Trail construction topic of discussion

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Bids could be taken yet this summer for Phase II of the Walking/ Biking Trail following discussion and comments at Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Dave Johnson with Olsson Associates, told the council of a proposal to have city employees perform certain portions of the project and to replace the concrete in rural areas of the trail with a crushed rock alternative. These changes in the original proposal would result in substantial savings to the city.

Phase II of the trail begins at Henry Victor Park on the south edge of Wayne and runs north and west, through the Wayne County Fairgrounds and continues north and east, ending at Rice Auditorium on the Wayne State College campus.

Several people at Tuesday's meeting spoke in favor of the trail.

Mark Evetovich said he and his family use the current trail on a regular basis and noted that it "provides a safe place for kids to ride, walk and learn to roller-blade."

Charles Shapiro said "the trail is being used. I would like to see the whole thing (Phase II) concrete. I think we need to look at the long range and do what is best for the city."

Several council members and those in the audience also voiced the opinion that the trail has been and will continue to be a good drawing point for those wishing to move to the city and the city should move forward with plans to complete the second portion of the project.

No action was taken on a claim submitted to the city by Austin Jeffries for $2,620.91. The amount represents damage to Jeffries vehicle and items taken from it while it was impounded in the city's impound yard.

The council approved a request from Mena Dalal for $800 to provide plastic edgeline in favor of the trail.

Letters

Thanks for coverage

Dear Wayne Herald,
I want to personally thank you for covering the Laurel sports throughout the years as well as other human interest stories. Unfortunately, if it weren't for your paper, we parents wouldn't have much for the scrap books. (Thanks also for getting the names under the pictures right!). When the kids work so hard during a season, it's nice to see a picture or two, especially when they make it to state.
Thank you also for the picture of our Valedictorian and Salutatorian. They worked very hard the past 13 years. It was nice to see a picture of them in your paper and get a little recognition.
By the way, Laurel's golf team made it to state also! Go team!
Thanks also to Dave for the great pictures.

Cindy DeLong,
Laurel

Wayne is wonderful

Dear Editor,
Wayne is wonderful!
I was through your area on May 24 on a bicycle ride fund-raiser for Huntington's disease and it was a very windy day. We had some trouble out on Highway 35.
One of our riders was sitting in our van, which was parked on the shoulder, with the driver-side door slightly ajar. After a truck drove by, a gust of wind caught the door and hyper-extended it so it wouldn't close properly.
We limped into Wayne and found Tom's Body and Paint Shop on Pearl Street.
The owner and technician took the van in, and started using various tools, and their experience, to try to get the door back in kilter, and get the door to be able to open and close.

They had dropped everything when we explained about our bike ride called the Midwest Meander. After over an hour of working on the door, they finally got it to open and close, and be able to be locked. When we took out our wallets to pay, they said there wouldn't be a charge.

I am from Elkhorn and the other two riders are from Grand Junction, Colo. We all agreed that if this had happened in a large town or city, we probably would have been told to get an appointment and wait a day or two and we would have paid at least $300 for labor and parts.

The bike ride ends in St. Louis on June 16, but it could have easily ended that day in Wayne. Thank you so much for helping out some strangers.

Small town America is alive and well in Wayne, Nebraska, USA!

Sincerely,
Sandy Lozier, Marie Nemecek and Charlotte Reicks

Appreciate support

Thank you again,
Kelsey Gnirk and Kristy Doffin

Who will get the bald vote?

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

For all of the post-election analysis that has been written and spoken, none has addressed what might be a sleeper issue in the U.S. Senate race.

Will Republican Pete Ricketts get the bald vote?

Will Senator Ben Nelson get overwhelming support from those who love a thick mane, wish they had a thick head of hair. Might jealousy cost him some ballots?

Few are the politicians with more hair than Nelson. None are the politicians with less hair than Ricketts.

Might the bald, and the nearly hairless, subconsciously or otherwise decide it's time to "vote for one of us"?

What about closet baldies? The ones who wear wigs that look like a waste of horsehair that should have been used for tying those little flies Tom Osborne uses for fishing.

