Sok travels to Japan as Fulbright Teacher

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

"Fantastic trip" and "definitely worth the effort put into the application process and the time spent there" are just two of the comments Winside High School science teacher Paul Sok had since his recent return from Japan.

Sok was one of 200 teachers from the United States chosen from a field of 2,500 who were able to travel to Japan as part of the Japanese Fulbright Memorial Fund Teacher Program from June 12 to July 1.

Sok left from Omaha on June 11, after getting in the middle of a drive-by shooting, and flew to San Francisco, Calif. Here the Fulbright Memorial Fund personnel met the group and conducted three hours of orientation.

"My roommate was from Montana, and had graduated from Wayne State College. He was also a science teacher, so we got along right away," Sok said. The group arrived in Tokyo on June 14 and traveled to their hotel for a reception, complete with traditional music with a Koto and Japanese flute.

On June 15, the group held their first meeting in Japan and discussed problems with Japanese youth and the education system in Japan. They discussed how things have changed in the last 15-20 years and noted that the major problem in schools appears to be bullying.

The FMF group also had the opportunity to listen to discussion on economics in Japan and learned that many of the issues facing the Japanese are the same as those

He paid $1.89 per gallon. That amazingly low price in these days of record high oil prices is because blend of 85 percent ethanol and he had filled up with regular tem. unleaded he would have paid $2.31 a gallon. Because he used E-85 he saved 42 cents per gallon. While most vehicles use regular unleaded or E-10, which is 10 percent ethanol and 90 percent petroleum, not every vehicle can use E-85 but I believe that will change in the future partly because of what bill which contains a provision I co-I've been working for in sponsored that requires oil refiners Washington to promote the use of this wonderful fuel.

Currently there are at least 4 million flexible fuel vehicles in the United States, 39,000 of them in Nebraska, which can use either regular, E-10 or E-85. The reason more flexible fuel vehicles aren't built and sold is because there Last week I was in Central City, aren't enough pumps that dispense expect more will be on the way

When more pumps are available making it convenient to fill up, it will encourage more people to purchase flexible fuel vehicles if for no other reason than to save a lot of money on a tank full of gas.

More good news for the ethanol industry is contained in the energy to blend 8 billion gallons of renewable fuels, mainly ethanol and biodiesel, into the nation's fuel supply by 2012. That is more than double the current fuel ethanol production of 3.4 billion gallons.

Not only does the industry help our producers, it has created 6000 jobs in Nebraska ranking us number 3 in the nation in the production of ethanol.

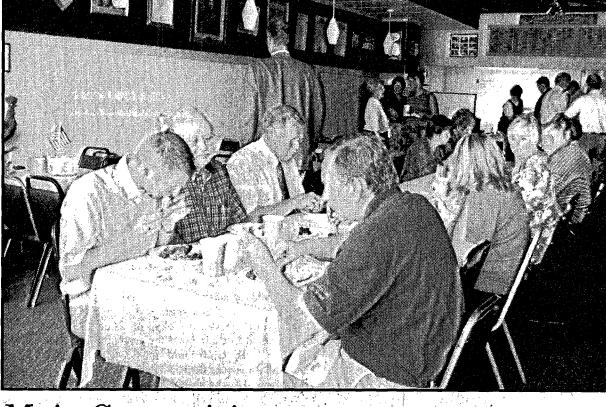

While the high price of oil has helped draw attention to ethanol nationwide Nebraskans have supported it for many years because we know it's good for our economy, it burns cleaner and is good for the environment, and it's a renewable source of fuel that is a crucial component in America's fight for energy independence. As the Ethanol board proudly states, "Bushels of Corn Replacing Barrels of Oil".

McGinley was so altogether personable that if he said "I'm from the government and I'm here to help you!" people believed him. They were right to do so. Most biographical stories about McGinley note that he was the last Democrat elected to Congress from western Nebraska. How long ago was that event? Soooo long ago (1954) that he was elected from what was then the 4th District, McGinley served just one term, since his election mostly reflected a GOP plot to get rid of the Republican he ousted. McGinley served as a state senator and as Gov. Bob Kerrey's lieutenant governor. The latter was not a pleasant experience for McGinley. He felt that he helped Kerrey to do well in parts of western Nebraska, and was then shunted past the sidelines and forgotten on the bench.

Sin causes ills in society

Dear Editor, Concerning the ills of our society and the degenerating morality of this nation and the rest of the world, that comes from sin found in the heart of all men everywhere. The Bible says "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God" Romans 3:23. Proverbs 14:34 states that "Righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach to any people."

