Red Cross responds to Coleridge disaster

Lori Carollo, Chapter Manager of the Wayne County American Red Cross, received a call around 10:30 pm Monday night from the Lead Disaster Office out of Grand Island regarding severe storms and possible tornados in Cedar county and the Coleridge area in particular and was asked to check into the situation. After numerous phone calls to law enforcement and emergency management people, it was determined that tornados had struck in and around Coleridge, Nebraska.

The Fire Chief in Coleridge requested the Wayne Red Cross come and set up a shelter in the Coleridge Community Center. Mrs. Carollo contacted Loren Park, Wayne Red Cross Disaster Director, who then activated their emergency disaster action plan. Within a short time, a team of seven responders were on the road to assist the people in the Coleridge area.

The local chapter took their Emergency Response Vehicle (ERV) and Chapter Chairman, Bill Claybaugh, loaned them the use of his portable generator. The generator in the ERV no longer works and the chapter is unable to afford to purchase a new one; but with the town of Coleridge without power, the team needed access to some type of electric hook-up. Upon arriving on the scene, it was very treacherous making their way to the Community Center with all the down power lines, trees and branches.

The ERV was set up outside the center while cots and blankets were taken inside, as well as coolers of bottled water. (The chapter thanks Verdel Lutt at Wayne East for donating ice for all their coolers!) Mr. Park then made contact with the local grocery store owner in Coleridge and with the assistance of Ilene Nichols, was able to obtain some food items to make sandwiches and other snack foods.

The Wayne responders stayed through the night and also provided food to the fire and rescue workers (approximately 60 volunteers). There were around 20 people who came to the shelter, but all of them were either able to return to their homes or found alternative housing. One family was traveling through the area on vacation and after the storm had cleared and they

Roger Van back in Nebraska

Former Wayne floral shop owner Roger Van is back in Nebraska.

The 56-year-old Van fled the state last September before he could be sentenced on five felony charges for sexually torturing another man in the basement of his business.

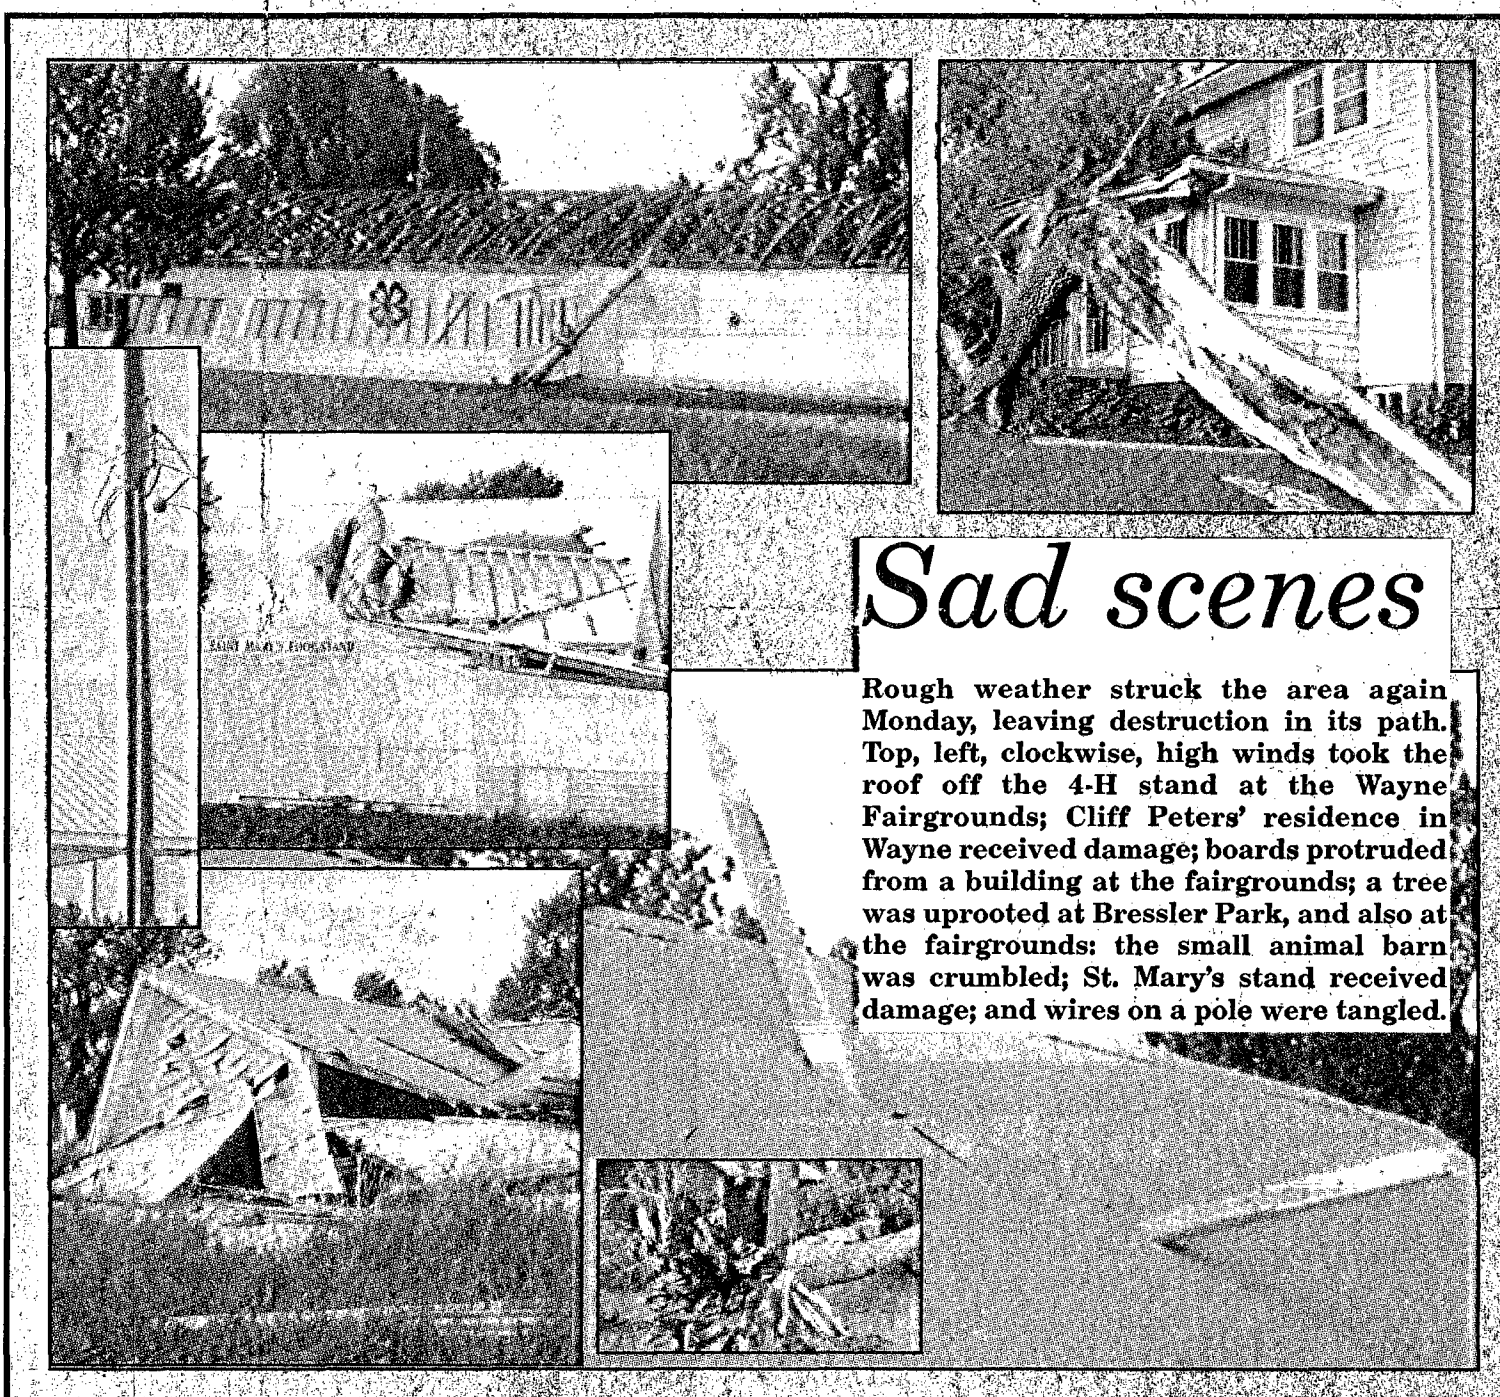

He was arrested in California last December for evading police in a chase that started in Las Vegas and was serving a 16-month sentence in California before being returned to Nebraska this week.

