Sister wins residence hall room waiver for her brother

By Judy Johnson,
Director of College Relations, Wayne State College
Seventeen-year-old Luke Stoltenberg of Carroll, a recent graduate of Wayne High School in Wayne, didn't attend the Wayne Chicken Show on Saturday. But his 11-year-old sister Katie did—and she won a contest for him.

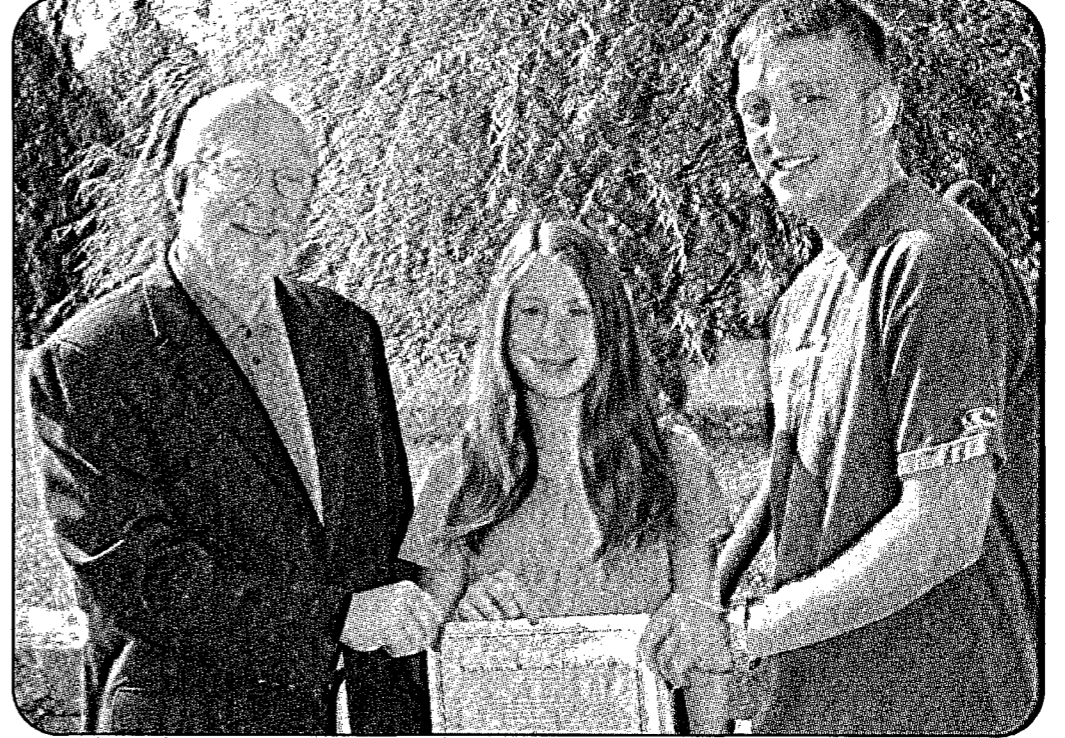

Katie's entry was selected as the winner of a one-semester Wayne State College residence hall room fee waiver, valued at $930 for the coming semester, at a drawing at this weekend's Wayne Chicken Show on the Wayne State campus.

The residence hall room fee waiver will be applied to Luke's first semester of enrollment as a full-time student at Wayne State this fall. Entries could be transferred to an immediate family member.

It was hard to tell who was more excited - Katie or her grandparents John and Dorothy Rees of Wayne, both Wayne State graduates who brought her to the Chicken Show. "We wouldn't have him go anywhere else to college," his grandmother said. "We're glad he chose the right one."

Luke, the son of Verlyn and Holly Stoltenberg of rural Carroll, was glad Katie won the contest. "That's pretty neat," he said. When asked what he will do for his 12-year-old sister, he chuckled. "I'll probably have to do something nice," he said.

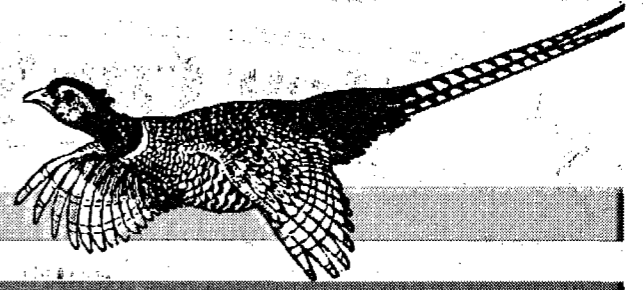

Note: Another room waiver will be given away at this year's Wayne County Fair. There will be sign-ups all four days of the fair with the same criteria that was required of the Chicken Show giveaway.

Dr. Jeff Carstens, assistant dean of students and director of residence life at Wayne State College, presents Katie Stoltenberg of Carroll with a certificate for the residence hall room fee waiver that she won for her brother, Luke, July 12 on campus.

Awareness best way to guard against wildlife-related diseases

Monkeypox, West Nile virus, tularemia, rabies and hantavirus have more in common than being highlighted in recent news reports, University of Nebraska specialists said.

They also happen to be diseases that occur in both animals and people, said Dallas Virchow, coordinator of wildlife damage control in NU's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources. Such diseases are commonly called zoonoses.

"Of the 1,709 infectious organisms known to cause diseases in humans, nearly half are zoonotic," Virchow said. "Extra care should be taken to guard against them, especially in years of high inci-

Some diseases, such as rabies, are typically cyclic, with incidences being extremely low during some periods and increasing during others. For example, from 1992 to 2002, fewer than five skunks tested positive for rabies each year in Nebraska. However, rabies among skunks now is at a 20-year high with 57 skunks testing positive so far this year, said Scott Hygnstrom, NU Cooperative Extension wildlife damage specialist.

Other zoonotic diseases, such as West Nile virus, which is new to Nebraska, may result in more animal fatalities during the first several years after it shows up. Later generations tend to develop resistance to the disease over time, he said.

