed limit on the states during the first Arab oil embargo, Wyoming looked at its wide-open spaces, and at its share of federal highway funds.
Then it told Washington to keep the money, and went its own way.
Unless there is some application of common sense in the latest federal dabbling in education, a lot of states might wind up in a similar situation - created by circumstance rather than choice.

How Nebraska Schools are doing

By Doug Christensen
Nebraska Education Commissioner
Our public recently got an answer to one of the most often asked questions: How are Nebraska's public schools doing?
The answer was in the 2001-02 State of the Schools Report - a report on student mathematics scores and much more.
The news was good - even excellent - for some school districts. For others, however, the report publicly displayed areas needing improvement. The 2001-02 State of the Schools Report looks at our 517 public school districts. It contains both state and national scores to give a more complete picture of any one school.

That report is one of two that has been drawing the attention of our public. The second is a report on our Title I school buildings that receive additional federal dollars because a large number of their students are from low-income families. This report has raised even more questions among parents whose children attend those schools. An open and frank conversation about education in our K-12 public schools is healthy. The fact that these conversations are occurring is encouraging as long as those involved are well informed.
Just as educators and parents should not use one piece of information to determine any child's potential or abilities, parents and community leaders should guard against using any one measure of student performance to make broad judgements about a school or school district. One measure is just that - one measure.

Nebraska Schools ...
By Education Commissioner Doug Christensen

may use one at your local public library or a public school. The 2001-02 report shows the percentage of Nebraska students meeting or exceeding the state mathematics standards. The report the previous year, the 2000-01 report, shows how well Nebraska students scored on the state reading standards.
*Click on the "School District" symbol in the upper right corner of the screen.
*Search for your school district by its name.
*Click on the "Characteristics and Ratings" on the menu on the left side of the screen to learn about the kinds of challenges your school district faces in helping all children find success. School district ratings on student performance and the quality of their assessment system are especially important. Those ratings tell you about the learning expectations your school sets for students and how well students are meeting those expectations.
*Search for a specific school building by clicking on "School Building" in the top, right corner of the screen. A list of the names of school buildings in that district will appear on the right side of the screen.
*Select the name of your school building and click on "All Students" to compare building averages on math standards with state and district averages for grades 4, 8 or 11. The individual standards tell you what students are expected to know by grade level.
*Select other items on the menu to view teacher qualifications, state aid support and many other issues.
*Contact the Nebraska Department of Education for that information if you don't have access to the Internet.
Once you have information about how students in your child's school are doing in math, for example, talk to their teacher about how your son or daughter is doing. Individual student information is confidential and not reported publicly.
We all want our children, our grandchildren, to do well. As parents and teachers, we care deeply about their schooling because we know it holds their future. That's the way it should be, I wouldn't want to do this job in a state where parents and communities didn't care. With your help, your input and encouragement, children and our schools will fulfill their potential and meet our expectations.

Program announced to stop smoking

The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) announced the launching of a pilot program in seven states to study the best way to help older Medicare beneficiaries quit smoking.
"Smoking is the single most preventable cause of disease and death in the United States and poses a significant risk to older Americans," Health and Human Services Secretary Tommy G. Thompson said. "It is never too late to quit smoking, even if you have smoked heavily for 30 years or more. In fact, older adults have proven to be more successful at quitting than younger people."

This program will test smoking cessation strategies with seniors. The strategies will be tested in various combinations, including counseling in person or over the phone, nicotine patches, a prescription smoking cessation drug and educational materials. All of these services have been demonstrated to help smokers quit. The study will seek to determine which are the most effective for seniors.
"With this study we can learn what works best for seniors who want to quit smoking and we can develop approaches that help seniors help themselves," said CMS Administrator Tom Scully.

The Medicare Stop Smoking Program will be conducted in Alabama, Florida, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, Oklahoma and Wyoming. These states were selected because of a number of factors, including the prevalence of older smokers in these states.
Beneficiaries who enroll in the study will receive free, smoking cessation therapy, which may range from physician counseling to drugs to help them quit. As a preventative measure, smoking cessation therapy is normally not covered by Medicare, but is covered for those enrolled in this study.
In these states, senior Medicare beneficiaries who smoke and want to quit will be encouraged to call a toll-free telephone number to find out if they are eligible for the study. This toll-free telephone number will be advertised in local newspapers and on television and radio stations in the seven states. Only people 65 and older enrolled in fee-for-service Medicare Part B are eligible to participate.
Medicare beneficiaries, age 65 or older, living in one of the seven states where the program will operate may call a toll-free number for information on participating in the study. The number is 1-866-65BEGIN (1-866-652-3446).
Once enrolled, beneficiaries will be assigned to one of the study options being offered. They will have access to these services for one year from the time they enroll.
Results of the study will available in 2005.

