Six year old Kaden Schmale of Carroll, at right, was all smiles Sunday when he was able to wear the helmet and sit in the cockpit of the Mercy Air Care Helicopter. The pilot and two paramedics landed the helicopter at the Carroll Fire Hall during the annual Carroll Pancake and Omelet Feed. While in Carroll, the crew was able to visit with area residents and explain the capabilities and limitations of the service which is located in Sioux City Iowa. Below, a number of people were able to view the helicopter and see first-hand what the inside looks like. Bottom left, the helicopter's arrival was loud enough to send those in attendance at the pancake/omelet feed outside to watch the pilot maneuver it to its resting spot without encountering any power lines or trees.

A marriage made...on the basketball court

By Mike Grosz WSC Sports Information

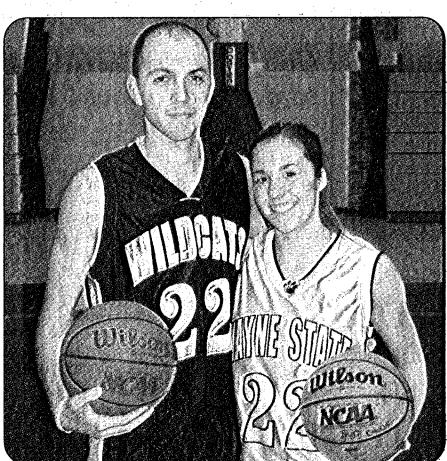

The last thing on Troy Malone's mind when he started his basketball career at Wayne State College turned out to be the best thing that ever happened to him. It wasn't a conference championship or a regional berth or an all-conference award.....it was getting married.

Troy, a member of the Wayne State College men's basketball team, married Kim Hefner, a member of the Wildcat women's squad, last summer.

Ironically, the two did not meet on the basketball court. "We first started talking at Bowen Hall during our freshman year," said Kim Malone, who admits she did eye Troy a couple of times on the basketball court when they were freshmen. Troy and Kim started dating during their sophomore season (2002-03). Troy, a senior from Knoxville, Iowa, proposed to Kim during a Fourth of July fireworks show in Gillette, Wyo., Kim's hometown. The two were married June 26, 2004 in Bighorn, Wyo.

Troy says meeting Kim is the best thing that has ever happened to him and it has changed his life. "When I first came to Wayne State, I was 100 percent committed to basketball with a goal of playing overseas in Europe when I graduated," remembered the senior guard. "I definitely didn't think I would find my future wife in this little town," joked Troy.

Kim, a senior, is majoring in biology and carries a 3.643 grade point average while Troy, a senior, carries a 3.41 grade point average and is majoring in health and physical education. So how does a young college couple, just married and college basketball players, find time for each other?

"We always find time for each other and help each other out, whether it's with homework or things at home," said Kim.

Since getting married last summer, the Malones have been called the "Mom and Dad" of the Wildcat basketball teams by their teammates.

"Yeah, they get razzed a little bit," said WSC head women's basketball coach Ryun Williams, whose players call Kim 'Mama'. "They have not sep-

Is election necessary?

Regarding the "Council" article in the March 10, 2005 edition, Council Member Betty Reeg asked about the process of holding a special election to fill the vacancy left by Jim Shanks. It was reported that it could take up to eight weeks and $2,500 to hold a special election. End of discussion? Better look again.

On the City's web site it is reported "Action on Notice of Vacancy in First Ward" "approved with direction to have resolution for special election prepared for the March 29 council meeting."

Do we really need a special election costing the tax payers $2,500 to fill a vacancy for less than two years? Hasn't the city cut jobs to save money? Hasn't the city cut funding for some programs to save money?

Perhaps Mrs. Reeg would fund the special election herself, to save

Main Street Focus

Tuesday afternoon, April 5. The Nebraska Lied Main Street staff and design team will be on hand to facilitate a discussion on formulat, ing a better program for utilizing Transportation Enhancement Funding for Main Street projects.

Revitalization: Effective Practices in Commercial District Master Planning and Zoning." The presenter will be Nick Kalogeresis of the National Trust's Main Street Center.

Several of our Economic Restructuring Committee members will be attending.

