Council discusses siren system

By Clara Osten
 Of the Herald

Sirens - when to sound them and when not to - was among the topics at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Following several severe storms in the Wayne area in recent weeks, a number of questions have been raised by local citizens in regard to the city's policy on sounding of the tornado sirens in Wayne.

Police Chief Lance Webster reviewed with the council the background for the present policy and a proposal to modify the policy to be able to break into the city's cable system to warn citizens of imminent danger. This was the practice several years ago, but a change in the cable system took that feature away from the cable system.

The council approved a Construction Services Agreement with Kirkham Michael Associates for the Country Club Road paving project. The firm will serve as the project engineer and be responsible for overseeing the work on the project. The firm will be paid on an hourly basis, not to exceed $74,000.

In a related item, the council also approved the contract for the construction of Country Club Road. A&R Construction submitted a bid of $628,000, which was nearly $50,000 less than the second, lowest bid. Construction will begin in late fall of this year or early next spring.

Wayne's T.E.A.M. 15 to conduct town meeting

At the regularly scheduled meeting of T.E.A.M. 15 members on May 25, it was decided to schedule an Open Town Meeting on Monday, Sept. 13 to disseminate the latest information about the state's plans to upgrade Main Street/Highway 15 in Wayne in 2006.

This Open Town Meeting will focus primarily on information needed by the business owners and building owners on Main Street between Clark and Seventh streets. However, other business owners in the Wayne area and interested public are welcome to attend.

Over time, and as the date gets closer to the 2006 construction period, more information will become available to keep the general population informed of issues and resolutions to problems that surface. T.E.A.M. 15 is committed to serving the needs of the residents of the Wayne area and maintaining as much as possible the continuity of commerce and daily living up to and through the repaving project.

For more information about this announcement, contact any member of T.E.A.M. 15 or call 402-375-2240.

Council member Dennis Linster raised questions about the work done by A&R Construction in another project and was assured by Rich Robinson of Kirkham Michael Associates that someone from his firm would be on the job site at all times.

The council approved a change order for the Grainland Road Street Improvement project. The project was funded, in part, by Surface Transportation Project funds and is now complete and ready to begin the process of assessing the costs to property owners involved.

Cap Peterson of Northeast Nebraska Insurance presented the city with a $10,961 dividend check. The money represents a portion of the amount refunded to a number of cities from the Nebraska Municipalities Safety Group of the Employers Insurance Companies.

The city of Wayne has received a check of this nature in seven of the last 10 years. The money is presented to cities participating in Employers Insurance Companies' Nebraska Municipalities Safety Group Program.

In other action, the council voted to increase rental fees for use of the Wayne City Auditorium.

After the completion of the renovation of the building last year, the council agreed to look at the rates and make a determination if they need to be adjusted.

