Wayne police receive 2002 MADD award

Members of the Wayne Police Department "Night Shift Team" received the 2002 Mother's Against Drunk Drivers Chairpersons award for their efforts to reduce underage drinking through enforcement and education.

The Wayne Police Department received the award in 2000 for innovative enforcement of underage drinking.

Chief Webster said his officers have worked to educate underage residents and others. The beat officer program was an effective tool. Officers encouraged people to call in loud party complaints. In 2001 these complaints rose by 22 percent.

In 2002 89 percent of persons contacted for having a loud party received written warnings. They were told a second call would result in citations being issued. Webster said they didn't get a lot of repeat calls.

Because there were fewer large house parties there were also fewer arrests for Minor In Possession and for Public Urination. MIP arrests were down by 37 percent from 2000 and Public Urination citations dropped by 50 percent.

Webster said he is trying to do his part too. He works with the Wayne

Local women have fun in

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Holding true to the saying, "girls just want to have fun," several ladies from the Wakefield and Concord-Dixon area recently started a Red Hat Society chapter. The Red Hat Society is a national dis-organization that has no rules and is devoted to greeting middle age with humor. Women 50 years and older don purple clothes and red hats and have a good time. Younger women can also join but they must wear lavender clothes and pink hats and are called Pink Hatters.

Holding the title of Queen Mother, Sue Nelson of Wakefield helped start the local chapter in January when she was turning 50. There are seven ladies in the local group and at one time they all worked together. Recently they ran into each other again at a craft show and came up with the idea of starting a chapter.

The ladies try to meet once a month to go out to lunch and then shop or take in another activity. One outing they took recently was to come to Wayne to eat at The Coffee Shoppe and then check out the red hats at Swan's Women Apparel.

Local chapter members of the Red Hat Society include, left to right, Christy Roberts of Allen, Dawn Sievers of Wakefield, Sue Nelson-Queen Mother of Wakefield, Kim Haisch of Lincoln, Paula Haisch of Concord, Connie Roberts of Wakefield and Twilla Kessinger of Dixon. teers to help. Each of the theater style seats and the floor under them need to be washed down and the rest of the building dusted and scrubbed. The maple gym and stage floors have been refinished and we are interviewing a furniture restoration company to refurbish the front doors.

Lots for Sale

The city still has five residential lots for sale for new construction homes. Five lots are on the north side of Sycamore Street in front of the First Bank Card Center and are priced at $12,000 each. A sixth lot (75' X 150') is for sale at 310 W. 12th Street. Two residential lots have previously been sold. Contact Lowell Johnson in the city office for information about the lots.

Numbers

14,000 Gallons. That is the amount of diesel fuel the seven power plant engines will use when generating at full power for a day in the summer. The fuel for the Wayne power plant is provided and paid for by Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD).

350,000 Gallons. That is the total capacity of the power plant diesel fuel storage tanks.

Electric Load Control for Air Conditioner

About one half of the cost of the NPPD wholesale power Wayne purchases is called the "Demand Charge". The demand charge is calculated by the total annual NPPD fixed cost to own power plants and power lines divided by the kilowatts of power demanded by customers during the hottest hour of the hottest day of the year. The more power Wayne uses on the hottest day, the bigger share of the NPPD fixed cost we are allocated. To help reduce the electrical peak on the hot days in Wayne we have a radio controlled load control system for people who volunteer to use them on their central air conditioners. We have about 500 residences with volunteer controls in Wayne. The controls only operate about seven minutes per half hour and don't reduce the total usage very much. The secret is the radio control system prevents them from all running at the same time, thereby lowering the coincidental electrical peak. Call Gene Hansen at the Wayne power plant if you want a control.

Capitol View

Future campaigns hinge on budget woes

By Ed Howard

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
You can bet that all the fuss in the Capitol over budget matters will translate into fodder for some future political campaigns.

Consider, for example, the likely run for the U.S. Senate by Republican Gov. Mike Johanns. Tough monetary times are inevitably reflected in the political rhetoric of an election year. The rhetoric generally centers on three things:

Who's to blame? What's to be done to make things better? Leadership. Johanns has come under fire from fellow Republicans in the Legislature on several fronts. Since political birds of a feather usually try to avoid soiling each other's nests, the criticism directed at Johanns by lawmakers has lacked the cutting-edge adjectives that might have been directed at a Democrat.

For example, Sen. Roger Wehrbein of Plattsmouth is the tough-minded chairman of the Appropriations Committee. He has long been proud of what he regards as the solid credentials of a fiscally conservative, but pragmatic, budget writer.

While Wehrbein virtually scoffed at Johanns' proposal for across-the-board spending reductions, a shotgun approach to budget balancing, he didn't say that Johanns had failed to provide leadership. And leadership is regarded as one of the magic words in politics. If you say a guy's budget ideas won't work, that's one thing. But if you accuse him of failing to provide leadership, it's the political equivalent of suggesting that he ought to be brought up on a morals charge.