In our last four columns we attempted to cover and explain the workings of Main Street Wayne's four committees and their attempt to comply with Main Street's "Four Point Approach."

Today, we would like to explain the value of the National Trust for All pluses for the local economy. Historic Preservation's Main Street Program which offers an approach to downtown revitalization that has been successful in nearly 2,000 towns and cities throughout the country. Dollar-for-dollar, historic preservation is one of the highest job-generating economic development options available.

For example, in South Dakota, $1 million in rehabilitation creates 17 more jobs than the growing of $1 million of agricultural products, according to consultant Donovan Rypkema in his book, "The Economics Preservation." Because it is more labor intensive, historic preservation creates five to nine more construction jobs, he said. The Commerce Department says retail sales will increase on average of $34,000 more per rehab job than with new construction.

Nebraska figures have not been available because of the absence of state incentive for such projects and the lack of a statewide preservation organization.

But this is about to change, thanks in part to the introduction of a bill which is currently making its way through the Nebraska Legislature. The measure, LB66, implements the voter's intent with: their approval of Amendment One election.

It allows the increased value of real property resulting from historic preservation work to be exempt from taxation for eight to find the future.

The Nebraska Main Street man- years with the increased value agers will meet in Kearney on phased-in over four additional years. Owners will still pay the frozen property tax rate on the building, but the moratorium gives them a chance to recoup some of their improvement expenses before the new assessment kicks in.

Under the guidance of the This will be followed on National Trust for Historic Wednesday by a seminar entitled, Preservation and Nebraska Trust Advisor Maxine Moul - also a member of the Nebraska Lied Main Street Board - talks have begun about establishing a statewide preservation group.

Rypkema says that historic rehabilitation activity is open countercyclical and stabilizes the local economy. The vast majority of such projects are modest in scale, and thus, affordable. They are more feasible during down economic times and have a greater local impact. Materials and supplies used in rehabilitation projects are most often purchased locally from the hardware store or lumber yard.

Historic preservation is also a plus in attracting other projects with growth potential to a community. Many companies realize that their real assets are not plants and equipment, but the people who work for them and the quality of life the community develops for them through many means including historic preservation.

More than any other man-made element, historic buildings differentiate one community from another. The quality of historic buildings and the quality of their preserva-Historic tion says much about a community's self-image. Life without parole? Smoking bans? Term limits?

By Ed Howard Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

There is no such thing as "life without parole" in Nebraska.

Some recent news reports have suggested that a couple of convicted killers received such sentences. It isn't so.

A judge can express the view, at sentencing, that the miscreant shouldn't be paroled. The judge can turn up at the eventual parole hearing and say the killer should be kept in prison.

What no judge has the authority to do, in this state, is to actually order that a killer be kept in jail forever, without a parole hearing.

Mark Twain, America's greatest author, never missed an opportunity to regale the world with his view of smoking as one of the most grand and glorious of pleasures.

He used to suggest that a man without petty vices ought not be trusted.

Twain didn't have the benefit of modern science and the research demonstrating that smoking is dangerous to oneself, and perhaps to those who breathe the byproducts of puffing tobacco.

The "rights" of smokers and the "rights" of others to be free from secondary smoke has generated as much debate as Bill Callahan's strategy in any given Nebraska football game.

Two proposals are pending in the Legislature.

One would ban smoking in restaurants, but allow it in bars. The other would specify that local governments could not enforce anti-smoking ordinances that are more restrictive that those approved by the Legislature.

This is a good time for the citizenry to be reminded: If you have feelings about either proposal, the thing to do is contact your state senator. A "snail mail" is a good idea. E-mail would suffice.

The view from here: Neither measure is likely to be enacted.

Sincere debate among people of good will is going to continue concerning the wisdom of limiting state lawmakers to a pair of fourvear terms.

It is unlikely that such debate will result in the question being put to voters (again) any time soon.

If term limits prove to be a mistake - by whatever measurement a vote to repeal the constitutional amendment enacted by voters might stand a chance. A slim one.

The view from here: Proposing a repeal anytime soon would bring forth a "NO!" vote of what could be record-setting proportions.

Learned experts may argue that term limits ultimately do more harm than good. If such is the case, it is a lesson that the people will learn for themselves. There is no indication that the great majority of voters are going to take anyone else's word for it.