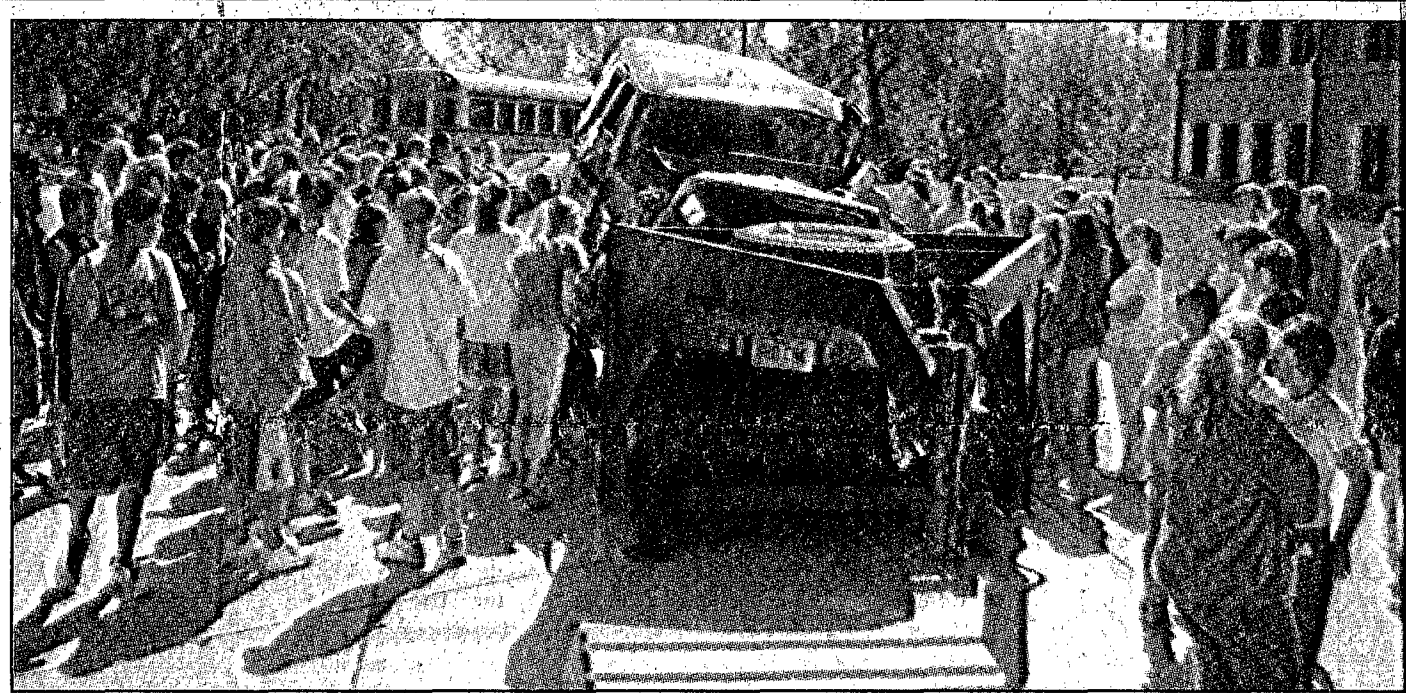

Beginning with new rentals, the cost of renting the Auditorium will increase from $150 to $225 for the auditorium; from $50 to $75 per day for the North Meeting Room and increase the damage deposit from $50 to $150 for all renters. The use of the kitchen is included in the cost of rental.

The council also approved the purchase of 30 eight-foot tables for the auditorium and 15 round tables. In addition, a storage unit will be purchased or constructed to allow the tables to be stored somewhere other than under the stage.

Council member Linster noted that removing and returning the tables to the current storage area causes damage to the newly re-finished floor of the building.

The council voted 5-3 to allocate $5,000 for design work on Main Street enhancements in conjunction with the work to be done on Highway 15 (Main Street) in 2006. The design work is for Main Street from First through Fourth Street and will include lighting, landscaping and other articles such as trash cans and/or benches.

The council's next meeting is set for Tuesday, June 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers.

Sobering

Driver's Education students from Wayne, Wakefield, Winside, Wisner, Pilger and Homer were in attendance for Russ Reineke's presentation at Wayne Middle School. Reineke's 24-year-old son, Dale Reineke, and 21-year-old friend Kristi Nielsen were killed, and his son's fiancée and another friend were seriously injured in a November 24, 2001 collision near Jefferson, Iowa.

Relay to be held this weekend

In a nation where more than one million people will be diagnosed with cancer this year, the Wayne area is invited to celebrate life.

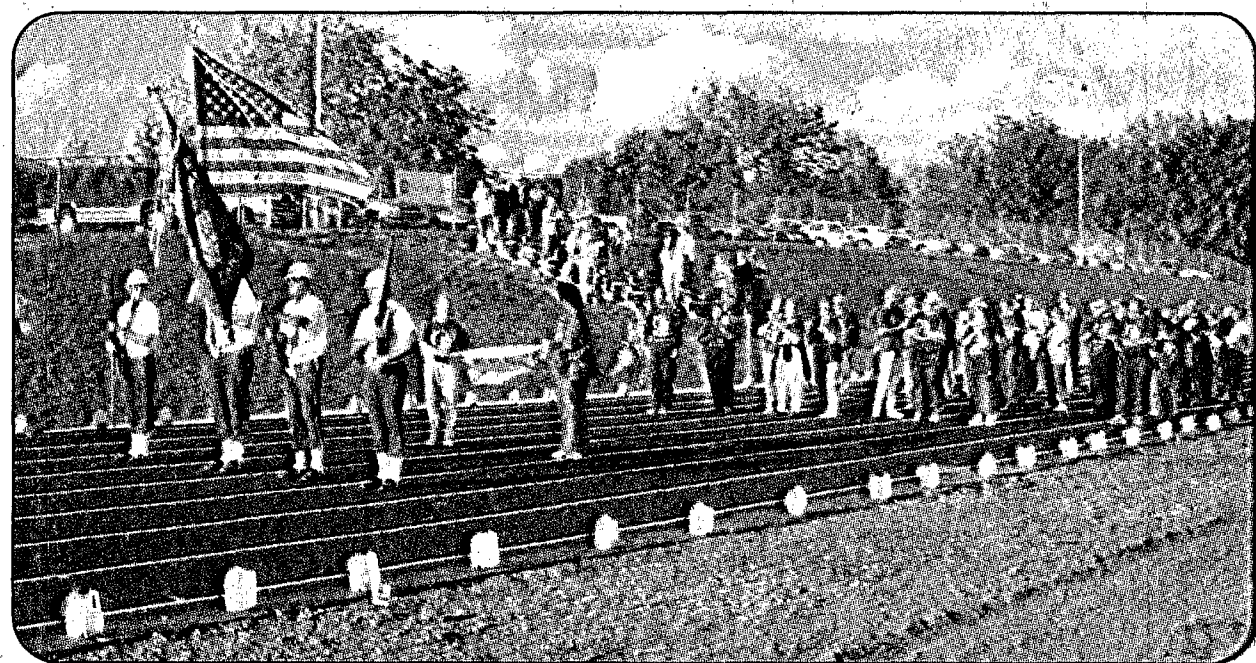

The fifth annual American Cancer Society's Relay for Life will be held Friday and Saturday, June 11-12 at Kern Field in Wayne.

