The "injured" were tended to by Providence Medical Center personnel and members of several volunteer fire department at Tuesday's drill.

Bus 'accident' provides valuable training experience

A towing company tipped over a more than 50-passenger school bus next to a gravel road southeast of Wayne on Tuesday as part of a mock emergency training exercise.

Those who were invited to respond to the emergency were the Fire and Rescue Squads from Wayne, Emerson, Laurel, Wakefield, Winside and Carroll. Also involved were the Wayne County Sheriff's Office, Nebraska State Patrol, Providence Medical Center, and the Wayne Police Department. The school bus was borrowed from Nebraska Bus Company in Wayne. The mock emergency plan developed included approximately 40 injuries as well as a bus driver who had suffered a heart attack.

The type and severity of injuries for such a bus accident have been substantiated through student research on the real bus accidents. Students from the Emergency Management (CJA 444), Hazards and Disasters (GEO 410), and Accident Investigations (ITE 310) classes played victims, as well as fulfilled other roles as photographers and video recorders.

Gary Brown, Director of Woodbury County Disaster Services in Sioux City, Iowa was on hand to critique and give feedback regarding the outcome of the drill. More than a decade ago, Brown answered his hometown's call for emergency volunteers. That response has matured into the directorship of one of the most recognized and honored Disaster and Emergency Agencies in the U.S. Even before the highly publicized crash of Flight 232 in 1989, Brown was steadfast in his insistence on emergency preparedness. The Federal Aviation Administration credited his level of preparedness with saving over 40 lives.

Also on hand was Ginger Bailey, who works with medical facilities in disaster preparedness. She used mulage kits to create very real looking injuries.

Organizer for the event was Dr. Jason Karsky, Dept. of Sociology, Psychology, and Criminal Justice.

Red Cross volunteer shares story

Red Cross volunteer Shawn Kai was in New Orleans after Hurricane Katrina hit. He left last week to go to Florida to help after Hurricane Wilma hit. He recently reflected on his experience in New Orleans.

After a week of training and 24-hour notice to make flight arrangements, Kai left for New Orleans. He went to Algiers Point in southern New Orleans on the west bank; prepared but not really. He remembers the first 36 hours were a blur.

Algiers was one of few places in New Orleans that wasn't flooded. While there, lawlessness was rampant and the area was under National Guard protection. The smell of death from the 9th district drifted over to them from across the river.

Kai and 35 other Red Cross volunteers were part of a 47 vehicle convoy that was first into New Orleans after the hurricane hit.

"It was an eerie thing," Kai said. "Not a soul was on the streets in the fourth largest city in the U.S. We saw one cop car and occasionally people were peeking out of their windows."

Kai noted they worked 12-14 hours a day while in New Orleans. Part of his job was to get meals and serve from 3,000 to 5,000 people each day.

Kai kept a journal while he was in New Orleans. The excerpts give a glimpse into the life of a Red Cross volunteer.

Sept. 29: We picked up 5,000 meals at Piccadilly Catering and unloaded them at Algiers. Those eating the meals had ridden out Katrina; poor black, some Asian and some white.

Sept. 30: I've noticed a change in the city - a lot less military presence. At this point, I feel like my work here is done. I want to move on to the 9th Ward or St. Bernard's Parish where there's a real job to do. The little children are so cute, so full of love. I picked up so many and hugged them. I looked into their eyes and knew their story.

Oct. 2: A fellow Red Cross worker, Kim

from Quebec, was moved to one of the evacuee cruise ships to help. Once there, Red Cross volunteers aren't supposed to leave.

Oct. 4: I was one of eight Red Cross people chosen to have breakfast with Bill Clinton tomorrow.

Oct. 5: I sat across from Clinton and felt he was very personable, spoke with intelligence and was factual on a variety of issues.

Oct. 6: We lost the bulk of our team, which was hard, as we were so close. Fourteen new people came in.

Oct. 9: We're tired, it's been 15 days straight, over 12 hours each day in extreme heat and humidity with little sleep. Hard work but I feel good.

Oct. 11: Our team and assets will be split, all within less than 24 hours. It's a painful process. I'm sad as it's our last supper tonight as we pack up and go our separate ways.

Oct. 12: It was heartbreaking tearing down the Algiers site, remembering all the people who touched my life on these grounds, the memories of what it was like when we got here to what it is now. The faces indelibly etched into my mind from babies to elderly. There were lots of hugs and handshakes, God bless you and thank you.

"Lincoln said at Gettysburg, 'the world will little note nor long remember what we did here.' That's true of my time at Algiers north but the people will and I will and if we brought a bit of comfort into a shattered life and a smile to their face, it was well worth the human expenditure," Kai said.

Blighted area discussed

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Debate on the need to determine an area in Wayne as blighted and substandard and the awarding of tax increment funds to a property owner highlighted the Tuesday meeting of the Wayne City Council.

At issue was a one block square area that includes property at 814 Windom Street which is scheduled to be razed. The property owner has requested tax increment funding (TIF) to help with the building of a new structure on that lot.

Council member Will Wiseman said he was not opposed to blighting the area, but noted "there is a distinct distinction between a developer and the current owner of a property asking for assistance. I think it is inappropriate to give assistance to the owner who let the property get run down in the first place."

Council member Verdel Lutt said he was opposed to what he called "spot blighting."

Following a public hearing and discussion, the council voted 6-1 to adopt Resolution 2005-109 which declares that portion of the city to be blighted and substandard pursuant to the Nebraska Community Development Act.

In a related issue, the council voted to accept a bid for razing of the property at 814 Windom if the current owner of the property has not completed the work by Nov. 15.

Ordinance 2005-30 received second reading approval. It directs the sale of real estate near McDonald's to Kenneth Jorgensen. The ordinance was amended to include the stipulation that a building be constructed within 12 months. Jorgensen plans to build a restaurant/package store at that site on property he owns and the newly acquired property.

The council also approved the sale of property to Sharp Construction Inc. The three readings of the ordinance were waived to allow for construction to begin on the lots at 12th and Douglas Streets yet this fall.

The sale also comes with the stipulation that a house be constructed within 12 months.

A request for an extension to complete construction of a house at 12th and Douglas Streets was granted to Harlin Brugger. As a condition of the extension, Brugger will be required to pay a fee of $1,500 for not meeting the original deadline. Council members felt the fee was equivalent to the six months of property taxes the city would lose by not having a completed home on the property.

Also discussed at Tuesday's meeting was Ordinance 2005-34 which prohibits any person subject to the Sex Offender Registration Act to live in certain areas within the city.

