How old is grandma?

This was sent to me recently, I had to think about what it meant to me. What does it mean to you? Stay with this -- the answer is at the end -- it will blow you away.

One evening a grandson was talking to his grandmother about current events.

The grandson asked his grandmother what she thought about the shootings at schools, the computer age, and just things in general. The Grandma replied, "Well, let me think a minute, I was born, before to walk on the moon. Your Grandfather and I got married first and then lived together. Every family had a father and a mother. Until I was 25, I called every man older than I, "Sir" -- and after I turned 25, I still called policemen and every man with a title, "Sir".

Serving your country was a privilege; living in this country was a bigger privilege. We thought fast food was what people ate during Lent. Having a meaningful relationship meant getting along with your cousins. Draft dodgers were people who closed their front doors when the evening breeze started. Time-sharing meant time the family spent together in the evenings and weekends-not purchasing condominiums. We never heard of FM radios, tape decks, CDs, electric typewriters, yogurt, or guys wearing earrings.

We listened to the Big Bands, Jack Benny, and the President's speeches on our radios. And I don't ever remember any kid 'blowing his brains out' listening to Tommy Dorsey. If you saw anything with 'Made in Japan' on it, it was junk. The term 'making out' referred to how you did on your school exam. Pizza Hut, McDonald's, and instant coffee were unheard of. We had a 5 &10-cent store where you could actually buy things for 5 and 10 cents. Ice-cream cones, phone calls, a ride on a streetcar, and a Pepsi were all a nickel. And if you didn't want to splurge, you could spend your nickel on enough stamps to mail one letter and two postcards. You could buy a new Chevy Coupe for $600 but who could afford one? Too bad, because gas was 11 cents a gallon, I remember that.

In my day, "grass" was mowed, "coke" was a cold drink, "pot" was something your mother cooked in, and "rock music" was your grandmother's lullaby. "Aids" were helpers in the Principal's office, "chip" meant a piece of wood, "hardware" was found in a hardware store, and "software" wasn't even a Grilling on balconies now illegal?

By Ed Howard

Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association Sometimes, even the voice of reason wants to scream. Federal and state government now says people in apartments can no longer grill food on their balconies.

It's a statewide ban, contained in the updated fire code recently signed by Gov. Mike Johanns.

This bit of government dithering did NOT originate with the governor. He was simply downhill from Washington. You know the old rule. Stuff runs downhill.

Some group called the National Fire Protection Association recommended the no-cooking-out-onapartment balconies rule to the feds. The feds went along with it. How did Nebraska get caught up in the goofiness?

Nebraska Fire Marshal Dennis Hohbein said: "We needed to update our codes as well, so everything would be consistent."

There is no reason to doubt Hohbein's explanation.

So, Nebraska is now "consistent" with yet another apparent asininity that was originated by professional regulators and approved by Washington. Can you imagine some poor soul with a badge, standing under a balcony on a hot afternoon, staring up at a bunch of "Go Big Red" types and shouting: "This is the law! Drop those wienies!" It is, however, easy to imagine one of the Big Red types leaning A over the balcony, smiling and shouting:

"You got it, pal! We'll drop a couple down for you right now! You want mustard on that? C'mon up n' have a beer if you got time!"

When deadline rolled around, I had not been able to reach anyone at the National Fire Protection Association. A couple of the questions I had in mind (and still do):

• Who are you guys? Who or what is the moving force behind you? The insurance industry, perhaps?

• Were you surprised when adults, who might otherwise appear sane, agreed that cooking food on apartment balcony grills was so dangerous that it ought to be banned via state fire codes?

Just FYI, the organization's website says: "Today, over 66,000 fire safety professionals belong to the NFPA, the world's largest and most influential fire safety organization."

The hero of this episode, to date, is Assistant Fire Marshal Pio Porta of Omaha.

Porta said two things, at least,

worthy of commendation. "We're hoping for a lot of voluntary compliance" was one. "We're not going to be kicking in doors ... looking for grills on balconies" was another. See? There are people in government with good sense. Let's just hope there are enough of them.

NEW BEGINNINGS!

party for our visitor guests" was started with the 5K Fun Walk.

One cannot say "thank you" enough to the volunteers and sponsors who make this a spectacular success and to the people who come to our community to re-discover that family-oriented fun is still what it is all about. And, a special mention goes to The Wayne Herald for their informative insert in this week's Morning Shopper that gives all details (history and schedules) and plenty of pics for this year's EGG-stravaganza. On behalf of the community-wide Chicken Show taskforce, I hope that everyone finds this a useful guide as well as another souvenir collectible item.