While certain factors, such as geography, occupation, age, health status and level of outdoor activity, may predispose some people to come in contact with a zoonotic disease, most people are safe, Virchow said.

"Chances of exposure may be slim to none, unless you are among the few people within high risk groups that work directly with animals," he said.

Common modes of disease transmission include contact with animal body fluids, consumption of infected meat or indirect contact with contaminated air, water or soil. Infectious organisms of many zoonoses are carried from animals to people by insects or ticks. Therefore, avoiding insect bites and insect-infested areas can reduce risk, Virchow said.

People can reduce their exposure to zoonoses by making sure pets are vaccinated, keeping pets inside from dusk through early morning, keeping pets away from wildlife and wearing plastic gloves when handling dead animals, Hygnstrom said.

Fortunately, most zoonotic diseases are not life-threatening, he said. However people should be aware of the diseases' early and late symptoms, seriousness and treatment.

"Despite deaths due to West Nile and hantavirus, symptoms produced by almost all zoonoses in people can be either mild or effectively treated when diagnosed early," he said.

In addition, frequent headlines about zoonotic diseases may cause more fear than necessary, Virchow said. Statistics show that the risk of infection from life-threatening zoonoses is very low compared to other diseases.

Hantavirus cases in the United States average about 10 per year. Monkeypox, though new, has 71 cases to date.

About 100 deaths and 4,000 to 9,000 hospitalizations due to chicken pox occurred each year in the United States before an effective vaccine was used in 1995, he said. Furthermore, monkeypox seems to have a low rate of infection via person-to-person contact. Chicken pox, a common childhood disease, remains highly contagious among humans, he said.

"The number of deaths attributable to zoonoses are lower than those caused by other common diseases," he said. "For instance, more than 200 Omahans died during the first half of 2003 from influenza or pneumonia. By contrast, rabies deaths across the entire U.S. average less than one each year."

Enjoyed Gospel Sing

Dear Editor,
Many thanks to For the Master Gospel group for hosting an excellent Gospel Sing in Bressler Park Saturday evening following the Chicken Show.

Anyone who missed this special event truly missed a superb performance from several excellent groups.

I hope this will become an annual event. It was truly the highlight of the weekend events.

Thank you also to the two church youth groups that provided hamburgers, watermelon and ice cream brownie sundaes with all the toppings.

Skip and Bea Kinslow,
Wayne

Congratulations Wayne

Dear Editor,
I am writing to congratulate the people of Wayne on the recent Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) awarded to your community. Your hard work and vision have been rewarded!

As you know, CDBG is a Federal program which provides grant funds directly to large cities or indirectly through a state agency for community development projects. The House Committee on Financial Services, on which I serve, has the oversight and authorization responsibilities for all HUD programs, including CDBG; therefore, I am interested to see these funds used effectively for eligible purposes. It is particularly pleasing to know that the funds are being well used in Nebraska's small communities.

The people of Wayne are to be congratulated. I wish you great success!

Best wishes,
Doug Bereuter,
Member of Congress

Dear Editor,
We would like to thank the 46 volunteers who registered for the July 8 blood drive at Grace Lutheran.

Successful event

Dear Editor,
Thank you! Thank you! Thank you!

You do not know much you were appreciated this year in the Wayne Area Relay For Life event.

You helped us raise over $29,000 this year, which is a tremendous achievement for your community. You should be proud of yourselves because we are all proud to have you as a part of our team.

Your involvement helps us continue to fund cutting-edge research, provide life-saving information and education and deliver person-to-person services to cancer patients and their families. Each year the American Cancer Society invests over $100 million in cancer research.

In the early 1900's almost no one survived cancer. In the 1930's less than one in five survived for five years. In the 1940's approximately one in four survived. By the 1960's the survival rate had grown to one in three. Today more than half of the patients diagnosed can expect to survive this disease. In addition, the five-year survival rate is almost 60 percent.

Your participation in Relay is helping us keep up the momentum against cancer.

The Fifth annual Relay for Life in the Wayne Area will remain one of the best memories to so many survivors and their families. Everyone pulled together to make this a huge success story. Looking out over the tents at Relay and seeing the word HOPE spelled out on the hill was truly inspiring.

The Relay committee and we hope to work together again next year to assure another successful Relay.

Thank you so much,

Dealing with the prison population

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Nothing changes hard-nosed attitudes more effectively than hard times.

Nebraska policymakers, running short on money, now see the parole of some prison inmates as a legitimate and viable tool for reducing costs.

The Legislature has taken steps aimed at encouraging the parole of more inmates convicted of nonviolent crimes. Lawmakers were nudged (if not pushed) down those steps by fiscal realities. The catalyst was a change in the bank balance, not philosophy.

Back in the "Roaring 90s," pushing for more parole didn't seem to be in keeping with the wants and attitudes of Nebraska voters. A lawmaker who figured that a dope addict could get more help outside the walls than within them might have been thought of as "soft on crime."

Tougher penalties, especially for drug crimes, caused a years-long explosion in the national prison population - and in prison costs.

Just housing and feeding criminals was costly. Even in Nebraska, new prisons were booked to capacity by the time they opened.

Then came hepatitis C. It's a viral infection and it costs a lot of money to treat patient-inmates who have it. Put that together with the high costs of treating those afflicted with HIV/AIDS.

The inmates most likely to be hit by hepatitis C? Dopers. The ones who did drugs intravenously. State officials told the Journal-Star of Lincoln that it could cost some $700,000 next year, treating just 20 inmates. And, it's infectious. Then there is HIV. Treating 23 inmates with HIV virus costs some $345,000 last year.

Some addicts turn to violent crime to support their habits. Property crimes are more common. Thus, lawmakers nationwide have begun seeing the parole of nonviolent drug offenders as a boon in two parts. It makes more prison space available for "new" criminals, and it can help to curb or reduce the costs of medical treatment.

