Council approves use by exception requests

By Clara Osten
 Of the Herald

Five public hearings were held during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Four of those involved use by exception permits for homes located on South Lincoln Street and South Pearl Street.

The permits were approved unanimously and were necessary to allow for the homes to be re-built should any type of disaster destroy them. The homes are located in an area Neighborhood Commercial (B-3), which is not generally a designation for residential dwellings. However, the use-by-exception designation would allow them to be re-built within a year of a disaster.

The final public hearing of the evening involved an application for a use by exception permit for USave Pharmacy at 216 East Seventh Street. The permit is necessary because the business plans to have a drive-through kiosk and that requires a public hearing.

Ordinance 2006-01 was read and the three readings waived. It will create Main Street Improvement District 2006-01, which will begin at the center of Clark Street and go to the middle of Fourth Street and include 25 feet into the buildings on either side of Main Street.

A public hearing has been scheduled for Feb. 14 to allow property owners the opportunity to ask questions about the project and the process.

City Administrator Lowell Johnson told council members that if more than 50 percent of the property owners opt not to join the Improvement District, "it will not happen."

Sad day

A large tree, the largest American Elm tree in the state of Nebraska, was removed on West Second Street this week. The tree, which died last year from Dutch Elm disease, was removed before any damage was done to the surrounding houses or property. The city had recommended the removal of the tree and the project was completed by a tree removal service from Stanton. Another tree with state recognition is located just south of this one and city officials are hopeful it will not be affected by the disease.

Teachers from area participate in project American Independence

A number of teachers from the area who are participating in the Teaching American History Grant project entitled, American Independence: Myths & Realities, were given the opportunity to participate in a three and a half day Institute, Nov. 17-21, 2005, developed and hosted by the educational staff of Colonial Williamsburg.

Area teachers attending the workshop were: Peg Lutt, Wayne Community Schools; Pat Lutt of Wayne State College and Sister Maria Gabriella, a WSC student; and Sue Stingley, Mary Hansen, Patti Cunningham, all of Laurel-Concord School. The theme was "Becoming Americans" and the mission was to enrich history education and to develop citizens with a full appreciation for our heritage of democracy.

As a result of attending the Colonial Williamsburg Teacher Institute, the teachers are able to identify significant 17th and 18th century events that continue to shape and define our nation and understand how people of various cultural backgrounds interacted with one another during the 17th and 18th centuries.

The teachers are also able to engage students in exploration of their Native American, European, and African economic, cultural, and political heritage. The teachers also learned and reviewed techniques that develop students' abilities to use higher level critical thinking skills by using primary source documents and artifacts.

By attending the workshop, a network was created in which participants and Colonial Williamsburg staff could acquire and exchange information about the 17th and 18th century history.

All teachers attending were required to create a classroom experience utilizing artifacts and resources gathered during the Colonial Williamsburg visit.

The teachers have used a variety of ways to bring history to life in their classrooms. One way was creating classroom projects. Peg Lutt's project, "A Toy and Game Collection," follows: "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." This familiar quote from the colonial period set Lutt to thinking about children of the 17th and 18th century compared to children in the 21st century. Children worked hard in Colonial days but when they had time to play they played games their parents and grandparents had played in days gone by.

"My grandchildren have games and gadgets now that were not around when I was a child! It has been fun to teach them about some of my old-fashioned fun," Lutt said.

She continued, "I found this list of popular colonial games and toys which names just a few: marbles, Jacob's ladder, hoops, ball and cup, spinning tops, puzzles, kites,

Tax credits increase energy security

By U.S. Senator Ben Nelson

Tax credits supported by Nebraska's Senator Ben Nelson go into effect this week, reducing energy costs for America's families and businesses. The various tax credits were developed to increase energy efficiency and reward purchasers of energy efficient appliances and products, as well as fuel efficient vehicles such as hybrids.

"National security is already a household term and energy security is about to become one, too," said Nelson. "Providing tax credits to promote energy efficiency is a smart start to defending our nation's energy security."

The tax credits could potentially reduce an energy-efficient consumer's 2006 federal tax bill by thousands of dollars. For example, the tax credit for the most fuel-efficient car is $3,400.

Specific tax benefits for homes include:

- $50 for purchasing an advanced main air circulating fan;
- $150 for installing a highly efficient furnace or boiler;
- $200 for installing energy efficient windows;
- $300 for purchasing a highly efficient central air conditioner, heat pump or water heater;
- 30 percent, or up to $2,000, for the purchase of solar water-heating equipment (this does not apply to equipment used to heat swimming pools or hot tubs).

Specific tax benefits for businesses include:

- 30 percent tax credit for the installation of qualifying solar equipment on buildings;
  - Business tax credits for companies that build highly energy efficient homes;
  - Credits for companies that manufacture energy-efficient appliances such as dishwashers, clothes washers and refrigerators.
- The energy efficiency tax credits were signed into law in August 2005 as part of the landmark energy bill. The complete bill also included provisions to boost domestic energy production and improve U.S. energy independence by means such as ethanol.

For more information on how the energy efficiency tax credits affect you, please consult a tax professional or visit www.energy.gov/taxbreaks.htm to learn more about the Department of Energy's programs and initiatives.

Capitol View

Tax rates and video games are alike

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
Proposals to cut tax rates are akin to the latest video games.
Lots of them are out there, and practically everyone wants one.
With reductions in tax rates, as with video games, costs to the government and savings to individual taxpayers vary.
Advertising and endorsements can have a lot to do with the popularity of both.
Some would simply revise an earlier version: Some are entirely new.

Senator David Landis of Lincoln wants to reduce annual fees on cars and trucks by 50 percent. Most Nebraskans own one or the other, and lots of them own both. His plan is bound to garner popularity among some, especially those with newer vehicles that are hit with the highest fees.

Critics have already argued that the Landis plan is unpredictable, in that revenues generated by such fees vary with motor vehicle purchases. Landis says it is a good one because it would benefit so many folks.

