Council votes to move forward with TIF project

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Acting as a Community Development Agency, the Wayne City Council voted to move forward on a re-development plan for a section of eastern Wayne.

During Tuesday's special meeting of the council, a presentation was given by Mike Bacon, an attorney from Gothenberg, who has been working with the city to develop a Tax Increment Financing (TIF) plan for the area.

The project involves the former El Toro property in the eastern part of the city. Plans call for the construction of a 9,000 square foot building which could be divided into a maximum of six businesses. At the present time the developer, 1031NNN Properties, has commitments for three of the available spaces.

It is anticipated that the project could be completed by Aug. 31 of this year.

Bacon talked about the history of TIF projects in Wayne, including The Oaks and Wayne East. He explained what can be done with a TIF project and the benefits of this type of project.

"This is a win-win situation. All these projects have a positive impact on the community," Bacon said.

As part of the process, a cost benefit study was done by Bacon to determine if a tax shift would occur because of the project. He noted that there would be no tax burden shift.

Bacon estimates that construction employment will increase temporarily by nine jobs during the building phase and the project will result in eight direct jobs and two indirect jobs elsewhere in the community. During the construction phase, $188,000 indirect community earnings will be generated.

Bacon noted that taxes currently on the lot that will be developed are not diverted during a TIF project. Instead, the increase in taxes on the new property are used to pay off the bond which was authorized through Resolution 2005-36 at Tuesday's meeting.

The goal of TIF financing is to make re-development projects affordable and bring new businesses, and families, into the community. It is estimated that the school system could absorb additional students without any significant burden on the school.

Additional students in the school system would mean additional state aid money and lessen the tax burden on property owners.

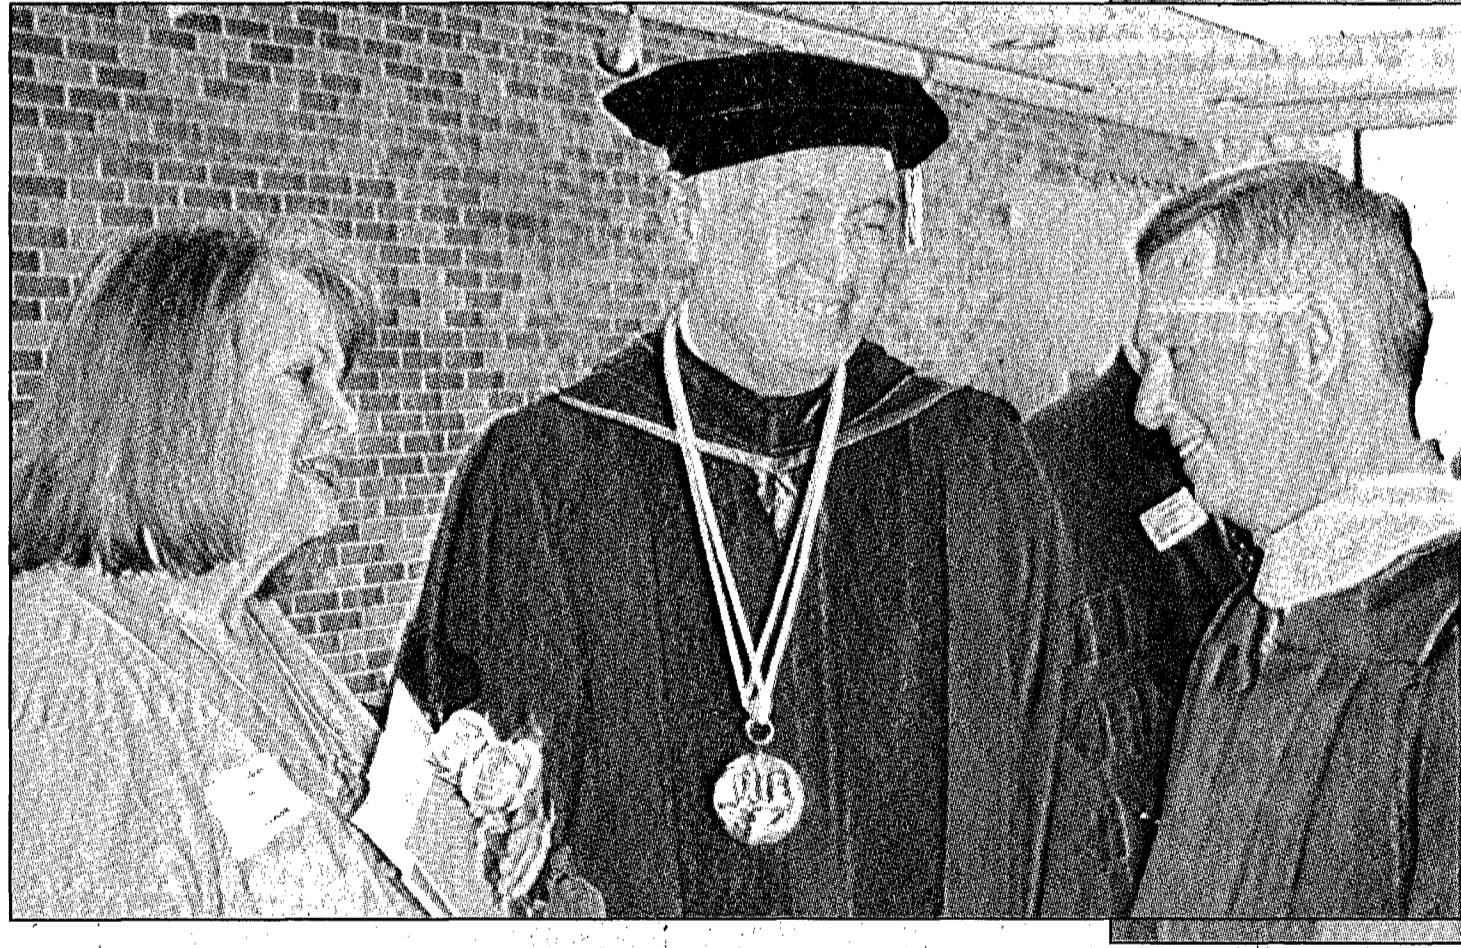

The only other item on Tuesday's agenda was discussion of working with other government bodies in the city and county to reduce property taxes.

The council expressed unanimous approval for meeting with the school to work on areas where the budget could be reduced. No definite meeting date has been determined at this time.

The council will meet again in regular session on Tuesday, April 26 at 7:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Inaugurating a new president

Dr. Richard Collings became the 11th president of Wayne State College on Friday during ceremonies held at the college. At right, Dr. Collings addresses the audience with his speech, "A Celebration of Teaching and Learning." Below, Dr. Collings and his wife Marilyn receive congratulations from Nebraska Governor Dave Heineman. Heineman was among those dignitaries who spoke on the value of education during the ceremony. Dr. Collings is wearing a presidential medallion designed and cast by Ray Replogle, emeritus professor of Art and Design at Wayne State College. This is the fifth WSC presidential medallion created by Replogle and is a reproduction of the medallion made for Dr. Lyle Seymour's inaugural ceremony. A full story and pictures of the event can be found on pages 8-9 B of today's Herald.

'The Gatekeeper' director visits WSC

The Wayne State College School of Arts and Humanities, Department of Language and Literature, and the WSC Criminal Justice Association welcomed actor and film director John Carlos Frey on April 6.

While at WSC, Frey visited classes, presented a public lecture and hosted a screening of "The Gatekeeper."

The film, "The Gatekeeper," is a true-to-life drama by this first-time director and based on Drug Enforcement Agency and U.S. Border Patrol reports as well as countless firsthand accounts of migrant struggles. The film depicts U.S./Mexican border issues. Amnesty International, NCLR, and MALDEF have recognized the film for its portrayal of contemporary human and civil rights issues.

The film has also received numerous awards, including the Phoenix Prize at the Santa Barbara International Film Festival, Best Film at the International Hispanic Film Festival and Best Film and Audience Choice at the Phoenix Film Festival. Frey has hosted screenings of this film at numerous colleges and universities including Harvard University, Georgetown University, Boston College, Stanford University, Notre Dame University and the University of California-Los Angeles.

As an actor, Frey has performed on television shows including "The Practice," "Days of Our Lives," "JAG," and "Party of Five" and various popular movies.

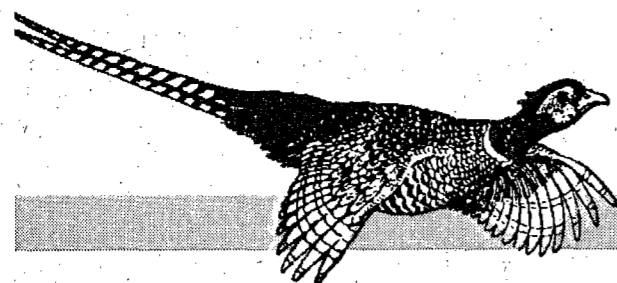

John Carlos Frey

As an advocate for migrant worker issues, Frey said his intention in traveling to Nebraska for this screening was his belief in the ripple effect to inform individuals to make a difference by sharing knowledge.

Frey said in the last 10 years more people have lost their lives here in the United States through attempts to enter the country than the death toll of the Israel-Palestine conflict. Each year record numbers of deaths are reported along the U.S. Border shared by Mexico. He said his film's title "Gatekeeper" relates to the enforcement of operation Gatekeeper which has resulted in more military force and fencing along the border. He said this has funneled individuals trying to cross the border into the dangerous terrain of deserts and 8,000 to 10,000 mile-high mountains. He said more than 3,000 bodies have been discovered. He said the issues also include child labor because one million children are estimated to be picking crops as illegal workers.

A few of the ways individuals may help make a difference that Frey mentioned included knowing more about the issues, buying free trade products, supporting the organizations formed to help migrants and being an informed voter.

For more information about Frey's visit to Wayne State College please contact the WSC Department of Language and Literature at (402) 375-7395.

Support appreciated

Dear Editor,
We have been deeply saddened by our sudden and tragic loss of Dan. Our family has grieved, and will continue to grieve for some time. Our burden has been lightened by the tremendous support from our community, family, friends and members of the 185th Air National Guard. We want to thank you all for the overwhelming support we have received. The experience has truly been humbling. Dan was a really great person who touched many lives in different ways. Although we are saddened he is no longer with us, we draw comfort knowing he suffers no more and is at peace with God. Thank you all so much for your continued support.

Earth Day message given

Dear Editor,
Breastfeeding is "green" (ecological). Breastfeeding is the most ecologically sound form of infant feeding. It decreases the pollution of air, water and land from the production of artificial baby milk and its packaging. It is a natural, renewable resource and is all the baby will need to eat from the first six months of life. It requires no resources for advertising, packaging, shipping or disposal. No energy is wasted sterilizing bottles and refrigerating them. No water and detergent is needed for washing and fixing bottles. It has been estimated that $29 million would be saved annually in the U.S. if women receiving formula from the WIC program would breastfeed for one month. This Earth Day Message is brought to you by LaLeche League International (1-800-LA-LECHE) and Karen Heimes, local LLL Leader.

Looking Ahead in Wayne...

Dangerous habit

Dear Editor,
Recently, a Community Attitude survey was conducted by the city of Wayne. The survey found that the biggest concern was drug and alcohol use by minors. The Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department also found that drug and alcohol abuse caused the highest level of concern in their surveys in September of 2004. This letter is an open invitation to those interested in these issues to join the TRUST Coalition. The Toward Responsible Use of Substances Today (TRUST) Coalition is a group sponsored by Wayne State College to reduce problems related to alcohol and drug abuse. The TRUST Coalition is composed of community members, students, faculty, staff and parents.

Many people believe that underage drinking is an inevitable "rite of passage" that adolescents can easily recover from because their bodies are more resilient. The opposite is true. A recent study by the National Institutes of Health suggests that the region of brain that inhibits risky behavior is not fully formed until age 25. The TRUST Coalition aims to prevent tragedies like what happened at Colorado State University last fall, when 19-year old Samantha Spady (a native of Beatrice, Neb.) died of acute alcohol poisoning. After a night of binge drinking, her Blood Alcohol Level reached .436. She had been left to "sleep it off" and ended up dying. Research indicates that many students in institutions of higher education come to college with drinking patterns already in place. Spring, the season of prom and graduation parties, can be a dangerous time for students. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, alcohol-related traffic fatalities rise during these months. We need to work together as a community to address these problems.