Of course, releasing nonviolent inmates with chronic medical problems doesn't necessarily mean that the cost of their medical care won't come out of the pockets of taxpayers. But it does mean that it could come from other pockets, meaning other government budgets. Moving some costs of health care from the Department of Corrections to social services programs might be mere bookkeeping to some purists, but to the department, it's real savings.

The Legislature raised taxes this year, and cut spending in a variety of areas. That's not what lawmakers like to do.

Parole programs for nonviolent offenders are cheaper than incarceration. Lots cheaper. And it is in that light that Nebraska appears set to embark on a new policy era.

Main Street Focus

Henoween has come and gone and there are so many people to thank that it would take up most of this column.

Consequently, look for an ad in next week's Morning Shopper. If I forget anyone, please contact me. Believe me, I want to slight no one. So many people helped make our Henoween another great success. A special thank you to the Wayne County Visitors/Convention Bureau and the Wayne County Commissioners for accepting our grant application. Without their help, it would have been very difficult to do the things at Henoween that we wanted to do. Thanks also, to the Wayne County Ag Society for the use of the stage and saw horses.

There are a few young men I want to thank, however. As we prepared to pick up the planks and saw horses late Friday night, a group of Wayne High young men stepped forward, on their own and assisted us. When we asked them their names, they simply implied, it wasn't necessary to thank them by name. Later, two young men, also from Wayne, assisted me in moving our couch to the office. Again, names were not given. To you young men, I give you a large thank you and want you to know your help was greatly appreciated.

I am very proud of our efforts Friday night and hope everyone who attended enjoyed all aspects of the evening. Thanks to the painters/decorators and buyers of our cement chickens. It was fun and helped defray the costs of Henoween.

You can see that I've started to do exactly what I said I wasn't going to... thank people. I'm going to cease but it definitely doesn't mean one group or person is more important than any other. It was amazing to sit down Monday morning and start to list the people we will be thanking.

Congratulations to the Wayne Chamber of Commerce for another successful Chicken Show.

Chickens of all sizes, shapes and colors, some real and some not, were among those attending the weekly Chamber Coffee on Friday at the State National Bank Park. The event was hosted by the Chicken Show Task Force in preparation for the Henoween and Chicken Show festivities.

Sara Hall of Wayne received a photo of a friend and his fellow servicemen showing their legs in honor of the Wayne Chicken Show's Best Chicken Legs on a Human contest via email from somewhere in Iraq last week.

Her boyfriend, Mike Schlickbernd of Wayne has been friends with Dan Seaman, who is in the photo, and is serving with the Naval Reserve Seabees. Seaman is originally from Tekamah.

Those involved in showing their legs were: Construction Electrician First Class Richard Mongold from Independence, Mo.; Store Keeper Second Class

Patrick Wright from Lawson, Kan.; Mess Management Specialist First Class David Ray from Lansing, Kan.; Engineering Aid Second Class Darren Hoard from Blue Springs, Mo.; Equipment Operator Third Class David Lane from Springfield, Mo.; Equipment Operator First Class Daniel Seaman from Omaha; Postal Clerk Senior Chief Mike Smith from Normal, Ill.; Builder First Class Homer Damet from Edgerton, Kan.; Equipment Operator First Class Brian Homan from Columbia, Mo. and Ensign John Mielke from St. Louis, Mo.

During the weekend's festivities, cards were signed to be sent back to the servicemen.

Newborn screening tests to cost less

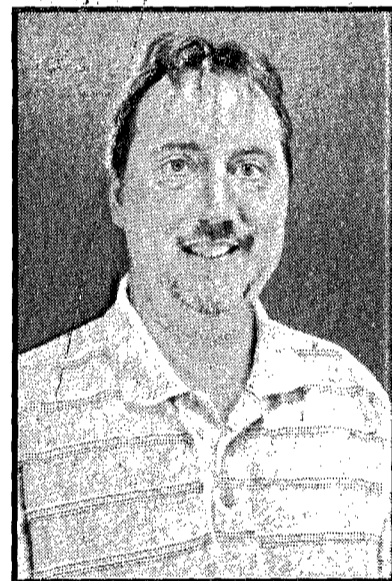

There's good news for Nebraska babies. The newborn screening tests that are routinely done on every newborn in the state will cost parents over 50 percent less and yet screen for an expanded group of 20-30 disorders. According to Julie Miller, Coordinator of the Nebraska Health and Human Services System Newborn Screening Program, "these additional tests, called 'supplemental screening' can identify babies at higher risk for some metabolic disorders. Without the screening test, babies with these disorders can have seizures and coma and they may even die. Also, some babies with these disorders that survive the seizures and comas will have permanent mental and physical disabilities. If every baby is fully screened, then treatment can begin within days which can help babies live longer, healthier lives." "The reason the screening test is so important is you can't tell by looking at the baby if they have any of these diseases," explains Dr. Richard Raymond, Chief Medical Officer for the Nebraska Health and Human Services System. "The blood test gives us the information we need to prevent the circumstances leading to the seizure or coma or, for some diseases, to treat the baby — usually with a special diet — to prevent mental retardation."

Nebraska requires newborn screening for six diseases, and the supplemental screening can identify another 20-30 disorders. The cost of testing (not including hospital charges) will be $30.70 for the required six plus the supplemental screening. Previously, the required tests alone cost between $53 and $54.60 and when the supplemental screening was added, the price was approximately $75. For more information on the Newborn Screening Program and the testing, visit the HHS web site at <http://www.hhs.state.ne.us/nsp/nsindex.htm> or call the Program at (402) 471-9731; TDD (402) 471-9570.

Receives 2003 Animal Management Award

Dr. Terry L. Mader, professor, University of Nebraska, receives this for his research and extension efforts involving beef cattle production and management.

The award, sponsored by Merial, was presented to him as part of the Awards Ceremony on Monday, June 23, during the American Society of Animal Science Annual Meeting in Phoenix, Ariz.