LB 44, which many of you wrote or called about, did not advance from General File after several hours of debate last week. The bill would have given every homeowner an $8.250 exemption on his or her primary residence. They would then not be able to deduct their mortgage interest amount on their Nebraska income tax return. Senator Pam Redfield of Omaha said the bill would result in the same revenue for the state, but would treat all homeowners alike with respect to taxes instead of our present system, which provides more benefit to taxpayers with for both the Planning Commission larger mortgages. I was not in favor of this bill. I had two bills on Select File this week. LB 762, to allow county clerks to appoint a substitute to attend and record meetings of the county board or board of equalization, was advanced to final reading along with LB 205, to eliminate obsolete language relating to developmental disabilities regions.

Something that hasn't occurred in a long time is having a "Consent Calendar" of non controversial bills with few or no amendments. It does speed up the process so that the more controversial bills can be discussed.

Senator Mick Mines of Blair has chosen LB 716 as his priority bill. I introduced this bill to create the Senator Dianna Schimek of Advantage Nebraska Workforce we talked about this bill last week so I won't go over it again but since be brought to the floor for debate and hopefully to passage.

Highway 35 funding increased to $9.5 million in House Highway Bill

Congressman Jeff Fortenberry has announced that the Highway Bill soon heading to the House floor contains $9.5 million in funding for Highway 35, more than double the amount indicated by a preliminary announcement.

"This is one of those cases where persistence pays off," Fortenberry said. "We continued to lobby for additional funds until the last hour, and the final revisions made before the bill reached the floor were a pleasant surprise."

Preliminary numbers released by the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee had indicated that $4 million had been set aside for the project. However, at the last hour this number was revised upward, more than doubling funding for Highway 35 to $9.5 million.

"I was pleased with the earlier numbers, but the new funding levels have exceeded our expectations. This is further indication of the tremendous value of Highway 35 to this region's continued economic development," Fortenberry said.

Wakefield's season will certainly be one to remember

I'm just starting to settle back in after experiencing one of the more inspirational sports happenings I've had the opportunity to follow.

Wakefield's boys basketball team definitely proved to me that life is more about the journey than the destination itself.

I was at the Trojans' second game of the season at Norfolk Catholic on a cold December Saturday night.

The team was just starting out and trying lots of things,

I caught them again six more times during the season and I could see a certain type of chemistry developing.

Players got comfortable with the system and started playing as a team.

I was also impressed that members of Wakefield's team, coaching staff and fans always took the time to say thanks for coming to every game I attended.

That was certainly a nice gesture and on what seemed to be endless weeks of not being able to spend time at home, those compliments really kept things rolling.

I also recall the night I was in Wakefield to watch Allen's subdistrict boys game and getting regular updates from Coach Kevin Roberts about Wakefield's impending upset of Randolph at the subdistrict game at Wausa.

"How did it end up?," I asked Kevin.

"Wakefield won in three overtimes," he said.

Little did we know that Wakefield would follow the same path to the C2 state final that Randolph did a few years ago.

It was fun watching the state's media outlets become believers as Wakefield methodically and patiently passed all but one challenge that came its way.

When the dust settled, there was only one other team beside Wakefield in Class C2 that went home from Lincoln with a trophy and medals to go along with it

Thanks for the won-derful ride, guys.

Wakefield marches to state finals

Trojans end dream season with a chance to play for a state C2 title

By David W. Carstens Of the Herald

The magical season for the Wakefield Trojans boys basketball ended only one step away from being the top team in Class C2.

Wakefield entered the state basketball tournament in Lincoln last Thursday as the seventh seed, but posted back-to-back wins against the second and third seeded teams in the first and second rounds to earn the right to play in the championship game on Saturday against top-ranked Ravenna.

The team's appearance in the tournament final marked the school's first championship game since 1948 and Wakefield's trip to state last week marked the first return to state since 1990.

Junior Cory Gustafson, who scored 41 points during the tournament, was named to the Class C2 all-tournament team.

Five Trojan seniors — Taylor Peters, Cody Miller, Aaron Klein, Kyle Gardner and Marion Miner — capped their final season wearing state runner-up medals after Saturday's game.

