Blood bank kicks off campaign

The Siouxland Community Blood Bank kicked-off its 2003 donor recruitment campaign, Heroes Unite, It's About Life! in Wayne on May 13 at the Providence Medical Center.

The campaign is designed to help sustain the blood supply throughout the summer when blood donations trend down while the demand for blood goes up. The theme for the campaign is meant to honor not only lifesaving blood donors, but community fire, rescue, and law enforcement personnel.

The donor recruitment campaign will help recruit blood donors by stressing community participation in blood drives. From May through September, the blood bank will be conducting blood drives in over 100 communities in the tri-state region. To help make the drives successful, the blood bank is asking city officials, fire, rescue, and law enforcement personnel to help encourage their communities to donate blood.

The campaign will not only help increase blood donations, but will reward a community's participation.

One community will receive a sponsored, donated gift certificate of $1,000 to benefit local fire, rescue, and law enforcement squads. The sponsored gift certificate may be used for equipment and supplies. The winning community will be based on a participation formula, not population.

For the campaign, when blood donors register they are asked to specify which community they would like to give credit for their donation. Whether they register at a community blood drive, or at blood bank headquarters on 1019 Jones Street in Sioux City, they can request their donation be credited towards their community fire, rescue, and law enforcement squad.

The Wayne community blood drive is scheduled for Thursday, May 22 at Providence Medical Center from 8:30 a.m. - 3 p.m. Walk ins are welcome. To be eligible to donate, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, in general good health and have not donated whole blood in the past 56 days.

For more information, contact the blood bank at (712) 252-4208 or 800-789-4208, or visit the blood bank website at www.sioxlandbloodbank.org.

The water in Wayne is safe

In accordance with the National Primary Drinking Water Regulations, the city of Wayne has made public the notice of a violation of drinking water microbiological standards.

Harold Reynolds, Water/Waste water Superintendent stressed that this does not mean residents need to boil water or take any other corrective measures.

"We took a total of 46 samples during the month of April and only three came back positive. We have no idea why and are doing everything to make sure the water supply is safe," Reynolds said.

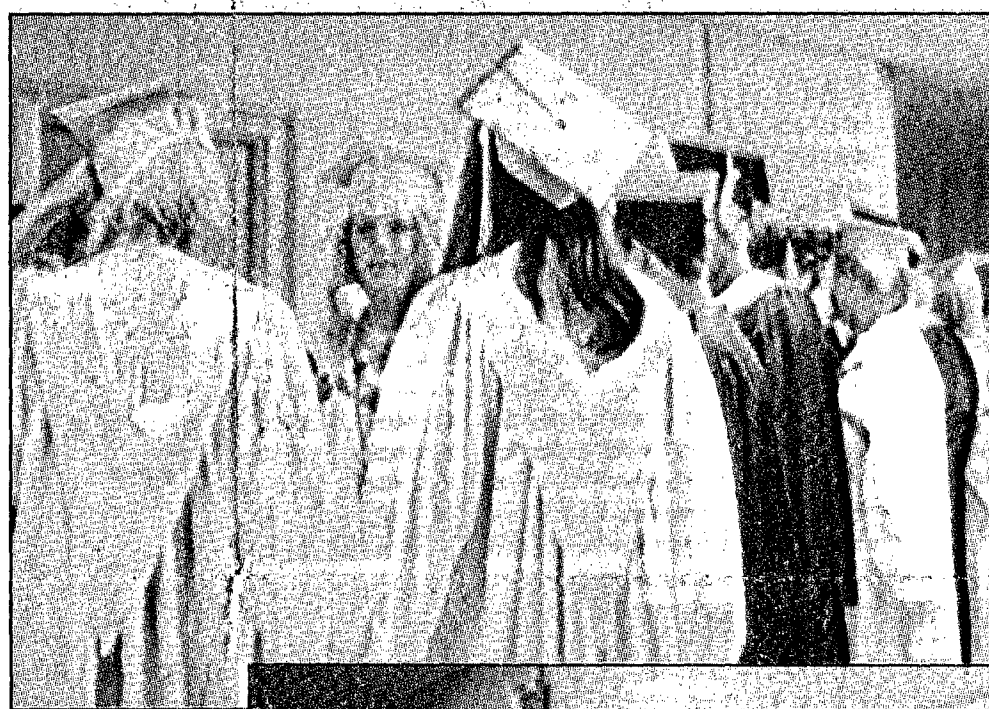

Reynolds also noted that this is not an emergency and if it had been, the public would have been notified immediately.

The violation consisted of total coliform samples testing positive during the month of April. Coliform bacteria are generally not harmful themselves. Coliforms are bacteria which are naturally present in the environment and are used as an indicator that other potentially-harmful bacteria may be present.

Coliforms were found in more samples than allowed and this was a warning of potential problems. Whenever coliform bacteria is found in any sample, follow-up testing is done to see if any other bacteria of greater concern, such as fecal coliform or E.coli are present. No fecal coliform or E.coli were present in the samples.

The city of Wayne public water supply system is continuing to test and is working with the Drinking Water

Baiers happy at WSC commencement

By Judy Johnson
Director of College Relations, WSC

Saturday, May 10, was a special day for Todd and Carrol Baier of Wayne. Not only did both of them graduate with honors from Wayne State College, but they both walked across the stage in Rice Auditorium as they received their diplomas. There was more: they were also able to share their graduation day with family members and a very special friend, Bramlett Murphy, M.D.

They weren't sure if Dr. Murphy would be able to make it to the commencement, and they were prepared for that. Dr. Murphy, now retired, lives in Oxford, Mississippi, and as late as Friday it looked unlikely that he'd be able to make the trip back to Nebraska. But he did.

The Baiers first met Dr. Murphy in 1994 when he was a physician in Sioux City, Iowa. It was then that Todd was diagnosed with dermatomyositis, an autoimmune disorder that attacks the muscles. From the first part of February until his birthday, May 5 of that year, Todd was a patient at Marian

Teacher asks board to rescind their vote

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

The regular meeting of the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education was held Monday night.

Several people were on hand for pre-scheduled communication to the board. Edith Zahniser, German teacher at Wayne High, spoke asking the board to rescind their vote from the previous meeting and keep the German program rather than phase it out in 3 years. She noted phase out was not mentioned at the previous meeting.

One of her students, Charles Holm, also asked the board to reconsider their vote and keep the program in place. He's is German 1 and feels he's learning many different aspects of German culture as well as the language.

Jeff Ensz, a former student of Zahniser, also spoke. He had 4 years of German at W.H.S. and noted how it enriched his life. He's a student at the University of Nebraska-Kearney where he's taking German as a minor and notes he's doing well because of his background in the language.

Speaking on commencement, Elysia Mann, representative for this year's Wayne High senior class, stated they did not want scholarships and awards announced at the graduation ceremony. She noted they have a petition with 58 seniors names on it making the request as the list was read at Honors night recently and the list will be printed on the programs handed out at graduation. The board agreed it was their ceremony and agreed not to recite the list at graduation.

Also approved was the contract of Kevin Finkey. He will be the new football and wrestling coach replacing John Murtaugh who resigned recently.

Finkey has 16 years of teaching experience in Nebraska public schools, including 16 years of experience as a head FB coach and 3 years as a head wrestling coach. He

May is dog license month in Wayne

Wayne Police Chief Lance Webster wants to remind people that it is that time of year again, Annual dog licenses expire this month.

Webster said May is the month when the annual dog license only costs $3. After May the cost for the annual license goes to $20.

The City of Wayne maintains a dog licensing program to ensure that all dogs in the community are properly vaccinated. In addition, if a dog does get loose AND it has its license tags on the Police Department will try to contact any dog owner before the animal is impounded.

Webster said the impound fee is $20 so it is always cheaper to license a dog so his staff can identify the owner.

Sullivan serving in Germany

Army Reserve Spec. Rachel Sullivan of Wayne, a member of Detachment 1 of the Norfolk and Fremont-based 1012th Quartermaster Co., was called to active duty on Jan. 25, 2003.

The unit reported to Ft. Riley, Kan. for training and was then deployed to Germany.

Spec. Sullivan is the mother of a daughter, Sydney Sullivan, 3, and the daughter of Darrel and Betty Walton of Wayne.

Her address is: Spec. Sullivan Rachel, 1012 QM Co., CMR 403, APO AE 09059.

has been at Gering High School since 1997 where besides being head FB and wrestling coach, he was assistant track coach and also taught P.E. and Biological Science.

Approved was the hiring of Deb Daum as a SPED para-professional and approved was the contract of Suzanne Burbach as secretary. She will be at the middle school until school is out and then go to the elementary school.

The board approved a 3 year lease agreement of $52,422 per year with Municipal Leasing Credit Corporation for 100 computers. Altona Ed, a new software, will be installed on all computers. The new software makes it possible for parents to access their children's school records to see their progress and attendance.