On the other hand (and in politics, there usually are more than two) Wehrbein said this about the Johanns' budget proposal:

"It was hard to take it seriously, considering the damage it would do to education in Nebraska, and to property taxes and tuition."
Take the velvet glove of delicate language off of that one and you will find the kind of stuff that the political opposition will gladly use like a nightstick.

However, Johanns has the advantage of being faced with a Nebraska Democratic Party that hardly seems capable of a loud political bark these days, let alone anything resembling a bite. Even a public dispute with rural, Republican lawmakers over how to use some federal grant funds hardly caused the loyal opposition to stir.

Interestingly, two Nebraska governors who went on to the Senate in recent times were each confronted with gawd-awful economic times. Both Ben Nelson and Bob Kerrey profited politically, it would seem, when they supported comparatively enormous budget reductions.

As the saying goes, that was then and this is now. And now the state's revenue shortfall isn't just bad, it is potentially disastrous.

Lawmakers stepped up last week, bit the bullet and endorsed what are, by Nebraska standards, enormous tax increases. Johanns intimated he might veto the entire spending plan, thus setting the stage for a special legislative session.

If the governor chooses to call a special session, the Legislature will head down what will likely be a long, hard road toward a new state spending plan. And as lawmakers head down that road, someone will have to step up, move to a very visible point at the head of the line, and lead them.

Exercising that kind of leadership is inherently risky. But you know the old saying that applies to everything from rodeo to political careers: No guts, no glory.

als to be elected to represent the chamber investors on the Board of Directors. Unless there is a vacancy on the board, our bylaws currently have provisions for three members to relinquish their responsibilities each year followed by three new members serving each for a three-year term.

One of these three new board members is selected to serve initially as Treasurer, then Vice Chair in their second year, then and Chair in their third year. In this manner the leadership of the organization is experienced, prepared, and ready and continuity is preserved.

Jill Sweetland is chair of this year's nominating committee. Other members of the committee, beside myself, are Lori Carollo (Wayne American Red Cross) and Jack Hausmann (New York Life Insurance). Anyone from an organization in good standing with the chamber is eligible to be considered by the nominating committee. The election will be conducted this summer. New board members are announced at the September meeting of the board and are asked to participate in the annual full-board planning retreat in October when the plan of work for the ensuing year is formulated.

I'd like to extend a "good old fashioned" welcome to our newest investors Darnell Technologies (Laurel) and Western Office Plus (Norfolk). This is truly an area-wide Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce. As mentioned in last week's Wayne Herald New Beginnings article, there are new opportunities for membership in the chamber, and these new opportunities are fully explained in the June newsletter. If you think your organization could benefit from chamber-sponsored activities and initiatives, please call the office at 375-2240 or contact us by fax at 375-2246 or via email at chamber\_btriick@hotmail.com.

Legislature approves many noteworthy bills

By Senator Pat Engel
District 17

Although public attention has focused on the state budget, the Legislature recently has dealt with other noteworthy issues - corrections reform, zoning of large livestock operations and business tax incentives.

We gave final approval May 22 on a vote of 47-0 to LB 46, a corrections reform package. The bill is an attempt to control prison overcrowding and rein in the state's growing prison budget, which has more than doubled in eight years.

The bill calls for placing more nonviolent offenders in community corrections programs instead of sending them to prison. Such offenders will be sentenced to a structured probation program that could include such elements as electronic monitoring, addiction treatment and halfway houses. They would be supporting themselves while in these programs and would save the state millions of dollars.

Under the bill, more inmates would be eligible for parole. Most inmates have a drug or alcohol problem, and they could be required to participate in counseling or treatment while on parole. If they violate parole, they can be sent back to prison.

The bill provides that the governor could declare an emergency if the prison system hits 140 percent of capacity. The Board of Parole then would be asked to consider paroling more inmates.

LB 46 represents a long-overdue attempt to make our corrections system more effective and less costly. It should also save us from the considerable expense of building new prison facilities.

The issue of agricultural zoning was considered in LB 754, which passed May 22 on a vote of 39-5. The bill is designed to encourage more livestock production in the state.

The bill generated a lot of controversy as it moved through the Legislature. Rural zoning issues have pitted supporters of large livestock confinement operations against those concerned about environmental matters.

The bill requires local officials to give applicants clearly specified conditions for obtaining livestock zoning permits and to state the reasons in writing if permits are denied. With specific conditions before them, applicants would then know if it was worth the effort to proceed with the planned development.

The bill also requires the Nebraska Department of Agriculture to develop criteria for designating counties as "livestock friendly."

I supported LB 754 because there was a compromise ironed out with the Nebraska Association of County Officials, which was concerned about infringement of local control.

We considered the issue of business tax incentives in our debate of LB 608. The bill as amended would create a new tax incentive program for small businesses in rural areas.