Wayne County Deputy Attorney Chris Connolly says he has been working on the extradition process since February to get Van back to Nebraska.

Van made a brief appearance in Wayne County District Court Wednesday morning where Judge Robert Ensz appointed Melissa Wentling of Norfolk as Van's new attorney.

Ensz then ordered Van to appear in Wayne County District Court again on Wednesday, July 2, to face arraignment on the new charge of failure to appear, which is a Class IV felony. It carries a prison sentence of up to five years and/or a $10,000 fine.

Sad scenes

Rough weather struck the area again Monday, leaving destruction in its path. Top, left, clockwise, high winds took the roof off the 4-H stand at the Wayne Fairgrounds; Cliff Peters' residence in Wayne received damage; boards protruded from a building at the fairgrounds; a tree was uprooted at Bressler Park, and also at the fairgrounds; the small animal barn was crumbled; St. Mary's stand received damage; and wires on a pole were tangled.

Give the gift of life

Dear Editor,
Every day, loyal volunteer blood donors throughout the area roll up their sleeves and give the gift of life.

Sixty percent of the US population is eligible to donate blood but only five percent do. By partnering with the Siouxland Community Blood Bank and supporting your local blood drives, you help to ensure that patients in your area hospitals, including Providence Medical Center in Wayne, will have access to blood and blood products whenever needed.

Wayne's next blood drive is scheduled for Tuesday, July 8 from 2 to 6 p.m. The location of the drive is Grace Lutheran Church. All Wayne area residents are welcomed and encouraged to attend. To sign up for a time, call Leon Meyer at (402) 375-3505.

Please encourage area citizens to donate at this blood drive. Remind all donors to register under the group name for their emergency response squad. Wayne community and surrounding community's emergency team have the opportunity to win the "Heroes Unite, It's About Life" blood drive campaign. The one community squad with the most donors, based on squad membership, wins a sponsored donation of a $1,000 gift certificate to purchase safety equipment for your community.

Thank you for the support you show to your community and the Siouxland Community Blood Bank.

Statements untrue

Dear Editor,
When reading your article about Wayne State College and the budget cuts, I found the statements regarding retirements to be untrue.

I did retire, but not voluntarily. I had no choice — my job was eliminated.

Johanns faces tough political situation

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

When times are tough, the jibes politicians must endure tend to be a wee bit tougher, too.

This is especially true for governors.

A governor is often the single-most criticized politician in any state. That's because people tend to know the name of a governor. It's also because most states aren't blessed with an Ernie Chambers. (If you are new to Nebraska and don't know who Ernie Chambers is, just turn to the person nearest you and ask, "Who's Ernie Chambers?") Whenever "the state" annoys the citizenry, a governor often catches the blame — even if the legislative or judicial branch is the offending entity.

This is understandable because politics ain't fair and because Americans, taking one with another, know pitifully little about their government and understand its workings even less.

So, there was Mike Johanns, Nebraska's governor and the guy seen as most likely to run in 2006 as the Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

He was getting clobbered with criticism. Criticism is not a thing that Johanns is known to take lightly.

The economy is a stinker, his own party is in the White House and Johanns is getting splattered with disparagement, disapproval and denigration for allegedly showing insufficient leadership on recent budget and tax matters, and/or because his gubernatorial knees had been made weak by a desire to play it safe — in hopes of running for the U.S. Senate.

Some of that criticism comes from members of his own Grand Old Party.

It is in this environment that Johanns has said aloud, by golly, that he might not run for the Senate, so there! It isn't your real earth-shaker of an announcement, but it certainly has caused tremors among Republicans and Democrats, alike.

But MJ isn't out of the critical woods, so to speak. Now, critics are saying he is only being coy about the Senate race so that, maybe, people will quit saying it was political ambition that made him seem a timorous chief executive. In politics as in other areas of life: Darned if you do, darned if you don't.

It seems to me the situation was summed up beautifully by a recent cartoon by the much-decorated, much-celebrated and much-mustacheoed Paul Fell.

It shows Johanns holding a skull and musing over a Senate race. It took me a moment to realize that it was a takeoff on Shakespeare's thing in Hamlet, where a guy peruses a skull, recalling that it belonged to "poor Yorick." Remember that part? Perhaps years of political observing have begun to warp my perspective. My first thought was that the skull Johanns perused represented remnants of the Gene Spence campaign for governor, years ago. But, almost immediately thereafter, the Shakespearean reference bounced to the front of the old noggin. This was followed by a recollection of Johanns recently saying he hoped that a "Chuck Hagel type" would step forward to seek the GOP

Senate nod. This was a reference to U.S. Sen. Chuck Hagel.

Hagel is a type that doesn't step out of the crowd too often, because how many of 'em do you think you're gonna find in a crowd? ("Can I have your attention? Would the millionaire businessmen, just the ones who are decorated war heroes and pals of Ronald Reagan, step forward to be interviewed? Wait a minute. We only want the Nebraskans.")

The whole situation sent yet another bit of Shakespeare rattling around my brain. It was that quote from Twelfth Night. The one where Fabian says: "If this were played upon a stage now, I could condemn it as an improbable face."

Tire troubles in paradise

Thank you readers in Hartington. I never knew we had so many. In fact, I took the time to see how exactly how many we do have, 25 to be exact. I think I heard from everyone of them over the past few weeks concerning a column bashing Wayne, NE. in their local paper, The Cedar County News. Many called to apologize for Mr. Dump's column. I told them it was not necessary — they nor myself have any control over what Mr. Dump prints in his paper.

In his column, Mr. Dump wrote of his troubles getting a flat tire fixed. As a member of our City Council and publisher of the local newspaper, I am always concerned when someone says they have a bad experience in Wayne. The column tells how he looked for 90 minutes starting at 5:30 on a Friday afternoon for someone to sell him a tire or fix the flat. He stated that he called several places and no one would help. I am sorry Mr. Dump was not able to get his tire fixed, but he must not have looked very hard. For one thing, Fredrickson Tire, located on Highway 15 north of town, in direct path of him going and coming to Wayne, has a mechanic on duty until 6 p.m. But seriously, I can understand how he felt and how frustrating it was for him and his family.

The real reason I am writing about this is not to poke fun at Rob, but to remind him that small towns don't need bad press, in any form. I would ask that in the future, if he has a similar experience, a call to the local chamber of commerce to let them know of his problem would help more with the problem than his column. I would not have written a column bashing Hartington if something like that had happen to me, because in truth it accomplishes nothing. All it does is create a bad will and hurt businesses in the town that had nothing to do with the problem.

Wayne is a great town, full of great people and I believe Hartington, NE has the same. We all need to be understanding at times when things just don't work out the way you would hope nor do we don't need to rush back to our computer and fire off a hurtful column.

The city still has five residential lots for sale for new construction homes. The five lots are on the north side of Sycamore in front of the FirstBank Card Center and are priced at $12,000 each.

NEW BEGINNINGS!

As many of our civic leaders know, the state chamber of commerce plays a huge role in lobbying legislators on key issues that are important to Wayne area businesses. During the Spring season, this role is extremely active as laws and amendments and regulations are deliberated in Lincoln.

The Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce's Legislative Taskforce chaired by Cap Peterson tracks these activities and even plays an proactive role in supporting specific activities that are vital to our own membership. An example this year was the position we took in support of more equitable funding for state colleges and K-12 public education. In both cases, the unicameral legislators secured compromises that helped WSC and Wayne Community Schools. We are fortunate to have the legislative leadership and support of a person like Pat Engel.

During the fall, the state chamber leadership travels the state to meet with local leadership on future legislative issues. Nebraska state chamber president Barry Kennedy will be in Wayne on Tuesday, Sept. 23 for a supper meeting with local representatives to explore any legislative topic of interest. Senator Pat Engel has been invited and hopefully will attend as well. This is a great opportunity for anyone interested after the storm had cleared and they got some rest, they were able to travel on. People responding from the Wayne chapter were: Loren Park, Bill Claybaugh, Ilene Nichols, John-Lori-Tony & Jason Carollo.

