Council sets rate for Activity Center

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The housing of stray animals, Activity Center fees and the use of the Wayne City Auditorium for theater performances were among the topics of discussion at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Nancy Wherley with the Northeast Nebraska Humane Society, told the council that the group has been in existence since 1995 and the numbers of animals needing to be placed has increased through the years.

The group came to the council seeking a parcel of land in which to build a permanent facility to house the animals. Several locations were discussed during the meeting but no decision was made, pending the city's checking out several options to see whether they are large enough and whether utilities are available to the location.

The council directed City Administrator Lowell Johnson to investigate several options and report back to the council.

Considerable discussion was held on the recommendations from the Recreation-Leisure Services Commission on fees charged to use the Community Activity Center.

At the present time there are 735 memberships, single, couple and family, to the Activity Center. These memberships generated just over $84,000 last year. However, City Administrator Johnson told the council that the cost to operate the facility in the past year was approximately $125,000.

Dennis Carroll spoke to the council and said that when the CAC was first opened, "no one knew what it would cost to run it."

He told the council he had no objection for raising the rates, but hoped that the rate for senior citizens would not be raised too much, because "we don't want them to go to the college."

He also noted that the council needed to be consistent in several areas in running the facility, including the use of custodians and the fees charged to various groups using the facility.

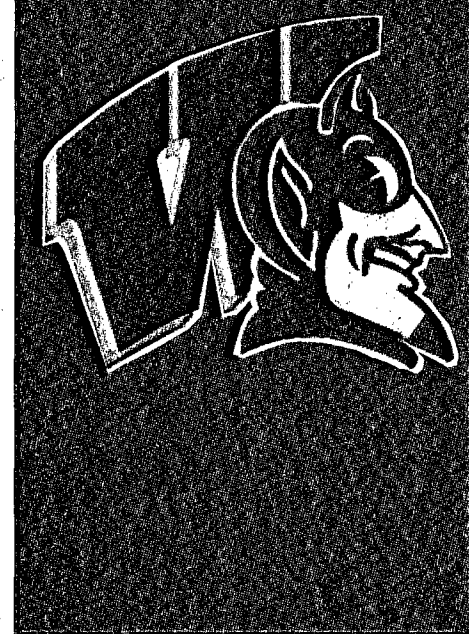

Following discussion, the council voted to raise the rates, effective Oct. 15 to $234.30 for a family. This number is based on the regular rate and could

Fund-raiser for Jason Pratt family to be held

A fund-raiser for the family of Omaha police officer Jason "Tye" Pratt is being scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 18 by the Wayne State College Criminal Justice Association and the Wayne Fraternal Order of Police.

It will begin at noon and continue until after half-time of the Wayne State vs. Waldorf College football game, which begins at 1:30 p.m. in Memorial Stadium.

All proceeds from the tailgate party will go directly to the family of Pratt, who was killed in Omaha last month. He left behind his wife and two young daughters.

Donations of food for the fund-raiser are being donated by HyVee food stores and Roman's Meat Packing in Norfolk. Cash donations are being accepted at any time.

Please contact Dr. Jason Karsky, assistant professor, criminal justice, at 402-375-7139, or Nicole Schaefer at 402-375-7322 for more information about the event.

Hearing held to set tax request prior to School Board of Education meeting

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

The Wayne Community Schools Board of Education held a hearing to set the tax request for the 2003-04 budget year Monday night at the high school in Wayne, just prior to their regular meeting.

The tax request for the General Fund is $3,451,143; the tax request for the Bond Fund is $559,875; the tax request for the Special Building Fund is $71,894. The board approved the tax request later during the regular meeting.

Other action taken included the board giving permission to Edith Zahniser, German language teacher at Wayne High School, to take her students to Chicago to the German Christmas Fair in December. She noted 12 people were planning to go which includes two parents.

Next the board approved the decision to hire a full-time and a half-time Technology staff member. The positions will now be advertised in search of two employees to fill those spots.

Also, the board approved hiring two people for part-time kitchen help; Susan Gansbom and Candace Bernhagen. The hours of these positions are not to exceed 10 hours a week for each.

The resignation of Vicky Schwartz, business manager at the high school, was approved with regrets. She has taken a position with Omaha Public Schools.

The board hired Rochelle Nelson as business manager to replace Schwartz. Board members Doug Carroll and Carolyn Linster voiced their opinions that board members should have a chance to give input into the hiring of a position.

An amendment to the 2003-04 budget and LC2 was approved. Errors were found on the LC2 and corrected to reflect the actual budget amounts.

The board approved the refuse bid with Gill Hauling for a 12 month contract.

The board approved the Interlocal Agreement between Emerson-Hubbard Schools and Wayne Schools for technology services.

Discussion was held on the federally mandated program, "No Child Left Behind," where grades 4, 8, and 11 are tested each year and school districts receive ratings as a result of the tests.

Lutt told the board he would update them at the next meeting on the six criteria and for the evaluation of the school district assessment plan. That must be met. Last year, children were tested on writing. Next year, they will be tested on writing, reading and math.

Lutt voiced his concern that the State Department of Education doesn't seem to have a plan to assist schools who don't meet requirements.

John Dunning, board member and on the Technology committee, spoke at a district network printer plan that if pursued would cost around $14,000.

Supt. Dr. Joe Reinert talked about repair work and improvements that need to be at the high school. The roof is pulling away, work needs to be done to the windows and doors area on the west and east entrances, and they are looking at installing individual air conditioners into several of the rooms. No bids have been received at this time.

It was announced that as a personnel matter, policy #2001, to expand the definition of the administrative team and personnel issues, would be discussed in executive session.

Under communications from the public on agenda items, Zahniser asked if teachers could get a copy

Storytime continues at library

Fall storytime continues at Wayne Public Library this Saturday at 10:30.

This week's theme is "Make a Difference" with guest reader Dr. Richard Votta. Make a difference sooner than what they do as it was 1:40 the day of the meeting before they saw the agenda.

Judy Poehlman, kitchen manager, voiced her concern on the shortage of printers and wished each room still had their own printer because of confidentiality and convenience issues. Several rooms have to print into the library.

Peg Lutt, fourth grade teacher, added her frustration to the printer problems same as Poehlman but also that if she needs something from the printer she must leave a roomful of children.

Mike Jaixen, second grade teacher, noted WEB said they would get printer cartridges and take care of the cleaning of the printers as they bought the printers in the elementary building.

takes a lot of time for teachers to prepare for. She asked the board to consider in the future coming up with a position and hiring someone to do what the teachers are now expected to do.

Claudia Koeber, librarian at the elementary school, noted she would appreciate if teachers could have some input into the printer situation before a decision is made.

School Board President Bill Dickey presented Dunning with a plaque through the NASB (National Association School Boards) for his commitment to the enhancement of school board meetings. (Awards are earned through a point system by attending state meetings, etc).

Executive session was held. The next regular meeting of the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education will be held Monday, Nov. 10 at 7 p.m. at the Wayne High School.

Words can heal

There have always been times I have regretted what I have said. Whether it was to my wife, kids, family or friends. I believe we all have at some point. Someone reminded me of this recently and I thought we all could stand a little reminder.

Here is my story that should remind us of that ...

Two friends were walking through the desert. During some point of the journey they had an argument, and one friend slapped the other one in the face. The one who got slapped was hurt, but without saying anything, wrote in the sand:

TODAY MY BEST FRIEND SLAPPED ME IN THE FACE.

They kept on walking until they found an oasis, where they decided to take a bath. The one who had been slapped got stuck in the mire and started drowning, but the friend saved him. After he recovered from the near drowning, he wrote on a stone:

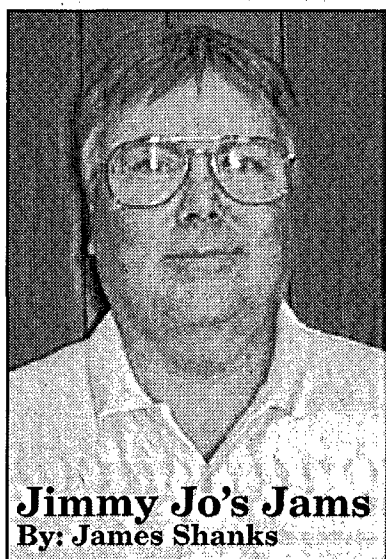

TODAY MY BEST FRIEND SAVED MY LIFE.

The friend who had slapped and saved his best friend asked him, "After I hurt you, you wrote in the sand and now, you write on a stone, why?" The other friend replied "When someone hurts us we should write it down in sand where winds of forgiveness can erase it away. But, when someone does something good for us, we must engrave it in stone where no wind can ever erase it."

LEARN TO WRITE YOUR HURTS IN THE SAND AND TO CARVE YOUR BENEFITS IN STONE.