Governor Dave Heineman wants lawmakers to trim income tax rates, saying it is a quality plan with a record of consistent performance and across-the-board popularity. He is right, in that there is always a market for what he is offering. Critics of reduced income tax rates, although there are not many, say people with the lowest incomes often need the greatest tax relief, and that they would not benefit so much from the income tax approach.

A reduction in the state's sales tax rate is what Senator Roger Wehrbein of Plattsmouth sees as worthwhile, as well as something that would keep a promise made to the public.

The last time the sales tax rate was increased, Wehrbein notes, it was generally represented to be a temporary thing. It was intended to help state government get through the tough economic times of recent years.

Wehrbein reasons that fair is fair. A perceived promise is a promise. Supporters of reducing the sales tax burden also argue that it is proportionately harder on those who have the least to spend. Someone who can afford a luxury car isn't likely to suffer immensely from paying sales tax. Someone who can barely afford rent and food may truly be stung by it.

Remember:
When government talks about cutting taxes, it isn't necessarily talking about collecting fewer tax dollars. It is almost never talking about reducing the amount spent on government, overall.

If economic times are good, people are likely to be spending more and earning more. A reduction in tax rates doesn't automatically equate to a reduction in tax take.

The view from here: It is more appropriate to refer to proposed cuts in tax rates than to proposed tax cuts.

Equally important is the fact that references to budget cuts often involve reducing the anticipated, or sought after increase in spending. That means that a "budget cut" for a given program doesn't always mean that the budget will actually be cut.

It's just like the thing about tax "cuts." It doesn't necessarily mean that the amount of taxes collected will actually be reduced.

Simple, eh?

Bruning unveils 2006 legislative crime package

Attorney General Jon Bruning unveiled his legislative crime package for the 2006 legislative session.

In addition to the sex offender legislation announced earlier, Bruning's 2006 legislative package includes three bills that protect Nebraskans. The first increases penalties for repeat drunk drivers. The second protects consumers when their personal information has been compromised during a security breach, and the third protects Nebraskans from the dangerous chemicals and waste left behind by meth cooks.

Bruning said, "This year's crime package includes a comprehensive overhaul of Nebraska's drunk driving statutes and increases penalties for repeat drunk drivers. These people are a menace to society and risk the lives of innocent Nebraskans every day. Our primary concern is protecting the public and this initiative goals a long way toward that goal."

State Sen. Mike Friend of Omaha, who will introduce the bill said, "This proposed legislation includes sweeping and common-sense changes to the DUI laws in our state. The penalty enhancements are geared toward dealing with the serious problem of repeat drunk driving offenses. I believe that it is a significant and a well-thought out initiative and I am looking forward to working with my colleagues on the issue."

The bill increases penalties for repeat DUI offenders and creates new offenses with enhanced penalties for those offenders whose blood alcohol content is at or above .15 percent. The enhanced provisions are among the criteria Nebraska must meet to qualify for $4.6 million in federal Alcohol Impaired Driving Countermeasure Grants over the next four years. The bill also increases penalties for leaving the scene of an accident and would allow the state to use blood drawn for medical purposes not only for DUI investigations, which current law allows, but also for DUI resulting in serious bodily injury, motor vehicle homicide and manslaughter.

The second initiative in the Attorney General's crime package requires companies to notify consumers when their personal information is compromised by a security breach.

"The face of crime has changed," said Bruning. "Those who steal from us are so anonymous that it can often take weeks or months before we know we are victims. We must be diligent in our efforts to protect our personal information, and this legislation will equip Nebraskans to detect and prevent identity theft."

Sen. Mick Mines of Blair, the introducer of the legislation, said, "Criminals know that identity theft is a low-risk, high-return offense, and Nebraska law must protect the privacy rights of our citizens."

The third component of the Attorney General's legislative package includes a bill that will protect Nebraskans from the dangerous effects of meth. The bill requires HHSS to ensure consistent cleanup of meth labs statewide.

Bruning said, "We've come a long way in the fight against meth but have more to do to protect our families from the hazardous and deadly chemicals meth cooks leave behind."

Celebrating progress

Members of the Wayne Ambassadors were on hand at the Sand Creek Post and Beam plant just east of Wayne last week. The company recently began construction on a 50' by 100' facility to be used for construction of the kit barns. Len Dickinson and Jule Goeller, owners of the corporation, are in the center of the photo. It is anticipated that the building will be completed by Feb. 1. At the present time, there are three full-time and three part-time employees with the firm.

jump ropes, London Bridge, hopscotch, leap frog, blind man's bluff, rocking horses, cards, jacks, ice sliding, sledding, Jack straws and swings. Do you recognize any? Are some unfamiliar? Children do still play some of these games at recess time like, tag, jump rope, hopscotch and hide - and - seek. That is good.

Many of these games helped children learn skills they would need later in life as farmers, merchants, and parents. Games taught children how to do things with their hands, to follow directions and rules, how to solve problems, and how to aim and throw. Games also taught children to be fair, to be patient while waiting for a turn and to use their imaginations!

Most toys were handmade from nature or common things around the house. Dolls were made from corn husks or rags. Leftover wood pieces, buttons and string were turned into spinning tops or noisemakers. Hoops from barrels were used in races.

"I purchased several wooden colonial toys while visiting Williamsburg and have shared them with the elementary classrooms," Lutt said. "It was fun and amusing to see how much the students enjoy these simple forms of entertainment. They were asking for more! So, before Christmas we learned several old fashioned games including: Last couple out, Button-button, I spy, Dots and dashes, Tongue twisters and Riddles. No electricity or batteries required. Fun, smiles, and laughter already included."

It was also the season for old-fashioned Christmas ideas. Along with toys from the Colonial period, it was fun to introduce children at our school to a bit of Williamsburg Christmas. Children had fun stringing popcorn and cranberries for their classroom tree and were challenged to make a gift for a classmate. The catch was they could spend no money, their gift had to be hand made and it had to fit into a stocking! They could use things they might find already around the house like string, paper, baking ingredients or scraps of material.