Additional assistance from the American Red Cross was on scene the following day on Tuesday. A volunteer that lives in Coleridge and assists in teaching classes through the Wayne chapter, Claire Hansen, had been down in Thayer County on Red Cross assignment following their storms but returned home and was able to assist in the areas of damage assessment and emergency assistance to families. Personnel from the Madison/Stanton chapter, as well as the Sioux Falls chapter also assisted in operations in Coleridge.

According to the Assistant Disaster Director for Nebraska, Deb Williams, out of Grand Island, Nebraska, she was very pleased with the quick and professional response provided by the Wayne chapter.

Williams stated, "Wayne County should be very proud and thankful for the great volunteers they have and their willingness to go out at any time - day or night - to assist others in their time of need. Loren has done a very good job of training the people and having the resources in place to provide immediate disaster response. I never hesitate to call on the responders in Wayne and it is especially helpful to know that everything will be handled in the proper manner. I can never thank them enough for their service to others!

Long time business closes in Wayne

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

Will and Sue Davis, owners of Sav Mor in Wayne, decided to close their business. They sold their pharmacy to Pamida in Wayne where they, along with several of their former employees, began working this week. Davis' had been clearing out their retail items for some time in preparation for the move. The building is for sale.

As far as the pharmacy, Will notes everything should remain the same. The same pharmacists who were at Sav Mor are at the pharmacy in Pamida.

The only thing different, Will said, "is that I won't be the pharmacist in charge." I've been assured that Pamida management doesn't interfere with the pharmacists but they do the billing. Hopefully, there won't be the long hours we put in before and the service should be better because there won't be so much to do."

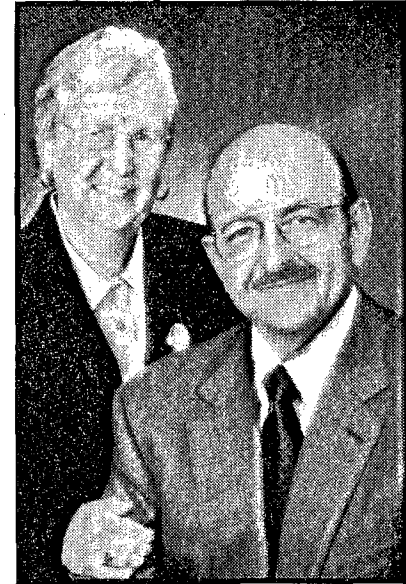

Will noted they had been looking for someone to come in and take over for the last four or five years. But, they couldn't find that person so when Pamida made them an offer, they decided they had better take it. They feel lucky there is a Pamida here. "If we would be 100 miles away, for instance, there probably wouldn't have been a Pamida to sell to," Will said.

Will feels fortunate he had the opportunity to be able to open a pharmacy. Higher costs through the years have dramatically changed their business. He feels bad for young pharmacists interns out of school as costs have raised so much, it makes it almost impossible to start a business.

"When I graduated from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in 1970, things weren't so expensive," Will said. "A $10 prescription was a lot. Now if you get one for $10, you're lucky. There weren't so many financial pressures. For years, there wasn't any third party pay; people paid for their prescription and then sent it in to their insurance. Now, if people don't have insurance to help pay for drugs, it is often impossible for them to pay. The system is backwards."

Will notes there are ways people can get help if they can't afford insurance. People can apply for cards from several drug companies which lowers the cost so people can afford their prescriptions. The applications are based on income.

Will and Sue Davis

"I've been looking for things like that so people can survive," Will said. "If you're 65 and have no coverage, it's real hard."

Not only are drug payments more difficult, so are the government regulations which are ridiculous. "And, it's extremely hard working with insurance companies and also hard working with Medicare," Will said.

Putting in hours from 8:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m., closing, and then back again until the wee hours of the morning, "I just can't do that anymore," Will said. "My dad had a heart attack at 50, and I made it past that but I want quality in life I have left," Will said. "Sue and I are trying to back off a little bit for our own good."

Thinking about small businesses, Will said he talked to someone recently who said there's a roll up of larger businesses taking over small businesses - you can either roll up or be rolled over.

Looking back, Will and Sue came to Wayne in 1983 from Stromsburg where they lived for 12 years and were in a two family partnership in a drug store there. The economy there was totally agriculture and the farm crisis was on. Davis' were looking for a better place for a business when they bought Sav Mor from Dick and Becky Keidel. The Davis' thank the Keidels for the opportunity they gave them at that time. Sav Mor first opened in 1959.

Will noted they came to Wayne because of the college and there were other things going on here; it wasn't totally agriculture. He admits through the years, having the college here was a big help in their business.

As for their background, Will was from Holdrege and Sue was from Broken Bow but she has relatives in Carroll. Her maiden name was Batten.

As for their future, the Davis' bought an acreage and put up a shell of a house at Springview where they plan to move years down the road.

"I enjoy building so I'll make the cupboards, woodwork, wood floor, etc., which will take a long time," Will said.

Will and Sue have two grown children, Ellen, who teaches Spanish in Fremont and has been helping at Sav Mor this spring, as well as working other jobs. And, Justin, who works for Bob Woehler of Wayne and is on the fire department in Carroll. He is working on getting his EMT (Emergency Medical Technician) training and will probably be going to school this fall taking fire science and more EMT training.

Summing it up, Will said he tried to live out his dream of owning a little store in Nebraska. He's glad he did and wouldn't have done anything else with his life.

Council receives technology update

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

"The system is working really well," was the message the Wayne City Council received in regard to the city's technology department.

Brian Kesting presented a report to the council during Tuesday's meeting and said that the installation of the wireless network has been completed at six of the city's eight buildings with only the Community Activity Center and the Fire Hall left to be completed.

Kesting told the council that with the new system, buildings can share information with other buildings and the Wayne Public Library's card catalog is now online.

The council passed Ordinance 2003-10, directing the sale of the Golf Course property and gave first round approval to Ordinance 2003-11, which will sell the property at 12th and Douglas Streets to Ken and Kate Jorgensen.

A proposal to purchase additional property in the same area by the Jorgensens died due to the lack of a second.

A 30-day extension was granted to Paul Campbell for the removal of a portion of a private structure extending on city property at 512 Dearborn Street.

Campbell said he has hired an attorney to try to resolve the situation and he needed time to go through the process.

Gary Boehle with First National Agency spoke to the council on the city's group health insurance plan. He noted that if the city were to retain the current coverage and deductibles, there would be a 23.5 percent increase in rates.

He outlined several possible alternatives available, including raising the deductible, increasing the office co-pay and decreasing the percentage paid for using providers outside the Midlands Choice Network.

Councilman Dennis Linster noted that he felt additional money could be saved by eliminating the prescription drug plan, stating that co-pays could actually cost more than a prescription without any insurance coverage.

The council voted to make the three recommended changes and will continue to look at eliminating or changing the prescription drug plan.

The council also discussed another proposal for housing development in the community.

A tentative plan is in the works by Robert Woehler to create 23 lots for housing in the southeast section of town. These houses would replace the current trailer court located in this area.

Approval was given for the closing of several streets for the Wayne Chicken Show. This is an annual request and is contingent upon the Chicken Show committee having adequate insurance.

No action was taken on a request from the Wayne Community Housing Development Corporation for the second half funding.

Councilman Dennis Linster said he would rather wait to act on the request until all council members were present.

Mayor Sheryl Lindau appointed Steve Schumacher to the Housing Authority for Villa Wayne.

The council's next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, July 8 at 7:30 p.m.

Area communities receive firefighting grants

Nebraska's Senator Ben Nelson announced that this week, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and the U.S. Fire Administration (USFA) will distribute a portion of the 2003 grants approved by the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) to several Nebraska fire departments.

A total of $750 million will be distributed to fire departments nationwide, including rural and volunteer fire departments.

Designed to strengthen and enhance basic firefighting capabilities and other emergency services across the United States, the Assistance to Firefighters Grant Program will give awards to four program areas in 2003. These areas include the Fire Operations and Firefighter Safety Program, the Fire Prevention Program, the Emergency Medical Services Program, and the Firefighting Vehicles Acquisition Program.