Several resignations were approved with regrets. They were Holli Jackson, SPED para-professional; Jessica Essman, SPED para-professional; Joni Poutre, secretary to principal at the Middle School; and Diane VandeVelde, copy center and para-professional.

Dr. Joe Reinert, superintendent, gave a report on the recent meeting of area school superintendents. There is a consolidation bill that has been discussed in the legislature that if passed, could require a school district to have no less than 1,600 students or create a county-wide school district.

Discussion was held on consolidation and cooperation with area schools. Pender and Wisner are conducting a feasibility study, as well as Bloomfield, Wynot, Hartington and Crofton. Randolph and Osmond are sharing superintendents and have an interlocal agreement with Wausa. Laurel is sharing superintendent and administration with Coleridge.

Reinert believes it is not a matter if consolidation will happen, but when.

A new school calendar was approved. The calendar insures 180 contract days and five in-service days. Reinert noted there were 185 contract days last year and were more in-service days. With budget cuts, Reinert felt he should tighten up the calendar.

Several elementary teachers were present to voice their opinions on the new calendar. Phyllis Trenhaile said a main concern was the in-service days which could be more effective. The teachers noted they spent 3 or 4 days working on a calendar which was not considered.

Nadine Fredrickson echoed her opinions on the service days and said with the new software to do assessments, there will be less time.

Peg Lutt spoke on the early start day of August 15 (for teachers) and August 18 (for students). She said the first week is full days which gives no transition to the little ones.

High school teachers Kathy Fink and Sue Buryanek voiced their opinions on the lack of air conditioning in their building and how uncomfortable it is for teachers and students.

Annette Rasmussen said parents even don't want their children starting school so early.

Reinert said at least six different calendars were floating around and one had to be made which is his responsibility. He noted for contract and in-service days last year, only about 178 contract days instead of 180 were actual teaching time. Teachers pay is around $16,000 per day in the Wayne schools system.

Reinert agreed to meet with the in-service committee to look at the calendar.

The next school board meeting was set for June 9 but has been changed to Monday, June 16 at 7 p.m. at the high school building in Wayne.

Perlman's job not always pleasant

Harvey Perlman did what lots of us would like to do. He told his critics that, if they didn't like the way he did his job, they could get someone else to do it.
Perlman is the chancellor of the University of Nebraska's flagship campus in Lincoln. He has shown himself to be highly qualified, fair-minded and businesslike.
Perlman's job currently includes an unpleasant duty. He has to implement the budget reductions mandated by the Legislature and Gov. Mike Johanns. Perlman has to figure out which programs will suffer as a result of the reduced funding. He doesn't have a choice. Part of Perlman's budget proposal would do what is the unthinkable among many in higher education. It would eliminate eight tenured faculty positions at the State Museum at NU.
In academia, achieving tenure is the professional equivalent of being granted eternal, professional life. Tenure has long been regarded as a mainstay to the guarantee of academic freedom and the retention of good faculty. Perlman's critics on the NU faculty quickly argued that his proposal was unfair, unheard of and, ultimately, a danger to the future of the university.
And then, someone called for NU's Academic Senate to vote on a resolution of no-confidence in the administration.
That is when Harvey Perlman showed folks that, while he looks like a soft-spoken academic, he is also plenty tough. Not loud and table-banging tough, but tough in the way that a good parent can be tough when a situation calls for it.

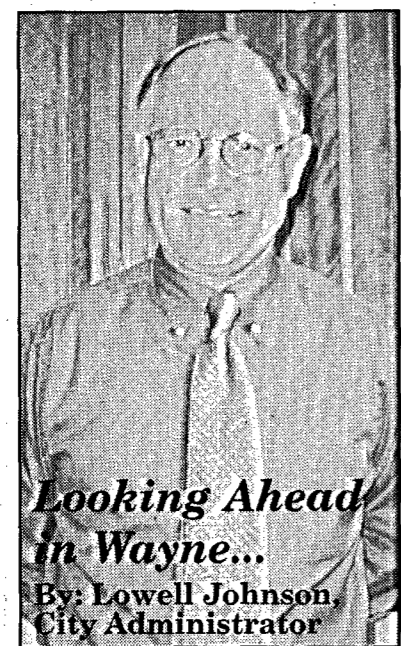

And, Lord knows, the situation Perlman faces at UNL calls for it. Perlman decided he wouldn't wait around for the Academic Senate vote next fall. He said he would poll the faculty, immediately. And if he didn't get sufficient support for his budget plan, he would resign as chancellor. Period.
Perlman's move reflected an attitude that ought to be adopted by more parents in some cases. He effectively told those who aren't happy with the budget situation:

"Well, if you don't like it here at home, maybe you should try foster care! I can't give you what I don't have."
His move also sent a message to the Legislature and to Johanns. Perlman let them know that he isn't going to serve as a whipping boy for budget policies over which he has no control.
Perlman certainly stopped short of the old Johnny Paycheck anthem ("Take this job and shove it!") but he made clear a position that a great many working folk can admire: I'll do this tough job, but you are not going to abuse me while I do it. And if you think you can get a better job from someone else, go find them.

Perlman's poll of faculty should be complete by the time this is published. Whatever he decides (or has decided) to do, he deserves credit for showing the kind of guts and leadership that too many people in public life talk about, but seldom exhibit.

Program that is dedicated to funding recognitions and awards such as Citizen of the Year, Educator of the Year, and scholarships. Talented individuals Shown left to right are Mabel Sommerfield, Helen Beckman, Leo Ahmann and Suzanne Caruso. Not present was Betty Echtenkamp. The women decided to create a quilt to benefit the Main Street Wayne Program. "We have encouraged them to raffle it off during the Henoween festivities," Mrs. Sommerfield said. Suzanne did the quilting for the group; Helen embroidered the blocks and Betty sewed them together. "Everyone at Main Street is very grateful for these gals for supporting our organization in this manner," Ahmann said.

Ready!!!

The chickens have come to roost at the Main Street Wayne office! The 26 cement chickens are now available and ready to be painted for the Henoween auction scheduled for Friday, July 11. Last year 24 people showed their artistic creativity for the auction. Money raised from the auction is used to defray Henoween costs. Term limits are being debated in legislature

On May 7, we gave first-round approval on a vote of 31-5 to LB 598, which would place a constitutional amendment on the ballot to repeal term limits for state senators.
We do not expect to take a final vote on the measure this year. The plan is to take time to determine whether there is public support for such a measure. If there is such support, we could pass the measure next year.
I support the repeal of term limits. I believe term limits is bad public policy because it deprives the state of experienced lawmakers.
Some senators opposed LB 598, saying it would appear self-serving to the public. However, I believe that the damage from term limits will be so severe that an effort must be undertaken to convince the public to change the policy.
Assuming they serve until the end of their term limits, 19 of the current senators will be leave in 2006 and 21 more will be gone in 2008. That's 40 of the 49 members - a considerable loss in experience and institutional memory.

Turning to the budget, we have to pass budget bills by the 80th legislative day, which is May 15, or suspend the rules to extend the time. In either case, we are down to crunch time, for we are coming to the end of the 90-day session.
We debated several tax revenue measures last week. We are looking to plug a $355 million shortfall arising from the budget plan recommended by the Appropriations Committee.
On May 6, we gave final approval to LB 282, which deals with the collection of sales tax on out-of-state purchases made by Nebraskans through catalogs and the Internet. Governor Mike Johanns has signed the bill.
LB 282 would make Nebraska part of a national agreement regarding the collection of sales tax from multi-state merchants. The earliest Nebraska could begin collecting sales tax under the agreement would be July 2004.
Nebraska is losing tens of millions in tax revenue annually because of the failure to collect sales tax on out-of-state purchases. LB 282 would help plug this hole and provide badly-needed revenue for the state.
Finally, I'm pleased to announce that one of my legislative objectives this session was accomplished with the final passage of LB 160 on May 8.
The bill allows a new rendering process to be used in the disposal of spent hens. The disposal of these carcasses is a significant problem in commercial egg production, a major industry in northeast Nebraska.

The process converts poultry carcasses into animal feed, thereby taking a liability and turning it into an asset. Developers are planning a multi-million plant near Wakefield to use the process.

Health Center (now Mercy Health Center). Dr. Murphy was Todd's physician, the one who treated him for the seven weeks he was in intensive care, for the three-and-a-half weeks he was on a respirator, and for the eight weeks he was on kidney dialysis.

"The muscle damage that had been done by that time was quite severe," said Todd. "The doctors weren't entirely sure that I would make it."

"We had some real bad days when we didn't know how things would go," said Dr. Murphy, "but with Todd's family support he made it through."

Until November of that year, Todd had to receive food through a tube in his stomach because he was too weak to swallow properly. From that point, he progressed from a wheelchair to crutches to being able to walk unassisted.