It was fun to help them sneak their surprise into a classmate's stocking that was "hung by the chimney with care". Some of the things created included drawings, friendship bracelets, paper and glitter ornaments, fudge, hair ribbons, and soap carvings. Students also tried their hand at the craft of silhouettes. Students took special care to trace a friend's shadow so that each child had a special gift of their own silhouette to give as a gift to someone; an interesting way to "capture one's likeness."

Teachers from over 40 schools in northeast Nebraska are participating in the three year program (American Independence: Myths and Realities) that has developed five goals: 1. Form a cadre of Nebraska educators dedicated to improvement of American History instruction, 2. Provide graduate level course work for teacher participants, 3. Develop and post on-line lesson plans for all teachers across the nation, 4. Develop an on-line American History course to be delivered through Wayne State College for the duration of the project and beyond, and 5. Examine the impact of project staff development on teacher self-efficacy and student academic performance by conducting a three-year qualitative and quantitative applied research study.

Wildcats pass first two NSIC tests

Shot inside the final 10 seconds boosts Wildcats in win against Northern State

The Wayne State women's basketball team improved to 12-2 last weekend with a pair of home wins to open the conference season.

Wildcat freshman Kylee McGill came up big in a home win against Northern State on Dec. 6 as she hit a baseline jump with nine seconds left in the game to give WSC a 61-60 win against Northern State.

WSC and Northern traded leads in the opening half as both teams shot well. WSC moved to a 22-18 lead in the opening 10 minutes of the contest as the Wildcats hit 56 percent from the floor.

Both teams went ice cold to finish the half as the score was knotted at 27-all at intermission. WSC made just one of their last 15 shots to end the half, while Northern State was 3 of 15 to close out the first half.

In the second half, WSC used back-to-back three pointers from Ashley Arndorfer and Lauren Gustafson to take a 50-41 lead with 10:14 left in the game.

But Northern State slowly chipped away at the lead and took a 59-57 lead with :59 remaining following a Carolin Becker three point play.

Northern's Sara Jensen made one of two free throws with 36 seconds left to put Northern in front 60-57.

A jumper by McGill with 23 seconds left pulled WSC within one point at 60-59.

WSC then forced a turnover and got the ball back with 17 seconds left and worked the ball on the baseline to McGill, who drained a 10 foot jumper with nine seconds left to give WSC a 61-60 lead.

Northern State's Sara Jensen put up a running jumper from just inside the free throw line as time expired, rolling off the rim to give Wayne State the win.

Wayne State had three players in double figures, led by Kristen Humphries with 13 points.

Lauren Gustafson and Nicole Gruntorad each contributed 12 points for the Wildcats.

WSC shot 22 of 59 from the floor for 37.3 percent, 7 of 23 from the three point line (30.4 percent) and 10 of 14 at the free throw line. The Wildcats had just 11 turnovers in the game.

Both teams ended the half with three pointers to give WSC a 38-35 halftime lead.

In the second half, WSC put together a 15-0 run early in the half to take control of the game and never look back in the win.

WHS boys now 6-6 on season

Wayne High improved to .500 on the season with a win against Laurel-Concord on Tuesday night to snap a three-game losing skid.

The Blue Devils, now 6-6, will travel to Hartington Cedar Catholic on Friday, Jan. 20.

Recaps for recent Wayne High contests include:

Wayne vs. Norfolk Catholic

Defensive adjustments thwarted Wayne in picking up a key Mid-State Conference win at Norfolk on Jan. 5 as Wayne slipped to the Knights 66-53.

Leading Norfolk Catholic by six at the half, the Knights outscored Wayne 34-15 in the second half to seal the win.

"We played a great offensive first half," Wayne coach Rocky Ruhl said. "Fouls, missed free throws and turnovers are starting to hurt us down the stretch. We need to improve on execution and value our possessions, especially in the second half."

Nathan Summerfield paced Wayne with 12 points and added nine rebounds, while Ransen Broders notched 10 grabs and eight points. Reggie Ruhl also had eight points for the Blue Devils.

Wayne vs. Boone Central

Cold shooting in the second and fourth quarters allowed Boone Central to sneak past Wayne High 58-45 in a Mid-State road loss at Albion on Jan. 7.

The Cardinals turned around a two-point Wayne advantage after the first frame with 14-8 second quarter performance.

Coach Ruhl said he had hoped Wayne could have done better from the charity stripe as the Blue Devils were 17 of 27 on the night.

"We got the ball where we wanted it, but just didn't execute," he said. "On the road you have to make free throws and we just didn't take advantage of that opportunity. We played hard but came up short on the scoreboard."

Broders led Wayne with 15 points, while Reggie Ruhl added eight.

Summerfield and Broders pulled down five and four rebounds, respectively.

Northern State kept the lead until WSC senior forward Tom Sherlock sank two free throws with 36 seconds left to give the Wildcats a 35-34 halftime lead.

The second half started with Wayne State scoring the first five points to take a 40-34 advantage.

Northern State stormed back and tied the game at 43-all after Busack hit a jumper with 14:55 left in the game.

Winside takes fourth at home triangular

Winside placed fourth and Howells claimed championship team honors at the Winside Invitational on Saturday.

Laurel-Concord also traveled to the meet and placed 11th overall in the team standings.

Winside tallied one gold medalist, one second, four third-place finishes and one wrestler at fourth to finish with 118.5 team points, behind Howells (191.5), Ainsworth (159.5) and Randolph (145).

Dewey Bowers led the Wildcats in the 135-pound class with a 3-0 finish on the day and a 7-5 finals finish over Ty Kenner of Ainsworth.

Bowers caught Kenner in a five-point move in the second period. Kenner was previously undefeated with a 14-0 record.

Jordan Brummels (130) went 2-1 at the meet as Winside's only second-place finisher.

Perhaps Winside's biggest surprise of the day was Jared Brockman (275) who finished in third place with a 3-1 record after bumping up to heavyweight to compete. Brockman only weighed 204 at the start of the tournament and competed against a couple of wrestlers who weighed much more.

"We had eight individuals winning matches throughout the day out of the ten wrestlers who competed," Winside coach Paul Sok said. "I feel that we still need to keep working on our condition and bottom position at this time."