I know that our Constitution gives us the freedom to choose any declares in His word that those who choose sin as a lifestyle will die. Ezekiel 18:4 states that "all souls are the Lord's and the soul that sinneth, it shall die." God also does not tolerate sin in any form. Proverbs 10:29 states "the way of the Lord is strength to the upright: but destruction shall be to the workers of iniquity."

As for humanity evolving into something better, God also states "O Lord, I know that the way of man is not in himself: it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps." Jeremiah 10:23. In other words, man left to himself without God cannot find his way to God, but be available when needed. Your only gets worse morally and dies

When Christians in any community rise up and stand against sin Ephesians 6:13 states "wherefore God, that ve may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all to stand."

Christians may have political beliefs, but we are not for the most part politically motivated, but are and the Lord Jesus Christ, who motivated by the Spirit of God to call sin, Sin! As for the meaning of separation of Church and state, the framers of our Constitution states in the First Amendment, that Government could not dictate or force us to have, a single form of Religion or one state religion but every man could worship God according to the dictates of his own heart. Because of that first amendment, this country has religious freedom and diversity of Worship. But the framers never meant that we should take faith in God out of Politics, Government, business, schools, communities or our homes. Yet that is what is being done in the name of separation of Church and State.

Finally, the Christians in this community have reached out to we are not taking advantage of both young and old and asked them democracy, nor destroying it, but to respond to the Gospel of Jesus we are obeying the mandates of Christ. But the people of this day God to stand against sin. and age are so entertained by what the world offers that unless we take unto you the whole armour of promise to give them something or entertain them, they will not respond. Now the truth of the matter is that God told us how they would be. II Timothy 4:1-4 states "I charge thee therefore before God, shall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and his Kingdom; Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season, reprove, rebuke, exhort with all longsuffering and doctrine. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they shall turn away their ears from the truth and shall be turned unto fables.

We do not seek to elevate ourselves in this community at others expense, but we do seek to do the will of God and call sin, sin. This is godly obedience and piety.

Champions: Wayne 14-under team wins state title

Team "attacks" its way to a championship with 13-hour loser bracket marathon

By David W. Carstens Of the Herald

The war cry for Wayne's 14under softball team was just one single word.

Attack. Team members of the squad, cocoached by Doug Carroll and Nathan Wall, yelled their motivational word each time they took the field in last weekend's Class C state tournament in Columbus.

The team's motivation yielded the ultimate prize as Wayne emerged at the Class C 14-under state champion after playing a full schedule in battling through the consolation bracket.

"The team would yell "attack" before they got on the field and that became their motto," coach Nathan Wall said.

The girls opened with two dominating wins on Saturday, and played 13 hours in six games on Sunday to clinch the title.

In the first game, the team avenged a loss from earlier in the season with a 7-0 shutout against O'Neill.

Alesha Finkey and Caitlin Gustafson paced the offense with two runs each, while Justine Carroll notched a double and two RBIs in the win.

Wayne's second round opponent was undefeated Tecumseh, who entered the game at 23-0.

Wayne exploded with three runs in the fourth inning to take a 4-2 advantage and added an insurance score in the sixth to hand Tecumseh its first loss of the season with a 5-2 win.

Mirisa pitched a complete game to improve to 10-5 on the season and scattered five hits and four strikeouts.

Doubles and runs by Finkey

Ashley Moeller, Shannon Jarvi and Andrea Pieper highlighted the offense, but the real differencemaker was Wayne's defensive effort, Wall said.

"Our defense was tough as we turned in two double plays," he said. "Caitlin Gustafson had a great defensive game at short-

Softball Complex in Hastings for the Junior Olympic 16U Class C State The team, coached by Keith and Noreen Gould and Jerry and Diane

Schroeder, went through the tournament undefeated and brought home the state championship trophy and medals. Laurel started the tournament Friday against Cedar Rapids in a 9-7

Cedar Rapids got the early lead scoring five runs in the first two innings. Laurel took over the lead in the top of the fourth inning scoring off of back-to-back hits by Jessica Pigg, Nikki Lubberstedt, Tarah Jelinek and Ann Brandow. Cedar Rapids came back the next inning with two runs to regain the lead 7-6. Laurel answered in the top of the sixth and tied the game at 7-all.

The time limit had been reached during the sixth inning, so play continued into an extra seventh inning with Laurel's Kari Schroeder and Nikki Lubberstedt both crossing home plate. Laurel's solid defense in the bottom of the 7th stopped Cedar Rapids' hopes of a comeback.