While many other medical professionals have told Todd that he's fortunate to be alive, Todd attributes his recovery to the dedicated knowledge of his doctor as well as the love and support of his family and friends.

"One of the milestones and turning points in Todd's recovery came when he was finally able to eat on his own," said Dr. Murphy. "We had promised him steak when he was better," and Todd took them up on their promise.

Todd and Carrol started taking classes together at Wayne State in the spring of 1997. Carrol, a registered nurse for more than 30 years, continued working while she and Todd took first, a few classes, and then more. They both completed a double major in sociology and psychology.

Carrol works at the Pender Community Hospital and is an RN consultant for Region IV Services in Wayne. She is active in many community organizations, and will be the president of the Wayne Rotary this year as well as president of the Wayne Toastmasters. Carrol and her husband, Dennis, live in rural Wayne.

While both Todd and Carrol were excited about receiving their degrees on May 10, having Dr. Murphy present for the ceremony made the day perfect.

"It was absolutely fantastic," said Todd. "It truly meant the world to me. After all, this is the man who helped to save my life. Also, he is a man of exceptional personality and heart whom I am very proud to call a friend."

Financial status

Council listens to update

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

"We're not laying anyone off and this year is not a problem, but if we don't deal with the situation, next year could be," said City Administrator Lowell Johnson of the city's financial status.

Johnson and City Treasurer Nancy Braden presented an update on the budget for fiscal year 2002-03 during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Braden said that a number of factors have contributed to the current situation. They include a 47 percent increase in property/casualty insurance for the city, $50,000 in utility bills for the Community Activity Center and new fire hall, approximately $50,000 less in state aid and lower interest rates on the city's investments. It is estimated that there will be a total loss in revenue of $300,000 in the next fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1.

Following a public hearing, Resolution 2003-16 was passed, approving the final plat for the Third Phase of Vintage Hill Subdivision. The Planning Commission had earlier recommended approval of the 30-lot subdivision.

The council also approved the execution of an agreement with the Nebraska Department of Roads relating to the Country Club Road project. The agreement calls for up to 80 percent of the project to be paid for with Surface Transportation Funds, depending upon the amount of money unused on other projects. At the present time, the city of Wayne has approximately $483,000 available for the project which is estimated to cost $810,000.

Gene Hansen, Electric Production Superintendent, presented information on Federal Spill Prevention Requirements and told the council that the goal of the requirements is "to keep all types of oils out of waterways."

Hansen listed a number of measures that need to be taken by the city to comply with the requirements. These include testing the integrity of the city's 300,000 gallon tank, replacing a fuel line from the tank into the building, installing a fence and security light around the tank and meeting periodically with staff for spill prevention information.

The council voted to offer for sale a number of lots along 10th Street for $12,000. The goal is to advertise these lots for the amount the city has invested in them and see if there is any interest in developing them.

The decision comes following the council's recent meeting as a committee-of-the-whole in which housing development incentives for the city of Wayne were discussed.

Following executive session discussion, the council voted to offer lots on a 9.8 acre parcel recently donated to the city by the Wayne Country Club to Morlok and Company. Johnson said that this bid, which was accepted with some contingencies, brings the highest value to the city.

The application of Cory Moeller to the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department was approved. This brings the number of fire personnel to 38.

The council unanimously authorized the city administrator to negotiate and select an engineering firm to design a trunk line sanitary sewer system for the Back 9 of the Golf Course property. Johnson told the council he would recommend the firm of JEO, which is already working on another project for the city. Cost is estimated at $19,000.

In other action, Mayor Sheryl Lindau re-appointed Bill Sharpe and Joel Ankeny to the Library Board and appointed Darrel Heier to the Civil Service Commission. Robert Woehler was named Fire Chief.

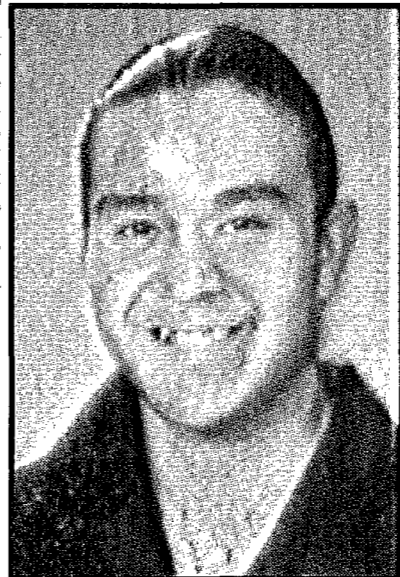

The council's next meeting will be Tuesday, May 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers.

Student does traditional dancing

By Dan Kruse,
Wayne State student writer

Wayne State Native American graphic art major, Garan Coons is involved in more art forms than his work on paper or in the classroom.

Coons is not a man prone to exaggeration.

Garan Coons

His gentle demeanor and peaceful eyes could put even the most hardened of souls at ease. One prominent feature that the Winnebago native displays is his pride in the Ogallala Lakota people and their incredibly rich heritage of dancing.

The dance that Coons performs is the traditional Native American dance that is known as "fancy dance."

"The fancy dance is a dance that's more athletic," Coons said. "It originated with the traditional Ogallala dancers who were touring with Buffalo Bill in the Buffalo Bill Show. They wanted more attention and more cheering, so they made it much fancier so people would be more attracted to it. The fancy dance uses more ornate costumes and whips because the whips were originally used to bring more people into the arena and keep children in line." He adds laughing, "We don't do that now."

Coons took second place out of approximately 120 contestants at the American Indian High Consortium held in Fargo N.D. in 2003. The music for the dancers was provided by a drum and vocal group called "Native American Music." Coons said that the group consists of eight singers who beat on a single drum that's made of cow hide or buffalo hide. They produce one sound and one voice to symbolize harmony with the Great Spirit. Many people often ask Coons about Ogallala traditions and customs including his waist length braids. "I've been growing my hair since I've been eight years old. There have been times when I wanted to cut it, but my mother says no because my hair will be a sign of mourning when someone like my grandmother or mother dies. I will cut it and it will be buried with them," he said.

Coons will spend this summer doing an internship at a Native American graphic arts agency.

Declared co-champions with Concordia-St. Paul WSC baseball team goes 2-0 at NSIC Tournament

by Mike Grosz
Of the Herald

There was good news and bad news with the Wayne State baseball team's trip to Duluth last weekend for the NSIC Baseball Tournament.

First, the good news. The Wildcats won both games they played, crushing top-seed Minnesota-Duluth on Thursday 14-3, then posting a come-from-behind 4-3 win over second-seed Concordia-St. Paul in the winner's bracket final on Saturday.

Now, the bad news. Wayne State had to settle for NSIC Co-Champions, along with Concordia-St. Paul, after rain cancelled Sunday's scheduled title game. WSC, at 2-0, was the only team left in the winner's bracket and the Wildcats beat the top two seeds in the tournament.

"The last man standing should be champion," said head coach John Manganaro. "We beat the top two seeds in the tournament and in our hearts, we know who the best team was at the tournament. I am very proud of our kids, they played with class and represented Wayne State very well."

Wayne State opened the tournament Thursday with a convincing 14-3 win over Minnesota-Duluth. The Wildcats roughed up UMD starting pitcher Tim Battaglia early, scoring eight runs on nine hits in just over four innings against a pitcher who handled the Wildcats easily just five days earlier in Duluth 8-1.

"We were ready for him this time," said Manganaro about Battaglia, who throws 92-94 mph. He added, "We played outstanding against Duluth...all of the pressure was on them."

A five-run fifth inning broke open a close game early, giving WSC an 8-1 cushion, and the Wildcats never looked back. The big hit in the inning was a three-run homer by Brian Foy, who was later named the NSIC Tournament's Most Valuable Player.

"We felt our team had something to prove and that's how we played," added Manganaro.

Foy had three hits, a homer and two singles, to fuel Wayne State's 15 hit barrage. Matt Fjelland also added three hits, including a home run and double. Brian Disch, Aaron Lavaroto and Dan Bengel chipped in with two hits each. Disch and Lavaroto hit home runs.

On the hill, Travis McCarter was in control, tossing seven and one-third innings, striking out 10 batters while giving up three runs on seven hits. Joe Wall recorded the final five outs in relief.

"McCarter was outstanding," stated Manganaro. "He intimidated the other teams."

After rain postponed Friday's action, the Wildcats met Concordia-St. Paul on Saturday and battled back from an early 3-0 deficit to win 4-3.

Wayne State scored three runs in the sixth inning and the go-ahead run in the bottom of the eighth inning to post the win.

"Their pitcher frustrated us early," Manganaro said. "But our hitters made some adjustments and our team decided we weren't going to lose that game."

Tim Richt's two-run homer was a big hit for the Wildcats in the sixth inning, then Richt came through again with a bases-loaded single in the bottom of the eighth inning to produce the game-winning run.