They say it takes a minute to find a special person, an hour to appreciate them, a day to love them, but then an entire life to forget them.

Have a good day.

Drought relief advice offered

Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

This drought thing has gone too far.

The pond at our place has turned into a puddle.

A resident blue heron stands in the middle of it and doesn't get its knees wet!

Even the varmints that usually haunt the thing have gone looking for wetter pastures, so to speak.

Mud daubers have taken their business elsewhere. This is a burden we can shoulder without regret, but still ... Even the dog has suffered because ducks from a nearby park have stopped landing on the pond. Puddle.

That means Fred (the dog) has been deprived of a favorite morning exercise - running out the back door like a chubby, wannabe predator, or something, and making the ducks fly. Actually, they stopped flying some time ago. They would see Fred coming and just swim toward the middle of the pond. Reminds you of eighth-grade girls ignoring some guy who can put spaghetti in his mouth and then pull it out of his nose.

Of course, we are not alone in facing this situation.

Lots of manmade ponds are in danger of becoming puddles. Lots of ducks are being denied a place to paddle. Dogs are being denied exercise.

What to do?
After little thought and less reflection, the solution became obvious:

Government intervention!
That's right.
Aid from the state and aid from the feds!
Every so often we go over those lists of seemingly weird things that the feds spend money on. As you well know, some of those projects don't seem to make sense and some of them don't work out. And what is this type of spending called? It's called pouring money down a rat hole, that's what. And the feds get criticized for it.

Consider this: The feds could certainly use some sort of feel good program right now. Something that would make people happy, something that would make the government look good, and something that the government could probably do without screwing up.

Instead of pouring money down a rat hole, the proposal here is:

Pour water into needy, man-made farm ponds.

Well, why not?

National Guard pilots could rack up some airtime, and dumping water in ponds would probably be good practice. For something. The government could prove that it could do something right, even if it was just pouring water in a hole. It could take credit for being environmentally friendly, by making ponds safe for varmints and critters. Maybe we can't do much for homeless people, but we could do something for coyotes that need more cover.

The obvious question: Where would the government get water to pour into drying ponds during a time of drought?

That's an easy one.

They would pump water from the Ogallala Aquifer and pay the state some sort of fee. The state would then send the money to farmers in the form of a payment in lieu of their irrigating some crop that was going to bring in a lousy price, anyway. Or be eaten by grasshoppers, or massacred by the drought.

We have great confidence in this proposal and believe Congress will take a serious look at it. We anticipate Congress will see the value of it - at about the same time Nebraska is next seeking aid for a

Editor's note: The following will be a monthly feature of the Herald. It expresses the opinion of the board and is intended to present updates on board activities.

Greetings from the Board of Education of the Wayne Community Schools (WCS).

The Board thought it might be appropriate to provide the public with a monthly update of our current focus and activities. Much of this information is also provided in the published meeting agendas and news stories, but perhaps this method is more reader friendly.

As always, the Board encourages you to attend meetings or speak to a Board member if you have any concerns or ideas to improve our system. We would like to thank the Wayne Herald for graciously providing this space to us as a public service.

For those of you that missed the Kern track dedication it was a wonderful event. Despite the fact that our students were spread very thin with a plethora of events the band department put forth a fine showing and opened and closed a very nice dedication with wonderful music. The Board would like to thank the WCS Foundation for all of their hard work on the project. If you have not yet seen the track, please take some time to swing by or even walk a lap. This is a wonderful addition to our community and will be a great venue for walking, practicing and holding small track events or overflow events from other venues.

One of the strategies the school can use to work through the budget difficulties that plague the state is to enter into interlocal agreements with other entities.

This past summer WCS entered into an interlocal with Winside and Wisner-Pilger to provide driver's education for the students of all three districts. Interlocal agreements do not amount to a free ride for either district. Each district is still obligated to pay costs as determined by the agreement, but it does allow districts to utilize each other's strengths and offset deficiencies more effectively as well as to share expenses for big ticket items.

The school also has a bit more flexibility in how it handles expenses incurred under an interlocal agreement. Interlocal expenses are exempt from one of the two lids under which the school system operates. This does not mean that we can use interlocals to generate more revenue (raise taxes). It does, however, allow more flexibility in allocating the monies that we do generate.

The Board just approved an interlocal with the Emerson-

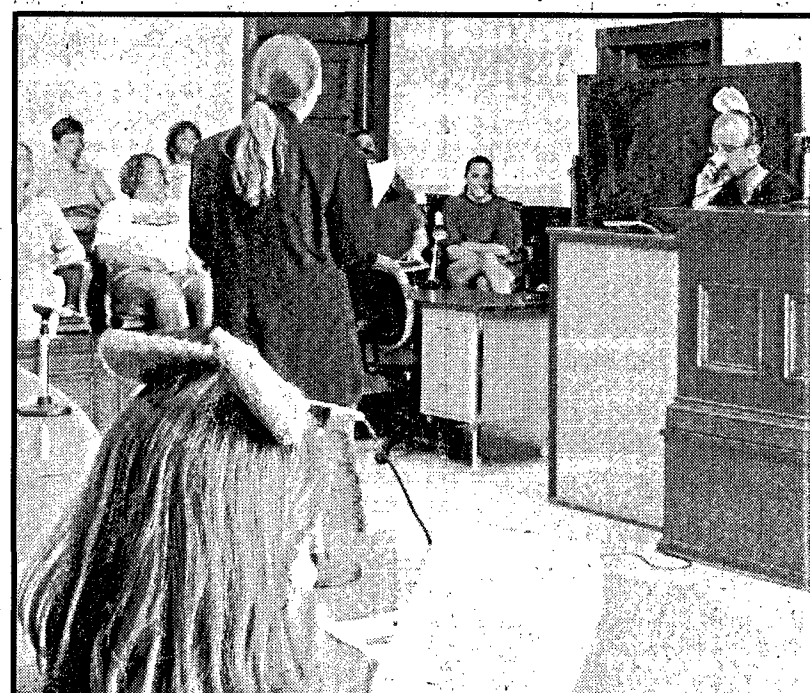

Hubbard Community Schools to share technology personal and resources. This should prove a boon to both districts in a number of ways.

We are also investigating the possibility of an interlocal with Wayne State College to cooperate on a field turf project for Memorial Stadium. Participation in this project would give the Wayne schools much more flexibility in scheduling football and track events and provide our athletes with access to the premier facility in Northeast Nebraska in which to compete.

The school board has also begun work with the Wayne City Council on some housing initiatives. Work on this project is in the preliminary stages but it behooves both the school and the city to ensure that demand for quality, affordable housing in our community is met.

The thoughts of the board and the prayers of its members continue to be with Sara Hank, her family and friends.

Have a wonderful Halloween season and we hope to see you at the next Board meeting!

Learning the procedure

A jury trial was held at the Wayne Courthouse last week. However, the "person" on trial was a wolf. The event was a classroom experience for Wayne State College students taking Development of Social Studies in the Middle School. The class is team-taught by Carolyn Linster, Richard Metteer and Phyllis Trenhaile. Prior to the beginning of the trial, law enforcement officials Lance Webster and LeRoy Janssen and County Attorney Mike Pieper spoke to the students on the events that take place with an actual trial. District Judge Robert Ensz was also involved in the mock trial, which was organized by Sheryl Connolly of the Cedar County Court, who also organizes this type of event for Mrs. Trenhaile's fifth grade class at Wayne Middle School.

The following is a letter from Alan Pepin, Omaha police chief, to Dr. Jason Karsky and WSC Criminal Justice students. Dr. Jason Karsky, Ph.D.

Wayne State College
Criminal Justice Department
1111 N. Main
Wayne, NE 68787

Dear Dr. Karsky and Criminal Justice students:

On behalf of the women and men of the Omaha Police Department, thank you for your expression of sympathy on the tragic death of Sergeant Jason Tye Pratt. He was a fine officer, father, and husband. Sergeant Pratt's Omaha Police family will miss him, but we will always cherish his memory.