Pitcher Kacie Gould, who handles pitching duties for the team, made one of her many defensive plays in getting to a well-placed bunt and throwing out the runner at first base. Jelinek pounded out two doubles and earning three RBIs in the win.

Hits by Pigg and Nikki Lubberstedt advanced her to third base and Gould then was able to get home on a passed ball giving Laurel their final run of the game. Sami Urwiler, along with Jelinek and coach Keith Gould, was able to

Sunday afternoon brought a win against the Hastings Shockers. Laurel set the tone for the game in the bottom of the first inning.

Hastings' cleanup batter unloaded a hit deep into center field. Kari Schroeder caught the ball on the run and then turned and fired back to second base to turn a double play that retired the team.

Laurel carried that momentum into the next inning, scoring their first five batters. DeLong, who along with Jenny Schroeder led the team in scoring, was able to make it home three times in the game. Once again the defense was a huge factor in the 10-2 victory.

Laurel faced Hastings once again in the championship game late Sunday afternoon. A single by Kari Schroeder into right field scored Jenny Schroeder in the top of the first inning for Laurel's only run for the first three innings. Hastings jumped out to the early lead scoring two runs in the first inning.

The score remained 2-1 until Laurel unleashed their hitters in the fourth

Six runners (Jenny Schroeder, Gould, Pigg, Jelinek, Brandow, and DeLong) crossed the plate in the fourth, giving Laurel a 7-2 lead. Hastings had the start of a rally going in the bottom of the fourth inning when Hoesing made a catch on a throw from center fielder Kari Schroeder to tag a runner at the plate for the final out of the inning.

A new chapter of the National Wild Turkey Federation was formed just three months ago to promote and educate the public about turkey hunting and in turn, focus on habitat for turkey populations in the Wayne area.

Wayne's chapter has been organized by Randy Pedersen of Wayne and his son, Joel, who serves as senior wildlife biologist for the NWTF and resides in Edgefield, S.C.

Laurel

Kim Lubberstedt and Gould made it around the bases in the sixth inning giving Laurel its final two runs of the game.

While Hastings answered with one run in the sixth and two in the seventh; it wasn't enough as Laurel came out on top 9-7. Kacie Gould continued her strong pitching performance from last years state tournament.

She pitched five complete games for the Laurel team and was also one of the team's leading hitters. Although the Laurel softball program has sent a team to a Class C

State Tournament for six consecutive years, was the first state championship for the program. The effort was highlighted by the fact that five of the eleven players are younger players who would have been eligible to play 14-under.

Hot days and news from London fill days

It's Tuesday morning again, and another hot day on the schedule. I'm going to work, covering another vacation. I think that, pretty soon, everyone will have had their vacation and I can take one! It still seems strange not to be busy with guests.

Actually, we had three guests for five days and they just left yesterday. They were here from Orlando for the funeral of the 97 year old I mentioned. On Sunday, we all went to a golden anniversary open house.

The wedding of the honoree's was the first one I ever sang for. I was 16, and very nervous. My friend from Orlando was the maid of honor; I suppose she was nervous, too, but she really doesn't remember much about it.

That's what happens when you are in your 60s; you don't remember things so vividly. Then I wonder why my 89 year old mother doesn't remember details the way I want her to. We've been looking at old pictures, and she can't always identify the people in them. 13 to 5 Last week we were horrified to turn on the TV and see London in alert mode. We were brave enough to ride the subway in New York,

I had not even thought of them until Kay forwarded a message from Karen, saying they neither one had gone to work that day. Ordinarily, that station would have been their destination. In fact, Karen worked at the hospital that was the nearest a baptism by fire; I guess that would be right.

Tourism to be focus of show

Nebraska wants to attract more visitors, and more tourism dollars to the state. But, how much will it cost? This week, NET Television's award-winning weekly news magazine "Statewide" weighs the costs and benefits of efforts to expand tourism in Nebraska.

This episode of "Statewide" will air Friday, July 29, and Saturday, Nebraska efforts to entice more July 30, at 7:30 p.m. CT (6:30 MT), as well as Sunday, July 31, at noon

CT (11 MT) on NET1. During the last Legislative session, state lawmakers held over a proposal to provide special financing for tourist attractions (likely a new Cabela's store). The bill will be up for continued discussion during the next session, as state senators try to determine if this practice is good for Nebraska. "Statewide" ( reporter Brad Penner examines the plan to use sales tax revenue to pay development costs for qualifying (12:30 MT). businesses. Cabela's and other businesses received similar sales tax financing for a development near Kansas City. Supporters say it's attracting visitors, boosting sales and creating jobs. Critics wonder if it's good policy to give subsidies to already successful businesses.