Politicians are forever and ever saying this or that election is about choices - that there is a clear difference in the candidates.

If hair-raising issues ever were of potential portent, fellow Nebraskans, it is now.

There are women voters who have a soft spot in their hearts for bald or almost bald guys because "It reminds me of my dad." I can testify to this fact. (And, if any of the above-referenced ladies are reading this column, those types of observations aren't necessarily the best way to make a good first impression.)

There are those who see a head with more growth than a sheep dog, and do that "I'd love to run my fingers through his hair" thing.

Men can go either way. The fact is, most guys don't care if the other guy is bald or blessed when it comes to hair - unless we are talking about their kids. Men generally think strictly about their own crowning glory, or lack of it.

It is extremely unlikely that Nelson or Ricketts will raise a hair about the subject.

Hitting above the hairline is often regarded as bad form.

This leads us to a segue, allowing a closing reference that has only to do with every election and with electioneering in general.

It was Adlai Stevenson who said: "The hardest thing about any political campaign is how to win without proving that you are unworthy of winning."

It seems that his observation is even more appropriate in 2006 than when he said it during a 1952 presidential campaign.

ing for the Tower Garden located between Eighth and Ninth Streets. She praised the work of Elizabeth Anderson in caring for the garden for many years and the amount of time that has been put into the upkeep of the flowers there.

Resolutions were passed moving forward on the process of making assessments for streets, water and sanitary sewer improvements in the Vintage Hill and Fairway Estates subdivisions. Ordinance 2006-12 was passed and the three readings waived during the meeting. It repeals an ordinance passed last year in regard to sexual predator residency restrictions and prohibiting certain persons subject to the Sex Offender Registration Act and defined as Sexual Predators for residing in certain areas of the city.

The action was necessary due to the fact that the Nebraska legislature passed legislation on the subject and without the change, the city's ordinance would become void after July 14. Passage of the ordinance will put the city in compliance with state law.

In other action, the council approved a Class D Liquor License for Pamida.

Action on Resolution 2006-43 was tabled until the Planning Commission has the opportunity to review an agreement for dedication of land for a park fee.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, June 13 at 7:30 p.m.

Christian Bastian, Wm. Wieland, Wm. Thies, Herm. Brundieck, Herm. Luehrman, Henry Pflueger, John and Philipp Gruenwald. Members of the first school board were Henry Daum, Wm. Erxleben, and Oscar Reinhardt.

The first church building was erected on the south side of the road in 1886. The rear part of the building served as the parsonage until 1897 when the first parsonage was built. The original church bell cost $25. Parochial school was held in the church on weekdays with the Pastor teaching until 1911 when the first teacher was called. The church had two coal burning stoves. The lights were kerosene lamps in brackets on the side walls. Church services were long, with one hour sermons. Men sat on the left side, women on the right, and school children down in front for many years.

Transportation to church in those days consisted of horses, sleds, wagons, etc. There was a long barn on church grounds where people put their horses during church services. Those who didn't have a barn, covered their horses with blankets during the winter cold.

Christmas observances lasted two days. Everything was in the German language. There was a tall tree with wax candles. The school board members would watch closely after the candles were lit so the tree wouldn't catch on fire. The heat from the candles made the angels go around on the tree top. There were Christmas treats for the children. For a number of years, two services were held on Christmas Day. Before Christmas Eve, the school children cleaned all lamp chimneys to fill with kerosene, polished the heating stoves, and cleaned the church. (Never in those days did a mother or married woman help in cleaning. All was done by the young girls of the congregation.)

The new church was built in a short time (May to December, 1911.) The cornerstone contains a Bible, Catechism, and some other papers. The name of the carpenters was Katz. They boarded with the Pastor and close neighbors. Dedication services were held Dec. 18, 1911.

The top part of the altar was not here at the time but was put in later. The organ was installed in the spring of 1912. Cost of the organ was $1,200. The building cost of the church was not over $3,500.

The first baptism in the new church was Esther Mangels. The first marriage in the new church took place June 6, 1912, between Bertha Thies and Wm. Beune of Dodge. The first organist in the new church was Paula Bergt Mueller.