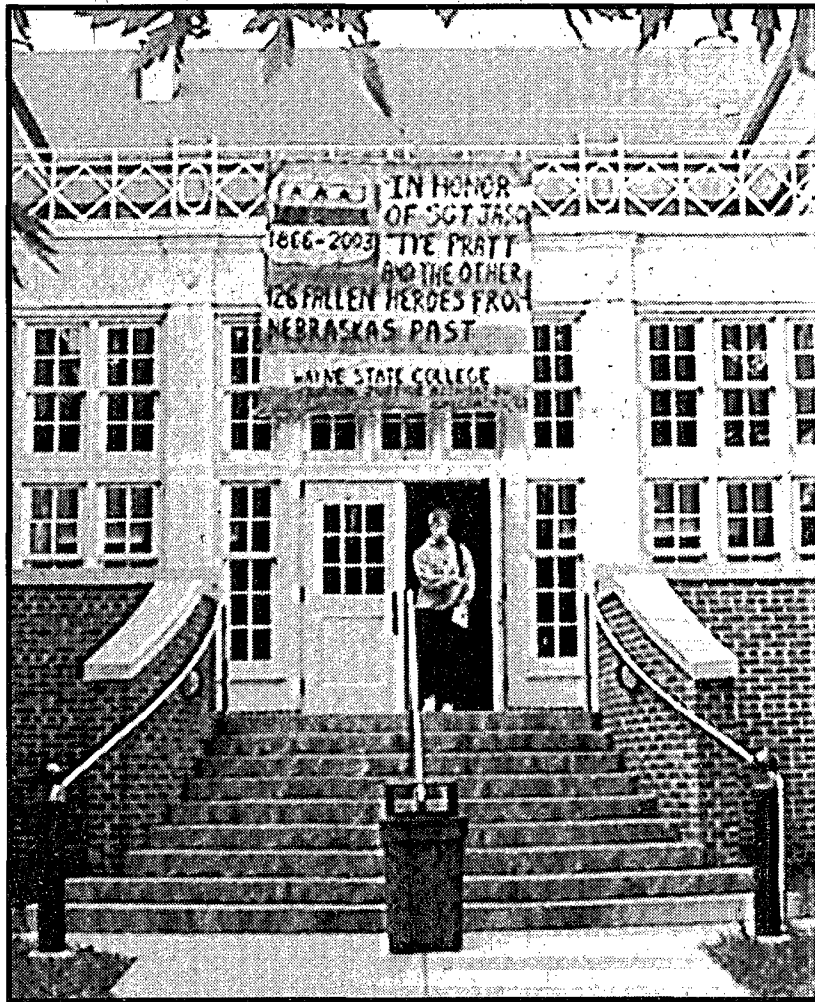

This has been a very difficult time for all of us, but because of the care and concern we have received from public safety professionals throughout the country, the grieving and healing process has been made easier. Your kind words, offers of assistance, and support sustain us during our time of grief and serve as a reminder that our law enforcement family extends beyond many geographical boundaries.

We appreciate your sharing pictures with us of the students'

Homecoming banner, dedicated to Jason and to Nebraska's 126 other fallen heroes. What a beautiful tribute.

On behalf of the Omaha Police Department, thank you again for taking the time to convey your condolences. Sincerely, Alan F. Pepin, Chief of Police Omaha Police Department

Neighbors conduct combining bee

It didn't take long for neighbors of Mike and Peggy Hank of rural Carroll to combine 140 acres of soybeans on Oct. 9.

A combining bee was organized by Cindy Hurlbert after the Hank's daughter Sara was injured in an automobile accident earlier this month. She remains hospitalized.

Verlyn Stoltenberg was also instrumental in arranging for combines, grain carts and semis to be available.

Those providing combines included Bob Kenny, Charlie Morris, Delbert Claussen, Greg Lackas, Rohlff Farms (Lowell and Larry), Dallas Hansen, Dan Loberg and Ray and Butch Junck.

Grain carts were provided by MMC Farms, Kearney Lackas, Roger Brandt and Dan Loberg.

Semi trailers hauled the soybeans to Cargill in Sioux City. They included Terry Roberts, TWJ Feeds, Randy Owens, Dan Hansen and Cliff Burbach, all of Carroll and Tim Hansen of Laurel.

Also assisting with the harvesting efforts were Dale Vanosdall, Delmar Eddie, Gene Rethwisch and David Loberg.

Following the completion of the harvest, Franklin Gilmore of Farmer's State Bank in Carroll provided dinner for all those involved with the project.

Bids were awarded for Street Improvement Districts 2003-01 and 2003-02; and for Sanitary Sewer Extension District 2003-01 and 2003-02 and Water Extension District 2003-01 and 2003-02.

The bids for the street improvements were awarded to A&R Construction of Plainview. The other bids were awarded to Benschoter Plumbing of Laurel and R&W Construction of Wayne.

A presentation was given by representatives of Kirkham Michael on the final design for the Country Club Road Paving Project, including a proposed underpass. They also presented a time line for completion of the project.

Cost estimates are considerably higher than originally estimated but it anticipated that bids could come in under budget.

The council gave approval to move forward with the bidding process.

Considerable discussion was held on the use of the City Auditorium by the Wayne Community Theatre for theater productions.

The council felt that the Community Theatre could possibly use the facility for productions if they were done on the floor, rather than on the stage. The state fire marshal has indicated that fire walls would need to be installed at a cost of approximately $25,000 and the stage floor space limited to less than 1,000 feet if the stage area were to be used for productions.

Mick Kemp, representing the Wayne Community Theatre said his group was willing to work around schedules at the auditorium and that all practices prior to a performance would not have to be at the auditorium. He also indicated that the group was willing to pay for such use of the building.

The council will conduct a joint meeting with the Wayne County Board of Commissioners on Tuesday, Oct. 21 at the Wayne City Auditorium.

The council's next regular meeting will be Tuesday, Oct. 28 at 7:30 p.m. at the council chambers.

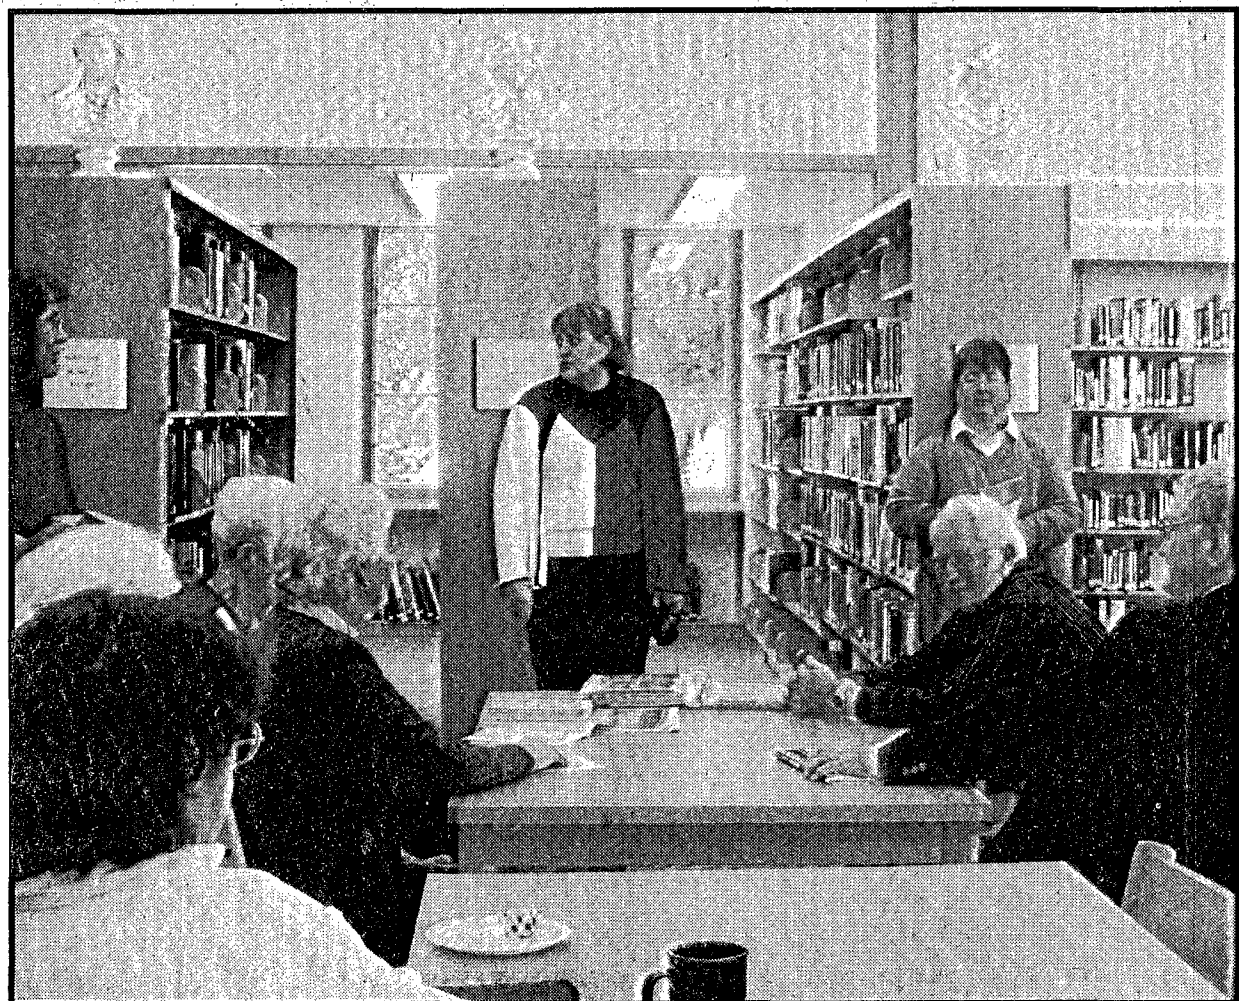

Neighbors worked together to combine 140 acres of soybeans for Mike and Peggy Hank of rural Carroll after their daughter, Sara, was injured in an automobile accident earlier this month.