Reporter Perry Stoner reports on tourists to visit the state for natural attractions. The Department of Economic Development recently hired an Eco-Tourism Consultant to help the state develop unique opportunities like the annual Sandhill Crane migration in the central Platte River Valley.

Penner also offers a look at a new community art project for the Qwest Center in Omaha.

"Statewide" repeats on NET2 Sundays at 8:30 a.m. CT (7:30 MT) and Tuesdays at 1:30 p.m. CT

Ant control tips are shared and tend to invade in the spring and summer in search of food. Barb Ogg, Extension Educator in Lancaster County discusses behavior and control of these tiny beasts. Behavior

All ants live in colonies, consisting of an egg-laying female (queen), short-lived males, and workers (sterile females). The ants you see foraging in your garden or kitchen are workers. Workers that find food communicate with other workers by depositing a chemical message on walls and counters as they crawl back to the nest. Although we cannot smell it, this "trail pheromone" sticks for long periods of time and helps other ants find the food at the end of the trail. If your kitchen is at the end of that trail more ants will come.

In the spring, ants develop wings and fly to new locations and invade homes to forage for food or to establish a new nest, Termites also develop wings and swarm during the spring and look similar to flying ants. Examine them closely to bait. Because the ants must get

As a group, ants have a wide food range, feeding on sweet foods, greasy materials, starchy subplant and animal materials. Part of cide. the reason that ants become a nuisance in our homes is that they often like the same kinds of food that we do. Control

There are two categories of ants that will be encountered with an your type of infestation.

The first is ants that live outside live outside will travel inside the home to search for food. Some species may ultimately reside in houses, discussed later in this fact sheet. To prevent both of these scenarios, follow these procedures:

First, cracks and crevices should be sealed to eliminate passages into the home. If you do not seal entry points, ants will probably find their way into your house at some later time. Second, scrub around entry points with a detergent (to remove the trail pheromone) and spray a residual insecticide around entry points. Bait treatments and insecticides can be used to control ants in the outside nest. To be effective, baits must be placed in areas where ants frequent, be eaten and be taken back to the nest. There are several different kinds of baits available. and you may have to do a little

The successful use of a bait may take several weeks or more. Insecticide dilutions can be used outside to successfully drench ant nests. All of these ants may infest food products. Spraying a residual insecticide to control foraging workers may provide only short-term control. Even when over 99 percent of foraging workers are killed by insecticide sprays, the colony may rebuild to its original numbers. Location and total destruction of the nest is the most direct way to > eliminate this ant infestation. Ant baits can again be a useful tool in eradicating inside-the-home ant nests, although baits may not work as well with carpenter ants as the other species mentioned. Again, workers must eat the bait, take it back to the nest, and feed to the queen and larval ants. This type of control is incompatible with treatments that prevent workers from trial-and-error to find the proper returning to the nest with the bait. Ant infestation are not easy to should be used depending on nest location and food preferences of the ants. Ants can be controlled with a combination of good sanitation, removing pheromone trails, caulking entry points and eliminating active nests. Insecticide sprays and baits can be used to kill foraging ants and destroy nests, but strategies designed to prevent further infestations should be used in conjunction with chemical treatment,

'Alternative fuels are the right thing to do'

of Nebraska-Lincoln's 870 cars, trucks, buses, vans, tractors and utility vehicles will run on alternative fuels produced primarily from Nebraska crops.

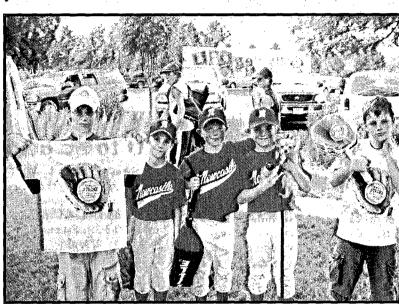

At an announcement today with Nebraska Corn and Soybean Board representatives, UNL Chancellor Harvey Perlman said the decision to commit to fueling the university's fleet with soy biodiesel and ethanol blended gasoline derived from corn is best financially, environmentally and for the future of Nebraska. "This is a move that I've been exploring for some time and we have been investigating the costs and dividends involved," Perlman said. "UNL has been in the process of making this change and we are pleased and excited to be able to Beginning July 1, the University quickly follow Gov. Heineman's recent directive to shift all state vehicles to alternative fuels.

