Planning Commission holds public hearings

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The Wayne Planning Commission met in front of a full house on Monday as they conducted three public hearings.

Several landlords and other Wayne residents were present at the meeting to voice their opinions and concerns regarding Draft #8 of the proposed zoning changes to the Wayne Municipal Code.

Among the concerns of the landlords are the registration of rental properties and the fee associated with the registration and the parking restrictions that would be connected to the changes. It was noted that parking issues should be dealt with separately and not become part of a rental housing issue.

The registration fee, which is $50 in Key, would help cover administrative costs and inspections.

"The inspection will cover only five life-safety issues and nothing more," said City Planner George Ellyson.

Those issues include:

1. Egress windows
2. Ground Fault Circuit Interrupters (GFCI) required at all counter top locations including kitchens and bathrooms;
3. Smoke detectors installed in all bedrooms and corridors connecting bedrooms. These need to be hard-wired into the electrical service panel;
4. Any stairway with more than six risers is required to have a light;
5. All stairways with two or more risers are required to have a hand rail.

A committee, composed of representatives of the Planning Commission, the City Council and the Landlords' Association is being formed. It is anticipated that the group will bring the resolve of the issues and language back to the Planning Commission within 90 days. After that the proposed zoning changes will go to the City Council for approval or rejection.

A date for the first meeting of the committee has not yet been determined.

The current city code allows for four unrelated persons to live in a single family dwelling. The city investigates violations of this code on a complaint-driven basis. It was noted that in recent years approximately 10 complaints have been received and investigated. Of those approximately one-half were in violation.

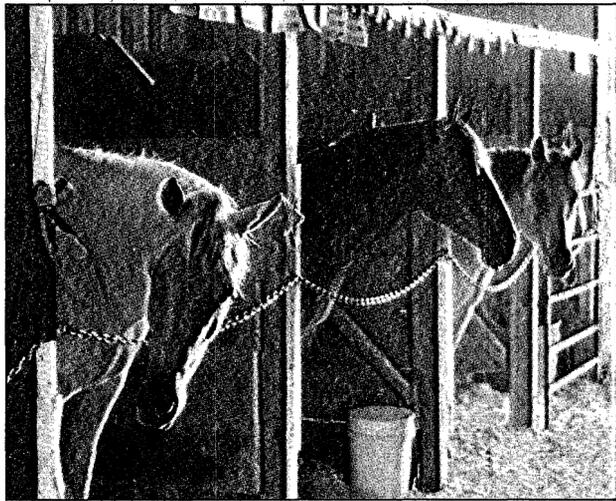

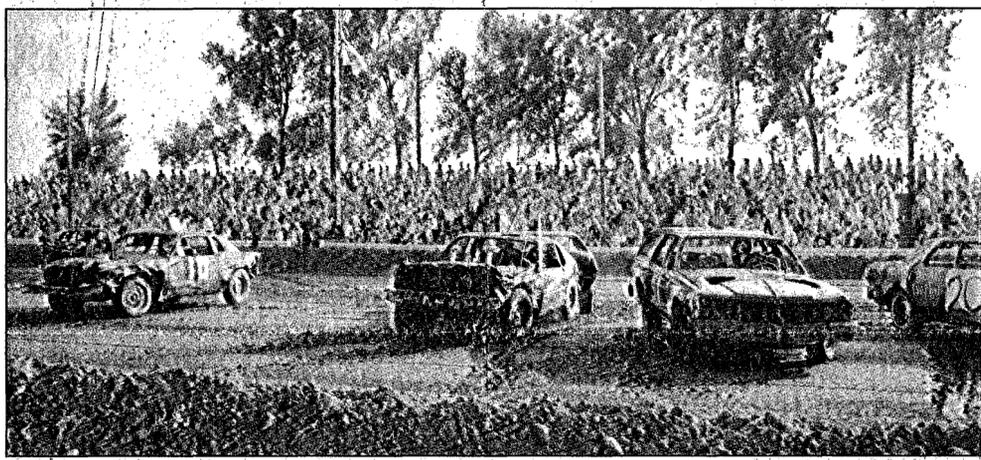

"Zoning regulations are not meant to be restrictive, but rather are designed to provide protection to property owners who have a right to quiet and solace in their neighborhoods," Ellyson said.

City Planner Ellyson encourages all residents with questions or concerns regarding the issue to contact the city rather than get information second hand. Ellyson can be contacted at the city office at 375-1733. He is willing to visit with homeowners and offer suggestions as to how the proposed changes in zoning regulations will affect them.

In other action, the planning commission held a hearing regarding the Beckenhauer Estates Preliminary Plat to the City Council for approval or rejection.

Discussion were tabled until the next meeting on an amendment to the municipal code which would dis-allow Wayne residents to have attached and unattached garages greater than 60 percent the size of the house,

Fair time

As the month of August begins, so do county fairs in the area. Above, the Demolition Derby at the Wayne County Fair attracted a large crowd. Sierra Bruna enjoyed holding a baby potbellied pig at the Love-A-Lop Petting Zoo. At left, a number of horses were on display at the Dixon County Fair, as were antique tractors and equipment.

Scouts hike New Mexico mountains

Older member of Wayne Boy Scout Troop 174 traveled to Cimarron, N.M. in July where they backpacked at Philmont Scout Ranch for 10 days.

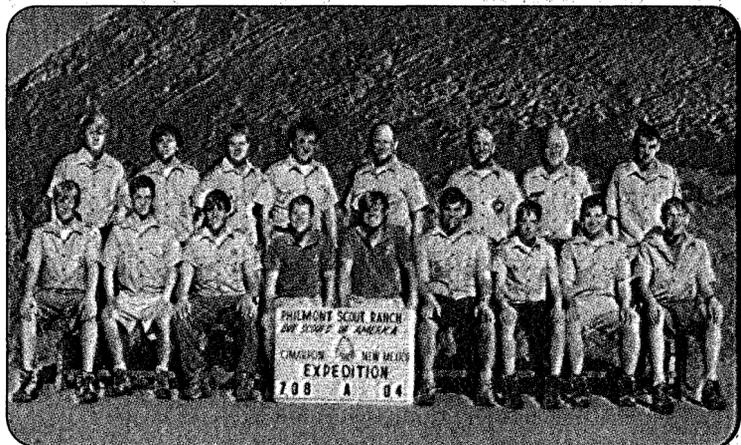

Enroute to their New Mexico destination, the group was hosted in La Junta, Colo. by the Koshare Indian Boy Scout troop who allowed them to stay overnight in their facility.

This troop is famous for authentic Indian dances and authentic Kiva building which serves as a performance hall, Indian museum and youth hostel.

"Philmont is the top high adventure offered by Boy Scouts. This year's group was probably the largest to go to Philmont in the troop's 81 year history," said Gary Wright, trip coordinator.

Troop 174 members attending included Nick Klassen, Josh Fink, Garek Bebee of Wakefield, Bren Vander Weil, Luke Gentrup (crew leader), Eric Holt, Eric Carstens, Sam Wilken, Nathan Shapiro (crew leader), Brian Zach, Ryan Klassen (advisor), Gary Wright (advisor and trip coordinator), Charles Shapiro (advisor), Greg Vander Weil (advisor) and Jeff Carstens (advisor).

Upon arriving at Base Camp, the group was divided into two treks - each hiking and camping 60-70 miles along different trails of the 214 square mile wilderness area in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains.

Deadline is August 16 for Nebraska taxpayers who filed for extensions

If you're one of over 36,000 Nebraska taxpayers who requested an extension to file your 2003 federal income tax return this year, the IRS is reminding you that the deadline for filing your return is Monday, Aug. 16.

Most of the 808,000 returns the IRS expects from Nebraska taxpayers this year have been filed, but those taxpayers who requested extra time must file their tax returns by Aug. 16 to avoid the late filing penalty, which is five percent per month of the unpaid tax," said Donna Migazzi, IRS spokeswoman for Nebraska.

Migazzi said taxpayers who are unable to meet the Aug. 16 extended filing deadline can request an additional extension by filing IRS Form 2688, Application for Additional Extension of Time to File. Unlike the first extension, the additional extension is not automatic and must be approved by the IRS. It's generally given to people who can show some "reasonable cause" or hardship circumstance that prevents them from meeting the Aug. 16 deadline. Such situations include the death of a family member, serious illness, an unavoidable absence, or the inability to find the records necessary to determine the proper tax due. If the extension is approved, taxpayers will have until Oct. 15 to file. The IRS will advise extension filers in writing whether or not their requests are approved.

The IRS expects to receive over 11,000 Forms 2688 from Nebraska taxpayers during 2004.

Migazzi noted that taxpayers will be given an extension of time to file even if they cannot send in payment of outstanding 2003 taxes with the extension request.

"Taxpayers given the additional time to file will not be penalized for late payment of tax if they pay the balance of the taxes they owe for the 2003 tax year when they file their tax return by Oct. 15 and if they had paid 90 percent of their total tax bill by April 15," Migazzi said.

Form 2688 is available on the IRS web site at www.irs.gov and can be mailed to the IRS or filed electronically using the same tax preparation software used for filing tax returns.

Added Migazzi: "Late tax return filers can still reap the benefits of e-file and experience easier tax filing and faster refunds, because e-file is available through October 15."

Taxpayers can file their returns using tax preparation software, through an authorized e-file provider, or through Free File, which enables qualifying taxpayers to e-file for free. Migazzi said 3.48 million taxpayers used Free File to e-file their tax returns this year. Free File is available through the IRS Web site at www.irs.gov.

Nebraska could help decide election

By Ed Howard

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

There is the slightest chance that Nebraska could have a noticeably meaningful role in the November presidential election.

Nebraska and Maine are the only states where a presidential candidate can win electoral votes with majorities in individual congressional districts.

The state's overall winner (that would be President Bush, trust me) will automatically get two of the state's electoral votes.

The other three votes will be assigned according to majority votes in each of the three congressional districts.

The situation is worthy of a modicum of interest because the presidential race is now perceived as immeasurably close. As 2000 proved, every electoral vote can be of immense importance.

Chances are that John Kerry couldn't carry Nebraska's 3rd District if he handed out ag subsidies with one hand and American flags with the other.

What about the 1st District, which includes much of northeast and southeast Nebraska, including Lincoln? It might be ripe for Democrats, but it isn't likely.

The 1st District also features a congressional race that, for the first time in a generation, actually represents a contest. A farmer and state senator who is a Democrat versus a very Bush Republican businessman from Lincoln. The odds favor the Republican because he is ... the Republican.

That leaves the Omaha-dominated 2nd District. It's Republican country, too. But, it can go either way. What if the planned, national effort to turn out "the youth vote" actually reaches as far as Omaha? What if it reaches into North Omaha in particular, and to young black voters in particular?

Speculation? Yeah.

But in a year when there is virtually nothing else worthy of speculation, you have to be grateful for a chance to take a guess - about anything.

NEW BEGINNINGS!

Well, it appeared that the 2004 version of the Wayne County Fair was a success by any measure. Attendance was good and everyone seemed to have had a great time. At least, that is the way it appeared from our vantage point at our booth in partnership with the UN-L extension service.

Congratulations to all the winners in the different competitions and displays, and thank you to all who participated in one-way or another, especially the volunteers.

By now, all members of the service clubs in the Wayne area should have received their invitation from Kiwanis president

Jennifer Phelps to attend the breakfast program on September 21 featuring state chamber president Barry Kennedy and Sen. Pat Engel. If you want to get a first hand projection of where our government is heading this winter, this is a program you will not want to miss. I think each service club will be given the opportunity to make this their regularly scheduled meeting for the week, so here is another chance to keep your attendance up or make up.