Holiday store front window contest planned by Chamber

The Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce's Retail Committee is sponsoring a storefront window contest that is part of this year's shop-at-home promotion.

Displays will be erected inside storefront windows, painted on the windows, and in lobbies. Retailers citywide are being encouraged to create a special display that will contribute to the holiday festivities and make the shopping experience more fun.

A citizens' committee coordinated by the chamber will form a panel of judges to view the displays and rate them on creativity and originality. Shoppers are encouraged to let the retailers know what they think of the displays that will be erected between the middle of November and end of December.

Businesses must register their intention to participate no later than Friday, Nov. 21. The list of participants will be announced in time for shoppers to enjoy these special displays.

Shoppers can get just about anything they need for themselves and their family and friends from retailers in the Wayne area. And, using Chamber Bucks for purchases only enhances the shopping experience. As we say, Chamber Bucks are the "checks that do not bounce," and can be redeemed at most Chamber member retailers in the area. Also, all banks in the Wayne area accept Chamber Bucks as cash when they are processed. Chamber Bucks are available from the chamber office in denominations of $5, $10, $20, and $25.

The following committee members are coordinating this contest: Lou Wiltse (Wayne Greenhouse), Della Pries (Wayne Community Housing Development Corp), Nancy Endicott (Pac n Sav), Brian Smith (McDonalds), Connie Dangberg (Heritage Express), Coleen Jeffries (Copy Write/Video Productions), Jeannette Frazer (Pamida), Sandra Gathje (Tacos & More), Wendy and Matt Vawser (Ideal Interiors), and Natasha Davis (WSC Intern with the Chamber).

Anyone with questions about this contest, is asked to contact the chamber for more information at 375-2240.

Hill fans state record 21 batters in Tekamah win

Wayne softball team captures district title

The Wayne softball team captured a second consecutive district championship last week with three shutout wins at the Wayne Softball Complex.

The 30-1 Blue Devils, who did not allow a run in 11 home games this season, will be the number two seed entering the Class C State Softball Tournament to be played today (Thursday) and Friday at the Seymour Smith Complex in Ralston.

"We did what we had to," commented coach Rob Sweetland on the district title. "It's another step towards our goal of winning state."

Wayne opened the district tournament last Thursday with a 6-0 win over Tekamah.

The story of the game was the pitching of junior Molly Hill, striking out 21 batters while allowing just two hits to set a new state record for strikeouts in a game.

Offensively, Wayne had five hits in the game. Ashley Carroll, Hill, Kayla Hochstein, Jessica Jammer and Dawn Jensen each singled for the Blue Devils. Rachel Robins scored two runs in the win.

Wayne then faced Logan View in the winner's bracket final with the Blue Devils scratching out a 2-0 win.

The Blue Devils used timely hitting and Hill's pitching to hand the Raiders their first loss in the tournament.

Wayne scored the first run of the game in the third inning when Jean Pieper's single scored Jammer, who singled earlier.

The Blue Devils added an insurance run in the sixth when freshman Danica Carroll delivered an RBI single to score Robins, who singled and stole second, for the other run of the game.

Hill struck out 12 batters in the game, allowing two hits and two walks to Logan View.

Robins and Danica Carroll led Wayne in hitting with two singles each. Pieper, Jenny Raveling, Ashley Carroll, Jammer and Robins each singled to round out the 10-hit attack.

In Friday's championship game, Wayne erupted for six runs in the sixth inning to snap a scoreless tie and go on to a 7-0 win.

The Blue Devils had three hits and took advantage of four walks in the big sixth inning. Clutch hits in the inning included two-run singles by Jensen and Danica Carroll.

Wayne had five hits in the game, led by Ashley Carroll's two singles. Jensen, Danica Carroll and Hill also had hits.

Hill earned the win with 16 strikeouts, yielding just one hit and one walk.

Coach Sweetland said the team appears to be playing its best softball heading into state.

He added the team has a different attitude heading to state this year.

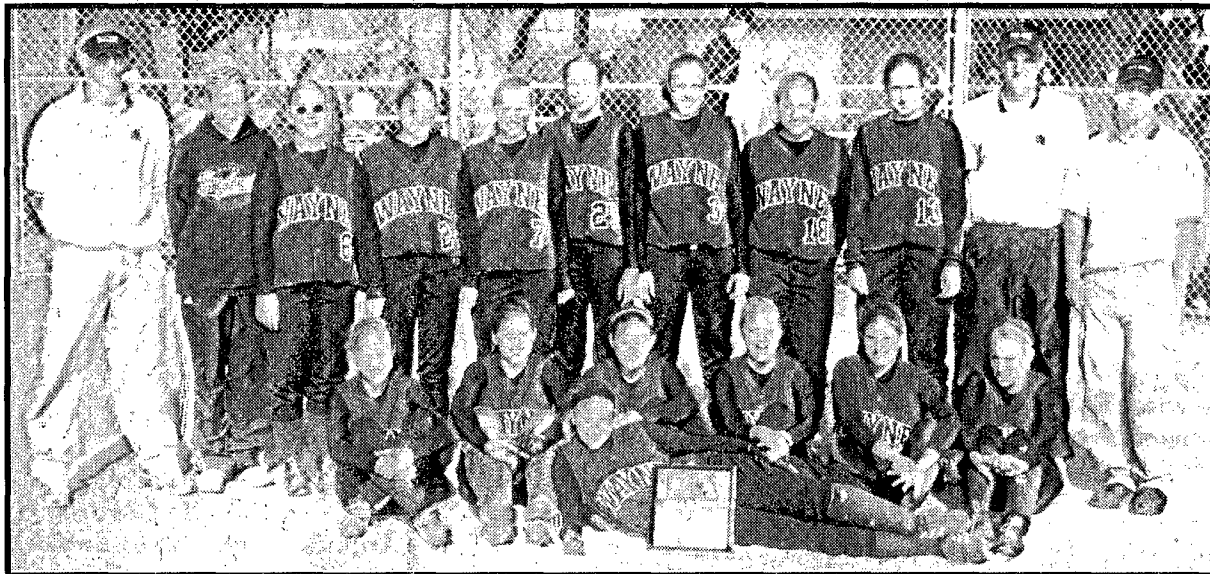

"Last year, we were just happy to get there. This year, we have higher goals, like winning it."

Wayne will face two-time defending state champion Cozad in the first round of the Class C State Tournament today (Thursday) at 3 pm.

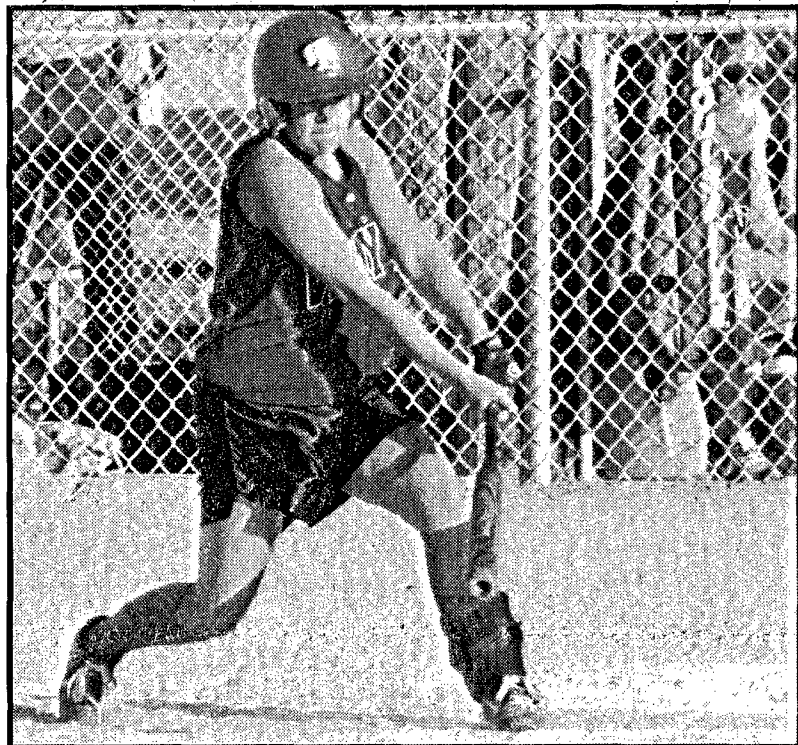

"You can't ask for a better scenario, can you?," remarked Sweetland. "I would rather play them early than meet up with them later in the tournament," he added.