"We are making this shift because it's the right thing to do now, particularly as fossil fuel costs continue to escalate. Biofuels are derived from renewable resources and are produced from renewable crops that we grow right here in Nebraska."

Nebraska Gov. Dave Heineman long as the fuel has been available. on May 20 issued an executive order requiring state vehicles to use alternative fuels. UNL is one of the largest motor vehicle fleets in the state, with 130 sedans, 82 passenger vans, 18 buses, 150 pickups and 79 utility vans, in addition to 407 department-owned vehicles and a large number of tractors, mowers and off-road equipment in locations across the state.

If Health Department, Nebraska Cardiovascular Health Program and the Nebraska Stroke Foundation recently teamed up during the Midsummer Classic Baseball tournament to help get the word out about stroke - the risk factors, warning signs and what to do in case of a stroke.

Did you know stroke is the third leading cause of death in Nebraska, killing more than 1,000 Nebraska residents each year?

Learning the warning signs of stroke may save your life or the life of someone you love. A STROKE can cause trouble walking, seeing and talking. It can create a sudden headache with no known cause. It can leave you numb or weak on one or both sides of your body. A stroke attacks your brain. It can kill you or leave you disabled. A stroke can happen to anyone no matter how old or young. In fact, 20 percent of all stroke deaths in Nebraska occur among residents under the age of

What can you do to prevent a stroke? While family history of stroke plays a role in your risk, there are many factors that you can control. If you have high blood pressure, work with your doctor to get it under control. Managing your high blood pressure is the most important thing you can do to

UNL vehicles affected include the diesel vehicles such as buses, tractors, some pickups and other vehicles that operate on a blend of 2 percent soy biodiesel known as B2; vans, pickups and sedans that use E-10 unleaded ethanol blend, as well as 26 specially equipped flexible fuel vehicles that can use up to E-85, or 85 percent ethanol. UNL had been using E-10 for as depending on price and conve-

"One advantage of converting to E-10 and 2 percent soy biodiesel is that we don't have to modify our vehicles," said Patrick Barrett, director of UNL Transportation Services. "Any gasoline-powered vehicle can burn E-10. The same goes for the 2 percent soy biodiesel. which will work in anything from a 1940s model heavy truck to our most modern diesel vehicle."

Barrett said the competitive price of alternative fuels today makes the changeover particularly cost effective.

"E-10 is a better price today than ever," compared to gasoline, he said. "That makes this commitment easier and makes good sense to Nebraskans." Soy biodiesel costs about 1 to 3 cents more per gallon, depending on the market, but the benefit to Nebraska outweighs the cost differential. Soy biodiesel is a high-lubricity, clean-burning fuel for diesel engines produced from virgin soybean oil. B2 is a blend of 2 percent soy biodiesel with 98 percent petroleum diesel. There are several different blends of biodiesel on the market, and Barrett said the 2 percent was determined as the best for Kroeker named UNL's diesel vehicles.

Nebraska has the third largest ethanol production capacity in the nation, at 523 million gallons annually from 11 operating ethanol plants consuming nearly onefourth of Nebraska's annual corn crop. While ethanol production has become the second largest use of Nebraska corn -- more than 200 million bushels annually - this market barely existed 25 years ago.

A partnership between UNL and the crop growers is an important alliance that deserves recognition, not only because of the importance of the collaboration today, but also the future, Perlman said. Research into more and better ways to use Nebraska commodities is vital to the state.

"UNL scientists are involved in a number of research projects related to alternative fuels, and some of these projects are funded by Nebraska corn and soybean producers through their commodity check-off dollars," Perlman said.

These projects include animal science research that proved the benefits of feeding ethanol byproducts to cattle in wet form, which eliminates drying costs. This results in hundreds of millions of dollars in economic benefit for Nebraska. Other research includes quantifying ethanol's positive energy balance, evaluating the economic benefits of ethanol production, genetically engineering soybeans to enhance their biofuels use, identifying the optimum blend of soy oil and fossil fuels for biodiesel, and exploring the feasibility of producing biodiesel in Nebraska.

"This work simply confirms that our decision to convert to homegrown fuels is good for Nebraska, for its university and for its economy," Perlman said.

"This policy insures that the university is using a Nebraska product that is good for the environment, good for our vehicles and good for Nebraska's economy," said Nebraska Corn Board chairman Mark Jagels. "It also shows consumers that the university applies and supports the research it conducts."

"This is a very good day for Nebraska's energy, ethanol and soy biodiesel," said Gregg Fujan of the Nebraska Soybean Board. "The Nebraska Soybean Board is thrilled to see the university move forward with the use of its state's homegrown products."
