Revitalization efforts rewarded

Rehabilitated historic buildings on four main streets across the state and a new building with historic lines in a fifth community drew top honors at the annual Awards of Excellence program for the Nebraska Lied Main Street Programs held last week in Scottsbluff.

Among the awards presented was that to the Main Street Wayne's Shuttle, which runs between the Wayne State College campus and downtown Wayne. The Shuttle received the Award of Excellence for best downtown image campaign/ promotional marketing piece. The conversion of a former airport shuttle bus into a vehicle to transport students and townspeople to campus was a joint project of the Main Street program, the city, the college and the Chamber of Commerce.

Other local winners at the annual conference included:

Merchant of the Year, Cap and Nana Peterson (The Coffee Shop on Main).

Volunteer of the Year, Amy Schweers of Wayne.

Most Creative Fund Raising Campaign - Honored Recognition,

Henoween Cement Chicken Auction.

Best Special Event - Honored Recognition, Christmas on the Main.

Best Adaptive Reuse of a Historic Building - Honored Recognition Pediatric Choice of Wayne.

"Local Main Street programs do a lot of things each year in the areas of economic vitality, promotion and organization, but it always seems to be the designs, the building renovations and landscape changes that are the crowd favorites," said J. L. Schmidt, director of the nine year old program.

The 18 communities participating in the Nebraska Lied Main Street Program include Alliance, Burwell, Fremont, Geneva, Gothenburg, Grand Island, Hastings, Kimball, Lexington, Neligh, North Platte, Ogallala, Ord, Plattsmouth, Sidney, Wayne and Wisner.

Main Street is dedicated to providing Nebraska communities with the opportunity to strengthen local pride and revitalize historic downtown districts utilizing the National Main Street Center's Four Point Approach. Program

Group learns about ethanol production

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

From corn to 200 proof alcohol, a group of people from Wayne learned about ethanol production during a tour to Husker Ag near Osmond last week.

The tour, which was sponsored by the Agri-business Council of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce, included a walk-through of the facility and a time for questions from the audience.

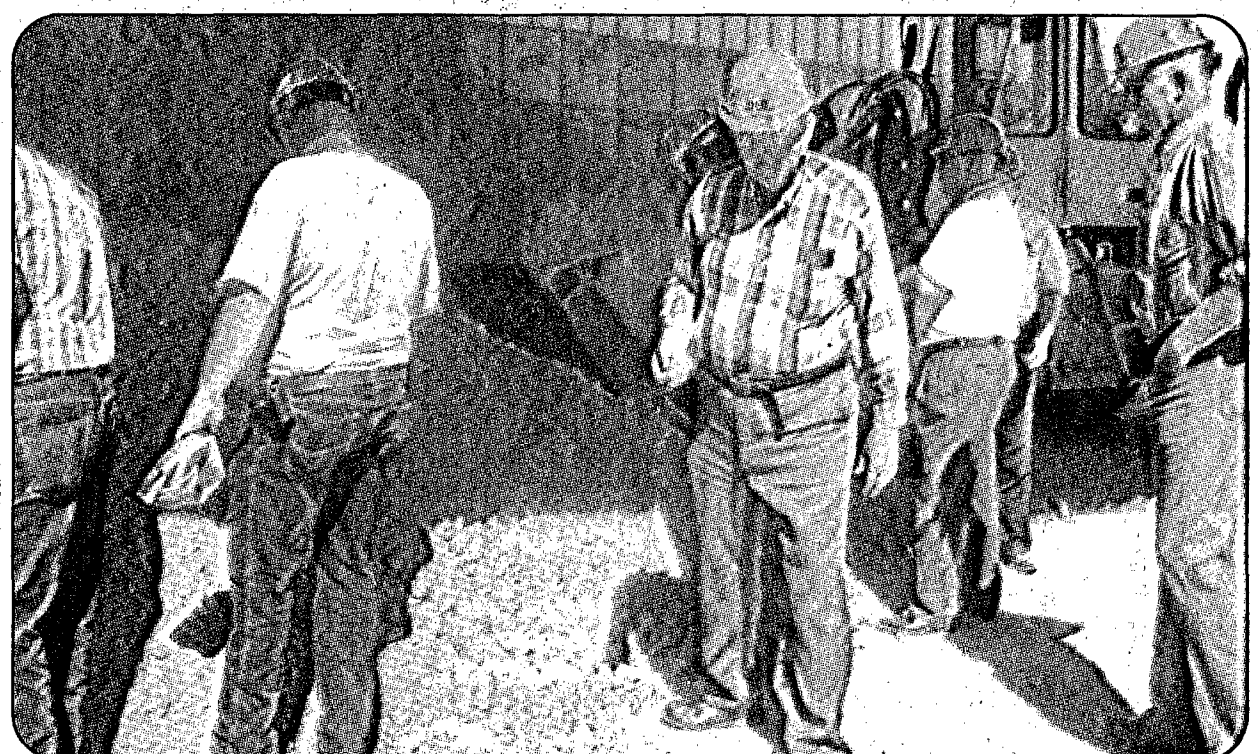

Doug Riesdorfer, plant manager of Husker Ag, told the group that at the present time, the cost of producing one gallon of ethanol is $1.20 cents, which includes the cost of unleaded gasoline.

"The cost of unleaded gas and ethanol is less than the cost of unleaded gasoline. However, our industry has not done a good job of educating consumers. Consumers need to ask retailers for ethanol in the pumps," Riesdorfer said.

Each bushel of corn that comes into Husker Ag can be turned into 2.8 gallons of ethanol. At the present time, the facility uses 24,000 bushels of corn each day.

"This corn comes from local producers. We use high quality, locally grown corn that comes to us at less than 16 percent moisture," Riesdorfer said.

Several members of the Wayne group touring Husker Ag examine the by-product of the ethanol making process during Friday's tour of the facility.

The driver of this semi-trailer escaped injury in a accident early Thursday morning.

Accident investigated

At about 4 a.m. on Sept. 11, a cattle truck carrying about 45 head of cattle went off the road about 6.25 miles south of Wayne on Highway 35.

The truck went onto its side and into a grove of trees missing the Art Bruns house by about fifty feet.

The driver of the truck was uninjured. He stated that he fell asleep at the wheel and went off the east edge of the highway.

The truck was driven by 28 year old Jason Tschetter of Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Lloyd Bultsma, also of Sioux Falls, owns the truck. Several area farmers aided in the roundup of the surviving cattle. About six head died in the crash. The cattle weighed about 1500 lbs. each. Highway 15 was blocked for approximately two and one-half hours. It was reduced to one-way traffic and caused some delays for up to forty minutes.

The accident is being investigated by the Wayne County Sheriff's Office. No charges are being considered at this time.

Program allows students to explore health sciences

Eighteen high school students gained a better understanding of the opportunities in the health sciences by recently participating in the Summer Health Professions Career Workshop at the University of Nebraska Medical Center.

Among those attending were Natalie Fendrick, a student at Wayne High School and Jonathan Brandow, a student at Laurel-Concord Public Schools.

At the end of the workshop, the students must research a health science/health career-related topic, write a short paper and present their findings to the group. "This activity helps them self-reflect on what they learned, discover what areas of health sciences/health careers that they might be interested in and hopefully assist them in planning for their futures," Jewell said.

Wayne High School Emporium open for business

The Entrepreneurship class at Wayne High School will again be sponsoring a small school store called the Emporium.

The Emporium sells apparel, school supplies and snacks at the beginning of each period.

"The food that we supply is not only delicious but unique. We provide snacks not found in the vending machines," said Jacob Kay.

The class will also be taking orders for polo shirts, t-shirts, crewneck sweatshirts, hooded sweatshirt, shorts, pants, and wind suits containing the new Wayne logo.

Members of the class learn to write a business plan, develop marketing techniques and how to manage a small business through this experience.

"Running the school store will help me out in the future if I decide to open my own business," said Heath Dicks.

"We appreciate all who help in supporting this venture," said Annette Rasmussen, instructor of the class.

Natalie Fendrick

"We always look forward to spending time with the Summer Health Professions Career Workshop students," said Lisa Jewell of the UNMC Youth Learning Center and director of the program. "These students are 'top notch' and come to Omaha ready to learn and ask questions."

The program provides students with an opportunity to learn and see things that might not be available to them in their hometown hospitals, Jewell said. Some of the highlights from this year's program included a tour of The Lied Transplant Center, visiting the College of Dentistry in Lincoln, engaging in a general discussion about medical school, touring the Gross Anatomy Lab and watching a demonstration of the DaVinci robot.

The 18 high school juniors and seniors competed for available slots by submitting an application and essay. Participants are chosen from criteria including an interest in health sciences/health careers, personal experiences, grade point average and extra curricular activities.

