Computer-aided detection of mammograms benefits mammography patients

Providence Medical Center is now providing a new service for all mammography patients.

Mammograms performed at Providence Medical Center are routinely sent to the radiologist imaging center, Advanced Medical Imaging (AMI) for physician interpretation at Lincoln, twice a week. And now, as an additional service to PMC patients, these films are screened by a Computer-Aided Detection (CAD) system.

Computer-Aided Detection (CAD) improves early detection rates by as much as 23 percent and can detect 25 percent of breast cancers an average of 14 months earlier than screening mammography alone.

"CAD uses a computer to analyze mammograms," said Terri McCraney, Radiography Supervisor at PMC. "It does not replace a radiologist, but rather adds an extra level of protection that can alert the physician to subtle warning signs that might easily be missed," she said.

The mammogram is scanned into the CAD system and is analyzed at Advanced Medical Imaging in Lincoln. A report is then printed out which helps to identify potential areas of concern, according to McCraney. Providence Medical Center patients can expect their physician to have a mammogram report in five to seven days.

"A mammogram report may take a day or two longer to reach you than it has in the past, but we feel that it is worth the wait," McCraney said.

Breast cancer is the leading cause of cancer death for women between the ages of 40 and 55. Women in the United States have a one in eight lifetime risk of developing breast cancer. The good news is that cancer can be beaten with early detection.

For more information about CAD, contact Providence Medical Center at (402) 375-3800 and ask for Terri McCraney.

Fair clean-up

The 83rd annual Wayne County Fair gets underway today (Thursday) with numerous 4-H shows and a tractor pull. Friday's activities include more 4-H livestock shows, the annual free barbecue, and the presentation of numerous awards and a concert by Tonic Sol Fa. Saturday's activities include the Revolution Bicycle Stunt Team, pickup mud drags, a horse and mule driving show and performances by Cactus Flats and Emerson Drive. The fair wraps up Sunday with a local tractor pull and the demolition derby. Many 4-H families have put in considerable time getting the fairgrounds ready for this week's events. Above, the horse barns were cleaned during Monday evening's Fair Clean-up. Below, 4-H'ers and parents scrubbed tables in the 4-H building in preparation for this week's fairgoers.

Sid Saunders

Wayne County Highway Superintendent retiring

By Lynn Sievers
 Of the Herald

Sid Saunders, Wayne County Highway Superintendent, will be retiring at the end of the month after nearly 18 years of service.

Looking back, Saunders first contact with Wayne County was in March, 1980, when he was working with Consolidated Engineers Architects of Norfolk. His position was eliminated in August, 1983.

He later was part time highway superintendent for three counties: Wayne, Pierce, and Dixon (consultant). Saunders and his wife, Vivian, were living in Norfolk. He was also consulting street superintendent for around 15 towns. He started working full time as Wayne County Highway Superintendent on Dec. 1, 1987. The couple moved to Wayne.

In Wayne, he also worked part time at nights at Wayne State College teaching an Ethics and Values class. "I really enjoyed teaching at WSC but retired from that position last December," Saunders said.

Saunders got his start in his highway superintendent career by being assistant and later deputy superintendent for his father, George Saunders, from January, 1976 to January, 1980. His father was Dakota County Highway Superintendent.

Saunders, the oldest of five children, grew up in northwest Iowa. His parents were from Hubbard and moved back to Nebraska in 1952, farming near Jackson. He went to a rural elementary school near Jackson and to Jackson Public High for his

Kansas man fulfills long-time dream of traveling by way of horses and wagon

By Lynn Sievers
 Of the Herald

Fulfilling a dream, Paul Schley, 63, of Alma, Kan. and his grandson, Gerald (Jerry) Schley, Jr., 16, of Wichita, Kan., along with his two horses, Dolly and Nellie, and his homemade covered wagon (an RV of sorts) came through Wayne last Friday heading to Prairie Village (near Madison, S.D.). Exhausted from the extreme heat and humidity recently and the hilly terrain, the group rested for a couple of days at the Wayne County Fairgrounds, thanks to the local fair board.

Schley said he has always wanted to go a long distance in a wagon pulled by horses, the old fashioned way. He's retired now so figured the time had come to give it a try. Schley left Alma (which is 38 miles west of Topeka) on July 4 with his 14-year-old grandson. Experiencing flat land until Schuyler, the men were able to have the horses travel about 15 miles a day (some days 15-25).

Once into the hills of this area and the heat, they were only able to go about 10 miles a day. Schley figures he has another three weeks to go to get to Prairie Village, especially since running into these hills, something he hadn't figured on. Once they are near Prairie Village, they will meet up with others with wagons and horses traveling then another three and a half days to a reunion of sorts in Prairie Village.

"I used to live up there," Schley said. "There will be four generations of people and four generations of horses once we get there. We've gone up there for years but this is the first time I've gone this far with my horses."

Schley's horses are nine years old, half Belgium and half standard breed. Schley lives on a ranch and has several horses. Prior to the trip, he conditioned the horses by taking them on long hauls in Kansas. But, the weight of the homemade wagon was a lot for them. He noted he wished he would have taken four horses rather than two.

Schley's wife, Mary, helped him build the wagon. He notes she loves to build things.

She designed the house they live in. The couple made the wagon using parts from a three quarter ton pickup complete with hydraulic brakes, car tires in front and pickup tires in back. They mounted a 55 gallon barrel underneath for water storage, and on the sides, a solar panel for electricity, as well as camper windows.

Resolutions, ordinances receive Council approval

By Clara Osten
 Of the Herald

Two ordinances and six resolutions received unanimous approval at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

The first ordinance, 2005-20, will amend the city code in regard to trash and waste containers. Several minor wording changes were made in the original ordinance to allow for the sweeping of dirt into the street.

Ordinance 2005-21 received first, second and third reading approval.

It directs the sale of a parcel of land owned by the city to Karen McDonald. The sale will actually take place 30 days after the publication of the ordinance. A resolution authorizing this same sale also received approval.

Two resolutions receiving approval at Tuesday's meeting deal with Highway 15 and Nebraska Department of Roads (NDOR) projects to be completed in 2006.

The first will allow for the relocation of the city's electrical distribution system to be moved from the west side of the highway to the east side. When road work is done, the road will be shifted to the west, requiring the lines to be moved. The NDOR will pay for the costs involved.

The NDOR will also pay the costs for relocating portions of electrical lines that will be affected by the Main Street paving project. This will involve putting lines underground from Clark Street south.

Wert experiences Europe

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

"This trip re-affirmed what I had been thinking in terms of where my ministry to the church might be," thought it was neat that we came to their country to learn about the churches," Adam said. He noted that the church services that the group attended were much more elaborate and formal than those he has attended in the United States. London was also very impressive to Adam.

"The city is huge and has so many old buildings. We saw many cathedrals that were huge. We also visited Oxford, where John Wesley spent a great deal of time. Our guides on the trip helped explain the importance of the different areas and events in the history of the Methodist Church," he said.

"I had a great time on the trip. We stayed in really nice hotels and had good meals. The food was very good, but different. There were some unusual combinations and coffee and tea were served at all meals. We had to ask for water, though, which was unusual," Adam said.

Prices in England were considerably higher than in this area. Adam said gasoline was approximately $6 per gallon and many people in the city rode bicycles.

Adam noted that he rode the underground subway just two weeks before the bombing and said he was familiar with the area that was shown on the television following the bombings.

Adam Wert, back row, far right, was one of 30 students from the Midwest chose to tour England this past June.

said Wayne High School senior Adam Wert of his recent trip to England.

Wert, the son of Terry and Joyce Wert and a member of First United Methodist Church of Wayne, was part of Youthology, a group put together by the St. Paul (Mo.) School of Theology and funded by the Lily Foundation.

Last spring and summer Wert began the application process. He was one of 30 youth from throughout the Midwest who was accepted to be a part of the program.

"Four times through the school year we met to get acquainted and learn about Methodist Theology. Our teachers were staff members from St. Paul," Adam said.