Other games in Class C include top-seed Columbus Lakeview against Ashland-Greenwood, Centennial facing Chadron, Fairbury meets Wahoo along with the Wayne/Cozad matchup.

The double elimination tournament is scheduled to conclude Friday with the championship game at 5 pm.

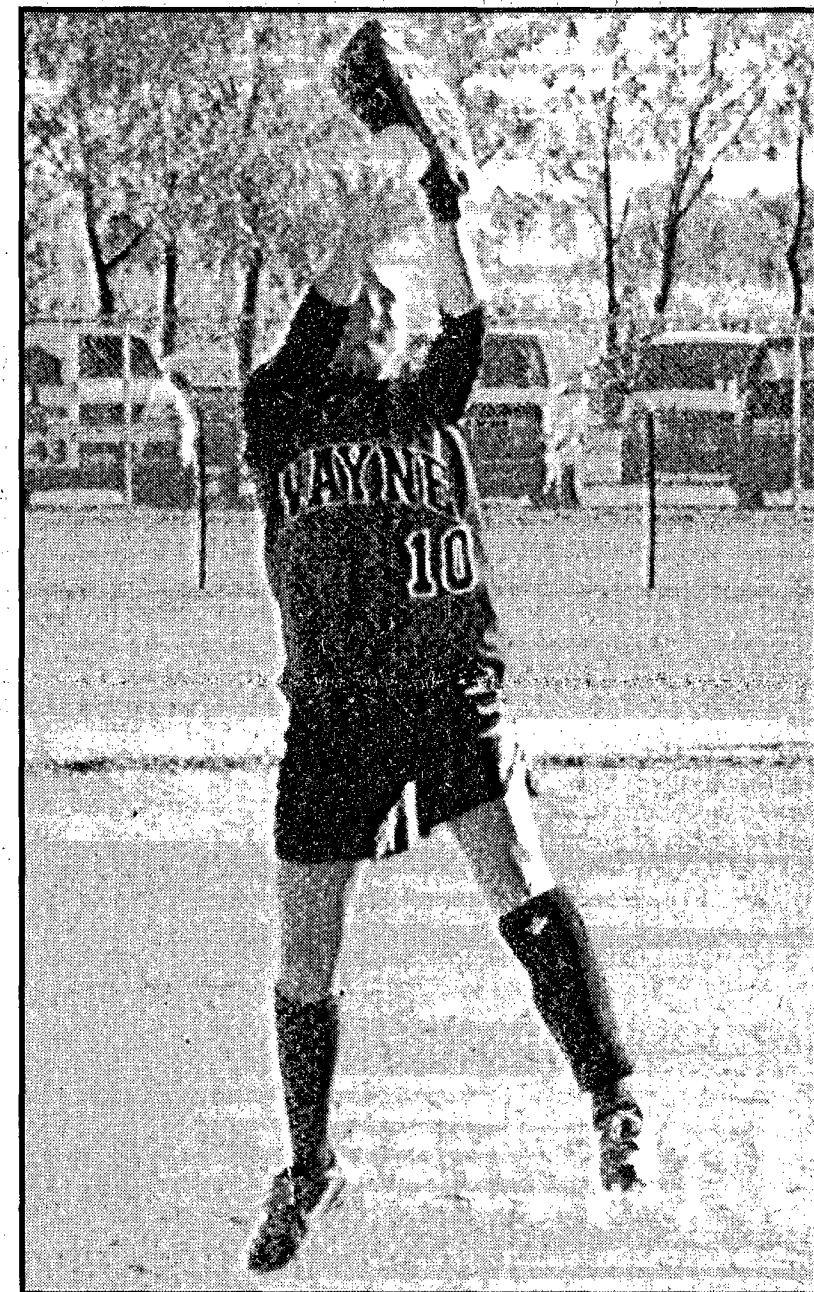

The Wayne High girls softball team captured a second consecutive district title Friday with a 7-0 win over Logan View at the Wayne Softball Complex. Wayne will take a 30-1 record to the Class C State Tournament in Ralston.

Second baseman Danica Carroll had several key hits for Wayne in the district tournament, including this run scoring single in Thursday's 2-0 win over Logan View.

Molly Hill established an all-class state record with 21 strikeouts in Thursday's 6-0 win over Tekamah-Herman.

Wayne golfers place 10th at state

The Wayne High girls golf team wrapped up the 2003 season with a 10th place finish at the Class B Girls State Golf Tournament held at Riverside Country Club in Grand Island Monday and Tuesday.

The Blue Devils finished the opening day with a 401 and shot a 398 on the second day to end the tournament at 799. Scottsbluff won the team title with a 680, 21 shots better than second place Beatrice. York was third at 707.

"I would consider this a very successful season overall," remarked head coach Dave Hix. "We were the smallest Class B school represented at the state tournament."

Seniors Mary Boehle and Karissa Dorcey led Wayne at the state tournament.

Boehle fired rounds of 92 and 93 for a two-day total of 185 to finish in a tie for 19th place overall.

"Mary put two days together and should be proud of her accomplishments. She shot 44 both days on the back nine," said Hix.

Dorcey posted an opening day score of 102, but finished the tournament with a 93 to post a two-day score of 195.

"Karissa finally brought it back the second day," commented Hix. "I think she would like to have one more day to play. She kept her thoughts together and played like she is capable."

Hix added, "I was glad to see the seniors finish on a good note. They both showed great leadership and are role models for the younger players."

Junior Amy Hypse posted rounds of 99 and 104 for a two-day total of 203.

"Amy was pleased with her round on Monday, but fell back a little on Tuesday by getting into tree trouble," said Hix. "She improved all year and I look forward to having her back next year."

Sophomore Jennifer Nolte played at state for the first time and shot 108 both days for a two-day score of 216.

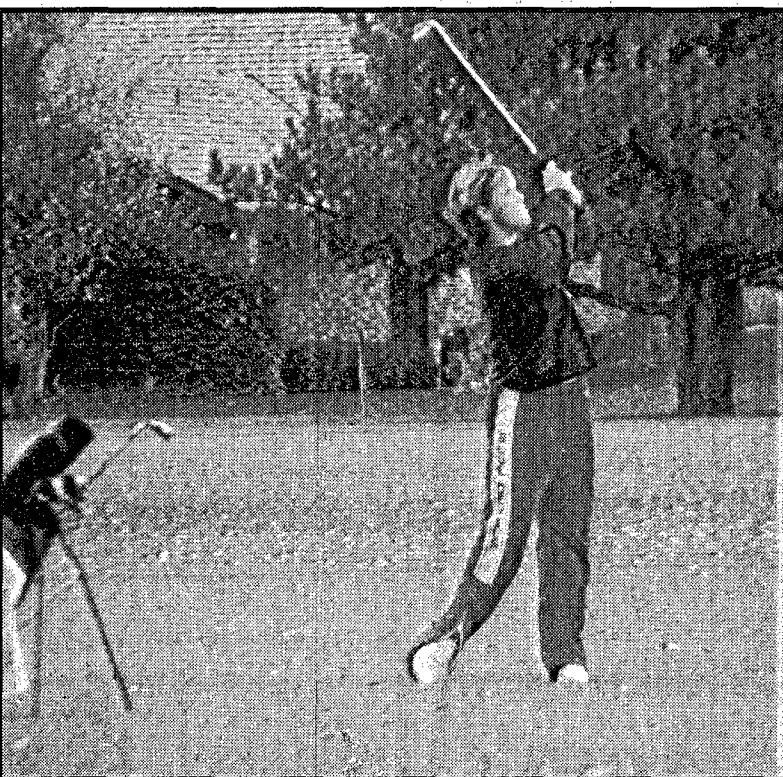

"Jenny had two good days on the greens but struggled from tee to green," remarked Hix. "Her short game really improved as the season progressed to give her confidence in that aspect of her game."

Keely Reinert, a junior, also competed in her first ever state tournament. After shooting a 118 on Monday, Reinert improved nine strokes on Tuesday and shot 109 to finish with a two-day score of 227.

"Keely improved a lot from Monday to Tuesday and was a little more relaxed after the first day," stated Hix.

Coach Hix would like to thank all of the parents and fans who supported Wayne High girls golf this season.

Wayne senior Mary Boehle closed out her Blue Devil career with rounds of 92 and 93 at the Class B State Girls Golf Tournament to finish in a tie for 19th.

Banged up 'Cats fall at Minn-Duluth

The Wayne State football team lost at Minn-Duluth Saturday afternoon 49-18.

The Wildcats played the game without three starters as cornerback Robert Sellers, linebacker Aaron Rogers and offensive lineman Clyde Soappman all sat out the game with injuries.