Green Thumb Award

The staff at the State National Bank Drive-In was awarded this year's Green Thumb Award Blue Ribbon by the Wayne Greenhouse. A number of businesses participated in the program in which each purchased a large pot of flowers and then cared for the plants throughout the summer. A panel of judges then visited each of the participating businesses and chose a winner. Involved in the presentation were, left to right, Lou Wiltse of the Wayne Greenhouse and Kristy Otte, Heidi Keil and Rebecca Siebrandt of the State National Drive-In. (Editor's Note - It was incorrectly reported in last week's Herald that the winner of the award was First National Bank Drive-In. The Herald apologizes for the error.)

Low milk prices challenge Nebraska dairy industry

Low milk prices add to a challenging industry climate for Nebraska dairy farmers as more producers leave the business and processing plants close their doors, a University of Nebraska dairy specialist said.

"The biggest issue right now is the price of milk," said Jeff Keown, dairy specialist in NU's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

"It's not where it was a couple years ago, and I think a lot of people are probably going to go out of business."

Even larger producers are having difficulties, and many smaller producers are looking at leaving the industry, he said.

Inadequate milk supplies have resulted in cheese plants closing at Dodge and Hartington, Keown said.

Environmental concerns and state laws also deter out-of-state dairy farmers from exploring opportunities in Nebraska, Keown said. Younger potential producers also aren't willing to adapt to the demanding lifestyle.

"If you don't have any hired workers, you're tied down to milking twice a day for years and years," he said. "A lot of people aren't willing to do that anymore. There's a whole new generation going in that wants to take vacations and wants to have a home and family life."

Declining dairy numbers in Nebraska also could be influenced by competition from Kansas, a state with similar feed resources but a different regulatory climate toward expansion, Keown said. Kansas has 93,000 dairy cows after a 17,000-cow increase from 1999 to 2002, he said. During the same period, Nebraska lost 4,000 cows, and now has about 72,000 dairy cows, he said.

In an effort to reduce production and boost prices, the national Cooperatives Working Together program is encouraging dairy farmers to voluntarily retire herds, reduce production and increase cheese and butterfat exports.

Operated by the National Milk Producers Federation, the program is open to all cooperatives and independent dairy farmers. Its goal is to balance supply and demand by reducing national milk supplies by 0.7 percent or 1.2 billion pounds this year, he said.

The program has received 2,400 bids nationwide to either completely retire herds or reduce production levels, Keown said.

"They're hoping to increase milk prices by about 23 cents a hundredweight," he said.

However, prices for Class 3 milk, which is used for cheese and yogurt production, are about $13.25 per 100 pounds, a significant drop from about $15 per 100 pounds five years ago, but up from an $11 low this year. Prices are gradually rebounding, but are projected to decline substantially starting early next year if the buyout program doesn't come up with the minimum 1.2 billion pounds, he said.

Will miss everyone

Dear Editor,
I am taking this opportunity to tell Wayne America what wonderful people there are in your community. I am taking a step outside of my safety bubble and leaving Wayne to live and work in Omaha, Nebraska.
For the past four and a half years I've worked for Randy Pedersen at The Diamond Center, Flowers & Wine. It is a tough transition for me because I don't want to leave the people and the community that have become a second family and home to me.
I've learned many things during my time here. I've learned that like the business I've had the pleasure of working at, the businesses in the community are made up of honest, hard working, wonderful people. You couldn't find better people anywhere else in the world. The people of Wayne are extremely lucky to have such great people right downtown and all over the community.
To everyone in Wayne, thank you for your support during my time here. I will miss seeing all of your familiar faces. Thank you and God Bless you all.

Rochelle Kai (Rocci)

First Aid and CPR are important

Dear Editor,
First Aid and CPR are among those skills most of us hope we never need to utilize. However, what if the "victim" requiring such intervention were your own neighbor, spouse, or child? Consider how long those few minutes between a 911 call and ambulance would seem if all you could do was stand over the lifeless body of SOMEONE YOU LOVE and wait.

My name is Lu Carter and I am a new First Aid/CPR/AED instructor with the Wayne County American Red Cross. As a registered nurse with over 20 years of experience in the area hospitals, the last 10 years of my professional career found me in Intensive Care and Emergency Room. Consequently, I know something about CPR. I have seen firsthand how crucial the care a victim receives in the first few minutes following injury, sudden illness, and cardiac arrest really is. Minutes really do count.
In my career, I saw defibrillators (which were once only available in hospitals) grow more and more accessible. Automated External Defibrillators are now available in ambulances, schools, malls, community buildings, and airports throughout the county including several places in Wayne.
Such a growth in accessibility has occurred because most victims of sudden cardiac arrest require defibrillation; each minute it is delayed decreases their hope of survival by about 10 percent.
I'll say it again. Minutes really do count. But defibrillators are only helpful in malls, and airports and community buildings if someone is trained how to use them.
As I teach CPR classes, I hear the sentiment expressed again and again: "I hope I never have to use this." There is nothing wrong with feeling that way. We ALL hope we never have to use it. However, if we find ourselves in a situation where sure skills would be beneficial — be it a choking grandchild at your dining room table, a collapsed friend in a Sunday School class or a pedestrian hit by a car on Main Street — I have seen firsthand that people feel better about themselves when they know how to respond and use their hands to HELP the victim rather than stand by and HELP-LESSLY wring their hands.
We recently received a promotional poster at the Red Cross which read: CPR is a family thing. I would encourage everyone to learn these basic skills. You could someday save the life of someone very dear to you.

What would James Thurber do?