On June 11 the group left for England and spent eight days traveling and touring throughout England.

"We visited a number of areas which were important to John and Charles Wesley, the founders of the Methodist Church and saw places where other founders of the church grew up, went to school and lived their lives," Adam said.

Wert and his mentor, Robin Stauffer were able discuss different aspects of the trip. The two, along with the others in the group, had devotions during the trip and were able to visit Methodist Churches in England.

"The Church of England is the official church and the most dominate. The people we met on the trip

Letters

Hank was special

Dear Editor, I was a Wayne Herald sports reporter, fresh out of college when I ran into a mustached coach, chalking foul lines on a well-maintained baseball field.

I didn't realize at the time that I was about to have my first conversation with one of the region's future sports legends. But it didn't take long to figure it out.

His last name was Overin, but he was one of those rare people recognized by a single name. Mention "Hank" and all of the locals knew who you were talking about. Like Dylan, like Tiger, like Abe, no additional name was necessary. Had you addressed a letter to "Hank in Wayne, Nebraska," a postman would have delivered it to the Overin family's front door.

Over the next few years, I saw Hank give lessons, in sports and in life, to some of Wayne's finest youth. A gym and ball field were his classrooms. He demonstrated how important it is to love what you do for a living. And to excel at what you do. He showed that you sometimes have to be hard-nosed, but still be understanding.

One of the greatest things the kids learned was not to give up. Time and again, Hank and his teams found a way to come back from a one- or two-run deficit to win a crucial game. The guy knew how to win, whether it was on a suicide squeeze play or by getting a runner into a pickle between first and second bases so the runner on third could score.

That competitiveness and persistence carried over to life off the field for those individuals. Some of his players have even gone on to become coaches themselves.

Hank knew what to say to each of his players, what buttons to push to get the most out of them. Even if it meant telling boys who were performing up to their potential, "Don't get your skirts dirty" - a saying that might be chastised today as politically incorrect and insensitive.

It was particularly fun to witness the rivalry between the Wayne and Wakefield Midget and Legion baseball teams, two of the state's most successful summer programs. Hank and Wakefield coach Paul Eaton were masters of strategy, chess players in the sports arena.

Those were the best of times. When Hank passed away recently, after an accomplished 72-year run, it was an end of era.

But memories will live on among those he touched, even when they're 50, 60, 70 years old.

Hank was a difference maker. Randy Hascall, Tea, S.D.

Capitol View

Pondering the state of collegiate athletics

By Ed Howard Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

Did you ever wonder if some of the people who work for the NCAA were employed by the federal government in a previous life?

Or, did you ever wonder if some of the people who work for the NCAA should be employed by the federal government during their current incarnations?

It must be acknowledged that the National Collegiate Athletic Association has unquestionably done much good work over the decades. Without the restraining influence of the NCAA, for example, one could imagine the late Woody Hayes using live ammunition to teach Ohio State running backs to pick up their feet.

The association also has done some things that would have the Venus de Milo trying to scratch its head.

The NCAA has been praised and (mostly) criticized for its efforts to use scholarship limits and other policies to create what it calls "parity" within big-time college football. Some would argue that the NCAA view of parity could be defined as "mediocrity."

People of good will can sincerely disagree on such matters as scholarship limits and other important elements of sport.

People of good will can also look at the association's new rule governing football media guides and wonder if the people who wrote it - as was once suggested of an American president - had played football too long without a helmet. The new rule is that, as of this year, a football media guide cannot exceed 208 pages. It would be fun to see how reporters who cover politics and government might handle a news conference centering on this particular bit of administrative nonsense.

There could be interesting questions. Such as:

"Don't you guys have anything important to do?"

"Who convinced you that the so-called 208-rule was needed, and has an investigation begun into who hired them and why?"

"Is this an attempt to force college football toward parity in publications? If quantitative parity (how many pages) is important, will the rule be expanded to include qualitative parity, too?"

The last question is of particular importance. After all, if Rinky Dink U. and Southern Cal have a balance of power in pages, might S.C. try to get an advantage by using better paper?

What about photos? Could one school obtain a recruiting advantage over another by compensating for bulk with beauty? Might some schools endeavor to maintain or increase media guide sales to fans by using modern advertising techniques?

What if Nebraska's next media guide featured a cover photo of a beautiful strawberry blonde, clad in a Husker jersey, pointing into the camera and saying: "Big Red Wants You, Big Guy!"

Would Colorado counter with a photo spread of some attractive mountain maidens leaning from windows in a sorority house?

"Buffalo gals won't ya come out to-night!"

See the danger? It is not unlike government, where there is always a need to keep a lookout for "The Law of Unintended Consequences."

Nature hates a vacuum and sports fans hate parity. Where might it end? Since pages and pages of facts, figures and feature stories of former gridiron greats will no longer be there to entertain fans, might there be a move to "do more with less," as the dumb saying goes? To extol the glory of a given football program with a couple of pictures, instead of a few thousand words?

Think of a centerfold in the Ole Miss publication, showing a row of athletic receivers and quarterbacks below a headline: "Rebels complete more passes!"

Might Oklahoma State try an appeal to younger fans who visualize everything in terms of a video game? How about a foldout depicting the bones of thousands and thousands of bovine carcasses, with a smiling Pistol Pete saying: "Be a Cowboy! Slaughter Longhorns!"

The NCAA could, of course, run a nice advertisement in each of the publications of each Big 12 schools. Something to show the higher purpose of their decision. There could be a photo of the NCAA decision makers, pushing an environmental theme: Use less paper for publications.

The association's big thinkers could pose, with each hugging a mighty oak, or something. "Guardians of fairness! The NCAA - Conserving trees so the Baylor Bears will be comfortable in the woods!"

Wayne Industries News & Notes from the Wayne Chamber of Commerce & Industries By: Leo Ahmann

It's been a tremendous time here in Wayne.

There was groundbreaking by State National Bank and Trust Company, the announcement, by the First National Bank and their plans to build a new building on Seventh Street, the construction of the strip mall, also on Seventh Street, the groundbreaking by Felix Industries for their new location behind Pacific Coast Feather Company, and the ribbon cutting at The Oaks Retirement Community for their newly named Acorn Lane addition and its unique formula for establishing residence in that addition. Thanks to all the Chamber Ambassadors for their attendance at all those great functions.

Our congratulations go out to Mr. Frank Sheda, the new Postmaster here in Wayne. The public was invited to the Oath of Office ceremony at the Post Office on Tuesday of this week. The Chamber welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Sheda to the community and hopes their stay here is a long and enjoyable one.

The Wayne County Fair, the 83rd Annual, is underway now through Sunday. There's food, fun and great entertainment for the entire family. Make plans to attend. A new exhibit this year will be cooking demonstrations featuring Nebraska products. This demonstration is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce's Ag Taskforce. The demonstrations started on Thursday. The remaining cooking demonstrations in the commercial building will be held Friday from 5 to 7 p.m. and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.; from 2 to 4 p.m. and again from 5 to 7 p.m. Featured will be great, easy recipes that your family will enjoy.

A Chamber and Industries 'Tip of the Cap' to the Wayne Herald for their insert in the Shopper this week, honoring our 189th Transportation Company of the Nebraska Army National Guard. A reminder...the Community Activation Ceremony is scheduled to be held on Friday, Aug. 19 at 7 p.m. at the Memorial Stadium on the Wayne State College campus. (In case of inclement weather, it will be held in Rice Auditorium.) As I have mentioned in a previous column, most of the ceremony is handled by the State National Guard. The Chamber is simply working with them and the local Veterans Organizations in the planning of this event. This is Wayne's way of thanking and honoring the men and women for their service to our country. For the men and women going overseas to serve, and for their families and friends, let's pack Memorial Stadium on the night of Aug. 19. They have earned our respect and we owe it to them! Detailed information will be forthcoming.

The Flag Committee (see the listing of those who have purchased an American flag for the community display in Monday's Shopper military insert) also met this week and we are working diligently to make sure the flags are up before the middle of August.