Mader was raised on a crop and livestock operation in northwestern Kansas. He received a B.S. (1973) from Kansas State University and M.S. (1979) and Ph.D. (1981) degrees from Oklahoma State University. In 1981, Mader joined the faculty at the University of Nebraska, where he is a professor of animal science located at the Haskell Agricultural Laboratory, near Concord.

Mader's initial research and extension efforts characterized lifetime implant responses in cattle. The results of these efforts have served as the foundation for many birth-to-slaughter implant strategies that could be used to minimize environmental stress in feedlot cattle. As part of these efforts, Mader coordinates several multidisciplinary research projects (funded by USDA-NRI and DOE-NIGEC) and participates in international efforts designed to better predict, plan for, and minimize the effects of adverse weather on livestock.

gives used today. In addition, Mader has been actively researching management strategies that could be used to minimize environmental stress in feedlot cattle. As part of these efforts, Mader coordinates several multidisciplinary research projects (funded by USDA-NRI and DOE-NIGEC) and participates in international efforts designed to better predict, plan for, and minimize the effects of adverse weather on livestock.

His significant contribution to animal management has been to characterize complex production problems and develop simplified management systems to solve the problems. Mader has authored or co-authored 40 journal articles, 47 symposium proceedings, 57 abstracts, and 87 departmental research reports and extension circulars.

Mader is active in animal science and international environmental stress-related societies and has served on ASAS regional and national committees.

Communities receive grant funding

Gov. Mike Johanns was in Wakefield on July 9 to award $250,000 in Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funding in the public works category to city officials to help construct a new 7,110 square-foot, single story library.

Wakefield's current split-level library, built in 1915, has collections located on the main level, in the basement and in a loft — all accessible by stairs only. The new facility is expected to provide much easier access for library patrons as the library is only one level.

The library will feature a larger, separate children's book collection and an area that provides room for special programming. It will also feature a larger, separate book collection for adults, a more spacious community room and a computer lab with Internet access. All will be conveniently located on the ground level.

Gov. Johanns said, "Libraries not only serve as a place of learning, they also serve as a place of community activism, social warmth and friendship. With this award, Wakefield residents can look forward to enjoying a wonderful new library where they can learn or just relax and socialize."

During his visit, Gov. Johanns also awarded funding for other CDBG projects, including a $9,500 grant to the city of Wayne to be used in the planning category for a housing market study.

Gov. Johanns traveled to five locations to announce nearly $4 million in funding for 25 projects of our state and quality of life," Gov. Johanns said. "People experience the vitality that exists here and truly understand that Nebraska is a great place to live, in the categories of public works and (first round) planning. In all, 36 applicants requested more than $5.9 million in CDBG funding.

"Continual investment in our rural communities pays big dividends in the form of prospering trade and commerce centers that contribute to the overall well-being raise families and grow highly successful businesses with reliable, quality workers."

The awards were made through the federal CDBG program, which is administered by the Nebraska Department of Economic Development.

Riding 13-game win streak into Area Tournament

Wayne Seniors repeat as Bishop League champs

The Wayne Senior American Legion baseball team extended its winning streak to 13 games Monday evening with an 11-3 win in six innings over Pender in the championship game of the Ralph Bishop League Tournament at Eaton Field in Wakefield.

It was the third straight season that Wayne won the league championship. The Seniors will take a 25-6 record into the Class B Area 3 Tournament, which starts tonight (Thursday) at Overin Field in Wayne.

Monday's game with Pender saw Wayne erupt for six runs in the fifth inning to snap a 3-3 tie and put the game out of reach.

"We're very proud of the team," said head coach Chad Metzler. "Winning the Bishop League Tournament was one of our goals this year and we're very pleased with the way the guys have come together."

Adam McGuire (12-1) pitched a complete game on the mound to earn the win. He allowed three hits and three runs over six innings, striking out four and walking three.

Offensively, Brad Hochstein had a double and two singles to lead Wayne at the plate. Adam Hoffman chipped in with two singles while Mike Sturm, Josh Sharer, Kris Roberts, Eric Sturm and McGuire each contributed a single in the win.

Hochstein, Andy Baker and Mike Sturm scored two runs apiece.

Wayne advanced to the championship game with a hard-fought 4-2, eight-inning win over Pierce in the North Division finals Saturday evening in Wakefield. The win avenged an earlier loss to Pierce, 4-1 on June 11.

Mike Sturm and Chris Nissen provided crucial hits in the game for Wayne. Sturm's double in the sixth inning, followed by a Nissen single, tied the game at 2-2. In the eighth, another double by Sturm, followed by Andy Baker's double, brought in the go-ahead run. A double by Nissen with two outs scored Baker to make the score 4-2.

Nissen, Mike Sturm and Hoffman each finished with two hits for Wayne. Baker had a double with Hochstein and Aaron Jorgensen contributing one single each.

Hochstein pitched six and one-third innings for Wayne, allowing two runs on five hits with six strikeouts and four walks. McGuire worked the final one and two-third innings to earn the win, allowing just one hit.

Wayne blanked South Sioux City 7-0 last Wednesday on Senior Night at Overin Field.

McGuire notched 14 strikeouts in the win on the mound, allowing just three hits over seven innings.