The Fire Operations and Firefighter Safety Program will provide the most grants to Nebraska's rural fire departments. This area grants include $25,358 to the Barneston Rural Fire Protection District, $55,154 to the Carroll Volunteer Fire Department, $14,957 to the Kimball Volunteer Fire Department and $29,608 to the McPherson County Rural Fire District. The Fire Operations and Firefighter Safety Program provides funding for additional training, fitness equipment, and modifications to fire stations and facilities.

FEMA will grant the Wakefield Volunteer Fire Department $182,700 for a firefighting vehicle, and the Gering Volunteer Fire Department will receive $9,198 in funds for a Fire Prevention Program. The Fire Prevention Program includes funding for public education and awareness activities.

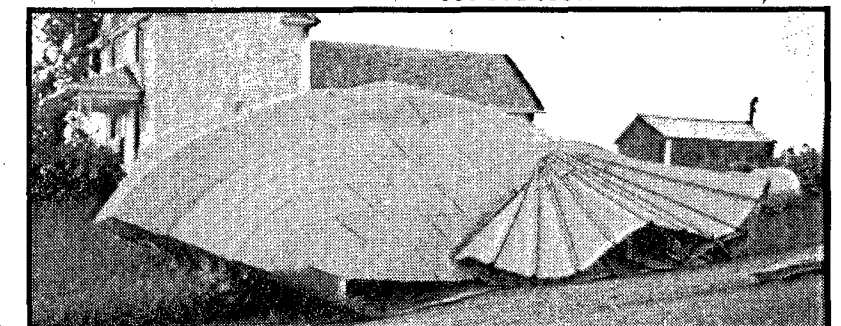

"With these grants, firefighters will be able to obtain the tools and training they need to protect our rural communities," said Senator Nelson. "The grants will also provide an incentive for recruitment and will maintain preparedness to combat fires and provide other emergency services."

The Assistance to Firefighters Grant program awards one-year grants directly to local fire departments. In 2003, the $750 million in the firefighters grants program distributed by the Department of Homeland Security marks a significant increase from the $360 million given in grants last year.

"The increased funding this year will allow for greater financial flexibility for these fire departments," said Nelson. "Our firefighters play a vital role in the safeguard of the communities we call home."

Additional information about the 2003 grants may be found at www.usfa.fema.gov or by calling 1-866-274-0960.

Wayne 16-under softball team sweeps Kelly's of Norfolk

The Wayne 16-under girls softball team won two games at Kelly's in Norfolk Tuesday evening.

Wayne won the first game 2-1 and took the nightcap 10-5.

"These were two big wins against a good Class B team," stated head coach Joel Munson. "Kelly's was runner-up at districts and this was a great test to use as a tune-up for state next weekend."

Ashley Carroll and Micaela Weber each produced two singles in the first game. Jean Pieper added a double and Jess Thomsen had a single. Carroll was the winning pitcher.

Wayne had nine hits in the second game, led by Pieper's three singles. Jenny Raveling contributed a double and single, Weber had two singles with Thomsen and Kiley Luhr each adding a single. Weber was the winning pitcher.

The Wayne 16-under team lost at Tekamah on June 17 6-5. Starting pitcher Ashley Carroll sprained two knuckles in her throwing hand, forcing Wayne to play the final four innings of the game with just eight players.

Jessica Jammer was the team's top hitter with two singles. Thomsen followed with a double while Luhr, Weber, Raveling, Pieper and Kari Hochstein each had a single.

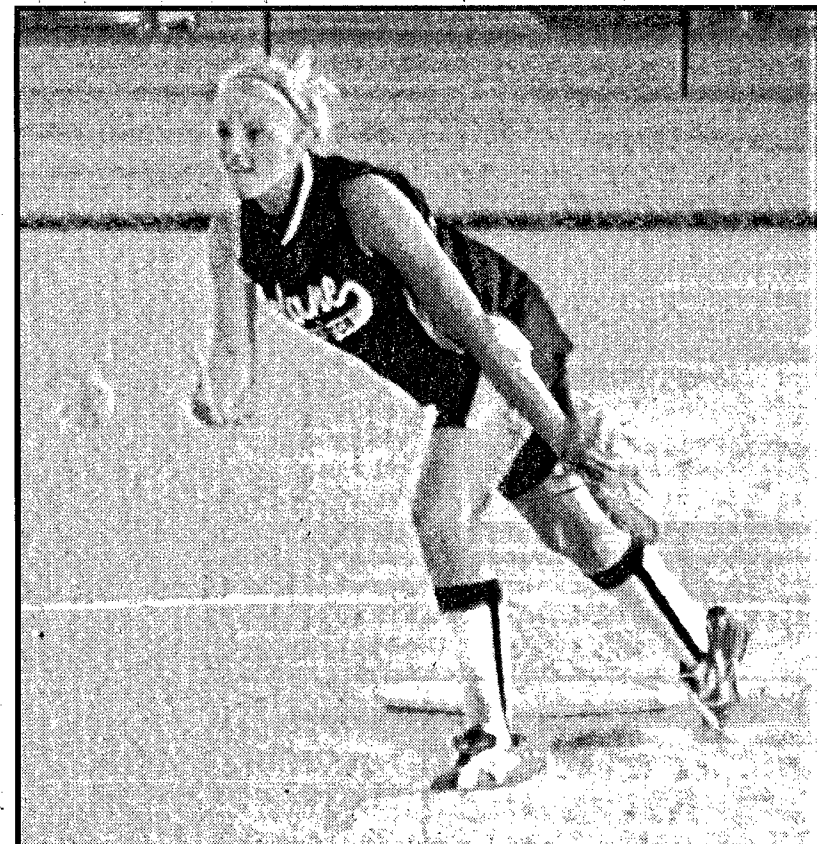

The 16-under team will host Dodge tonight (Thursday) at 8pm, travel to Lyons on Monday at 6:30pm, visit Pender Tuesday at 8pm and host West Point on Thursday, July 3 at 6:30pm. Wayne will compete in the State Tournament at Hastings July 4-6.

The 18-under team dropped two games in the past week.

Wayne dropped a 5-2 decision at home Friday evening to Wimmer's of West Point. Laci Ball, Erin Jarvi and Diana Potter each singled in the game. Jenna Paulson was the losing pitcher.

"The long game in Fremont took its toll on us, because we came out pretty tired the next night against West Point," said Munson.

The Wayne 18-under team will host Scribner Friday evening at 8pm and entertain Oakland on Thursday, July 3, at 8pm.

Jenna Paulson delivers a pitch for the Wayne 18-under girls softball team in Friday's home game against Wimmer's of West Point. Wayne lost the game 5-2.

they will be taxed at a maximum rate of 15 percent for those in the highest four tax brackets and at five percent for those in the 10 percent and 15 percent tax brackets.

Why cut taxes on dividends? The goal is to put more money into investor's pockets, thereby hopefully spurring investment and stimulating the sagging economy. It also lessens the burden of "double taxation," because dividends are taxed at both the corporate level and at the investor level.

Background. Dividends are a portion of company profits paid directly to shareholders. In the bull market of the late 1990's, the number of companies paying dividends declined, with many choosing to use profits to buy back stock, fund growth or to acquire other businesses. In the current bear market, however, dividends have come back into fashion.

Effect on the market. Supporters of the tax cut believe that encouraging companies to pay dividends will have a beneficial effect on Wall Street. Companies may focus more on maintaining a steady cash flow than boosting quarterly numbers, and sharing profits with shareholders may discourage wasteful and ill-advised corporate spending. The tax cut may also reduce the manipulation of corporate earnings, since dividends give a clear signal to investors that a company's earnings are "real." Implications for investors. For investors, dividend-paying stocks can offer many advantages. They can help to cushion losses in a bear market, since dividends are paid regularly despite falling stock prices. They can also provide an additional boost when a company's stock price is rising. Finally, while past performance is no guarantee of future results, companies that have paid dividends often performed better than those who do not.

Should you make any major portfolio changes now that dividend taxes are lower? Probably not. It's important to remember that taxes are just one part of the financial equation, and few experts would advise making wholesale changes just because of the dividend-tax cut. However, lower taxes can make dividend-paying stocks and mutual funds that invest in them - more attractive, so now may be a good time to explore these opportunities. Contact your financial advisor for more information.