Thanks to the following for their work in making and preparing yellow bows (in honor of the National Guard Company) that will be placed under the flags when they are displayed:

Lou Wiltse, Lori Carollo, Bev Sturm, Deb Dickey, Gwen and Chadd Frideres, Margaret McClelland, Lynette Lenz, Kathleen Johns, Lori Crook, Barb Holdorf, June Resso and Nancy and Leo Ahmann. Thanks to the Wayne Greenhouse for their donation of ribbon and wire for the bows, and for the large number of bows they had prepared in advance of last night. And Chadd made one bow and I wasn't able to complete one... the message there is 104 of the 105 of them are very nice.

Golf outing

Nearly 150 golfers took part in the annual Wayne Industries Vendors Golf Outing at the Wayne County Club last week. The annual event gives area businesses the opportunity to invite those they do business with to Wayne to enjoy an afternoon of golf. Above, those attending took part in a picnic lunch before teeing off.

freshman year. He spent the last three years of high school and first year of college at a boarding school in Missouri. He had transferred to the boarding school because he had plans to enter into the ministry, but that did not work out.

In 1960, he went to college at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln with the intention of majoring in history but took a course in ancient Greek, liked it and decided to make that his major. He was in graduate school for five years. He then taught at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge from 1968 to 1974. In 1974 and 1975, both he and his wife worked on getting their Ph.D's. In 1975, he worked as a part time security guard and also worked on a farm.

When thinking about his years as highway superintendent, he feels dealing with the federal government is more difficult than it was, years ago because there is more paperwork. For example, the preliminary paperwork for a federal aid bridge project can take three years or more to complete; in the past, it went a lot faster.

"We're grateful for the federal aid," Saunders said. "The state tries to help but the program is more complex."

Not only is the program more complex, but costs are up too. Another problem in keeping up roads and bridges is the fact that agricultural loads are heavier and wider.

There have been 14 federal aid bridge projects in Wayne County since 1980. And, quite a few locally funded bridge projects too.

Some big bridge projects in Wayne County that come to mind for Saunders are: in the 1980's, the bridge two miles north and two and three quarters east of Wayne, on the Dixon County line; in 2001, two miles south and two miles east of Wakefield on the Thurston County line (Thurston County was in charge of this project); recently was the biggest bridge project on Centennial Road (east and north of Wayne). That project cost just over $1 million (80 percent of the project was paid through federal funds).

Besides working with bridge projects, Saunders did surveys, and plans for a few road grading projects. A big job he remembers was six miles north of Wayne.

"These projects were real learning experiences," Saunders said. "I didn't have formal education in engineering. I had two guys helping me with the surveys, but since I was learning as I went along, the work went slowly."

Another big project Saunders worked with was Enhanced 911 (rural addressing). Wayne County Commissioners first proposed this idea in 1991 after listening to Norfolk Police Chief William Mizner explaining the need for a rural address system. The commissioners asked Saunders to come up with a plan. So, he proposed the present system of a three digit road number and a five digit house number for each address. The idea can go statewide, so far there are 20 other counties that have adopted this system.

Saunders has had several assistants helping him in his office through the years. First, Marie Janke worked one day a week for him and was in the Clerk's office the rest of the time, Carla Gunn worked with him part time, and now Elizabeth Carlson works with him. She also has her highway superintendent's license.

Saunders noted he is grateful for the support he's had from his superiors (those on the county board who hired him and kept him on). He's had a good working relationship with them.

Tentatively, Saunders and his wife plan to move to this fall to Mississippi where she grew up. "We're in our 60s and it seems like a good time to move," Saunders said. "Some people wait too long to retire and are not mobile anymore."

Taking a step back in time, customers can find good old fashioned food in a friendly atmosphere at Mattie's Kitchen on Main Street in Laurel. Eddie, Mattie and their family moved to Verdigre and purchased 600 reasonably priced acres. Mattie said a lot of the ground is hills with trees on but they have cleared around 35 acres so far to farm. They are trying to get a cattle herd started to be in the other area.

Hearing the couple needed assistance, a group of Mennonites came and helped them build a barrier

Elderfest committee seeking vintage apparel for display and modeling

The Elderfest 2006 Committee in Wayne is seeking vintage apparel, including both men's and women's suits and hats, ladies dresses and especially wedding dresses from the 1920's through the 1960's for display and modeling at next year's annual April Fest.

Anyone who can help is asked to contact Susan Wells at The Oaks Retirement Community, 1500 Vintage Hill Drive in Wayne or telephone Susan at (402) 375-1500.

The Committee is also in need of additional favorite family recipes (accompanied with information about the origin of the recipe, etc.) for this year's Elderfest Book. Family recipes should be sent to Dianne Leighty at 210 Main Street in Wayne, no later than Sept. 15, 2005. Please listen and watch for details about the 2005 Elderfest book that will be available for distribution this October.

This past April 21, Wayne's first day-long Elderfest celebration was held at the newly renovated Wayne City Auditorium (listed on the Register of Historic Places) and was attended by over 500 retired citizens and members of the general public.

The fest included free food, music, entertainment and information and was capped off with a free candlelight dance with music provided by Artie and Gwen Schmidt Duo, an hors d'oeuvre buffet and refreshments.

Plans are well underway for Elderfest 2006, which will again be held at the Wayne City Auditorium.

Mattie's Kitchen is located on Main Street in Laurel. Visitors are welcome to stop in and meet the Petersheims.

The Petersheims live on a farm near Verdigre so their business is open only two days a week, Wednesdays and Thursdays. You can either eat at the cafe or take out food.

On Wednesdays, you will find fresh rolls ready by 9 a.m. or be able to get a light lunch (soup, sandwiches, salad, pie, etc.) by 11 a.m. They bake the majority of their food on Wednesdays.

Thursdays are their main day (they are open on Thursdays from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.). Meals offered on Thursdays include roast beef, chicken, potatoes, gravy, vegetables and salads. Everything is made from scratch from recipes handed down from Mattie's mother.

The family puts in long days in Laurel, arriving around 4 a.m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays. Some of the variety of food you will find includes: pies: cherry, lemon, pecan, raspberry, coconut cream, blackberry, apple, raisin cream, and sometimes apricot, pineapple, or oatmeal; bread: white, wheat, or rye; cinnamon rolls; cookies (chocolate chip and oatmeal raisin); noodles; jams: blueberry, blackberry, raspberry, cherry, peach, and plum, chokecherry, and mulberry, when in season.

Mattie, her husband and family came to Nebraska in 2003 from Marlette, Mich., which isn't far from Saginaw and Detroit. Eddie's father and sister came along with them. They all left Marlette because the area was getting so populated and they couldn't buy farm land because it was so expensive. The couple decided to move west.

"Both Eddie and I were born in Amish settlements in Iowa," Mattie said. "I had an aunt who lived in Nebraska near Pawnee City and liked it here so we decided to come to Nebraska. We also had a friend in Royal who told us how nice the Verdigre area was so we decided to where the family lived. Recently they moved into the house that Eddie and his sons built. A house was also built nearby where Eddie's father and sister lived but his father died recently. His sister lives alone in the house where she and her Dad lived.

The family is pretty self-sufficient raising a garden and canning much of their food. The Petersheim's home is not hooked up to electricity; their home is heated with wood and they have a cook stove that uses wood. They do have a gas refrigerator and freezer to help preserve their food. The family does not buy fast foods, everything is made from scratch both at home and at the restaurant.

The Petersheims like this area and the people here. They feel this has been a good move and hope others from their former settle-way. Schley is used to hard work, he worked for a rancher, A.B. Hubson, for 38 years. He's been driving a cattle truck for the last nine years.

Following route Hwy 15, they traveled from Pilger where they spent the evening last Thursday at Pilger's new RV park, to Wayne last Friday and were planning to make it that day to Laurel but couldn't go that far.