Please try to RSVP your attendance for the next chamber sponsored Business After Hour to be held at the Wayne Country Club on Friday, Aug. 20. This will definitely be a night to be remembered. Bring a prospective member with you for an evening of great camaraderie and networking.

BUCKS BACK! -This unique Wayne-area chamber-sponsored program that gives consumers a chance to win back the full (up to $50) amount of their purchase made at participating Wayne area merchants continues. The next drawing will be Monday, Sept. 20. The following and final drawing of the year will be our holiday drawing on Dec. 13 at which one person shall be awarded the balance of the pool. The next time you are in a store, ask the sales clerk how you can fill out an entry form for the BUCKS BACK! drawing.

This is my last column as your chamber Executive Director. As you know, I'll be moving to Southwestern Ohio to be the President and CEO of the 540-member Chamber of Commerce serving the businesses and communities of Middletown, Monroe, and Trenton (population 125,000). The last almost two years in Wayne have been a tremendously positive experience for me. There are many, many energetic, unselfish, and committed women and men in this area that have demonstrated their loyalty to and pride in Wayne America. I will never forget you and will always look forward to the day we can work together again to make our communities better places to work, live, and prosper.

Remember, if there is anything that your chamber of commerce can ever do for you, don't hesitate

Agriculture is welcomed back to the Nebraska State Fair

By Cheryl Stubbendieck,
Nebraska Farm Bureau
vice president/public relations

The welcome mat is out for agriculture at the 2004 Nebraska State Fair.

After a number of years of declining ag exhibits at the state fair - and a sense that agriculture wasn't welcome - the current fair administration is bending over backwards to emphasize and promote agriculture. It's clear that both urban and rural Nebraskans want to see and learn about agriculture at the fair. They can do it at this year's fair, scheduled for Aug. 28 - Sept. 6.

To attract Nebraskans back to the fair, the 2004 theme is "Value and Family Fun, All in One." There's a lot of free stuff to do, including free concerts with well-known classic rock and country musicians.

To attract ag exhibitors back, the State Fair offered free exhibit space to ag folks - many thousands of dollars' worth of space. The message was clear: "We're sorry you left and we want you back."

Agriculture is a big part of a successful state fair. This year, be sure to visit the Ag Hall. The Nebraska Department of Agriculture and Nebraska Farm Bureau are coordinating a cooperative display with exhibits from about 20 Nebraska ag organizations. Ag group volunteers will take turns overseeing the many displays and activities.

Depending on when you attend and how old you are, you'll be able to: get a Polaroid taken of you modeling a milk moustache; operate a groundwater flow model; put a golf shot and learn about the new golf management and equine science majors at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln; measure an Oreo to see if it meets the Weights and Measures division standards; play with toy farm equipment and put on a farm animal puppet show. And of course learn a lot about agriculture in the process.

You'll see and learn what would happen in the event of a foreign animal disease outbreak on a Nebraska farm - there's a homeland security trailer with cool high-tech devices. You'll be able to learn about the fastest growing segment of Nebraska agriculture - the grape and wine industry. You'll find out how you benefit from Nebraska's livestock industry, no matter where you live.

You'll tour the Nebraska Food Products Showcase. Chances are you'll say, "I didn't know that was made in Nebraska" or "Where can I buy that?" You'll find out.

You'll learn about ethanol, noxious weeds, help for beginning farmers, and farmer mediation services. You'll learn about Agriculture in the Classroom, ag organizations and Nebraska agriculture by the numbers from the Ag Statistics Service. And you'll see bees - lots and lots of bees.

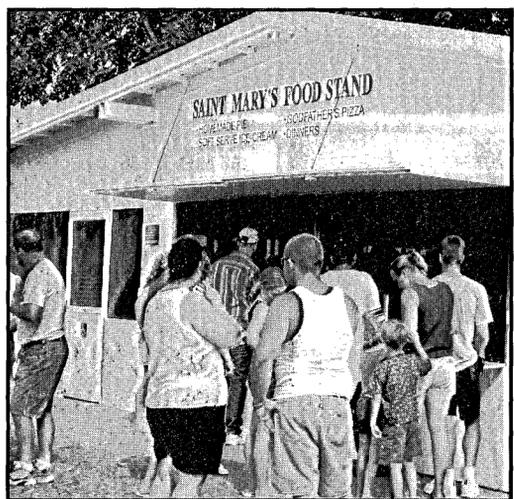

Should the children with you become restless, there's a play area in the center of Ag Hall. And did I mention that Ag Hall is air-conditioned?

Of course you'll want to visit the competitive livestock exhibits, where premium payments have been restored. Go, too to the Livestock Birthing Pavilion. There's a large-animal birthing area, a farrowing area and a fowl-hatching area. If your timing's right, you'll be able to see a live livestock birth. At the least, you'll see newborn animals. There's a petting zoo, too.

There's a Kid's Tractor Peddle Pull on Aug. 28 and "adult" pulls on Sept. 4 and 5 featuring nine different categories of tractors, including modifieds. Antique tractors will be on display - and for the first time in a long time - contemporary farm equipment will be on display, including the big stuff. A number of manufacturers are exhibiting.

Agriculture will also be highlighted on Sunday, Sept. 5, when Matt Connealy and Jeff Fortenberry, candidates for Nebraska's First District Congressional seat, square off in a debate sponsored by Nebraska Farm Bureau. They'll answer questions about ag and natural resource issues in the Open Air Auditorium.

This November Nebraskans will vote on a constitutional amendment to provide significant state funding for the fair. This year, during fair time, Nebraska farmers and ranchers need to vote with their feet. Show your support for the fair by attending and enjoying all it has to offer.

Food and fairs.....

Food and fairs go hand-in-hand and the Wayne County Fair is no exception. Lines at both the St. Mary's Food Stand, pictured above, or the 4-H Food Stand were long at times throughout the four day event. With Sunday's warm temperatures, cold drinks and ice cream seemed to be the most popular items.

Rainbow World has new director

The Wayne Child Care Board has announced that Shelley Fehringer has accepted the position of Director for Rainbow World Child Care Center and Shooting Stars Preschool located in Wayne.

Mrs. Fehringer has an established career in child education. She recently moved to Wayne after working for four years at Winnebago through ESU. Her first two years were spent working with the Educational Service Unit where she taught developmental preschool and then completed her last two years working within the school district where she specialized in Special Education.

"Shelley isn't new to the Wayne Community as she worked at HeadStart specializing in family services. She received her Bachelor of Science in Human Service Counseling at Wayne State College and thoroughly enjoys developing programs for young children," said Irene Fletcher, a member of the Wayne Child Care Board.

Shelley's husband Daniel is the principal and Special Education Director for Winnebago School District. The couple has three daughters, Carley, Carissa and Caitlin, who will be students at Wayne Middle School.

"Shelley has demonstrated a deep commitment to the programs which Rainbow World and Shooting Stars Preschool currently offers and is looking forward to continuing to enhance the program offerings," Mrs. Fletcher said.

"There are a total of 35 itineraries to pick from at Philmont. Our groups went in different directions but did meet up with each other twice," Wright said.

During their separate treks, the Scouts performed conservation projects and climbed to elevations of up to 11,711 feet.

They also learned about pioneer blacksmithing and branding and enjoyed a frontier mine tour along with rock climbing, fishing and black powder shooting activities.

"This trip is so rugged and challenging that only older Scouts, with many years of camping experience, are eligible to participate in the adventure," Wright said.

More than 20,000 Scouts from around the world travel to Philmont each year. There is a waiting list of 10,000 Scouts who are not allowed to attend due to wilderness restrictions.

The Scouts wish to thank all the businesses and individuals who have contributed financially and in other ways to make this type of trip possible.

Wayne State College names new women's soccer coach

The coaching vacancy for Wayne State's women's soccer coach has been filled.

The college announced Tuesday that Olive Twelvetrees will serve as coach to replace Rollie Bulock, who resigned in June when he accepted the position as head women's soccer coach at Minnesota State-Moorhead.

Twelvetrees comes to WSC after serving two years as an assistant coach at Bemidji State in Minnesota.

He brings international coaching experience to the position after spending time as a player and coach at the University of Brighton in the United Kingdom from 1997-1999.

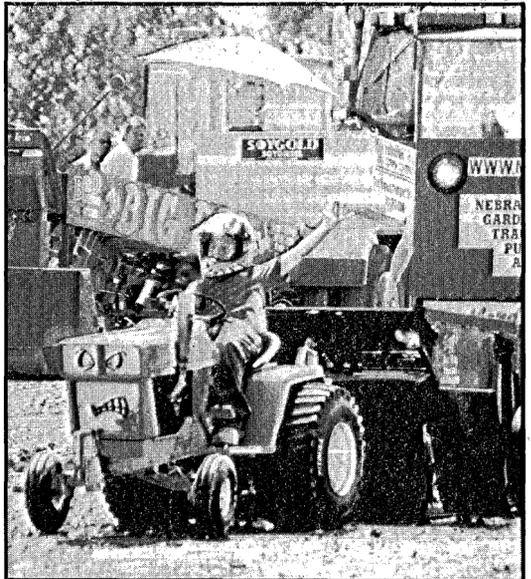

He arrived in the United States four years ago and coached NOGA soccer in Long Island, NY.

In 2001, Twelvetrees moved to Swansea City F.C. Center of Excellence youth academy.

He played for the "A" league of the New Richmond Kickers' PDL team and served as coach for the team's youth academy.

Greg Bennett of Otoe sets up to begin his pull at the Nebraska Bush Pullers tractor pull at the Wayne County Fair on Thursday.

Scott Hahn of Schuyler displays his riding technique at Sunday afternoon's Garden Tractor pull at the fair.

A few thoughts about what's in the name

While putting together the words for this space last week, I finished the column and then all of a sudden I realized that I needed to come up with a name for it.

Usually this would be something that I would think over for a few days and try to come up with a catchy name.

Not so this time around.

Some of our readers on the western edge of the Herald's coverage area may remember my last folly at generating columns at the Randolph Times.

Being a native of that community, I dug back through some back issues and found an old column called "Free Air."

I was told by a relative of the column's author that it was a throw back to when filling stations offered complimentary air, along with fuel and window washing.

At any rate, I thought it was fun, as a lot of times columns are just "air" anyway.

Out of respect for the originator of "Free Air," I dismissed that thought, and moved on to something else.

Mike Grosz, the Herald's previous sports editor, used "Airin' It Out," which was something along the "air" concept, so I decided to walk away from the word all together and come up with a new direction.

I've always been a fan of boxed columns, so I started kicking around things dealing with box.

Everyone uses the chic catchphrase "outside the box" these days, so that one was not considered.

The next choice was something dealing with the press box, that nice little perch we reporter types sit and watch games.

Many times, the colorful conversations that take place up there are just as exciting as the games themselves.

Last summer, I think Scott Gannon from KTCH and myself, lost about 10 pounds each at the press box in Pender covering state baseball.

I've had the honor of watching the last game Nebraska football game against Colorado in the old press box at Memorial Stadium.

And turn about next fall and marvel at the treasure box that's now in Lincoln.

If one has never had the experience of watching a game from high above, it's quite different.

No cheering is allowed up there. All is quiet as a church, except the clicking of a computer keyboard and the play-by-play summary from the press box announcer.

Wayne State's press box improvements will be neat to experience this year, as I've learned from Grosz in a good visit we shared last weekend.