Hagel endorses Heineman

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
When this column was up against its deadline, the political buzz about U.S. Sen. Chuck Hagel was akin to a roar.

Nebraska's senior U.S. Senator is probably one of the few Republicans in D.C. who could be referred to as a free spirit.

Gov. Dave Heineman made clear last week that he would seek election in 2006. His decision to go after the Republican nomination was no surprise.

It was a surprise, however, when Hagel announced his unequivocal support for Heineman's candidacy.

When the senior member of the state's congressional delegation said Heineman was the best person for the job, he also made an indirect statement that other potential GOP hopefuls were less worthy and less qualified.

That might not have been a big deal, were it not for the fact that one of the other potential candidates is Rep. Tom Osborne, the 3rd District congressman whose solid, statewide popularity is based on his solid, championship-winning tenure as head coach of the Nebraska football team.

This column has never been used to offer political forecasts. This is an exception. The view from here is that Osborne will not challenge Heineman in the GOP primary. His health and the headaches that come with the governorship are likely enough to convince Doctor Tom that the gettin' would not be worth the go.

Whenever a political forecast is offered, it is wise to acknowledge that the forecaster has a better chance for error than the local weatherman. It is simply hard to imagine that Osborne wants or needs the demands of a primary campaign, followed by a general election campaign. Hagel's decisive endorsement of Heineman adds to his reputation as a, "Thank you, I'll do it my way" political figure.

Critics within and without the GOP can criticize Hagel for figuring too prominently, too early, in what they think should be an altogether open primary.

Hagel responded to such predictable talk before it began. Anyone who wants to enter the race should do it, Hagel said. He added that his endorsement will not be a deciding factor in the governor's race, whether in a primary or the general election campaign.

He also says that he likes Tom Osborne just fine, but Heineman none-the-less deserves to be elected governor in his own right.

Heineman moved into the governor's office from the lieutenant governor's spot when Mike Johanns became U.S. Secretary of Agriculture.

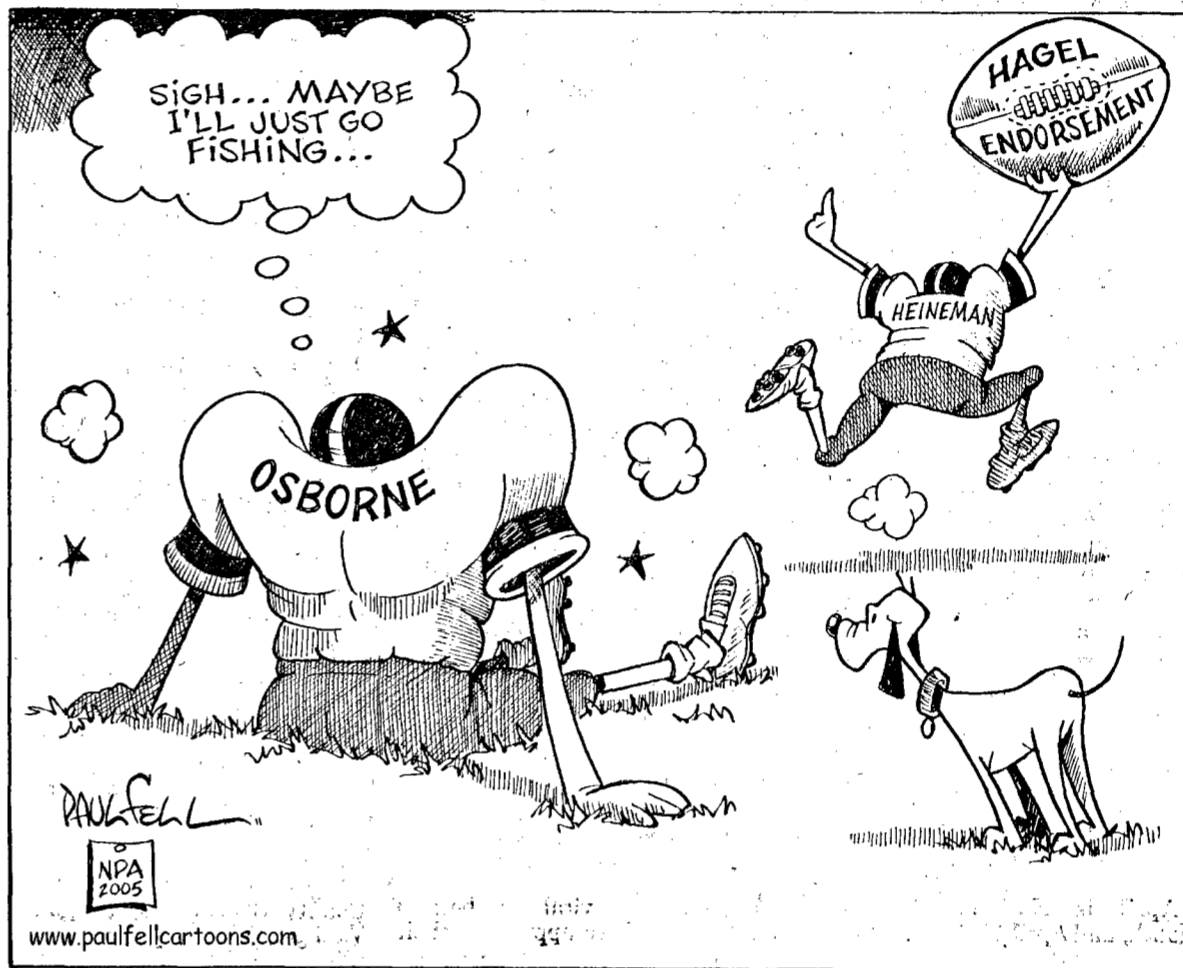

Hagel doesn't worry when he disagrees with President Bush. He says so to a nationwide audience. Making his feelings known about a governor's race doesn't even register on his "Worry Meter."

He has offered his own brand of conservatism, over and over again, to his state audience, and to the national political drama whenever possible. A fellow from a small farm state has nothing to lose, and perhaps no other practical thing to do, when it comes to advancing his possibilities for a presidential race.

From foreign policy to agricultural policy to state and national politics, Hagel also isn't afraid to take whatever counter-punches might come his way as he battles for position. He clearly subscribes to "the best offense is a good offense," view of the rough 'n' tumble game of big league politics.

A far safer political prognostication for 2006 and beyond: Hagel is not going to change.

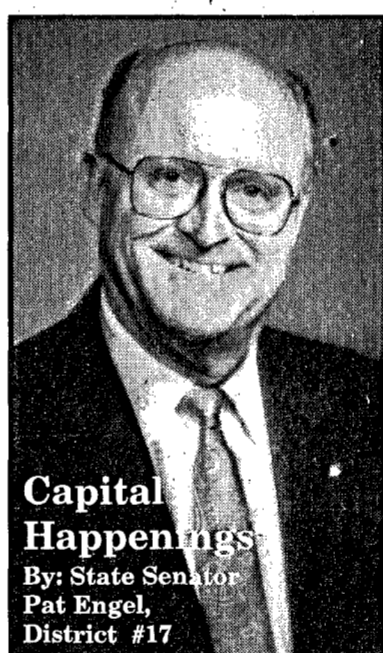

Senators work to finalize state's budget

The Appropriations Committee has been meeting after we adjourn each afternoon to finalize the biennial budget due to the entire body on April 28, which is only 8 more Legislative days. In the meantime, floor debate continues on priority bills.

Even though it seemed that a statewide smoking ban and black-tailed prairie dog management took the entire week, there were some other important Select File bills debated and passed onto Final Reading last week.

LB 551, a Health & Human Services committee priority, requires the state Health & Human Services System to track any person receiving mental health services from the state. Data would be collected on people who receive care at mental health regional centers, those ordered by a mental health board to receive inpatient or outpatient care, and those who are discharged from a regional center but are receiving community-based services.

The bill also requires the state to contract with national experts to examine how Nebraska can maximize federal money to pay for behavioral health services. The bill faces one more round of consideration.

Capital Happenings
By: State Senator Pat Engel, District #17

LB 401, introduced by Senator Deb Fischer of Valentine, and prioritized by the Government, Military, and Veterans Affairs Committee, creates so called "satellite voting sites." Voters could cast ballots at such places as retail and grocery stores as a way to increase voter turnout. Other changes under the bill include allowing Nebraska military personnel serving overseas to vote by e-mail, fax, or other approved electronic methods instead of only by mail as current law requires.

Proponents pointed out that we live in an electronic age now and requiring mail ballots from remote overseas posts was unreasonable. I think we should encourage more people to exercise their right to vote but not make it so easy that they don't take the time and effort to study the candidates and issues.

The bill also would allow the 11 Nebraska counties with fewer than 7,000 people to request that voters in some precincts be allowed to vote by mail instead of at a polling place. Safety on winter roads, cost, and handicap accessibility were reasons for the change in these sparsely populated areas of our state.

The bill to revamp the state's unemployment insurance program went through extensive debate and concessions to pass the second round of debate last week. LB 739 will freeze current unemployment benefits at a maximum of $288 for two years and require employers to pay additional unemployment insurance taxes to stabilize the trust fund, now at a low point. The measure also revamps the tax system for companies, requiring companies with very high unemployment statistics, such as construction, to pay more.

The rest of the week was spent on the Nebraska Clean Indoor Air Act and managing prairie dogs.

Senator Nancy Thompson of Papillion gave her anti smoking bill one last effort, as she is retiring at the end of this session. LB 480 kept Senators at the microphone for often "heated" debate on whether or not the state should tighten restrictions on indoor smoking. Thompson's bill would have banned smoking in many workplaces, including restaurants, but exempted bars that serve just snacks or other foods that don't require preparation. Senator Pat Bourne of Omaha led the opposition to the bill, mainly on the basis that it amounted to unneeded government intrusion. Even with some amendments offered to garner support, the bill was rejected on a vote of 19-26 and did not advance to Select File.

I believe we should encourage clean air but not mandate to private enterprise that have made huge investments to tell them who their clientele shall be.

LB 673, sponsored by Senator Loudon of Ellsworth, where they have lots of prairie dogs, would allow counties to create prairie dog management plans that would require landowners who want prairie dogs on their land to control the movement of the animals to neighboring land. There are 137,000 acres with prairie dogs in Nebraska. While there are no state regulations concerning prairie dog management, I do not feel we should pass a law putting this burden onto land owners.

Senator Chambers is opposing the bill and stalled any vote to advance for several days last week.

Next week's agenda promises to be interesting with LB 70, relating to motorcycle helmets and LB 454, to allow concealed handguns, both up for first round debate.

Carter "Cap" Peterson displays the award he received from the National Association of Professional Insurance Agents for being named Professional Insurance Agent of the Year.

Peterson is named 2005 professional Agent of the Year

Carter A. "Cap" Peterson of Wayne was named 2005 Professional Agent of the Year by the National Association of Professional Insurance Agents during an awards luncheon on April 9 at Arlington, Va.

Peterson was honored for his tireless work in behalf of professional insurance agents, his commitment to the highest standards of professionalism in his industry, his active leadership in PIA and his dedication to his community.

"Cap Peterson has spent the last quarter-century building an outstanding agency — and at the same time, he has served the insurance industry through his active involvement in PIA," said PIA National President Terry Adams. "Our winner is a shining example of the core values that all of us as PIA members hold dear. He makes us all proud."

Peterson has served on the Board of PIA of Nebraska since the late 1980's. He served two terms as President of PIA of Nebraska, and was selected the Nebraska Agent of the Year three times.

"We all know Cap through his current service," said PIA of Nebraska Executive Vice President Sharon Dooley. "Less well known is the fact that Cap has used his talent and formal training as an educator to promote the insurance industry by teaching relevant courses at the college and high school levels. A number of promising young people have entered the insurance profession as a result of Cap's influence during their education."

In December 2004, Peterson was appointed to the Board of Trustees of the Nebraska State Colleges by Nebraska Governor Dave Heineman.

"There are some members of our association who can be accurately described as being 'PIA to the Core,'" Adams said. "They are agents who are always there to help their fellow agents by their involvement in PIA. Cap Peterson is someone who has always been 'PIA to the Core.'"