The program would permit firms that create five new jobs and provide at least $250,000 of new investments to receive tax credits. Qualifying firms must pay at least $8.25 per hour, with the wage level to be adjusted annually. The program would only be available in counties with populations of 25,000 or less (82 counties).

The new program would replace an existing tax incentive program for small businesses that is available in every county.

LB 608 was given second-round approval May 21 on a vote of 35-0, and it appears that the bill will win final passage this session.

I believe the bill will provide a good boost for rural economic development. All three counties in my district - Dakota, Dixon and Wayne - will be eligible for the new program.

LB 608 was originally intended to be a vehicle to make significant changes in the state's business tax incentive program for large firms, commonly called LB 775. However, the bill got so watered-down during the first round of debate that its sponsor decided to wait until next year to tackle the subject. As a result, we stripped out all provisions of the bill dealing with the LB 775 program.

Governor Mike Johanns has vetoed the Legislature's spending and tax package, and we will be voting to override his vetoes. If we don't override, we will be back in a special session.

Council approves use of loan funds

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Approval was given for the use of Wayne Revolving Loan Funds by the Diamond Center at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

The Diamond Center had requested $25,000 in WRLF to expand the operation. The money will be combined with money the business had borrowed earlier and will be repaid over seven years at an interest rate of just over four percent.

Gene Hansen, Electric Production Superintendent, presented information on the summer load control program.

Hansen said that load control switches have been used in the city since 1992 and were recently placed at The Oaks, NorthStar and the Sunnyview Apartments. In addition, more than 50 homes have had the devices installed.

The switches help reduce the total amount of electricity used by the city on the hottest summer days. This reduction helps keep the cost of electricity down, as NPPD charges the city based on the peak usage.

Hansen also spoke to the council on a bid from Stanley Petroleum Maintenance, Inc. for the work necessary for the Spill Prevention Requirements for the city's 300,000 gallon fuel storage tank. The total cost for the work is $54,203.

Considerable discussion was held on the amending of a city ordinance regarding the prohibition of air pollution.

The current ordinance outlaws dust, fumes and other materials. The proposed amendment would require the installation of a smoke stack to an elevation of 25 feet that is at least five feet above a building to get smoke up in the air.

Several council members voiced opinions on the issue.

Councilman Dennis Linster said that the council needs to be "fair and realistic. This ordinance would be hard to enforce in the residential areas. We should limit this to the business area and to those with a regular business who do this on a regular basis."

Councilman Will Wiseman agreed, saying, "this (ordinance) is too broad. It would be difficult, if not impossible to enforce."

After discussion, it was decided that the city attorney would reword some of the proposed ordinance and it would be back to the council at a later date for further consideration.

Cornell Lowery, owner of the Barbecue Thief in Wayne, said that he uses his smoker two days during the week and one day on the weekend and that having to install a smoke stack would cost more than $800 and would result in his having to use additional wood which is brought in from Texas.

The council gave its approval to a proposal to re-finish and restore the front doors to the City Auditorium.

Originally, the two main doors were the only ones being considered, but council members voted to add the other two doors also so they Mayor Sheryl Lindau cast a tie-breaking vote in favor of the sale of a lot at 12th and Douglas Streets.

Ken Jorgensen spoke to the council on his plan to move a house from Seventh and Nebraska Streets to the Douglas Street lot and remodel it. He said he would purchase either one or both of the lots that were for sale in the location.

In other action, Mayor Lindau appointed Maureen Kingston to the Library Board. She replaces Charlene Rasmussen, who is retiring from after serving on the board for a number of years.

Two killed in accident

The Stanton County Sheriff's office and Nebraska State Patrol are continuing to investigate a two-vehicle traffic accident about six miles northeast of Pilger that claimed the lives of an elderly Wayne couple. Killed in the 4:10 p.m. accident, Tuesday, on Highway 15 were John Thiel, 76, and his 70-year-old wife Alice (Prudence) Thiel.

They were killed after their southbound car had stopped for a flagman in a construction zone along Highway 15 and were then struck from behind by a south-bound semi-tractor and trailer that failed to stop.

Both Thiels were killed instantly and the driver of the semi, Vernon J. Zorzdrager, 55, of Dakota City, was not injured.

The accident closed a three-mile stretch of Highway 15 for more than three hours as the accident was investigated and debris was removed. Restraints were in use by the Thiels and Zorzdrager.

Rescue crews from both Pilger and Wisner responded to the scene.

The next year, she and her friends dressed in their purple and red attire and went out. Thus the Red Hat Society was born. They continued to dress up, go out, and have a good time.

The first sister chapter was started in Florida. ## Garvin is Wayne's first individual boys state champion in 48 years Caleb Garvin wins gold in discus, Allen girls place sixth at State Track Meet

by Mike Grosz
Of the Herald

The Nebraska State High School Track and Field Championships were held last Friday and Saturday at Burke Stadium in Omaha.

Area athletes enjoyed near perfect conditions on Friday, but had to deal with rainy, sloppy weather on Saturday.