This year's fundraising event involves 12 teams of participants who take turns walking or running the track in an effort to fight cancer. Teams campout, eat and play games.

The message of this event is cancer can be conquered. This theme of hope is ignited as the ceremony begins with a cancer survivors' lap at 7 p.m. This lap honors the courage of all who have defeated cancer.

The atmosphere of Relay For Life is one of camaraderie and celebration, providing an opportunity for cancer survivors to pass the torch of hope on to those still battling cancer or those who might be touched by cancer in the future.

Relay For Life is an overnight, team effort to raise

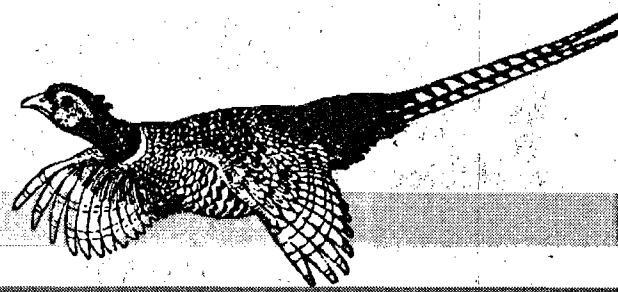

Members of the military led the Survivor Lap of the 2003 Relay for Life event at the Kern Track. This year's event will be held Friday and Saturday, June 11-12.

Appreciates article

Dear Editor,
I wish to say "thank you" for the article in the May 27 Wayne Herald about identity theft.
I had no idea there are so many ways identity thieves can acquire information to use your Social Security number.
Thank you to Amy Topp, Extension Educator, for this very informative article.

It's a sad day!

Dear Editor:
Isn't it a sad day in Wayne when someone goes to the pool, leaves their beach towel in the locker room, returns after swimming for less than an hour and finds their towel gone? Yes, I think it's a very sad day.
This past Sunday, I went to the pool about 7:30 p.m. for a swim with my daughter. It's hard to believe that after spending some time in the water, that I would find my towel missing. It would be nice to think that maybe someone just picked up the wrong towel, but mine was the only one hanging in there. And yes, it's just a towel, the one my children gave me for Father's Day last year.
Isn't it sad that it's come to the point that you need to put your towel into a basket and leave in the lifeguard's room or risk it being taken?
Maybe some boy thought it would be "neat" or maybe get a "kick" out of taking something that didn't belong to him. And I guess whoever did it probably didn't realize how it would affect the person who it belonged to.
But isn't it sad that things like this happen in Wayne?

Thanks to those who serve

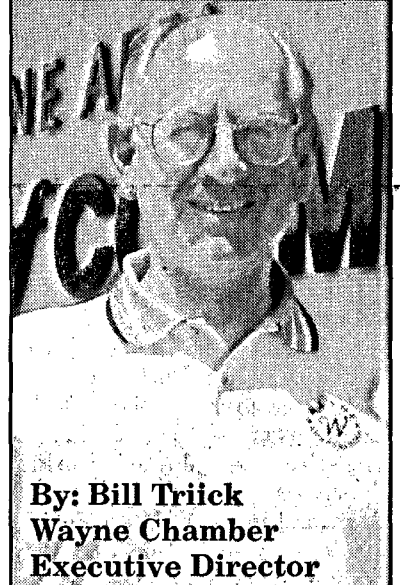

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent

Attending the funeral for a fallen Marine leaves you without appropriate words.
Words get said. Words get written. It is just that none of them could possibly be the correct words. At least, not at the time.
Just a few days after Memorial Day, my wife and I attended the funeral of young Matt Hendersoh. He was 25. He died in Iraq. He left behind a wife, parents, siblings, friends. They loved him.
The sadness inherent in such an occasion is easily understood.
A nation is burying a son who died in noble service.
A family is burying a son that was part of its future. People, as is often said, are not meant to bury their children.
With that, we'll simply use this venue to again express our thanks to those who serve, to those who have served, and to those who love them best.
It's the kind of thanks that ought to be expressed, visibly and vocally, often.

CHICKEN SHOW BAND Also, with respect to the parade, we are putting together an official Chicken Show band. To be eligible, one must preferably have some reasonable skill with a band instrument, can read music, be available to either march or ride a float in the parade while playing, and finally have or create some sort of chicken or Lewis and Cluck-related costume. Contact Della Pries at 375-5266 if you want more information or to participate. This would be a GREAT way for alums to prove they haven't lost their touch.

Entry forms are available at the Chamber office, or at the Wayne Country Club, or from any member of Wayne Optimists (contact Bob Wriedt 402-375-2569 or 7819).
WALKERS WANTED! I'm hopeful that most readers noticed in a previous week's Wayne Herald the announcement of the 5K (3.1 mile) Fun Walk that will be held as part of the Chicken Days festivities on July 7.
Co-sponsored by PMC Wellness Center and Wayne Mercy Medical Center, this event will challenge the walker to match their actual walking time with their estimated time without the use of a watch, stop watch, or outside coaching. It will be lots of fun and will make your casual walking experience a little competitive. Winners in each age category will be vying for $20 chamber bucks certificates. Teams of 3-5 participants may enter for their organizations. Relay

funds for research, education, advocacy and patient service programs. "Cancer does not stop at night," said Lori Butler, Relay for Life chair. "So we're not going to stop at night-time either. We hope the community will join us in this fight."