Other third place finishes went to Andrew Sok (135), Tucker Bowers (145) and Cody Lange (215). Josh Staub (140) took fourth.

Other Winside finishers included: Chase Langenberg (160, 0-2) and Ethan Taylor (171, 1-2).

Arik Diediker was the top finisher for Laurel-Concord with his fourth-place placing against Andrew Ford of Ainsworth.

Other finishes for the Bears were: Dan Martindale (112, 0-2); Jesse Gildesleeve (125, 0-2); Kyle Knudsen (135, 0-2); Ben Kneiff (140, 1-2); Marcus Jensen (145, 0-2); Ian Engerbreten (171, 0-2); Scott Surber (189, 1-2); 275 John Mullen (275, 0-2) and Jarrod Henderson (275, 0-2).

Winside will have back-to-back meets this weekend as the Wildcats travel to a dual on Friday at Norfolk Catholic and compete Saturday at the Battle Creek Invitational.

Laurel-Concord will compete at Wakefield on Monday, Jan. 16.

JV dealt recent losses

The Wayne High JV girls basketball team is working hard to come off a recent four loss skid in games, with Columbus, Scotus, Pierce, Boone Central and Laurel Concord.

"The girls need to keep their heads up," coach Courtney Maas said. "It is hard to keep having fun when we are losing. Our record of 2-6 doesn't show how hard we play or how much improvement we've made as we have lost four games within five points."

Next action for the team will be at home this Friday, Jan. 13, against Norfolk Catholic and Tuesday, Jan. 17 at Crofton.

Results from the team's recent games include:

Wayne vs. Columbus Scotus
Turnovers proved to be the difference-maker in a close home contest with Columbus Scotus on Dec. 20 as Wayne lost 31-25 after a game where the Blue Devils turned the ball over 28 times.

"Scotus did very well against our press," Maas said. "We played good defense and we proved that by holding them to 31 points, well below their average of 50 points a game."

Samantha Dunklau was Wayne's leading scoring with seven points and Maddy Moser led the squad with 10 rebounds.

Wayne 5 6 8 6 - 25
Col. Scotus 7 6 10 8 - 31

Wayne scoring: Justine Carroll 4, Kaitlyn Centrone 4, Samantha Dunklau 7, Megan Loberg 1, Maddy Moser 2, Nicole Rauner 5, Alesha Finkey 2.

Wayne vs. Pierce

Pierce outscored visiting Wayne by three points in the closing quarter and took a 46-43 win on Jan. 6.

"I thought we played hard, but we need to learn to play hard the entire game," Maas said.

Nicole Rauner poured in 18 points to lead all scorers, while Moser pulled down six rebounds for WHS.

Wayne 10 7 16 10 - 43
Pierce 5 6 22 13 - 46

Wayne scoring: Justine Carroll 5, Kaitlyn Centrone 2, Samantha Dunklau 7, Maddy Moser 6, Nicole Rauner 18, Alesha Finkey 5.

Wayne vs. Boone Central

Host Boone Central jumped out to an 18-7 advantage in the first quarter and held off Wayne down the stretch to claim a 35-26 win against the Blue Devils on Jan. 7, at Albion.

"We played good defense and forced 38 turnovers," Maas said. "However, Boone Central also played some good defense and we had a difficult time scoring. We shot 20-percent and that won't win us games."

Rauner paced Wayne for a second consecutive game with 13 points.

Moser and Justin Carroll each cleaned the glass for four rebounds apiece.

The Blue Devils finished the game 4 of 11 from the free throw line.

Wayne 7 7 5 7 - 26
Boone Central 18 8 6 3 - 35

Wayne scoring: Justine Carroll 2, Samantha Dunklau 1, Megan Loberg 3, Maddy Moser 2, Nicole Rauner 13, Alesha Finkey 3, Megan Nissen 2.

Wayne vs. Laurel-Concord

Wayne used a balanced attack but came out on the short end of the game as Laurel-Concord downed the Blue Devils 30-25 at home on Tuesday, Jan. 10.

Rauner finished with 12 points to lead WHS and Moser recorded at team-leading seven rebounds.

"We are having a hard time playing hard the whole game," Maas said. "I would say our biggest problem that really showed in this game was our scoring as we only had five players score. We need to have more people step up and make some shots."

Wayne 6 3 7 9 - 25
LCHS 8 6 9 7 - 30

Wayne scoring: Samantha Dunklau 3, Megan Loberg 4, Maddy Moser 2, Nicole Rauner 12, Alesha Finkey 2.

SAFE WINTER DRIVING TIPS

- ➔ Clear snow and ice from windows, lights, windshield wipers, the hood, and the roof of your vehicle, before driving. The windshield-washer reserve should be filled with a freeze-resistant cleaning solution.
- ➔ When you see plows, stay at least 200 feet behind them.
- ➔ Leave room for stopping. Brake early and carefully.
- ➔ Don't use cruise control. The short touch of your brakes to deactivate the cruise control can cause you to lose control of your vehicle.
- ➔ Pay attention. Look ahead to see what other vehicles are doing. That way you will know about any impending road or weather conditions.
- ➔ Watch your speed. Even if your car handles well in snow and ice, other drivers' cars may not. Drive according to the conditions: Don't exceed the speed limit and drive slowly in harsh conditions. Don't try to out-drive bad weather.

Field of Dreams and a baseball player from Pilger

By Samuel Burris

The movie "Field of Dreams," starring Kevin Costner was all about building a baseball playing diamond in an Iowa corn field. Baseball in northeast Nebraska in the 1930's was not exactly like that movie, which included spirits of long dead baseball players, but there was a lot of effort, inspiration and even fame for some of the real life players of that era.

Back in the 30's, many of the baseball games in northeast Nebraska were played on rural farm fields. These fields were sometimes located in or near small towns but were also dotted here and there throughout the farming areas. Because most the players were farmers or farmhands, they needed facilities close by their work where they could gather to play more easily.

Though the fields would be considered crude compared to the diamonds of today, they were more than adequate for many young men, improving their skills in the game, providing healthy rivalries and allowing for a lot of fun. Families enjoyed the opportunity for socialization, exercise and recreation. The 30's were tough times as it was during the depression so baseball games then were a community activity as well as a diversion!