Founded in 1931, PIA is a national trade association that represents member insurance agents and their employees who sell and service all kinds of insurance, but specialize in coverage of automobiles, homes and businesses.

Clark receives teaching award

Former U.S. Sen. James Exon and State Sen. Matt Connealy were presented with the Nebraska State Education Association's highest honor on Saturday; The 2005 Friend of Education award.

As nearly 400 teachers and public school employees from across Nebraska looked on, NSEA President Duane Obermier, presented Exon and Connealy with the award in Washington, D.C., in December.

Jim Clark has led a life of "creative engagement, professional leadership, community service, compassion and intellectual integrity."

Other finalists for the NSEA award were Corrine Auld, a sixth grade teacher from Gothenburg; senior students — some not even old enough to vote — had become voices of change in their state. The ballot wording statewide was changed to "Vote for Up to Three."

A Vietnam veteran, Clark is a member and four-time commander of American Legion Post 81; serves as chair of the American Legion Baseball State Committee; is an active member of the local education association; has received the George Washington Honor Medal from the Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge.

Those who nominated him said this: "The very best advocate is the teacher who makes a difference in the lives of students and their families. There is no better advocate for the profession of education than someone of Mr. Clark's character and talent."

sented Exon and Connealy with the association's highest honor.

Also honored at the event was Jim Clark, a social studies teacher at Laurel-Concord, who earned the NSEA's 2005 Teaching Excellence Award. He now becomes a finalist for the NEA Award for teaching excellence, given at a special NEA and Robert Phelps, an industrial technology teacher from Seward.

Clark's letter of nomination said the veteran teacher expects each of his students to think critically, to develop analytical skills, to write often and to write well.

Clark, said his letter of nomination, "sets the bar very high, and believes in the ability of students to achieve excellence."

His teaching career is so infused with examples of excellence that it makes it difficult to whittle the list down to just a few words. Consider that:

- Clark's classroom collection of historical memorabilia rivals that of any museum. He is meticulous about incorporating these materials into coursework in a creative and engaging manner.
- He offers an annual trivia course over the December holiday break to challenge students and area families alike. A series of obscure questions — what is the waist measurement of the Venus de Milo? — are more than irrelevant minutiae: They show students that they are masters of their own learning. They learn that any information is accessible and they have learned the tools of access.

- Students in Clark's classroom lobbied former Congressman Doug Bereuter for changes in postal regulations, asking why rural residents were saddled with box rent to the Postal Service, while other residents had "free" mail delivery. Bereuter finally convinced the Post Office to address the problem and the box rent policy was changed.

- Students in Clark's classroom decided that the "Vote for Three" wording on a sample election ballot was confusing. After talking with a state senator, a visit with Secretary of State John Gale and letters to all of Nebraska's 93 county clerks, four

Cancer Control Taskforce to meet in Wakefield

Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department which serves Cedar, Dixon, Thurston and Wayne counties, is sponsoring a taskforce meeting to discuss cancer control in Northeast Nebraska. Health providers, cancer victims, survivors, family members and friends are invited to attend.

The meeting will be held at Gardner Senior Center in Wakefield on Tuesday, April 26 at 7 p.m.

Cancer affects the lives of most people in Nebraska. It is the leading cause of death in Nebraska among people under the age of 75; overall, it is the second leading cause of death for persons of all ages. Cancer can strike regardless of age, gender, nationality, race or ethnicity. However, many cancers are preventable; others are treatable when discovered early.

Nebraska has developed a Comprehensive Cancer Control State plan which hopes to foster relationships among many who are currently working to control cancer. It is intended to build upon existing resources and identify new resources to implement and enhance cancer control strategies. The ultimate goal is to reduce cancer incidence and mortality.

The meeting in Wakefield is also intended to network existing cancer control entities and examine how we can begin working together to address cancer in our area. Call Northeast Nebraska Public Health Dept. at 402-375-2200 for more information.

Legislative forum held at WSC

President Richard Collings introduced panelists for the 13th annual legislative forum, sponsored by the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce and Wayne State College, April 18 on campus. From left are senators Matt Connealy, Pat Engel and Mike Flood. This annual program promotes access to regional Nebraska state senators. High school students from Wayne, Winside and Laurel-Concord, the public, and WSC college students attended. Senators talked about a range of current legislative bills and each gave their particular stance on each issue.

Jeff Beerbohm, owner of Godfathers, presents $300 to Lori Carollo, Chapter Exec. of the Wayne Red Cross, from funds raised from sales made on March 21. The funds will go toward disaster relief assistance through the local Red Cross chapter.

Godfather's Pizza of Wayne hosted a special event on March 21, in conjunction with Red Cross Month. Godfather's donated a portion of their entire sales for that day (dine-in, carry out, and delivery) to the Wayne County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

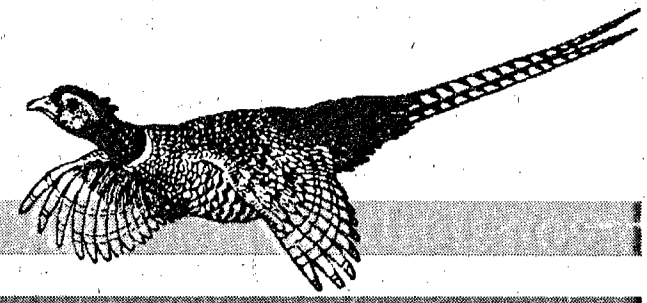

A few Red Cross board members were on hand over the noon hour (Cap Peterson, Mick Kemp and Lori Carollo) and again during the evening supper hour (Dick Brown, Stephanie Liska and Lori Carollo) to greet customers, clean tables, and refill drinks for customers who were dining in the restaurant.

This event raised $300 for the local Red Cross chapter and Mrs. Carollo stated, "This was very kind of Godfather's to just call us up and want to do something special like this to try and raise some funds for our chapter. More sign to play at WSC

By David W. Carstens
Of the Herald

Commitments came pouring into the athletic offices at Wayne State College last Wednesday as national letters of intent were signed by athletes from around the state and region.

The Wildcats signed four Iowa recruits men's basketball, while the volleyball team announced a strong signing class as well.

The WSC softball team also announced three other signings in addition to local softball standout Ashley Carroll, who announced her intentions to play for the Wildcats early in the day last Wednesday.

This week, former South Sioux City standout Andrea Schoepf announced she will transfer to WSC to play women's basketball and WSC baseball coach John Manganaro announced the signings of two junior college players.

The 2005 Wayne State volleyball class includes a number of players who will bolster an already solid program for coach Sharon Vanis.

The class included Danielle Wessel of Humphrey St. Francis, Meredy Dubbs of Wood River, Amanda Johnson of Millard and Brittany Van Beek of Sanborn, Iowa.

The group joins two other Wildcat recruits, Ann Beiermann of Columbus Scotus and University of Nebraska-Lincoln transfer and former Laurel-Concord athlete Emily Schroeder.

Dubbs is a three-sport athlete who has made her presence known in volleyball, basketball and track while at Wood River High School.

The 5-8 outside hitter guided her team to a 31-1 record last season and was named as volleyball player of the year by the Kearney Daily Hub last season.

She has been selected to play in the Nebraska Coaches Association All-Star game this summer and hold numerous school records during her career at Wood River.

"Meredy is a very solid, all-around player," Vanis said. "We look for Meredy to help us out in the ball handling department her first season and develop some shots to become a strong outside player for us."

Johnson has been a three-year starter volleyball starter for Millard South

Spirit of pride goes into new room

Upgrades happen with booster club gift

By David W. Carstens
Of the Herald

Successful athletic programs go hand-in-hand with extensive weight training routines.

That's been something that Wayne High athletic director knows all too well.

Unfortunately, the costs of equipping and updating weight-rooms skyrocket every year.

In the past several years, the Blue Devils' weight room, located in an annex building south of the high school, was beginning to show its age.

Wayne High also saw itself trailing some of its conference foes such as Norfolk Catholic, Battle Creek and Pierce, who all have made recent upgrades to their weight conditioning facilities.

Now Wayne High can be added to the list, thanks to the generous efforts of the Wayne High athletic boosters, community members and a little sweat equity on the part of a dedicated group of students.

Sparked by a $10,000 gift from the boosters, the school was able to upgrade its room with more than 65 pieces of new gear, plus a bright coat of white and royal blue paint to cap off the project.

Ruhl said most of the work was provided by students in school's weight training programs.

The project, he said, created a strong sense of ownership for the athletes. Students have painted walls and helped assemble the machines during the normal time set aside for conditioning.

"They have pride of doing a hands-on project and experiencing ownership," he said. "It's kind of like cooperative learning."

The community has also responded to the project as Great Dane donated Kemlite plastic to cover the walls, while others have pitched in other ways to finish off the project before school closes for the summer.

Ruhl said the school will sell some of the used weight equipment and urged any interested parties to contact him at the school.

Wayne High students work on new benches in the upgraded weight conditioning room at the high school.

Getting ready for the annual springtime ritual

New Wayne State College football coach Dan McLaughlin watches over a drill earlier as part of Wayne State's spring football season. McLaughlin and the Wildcats will wrap up spring workouts with the annual Spring Game set for at 1 p.m., Saturday, April 23, at Cunningham Field. Wayne State will open the 2005 football season on the road at St. Cloud State on Saturday, August 27.

WSC baseball team tops in NSIC

The Wayne State College baseball team produced huge numbers to solidify its stand atop the conference standings with a four-game sweep at Minnesota-Crookston last weekend.

The Wildcats took over sole possession of first place in the Northern Sun conference with an 11-3 record against league foes and 26-10 overall.

The Wildcats moved into the top slot after Bemidji State won two games against Southwest Minnesota State over the weekend.

WSC cranked out 21 hits in the Sunday's opener en route to a 22-3 win against the Golden Eagles.

Ben Albury paced the balanced hitting attack for the Wildcats as he went 4-for-5 with three runs. Brian Van Driel went 3 for 4 to extend his hitting streak to 14 games.

Chris Pedroza and Danny Benga each produced a home run and drove in four runs for the Wildcats.

In a rare start, lefthander Russ Emerick improved to 6-0 on the season from the mound as he worked four innings and allowed three runs on five hits with seven strikeouts.

The second game saw the Wildcats tie a school record for runs scored in a game by putting up 30 runs in the nightcap.

The feat tied the school record set in 1981 against Jamestown College. WSC took full advantage of nine Golden Eagle errors and recorded 26 hits in the contest.

The Wildcats had 13 players notching hits and the team scored in every inning.

Ben Albury went 4 for 5 with five runs and Dustin Jones and Arnaldo Ovalles each accounted for three hits.

Marc Manganaro and Travis Oosthoek each recorded home runs and Jones, Oosthoek and Manganaro each drove in five runs.

Jon Pitts picked up the win on the mound for WSC as he worked four innings and allowed one run on five hits with five strikeouts.

On Saturday, the team notched another doubleheader sweep against the Golden Eagles as the Wildcats held off a late UMC rally in the opener to take a 7-6 win and pounded out 25 hits to cruise to a 20-3 victory in the nightcap.

The Wildcats held off a seventh inning rally by Minnesota-Crookston to win the first game 7-6.

The Golden Eagles made the opener a tight ballgame for WSC as four runs were scored in the seventh.

Wayne State closer Dustin Nilus struck out UMC's Aaron Motl to end the game to preserve the win.

The Wildcats tallied a 12-5 hitting advantage as Dustin Jones and Scott Bidroski had three apiece.

WSC catcher Chris Pedroza added a triple and double, while first baseman Marc Manganaro connected on a two-run homer in the top of the seventh inning for the Wayne State.

Travis McCarter pitched four strong innings to get his first win of the season and allowed two runs on two hits.

In the nightcap, WSC recorded 25 hits in a 20-3 victory.

Brian Van Driel extended his team-leading hitting streak to 13 games by going 5-for-6 with five RBIs and three runs.

Van Driel had a double and four singles, while Marc Manganaro added three hits and Jeff Witthoft, Dustin Jones, Scott Bidroski, Ben Albury, Danny Benga and Arnaldo Ovalles all chipped in with two hits apiece. One of Ovalles' hits was a home run, which was his fourth of the season.

BJ Wierzbicki worked four innings to get the pitching win and allowed one run on five hits with seven strikeouts.