Among my favorites in the high school football boxes include the ultra-plush Laurel-Concord box, and the cozy box over at Allen.

My hands-down favorite is the football complex at Crofton.

The field is surrounded by cedar trees

In the Press Box by David W. Carstens and the box is spacious and comfy.

Some of the games this fall will take me to see Wakefield and Winside and a few others for good measure.

New box projects are being worked on as we speak at Randolph and Hartington.

Just started getting a few details ready for our fall sports preview as part of my first week, and will be working some more on it this week.

It's always a fun time of year, the anticipation of newness is in the "air" and what better place to feel it than "from the press box."

JAP SURRENDER ENDS WAR

Dies Three Years Ago in Jap Camp

S. Sgt. Llewellyn Whitmore Taken on Corridor and Dies of Malaria.

S. Sgt. Llewellyn Whitmore, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Whitmore of Wayne, died of cerebral malaria in a Japanese prison camp July 24, 1942. This word, the first received since the attack on Pearl Harbor in December, 1941, came from the war department last Wednesday.

A letter received Tuesday morning by the Whitmores confirmed the telegram and told that Llewellyn passed away in Cabantuan prison camp.

S. Sgt. Whitmore is the first from Wayne territory to give his life in World War Two.

S. Sgt. Whitmore, who enlisted as a mechanic in the air forces of the army in September, 1939, trained a month at Treasure Island and then went to the Philippines. He was stationed at Nichols field, near Manila, and was serving there when the Japs struck. He accompanied American forces to Bataan and later to Corregidor. He was on Corregidor when that fortress surrendered to the Japs.

The last message received by the Whitmores was a cablegram from Manila December 20, 1941.

Llewellyn Bertrand Whitmore was born at Venus, Nebr., July 27, 1915, so lacked only a few days of being 27 when he passed away.

The young man was graduated from the training school here in 1933 and received his A. B. degree at Wayne State Teachers college in 1937. He took advanced work toward his master's degree at the University of Iowa. He taught one year at Concord and one year at Lindsay before enlisting.

S. Sgt. Whitmore leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Whitmore of Wayne, one brother, Lt. Quentin Whitmore, U. S. N. R., who is training at Annapolis, and four sisters, Nevelah, now Mrs. L. M. Rich of Raleigh, N. C., Lillian, now Mrs. Benjamin S. Wells of Marshalltown, Iowa, Miss Irol Whitmore who teaches in the University of Indiana at Bloomington, and Miss Larhylla Whitmore who is employed in Washington, D. C.

Early Resident Of Wayne Dies

Rites for Arthur L. Tucker Are Conducted in West Thursday, August 9.

Arthur L. Tucker, nearly 66, early resident of Wayne county and brother of Mrs. H. J. Felber and Mrs. H. B. Jones of this place, died Tuesday, August 7, of heart trouble in a Los Angeles sanitarium. Mr. Tucker, whose home is in Portland, had gone to Westwood Village, Calif., some months ago to take his wife there for medical care. Mrs. Tucker, the former Blanche Losch, died in April. Mr. Tucker was unable to return to Oregon.

Funeral rites were conducted Thursday morning at Mountain View for Mr. Tucker and committal was in Mountain View mausoleum at Pasadena, where Mrs. Tucker was buried. Mr. Tucker's parents are also buried there.

Arthur L. Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Tucker, was born in Chicago October 2, 1878. The family came to Wayne in the spring of 1888, the senior Mr. Tucker to be an officer in the Citizens National bank.

Arthur L. Tucker was graduated from Cornell college at Mt. Vernon, Iowa, in 1902. He spent a year as assistant cashier in the Citizens bank in Wayne and then served as cashier in a Cedar Rapids, Nebr., bank. In 1904 he went to Carroll and bought the First National bank which he operated until 1910 when he moved to Portland. Mr. Tucker consolidated the U. S. National and Lumbermen's National banks in Portland years ago and had served as an officer in the U. S. National since.

Mr. Tucker is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Felber and Mrs. Jones of Wayne, Mrs. Gregg Coffin of Los Angeles, and Mrs. A. A. Foster of San Diego, and one brother, E. W. Tucker of Boise, Idaho.

In Routine Business.
Wayne city council met in regular session Tuesday evening and allowed bills.

FREE HERALDS TO ARMY IN U. S. STOP WITH JAPAN'S FALL

THE HERALD is persuaded by the end of the war with Japan and the numerous address changes with uncertainty of reaching addresses, to discontinue all free copies to soldiers in the United States after this week. Copies of this edition will be dispatched as usual. We would urge wives or parents who know latest soldier addresses, to wrap and mail their copies. This newspaper started its free subscriptions to Wayne county soldiers in this country and abroad soon after the attack on Pearl Harbor. An account of increased government requirements and difficulties in making deliveries, overseas copies—400 of them—were stopped following defeat of Germany. Now that the world conflict has been concluded, the remaining 200 going to service men still in the United States will necessarily be discontinued. We have been glad to provide this service without cost to the soldiers, and we feel simply repaid by many grateful acknowledgments. We think it has been a genuine morale builder. After this week we hope relatives will send their copies promptly to their soldier boys.

Airplanes Are Overhauled At Air Base in Anchorage

Sgt. George Claycomb Finds City in Alaska Much Like Those Here.

"Being in one place for 30 months gets a little monotonous," states Sgt. George Claycomb, who recently returned from Alaska to spend a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Claycomb. He had spent the entire 30 months at Anchorage, a town located in the southern part of Alaska. Anchorage is an air base where planes are overhauled. Sgt. Claycomb, being in an air depot group, repaired planes and did clerical work.

Before the war Anchorage was one of the largest towns in Alaska, having 4,000 inhabitants. Many people from the United States are working in Anchorage, helping in civil service and general work there.

Sgt. Claycomb states the weather conditions there are about the same as here. Temperatures go as low as 28 degrees below zero in winter and as high as 85 degrees in summer. Rainfall is sufficient, but not excessive. Houses in Alaska are built much the same as those here; however,

Sees Food Basic Factor in Peace

Arthur W. Emerson Speaks To Wayne Kiwanians on Soil Conservation.

Food will no doubt be a basic factor in world peace, and there is enough good soil to feed all people if it is properly handled. These statements were made by Arthur W. Emerson of Lincoln, soil conservation service leader, who spoke to Wayne Kiwanians Monday at Hotel Morrison.

Mr. Emerson gave a picture of what erosion and land exploitation have done to productive soils of the world. Tracing history through a number of its steps from 2,000 years before Christ, he showed how nations have risen and fallen in accordance with fertility of their soil and the way they handled it.

Thinking world statesmen apparently agree that food will be a basic factor in world peace, for hungry people breed dictators. Dr. H. H. Bennett of Washington, D. C., chief of the soil conservation service and recognized as a world authority on soil erosion and conservation, has stated that there is enough good soil in the world to feed the people if it is properly handled.

The United States has made the most forward step in soil conservation. More than 1,300 soil conservation districts, covering over half of the farm lands and including more than half of the farmers, have been organized since the first law pertaining to this practice was passed in 1937. Now 26 other nations of the world have asked American soil conservation service to help them set up soil saving programs.

Besides Mr. Emerson, Paul Evans of the local soil office, was a guest.

F. L. Blair was leader and Prof. Russel Anderson accompanist for group singing.

Conduct Survey To Plan Roads

Will Get Traffic Information To Be Used in Postwar Building Program.

Within the next few days the department of roads and irrigation will conduct traffic surveys on state and federal highways in the Norfolk to South Sioux City area. These surveys are being conducted to collect information for use in formulating the postwar highway program for this area.

Wardner G. Scott, state engineer, wishes to stress the fact that all data collected are for confidential use, and that the survey has no connection whatsoever with the gasoline rationing program.

Surveys of like nature have been completed at various points in Nebraska. During the conduct of past surveys, splendid cooperation has been secured from the traveling public. The personnel assigned to the survey are employees of the department of roads and irrigation, and will do everything possible to assure a minimum of inconvenience and delay to the drivers. The cooperation of all drivers will be appreciated.

One phase of each survey will be an "Origin and Destination Study." In the conduct of these studies it is necessary to stop vehicles upon the highways to secure information from the drivers relative to their present trip. Drivers of vehicles will be able to recognize an interviewing station by the sign, "Nebraska Highway Department, traffic survey, all vehicles stop on signal." Flagmen will be on duty to assist in controlling traffic, and members of the Nebraska safety patrol will also be in the area. The data to be secured are the place of origin, destination and residence, the trip mileage, and the local office where the local station within the area. These data are all necessary for proper consideration of the highway problem, and will be used for no other purpose.

Gunner Eddie Denkinger Sees Flag Raised on Mt. Suribachi

Wayne Youth on Destroyer Takes Part in Five of Major Invasions.

Eddie Denkinger, gunner's mate third class, who arrived Thursday after 18 months in the Pacific aboard a 2,100-ton destroyer, was one of many hundreds of men who watched the American flag ascend on Mt. Suribachi in Iwo Jima, while aboard his destroyer's short distance off shore.

The young man wears five battle stars for participating in the major invasions of the Marshall islands, Saipan, Iwo Jima, Philippines and Okinawa. He also participated in the battles on Luzon, Corregidor, Leyte, Mindoro, Bataan and Lingayen gulf.

Glenn Denkinger was for a time gun loader on the ship, and was later gun captain. The destroyer on which he serves was damaged twice, once quite badly and later only slightly. It was brought to west coast port for repairs. Eddie said the convoy encountered a few Jap suicide planes.

In describing many of the islands in the Pacific, the young man states that they are pretty from a distance but as for living on any of them, he wouldn't like it. The natives are very friendly but most of them live in filth and in want of many things such as clothing. They resemble the Japs, being of the yellow race.

In the Philippines, natives were schooled by Spanish missionaries and many are pretty wise. Most natives speak some form of English. The Philippines often come out to the American ships in bomb-boat boats to exchange all sorts of knives, woven articles, bananas and hand-made things for such goods as blankets, mattress covers, dungarees and any other articles of clothing the Americans will trade.

As one instance of the suicide craze, Eddie tells of picking up in the water a Jap who apparently had come from a Jap submarine. The Americans took him on board and put him in one of the holes in the fore part of the ship. The Jap begged for a knife so that he could commit suicide rather than having to be held a prisoner. The Jap was later turned over to the marines.

PROFOUND RELIEF COMES FOLLOWING END OF WORLD WAR

PROFOUND relief felt in the ending of World War 2 was not expressed in wild hilarity. Losses have been too great and problems of reconstruction too severe to lead to noisy exultation. People are relieved to know their soldier boys who have so far survived the perils of battle, are now safe, and will return to their respective homes. Parents and wives feel ease of mind to know their sons and husbands are no longer targets for enemy guns. People welcome the change from war to civilian production, with a promised let-up in federal spending. But realizing the task ahead and the vacant chairs that will remain vacant, people will not be disposed to shout. They feel deepest sense of relief. They will no longer fear telegrams from the war department. They will be able to sleep with consciousness that the worst has happened, turning to the giant job of re-adjustment and rebuilding courageously and philosophically. To safeguard what has been achieved, they must meet the responsibilities of peace as they had met the responsibilities of war. It is hoped nations will have the good sense to settle future differences without armed conflict.

Home Economics Teacher Chosen

Miss Virginia Mae Clark Elected—Miss Schmitt Plans to Return.

With the election of Miss Virginia Mae Clark of Concord, to teach home economics in Wayne high school this year, the board of education completed the local staff for the new term which opens September 3. Potsdam Terms Are Accepted

Peace Is Brought to World After Several Years of Armed Conflict.