Pasture land was often chosen for a baseball field as it was flat and already established. These "fields of dreams" didn't have the same smooth surfaces as big city fields had but lively times were had and sometimes bleachers with backstops were built in some form or another.

My own father, Clifton Burris, played in those days and was a member of the "Humber Team." His team was named after a creek that flows through the farm lands northeast of Pilger. I recall my dad pointing to many farm fields as we drove the country roads around Pilger in the 70's, 80's and 90's, saying where the baseball diamonds were.

My father loved baseball and played the sport into his 30's when he switched to softball and then quit. Later, he chatted about the good old days with former players from surrounding towns.

Both minor and major league players emerged from those early teams, like Bud Tinning (Lyle Forrest "Bud" Tinning) who worked his way up through the minor leagues to pitch for the Chicago Cubs, including in the famous 1932 World Series against the New York Yankees. Baseball was often played for the love of the game rather than the money, baseball seasons were short and salaries were low so players had off season jobs.

Tinning was born in 1906 into the Arthur Tinning family. Siblings included two sisters, Mabel and Marie, and two brothers, Oger and Dewey. The Tinnings lived on a farm northwest of Pilger. The Tinning children lost their mother to childbirth when Bud was just two years old. The Tinning children worked hard on the farm and then played hard, with baseball being the most popular sport. Bud grew up listening to major league games broadcast on the radio. In his teens, he started playing on the local diamonds.

Bud attended Pilger High School but like so many during the depression, helped on the farm and did not graduate. Bud was an excellent pitcher and later joined the Pilger Town Team. Marty Willers (deceased) was catcher and said Bud was known as the hardest thrower around with an excellent fast ball.

Bud Tinning left the Pilger area to play for Omaha in the old Western League and later played for the 1930 Minneapolis Millers. He was moved to Des Moines, Iowa, before being called up by Chicago. Lou Gehrig wrote, "Lyle hung up one of the most sensational minor league records ever established in 1931 while pitching for Des Moines in the Western League when he won 24 games and was beaten only twice."

Brought up to the Chicago Cubs in 1932 (the year the team won the National League Pennant), Bud wore number 22 on his uniform, was 5'11", weighed 198 pounds, threw right handed and was a switch hitter at the plate. The Baseball Almanac described him as "a crafty pitcher who started about one third of his games. Perhaps his finest effort for the Cubs came in relief when he threw 12 -2/3 shutout innings in an Aug. 17, 1932 Chicago win."

During the 1932 World Series, Bud pitched in two games against the Yankees, both in relief. In game three he pitched in the ninth inning and in game four the seventh. One of those games is perhaps the most talked about of any in baseball history which was game three in which Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees is said to have pointed to a spot in center field as if to predict a home run and then, sure enough, followed through.

Bud moved to Chicago where he pitched three years with the Chicago Cubs and then one with the St. Louis Cardinals (in 1935). He regularly returned to Pilger to visit, staying with his brother, Dewey, his wife and their two daughters. The brothers often hunted pheasants and Bud packed cleaned birds in dry ice so he and his friends in Chicago could feast.

While in the majors, Bud married his wife, Inez, who was from Terra Haute, Ind. She joined him on some of his Pilger visits. The couple later divorced without having any children.

When back in Pilger from Chicago or St. Louis during his pitching days, Bud and other men played baseball at the Pilger town diamond and community members would watch. Dewey's daughters (Bud's nieces) were so proud they told everyone that Bud was their uncle.

Bud became part of the St. Louis Cardinals as a result of a trade on Nov. 21, 1934, when he and Dick Ward went to St. Louis for pitcher Tex Carleton. At St. Louis, Bud was a teammate of well known players such as Leo Durocher, Dizzy and Paul Dean.

Bud spent most of his adult life after baseball away from the corn fields of northeast Nebraska but in death he returned. He died in January, 1961, in Evansville, Ind. and his body was sent back to Pilger for burial. Funeral services for Bud were held at the Pilger Methodist Church. He is buried in the Pilger Cemetery, one mile north of Pilger.

(Note: Sam Burris was born and raised in the Pilger/Winside region. Prior to retirement, Sam worked for 34 years as an educator, the last 20 years for the Hawaii State Dept. of Education as a school counselor. He's now living in Pattaya, Thailand with his wife, Kanchana). If anyone would like to communicate with Burris, his email address is: samuelu2001@yahoo.com

With the start of the New Year, many people will resolve to improve their financial security by taking advantage of investment opportunities. To steer clear of risky ventures, the Better Business Bureau is urging would-be investors to carefully evaluate the investment product or program, its promoters and its sales pitch.

"Every day, BBBs hear from consumers who invested in what they thought were solid and sure money-makers. They abandoned their common sense and succumbed to enticing promotions that were short on details but full of dollar signs," said Steve Cole, president and CEO of the Council of Better Business Bureaus.

According to Scott Mecham, president of the BBB serving Nebraska, South Dakota and Southwest Iowa, "Investment schemers frequently try to peddle products using sales pitches that are 'tied to the headlines.'"

Recent suspect promotions include oil-and-gas schemes (higher gas prices are on everyone's mind), bird flu stock scams (from companies claiming to have products to fight bird flu), "get rich quick" real estate investment seminars (to take advantage of soaring housing prices), advance stock notifications for Mexico-based companies (to serve growing Hispanic populations), and investment pools (to help hurricane and tsunami victims).

To avoid falling victim to fraud, the BBB advised investors to be particularly cautious of any of the following red flags:

- Words like "risk free," "guarantee," "high return," or "limited offer." According to government regulators, no financial investment is "risk free" and a high rate of return means greater risk.
- Offshore scams and investment opportunities in other countries, particularly if they claim to be "tax-free" and "confidential." If you send your money abroad and something goes wrong, it will be particularly difficult to locate your money.

- Promises of "quick" profits or "fast" cash, "ground floor" opportunities, offers to share "inside" information, and pressure to invest immediately because the "market is moving."