10-3 Wildcats host Winona and Concordia-St. Paul this weekend

Wayne State women 4-0 in NSIC after road sweep

by Mike Grosz
Of the Herald

The Wayne State women's basketball team extended its current winning streak to five games last weekend with NSIC road wins at Northern State and Minnesota-Morris.

Ryan Williams' squad is now 10-3 overall and 4-0 in the Northern Sun Conference heading into home games this weekend against Winona State Friday night and Concordia-St. Paul, the only other unbeaten team left in the NSIC, on Saturday night.

The Wildcats led for much of last Friday's game at Northern State, but had to rally in the second half for a 65-60 win in Aberdeen.

Wayne State led the entire first half, holding its biggest lead at 31-19 with 4:18 left, before settling for a 35-27 halftime advantage.

But Northern State rallied in the second half with a 20-7 run to take a 47-42 lead with 8:46 remaining. That's when Wayne State would mount their comeback.

The Wildcats outscored the Wolves 11-2 in the next 2:30 to take a 53-49 lead and kept the lead for the rest of the game.

Freshman guard Ashley Arndorfer paced the Wildcats with 16 points. Kristen Humphries added 13 while Kari Belak and Lesley Menken scored 10 each.

Karen Hochstein added eight points with Dodie Martin, Tracy Williamson, Rayna Nelsen and Nicole Gesell contributing two apiece.

"This was a great win," said head coach Ryan Williams. "For us to control the first half, then give up the lead and come back from five down on the road says a lot about these girls."

Williams also praised the play of his two freshmen, Ashley Arndorfer and Kristen Humphries.

"This was their first conference road trip and they didn't get rattled at crunch time."

Both teams shot 43.1 percent from the field. The Wildcats were 25 of 58 with Northern State hitting 22 of 51.

Northern State outrebounded the Wildcats 36-32. Dodie Martin had six rebounds to lead Wayne State. Kari Belak added five.

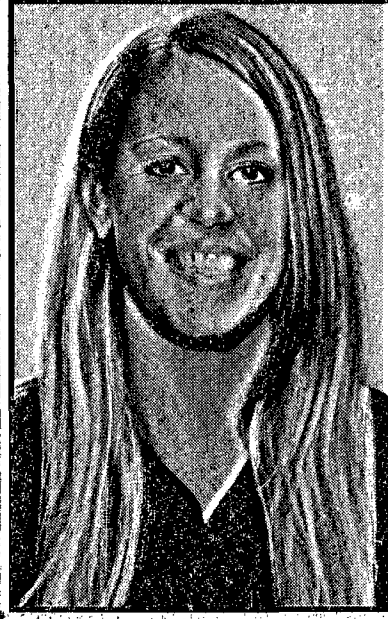

Ashley Arndorfer

The Wildcats committed just 12 turnovers in the game compared to Northern's 18.

Saturday evening, the Wildcats were never threatened in a 90-44 win at Minnesota-Morris.

The Wildcats led 42-14 at halftime and outscored the Cougars 48-30 in the second half.

Tracy Williamson 14 points to lead five double figure scorers for the Wildcats. Ashley Arndorfer had 13, Karen Hochstein and Kristen Humphries added 12 each and Kari Torgerson finished with a career-high 10 points.

Other scoring for the Wildcats included Dodie Martin and Rayna Nelsen with eight each, Kari Belak six, Kim Hefner five and Rochelle Sohl ended with two.

Wayne State shot 54.8 percent in the game, connecting on 40 of 73 shots. Minnesota-Morris was 16 of 52 for 30.8 percent.

The Wildcats outrebounded the Cougars 45-22. Dodie Martin had nine boards to lead WSC with Belak, Torgerson and Nelsen chipping in five each.

Lesley Menken handed out six of the Wildcats' 22 assists. Wayne State had just 13 turnovers to 20 for Minnesota-Morris.

Coach Williams says he is very pleased with his team's 4-0 start in the conference.

"I like where we're at, but now we will get tested with Winona and Concordia-St. Paul coming to Wayne this weekend, Concordia (10-2, 3-0) is probably the most athletic team in our conference and Winona (7-5, 2-1) likes to play fast and score a lot."

Tip off for both home games this weekend is 5:30pm at Rice Auditorium.

Wayne State men earn road split-host first place Winona State Friday night

by Mike Grosz
Of the Herald

The Wayne State College men's basketball team earned a split last weekend on its first Northern Sun Conference road trip of the season.

A 69-55 loss at Northern State Friday evening and an 85-58 win at Minnesota-Morris Saturday left the Wildcats 5-8 overall and 3-1 in the NSIC.