Planning to leave Wayne Monday, they were taking Hwy 15 to Hwy 12, then taking Hwy 37 north into South Dakota to Mitchell and on to Prairie Village. Plans were to meet his wife this Saturday near the state line and possibly switch passengers again, this time his oldest grandson who is 21, may travel with him.

Schley plans to reach Prairie Village three weeks after leaving Wayne. From there, they'll load up the horses and return to Kansas the end of August.

Resolution 2005-66. In the future, the non-exempt city employees who work at these times will be paid overtime, rather than accumulating compensation time for this work.

The council also passed Resolution 2005-67 which changes a section of the city's Personnel manual in regard to the need for a purchase order from $100 to $250. The final resolution receiving approval at the meeting will help create an agreement with the Wayne Cemetery Board for trail access for Phase II of the Walking Trail. Two different routes are being proposed and discussion between the city and the Cemetery Board will continue to arrive at an agreement.

The council will meet again in regular session on Tuesday, Aug. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Reflections of first year offered

In the Press Box by David W. Carstens

This week has been one of reflection. In fact, since my main computer at the office is out of commission, I'm getting a chance to write this week's column on a laptop outside. (Yeah, I know it's rough sometimes.)

I'm in a reflective mood because this week marks my one-year anniversary here at the Wayne Herald.

We all know the first year of any job is one where there's a ride on the learning curve.

Thanks to the efforts of many that curve has been relatively smooth.

Starting with the team we have here at the paper and extending to all the coaches, players, parents, fans and others out there, my job has been one of getting to meet lots of great people.

That fact illustrated itself over the past month or so as I've had the chance to visit with many folks at baseball games and other community activities.

That gives us lots of enthusiasm as we prepare to embark on yet another busy fall sports season.

We are hoping to make a few subtle changes with the look and feel of the weekly sports section, and I am truly fortunate to have our publisher (and longtime Herald sports editor) Kevin Peterson on board to offer ideas and input.

Covering the amount of teams that we do is a considerable challenge, but having Kevin around to bounce ideas off of has been a great thing.

Thanks again to all those who've contributed to our sports section my first year and I'm looking forward to building upon the first year's lessons heading into the fall sports campaign.

It's only a few weeks now until I start to contact fall sports coaches to get working on the annual Fall Sports Preview.

Wow, where does the time go, anyway?

Wayne Juniors end season in close game

It was yet another heartbreaking loss, however this one put an end to the season.

The Wayne Junior Legion baseball squad ended its season on July 20 after falling 3-2 to Arlington in Class B area action at Hank Overin Field.

The loss dropped the team from the tournament after Wayne had lost its opening contest to Blair in 4-3 heartbreaker.

"I thought the kids competed and played hard in our two defeats," Wayne coach Jeff Zeiss said. "We had our opportunities to win, but just couldn't get that big hit."

Arlington took a 2-1 lead after six inning, but a bases loaded walk scored Cory Harm to tie the game at 2-all.

Arlington answered in the bottom of the seventh as they situated runners at first and third with only one out.

An RBI single drove in the third base runner to score Arlington's game-winning run.

Jesse Hill threw six innings for Wayne and didn't allow a run until the fifth.

Nate Finkey took the loss on the mound for Wayne, but paced the team at the plate as he went 2-for-4 with two doubles and one run.

Shawn Kardell tallied three singles, while Shawn Kardell added three singles and scored Wayne's other run that was driven in by Sam Kurpogewit.

"Obviously, we are disappointed that our season is over, but I was pleased with the progress and improvement we've made this season," Zeiss said.

The Juniors end the season at 19-16.

Wakefield Juniors head to state Class C tourney

Wakefield's Junior American Legion team turned in a dominating performance to earn a trip to this week-end's Class C state tournament in Dodge.

The team posted a 10-0 victory over West Point last Friday to claim the Class C Area 3 district title on its home field.

Wakefield notched all of its runs with two outs in the game that lasted five-innings under the 10-run rule.

Max Greve tossed a complete game that included eight strikeouts, and boosted the offense with two runs and three RBIs and finished 2-for-3 from the plate.

Wakefield's scoring started early when Cory Gustafson's single in the opening frame scored Greve and Luke Henderson.

A single from Greve to center field while the bases were loaded scored Ben Henderson and Joel Nixon in the second inning to give Wakefield a 4-0 advantage.

Tanner Soderberg added Wakefield's next score off a wild pitch and Greve added the fourth run of the inning off a single from Gustafson.

Wakefield kept rolling in the third when Greve and Matt Henderson each notched RBI singles to add three more runs and extend the lead to 9-0.

Henderson scored the winning run to close out the game off a wild pitch in the fifth inning.

Offensively, Wakefield was paced by Gustafson (2-for-3, 2 RBIs) and Nixon (2-for-4, 3 runs, 1 RBI), while Henderson tallied three runs.

Wakefield will open state tourney play at Dodge on Friday at 2:30 p.m. against Dannebrog/Cairo/Boelus.

Two athletes sign with Wayne State College

Wayne State College has announced the signings of two athletes to play for the Wildcats.

The WSC football program signed Brett Caldwell of Collierville, Tenn.

Caldwell, a 5-11, 176-pound kicker earned several honors his senior season, including a selection as a Tennessee All-State honorable mention player.

"We were lucky to find an outstanding punter/kicker this late in the recruiting process," Wayne State coach Dan McLaughlin said. "Brett was looked at closely by some Division I schools and then fell through the cracks and was left looking for a place to play. We are fortunate to have him as a Wildcat."

WSC head track and field/cross country coach Marlon Brink announced the signing of Logan McPhillips of Cedar Rapids High School.

McPhillips finished fourth in the Class C state track meet in Omaha in the 3,200-meter run as a junior.

Due to a knee injury early this spring he didn't compete in track this year and will redshirt his first season at Wayne State College.

"I am excited to have Logan join our team," Brink said. "He has had a successful high school career and I believe will make a smooth transition to the college level. I think Logan may be a guy other schools overlooked due to the fact that he was injured his senior year. It's unfortunate that Logan will have to redshirt his first year at WSC, but it may help him to have a chance to see what college athletics are like."

Know Your NASCAR!
HOW THE NASCAR POINT SYSTEM WORKS
The biggest barometer of how a NASCAR team determines its success or failure during a season is the number of series points it earns.
The winner of each NASCAR race receives 180 points. The runner-up in each event scores 170. From there, the point total declines in five-point increments for places two through six.
The 43rd, or last-place, driver, gets 34 points.
There are also bonus points for four drivers at each event. Drivers receive five points for leading a lap and an additional five points for leading the most laps.
In Nextel Cup racing, following the 26th race of the season, all drivers in the NASCAR Top 10 and any others within 400 points of the leader will earn a berth in the "Chase for the Championship."
All drivers in the "chase" will have their point totals adjusted. The first-place driver in the standings will begin the chase with 5,050 points; the second-place driver will start with 5,045, etc. Incremental five-point drops will continue through the list of title contenders.
Owners are rewarded in the points race in much the same fashion but, unlike drivers, they earn points for merely attempting to make a race. If an owner shows up with a pair of drivers, and one fails to qualify, the owner still receives points for the non-qualifying effort.
The fastest non-qualifier on race day earns 31 points for his owner, three down from the 43rd-place points. The scale continues downward from there for all non-qualifiers, with the lowest possible point(s) awarded being one.
Manufacturers have a points race of their own. The car maker who has a driver take first place in a race earns nine points for that race. Second-best performance by a manufacturer gets six points, third place earns four points and fourth place, three points.

Special pitcher

Nebraska Governor Dave Heineman was in Wayne last week to take part in the Vendors Golf Tournament. While here, he made time to throw out the first pitch for the American Legion Junior District baseball game at Hank Overin Field. Catching for the governor was Jacob Zeiss. After throwing the pitch, the governor stayed around to watch several innings of the game which pitted Arlington against Blair. Blair advanced to the state tournament.

High school musicians participate in Masonic All-Star Marching Band

Seven Wayne High School students were among 253 high school students from across Nebraska who participated in the 11th Annual Masonic All-Star Marching Band, which performed July 23 during Shrine Bowl festivities in Lincoln.