"Dividend-paying companies are usually large and well-established. Their greater stability, combined with the 'cushioning' effect of dividend payouts, can make them attractive bear market investments."

Learning community Master of Science program offered at Wayne State

A new delivery method—the learning community format—is being offered for a Master of Science in Education degree from Wayne State College.

The learning community concept will begin this fall in two communities in the region, according to Dr. Paul Theobald, Dean of the School of Education and Counseling. "We've had a great deal of interest from teachers in the Sioux City and Fremont areas," he said.

The learning community differs from a traditional master's degree program in several ways, Theobald said. "One of the attractive things about the learning community format is that it is located near the participants' home. Learning community participants will typically meet for two full days (Saturdays and Sundays) each month throughout the academic year. They will not meet during the summer months.

A learning community is usually composed of 30 to 35 candidates. Early childhood, elementary, middle level, high school, social workers, school nurses, librarians, special education teachers and others can make up a diverse learning community. Each semester, participants register for a prescribed set of courses, varying from seven to eight credit hours each term.

"Learning community participants work with two or three facilitators over the course of two years to create exciting learning experiences that directly apply to their teaching," Theobald said. "The learning community MSE program supports teachers' professional growth and ties it directly to what they are about in their classrooms as they prepare their students for the needs and demands of the future."

Each learning community will blend and integrate curriculum and supporting processes throughout the two-year program while developing collegial groups that collaborate and support learning, projects and applications. At the end of the program, each participant will complete a capstone project focusing on an area of professional inquiry or interest.

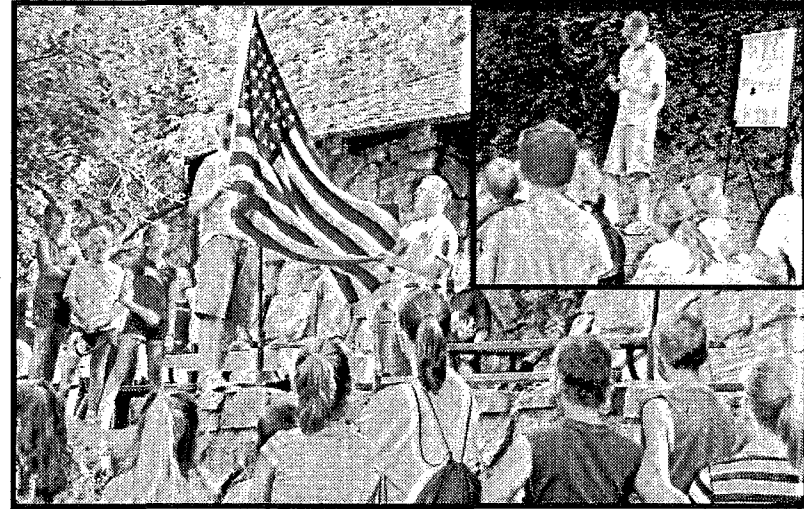

While the learning community format is new to Wayne State College, it has been successfully implemented in a number of colleges and universities across the country. It is an accredited program, just as the other graduate degree programs offered at Wayne State College.

"The learning community is a challenging format that enables teachers who are participating to focus and design their learning experiences to their classroom," Theobald said. "Not only they, but also their students, will reap the benefits far into the future. We are looking forward to the first learning communities this fall."

For more information about the program, call Theobald at 402-375-7389.

New tax scam warning given

Although tax filing season has come and gone, the Attorney General's office and the Internal Revenue Service continue to see new tax scams.

The newest schemes targets families of those serving in the Armed Forces and e-mail users. In both schemes, thieves represent themselves as IRS employees.

Family members of those serving in the Armed Services should be aware of a scam where a telephone caller, posing as an IRS employee, tells a family member that he or she is entitled to a $4,000 refund because their relative is in the Armed Forces and then requests a credit card number to cover a $42 fee for postage.

The caller will provide an actual IRS toll-free number as the call back number in order to make the call seem legitimate. The thief then makes numerous unauthorized purchases using the victim's credit card number. Genuine IRS employees who call taxpayers do not ask for credit card numbers or request fees for payment of a refund.

In another scheme, victims receive an e-mail that appears to be from the IRS. The e-mail contains links to a non-IRS Internet Web page that asks for personal and financial information. This information is used to steal the respondent's identity. Thieves use the information to take over financial accounts, run up charges on existing credit cards, apply for loans, credit cards, services or benefits in the victim's name, or file fraudulent tax returns. The IRS will never request sensitive personal or financial data, except in very special circumstances, and certainly never by e-mail.

If you feel you have been a victim of a tax scam, please contact the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office toll free at 1-800-727-4384.

Earns digital content leader designation

Northeast Community College and staff members David Heckert and Mike Auten have been named a Digital Content Leader from WebCT.

WebCT is the world's leading provider of e-Learning solutions for higher education in over 80 countries around the world. WebCT is the course management software for online instruction offered by Northeast.

According to the award letter, Northeast was chosen because of its use of e-Packs to deploy WebCT and online learning during the past year. An e-pack is course content provided by the textbook publisher to be a starting point for online course development. Each course must be individualized to meet the requirements of the college, goals of the instructor and needs of the students. Heckert is the Online Technology Specialist and Auten works in online technology support at Northeast.

School collecting box tops

School may be out, but the Wayne Education Boosters are still collecting Box Tops for Education.

Box Top collection boxes are located at Quality Food Center and Pac 'N' Save in Wayne.

Money raised from the grocery store collections will be divided between the Elementary and Middle Schools. Each Box Top is worth 10 cents, "which doesn't sound like much until you consider that both schools raised $1,376 during the 2002-03 school year," said Mary Carstens, one of those involved with the Box Tops program for WEB.

Since the Wayne schools began participating in the program, over $7,000 has been raised.

Box Tops for Education are found on General Mills products, including cereals, snacks and flour, Betty Crocker mixes, Bisquick, Pillsbury rolls and biscuits, waffles and other frozen items and on Green Giant frozen vegetables and side dishes.

Please submit the Box Tops logos only, not the Betty Crocker coupons.

Interested persons can also visit the Box Tops for Education web site at: www.boxtops4education.com for more information on the program.

EMT program at Northeast approved by Coordinating Commission

The Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education recently approved a new Northeast Community College program of study that will enhance training opportunities for emergency health care providers in rural northeast Nebraska.

Northeast's Vice President of Educational Services Larry Godel announced the approval of the Emergency Medical Technician (EMT)-Intermediate and Paramedic program at a recent meeting of the college's Board of Governors. With the commission's approval, Northeast can now offer diplomas in EMT-Intermediate and associate of applied science (AAS) degrees in EMT-Paramedic.

Northeast's new program will present field-ready EMT-intermediate and EMT-paramedics with the required knowledge and skills to care for patients who are injured due to trauma or suffer from medical problems. Students completing the diploma or AAS degree program of study at Northeast will be eligible to take their appropriate National Registry for Advanced Life Support exam and earn a Nebraska license to practice as an EMT-Intermediate or Paramedic.

According to Anita Brennehan, Northeast dean of health, science and drafting, this program will enhance training opportunities for those interested in being an EMT. "There is a growing trend across the nation to make paramedic programs degree programs and NECC is following that trend," Brennehan said.

"We look forward to drawing students from the entire state and region as we are the only community college in the state of Nebraska to offer such a program," she said. "Other community colleges in Nebraska are looking at us as a role model in this field."

Northeast's new Emergency Medical Technician program is

NECC Board breaks ground

It seemed like Christmas on a warm summer day when the Northeast Community College Board of Governors gathered for their monthly meeting in Norfolk last week.

Instead of opening gifts, the governors moved soil at a Groundbreaking Ceremony for the new $2.5 million Agriculture and Technology Education Complex. The facility will include a 140' by 220' Technical Training Arena that will be used by Northeast students for working with livestock and hands-on training on machinery and equipment.

Expanded labs and classrooms will also be available in the new complex to improve and expand the current college credit agriculture program options. Anticipated completion date is January or February of 2004.

Later that day at the monthly meeting, the governors learned of several gifts to the college including a complete truck chassis with cut-away instructional transmission, clutch, differentials and a complete air brake system with controls from the Dana Corporation. Dana Corporation approved through the State of Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services Regulation and Licensure.