Concordia-St. Paul had one more hit than the Wildcats, 9-8. Richt, Foy and Chris Pedroza each delivered two hits for WSC. Justin Conley added a double.

Jared Hertzler pitched the first five and one-third innings, allowing three runs on seven hits. Left-handed reliever Jon Pitts tossed two and two-thirds innings, allowing just two hits and no runs to earn the win. Joe Wall pitched a perfect ninth inning to get the save.

Wayne State had four players named to the NSIC All-Tournament Team. Foy was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player. First baseman Tim Richt, outfielder Matt Fjelland and pitcher Travis McCarter were also named to the All-Tournament Team. Richt and Fjelland each had three hits, including home runs, in the two wins, while McCarter pitched WSC to an impressive opening-day win over Minn.-Duluth.

Wayne State finishes the season with a 26-13 record, losing five seniors from this year's team.

"Brian Foy, Ryan Radtke, Don Whitmore, Aaron Lavaroto and Eddie Burns will be tough to replace," said Manganaro.

Manganaro also praised the help of his coaching staff.

"Our program would not be where it is at without our coaching staff," commented Manganaro, speaking of assistant coaches Trevor Garbers, Bruce Schlecht, Joel Tremblay, Rob Watt and Scott Hayduk. "These guys donated their time in helping our program get better."

McCarter named NSIC pitcher of the year, three Wildcats named All-Conference

The Northern Sun Conference announced its 2003 All-Conference Baseball Team Monday with Wayne State placing three players on the All-Conference squad while also taking one of the league's top post-season awards. Two other Wildcats received honorable mention accolades.

Travis McCarter, a junior from Overton, earned the NSIC's Most Valuable Pitcher of the Year award while also being named All-Conference. McCarter was 5-0 in league play with a 0.58 ERA. His five wins, 0.58 ERA and 38 strikeouts were all tops in the NSIC. For the season, McCarter was 9-0 with a 1.91 ERA, working 70.1 innings with 78 strikeouts.

Also receiving All-Conference honors were outfielder Ryan Radtke and second baseman Brian Foy.

Radtke, a senior from Lino Lakes, Minn., hit .357 this season (45-126). His 45 hits were third best on the team. Radtke had six doubles, two home runs and 38 RBIs.

Foy, a senior from Omaha, led the team in most statistical categories, including average (.476), hits (68-143), runs scored (51), doubles (10), triples (3), home runs (10), runs batted in (54) and total bases (121). The 5'7, 165-pounder was also named the Most Valuable Player of the NSIC Tournament, going 5-9 with one home run and four RBI in two games.

Receiving honorable mention honors in the NSIC were first baseman Tim Richt and pitcher

Jared Hertzler.

Richt, a junior from Bellevue, was second on the team in average (.361), hits (48), doubles (14), home runs (6) and RBIs (49).

Hertzler, a sophomore from Lincoln Northeast, had a 5-2 record with a 4.38 ERA. In 51.1 innings, he allowed 58 hits, 27 runs (25 earned) and struck out 45 batters. He had two complete games.

Wayne State finished the season with a 26-13 record and was declared co-champions of the Northern Sun Conference after the conference tournament was cancelled due to bad weather. The Wildcats were 2-0 in the tournament when weather cancelled the event.

Wildcat track athletes earn All-Conference honors at NSIC meet

The Wayne State College track and field teams competed at the NSIC Outdoor Track and Field Championships Friday and Saturday in Moorhead, Minn.

Minnesota-Duluth dominated both divisions again this year. The UMD men scored 296.5 points to claim their 10th outdoor title in 11 years while the women's team scored 213 points to win their ninth straight NSIC title. The Wayne State men scored 73.5 points to finish in fifth place while the WSC women placed seventh with 60.5 points.

Head coach Marlon Brink said, "Our team gave good efforts which I was happy with, but our lack of depth hurt our overall team rankings. We are a fairly young team, so it appears that we have a bright future."

Leading the Wildcat men's team was junior Eric Havranek (Ainsworth), who won the long jump with a mark of 23' 4". He completed his sweep of both the indoor and outdoor titles this year in the long jump. Havranek also placed third in the 100 meter dash in a time of 10.91 his best of the season to earn NSIC Honorable Mention All-Conference honors. Havranek also anchored the men's 4 x 100 meter relay team to a fourth place finish in a time of 43.35. Other team members included: Travis Wockman, Brian Dixon, and Teddy Young.

"Eric came through with a big jump in the finals to crush the competition," stated Brink. "I know he wanted to get the sweep (indoor and outdoor titles) pretty badly, so I was happy to see that happen for him."

Senior Adam Meier (Waterloo) won the javelin throw with a personal best and WSC school record throw of 185' 0" to also earn NSIC All-Conference honors. This was Meier's first year of throwing for the Wildcats.

"Adam was a great surprise for our team this year," added Brink. "He has a great arm and simply destroyed the competition." The Wildcat men picked up two more NSIC Honorable Mention All-Conference performances. Sophomore Brian Dixon (Raymond Central) placed third in the 400 meter hurdles in a time of 58.34. Freshman Matt Schaffer (Nebraska City) placed third in the 800 meter run in a time of 1:59.24 to also earn NSIC Honorable Mention All-conference honors.

The Wildcat women's team was led by freshman Lindsey Stockwell's (Geneva) double gold medal performance in the javelin and discus throws. Stockwell - who was ranked second in the event - won the javelin with a new personal best and school record throw of 121' 3" on Friday. On Saturday, she claimed her second title by winning the discus with a throw of 129' 3".

Stockwell was the top ranked performer in the event the entire outdoor season. Brink said that Stockwell had a great weekend.

"She really came around the last two weeks of the season with her javelin throwing and showed good consistency to win the title. In the discus, Lindsey responded to wet and cold weather and won with a nice throw in poor conditions," added Brink.

The Wildcat women's team earned a pair of NSIC Honorable Mention All-conference performances. Senior Angie Albers (Hartford, S.D.) placed third in the 100 meter hurdles in a time of 15.03 seconds. Sophomore Kari Torgerson (Cold Spring, Minn.) placed third in the shot put with a throw of 40' 0".

The meet concludes the season for the Wildcats track and field team.

Garvin sets new school record in discus at Battle Creek meet

The Wayne track and field teams wrapped up the regular season last Friday at the Battle Creek Invitational. The event was postponed one day later due to bad weather. The boys team placed first with 143 points while the girls team tied for second by scoring 108 points.

"The weather was much nicer than Thursday without the rain," said head coach Dale Hochstein. "The teams responded well and ran many personal bests."

Oil from Two Herbs Used in Aromatherapy

Research has shown that specific odors, when connected to past events, can affect behavior. For example, a burning smell or the smell of hospital disinfectants can cause feelings of anxiety in some persons. That is the concept behind a relatively new approach to healthcare called aromatherapy. Most often, specific aromas are used to produce a calming effect. Aromatherapists use essential oils of different herbs to produce the desired outcome.

Three recent studies indicate that the scent from the oils of lemon balm and lavender when inhaled or applied to the skin, significantly benefited elderly persons with existing behavior problems such as dementia and agitation. The oils were either steamed into the room air or were applied as a hand lotion. In each study no side effects were noted and all participants were able to complete the designated treatment. The significance of these studies is that an improvement in agitation eventually could lead to decreased need for prescription-calming drugs, in some cases.

Mrs. Carollo added, "The Red Cross is extremely grateful for this monetary donation and it once again shows us and our community what a great group of students we have at Wayne High School! This was a very unselfish and kind thing - to give up a day out of school and a trip to donate money that would help other people. That is wonderful human spirit and compassion!"

Students recognized at monthly honor coffee

The monthly Wayne Community Schools Board of Education Honor Coffee was held Monday night prior to their regular meeting.

Recognized was Gale Lawton, runner-up in the Nebraska Arbor Day Contest.

Also recognized were Duke University Talent Identification Program participants qualified to take the SAT or ACT include seventh graders Cory Harm, Madelynn Jager, Jennifer Holm, Abigail Kinney, William Smith, Jesse Hill, and Max Stednitz; Computer Programming Team members Nic Costa, Will Karr, and Brady Garvin; and Northeast Community College Scholastic Contest Medalists Pariss Bethune, Brady Garvin, Nic Costa, Brent Jones, Luke Grone. The Quiz Bowl Team consisted of Britni Bethune, Andy Martin, Tyler Anderson, and John Jensen.

Lawton, a student at the Wayne Middle School, received a $50 U.S. Savings Bond from the Nebraska

Gale Lawton

Power Association and a runner up certificate. In addition, the Nebraska Power Association provided a check for $200 to the school. Up to $150 of the money may be used to purchase a tree to be planted on the school grounds in honor of Lawton's accomplishment. The remaining money can be used to purchase educational materials for his classroom. The Keebler Company provided cookies to Lawton's classmates.

As for the Duke University Talent Identification Program, in January, students received the 2003 edition of the Educational Opportunity Guide that contains listings for over 400 quality programs across the United States that are appropriate for academically gifted students.