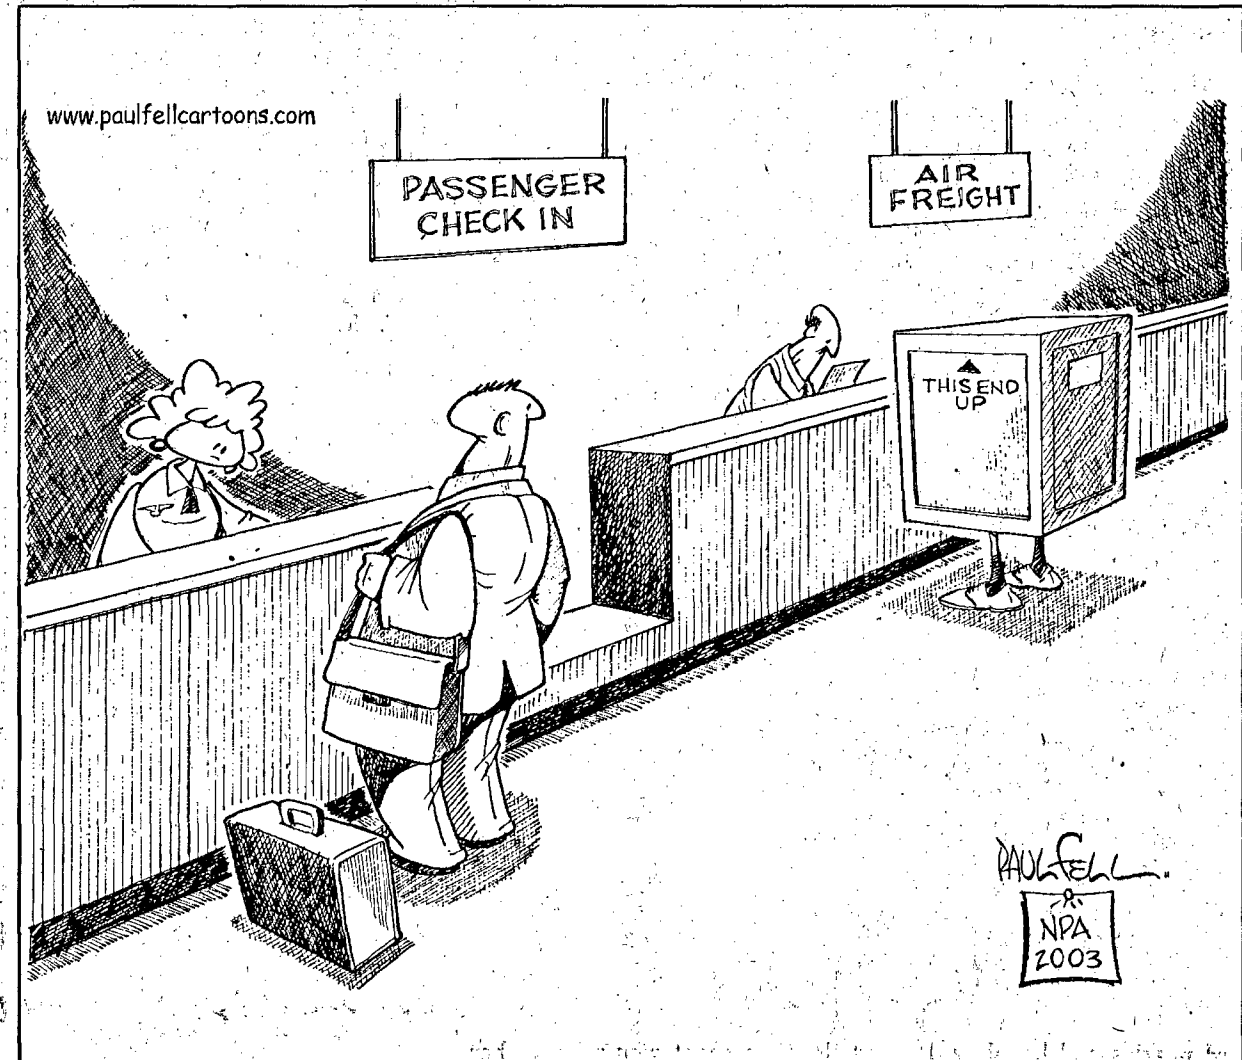

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

America needs another James Thurber.
Thurber, rest his nerdish soul, was humorist/philosopher/writer/cartoonist who understood the combination of frustration, tragedy and comedy reflected in our everyday lives.
Not only did Thurber understand them, he could bring them to life in stories and drawings that helped the rest of us understand them.
Thurber was the father of Walter Mitty. Remember him? Mitty was the guy who used to strike out the Yankees in his dreams. Why, in his dreams, Walter Mitty could even win a skirmish or two in the battle of the sexes. Thurber understood our inherent concern about things that go bump in the night.
It was good old JT who said: "There is no safety in numbers, or anything else!" Decades before the saying was coined and put into our vernacular, Thurber could describe one of life's frustrations and make you feel the essence of: "I hate it when that happens!"
Thurber seemed to look into our collective soul with a gift that let him see and describe our foibles.
Look, for example, at the tangled hangers we call security procedures that surround a trip on an airplane. They have ranged from the practical to the preposterous. The fact is that we have surrendered a great deal of our time and freedom in order to make it marginally more difficult for bad guys to blow us up when we're high in the sky.
It is easy to imagine that Thurber would early on have taken pen in hand and made humorous hay of the dizzying juxtapositions that result. To wit: Tens of thousands of people waiting in line to have their undies unpacked and searched by strangers. Meanwhile, one lonely soul with a modicum of education puts himself into a box and successfully air-mails himself, unchecked, to his mother on a far coast. The worst that gut-boiling bureaucracy and high technology have to offer - thwarted by a disproportionately ordinary fellow who saw a tree while everyone else was tip-toeing through the forest, humming: "Lions and tiger and bears, oh my!"

It's the quintessential reflection of our society's frustrations. We handcuff ourselves in hopes of enhancing our safety, then stand by with our mouths open as one Houdini after another shows us that the ties that bind really don't - at least, not all the time.
Of course, if a Thurberesque sort did that kind of comedy today there would be results other than wry smiles among the audience. Some of his contemporaries would condemn him on TV and radio talk shows for having possibly given ideas to the enemy. And you can bet your own homeland security that he would have been the subject of a new file in some federal office, and maybe a visit from the guys who work there, too.

Thurber's humor was a part of his everyday life.
The story is that he once was asked: "How did you get the notion that there is no safety in numbers?"
Thurber replied: "I interviewed one lemming ... and a lot of sheep."

New Beginnings

By Bill Trick
Executive director, Wayne Chamber of Commerce
As mentioned in my last article, the Board of Directors will be conducting their annual planning retreat on October 23rd. It is at this meeting that the major goals and strategies for 2004 will be discussed and decided. Newly elected directors traditionally participate in this very important activity even they do not officially assume office until January.
New board members recently elected for three-year terms by the membership are Kaye Morris (The Oaks Retirement Center), Joe Reinert (Wayne Community Schools), and Dan Rose (Tom's Body and Paint Shop).
In preparation for this retreat, we will be conducting a membership survey to get broad input to the planning process. As a community service, Delta Sigma Pi, student/business fraternity at Wayne State College, will be conducting personal, confidential, 15-minute max interviews with business leaders over the next few weeks. We trust the membership will be generous with 15 minutes of their time to let the Delta Sigma Pi members complete their survey forms and compile a summary report to the chamber. So, be on the alert when they call for an appointment.

Internships opportunities await those who seek additional responsibility and experience while helping the chamber meet its many and varied responsibilities to our membership and the community. The scope and intensity of each chamber internship will vary primarily with the age, maturity, experience, and interests of the intern.

For example, one intern just started with our office this week who is completing her final semester at Wayne State College in the school of business majoring in marketing and advertising. She has previously worked in very important jobs with other businesses and a hospital and will be getting academic credit as she completes various assignments with the chamber in her areas of interest. We expect that she will contribute very well with writing articles and securing paid advertising for our new newsletter plus helping coordinate special projects just to mention a few assignments.
Internships are "packaged" to meet the intern's needs as well as those of the chamber. Future employers look very highly upon internship experience with chambers of commerce, and it is an outstanding opportunity for individuals to get high visibility throughout the community as they grow professionally while establishing their own style and success track. Albert Schweitzer wrote, "Every man (or woman) has to seek in his own way to make his own self more noble and to realize his own true worth." We can help with that. Anyone interested should contact the chamber at 375-2240.

The community-wide Chicken Show Committee had its first meeting at the chamber office on the 5th to begin planning for 2004. I think everyone knows that the theme for the 24th annual event is "Lewis & Cluck" but that is about all that has been decided. We hope to continue injecting more music into the festivities, and several other ideas (some new) are being considered.
It's not inappropriate for us to spend a little time developing ideas for the quarter century Chicken Show in 2005 because that year's festivities should be really special. So, for those of you out there, perhaps some of original "cast" who pioneered this marvelous event, feel free to let us know what you would like to see and would like to help with in 2005.
Until next time, remember, if there is anything that the chamber or Wayne Industries can do for you, please call us.

Keep your November Utility bill
Why? If you are a City of Wayne Utility Customer, your November utility bill is your ticket during the next 12 months for two free dumps of a pickup size or less of furniture, appliances, scrap iron, tires, batteries, old lumber (but not construction waste or shingles) at the Transfer Station.

Looking Ahead in Wayne...
By: Lowell Johnson, City Administrator

- Save these rules:
1. Bring your original November utility bill for proof of who you are and that you are eligible.
 2. Sort the load so that like materials are together for ease of unloading.
 3. Come during regular transfer station hours.
 4. No shingles or construction waste or regular household garbage.
- At this time we are planning to eliminate the one day community clean-up event during the next year in favor of this method.

Utility Bill comparisons
We received a request for comparisons between Wayne utility bills and those of other communities.

The reason that some communities have different summer and winter electric rates is because NPPD, our wholesale power supplier, has much higher cost of power in the summer because higher usage for air conditioners and irrigation force them to use higher cost part-time generating plants and because NPPD has to build permanent power plants and power lines to have the needed power on the hottest day of the year.
NPPD records the usage of each city and rural district on that hottest day and passes on the extra costs to us according to how much we used on that day. If we work hard to reduce air conditioning usage on those one or two hottest days, Wayne saves a lot of money.

The public is invited to see the "Seeds of Change" exhibit which commemorates the 500th anniversary of Columbus' first voyage by focusing on the exchange of plants, animals and peoples that resulted. Five key seeds — corn, potatoes, diseases, horses and sugar — form the core of this exhibition and underscore the significance of 500 years of interaction between the Old and New Worlds. The consequences of the European voyages of discovery have been sometimes beneficial, sometimes tragic and painful, often unforeseeable. In 1492, two ancient worlds came together to form the real New World — the world we live in today. We continue to plant seeds of change, but they take root more quickly now.

The challenge in 1492 was to conquer vast unknown worlds and to exploit their riches.

Today, our challenge is to manage and sustain the gifts of our one, increasingly small world.

The exhibit will be on display at the library throughout the month of September as part of the Wayne Public Library Centennial Year.

Ethanol

The facility has a storage capacity of 200,000 bushels of corn which is equal to an eight day supply. Additional corn is delivered on a regular basis.

The plant is currently above its anticipated capacity of producing 20 million gallons of ethanol per year.

During the tour, the group was able to walk through the facility and view the different stages of ethanol production, from the activating of yeast which is used in the fermentation project, to the loading of "modified," the by-product of the process.

Modified, also known as distiller's grain, is a popular cattle feed used by area producers.

"This excellent feed, which contains 31 percent protein, currently sells for $36 per ton. We produce 450 tons per day and there is a waiting list for the product," Riesdorfer said.