School picnics were held in the west grove. There was a stage and bowling alley there. Entertainment was games and races.

On New Year's Eve, a watch night was held and the bell was rung at midnight. The bell from the old church cracked and was replaced with the present bell in 1922. Years ago several men came at midnight to ring the old year into the new; sang hymns at homes.

On May 31, 1931, the 50th anniversary of the congregation was observed. German services were held in the morning with Pastor W. C. Rehwaldt of Norfolk, speaking. The afternoon speaker was Dr. Walter A. Maier of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo. He was the founder of The Lutheran Hour. Special music was provided by St. Paul's Choir of Omaha. An evening service was held in the church. The noon meal was served in a tent in the west grove. Many people were served.

The afternoon services were held in a huge tent about where the present school is. There was a very large attendance.

The old church was taken down in 1931 after the 50th anniversary. The school was then built. The basement was dug by hand with horses and scrapers.

At one time the stained glass windows were all boxed and sent away for repairs. Rods were then added for strength.

Mission festivals were held for many years with both morning and afternoon services. A noon meal was served. These services were discontinued in the 1960's.

The 75th anniversary was held in 1956 with a very large crowd in attendance at the morning and afternoon services. A noon meal was served to all in attendance. Speakers were Rev. Wieting and Rev. Hopmann. Rev. Wieting prayed the prayer that Solomon had prayed at the dedication of the Temple in Jerusalem.

Centennial services were held May 24, 1981 with Dr. Oswald Hoffman being the morning speaker. A huge crowd attended.

First Trinity currently has eight senior members, aged 80 to 88, the same number as children on the cradle roll. One of these members is living in a nursing home; most of the others remaining in their own homes and very active.

Many improvements have been made during the past 25 years, including new carpet in the church, rebuilding the pipe organ, new ceiling in the basement fellowship hall, and many others, thanks to the generosity of many members.

"Let us consider how we can stimulate one another to love and to do good works. Let us not stay away from our worship services, as some are regularly doing, but let us encourage one another, all the more because you see the day coming nearer." Hebrews 10:24-25 (Beck)

Carson-Barnes Circus provides 'environmentally friendly' fun

The impact on the environment of just about anything, is on everyone's mind these days. In other words how "environmentally friendly" or "green" a company or product is, is a major topic in question today.

When the Carson & Barnes circus comes to Wayne on Saturday, June 17, area residents will see an example of a business that was environmentally friendly long before it was politically correct.

Environmentally correct practices such as conserving precious resources have been in place at the Carson & Barnes organization for over 70 years.

Water is a resource that many people feel is unlimited, until they have lived in an area where rationing is necessary. On circus grounds, a delivery of only 50 gallons of water is delivered to each family's RV daily. Each is equipped with water-saving showerheads, toilets and faucets. Circus workers' showers are short and sweet. They learn to NOT leave the faucet running when brushing their teeth or shaving, because when the tank runs dry, there is no water until the next day in the next town.

Circus generators begin running to produce electricity at about 10 a.m. every day and are shut off at midnight. The rest of the time, circus families make do with rechargeable battery lights and appliances. If all American families conserved energy as well as circus employees do; water and power shortages would greatly diminish or disappear completely.

All Carson & Barnes employees and their children eat at the Circus cookhouse. This one facility prepares food, serves and cleans up after over 100 hungry circus people - three meals a day, seven days a week. Having a central facility means both energy and water savings since all the meals are cooked at once - and all the dishes, pots and pans are cleaned at once. The circus reuses its dishware. No Styrofoam plates or cups for Carson & Barnes employees.

Concession stands are also environmentally friendly. They utilize mainly paper and wood products. Plastic cups for drinks are given as souvenirs intended to be brought home and used over and over again, not as spillage for local landfills.