PROFOUND relief came to anxious millions Tuesday evening, August 14, at 6 o'clock when President Truman released news of the Japanese unconditional surrender ending World War Two. The most momentous of all conflicts came to a close just three months after the surrender of Germany. Fighting in Europe ceased May 8.

In Wayne V-J day was proclaimed Wednesday.

Cheering crowds rode the fire truck and cars through Wayne Tuesday evening in an impromptu parade celebrating the end of hostilities.

Two atomic bombs dropped by American fliers on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in Japan last week helped persuade the Japanese to ask for peace.

The official news agency announced August 10 that Japan was ready to accept full terms of the allies providing Emperor Hirohito be retained on the throne. The Big Four—Great Britain, Russia, China and the United States—replied that the conditions of acceptance would be approved if the emperor would subject himself to the orders of a supreme allied commander or if a government in Japan would ultimately be established in accordance with the terms expressed will of the Japanese people.

The Potsdam ultimatum demands that Japan surrender unconditionally, disarm and give up her conquests, return Manchuria and Formosa to China, and pave the way for an independent Korea. She would withdraw from Malaya, the Netherlands East Indies and China.

No statement about the emperor was included in the Potsdam ultimatum. When the Japs asked Hirohito remain on the throne, the Big Four yielded on provision that the dictates of the supreme commander be carried out through the emperor. In the acceptance Tuesday, Hirohito agreed to cease fighting and to issue the orders of the supreme commander who is to be General Douglas MacArthur.

President Truman announced that official V-J day would be proclaimed after formal acceptance of the Potsdam ultimatum is signed by representatives of the powers concerned. This signing is expected to take place this Thursday in Manila.

World War Two began for America December 7, 1941, when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor, and its victorious conclusion required nearly four years.

60 Years ago today...

156,000 Allied troops landed on the shores of Normandy, France. The arrival of this massive second front was one of the most crucial battles of World War II, eventually leading to the defeat of Nazi Germany in 1945. As we celebrate this important anniversary today, we remember with gratitude the soldiers who endured, suffered and died on that day and throughout the war defending our country and the rest of the world against evil and injustice.

Maciejewski becomes map-maker in World War II

Harold Maciejewski (Mac) had opportunities to become a professional football player, but instead served his country for several years during World War II.

Mac, a native of Loop City, was just out of college when he enlisted in the military in July of 1942. He joined the 648th Engineer Topographic Battalion and was sent to Fort Leonardwood for basic training as a combat engineer.

After basic he was stationed at Fort Belvoir in Virginia for three months of training in photo mapping. In January of 1943 he was put on a train to San Francisco. From there it was on to Brisbane, Australia and then to Sydney and Melbourne.

"I spent almost two years in Melbourne. It was the second largest city in Australia, with 1,500,000 people. I was very fortunate. We lived in an abandoned warehouse where we did all our Map making," he said.

Mac remembers this area as "a beautiful place to be stationed." He was able to take a tram and visit the beach and downtown areas. He was able to travel to a kangaroo hunt north of Melbourne.

"We worked on making maps from pictures taken 30,000 feet above ground. We used a machine called a multiplex which helped develop detailed maps. Our motto was 'a map a day keeps the Japs away' and when serious fighting was taking place, we worked eight hours on, eight hours off," he said.

After the relative calm of Melbourne, Maciejewski's unit was sent to Manila in the Philippines, known as the "Pearl of the Orient." "This place was wrecked terribly. Everything had been destroyed by the Japanese. We could see fighting in the distance," he said.

However, Mac said, at no time did he feel in any immediate danger.

"In fact, the most dangerous part of my time in the military was on the ship coming back. There were lots of storms," he said.

While in the military Mac coached a football team known as the Manila Bears. It was made up of players from all over the country. They played games in Rizal Stadium with large crowds of American spectators watching the games.

While in the service he was able to see the meeting of General MacArthur and the Japanese, and witnessed the surrender from a distance.

Mac came to Wayne in 1953 and taught history, coached football, track and basketball and golf and helped with athletic director duties until his retirement in 1985.

He has three daughters, Carol Richards of Las Vegas, Nev.; Karen Maciejewski of Lincoln and Vicky who is deceased. He also has two step-daughters, Rhonda Goers of Davenport, Iowa and Marla Peterson of Hoffman Estates, Ill. They and his six grandchildren, four step-grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren allow for lots of traveling since retirement.

"Although I was not in danger during most of my time in the service, the mapmaking we did was important. Maps in existence before this time were not up to date and we were able to tell those going into an area what the terrain was like and even the elevation of an area," Mac said.

Mac and his wife Lavah continue to attend reunions of those who served, a number which grows smaller and smaller each year.

Hansen called to service in 1942

John Hansen of rural Carroll was called to service during WWII in 1942 at age 28 along with Ralph Morris and Don Frink, also of Carroll. At the time, he was living on the home place west of Wayne and taking care of his mother and his sister, Ellen. He made arrangements for his mother and sister to move to Wayne and had a farm sale in order to leave and serve his country. Following basic training he was stationed at Ephrata Air Base in Washington state.

Luella French, John's fiancée and Maria Hansen, John's mother, and Dolores French (Luella's sister) took the train from Wayne to Washington to visit John in early July, 1943. Luella had just finished her fifth year teaching at Tip Top rural school, east of Laurel.

Upon arriving in Washington, John asked Luella to stay and they would be married. Since Luella's mother, Mrs. W.R. (Ollie) French was back in Nebraska, John's mother felt that it was appropriate to return to Wayne and not attend the wedding. Dolores stayed in Washington and was Luella's maid-of-honor and John and Luella returned to farming first near Carroll and later to farms near Dixon, Randolph, and Sholes. They now reside on a farm east of Wayne.

Due to family responsibilities, John had been able to only finish the eighth grade at District 51, west of Wayne. In 2000, he was the first graduate of Wayne High School to receive his high school diploma as a WWII veteran. John and Luella have seven children and 27 grand and great grandchildren.

Ring among first draftees

Marcel D. Ring, son of Wallace and Laura Ring, was born Dec. 19, 1917. He was one of the first draftees from Wayne County, following Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941, at $21 a month. Basic training was in Texas, then he went to Ft. Devens, MA - and then to France.

When World War II was about over in the European war theatre, his unit was transported by troop ship through the Panama Canal to the South Pacific. In the summer of 1945, he was honorably discharged at Camp Carson, Colo.

He married Minnie Denkinger of Wayne and had two children, Georgeanne and Paul, both live in Chicago. His brother, Merle, and family live in rural Wayne.

A permanent back injury while in the South Pacific war zone prevented him from returning to operate the family farm. He took up electronics and was employed by United Airlines for seven years; then Burroughs Office Machines - all in Chicago. At that time he was THE full time service person for Burroughs Computers in Chicago - all three of them. Each one weighed over a ton and occupied a whole room.

Later, he owned his own television and radio repair service in Chicago Heights until retirement. He passed away in the spring of 2002.

Hope to be first in fifth war loan

The following story is from the June 1, 1944 issue of the Wayne Herald.

Precinct quotas assigned for drive to be pushed here next week.

Wayne county hopes to surpass its goal in the Fifth war loan drive first in the state of Nebraska. Though the campaign does not officially open until June 12, Chairman R. L. Larson hopes that the quota may be subscribed before that date. The county did not its goal in the Fourth loan so special effort is being made to gain the objective this time.

Staging the drive next week too will enable solicitors to work between corn planting and cultivating.

Precinct quotas are: Plum Creek, $29,000; Hunter, $33,640; Logan, $21,460; Leslie, $19,140; Strahan, $29,290; Wilbur, $33,060; Brenna, $30,450; Hoskins, $26,250; Sherman, $27,000; Garfield, $27,000; Deer Creek, $27,500; Hancock, $28,000; Chapin, $29,750.

Quota for Wayne is $139,000, for Winside $20,000 and for Carroll $10,000.

Precinct captains are: Henry Nelson, Hunter; Luther Bard, Logan; Ed McQuistan, Leslie; R. S. McGuire, Plum Creek; Willie Hansen, Wilbur; Matt Finn, Strahan; Ray Gamble, Brenna; Chapin and Hancock, E.T. Warnemunde and Roy Witte; Hoskins and Garfield, Ed. Winter and Hoskins bank; Sherman, Lee Sellon; Deer Creek, W.R. Scribner; City of Wayne, W. C. Coryell; City of Winside, E.T. Warnemunde; City of Carroll, W. R. Scribner.

Government bonds are the best possible investment. They provide funds for use after the war and help prevent inflation. Letters explaining the advantages of such investments and quotas are being mailed this week to all residents of the county.

Swagerty serves in European Theatre

A poor economy was the reason 18-year old Calvin Swagerty of Wakefield enlisted in the U.S. Army in February of 1943.

"We lived on a farm and with the poor economy, the military was a good choice. I got paid approximately $40 a month and they provided us with food and clothes," Swagerty said.

He was inducted into the army in Omaha and then went to the Riverside, Calif. area for basic training.

In April of 1944 he was assigned to the 35th Division, Company A of the 137th Regiment.

Among the battles he participated in were Normandy, Northern France and the Battle of the Bulge. During action at the Battle of the Bulge, Swagerty's feet were frozen.

"There was a lot of chaos and wreckage when we were in Europe. At the Battle of the Bulge, we started out with 185 soldiers and six weeks later there were only 40 of us left," Swagerty said.

Among his war memories is being part of an honor guard for President Harry Truman at the Potsdam Conference in Brussels, Belgium in the summer of 1945.

"Truman had been a member of the same regiment I was in during World War I. I got to visit with him and ask questions about the war. I was part of a victory parade held at that time," he said.

Although he was not married while he was in the service, his future wife, Bonnie was part of the picture.

"I wrote letters to him every other day, but sometimes he didn't get mail for six weeks," Bonnie said.

"All of the mail from the war was censored. I did try to write letters home when I had a chance. We also had something called 'v-mail,' which was just one sheet of paper sent by wire to the U.S. It was much faster but very short," Calvin said.

Back in Nebraska, Bonnie was employed at Automatic Manufacturing in Pender as a switchboard operator.

"I remember the war having an effect on everybody. Women took men's jobs, such as welding. There was also rationing of gas, tires, nylons and sugar. Because of this, we didn't travel very much," Bonnie said.

He was preparing to go to Japan when the war ended.

He returned to the United States in September of 1945, first stopping - at Boston, Mass., and then being sent to Fort Leavenworth, Kan. It was from here he was discharged on Nov. 11, 1945 after accumulating enough points. He left the military with a rank of Staff Sergeant.

The Swagertys were married in October of 1945 and worked and farmed in the area for a number of years before becoming a truck driving team for 10 years.

They have two children, Terry of Oregon and Betty of Iowa. They also have nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

After being discharged Swagerty received the Good Conduct Ribbon, Victory Medal, Americanism Campaign Ribbon, Army of

During the past 60 years, Swagerty has attended a number of reunions of those with whom he served.

Sandahl involved in communications

Dean E. Sandahl, son of Dick and Mabel Sandahl of Wakefield, was in the U.S. Army, 106 Inf. Division, 422 Inf. Regiment from spring of 1944 to December, 1945. He trained at Camp Atterbury, Ind.

Sandahl served in communications with 106 division in France and Belgium and was taken captive at the Battle of the Bulge, Dec. 18, 1944. He was POW at Stalag 9-B in Bad-orb, Germany and was imprisoned from just before Christmas until Easter, April, 1945. He was discharged from the service, Dec. 8, 1945.