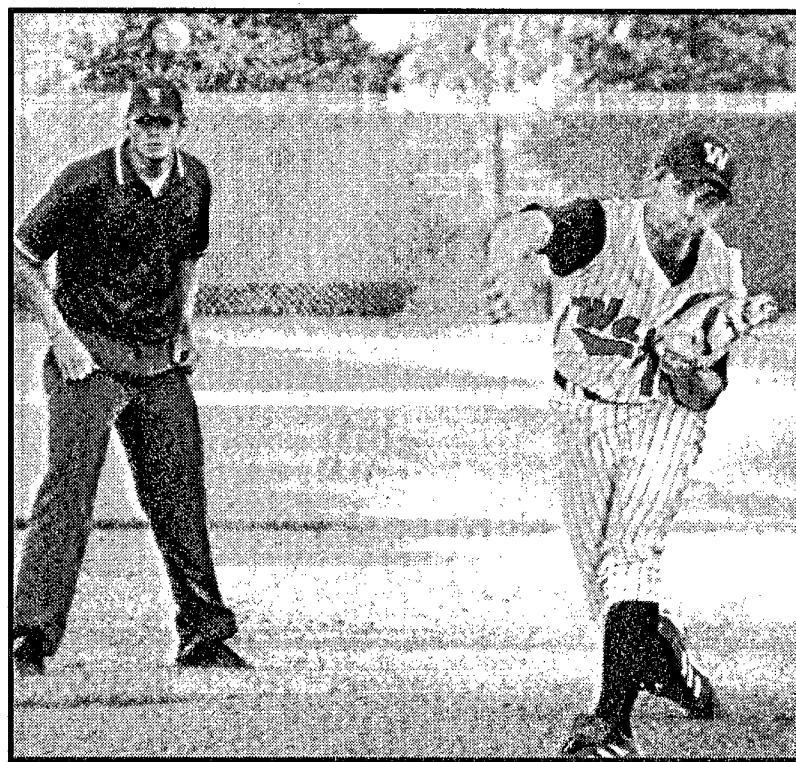

Hochstein's two-run homer in the first inning gave McGuire early run support. Wayne added three more runs in the third and two in the sixth.

Other hitters included Hoffman with two singles, Jorgensen and McGuire each doubled and Jon Ehrhardt had a single.

Wayne will face Arlington tonight (Thursday) at 8 pm in the opening round of the Class B Area 3 Tournament at Overin Field in Wayne. The double-elimination event runs through July 25.

Second baseman Eric Sturm, right, tosses the ball to shortstop Brad Hochstein to help turn a double play in the Wayne Seniors' 7-0 win over South Sioux City.

Wayne Senior Legion pitcher Adam McGuire delivers a strike against South Sioux City on Senior Night at Overin Field. McGuire posted three wins in the past week to raise his season record to 12-1.

Juniors close regular season with loss to West Point

The Wayne American Legion Junior baseball team wrapped up the regular season on July 10 with an 8-7 loss at West Point.

Wayne tied the game at 7-7 by scoring one run in the top of the sixth inning, only to see West Point score a run in the bottom of the sixth to win the game.

Nathan Milander laced a double and single to lead Wayne's eight-hit attack. Derek Carroll contributed two singles with Jesse Hill, Dan Reinhardt, Nate Finkey and Nate Summerfield each adding a single.

Finkey pitched the entire game for Wayne, allowing eight runs (three earned) on three hits. He walked seven and also struck out seven batters.

On Senior Night at Overin Field July 9, South Sioux City topped Wayne 7-1.

Wayne was held to three hits in the contest. Milander had two doubles and scored the team's only run. Wade Jarvi added a single.

Milander was the losing pitcher, giving up seven runs (only one was earned) on four hits. He walked eight batters and struck out five.

The Wayne Juniors end the season with a 7-16 record overall, 4-11 in the Ralph Bishop League.

"We need to regroup and focus now on the area tournament," stated head coach Jeff Zeiss. "I feel the tournament is wide open for any of the teams to win it, including us. It's a new season with all of us 0-0. Anything can happen!!"

Wayne will face Platte Center in the first round of the Class B Area 3 Tournament at Overin Field Saturday evening at 8pm.

Krugman selected for Cornhusker Boys' State

Cornhusker Boys State sponsored by the American Legion was held in Lincoln, June 1-7, 2003. Cornhusker Boys State is an effort on the part of the American Legion to provide young men of Nebraska the knowledge of fundamental principles of American Government through the actual practice of all levels of government.

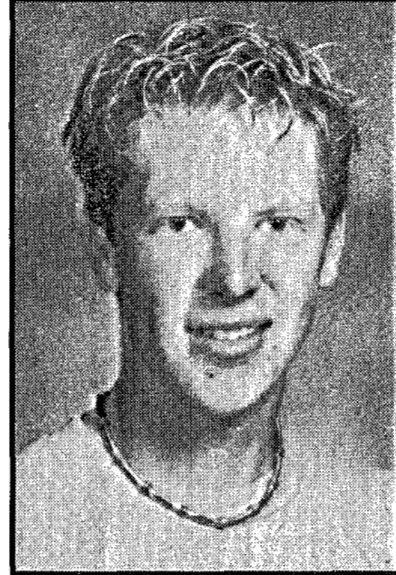

While attending Boys State, Krugman campaigned and was elected Senator of Bunker Hill. During this brief tenure he was given the opportunity to study ness and that what it does need is an intelligent citizenry and a clean, honest and impartial administration.

As future voters and office holders, the youth of Nebraska should have an understanding of the problems of elective officials, their duties and their function. The opportunity to learn these fundamentals is offered at Cornhusker Boys State. It is a laboratory of practical political science.

The boys have their own city, county and state governments. They elect their own officials from Mayor on up to Governor. They have their legislature and city councils, where they present and argue their own bills; have their courts to interpret the law, and in other ways live as self-governing citizens. Each boy has a chance to see for himself that government is just what he makes it.

As one of almost 25,000 young men who attended Boys State nationwide, Krugman was able to experience government in a practical sense by actually participating in it. Boys State is a leadership action program. It teaches government and its structure, and it proves that government is just what you make it. Krugman found it to be challenging and sometimes tiring, but always enjoyable and educational. American government requires citizen involvement. If this government "...of the people, by the people, and for the people" is to continue, the burden of the task rests squarely on these youth shoulders and those of their generation.

government, understand it, respect it and preserve it. In substance, its purpose was to teach boys that there is nothing fundamentally wrong with the American form of government; that it has not outlived its useful

Conference participants are being asked to submit their own "stories" about their work in the early childhood field that will then be compiled in a booklet and distributed at the conference.