Wayne State is tied for second in the NSIC with Northern State and Southwest State after two weeks of conference play and welcomes league-leading Winona State (3-0) to Rice Auditorium Friday evening. The Wildcats also host Concordia-St. Paul Saturday evening.

In Friday's game at Northern State, the Wolves used a 27-9 run to end the first half to take control and knock off the Wildcats 69-55.

Wayne State held a 19-17 lead with 8:54 left in the first half, only to see Northern warm up to end the first half and take a 44-28 lead.

The Wildcats would get no closer than 13 points in the second half, 57-44 with 8:02 left, and fall 69-55.

Brett Watson came off the bench to score a game-high 17 points for the Wildcats in a losing effort. Todd Klosterman also hit double figures with 10. Justin Sanny scored seven points, Kevin Kobs and Dusty Smith added six each, Tom Sherlock had four, Troy Malone three and Tim Gesell finished with two.

"We miscommunicated on transition and allowed them some easy looks in the first half," said head coach Rico Burkett.

"Otherwise, I was happy with our play, especially to hold them to just 69 points."

Northern State shot 49 percent for the game, making 24 of 49 shots. Wayne State hit just 37 percent on 19 of 51.

The Wildcats were outrebounded 36-29. Tom Sherlock pulled down eight boards to lead the Cats.

Wayne State had just 13 turnovers in the contest compared to Northern's 15.

Saturday evening, the Wildcats rebounded with an easy 85-58 win at Minnesota-Morris, avenging a loss to the Cougars last year.

Wayne State led 39-24 at halftime and outscored the Cougars 46-34 in the second half.

All 12 players scored for the Wildcats, led by Justin Sanny's 12 points. Tom Sherlock and Tim Gesell added 10 each. Brett Watson followed with nine, Todd Klosterman and Levi Cahill had eight each and Troy Malone finished with seven.

Derek Archer and Dusty Smith scored six points each, Brett Cain had four, Kevin Kobs three and Colin Tague ended with two.

Wayne State shot extremely well in the win, hitting 31 of 53 shots for 58.5 percent. Minn.-Morris shot 36.9 percent on 24 of 65.

The Wildcats held a 38-28 rebounding edge, thanks to six carsoms each from Tim Gesell and Tom Sherlock.

Burkett said the team went out and did what they were supposed to do.

"This was a dangerous game at Morris, but our guys shot extremely well and on defense we were in with each other."

The third year head coach said he is ecstatic to be 3-1 in the conference after two weeks.

"To be 3-1 in the league after facing the top three teams in the pre season poll, we are very pleased. The guys have done a great job."

Wayne State will host Winona State Friday evening and Concordia-St. Paul Saturday evening with game times set for around 7:30pm both nights.

quarter. Allen got untracked in the second quarter, scoring 21 points. But Homer continued its offensive output with 19 points and held a 36-27 lead at halftime.

The Eagles outscored Homer 19-14 in the third quarter, cutting the Knight lead to 50-46.

Allen fought back to tie the game at 59-59 with 23 seconds left. A steal by Brett Koester and lead pass to Corey Uldrich led to a foul with six seconds left. But two free throws were no good, leading to overtime.

Homer outscored Allen 9-5 in the overtime session to win the game 68-64.

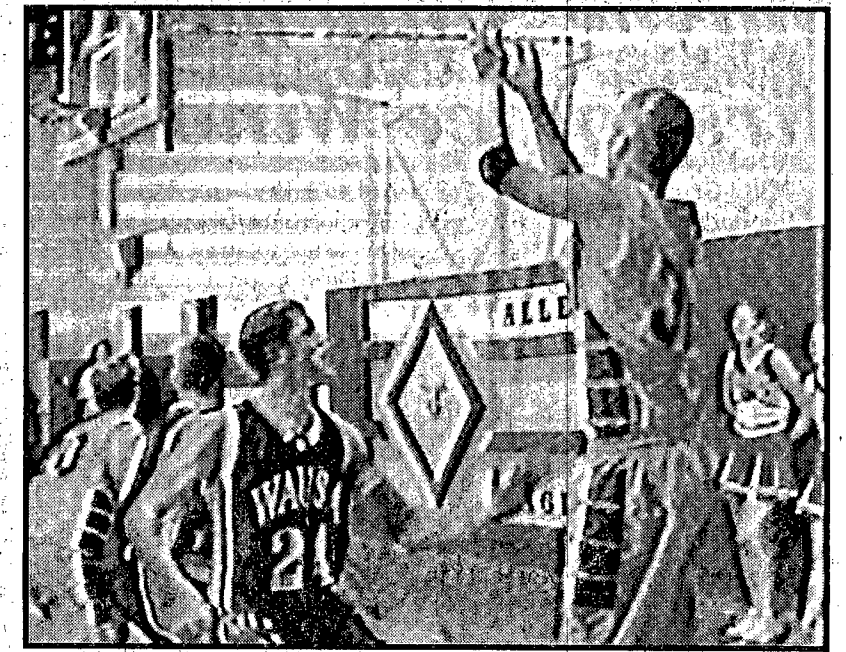

Brett Koester had 19 points to lead the Eagles. Corey Uldrich and Duane Rahm also found double figures with 18 and 12 each. Also scoring were Andrew Sachau with six, Aaron Smith four, Bart Sachau three and Scott Blohm two.