Wakefield 52, Bridgeport 50

Andy Hampl happened to have the ball at the end of each half and managed to make the best possible use of the opportunity laid out before him.

Hampl drained a buzzer-beating three-pointer from mid-court at halftime and nailed a free throw with four seconds left in the game to seal a 52-50 win against previously undefeated No. 2 Bridgeport in first round action at Lincoln High School on Thursday.

Hampl, a junior, hit two treys

Hampl, a junior, hit two treys and scored eight points in the second period, including his mid-court shot at the buzzer to give the Trojans a 28-23 lead at intermission.

of two free throws to seal the win.

"I just didn't think about anything and went through my natural routine just like I do in practice every day," Hampl said about his late game heroics. "I made one and missed the other one. It happens."

Wakefield jumped out to an early lead and even led by as many as 15 points after Cory Gustafson drained a three-pointer with 3.51 left in the third frame.

Bridgeport scoring threat, James Hadden established his presence as he finished with 23 points, including five 3-pointers, to begin a Bulldog rally.

Things got really interesting when Hadden drained a trey with 29 seconds left in regulation to edge to within a point of the Trojans.

Taylor Peters then gave Wakefield a little breathing room after he sank two subsequent free throws to put the Trojans up by three.

Hadden once again got an open look on a three, but was fouled on the shot and returned to the foul line to hit a pair of shots to once again pull the Bulldogs within a point at 51-50.

The Trojans were able to move the ball down court in the next 12 seconds until Hampl was fouled with 4.7 seconds left. He made the first of his two free throws to pull ahead 52-50.

Bridgeport was able to pull down the rebound and the Trojans immediately fouled the Bulldogs as they were forced to throw an inbound pass instead of going to the line as they had only committed six fouls.

Time worked against Bridgeport as the Wakefield defense only left two seconds for the Bulldogs to set up the final shot.

"Defense is what keeps us in games," Hampl said. "I knew we could do it and we came out on top."

Peters finished with 15 points to pace the Trojans, while Hampl and Cory Gustafson each added 12 points. Gustafson led Wakefield with seven rebounds.

The first round win marked the first time since 1990 that the Trojans advanced to Friday's semifinal game.

It could have been called

"Recognition Day."

Wakefield turned more than a few heads on Friday with a 51-45 state semifinal win against No. 3-seed North Platte St. Patrick's at Lincoln's Pershing Center.

"Right now they believe," Coach Clay said about his team's emotional win.

The Trojans held off a late game Irish rally to seal the win that was sparked by some offensive and defensive fireworks from 6-foot-2 junior Cory Gustafson, who led all scorers with 18 points, including three consecutive field goals to allow Wakefield to hold its five point lead in the fourth quarter. He also finished with seven of the Trojan's 33 rebounds.

The game looked similar to Thursday's first round game as Wakefield got off to a quick start as Peters' 10 first quarter points led the Trojans to a 19-6 advantage after the first frame.

The Trojan defense complimented the offensive surge as St. Pat's only was able to connect on 3 of 14 shots from the floor in the first quarter

"I don't know what it's been, but we've gotten off to a big lead and that's really helped us," Clay said.

Wakefield's first quarter advantage held up enough as the Trojans were outscored in the next three quarters and a solid performance from the foul line down the stretch helped solidify the effort to give Wakefield its 20th win of the season.

St. Patrick's was able to pull within three points at 42-39 with 3:38 left in the game, but the Trojans were able to seal the win with five of six free throws in the final minute of the contest.

Gustafson said after the game that there should be little doubt that Wakefield — who entered the tournament unranked by the state's media outlets — should be noticed after knocking off two of the state's top three teams.

"No one even knew who we were," he said. "They know now."

Ravenna 66, Wakefield 28
The Trojans found out firsthand
Saturday morning that the accolades about the Ravenna Bluejays were true.

Ravenna claimed its first state title since 1927 with a 66-28 win against Wakefield in the Class C2 state tournament final at the Bob Devaney Sports Center. In a similar fashion to what Wakefield did in its previous two games, Ravenna hit five of 10 shots from the field to jump out to a 12-2 lead.