Those interested in more information on the new EMT-Intermediate and Paramedic program that begins this fall at Northeast may contact Keith Neal, director of Allied Health Services, at (402)844-7334.

also donated a complete set of dual rear axles equipped with air brake systems and a Fuller 13-speed transmission. Northeast's diesel technology students will use the gifts, with a value of over $10,000, from the Dana Corporation.

Inland Truck Parts and Service, with corporate headquarters in Overland Park, Kan., and a facility in Omaha, referred Northeast Community College to the Dana Corporation as possible recipients of the equipment. "We are very thankful for their reference," said Tony Milenkovich, Northeast diesel technology instructor.

It was also announced that Cabela's of Sidney, has donated eight mobile generators and four high-pressure power washers. Electromechanical, diesel technology, automotive technology and building construction students will use the generators and washers with an approximate value of over $2,000.

"Donations such as these help Northeast maintain quality equipment in our educational programs," said Lyle Kathol, Northeast dean of applied technology.

Army Band to perform in WSC Willow Bowl

The 43rd Army Band of the Nebraska Army National Guard will present a concert on Saturday, July 5, in the Wayne State College Willow Bowl.

The concert, which is free and open to the public, will begin at 7 p.m. The concert is one of 11 that the band will present on its tour of eastern Nebraska from July 4-18.

The 55-member band has a rich history dating back to 1884, when it was located in Lincoln and known as "Band, Second Regiment." The mission of the band is to provide musical entertainment for the morale of soldiers and to support local communities when possible. It is comprised of "citizen-soldier" musicians from Lincoln and the surrounding area, many of whom are students, music teachers, or otherwise associated with the music field in their civilian pursuits. The band is headed by CW5 Jeffrey M. Klintberg, commander and bandmaster.

As the only musical unit of the Nebraska National Guard, the 43rd Army Band represents the National Guard at a variety of civilian and official military functions throughout the state. The band performs at parades, concerts, dances and receptions for military dignitaries. Musical variety shows are often on its schedule.

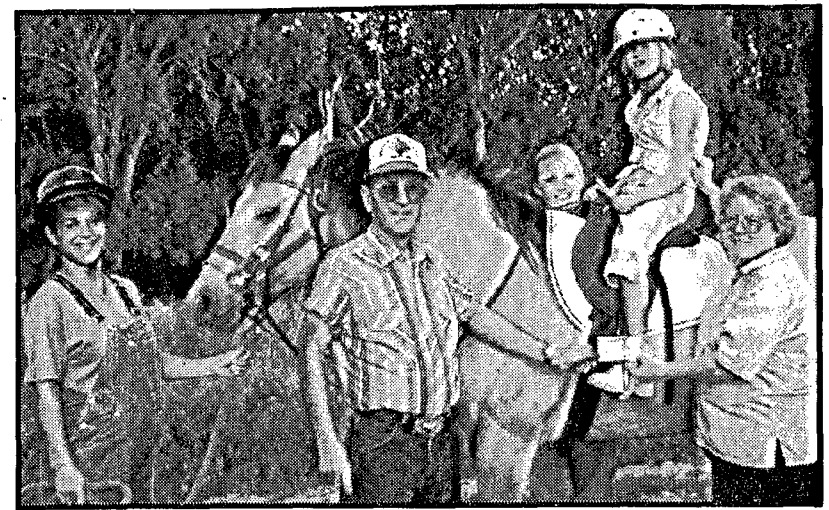

The 43rd Army Band was the only Nebraska Army National Guard unit to see active duty during the Korean conflict in 1950 through 1952. Following the Sept. 11, 2001 terrorist attack on the United States, several members of the 43rd Army Band were called to active duty in support of the homeland security force, providing armed security to airports, training sites, and military facilities. In July 2002, the band conducted its first training deployment to southern Germany, where members supported the United States Army European Band and Chorus for two weeks.

The 43rd Army Band of Nebraska Army National Guard will be performing on the Wayne State College campus, Saturday, July 5.

Kenneth Kopperud of Wayne, and Heather Aulner (Lincoln campus) of Winside.

To qualify for the dean's list, students must earn a G.P.A. of 3.5 or better for courses taken at UNO during the semester, provided 12 or more semester hours were completed.

Youth should discover Nebraska 4-H and link to University of Nebraska

Your children may be too young to attend the University of Nebraska, but they're old enough to benefit from its fun, research-based educational programs offered through Cooperative Extension 4-H Youth Development.

Amy Topp
Extension Educator
4-H & Youth

Nebraska 4-H is for all youth ages five to 19 and exists in every county in the state. We have more than 150 projects for youth from all locations and backgrounds. During the past year, current 4-H'ers have: paged for the Senate Republicans in Washington, D.C., designed the past year, sophisticated Websites, been recognized by Gov. Johanns for their community service efforts, and had photos featured in a professional calendar. Thousands more have launched rockets, gone on outdoor adventures, received recognition for their achievements, developed communication and leadership skills and much more.

Because of 4-H's affiliation with the University, the material used in 4-H projects is from this state's only land-grant institution, which means it's unbiased and research-based. And, that means being in a 4-H club is like being in a class at NU, taught by NU faculty and staff. These women and men work with trained local volunteers to offer the program to more than 120,000 youth annually.

Investigate Nebraska 4-H and you'll discover programs to fit your family's lifestyle: one-time outdoor education events, traditional clubs that meet monthly, curriculum materials for home-schoolers, summer camps, special events for the whole family and much more.

We invite you and your child to "Discover 4-H, Discover You!" For more information contact the Wayne County University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Office at (402) 375-3310 or visit 4h.unl.edu

Several trained in Christian ministry

The Christian caregiving ministry at Grace Lutheran Church of Wayne has grown recently.

Ron Hammer, Jody Hoffart, Kathleen Johs, Hilbert Johs, Judy Kruger and Nancy Sutton have completed 50 hours of Stephen Ministry training and were commissioned on May 4.

This training enables them to offer care and support for people experiencing life difficulties such as a death of a loved one, job crisis, aging, separation or divorce, long-term illness or for those needing the support of a Christian friend. The training covers topics such as effective listening, confidentiality, the stress of hospitalization, feeling and utilizing community resources.

These new caregivers will join the 11 Stephen Ministers who were commissioned in 2001.

Evelyn Lienemann and Gertrude Ohlquist of St. John's in Wakefield also attended this training.

Stephen Ministry was started at Grace Lutheran in 2000 when three members of the congregation attended leadership training and returned to train others in the congregation. Pastor John Pasche attended this same leadership training in St. Louis from April 27-May 3. While in St. Louis, he received 50 hours of Spirit-filled training on how to organize and direct those who are already trained and ready to share spiritual care with those who are hurting.

Stephen Ministry is a confidential ministry; those receiving care can be sure that their identity and what goes on in the caring relationship will remain private. In addition to the training, these Christian lay caregivers will continue to receive twice-monthly continuing education and supervision support sessions as they strive to offer the highest quality Christian care.

Grace Lutheran Church expects their Stephen Ministry to continue to be a source of warmth, care and blessing for many years to come, enabling the entire congregation to grow as a nurturing community where people are cherished and cared for and their needs taken seriously, all in the name of Jesus Christ.

Anyone having questions about Stephen Ministry or knowing someone who needs care and support at this time, is asked to contact Pastor Pasche, the church office or any Stephen Minister.

ATKINS HONORED

The 2003 winner of the Nebraska Emergency Medical Service Associations Chuck Woll Memorial Instructor of the Year Award went to Sandra Atkins of Wayne. Sandra is very active in teaching all levels of EMS in Northeast Nebraska. She teaches Advance Medical Life Support, Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation, Pediatric Emergency Care and Emergency Medical Technician classes.

Her students describe her instructional abilities as very knowledgeable and she is able to teach every EMS skill level, is a professional instructor and a great EMS communicator. She is said to make every student feel comfortable in her classes, not an easy skill to master.

Sandra's teaching skills and enthusiasm go beyond the classroom though, as she prompts her students to always continue with other continuing education classes and to go beyond what is required. She has also been instrumental in getting AED's (automatic external defibrillator's) in her community.

Sandra has made quite an impression on a large number of providers in her area and they say she probably doesn't realize her impact on EMS (emergency medical services) in her area because she is focused on providing quality EMS education to her students.