"Before making an investment decision, get the facts in writing," said Scott Mecham. "At the very least, you should obtain and verify the following information."

- If the investment and seller are licensed and registered. Check with the U.S. Securities & Exchange Commission (www.sec.gov) and the state securities agency in the state (www.nasaa.org) where you live.

- If there is a record of complaints about the promoter or the investment company at the BBB, the SEC or the state securities agency.

- The costs to buy, hold and sell the investment.

- The risk that you could lose the money you invest.

- The rate of return to expect on your money and when.

- The company's headquarter location, how long it has been in business, and its product or service.

- What the promoter is being paid to tout the investment opportunity.

In addition, the BBB advises investors to always request and carefully read through financial information about the investment, such as a prospectus, annual report, offering circular and financial statements.

"Compare the written information to what you were told or read online. Watch out if you are told there is no such information available," the BBB president said.

Martin Luther King, Jr. celebration set

The 2006 Martin Luther King, Jr. celebration at Wayne State College will be Tuesday, Jan. 17, in the Frey Conference Suite, WSC student center. The event is presented by the WSC Office of Multicultural Affairs and Minorities in Accordance Coming Together (MACT), a WSC student organization. The evening will begin with dinner at 6 p.m. Tickets for the dinner are $10, or $7 for students with a WSC meal plan. They are available at the WSC Multicultural Center at 1205 Schreiner, or by calling 402-375-7749. The remainder of the evening's events, beginning at 7 p.m., are open to the public at no charge. Featured speaker for the evening will be Yano Jones of Omaha. A traditional Ghanaian drum and dance group, Ashanti, will perform at 8 p.m. Jones is in his second year as assistant director of recruitment services at the University of Nebraska-Omaha. A 2002 graduate of Wayne State College, Jones has worked at Wayne State in the Office of Multicultural Affairs as a student advisor and multicultural recruiter. He is a former student-athlete on the UNO and Wayne State football teams and also played football with the Omaha Beef indoor/arena football team. He currently plays indoor professional football for the Iowa Blackhawk.

Adversity and diversity are some of the things Jones knows best. During his first two years at the UNO as a wide receiver, he helped UNO to its first outright NCC conference championship. In the next year tragedy would strike. His brother was killed, and Jones was assaulted on campus. He was hospitalized with no feeling in hands and feet, not knowing whether he would play football again.

After transferring to Wayne State, Jones played cornerback and was a team captain. He then played professional indoor football with the Omaha Beef, and faced one of the biggest obstacles in his life, non-Hodgkin's lymphoma. He has now been cancer-free for three years. Jones says his biggest desire is "to help people understand that they can do anything they put their mind to regardless of race, gender and ethnicity."

Ashanti returns to Wayne State College for the 2006 Martin Luther King, Jr. celebration. A traditional Ghanaian drum and dance group based in Lincoln, Ashanti also performs world beat (Hi-life music, Sukuf, Soca, calypso, reggae, funk and blues). Members of the group hail from Ghana, Kenya, Sudan and the United States. The 90-minute performance is spiced with narrative about the culture and traditions of various African nations.

Alyssa Hansen receives honors from Greenville College

Greenville College in Greenville, Ill. has released the names of 375 students who qualified for honors at the conclusion of the fall semester. The list includes Alyssa Hansen, a sophomore College Scholar, and daughter of Dan and Bonnie Hansen of Carroll.

To qualify for the Dean's List, freshman and sophomores are required to maintain a 3.25 grade point average (4.0 scale). Juniors and seniors must have a 3.5 GPA. A College Scholar is a student who has made the Dean's List for three or more consecutive semesters.

BBB calls for integrity award applicants

The Better Business Bureau announced recently that the competition for the 2006 BBB Integrity Awards is now open. All businesses, not-for-profit organizations and charities located in the Bureau's service area that have been operating under the same ownership for three years or more are eligible to apply.

The mission of the BBB is to promote and foster the highest ethical relationship between business and the public through voluntary self-regulation, consumer and business education and service excellence. "In this spirit, the BBB Integrity Awards were created to promote the importance of ethical business practices and to gain public recognition for businesses in Nebraska, South Dakota and Southwest Iowa that 'go above and beyond' in serving their customers and their communities," stated Scott Mechem, BBB president.

An independent panel of judges from the business and academic community will select the award recipients. There are four award categories for businesses and not-for-profit organizations based on the number of employees: 100+ employees, 25-99 employees, 6-24 employees and 1-5 employees. There is also an award category for charities.

The Better Business Bureau will have two separate Integrity Award competitions and events. Companies and organizations located within the Omaha and Lincoln metropolitan areas should submit their applications for the metro area where they primarily operate. Applicants outside of these metropolitan areas may choose to have their entries judged in either the competition held in Omaha, Nebraska or the one in Lincoln, Nebraska. A business may enter only one competition.

"The BBB encourages companies that stand up for standout service to apply for a BBB Integrity Award," stated Margo Riekes, BBB Communications Director. "It is a great honor to be recognized as a company that conducts its business ethically," she said. The application deadline is March 1, 2006.

For more information call the Bureau at 402-391-7612 #311 or 800-649-6814 #311. An Application Guide and Application Form are available on the BBB Web site www.bbbnebraska.org.

Gas, diesel prices likely will hold steady in 2006

Barring another major disruption, gasoline and diesel prices are expected to hold steady in 2006, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln agricultural economist says.

With world demand for energy growing faster than crude oil is being produced, Nebraskans will have to continue to budget more money for gasoline and diesel expenses, said Dennis Conley, agricultural economist in the university's Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Unleaded fuel soared to more than $3 a gallon in 2005 and diesel to about $2.75. Prices have dropped but consumers shouldn't expect big price declines in 2006. Even before hurricanes Katrina and Rita hit the Gulf States this fall, crude oil prices and wholesale gasoline prices were increasing, Conley said. It was Hurricane Katrina then Hurricane Rita that damaged many Gulf Coast oil refineries that really spiked prices.

"This created severe shortages. In terms of production capacity in the world market the amount of carryover is still at its lowest levels ever," Conley said.

Limited supplies and reduced refining capacity mean even a minor disruption in 2006 will again send prices soaring.