TIP will mail the students and informative and entertaining newsletter in the fall and spring of each school year through the 10th grade.

In the fall of the 10th grade, students will receive a copy of the College Guide that will serve as an informative resource as they begin the college application process.

TIP also has summer programs for students who qualified at the State and Grand Recognition levels. The students only have to qualify once for these programs and will receive mailings about these opportunities every year through the 10th grade.

Students qualifying for recognition in the Duke University Talent Identification Program 2002/03 are in the top 25 percent of the talent search pool, and a student qualifying for grand recognition is in the top two percent. These are significant achievements because the pool itself is highly selective and the scores are ones that many high school students aspire to achieve.

Qualifying for State Recognition (top 25 percent of talent search pool) include Cory Harm, Jennifer Holm, Maddie Jager, Abbie Kinney, and Bill Smith. They are invited to attend the State Recognition ceremony at Creighton University in Omaha on May 20.

Qualifying for Grand Recognition (top 2 percent of talent search pool) include Cory Harm and Maddie Jager. They are invited to attend the Grand Recognition ceremony in Duke University at Durham, N.C. on May 19.

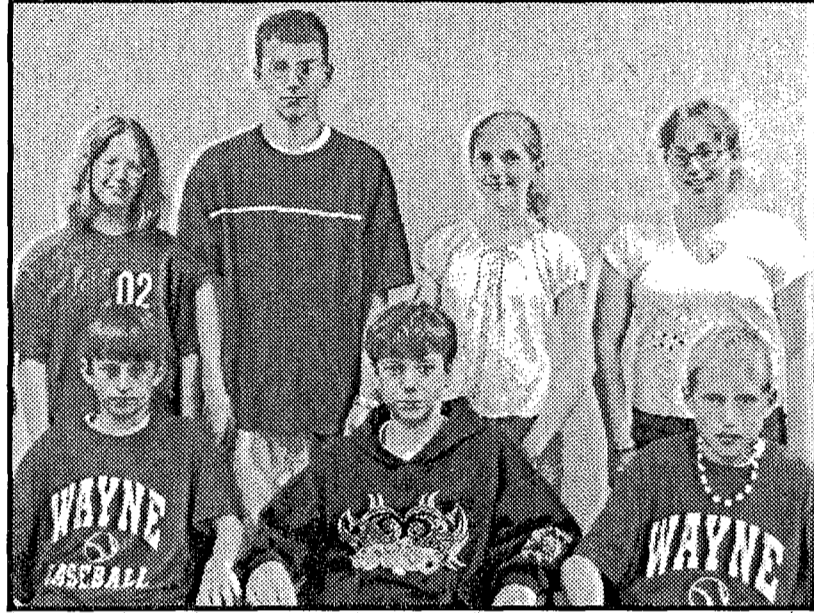

On April 16, a team of Wayne High students competed in the first annual NECC Computer Programming contest. Along with 10 other teams from Northeast Nebraska, the WHS team was presented with six problems. The challenge was to create a computer program to process the data according to the specifications resulting in a correct solution to the problem. The winner would be the team that solved the most problems, with the fewest amount of errors, in the least amount of time.

Only two of the 11 teams were able to correctly solve all six problems, Wayne HS and Norfolk HS. Based on time, Norfolk was declared the winner, with Wayne finishing second. Trophies were awarded to the top two teams and prizes were given to all contestants.

Wayne High students participated in the Northeast Community College Scholastic Contest. Wayne competed in 14 of the 41 events and placed in the top two in six of the 14 events. First place medalists were Bethune in Algebra I, Garvin in Calculus and Chemistry, Costa in Computer Literacy, Jones in Foods and Nutrition. Grone received second place in vocabulary. The Quiz Bowl team finished second in a single elimination tournament with 16 teams.

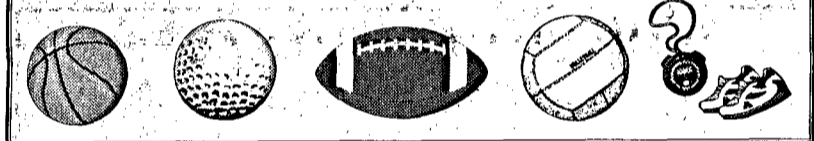

Several Wayne High students participated in the Northeast Community College Scholastic Contest.

Several Wayne Middle School seventh grade students qualified to take the SAT or ACT through the Duke University Talent Identification Program.

The Wayne High School athletic department and school store will be selling newly arrived apparel at the athletic banquet on Tuesday, May 20th at Wayne State College. The Banquet begins at 6 p.m. Come early and shop.

Prevention Pathways: Growing a Healthy Community

Tougher Penalties on parents who allow underage drinking

As prom season nears, a number of communities throughout the U.S. are implementing laws that would toughen criminal penalties for parents who allow teenagers to drink in their homes, the Philadelphia Inquirer reported March 31.

"Increasingly, people are becoming aware that they can be subject to a criminal prosecution or a whopping lawsuit for underage drinking on the part of their children and their children's friends," said Gary Tennis, legislative liaison for the Pennsylvania District Attorney's Association. "Now, it's becoming less tolerable than it used to be."

Kansas, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Texas have passed criminal social-host liability laws. Furthermore, prosecutors have become aggressive in their efforts to bring charges against parents who allow illicit partying.

"I don't think you're ever going to stop kids from experimenting with alcohol, but the problems is when you have adults who make it easier for the kids to do so," said Pennsylvania's Northampton County District Attorney John Morganelli. "That's why you're seeing a focus on adults as the facilitators of underage drinking. Our belief is that is adults stop doing that, it will be harder for kids to get the alcohol, and we might save lives that way."

In addition to toughening laws, more than 20 states have implemented "Parents Host Lose the Most," an outreach program that informs parents of their potential liability.

"It's mind-boggling that any adult would think that it is an OK thing to do, but I hear it all the time: 'I'd rather have my kid drinking at home,'" said Rebecca Shaver, executive director of Mothers Against Drunk Driving's Pennsylvania chapter. "I cringe when I hear that."

"I've found Dr. Herbert Feidler and his staff to be efficient, professional, and most of all caring. I'm a health care professional myself and know that those three aspects of health care are something that patients both expect and deserve.

I've known Dr. Herbert Feidler and of his abilities for 15 plus years. I used to work with him in the emergency room. I've seen how he works with patients and how he treats them. I've never talked with one of his patients who wasn't thrilled with the care they got in his office.

I was having vision problems, I needed a specialist. Now that I've come to Feidler Eye Clinic, I'm seeing just fine.

BankFirst Prime Time Club lines up near their bus while they were on their trip to Sioux City, Iowa, to learn about Lewis & Clark at the Interpretive Center and to attend a concert at the Orpheum Theater.

The Prime Time Club posed for a photo on their recent Royal River Flandreau Trip.

BankFirst's Prime Time Club on the move

The BankFirst Prime Time Club recently took a day trip to Sioux City, Iowa. After picking up 54 members in Columbus, Club 81, Norfolk, and Wayne, they started on their adventure to Sioux City. Coffee, juice and cookies were served on the motor coach. With the short drive to Sioux City, they finished their snacks just in time to arrive at their first stop, the new Lewis & Clark Interpretive Center. The new facility is beautiful as well as informative. There, the group learned about Lewis & Clark's expedition including what they encountered in the Sioux City area.

After a lunch at an area restaurant, they were treated with a presentation by Bev Hinds, an area historian. She informed them on many details about Lewis & Clark's stay in the Sioux City area.

She also spoke about the medical practices that were common during that time period which Lewis and Clark and their men used. Most of the medical practices used during those times have been found in later years to be more harmful than helpful.

The day was ended with a Branson-style concert at the Orpheum Theater. Attendees felt the Ozark Mountain Jubilee proved to be a very entertaining and funny family show.

When the Prime Time members boarded the bus to return home, they were greeted with cold pop, a snack, and fond memories of Sioux City.

The Prime Time Club also recently enjoyed a two-day trip to Royal River Casino in Flandreau, SD.

As soon as all the Prime Timers boarded the motor coach, the games began. In between coffee and cookies, they played card bingo and even had coyote and bunny races. It was found that people could run fast from one side of the motor coach to the other. Attendees felt time on the coach went fast with all the games. The group stopped at the Empire Mall in Sioux Falls, SD.

Good luck was had by some of the Prime Times during their trip at the casino games.

If you are interested in joining the Prime Time fun trips as well as their regular monthly functions of cards and card bingo, which includes refreshments and door prizes, call Penny at 375-1114 at the Wayne BankFirst office or Susan in the Norfolk office at 371-8005.

Chartwell's recognized for achievement

Chartwells at Wayne State College was recently recognized for outstanding achievement by finishing second in the nation in Taco Bell's "Golden Bell Champions 2002" program.