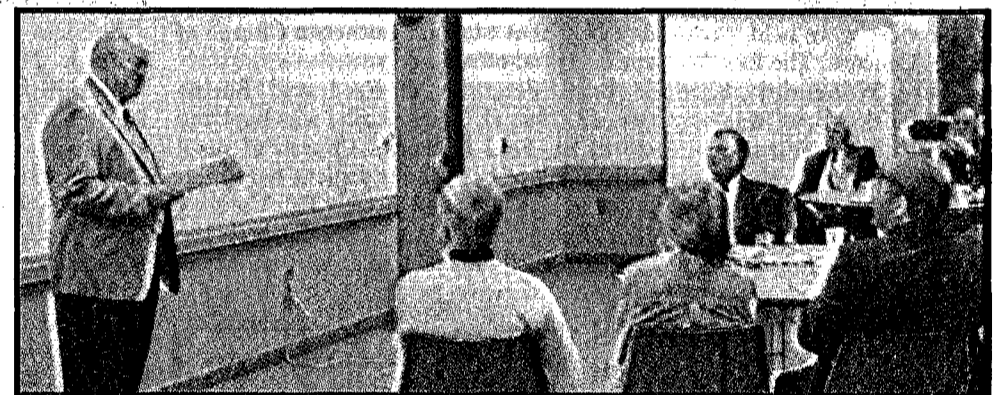

The ordinance prohibits all sex offenders from living within 2,000 feet of a school, church or daycare. In Wayne, that prohibits sex offenders from living anywhere in Wayne.

At the present time there is no state law to back up cities who have implemented similar such ordinances, but city government have been pushing for legislation.

Police Chief Lance Webster listed the levels of sex offenders and noted that there are several currently living in Wayne. He told the council that Level I (least likely to re-offend) and Level II (moderate risk) offenders' names are not publicized but are still subject to the ordinance.

The ordinance passed on a 7-0 vote and will be read again at the council's next meeting.

The council's next meeting will be held Tuesday, Nov. 29 at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers.

Legislative forum held

The Nebraska Chamber of Commerce and Industry, in cooperation with 32 local Chambers of Commerce across Nebraska, have been presenting legislative forums through October and November. The local forum was sponsored by the Wayne Rotary Club and was held on Tuesday at Wayne State College. The focus of the forum was to discuss the enactment of the Nebraska Advantage in January. The Nebraska Advantage (LB312) is a package of new economic development incentives that will make Nebraska more competitive in strengthening its economy. State Sen. Pat Engel (above) and Nebraska Chamber of Commerce - Industry President Barry Kennedy gave presentations that were followed by question and answer sessions.

Christmas in the Country to be held at The Barn

The Brown family will be performing four family Christmas shows at The Barn, located between Wayne and Wakefield, on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 26 and 27.

There will be a matinee each day at 2 p.m. (suggested donation, $10), and a dinner and show at 5:30 p.m. (suggested donation, $20). There will also be an evening show only at 7 p.m. (suggested donation, $10). The Barn is heated, there is limited seating - 160 each show.

The Browns have been invited to sing for President George W. Bush and to over 30 Christmas shows at the Americana

Theatre in Branson, Mo. This award-winning family will inspire you with their harmony and musical abilities. They were recently nominated for 2005 Horizon Group of the Year. They share music from the heart - family style. There is more information on the Browns at www.brown-familysings.com

Tickets are available at any Wayne bank. For more information, contact Merle Ring at Evergreen Heights Farms, 85545 580th Ave., Wayne, NE, 68787 - The Barn is at this location or call him at 402-375-3599.

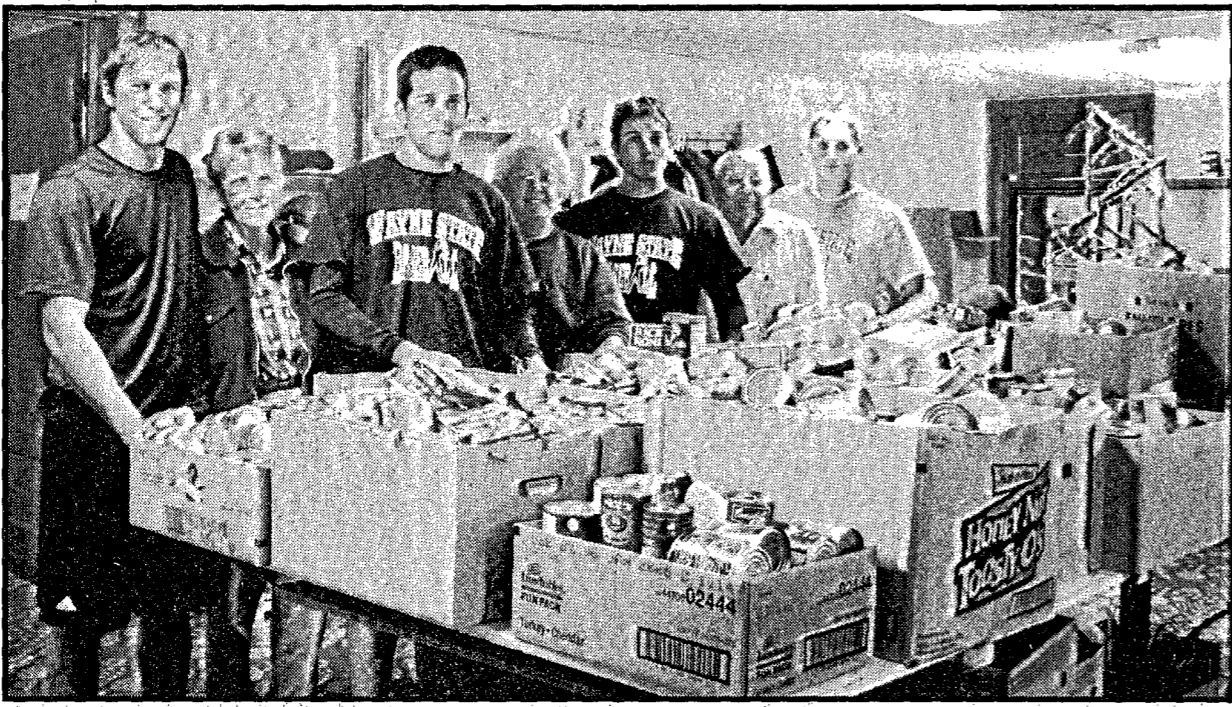

November is Home Care Month

In honor of the nation's home care professionals and volunteers, Providence Home Care of Wayne, joins other homecare providers from throughout the United States in kicking off the November celebration of National Home Care Month.

This month-long celebration not only pays tribute to home care providers who are dedicated to providing physical, spiritual and emotional support to patients, but also serves as a means of increasing public awareness about choices in care that are available throughout the community-wide area.

Providence Home Care, located at Providence Medical Center in Wayne, provides comprehensive health and supportive services for individuals and their families within a 45-mile radius of Wayne. Its team of professionals and volunteers provide services ranging from high tech nursing and medical care to basic assistance with activities of daily living and counseling.

Anyone with questions about Providence Home Care, contact Terri Munter, RN, Home Care Supervisor at (402) 375-4288.