Relay For Life starts at dusk and ends in the morning hours of the following day. The light and darkness of the day and night parallel the physical effects, emotions and mental state of a cancer patient while undergoing treatment.

The Relay begins when the sun is setting. This symbolizes the time that the person has been diagnosed with cancer. The day is getting darker and this represents the cancer patient's state of mind as they feel that life is coming to an end.

As the evening goes on, it gets colder and darker, just as the emotions of the cancer patient do. Around 1 or 2 a.m., represents the time when the cancer patient starts treatments. They become exhausted, some sick, not wanting to go on and possibly wanting to give up. Participants in Relay feel much the same way while walking during these hours. They cannot stop or give up, just as the cancer patient cannot stop or give up.

Around 4 or 5 a.m. symbolizes the end of treatment for the cancer patient. Once again they are tired, but they know they will make it.

The sun rising represents the end of treatment for the cancer patient. They see the light at the end of the tunnel and know that life will go on. The morning light brings on a new day full of life and excitement for the cancer patient. Participants feel the brightness of the morning and know that the end of the Relay is close at hand.

When participants leave the Relay, they can think of cancer patients leaving their last treatment. Just as participants are exhausted and weak, so is that person after treatment.

The schedule for this year's event includes:

Jensen receives recognition

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Megan Jensen of Wakefield has been named a United States Award Winner in Band.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. The Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students. Our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievements," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Megan is the daughter of Raymond and Theresa Jensen of Wakefield. Her grandparents are Delbert and Elinor Jensen and Ed and LaVerne Heithold, all of Wayne.

ognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students. Megan, who recently graduated from Wayne High School, was nominated for this national award by Brad Weber, the band teacher at the school.

Her name will now appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

Wayne State students raise more than $7,000 for St. Jude's

Wayne State College students were up all night for a good cause recently. Wayne State Greek Council members were among college students from more than 100 campuses nationwide participating in the Up 'til Dawn program, a fund-raising effort to benefit St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

The Wayne State Up 'til Dawn program has raised $7,331 to date, with contributions still arriving from the students' letter-writing campaign.

The amount raised by Wayne State students so far tops the donations of colleges in five surrounding states, according to officials. Spearheaded by WSC students and Greek Council members Kelli and Heather Roland, sisters from Bruhing, the Up 'til Dawn program was held at Wayne State for the first time in April. Derek Anderson, Student Center manager and WSC Greek Council sponsor, assisted with the project. The campaign included two letter-writing parties held by Wayne State Greek Council members and culminated in an Up 'til Dawn event at Riley's Convention Center in Wayne, a night of activities for students participating in the program. "Riley's donated their whole facility for the Up 'til Dawn finale," said Anderson. "The project has received great support from the community. For the first time that this project has been attempted, I think it was a great success."

Other sponsors included Stadium Sports; Chartwells Dining Service; Flowers and Wine; Donald E. Koerber, O.D.; Trio Travel; Farmers and Merchants State Bank; Rain Tree; Mines Jewelry; First National Bank; and the Wayne State College Book Store.

St. Jude Children's Research

Hospital was founded by the late entertainer Danny Thomas. The hospital is an internationally-recognized biomedical research center dedicated to finding cures for catastrophic childhood diseases. The hospital's work is supported through funds raised by the American Lebanese Syrian Associated Charities (ALSAC). All St. Jude patients are treated regardless of their ability to pay. ALSAC covers all costs for families who have no insurance.

Volunteers including several Wayne State College students learned to use several types of tools for gathering the macroinvertebrates for analysis of stream organisms and physical and chemical conditions of healthy local stream site.

Volunteers monitor local stream with Dr. Barbara Hayford

Volunteers for the Northeast Nebraska Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) initiated a volunteer stream monitoring project of Bazile Creek near Center on May 17.

Training and the first sampling of Bazile Creek was led by Dr. Barbara Hayford, assistant professor of biology at Wayne State College.

Other volunteers included four residents of Knox County, two other RC&D members and two students from WSC, Erin Kucera and Rebekka Jessen who was acting as a representative for the NRCS.

The objectives of the project were to:

- Educate volunteers on stream ecology & biological monitoring
- Convey a sense of value for stream ecosystems
- Identify macroinvertebrates to the indicator group
- Calculate metrics used to determine stream health

- Collect water quality data
- Characterize the basic environment of sampling habitat

The volunteers began their assessment by taking note of the weather and location, they were to make a map of the 25-yard-sample area, and then gather samples for in-stream physical and biological characteristics. They learned to use several types of tools for gathering the macroinvertebrates.

Found in the stream were blood worms, stoneflies, mayflies, damselflies, net-spinners, caddisflies, beetles, midges, black flies, lunged snails, clams, and minnows.

An analysis of the stream organisms and physical and chemical conditions indicates a fairly healthy stream site. Further volunteer monitoring events on Bazile Creek are planned for late August and October.