Wakefield's scoring in the first half came primarily from Cory Gustafson who scored seven of the Trojan's eight first-half points. He finished as the Trojan's leading scorer with 11 points.

"I thought we could shoot the ball a little better," Coach Clay said. "We had to do a lot of things right to hang with them."

The Trojans shot 2-for-18 (11 percent) in the first half compared to 12-of-26 (46.2 percent) for the Bluejays. Wakefield finished 6-of-30 shooting from the field on the game, while Ravenna went 26-of-51

Turnovers also plagued the Trojans against the quick Ravenna defense as Wakefield turned the ball over eight times in the first half.

"Their quickness gave our shorter shooters some problems on the outside." Clay said. "We didn't get a lot of those open looks. Bavenna puts a lot of points on the board, but they play good defense, too."

Ravenna continued to dominate after halftime and outscored the Trojans 19-5 in the third to hold a 48-13 lead heading in the final quarter.

Gustafson, Peters and Hampl each scored four points in the fourth period to finish out the bulk of Wakefield's scoring.

Clay said the team overachieved since its 11-point loss to Homer in the regular season finale.

Since the loss, the team went from having to win a subdistrict play-in game against Laurel-Concord to state runnerup in Class C2.

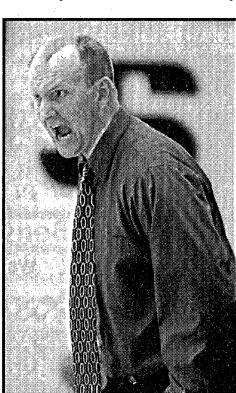

"If you had told me our season was going to end at the Bob Devaney Sports Center, I would have said 'Great'," Clay told reporters following Saturday's game. "We came from a No. 4 seed in the subdistricts. We'll hopefully build on that for next year. We are down right now, but we're happy we're the second-place team in Class C2 this year."

Local teams fare well in Lincoln

LINCOLN — Wayne took seven teams to Lincoln last Saturday to participate in the 24th annual Midwest Invitational Tournament and five Wayne teams competed in championship matches. Total groups posted an impressive 17-5 record at the tourney.

Three Wayne squads — Grade 7 boys, Grade 8 girls and Grade 10 boys — took championship honors.

"This was a great tribute to the kids who participated and showed that Wayne has quality basketball players," Wayne Community Activity Center director Jeff Zeiss said. "We were proud of the way the kids conducted themselves on and off the floor and the parents and our community should be proud of these student athletes."

(Editor's note: Due to space limitations and the substantial amount of games played at Lincoln, MIT results can be found on Page 3B. The Herald will also publish pictures of the winning teams as the team photos and applicable team stats become available.)

Nascar Glossary Nextel Cup racing, as does any other professional sport, has a lan guage all its own, for instance:

AERODYNAMIC DRAG A number that is a coefficient of several factors that indicates how well a race vehicle will travel through the air and how much resis tance it offers. Crewmen work to get the best "drag horsepower" rating they can, determining how much horsepower it will take to move a vehicle through the air at a certain mile-per-hour rate. At faster speedways teams strive to get the lowest drag number possible for higher straightaway speeds.

Local Red Cross chapter collects funds locally Your local Red Cross chapter has a budget of $56,500 for fiscal year 2004-2005. The United Way contributes approximately $5,000 to that budget. The remaining amount must be raised through class fees, books and first aid kit sales, and personal donations from the community.

"We are at a very critical time not only for our local chapter, but for chapters nationwide," said local manager, Lori Carollo. "There are only 12 chapters left in Nebraska and we want to remain one of those chapters," says Carollo.

"We receive no federal, state or city funding of any kind. We do receive approximately $5,000 from the United Way, but that represents only about 8 percent of our total budget! We need to raise the other 92 percent to meet the needs of the community and the requirements to maintain an active status as a chapter," says Cap Peterson, Chairman of the local chapter.

The Sponsorship Program started in 2001 met with great success and has continued to do very well. The chapter stands close to 100 sponsor members annually.

"Each board member is personally committed to raising the financial funds needed to secure the future of the Red Cross chapter in Wayne. I am excited about their support and enthusiasm," said Mrs. Carollo. "Now I just hope that the community will respond posi- hard to help the community pretively to all the hard work and dedication we have exemplified. It is my hope that more and more people will make giving to the Red Cross something that they will want to be a part of!"