Participating were Aaron Daum, son of Kurt and Deb Daum of Wayne; Jenny Holm, daughter of George and Karen Holm of Wayne; Maddie Jager, daughter of Huck and Christina Jager of Wayne; Abigail Kenny, daughter of Joe and Kelly Kenny of Carroll; Ally Miller, daughter of Dan and Angela Miller of Wakefield; Megan Powell, daughter of Tim and Marie Powell of Wayne and Blair Sommerfeld, daughter of Kirk and Ardie Sommerfeld of Wakefield.

The band members devoted four days of intense practice, starting July 19, to learn the music, marching steps and field formations. The band led the Shrine Bowl Parade down Lincoln's Havelock Avenue on July 23 and also performed at half-time of the 47th Annual Shrine Football game at Seacrest Field in Lincoln.

The band members were hosted by the Masons of Nebraska and were directed by Brad Weber, Dan Sodomka and Dave Bohnert, band directors from Wayne High School, Aurora High School and Wayne State College.

Daum received a scholarship from Oshkosh Masonic Lodge No. 286 and Oshkosh Chapter No. 264, Order of the Eastern Star; Holm received a scholarship from Wayne Chapter No. 194, Order of the Eastern Star; Jager and Kenny each received a scholarship from Wayne Masonic Lodge No. 120; Miller received a scholarship from Mizpah Masonic Lodge No. 302, Omaha; Powell received a scholarship from Shiloh Masonic Lodge No. 327, Omaha and Sommerfeld received a scholarship from Tangier Shrine, Omaha. The scholarships covered the costs of the camp.

"We demand a lot of the students during the week," Weber said. "They responded professionally and have worked very hard. That was evidenced by the high-quality shows they performed on Saturday. There's no doubt these young musicians are among the best in the state."

Coupled with hard work, the members also participated in a pool party, picnic, dance and a chance to just hang out. Many are looking forward to the opportunity to use the instruction provided by the band directors when they return to their respective high school bands.

"The week has been filled with hard work, a lot of fun and great memories," said Ivan Vrtiska, Grand Master of Nebraska

Masons. "And what could be better than making many new friends and performing with them at the half-time of the Shrine Bowl Game? What's most important is the support they provided for the Shrine Hospitals for Children. That's what the Shrine Bowl is all about."

Vrtiska said the Master Masons of Nebraska individually and collectively exemplify their motto: Nebraska masons - Men putting ethics into practice. An organization devoted to universally accepted virtues including morality, belief in God and tolerance, Vrtiska said Masons also champion patriotism, freedom of religion and freedom of political persuasion. He said the combined philanthropic efforts of Masonic-related organizations contribute in excess of $2 million a day.

Come to the Hank Overin Memorial Baseball Field on July 30th to visit with Glenda Overin and her family from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. There will be no program.

Bently continues to perfect talent

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

After loosing his father at age seven, Matt Bently wanted a male role model and a sport that fit him.

"I was so small none of the other sports (like football and basketball) were right for me, so I started kickboxing," Bently said.

Since that time the Wayne State student from Omaha has worked his way up to being ranked the number two amateur kickboxer in the world.

Bently trained with Mick Doyle's Kickboxing in Omaha, the only kickboxing instructor in the state of Nebraska.

Matt fought his first fight when he was nine years old. He won that fight and every fight he took part in until 2001 when he lost a U.S. Championship in Kansas City. He later won another title in a different weight division.

He said he started fighting adults when he was 13 years old because he was "beating everyone else." The first adult he fought was a 33 year old male.

"My success doesn't just take me. My coach analyzes every piece of tape for me. I go to Omaha every weekend to train and help teach others," Bently said.

During his career, Matt has won a number of titles, including the 1999 International Kickbox Federation (IKF) Midwest Regional Championship, the 1999 IKF National Amateur Tournament, the 2000 IKF Midwest Regional Championship, the 2000 IKF National Amateur Tournament, the IKF Bantam Weight Championship, the 2001 IKF Midwest Regional Championship, the 2002 IKF Midwest Regional Championship, the 2002 IKF National Amateur Tournament, the IKF Super lightweight U.S. Championship and the 2002 Iowa State Kickboxing Festival Championship.

He said he does most of his fighting in the midwest, although he has traveled to the west coast and to Ireland where he met with those who had taught Mick Doyle.

"I try not to fight more than four times in a year, because, even though I feel kickboxing is less dangerous than some other sports, there is the possibility of getting hurt," he said.

Matt came to Wayne in 2002, just after he won his last U.S. title, which he then retired.

After coming to Wayne, Bently started Matt Bently's Martial Arts. "I teach gan cora which means 'no restrictions.' It is a combination of a number of different styles of martial arts such as kick boxing, tae kwondo, boxing, wrestling and jiu jitsu. I have had as many as 30 students, ages five to 13 years in the junior program. After that the students schedule personal train time," Matt said.

Bently said that at the present time he is working to promote kickboxing in Wayne. A group of juniors will do a point kickboxing event sometime in September and he hopes to have a full-contact adult and junior kickboxing event in the spring of 2006. He is working on getting local sponsors for the spring show.

Bently and one of his students, 12-year old Riley McManus of Wayne, will be fighting on Friday, Aug. 6 at Lakeview, Iowa. He said that there are 14 fights scheduled for that evening.

Main responsibility of Highway Superintendent is to report to the state

(Editor's note: this story is the first in a series of stories on the functions of the Wayne County offices).

The main responsibility of the county highway superintendent is to submit certain reports to the state. A county must submit these reports in order to receive its allocation of highway-user revenue from the state each year. Wayne County's annual allocation is about $775,000. Some of those reports include road expenditures, revenues, equipment inventory, equipment operating costs, etc.

Each year the highway superintendent has to draft a one and six year road improvement plan describing the road and bridge construction projects planned for the next six years. The county board of commissioners holds a hearing on the plan and adopts it either with or without changes. Then, the highway superintendent submits the plan to the state.

Sid Saunders is Wayne County Highway Superintendent and Elizabeth Carlson is his assistant. Both have their highway superintendent's licenses. Saunders is retiring at the end of this month.

The highway superintendent also writes bid specifications and solicits formal and informal bids for equipment, materials, contract labor, and engineering services for roads and bridges and inspects work done by contractors.

Other reports that need to be given to the state include federal aid bridge project reports and bridge inspections (the state requires information on bridges over 20 feet long, which must be inspected every two years). Saunders notes he used to conduct inspections on his own but now materials, and construction by contractors.

The highway superintendent also acts as intermediary in federal aid soft match bridge program which is relatively new (since 1980s). With this program, the county doesn't actually get federal there are six certified bridge inspectors on the payroll in Wayne County. Carlson enters the data from field inspections into the computer and the disk is sent to the Department of Roads in Lincoln. In Wayne County, there are 221 bridges over 20 feet long.

Sid Saunders, front, is highway supt. in Wayne County. Saunders' assistant, Elizabeth Carlson, stands next to him. Both have their highway superintendent licenses.

The highway superintendent also handles road closings and reclassifications, does research on disputed rights of way, helps the county board with right of way negotiations, submits written requests for advice to county attorney when legal advice is needed on road matters.

Commissioners buy and sell equipment. The law regulates what the county can do on buying and selling equipment (if the value of the equipment to be bought is over $5000, then there must be competitive bidding; bid specifications must be written for equipment, funds but gets credit in an account for 80 percent of the cost of building a new bridge. This has to be done to certain rules. Then, when the next regular federal aid bridge is built, the county's share of the cost of that bridge (15 percent) is taken from its soft match account rather than paid out of county funds. It ends up being an incentive to replace bridges.

Eleven bridges in Wayne County have been done with the soft match program since 2001. The county board decides if a bridge project will be a federal aid project, a soft match project, or a purely local project.

The Wayne County Highway Superintendent's office is located in the courthouse at 510 N. Pearl Street in Wayne. The telephone number to that office is 402-375-1153. Anyone with questions is welcome to either stop in or call.