Thinking back to fall, 1944, Sandahl and his unit sailed from New York to Glasgow, Scotland and then on to central England where they trained for another month. Then, they sailed for Le Havre, France. Having been promoted to sergeant and placed in charge of the unit's communications, he had to wade to shore in full combat gear.

Later, the unit was taken to St. Vith, Belgium, to replace the 2nd Infantry Division, which was holding the enemy at the time. Sandahl's unit was in position along the old Siegfried Line in the Ardennes in early December but they were low on fuel, water and ammo. Supplies had to be brought from Le Havre which was quite a distance.

Artillery fire was increasing and quite a bit of enemy activity was reported to the east. With word that their supplies were cut off and they were surrounded, the unit was ordered to escape as best they could. His unit started with an orderly withdrawal on Dec. 19 but because they were surrounded, fighting broke out (Battle of the Bulge) and several members of the unit were killed, Sandahl was wounded and taken prisoner.

The POW's had to march east to Prum, Germany, and spent the night in a bombed out university. The next day they marched further east and were loaded into 40' x 8' cars that were designed to carry eight horses or 40 men; the cars each carried about 60 POW's. On Dec. 23, the train stopped at Limburg, Germany and unfortunately, the British Royal Air Force bombed the area and hit some of the cars which killed some POW's. Arriving at Stalag 9-B on Christmas Day, they were the first American POW's this the former Hitler Youth Camp. They were locked up each with head count each morning. Cold water showers were allowed once a month but when the POW's lathered up with the sand and grit soap, the water would be shut off.

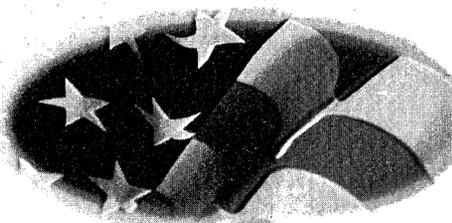

Their diet consisted of black bread and water soup. There was never very much meat. Once, the POW's were questioned about the killing of a German cook who had surprised someone stealing food. Two POW's were determined guilty, taken and never seen again.

In early spring of '45, artillery fire was heard in the distance and for safety, the POW's were told to remain in the barracks. Sandahl woke on April 2 to see the American flag on the camp's clock tower and an American tank at the gate. He was evacuated from the prison camp and sailed on the U.S.S. General Richardson for some rest and recuperation. He was reassigned to Hot Springs, Ark. and discharged from active duty on Dec. 6, 1945. He later was in the Army Reserves rising to rank of First Lieutenant.

For many years, Sandahl was Engineer III in the Bridge Division with the Department of Roads.

Deck recalls war experiences

Norman H. Deck was drafted into the service on Feb. 25, 1942 and left from Wayne with around 20-30 men and entered the army at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. shortly after the Dec. 7, 1942 attack on Pearl Harbor by the Japanese.

From Fort Leavenworth, Kan the group went to Camp Bowie, Texas a few days later. They were assigned to the 636th. They were assigned to various companies.

"We had only a short basic training and were quickly assigned to our platoons. When asked if anyone knew Morris Code, I was selected to be a Radio Operator 740 as I had been a short wave radio operator since I was 16 years old," Deck said.

Deck remembers receiving $21 a month as pay when he first entered the military. That amount increased to $30 later. Each soldier was issued two set of Army clothing.

In March of 1942 the group left Camp Bowie by convoy for Camp Blanding, Fla. They were on maneuvers later in North Carolina. They stayed her for approximately one month.

"Our Battalion was moved to Camp Elwoods, Mass. I was fortunate to get to go home on furlough. It was at this time I got engaged," Deck said.

In April Deck left from New York and sailed to Algeria where he did more training. The unit was headed for Salerno.

When they arrived there, there were air-raids day and night.

"We continued on to Italy and finally got to Rome. I was in a half-track tank where our radio equipment was always located. My driver was a wonderful Indian buddy from Oklahoma," Deck said.

The country of Italy had surrendered and Deck saw a number of battles. The Rapido River crossing was one of the bloodiest.

"We invaded southern France and slowly the Germans were retreating and burning villages in France as they went," Deck said. Deck contracted malaria several times and was hospitalized in Lyons, France until a new drug was found which worked on the symptoms. "We drove forward into Germany and passed several concentration camps, a few of which were in very poor condition with those there starving," Deck said.

Deck then went into Austria, still with the 636th U.S. Army Tank Destroyer Battalion. They were responsible for the apprehension of Herman Goering in Fischhorn Castle. Goering was the Reichsmarschall of the German Air Force under Adolph Hitler. Goering surrendered peacefully to the Americans.

"I didn't go to the surrender, but was in the half-track managing the short-wave radio while my buddy took actual line pictures of the surrender which I developed and have today. I have pictures of Goering's wife and daughter and all the other pictures he took and I developed in the half-track. A friend of mine named Mark Gould of California has all my albums of pictures and is writing a book and plans to make a movie on the World War II capture of Goering," Deck said.

Among the locations Deck visited during his time in the service were Naples, Foggia, Rome, Arno, southern France, Rhineland, central Europe, Germany and Austria.

Medals he earned included the Good Conduct Medal, Bronze Star and Bronze Service Arrowhead.

T/4 Norman H. Deck was honorably discharged from Fort Leavenworth, Kan. on Sept. 26, 1945. He and his buddies rented a taxi to get to the Omaha Train Station where his parents and fiancée were there to meet him.

He and Fern L. Duhachek were married Oct. 17, 1945.

Norman is still a U.S. of America Federally licensed radio operator with Advanced Privileges with call letters NØDMP.

Food production program explained

From the Jan. 7, 1943 issue of the Wayne Herald.

All farmers and town people are urged to attend the meeting at Wayne auditorium Tuesday, January 12, at 1 p.m. when the food production program for 1943 will be officially launched. Any who are unable to be present are asked to hear Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard speak over the national radio networks that day at 3 p.m.

All county committeemen will be present and some will appear on the program. This meeting is a follow up of the district conference at which the 1943 farm goals were introduced.

Everyone is being asked to produce all possible to further the war effort. Among goals set for Nebraska is to increase corn production 10 percent, dry beans 32 percent, potatoes 13 percent, beef 14 percent, mutton nine per cent, pork 40 percent, poultry eight percent, eggs 19 percent.

In connection with farm production a farm mobilization committee of more than 100 Nebraska men and women was announced by department of agriculture war board.

Civic and service clubs, churches, war veterans, professional and trade associations, state and country governmental agencies, railroads, food processors and distributors, radio and the press are represented on the committee. Its job will be to help mobilize all Nebraska resources, farm and non farm, for the big 1943 food production program.

First meeting of the group will be in Lincoln January 12 which has been proclaimed Farm Mobilization day by President Roosevelt. Food's importance as a war weapon, the responsibilities of farm families in this phase of war, and means of helping farmers meet production problems will get major attention.

In his letter to state organization heads requesting their services for the mobilization committee, War Board Chairman Abner K. Chestem pointed out that responsibility for wartime production of food goes beyond people of the farms. "Our state is primarily dependent upon agriculture," he wrote. "No matter what our jobs may be, we trace our welfare to the farm. More than that, our success in war during the year ahead will be measured to a great extent by Nebraska food production. In emergencies like this - when we are feeding great armed forces, millions of home front workers and millions of our allies - every pig, every cow, every chicken and every acre counts heavily."

"In the mobilization of their resources for 1943 war production, our farm families need the understanding, encouragement and support of all the people of Nebraska. To show that support - to give farm families proof that their fellow Nebraskans in all walks of life are behind them - is the purpose of the state farm mobilization committee. We believe you and the people you represent are willing and anxious to help in every possible manner in filling Nebraska's number one war contract, a contract that calls for more food than we've ever before produced," concluded Chairman Chestem.

Burnell and Pauline Grose

Grose was staff sergeant in Air Force during WWII

Burnell Grose of Wakefield was a staff sergeant in the Air Force during WWII. He was in the 82nd Airdrome Squadron, 378th Fighter Squad, 362nd Fighter Group. He entered into the service on Sept. 17, 1942 and was honorably discharged on Nov. 10, 1945, receiving the Good Conduct Medal shortly before his discharge.

In the service, Grose was trained to work on all kinds of airplanes. In 1943, he received training at the Army Air Force Technical Training Command and Curtiss-Wright Technical Institute in California. Afterwards, he received specialized training at Consolidated Vultee Corporation (aircraft factory) in San Diego, Calif. to work on B-24 Liberator (twin-tailed) bombers. Later, he was shipped to England to work on B-24's and was stationed there from January to mid-June, 1944.

While Grose admits a long time has gone by since WWII, some of his memories stand out. Such as, he remembers on the morning of June 6, 1944 (D Day), the sky above him was black with airplanes flying over, returning to base not far from where he was stationed in England.

Another memory he has is when he was stationed in Belgium, where he and others had to take cover in a building when buzz bombs came down in a field nearby. The explosions nearly gave them concussions. Buzz bombs were self-propelled bombs launched on the ground by the Germans.

Grose also served in France during the war. Looking back on the life of Grose, he was born and lived on a farm in the Dodge/Scribner area before moving to Wakefield with his parents where they farmed for many years. He graduated from Wakefield High School in 1936 and farmed for awhile after graduation. He later went into the service. On Aug. 27, 1943, he married Pauline Madsen.

Staff Sgt. Burnell Grose

After his discharge from the military, Grose returned to Wakefield and took over the family farm as his father's health was failing. Burnell and Pauline adopted several children, who are now married and have children. Three live in Nebraska, three in the Des Moines, Iowa area, and one was killed in a motorcycle accident. He has 12 grandchildren and six great grandchildren. His wife, Pauline, is deceased.

Grose resides at The Oaks Retirement Community in Wayne.

Hansen in Who's Who in Marine Corps history

Marine Private Dale Merlin Hansen was awarded the

Pvt. Dale M. Hansen, USMCR

Nation's highest decoration for this gallantry in action in Okinawa on May 7, 1945. He was killed by a Japanese sniper just four days later - on the first anniversary of his entrance into the Marine Corps.

Born Dec. 13, 1922, at Wisner, Private Hansen was the son of Peter and Lillian Hansen and brother of Donald Hansen of Wayne. While attending the schools of Cuming County, he helped out on the family farm and after graduating from high school at Wisner in 1940, he worked full-time on the farm. For relaxation, he played sandlot baseball and softball or went horseback riding.

The five-foot-nine, 141-pound Nebraska farmer was inducted into the Marine Corps on May 11, 1944. He completed "boot camp" at San Diego, Calif. and after that was assigned to the Infantry Training Battalion at Camp Pendleton, Calif. where he underwent four weeks of infantry indoctrination and two weeks of training with the Browning Automatic Rifle. With that weapon, he turned in a score of 175 to become an Expert Automatic Rifleman.

Private Hansen sailed for the Pacific theatre on Nov. 12, 1944, with a replacement draft, and the following month, joined Company E of the 2nd Battalion, 1st Marines, at Pavuvu in the Russell Islands. There, he underwent "bazooka" training before sailing with the 1st Marine Division for maneuvers at Banika Island and Guadalcanal in February, 1945. Late that March, after a few more days back at Pavuvu, the division left for Okinawa where Hansen landed with it on Easter Sunday, April 1. The action which brought him the Medal of Honor occurred in the battle for Hill 60 on the southern part of the island and he was killed on May 11 in the Wana-Dakeshi Ridge fighting.

