Students, teachers, staff and parents at St. Mary's Elementary School began the new school year last week with a flag raising ceremony, the flag salute and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner. A total of 24 agenda items, ranging from geo-thermal wells to street closings and electric incentives received unanimous approval at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Prior to the start of the regular meeting, the council met as a committee-of-thewhole to finalize the budget for the coming fiscal year.

During the regular meeting, a public hearing date of Tuesday, Sept. 13 was set for discussion of the proposed tax asking property tax levy and the 2005-06 budget. The hearings are to begin at 7:55 and 8:05

Stan Baier, representing the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District, presented the city with a check for $3,400 to assist with the costs of a conservation project at the Wayne Community Activity Center.

Ordinance 2005-23 received second and third reading approval. It will amend the city code in regard to using geothermal properties of the ground.

Permission to block off streets for two separate events was granted.

The first was for a block party on Lawndale Drive scheduled for Sept. 11 and the second will close Fourth Street from Main to Pearl Street on Sept. 17-18 for a 10 year anniversary celebration at Our Savior Lutheran Church.

A public hearing was held to allow for input on amending the city's current budget, which was later amended to reflect changes in funds due to sales taxes and the re-financing of bonds.

A number of resolutions were approved during the meeting.

They include the authorization of property taxes to the Wayne Airport Authority. This is done on an annual basis and is necessary because the Airport Authority can no longer levy its own taxes. The action will allocate 3.5 cents per $100 of total city valuation on behalf of the airport authori-

A large crowd of people attended and spoke mostly in favor of the downtown improvement project. There appeared to be a strong feeling that downtown Wayne needs to be a showplace for a number of reasons. Many speakers talked about downtown as our front lawn or living room so that we can attract more retail businesses. more students to Wayne State College and more citizens to move to Wayne. On the front page of last Thursday's Wayne Herald there was a very accurate story explaining what happened at the meeting.

Your correspondent really enjoyed the meeting. It reminded me of the town hall meetings that are held in Vermont and made me think that maybe we should be doing this more often if we get the community input we got on this one occasion. I was proud of all those that spoke and I think we are fortunate in Wayne to have the mayor, city council and city manager that we have. They have been very supportive and work hard to make the right decisions in their own minds. If they didn't believe that the downtown project was important to the community before they came to the meeting, the long list of speakers supporting an attractive downtown revitalization should have convinced them of its importance.

One of Main Street Wayne's long range goals was to work to improve

Schwarz hired as newest police officer

Chief Webster said the hiring of Schwarz marks the transitional period in the Wayne Police Department. Officer Schwarz is the first new officer hired in more than two years, but at least one more will follow.

Hokel, a four-year veteran of the police department, has recently accepted a position with the Sioux City, Iowa Police Department and September.

Webster said Wayne is faced with the same dilemma most small agencies face at some time, "the better trained our officers are, the more attractive they become to larger agencies."

"While this is certainly a dilemma," Webster said, "failing to properly train our police officers poses a much larger problem."

The Wayne Civil Service Commission will meet in September to begin the process of Webster said Officer Bruce hiring an officer to replace Bruce Hokel. Webster said he has high hopes of attracting a certified officer because of recent pay and benefit increases that make the Wayne will begin his duties there in Police Department very competitive in the area market.

Among those attending were Michael Jacobsen of Laurel, Eric Miller and Deann Settles, students at Wavne State College.

The students - from 10 different undergraduate and community college programs - are participants in a program that serves as a means to introduce students to serious biomedical research and to provide a platform for them if they wish to pursue a career in research, said James Turpen, Ph.D., professor at the University of Nebraska Medical Center and the director of the program. The conference took place Aug. 10-11 at the Interstate Holiday Inn near Grand Island.

"This is a statewide effort, with the University of Nebraska Medical Center as the lead institution, that will provide research opportunities for undergraduate students and serve as a pipeline for those students to continue in graduate research," Dr. Turpen said. Dr. Turpen serves as the princi-

Swine project proves enjoyable

Swine, well you can associate that word with stink. But when I think of swine, I think of my 4-H projects.

Hi, my name is Shelby Meyer and I am in The Blue Ribbon Winners 4-H Club. I have been in 4-H since the age of eight and have been involved in the swine project since then..

We purchase our hogs in February and March, and the hogs need to be less than 70 pounds when purchased. We weigh them and record the information so that this information will be used at the fair to determine rate of gain.

After the purchase we bring them home and make sure that they have water and feed everyday. Along with this we also try to keep their pen fairly clean. It is hard since hogs like the mess of laying in water and mud. We continue this until it is time for the fair.