"We did not play good defense the entire game," Uldrich said. "We cannot come out flat to start games or we will be in these positions more."

Both teams shot the ball well. Homer was 25 of 46 and Allen hit 25 of 50 shots.

Allen outrebounded Homer 27-17. Uldrich's eight boards led the Eagles. Duane Rahm added six.

With the loss, Allen falls to 6-2 on the year. The Eagles travel to Ponca Friday evening.

Duane Rahn of Allen (#32) takes a shot over a Wausa defender.

Allen's Brett Koester shoots for two of his 15 points in the Eagles win over previously unbeaten Wausa.

O'Connor and Hawkins each pulled in eight rebounds to lead the Wildcats.

In the consolation game Friday, the Wildcats trailed Plainview for much of the game before running out of energy at the end, falling 55-40.

Winside trailed 41-38 with around 4:00 left, before Plainview held the Wildcats to just two points down the stretch to pull away for the win.

Pfeiffer scored 14 points in a losing effort for Winside. Wills added 12, Hawkins had nine, Nathan finished with three and Suehl had two.

Hawkins and O'Connor had eight rebounds each to pace Winside on the glass.

Sullivan's 25 points lead Allen girls in win at Homer

In what Coach Lori Koester called "our best complete game of the season", the Allen girls basketball team won at Homer Tuesday evening 56-53.

The Lady Eagles used a strong performance from senior guard Angie Sullivan in the second half to rally for the win.

Homer led 14-11 after one quarter and 29-21 at halftime. The Knights still held a 41-37 lead heading into the fourth quarter, but the Eagles outscored the Knights 19-12 in the fourth quarter for the win.

"We played with a lot of confidence on offense in the second half," said Koester. "The girls hit some perimeter shots which opened things up inside for us. We were able to get a lead and maintain our poise down the stretch and finish strong."

Sullivan ended with a game-high 25 points to lead Allen, including 19 in the second half. Alycia Stewart added a double-double with 14 points and 13 rebounds. Alyssa Uldrich just missed a double-double, scoring eight points and grabbing nine boards. Samantha Bock added five points and Kelli Rastode finished with four.

Allen was 23 of 54 from the field (43%) and 11 of 20 from the charity stripe (55%). Homer hit 34 percent from the field (21 of 61) and 4 of 4 from the foul line.

The Eagles held a 33-28 edge in rebounding.

Koester added, "It takes team work to win games like this one and that is definitely one of our strong points. We knew we had a big challenge in containing their three point shooters (Kristie Tighe and Kassidie Hightree)."

Allen improved to 7-2 with the win and will play at Ponca Friday evening.

Parent's Night

All parents of Wayne girl's basketball players will be honored before Friday evening's home game when Wayne hosts Pierce. The Wayne freshmen team begins a busy night of basketball starting at 4:45 pm.

Jerking perch from ice can be a 'feast or famine'

I just returned from an ice fishing excursion to the Glacial Lakes of N.E. South Dakota.

Our objective was to film a perch fishing segment for Outdoorsmen Adventures.

When I lived in Watertown, many of these bodies of water were duck ponds or didn't exist at all. Over the years, the water table rose and these shallow bodies of water filled becoming more like a lake than a slough.

As the water levels rose, the sloughs became larger and water from one drainage moved into other low areas and sloughs. As the water moved from one area to another, so did the fish, stocking bodies of water that had never held a healthy population of fish before.

We were fortunate to have a couple of friends, Don Fjerstad and David Law from KWAT 950 Radio that had been fishing the sloughs and had a pretty good idea where the fish were concentrated.

Perch fishing can be a feast or famine as perch are notorious prowlers, moving around the lake throughout the day.

You have a couple of choices, you can sit in one spot and wait for the perch to return or you can move, hoping to stay ahead of the fish.

When the perch bite happens, you'd best be ready because a good perch bite might only last a few minutes and end as quickly as it begins.

Gary Howey 'Of the Outdoors'

There are several things that you can do to tip the odds in your favor when you're out jerking perch.

If you're fishing a pond, slough or a lake with clearer water, you can down size your lure or go to a more subtle lure color.