One of Sandra's EMS students was overheard telling a prospective EMT student "if you can't learn from Sandy, it must be your own fault." Obviously they were right, her student pass rate for the National Registry exams is almost 100 percent.

For everyone who knew Chuck Woll, and those who taught with him, Sandra Atkins would be an obvious choice for the instructor award bearing his name.

The award was announced at EMS Conference held in Columbus, however, Mrs. Atkins did not know her name had been submitted and she was not present at the conference. She is a member of the Winside Volunteer Fire and Rescue Dept. as well as part time member of the Norfolk Ambulance Service. She teaches classes through Northeast Community College. She is also the Winside Postmaster.

Symptoms of Depression Are Often Physical

According to Dr. David Dunner, a psychiatrist at the University of Washington in Seattle, "Eighty percent of patients with depression come to the doctor with exclusively physical symptoms." Common manifestations include insomnia, chronic fatigue, a change in appetite or weight, or back, joint or head pain. Most people will not complain of depression but if questioned, may acknowledge feelings of worthlessness, guilt or even suicide. Understanding that it is often the physical pain of depression that brings people to the doctor is the key to proper diagnosis.

Nebraska 4-H'ers attend Citizenship Focus Conference

Twenty-three 4-H'ers of University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension, representing the counties of Boyd, Cedar, Colfax, Dakota, Dixon, Stanton and Wayne enjoyed the educational sights of the East Coast and the Nation's Capitol.

The trip is part of a program that is developed by the National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase

Maryland. Throughout their stay at the National 4-H Center they had the opportunity to participate in several workshops and serve on various committees allowing them to strengthen their leadership roles. Some of the committees which the local 4-H'ers participated in included: Career Preparation, Current Events and Journalism, Government, Hot Topics, Professional Development, Social Action, Fitness, Talent Production and Citizenship Retrospective. During the week the delegates

Engraving and Printing. They also attended a Dinner Theater in which they saw "Pirates of Penzance." The 4-H'ers had a

Livestock compensation sign-up ends soon

Sign up for the USDA's Farm Service Agency 2002 Livestock Compensation Program II (LCP-II) ends July 3, 2003 according to Brian Wolford, state executive director for Nebraska FSA.

Sign-up for LCP-II, authorized under the Agricultural Assistance Act of 2003, began April 1, 2003. Under this expanded program, USDA provides assistance to livestock producers in certain counties not covered under LCP-I. Wolford said producers who were eligible for LCP-I but did not file an application by the Dec. 13, 2002, deadline may apply for benefits under LCP-II.

LCP-II provides direct payments to livestock owners and producers in counties named as primary disaster areas for damages and losses under a natural disaster. LCP-I provided assistance only in those counties named as a primary county under a secretarial disaster designation for drought.

Wolford said as of June 13, Nebraska livestock producers have received $66.1 million under LCP-I and $78,436 under LCP-II. Livestock covered under LCP-I are not eligible for LCP-II.

Eligible livestock include:

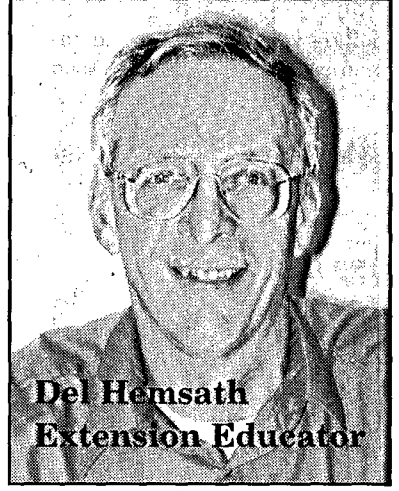

- beef and dairy cattle; buffalo and beefalo, when maintained on the same basis as beef cattle; and sheep and goats;

• livestock that was owned or subject to a cash lease on June 1, 2002 and have been owned or cash leased by the lessee for a minimum of 90 calendar days.

Sign-up for the Livestock Assistance Program (LAP), also authorized under the Agricultural Assistance Act of 2003, will begin in July. LAP will provide $250 million nationwide in assistance for 2001 or 2002 grazing losses.

Grasshoppers are hopping

It is time to start monitoring for grasshoppers along the grassy areas next to fields, in weedy pastures, CRP areas or other areas where the numbers of hoppers were high last year.

Count the number of hoppers in a square foot area and repeat that count 18 times. Divide the result by two, which gives the number of grasshoppers per square yard. This should be done in several areas of the field to get an accurate count. If more than 20-40 hoppers are found per square yard in the field margin, or 8-14 in the field, it is time to treat.

A method for control to reduce cost is to spray alternating strips in pastures or large non-crop areas. This can also be done in the crop area next to the grassy fields by spraying a 60 foot width swath, skip the next 60 feet and spray again. Treat a mile wide distance into the crop land. The new treatment method has been labeled RAAITs, standing for Reduced Area Agent Treatment. This method has proved to be effective in South Dakota to control the population of hoppers. If it works for South Dakota, it should work for Nebraska.

There are different species of hoppers that can attack crops and grassland. Proper identification is important but usually fairly easy. Hoppers found in the grassy area may have a slanted-faced head, which makes them not a problem in the cropland. If hoppers are found that have a round head, it can become a problem in crops as they will move from the grassy areas into the crops and should be controlled if the numbers are high enough. Treatment of the hoppers is much easier and more effective when treated in the younger or smaller stages of growth. Waiting until the wings are developed is too late for effective control. Take a look and see if hoppers are a problem.

Treatment of grasshoppers in gardens is more difficult and sometimes not possible. Keep the garden well watered, keep vegetation outside the garden area green or leave unmowed to slow down the movement of hoppers into the garden area, or plant a crop of attractive plants like zinnias where the hoppers can be sprayed before entering the garden. The other alternative is to not plant a garden.

Check with your local extension office for more information. Ask for the NebFact entitled "A Guide to Grasshopper Control in Yards and Gardens." Or the NebFact entitled "A Guide to Grasshopper Control in Cropland".

Pictured above are those 4-H'ers from northeast Nebraska who attended last week's Citizenship Focus Conference in Washington, D.C. While on the east coast, they also visited a number of other historic locations.

attended mock legislation meetings which enabled them to learn how bills become laws as well as strengthen their debate skills.

While in D.C. the group toured the National Cathedral, Arlington National Cemetery and Mount Vernon, as well as had a night tour of the city. They also visited the Lincoln, Korean and Vietnam Memorial, Holocaust Museum, Supreme Court and the Smithsonian.

They attended the Nebraska Breakfast and had an opportunity to visit with Congressmen and Senators from Nebraska. They also toured the Capitol with Congressman Lee Terry's staff and also visited his office. Congressman Doug Bereuter made special arrangements for them to a V.I.P. Tour of the Library of Congress and Bureau of week packed full of learning about citizenship and government, meeting new friends, visiting historic sights and having fun. A total of 314 delegates from the states of Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Indiana, Montana, Ohio and Tennessee, joined the 23 Nebraska 4-H'ers. Everyday the delegates create a new memory. They arrived home on June 14th full of knowledge about the government, expanded leadership skills and many new friendships.

Prior to arriving at the National 4-H Center, the group visited Ellis Island, the Statue of Liberty and New York City. Sights the 4-H'ers saw in New York City included: China Town, Central Park, St. Patrick's Cathedral, Rockefeller Center, Time Square, Ground Zero, Fifth Avenue and the Broadway Performance of Bell before departing for Gettysburg, Penn. In Gettysburg they received a tour of the battlefields and also enjoyed the museum. The 4-H'ers also enjoyed a day at Hershey Park in Hershey, Penn. and toured Annapolis, Md. and the Naval Academy.

Trevor and Amy Topp were the group chaperones.

This educational experience relating to Citizenship is just one of the many programs offered through the University of Nebraska Cooperative Extension 4-H and Youth Development Program. To participate in this program, individuals must be between the ages of 15 and 18 by January 1 of the current year. The next Citizenship Washington Focus Trip is tentatively scheduled for June of 2006.

Felt crowned Simmental Queen

Renee Felt of Wayne, the first Queen of the Nebraska Junior Simmental Association (NJSA), was crowned on June 7 in Madison at the Nebraska Junior Beef Expo. Miss Felt accepted a $500 scholarship awarded by JC Robinson Seeds.