WSC to host International Linguistics Conference

Barcelona, Spain. Lisbon, Portugal. Berkeley, California. Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. Wayne, Nebraska. These are just some of the sites of upcoming events sponsored by the Society for the Study of the Indigenous Languages of the Americas (SSILA).

The Wayne State College Department of Language & Literature in Wayne will host an international linguistics conference sponsored by SSILA from June 11-13. Participants in the conference, the 24th annual meeting of the Siouan and Caddoan Languages Conference, will include linguists from major universities in England, Canada and the United States, as well as independent scholars and Native American language educators.

Organized by Dr. Catherine Rudin, WSC language and literature professor, the conference will feature 17 presentations by participants, as well as roundtable discussions.

The Siouan languages are a group of Native American languages which at one time were spoken throughout the central parts of what is now the United States and parts of Canada. Although some of these languages are now extinct or in danger of being lost, several are still spoken by relatively large groups of people.

Among the Siouan languages are Lakota, Crow, Mandan, Osage, Ojibwa, and Ho-chunk (Winnebago). The Caddoan languages are another group of endangered Native American languages spoken in the Plains region. Caddoan languages include Caddo, Pawnee, Wichita, and Arikara.

The conference will be held in the Humanities Building on the Wayne State campus. Conference sessions will be open to the public. There is no charge to attend. Members of Siouan- or Caddoan-speaking communities/tribes are encouraged to attend, either as presenters or observers.

For more information, contact the WSC Department of Language and Literature at 402-375-7395.

ALUMNI BANQUET

Approximately 125 alumni and guests attended the May 29 Winside High School Alumni Banquet in the village auditorium. The evening opened with a social hour followed by a catered supper by Toni's Steakhouse. President Charles Slahn welcomed everyone and Pastor Carol Jean Stapleton of Winside United Methodist Church gave the invocation.

Five members of the 2004 graduating class were present. Annette Boelter responded with a thank you to the alumni for having them.

Becky Wurdeman gave the secretary report and Treasurer Rodney Brogren gave his report. Historian Karolyn Slahn read a history report.

and Tables/Gifts - Nicole Deck (1996).

Presentations by the honored classes were made. Two members

Alleman announced the gifts and winners and was in charge of table decorations which were in patriotic colors.

The banquet closed with former WHS Cheerleaders leading the alumni in the school song and Pastor Stapleton gave the Benediction. Next year's banquet will again be held over Memorial Weekend and all graduating classes ending in a 5 will be honored.

MEMORIAL DAY PROGRAM

Roy Reed American Legion Post 252 of Winside held their annual Memorial Day Program on May 31 in the Winside Auditorium. The Winside Post Color Guard advanced the colors and was followed by the Winside Scouts who decorated the veteran's graves at the cemetery.

Post Chaplain Orville Lage gave the invocation and Wayne Denklauf read the Roster of Deceased Veterans. The Winside School Band provided music for the program.

Guest speaker was First Sergeant Duprey. He is retired from the military with 27 years of combined service in the U.S. Navy and the U.S. Army. Most recently he retired from the U.S.D.A. He is a youth security specialist at the Youth Rehabilitation Training Center in Geneva.

His awards and decorations include the Meritorious Service Medal, Army Commendation Medal, Army Achievement Medal with Three Oak Leaf Clusters, National Defense Service Medal with Two Bronze Stars, Vietnam Service Medal with Bronze Star and many other awards and decorations. First Sergeant Duprey is a Charter Member of the Second Society. He is a Charter Member of VFW Post 10579, Davenport, Iowa, and a 30-year member of the American Legion, Deshler.

First Sergeant Duprey and his wife, Darlene, reside in the Carleton area.

Duprey began his discussion with the poem "Freedom Isn't Free." He discussed a situation he once was in while stuck in traffic and in a hurry to get to his destination. It was pouring rain and no one was moving. He was growing more and more agitated when he saw a man jump out of one of the vehicles in front of him.

Duprey continued that the driver (whom he was sure was a private in the armed forces) was getting soaking wet, but ran across the street to a veteran's memorial. "I watched as he picked up an American flag that had fallen to the ground in the rain. He propped it up, stood back and saluted it before returning to his vehicle. At that moment I realized what I had to do was not so important after all, he showed me what our real mission should be."

Duprey also discussed the situation in Iraq - not lingering on the bad things, but on all the good things that the Americans have accomplished since over turning Saddam. They now have clean drinking water, thousands and thousands of children now have immunization shots, children go to schools and for the first time girls can also go to school, they have 2/3 more electrical power than ever before, sewer and water lines and many many more better conditions.

He said that our troops "will return home" but not until we finish the job, we will stay the course, then we will come home. He closed with the poem "I Got Your Back."

Legion members were honored for 50 years of continued membership.

Also honored and presented with a Certificate of Appreciation were all veterans who served during WWII. Honored were: Marvin Andersen, Norman Anderson, Alvin Carlson, William Cary Jr., Norman Deck, William M. Hoffman, Dale F. Krueger, Henry Langenberg Jr., Warren Marotz, Wilfred Miller, John L. Neely, Chris W. Nelsen, Dean R. Owens, Freddie W. Pevnitzky, Alvin F. Schmode, Clair Stoaks, George W. Voss, Howard Voss, Donald Weible, William W. Wendt, and LeRoy Wittler.