From start to finish, the process of producing ethanol takes 57-60 hours.

"We are trying to be very efficient in this process. We re-use water, heating and cooling the product with water that was used previously in the process," Riesdorfer said.

The facility maintains a rigorous cleaning schedule in an effort to minimize any chance of accident or problems with the production of the ethanol.

The Plainview plant has 31 full-time employees and two contracted employees. Of that number, only two came from outside the area when the plant opened. The remainder were hired from the local communities.

The plant is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Riesdorfer told those in attendance that a number of factors will determine the future of ethanol production, including the direction taken by California and states along the east coast in opening markets to ethanol.

He noted that approximately 50 percent of the government cars in the state of Nebraska are e-flexible, meaning that they are capable of running on ethanol blends from 10 to 85 percent.

"I would like to see the state push ethanol more. I believe it is good for everyone involved," he said.

A group from Wayne and the surrounding area toured Husker Ag ethanol production plant near Osmond on Friday. The tour was sponsored by the Agri-Business Council of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce.

Ice cream cone is 100 years old

The cake is usually the star of any birthday celebration, but this time it's the ice cream that takes center stage as the ice cream cone turns 100 years old on Sept. 22, 2003.

To celebrate, the Wayne Dairy Queen restaurant located at Seventh and Main Streets will give away free five ounce ice cream cones on Monday, Sept. 22. Dairy Queen employees also will be collecting donations for Children's Miracle Network (CMN). CMN is a non-profit organization dedicated to helping children by raising funds and awareness for 170 hospitals for children throughout North America. The free five ounce vanilla ice cream cones will be served at participating Dairy Queen restaurants nationwide.

"The ice cream cone, like Dairy Queen, is an American icon," said Jack Middendorf, operator of the tion. At the same time, this great occasion allows us to make a difference in the lives of so many by raising money for Children's Miracle Network."

As Dairy Queen kicks off a year long celebration of the 100th anniversary of the ice cream cone with free cone day, other events and promotions involving the famous "cone with the curl on top" are being planned throughout 2004.

While Sept. 22, 2003 is recognized as the official 100th birthday of the ice cream cone, the date is not without controversy.

Italo Marchiony, the legally credited inventor, immigrated to New York from Italy in the late 1800s. He began wrapping paper and make a crude form of the cone we know today. He later replaced paper with pastry and on Sept. 22, 1903 he applied for a patent for a cone shaped mold. On Dec. 15, 1903, it was granted under U.S. patent number 746971.

Although Marchiony is credited with the invention, a similar creation was introduced at the 1904 World's Fair in St. Louis. There, Ernest A. Hamwi, a Syrian concessionaire, provided an ice cream vendor, who ran out of dishes to serve ice cream in, with his wafer like waffle pastry called zalabis which were rolled up and filled with ice cream.

This marked the beginning of the evolution of what today has become the ice cream cone.

Strong second half lifts Allen football team over Wausa

The Allen football team scored on all five of their possessions in the second half, pulling away for a 48-20 win at Wausa Friday evening.

The 2-0 Eagles a stingy defense and the throwing of senior quarterback Corey Uldrich to dethrone the Vikings.

Uldrich completed 13 of 19 passes for 237 yards and five touchdowns in the win.

"The team earned this win by raising their intensity level to a much higher standard in the second half," said head coach Dave Uldrich. "Wausa worked really hard to shut down our running game, but the line did a super job in pass protection and Corey delivered the ball consistently on the money," added Uldrich.

Allen opened the scoring with 5:19 left in the first quarter on a 36-yard pass play from Uldrich to Aaron Smith, putting the Eagles up 6-0.

Following a Wausa score, Uldrich found Duane Rahn on a four-yard pass on the final play of the first quarter to give Allen a 14-6 lead following an Uldrich to Rahn two-point pass conversion.

The only score in the second quarter belonged to Wausa, sending the game to halftime tied at 14-14.

The Eagles opened the third quarter with two quick scores, an Uldrich one-yard run and a seven-yard pass from Uldrich to Rahn, to go up 28-14 at the 7:18 mark. Wausa would follow with a score to make it 28-20, but that's as close as the Vikings would get.

Uldrich connected with Rahn on a 47-yard strike to give Allen a 34-20 lead after three quarters and the Eagles would add two insurance scores in the fourth quarter, an Uldrich one yard run and a 13-yard pass from Uldrich to Scott Blohm, making the final score 48-20.

Allen accumulated 385 yards in total offense compared to Wausa's 218. The Eagles had 237 yards passing and 148 on the ground.

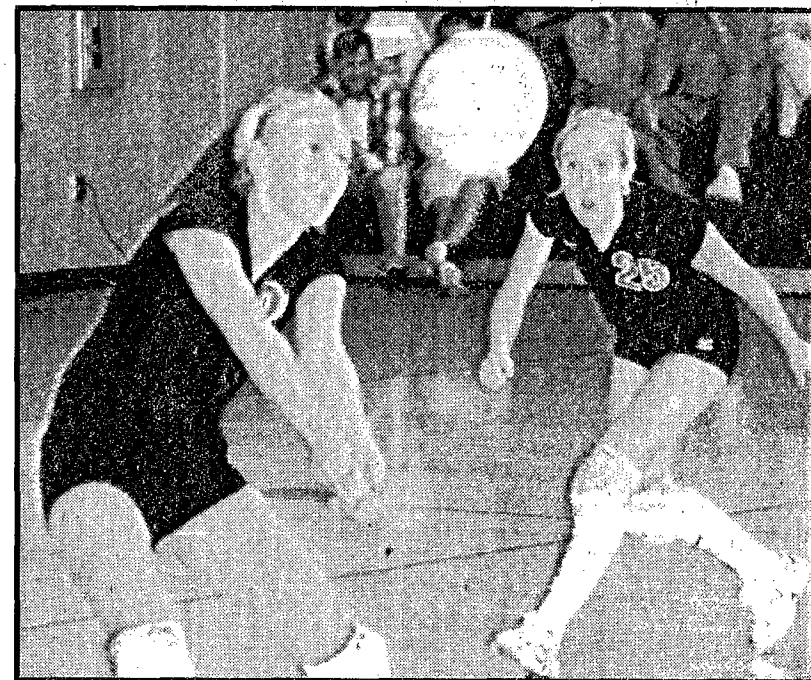

Smith led the Allen ground attack with 99 yards on 11 carries. He also caught one pass for a 36-yard touchdown. Uldrich followed with 47 yards rushing on 21 attempts and two scores.

Rahn led the Eagle receiving corps with five catches for 114 yards and three touchdowns. Blohm hauled in four receptions for 70 yards and a touchdown.

Blohm paced the Allen defense with 15 tackles, while Rahn and Andrew Sachau each added 12.

"This was a team victory where everyone contributed in a positive way," commented Uldrich. "We will keep working hard and staying focused, because Wynot will present a major challenge to us Friday night."

The Eagles host the Blue Devils with game time in Allen set for 7pm.

Keely Reinert followed with a 102, Amy Hypse posted a 103, Mary Boehle finished with 104 and Jenny Nolte had 125.

Hix said he was pleased with the team's effort on the greens, especially playing the course for the first time.

"As a team, this was the first meet that our putting average was under two putts per hole," Hix said. "Plus, we were able to see two of our district opponents (Blair and Elkhorn)."

Saturday, Wayne struggled on the greens at the Pierce Invitational, shooting a 410 to place sixth out of 16 teams. Norfolk Catholic won the team title with a 374, six shots better than Plainview. Wakefield was 14th with a 486 team score.

Boehle led Wayne with a 97 to finish 13th. Dorsey was one shot back at 98, Hypse finished at 102, Reinert shot 113 and Nolte had a 116.

"We lost a lot of strokes around the green," stated Hix. "At least 8-10 strokes per player. If we can get better on and around the greens, we will show a great deal of improvement."

Wakefield was led by Jessica Wageman's 110. Kelli Lueth fired a 116, Laura Salmon shot 126 and Erin Bird finished with 134.

Wayne was scheduled to play at the Pierce triangular today (Thursday) with Hartington Cedar Catholic, then travel to Albion Saturday for the Boone Central Invitational. The Blue Devils will also play at the South Sioux City Invitational on Monday.

Hill's 19 strikeouts in Schuyler win ties state record

Wayne softball team blanks Columbus Lakeview

It was a busy, productive and record-setting week for the Wayne girls softball team.

Wayne handed Columbus Lakeview its first loss of the season Tuesday evening at the Wayne Softball Complex, topping the Viqueens 8-0.

The Blue Devils erupted for seven runs in the second inning to take control of the game.

Molly Hill had two hits in the inning, including a two-run single. The other big hit in the inning was a run-scoring single by Danica Carroll. The three hits in the inning would be the only hits for Wayne in the game.