Caleb Garvin of Wayne was the lone gold medalist from the area, winning the Class B boys discus Saturday in wet, sloppy conditions with a throw of 158'6". The junior edged Brett Druba of Falls City by one inch with district rival Joel Hinz of Boone Central placing third, just two inches behind.

Garvin is the first individual boys state track champion for Wayne High School since 1995 when Larry Hofeldt won the Class B shot put crown.

"We talked to Caleb about staying relaxed, staying tall and finishing through his throws," said head track coach Dale Hochstein. "When it came to the finals, others were pressing trying to get that good throw to beat him, and especially in the conditions they were throwing in, that makes it tough."

Garvin also competed in the shot put on Friday, but did not place with a toss of 42'3".

The Wayne boys team had two other athletes compete at state.

Sophomore Bryan Fink ran a personal best 10:16.50 in the 3200 meter run on Friday to finish 14th while running a 4:45.33 in the 1600 meter run on Saturday to finish 17th.

Junior Josh Davis competed in the 110 meter high hurdles and finished with a time of 20.08 seconds.

As a team, Wayne scored 10 points to finish in a tie for 17th position with Chase County and Wahoo Neumann. Gothenburg won the Class B boys team title with 43 points, followed by York and Seward with 40 each.

Hochstein added he was pleased with his team's performance at state.

"I know some of the kids wish they would have had a better time or ran a smarter race, but we had personal bests or times comparable to our best performances," he said. "We told them the state meet is just the frosting on the cake and they should enjoy the opportunity they have achieved through their hard work."

Winside's Shane Jaeger won two medals in Class D, earning a second place finish in the 200 meter dash (23.05) and taking third in the 100 meter dash (11.29). He had qualified eighth in the 100 meter prelims (11.54) and was the third fastest qualifier in the 200 meters at 22.99.

Two other athletes competed at state for Winside. Kevin Boelter ran a personal best time of 10:28.70 to finish 11th in the 3200 meter run and Kass Holdorf ran 42.80 in the 300 meter hurdles, but did not make the finals.

The Winside boys scored 14 points to finish in 14th place in Class D. Osceola won the team title with 47. Dawson-Verdon was second with 34.

Wakefield's boys won two medals at Burke Stadium. The 3200 meter relay team of Andy Hampl, Zach Dolen, Taylor Peters and Aaron Lueth placed third with a time of 8:22.17 and Lueth earned a sixth-place medal in the 800 meter run with a time of 2:02.05. Lueth also competed in the 400 meter dash, but did not make the finals with a time of 53.42.

Two other Wakefield runners finished in the top 10 of their respective events. Freshman Andy Hampl was 10th in the 800 meter run (2:05.06) and senior Zach Dolen finished 10th in the 3200 meter run (10:25.95). Hampl also competed in the 1600 meter run, but did not place with a time of 4:47.84.

Sophomore Cory Nicholson ran in two hurdles events, finishing the 110 high hurdles in 16.59 seconds while clearing the 300 intermediate hurdles in 43.32 seconds and Jake Olsufka did not place in the shot put with a best throw of 48'6.75".

Wakefield finished with seven points to end 24th in the team standings. Tri-County won Class C with 42.5 points with Fillmore Central in second with 40.

Laurel-Concord had two athletes compete but did not place. Marc Manganaro ran in the 400 meter dash and finished in 53.82 seconds while Jeff Knudsen cleared 5'10" in the high jump.

In Class A, Kearney won a 10th consecutive state title with 100.5 points. Omaha Benson placed second with 77.

The Wayne girls team competed in six events but did not score.

Senior Alissa Dunklau just missed making the finals in the 300 meter low hurdles. She placed third in her heat at 48.21 seconds, missing the finals by .13 seconds. Dunklau also competed in the long jump and finished with a best mark of 15'6.75" to end 13th.

"Alissa ran a solid 300 hurdle race and was one spot out of the finals," stated Hochstein.

Junior Karissa Hochstein was close in making the finals in the 400 meter dash. She placed fourth in her heat with a time of 1:00.81. A time of 1:00.15 was needed to make the finals. Hochstein also competed in the 200 meter dash and finished with a time of 27.09.

"Kari's times in the 200 and 400 were solid and she finished in the top half of her heats," added coach Hochstein.

Amber Nelson, a Wayne State recruit, closed out her high school career with a 12:31.22 clocking, a personal best, in the 3200 meter run while the 4 x 100 meter relay team of Alissa Dunklau, Renee Theobald, Karissa Hochstein and Jean Pieper ran 52.72.

Lexington won the Class B girls title with 55 points, two points ahead of Gering.

The Allen girls scored 21 points to tie Bancroft-Rosalie for sixth place in Class D.

The 3200 meter relay team of Angie Sullivan, Jennifer Keitges, Alycia Stewart and Erin Keitges finished second in a time of 10:14.27 seconds, more than seven seconds ahead of their previous best time.