When asked how her Queen interview had gone, Miss Felt said, "I knew my cattle information and I left the judges laughing, but I probably don't have much of a chance!"

Not only did she have a chance, she won the competition!

The competition included young women involved in the showing and promotion of Simmental cattle between the ages of eight to 21 years of age. Miss Jessika Uden of Juniata was selected to serve as Alternate Queen and will be busy in her role as well. She will start an online newsletter covering the NJSA and the Queen/Princess Program.

There is also a Princess competition. Whitney Davis of Lincoln, was crowned Princess and Corney Koepke of Hoskins was crowned Alternate Princess.

During their reign, the four young women will travel the state promoting Simmental cattle. Each Queen must select a project to pro-

Both the Queen and Princess programs were designed to create participation in the production of Nebraska. Families with young women and girls interested in the competition and program must be members of the NJSA and may contact Lisa Zeis, NJSA Queen/Princess Program Coordinator at zeis@huntel.net.

Student receives scholarship to WSC

Ashleigh Anikputa of Omaha has received a Multicultural Tuition Scholarship and a Leadership Scholarship to attend Wayne State College this fall.

Multicultural Tuition Awards are given annually to students based on academic excellence, talent, leadership qualities and extracurricular activities. The award, renewable for four years, is valued at over $10,500 at current tuition rates.

The purpose of the Leadership scholarship is to attract active high school leaders who plan to continue that level of leadership in a residential college setting. The award provides students with renewable four-year waivers for on-campus housing.

Anikputa, the daughter of the late Anneliese Cawthon, is a 2003 graduate of Boys Town High School. She plans to major in education.

Her high school activities included drill team, student council and Lettermans Club. She was a drum major with the marching band and a member of the swim, volleyball, basketball, and track teams. Anikputa volunteered with the Crop Walk, Jump Rope for Heart, Special Olympics and Honey Sunday.

Life is fragile, handle with care

There is a stretch of highway north of Gretna that we take whenever we come up to northeast Nebraska. It's Highway 31, and it takes us to 370, which eventually brings us to 275. It used to be a lovely tree-shaded two-lane road, not heavily used, and very pleasant to drive.

Then Gretna grew with a bang and they needed a bigger road into their town. The trees were bulldozed, the lanes widened, and now traffic is heavy.

Last October, on a rainy, dreary day, about dusk, we were on that stretch, headed for Norfolk. I was taking it slow because of poor visibility and slick roads. Suddenly, I saw a pickup come from a side road on the west that didn't stop for the stop sign. The next thing I knew, it was on the east side of the road, headed north, and there was a van in the ditch on the west. I pulled over very carefully. Cars were already lining up.

A woman was in the front, unconscious, being tended by a paramedic from Iowa who always carries his supplies in his auto. I looked over the young lad in the back who had a huge gash in a cheek. The second boy was soon out of the car, wrapped in blankets. Both were alert and oriented. They were from Tecumseh, headed to their grandma's house. I was very glad to see the volunteers pull up in their rescue vehicle. And I was happy to turn over our tasks to them. The mother

By: Pat Meierhenry

later died. The driver of the pickup, 21 years old, had already had his license revoked for reckless driving and had no insurance. The Sarpy county attorney's office tells me his maximum sentence will be one year. One year for one life.

Last Saturday morning, three young men from this community were on that stretch of highway, coming home from a baseball game and a party. It was very late, and there were beer cans in the car. The driver crossed the center line and hit a semi. He survived, but is in critical condition. The other two were dead at the scene.

As you can imagine, this community is in shock. One boy lived on our road and had just graduated from high school. He was a three-time state wrestling champ, so, of course, we had paid attention to him. But apparently, he preferred baseball, and would have been at Wayne State this fall to play there. Now, instead, his funeral is tomorrow, in the high school gym. What a waste.

The other boy's funeral is Thursday, in our church. His dad died the year we moved here, and his mom has had a tough road. I have gotten to know her; she has a wonderful sense of humor. But it will take every resource she has to deal with this.

What is there to say that hasn't already been said? Teens believe they are immortal, they are going to try alcohol, there is peer pressure, on and on and on. We all have made poor decisions; somehow, the survivors must make their peace with all the grief and move on.

Another reminder to tell each other how much we love them. And, to be careful!

Dixon County 4-H Bicycle Rodeo held

The Dixon County 4-H Bicycle rodeo was held at the Allen Methodist Church with twelve youth participating. Those competing in the rodeo had to demonstrate both their riding skill and knowledge through a variety of contests.

Steven Fraiser, Allen, received the championship trophy in the Senior Division and Joel Garland, Ponca, received the Championship trophy in the Junior Division.

Ashley Gregerson, Allen competed as Clover Kids (youth 5-7 years of age) and received a participation ribbon.

Thanks to the many parents and leaders and teens who helped with the event. Awards for the contest were sponsored by Brudigam Construction and Scheels Sports.

Trophies were donated by Veteran's of Foreign Wars Gasser Post 5435, Martinsburg and the Dixon County 4-H Council.

WINDSURFING AT WILLOW CREEK

Liberty Cove Recreation Area

While functioning primarily as a flood control facility, the Little Blue NRD's Liberty Cove Lake, southwest of Lawrence, in Webster County has also become one of the most popular among NRD recreation areas in Nebraska. The spring fed lake drains 2,247 areas, has 37 surface acres and space to store 558 acre-feet of storm runoff, protecting roads and bridges in the watershed.

Hikers enjoy 1.8 miles of trails that reach around the lake. The area also features an arboretum with more than 100 different species. The Cove offers excellent fishing with bass, bluegill, northern pike and catfish the primary species. Other attractions include low horsepower boating, a swimming beach, picnic areas, camping facilities, a playground, equestrian trail and small game hunting. Sledding, skating and snowmobiling are offered in the winter. Many natural springs in the area give Liberty Cove exceptional water quality. The District has also planted over 5,000 trees around and within the 247 acres of property.

Liberty Cove also serves an educational purpose, hosting an annual Water Jamboree for 1,000 area fifth and sixth graders. A Hastings College professor, at the request of teachers and others, has compiled a listing of plants and birds that inhabit the area.

The Little Blue NRD has shown how flood control, recreation and wildlife habitat can be combined to serve constituents in many different ways.

I'M FREE
 Don't grieve for me, for now I'm free.
 I'm following the path God has laid you see.
 I took His hand when I heard Him call.
 I turned my back and left it all.
 I could not stay another day.
 To laugh, to love, to work, or play.
 Tasks left undone must stay that way.
 I found that peace at the close of the day.
 If my parting has left a void,
 Then fill it with remembered joys.
 A friendship shared, a laugh, a kiss.
 Oh yes, these things I too will miss.
 Be not burdened with times of sorrow.
 I wish you the sunshine of tomorrow.
 My life's been full, I savored much.
 Good friends, good times, a loved one's touch.
 Perhaps my time seemed all too brief.
 Don't lengthen it now with undue grief.
 Lift up your hearts and peace to thee.
 God wanted me now: He set me free.

Words can not express the heartfelt gratitude we feel toward relatives and friends with the loss of our beloved Mother and Grandmother, Edna Dangberg. Your cards, calls, and hugs lifted our spirits in our time of sorrow.
 God Bless You All!

To all our family, friends and neighbors
 Words cannot express all the kindness and sympathy that you have shown to us. The tragic loss of our parents, grandparents, sister, brother-in-law, aunt and uncle has been difficult and you have all made it a little bit easier for us to bear.

Special thanks go to Deb Allemann, Deb Blank, Laura Krueger and Roxie Nelson for all your help at the house and with the girls. To John and Prudy's neighbors - you are the best in the world. Our loss is your loss too. To Pastors Ruffcorn and Koeber and the ladies of the church - Thank you for the beautiful service and the lunch afterwards at the church. To the VFW, American Legion and the Order of Eastern Star - Thank you for the services at the cemetery. To Sheriff Mike Unger, Stanton County, Pilger and Wisner Rescue and all other emergency personnel involved, thank you for all you did and have done. To Schumacher - Hasemann Funeral Home - Your care and concern for our loved ones and for us is something we shall not forget.

May God bless each and everyone of you.
There are Angels among us, sent down to us from somewhere up above. They come to you and me in our darkest hour to show us how to live, teach us how to give and guide us with the light of love.

Charlayne, Jerry, Bailey and Morgan Carpenter