Since water temperatures are cold and the fish are cold blooded creatures, they're lethargic and in clear water can see your bait at great distances and have a lot of time to look over your bait.

A few years ago, I was fishing for big bluegill on Okoboji in north-central Iowa and the water was crystal clear, we were able to see our micro lures clear down to 15 feet.

If we'd drop a brighter colored lure down, the bluegills would move away from our baits and stay away until we went to a more subdued lure.

In the clear water, the gaudy lures did attract the larger predator fish, but since the baits were so small, they simply glided over and looked at the bait.

Once these predators started hanging around, the panfish bite was history.

If you're fishing a dingy colored slough, it's pretty dark down there, and a florescent lure or a glow in the dark bait can be a real plus.

Since these baits are more visible, it's easier for the panfish to locate your bait.

Another thing that I notice when fishing for perch is that it doesn't take much for them to shut down, an ATV pulling a sled or ice house near you can really put the fish down.

On a body of water with a lot of clear ice and not much snow cover makes the perch really spooky.

We've had our best luck fishing the areas that have some snow on the ice. The perch will move under the snow cover, much like a bass will move under a dock for security.

One thing I've always wondered about was why, if a sled being dragged across the ice will scare fish, why doesn't drilling a hole through the ice spook the fish?

As a matter of fact, it seems like it might even attract them, as some of your quickest and best fishing occurs right after drilling the hole when you drop your line in the first time.

I've thrown this question out to some of the top ice fishermen and fishery biologists. It's their belief that the auger going through dislodges material that has frozen in the ice.

The fish in the area then move over to look for an easy meal.

If I'm on a lake that I've fished during warm weather, I like to head for structure that held fish earlier in the year.

Fish are structure orientated and the structure doesn't change just because the water has gotten hard.

The fish will still be in the same area, they might have moved shallower or deeper, you'll just need to locate the depth they're using.

I'm a firm believer in drilling a lot of holes and then fishing a spot a few minutes and then moving on to the next. This way I can cover a lot of different depths and locate the fish.

On our trip up north to Watertown, we caught a nice bunch of fish! Don took a 1 pound 14 ounce perch and in a last minute deal, I jerked a 1 pound 10 ounce perch through the ice.

Our group took home around 20 perch, most of them were 11 inches or larger.

Give ice fishing for perch a try, you'll be glad you did and a perch taken through the ice is some of the finest eating you'll ever find.

I hope that all of your trips to the field or on the water are successful and that you have a safe and prosperous New Year!

Herbs for Health

St. John's Wort for Depression

St. John's wort (Hypericum perforatum) has been used to treat depression and has been popularized by the media... including coverage in Newsweek and 20/20. This herb has three main actions: antidepressant, anxiolytic and antibacterial. The mechanism of action has been shown to be through inhibition of the reuptake of serotonin - a chemical transmitter in the nervous system!

A review of 23 trials on 1,757 patients diagnosed with mild to moderate depression demonstrated that hypericum extracts were significantly superior to a placebo and just as effective as standard antidepressants. Side effects were reported by only 20% of patients on hypericum versus 53% of patients on standard antidepressant medications.

The recommended dose of St. John's wort for an adult is 300 mg of the standardized extract (0.3% hypericin extract) three times daily. Reported side effects include mild stomach disturbances, fatigue and itching. The Coffee Shoppe on Main, located at 211 Main Street, has been serving customers since Dec. 12. The building is connected by a doorway to Antiques on Main. Both businesses are owned by Cap and Nana Peterson.

Coffee Shoppe on Main now open

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Citing the fact that "people seemed to want a coffee shop in town," Carter (Cap) and Nana Peterson have opened The Coffee Shoppe on Main, adjacent to Antiques On Main, also owned by the couple.

The business began operation on Dec. 12 and currently offers five different varieties of designer coffees each day, speciality coffees such as espressos, lattes and cappuccino, hot tea and hot chocolate.

Other menu items include bagels, yogurt muffins, homemade pie and brownies. On Saturday's Mary's homemade cinnamon and caramel rolls will be available. Early this week, soup was added to the menu and plans call for deli-type sandwiches to be added on Jan. 13.