Approximately 740 Taco Bell Express stores participated in this national program. Wayne State's Taco Bell Express has consistently exceeded brand standards for operational excellence and has been rewarded for its accomplishments.

In 2002, Wayne State's Taco Bell finished with an overall "Best of the Best" CHAMPS score of 99.55 percent and finished second place nationally.

"The program focuses and measures performance in six critical operational areas. We are very proud of our accomplishments. For the year, we received perfect scores of 100 percent in Cleanliness, Accuracy, Maintenance, Product Quality and Speed. The only minor deduction for the entire year came on one shop, back to January of 2002, in Hospitality," said John Sinniger, RGM (restaurant general manager) and WSC's Director of Dining Service.

"We held an employee team meeting at the beginning of the calendar year and stressed the Compass "GREAT PEOPLE, GREAT SERVICE, GREAT RESULTS" vision, while setting our goal of becoming the first Chartwells account to repeat as a "Best of the Best" winner."

In 2000, Wayne State's Taco Bell became the first "Best of the Best" Chartwells account, when they finished second place also.

Accomplishing team goals such as this is always very satisfying. We truly have a special team," Sinniger said.

Prize awards for their accomplishments included an exclusive Golden Bell plaque for the unit, Golden Bell lapel pins and a merchandise award of $20 for each

The scholarship money, part of EducationQuest's Educational Award Program, is designated for undergraduate students who demonstrate financial need. Some of the funds will also target minority students and students who face additional obstacles to higher education.

This marks the fifth year that EducationQuest has disbursed need-based scholarship funds to Nebraska colleges, bringing to $3.8 million the total amount disbursed thus far. Through 2002, the funds have benefited over 3,000 students. Nearly 1,000 students are expected to benefit from this year's distribution.

"May is National Scholarship Month - the perfect time to announce this year's Educational Award Program distribution," said Tammy Stevenson, Education Quest Director of Scholarships.

"We're especially proud of how this program addresses the shortage of need-based aid in Nebraska and helps low-income students access higher education."

EducationQuest Foundation is a private, nonprofit organization with a mission to improve access to higher education in Nebraska. Cataracts affect over 80% of our senior citizens. In fact over one million cataract surgeries are performed annually in the U.S. alone.

New technological developments in implants, ultrasonic equipment, lasers, diagnostic testing, and surgical techniques have made cataract surgery one of the most effective procedures today. Currently, over 98% of cataract patients experience significant improvements in vision, without major complications.

Until now, the high cost of this new technology for cataract surgery was only available in the larger surgical facilities. This meant that you would have to travel for a complete eye examination and surgery. Not any longer.

Complete eye care and cataract surgery is now available at Providence Medical Center in Wayne. You don't have to travel outside of your community to have your vision tested for cataracts. With Dr. Willcockson, Dr. Koerber and Dr. Magnuson offering comprehensive diagnostic and surgical services, you now have the most advanced eye care available right here in town.

Call Dr. Koerber or Dr. Magnuson for a complete eye examination and cataract vision screening today. If you would like more information on cataracts for yourself or someone you know who may be experiencing loss of vision, call today for a free informational brochure.

Former editor of Laurel paper visits area

Visiting Laurel recently was former-managing editor of the Laurel Advocate, Steve Liewer. Liewer works for the Stars and Stripes newspaper and recently returned from a reporting assignment in Iraq.

The Stars and Stripes is a daily newspaper serving soldiers and civilians working at overseas military bases in Europe and the Pacific. Liewer worked at the Laurel Advocate from 1982-85 (and for a short time in 1987). He hadn't been back this way since 1990 but still keeps in contact with friends and relatives in the area.

Liewer lives in Kitzingen, Germany with his wife, Keiko. The unit he is with is the Army's 1st Infantry Division, 11th Aviation Regiment, and the 12th Aviation Brigade. While in Iraq, Liewer stayed with the unit who had a camp near Najaf in central Iraq.

Near their camp at Najaf, the group became acquainted with an extended Iraqi family of 29 people who had been farming near Nassarsah but were kicked off their land. The little mud-brick house they lived in had no doors. The children were often outside but the women were always in the house as it's custom for men to not see the women. Liewer also said it's not polite to invite yourself into an Iraqi home.

Steve Liewer and his wife, Keiko, were in Laurel recently. An open house was held for them at the Saloon. The business is owned by his cousin, Tanya Lute, and her husband, Doug Lute.

The friendly family told the unit they felt safer with them nearby as Iraqi soldiers had come by looking for their sons to serve in their militia. The family had hid their sons and risked their lives by telling the soldiers others had already taken them.

Soldiers with Liewer felt responsible for the family and brought them food.

"It was interesting for the soldiers," Liewer said. "The soldiers didn't have much contact with the Iraqi people so this changed their mission to helping the people."

The family Liewer encountered while in Iraq is just one of the many experiences he had while there.

Life on the desert wasn't easy. The sand was terrible on equipment. Liewer said he had to turn in one laptop computer after only being there a short time as it had been damaged by the sand. Scorpions were abundant and the men had to put up their boots at night so they wouldn't climb in. The sandstorms were awful; they turned the sky orange. One bad one was called the Red Storm because even in broad daylight, the sky turned dark as night but was a brilliant red instead of black. The sand penetrated the tents and covered everything with dust.

Liewer noted when they first reached the camp at Najaf, he didn't feel safe as they had endured three sleepless nights in a long convoy of lightly defended Army vehicles. Battles raged a short distance in front of them. And, few tanks stayed at the camp to defend them. Later, engineers built up the defenses so camp was more secure.

Before being transferred to Germany, Liewer spent 2 years covering the U.S. Navy's 7th fleet in Yokosuka, Japan from July, 1999 to August, 2001. Right after September 11, he was sent to Bahrain where he covered the bombing campaign aboard the USS Enterprise right after the attack on Afghanistan. While there, he went along with the infantry and special forces to cover missions as well as the assassination attempt on President Karzai.

On March 30, 2002, Liewer married Keiko Kuraya from Saitama, Japan, who he had met on an airplane flight. Shortly before the wedding, he was on assignment in Kosovo and was asked to return there after the honeymoon.

Although Liewer has Nebraska

roots, he's not exactly a Nebraskan. He was born in Seattle, Wash., where he grew up except for 4 years in the Minneapolis/St. Paul, Minn. area. His dad, Don Liewer, a retired Boeing engineer, grew up in Osmond where his father, Gene Liewer and his grandfather, Matthew Liewer, ran the Osmond Republican for many years.

"Journalism runs deep in my blood," Liewer said. "We visited Osmond often when I was young. The smell of printer's ink still makes me think of my grandpa's newspaper shop."

Liewer was editor-in-chief his junior and senior years in high school. He attained a 2-year degree from North Seattle Community College.

In 1973, Liewer's grandfather retired from the paper in Osmond and Liewer's uncle, Duane Weber of Plainview and his aunt, Mary Jane Weber of Osmond, bought the Osmond Republican. In July, 1982, they bought the Laurel Advocate (later they also bought the Randolph Times). They hired Liewer as managing editor at the Laurel Advocate.

Liewer knew he wanted to finish his degree and wanted to do so at the University of Missouri School of Journalism. Working full time, he finished in 3 years.

He interned at the Indianapolis Star, then went to work at a small daily paper in Florida, the Boca Raton News. In 1990, he went to work for a larger paper, the Sun-Sentinel in Ft. Lauderdale. He later got a fellowship to get a journalism master's degree at Ohio State in 1997-98.

Liewer said after he received his master's degree, he was ready for something different and also wanted to travel. So, he applied for a job at Stars and Stripes which has taken him across the world.

Michelle Murray

Murray is award winner

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Michelle Murray of Wayne has been named a United States National Award Winner in English.

The Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American students.

Michelle, who attends Wayne High School, was nominated for this national award by Sylvia Ruhl, an English teacher at the school.

Her name will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy.

The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Michelle is the daughter of Dennis and Linda Murray of Wayne. Her grandparents are Lowene Heaverlo of Council Bluffs, Iowa and Harold and Earlyne Murray of Wayne.

Prepare for rising health care

Rising health care costs are affecting all individuals. According to a Nov. 3, 2002 USA Today article, premiums are expected to leap an average of 15.4 percent for employers next year.

Employers are seeking alternative methods to shift rising health care costs to employees, such as higher premiums, co-payments and deductibles.

It's imperative consumers are aware of the growing trends in the health care industry, especially relating to insurance policies. The costs associated with health care and insurance will continue to rise and consumers will need to be educated and informed if they are going to make wise choices.

Consumers can protect themselves and their health care needs by doing the following:

— Review health care policies. Know what your family's needs are, what services are provided and how to submit a claim. Also, know premiums, deductibles and co-pays.

— Know if your employer provides medical savings plans or flexible spending accounts. If not, have a medical emergency fund set aside. This savings also could be used to pay for Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act health plan continuation in the event of job loss.