Following the retirement of the colors, the Post Firing Squad traveled to Pleasant View Cemetery for a prayer and salute. The Post Auxiliary hosted a Windsor Loin

Dean and Daisy Janke were this year's king and queen at the alumni banquet.

Certificate of Appreciation from the Alumni was made to Dianne Jaeger for organizing the first Post Prom celebration in Winside 20 years ago. She gave an overview of how it was organized.

He also announced a new annual scholarship of $1000 will be made thanks to the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Trautwein. He also announced Lacey Jaeger as this year's Alumni Scholarship recipient of $400.

Jarvi receives recognition

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Wade Jarvi of Wayne has been named a United States Award Winner in Foreign Language.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. The Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students. Wade, who attends Wayne High School, was nominated for this national award by Ms. Traci Coover, a teacher at the school.

His name will now appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Wade is the son of Keith and Mary Jarvi of Wayne. His grandmother is Zelma Juhlin of Wayne.

Briefly Speaking

Bridge played at Country Club luncheon

AREA - The Wayne Country Club ladies luncheon was held June 8 with 28 ladies attending. Hostesses were Phyllis Hix and Adeline Park. Bridge was played at seven tables. Guests were Clara Sullivan and Marleen Nixon.

Winners last week were Ruth Paulsen, high, and Sandra Emry, second high.

Hostess next week will be Doris Stipp. For reservations, call 375-1286. The Tuesday, June 15 meeting will be at the Wayne Senior Citizen's Center.

UNMC students train in area communities

Several University of Nebraska Medical Center students from the area are among those training in communities across Nebraska. The students are working with health professionals across Nebraska as part of their health care education requirements at UNMC. The local students are Benjamin Martin and Katie Walton, both of Wayne, and Sara Rygol of Wakefield.

Martin is in the College of Medicine, PCI, Primary Care - First year medical students. He has been training in Wayne under Benjamin J. Martin MD from May 24 to June 11.

Walton, is in the College of Dentistry, and will be in Pierce working under Todd Wragge DDS from July 19 to July 23.

Rygol, who is in School of Allied Health Professions, will have her rotation site in Lincoln at the Nebraska Heart Institute from July 5 to Aug. 1. Dana Peterson PA-C will be her preceptor. In May, Rygol was in Plattsmouth at UMA with David Kuphal PA-C as her preceptor.

The student rotations are part of the UNMC Rural Health Education Network (RHEN), an innovative program developed to address the shortage of health professionals in rural Nebraska.

The students represent the colleges of dentistry, medicine, nursing, pharmacy and the School of Allied Health Professions.

The purpose of RHEN is to change how and where primary care students at UNMC are educated. RHEN was developed to expose students to a rural health setting with the idea that if students receive their training in a rural area, the chances are much greater that they will return to a rural area once they complete their training.

Water quality may be concern

Owners of domestic wells flooded or with changed water quality in terms of taste, color or cloudiness, in the areas affected by the recent storms are encouraged to test their wells for bacteria, according to Jack Daniel, administrator of the Environmental Health Services Section of the Nebraska Health and Human Services System.

HHSS has been testing samples sent in by owners of domestic wells. So far the tests have been negative for bacteria. However, all wells in the areas affected by storms should be tested if they were flooded or have observed changes in water quality.

For more information about water testing, call the laboratory at (402) 471-8457.

Jamie Backstrom

Backstrom receives recognition for accomplishments

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Jamie Backstrom of Wayne has been named a United States Award Winner in Band.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. The Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students.

Jamie, who recently graduated from Wayne High School, was nominated for this national award by Brad Weber, a teacher at the school.

Her name will now appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Jamie is the daughter of Perry and Lesa Backstrom of Wayne. Her grandparents are Ralph and Ann Barclay of Wayne and Lawrence and Blanche Backstrom also of Wayne.

Food label date determines products' peak quality

The milk carton says sell by April 1, but it's April 3. Is the milk safe to drink?

Use-by or sell-by dates really are only indicators of safety, not a date when a product goes bad. In general, dating is to determine how long a product is going to remain at peak quality in terms of its taste and nutrient retention.

Consumers should be aware of these date on perishable and other items. A food shouldn't be bought after its date has passed because that's a guarantee of bringing home a food that is no longer at peak quality.

Also, the date shouldn't be used as an indicator of freshness in home refrigerators. The use-by-date guarantees quality, or freshness, only at the supermarket. The date is used to determine a safe length of storage time in a store refrigerator case, which is set at a lower temperature, around 30 degrees, than a home refrigerator, which is set around 40 degrees. The date loses meaning at home when stored in the warmer refrigerator. However, this doesn't mean one should ignore the dates either.

For example, a package of hamburger meat with a use-by-date four days away doesn't mean the meat will be at peak freshness

Amy Topp
Extension Educator
4-H & Youth

after four days at home. It needs to be eaten or placed in a freezer within one to two days of purchase to ensure the best taste.