Just like this city needs doctors, hospitals, firefighters, and other emergency responders, Wayne NEEDS the Red Cross. They work Cross, particularly during March - years.

pare for, prevent and cope with emergencies. They respond to disasters and people in need (including assistance to firefighters), train people in lifesaving skills, and provide direct communication to members of the Armed Forces and their families in times of emergency. "Please consider responding to continue their services and programs," Mrs. Carollo added.

The local chapter would like to recognize and thank the Wayne United Way for supporting the work that the Wayne Red Cross does in our community. The United Way has been a supporter of the the financial needs of YOUR Red Wayne chapter for a number of Students gain 'hands on' experience with children

At Wayne High School, 15 members of the Child Development class are having the opportunity to experience hands on interaction with children at five different child care sites.

Providing supervision for the program are Jennifer Bartos, Jill Bessmer, Diane Gentrup, Head Start, Rainbow World and Betty Robins.

"Our school is fortunate to have so many people willing to work with and model positive child care for our students," said Karen Schardt, Child Development instructor. "The students have enjoyed working with children from the different developmental ages we've studied and the community members have been very complimentary about the students' interaction with the young chil-

UNK students attend Midwest Model UNM Conference in St. Louis

Students from the University of Nebraska at Kearney's Model UN chapter recently attended the Midwest Model United Nations Conference in St. Louis.

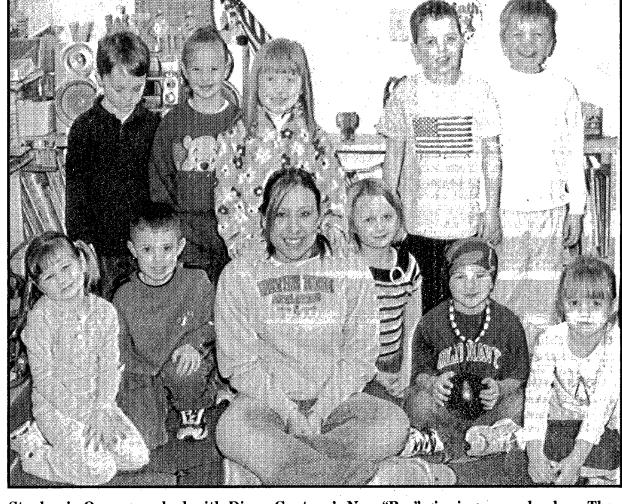

Among those participating was Tyler Johnson of Wayne.

Each year the Model UN at UNK participates in a national conference somewhere in the United States. Last year they attended the American Model United Nations Conference in Chicago. During these conferences, the students represent a country, submit position papers and write resolutions for the evaluation and universal acceptance of other participating Model UN teams.

"Students perform their roles as diplomats and get hands-on experience in the essentials of world diplomacy," said Dearra Johnson, UNK Model UN president.

Model UN is a student organization working to provide further understanding of the United Nations and contemporary global and domestic issues. Model UN focuses on combining educational quality with highly realistic simulations of the United Nations to provide an unparalleled learning experience, according to Johnson.

The mission of Model UN has three components. The organization helps students develop an opinion toward the United Nations and the role of international organizations as a mechanism of communication between member states, stimulates members comprehension of interdependence and globalization today as worldwide forces and simulates meetings of United Nations activities through role playing.

Blood Bank prepares for spring drives

One of the first things to think about this spring is volunteer blood donations, since the need for blood is real and the daily demand never lets up. The Siouxland Community Blood Bank needs your help in maintaining a safe and adequate blood supply for your local hospital.

Wayne will have their next community blood drives on Thursday, March 24 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Fire Hall.

"We need to collect over 1,200 units of blood each week to meet the daily needs of area hospitals for heart patients, cancer patients and surgical patients," said Janette Twait, CEO of the Siouxland Community Blood Bank. "It is also imperative that inventory levels of all blood types are available so we can respond to accidents in our region that require large volumes of blood products."