— Shop for alternative plans. People shop for lower car and home insurance premiums; the same concept should apply to health insurance. In addition, ask the employer to shop around for the best policies.

Sandy Preston
Dixon County

— Write to local congressmen and representatives. Rising health care costs have been a concern since the 1990s; however, no new legislation has been passed to remedy the situation. It often takes individuals getting involved to help make political change happen.

— Join a purchasing cooperative. Many states have included provisions for individuals and small employers to purchase insurance through group cooperatives. The benefits of these groups are still too soon to discern; however, if an individual needs insurance and is having difficulty getting insurance, this is one alternative. Nebraska has legislation supporting cooperatives. However, evidence of successful formulation is lacking.

— Check into wellness programs. Employers are beginning to include wellness and disease management programs in an effort to reduce the costs associated with employees who have chronic diseases. Preventing disease or managing a chronic disease can help save on health care costs.

— Become familiar with Nebraska's social programs, such as Kids Connection. Many states provide insurance for children and low-income families. In addition, there has been some help with prescription drugs known as patient assistance programs.

These Natural Products Have Medicinal Value

Acacia gum has been used for thousands of years in Africa and the Middle East for its medicinal value. Acacia is known to soothe irritated mucous membranes and promote wound healing when applied to the skin. When swallowed, its coating action is thought to ease throat irritation and coughing.

Another medicine that is thought to have originated from upper Africa is alfalfa. The leaves of this plant contain high amounts of protein, vitamins A, E, B, and C, as well as calcium, iron, phosphorus, potassium, and several trace minerals. Alfalfa also contains saponin, which is known to lower levels of "bad cholesterol" while leaving good cholesterol untouched. The manganese found in alfalfa may be responsible for its ability to lower blood sugar. Other components have properties similar to estrogen. Alfalfa is often used as a nutritional supplement for overall health, although increased sensitivity to the sun and possible interaction with vitamin K, E, birth control pills, and hormone therapy have been known to occur.

The pieces the students played were either from the Romantic period (19th century) or the Modern Period (since 1900). Mrs. Cook sang a Renaissance Period (late Middle Ages) folk song and played piano solos by Bach (Baroque Period), Mozart (Classical) and Scott Joplin (Modern).

For the finale, Deniz played "Do You Want to Dance?" and "Rock Around the Clock" while his mother, Katherine Rudin, and Tom and Pat Cook danced the lindy swing dance.

Reduce Risk of Type 2 Diabetes With Whole Grains
Eating whole grain foods can reduce the risk of type 2 diabetes. In a study of over 43,000 men, those who ate three or more servings a day were 40% less likely to develop type 2 diabetes than those who seldom ate whole grains. Even obese men, whose risk is high, benefited from eating whole grains. The diets of study participants include brown rice, oats and whole grain cereals, breads and pastas. These results echoed those of another recent study involving women.

Family possessions are not worth fighting over

Did you have a nice Mother's Day? Mine was. It started out with a mother-daughter salad supper at a church in nearby Eagle. (That's the easiest way to serve a bunch of women: have everyone bring a salad). And there was every variety: jello, the standby of church suppers, broccoli and bacon, cut-up melon and strawberries, even frog-eye. We ate and chattered, and had a good time.

But the main event was something I had been wanting to hear. The speaker was a lady from Iowa; her topic, Who Gets Grandma's Yellow Pie Pan? It's all about dividing up the sentimental stuff after someone dies.

After all, as she pointed out, material assets can usually be divided: $3,000 to three children is just $1,000 apiece; simply put. But, what happens when more than one person would like the yellow pie plate, simply because there are all the good memories of the rhubarb pies that were baked in it?

She shared some scenarios: her family had broken up her mother's household before she went to a nursing home. And she had lived in this house over 50 years! They found some of the first checks the lady had ever written. (Reminds me of someone else I know). It took two whole days of the three children working very hard to get the stuff out of the attic. Then, there was the auction, and the burning, and before that, the dividing.

The speaker, being the only daughter, got the dishes that had been her grandmothers'. But, she has three daughters. Who will get the dishes later? It made for some very provocative conversation. Members of the audience shared their experiences. One lady said that right after her husband died, she gathered her children together and parceled things out.

The advantage to that, we were told, was that the "story" associated with the object could be told. That appeals to me: I like stories. One woman there collects tea pots; she has 300! Besides that, she has them catalogued; where she purchased or who gave it, how much was paid, etc. Sounds like most them have increased in value. For instance, one particularly ugly one the children had said they were not interested in. She told them it was worth $150.

They became interested! Members of the congregation had brought some old objects and displayed them, and told how they came to have them. There was an ivory wedding dress, handmade by the owner's great-grandmother. There was also a baptism dress, decorated with old lace. There were several pieces of glass and pottery; and a couple of old iron skillets, which the owners are still using. As always, though, the point was that it was still just stuff. Some of these things had caused rifts in families, and we should strive to avoid these. Even a yellow pie pan isn't worth holding a grudge about. Some families had auctions, and whatever grandchild had the money for the object they wanted could bid on them. I remember that the Meierhenry spinning wheel got away like that, and Uncle Reuben always regretted that.

When we visit antique shops, I see all kinds of stuff that were probably prized by someone, sometime. I especially wonder about the old photos. Who were these people, and why doesn't anyone in their families want those pictures? Or did they know they existed?

Then I think about the small space in a nursing home, and I wonder what I could get rid of. Anyway, it gave me a lot to mull over as I drove the 30 minutes home. And that reminds me, this is nursing home week; go and visit. And, be good to your kids; they pick it!

Ideas shared for raising soybeans

High fuel prices, high fertilizer costs and possible drought conditions may cause the soybean producer to make some key economic decisions.

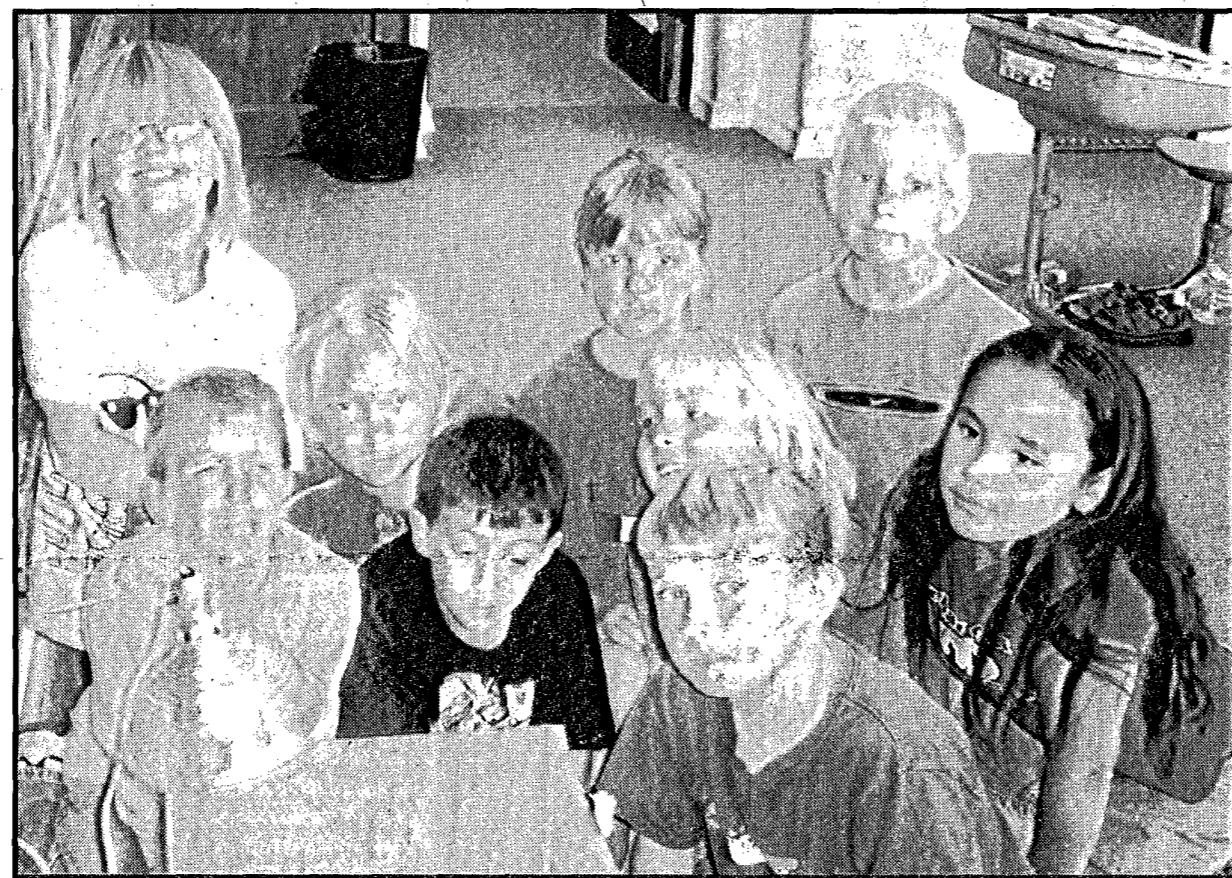

Jasa indicated that, "fuel costs, which are about 30 percent higher this year than last, also are a tillage consideration. The diesel fuel requirement for the typical disk, disk and then field-cultivate tillage system is about 3.77 gallons per acre including fertilization, planting and one cultivation. No-till decreases fuel use to about 1.43 gallons per acre including fertilizer, planting and two sprayings."