For most perishable foods, such as milk and juice, quality begins to deteriorate about a week after purchase.

Eggs are an exception to the week-or-so rule of thumb. They keep fresh for three to five weeks after purchase. Deteriorating freshness is not about bacteria that cause illness but about bacteria that can produce an "off" smell or flavor. An effective method for determining if food is fresh enough to eat is simply sniff the food to determine if it has a strange odor.

The one exception is the use-by-date for processed meat like deli meat. Luncheon meats run a small chance of being tainted with listeria bacteria, which can cause illness. These products generally don't get heated, so the bacteria remain alive. If the meat is stored for a long period in a home refrigerator with a temperature that is higher than 40 degrees, the listeria can multiply to dangerous levels.

The only other items that need to have use-by-dates are baby food and formula, but even these dates are essentially for meeting nutritional and quality standards rather than for safety.

For more information, call the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Meat and Poultry Hotline at (888) 674-6854.

WEEKLY TIP

Vitamin D and Colorectal Cancer

Colorectal cancer is the second most fatal form of cancer in the US. A new Veterans Administration study examined the lifestyle factors which accompany the pre-cancerous polyps which can form in the colon area. Prevention involves regular exercise, multiple vitamins, more fiber and vitamin D in your diet. D vitamins are found in fish oils and fortified milk. Stop smoking and reduce your red meat consumption. If you have a family history of colon cancer, you should talk to your doctor about screening.

Anderson family holds reunion

Descendants of the late Anders Gustav Petterson and Anna Gustaf Fredricksdotter Petterson of Sweden gathered together Memorial Day weekend in Winside and Hoskins.

When the Petterson's four sons and two daughters came to America, their sur-name changed to Anderson as they were Anders' sons. There are only six surviving first cousins and four of them attended the reunion. One brother and his family remained in Sweden.

On May 30, several families attended church services with Lloyd Behmer; afterward 60 relatives met at the Hoskins Community Hall for a noon meal hosted by Adeline Anderson and the Lloyd Behmer family of Winside.

That evening several families visited at the Lila Hansen home in Winside.

On Memorial Day, many of the family members attended the American Legion services at the Swedish Cemetery of rural Hoskins and Spring Branch Cemetery of rural Norfolk. At the Spring Branch Cemetery, the American Legion Post 252 gave military tribute to the late Leland Anderson and presented his family with his memorial flag.

At noon, the group attended the Legion Auxiliary dinner in Winside and spent the afternoon at the Adeline Anderson farm.

Relatives attended from the states of Virginia, California, Florida, Illinois, Kansas and Nebraska.

Weekend guests of Adeline Anderson were Clarence and Jerrine Placek of Arlington, Heights, Ill. and Collette Placek of Lake Forest, Ill.

Wayne State College to host cheerleading, dance camps

Wayne State College will host cheerleading and dance camps, June 15-18 for approximately 130 high school and junior high students.

Instructors for camps will be provided by the Universal Dance Association (UDA) and the Universal Cheerleaders Association (UCA).

Individuals have the option to attend and stay on campus or commute to the camp.

"Campers who attend learn routines that are presented all over the country. Nebraska is right up there with schools everywhere using the most up-to-date, 'in' presentations," said Frank Teach, WSC director of student activities.

UDA creates the majority of camp dance material at regional choreography sessions, and some is contracted to professional studios in New York and California. All the choreography is evaluated on originality, variety and complexity. Camp instructors have completed an intense training course and have been selected from top colleges, pro dance teams and studios. "UCA's instructors continue to be the best in the business," said Debbie Purifoy, cheerleading coach at the University of Alabama. "The fact that they can perform at high levels, and still continue to teach for even a beginner skill level is a tribute to their dedication."

The UCA program includes safety awareness through a solid foundation of safety techniques to promote confidence as skill levels increase through daily safety and spotting awards, coaches participation and hands-on stunt, pyramid and transition specific spotting. UCA instructors will show camp participants how to get game crowds more involved and inspire school traditions that go "beyond the sidelines" and inspire youth leadership and school spirit.

Life keeps us very busy

It's 10 pm, and I work for hospice the next two days, so I'd best get this jotted down and e-mailed to Lynn at the Herald. It's so nice, now that I've finally figured out how to do that. I have a new book that is all about XP, my new program, and I received it for a birthday almost a month ago. I requested it, and I'm sure it would be helpful to me, if I ever take time to sit down and look through it!

This past week consisted of more road trips, and lots of company. We had guests for 12 nights in a row; the last one, a "frequent flyer", left this morning. We get a break now, which I'm needing.

Last Sunday eve was the annual high school reunion at Chances R in York; at least I get to eat there once a year. We picked up my cousin Lyn and her husband in south Lincoln and took them along. They, in turn, were babysitting Cocoa, a little brown rag mop of a dog that belongs to their granddaughter.

When we were little girls, Lyn dressed up their cats in doll clothes and gave them rides in her doll buggy. She's kind of still the same way. Cocoa might as well be another grandchild. But she was good, and stayed in her kennel in the back of the van while we participated in the frolics.