Enjoying the day

Wayne library has a special program called Grandmapa Storytime. One of the storytime readers is Bill Dickey, president of the First National Bank in Wayne. The program consists of a reader coming to your site once a month. The school has had low numbers for the summer so instead of Dickey coming to the school, he thought it would be fun to go to his house and read stories. This time Dickey's family read stories-(Deb and Dacia, Bill's wife and daughter). Above, reading stories from, front to back, Deb Dickey, Dacia Dickey, and Dianna Fernandez. Below, looking at the goldfish in the backyard in his pond. Some of the children were plotting how they could catch them. Country music to be performed at 'The Barn'

Long-time country music entertainers and festival producers Tex and Mary Schultz and South Dakota Patsy Cline-style variety gospel singer Elaine Peacock will bring their country, gospel and comedy music to this area.

On Saturday, Aug. 6 they'll appear at The Barn, beginning at 7 p.m.

The Barn, owned by Merle and Donna Ring, is located just off Highway 35, four miles east and one-half mile south of Wayne. One-of-a-kind songs, unique harmonies and silly stories are the hallmark of Tex and Mary's country music performance. Their part of the show will include some old favorite country songs, a selection of newer, "good-message" country songs, lots of silly songs and patriotic and gospel tunes.

Each winter, Tex and Mary entertain guests at the many, active adult resorts in Arizona, Southern California and south Texas and each summer, they perform at festivals, show houses, community concerts, churches and RV rallies across the country. In known as a square dance caller. In 2003 she released her first CD, entitled "Country Rose Praise" and has just finished her second, "Elaine Peacock Sings Patsy Cline

September they host the Miles of Memories Country MusicFest & RV Rally in Hastings and this past May they were the opening act of a Minnesota show featuring country legend Ray Price.

Tex is originally from Texas (by way of Nebraska) and is an award-winning vocalist and guitar, mandolin and Dobro player. Mary grew up in southeastern Nebraska. The couple has won awards for their harmony singing and they're long-time members of the Mid-America Country Music Hall of Fame.

Elaine Peacock of rural Elk Point, S.D. travels across the Midwest performing in churches, community centers and at festivals and other events. She is also well-

Country and Gospel" with a bonus song, "Over the Rainbow." Another gospel CD is now in production, featuring original songs written or published by Nashville Songwriter Dennis Morgan. She has recently performed at the Hope Haven Gospel Benefit in Sioux Center, Iowa; the Seward Fourth of July Celebration; Hawarden Relay for Life and at the country gospel show in Akron, Iowa with Terry Smith and regional singers. In addition to her Patsy Cline ballads, those attending will hear her variety of traditional country and gospel music favorites.

Howe Creek Church is one of the spots that will be on the upcoming RC & D tour.

RC&D sponsored tour slated for Sept. 10

Visiting quaint rural cemeteries, log cabins, Indian churches and ghost towns is the theme for the eighth annual Fall Tour to be held Sept. 10.

The annual tour sponsored by the Northeast Nebraska Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) Council at Plainview will make the crisscross trip through Knox County taking motor coach passengers to little known cemeteries and several "ghost towns" which once dotted the pages of early plat books.

According to research projects completed in the late 1960s, Nebraska has over 900 abandoned or nearly abandoned towns.

Northeast Nebraska, including Knox County can attest to being home of a number of them.

Barb Hoffart, program support assistant with the RC&D said, "It is a good way to familiarize the participants to the history and beauty of our local area. The Council has conducted successful tours for several years focusing on Lewis & Clark and was looking for a different subject. It seems many people can relate to their roots that lead back to pioneers and homesteading in rural Nebraska."

Sites of interest will be several Indian churches and cemeteries, Walnut, Venus, Sparta, Tewsville, Lindy and Winnetoon. A stop at Oak View Park will be one of the main things to see on the tour. Judy Carlson, Knox County historian and author of a recently published book on local cemeteries, will demonstrate grave witching at one of the native cemeteries on our tour.

"The charm of the old buildings and scenic landscape along with the historic information from the step-on guide, Janet Eckmann will make this a trip for all ages," said Hoffart. "This is a real photo opportunity for those with a camera."

The motor coach will pick up passengers at Jerry's Hilltop and Lindy. A noon lunch in Verdige and afternoon snack will be provided. Seating is limited and more information is available at the RC&D office in Plainview or by calling 402-582-4866.

Late season training offered

A University of Nebraska-Lincoln Crop Management and Diagnostic Clinic Aug. 24 will provide a close-up look at late-season field conditions.

The UNL Extension clinic will be Aug. 24 at the Agricultural Research and Development Center near Mead. Registration begins at 7:30 a.m. and the clinic starts at 8.

Program topics include: fertilizer application and placement; hybrid maize; solar radiation; timing and effects of radiation changes on yields and disease; soybean aphids; soybean rust; and ultimate weed ID.

Early registration is recommended to reserve a seat and resource materials. Cost is $130 for those registering by Aug. 17 and $180 after.

Certified Crop Advisor credits are anticipated with 5 in soil and water management, 2.5 in crop management, 1 in nutrient management and 5 in crop protection. For more information or to register, contact the ARDC at CMDC Programs, 1071 County Road G, Ithaca, NE 68033, call (800) 529-8030, fax (402) 624-8010, e-mail cdunbar2@unl.edu or visit the Web at <http://ardc.unl.edu/training.htm>.

RC&D members take tour of Wakefield

Touring Wakefield was a very interesting and informative beginning for the Northeast Nebraska Resource Conservation & Development (RC&D) Council meeting July 25.

The Little Red Hen Theatre is almost ready for its first performance and the new Gardner Library is a wonderful addition to the community.

A presentation at Michael Foods brought the group of 20 up-to-date on the egg business. After a catered meal at the Logan Valley Golf Course the regular meeting was held.

A fall organizational meeting for the Rural Youth Connection project is being planned and a summer entrepreneurial camp is proposed.

The waste computer collections will take place Aug. 5 in Pierce and Aug. 19 in Hartington. Booth space is available for tourism-related entities who want to have a presence at the Missouri River Outdoor Expo on Sept. 24 and 25 at Ponca State Park.

The Council formally accepted the $50,681 grant received from the Pulling Together Initiative for the Northeast Nebraska Weed Management Area. They also voted to submit the Circle of Diamonds application to the National RC&D Council for recognition of accomplishments and operations.

For more information on any of these projects contact the RC&D office at 402-582-4866.

Next month's meeting will be at the RC&D office in Plainview, 7:30 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

Fifty two kids from the community had a great time at Serengeti Trek. The group divided into seven "crews" and learned a lot of fun songs, watched a video series on Chadder the Chipmunk, memorized some Bible verses and made lots of crafts.

They had four Bible lessons: How Gideon defeated the Midianites; Daniel in the Lion's Den; Shadrack, Meshack and Abednego; and Jesus Rising from the Dead. The last lesson for the first - sixth graders took place at the Garden of Gethsemane (Methodist Church). It was presented by the Gardener of the Garden. In Critter Craft, they painted African Sunsets on ceramic tiles and also made maracas, cracker and compass necklaces and African shields.

On Saturday, Mae Greve from Wayne, told about her trip to Serengeti. She brought items and pictures of her trip, which prompted several questions for her from the group. They walked down to Mike and Val Isom's Love-A-Lop Farms where Val took them on a tour of their farm and explained about the animals and birds.

Several individuals and crew helped to make this a success! And, some people had to "wear several hats"!!!

Directors were Barb Fendrick and Shelly Saxen. Registration was Deb Chase, Courtney Sturges, and Beth Klaus. Crew Leaders were Deb Chase, Chantel Stapleton, Charity Kennelly, Mandy Boyle, Cally Tschiren, Codi Hingst, Ashley Sands, Brooke Stewart, and Dawn Oswald. Teachers were Barb Sands, Cindy Sperry, Kris Gensler and Carol Chase.