WSC was back in action Wednesday when the Wildcats hosted Augustana College in a 2 p.m. doubleheader at the WSC Baseball Complex.

Schools accept invite

The Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference (NSIC) announced last Thursday that the University of Mary and Upper Iowa University have accepted the conference's invitations to join the league.

Both Mary and Upper Iowa will become full league members starting with the 2006-07 academic year.

The NSIC Board of Directors agreed to expand the league to 10 teams by extending invitations for league membership to Mary and Upper Iowa.

The Board of Directors consists of the presidents and chancellors of the league's current eight member institutions, including Wayne State College.

Both schools will be eligible to compete for NSIC championships in 2006-07.

Upper Iowa was reclassified as a NCAA Division II institution in September 2003 after being a member of the NCAA Division III Iowa Intercollegiate Athletic Conference since the organization was formed in 1922.

Mary, a current member of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA), was an exploratory member of the NCAA in 2004-05. The university was also a member of the Dakota Athletic Conference (DAC-10).

The University of Mary is a private, Catholic university located in Bismarck, N.D. Dakota.

With an enrollment of 2,758, Mary is a four-year liberal arts institution featuring 34 undergraduate degree programs and six graduate degree programs. The athletic department sponsors nine women's sports and 10 sports for men. The campus is located seven miles from the capital city, overlooking the Missouri River Valley.

Upper Iowa University, located in Fayette, Iowa, is the largest private college and only Division II institution in the state. A four-year, liberal arts institution, Upper Iowa offers degree programs to over 700 on-campus students and over 5,000 students in the extended center, graduate, and independent study programs.

Wayne High golfers improve

Wayne High veteran golf coach Terry Munson has watched continued improvement in the Wayne High golf team in the past week's meets that included trips to Laurel, Hartington, Albion and a home dual with Norfolk earlier this week.

The JV team traveled to the Laurel-Concord Invitational on Thursday and finished with a team score of 389 to finish in 13th place in the 18-team tourney.

Dan Heithold golfed a 47-41 for an 88 to lead Wayne, while other team scores included Jesse Dunklau 95, Derek Schardt 102, Taylor Nelson 104 and Sam Kurpgeweit 110.

The Wayne varsity team finished second behind Albion Boone Central with 322 points, just one point behind the leaders.

Tyler Johnson shot his career best of 76 to finish in the tie for second in the 65-golfer tourney. "We had four players finish in the Top 15, which was a strong overall performance," Munson said. "Boone Central had a great back nine to nip us by just one stroke."

Other team scores for Wayne at the tourney included Ben Mohl 82, Brian Mohl 83, John Whitt 81 and John Brady with an 85.

The JV squad was back in action on Monday as rainy weather threatened the Hartington Cedar Catholic Invite at the Hartington Country Club.

Wayne edged Pierce by a stroke with 185 to take second behind Cedar Catholic with a team score of 145.

The JV portion of the meet was rained out with most players needing only about one hole remaining to finish the meet.

Heithold and Dunklau each carded a 44 to lead Wayne, while other scores included Taylor Nelson 47, Derek Schardt 50 and Kyle Kwapnioski with a 51.

The team hosted its first home meet of the season on Tuesday when the team played a JV/Varsity dual with Norfolk High.

Norfolk won both divisions as the Panthers posted a 152-165 over Wayne in the varsity division and a 174-180 team win in the JV tournament.

Rugby teams sweep at USD

The WSC men and women traveled for a Great Plains Rugby Conference game last Saturday at USD at Vermillion, S.D.

Rookie scrum Kami Jo Kaikowski had two scores, and backfield player Vicky Parker. Mariah Murry, Becky Webster, Tiff Sheppard, Amber Grotelauchen and Laura Welachowski each scored touchdowns during the game.

WSC women will have a crucial match against South Dakota State at Brookings this Saturday, the winner will move into first place in the rugby conference.

The WSC men also defeated USD in a hard fought defensive match up winning 21-5.

Dakota Wesleyan won the team title with a score of 662, 27 strokes ahead of runner-up UC Santa Cruz.

In Tuesday's first game, WSC put two runs on the board after a Southwest Minnesota State throwing error in the bottom of the sixth inning to claim the 4-3 win.

Over the weekend, the Wildcats split a home doubleheader with Northwestern College (Iowa) as the Red Raiders took the first game 4-2 and lost to WSC in the nightcap 3-2.

Wayne State College and Nebraska-Omaha split a college baseball doubleheader at Omaha on April 13 as the host Mavericks won the first game 6-3 and the Wildcats picking up a 5-3 win in eight innings in the nightcap.

Nebraska-Omaha handed WSC starter Nick Schumacher a rare loss in the first game, connecting for six hits and six runs off Schumacher in two and one-third innings. The Mavericks scored three runs in the second and three more in the third.

Wayne State bounced back in the second game to score a 5-3 win in eight innings over the Mavericks. WSC held a 3-0 lead entering the fifth inning, only to see UNO score three to tie the game at 3-3. The game stayed tied until the eighth inning when the Wildcats used two walks and two UNO errors to score two runs to get the 5-3 win.

WSC players honored by NSIC

Two Wayne State players were named Northern Sun Conference players of the week on Monday for play in last week's games.

Brian Van Driel was named as he extended his hitting streak to 15 games, while pitched Dustin Nuilius picked up his fourth save of the season in WSC's 7-6 win against Minnesota-Crookston.

and has earned honorable mention all-state honors the past three seasons.

"Amanda is a very, sound fundamental player that will be relied on to help us out with our ball handling duties her first season," Vanis said.

Van Beek, a 5-11 outside hitter, is also expected to make some valuable contributions to the Wildcats.

She was named the Iowa Class 2 A Player of the Year last year and helped Hull Western Christian to three consecutive state championships.

Van Beek was a first team All-State selection as a junior and senior and was named captain of the all-tournament team during her senior season.

"Although Brittany will be coming off knee surgery, we feel she will be able to step in and help the Wildcats her freshman season," Vanis said about Van Beek. "She is a very athletic player with an intense, get-after-it, attitude which we are very excited about."

Danielle Wessel's name is already familiar with many area volleyball fans as she was the captain of the Class D-1 All-State team and lead Humphrey St. Francis to a state title last season.

Wessel was also selected to the Class D-1 All-Tournament Team, the Nebraska Coaches Association All-Star Team and was named captain of the Norfolk Daily News All-Area Team.

During her senior campaign, she recorded 168 kills, 177 digs and 318 set assists.

She has also shined in basketball and track and helped St. Francis win the state basketball title this past season.

"Danielle has a great deal of athleticism and natural volleyball ability," Vanis said. "She is extremely quick on her feet and has great jumping ability. With a little training, she will definitely be able to help the Wildcats to a successful season."

The Wildcats plan to sign one or two additional players to round out the 2005 recruiting class.

A quartet of Iowa players will help try to fill the void left by five graduating seniors on the WSC men's basketball team.

Wayne State men's basketball coach Rico Burkett announced that four Hawkeye State recruits will join the team next fall.

All three recruits were ranked among the Iowa Preps.com pre-season Top 50 seniors and look to make an impact with the Wildcat program over the next four years.

The Iowa signees include Joshua Hughes of Forest City, Jonathon Thomas of Earlville, David Walters of Conrad and Michael Dickes of Sioux Center.

"We are excited about Jonathon, Joshua and David joining our program, but more importantly, they are quality individuals both on and off the floor," Burkett said. "They will be great additions to the Wildcat basketball program."

Hughes, a 6-8, 240-pound center, earned First Team All-District and All-North Iowa Conference honors as a senior and averaged 9.6 points, 6.0 rebounds and 2.06 blocks per game and shooting 67-percent from the field while at Forest City High School.

"Joshua's best basketball is ahead of him," Burkett said. "He has the physical abilities to run the floor and play above the basket. We look forward to working with him to refine his skills because he has the tools to become an effective post player."

Thomas, a 6-6, 210 pound forward, averaged 20.4 points, 12.1 rebounds, 3.7 blocks and 2.8 assists for Maquoketa Valley High School, which way the top ranked team in Iowa Class 2A.

He earned First Team All-State honors as a junior and senior along with First Team All-District honors. He shot 60 percent from the field and 75 percent at the charity stripe during his senior season.

"Jonathon has the ability to dictate the game on both ends of the floor with his athletic ability," Burkett said. "He has the versatility to play with his back to the basket as well as step out and hit the open perimeter jump shot."

Walters, a 6-1, 175 pound guard, averaged 23.3 points, 4.0 rebounds, 3.2 assists and 2.6 steals per game for Conrad BCLUW High School this past season.

He was a two-time all state selection in Class 2A and 1A and was a nominee for Iowa's Mr. Basketball.

Walters picked up First Team Class 2A All-State honors from the Des Moines Register this season to go with All-Conference and All-Area selections.

"David has all the tools to become an excellent perimeter player," Burkett said. "I was impressed with his athletic ability and his ability to create a shot for himself or his teammates that will allow him to contribute and make an impact right away."

Dickes is a 6-4, 185-pound guard/forward who averaged 14.3 points and 6.2 rebounds per game while shooting 48 percent from the field for Sioux Center High School this past season. He played on Sioux Center's two-time, Class 2A state championship teams during his sophomore and junior seasons.

Dickes was a unanimous First Team All-Siouxland Conference selection as a junior and senior and was named to the Iowa Basketball Coaches Association Northwest Iowa All-District Team for two seasons. He also was a member of the Iowa Basketball Coaches Association Junior Select Team in 2003 and 2004.

"Michael has a great understanding of the game," Burkett said. "I was impressed with his all-around athletic ability and his versatility will allow him to contribute and make an impact right away."

Three more Wayne State softball recruits announced plans to continue at the collegiate level late in the day last Wednesday.

Hilary Brewer, an infielder from Columbus Lakeview High School, Keri Davison, a pitcher/infielder from Norco High School in California and Kiley Peterson, a pitcher/infielder from Utica Centennial High School will join Wayne High seniors Ashley Carroll and Jenny Raveling on next year's team.

Carroll announced her signing plans early last Wednesday, while Raveling committed to the Wildcats late last winter.

Coach Misfeldt said that this group ranks as his top recruiting class ever at Wayne State.

"These players are all solid in their softball fundamentals and more than half of them could be in the category of difference makers," Misfeldt said.

Brewer was a four-year starter for Columbus Lakeview High School and earned Class C All-State and All-Conference honors during her senior season.

Brewer led Columbus Lakeview to three district titles and holds the school records for home runs, runs batted in, doubles and triples and was also selected to the play in the Nebraska Coaches Association All-Star Softball Game this summer.

"Hilary is the kind of offensive threat that we have been looking for at WSC," softball coach Jon Misfeldt said. "She has no fear at the plate and is one of the few high school players who can claim consistent success against the best pitcher in the state (Molly Hill of Wayne) the past three years. We see her adding an offensive spark to our lineup right away."

Davison is a four-year starter for Norco High School in California and has hit over .400 the last two seasons, while leading her team to a third place finish in 2004 and a division championship in 2003.

"Keri is a triple threat player — a power pitcher and hitter who can also play another defensive position when she is not on the mound," Misfeldt said. "She plays in one of the most difficult high school leagues in the country in California and has been a solid contributor to her varsity squad for the past two-three years."

Peterson was a standout softball and basketball player at Centennial High School and started four seasons in softball and three in basketball. She was a first team All-State and All-Southern Nebraska Conference performer in softball for two seasons while earning academic All-State honors one year.

Peterson had 205 strikeouts and a 0.85 ERA during her senior season and tossing three consecutive no-hitters and six straight shutouts. She helped her team reach the state tournament all four seasons and has been selected to play in the Nebraska Coaches Association All-Star Softball game this summer.

"Kiley is an all-around solid softball player who has a great understanding and feel for the game," Misfeldt said. "She's got a strong arm, both on the mound and in the field, and will be expected to contribute immediately both on defense and offense."

Women's basketball coach Ryan Williams has announced that former South

Sioux City standout Andrea Schoepf will transfer from Nebraska-Omaha and will have two years of eligibility left with the Wildcats.

Schoepf, a 5-8 guard, appeared in 27 of 28 games with the Mavericks this past season, averaging 4.0 points and 1.1 rebounds per game.