Freshman Erin Keitges earned medals in two events, taking second in the 3200 meter run with a season-best time of 11:48.78 and finishing sixth in the 1600 meters in 5:40.19.

Allen's final points came from junior Kelli Rastede, who placed fourth in the 400 meter dash with a time of 1:00.0. She qualified fourth in the prelims with a time of 59.23. Rastede also ran in the 200 meter dash, but did not make the finals with a clocking of 27.34.

Roseland Silver Lake won the Class D girls team title with 58 points. Harvard was second at 30.

Winside's Lindsay Harmeier competed in two field events but did not place. The sophomore leaped 14'8.25" in the long jump Friday and had a top mark of 31'9.75" in the triple jump Saturday morning during rainy, slick conditions.

Kristen Koch of Laurel-Concord fourth in the 3200 meter run Friday with a personal best time of 11:55.71 to help the Bears score four points.

Emily Schroeder competed in two events, clearing 4'10 in the high jump and running 1:02.23 in the 400 meter dash.

Angie Peters finished 11th in the shot put (34'9.75"), Susan Pritchard ran the 300 meter low hurdles in 51.27 seconds and the 4 x 400 relay team of Katie Peters, Susan Pritchard, Makayla Hansen and Emily Schroeder finished in 4:17.82 to round out Laurel-Concord state qualifiers.

The Wakefield girls competed in two events. Regina Dutcher ran the 100 meter dash in 13.41 seconds and the 4 x 100 meter relay team of Dutcher, Shannon Anderson, Amanda Nelson and Vanessa Nelson crossed the tape in 52.71 seconds, 10th in Class C.

Wakefield's Aaron Lueth placed sixth in the Class C boys 800 meter run Saturday at the State Track Meet in Omaha. The senior was clocked in 2:02.05.

Alissa Dunklau of Wayne missed qualifying for the finals of the Class B 300 meter low hurdles by one spot. Her time of 48.21 seconds was .13 short of qualifying.

Allen freshman Erin Keitges won three medals at the state track meet, placing second in the 3200 meter run, sixth in the 1600 meter run and she was anchor for the 3200 meter relay team that finished in second place.

Sophomore Taylor Peters of Wakefield runs the third leg of the Trojans' 3200 meter relay which placed third in Class C at the State Track Meet in Omaha on Friday. Other members of the relay team are freshman Andy Hampl and seniors Zach Dolen and Aaron Lueth. Their time was 8:22.17.

Caution When Using Supplements & OTCs

The use of nutritional supplements and over-the-counter (OTC) drugs is increasing dramatically in the United States. In 2000 alone over $19 billion was spent for OTC medicines. Caution should always be exercised when using such products. While warnings are required on all commercial medicine labels, many people don't read them. Further, the FDA does not require rigorous safety testing of health supplements. And not enough is known about potential interactions between supplements and non-prescription drugs.

We do know, however, that taking aspirin with ginkgo can cause ocular hemorrhage. Body building supplements containing ephedra have been known to cause dizziness, anxiety, and heart palpitations when taken with decongestants such as pseudoephedrine (Sudafed). Supplements containing calcium and magnesium each have been known to interact with many different prescription drugs. Always ask your pharmacist if you have questions related to the safety of any of these products.

Garvin is Wayne's first individual boys state champion in 48 years

Caleb Garvin wins gold in discus, Allen girls place sixth at State Track Meet

by Mike Grosz
Of the Herald

The Nebraska State High School Track and Field Championships were held last Friday and Saturday at Burke Stadium in Omaha.

Area athletes enjoyed near perfect conditions on Friday, but had to deal with rainy, sloppy weather on Saturday.

Caleb Garvin of Wayne was the lone gold medalist from the area, winning the Class B boys discus Saturday in wet, sloppy conditions with a throw of 158'6". The junior edged Brett Druba of Falls City by one inch with district rival Joel Hinz of Boone Central placing third, just two inches behind.

Garvin is the first individual boys state track champion for Wayne High School since 1995 when Larry Hofeldt won the Class B shot put crown.

"We talked to Caleb about staying relaxed, staying tall and finishing through his throws," said head track coach Dale Hochstein. "When it came to the finals, others were pressing trying to get that good throw to beat him, and especially in the conditions they were throwing in, that makes it tough."

Garvin also competed in the shot put on Friday, but did not place with a toss of 42'3".

The Wayne boys team had two other athletes compete at state.

Sophomore Bryan Fink ran a personal best 10:16.50 in the 3200 meter run on Friday to finish 14th while running a 4:45.33 in the 1600 meter run on Saturday to finish 17th.

Junior Josh Davis competed in the 110 meter high hurdles and finished with a time of 20.08 seconds.

As a team, Wayne scored 10 points to finish in a tie for 17th position with Chase County and Wahoo Neumann. Gothenburg won the Class B boys team title with 43 points, followed by York and Seward with 40 each.

Hochstein added he was pleased with his team's performance at state.