Lots of cans

Members of the Wayne State Student Athletic Advisory Committee, along with 130 student athletes from all 15 sports at Wayne State conducted a food drive on Halloween. Approximately 3,000 items were collected from Wayne, Wakefield and Laurel. Those items will now be distributed to the Food Pantries in those towns. Pictured at the Wayne Food Pantry were, left to right, Wayne athletes and Food Pantry volunteers Dustin Jones, Mary Ann Oetken, Jon Pitts, Elaine Francis, Nick Esposito, Herman Oetken and Connor Bramlet.

Bancroft concert to include WSC Madrigal and local talent

The Bancroft Holiday Choir and the Neihardt Foundation are pleased to present "Christmas Time is Here" in a concert to benefit the Neihardt/Black Elk Sculpture Fund.

The afternoon of holiday music, performed by the Wayne State College Madrigal Singers and fine talent from the local area and beyond begins at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 27 in the Community Building at 302 Main Street, Bancroft. Ruth Elfers of Wayne is among those performing.

As a special treat, the Wayne State College Madrigal Singers

under the direction of Dr. Lofgren will complete the afternoon's entertainment. Tickets are $5 at the door. Seating is limited so come early. Refreshments served at intermission.

Proceeds will go towards the planned bronze sculpture depicting John Neihardt and the Oglala Holy Man Black Elk, memorializing the unique relationship between these two remarkable men. Sculptor Jim Brothers of Lawrence, Kan. commissioned by the Neihardt Foundation for this project, has dedicated his artistic career to "documenting the heritage of the nation through sculpture" with such pieces as the Red Cloud bust in the Nebraska State Capitol, Mark Twain in Hartford, CT, and Gen. Eisenhower in Washington, D.C. The Neihardt Foundation also accepts additional donations to the project.

For more information on the concert or the sculpture project, please contact the Neihardt State Historic Site at 1-888-777-4687 or on line at neihardt@epcom.net. Visit the site at 306 W. Elm Street, Bancroft and their website at www.neihardtcenter.org.

Children's Book Week to be observed

The theme for this 86th annual observance of Children's Book Week is "Imagine."

Mark Teague conveys the imaginative power and joy of books in the official poster of Children's Book Week. Children's Book Week will be observed Nov. 14-20.

More than ever, Children's Book Week is essential as it was in its beginning in 1919. Today Children's Book Week gives children an opportunity to introduce young people to authors, illustrators, and books in schools, libraries and homes.

During Children's book Week, Wayne Middle school wants to promote the love of reading through book-related events and spread the joy of reading by spending some time with a book each day.

A popular event with students is Sponsoring an Accelerated Reader test. Students, parents, grandparents, teachers and community members have their favorite books they like to read. They may choose to sponsor the book. Once the student sponsors the book a nameplate is put into the book.

For information about sponsoring a book contact Jeanee Kindschuh, Middle school library media specialist, 375-2230. Visitors are welcomed during the week to visit the Wayne Middle School Library.

Wayne Middle School activities for Children's Book Week, Nov. 14-

20 include:

Monday, Nov. 14 - Pop into the Library and check out a book. Receive a tootsie pop.

Tuesday, Nov. 15 - Guess the number of books in the Wayne Middle School. Winner will receive the new Harry Potter Book.

Wednesday, Nov. 16 - Check out a book and you have a chance to guess the number of items in the jar of goodies and win the goodies!

Thursday, Nov. 17 - Fifth and sixth graders "Read and Feed" at 3 p.m.; seventh and eighth graders "Breakfast Read and Feed," 8:15 a.m. Both are sponsored by The WEB (Wayne Education Boosters) group.

Amy Wiebelhaus joins law firm

Amy Wiebelhaus was admitted to the Nebraska State Bar Association at ceremonies held Sept. 16 at the State Capitol building in Lincoln.

The new members took the bar examination in July.

Ms. Wiebelhaus is a 1998 graduate of Neligh-Oakdale High School. She received her Bachelor of Science degree in 2002 from Wayne State College and her Juris Doctorate from the University of Nebraska College of Law at Lincoln in May of 2005.

She is employed as an associate with the law firm of Olds, Pieper and Connolly in Wayne where her primary focus is family law. Ms. Wiebelhaus has two years of experience in this area, which includes divorces, custody, child support, paternity actions and adoptions.

Ms. Wiebelhaus is also serving as Deputy County Attorney for Wayne and Pierce Counties. Since arriving in Wayne, Ms. Wiebelhaus has also been helping coach the Wayne High School Mock Trial.

In her spare time, she enjoys watching and participating in sports.

Looking for correspondents

The Wayne Herald would like to hire correspondents in the following towns: Carroll, Wakefield, Dixon, Concord, Laurel. If you are interested in gathering news, let us know by calling 402-375-2600 or toll free: 1-800-672-3418.

Ornaments made

Several members of the group, Friends of the Wayne Public Library, helped children make Christmas ornaments on Saturday. Some of the children who attended the event also participated in story time at the library earlier that day.

Wayne High yearbook receives award

Wayne High's 2005 Devil Daze yearbook, Daze of Our Lives, received an Award of Distinction during the Nebraska High School Press Association's fall convention.

"I am impressed with the work the eight students on your staff did on the 2005 Devil Daze," the judge wrote in the critique comments. Special commendations were given in the form of Golden Kernal Awards for strength in overall coverage and quality of caption writing.

The yearbook's editors were Michaela Vander Weil and Sarah Jensen and staff members included Adam Lutt, Alex Wieland, Lacey Bromley, Beth Wurdeman, Ryan Lewon and Megan Powell. Advisor was Lauren Walton.

The convention was held Oct. 17 on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus. Speakers during the day included journalists from both state and national levels.

Some of the 2005 yearbooks are still available from advisor Lauren Walton or the high school office.

Jan Harrison of Thurston is the certified WOC nurse at Pender Community Hospital.

Harrison provides new service to area

By Kimberly Kai
Pender Times Reporter
Editor's note: This story is being reprinted with permission from the Pender Times.

Unlike other small hospitals in northeast Nebraska, Pender Community Hospital has an edge, a full-time certified WOC (wound, ostomy and continence) nurse on staff.

Jan Harrison of Thurston offers that new, specialized service to patients in the Pender area. Focusing primarily on the elderly and chronically ill, this service helps patients with wounds, ostomies and continence disorders. "I help the patients return to as normal a lifestyle as I can," said Jan, who earned her bachelor's degree in nursing from Morningside College in Sioux City in 1999.

Through a web-based Internet program at Metropolitan State University in Saint Paul, Minn., Jan completed two semesters of study to become a certified WOC nurse. As such, she offers three types of services:

The first, wound care, is provided to patients who have wounds resulting from various diseases, including those of the lower extremities or from complicated surgeries.

The second is for patients who have an ostomy, which is an opening created through the abdominal wall during surgery. It allows patients to excrete bodily wastes.

Nearly 750,000 individuals are living in the U.S. with ostomies.