As a freshman in 2003-04, Schoepf contributed 6.1 points and 2.1 rebounds while starting 10 games for UNO. She was a three-sport standout at South Sioux City High School and lettered in basketball, track and volleyball.

She played on four straight state championship teams for the Cardinals, and averaged 13.8 points, four rebounds, three steals and three assists per game as a senior to earn Class B All-State honors.

"We are very pleased to have Andrea join the Wildcat program," Williams said. "We recruited the heck out of her the first time around and have always felt she is a very good player and would be a great fit for Wayne State College. Andrea can really shoot the ball and she just knows how to play. Playing at South Sioux City High School, Andrea is a proven winner and will bring a wealth of winning experience to our team. Another positive is that Andrea has two years of college experience playing in this region."

Two players from the junior college ranks signed national letters of intent on Monday to play for the Wildcats.

WSC coach John Manganaro said Travis Mortimore and Connor Bramlet, both of Colby Community College in Kansas, will play baseball for Wayne State next spring.

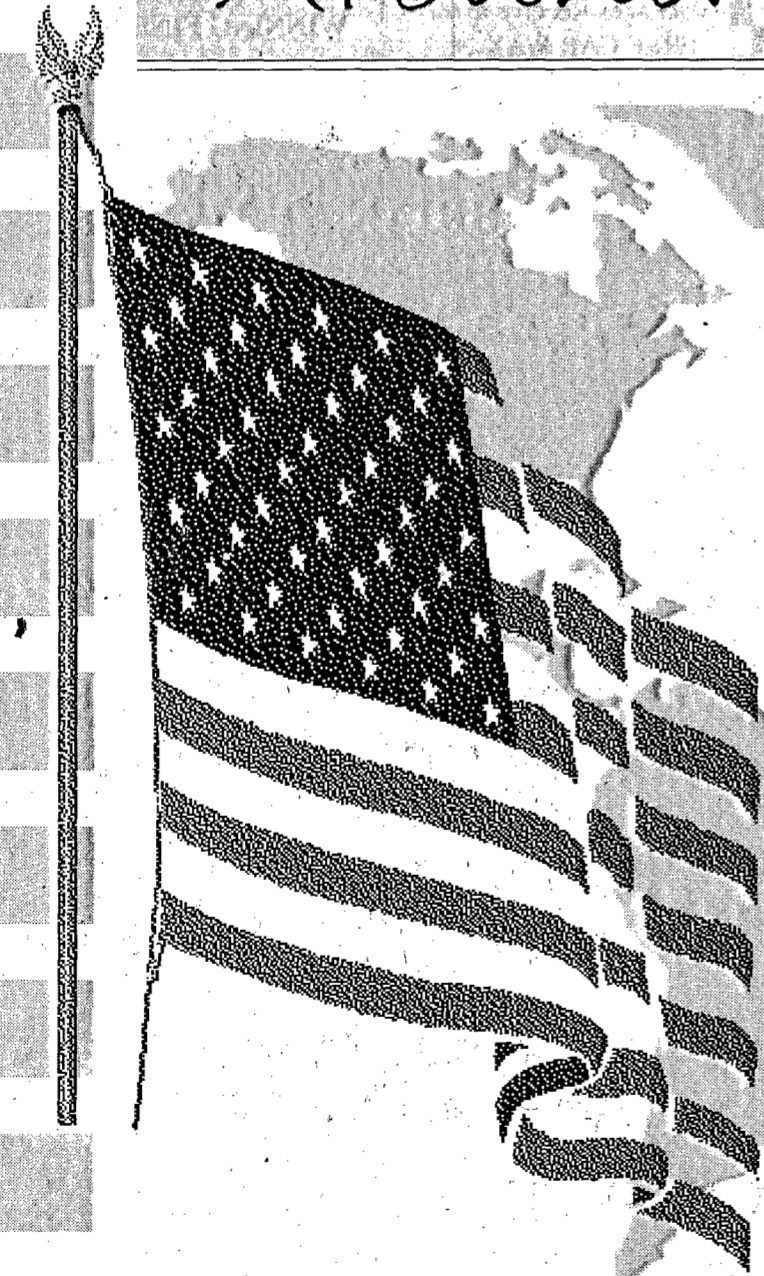

Mortimore is a 6-5, 240-pound pitcher from Torrington, Wyo., who has pitched in more than 21 innings this season, and has tallied a 4.20 ERA for Colby Community.

During his high school years at Torrington High School, he earned all-conference honors in basketball football and track.

Bramlet, a 6-0 pitcher from Casper, Wyo., pitched 48 innings with a 3.04 ERA and 42 strikeouts for Colby Community last season. He also garnered accolades in American Legion baseball, plus all-state and all-conference honors in football.

"We are extremely proud to announce the signing of two fine junior college pitchers," Manganaro said. "Connor and Travis will do a fine job filling the void in our rotation created by graduation. Both pitchers are excellent students who come highly recommended on and off the field."

WEB Carnival is being planned

The Elementary and Middle School Carnival, which will take place Saturday, April 30 from 9:30 a.m. to noon, at the Middle School in Wayne, is one of WEB's largest fundraisers.

Many Wayne businesses have made contributions toward this event. There will be approximately 40 different games/booths including the favorite "Cake Walk," "Popwalk," and "Face Painting."

Another fundraiser that will take place at the school carnival is the sets of Pizza Hut coupons that are for sale. The cost is $10 with a large amount coming back to the Elementary and Middle Schools.

What is Wayne Education Boosters and what do they do?

Wayne Education Boosters (WEB) is an organization composed of Wayne Elementary and Middle School administrators, teachers and parents working together to promote the well-being and educational growth of the children.

This organization was previously the Wayne Elementary Boosters consisting of only the Elementary staff and parents. The need for a Middle School boosters was brought up. A decision was made to have a combined organization.

WEB has supported the schools in many ways over the past years. Supplies, equipment and games have been purchased for the classrooms and materials have been provided to the library and music rooms. WEB currently provides the teachers with a meal during parent/teacher conferences and also provides goodies for teacher appreciation week.

This year, WEB will again be paying the admission cost for elementary students (Kindergarten through third grade - fourth grade is paid for with school funds) to attend the Wayne State College Children's Play. Without this donation, the students would not be able to attend.

The construction of the Elementary playground is complete, Wow! What an improvement for the children. Proceeds from the carnival played a large part in funding this project.

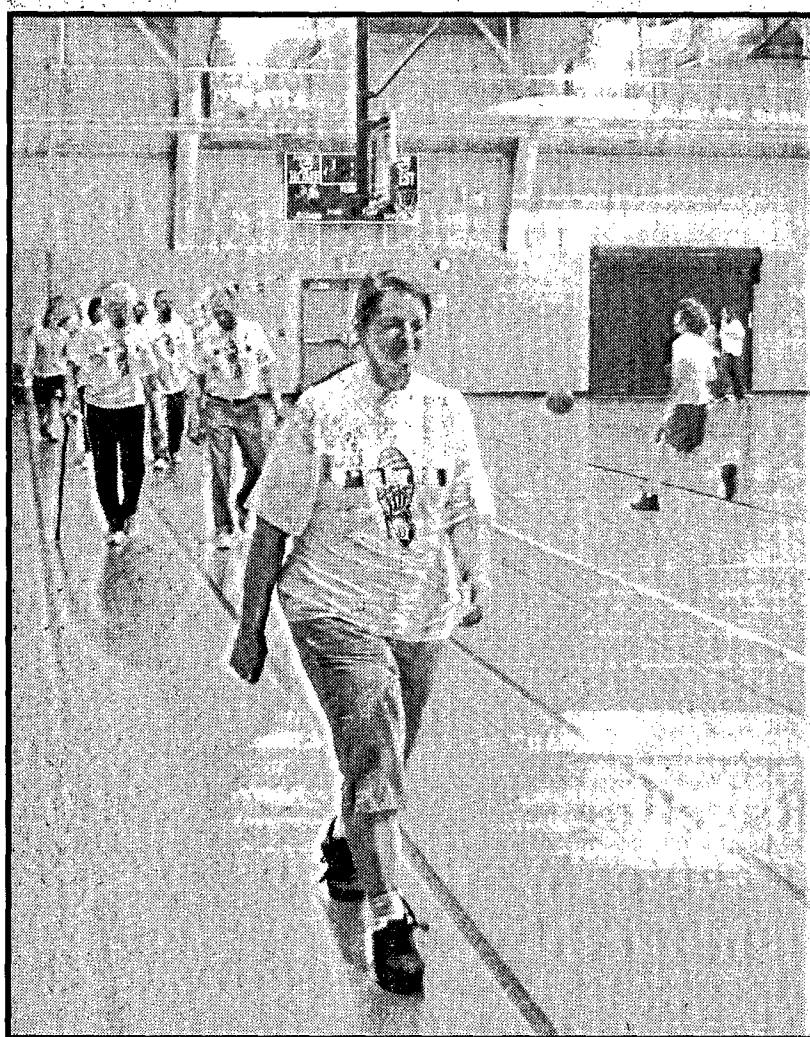

Purchases are beginning to be made at the Middle School. Improvements are also being made on the Middle School playground. Some equipment has also been purchased.

These purchases, donations and projects are made possible through fundraisers. Besides the yearly carnival, there are t-shirt/sweatshirt sales. There are more fundraisers in the Middle School.

Members of WEB feel the most significant thing WEB does is to show the children, teachers and staff that they are important and that they care about their education. WEB strongly encourages parents to become involved in WEB. With continued budget cuts, involvement in WEB will become even more important. WEB, the teachers and staff and especially the children, will benefit from your time and commitment.

Anyone with questions about WEB is asked to contact Jodi Pulfer or Teresa Glassmeyer, current WEB presidents.

Goldenrod Hills observes National Immunization Week

National Infant Immunization Week (NIIW) is a national effort to educate parents, caregivers, providers, and communities on the importance of timely infant immunization. Over 500 communities in the United States and over 35 countries worldwide are expected to participate in this year's observance scheduled for April 24 - 30, 2005.

In the first 24 months of life, children need more than 80 percent of their vaccinations to protect them from diseases, disabilities, and death. Each year more than 25,000 babies are born in Nebraska who will need to be immunized against 12 diseases before the age two. Childhood immunization coverage in Nebraska is at a record high while vaccine-preventable diseases are at all-time lows.

Medical experts say that's good news, but warn parents not to become overly confident. They say people can still be exposed to diseases we thought were eliminated. For example, cases of measles were recently diagnosed in Iowa and Washington following visits to a foreign country (Health and Human Services, Immunization Program 2005).

The goal of the Childhood Immunization Initiative is to have at least 90 percent of all children immunized by two years old of age. Currently the immunization rate for 2-year olds in the U.S. is 77.9 percent and Nebraska's immunization rate is 78.1 percent for 2-year olds and younger. To be minimally immunized, a 2-year old will have completed a series of four doses of diphtheria/tetanus/pertussis, three doses of polio vaccine, one dose of measles/mumps/rubella vaccine, three doses of Haemophilus influenzae type b, and three doses of hepatitis B vaccine. About 23 percent of America's toddlers lack one or more doses of these series.

The Goldenrod Hills Community Action Immunization Program operates 17 immunization clinics each month in 12 of its 14 county service area. The clinics are open to the public and there are no income guidelines. A Registered Nurse administers the vaccinations and a physician is on-call during clinic hours. Appointment and donation information can be obtained by calling the Wisner Office at (402) 529-3513. No one is denied immunizations for inability to pay. For updated clinic information, please refer to the Agency events calendar at www.goldenrodhillcommunityaction.org.

Wayne Optimists host bowling event

The Wayne Optimist Club recently invited Wayne TeamMates mentors and mentees to bowling at Melodee Lanes in Wayne. Above, Wayne Optimist President Bob Keating helps out by keeping scores. Approximately 20 mentees and a number of mentors were present.

Jodi Brodersen, left, talks about her career as several other parents and the fourth grade students at Wayne Elementary School listen and ask questions. Career Day is an annual event organized by Joan Sudmann, Counselor at the school.

Career Day held at Wayne Elementary

"What do you like best about your job?" "What would you change about it?" "What did you learn in elementary school that helps you in your job today?"

These are a few of the questions fourth graders asked the 12 parents who participated in Wayne Elementary School Parent Career Day. Fourth grade students have been exploring careers in their Guidance classes with Counselor, Joan Sudmann, who organized the Parent Career Day.