Conley said gasoline and diesel prices are following similar patterns. He expects unleaded gas prices to be around $2-$2.30 and diesel prices to be around $2.40-$2.60 in 2006.

Fuel prices actually were relatively low for much of the 1990s, Conley said. Today's prices seem high compared with the recent past but they're actually comparable to early 1980s prices.

"Paying $2.40 for gas is the price we saw 22 years ago in the early 1980s if we were to figure in inflation," he said. "Since that period, prices were a lot lower."

Crude oil, diesel and gas prices all are trending upward, he said.

However, world demand should

Siouxland Community Blood Bank earns AABB Accreditation

Siouxland Community Blood Bank has been granted accreditation by AABB, according to Janette Twait, CEO.

Accreditation follows an intensive on-site assessment by specially trained AABB assessors and establishes that the level of medical, technical and administrative performance within the facility meets or exceeds the standards set by AABB.

By successfully meeting those requirements, Siouxland Community Blood Bank joins approximately 1,700 similar facilities across the United States and abroad that have earned AABB Accreditation.

decline somewhat in 2006. "With the rise in price people aren't buying as much gas anymore," Conley said.

While most fuel prices are trending higher, natural gas prices should go down in 2006. Natural gas is plentiful and price increases reflected distribution disruptions caused by the hurricanes.

"When the hurricanes hit, natural gas went up to $14 per million cubic feet because it disrupted wells, pipelines and delivery," he said.

Now, natural gas is down to $12 per million cubic feet, and the projection for 2006 is around $8 per million cubic feet. It is difficult to project how natural gas prices will impact nitrogen fertilizer prices, Conley said, but fertilizer prices are still going to be higher in 2006 than in 2005.

Heithold named to Dean's List

Daniel Heithold of Wayne was named to the Dean's List for the fall quarter, ending Dec. 15 at Southeast Community College, Beatrice, Lincoln and Milford.

A grade point average of 3.5 (B+) must be achieved on a 4.0 (A) scale to be so honored.

Daniel is the son of Bryan and Mary Heithold of Wayne and a 2005 graduate of Wayne High School.

Commonwealth funds scam attempted in Nebraska

The Nebraska Department of Banking and Finance (NDBF) issued an alert for former Commonwealth Savings Company depositors against paying fees for supposed cash refunds. NDBF received a consumer call concerning correspondence from an entity in California claiming to represent the receiver of the insolvent Nebraska industrial loan and investment company, Commonwealth Savings Company.

The letter apparently requests an upfront fee of 20 percent of the amount of funds supposedly being held. Such letters are fraudulent. The receivership was concluded several years ago, and any unclaimed funds would have been turned over to the State Treasurer.

NDBF recommends that Nebraskans not respond to these letters, and requests that anyone who has been contacted by mail or phone concerning Commonwealth to call the Department toll free at (877) 471-3445.

Act quickly if a debt problem is developing

Don't wait to act. The sooner that you recognize that there is a problem developing, the less costly it will be financially.

If your credit balance is $8,000, and you make minimum monthly payments at 18% interest, it will take you 25 years and 7 months to pay off the debt. Doing this, you would pay $15,432 in interest charges, (almost twice the beginning balance), bringing the total you pay to $23,432.

If you are having trouble making debt payments, you may start to add extra charges; things like late payments, fees for returned checks, higher interest, over-credit limits, etc. These are charges that you want to avoid. They will add to your over-all bill.

You also have a lot more negotiating power if you contact a creditor before a debt is turned over to a collection agency. If a bill is turned over to a collection agency, the collection agency will have little interest in working out any kind of more favorable arrangements. The original creditor will be more interested in negotiating, since they will get more total dollars than if they have to pay the additional charges of the collection agency.

Let the creditor know you have a problem. Be realistic about what you can pay. Be consistent in following through on any kind of agreement you promise the creditor.

Don't ask for credit limit increases.

Beware of debt consolidation. Most consumer finance companies that offer this service charge very high interest rates.

January is Cervical Cancer Awareness Month

January is Cervical Cancer Awareness Month, designated to call attention to this disease and the importance of regular Pap tests. The Nebraska Health and Human Services Every Woman Matters (EWM) program encourages all women to get a Pap test on an annual basis.

Introduced in 1943, the Pap test is the most successful screening tool developed for cervical cancer. Prior to its availability, cervical cancer was the leading cause of cancer death in women in the United States. Now cervical cancer ranks 14th and accounts for less than one percent of cancer deaths in the United States.

"Deaths from cervical cancer could drop even lower if more women routinely had a Pap test," said Dr. Joann Schaefer, Chief Medical Officer for the Nebraska Health and Human Services System. "Because cervical cancer produces no symptoms in the early stage, regular screening is extremely important." The Pap test is a simple procedure for collecting a sample of cells from a woman's cervix and is presently done to 50 million women a year in the United States. Sixty to 80 percent of invasive cervical cancer cases diagnosed each year occur in women who have not had a Pap test for five years or more. Currently in Nebraska, Asian women have a high incidence of cervical cancer. Between 1990 and 2002, 27 cases of invasive cervical cancer were diagnosed in Nebraska's Asian population, making it that group's fourth most frequently diagnosed cancer. This translates into an average annual rate of 28.1 per 100,000 for Asian women, compared to 8.8 per 100,000 for White women during the same period.

Every Woman Matters provides cervical cancer screening services to women age 40 to 64. Women under age 40 who have developed a cervical abnormality may also be eligible to enroll in EWM for temporary diagnostic services.

Since EWM began in 1992, the program has provided 72,409 Pap tests for Nebraska women. During that time, EWM has diagnosed 38 cases of invasive cervical cancer. The cure rate for cervical cancer is more than 90 percent when diagnosed early. Since 1992, 14 Nebraska women have died from this disease. Yet, as a result of early diagnosis using the Pap test, death from cervical cancer is almost completely avoidable.

EWM provides annual health screenings for breast and cervical cancer and cardiovascular and diabetes screening to women from age 40 to 64 to help diagnose diseases early, when they can be treated most effectively.