The third and final service is treatment for continence disorders. Keys to reducing the incidence and delaying the onset of urinary and fecal continence disorders are early identification and primary prevention. This in turn reduces the need for the use of medical supplies, various medical services and possible institutionalization.

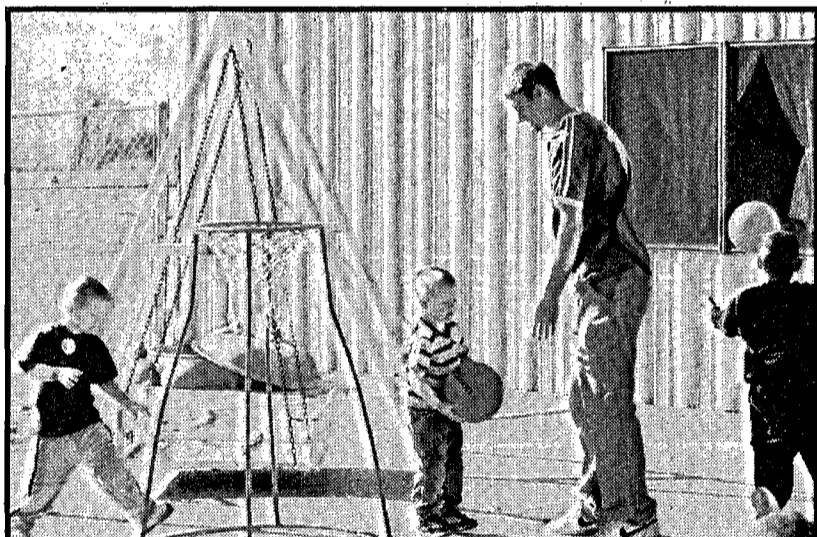

"We're here to help the doctors and enhance what they do," Jan said.

Jan, who became certified in April, sees between 10 to 20 patients a week at the local hospital as well as at her weekly visits to Pender Care Centre and Wisner Care Center. Prior to her certification, the Pender hospital contracted this service through Mercy Medical Center in Sioux City, Omaha is the only other city in the area with hospitals offering this service with a certified nurse.

Recently, Jan attended a foot and nail care class at the University of Wisconsin at Eau Claire, enabling her to better serve her diabetic and vascular patients.

"There are 2,000 products to help with their wounds," said Jan, noting that patients do not need a doctor referral to schedule an appointment with her.

"This new service is going to increase healing time and decrease the cost of products for patients," she said.

WSC honored Executive in Residence Jan Thayer

Awarded for her service to Wayne State College, Jan Thayer, Nebraska Business Hall of Fame award winner, owner and chief executive officer of EXCEL Development Group, discussed business topics with Wayne State College students during the School of Business and Technology's "Executive in Residence" program on campus, Oct. 24.

Thayer discussed business ethics, leadership styles, corporate cultures and citizenship with students.

A registered dietician, Thayer earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Nebraska - Lincoln. She has owned Dietary Consultation, Inc., created a radio program, served as a television announcer and a teacher. She has been awarded "Outstanding Volunteer," "Business of the Year" and "Woman of Achievement" honors.

In addition to serving nationally on the American Health Care Association board of directors and executive committee, Thayer serves as national chair and executive committee member for the National Center for Assisted Living.

At the state level, she has provided services to the Nebraska Health Care Association, University of Nebraska Medical Center, American Dietetic Association, Nebraska Community Colleges, Lutheran Homes, Inc. and others.

Thayer is chair of the board of EXCEL Development Group, a developer of retirement housing alternatives, long-term care for the elderly and income qualified tax credit housing.

EXCEL Development Group provides experienced development, management and consulting services. The company was incorporated in 1988 in Lincoln. By the 1990s EXCEL had developed two retirement communities and expanded services to include the development and management of income qualified housing funded in part by tax credits created under the 1986 Tax Reform Act. EXCEL has developed more than $139.8 million in retirement and affordable housing properties in a four-state region and manages 1,186 retirement/assisted living apartments and 256 low-income housing apartments in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Fund drive started to replace van to transport veterans to Omaha Chapter 8 D.A.V. of northeast Nebraska has started a fund drive to replace the van purchased three years ago. This van has been used to transport our veterans from northeast Nebraska to the Omaha V.A. Medical Center for appointments. This service is free to veterans.

Normally, the van is capable of transporting veterans five days a week. The van has worked well. Over the past three years, 447 trips have been made to Omaha, transporting 1,324 veterans a total of 104,861 miles. The result of this is that the DAV van will have 150,000 miles on the odometer in the near future.

The total cost of a new van is approximately $23,000. Chapter 8 DAV of Norfolk will need to provide $10,000 of this, while grants will provide the remaining $13,000.

This van is not the same van used by the Norfolk Veterans Home to transport their residents. This van is for those veterans living in their own homes in northeast Nebraska who need to be transported to the Omaha V.A. Medical Center for medical care.

Donations may be left at the DAV Van Fund, Elkhorn Valley Bank, 800 W. Benjamin Avenue, Norfolk, Ne. 68701, or with Glenn Shaneyfelt (371-0281), Jim Jerome (371-6371), or Merle Horrocks (644-4409). Checks should be made out to the D.A.V. Van Fund and are income tax deductible.

Each County Veteran Service Officer is aware of the procedure to ride the van.

Salvation Army provides many services in Nebraska and in the area

Recently, Col. Hickam of the Omaha chapter of the Salvation Army spoke to local Rotarians on the good work they do and the history of the organization. Hickam noted that local Rotarian, Rev. Mary Browne of First United Methodist Church in Wayne, is chairperson of the local chapter. Other local volunteers include Ilene Nichols-Welfare Secretary; Beverly Etter-Treasurer; Chief Lance Webster; and a representative of Goldenrod Hills Community Action Agency.

The Salvation Army is a religious organization which provides services to anyone in need. In other places in Nebraska, Salvation Army has service and clothing centers, job training sites, child care, housing, camps, etc. The Salvation Army has mobile kitchens for feeding victims of disasters. They fed people in Omaha who came after Hurricane Katrina. In New Orleans and surrounding area, Salvation Army served 5,000 a day in each unit they had.

Hickam noted the work of Salvation Army is based on the Bible (Matthew 25: I was hungry and you gave me food...). Their slogan is "heart to God and hand to man."

"I work with the Salvation Army because it does things my church isn't able to do to help the poor," Pastor Mary Browne said.

Locally, the organization provides emergency help with utility bills, rent and prescriptions. They also provide lodging and food for people traveling through Wayne without funds. They provided backpacks for school children in Wayne this fall. Salvation Army provides a summer camp south of Omaha for low income children and Wayne area children are welcome. Salvation Army has a full center in Norfolk that provides noon meals, a thrift store and a church.

One way funds are raised is through activities. Each year in December, there is a kettle campaign to raise funds for local needs. In the kettle campaign, volunteers from churches and civic organizations ring bells for donations.