"I know some of the kids wish they would have had a better time or ran a smarter race, but we had personal bests or times comparable to our best performances," he said. "We told them the state meet is just the frosting on the cake and they should enjoy the opportunity they have achieved through their hard work."

Winside's Shane Jaeger won two medals in Class D, earning a second place finish in the 200 meter dash (23.05) and taking third in the 100 meter dash (11.29). He had qualified eighth in the 100 meter prelims (11.54) and was the third fastest qualifier in the 200 meters at 22.99.

Two other athletes competed at state for Winside. Kevin Boelter ran a personal best time of 10:28.70 to finish 11th in the 3200 meter run and Kass Holdorf ran 42.80 in the 300 meter hurdles, but did not make the finals.

Laurel-Concord had two athletes compete but did not place. Marc Manganaro ran in the 400 meter dash and finished in 53.82 seconds while Jeff Knudsen cleared 5'10" in the high jump.

In Class A, Kearney won a 10th consecutive state title with 100.5 points. Omaha Benson placed second with 77.

Oil from Two Herbs Used in Aromatherapy

Research has shown that specific odors, when connected to past events, can affect behavior. For example, a burning smell or the smell of hospital disinfectants can cause feelings of anxiety in some persons. That is the concept behind a relatively new approach to healthcare called aromatherapy. Most often specific aromas are used to produce a calming effect. Aromatherapists use essential oils of different herbs to produce the desired outcome.

Three recent studies indicate that the scent from the oils of lemon balm and lavender when inhaled or applied to the skin, significantly benefited elderly persons with existing behavior problems such as dementia and agitation. The oils were either steamed into the room air or were applied as a hand lotion. In each study no side effects were noted and all participants were able to complete the designated treatment. The significance of these studies is that an improvement in agitation eventually could lead to decreased need for prescription-calming drugs, in some cases.

Starving for success — the dangers of eating disorders

About Eating Disorders
Although people of many cultures and backgrounds develop eating disorders, 95 percent of the diagnoses are women.

One out of every 100 females between the ages of 10 and 20 may be starving herself to death. Those with disordered eating habits are often insecure about their changing shapes and sizes. Some feel that in order to be accepted, they must look like models and actors that they see on film and in print. However, many of the popular stars are below their ideal weight. Trying to match this weight is dangerous.

Eating disorders are actually distorted eating habits, often related to emotional problems. There are three main eating disorders.

Anorexia nervosa is self-starvation, with marked weight loss from severe restriction of dietary intake, excessive exercise to burn up calories, or purging food from the body to keep from being absorbed.

Bulimia nervosa is extreme overeating followed by purging activities such as self-induced vomiting, use of laxatives and/or diuretics, or by periods of fasting. Binge-eating disorder is characterized by episodes of overeating but no purging.

What is Anorexia Nervosa?
Anorexia means "lack of appetite." Ironically, anorexics are hungry almost all the time. Symptoms associated with anorexia nervosa include:

Marked weight loss - at least 15 percent lower than recommended for age and height; abnormal attitude about weight; distorted body image; decreased metabolic rate; changes in the skin and hair; growth of fine body hair; loss of menstrual cycle; insomnia; excessive physical activity; mental changes; fluid retention.

How does anorexia begin? Some form of dieting always occurs before the onset which often follows a stressful life event, such as loss of a parent or a breakup of a family unit. Less complex, but equally stressful, events such as entering puberty, leaving home, being embarrassed or ashamed, doing poorly in school, being told one looks "fat," or not being allowed to participate in a social group also may trigger an eating disorder.

What is Bulimia Nervosa?

Bulimia nervosa is a disorder in which a person eats large quantities of foods, followed by deliberate vomiting, use of laxatives, intense exercise or fasting to try to prevent the food from being absorbed. Bulimics have a difficult time avoiding food, and feel out of control when eating. Bulimics also believe their self-worth is centered on being thin — but weight is usually normal or near normal. They also have more trouble with compulsive behaviors, such as shoplifting, promiscuity, abusing alcohol/ drugs and credit card abuse. Appearing cheerful on the outside, they are often depressed, lonely and ashamed on the inside.

Symptoms associated with bulimia include:
Sore throat; vomiting; teeth and gum damage; swelling of the salivary glands; acid reflux; esophageal tears; anemia; aspiration; electrolyte imbalances; dehydration; menstrual irregularities; bowel irregularities due to laxative use; abdominal pain; metabolic imbalances; depression and mood swings; undesirable social traits.

What's the difference between anorexia and bulimia? Bulimia is characterized by two eating behaviors: binge eating (overeating) and purging (forcing the body to get rid of unwanted calories or food). Bulimics usually show impulsive behaviors and are chronically out of control. Anorexia nervosa is marked by highly restrictive food intake. Anorexics are also often perfectionists and exhibit controlling behaviors.