Anyone with stories: happy, sad, inspirational and/or funny, is asked to mail them to Tiffany Pokorny, 101 Green Garden Drive, Madison, Neb. 68748 or by e-mail to: tpokorny@cableone.net

All story authors will then be

Information from the Wayne High School Student Handbook - #2

Eligibility requirements for inter-school activities

Eligibility for competing in inter-school activities is dependent upon maintaining an adequate citizenship and scholastic standing. The school, in cooperation with the Nebraska School Activities Association, has established the following standards of eligibility.

In order for a student to represent Wayne High School in scheduled inter-school competition or school activity, the student must have received passing grades in at least four subjects (20 credit hours) the previous semester. Each school week teachers will turn in a failing list upon which they will indicate students doing "about to fail" or "failing" work up to that point in the semester. Any student doing about to fail or failing work in four (4) or more classes is ineligible to participate in any co-curricular activity for that week. Should the next failing list not include the student's name (in four classes), he/she is then eligible to compete. The student must be enrolled and in good standing; a student suspended from school may not participate in nor attend an inter-school contest or activity during the period of suspension.

All extra-curricular participants must be in attendance at school the immediate one-half day school is in session prior to the contest or practice. Before school practices require a student's attendance immediately following the before school practice, a student failing to report to classes following the before school practice will incur an unexcused absence. All participants must be in school during the a.m. following a weeknight activity to attend practice that day.

All persons participating in athletics or dance squad must be examined by a physician prior to practice or participate in any sport. A doctor's examination card and a parental permission slip must be filed with the coach before the opening day of practice. Students must be covered by athletic insurance or must sign an insurance waiver to free the school of liability due to injury, etc.

What is National KidsDay?

National KidsDay is celebrated annually on the first Sunday in August.

National KidsDay is a day set aside each year to celebrate and honor America's children by spending meaningful time with them. It's about celebrating kids - whether it's your sons, daughters, nieces, nephews or any child in need of mentoring.

According to the National KidsDay "Meaningful Time" survey, more than 50 percent of children polled agreed that spending casual time with their parents - whether playing games, talking or even watching TV - is a great way to spend meaningful time together. The one caveat? That the time parents and kids do spend together is engaging.

Make your FAMILY time special. Parents and children agree that meaningful activities focus on kids and the things they enjoy. Children cited "being the focus of their parents' attention" as one of the top four ways that parents could make time together more meaningful.

TIP: Make a regular habit of spending time with your child without interruptions. Turn off the television or radio, and unplug the phone. Be sure to focus your attention on your child and avoid tending to other activities such as driving, cleaning the house or working on the computer.

Asking them. Kids and adults can differ about what they consider meaningful time. To know what your son or daughter enjoys, simply ask them. Find out what kinds of activities they enjoy and why. Parents may be surprised by the simple and exciting suggestions they hear.

Sandy Erston
Dixon County

TIP: Give children a voice in selecting and planning activities. Let them help prepare snacks for a picnic or help pack a bag for the beach.

Making it fun. In the "Meaningful Time" study, kids placed greater emphasis on activities that are fun-focused. Just because you are engaged in meaningful activities doesn't mean you can't have fun in the process.

TIP: If you're playing a game of chess or checkers, make the pieces edible; wear a chef's hat to make dinner; read a bedtime story in a funny accent; think like a kid!

Interacting...Don't just watch. Surprisingly, less than one-in-ten children said that having parents watch their activities (such as sporting events, plays, etc.) constituted meaningful time.

TIP: Take part in fun activities rather than sitting on the sidelines. For example, play a game of baseball with a child or write your own family play and cast different family members as the lead characters...costumes and all!

Listening. Kids need to feel wanted and supported by their parents. What better way to do that than by listening to what your child has to say?

TIP: Play the telephone game. Listen to what your child tells you and then repeat it to someone else in the family or one of his/her friends. Did you get it right? Use this time to tell your child how important his/her thoughts are and how committed you are to listening to them.

Young at heart. "Parents doing things they enjoy" was among the top five ways children think parents could make time together more meaningful, important and memorable.

TIP: Select games and activities that both you and your children will enjoy, such as baking cookies, gardening, building a model airplane or fixing a car.

FACTS ABOUT FATIGUE

Many Americans complain about constantly feeling tired. Fatigue can develop from the simple problem of not getting enough nightly sleep to medical conditions like depression, anemia, or a sinus infection. If constant fatigue is wearing you down, consider some possible causes. Are you recovering from a cold? Going through menopause? Is the fatigue something new or has it become part of your daily life?

Examining your lifestyle and noting any symptoms that may be accompanying the fatigue may lead to relief. A medical condition like an underactive thyroid can be managed with medication, as can most other conditions. If you suspect a medical reason for your fatigue, see your doctor. Otherwise, consider some lifestyle changes to get sufficient sleep.

Cataracts
Cataracts are a gradual hardening and clouding of the lens of the eye. The condition is associated with aging and lifetime exposure to the sun. Wear sunglasses to protect your eyes. Eating fruits and vegetables rich in carotenoids such as lutein seems to help reduce your risk. These include dark leafy vegetables, corn, kiwi, red grapes, zucchini, pumpkin, yellow squash and peas. Smoking is a risk factor in developing cataracts. Treatment involves surgery that is safe and 98% effective in improving vision. Get regular eye exams especially as you age.

The 95 youth that make up the musical group 'SPOUDAZO' will be presenting an original musical at Our Savior Lutheran Church on Saturday and Sunday, July 19 and 20. The group is made up of youth from Fremont and the surrounding area.

Musical group coming to Wayne

Uplifting! Energizing! Encouraging! That's SPOUDAZO and they are coming to Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne on Saturday and Sunday, July 19-20. SPOUDAZO will be presenting an original musical about the journey of faith called "Talk About It" at the worship service on Saturday, July 19 at 6 p.m. Through song and drama, the musical helps one see the different ways that God is working in our world and in our life. "Talk About It" features contemporary Christian music made popular by such artists as Nicole C. Mullen, FFH, Avalon and others. Powerful dramas support the message in song, encouraging us to "Talk About It," as a witness to God's love poured out for all of us.