Also, Art: Denise Hingst and Andy Chase; Music and Sounds: Vicky Hingst, Kyle Sperry, Derek Hingst, Josh Malcom and Jake Malcom. Mane Event: Sara Kumm, Courtney Sturges, and Beth Klaus. Watering Hole: Barb Lund, Faith Keil, Sandy Chase, Shirley Woodward, Anita Rastede,

Uptown Brewery earns coveted AAA award

For the 22nd year, the Uptown Brewery in Stanton has earned the highly recognized AAA Two Diamond rating.

"Only properties that meet the strict quality criteria required to become AAA Approved receive a AAA Diamond rating," said Michael Petrone, director, AAA Tourism Information Development. "AAA's Diamond Rating system is the most respected restaurant and lodging rating system in the industry. The AAA Approved sign provides quality assurance, and the AAA Diamond rating helps travelers choose properties that offer the extent of facilities and amenities they want - from simple to luxurious."

"We are extremely pleased to have earned this award," said Rosalind Lamson, President. "It is recognition of the hard work that goes into creating and operating the Uptown Brewery."

The Uptown, founded Sept. 15, 1981, has specialized in gourmet natural/organic foods from the start, with continued focus on the freshness of its sources as well as the quality of herbs, spices, wines and oils used in marinating and cooking. The Uptown serves Certified Angus Beef @ exclusively and, from the time it opened, has never used frozen beef. The Uptown has reached out to diners and travelers from the very beginning by offering a clean and charming environment where casual attire is always welcome.

Further setting itself apart from other establishments, The Uptown offers a selection of 10 draught beers and more than 115 fine wines suited especially for dining.

More than 55,000 lodgings and restaurants are evaluated by AAA each year. Approved properties are listed in AAA's popular TourBook™ Guides which are offered free to members, in print and on AAA's member Web site, aaa.com. The AAA Diamond ratings are featured in these listings to facilitate travel decision making.

AAA's lodging and restaurant evaluations are conducted by a team of 65 highly trained professionals who visit properties annually throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico and the Caribbean. AAA first started listing accommodation information in its travel publications in the early 1900s. In 1937, the first field inspectors were hired, and the current Diamond Rating System was introduced in 1977. For information about the Diamond Rating System, visit aaa.com/Diamonds.

As North America's largest motoring and leisure travel organization, AAA provides nearly 48 million members with travel, insurance, financial and automotive related services. Since its founding in 1902, the not-for-profit, fully tax-paying AAA has been a leader and advocate for the safety and security of all travelers.

Pat Sullivan with the Nebraska New Car & Truck Dealers Association recently presented the Northeast Nebraska Chapter of the American Red Cross in Wayne with an infant manikin. This presentation was made through local car dealer, Mr. Bill Reeg, president of Arnie's Ford Mercury in Wayne.

According to Sullivan, "The National Automobile Dealers Charitable Foundation and the Nebraska New Car & Truck Dealers Association is very pleased to present this CPR training unit to the Northeast Nebraska Chapter of The American Red Cross. We have been up here before and presented adult manikins."

Sullivan continues, "The Foundation devotes a great part of its resources to this emergency cardiopulmonary resuscitation training program. The hope is that many heart attack victims' lives will be saved because citizens have been trained as to what to do when an attack occurs. We remember, too, that the final part of any CPR training is the trip to the hospital — which must be made in a MOTOR vehicle. Without this type of transportation, CPR training would be fairly useless, because the follow-up treatment is an essential part of the victim's recovery."

Accepting the donation was Lori Carollo, Executive Director of the local chapter and she commented, "This group has been great supporters of our chapter for many years through the assistance of the Reegs and their support is greatly appreciated. These donations greatly aid us in our CPR training. If the right kind of treatment can be given to a heart attack victim within seconds after they are stricken, the chances are good that the life can be saved. CPR training teaching a person how to keep the heart beating while professional help is coming."

Last year, the local chapter trained 726 people in CPR and First Aid. "This infant manikin is electronic and gives signals telling when the trainee is applying the right pressure in the right spot or breathing correctly into the victim's mouth. Training on manikins like this, the students learn the "feel" of giving quick, lifesaving emergency treatment. I am really excited about using this new infant!" stated Heather

Hemminging, an instructor-trainer for the local Red Cross chapter.

In the presentation, Reeg commented, "Betty and I think it is critical that we give back to the community and this is one way we can achieve that. We know that it will help not only to save lives, but will give comfort and security to those who can be trained through it for service "beyond the call of duty." Carollo added "Every person who is trained in CPR and receives a certificate for completing the training successfully will have much to be proud of. They will have the knowledge of what to do and how to do it correctly --- and that knowledge is priceless."

The National Automobile

Dealers Charitable Foundation is part of the National Automobile Dealers Association with headquarters in McLean, Va. Its membership includes over 19,000 franchised new car and truck dealers in the U.S., of which Arnie's Ford Mercury here in Wayne is a member.

This is 4-H!

4-H is one of America's largest informal education programs for boys and girls making a positive contribution to our nation by helping youth acquire knowledge and develop life skills that help them become self-directing, productive and contributing members of our society.

4-H is part of State Land-Grant University and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, in Nebraska it is the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Youth in town and the country are involved by learning practical skills in hundreds of projects. But more importantly they are developing attitudes and habits that help them meet the challenges of our

Amy Topp
Extension Educator
4-H & Youth

This strong education base is extended to the youth through a corps of volunteer 4-H leaders who share their time and talents to help 4-Hers "learn by doing". Additionally thousands of individuals, corporations, foundations and businesses help support the 4-H program by providing incentives, recognition, educational aids, training and travel opportunities.

4-H is a family and community oriented program. 4-H members devote time to community service in a variety of ways. 4-H alumni will share how much they gained from the discipline of keeping records, giving presentations, developing leadership, communication skills, and gaining an understanding of citizenship responsibilities.

As a member of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension staff, I want to extend best wishes to all 4-Hers who will be participating in the 2005 Wayne County Fair. I know that you have put many hours into your projects and you need to be proud of what you have accomplished. I also want to invite all community members to the fair to enjoy the work of our area youth.

A big thank you to all the 4-H leaders, parents, families, businesses and individuals who have supported the 4-H program in any way throughout the year. Without your contributions it would be impossible to have such an educational program for youth in our community.

Come join us at the 2005 Wayne County Fair to learn more about the 4-H program.

JUST WHAT ARE DURABLE GOODS?

An economist will tell you durable goods are items used over a long period of time such as washing machines or refrigerators. A woman will tell you that durable goods are also items that will be used over a long period of time such as a diamond ring or necklace.

The next time you decide to spur the growth of the nation's economy, ask yourself, Who do I want to make happier, my wife or an economist?"

Roundup Ready alfalfa available

Are you ready for Roundup Ready alfalfa? After years of testing, evaluating, and regulating, Roundup Ready alfalfa has been approved.

Roundup Ready alfalfa is finally here, although there is only enough seed for about 75,000 acres nationwide this fall. But next spring you may need to decide if you want to plant this kind of seed.

It will be expensive. The tech fee alone is two dollars and fifty cents per pound, or $125 per fifty pound bag. That will be in addition to the regular price of top-of-the-line alfalfa seed.

Fortunately, Roundup Ready alfalfa will only be in top-of-the-line varieties. That means no yield drag like many of you experienced when soybeans first came out as Roundup Ready.

According to Bruce Anderson University of Nebraska Lincoln forage specialist, roundup ready alfalfa will fit you best, if you consistently have problems with weeds when establishing new stands, this will easily solve the problem. More often, though, I expect Roundup Ready alfalfa to help solve special problems. Problems like bluegrass in irrigated alfalfa. Or mustards and downy brome in spring growth. Maybe curly dock or late season waterhemp or summer grasses like foxtail, crabgrass, and sandburs.