Just a couple of reminders for those thinking of ways to participate in the events. Contests registration at the Willow Bowl opens by 9 am on Saturday and closes at 12:30 pm. Cash prizes are available to the winners of the two national championships: National Cluck Off and Pizza Hut/Wayne Hardboiled Egg Eating. And we trust you enjoy the music both from the Willow Bowl main stage and the "new for this year" Henhouse Harmony in air-conditioned Ramsey Theatre.

UPCOMING EVENTS I don't think it is too early to get some upcoming events onto your calendars. The Wayne County Fair plays out this year from July 28 through Aug. 1.

Our next chamber Business After Hours will be Aug. 20 at the Wayne Country Club. If anyone has ever considered joining or rejoining the chamber, this would be one of the best events to make new or renew professional relationships. The chamber can bring many benefits to its investors; we hope you will feel welcome to join us on Aug. 20.

The next day, Aug. 21, will be our Ag Policy Picnic for elected officials and want-to-be-elected officials at the state and national level. The regional county fair boards, county farm bureaus, and other ag-related societies are throwing an informal party to meet with our state senators and US Congressmen. To date the following have confirmed their intentions to attend: Sen. Matt Connealy (candidate for US Congress), Cunningham, and Sen. Pat Engel Several others have promised to keep this on their calendars and will be confirming soon.

A number of residents at Premier Estates in Wayne have recently become members of a newly formed group of the Red Hat Society. The group gathered for an organizational meeting and to learn the history of the Society.

Red Hat Society is formed in Wayne

Recently, the EGG-centrics Red Hatters of Wakefield were asked to start a Red Hat Society at the Premier Estates by Social Service and EGG-centrics member Twilla Kessinger. It was an idea to help other ladies enjoy the fun times with other Red Hatters.

While on an outing, the EGGcentrics visited Canton. SD.. where they bought a dozen summer hats and then bought another dozen hats at another store in Sioux City. Paula Haisch sprayed them with red paint and decorated them with odds and ends from around her house. Ribbon, flowers and netting went into adding glamour to all the hats.

When the group started the first meeting May 30 at the Premier Estates, all the ladies spent the first 20 minutes trying on every

Named to dean's list

LeAnn Ostendorf, daughter of Lane and Carol Ostendorf of Sioux City, Iowa, was named to the dean's list with a 4.0 average at Mount Marty College in Yankton, SD for the second semester of the 2003-'04 school year.

She is a freshman, working toward a Bachelor of Arts degree in nursing. She also pitches for the Mount Marty softball team.

Her grandparents include John and Norma Peterson of Carroll and LaVern and Arlene Ostendorf of Wayne.

hat to pick out the one they wanted. The ladies were charged $3 per hat to join the Red Hat Society Organization so they could be a legal group. Red Hat Society charges $35 every year to be legal. EGG-centrics member Paula Haisch informed them of the history of the Red Hat Society. The name for their society. The local Red Hat Society started just five years ago with three ladies celebrating their Queen Mother Sue Ellen Cooper turning 50. They used the poem by Jenny Joseph and decided they would wear a red hat and purple clothes. They also decided they needed other things such as boas, gloves, purses, pins, stockings, nylons and shoes in their favorite colors of red and purple. The Red Hat Society is a worldwide organization with the "Mother House" or headquarters in Fullerton, Calif.

When joining the society, you get an official membership card and the right to call yourself a member of the Red Hat Society. When your group joins the society for $35 a year, there are no rules except the official dress for those 50 and over (red hats and purple clothes) and the younger "sisters" under 50 wear pink hats and lavender clothes.

To lead the group on their monthly meetings, Twilla will choose the eldest member of the Premier Estates group to be their "Queen Mother" and the next lady will be the "Princess-in-waiting." The Princess-in-waiting will then advance to the queen's place for the next meeting and the next person on the list will become the princess-in-waiting. This practice will be continued until all the ladies have been the princess-inwaiting and then queen.

The queen and the princess-inwaiting will set up what the next month's activity will be along with Twilla and Paula. So bring your ideas to keep the Red Hat Society at Premier Estates interesting and

You may purchase a Red Hat from Paula at the cost of $3. This money will go towards the cost to join The Red Hat Society to make them official. If you don't wish to buy a hat, the hat will be kept in Twilla's office for your use at their

American Legion Auxiliary convention held in Columbus

Legion Auxiliary, Department of Nebraska Convention was held at the New World Inn in Columbus June 24-27.