UMD jumped on Wayne State early as quarterback Cash Langeness rambled 69 yards on the first play from scrimmage to put the Bulldogs up 7-0 just 17 seconds into the game.

The Bulldogs added two more scores in the first quarter to lead 21-0 after one period, then added three more scores in the second quarter before Wayne State got on the scoreboard.

Zach Molacek, a sophomore from Stanton, sprinted 66 yards for a touchdown with 1:43 left in the first half to make the halftime score 42-6.

"We didn't play well in the first half and we weren't consistent enough on offense to get into a scoring match with them," stated WSC Head Coach Scott Hoffman.

Conditions for the game would change in the second half as teams were greeted with 40-50 mph winds and rain showers.

UMD had the only touchdown of the third quarter to make the score 49-6 after three quarters.

Wayne State put together two scoring drives in the fourth quarter.

Quarterback Brett Edwards found Eric Kjar on a 17-yard touchdown pass with 10:52 left to cap a six play, 62-yard drive, making the score 49-12. With 8:21 remaining in the game, Edwards hooked up with Josh Hopwood on a five-yard scoring strike to make the final score 49-18.

"I thought our kids showed some character and played with a lot of pride in tough conditions in the second half," added Hoffman.

Molacek paced the Wildcat offense with 98 yards rushing on 14 carries. Edwards added 30 yards on nine attempts.

Throwing the ball, Edwards was 8 of 22 for 107 yards with two touchdowns and one interception.

Kjar was the only receiver with more than catch, hauling in three passes for 48 yards.

Defensively, safety Kyle Lingenfelter topped the Wildcats in tackles with 15 while defensive lineman Arthur Robinson followed with a career-high 11 stops, including two tackles for a loss.

Wayne State, now 1-5 overall and 1-3 in the NSIC, hosts Waldorf College Saturday in a non-conference game with kickoff set for 1:30pm at Cunningham Field.

Wayne State women's rugby team blasts Huskers 76-0

The undefeated Wayne State women's rugby team trounced Nebraska in Lincoln last Wednesday evening 78-0. The win allows the Wildcats to win the Great Plains Rugby Conference Title and advances Wayne State to the first round of the National Playoffs for USA Rugby National Championships. Wayne State jumped on the Huskers early, thanks to three touchdown runs by sophomore Angela Mathews and another score by Deb Schinkel of Thurston to take a 26-0 halftime lead. The Wildcats came right after the Huskers in the second half with a 70-yard kickoff return by Becky Webster to set the tone for a big night. Steph Binder added five touchdown runs of 27, 38, 55, 63 and 68 yards to put the game away. Coach Darin Barner said the key to Binder's long runs was the presence of Mathews. "Mathews was drawing in two or three tacklers and that allowed her to make perfect option pitches to Binder down the sidelines," said Barner. Mathews followed with two more scores late in the game to make up the 78-0 final score. With the win, Wayne State has outscored their opponents this year by a combined score of 283-25. Barner added, "The best thing about the game is that seven of our top 15 players are freshmen." Coach Barner also reported that nearly 200 WSC students and parents lined the sidelines in Lincoln to cheer on the Wildcats. Wayne State will now advance to the first round of the National Playoffs in April. USA Rugby has placed the Wildcats at the Division I level with Arkansas the likely opponent in the first round.

Laurel-Concord spikers fall to Elkhorn Valley in three games

Tilden Elkhorn Valley outlasted Laurel-Concord in high school volleyball Tuesday evening in Laurel, 15-1, 10-15 and 16-14. Pritchard led the team in digs with eight, followed by Tiffany Erwin with seven and Makayla Hansen with five. Hansen also dished out 42 set assists. "We were plagued by inconsistencies again at crucial times in the match," stated head coach

Patti Cunningham. "Each athlete must be willing to search for a true understanding of what playing to win really means and then develop the drive to embrace the challenges presented at all times." Tilden Elkhorn Valley won the JV game over Laurel-Concord, 15-11, 7-15 and 15-7 while the Laurel-Concord "C" team prevailed in three games, 9-15, 15-9 and 15-8. UNMC College of Nursing holds induction ceremony

The University of Nebraska Medical Center College of Nursing held induction ceremonies across the state Oct. 12 to recognize about 140 new nursing students as they commit to academic integrity and begin assimilating the values and behaviors of the professional nurse.

The ceremony also reiterated some the most important values for the professional nurse and for the profession of nursing: responsibility, trustworthiness, honesty, fairness, and respect of others.

Ceremonies were held in Omaha, Scottsbluff, Kearney, and Lincoln.

During the ceremony, students recited an oath of professionalism and signed a pledge. They also received the college's badge to be affixed to their uniforms, as well as be given the pen used to sign the oath.

"Health care has become more complex," said Virginia Tilden, D.N.Sc., dean of the UNMC College of Nursing, who assumed her new role as dean Oct. 8. "We recognize the importance to initiate a formal ceremony hallmarking the students' entry into the profession of nursing and their assimilation of the values and behaviors of a professional nurse. During the next four to five semesters, students will attend classes, participate in clinical experiences from six to 12 hours a day, and fulfill their pledge to uphold academic integrity and professional standards."

Among the UNMC College of Nursing Lincoln Division students involved in the ceremony was Lyndi Tietz of Carroll.

Lyndi is the daughter of Mark and Joni Tietz and a graduate of Wayne-Carroll High School.

October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month

Domestic Violence Awareness Month evolved from the first Day of Unity observed in October, 1981, by the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence. The intent was to connect battered women's advocates across the nation who were working to end violence against women and their children.

The Day of Unity soon became a special week when a range of activities were conducted at the local, state, and national levels. These activities were as varied and diverse as the program sponsors but had common themes: mourning those who have died because of domestic violence, celebrating those who have survived, and connecting those who work to end violence.

Domestic violence is a pattern of assaultive and controlling behaviors, including physical, sexual, and psychological attacks against the victim as well as against children, property, or pets. These behaviors spring from the perpetrator's need for power and control.

Anyone could become a victim of domestic violence. It crosses all economical, educational, religious, racial, cultural, geographic, and lifestyle lines. It could happen to your mother, your grandmother, your sister or daughter, it could happen to you. Perpetrators of domestic violence will utilize a combination of the following assaultive and controlling behaviors to establish and maintain control over their partner.

Emotional and psychological abuse: *calling names, constantly criticizing, insulting, or humiliating; *degrading and belittling an individual's abilities, beliefs, or appearance; *controlling access to money or other resources; *isolating the victim from family and friends; *extreme jealousy or possessiveness; *destroying or threatening to destroy valued possessions, property, or pets; *threatening to commit suicide; *threatening to harm children or other family members.

Sexual abuse: *accusations of unfaithfulness; *criticizing sexual performance; *coercion to have sex; *forcing sexual acts; *not taking NO for an answer.

Physical abuse: *holding, tying down, or restraining; *pushing, showing, slapping, punching or kicking; *smothering, burning, or choking; *using or threatening to use weapons.

Domestic violence is never a one time incident. Without intervention, the violence continues. The pattern of abusive behaviors will most likely escalate in both frequency and severity.

Some statistics on domestic violence include 95 percent of domestic violence victims are female; domestic violence is the leading cause of injury to women; between 3-4 million children witness domestic violence each year in this country.

Haven House at 112 W. 3rd Street in Wayne has been in existence since 1978, providing crisis intervention and support services for domestic violence and sexual assault victims. They are a non-profit agency which operates with a board of directors, paid staff and volunteers.

Their staff and volunteers are specifically trained in the dynamics of domestic violence and sexual assault. They are also informed and knowledgeable of what local services are available and the procedures for obtaining those services. Services they provide are confidential.

The telephone number at Haven House in Wayne is 375-4633 or there is a 24-hour crisis line at 1-800-876-6238. There is also help at their satellite offices in So. Sioux City (494-7592) or Hartington (254-2553).

Several reach milestones in blood donations at recent blood drive

At the blood drive held at Providence Medical Center on Sept. 25, 48 persons registered to donate with 33 whole blood units being collected and 11 double red cell products being collected for a total of 55 units being collected.

Several people from this area reached milestones during their last donations to the Siouxland Community Blood Bank. They are as follows:

- | | |
|--------------------|------------|
| Doris E. Backstrom | 11 gallons |
| Arnold R. Marr | 3 gallons |
| Rodney L. Hefri | 2 gallons |
| William M. Long | 3 gallons |
| Robert B. Ensz | 7 gallons |
| Mark C. Ahmann | 1 gallon |
| Kenneth A. Nolte | 2 gallons |

Siouxland Blood Bank gives special recognition to these people and to everyone for his or her commitment to giving the gift of life. Also to those involved in the blood drive at Providence Medical Center. The donors and volunteers who contributed to saving the lives of others simply out of kindness deserve gratitude.