Memorial Day was spent washing and cleaning (and napping), and Tuesday gave me an opportunity to actually catch up. Wednesday found me on the Burlington Northern Santa Fe employee railroad in the dining car, having coffee with old friend, Judy Koepke. Her husband is participating in the Lewis and Clark rail trip from Kansas City to Billings, Montana, and they stop at every major city and give employee families rides. So, Judy gets to go along, give tours, and hand out cardboard engineer hats. What fun. Another old friend, a nurse, joined us, as did a couple of folks who were acquainted with Judy in other lives.

Then, on Thursday, the Big Farmer, and I headed down Interstate 80 to Henderson, where old friend Beth Thomssen, who is inservice director there, had invited me to present an all staff fun thing on Humor. I had not been in that wonderful Mennonite community since high school days.

The hospital is connected to the nursing home, which is attached to the assisted living, and has now been joined by the doctor's clinic. What a sensible arrangement for a small community facility. And it's all nicely decorated and well planned.

We got there in time to check out the Dutch Kitchen for lunch, but passed on the Verinika, which was the special of the day. Mike napped in the van under a tree, and when I finished, we headed over to Central City to visit his sister. She's in the midst of trying to sort out 30 years of life and condensing to a two bedroom apartment at Good Samaritan Village in Hastings. I don't envy her the task; and I'll probably be facing the same task one of these days.

On Sunday, I was the speaker for cancer survivor's day in North Platte. When I accepted, I planned to stay all night and make a little trip out of it. Our guests kind of changed those plans. So, I left about 9 am, got there shortly after 1, spoke at 2:30, and headed back at 4.

When you don't travel the interstate very far, very often, you forget how many trucks there are in the world! Things really do look dry out that way, and it was 10 degrees hotter than here. The Platte is all grown up with weeds. But the trees are all much more mature, and there are lots of sand pit lakes along the highway. The water table must be very high. North Platte has grown a lot since I was there last.

Anyway, they had a very nice crowd, lots of good food, and a couple of old friends who live there showed up to see me. I guess it's been a week for old friends. A couple of them drove over from Mahoney this afternoon. If any of you are planning the same, give us a call. Okay?

Ticks can be a problem

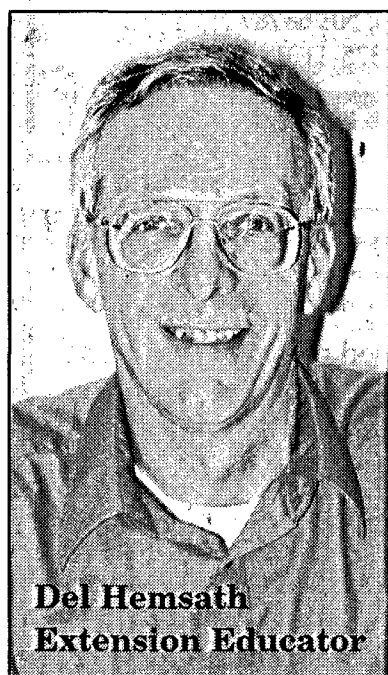

Ticks are a part of nature and as such can be a nuisance for animals and humans alike.

Certain types of ticks can carry Lyme disease and transmit it to humans. This creates even more of a concern for all those who enjoy camping and outdoor activities. Spring and early summer seems to be the most likely period of a tick encounter, so if you participate in outdoor activities, plan some management strategies to protect yourself from ticks.

Clothing - wear long sleeve shirts, long pants that have a tight cuff, and clothing that is light in color.

Repellents - use repellents that have DEET as the active ingredient and apply on the ankles, socks and pants.

Avoid areas that would have a tick problem such as high grass areas, prairies, or wooded areas along streams and rivers.

Inspect yourself and others after being outside. Ticks will crawl around the host looking for a spot to attach, so removal is relatively easy at that time. Ticks tend to move to the head, shoulder, neck or ear canals so check these areas well. If a tick is found attached, grasp the tick with a forceps close to the head area of the tick and gently pull in a firm and steady, upward manner. Wash the area with soap and water and apply a disinfectant to prevent a secondary infection. Be sure the head of the tick is removed or additional problems could occur.

A red rash that resembles a "bull's-eye" is an early sign of the Lyme disease. Flu-like symptoms occur which include headache, fever, chills, lethargy, joint and muscle pain. There is no vaccine available for humans. Consult a physician for further diagnosis.

Chiggers are also a problem in the grassy areas. Follow similar steps for protection from those little creatures especially use of repellents.

The outdoors offer a wide variety of healthy activities, don't be locked inside because of concern with the natural creatures. Take basic precautions and have a fun time in the sun.

"Now I can go Fishing."

"I knew I had cataracts for a long time. Dr. Feidler said they were getting worse. I told him to go ahead and do the job. I'm glad I did. Now I can go fishing."

"I've been past Feidler Eye Clinic many times, I finally stopped in. Dr. Feidler is straight forward. He doesn't use long medical words. A cataract can blind you. He tells you exactly what is the matter. It's up to you after that. He lets you decide. He's real nice."

The staff teases me, I tease them right back. I get along good with all of them."