Treatment for Eating Disorders
What about recovery? It may take several months or years. The best success comes from working with a doctor or a counselor who can help deal with the medical and psychological issues. Psychologists or psychiatrists are often part of the team. Weight needs to be normal or near-normal. Meals need to be a diet of normal foods - not just sugar or fat free or low cal. It is important to eliminate or reduce irrational food fears and do fun activities that have little to do with food, weight or appearance. Learning problem solving skills is another key to recovery.

Treatment usually includes hospitalization, counseling, medical work and support groups - for the individual and the family. Local emergency rooms and physicians can refer people for help. For more information concerning eating disorders, contact your local physician or hospital. Other resources include the American Anorexia Bulimia Association (AABA) at www.aabaine.org or the National Association of Anorexia Nervosa and Associated Disorders (ANAD) at www.anad.org

What can you do to help?
If a person you know appears to have an eating disorder, the following points will help.

- Act to get help. Speak to the person about your concern. Talk to family and friends, a doctor, the school nurse or counselor or any other person you think might help. The best treatment combines medical, psychological and nutritional counseling. Self-help groups and family therapy are also important.

- Expect resistance. A person with anorexia usually doesn't believe that he or she needs assistance or is in any danger. Someone with bulimia may acknowledge the problem, but still refuse to seek help. But the faster the person receives help, the greater the chances for full recovery.

- Prepare for long-term treatment. Recovery may take from several months to several years. Symptoms and attitudes of eating disorders rarely disappear quickly. Family support groups are particularly effective in helping relatives of people with anorexia or bulimia survive the long ordeal.

Individuals with an eating disorder need to have a good support system for future days. They need to know that the days ahead are full of good friends, good times and good food. Recovery is possible using all the resources that are available, but the person with the eating disorder is the best resource. They can be helped to learn to be in control of themselves and to make a positive change for the future.

tors and community leaders who considered class rank, grade-point average, test scores, school activities and honors and the rigor of the students' course work. Judges were not provided students' names, schools or gender when making their selections.

Memorial Day is unforgettable

We have just had the most unforgettable Memorial Day weekend ever; not counting the year that Kay was born. But that was the day before May 30th, the old holiday. Dr. Salter was born on the 30th, he used to say "they fly flags on my birthday!"

A few years ago, I counted up my Dad's first cousins. It was close to 100. No wonder I was related to everyone in Waco and for 10 miles around it. I had been to a few reunions of his mother's family, but there had never been one of his father's.

My great-grandfather, Carston Stahr, came from Oldenburg, Germany, about 1860 and had eight children. My grandfather, Fred, was second to the youngest, had a twin brother who died in infancy, and was born in a sod house. Carston Jr., moved to North Dakota after he was married and had 10 children. My cousin, Lyn, says she can remember him visiting his Waco relatives, but I don't. An older brother, John's family, has had a reunion in Kearney annually for 50 years.

When Duane Pope murdered those folks in the bank at Big Springs during a robbery, Floyd Stahr was the county sheriff. I knew that, but had never met him. A third cousin (is there such a thing?) and I decided last year that it was time to do something about that. So, we planned a Stahr-Staehr reunion. We needed the two names because some branches of the family spelled it with the E and some without.

The family attended St. John's

By: Pat Meierhenry

church at rural Waco and Carston, Sr., is buried there. The schedule called for attending 9 a.m. services there on the Sunday of Memorial Day. And, since Waco was celebrating its sesquicentennial that weekend, we would have a family reunion float in the parade on Saturday.

And that's what we did. It did not rain on our parade; we followed it with a barbecued pork lunch in the Waco community building and then checked out the quilt show in the new Lutheran High School gym there. Sunday was beautiful and bright. We trooped to the adjacent cemetery after the church service and there had a memorial service, complete with an honor guard and a 21 gun salute, followed by Taps. Then, it was coffee and doughnuts and fellowship, followed by another lunch. We counted 120 adults and about 20 kids. All of my first cousins were there, including a teacher from Jackson Hole, Wyo, and my brother who is currently decommissioning a nuclear reactor in Los Alamos. It was wonderful.

The day was capped by our annual high school reunion in the big party room at Chances R in York. There were another 125 in attendance there; including some old boy friends whom I had not seen in 50 years! Lots of laughter, lots of hugs, and reminiscing, and then it was time to say goodbye and head home. (The old beaus were kind of old looking! Grin.)

Today, I recuperated and prepared for Cousin Camp, which begins tomorrow. But I took a walk and sat on the front porch and drank chai tea; and right now, I have The America Spirit by Mannheim Steamroller on the CD player. May is still the perfect month, in spite of the unusual cool, rainy weather. There was no wind this evening, the sunset was gorgeous, and we've only seen one mosquito.

"God's on his throne, and all's right with the world," at least in the Farm House. And we continue to pray for peace for the entire world, which I read today was added to the original declaration for Memorial Day by Congress in 1950. I admit it looks rather futile, but we have to keep trying, don't we? God Bless America!