As a program of the Nebraska Health and Human Services System, Every Woman Matters offers annual exams and personalized health information and support to women age 40 to 64 with limited or no health insurance and a low to medium income.

For more information about EWM, call 1-800-532-2227.

Checking things out

Northeast Equipment held its annual John Deere Days last week. Among the activities held throughout the day were a video of new equipment, the opportunity to register all farm equipment and the traditional meal. Those in attendance were able to view several pieces of new equipment and a number of youngsters took turns pretending to 'farm.'

City of Laurel is awarded grant from NDEQ

The City of Laurel was awarded a grant in the amount $111,529 from the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality's Litter Reduction and Recycling Grant Program. Altogether, the state received 63 applications requesting more than $1.98 million for letter reduction and recycling projects. A total of more than $1.3 million was awarded to 55 projects throughout Nebraska.

The grant program provides funds annually to Nebraska projects in three areas: Public education, cleanup, and recycling. The funds awarded to Laurel through recycling funds will be used for a new building to house the city's current recycling program.

Laurel has been operating a recycling program since 1991. The city will use the assistance from DEQ to expand its local recycling program into a regional recycling campaign.

"The grant funded projects provide innovative ways to educate the public about litter reduction and recycling and will reduce the amount of material sent to Nebraska's landfills," said Mike Linder, Director of NDEQ.

Poster contest scheduled for National Ag Week

The Nebraska Department of Agriculture (NDA) encourages all first through sixth grade Nebraska youth to participate in the third annual Nebraska Department of Agriculture's Agriculture Week in Nebraska Poster Contest.

"Last year, we received 1,364 posters from Nebraska students," said NDA Director Greg Ibach. "The contest provides teachers with another opportunity to help educate their students on Nebraska's number one industry, agriculture."

This year's theme is "The Story of Nebraska Agriculture."

2. Third and fourth grade students;
3. Fifth and sixth grade students.

The winning entries will be featured on the NDA web site, and possibly on posters, promotional materials and other publications.

Holiday happenings winding down

More warm weather, isn't it great? We will take it when we can, because they remind us that one year ago, there was eight inches of snow on the ground and it was cold!

Did you watch the Rose Bowl game? I confess I went to bed, I was working last week and I was very tired by 10 pm. But I was rooting for Texas, and it felt good to read about Vince Young's feats in the paper the next morning. I was also glad to read he is going pro, since we play Texas next year! It was interesting to listen to all the conversation about him at Tabitha the next day. Everyone seemed suitably impressed.

Our tree has its ornaments off, and is waiting for someone strong to carry it to the store room. Our chaplain at Tabitha insisted that we observe the 12 days of Christmas and none of the trees there came down until after Epiphany. Today, everything looked kind of bare. I can see why we like to celebrate Valentine's; we need something bright in the long winter.

I received one more e-mail regarding Christmas generosity. This was a photo of Arlington cemetary with wreaths on the tombstones. The caption read that the wreaths, five thousand of them, were donated every year by the Worcester Wreath Company of Harrington, Maine. The company also provides the trucking to haul them and a lot of schools in Maine schedule field trips to DC so that the school children can help place them. It was a beautiful sight, and certainly an example of the holiday spirit. We are also still receiving cards for the season; the last one arrived on Saturday. That's fine, it actually gives us more time to read them. I don't mind the printed letter at all, it's better than the card that just has a name signed at the bottom.

We had more company this weekend; Mike's cousin and his wife from Tucson. We had good breakfast conversation regarding their mothers, sisters from a family of eleven who grew up at Huntley. The youngest wrote a little book for a family reunion a few years ago and I got it out after this couple left. It's called "Papa, I Want to go to School" because they all stopped going to school after eighth grade and many of them went on as adults because they had such a thirst for education. The youngest rode a bike 60 miles to attend Hastings College. And, of course, that wasn't on paved road, or even much gravel. One of the oldest completed high school by correspondence so she could enter a nurses training school in Chicago.

I wonder if I would have had the fortitude and desire to accomplish these things. It just makes me appreciate parents who said, "When you go to college", not if you go.

Opportunities available for enthusiastic entrepreneurs

Nebraska agriculture tends to revolve around conventional crops and livestock such as corn, soybeans, cattle, sheep and swine. However, a wide variety of alternative products can be successfully grown and marketed within the state.

The span of alternative products in Nebraska cover a broad range. Pasture-raised poultry and vineyard grapes are two such examples. However, alternative products do not need to be "extreme." Garden tive products. Roadside stands are very convenient because the producer can work around his or her own schedule. However, constant hours of operation and diverse quality products are needed to satisfy customers and ensure future business.

Some producers contact restaurants for possible sales. This is especially common in high-end restaurants where chefs are normally looking for locally grown products that can be featured in their menus. In these situations, it is a good idea to contact chefs to see what types of products they are most interested in.

Local grocery stores may also be willing to sell alternative products. However, providing the store with a steady supply throughout the year is often difficult, if not impossible, to accomplish.

Nebraska recently began its own food co-op to provide a market for alternative products. In the organization, grower members provide the co-op with their products that are then sold directly to consumers, restaurants or the wholesale market. Community Supported Agriculture also is a growing trend in the Midwest. This option allows growers to sell shares to consumers who are interested in their product. For example, a shareholder may receive a bag full of vegetables each week during the growing season in return for his or her share. This method works well because the buyer and seller share in both the bounty and risk of gardening.

As with all aspects of the marketing world, communication is the key to success. Often times, the best marketing tool is word of mouth. In other words, make sure the product being sold is worth talking about.

fruits and vegetables are also an excellent choice for someone interested in alternative agriculture.

Jim Peterson UNL Extension Educator says marketing of these products can be one of the challenges. One of the easiest ways to begin selling a product is by taking part in a local farmer's market. These events are fun, provide easy access to people who want to buy garden products and provide a starting point for gaining name recognition. Successful vendors must provide consumers with a reason to stop and look at the products they have to offer. This can be done by featuring a particularly unique product and providing customers with a wide variety of products to choose from.

Managing a roadside stand is another option for selling alterna-