Many of Carson & Barnes' circus animals are kept busy doing work that would otherwise be done by heavy equipment which burns fossil fuels. The fact that the circus brings its menagerie direct to your community, instead of you driving to a large city zoo far away, is an additional energy saving. You can come watch as elephants pull up the tent, help set seats, pull stakes and pull trucks on soft lots. Animal manure is offered to local farmers, gardeners and florists to be used as fertilizer. Depending upon where the circus lot is located, the rest is either spread to fertilize the fields, or brought to a local waste facility.

So, when you think of Carson & Barnes, think "environmentally friendly" and remember when the circus appears in Wayne at the Wayne County Fairgrounds on June 17, they were doing it before it became popular.

Advance general admission tickets will soon be available at Pac 'N' Save, Quality Food Center, State National Bank & Trust; First National Bank; Farmers & Merchants and BankFirst at special discount prices before circus day or they may be purchased online at full price at www.carson-barnescircus.com or call (800) 594-TIZZ. On Circus Day, advance general admission tickets can be upgraded to preferred seating for an additional charge.

Officers investigate explosive device

Officers of the Wayne Police Department responded to a found explosive device in the southwest area of the City of Wayne on May 30.

The device was small in nature and appeared to be homemade. A sweep of the area by law enforcement personnel yielded no further devices.

The Nebraska State Patrol was notified and a bomb technician responded and secured the device. There were no indications of specific threats to anyone or anything. The investigation is ongoing.

One-vehicle crash occurs east of Wayne

At about 2:30 a.m. on May 30, a one-vehicle crash sent the lone occupant and driver to a Sioux City Hospital. Fifteen-year-old Jackie Jensen of Pilger was driving a northbound car on Wayne County Road 582nd Avenue, just south of its junction with Highway 35, six miles east of Wayne.

The vehicle left the roadway at the curve located near that intersection, went down the embankment, entered the creekbed at that location and then rolled several times. Jensen was found by passers-by after her car started on fire. She was found outside of the vehicle near the car. It is unknown at this time if she was thrown from the vehicle or if she was able to remove herself from the wreckage. It is also unknown at this time if a seat belt was in use.

Wakefield Fire Department and its Rescue Squad responded to the scene and assisted Mercy Air Care in life-fighting Jensen to Mercy Medical Center in Sioux City, Iowa. The Wayne County Sheriff's Office continues to investigate this accident and was assisted by the Nebraska State Patrol.

Sara, Sam and Ben Landgren at the marsh dedication recently. Mark's family is standing by his memorial.

Marsh memorial dedication

After nearly two years in the making, the Mark T. Landgren Marsh was recently dedicated in memory of a man who was an avid sportsman and a dedicated environmentalist. It has been said that Mark kept the time of the year by what was "in season" and the time of day by the beginning or end of shooting hours. He is remembered as a captivating storyteller, uninhibited adventurer, gifted socializer and a loving family member and friend.

The marsh lies in the southeast portion of Nebraska's Rainwater Basin near Shickley, a region vital to waterfowl in the Central Flyway and continent-wide. The restored wetland abuts a federally owned waterfowl production area. Combined, the marsh complex stretches in excess of 200 acres. The Landgren Marsh represents an investment of more than $316,000 by partnering agencies and donations from family and friends in memory of Mark, who died in a tragic June 2004 rollover accident while riding to a fishing camp he co-owned in northern Rainwater Basin and the Shickley Volunteer Fire Department were partners in preparing the land and installing the underground pipeline which carries water to the wetland.

As Sara and sons, Sam, three and a half and Ben, two, Landgren

Mark T. Landgren

Saskatchewan, Canada. The husband of Sara Adkins Landgren (formerly of Laurel) and father of two young sons was 36.

Speaking to a large crowd gathered at the marsh site for the dedication, Tom Bowen, project chairman, emphasized the uniqueness of cooperation in making the marsh memorial a reality. Ducks Unlimited obtained a grant from the North American Wetlands Conservation Act to assist in purchasing the land and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has seeded many species of native grasses and forbs to convert the ground from agriculture cropland vegetation and restore the native prairie. The Nebraska Environmental Trust, unveiled the marble and bronze dedication memorial, the crowd witnessed small flocks of ducks and line after line of snow geese passing noisily above. Tom Hardesty, a hunting friend of the late Landgren, was attired in his camouflage hunting clothes as he walked into the Landgren Marsh and somberly fired four times at an imaginary flock of ducks to honor Mark.