The Salvation Army Headquarters in Omaha is in the old Methodist Hospital. Col. Hickam noted their headquarters is a good one as it is a 100,000 square foot building. "Our food pantry is there."

"Of the money raised in Omaha, 90 percent stays in the area," Hickam said. "There was $1.5 million in donations raised for hurri-for tough kids, some that Boys Town won't even take.

Looking back at the history of the Salvation Army, the organization (Christian Mission) was started by in 1865 by William Booth, who was a preacher in London, England. Many poor people there slept under bridges and went hungry. His heart went out to them so he opened kitchens and hostels. Booth included religion into his approach as he felt God has to be involved in the life-changing process. Booth's wife, Kathryn, was instrumental in the process, too, as she helped raise money to keep their work going.

Later, volunteers wore uniforms that were patterned from the British army. Booth saw himself as a general of his "Salvation Army," (hence the name). Booth and his workers held meetings which converts attended so he founded a congregation because they wouldn't go anywhere else. In 1878, Booth came to the U.S. and set up an operation in a chair factory which 16-year-old Eliza Shirley ran. To this day, there are many women who run the organization in various areas. The Salvation Army is based in 109 countries, has 5,000 officers, and one million members.

The next meeting will be on Nov. 15.

MISSOURI RELATIVES VISIT

On Oct. 28, John Rechtermann of Richmond, Mo., son of Julius and Esther Rechtermann, and his wife, Cathy, their son, Jeff and his wife, Kristina and their children, Austin and Alyssa of Hardin, Mo., visited the Rechtermanns. They also visited with Bill and Hildegard Fenske. They returned home on Oct. 30.

ZION LUTH. E. LADIES AID MET

Zion Lutheran East Ladies Aid and LWML met on Nov. 3 with seven members and Pastor Riege present.

Christian Life Chairman Joyce Saegbarth gave a devotion "The Lighted Jack-O-Lantern," based on Matthew 5:16.

Pastor Riege's topic for discussion was the lesson on "Joy! Salt! Light!" from the LWML Quarterly.

President Diane Koepke opened the business meeting. Members paid dues and five cents if they plan to send gifts for Thanksgiving, 10 cents if not).

Plans were made for the Christmas party on Thursday, Dec. 1 at noon. Guests will be invited for the pot luck dinner and bake sale. Members are to bring two covered dishes and four items for the bake sale, also their Christmas stockings for missions filled with nickels. Christmas donations will be made to: Lutheran World Relief, the Lutheran Hour, Bethesda, Lutheran Family Services, Wesley Crisis Center, Orphan Grain Train, Norfolk Rescue Mission, and Camp Luther.

The 20 quilts made this year were bagged and will be donated to the Rescue Mission, Bright Horizons, Orphan Grain Train, and Lutheran World Relief.

All current aid officers were elected to retain their duties for the coming year.

The following ladies are serving on the Altar Guild for November: Elaine Ehlers, Judy Kruger, Ione Fahrenholz, and Shari Kruger. Joyce Saegbarth will be in charge of flowers.

The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer and table prayer. Ione served as hostess. Plate prizes were won by Elaine and Diane.

The next meeting will be on Dec. 1 with the Christmas party.

County officials attend state workshop in Omaha

Several Wayne County officials recently attended a two and one-half day conference conducted in Omaha.

Those attending included Debra Finn, Wayne County Clerk; Karen McDonald, Wayne County Treasurer and Loren Park, Wayne County Health Department.

The annual conference, attended by approximately 700 county officials and employees, is a part of a continuing education and leadership development series sponsored by the Nebraska Association of County Officials.

The conference updated county officials on recent changes in state laws and provided extensive training on the responsibilities of their respective offices.

Honey Sunday slated for Nov. 16-20

Local volunteers are expected to participate in the distribution of honey for Honey Sunday on Nov. 16-20. The Arc of Norfolk is organizing the door-to-door campaign in Wayne, as part of the larger Norfolk campaign.

Proceeds from Honey Sunday assist The Arc of Norfolk in its work for and with children and adults with developmental disabilities and their families.

"Our goal is to raise funds by distributing 2100 bottles of honey in the Norfolk area," said Honey Sunday Chairperson Ruth Markhofer. A number of community groups are participating in the event, including area church youth groups, and student organizations, such as the Wayne State College Catholic Newman Club.

The Honey Sunday project is a fundraising project of The Arc of Nebraska and has been in operation in locations across Nebraska for nearly 40 years. It is a unique fund-raiser in that local Arc chapters raise the money for their local budgets; honey distributed in this area benefits the programs and services of The Arc of Norfolk.