The Medal of Honor was presented for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty while serving with Company E, 2nd Battalion, 1st Marines, 1st Marine Division, in action against enemy Japanese forces on Okinawa Shima in the Ryukyu Chain, 7 May 1945.

Cool and courageous in combat, Pvt. Hansen unhesitatingly took the initiative during a critical stage of the action and, armed with a rocket launcher, crawled to an exposed position where he attacked and destroyed a strategically located hostile pillbox. With his weapon subsequently destroyed by enemy fire, he seized a rifle and continued his one-man assault. Reaching the crest of a ridge, he leaped across, opened fire on six Japanese and killed four before his rifle jammed. Attacked by the remaining two Japanese, he beat them off with the butt of his rifle then climbed back to cover. Promptly returning with another weapon and supply of grenades, he fearlessly advanced, destroyed a strong mortar position and annihilated eight more of the enemy. In the forefront of battle through out this bitterly waged engagement, Pvt. Hansen, by his indomitable determination, bold tactics and complete disregard of all personal danger, contributed essentially to the success of his company's mission and to the ultimate capture of this fiercely defended outpost of the Japanese Empire. His great personal valor in the face of extreme peril reflects the highest credit upon himself and the U.S. Naval Service.

Private Hansen was initially buried in the 1st Marine Division Cemetery on Okinawa but his remains were returned to the United States in 1948 for burial in Wisner.

Arnold Junck's recollections of his years in the service and World War II

I enlisted in the Army Air Force Dec. 28, 1941 at Fort Crook, Omaha. I received my basic training at Sheppard

Master Sgt. Arnold Junck

Field, Texas on to Petersen Field, Colo. While at Petersen Field, I became a Flight Inspector on to Will Roger's Field, Oklahoma.

Port of Embarkation - Camp Kilmer - arrived at Glasgow, Scotland, Jan. 29, 1944. Then to Chalgrove, Oxford and Reading, England. We witnessed many of the Buzz Bombs directed for London. Our last station was Southampton just before the invasion.

By now I had advanced to the rank of Master Sergeant. I served in the 9th Air Force - the 67th Reconnaissance Group. We received a Presidential Unit Citation - the highest organization decoration awarded in the U.S. Armed Forces. In addition to the Presidential Badge of the European Theatre of Operations (ETO) with four battle stars. The Normandy Invasion, Northern France, Rhineland and the Ardennes.

The route taken by the 67th Tactical Reconnaissance was the Normandy (Omaha Beach) Le Molay, St. Lo, Alencon to Paris. From Paris to Gossalies, Aachen, Vogelsang, Regagen, Cologne

to Eschwege. Eschwege lay a little north west of Leipzig, Germany. We arrived at Eschwege April 10, 1945. President Roosevelt died April 13, 1945. We remained near Eschwege until the Russian military could join our forces. The war in Europe ended May 8th, 1945. We learned later that Hitler and Eva Braun committed suicide April 30th, 1945.

We all had sufficient points to come home but it was determined we were needed in the Pacific. We were moved - all men plus equipment to Marseille France. We left Marseille via the Mediterranean Sea bound for the Pacific. On Aug. 6th, the first Atom Bomb was dropped on Hiroshima, Japan. On Aug. 9th, the second Atom Bomb was dropped on Nagasaki - our ship was rerouted and we were headed bound. The Japanese surrendered Sept. 2, 1945 on the USS Missouri. We arrived at Newport News Sept. 19, 1945 and on to Camp Crowder, Mo. - 30 days leave and formally discharged Oct. 22, 1945.

Must invest now to back home boys

From the Feb. 3, 1944 issue of the Wayne Herald.

Wayne county must invest $325,000 more in bonds in the fourth war loan which continues until February 15 in order that the home folks may keep faith with more than 1,000 Wayne county boys who are in the armed forces and merchant marine. Chairman R. L. Larson reports $147,000 of the $465,000 quota purchased to date. With less than two weeks remaining, investments will need to be stepped up to reach the goal.

About nine percent of the county's population is now serving actively in the war effort. Many homes are represented by two, three and even four in front-line service.

Chairman Larson urges all on the home front to answer the call for funds to supply these men with needed equipment by investing today in government securities.

"Such purchases are not sacrifices. They are the best kind of investments."

Not only are the boys in service making great sacrifice to protect the democratic way of life, but they too are investing in bonds. Every one in service buys bonds.

Army buys bonds - The entire personnel of Wayne college army detachment marched to the post office Wednesday afternoon and invested in bonds.

Governor Dwight Griswold calls all Nebraskans to help realize the state's quota of 94 million in the present bond drive. "Invest for yourself and the 94,000 Nebraska men in service. We must back up these boys. They are our sons and brothers, our fathers and husbands, and our friends. Surely, the people of Nebraska will not let them down. Backing the attack with war bonds is our best assurance that they will come back safely to us."

James Campbell remembers Normandy

James S. "Jimmy" Campbell is a Laurel veteran who participated in the Normandy invasion. After graduating from Laurel High School in 1938, Campbell farmed for a couple of years before enrolling in Wayne college. A few months after Pearl Harbor, he enlisted in the Army Air Corps.

"I should have known better," he said. "I get dizzy on a merry-go-round." When flying didn't pan out, Campbell was transferred to the regular army and sent to Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri where he trained as a combat engineer.

Before being sent overseas, he was assigned to the 121st Engineering Battalion, one of the units of the 29th Division, a former National Guard outfit nicknamed the Blue and Gray. Upon arriving in England on April 19, 1944, Campbell began training for the coming invasion.

Elements of the 29th Division - including two platoons of the 121st Engineering Battalion -- were among the first to storm Omaha Beach on D-Day. During the assault, the Division suffered heavy losses of both men and equipment. Campbell was sent in three days later as a replacement for a man who had been killed in action.

"My first experience after landing in Normandy was to dig a foxhole for protection," said Campbell. "A buddy of mine dug his hole nearby and we decided we should have some kind of alarm in case a German patrol came through. We put small rocks in tin cans and hung them on a wire around the perimeter of our foxholes. In the middle of the night, I heard the cans making a terrible noise. I grabbed my gun and hollered 'Steve, where are you.' Just as I was getting ready to shoot, I heard him say, 'Oh, I had to go to the bathroom.'"

"When the company commander found out I could type, I became the company clerk. My job was to keep track of all the casualties. Each morning I had to file a report listing all the men who had been killed, wounded, or were missing in action, making sure I had each victim's correct identification number. While I was not in the front lines, I was quite close to the action and carried a rifle at all times.

James S. Campbell

"After I had been in France about three weeks, I decided it was time for a bath. I filled my helmet with water and stripped down. But just as I put one foot into the helmet and started to scrub, I heard the sound of an enemy plane. I dove into the nearest foxhole and that ended my bath.

"St. Lo was one of our first objectives, but to get there we had to pass through the hedgerow country. This proved to be very tough going. We were pulled back from the front the night they bombed St. Lo. There wasn't much left of it when they finished. I saw four or five Flying Fortresses shot down. During the night our camp took some German artillery fire and we had to move.

"One day while traveling in convoy, we saw that we were about to be strafed by a German plane. We jumped out of our jeeps and dove for cover. After the plane flew on, everyone climbed back in and we drove on until our leader managed to get lost. We bivouacked on a hillside for the night and when we woke the next morning we saw some Germans camped on a nearby hill and they were getting ready to shell us. But we managed to get away without losing any men or equipment."

After the fall of St. Lo, the 29th Division -- including the 121st Combat Engineers -- turned south to take a German naval base at Brest. The distance from St. Lo to Brest was approximately 200 miles. In a 1944 letter to his family, Campbell described some of the horrible things he had seen along the way: Burned out tanks, both German and American, which had become fiery coffins for the men trapped inside; dead cattle and horses, some still harnessed to their carts; the body of a dead civilian rotting in the sun. At one point Campbell observed dead German soldiers lying on one side of the road and dead Americans on the other. Sights such as these can never be erased from the memory.

At Brest, the Germans had built underground fortifications to shelter some of the giant coastal guns which guarded the port. These guns could be retracted into solid rock bunkers to render them practically invulnerable from the air. Campbell watched as American dive bombers tried to knock them out. "That's when I was glad I wasn't in the Air Corps," he said. "At least on the ground, somebody wasn't shooting at you all the time." Members of the 121st Combat Engineers planted a 1,200 lb. explosive charge in one of the tunnels leading to the main underground fortress. The blast caused the enemy to surrender and the three divisions that had participated in the siege had custody of some 40,000 enemy prisoners. After the fighting ended, a group of engineers cleared a small area on the beach so the men could relax before moving on to assist in the liberation of Paris.

En route to Paris, Campbell's outfit spent one night in Rennes, a small French city that had escaped the destruction of war. After sampling a few glasses of local wine, Campbell decided to take in a French movie. Although Campbell couldn't understand a word of the dialogue, he noticed that whenever an image of Charles DeGaulle appeared on the screen during the newsreel, the audience would applaud wildly.

"This became monotonous after a while," he wrote, "as DeGaulle was in every other picture. Finally, General Omar Bradley and the Stars and Stripes came into view and I -- being the only Yank present -- gave a rousing cheer and found myself suddenly in the limelight!"

For Jimmy Campbell, the road from Normandy back to Laurel led through France, Belgium and Germany. During the march from Omaha Beach to the banks of the Weser River, the 29th Division suffered the third highest number of casualties (4,786 killed; 15,541 wounded) of the sixty-eight combat divisions assigned to the European theater of operations.

The 121st Engineering Battalion was later awarded the Presidential Unit Citation for Gallantry in Action and was also cited for meritorious service. When the war ended, the men of the 29th figured they had paid their dues and expected to be sent home. Instead, the entire division was assigned to the Army of the Occupation. "By the time I returned home (January 22, 1946) all of the hooting and hollering was over," said Campbell.

(Note: this story was written by Roger Tryon who writes columns for The Laurel Advocate.)

HAIL TO OUR WORLD WAR II HEROES

A simple soldier died today

He was getting old and paunchy, and his hair was falling fast. And he sat around the Legion telling stories of the past. Of a war that he once fought in and the deeds that he had done. In his exploits with his buddies, they were heroes - everyone!

And though sometimes to his neighbors, his tales became a joke. All his buddies listened quietly, for they knew whereof he spoke. But we'll hear his tales no longer, for ole Mac has passed away. And the world's a little poorer, for A SOLDIER DIED TODAY!

He won't be mourned by many, just his children and his wife. For he lived an ordinary - very quiet sort of life. He held a job and raised a family, going quietly on his way. And the world won't note his passing, though A SOLDIER DIED TODAY!

When politicians leave this earth, their bodies lie in state. While thousands note their passing, and proclaim that they were great. Papers tell of their stories from the time that they were young. But the passing of a Soldier goes unnoticed - and unsung.

What is the greater contribution to the welfare of our land - some jerk who breaks his promise and cons his fellow man? Or the ordinary fellow who in times of war and strife, goes off to serve his country and offers up his life?

The politicians stipend and the style in which he lives are often disproportionate to the service that he gives. While the ordinary Soldier, who offered up his all is paid off with a medal, and perhaps a pension -- small!

It's so easy to forget them, for it is so many that our Bobs, and Jims and Joes, went to battle, but we know - it's not the politicians with their compromise and ploys who won for us the freedom that our country now enjoys.

Should you find yourself in danger, with your enemies at hand, would you really want some cop-out, with his every waffling stand? Or would you want a Soldier - for home, his country, his kin - just a common Soldier who fought until the end?