Del Hemsath
Extension Educator

"No-till or reduced tillage can save fuel, labor and equipment costs", said Paul Jasa, NU Cooperative Extension engineer. "Not tilling leaves crop residue on the soil surface, which keeps the soil cooler and reduces erosion, crusting and evaporation." Jasa said. Bob Klein, cropping specialist at NU's West Central Research and Extension Center at North Platte, said that "Every time we cultivate or till, we lose soil moisture and destroy more residue. That residue helps break up rainfall and irrigation droplets, allowing more moisture to get in the soil and reduce evaporation. That residue can save center pivot irrigators up to four inches of water compared with traditional farming methods." "Another key to proper management is to have the soil tested for nitrogen residue. Proper fertility management is critical to yields, protecting the environment, and economic survival. Fall soil sampling and testing will help the producer make proper fertility management decisions for the crop being planted", Hemsath said.

Horse owners encouraged to vaccinate

Merlyn Carlson, Director of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture, recommends that horse owners take preventative measures to help protect their animals from West Nile Virus (WNV). In 2002, 1,100 horses in Nebraska were diagnosed with WNV. The Nebraska Department of Agriculture predicts that WNV will continue to infect animals again this year.

"WNV is spread by mosquitoes and it is important for horse owners to inoculate their animals before conditions are ideal for mosquitoes to spread this disease," said Dr. Del Wilmut, Deputy State Veterinarian.

Horses that were given the two-shot vaccinations last year will need a booster shot this spring. If owners did not vaccinate their horses last year, they will need to be given the two-shot vaccination within a 3- to 6-week period.

"These vaccinations will help prevent the horse from contracting WNV and increase their chances of surviving if the animal does contract the disease," Wilmut said. The Department of Agriculture reminds owners to consider methods of controlling mosquito populations by eliminating standing pools of water where bugs can breed and to keep their animals inside during mornings and evenings when mosquitoes are more likely to be feeding.

Clinical symptoms seen in infected horses include an elevated temperature, muscle twitching, lack of coordination, weakness of the limbs or partial paralysis.

Blood bank kicks off recruitment campaign

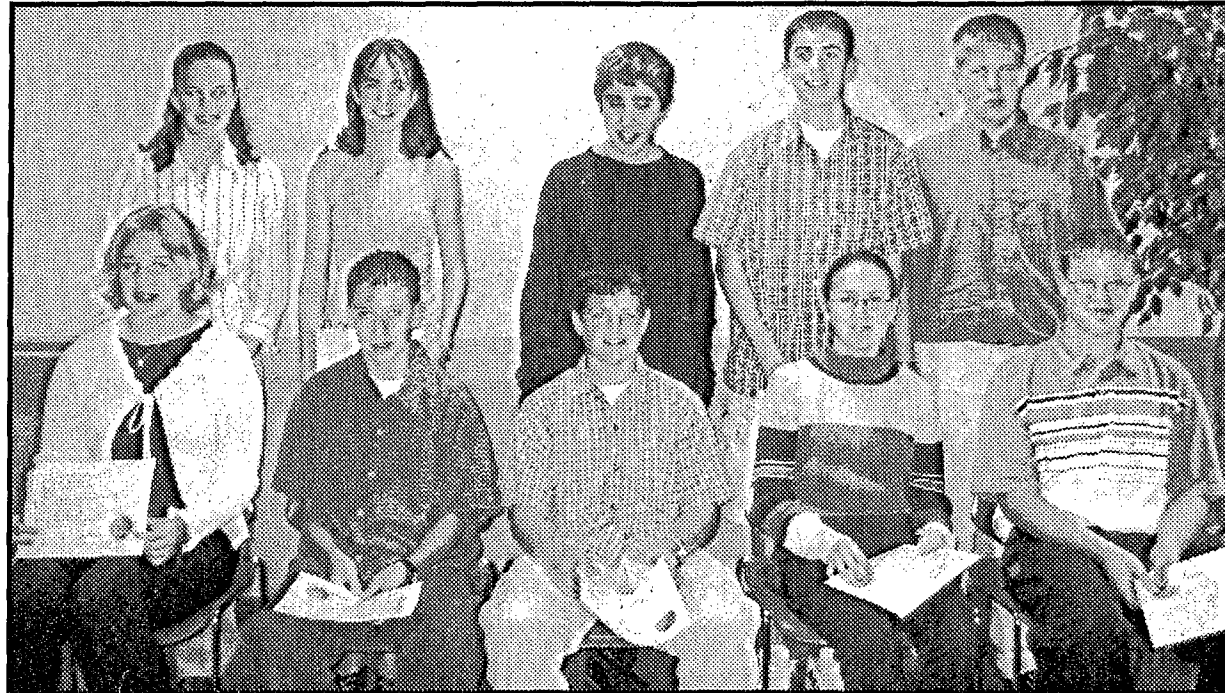

The Siouxland Community Blood Bank kicked-off its 2003 donor recruitment campaign, Heroes Unite, It's About Life! The campaign is designed to help sustain the blood supply throughout the summer when blood donations trend down while the demand for blood goes up. The theme for the campaign is meant to honor not only lifesaving blood donors, but community fire, rescue, and law enforcement personnel. The donor recruitment campaign will help recruit blood donors by stressing community participation in blood drives. From May through September, the blood bank will be conducting blood drives in over one hundred communities in the tri-state region. To help make the drives successful, the blood bank is asking city officials, fire, rescue, and law enforcement personnel to help encourage their communities to donate blood. Speaking at the kick-off Jan Twait, executive director of the Siouxland Community Blood Bank said, "We are asking communities to support the blood donor recruitment campaign and encourage everyone to take the time to donate blood. You will not only help save lives, but will help to remember those who sacrifice everyday to serve our community - the fire, rescue, and law enforcement personnel." The campaign will not only help increase blood donations, but will reward a community's participation. One community will receive a sponsored, donated gift certificate of $1,000 to benefit local fire, rescue, and law enforcement squads. The sponsored gift certificate may be used for equipment and supplies. The winning community will be based on a participation formula, not population. For the campaign, when blood donors register they are asked to specify which community they would like to give credit for their donation. Whether they register at a community blood drive, or at blood bank headquarters on 1019 Jones Street in Sioux City, they can request their donation be credited towards their community fire, rescue, and law enforcement squad.

For more information, contact the blood bank at (712) 252-4208 or 800-798-4208, or visit the blood bank website at www.siouxlandbloodbank.org.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Important Information About Your Drinking Water

In accordance with the National Primary Drinking Water Regulations, the City of Wayne, NE 68161/04, public water supply system in WAYNE County, is hereby making public notice of the violation of drinking water microbiological standards. The violation consists of two (2) total coliform samples testing positive during the month of April 2003. The standard is that no more than one (1) sample per month may be positive for total coliforms for systems that collect fewer than 40 samples per month.

What should I do?
 You do not need to boil your water or take other corrective actions. However, if you have specific health concerns, consult your doctor. People with severely compromised immune systems, infants and some elderly may be at increased risk. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. General guidelines on ways to lessen the risk of infection by microbes are available from EPA's Save Drinking Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

What does this mean?
 This is not an emergency. If it had been, you would have been notified immediately. Coliform bacteria are generally not harmful themselves. Coliforms are bacterial which are naturally present in the environment and are used as an indicator that other potentially harmful bacteria may be present. Coliforms were found in more samples than allowed and this was a warning of potential problems.

What happened? What is being done?
 Usually, coliforms are a sign that there could be a problem with our treatment or distribution system pipes. Whenever we detect coliform bacteria in any sample, we do follow-up testing to see if other bacteria of greater concern, such as fecal coliform or E. coli are present. We did not find fecal coliform or E. coli present.

The City of Wayne public water supply system is continuing to test and is working with the Drinking Water Program to identify the source of the problem and to return the water supply system to compliance. We have done an extensive check of our system and taken over 30 samples that were negative since the violation. We believe the samples must have been contaminated when they were taken. Extra precaution is being taken during sampling to correct the problem. The Water Department has been in contact with the Nebraska Health and Human Services Field representative for this area and to date we have found nothing wrong with our system. For additional information regarding this notice interested persons may contact: Harold Reynolds, Water and Wastewater Superintendent at 402-375-5250.