F. John Hay, Extension Educator

Because of the cost, Roundup Ready alfalfa will be most suitable for alfalfa that is intended for use in higher value situations like dairy or horse hay. By eliminating weeds, it will be easier for you growers to produce this hay and capitalize on these cash hay markets. I also think roundup Ready will help extend stand life by eliminating weeds, especially winter annual weeds, that hurt alfalfa stands the most. Roundup Ready alfalfa will not be right for everyone. Examine your own needs and then decide if the investment is

Young people's drinking means parents seeking help

Al-Anon Family Group's recent Membership Survey showed 31 percent of members in the US have a child with a drinking problem.

Al-Anon's findings match study results released by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA).

SAMHSA's 2003 National Survey on Drug Use and Health reveals that the highest prevalence of binge and heavy drinking is for young adults aged 18 to 25, with a binge drinking rate of 41.6 percent, and a "heavy alcohol use" rate of 15.1 percent.

The study also reveals that 29 percent of youths aged 12 to 20 drink alcohol, and that full-time college students are more likely than other young people to use and abuse alcohol.

Parents of binge drinking teens and young adults find help and support in Al-Anon Family Group meetings. In a confidential environment; they share their fears and frustrations, and hear the experiences of other parents.

For over 53 years, Al-Anon members have helped each other cope with problem drinking in relatives or friends. They learn that to help the drinker, they must help themselves first.

Harvey S., a member of Al-Anon, said, "When I came to Al-Anon, I carried a heavy load of depression, guilt, and sadness. I suffered from the effects of dealing with a drinking son. I was in sheer desperation and could see no light at the end of the tunnel.

In Al-Anon I found people who worth it to you. Graze or chop corn when pastures dry up

If you have dryland corn or pivot corners that are burnt up and won't produce much grain other options are available.

Bruce Anderson University of Nebraska Lincoln forage specialist has some ideas for you. To salvage your corn crop, provide feed for your livestock, and reduce damage to your pasture, try green chopping or even grazing your corn. Watch out for high nitrates if you green chop. Cut high to leave lower stalks in the field and never allow green chop to heat in the wagon or the feed bunk. That makes the nitrates even more toxic. So just chop what your animals will eat in one meal.

Grazing probably is the cheapest and safest way to use this corn. It may sound crazy to graze corn, but with little or no grain, corn is similar to other summer annual grasses like sudangrass and millet. In fact, corn leaves and stalks often contain more TDN and protein than these more commonly used grasses.

If you decide to graze your corn, don't just turn animals in and let them graze. Use an electric fence to strip graze the field. Otherwise, cattle trample so much of it that it's hardly worth grazing. Generally, a highly visible electric wire that you move every couple days works well for stock cows. Dairy cows or stockers do even better if you move the fence daily. Be sure to first train cattle to your fence, though, or they might run right through it.

Dry weather might ruin your original plans for your corn. But don't lose everything. Chopping and grazing can be surprisingly good ways to salvage what is left if you need the feed.

Summer includes vacation to Black Hills

It's Tuesday morning, July 26, and so far, all I've accomplished is putting the garbage out and reading the morning paper. On the acreage, we continued our long habit of burning some trash, recycling a lot, putting vegetable and fruit trimmings in the shelter belt as organic mulch, and burying the rest.

You don't do that in the city; the garbage truck comes by here twice a week and hauls it all off. We still do recycle, but it does seem strange to be able to put anything we don't want in a plastic bag at the curb and have it hauled off. In fact, if it's too big for the plastic bag, folks just set the stuff out anyway. No wonder it's hard to find space for more landfills.

The clouds started rolling in here about 5 pm yesterday, and by bedtime, it was raining hard. The Big Farmer just came in and announced at least four inches! And I've opened windows for the first time since we moved in on June 11. What a relief to get a good rain and get rid of the heat.

Just as I was anticipating, the Black Hills were also in the middle of a heat wave. It got to 103 degrees one day while we were there. It sort of took the vinegar out of the adults, but the kids had a great time anyway. We were in cabins in Custer State Park, no billboards, no McDonald's, no crowds. We had a bonfire with s'mores, a birthday cake for Jacey, and lots of running around with cap pistols and other assorted items.

I had not explored this park very much before, other than to drive through to see the buffalo. It is a very special area, thousands of acres, and 1,500 buffalo. One evening, we drove the "wildlife loop" after eating at the state game lodge. The bison would cross the highway in front of us and expect us to stop! Which we did, of course; who wants to tangle with these guys?

By: Pat Meierhenry

Further along, there was a pack of burros who came up to the car door, begging for food. It's exciting to see these animals so close up. And along that line, we also visited something called Bear Country, USA. This was a lot like our own Safari, at the Mahoney exit off I-80. Except that, instead of two bears, there are many! They were trying to beat the heat, also, by sitting in ponds or hanging out under shade trees. They, too, would amble across the road and slow down the convoy of vehicles driving through. The kids had a great time here.

We also did the hayrack ride-chuckwagon supper. We were outfitted in straw cowboy hats and red bandannas, hauled out to a meadow in an improvised covered wagon, and fed steak off the grill, with all the accompaniments. On the ride out and back, there was entertainment. Ours was provided by Wild Rod Rice, who played and sang his own compositions. The favorite was Don't Fall Off the Wagon, and we made the mistake of buying the CD that has that on it. By the end of the week, I was sick of hearing "Don't fall off the wagon, it's hard when you hit the ground; don't fall off the wagon, it's hard to get back on when you've fallen." Doesn't that sound like a real prize winner?

Anyway, it was fun and I think we are recuperating. Grandpa and I are getting to the age when we appreciate our own beds. But we made some memories, and we're grateful everyone made it back without any major problem. (Cutting a finger with a pocket knife is probably not major, except to the cuttee!)

Quilting is preferred project

Editor's Note: This is one in a series of articles written by members of the Wayne County Teen Supremes.

I'm Jenny Nolte and I am 17 years old. I have been a member of Combination Kids 4-H Club for nine years. I am involved in the projects Clothing, Knitting, Swine, Horticulture, Floriculture, Baking and Quilting. I have to admit that my favorite project is quilting. It's fun every year to go into a store and pick out fabrics that go together and a pattern to up them into. My favorite type of quilts are ones that are made out of scrap fabric because they have lots of different colors and patterns in them.

I learned how to quilt when I was 10 years old. My club decided to take up quilting as a club project with the help of the PeaceMakers Quilt Guild.

In order to make a quilt, you have to first buy a pattern and then choose colors that fit with the pattern and your taste.

You then cut out the fabric to the pattern's requirements. Then you sew the pieces together to follow the pattern. Once the top is complete, you add border.

The next step you should take is to pin the batting and backing to your quilt top. The best thing to use to pin it together is safety pins. After it is all pinned, you can either hand quilt to the top, machine quilt it or tie it. The final step is to sew on the binding.

This project does require some time and patience, but to me, it is definitely worth covering up in a blanket you have spent so much effort on.

Emergency information meetings are scheduled

Special meetings are scheduled for the area to address the issues about how the local and state officials will be prepared in the event of a disaster, either weather or an outbreak of disease in animals or the food supply.

"In a state that is home to more than 48,000 farms and ranches, advance planning and information is essential to protect the safety of our food supply and our industry," says NDA Director Greg Ibach. "We are encouraging all producers to take the time to attend one of these important meetings."

Meetings in the area are:
Thursday, Aug. 4: Wayne County - from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at Tacos and More in Wayne; Dixon County - from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at the Haskell Agricultural Lab in Concord.

Tuesday, Aug. 16: Dakota/Thurston Counties - from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the American Legion Hall in Jackson; Cuming County - from 5:30 to 8:00 p.m. at the Beemer Ballroom in Beemer.

RSVPs are not required. Interested producers may simply plan to attend the meeting.

Producers who are unable to attend the meeting scheduled in their county are encouraged to attend any of the other meetings scheduled throughout Nebraska.

For more information about these meetings or other meetings in this area, including dates and locations, visit www.agr.ne.gov or call 800-897-1163, ext. 24.

Scott and his family had a good laugh and while sitting out there, were visited by a number of persons passing by, including a few strangers.