SPOUDAZO, a group of 95 wonderful teens are excited about sharing their faith through a meaningful music and drama ministry, will also prove selected songs and dramas during the worship services on Sunday, July 20 at 8 and 10:30 a.m. The songs and drama are presented in such a way to be appreciated by young and old alike. This is SPOUDAZO's 11th year of music and drama ministry, which God has blessed beyond measure. This ministry is sponsored by First Lutheran Church in Fremont and is ecumenical in nature, drawing young people from 15 churches in the Fremont area.

The 95 performing youth of SPOUDAZO are accompanied by a group of 11 college leaders and nine adult leaders. They have been rehearsing since the end of May, devoting their time on Friday nights to intense rehearsals, as well as large group and small fellowship and Bible study. The tours of years past have taken SPOUDAZO's ministry from Denver to Chicago and from Duluth to San Antonio. The group leaves Fremont on July 15 for the cities of Sturgis, Spearfish, Rapid City and Platte, S.D. Their last tour destination will be at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne on July 19 and 20. They will return to Fremont following the morning worship services on July 20 and present two home concerts at First Lutheran Church in Fremont at 5 and 7:30 p.m.

Guest Day held at Our Savior Lutheran Church on July 9

Approximately 95 guests from area churches attended Guest Day at Our Savior Lutheran Church on July 9.

Prior to the program, brunch was served in the Social Room by ladies of the Christian Action Service Group with Julie Grone and Marilyn Carhart in charge.

President Phyllis Rahn welcomed the ladies and opened with a brief devotion. Members of the Executive Board of Our Savior Women of the ELCA were introduced. One decoration at each table was presented to one lady present who had a dove on the bottom of her plate.

The group then went to the sanctuary of the church where they enjoyed a musical program entitled "Inside Out" presented by Sherie Lundahl, Director of Music at the church and Carolyn Harder of the choir. The beautiful music and readings were given by these ladies and group participation in singing "Just As I Am" and "The Morning Cry" was in honor of all Christian Women, knowing God is with us throughout our lives.

The next Executive Board meeting will hold Monday, Aug. 11 at 3:15 p.m. Circles will not meet in the month of August.

The next Circle meeting will be a joint meeting at 9:15 a.m. at the church when Amy Topp, Extension Educator for 4-H and Youth will present the program. Hostesses will be Elaine Draghu and Dorothy Grone.

Carroll American Legion Auxiliary gathers

The Carroll American Legion Auxiliary met June 25 in the Fire Hall with 13 members and one guest present.

The group sang the "Star Spangled Banner," recited the Purpose and observed the silent prayer.

Joyce Harmeier served as chaplain. Roll call was answered and minutes read. A correction was made to note Mary Ellen Claussen was the pianist for the Memorial Day service in lieu of Jo Ann Stoltenberg.

President Jo Ann Owens gave a reading on the poppy and facts on folding the flag.

Judith Schopke of Emerson, District 3 President, talked to the group. She showed a crocheted eagle afghan in flag colors which will be raffled by District 3. Proceeds will be used to buy the needed wheel chairs for the Norfolk Veterans Annex.

Special honors were presented to long-time members. Mrs. Schopke presented mementos to those continuously belonging to Ivin Lyons #165 Auxiliary. Those honored for 50 years or more with an emblem letter opener were Patricia Roberts, Betty Morris, Elda Jones, Marjorie Nelson, Ruth Paulsen

Agriculture

Be sure to enjoy life's simple pleasures

I need to finish mowing this evening, but the thermometer is still hovering around the 90 degree mark, and I'm putting it off as long as I can. The showers they talked about have all gone to the east - again. Cass County is really looking dry; nothing like you folks in northeast Nebraska. You must live right!

The bird deposits continue to be purple: first, it was mulberries; now chokecherries. I actually had some of the former for lunch a couple of weeks ago, with sugar and cream. Going west of here, to a former railroad track, I managed to pick a few. It brought back memories of long, hot summer afternoons when my Mom, my brother, and I would head to the shelterbelt with an old sheet and a long stick.

The trees in that half mile row had been planted by the CCC during Roosevelt's time. The outside row was all mulberry. We canned, froze, and made wine; after we washed them and picked the twigs and bugs out.

The other thing I've been hungry for all spring was rhubarb; and not one soul offered me any. I couldn't believe it. Finally, someone Kay works with brought some to the office, and that dear girl brought over a dessert fresh from the oven the other evening. Heavenly!

We had to call on Kay and all the Bainters on Saturday to cut up tree branches and rake up twigs from last Saturday's wind-storm. Those darned elm trees. I can remember my Mom complaining about them because they always wanted to grow in her garden. They do provide shade, but they aren't very strong, and their branches come down easily.

When I retired, my co-workers gave me a complete set of "The Mitford books." Mitford is a village in North Carolina, populated by a great bunch of small-town characters. Jan Karon, who lives in Blowing Rock, NC, has chosen an Episcopal priest as her hero and the theology is right on. I've just finished, for the second time, "In This Mountain," the one that came out last year. And I'm eagerly waiting for "Shepherds Abiding," which is due out this fall, with all the anticipation of the Harry Potter fans. If you haven't discovered the joys of Mitford yet, I highly encourage it.

I've also enjoyed Willow Tree angels. They are designed by Susan Lordi of Kansas City, and are very simple, faceless angels with wire wings in graceful poses. There is one in prayer, one for love, one for patience, etc. etc. Now I even found, in a hospital gift shop, note cards in their designs. I don't get enthusiastic about very many things you can buy, but I am about these. Have you seen them? And, the best part, they aren't expensive. They make great gifts.