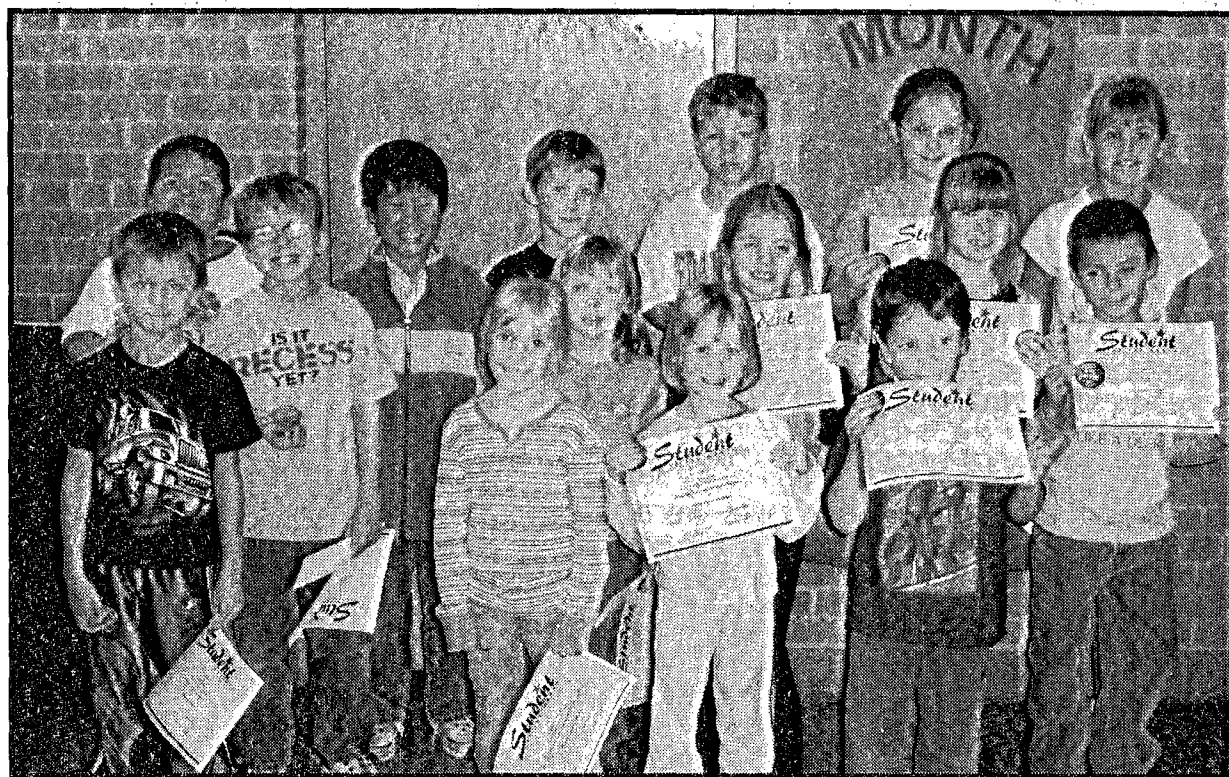

Honeybees offer a parallel to the work of The Arc of Norfolk. A honeybee may spend its entire lifetime to produce 1 1/2 of a teaspoon of honey. It takes many, many bees, working together to produce honey. In the same way, it takes many, many parents, siblings and friends, working together, to effect significant change and improve the lives of children and adults who experience mental retardation and other developmental disabilities.

The services of The Arc of Norfolk are essential to northeast Nebraska because the Arc has long been a leader in the in the establishment of community-based services for children and adults with developmental disabilities. Nebraska is home to an estimated 47,000 people with developmental disabilities, and every five minutes, a baby is born with developmental disabilities. The Arc's role as an advocacy organization has been successful in ensuring a higher quality of life for many Nebraskans who experience developmental disabilities.

Persons interested in volunteering for Honey Sunday are encouraged to contact The Arc of Norfolk at 379-1160 or Ruth Markhofer at 371-4162. Chairing the Wayne effort are Sister Cynthia Hruby, 375-1155 and Cassidy Goe. Honey will be sold at Wayne State College on Thursday, Nov. 17 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Arc of Norfolk is a United Way agency, advocating for the rights of citizens with developmental disabilities and their families.

October Students of the Month recognized at Wayne Elementary

The Character Train Assembly at Wayne Elementary School was held on Oct. 31.

Third Grade students, directed by Mrs. Jenn Thomas, performed a skit to demonstrate the meaning of the September and October character words, Respect and Fairness.

Winners of the essay contest on the importance of respect for rules, Tahlia Reynolds, Emma Evetovich and Gabbie Miller, read their essays at the assembly.

All third grade students received a "Good Character...Good Choices" bracelet. These bracelets, and a roll of 100 good character stickers for each teacher, were purchased by Wayne Education Boosters (WEB).

The Character Word for November is Citizenship and the next Character Train assembly will be planned by fourth grade. Serving on the Character Train committee this year are Mrs. Tiedtke, Mrs. Colleen Janke, Mrs. Suehl, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Kris Janke, Mrs. Emma Evetovich and Gabbie Miller, read their essays at the assembly.

Those students recognized at the assembly included:

Public Library to observe Children's Book Week

In honor of Children's Book Week, the Wayne Public Library will host several after-school events during the week of Nov. 14-18. This year's theme is "Imagine."

On Monday, youth are invited to join their fellow detectives at the Wayne Public Library in solving the mystery, "Who's a Fraydi Kat?" The youth will investigate the evidence scenes and carefully examine the evidence in order to solve the mystery.

Detectives through age 12 are welcome to attend. The day for the mystery is Monday, Nov. 14 from 4 p.m. until the mystery is solved (no later than 6 p.m.).

On Tuesday, Nov. 14 at 4 p.m. youth will be painting in honor of Georgia O'Keefe's birthday and in honor of all the wonderful illustrators of Children's Books.

Area young people are invited to come and share their favorite or latest favorite book at a book discussion on Wednesday, Nov. 16.

"This is an opportunity to tell other kids your opinion. So don't take my word for it - read what you like!" said Julie Osnes, Youth Services Librarian. Snacks will be available for hungry listeners.

On Thursday, Nov. 17, readers are encouraged to "come and compete with your friends to make the craziest 'figment' of your imagination." Groups of young people will be given supplies to make the strangest creature they can conjure. The creatures will then be displayed at the library before being released into the wild.

On Friday, Nov. 18, youth will be playing a Jeopardy format Trivia game in honor of the release of the new movie release of the third Harry Potter movie, "Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire!"

"Come join us for all the food, prizes and fun this week! And don't forget to check out a book, just imagine the possibilities!" Osnes added.

The organizational committee for this year's Thanksgiving Dinner met recently to discuss plans for the event.

Organizers list reasons for their involvement in Thanksgiving event

"If they come, they have a need" has been the motto of the annual Thanksgiving meal served in Wayne for the past five years.

At that time, Kathy Burke had a dream of serving a Thanksgiving meal to those who had no one else to share Thanksgiving with or the means to have a traditional Thanksgiving meal.

Jim and Vera Hummel traveled to Yankton, S.D. to observe another such event there and came back with ideas.

This year a committee of 12 members, representing six Wayne churches, has been meeting regularly to plan the event that last year served more than 150 people.

Those on the committee included Jim and Vera Hummel, Bob and Kathy Burke, Lynette Carmichael, Jerry Sperry, Dan Sukup, Tracy Keating, Randy Brenner, Jeff Carstens, Babs Middleton, Linda Snead and Bev Shrieber. Several committee members shared their reasons for getting and staying involved with the event.

"I have been a part of this event since it began. At First Church of Christ, our motto is "Love God, Love People." This is a way to help live that and care for people," said Lynette Carmichael.

Jerry Sperry and Dan Sukup both said that helping others gives them "a good feeling and we enjoy watching the people. Many of those who come don't necessarily have a financial need, but rather have a need to socialize."

Tracy Keating said she was "overwhelmed and loved it" the first time she helped and enjoys helping fill the need for comrades for those being served. It is a good feeling and a way to teach my family about serving others."

Jeff Carstens said he "gets as much or more out of it as I give. It is a good event to bring my family to."

Babs Middleton said the event "is a great idea. I enjoy helping with the work and the fellowship during the event."

Vera Hummel said that after she first agreed to help, "I caught the fever of the event. It is fun doing for other people."

Her husband, Jim, said he has lived his life wanting to do what he can to help and "have an opportunity in my retirement years to something for others. I go home from this event with a 'good tired.'"

"With so many people volunteering to help, no one has a big job," Vera said.

This year's event will be held Thursday, Nov. 24 at Our Savior Lutheran Church with the meal served at noon.

Take precautions to avoid the trauma of identity theft Engagements

Identity theft not only is one of the fastest-growing crimes in the U.S., it also can take years for victims to fully resolve. With personal information available through increasing numbers of sources — including the Internet, phones, discarded computers and the mail — potential thieves have more chances to discover the financial facts needed to steal someone's identity. Avoid becoming a victim of identity theft by taking precautions to protect personal information.