Deadline set for program

Nebraska farmers and ranchers who have not yet utilized vouchers issued to them under the 2003 Livestock Feed Program have only a few weeks left to do so.

The Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA) has announced that if producers want to redeem their vouchers, they must do so at a participating feed dealer or manufacturer by June 16. This deadline has been established because feed dealers and manufacturers have a July deadline to order nonfat dry milk from the United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA's) Commodity Credit Corporation.

"USDA has asked feed dealers and manufacturers to determine by July 11 the total nonfat dry milk stocks they will need. In order for the dealers and manufacturers to make such assessments, farmers and ranchers must make decisions about how they will utilize their nonfat dry milk allotment and then redeem their vouchers," Agriculture Director Merlyn Carlson said. "The product does not need to be consumed by June 16, but the voucher must be turned in by then."

The Livestock Feed Program,

announced early in April, is being administered by the NDA in conjunction with USDA. Excess stocks of nonfat dry milk are being made available to qualifying Nebraska producers for use as a protein source in livestock feed rations. The program is available to beef cattle, sheep, goat and buffalo producers who have been dealing with the effects of the ongoing drought. Over 6,600 producers have been issued vouchers for nonfat dry milk through the Nebraska program.

Carlson said he has been pleased with the program implementation. "We have been working very hard to get this assistance to farmers and ranchers in as timely a manner as possible. I want to thank the participating feed dealers and manufacturers, as well as our producers, for their patience as we worked with USDA to deliver the nonfat dry milk aid," he said.

Carlson also expressed appreciation to USDA for making this program opportunity available.

"Our farmers and ranchers, with cooperation of feed distributors, have developed a variety of ways to utilize this product to help sustain their foundation livestock herds," he said.

Funds made available to farmers for soil, water and grassland conservation practices

Nebraska farmers and ranchers will have until June 13 to apply for nearly 16.4 million in soil, water, livestock and wildlife management practices according to Steve Chick, State Conservationist for the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service.

"Farmers and ranchers have been applying for these funds since last October. We are cutting off the application process so that we can rank the applications and fund the best," Chick said.

Applications made after June 13 will be considered for any remaining money not committed or can be held for funds for next year.

Last year, NRCS offices across the state received over 9,100 applications, or about 15 percent of the farmers and ranchers.

Applications receive points based on how well they address national, state and local conservation priorities like soil, water and air quality.

Funds are being made available through the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) and the Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP), both administered by NRCS.

"About $16 million of these dollars are in EQIP, nearly $11.3 million are aimed at soil and water conservation practices with a special emphasis on livestock practices like fences, pipelines and watering tanks," Chick said.

"In addition, because of this state's number of livestock feeding operations, we are targeting 20 percent of the funds, or about $2.2 million, to improve these operations. These improvements could include better storage of manure, controlling runoff from feed lots or proper application of manure on cropland.

About $4.7 million of the $16 million is targeted at ground and surface water changes statewide, a difference from last year when

Livestock ownership affidavits due soon for upcoming fairs

Sign up deadline extended

Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman has announced that sign-up for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) is extended from May 30, 2003 to June 13, 2003.

"Farmers and ranchers' interest in the general CRP sign-up has been very strong," said Veneman. "This extension will give producers who are busy with this year's planting season more time to sign up for this highly successful environmental program."

CRP is the nation's largest private lands environmental improvement program. The program protects millions of acres of American topsoil from erosion, provides valuable wildlife habitat and safeguards America's streams and other bodies of water. The 2002 Farm Bill authorized CRP enrollment up to 39.2 million acres.

CRP participants voluntarily removed environmentally sensitive land from agricultural production by entering into long-term contracts for 10 to 15 years. In exchange, participants receive annual rental payments and a payment of up to 50 percent of the cost of establishing conservation practices. Producers can sign up at a county Farm Service Agency (FSA) office across the nation.

Current participants with contracts expiring this fall — covering about 1.5 million acres — can make new contract offers, which, if accepted, will become effective on Oct. 1, 2003. All other contracts awarded under this sign-up will become effective either at the beginning of the next fiscal year, Oct. 1, 2004, whichever the producer chooses.

FSA will evaluate and rank eligible CRP offers using the Environmental Benefits Index (EBI), a ranking of environmental benefits to be gained from enrolling the land in CRP. Decisions on the EBI cutoff will be made by the Secretary after the sign-up ends and after FSA analyzes the EBI numbers of all the offers. Those who would have met previous sign-up EBI thresholds are not guaranteed a contract under this sign-up.

Aside from the general sign-up, the CRP continuous sign-up program is available on an ongoing basis for working lands. FSA has reserved 2 million acres for the continuous sign-up program, which protects the most environmentally desirable and sensitive land. FSA is making a special effort to help enhance wildlife habitats and air quality by earmarking 500,000 of these acres for hardworking tree planting. Continuous sign-up for hardwood planting will start after the general sign-up.

For more information on CRP, visit FSA's Web site at: <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/dafp/cepd/default.htm>