According to Ms. Sudmann, "In our Guidance program, we move the students from the standard question, 'What do you want to be when you grow up?' to a fuller understanding that choosing a satisfying career involves self-awareness as well as knowledge of the world of work."

Fourth graders take an interest inventory and begin linking their interests, aptitudes and values with career paths. They choose a career to research and present their information to the class. They also interview someone about his/her job.

In fourth grade guidance, students learn that jobs are grouped into six job clusters called Career Paths: Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Communications, Health Services, Human Services, Business Management and Technology, and Industrial and Engineering Technology. These are the same six Career Paths that are taught throughout middle and high school. Incoming freshmen choose one of these Career Paths when they register for ninth grade classes at Wayne High School. Students and parents identified Career Paths for all the participants in Parent Career Day.

The day began with panels of four parents in their own child's homeroom. After half hour sessions, the panels rotated into the other two homerooms. The parents represented many types of work and gave the students a feel for what they do each day and what skills are needed to do their jobs. The students had many questions for the parents. The following parents shared their careers with the students:

Lance Webster - Police Chief; Brad Wieland - National Guard Recruiter; Cindy Sherman -

Assistant Plant Manager; Brian Gibson - Golf Course Groundskeeper; Bill Dickey - Bank President; Jodi Brodersen - Realtor; J.B. Tyson - English and Journalism Professor and Film Maker; Kelly Kenny - Dairy Farmer; Monica Carroll - Construction Worker; Laura Gamble - Registered Nurse; Eric Schoh - Athletic Director; and Brigid Griffin - Vocational Rehabilitation Counselor

"It is a great learning experience for the students to hear what the parents had to say about their jobs. Several parents stated that they had shifted careers and they emphasized the importance of life-long learning. They discussed how they found a career that was right for them. The parents did a great job of making a connection between what the students are learning now and the work they may choose to do in the future," Ms. Sudmann said. "From what the parents have said, I think they enjoyed it as much as the kids did."

Scholar athletes are recognized

The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Association (NAIA) recently announced the 2004 Daktronics-NAIA Volleyball All-American Scholar Athletes. Recipients of the award must be a junior or above in academic standing and maintain a minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.5 on a 4.0 scale.

Mount Marty College Lancer Volleyball members recognized for the award include Heather Rabe, a senior Secondary Education major, Winside.

Lancer Volleyball coach, Tracey Grotenhuis, said she is pleased with the achievements of the students.

"I am extremely proud of these girls and their accomplishments in the classroom," she said. "This is the largest number of student-athletes on our team to be recognized with this prestigious award. It takes a great amount of dedication by these student-athletes to excel in both the classroom and on the volleyball court. They are all very deserving of this recognition."

Youth participate in Money Camp

What is it like for seventh grade youth to function in the Real World? The 2005 Money Camp gave 92 youth an opportunity to learn about "Real World" money decisions as part of the University Newcastle students work with Karma Thomas at the 2005 Money Camp held in Norfolk.

Students present research projects

Nearly 170 students presented their research at the seventh annual Student Research Day on April 18, at the University of Nebraska at Kearney Nebraskan Student Union.

"The UNK Student Research Day is designed to give students the opportunity to present the results of collaborative research and creative activity conducted with faculty members," said Dr. Ken Nikels, dean of the Office of Graduate Studies. "Any undergraduate UNK student engaged in collaborative or independent research is eligible to participate." Those involved include Derek Wakefield of Wakefield, "Nebraska 4-H Foundation - Support Our Youth" Creating a New Identity for and Awareness of the Nebraska 4-H Foundation, Dr. Ruth Brown, communication; Tyler Anderson of Wayne, "Ability to Distinguish Real from Faked Facial Expressions of Emotion," Dr. William Wozniak, psychology; and Heather Stauffer of Wayne, "Boom to Bust: Prosperity and Decline of Several Buffalo County Nebraska Towns," Dr. Mark Ellis, history.

of Nebraska Cooperative Extension Money Camp.

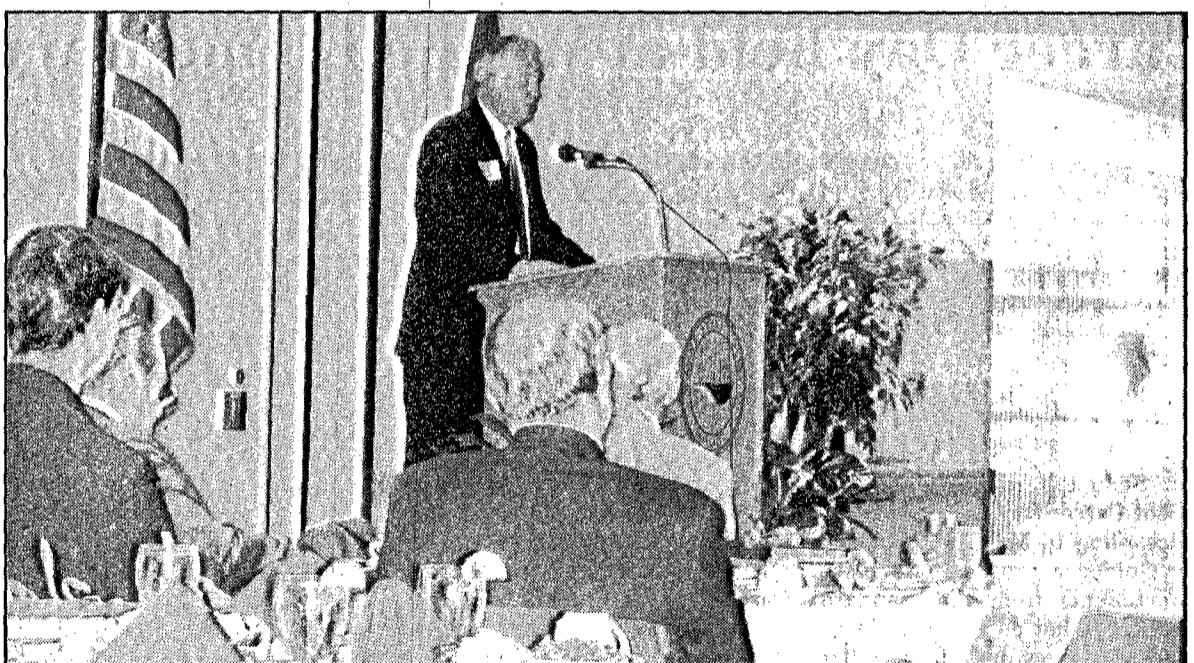

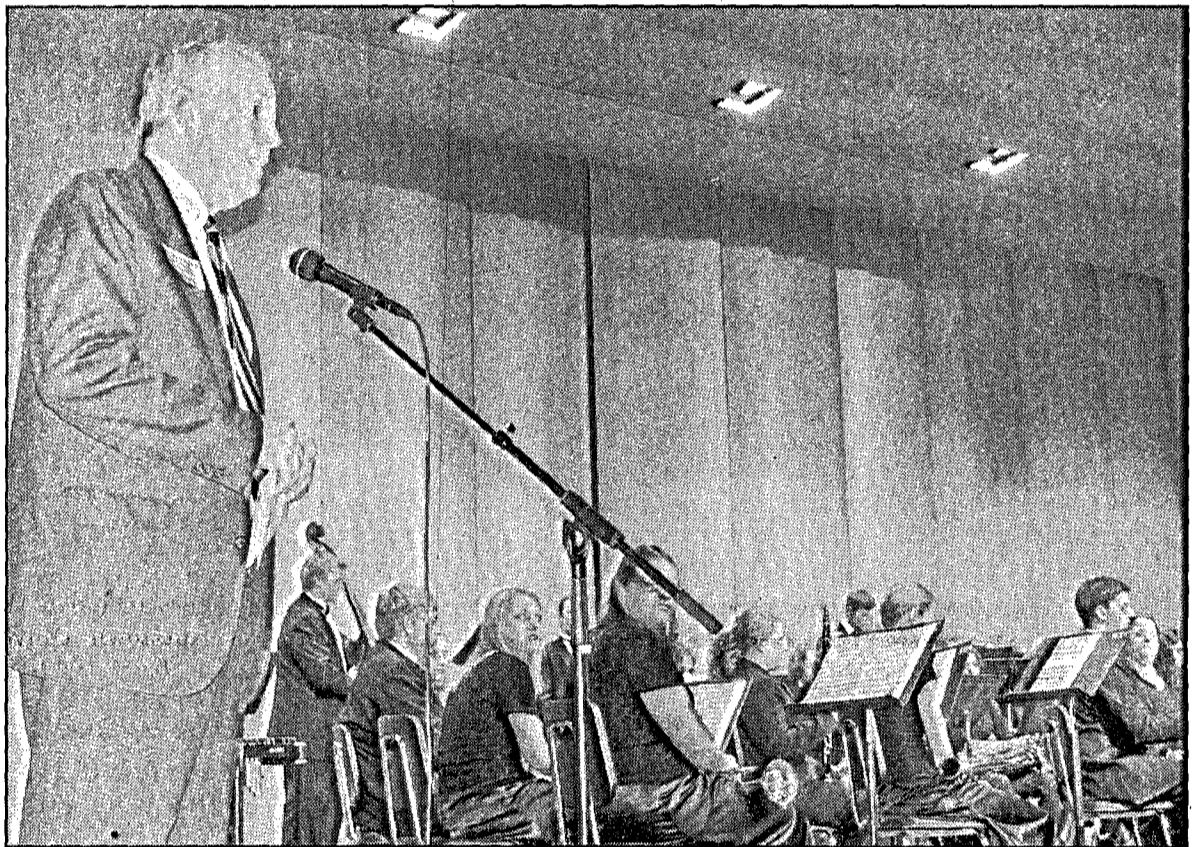

The camp was held at the Lifelong Learning Center in Norfolk. Youth participated from: Christ Lutheran (Norfolk), Clearwater, Emerson, St. Francis (Humphrey); Trinity Lutheran (Madison) and Newcastle.

The interactive financial program was designed to help seventh grade youth become better prepared to financial decisions as young adults. They experienced a variety of activities including a real life simulation where they learn about managing in the "Real World."

The camp was coordinated by Sandy Preston and Myrna DuBois, Extension Educators with the University of Nebraska in Dixon and Stanton Counties. As part of the simulation, students were paired up to form households. They were randomly assigned occupations and given the salary for that occupation.

Before they could start managing their money, they young people needed to figure how much money was available. They needed to subtract taxes and possibly insurance from their salary and make a deposit in the bank. Chance cards like a flat tire or a car break down added to the realism of the simulation. Credit and how we react to money were other workshops that were held as part of the program.

Collings inaugurated as Wayne State's 11th president

Dr. Richard J. Collings was inaugurated as Wayne State College president on April 15 at a ceremony in Ramsey Theatre in the Val Peterson Fine Arts Building on the campus in Wayne.

Collings, who came to Wayne State last June from Western Carolina University in Cullowhee, N.C., became the school's 11th president since its opening in 1910. At Western Carolina University where he served from 1996-2004, Collings was vice chancellor for academic affairs and professor of political science and public affairs. He is a native of Louisville, Ky.

In his inaugural address entitled "A Celebration of Teaching and Learning," Collings stressed the importance of Wayne State College's mission.

"Let us fulfill our College's mission and celebrate our role as a first-rate teaching and learning college," he said. "Let us support today's and tomorrow's faculty members who engage in a scholarship of teaching. And, let us celebrate the students who have responded to their professors' guidance, have become active and life-long learners, and have gone forth from Wayne State College to become productive members of our society."

Dr. Collings went on to note that as our "world changes, our academic disciplines change. Colleges cannot stand still - either we move forward or we fall back."

During the inaugural ceremony, Nebraska Gov. Dave Heineman spoke on the important roles teachers play in the lives of their students and noted that "education is the great equalizer."

Heineman stressed that education is a high priority of his as governor of Nebraska and "education and economic vitality are linked."

Other speakers included Dr. David McFarland, president emeritus of Kutztown University of Pennsylvania, where Collings served from 1989-1996. Steve Lewis of Lexington, chair of the Nebraska State College System Board of Trustees, conducted the investiture ceremony, and Stan Carpenter, executive director of the Nebraska State College System, introduced the platform party.