Thieves look for specific types of information that will aid them in taking on another's identity. Take extra care to guard the following key with a trusted person in case of being locked out. Lock the door whenever leaving the house or apartment, even if just for a short time. Make a list of all serial numbers and file them and all other important information — including bills, ATM transaction receipts, store receipts and bank statements — in a safe place. Get property or renters' insurance to help cover any losses.

Take special care with debit and credit cards. Sign them as soon as they arrive. Photocopy the front and back of all cards and keep the copies in a safe place, such as in a safety deposit box, so the cards can be cancelled as soon as possible if stolen. When using a debit or credit card to make a purchase, maintain visual contact with the card and make sure no extra imprints of the card are made and the receipt is deposited in the cash register. Destroy, carbons containing the account number.

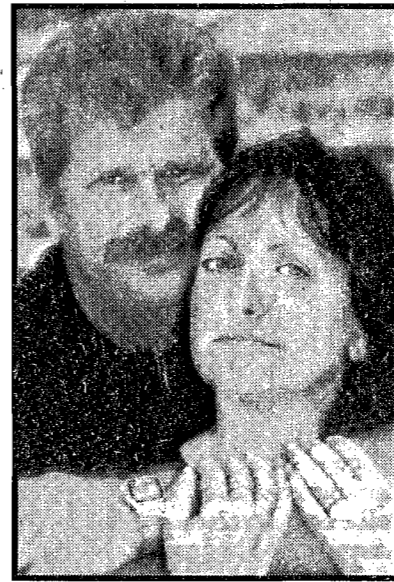

Before moving, alert financial institutions. When traveling, do the same, giving route, destination and time-line. Keep track of all purchases and transactions, checking them against bills. Even when not traveling, make a habit of keeping all receipts and comparing them to the debit or credit card's monthly billing statement.

At gas stations, ATMs, grocery stores and other places where a pin number may be required to use a card, cover the numbers when keying them in. Be sure to take any printed receipts and don't forget to take the card.

Get mail out of the mailbox as soon as it arrives. Consider using a post office box or purchasing a locked mailbox with a slot for incoming mail. Before disposing of papers with personal information on them, tear or shred them up in small pieces before putting them in the trash.

Never give personal information out unless absolutely certain that the party to which the information is being given is reputable. Watch out for attempts to verify a promised prize, contacts who are unknown — even if they claim to be from a bank or financial institution — and other suspicious signs. Consider calling the company to make sure the person works there before giving out any information.

information: name, address, birth date, Social Security number, mother's maiden name, credit card numbers, driver's license number, bank account numbers and phone numbers. Store items containing this information — such as a Social Security card, birth certificate or passport — in a safe deposit box and carry them only when required. Carry a driver's license and credit cards in separate carriers so the total identification won't be lost at one time.

Hesitate before answering requests for personal information such as a Social Security number or driver's license number. To determine whether or not to provide the information, ask why it is needed, how it will be used, if there is a law that requires the number be given and what will happen if the request is refused. Be aware that some businesses will not help people who refuse to give this information.

New board members named

At the recent Thrivent Financial for Lutherans Wayne-Dixon County chapter meeting, the Wayne-Dixon County Chapter Vice-President, Art Greve, presented a slate for 2006 board officers.

The following will be the 2006 Wayne-Dixon Chapter board members: (Don Leighton, Ken Thomsen, and Darrel Rahn will not be serving the coming year): Art Greve, President; Gerald Muller, Vice President; Sondra Mattes, Records Director; Sue Olson, Financial Director; Karen Mangels, Congregational Service Team Director; Kathleen Johs, Communications Director; Kathy Johnson, Community Service Team Director; Robyn Heithold, Youth Director; and Lynne Allemann, Events Director.

Local piano students participate in festival

Ben and Emily Bruflaf, son and daughter of Alan and Madge Bruflaf and Jacob and Marta Pulfer, son and daughter of Kent and Jodi Pulfer and piano students of Mrs. Marcile Uken of Wayne took part in the Nebraska Music Teachers State Festival.

The event was held Oct. 23 in Omaha. Students are required to play two memorized pieces from different periods of music, play scales and take a written and aural theory test.

Marta Pulfer played in Division 1A and received a rating of I, Jacob Pulfer played in Division 2A and received a rating of I, Ben Bruflaf played in Division 2B and received a rating of I and Emily Bruflaf played in Division 4A and received a rating of I.

All of these students were rated for solos and scales. All were awarded trophies for their I ratings.

All students passed their written and aural theory test. Jacob and Marta were also awarded special recognition certificates for outstanding theory scores.

In the festival, a I rating indicates an outstanding performance in nearly every detail. A rating of II indicates a few minor technical defects; a III rating indicates a performance with technical and musical defects and a IV indicates a lack of preparation of the musical performance.

Mr. and Mrs. Berg

Celebration planned for Bergs

Charles and Katherine Berg of Emerson will observe their 50th anniversary on Saturday, Nov. 12.

An open house will be held at Skinny's Outback in Emerson, beginning at 5 p.m.

The couple was married at St. Luke's Church in Emerson.

Their family include Debra Cutler, Sharon and Roger Oetken and Duane and Angela Berg, all of Emerson. They also have six grandchildren.

The honorees request no gifts please.

Leather & Lace to dance in Wayne

Leather & Lace Square Dance Club held their most recent dance on Oct. 28 with over 20 dancers dancing to caller Elaine Peacock of Elk Point, S.D.

The free pass for the evening went to Phyllis Rubeck of Laurel. Split the Pot went to Phyllis Rahn and Donna Tietz, both of Wayne.

Several people from the Leather & Lace Club attended the Hoe Down held in Sioux Falls, S.D. on Nov. 5-6.

The club has started a series of square dance lessons on Thursday evenings at The Oaks from 7 to 8:30 p.m. After the square dance lessons, round dance lessons will be offered. There is still room for more participants. Organizers said this would be a good time to begin refresher lessons for those who haven't danced for a while. Anyone with questions should contact Vernon Bauermeister at 375-4465 or Darrel and Phyllis Rahn at 375-1667. The next lesson is scheduled for Nov. 10 with Dale Muehlmeier giving the lesson.

The club's next dance will be Friday, Nov. 11 at the Wayne City Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. with Dale Muehlmeier of Norfolk calling. Jim Jacobsen and Ann Kruse will be in charge of lunch.

Spectators are always welcome.

WSC to host 'Just Juniors' Day Nov. 19

Area high school juniors and their parents are invited to attend the 'Just Juniors' Day at Wayne State College on Saturday, Nov. 19. Activities include an optional, free A.C.T. preparation workshop (pre-registration is required) for the students; as well as informational sessions for both parents and students. During the day, campus tours will be offered as well as an academic fair, sessions on student services, financial aid and scholarships.