The swine show is one of my favorite events. Something unusual always seems to happen. We start the day out on Thursday when we weigh the hogs and scan them. This helps in the decision making process for the contests, which include rate of gain, lean rate of gain, and the carcass contest. When the hogs are weighed I then take them into the shower and clean them all off. We have shower stalls and we use dish soap to get them nice and clean. Then it is back to their stalls for the day. Friday is the show and we go to the fairgrounds early so that we can get changed and make sure our hogs are fed and clean. Then the fun begins. We start the show with the showmanship. This is where the judge judges you and not the hog. The judge watches to make sure that you look relaxed, not running after the hog, and are able to guide the hog along to some degree. If you have ever been to a hog show before, you would see that the hogs definitely have a mind of their own. After the showmanship for all three groups, the judge then judges the hogs. I am still not sure what the judge looks for, but we take

Sometimes during the hog show you will see a hog jump the fence or even give one of the 4-H'ers a ride, but that is half the fun. # Sweet Corn Sunday well attended

Approximately 200 people attended the Fourth Annual Sweet Corn Sunday at Immanuel Lutheran Church, rural Wakefield recently.

The day began with a worship service, followed by a fried chicken dinner with fresh sweet corn and homemade pie. The sweet corn is generally grown locally and all the work is done by church members.

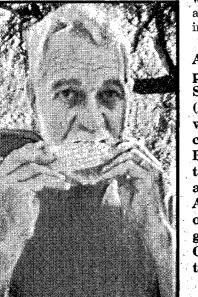

Following the dinner, approximately 40 pies were auctioned off by Stan Baier. The pies were made by a number of members of the congregation.

In addition to members of the congregation, people attended from Omaha, O'Neill and as far away as Kansas. Paul Schley and his grandson, Gerald Schley, Jr. of Alma, Kan., who were traveling through this area in a covered wagon, were among those taking part in the festivities.

Alma Weiershauser, 99, spent the day at the event, and also had a part in the fund-raiser. She picked cherries from a tree in her yard that were used in one of the pies that was auctioned off.

Proceeds from this year's event will be used for siding of the church and other renovations to the building.

Among those involved with preparing for Sweet Corn Sunday were, Mrs. Byron (Marci) Roeber who helped with the husking of the corn; Pastor Willie Bertrand, who 'taste tested' the corn; Harlan Ruwe also assisted with husking; and Alma Weiershauser, 99, the oldest member of the congregation and Deb Nelson of Omaha, also a member of the congregation.

Tuesday morning, and we finally own waterfall. Are there nurses e-mail floating around the hospice make-up and putting a ribbon in n't wear make-up at home. It was brother had a low grade fever and impossible to clear away the clutter. The dustcloth came out once a week, if we were lucky. And getting kids cleaned up for the meal was a challenge, after they had been outside all day, in sand piles, dirt piles, and hay stacks. I felt lucky to get them all at the table at the same time.

You've all seen the excuses for children's absences from school that float around every once in awhile. I read a new one yesterday that gave me a chuckle. "Maryann was absent Dec. 11-16 because she had a fever, sore throat, headache and upset stomach. Her sister was also sick, fever and sore throat, her ached all over. I wasn't the best either, sore throat and fever. Her father even got hot last night."

After I ranted and raved last week about the strange music groups and their strange names, Mike went to the barber who he confessed he had never even heard of Motley Crue. We figured if they don't even know how to sell crew, they are pretty sad.

Finally, with the beginning of football season, I offer a quote from B.C. in today's funnies: If we protect the ball, execute our assignments and maximize our efforts we should have a viable team. What?? "Coachspeak."

Home gardens are doing well despite the hot temperatures. This should be an excellent year for the warm season crops like watermelons, peppers, sweet potatoes and others.

The least welcome problem in the fall is the weeds that seem to grow more in one day than they have during the past month. Weeds recognize that fall is coming and respond with seed production, nature's way of survival.

Our survival is dependent upon crops harvested form the land as well. Maybe that is why fall is my favorite time, I get to see the grains that will provide food for animals and the other many food products that will get my through the winter months and into next year.

Oh yes, there are the beautiful colors coming on grasses and trees that really put on a display purely for our pleasure.

Wayne High head volleyball coach Joyce Hoskins enters her 13th year with the Blue Devils with six starters from last season's squad that posted a 20-10 record.

Familiar faces for her squad this year include five seniors as Jessica Dickey, Keeley Niemann, Emlyn Mann, Melissa Frahm and Robyn Heithold.

Juniors Angie Ahrenholtz and Kara Hoeman are also expected to step up into key roles this season and sophomore Michelle Jarvi rounds out the group of returning letterwinners.

"I think we will be very competitive," Hoskins said when evaluating this year's squad. "They have a desire to do well and play as a team." Competition is the name of the game in the Mid-State Conference and Hoskins expects West Point Central Catholic, Norfolk Catholic and Pierce to be the toughest conference tests for the Blue Devils this fall.

This year's team will be without the services of WHS" all-time set assist leader Micaela Weber and the twin powerhouse tandem of Sarah and Rachel Jensen who graduated last spring.

"Our strengths this year will be our passing and defense," Hoskins added. "Our hitting and blocking have improved over the summer."