Hill earned the win in dominating fashion, tossing a one-hitter. She struck out 11 batters and walked three.

Columbus Lakeview won the JV game over Wayne 5-4. Kayla Hochstein had a double and single for Wayne. Samantha Denklaue and Jean Pieper added singles. Ashley Carroll was the losing pitcher. The Wayne JV team is now 2-2 on the season.

The record-setting part of the week happened Monday when Hill struck out 19 batters, a new Class C state record, in a 2-0 win over Schuyler.

The 19 strikeouts also ties the all-class record held by three other players.

Wayne struggled offensively, leaving numerous runners on base and managing just two hits in the game. Jessica Jammer and Pieper singled for the only hits.

The JV game saw Wayne blank Schuyler 10-0. Brooke Anderson had two singles and scored three runs for the Blue Devils. Danica Carroll added two singles with Jammer, Hochstein, Denklaue and Pieper adding one single each.

Ashley Carroll tossed the first three innings to earn the win with Danica Carroll working the final two innings.

Wayne played three games at the Schuyler Tournament on Saturday.

The Blue Devils shut out the David City JV team in the first game 9-0.

Hill pitched a perfect three inning game for Wayne, striking out all nine batters she faced.

Wayne had nine hits in the game, led by Pieper, Rachel Robins and Hochstein with two singles each. Danica Carroll produced a two-run double while Ashley Carroll and Dawn Jensen singled.

The next game saw Wayne top Lincoln Northeast 1-0. The only run of the game was scored in the first inning when Pieper crossed the plate on Hill's two-out single.

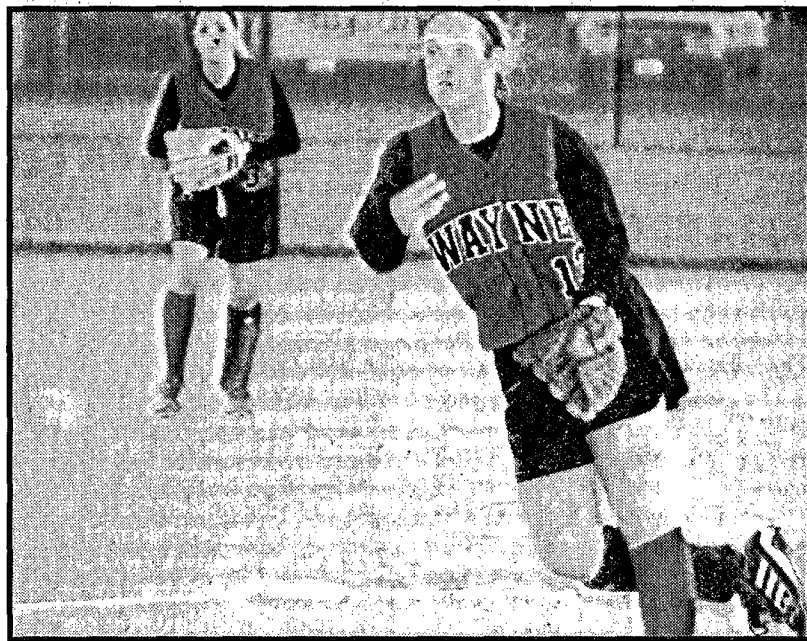

Hill pitched a no-hitter and had 15 strikeouts in the win.

Wayne had six hits in the contest, paced by Pieper's two singles. Jensen doubled with Hill, Jenny Raveling and Ashley Carroll each chipping in singles.

The final game saw Wayne pick up a 5-0 win over Seward. Hill was one out away from another no-hitter, but a two-out single in the seventh inning by the Bluejays spoiled the no-hit bid. Hill notched 16 strikeouts in the win without walking a batter.

Raveling led Wayne in hitting with three singles. Jensen added a two-run triple with Robins and Hochstein each adding a single.

With five wins in four days, the Wayne softball team is now 11-1 on the season. Wayne was scheduled to host Logan View today (Thursday) at 4:30pm, then play in the David City Invitational on Saturday. The Blue Devils will also travel to Boone Central Tuesday at 5pm.

Molly Hill of Wayne struck out 19 batters, a new Class C state record, in Monday's 2-0 win over Schuyler. The 19 strikeouts also ties the all-class record.

Wayne outfielder Jessica Jammer puts down a bunt during Tuesday's 8-0 win over previously unbeaten Columbus Lakeview at the Wayne Softball Complex.

Late touchdown spells defeat for Wayne

In most sports, one play can change the outcome of a game. That was the case in last Friday's football game at Cunningham Field between Wayne and North Bend.

Wayne led the entire game until one play, a recovered fumble by North Bend in the end zone, lifted the Tigers to a 7-6 win.

Defenses dominated the game as Wayne gained just 114 yards of total offense, but held North Bend to 108.

Late arriving fans would have missed Wayne's score as Matt Roerber returned the opening kickoff 90 yards to start the game, giving Wayne a 6-0 lead after the point after kick was missed.

Turnovers would hurt Wayne in the game, losing three fumbles and two interceptions.

Shortly after the opening kickoff return, Wayne moved the ball just inside the North Bend 20 yard line when a fumble stopped the drive.

Wayne also battled poor field position much of the night as All-State punter Jake Wesch of North Bend averaged 49.5 yards on four punts, all inside the Wayne 20, to keep Wayne in poor field position.

The poor field position played a factor in the fourth quarter when North Bend caused Wayne quarterback Nate Finkey to fumble inside the 15 yard line. The ball rolled into the end zone and was recovered with 5:41 left in the game to tie the score at 6-6. Wesch converted the extra point kick to put the Tigers up 7-6.

Wayne had eight first downs in the game to six for North Bend.

Dana Schuett was Wayne's top rusher with 27 yards on 12 carries. Josh Hartwell added 24 yards on six attempts, Finkey had 24 yards on nine carries and Todd Poehlman finished with 18 yards on six rushes.

Throwing the ball, Finkey completed 2 of 6 passes for 11 yards with two interceptions. Hartwell had one catch for six yards and Caleb Garvin made one reception for five yards.

Defensively, Wayne was led by Schuett with 18 tackles. Josh Ruwe followed with 12 and Poehlman had 11.

With the loss, Wayne fall to 0-2 on the season and will travel to West Point Friday evening for a 7 pm game.

Wayne freshman quarterback Nate Finkey looks for running room as two players from North Bend attempt to make the tackle.

Cornerback Wade Jarvi of Wayne makes a tackle on North Bend running back Mark Dorcey in Friday's game at Cunningham Field.

Wakefield stops Laurel-Concord 33-13

Wakefield dominated Laurel-Concord in area high school football Friday evening 33-13 in Wakefield. Both teams are now 1-1 on the season.

The Trojans held Laurel-Concord to just 39 yards through the first three quarters and used a balanced rushing attack (330 yards) to control the game.

"Our defense played really well," stated head coach Justin Smith. "We played with good field position and that helped."

Despite the statistical advantage, Wakefield trailed 7-0 after one quarter when Chance McCoy's 62-yard interception return put Laurel-Concord up early.

Wakefield scored twice in the second quarter to take a 14-7 lead at halftime. Aaron Klein found Kyle Gardner on a 12-yard touchdown pass and Klein scored on a six-yard run to account for the two scores.

"Our team showed some maturity and didn't get flustered early when they took the lead," added Smith. "They kept fighting and dominated the rest of the game."

In the third quarter, Luke Hoffman hit paydirt on a one-yard run and Klein threw an 18-yard touchdown strike to Taylor Peters, putting Wakefield up 27-7 after three quarters.

Reserves from both sides gained valuable experience in the fourth quarter with each team scoring a touchdown. Yancey Sherer scampered 24 yards for the Wakefield touchdown while backup quarterback Jeff Knudsen connected with Eric Nelson on a 21-yard pass for Laurel-Concord's score.

"I thought we had a couple of bad breaks that allowed Wakefield to get away from us," said Laurel-Concord head coach Mike Halley. "We need to continue to work hard on basic fundamentals and do things right and we will have a chance to win some games."

Wakefield gained 401 yards of total offense in the game to Laurel-Concord's 129.

Klein paced Wakefield's balanced rushing attack with 99 yards on 15 carries and one score. Cory Nicholson followed with 87 yards on 16 attempts, Sherer added 68 yards on 11 rushes and one score while Hoffman contributed 43 yards on 12 carries and one score.

Throwing the ball, Klein completed 5 of 7 passes for 71 yards and two scores. Gardner was the top receiver for the Trojans with two catches for 23 yards and one touchdown.