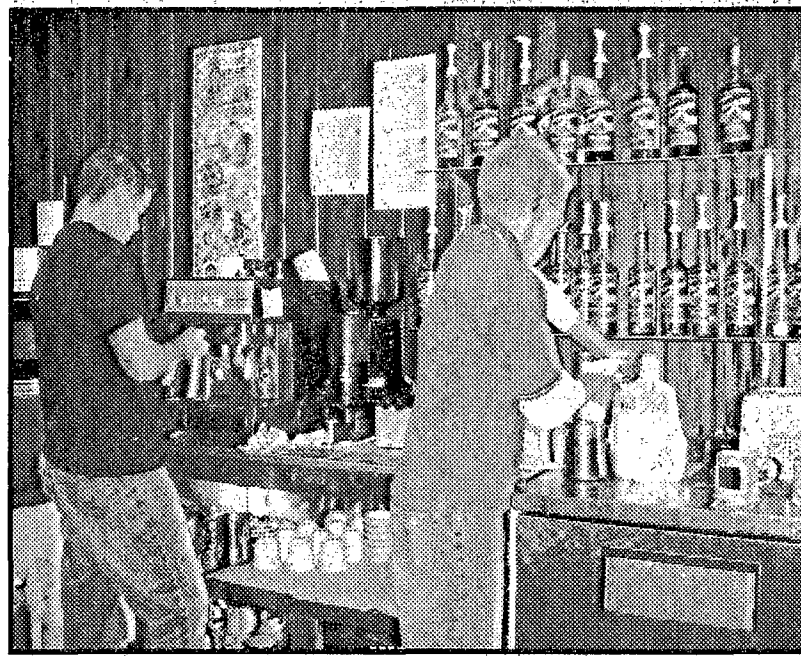

In addition, 12 ounce packages of regular and decaffeinated coffee beans can be purchased and ground at the store.

"We plan to build our menu as needed," Nana said.

The Coffee Shoppe on Main is open weekdays from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; on Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Beth Sievers is the manager of the shop. Other employees include Amy Elfers, Tracy Nolte, Sean Peterson, and Alexander Austin. Kitchen staff employees are Mady Jensen and Pat Janke.

The Petersons had purchased the former Diamond Center building some time ago, to be used for extra space for Antiques on Main. In October of 2002, construction began on the coffee shop.

"Otte Construction was the general contractor for the project, which consisted of mostly plumbing and wiring," Nana said. She and her husband did most of the painting.

The smell of coffee in the antique store often draws customers into the coffee shop, which are separated by a doorway between the two establishments.

The original doors to the Ben Franklin store, which was located where the antique store is now, join the two buildings.

A conference table is available at one end of the shop for meetings and card parties can also be held there.

The Petersons said they would also consider renting the facility for evening parties if the renter had his or her own caterer.

"We are very appreciative of everyone's enthusiasm and patronage. We are also open to suggestions on how we can better serve our customers," Nana added.

Work for an optimistic attitude

Now is a time of new year resolutions. It is a time to re-evaluate where we are at and think about where we want to go. It is also a time of year when we start three months of shorter days, colder weather, and sometimes a less optimistic attitude.

I thought it was interesting when I read an article that was titled "Optimistic People Live Longer." In that article, it was stated that "Optimistic people appear to recover faster from surgery, have less heart disease and better mental health than pessimists. Better still, studies out of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota, indicate that optimists live longer than pessimists as well as enjoy a higher quality of life. They report better physical and social functioning, more vitality, less pain, and fewer limitations due to physical and emotional problems." That should challenge each of us to work on developing an optimistic attitude.

Where can we start? Optimists have a link to healthy behaviors. They regard their health as something that they have control over, so may engage in more healthful behaviors such as exercising and eating a healthful diet, not smoking and preventing sun damage. Optimists have stronger social networks. Social networks can motivate people to take care of their health by raising their self esteem. Optimists reduce stress better and they are more adept at coping with stressful situations. For instance, they are more likely to stay calm and collected, so they can work through problems and think of solutions rather than feeling like victims.

What can help develop a more optimistic attitude? Learn to relax. Whether it is making a conscientious effort to tell yourself to relax, doing a slow, repetitive movement or meditative thoughts by participating in an activity such as yoga. Learning to relax can help you think more rationally about your own situation and how to improve it.

One of the best ways to get the benefit of social interaction is by volunteering. You not only make social contacts, but also increase self worth. Another method is to look for community nutrition centers and participate. It allows getting a nutritious meal as well as companionship. Look for educational opportunities. You will meet new people and learn as well.

It is the start of a new year. Let this be an opportunity to develop a more optimistic attitude to deal with the challenges life sends our way. We don't always have a choice on the challenges, but we do have a choice on how we deal with the challenges.

Adopted from: Tufts University Health & Nutrition Letter: January 2003.

Iron: Why Boys May "Outsmart" Girls

According to a recent report in the medical journal Pediatrics, iron deficiency may be responsible for girls not keeping up with boys in solving math problems by the time they reach high school. Iron is required for red blood cell production. Having too few red cells is termed Anemia.

Researchers at the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry studied more than 5 thousand children aged 6 to 16 years. They found that iron deficient children were twice as likely to have below average standardized math test scores as compared to children who had adequate amounts of iron in their blood.