To be eligible to donate individuals must be at least 17 years of age (16 in Iowa with a Siouxland Community Blood Bank signed parent consent form); however there is no upper age limit as long the donor is in good health.Donors need to weigh over 110 pounds and have not donated whole blood in the past 56 days. A photo I.D. is required at the time of registration.

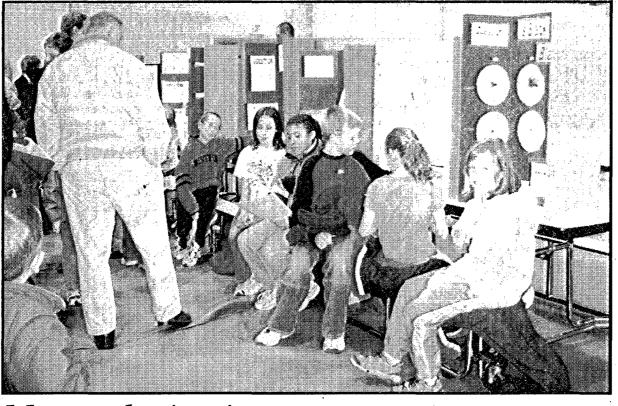

For more information about the Siouxland Community Blood Bank or blood drives in your area, call 712-252-4208, 1-800-798-4208 or visit their website at www.siouxlandbloodbank.org

Grants help create wildlife habitat

The Nebraska Environmental Trust has donated over $520,500 in grants to Pheasants Forever (PF) for equipment since 1996. The majority of the monty has been used to purchase 50 no-till grass drills.

Those drills are owned by PF chapters and rented to landowners at a discounted rate. They have been used on many of the 1.2 million acres PF chapters have improved for wildlife habitat throughout the state.

The Nebraska Environmental Trust is funded by a portion of the profits from Nebraska Lottery ticket sales.

joints. It can also cause stiffness, headaches and poor sleep. The cause of it is unknown, but the disorder is 🌹 associated with abnormalities in the levels of serotonin and norepinephrine (neurotransmitters) in the brain. Stress and lack of sleep can make symptoms worse so one of the best things you can do is exercise regularly. Exercise can help relieve the pain, reduce stress and help you sleep. Before starting any exercise program, check with your physician first.

energy intakes and expenditures often being out of balance. While portion sizes may be larger than in the past, activity levels tend to be lower. For example, more than 60 percent of American adults do not get the recommended 30 minutes of physical activity a day and 25 percent of American adults aren't physically active at all.

There are health benefits in addition to losing weight from walking. Walking can increase cardiovascular health. Walking is not only good for physical health, but also for mental health. Taking a short walk can help decrease stress, reduce tension and can increase energy levels. Walking can help you feel better.

Invest in a pedometer to help sustain motivation. Health experts recommend walking around 10,000 most days for cardiovascular health. More steps may be needed

HEALTH FACTS

From your Local Homecare Nurses

What is Parkinsons? Parkinsons disease is a progressive neurological condition affecting movements such as walking, talking and writing. Parkinsons has three main symptoms: tremor, stiffness and bradykinesia (slowness of movement). It affects about one in 500 people; approximately one percent of people over 60 have Parkinsons.

With good medical treatment Parkinsons has a limited affect, if any, on life expectancy but it can be disabling. With quality medical care, support and a positive outlook, most people with Parkinsons can lead a productive life for many years after diagnosis,

The causes of Parkinsons is not completely understood but a known cause is the degeneration of a group of nerves in the center of the brain called the substantia nigra. These nerves produce a chemical messenger called dopamine. When 80% of dopamine is lost, the symptoms of Parkinsons disease is produced.

At present, it is not known what causes the degeneration of the brain (substantia nigra).

"My ability to manage my activities of daily living has been affected by Parkinsons disease, but with the help of the Home Health Care nurse to fill my pill boxes and the nurses aide who assists me with my bathing and some light housework, my husband and I have been managing well in our own home." Time to celebrate St. Patrick's Day!

It's Tuesday morning, Lynn is pubs, but hopefully, there'll be is so OLD! It's hard to compreexpecting this thing in her e-mail very soon, and I am totally uninspired. I'm thinking I've about the Emerald Isle a couple of years exhausted every subject I know anything about, and I'm quite sure I'm repeating myself some of the time. Hopefully, our readers have short memories, too.