He was just a common Soldier, and his ranks are growing thin. But his presence should remind us, we may need his like again. For when countries are in conflict, we find the Soldier's part is to clean up all the troubles that the politicians start.

If we cannot do him honor while he's here to hear the praise, at least let's give him homage at the ending of his days, perhaps just a simple headline in the paper might say:

A SOLDIER DIED TODAY"

Pearl Harbor is now well fortified

The following story was in the January 14, 1943 issue of the Wayne Herald.

Pearl Harbor in the Hawaiian Islands, where the Japs made their treacherous and devastating attack over a year ago, is now so well fortified that the enemy can't get near. These are the welcome words brought by Pete Petersen who arrived home January 2 after spending a year at Pearl Harbor helping in government construction work. Mr. Petersen is still under contract with the government for this type of work and is subject to call to other such projects.

Once shortly after the fateful December 7 attack the Jap planes attempted a repeat performance but they missed their objectives and hit the hills.

Of the ships in the American navy sunk while in Pearl Harbor December 7, the Arizona has been raised from the Harbor depths but is as yet not completely ready to steam once more on its way with messages of fear for the enemy. The Alabama is likewise being rapidly repaired. But the Utah is still resting near the Harbor floor.

"Pete" explained that really suicide planes are not in the air force of the Rising Sun. It seems the Japanese have a type of dive bomber which carries but one torpedo and swoops low along the side of a ship and "lets go" with this torpedo when the plane is in such a position that it will hit the ship broadside. Because of the danger involved in executing this task these men and the planes sometimes have the word "suicide" attached to them. It is these planes navy men have learned to look at with dread. The torpedo planes do more damage than the bombs, the Wayne man explained.

Life changes greatly. Life in Hawaii has changed much from the pre-war days.

According to Marvin C. Lupton, writing for the Red Hill weekly at Honolulu, the population of the island has bid good-bye to light hearted ways. "Previously Honolulu, located 3,000 miles from any scene of disruption whatsoever, was quite content to dine, dance and dissipate to its heart's content. A general air of complacency dominated the town by day and hilarity reigned far into the night at a hundred bars and dance pavilions. The island's new crop of malihinis, both service and otherwise, jammed the hot spots and liquor holes from Kapahulu to Kilihi and filtered out to all points of the island.

"But then on the morning of December 7 from the general direction of Hickam field and Schofield barracks came nervewracking explosions and huge columns of smoke swirled skyward. The raid came to a close as suddenly as it had begun. To the workers fell the duty of taking care of the dead. Truck drivers to haul the bodies and carpenters to build the rough boxes were drafted into service. For days they worked and far into the evenings. It was an experience that was not forgotten."

Have daily blackouts. This is the history of the peaceful islands' military law. Today when the clock strikes 4 in the afternoon, business men and merchants turn the keys in their doors and go to their homes to prepare for the regular blackout. If one must be about after dark he has to have a special permit. Food is plentiful. And at the risk of causing mass emigration, so is sugar! Pineapples are raised but much of the other food must come by ship from the mainland.

When questioned as to the length of World War II, Mr. Petersen responded with, "It is the idea of the people on the island that it will last 10 years, with blame for the length going to the Japs."

The American Japanese of the island work with American citizens and all get along well. These people tend to their own business and are good workers. "Pete" liked the climate at Hawaii but he is glad to look down corn rows in Wayne county once more.

Army Air Contingent arrives

This story was taken from the Thursday, April 1, 1943 issue of the Wayne Herald.

Army air cadets from Lincoln air base arrived in Wayne by special train Monday night, and the more than 200 young men are housed in Terrace hall. They will be given academic work, physical training and flight instruction here.

A program welcoming the army air men was held for them alone at the college auditorium Tuesday evening. Welcomes were given by Mayor Herman Lundberg, City Attorney R.W. Bartels, President H.E. Siman of Wayne Kiwanis club, Chairman L.W. McNatt of Wayne Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Victor West who is chairman of Wayne Ministerial association and Dr. J.T. Anderson who is president of the college.

Dean H.H. Hahn and members of the faculty who will serve as instructors for the unit. He presented Prof. K.N. Parke, Dr. J.R. Johnson, Dr. W.G. Ingram, Prof. J.Q. Qwen, Prof. Gerald Danskin, Coach Ralph Ginn, Prof. Raymond Schreiner, and Dean Clarence McGinn.

The college band under direction of Prof. John R. Keith furnished selections. Prof. Russel Anderson sang a solo and led the young men in group songs. The girls' trio, Gwendolyn Horton, Genevieve Lundak, and Bernice Grazis, accompanied by Shirley Knapp, sang "Marching Along Together" and "She Didn't Say Yes."

1st Lt. Arthur J. Bazata, commanding officer of the unit, presided and he also spoke, stressing the men's obligation to the army and to the community. He was introduced by Lt. N. B. Starr.

Baker notes his Army experiences from 1942-1945

Cliff Baker joined the Army in July, 1942, when he was 21 years old. At that time he was on the family farm in Wayne, farming with his father and brother.

In the Army, he was Private First Class in the 95th Infantry, and a radio operator.

He received his basic training at Camp Swift, which was next to Austin, Texas.

After basic training he went on to Fort Sam Houston, Texas to receive more training. He learned to hike 25 miles a day in eight hours with rifle and backpack. Then it was on to Camp Polk, La for maneuvers, and from there to Camp Cocks Comb which was close to Needles, Calif. It was a tent city in the desert where soldiers received mountain and desert training. His company also spent some time in West Virginia to receive mountain training.

In July 1944, his company moved on to Fort Indian town

Gap next to Harrisburg, Pa. It was here that he learned Morse

Pfc. Cliff Baker

code to become a radio transmitter and receiver. A radioman had to be able to carry a 40 lb. radio as well as his backpack, and have a good sense of direction.

Then it was on to Boston for a couple of weeks until they were shipped out to England. They traveled on the USS West Point, which was a luxury liner called the USS America in peace times. They spent three weeks in England, and then, approximately six weeks after D-Day, they were deployed to Omaha Beach. LST boats brought them in as far as possible and then they waded in the rest of the way.

They fought many battles and kept moving east. They had trucks until they caught up with the front lines. Then they had to walk. The infantry was made up of three regiments. Two regiments were in the front line and one in reserve. They rotated every week to ten days. He talked about a couple frightening experiences-- one time when he got out too far ahead of the line, and another time when they had to row boats across the very swift Moselle River by Metz, France. There were twelve men to a boat and they ended up losing a couple boats and the men in them.

They headed on towards the German line. On Nov. 28, 1944 when they were approximately ten miles into Germany he was wounded by shrapnel. He was taken to a field hospital and they operated on his hand and leg that night. The injured areas had to be frozen before they could perform surgery. A couple days later they put him on a stretcher on the very top of a C47 cargo plane made over into a hospital plane.

Baker was taken to a hospital in Salisbury, England where he recuperated for four months and then it was back to the front lines. He was flown to LeHavre, France and then taken by truck to Cologne, Germany where he hooked up with his own outfit again. Within two weeks they took over Dortmund, Germany.

In May 1945 he was granted a 45 day furlough to come home. They came home by boat and he remembers getting very sick when they hit a violent storm. They landed in New York and from there he traveled home by train. While home on furlough he received word that the war had ended.

He did not have to go back to Germany, but instead was sent to Fort Sam Houston and then transferred to Camp Crowder, Missouri as a mail clerk.

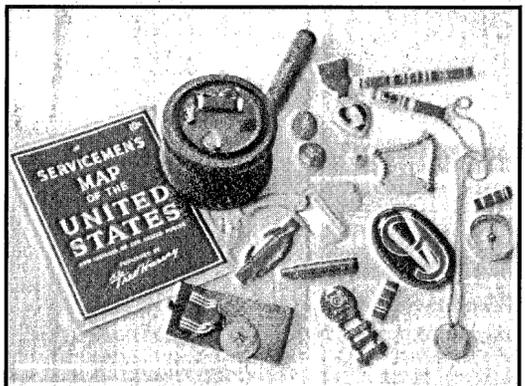

Baker received his discharge papers and was honorably discharged on Oct. 5, 1945. He received various badges and awards including Good Conduct medals, a Combat Infantry badge and the Purple Heart.

Christmas dinner was served even in the desert. For awhile, Baker was stationed in the desert where he and other soldiers received training.

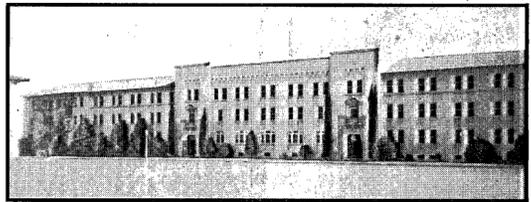

Bakers have a lot of memorabilia gathered while Cliff was in the service. The photo above shows some of their collection such as Army songbook, postcards depicting the military, scrapbook of newspaper clippings, foreign money, etc.

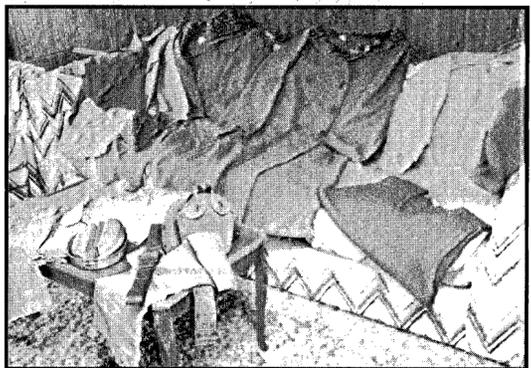

The photo above shows more memorabilia such as Baker's servicemen's map, medals (including his purple heart), compass, dog tags, etc.

Korths share World War II memorabilia

Wendell and Ruth Korth of Wayne shared a number of their family photographs. Some were taken during the time of WWII and some were taken later in Germany during a visit when their son was in the service there. During WWII, Wendell Korth was stationed in the Pacific theatre, in Hawaii. He was a Private in the Army.

Sixty-two years ago, a military tribute was displayed in the window of Brown-McDonald's on Main Street in Wayne, which was where the Wayne Herald is now. At that time, Gertrude Lynch was the assistant manager of McDonald's and she set up the display to promote selling of war bonds. The honor roll photos in the display were of employees of Brown-McDonald Company. Lynch later married Wilfred Lindsay of Wayne, who had been a prisoner of war in WWII.

Warren was stationed at Hahn Air Force Base in Germany.

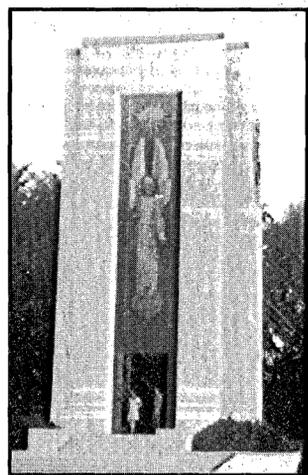

These cemeteries were within a few hours drive from Hahn. (Hahn is in Hunnesrock Mountain area).

Gen. George Patton's grave is at the American cemetery in Luxembourg, Germany. He wanted to be buried with his men. He was killed in a motorcycle accident in the area.

World's Most Terrible War Over as Japanese Surrender

PEACE... prayed for unceasingly and long awaited and isn't it wonderful now it is here!... arrived on the world's doorstep Tuesday, August 14.

At 7 p.m. (EWT) which is 6 o'clock in Tokyo, President Truman read to the nation the formal message relayed from Emperor Hirohito thru the Swiss Government in which the Japanese ruler pledged the surrender on the terms laid down by the Big Three conference at Potsdam. Then the President made this statement:

"I have received this afternoon a message from the Japanese Government in reply to the message forwarded to that government by the Secretary of State on August 11.