The Department Executive Committee (DEC) meeting was held June 24 with Department President Lynne Wild of Lincoln presiding. Points emphasized included having the Auxiliary be more diligent in working with the Legion and Sons of the American Legion as a whole; members be themselves and results will surface making the Legion "family" more visible in the communities and timely advice "if you never step forward, you never know how far you can go." The Legion "family" is made up of volunteers from all walks of life and basically is "Veterans Still Serving Veterans" along side their own family members.

The official call to order was June 25. Department officers, Department presidents and Department chairmen gave their annual summary of their respec-

The District is comprised of 28 units with 12 at 100 percent goal or more. Unit 252-Winside received an "All-Time High for 2003-04" membership ribbon for having reached their 100 percent goal and having a membership of 67 members. The goal for 2004-05 will be 68, which is Close of Books membership plus also passed which will remove Article IV, Section 2, paragraph b, page 74 (ABC Book) that pertains to Permanent Membership. As enrollment in Permanent Membership was closed for for new members several years ago due to insufficient funds to maintain it, this Section would make it absolute that Units would not be receiving an annual rebate from the fund based on their Unit members who hold Permanent Memberships. Funds are anticipated to hopefully cover the next four years of Department and National per capita dues of those members.

Permanent members will be asked to transfer to the VIM (Very Important Member) National membership or begin paying annual dues to their local Units once again.

During the Children & Youth

Luncheon on June 25, $6,357.33 was turned in for the Children's Miracle Network (CMN) for which the Legion "family" is a corporate sponsor. These funds were raised in various communities by hosting walk-a-thons, bake sales, garage sales, collection canisters and private donations. Funds raised in Nebraska will support the Children's Hospital in Omaha. Top tabs were turned in weighing 836.6 pounds which equals 1,217,253 tabs at 45 cents per pound for $376.47. Proceeds will be donated to the Ronald McDonald House project.

Betty Snyder, World War II Memorial Coordinator, asked the assembly to get their local happenings to her so they may be included in a Nebraska scrapbook depicting how communities honored Veterans of WWII. She also advised if a community was Working for parents prepares children for other work

Paid work provided by and supervised by a parent can benefit children. Employment can help children develop work skills and talents, strengthen self-esteem and learn how to manage money.

Working for a parent can prepare children to work for other people. Early employment experiences can help children develop a strong foundation of work habits that will affect their future employment and future earnings.

Children's employment opportunities should be matched to the individual child's capabilities and skill level to allow the child to successfully complete the job. For example, a child may help with chores around the house or an older child may mow, maintain gardens, feed pets or wash cars.

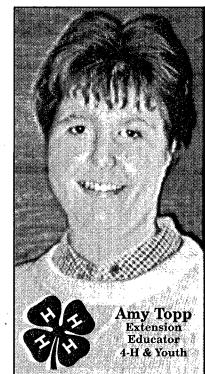

Make sure children understand what they need to do to successfully complete a job. Carefully explain what is to be done and how the job is to be completed. Clearly define the level of quality that is expected.

Beginning tasks can be supervised. The quality standards can be raised as children develop the job skill and continue to improve. A higher rate can be paid as the child learns to work without supervision.

If a job is not completed at the expected level of quality, give children the opportunity to adequately fulfill their responsibility. Be sure to set specific time limits for when corrections must be complet-

Payment by the hour may not be the best wage option. Hourly pay can entice children to stretch jobs out longer than necessary. Set a rate per job to motivate children to work at a reasonable speed.

Wage rates depend on what the parent feels the child deserves. Wage amounts also vary with the amount of work required by a task. General wage guidelines are: children 8 and under should receive about 25 to 30 cents per hour; children 8 to 12 should receive about 75 cents per hour and teenagers about $2 per hour.

To help children learn how to manage their money, wage amounts should give children more money than they actually need. After deciding on an appropriate amount of spending money, children will need to make decisions on how to use the extra money. State expectations for what amounts should be put in savings or given to a charity, but have the children create their own budgets.

Bethune is part of Summer Camp staff

Every year more than 70 college-age adults join the Nebraska Lutheran Outdoor Ministries Summer Ministry Team.

They join the staff expecting to use their faith, talents, time and energy to teach biblical and life lessons to about 3,500 summer campers and each other. What they don't expect is that the summer will provide countless life experiences that they will also learn from.

Alise Bethune, daughter of Anita and Gordon Bethune of Carroll and member of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Wayne is a member of the 2004 NLOM Summer Ministry Team. It is Bethune's first year as a coun-

"When I interview staff, I ask them what they can offer to campers and they reply with lists of amazing gifts and qualities," says Sunni Richardson, NLOM Director/ Programs. "I'm always smiling after those interviews because I know that they will get just as much back from the campers as what they give. They may not know that until long after the summer is over, but they do."