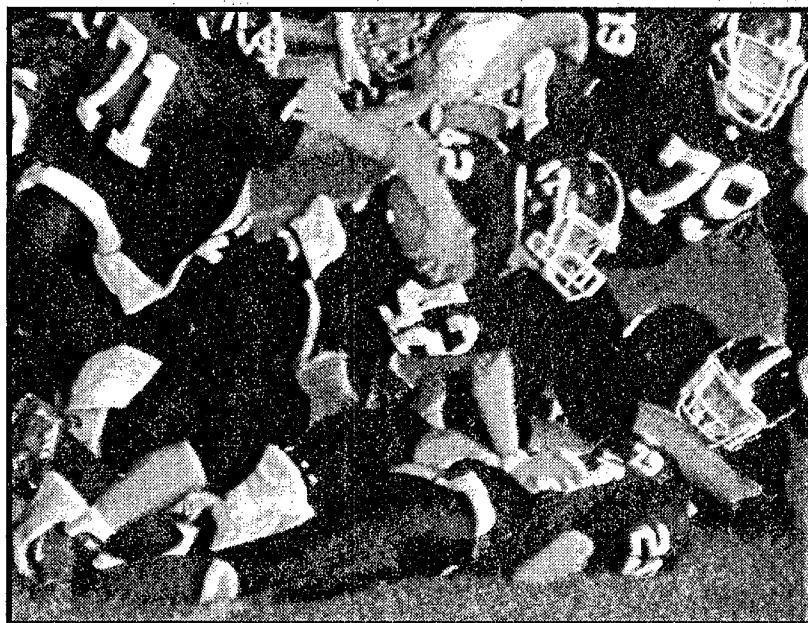

Hoffman notched nine tackles to lead the Wakefield defense. Ryan Otte followed with eight and Gardner ended with seven tackles.

Backup quarterback Skyler Curry led Laurel-Concord on offense, rushing for 19 yards on two carries and completing 3 of 6 passes for 40 yards. Eric Nelson was 3 of 13 passing for 26 yards and had two receptions for 40 yards and a touchdown. Jon Dickey added two catches for 34 yards and Chance McCoy had two receptions for five yards.

Jon Dickey had 16 tackles to lead the Laurel-Concord defense. Josh Hart followed with 15 and Brent Hoelsing contributed 12 tackles.

Laurel-Concord will host Emerson-Hubbard Friday evening at 7 pm while Wakefield travels to Ponca for a 7 pm contest.

Wakefield running back Luke Hoffman follows the lead blocks of Cory Nicholson (29 on ground) and Jared Miller (79) to score a touchdown against Laurel-Concord.

Spencer-Naper wins shootout over Winside

Spencer-Naper took advantage of several Winside turnovers and used big plays on special teams to hold off the Wildcats 48-34 in high school football Friday evening in Winside.

The visiting Pirates jumped out to a 14-0 lead just 38 seconds into the game, scoring on a 78-yard kickoff return to start the game and a Jeff Mimick 15-yard run.

But Winside fought back to tie the score at 14-14 midway through the second quarter. Junior quarterback Taylor Suehl unloaded scoring passes of nine yards to Adam Pfeiffer and 21 yards to Russ O'Connor to put the Wildcats back in the game. A late second quarter touchdown gave Spencer-Naper a 20-14 lead at halftime.

O'Connor's 10-yard touchdown run with 9:14 left in the third quarter tied the game at 20-20. But Spencer-Naper would score four of the next five touchdowns in the game to take a commanding 48-26 lead in the fourth quarter. Winside's score during that stretch would come on a Kass Holdorf two-yard run, pulling the Wildcats within 10 points, 36-26 with 8:29 left in the game. Nathan Wills hauled in a 15-yard scoring strike from Suehl with one second left in the game to make the final score 48-34.

"The kids fought back and tied the game after starting out down 14-0 in the first minute of the game," said head coach Marland Erbst. "I thought we played hard, but we had to many little mistakes to win."

Suehl completed 22 of 40 passes in the game for 275 yards and three touchdowns. Wills topped the Wildcats in receiving with seven receptions for 101 yards and one score. O'Connor was the top rusher with 53 yards on 17 carries.

Defensively, Bo Brummels notched 16 tackles to lead the Wildcats.

More than 1,000 cases of West Nile reported in Nebraska

The 1,000 mile marker has been passed for the number of West Nile virus cases in the state. The Nebraska Health Services System reports that there have been 1,254 cases of the virus based on results from the Nebraska Public Health Laboratory.

"Historically, the second year that the virus is in a state is the worst year for a number of human cases," said Richard Nelson, Director of the Department. "Due to several factors, the incidence drops dramatically in the third and subsequent years and we can expect that to occur in Nebraska."

The Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services Regulation and Licensure was officially notified this week that it will receive $300,000 in additional funding from the federal Department of Health and Human Services for laboratory testing, additional surveillance, and educational activities. The Department has also recently applied for an additional $500,000 in supplemental funding for the same purposes.

"This funding is welcome. Our budget for providing free testing at the Nebraska Public Health Lab has been exhausted by the unprecedented volume of tests," Nelson said. "We need the supplemental funding both to continue testing and to improve our surveillance systems."

West Nile is transmitted through the bite of a mosquito that has picked up the virus by feeding on an infected bird. Mosquitoes pass the virus to humans.

In addition to the cases reported by the Department of Health and Human Services Regulation and Licensure, there have been 141 positive blood donors reported by the American Red Cross and community blood banks.

There have also been 354 positive birds and 868 positive pools of mosquitoes found in the state. Birds and mosquitoes are important indicators of the virus' prevalence in the environment.

Most people who are affected by a mosquito have no symptoms or

Carroll Ladies Aid plans for future events

The Carroll Ladies Aid and LWML met Sept. 10 in the church social room. Pastor and Mrs. Kihne and six members attended.

The League Pledge was recited and mites were collected. The Bible Study, led by the Pastor, was "Just the Right Age" and questions asked included "are you willing to share your age?" Members were told, "Our Lord created us and chose us to be the age we are today."

The President called the meeting to order. Roll call and the minutes were read. The treasurer gave her report.

The Nebraska District North Retreat will be held at the St. Paul Lutheran Church at West Point on Saturday, Sept. 20 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Details were published in the Summer Leaguer.

The Carroll United Methodist Church is holding its annual Birthday Party on Wednesday, Sept. 24 at 2 p.m. and members of the Carroll Ladies Aid and LWML have been invited to attend.

only mild flu-like symptoms. Less than one out of 150 people who get bitten by an infected mosquito and become infected will get severely ill.

West Nile fever includes symptoms such as headache, fever, and muscle weakness. Symptoms of West Nile encephalitis/meningitis include inflammation of the brain, disorientation, convulsions, and paralysis. As with polio 50 years ago, there may be lingering paralysis.

To reduce the risk of exposure to West Nile, or "Fight the Bite."

*Avoid being outside during times that mosquitoes are most active - dusk and dawn.

*While outdoors, cover up by wearing long-sleeved shirts and pants, shoes, and socks, and use mosquito repellent.

*Eliminate mosquito breeding sites, such as standing water in tires, plastic containers, or similar water-holding containers.

The West Nile virus first appeared in New York City in 1999 and has expanded in all directions, affecting humans, horses, and birds.

Northeast approves 2003-04 budget

The Northeast Community College Board of Governors approved the 2003-04 budgets totaling $39,700,000 at its September 11th meeting.

The General Operating Fund and Capital Improvement Fund budgets approved by the board are supported in part by local property taxes. The tax levy for Northeast's 20-county district will be $.081123, up slightly from $.070000 last year. According to Steve Schram, Vice President of Administrative Services, the owner of a home with a taxable value of $100,000 would pay an additional $11.12 per year to support Northeast.

"The $.081123 increase in levy is to help offset the loss of state aid," Schram said. "The Nebraska Community College funding formula will be underfunded by over $12,800,000 for the 2003-04 fiscal year. Each community college has new legislative authority under LB540 for the next two years to increase local property tax levies by an amount equal to the deficiency in state-aid. That amount is $1,089,314 for Northeast Community College," he said. "LB540 has provided Northeast with some temporary budget relief," according to Dr. Bill Path, President. "I appreciate the work of our area senators in getting this much-needed legislation approved."

"We continue to experience record enrollments each year and without LB540, we would have had to make major cuts in programs and services to our students," Dr. Path advised. "In spite of the strain on our operating budgets, Northeast continues to provide quality programs and services to our students."

Betty Curry of Newcastle, Chairperson of the Board of Governors, said, "We continue to be concerned with the amount of funds we're receiving through the community college funding formula. We're hopeful that corrections can be made to the formula in the next legislative session that will improve Northeast's position."