In this study 3% of children overall were found to be iron deficient. However, 9% of teenage girls were iron deficient. Test scores were lower even if iron deficiency was not so serious as to cause anemia.

Cold or Flu?
Each flu season we get many calls asking how to tell if a person has a cold or the flu. Since treatments are different, it's important to know which one you have. If you have a sore throat, a runny nose, and a fever not exceeding 100 degrees, you probably have a cold. If you have a high fever and chills, your body aches and symptoms appear suddenly, you may have the flu. Ask us about over-the-counter medications to relieve cold symptoms and prescription antiviral medications that can lessen the severity of the flu.

'First Fridays'

Program to feature new learning community

The Wayne State College First Fridays' program scheduled for Friday, Jan. 17, will include a presentation by Dr. Mark Hammer, associate professor of biology, and Dr. Barbara Hayford, assistant professor of biology, on the new Environmental Studies Learning Community at Wayne State. The program will be held in the Elkhorn Room in the Wayne State Student Center.

The environmental studies learning community includes students who have an interest in the outdoors and environmental issues.

These students have enrolled in several required courses including Environmental Concerns, Composition Skills, World Regional Geography, Lifestyle Assessment and Introduction to Sociology. Students involved in environmental specific general education courses through the Environmental Studies Learning Community collected and studied data during a one-week field trip to the 56,000-acre Niobrara Valley Preserve near Valentine in September.

Because parking on campus is limited, a free shuttle service from the Wayne Senior Citizens Center/Public Library at 410 Pearl Street will be provided by the college before and after the First Fridays event. The shuttle will depart from the Senior Citizens Center/Public Library at approximately 8:45 a.m. and will return immediately following the program.

Those wishing to ride the shuttle are asked to park near the south end of the Senior Citizens Center.

Refreshments will be served. Although designed for senior citizen appeal, all ages are welcome to attend. There is no admission charge.

During each First Fridays event, birthdays are acknowledged and special guests are recognized. First Fridays is sponsored by Wayne State as part of the school's mission of community and regional outreach. Although designed for senior citizen appeal, all ages are welcome to attend. There is no admission charge.

Sign up now for No-till Incentive Program

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD) is again offering producers the opportunity to enroll land into the LENRD No-till Incentive Program.

The LENRD no-till program is a five-year contract. Any local operator (no custom planting) may enroll a field or portion of a field up to 160 acres in size that is highly erodible land (HEL) or that portion that is HEL. The program will pay the producer $10 per acre per year for five years.

The crop rotation will consist of a corn-soybean rotation. The first year of the program must be soybeans planted into corn stubble on at least 50 percent of the acres. No ground disturbing or crop residue disturbing operations between harvest and spring planting are allowed. No pre-plant N<sub>2</sub> or manure injection and no row crop cultivation are allowed. A maximum of 25 percent of the row width can be disturbed in the planting operation.

Participants are required to attend two educational sessions, which are developed by the LENRD, Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) and UN-L Cooperative Extension. The producer will participate in the Farming for MAXimum Efficiency (MAX) program, an economic analysis tool provided by the Conservation Technology Information Center (CTIC).

In addition to participating in educational workshops, the no-till incentive program participants are given a list of all of the other participating farmers, their equipment types, and telephone numbers. This provides an opportunity to network with other no-tillers to share information and solve problems.

LENRD Assistant General Manager Ken Berney says, "No-till farming requires producers to be knowledgeable and good manners. Some of the soil benefits take a few years to become apparent. We want producers, not only to try no-till, but to be successful and stick with it."

Watch for new information on the No-Till Incentive Program on the LENRD website. New information and forums will be posting soon at www.lenrd.org

Producers wanting to enroll should contact their local NRCS office. Applications are now being accepted until Jan. 17, 2003.

Getting fill of soup, football

January is Soup Month. Did you know that? I've often said I could eat soup every day for lunch, but I'm beginning to wonder. We just about did that in December.

First, I had the turkey from Thanksgiving. I cooked the bones and added a big bunch of noodles. Had to add water and chicken bouillon to get away with all those noodles. I think we ate that for a month; alternating with the ham and bean soup I made from the ham bone which was also left from the family feast day.

Don't worry; I kept parts of it frozen. We didn't get salmonella or anything. But, just as we were getting tired of it, it was gone. Then, on the 24th, I quick fixed some tomato soup and toasted cheese sandwiches before we left for 3 o'clock services with my Mom in Lincoln. She said she would give us a snack before we went on to Seward. It was potato soup. And it was delicious; Mom's always is. Monte was cooking for all after the 5:30 service the boys were in.

Guess what? Wild mushroom Soup! And, it, too, was delicious. I'm not kidding. It was not canned or a mix; it was made from scratch, following a recipe in his new French cookbook.