"Just Juniors' is one of the best ways for high school juniors to get a first-hand look at Wayne State College and the programs and services we provide," said Linc Morris, dean of admissions and recruitment. The day will begin with check-in at the student center at 8:30 a.m., and will conclude with a tour of the campus in the early afternoon. Because "space" is limited in the A.C.T. workshop, early pre-registration is encouraged. To register, call the admissions office at 800-228-9972, ext. 7234, or 402-375-7234, or e-mail: campus_visitation@wsc.edu.

More information can be found on the Wayne State Web site at wsc.edu.

Right at Home
 Design and Decorating Inspiration something in the air...

Ready or not... the holidays are upon us. It's that time of year where we start to transform our home into a winter wonderland. Our eyes are filled with the sights of twinkling lights, wreaths, and ornaments. Neighborhoods begin to literally glow with holiday anticipation.

As we... decorate our homes this season don't neglect the impact of all our senses. While lights and ornaments create visual impact, we can also add to the warmth and holiday feel of our homes by adding to our sense of smell.

Many memories... are triggered by an aroma from a past event. Pumpkin pies in the oven... hot chocolate and marshmallows... or maybe the freshly cut Christmas tree.

We can... easily bring these pleasing aromas into our home by the use of scented candles. Scented candles are available in a wide variety of styles, shades and fragrances and can be a great addition to the overall feel of our home not only during the holidays but throughout the year.

Safety... should always be a consideration when placing and burning candles. Choose locations carefully considering the surface below and above the candle and any nearby combustible materials. Homes with young children, pets or elderly may want to consider using electric candlewarmers. Warmers eliminate the need for open flames yet warm the candle wax and release the aroma just as if lighting the wick. Warmers are also great for offices or dorm rooms where an open flame is prohibited.

While... we have talked about how candles add to our home by their aroma, they also are a great visual addition to many arrangements. Long slender tapers can add to the elegance of a dining room table while large natural tone pillars can help tie together the rich color elements of a den or library.

Stop in... to our showroom to see several examples of how candles can be used as visual and aromatic additions to your holiday decor and all year.

Census Bureau to update numbers on employment

U.S. Census Bureau data show that the country's official unemployment rate was 5.1 percent in September, 2005. So what is the source for this important economic indicator? The information was gathered from the Census Bureau's monthly Current Population Survey (CPS) - which dates from 1942 - making it the longest-running household survey in the country.

"The CPS is the primary source of information for state and local governments and businesses with respect to the country's labor force," said Susan A. Lavin, director of the Census Bureau's Denver regional office. "Information collected by the CPS helps government policymakers, businesses and academicians fully assess the nation's economic condition."

Every month, Census Bureau field representatives ask selected households questions relevant to the U.S. labor force, such as employment status, hours worked, earnings, age, sex, race, marital status, educational attainment, occupation and industry. From their answers come estimates of the unemployment rate, released monthly by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS).

Prior to the survey, local households selected in the nationwide sample receive a letter from Census Bureau Director Louis Kincannon. Some participants are interviewed by telephone and others interviewed in person. The field representatives carry official identification cards.

Sponsored by the BLS and the Census Bureau, the CPS will be conducted during the weeks of Nov. 13, 2005, when nearly 2,000 Census Bureau field representatives will interview about 78,000 households.

No-till systems prove most profitable

There is much discussion about whether or not tillage is necessary to raise a crop.

Research has shown that the benefits out weigh any problems associated with going to a no till or reduced tillage production system.

The 2005 yields for a long-term tillage system study on the University of Nebraska Rogers Memorial Farm (10 miles east of Lincoln) are given in Table 1.

These research plots, established in 1981 in a dryland soybean/grain sorghum rotation, show that long-term no-till builds soil structure, usually has the highest yield, and is the most profitable.

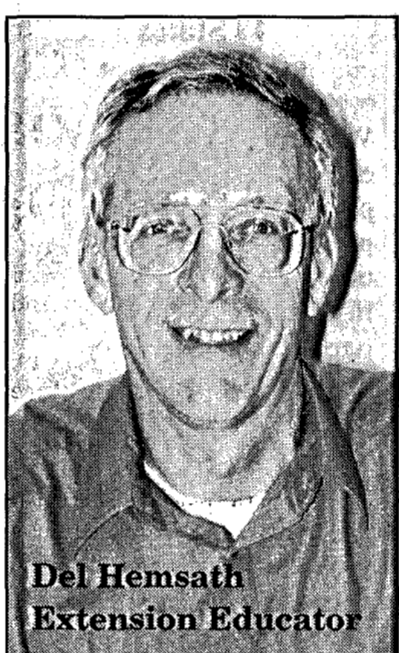

Table 1. 2005 yield results from dryland tillage trials at the University of Nebraska Rogers Memorial Farm.

University of Nebraska Rogers Memorial Farm. Tillage System 2005 Yield, bu/ac*

Table with 4 columns: Tillage System, Soybeans, Corn, Yield (bu/ac). Rows include Fall plow, disk, disk; Fall chisel, disk; Disk, disk; and No-till with cultivation.

No-till with cultivation 55.4 181.1. No-till without cultivation 59.2 190.6. Full plot harvest with a combine and weigh wagon; corrected for moisture.

For this first year of corn production in these established tillage systems, the single disk treatment had the highest yield, 194.3 bu/ac; however, the 3.7 bu/ac yield increase over no-till without cultivation was not enough to cover the cost of the single disking at current prices, thus no-till was still the most profitable.

Del Hemsath Extension Educator

during the growing season (22.5 inches since the 2004 harvest). Timely rains and no runoff from the no-till treatments resulted in respectable yields in this dry year.

Post script to this research: The real question in relation to long term no-till benefit is "Why do we persist with tillage operations?"

PorkBridge educational series begins in December

Pork producers will have the opportunity to participate in a swine grow-finish educational series called PorkBridge beginning Dec. 8.

PorkBridge is designed to connect swine producers with grow-finish experts and other producers in Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota and Minnesota, said Mike Brumm, swine specialist at UNL's Haskell Agricultural Laboratory near Concord.

"This program will help producers, their employees and contract growers with the daily decisions of the grow-finish process," Brumm said.

PorkBridge is sponsored by Extension at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Iowa State University, South Dakota State University and the University of Minnesota.

Once every two months, producers receive a CD in the mail for the upcoming session. This CD provides spreadsheets, video clips and other visual aids to guide producers through the discussion. On the day of the session, producers call a toll-free number that connects them to the speaker and other participants.

PorkBridge is designed to provide an educational opportunity to producers without the hassle of leaving home, Brumm said.

"We're bringing education to the pig farm," he said.

Sessions last approximately one hour and cover topics such as ventilation controllers, hot weather management and biosecurity. Producers have the option of enrolling for sessions that begin at noon or at 7 p.m. After the presentation, producers have the opportunity to ask questions and talk with other participants.

Registration is $125 per phone line due Nov. 25. Payments cover all six sessions and supporting materials. Registration brochures are available at local extension offices or online at http://porkcentral.unl.edu. Sessions are limited to 150 telephone lines.

For more information, call Brumm at (402) 584-3816.