Ken Echtenkamp of West Point, Chairman of the Finance Committee, expressed concern on increasing property taxes. "The budget relief provided by LB540 is only for the 2003-04 and 2004-05 fiscal years," he said. "We are hopeful that the state tax revenues will increase after this next biennium budget period so that the extra property tax levy can be eliminated."

Acting secretary Jean Morgan read the minutes and treasurer report was given by Phyllis O'Brien. Membership Chairman Wanda Novak urges the members to pay their dues which are $15.50. They are at 70 percent of goal and would like to achieve 100 percent. Awards can be received if new members join.

Phyllis O'Brien and Deenette Von Minden attended State Convention in Kearney. Members are asked to keep track of the hours they spend on community service. They need these for their year end reports. Their newly elected State President is Lynne Wild. Her "theme" for the year is Justice, Freedom and Democracy. Their assessment for per capti dues is $30.80 payable to the District Treasurer. Norfolk Veteran's Home Assessment is $16 and Veterans Home Dollars is $15.

The gift shop assignment is two stuffed animals given to the V.A. Medical Home. The unit ordered 500 poppies for the coming year.

Motion was made and seconded that the meeting time will be at 7:30 pm. Motion was made and seconded that hostesses who serve at Auxiliary meetings should also furnish cookies or bars for the Blood Mobile when it comes to Allen. It will be in Allen again on November 17. Thirty five donors gave blood on Sept. 8. Hostesses for October will be Paulette Kumm and Delores Koch. November hostesses will be Margaret and Chris Isom.

Katie Walton part of White Coat ceremony

The University of Nebraska Medical Center College of Dentistry, located in Lincoln, held a White Coat Ceremony recently to welcome 45 new dental students and 24 dental hygiene students into the dental profession.

Among those participating in the ceremony was Katie Walton of Wayne, a dental hygiene student.

"The ceremony is a rite of passage, as well as a call to achieve the high standards set forth in the profession," said John Reinhardt, D.D.S., dean of the UNMC College of Dentistry. "A white coat frequently shows a certain professional pride; designating men and women who have earned the right to wear it and are proud of the profession they represent."

The class make-up consists of 30 dental students from Nebraska, and 15 from states representing Kansas, South Dakota, Nevada, Utah, North Dakota, Minnesota, Michigan and Wyoming. Of the 24 dental hygiene students, 20 are from Nebraska and four others represent Wyoming and Iowa.

UNMC is the only public health science center in the state. Its educational programs are responsible for training more health professionals practicing in Nebraska than any other institution.

Through its commitment to education, research, patient care and outreach, UNMC has established itself as one of the country's leading centers in cancer, transplantation biology, bioterrorism preparedness, neurodegenerative diseases, cardiovascular diseases, genetics, biomedical technology and arthritis. In the past year, UNMC's research funding from external sources increased by 23 percent and now exceeds $50 million annually. In that same period, federal funding increased by 36 percent and now exceeds $34 million.

Two participate in anti-terrorism telenet program

Loren Park, bioterrorism coordinator at the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department and LeRoy Janssen, sheriff at the Wayne County Sheriff's Office, participated in the telenet conference "Agro-Terrorism and the Impact to Local Communities."

The event was held in Norfolk. The program was hosted last month by the Regional Community Policing Training Institute at Wichita State University. This program gave potential responder an understanding of how to assess their communities, form partnerships with the industry and understand roles and responsibilities of federal, state and local agencies in the event of a terrorism act on the agriculture industry.

During the last couple of years, as Nebraska has weathered an economic downturn with lower than anticipated revenues, state leaders have had to face difficult decisions regarding the budget. The results of the past two years have been to reduce the level of spending, some actual budget reductions, and increases in taxes to balance the budget. Within the debate has been a contention by some that businesses are not paying their "fair share" of state taxes - a fallacy derived from the opportunity businesses have to lower their tax burden by making economic development investments and creating jobs.

This year, the forums will present a program relating to business taxation, and discuss a new by the Tax Foundation on state business tax climates. "The key to the Tax Foundation study is that employer pay a great deal of attention to how they are taxed," said State Chamber President Barry Kennedy. "The reality is that business pays a great deal of taxes in this state and Nebraska is seen as a high tax state, according to the Tax Foundation study," he added. Ranked in the bottom 10, Nebraska's business taxation system is shown to be less competitive than most of our surrounding states.

"While in some areas we are at a competitive disadvantage, we can demonstrate that our economic development incentives have provided Nebraska with necessary tools to help level the playing field to create growth in jobs and investment," said Kennedy. Between 1987 and 2002, 1.5 billion of tax incentives were earned and Nebraska received over $15 any day of the week. The creation of 71,000 jobs is also an extremely good return on investment," said

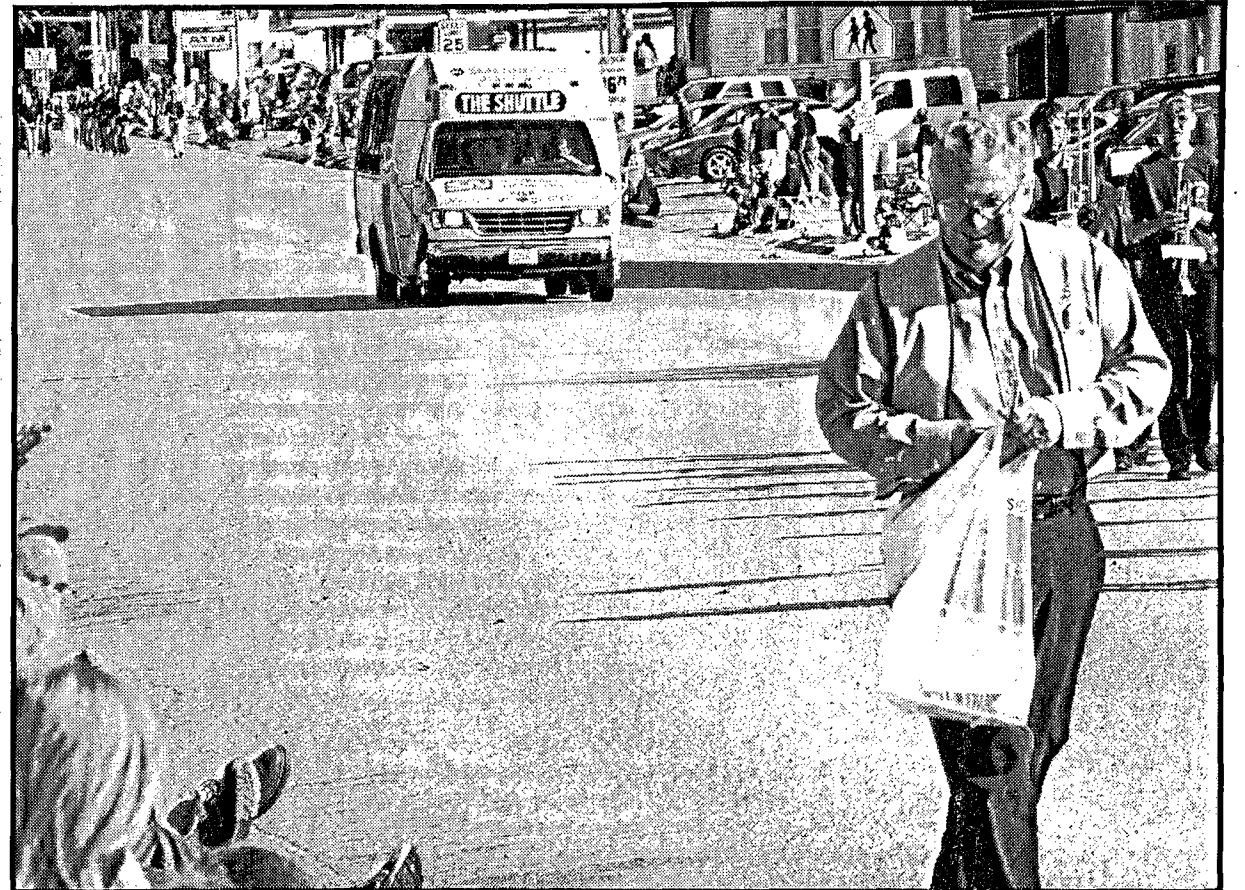

Kennedy.

The Legislative Forums are held each fall to hear from the business community on legislative concerns and other important issues. They are open to all State Chamber members and local area chamber of commerce members. The local chamber of commerce coordinate the events with State Chamber staff. Two teams of State Chamber executive staff members will be presenting the forums.

Between 1,000 and 1,200 people attend the Legislative Forums each fall, giving the State Chamber an excellent dialogue with people who make a payroll in Nebraska.

To make reservations, or for more information, contact the local Chamber of Commerce listed for each Forum location, or the State Chamber at (402) 474-4422.