Carpenter also spoke during the luncheon preceding the inauguration. He praised Collings' attitude toward learning and toward Wayne State College.

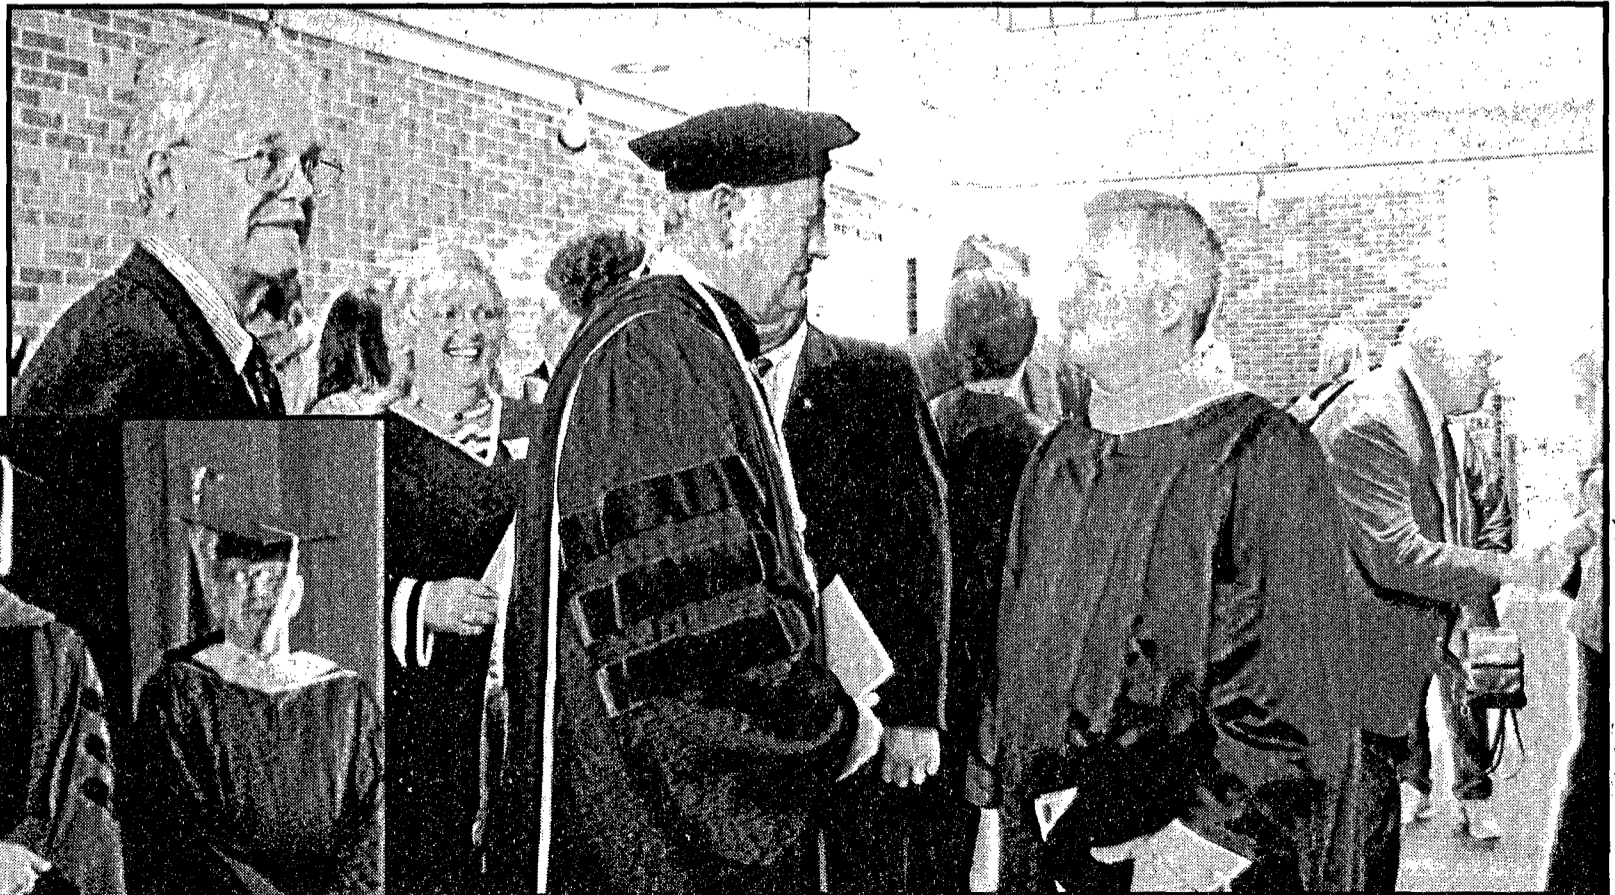

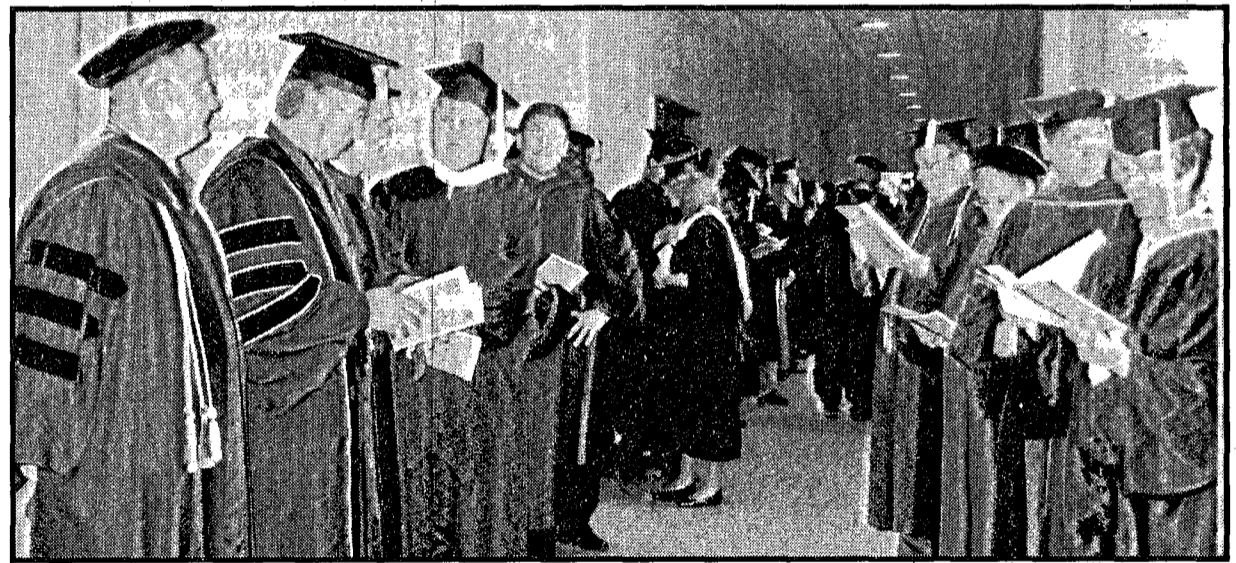

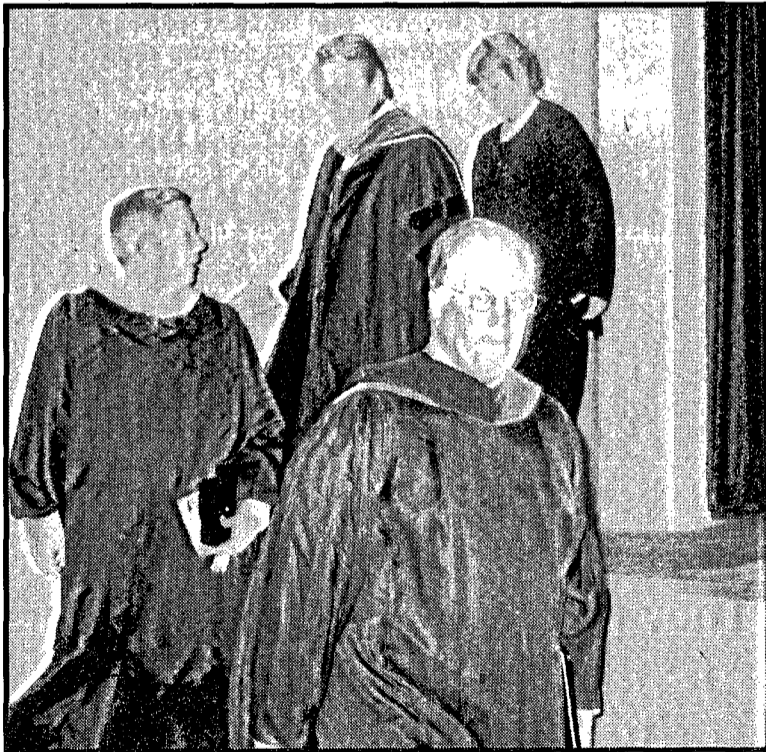

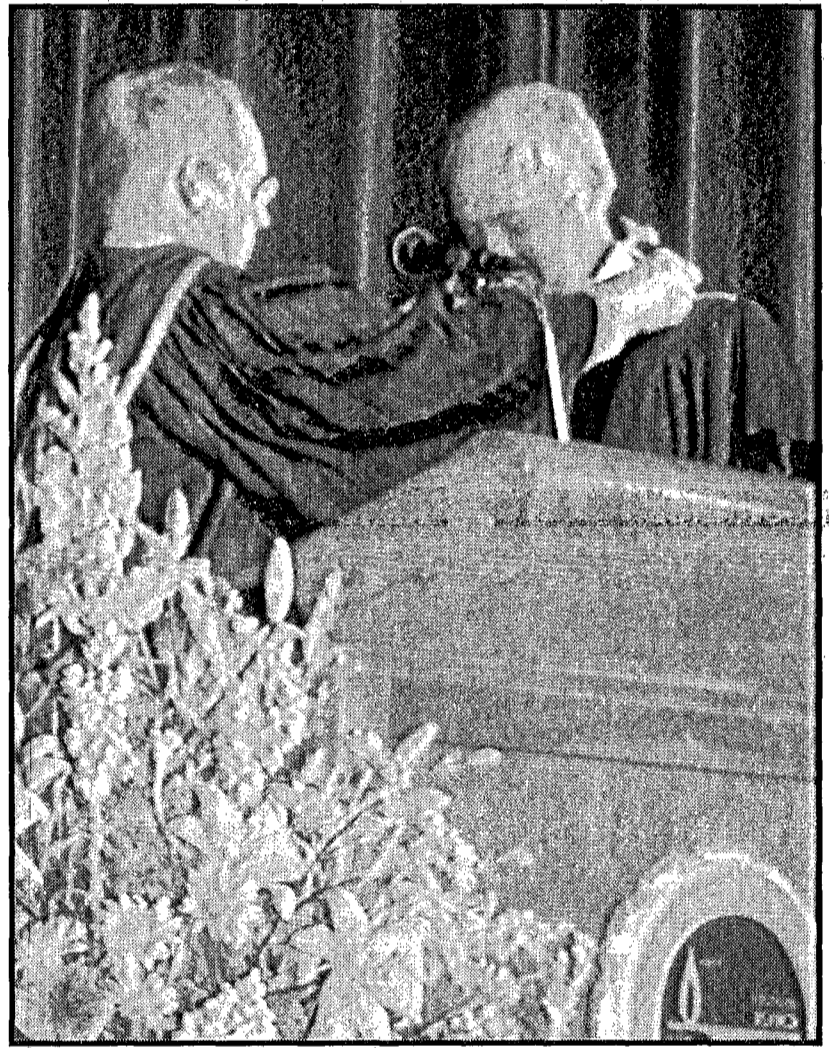

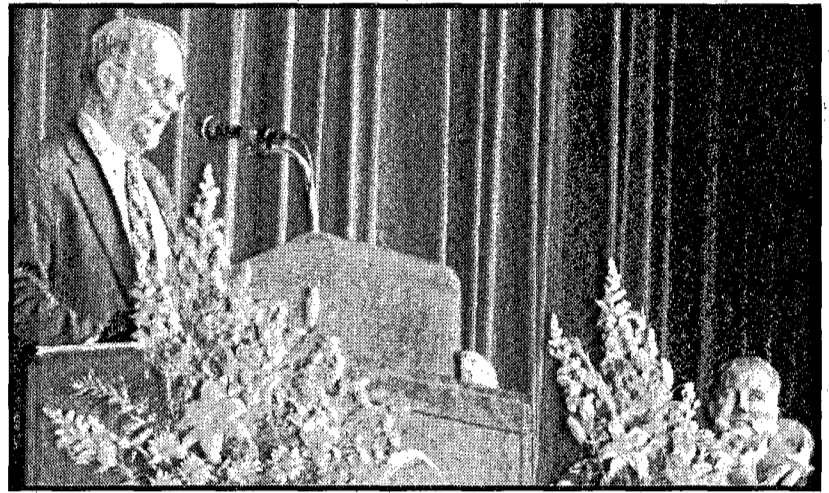

Norman B. Small, II, NSCS student trustee, representing Wayne State College, gave the invocation and benediction.