Both Wayne High varsity and JV squads placed first in summer league play at Wayne State College.

Graduation losses were unkind to the Wayne High football team.

Blue Devil football coach Kevin Finkey enters his third season seeking to fill voids left by the graduation departures of 16 players from last year's state playoff qualifying team that finished 5-4.

"We only have five returning seniors, so our numbers are down some, but we have good numbers out from our junior, sophomore and freshmen classes," Finkey said. Both sides of the ball took significant losses as two-year starting quarterback Nate Finkey is the lone returnee for the offensive unit and Finkey and Ransen Broders are the returning defensive play-

"Both of them will bring leadership to the team," Finkey said about his returning talent. "Broders is a talented player and a definite difference-maker."

District competition will again be challenging and Finkey expects Creighton, Pierce and Crofton to all provide tough better with each game and should surprise tests for the Blue Devils this season.

Wayne High enters the 2005 girls softball season in the wake of one of the most successful runs in state softball history.

Five seniors graduated from the program with a 40-game win streak and backto-back state championships.

Blue Devil head softball coach Rob Sweetland said graduation losses created several new chances for the 16 players on this fall's roster.

"Those departures have opened up, opportunities for the girls coming back," Sweetland said. "The team lost five great softball players, but we feel our athleticism this season will be at the program's highest ever."

Returning seniors Kayla Hochstein, Brooke Anderson and Jean Pieper were instrumental on last year's dominating team.

"All three have seasoned experience and we are looking to them for leadership," Sweetland added.

Junior Sara Frerichs also logged considerable varsity-level playing time last season.

Sweetland named a group of other players who have already established themselves as top newcomers including junior Samantha Denklau; sophomores Marisa Carroll, Caitlin Gustafson and Ally Miller; and freshmen Nicole Rauner and Alesha Finkey, who are all expected to contribute this season.

Other players on the roster include juniors Leslie Backstrom, Steph Owens,

Erin Bird; along with sophomores Dacia Gansebom, Faye Roeber, and Andrea Pieper,

"I have been very impressed with the work the girls have done so far this season," Sweetland said. "Conditioning was tougher than ever, and practices have been effective."

The team will need to come together as road warriors early in the season in a brutal 10-game stretch to open the season, including the eight out-of-town games at the top of the schedule.

The girls opened the season on Aug. 25, at Genoa Twin River and will play its first home contest against Columbus Lakeview on Tuesday, Sept. 6.

The team will again host districts this season in early October and has already established its goal of reaching the state tournament for the fourth consecutive season.

"It will take improvement throughout the season, but letting the inexperienced girls get those games under their belt will help come October," he said.

Sweetland said the support the community has given the WHS program has been nothing short of incredible.

Assistants for the team will be Nathan Wall, and first-year assistant Kristin Hochstein. Kyle Kwapnioski will again return to serve as student assistant.

Coach Dave Uldrich, along with assistant Casey McGhee and Corey Uldrich, welcomed 28 athletes to fall camp and Uldrich said all players are determined to improve upon last year's 3-5 finish.

"We have a very hard working group of guys," Uldrich said. "The numbers are high and enthusiasm is high and if the efforts that they are giving are an indication of things to come, it could be an excellent season.'

Only a quartet of players comprise the Eagles' key returning athletes, but Uldrich said each is a proven leader.

Nathan Sturges will anchor the offensive line. Josh Malcom could see doubleduty as a running full back or as a part of the Allen line. Chad Oswald, last season's returning receiver, along with Luke Sachau, 2004's team rushing leader, will both return for the Eagles this season.

Coach Mark Koch, in his second year as head Wildcat coach, knows it will be hard to replace key players lost to graduation a year ago.

However there's been plenty to look forward to this football season, Koch said. "Expectations are high," he said. "The players worked hard in the off season and we are pushing to have another successful season."

He added, "We have a promising coaching staff that is working very hard to get the players ready. Our biggest strength this year is that we took off where we left off last year which means less wasted practice time. Last year was tough on the kids having to learn a new system under a new coach and getting last year under their belt has helped a lot." Despite the loss of key player the Wildcats return seven seniors that should provide good leadership for this year's team.

Colby Landenberg (G/DE), Cody Lange (C/NG), Mark Hawkins (SE/DB) and Justin Nathan (E/DE) will anchor a veteran line that should provide running room for classmate and fullback Jarad Thies.

Junior Dewey Bowers gained valuable playing time last year and will be featured in the tailback spot.

Seniors Josh Staub (RB/DB) and Chris Thies (RB/DB) will find time on the defnesive side of the ball as well as special teams along with Sophomore letter winner Justin Tullberg (RB/DB).

Junior Travis Brockman (OL/LB) and Sophomore Matt Peter (C/G) are expected to contribute playing time for the Wildcats while Junior Jared Roberts and Sophomore Jordan Brummels are battling for the quarterback slot.

Koch added that he feels Bancroft-Rosalie and Osmond are two of the biggest district games.