"I deem this reply a full acceptance of the Potsdam declaration which specifies the unconditional surrender of Japan. In this reply there is no qualification.

"Arrangements are now being made for the formal signing of surrender terms at the earliest possible moment.

"General Douglas MacArthur has been appointed the Supreme Allied Commander to receive the Japanese surrender.

"Great Britain, Russia and China will be represented by high-ranking officers.

"Meantime, the Allied Armed Forces have been ordered to suspend offensive action.

"The proclamation of V-J Day must wait upon the formal signing of the surrender terms by Japan."

The White House made public the Japanese Government's message accepting the terms that ended the war which started December 7, 1941. Text of their message delivered by the Swiss Charge d'Affaires follows:

"Communication of the Japanese Government of August 14, 1945, addressed to the governments of the United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union and China:

"With reference to the Japanese Government's note of August 10 regarding their acceptance of the provisions of the Potsdam declaration and the reply of the Governments of the United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union and China sent by American Secretary of State Byrnes under the date of August 11, the Japanese Government has the honor to communicate to the governments of the four powers as follows:

"1. His Majesty the Emperor has issued an Imperial rescript regarding Japan's acceptance of the provisions of the Potsdam declaration.

"2. His Majesty the Emperor is prepared to authorize and insure the signature by his Government and the Imperial General Headquarters of necessary terms for carrying out the provisions of the Potsdam declaration. His Majesty is also prepared to issue his commands to all the military, naval, and air authorities of Japan and all the forces under their control wherever located to cease active operations, to surrender arms, and to issue such other orders as may be required by the Supreme Commander of the Allied Forces for the execution of the above mentioned terms."

These are the details as Capper's Weekly goes to press. The fighting in the world's most terrible war is over, and for that we are grateful, but the problems of war are not over. We must continue to make sacrifices to win the peace as we have won the war.

Belgian Congo Natives Mined Uranium That Went Into First Atomic Bombs

BY S. BURTON HEATH
M. E. A. Staff Correspondent
LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo. — (M. E. A.) — People of the Belgian Congo believe they made one of the greatest contributions to complete United Nations victory. Throughout the war the Belgian Congo furnished the United States with considerable amounts of uranium ore — basic raw material of atomic bombs. This ore made possible the success of the Manhattan engineer project, development of the bomb and the blasting of Hiroshima and Nagasaki to force immediate Japanese surrender.

went to Canada for processing. There it was mingled with a lesser quantity of uranium ore from the Dominion's own mines in the northwest territories. Under the veil of military secrecy, the American public has assumed that all the ore used in the bombs originated in Canada.

Supply Is Assured
Gen. Pierre Ryckmans without disclosing the terms or the length of time the United States contracts with the Belgian Congo ore producers have to run, summarized his satisfaction with the simple expression: "The uranium is perfectly safe."

So far as I can ascertain, neither Great Britain nor Canada is formally a party to the contract, but the Belgians think of the United States as representative of the Anglo-American alliance in the deal.

Produced Largest Share
"We had very pleasant relations with the United States and Great Britain during the war," Ryckmans said, in oblique reference to the volume of interest in the Congo and its relationship to the total supply.

Other apparently informed sources told me that the Congo produced by far the largest share of the uranium used, though they had no figures.

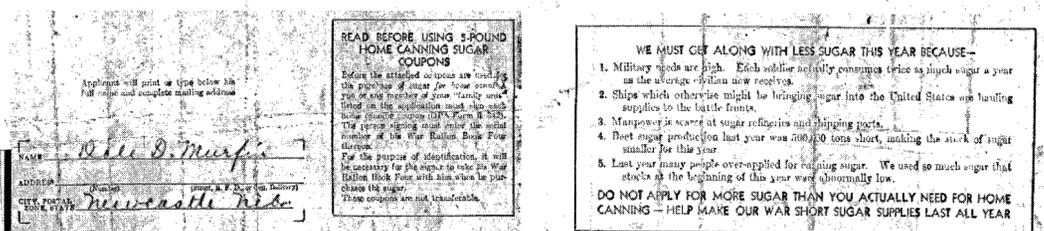

The ore was mined for in the interior, brought down the Congo by boat and railroad, and transported to the port of Matadi.

Amount, Cost Unknown
Examination of the lend-lease figures throw no light upon the volume or monetary value of the Congo's ore.

Up to July 1, 1945, Belgium is credited with $55,647,000 of reserve lend-lease, and the Congo with only $122,000. What Belgium supplied to that amount is not clear. It is possible, of course, that since the Congo is a colony with no individual financial entity—the uranium was credited to the mother country for security reasons.

On the other hand, it is possible, despite the nature of the contracts, that the ore was charged against Canada, when it went there for processing, and then the Dominion recouped by charging the United States for the processed uranium sent to Tennessee.

Plain Cross Marks Last Resting Place of Famed General

BY RICHARD A. O'REGAN

Luxembourg.—Gen. George S. Patton Jr. was laid to rest on Christmas eve in the American military cemetery near here, his grave no different from 6,000 others which mark the final resting places of soldiers from his own beloved Third army.

Generals of allied nations stood stiffly at attention in the rain as the body of the fallen warrior was placed beside that of an American private.

A plain white cross was placed above the general's grave—just like 6,000 other white crosses which dot the gently sloping hillside. These were the graves of the Third army men who fell just a year ago as Patton's mighty armored columns smashed northward in the bitter Battle of the Bulge.

Half Tracks Move Again
In the same fog and rain the half tracks and armored cars moved once again, slow this time. One of them bore a silver casket covered with the American flag.

Soldiers who fought under Patton paid their commander as great a tribute as any of the many governments who honored him—by evergreen wreath with the simple inscription: "To Our Leader."

At 9:15 a. m. the doors of the funeral car were opened and 10 soldiers, all privates in the Third army, lifted the casket to the platform and placed in on a half track. Mrs. Patton and her brother, Frederick Ayer, of Boston, followed it. She looked worn and pale as she slowly walked behind the casket.

Budgeting can help get the most bang for your buck

Even though budgeting often is an unpopular chore, a solid financial plan can help people use their money more effectively. Many families are thinking about school expenses, and it is not too early to start planning for the extra holiday costs. Every family plan will be a little different, but thinking through this nine-step process, can help stretch the dollars available and make sure important family goals are met.

Begin by communicating with family members, or being honest with oneself if single, to determine personal needs and wants. The person who earns the money does not have the sole right to decide how it will be spent. It can help to meet on a regular basis. Communication minimizes conflicts and ensures that everyone involved understands the reasoning behind financial decisions. If everyone contributes, the final decision is likely to be a fair one and one that everyone can live with.

Sandy Preston
Dixon County

Next, examine the family's unique situation. Consider family size, ages and income and expenses. Lifestyles, such as beliefs about spending or saving money and types of hobbies, may make one expense category more or less than another. Also think about potential changes, such as marriage, childbirth, moving, switching jobs or major one-time expenses like remodeling.

The third step in budgeting is setting goals. These include both long- and short-term goals, whether planning a retirement income or taking a family vacation. Write down the goals, estimating what each will cost and a loose timetable for achieving them. Now you can calculate how much money should be set aside each month or year, to reach the goal and remove that amount from total income. It is always important to include something for retirement and savings in your goals.

Figure out total income by adding together all sources of income, including take-home pay, interest, dividends, bonuses and others. Don't rely too heavily on non-fixed incomes, such as bonuses. If the paycheck is variable, try to predict which months are highest and lowest paying, scheduling irregular expenses like insurance for months with higher income. It is best to be conservative in estimating income and to overestimate expenses. Keep it simple and estimate to the nearest $1 or $5 instead of adding every penny.

Next, lay out a plan for how income will be spent throughout the year. Determine fixed expenses, such as rent or mortgage payment, utilities, installment loans, credit card minimums or childcare costs. Include savings for emergencies and for goals in the fixed expenses.

Then estimate flexible expenses. These include such costs as food, clothing, household expenses, medical care and entertainment. This is the most variable part of the budget, so allow for some alteration from month to month. If flexible expenses are difficult to estimate, keep track of them for a couple months to get a better idea.

Irregular expenses surface throughout the year, like insurance premiums, taxes, organization dues, magazine subscriptions or holiday gifts. Expenses like these can be flexible in amount and timing. By examining past irregular expenses, estimate when and how much they will be. Divide that amount by 12 to determine how much to set aside each month.

The next step often proves the most difficult -- using the budget. Keep records of actual spending throughout the month and at the end compare them with the plan. If necessary, adjust budget figures to create a plan that works smoothly. This may take several months.

The major benefit of using a budget and keeping records is when those tools are used for future planning and to help pinpoint a spending leak or spot a potential trouble before it occurs.

A bonus will be that budget records can make preparing your taxes easier.

Lewis and Clark celebration impressive

I have completed as much Lewis and Clark as I can this past month. These river towns have been celebrating it and their 150th birthdays in style. Louisville had a grant to present four different speakers on different aspects of the exploration; I got to three. The last, on the medical practices, was fascinating.

The presenter is from the Army museum in Leavenworth. He displayed his private collection, which included common medications and instruments. I was struck by the use of many different purges as a common treatment. I had always read of "bleeding" and he demonstrated the lancet used and the cups that collected the blood. He also had a surgeon's kit. Of course, no one worried about sterilization; germs had not been discovered yet.

There is even a book about the expedition titled "Only One Man Died". Of course, that was Sergeant Floyd, whose memorial is over the river at Sioux City. It really is a miracle that that was the case. Maybe it was the daily dose of whiskey that kept them going. Of course, it was a military expedition and the recruits had to be in good health. They also had to have good teeth! The fellow from Kansas demonstrated shooting a flintlock musket. The first step was to bite off the cartridge. And I guess the main treatment for a toothache was extraction, so that was important criteria.

I saw three young re-enactors fire their muskets again at the Interpretative Center in Nebraska City. It was quite a process to load and fire, supposedly, a trained soldier could get off three shots in a minute; I certainly don't see how.

The day in Neb City was great fun. There were lots of folks in costume; including Sacagawea and Lewis, and they had a huge Newfoundland dog to represent Seaman. These animals really do have webbed feet, and we were told no sailing vessel coming from Europe in the early years were without one of these dogs. They could rescue folks and help fish.

I also learned that they depended on the cottonwood trees all along the journey, mostly for wood. But the Indians also stripped that bark and fed it to horses in winter. Of course, it is our state tree. But I'm ready to vote for another kind.

We have one cottonwood tree in the front yard. It started sending cotton to the front porch already in May. Now, it is dropping huge clumps of cotton on the lawn. We can rake them up every day, and every morning, there are more. I've never seen it this bad. I suppose it is the unusual rainfall.

I notice our minister has planted one on the south side of the parsonage. I bet he'll be sorry. He should have asked me first!

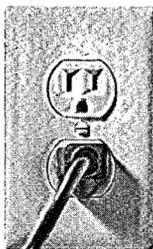

Special contribution

Members of the Sewers and Growers 4-H Club recently presented several items to the Wayne County 4-H program. The group held a fundraiser in Winside earlier this year and with the proceeds purchased a large fan for the poultry and rabbit barn at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. In addition, several pieces of cleaning equipment were also given to the 4-H program. Organization leader of the group is Becky Wurdeman. Accepting the donation was Amy Topp, Extension Educator, third from left in the back row. The gifts were used extensively throughout the recently completed fair.