Following the inauguration, a public reception was held in the Wayne State Student Center.

Inaugural festivities began April 14, with a concert, "Campus and Community Present: A Musical Celebration," in Ramsey Theatre. The concert included vocal and instrumental performances by individuals and ensembles from Wayne State College and the community of Wayne. A featured performer was Michael Collings, a professional jazz guitarist who is the son of President and Marilyn Collings.

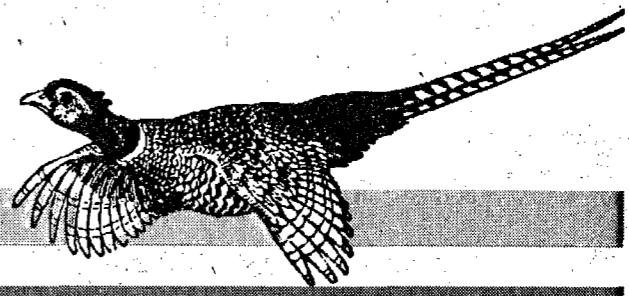

Dr. and Mrs. Collings' family includes son, Michael and his wife Katherine; daughters Kirsten and Kelly and her husband Seth Hawkins and their children, Ethan and Kai.

A number of other family and friends were able to attend the inauguration ceremonies.

Understand egg carton dates

If you are confused about the dates you see on egg cartons, it's not surprising. Food product dating is hard to understand. One of the more puzzling facts is that none of the dates on food packages—not even "use by" dates—are an indication of food safety. Instead, package dates refer to product quality.

An "expiration" or "sell by" date on some egg cartons helps to ensure that the eggs are fresh by informing the grocery store not to sell the eggs after the marked date. These dates are also intended to encourage you to use the eggs when they're still at their highest quality.

Ruth Vonderohe
Extension Educator

An expiration date on the carton is not required but, if one is used, it can be no more than 30 days after the eggs were packed.

Since the packer or retailer may choose a date under 30 days, your local retailer can give you more complete information about how many days a "sell by" or "expiration date" allows after making.

Some cartons show a Julian date, on the short side of the carton. The Julian date is the day the eggs were packed. — starting with 001 as Jan. 1 and ending with 365 for Dec. 31. For example, eggs packed on June 15 would be marked 166. Some other egg packers print an open "use by" date — July 15, for example — right on the eggshell itself.

If properly refrigerated, shell eggs will keep with insignificant quality loss for at least four to five weeks after the Julian or pack date. If there is no Julian or pack date, using your eggs within three weeks of purchase will allow for the possibility that your eggs may have been temporarily warehoused by the retailer before you bought them.

Why isn't safety a factor in these dates? Food safety depends on many things, including how you handle and store eggs and other foods. Both quality and safety changes can happen before or after the date on the package. For example, if you put a fully cooked deli ham and a carton of eggs in the trunk of your car on a hot day and then run several errands before you refrigerate the ham and eggs at home, you've both reduced the ham's and eggs' shelf-life and increased your risk of food-borne illness — not matter what the package dates say.

When correctly handled, eggs have a fairly long shelf-life compared to other perishable foods. For both quality and safety, simply keep eggs refrigerated and cook them properly.

Dordt College invites Magnuson

Dordt College in Sioux Center, Iowa, has invited Erin Magnuson, along with 23 others, to participate in the Kuyper Scholars Program (KSP), beginning this fall. Those who accept the invitation will receive a KSP scholarship and complete an 18-credit minor in interdisciplinary and theoretical studies and seminars. Dr. Mary Dengler and Dr. Arnold Sikkema will be co-directing the program.

The KSP is designed to develop students' scholarly gifts as well as a Kuyperian sense of scholarly work as a calling to a particular kind of service in God's kingdom. To reach that understanding, students begin with course Rhetoric and Christian Scholarship. They then participate in and lead a number of interdisciplinary seminars, contract in their general education and majors courses to do interdisciplinary/theoretical projects, and design independent and group projects in (or outside) their major, which they present to the academic community. These projects will prepare them for leadership in the Christian and world community.

Several members will attend Spring Gathering at St. John's in Atkinson on April 16. Leslie Hausmann took the group on a journey to the Emerald Isle. Leslie and Jack went there a year ago to visit their son, Kevin and his wife, Mollie, who was working there at the time. She also gave an early history of Ireland. She noted that the climate in May was mild (65 to 70 degrees) but it rained a little every day. In the winter, the temperature was about 30 to 40 degrees. On most of the island, English is spoken but on the west coast, they speak Gaelic. The currency used there is the Euro. Kevin and Mollie lived near the city of Cork. They also spent three days in Dublin. The country has over 400 golf courses. There are no political advertisements on public T.V. They just advertise in newspapers and on signs. On March 9, 17 members were in attendance to make greeting cards. Three hundred cards were made, under the direction of Erna Karel and Dorothy Aurich. Hostesses for the day were Eva Nelson and Irene Hansen.

Moving can be trying

My week didn't get any better after that rainy Monday. On Wednesday, I took the van to Lincoln. Every time we do that, we try to take some more things to the town house, so it was loaded. I also had a bunch of newspapers for recycling, so wanted to turn on Havelock from north 70th. I pulled into the right turn lane next to an eighteen-wheeler and waited for the light to change.

When it did, and I began turning, the truck did, too! Now that is one scary feeling! I thought for a second that I was going right over, and there was the ugly sound of metal scraping. Then I was in the driveway of a filling station and he was going west on Havelock, apparently unaware of what had happened. I turned back into the street, found that everything was still working, thought of calling the police, but was afraid he would drive on, out of town and I would never know who or what hit me.

So, I followed the truck. He drove onto Cornhusker and soon turned into a truck stop. I accosted him there, and he apologized. I told him that wasn't going to help the car. He was a very young man, and gave me his name and address, and the owner of the truck's name, so I said he'd be hearing from me. I have big old tire marks on the back driver's side, and whenever I hear of a truck-car collision on the news, I shudder.

After taking the stuff to recycling, I stopped at my mother's for some aspirin and comfort. Then, I unloaded the stuff at our townhouse. I usually pull into the garage there, partly because I don't want the neighbors to see all the old stuff the Big Farmer is moving into the storage room there!

The garage-door opener worked just fine to open, but then would not go down. I tried my faithful son-in-law at work because he knows all things electrical, but he had already left. I called three companies that advertise 24 hour service, and it would be 24 hours before they could get there! Finally, I got hold of my cousin Ken on his cell, and he came over and put it down manually.

On Sunday, we were having an open house here and we have been sorting and throwing and cleaning like crazy. In fact, I have to say Mike has made more progress on the basement than I have on the attic. Of course, I am still cooking for guests, doing talks, etc. And I had to make the luncheon at the Chances R in York on Friday with my nursing classmates. You know how it is.

The realtor got here a little after noon; we had just got home from church. The Big Farmer always believes that food will magically appear in front of him at mealtime, no matter what is going on in our lives. So, I warmed up a hamburger patty and found a snack pack in the cupboard. The realtor started hiding things like waste baskets and towels, which I think is silly because everybody uses those things. I had already cleaned out three closets: I believed that was sufficient. I remember when we were house hunting, I always looked in the closets. And ours get pretty full.

In fact, getting rid of the general clutter makes this place look pretty good. We've painted the front porch, and got rid of some external eyesores.

On Sunday morning, I looked around outside one more time. It was one of those beautiful spring days in Nebraska, with very little wind, birds chirping, everything green, and I got kind of emotional. It's just too bad things have to change, isn't it? We had 20 couples, but so far, no offers. Put us on your prayer lists, please.

Fertilizer decisions can involve math and money

It's early spring and not quite time to plant, but the fertilizer is going out by the ton. Making decisions about fertilizer can be slightly confusing especially when trying to compare costs.

University of Nebraska soil scientist Achim Dobermann has made available a computer program that can help sort out costs of fertilization and compare fertilizer types. The program is called Fertilizer Chooser and can be used in fertilizer calculations and decision making.

For example if the local fertilizer dealer has available urea ammonium nitrate, urea, and anhydrous ammonia, and I need to fertilize 160 acres of corn. With a recommendation for nitrogen (N) fertilizer of 120 pounds per acre, Fertilizer Chooser tells me my best choice is to apply 146 pounds per acre of anhydrous at a cost of $27 per acre. Urea ammonium nitrate would be the second choice at $33 an acre.

Anhydrous remains the cheapest mainly because most all other N fertilizers are made from anhydrous. Some fields need more than N and must consider phosphorus, potassium, and other micronutrients. Simply add fertilizer recommendations into the program, list the fertilizers available at the local dealer and the program will calculate number of pounds needed of each fertilizer type, automatically choosing the cheapest source.

Fertilizer Chooser and can be downloaded free from <http://soilfertility.unl.edu>. Using the program is easy and can be adjusted to fit your local situation. Prices in the program come from surveys of many fertilizer dealers, but can be changed to specifically reflect the prices you will pay at your local dealer. Application costs are taken into account in calculating price and can be changed to reflect local conditions. Make those fertilizer calculations quickly and choose the fertilizer that cost the least and best fits your farming system.

Reducing costs will benefit your bottom line and reducing fertilizer bills will help. Other ways to reduce the fertilizer bill are to reevaluate fertilizer recommendations by giving proper credit to previous legume crops, subtracting the N applied in irrigation water, and confirming whether or not micronutrient applications will pay back. Good luck and may you have healthy happy corn.

Humanities Council seeks teachers for Capitol Forum

Applications must be in by June 1 for Nebraska high school social studies teachers who want to participate in the eighth Nebraska Capitol Forum on America's Future.

Twenty-five teachers will be selected to participate in the program, which is designed to engage students in a discussion of our nation's future in the changing international environment. Hundreds of participating high school students learn about the complexity of world politics and their role as citizens in the political process. Among the timely foreign policy questions likely to be discussed are terrorism, trade, immigration and the environment.

Teachers will receive a curriculum guide to engage classes in discussing the issues. Each teacher will select four students to participate in the forum at the State Capitol on March 27, 2006. During the recent 2005 forum, some 85 students from public and private schools and from every congressional district debated international issues. They also spoke with members of the Nebraska Congressional delegation and examined their positions on a range of subjects.

A one-day workshop in August will introduce the teachers to the forum curriculum, and a planning day in February will feature public policy topics. Student representatives then will report on the international concerns of their classmates at the forum in Lincoln. The day will culminate in a dialogue among students, teachers, elected officials and policy makers.

Following the forum at the State Capitol, teachers and students will lead their classmates through a two-day lesson plan to complete a Nebraska Student Ballot on America's Future, which is distributed to participating Nebraska high schools, news media and state and federal elected officials.

Teachers receive two Choices curriculum units and classroom materials related to the forum, a report of the student ballot and certificates for student representatives. Check with the NHC for possible travel stipends and funding for classroom substitutes. An initiative of Brown University's Choices for the 21st Century Project, Capitol Forum conforms to Nebraska social studies standards.

The Nebraska Humanities Council, in collaboration with Sec. of State John Gale, sponsors Nebraska's Capitol Forum. In Nebraska, the 2005 Capitol Forum was funded in part by the "We the People" initiative of the National Endowment for the Humanities and by Commercial Federal Bank.

For a printable application form, go to the Capitol Forum page of the NHC website at www.nebraskahumanities.org or write to: Nebraska Humanities Council, 215 Centennial Mall South, Suite 500, Lincoln, NE 68508.