More importantly, "Staff are asked to be Christian role models in their everyday living," Richardson said. "It's having role models in that critical age group between youth and adulthood that Camp, life college and many other experiences, allows for this development among \mathbf{staff} members," Richardson said.

Nebraska Lutheran Outdoor Ministries, an agency of the Nebraska Synod Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, owns and operates Carol Joy Holling Camp near Ashland, Sullivan Hills near Lodgepole, a Day Camp program offered in 32 congregations throughout Nebraska and CrossWalk, a camping program for people with disabilities. Fall planting time for gardens is now

Now is the time to begin preparing the garden for fall vegetables planting. One of the problems to overcome as compared to the spring planting are the soil conditions. The weather tends to be hot and dry during July causing some poor seed germination. One method to overcome the heat and dryness problem is to pre-germinate the seeds. Lay the seeds on a wet towel and place in a cool location, check daily for rotting and germination. As soon as the seed begins to sprout, it needs to be planted. For most seeds, this will take about 3 - 5 days. Another method is to be sure to use mulch to keep the soil wet and cool. This will help the seed survival and help in plant establishment. Once the plants become established, they will grow rapid-

Crops to plant include: carrots, broccoli, in potatoes, a cabbage, radishes, collards, beets and even cucumbers. If the weather is desirable, these crops will produce a good production as the weather cools towards the fall months.

Later in the year, in August or early September, spinach and lettuce can be planted as those crops can tolerate the light fall frost. Be sure to look at the days to Accepted applicants, aged 19-22 were chosen by a committee including Pioneer sales representatives, Pioneer customers and past New Century Farmers. Students selected for the conference represent 19 states and varying agriculture backgrounds. All plan careers in production agriculture.

During the four-day, intensive program, New Century Farmers will interact with industry experts, many of whom are Pioneer professionals, during a series of workshops addressing issues ranging from major forces that shape agriculture, to marketing opportunities and the need for advocacy and leadership in production agriculture. Participants will also create and define a personal vision of their future farm, maturity for each crop that is planned for the garden as the fall season can be rather short for some crops. The shortest season cultivars should be selected.

Not all the insect and weed problems are gone for the fall season. Grasshoppers can be a serious problem as well as other chewing insects that can quickly destroy the young plants as they try to get established. Cucumber beetles and squash bugs can cause late season problems. Fall germinating weeds can quickly become a problem and take moisture away from the young plants, so one needs to monitor the garden for weeds.

Now that all of the problems with fall gardening seem to be overwhelming, it is still worth the effort to get some garden plants into the soil for the late season enjoyment of fresh produce from your own garden. Try it, you'll like called last week to confirm. For one thing, we caught up on the newspapers accumulating on the organ bench. A friend used to say we should not have too many flat surfaces, as they would only hold more objects. It's true. We are both newspaper junkies, and had been too busy to read more than the headlines. The Big Farmer is the worst; he almost reads every article; I skim. In fact, now there is a pile of Lincoln papers at his desk, saved by my mother, that he plans to look over.

We wished we could have been in Hoskins for their celebration, and for one more high school reunion. As it turned out, we probably could have. We went to Murdock's instead. They do things the same way every year: parade at 11:00, followed by lunch at the fire hall, touring the museum, pie and ice cream at the church, and games and activities all afternoon.

Since our church service begins at 10:30, and is in the opposite direction, we went to church in Murdock. There's only one church there, and it's filled with friendly people. They were welcoming a new minister, so we all had to have name tags. And I was surprised by how many I knew without the

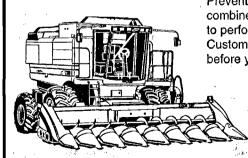

It was an EUB denomination originally. And that's what we attended for ten years in Hoskins. Then, they merged, and became United Methodists. Mike had gone to church camp at Milford with many of the folks who are now the elders in the congregation. They have a nifty electronic pipe organ, and I play for services sometimes, when they are really desperate.

On this Sunday, we sang all the patriotic hymns in the hymnal. But we were treated to some very special music, also. One fellow on drums, his sister in law on keyboard, his wife singing, as well as his brother, and the pastor on guitar. It dawned on me that one vocalist is an attorney in the state attorney general's office and the other is the evening anchor on KOLNTV, channel 10.

More than that, our local war hero was in the audience. And served as grand marshall of the parade. Tom Brewer was serving in Afghanistan and was wounded there. I heard him say that his armored vest saved his life, even though there were broken ribs. He's home now, head of the National Guard encampment at Ashland.

When he received his purple heart a couple of months ago, he was also presented the Indian medal of courage. He is one half Lakota Sioux.