The State Chamber is Nebraska's largest statewide business association, comprised of large and small companies and firms, trade associations, and local chamber of commerce.

Identifying priorities is a key to managing work and personal life

In our fast-paced society, it is very easy to fall in a trap of being so busy that we feel overwhelmed. To find balance in handling work and personal life, it is crucial to determine values and identify priorities.

Values may change depending on what stage of the life development cycle you are experiencing. We may modify our values when we get married, raise children or change location. Priorities are determined by the values that are most important to us.

In the process of de-cluttering our lives, we should focus on doing things that we consider priorities. Identifying what interferes with our priorities is the one step to find some sort of equilibrium in life. Think about what you want to have accomplished in five or ten years? Are you doing anything today, that will help you accomplish that task?

Sometimes, frustrations stem from striving for perfectionism or first step, and doing that step? No project is ever done, until it is started.

One technique I have found useful is to ask myself, "Am I doing the most important thing that I can right now?" If I am, then I can't worry about something else that didn't get done. If I am not, then maybe I need to do the things that are more important right now.

Although we should recognize the expectations of ourselves and others, some tasks do not need as much attention as we may think. Other tasks can be delegated to others or even left undone. By setting priorities, we can fulfill our responsibilities and do the most important tasks.

In order to successfully manage time and enjoy both work and personal life, we must evaluate our habits and concentrate on priorities.

Reduce Your Risk Of Bone Loss
To limit bone loss and reduce your risk of osteoporosis, be sure to get enough calcium and vitamin D in your diet. Weight-bearing exercises (like walking, jogging or stair climbing) and weight lifting exercises work directly on your bones and can also help. Limit soft drinks, avoid excessive alcohol and don't smoke. Getting adequate vitamin K is also helpful in improving bone strength. Some recent studies have suggested that drinking tea over a long period of time may also help bone density.

Alfalfa offers flexible fall grazing

Alfalfa fields could offer a flexible source of forage for fall grazing, a University of Nebraska forage specialist said.

"Alfalfa can provide considerable, high quality grazing this fall," said Bruce Anderson, forage specialist in NU's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Grazing alfalfa helps eliminate baling costs and avoid slow-curing hay, a problem that often occurs during the fall. Many growers also may find that fall grazing offers flexibility, he said.

"Alfalfa makes an outstanding weaning pasture for spring calves," Anderson said. "Yearlings continue to gain weight rapidly on fall alfalfa, even after summer grass starts to die off."

In addition, grazing helps cows gain excellent condition before winter, he said. Ewes and lambs also perform well.

If producers choose to graze alfalfa fields, they should take precautions to avoid damaging the alfalfa stand, Anderson said. He recommends grazing only when fields are dry and firm. Producers could reserve a small area for grazing and feeding when the soil is wet, he said.

This will help avoid damaging the entire field.

Producers also should be alert to potential problems, such as bloat. However, fall alfalfa is less likely to cause bloat than summer alfalfa once it has been exposed to frost and starts to dry, he said.

Anderson recommends filling up livestock with hay before grazing an alfalfa field to prevent bloat. It also is important to maintain access to dry hay or corn stalks while grazing alfalfa, he said.

Producers can feed bloat protectants such as poloxalene in blocks or mixed with grain.

"This can be an expensive supplement, but it works well when animals eat a uniform amount each day," Anderson said.

Tips offered for dealing with ants

Fall is a good time of year for ants to show up in homes looking for food. The ants normally live in colonies outside the home and enter homes in the fall foraging for food.

of the house or inside of the house in order to kill the queen for the colony. There are many different types of baits designed for different types of ants. If you have ants that are feeding on sweet items, you have what is called sweet loving ants, purchase a bait that is labeled for the sweet loving ants.

A second type of ant is the grease loving ants. They are the small black ants and pavement ants that can be found on stoves or under areas where oil, protein or grease may have collected. Baits designed for grease ants can go a long way to reduce the numbers of ants foraging in the house.

The key is to get the ants to feed in an area before putting out the bait material. This may seem rather silly to do, actually feed the ants, but they are more likely to feed on the bait if they are accustomed to feeding in a certain area.

Carpenter ants are large black ants about 3/8 inch to one-half inch long and are occasionally found inside the house foraging for food. These ants normally live in dead trees outside the house but can set up home inside the house feeding on decaying wood. If carpenter ants are found quite often inside the house and there are several of them, it is probably best to contact a professional exterminator as they can find the nest and destroy it. The homeowner can look for the ants on dead or dying trees on the property and kill the colony on the dead tree as a preventative measure.

Contact you local extension office for more detailed information about ants that enter the house.

A war-related e-mail claims to be from Iraq

Foreign scammers are "expanding their markets." No longer are unsuspecting businesses their only prey - individual consumers' e-mail and fax machines are now being inundated with new variations of the "Nigerian" scam.

Coming from senders usually claiming to be government officials or members of a royal family, these missives request assistance in transferring millions of dollars of excess money out of their country and promise to pay the person for his or her help. The message is always of an urgent, private nature.

The Better Business Bureau of the Heartland has been informed of an e-mail that claims to be from someone in Iraq requesting "Urgent Assistance Needed" from the oldest son of an Iraqi family who is from oil rich areas of Iraq and has acquired huge sums of money from royalties for the exploration of oil in that region. The scammer states in the email that "over the past 15 years Saddam Hussein and his gang of bandits have taken our oils without payment...our funds are trapped here and there is no avenue to transfer any amount from Iraq...how do we transfer the funds totaling US $12.5 Million in cash from here? We need your help in securing a private collection agency who would come to Iraq and collect the money and deliver it to you for safe keep...we would then come to your country to share 10 percent of the funds with you."

This is a new twist on offers claiming to be from Nigeria. It appears to be an offer to make money by doing them a favor and letting them use your bank account to deposit money from their country to the US, thus obtaining your personal or business banking information and using it for their purposes.

The Federal Trade Commission has asked that anyone receiving this type of e-mail or fax forward it to the Spam Database at uce@ftc.gov or contact your local Better Business Bureau at 402-391-7612 so we can pass them on to the authorities. The BBB warns you not to reply to anybody from a foreign country or any stranger who asks you to send personal or banking information! The BBB suggests that after reporting it, you immediately delete or throw away such correspondence.

This Consumer/Business Alert is brought to you by the Better Business of the Heartland, a private non-profit organization serving the Metro Omaha Area, Northern and Central Nebraska, Southwest Iowa and South Dakota.

Del Hemsath
Extension Educator

Ants like anything sweet, greasy, starchy and all kinds of plant and animal materials. Ants compete for humans for the same kinds of food and thus become a nuisance to us. Ants will enter the home through any crack or small hole that offers access into the food storage areas. Older homes offer more opportunities for access since there are more small cracks and crevices for the ant to find as an entry point.

The first preventative action should be to seal all cracks and crevices that can be found with a good caulking material. The second preventative step is to scrub around any known entry points with a detergent to remove the trail smells that ants have left for other ants to follow. Spray a residual insecticide around the entry points.

Bait treatments can be used to allow the ants to carry the poison back to the colony on the outside

Building Principals -

Dr. Zeiss: Student Enrollment tallies were enclosed. We have had 7 full days and 6 half days of school as of today. Everything is going pretty smooth. The Driver's Education program is completed and everything is finalized. All funds between Winsor, Pilger and Wayne are completed. We had a total of 94 students.

Mr. Lutt: The seeding of the playground will be done by Country Nursery on September 20th. Mr. Hix's class is completing the projects for the playground. Money from Pamida has provided six students with school supplies. A program is going very well. It is giving teachers more structure time. He would like to complement the SPED aides on their organization and time put into the program. Enrollment numbers are around the same as last year.

Mr. McClarnen: The middle school enrollment is at 262 students. It is down six from last year. State-wide 8th grade writing assessment grade is in. 88% of the 8th grade class from 2003-2003 scored at or above the minimum proficiency score. It is a very good percentage. This year grades 4th, 8th and 11th will again be doing the assessment. They have talked with the faculty about conferences and decided to schedule conferences together when there are students in one family in both buildings. They are planning on doing a survey to see how the conferences worked. The building is being put to use by the community. Many community meetings have been scheduled there. The baffles in the gym have made great improvement on the sound. The test will be the first band concert.

Mr. Lofquist: He handed out a sheet showing the Special Populations Data for this year. The figures have been reduced by two. Many of the students have more than one of these conditions. The attack on Asthma program requires three people from each building to be trained on handling the medication for the students.

Mr. Ruhl: Sam Fischer has been contacted about the water on the track. He is not concerned about it and says because of the dry weather, the track settle a little and shouldn't be a problem. The weed problem on the high jump and long jump pits have been resolved for now. They suggested getting a packer in and drive over it.