Well, we laid off the soup after that. Neighbor/cousin Judeen called and said we needed to come for supper on the Sunday night after Christmas. It was really our turn to feed them, but she insisted. Seems she made huge pots of chicken noodle and ham and bean that week to take to all the shut-ins, and she had some left. Actually, we did enjoy it. Honest. Think it has something to do with the company, and the great dessert. We laughed on the way home.

By: Pat Meierhenry

And, last Saturday, it was cloudy and gloomy, and windy. What a perfect day for chili. Now, that's in the frig. Plus, I'm making Good Housekeeping's recipe for a giant pot of vegetable soup tomorrow. It's guaranteed to help take off pounds. I've used it before, and it tastes good. And, it's good for you. And, somehow, with all the soup, we gained a couple of pounds.

Oh, I almost forgot. We had the family Christmas celebration in Kansas City. And Kristi prepared the traditional oyster stew, plus chicken noodle and chili. Of course, here, too, there was lots of accompaniment: chips and dip, bread and meat and cheese, pie, cheesecake. So, I think December was soup month in our family. I'm just continuing the idea in January.

We also overdosed on football. We were mighty disappointed in the Big Red. And, we thought Iowa would show that California team. K State pulled it out in the last few minutes; and much as we hate to have a Big 12 team get beat; we didn't cry for Colorado.

But the Fiesta Bowl was the grand finale! I had just read about their quarterback that day. He's a premed major, with a very good grade point average; and lots of his classmates didn't even know he played football. I bet they do now! He is one tough guy. I hope he makes it into med school.

Marketing workshop to be held in Wayne

Marketing has always been a part of farming, but agriculture has changed dramatically over the past few years and producers are learning it's now a whole new ball game. There are new rules, new players and, most of all, new tools.

To help farmers reorganize opportunities to price gain and manage risk, University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension has developed a program titled "Winning the Game."

A "Winning the Game" workshop is scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 15 from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Wayne Community Recreation Center in Wayne, located at 901 West Seventh Street.

These workshops, being offered throughout the state this winter, will include discussion of forward pricing and crop insurance. The focus of the workshops will be a market simulation game using actual prices and yields that will give participant practice marketing their grain.

The workshop is jointly sponsored by Farm Bureau Financial Services Wayne County Farm Bureau and Dixon County Farm Bureau in cooperation with the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension and the Nebraska Soybean Board.

For more information or to register, contact Stan McAfee at (402) 287-2784.

For information on the statewide "Winning the Game" program, contact University of Nebraska Ag Economist Doug Jose at (402) 472-1749 or University of Nebraska Ag Economist Roger Selley at (402) 762-4442.

Annual outing

The beginning of the new year signals time for the annual John Deere Days activities at Northeast Equipment. Large crowds were on hand to check out new equipment, watch a video, take part in the pedal tractor pull and enjoy lunch and supper. The annual event includes several days of painting, cleaning and preparing and generally attracts more than 1,000 people from throughout the area.

Corn Growers to hold meeting

The Northeast Nebraska Corn Growers Association will hold the annual meeting on Monday, Jan. 20 at The Max in Wayne.

All area corn producers and agribusinesses are invited to attend the evening event, beginning with a 6 p.m. social and a 6:30 buffet meal.

A program consisting of three speakers is scheduled to follow. Guest speaker will be John Hanson of Lexington, who is the Senior Ag Advisor for Congressman Osborne. Also scheduled to speak will be Mark Schweers, a farmer from Wisner, currently serving as President of the Nebraska Corn Growers Association (NeCGA) and Bob Dickey, a farmer from Laurel, who serves as the District 4 director on the Nebraska Corn Board.

The Northeast Nebraska Corn Grower local consists of members from five counties, including Wayne, Cuming, Dixon, Thurston

This local is one of 21 locals from across the state that make up the NeCGA, which is affiliated with 26 other states to form the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA). This grassroots network allows issues raised from the local level to be passed on to state and national policies.

The purpose of the NeCGA is to enhance and expand the use, marketing and efficient production of corn and to do everything within the capability of the Association that will benefit the Nebraska corn producer. Founded in 1972, the NeCGA continues as a private, non-profit membership organization dedicated to enhancing the profitability of Nebraska's corn growers.

Those planning to attend the meeting are asked to RSVP the exact number in the party to Randy Dinklau at (402) 375-5368 or Grant Brockemeier at (402)

529-6803 no later than Friday, Jan. 17. There is no cost to attend but the number of meals need to be planned for.

Wayne County Extension Board meeting is planned

The Wayne County Extension Board annual meeting will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 14 at 7:30 p.m. at Geno's in Wayne.