Many people don't realize that blood is needed everyday by patients, not just in times of national crisis. To a child battling sickle cell anemia, a grandfather fighting leukemia or a father waiting for a liver transplant, having a safe and available blood supply is more than a wish - it's a necessity.

By being a volunteer or donating at your local drive, you help to ensure that blood and blood products will be available when and where they are needed. The only way the blood supply in the region can be replenished is through the generous donations of people in communities like this one.

The Siouxland Community Blood Bank is the sole supplier of blood products to 28 area hospitals including PMC in Wayne. The only way blood products are available is through the generosity of the community blood donors.

LUPUS SYMPTOMS
Lupus is an autoimmune disease in which the patient's immune system attacks its own cells, sparking inflammation in the tissue. Symptoms vary widely, depending on whether the person has systemic lupus (several systems are affected) or discoid lupus (primarily affects the skin). The most common lupus symptoms include extreme fatigue, painful or swollen joints, skin rashes, and unexplained fever. Some patients experience chest pains, hair loss, sun sensitivity, anemia, and pale or purple extremities from cold or stress. Headaches, dizziness, depression, or seizures may also occur. As with many autoimmune disorders, patients often suffer flares during which symptoms are most severe, followed by periods of remission. While there is no cure for lupus, treatment to reduce flare-ups is typically successful.
October is National Lupus Awareness Month to promote public awareness and to aid in early diagnosis and treatment of its symptoms. If you are experiencing strange symptoms or don't feel like yourself, your provider is your first defense. At WAYNE CONVENIENT CLINIC, located at 114 W. 3rd Street, we offer a wide variety of services for the entire family including treatment of lung and blood pressure problems, insomnia, injury, and acute and chronic illnesses. For more information on this topic or if you would like to schedule an examination, call our office, (402) 375-1383.

Proper handling of game meat is important from field to table

As hunters take to the field this fall, it's important to follow safety precautions to ward off foodborne illness, a University of Nebraska food safety specialist said.

Proper handling of game meat from the field to the table is important to avoid contaminating meat with foodborne pathogens during dressing, handling or transporting, said Julie Albrecht, food safety specialist in NU's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

"Temperature plays an important role in keeping game meat safe and preventing foodborne illness," Albrecht said. "When bacteria have favorable temperatures, they grow to numbers where some can cause illness."

Improper temperature control, preservation practices, cooking and handling may lead to bacterial growth in these meats.

As with any perishable meat or poultry, raw or undercooked game meat can contain harmful bacteria such as Salmonella or E. coli O157:H7, she said. These bacteria live in the intestinal tracts of game, livestock, poultry and other domestic warm-blooded animals, and cause illness in humans when eaten.

"Right now with the weather being so warm, it will be important to do something to keep the meat cold," she said. "Hunters may want to check at sporting good stores for large coolers that can hold game meat so it can be cooled quickly."

Bacteria grow most rapidly in the temperature danger zone, which is between 40 and 140 degrees, Albrecht said.

Temperatures below 40 degrees will slow growth of bacteria but will not kill them.

"This is why foods such as meat and poultry gradually spoil in the refrigerator," Albrecht said. "Properly handled game meat or birds will always be safe stored in a freezer at zero degrees. However, once thawed, bacteria can again reach levels that may lead to foodborne illness."

When cooking game meat and birds, be sure meat reaches safe internal temperatures of 160 to 212 degrees that will destroy bacteria.

"Set the oven temperature no lower than 325 degrees and cook ground meats to internal temperatures of 165 degrees," she said. "Steaks and roasts cooked to an internal temperature of 145 are medium rare, 160 are medium and 170 are well done. A whole game bird should reach 180 degrees."

If raw game meat and birds have been processed and handled safely, they should be safe to eat.

However, if the raw meat was mishandled, bacteria may grow and produce toxins that can cause foodborne illness. Cooking does not destroy those toxins.

Contamination of game usually is related to the manner in which the animal or bird was wounded, dressed, handled or processed.

For more information on proper field dressing, handling and processing, consult a local NU Cooperative Extension office or these Penn State University publications: Proper Field Dressing and Handling of Wild Game and Fish, available online at <http://pubs.cas.psu.edu/FreePubs/uk071.html>, and Proper Processing of Wild Game and Fish, available online at <http://pubs.cas.psu.edu/FreePubs/uk072.html>.

Information shared on control of feral cats

October 16 has been declared National Feral Cat Day - an opportunity to become more knowledgeable about the feral cats in the community and what can be done to humanely help them and control their population.

A feral cat is a domestic cat that has been turned out of its home and forced to live on the street. Many cats that have been turned out of their homes or discarded at farm houses to fend for themselves die for lack of food and shelter.

It is an unfortunate myth that domesticated cats can become effective mousers on the street or at a farm. Newly "freed" cats may not be afraid of people at first, but will come to suspect them as they are treated cruelly and run off when they attempt to make contact or find food.

Subsequent generations will grow up quite wild and be truly feral.

Many people are willing to put out food for these abandoned cats and that is a good start.

Real help and support needs to go much further. It is possible to maintain a healthy feral population that is stable and not a nuisance by humanely trapping them, having them spayed or neutered, given rabies shots and returning them to their original location. Young kittens that are captured can be successfully tamed and adopted out.

Studies have shown that it is more effective and less costly to follow this procedure than to trap and euthanize cats. Removing an existing population or colony only allows an opportunity for new feral cats to move into the area and continue the problem of unlimited multiplication.

There are a few cats in Wayne that have been successfully trapped, fixed and returned to their colony. This can be done throughout the community if there are people who are willing to assume the responsibility for a colony.

For now, the Northeast Nebraska Humane Society is hoping that a new understanding of the feral cat population in our community will make life a bit easier for these cats who that did not chose the life they have found themselves leading. Most would prefer to be the pampered pets that they started out as, rather than constantly fighting for their lives.

For more information, contact the Northeast Nebraska Humane Society, P.O. Box 151, Wayne, Neb. 68787.

Wayne State to participate in National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week

In an effort to raise awareness about alcohol issues, Wayne State College (WSC) will be participating in the 20th annual National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week, October 18-25.

Activities are being coordinated by the WSC TRUST Coalition, a campus-community coalition created in 2001 to address the high-risk drinking environment.

The kick-off event will take place at the Oct. 18 Wayne State vs. Waldorf College football game.

As spectators enter the stadium, they will see a display of shoes representing each of the 117 people who died in Nebraska as a result of alcohol-related traffic crashes in 2002. The shoe display and signs citing related statistics will be put together by the Students Against Destructive Decisions (SADD) group.

During half time of the game, members of the Student Athlete Advisory Committee (SAAC) will wear Fatal Vision Goggles while running through an obstacle course on the field to demonstrate the visual impairment caused by alcohol. SADD will also have a table set up at the game for spectators to try out the Fatal Vision Goggles.

Throughout the rest of National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week, information tables will be set up in the Wayne State Student Center with brochures about related topics. The WSC-PEN (Peer Education Network) will use the "Tell It Like It Is" theme generated by BACCHUS and GAMMA (two student organizations) and ask students to write comments about their expectations regarding their alcohol use and real life. Those comments will be posted in the WSC Student Center.

The WSC TRUST Coalition also applauded the release of a national report on underage drinking and called for increased action to prevent underage alcohol abuse. Reducing Underage Drinking? A Collective Responsibility, by the National Research Council and Institute of Medicine of the National Academies, is the first and largest comprehensive examination of existing alcohol prevention programs in America to establish a more effective underage drinking prevention campaign.

Among the key recommendations in the report are support for community organizing efforts to reduce regional underage drinking rates; comprehensive prevention programs and environmental changes on college campuses; and raising taxes on alcohol. Studies show that price is the single most effective deterrent for youth, and increased alcohol taxes would help states pay for costly alcohol treatment programs in a time of record budget deficits.

"Increasing alcohol excise taxes alone won't solve the problem," says Kathy Mohlfeld, the WSC TRUST Coalition coordinator. "To make a dent in kids' alcohol abuse, we need to proactively change the environment in which they live. Parents, local businesses, youth organizations, government agencies, universities and faith groups must join forces to create an atmosphere where underage drinking is actively discouraged."

Kids need to be responsible

Kids need to become responsible so they can make their own way in the world and so people can trust them. Parents can help.

- Set a good example. Don't call in sick if you're not sick; be helpful and courteous to others, pay bills on time and tell the truth, for example.

- Give them some choices. If you make all their decisions for them, they won't learn how to make decisions on their own.

- Have a routine to their day such as a time for bedtime. Do the same thing every night before bedtime such as brush teeth, wash face, bedtime story or talk and lights out. These things help them be organized in what they do.

- Give them small responsibilities such as setting the table when small, big responsibilities when older, such as fixing the meal.