I haven't put out my Easter decorations yet, and Easter is very early this year. So is spring, if the sun that's been shining is any indication. All that wind lately has reminded us it's March, and we are picking up tree limbs again.

But first, I guess we'll observe St. Patrick's Day. On March 17, everyone is Irish, right? Especially if your names are Pat and Mike. Of course, we are about as Deutsch as we can be, but it's fun to lose that identity once a year. We can't even pronounce "Erin Go Bragh" correctly; but hey, we can't say "Deutschland Lieber Alles" right, either.

I do plan to make a batch of Irish soda bread, but will skip the corned beef and cabbage. I made Reuben casserole last week, and that's all of those items we can take for awhile. I doubt if we'll be in any the Book of Kells. Everything here nition. Top of the mornin' to ya!

I do know that our quick trip to ago is one of our favorite travel memories. To take advantage of the short time we had in Dublin, we hopped on one of the city tour buses that have stops at every site.

No-Till, No-Frill offers advantages

hend, and almost amazing that someone preserved it all. Just the library on the campus is ancient. There are cobblestones and rock towers; all kinds of reminders that education was treasured centuries

Then we visited a real castle that is well preserved. There are hundreds of castles, but many are just walls and ruins. It is always so hard for me to imagine the labor it must have taken to build, and the mind that conceived the building without modern architectural training.

You can't visit Dublin without going to the Guinness Brewery. They know how to entertain tourists here. It's several stories high, and there is an elevator. Each story tells and demonstrates another step in the beer-making process. And at the top, nothing but glass all around, so you can see all over the city. Plus, a draught of the product. It was all very enlightening and entertaining.

It's a beautiful city, in a beautiful country, filled with beautiful people. And those who helped settle First, it was Trinity College and America deserve their day of recog-over that the benefits of no tillage management systems out weigh the extra time associated with management decisions. Reduced tillage is good, but no-tillage is even better when it comes to having a production system that provides major benefits to the soil. The one time tillage practice that some folks seem to think they absolutely need to do, destroys the benefits began with a no-tillage system once it has started.

It takes several years of notillage to really reap the benefits and that perhaps is the main reason some folks start, try it for a couple of years and decide that it is not for them. Going to a no tillage system requires a new method of thinking on how to handle weeds, insects, residue, harvesting and equipment driving through the field. It is a "systems" approach rather than just a tillage change.

I often notice corn fields that are disked before soybean planting. Soybeans can be planted in last year's corn stubble without any tillage by making sure that the planter is set up correctly to handle the corn stalks. There are many approaches on how to handle the residue ranging from doing nothing to having special trash movers on the planter, Soybeans can be plant-

Make your own patio plant container

The Northeast Arboretum, located at the Haskell Ag Lab near Concord, is offering a workshop on how to make a lightweight patio container.

Making a personalized container allows for the correct size for a particular location, makes a unique design to fit into the landscape and it allows for creativity.

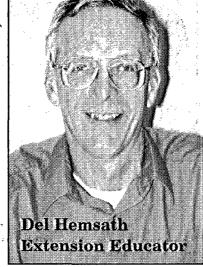

The workshop will be held on Saturday, April 2 at 1 p.m. There is a $10 fee to cover the cost of materials, Northeast Arboretum members will receive a discount of $5 towards the workshop.

Participants will be able to make a small container and learn the basics during the workshop. Those planning to attend are asked call ahead of time to assure adequate space and materials, 584-2234.

As I travel through the country looking at the residues currently sitting in the fields, I do not understand why I see a tractor with a disk sitting at the edge of the field just waiting to enter and destroy any soil structure created over the winter, loosen the attached corn stalk so it can wash off the field at the first heavy rain, watch the topsoil being washed away and lost forever, and then there is the cost of the fuel being used to do the recreational tillage.

One can find a no-system that works for the conditions in your field and your management abilities. Going to a no-till system requires a different way to think about how to handle potential problems when they arise during the year.

Why do you till? You need to have many reasons because the reasons to no-till include increased water penetration, decreased erosion, better soil aeration, increased rooting zone, more soil organism activity, catching the snow during the winter, developing soil structure, less input costs and oops, running out of room to list more. Why do you till?