So, read the Mitford books, check out Willow Tree angels, have a bowl of mulberries, and a piece of rhubarb dessert. Some of life's simple pleasures. Now, I have to get out there and finish mow-

High technology benefits agriculture

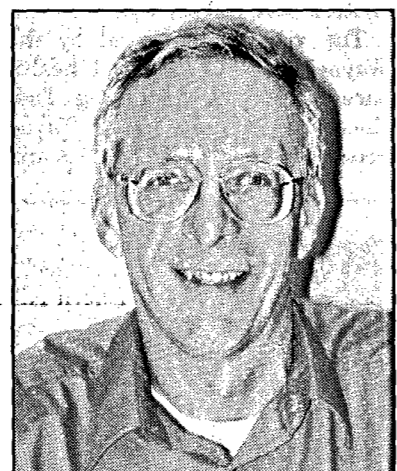

Recent and past demonstrations from various earth friendly groups against the use of genetically modified organisms, (GMO's) bring into question the benefits of such technology in agriculture.

The often forgotten aspect of food production is that plants and animals have been modified for centuries to improve food production and quality. The only thing that has changed is the method in bringing about those changes.

Traditionally, manual pollination of flowers for genetic variations were used as the primary improvement in crop yield and quality. Proper animal selection and breeding allowed greater meat production along with better quality.

Science allowed modification of organisms through short-step methods of gene manipulation in laboratories there by reducing the time element in bringing about changes. Not understanding how these advances actually benefit consumers or how the technology actually works, has created some concern about food safety. But the real advance is that food is safer, more available and higher in nutrition than ever before. Advances in agriculture include new chemistry in pesticides that reduce the amount applied, a shortening of the life of chemicals in the environment and making the chemical more specific on what it controls.

Biological advances in finding new insect predators to control crop pests, chemicals to cause insect diseases, or weed diseases and use of integrated pest management (IPM) for control timing to be more effective in harmful organism controls.

Plants that are able to protect themselves from insects or herbicides is a natural process; technology has allowed the changes to take place at a much faster rate.

Future changes in agriculture will benefit the consumer through more nutrition food and a wider variety of product selections.

Scouting can prevent severe leafhopper damage to fields

Nebraska farmers should be scouting their fields now for growth-stunting leafhoppers, a University of Nebraska specialist said.

Potato leafhoppers already have moved into the state and have damaged some fields, said Bruce Anderson, NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources forage specialist.

Leafhoppers, tiny, yellowish-green, wedge-shaped insects, move into the Midwest from the southeast in early to mid summer. The insects turn alfalfa yellow, stunt growth and are especially damaging to new seedlings, he said. "Start checking fields now for leafhoppers before symptoms appear," Anderson said. "If detected early, insecticides can kill them easily."

Symptoms include a triangular or v-shaped purple area at the tip of alfalfa leaves. The discoloration is caused by a toxin the leafhopper injects into the plant as it sucks out the plant juices. As feeding continues, the entire plant may turn yellow and growth may stop.

While spraying early after signs of leafhoppers appear is effective, additional treatments may be necessary since leafhoppers can migrate from other fields and re-infest sprayed fields, he said.

Alfalfa fields that are already yellow and stunted should not be sprayed, but mowed to remove damaged plant tissue and stimulate new growth.

Fields that aren't mowed might not grow the rest of the year, lowering yield and possibly leading to plant loss over the winter, he said.

After mowing, scout new regrowth closely every week for leafhoppers. If they reappear, apply insecticide quickly before much damage occurs. Do not apply insecticides if leafhoppers are not present. It will not prevent new leafhoppers from invading and could kill beneficial insects instead.

For more information about the treatment of potato leafhoppers, consult NU Cooperative Extension NebGuide G93-1136-A, Potato Leafhopper Management, in Alfalfa, available at local extension offices and on the Web at <http://www.ianr.unl.edu/pubs/insect/g1136.htm>.

Megan F. Mapes has entered basic cadet training at the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo., in preparation to enter the first academic year at the academy.

The six-week, two-phased orientation program trains men and women to meet the rigorous mental and physical challenges of a cadet.

Phase one involves personal in-processing, orientation, and training in the fundamentals of being a cadet.

Cadet trainees are prepared to adjust from civilian to military life, and learn proper wear of the uniform, drill and ceremony, marching, and living quarters standards.

The club will meet again in July before the tour. Samantha Dunklau, News reporter

During phase two, cadets train outdoors living in tents while learning to function in field conditions. Team work, cohesion and learning to deal with physically and mentally demanding situations are practiced.

Trainees complete the obstacle, confidence, assault, and leadership reaction courses, and participate in a rescue mission termed Operation Warrior.

Mapes is the daughter of Matt and Donna Mapes of Hoskins, Neb. In 2003, she graduated from Norfolk Senior High School, Norfolk, Neb.

Lions Club to sponsor screening at upcoming Wayne County Fair

The Nebraska Lions Foundation and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Nebraska Mobile Screening Unit will offer free screenings for glaucoma, visual acuity, diabetes, hypertension and hearing problems in Wayne at the Wayne County Fair Thursday, July 24 and Friday, July 25.

The unit will be set up at the fairgrounds between 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. and is available for individuals 19 years and older. Individuals under 19 can be screened with written parental consent.

The visit is sponsored by the Wayne Lions Club. Local health care personnel, including Drs. Koeber and Magnuson and Wayne area nurses, plus Lions Club members will assist with the screenings, which include:

- detecting glaucoma by measuring the pressure within the eyeball with a computerized puff tonometer;
- monitoring hearing loss by measuring the intensity of pitches that an individual hears in a sound reduced booth;
- using a 'finger stick' blood sugar test to check glucose levels, which is among the most up-to-date, safest monitoring devices available.

Although a screening by the Lions Club and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Nebraska Mobile Screening Unit does not provide a complete examination, it can serve as an early alert in detecting conditions which require individuals to visit their physician for treatment of these illnesses.

This year (2003) marks the 14th year of partnership between Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Nebraska, an independent licensee of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Association, and the Nebraska Lions Foundation to offer free health screenings to Nebraskans.

our youth is more important than ever before in America's history.