Amy Topp
Extension Educator
4-H & Youth

- Don't try to force kids to do things. Children need to feel inside that they should do right. Fear of what parents will do only builds fear or anger, no responsibility.

- Don't lecture. It won't help.

- If your child does something wrong, he/she should take the consequences that follow. The consequences should fit the wrong-doing. Small ones for small things, larger ones for big things.

For example, if he is to put his clothes in the laundry basket and he doesn't do it, then he doesn't have clean clothes. See that it is his responsibility, not the parents. Don't apologize for it. Say "Looks like you'll be a little wrinkled and dirty today. Next time I think you'll remember."

Nasal Flu Vaccine Not for Everyone
The FDA recently approved the use of the first inhaled flu vaccine. The nasal vaccine is safe and effective in preventing influenza A and B in people ages 5 to 49. However, since the vaccine is made from a weakened live virus, those who are at high risk of serious complications from the flu (the very young, the elderly, people with immune and respiratory diseases) are urged to get the injection vaccine instead. Ask your doctor or pharmacist for more information.

Producers advised to make wise nitrogen fertilizer decisions

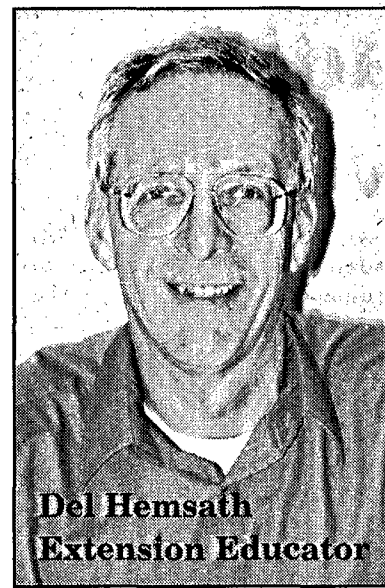

The forecast is for higher nitrogen prices in 2004. Make nitrogen management decisions upon known facts in order to conserve fertilizer, reduce cost increase and reduce potential ground water pollution.

There are several considerations on how much nitrogen needs to be added to meet the requirements of a crop to achieve the most economical return. There are many different methods to determine the nitrogen needs of a plant using such technologies as chlorophyll meters, plant tissue samples, yield mapping, infrared photos, yield history, etc.

One of the best sources of information to begin an approach to making a decision is obtained through a soil test. Testing the soil will indicate the amount of nitrogen left in the soil that can be used by the next crop.

The year 2003 was an unusual year with early spring rains in excess of what the soil could hold causing some leaching problems. It would be a good decision to have some deep soil samples taken to a depth of at least 24 inches to check on the residual level of nitrogen

Del Hemsath
 Extension Educator

left in the soil. Nitrogen can leach into the soil profile and accumulate at a certain depth based upon the amount of rainfall. Sampling the soil just at the surface depth of eight inches every year does not indicate the deeper stored amount.

The leached nitrogen is like having money in a savings account, it won't be used unless one is forced to. The same can apply to a crop, force the crop to use the stored nitrogen before it is lost. Proper sampling must be done in order to get the best results from a soil test. Use the services offered by crop service agencies to obtain the samples if one is not able to do it yourself.

A new trend for soil sampling is to use a smaller number of acres per sample to take advantage of the precision application equipment. A grid sampling of 2+ acres has been the most accepted and practical soil analysis. This type of sampling is usually for the surface sample of 0 - 8 inch depth. Much planning needs to be done before using the grid sampling technique.

Soil sampling does not need to be conducted every year. If a corn-soybean rotation is being used, each crop compliments the other for nutrient utilization from different depths in the soil. Sampling for nitrogen could be spaced in a four-year rotation throughout the land to help reduce the cost each year and spread the cost over several years.

Consult with the local soil sampling services to have a plan in place in order to make sound decisions on nitrogen management.

Check with your local extension office for further details.

Remembering our friend with fondness

When you want to farm and you only have one good arm, you can really use some good hired help. But good hired help is hard to find. And we were always looking, it seems.

Thirty-one years ago, a full-time hand who had lived in a house on some land we were renting decided to move back to York. This was in April. The first week in May, the Big Farmer tried to ride a hog and the hog won. He broke his good arm! There was not one kernel of corn in the ground.

You know how it is in farming communities: when you have hard luck, the neighbors simply pull their equipment in and help you out. We sat in the pickup on a hill, watching and crying.

That same week, neighbor Fred Johnson came over to say he knew a fellow who had worked for some other farmers in the area and was looking for a job. That fellow was Richard Carson.

We were in no position to be picky, and he seemed pleased to be offered a place to live. That's how Dick came to work for us. And work he did, through all seasons and all kinds of calving, walking beans, and chopping thistles. He was pretty darned good natured about it, too. Most of the time.

We got to know his sister, Mabel, who didn't live too far away, and his brother, Howard, who lived in Lincoln and participated in corn-picking contests for the fun of it. The only real vacation he took was to California with Howard and Mary. I think he enjoyed it, but he was mighty glad to be back home, too.

He had been born at Enola, and he had a friend there who raised great melons. In late summer, he'd take his pickup and get a bunch for all of us. When I had a flat tire, Dick fixed it. He did the jobs that needed two hands and that most women don't find easy to do. (Here at the Farm House, I've frequently wished he was near by for those jobs.)

The day I moved into an apartment in Lincoln, preparatory to moving off the farm, he helped us load some furniture; all the while, looking displeased. I think he saw what was coming, and didn't want to believe it. The following spring, he was helping prepare for the farm sale.

Meanwhile, he had moved into another house, on some land that we owned, closer to the feedlot. I think our kids thought he was just part of the family, and he liked to tease them. He also liked a place in Winside called Shelly's Saloon, and became fast friends with Marcella and Dallas.

By the time we quit farming, he was drawing social security and wanting to take life a little easier. So, he stayed on, and checked on things for us, and kept the stock tank filled. He wasn't a reader, and never watched the TV set we gave him. He liked to putter. And visit.

He helped cut thistles until the last few years; always teasing the kids, now grown, and their spouses. Our visits had been fewer. And he only called in case of emergency. His birthday was Sept. 24, and we stopped in with a pie on the second of October. He told us he wasn't feeling good, with frequent trips to the bathroom, so it was a short visit. The next day, I encouraged Mike to call and check on him. He didn't answer. They found him later.

He was an independent cuss, who didn't put much faith in doctors. I'm sure he wouldn't have wanted to be in a nursing home; he didn't like to visit Mabel when she was in one. I guess this is the way he would have wanted it. But it feels sad, and lonely, to die like that.

And there's a hole in our hearts this week, knowing he won't be there anymore. We'll miss his good-natured banter, and his loyalty. We thank those of you who befriended him; and ask you to remember him with kindness. I know we will.

THE ALLEN CORNHUSKERS

On Oct. 6, Carla Rastede, Greg Rastede, and Alvin Christensen, all of Allen, participated in the Nebraska State Hand Corn Husking Contest at Columbus, Nebraska. Carla entered the youth (girls) 20 and under division where she picked 148 pounds of corn in 10 minutes. She placed second and earned a beautiful plaque for her efforts.

Greg entered the 21 to 49 Year-Old Men's Contest where he picked 421 pounds of corn for 7th place. Alvin entered the Men's Open Contest where he picked 785 pounds of corn, less than 30 pounds less than the first place finisher.

Alvin also picked in the team contest where his team finished first out of 18 teams. His team picked 382 pounds of corn in 3-5 minutes. All three were justifiably proud of the amount of corn they picked. Carla and Greg are children of Allan and Marcia Rastede.

The first corn-shucking contest was held in 1922 which led to an official Mid-West Husking Contest in 1924 when Henry Wallace (later Secretary of Agriculture) and other Iowans promoted a competition along with the states of Iowa, Nebraska, and Illinois. The national contests were sponsored by major U.S. farm discussed were: National Convention applications, FFA dues, Senior State degree applicants, and fruit sales. Some students told the rest of the chapter about their judging experience that they had on Wednesday.

Speaker Karen Borg, parole officer in Sioux City, Iowa, gave a presentation on her job at recent FFA meeting.

After the meeting was adjourned, special guest speaker, Karen Borg gave a presentation on her job. She is a parole officer in Sioux City, Iowa.

She talked about what she has to do at her job, what devices they wants to ride with them.

For everyone's safety, there will be rules in place. Anyone not following the rules will be dropped off at a pickup station and brought back directly to the Fire hall.

There will be two trips. The first one will leave at 6 pm. This trip is suggested for second graders and younger. (It will be less scary!)

The second trip will leave at 7:30 pm. This trip is suggested for third to sixth graders since it will be scarier than the first trip. Both trips will end at the Fire hall, with hotdogs and hot cocoa, and a drawing for a prize. Each person completing the ride will receive a bag of Halloween treats.