What the agencies and private individuals accomplished by working together is to build a legacy to Mark's life, provide a place where his own sons might well hunt one day and provide a wetland that will offer critical migration habitat to millions of waterfowl that stop to rest and refuel in the Rainwater Basin on their annual journey north to the nesting grounds in the Dakotas and beyond.

Mark was remembered as one of the best in bringing people together and the many gathered to celebrate his life and commemorate this memorial wetland know one another because of having had Mark in their lives.

More than 20 items are available for bids at this year's Relay For Life. The items, including several wood pieces donated by the Olsufka family from Wakefield, are on display at State National Bank & Trust until the day of the Relay.

Significance of Relay For Life noted

The following is an explanation of the significance of the timing of this year's Relay For Life event, scheduled for Friday and Saturday, June 9-10.

"Relay For Life starts at dusk and ends at the next day's morning. The light and darkness of the day and night parallel the physical effects, emotions and mental state of a cancer patient while undergoing treatment.

"The Relay begins when the sun is setting. This symbolizes the time that the person has been diagnosed as having cancer the day is getting darker and this represents the cancer patient's state of mind as they feel their life is coming to an end.

"As the evening goes on, it gets colder and darker, just as the emotions of the cancer patient do. The time around 1 to 2 a.m. represents the time when the cancer patients start treatments. They become exhausted, some sick, not wanting to go on, possibly wanting to give up. As a participant, you have been walking and feel much the same way. You are tired, want to sleep, maybe even want to go home, but you cannot. You cannot stop or give up, just as the cancer patient cannot stop or give up.

"The time around 4 to 5 a.m. symbolizes the coming of the end of treatment for the cancer patient. Once again, they are tired, but they know they will make it.

"The sun rising represents the end of treatment for the cancer patient. They see the light at the end of the tunnel and know that life will go on. The morning light brings on a new day full of life and excitement for new beginnings for the cancer patient. As a participant, you will feel the brightness of the morning and know that the end of the Relay is close at hand.

"When you leave the Relay, think of the cancer patient leaving their last treatment. Just as you are exhausted and weak, so is that person after treatment.

"Remember, there is no finish line until we find a cure."

The rewards of a great season

Wayne State athletes compete in NCAA Div. II Nationals in Kansas

Four Wayne State athletes had the rare opportunity to close out their season in the national spotlight.

Katie Wilson, Lindsey Stockwell, Tanna Walford and Matt Schneider each represented WSC at last weekend's NCAA Division II National Track and Field Championships in Emporia, Kansas.

Wilson, who was Wayne State's top finisher, placed 14th out of 18 competitors on Friday evening in the women's shot put.

The sophomore from Glenwood, Iowa, had a top throw of 44-7 feet.

It marked the second straight season that Wilson qualified for the NCAA Outdoor National Championships. She placed fifth in the shot put at the NCAA Div. II Indoor National Championships in March to earn All-American honors.

Nebraska-Kearney senior Amber Tiedeman won the event with a top throw of 49-4 1/2.

WSC sophomore Matt Schneider placed 15th out of 17 competitors on Thursday evening in the men's 3,000 meter steeplechase preliminaries.

His time of 9:52.23 minutes was not fast enough to reach the finals, where 12 competitors advanced to Saturday's finals.

Schneider entered the national meet ranked 14th in NCAA Division II with a top time of 9:14.82, a new school record at Wayne State College.

Junior Tanna Walford finished in a tie for 16th out of 18 competitors in the women's high jump, while senior Lindsey Stockwell came in 18th place Saturday evening in the women's discus events at the meet.

Walford cleared 5-3 1/4 feet in the high jump in her first outdoor national appearance after qualifying three times for the indoor national championships.

Walford entered the national meet tied for 12th in the nation with a top jump of 5-7 feet. Stockwell, a senior from Geneva, had a top throw of 129-3 feet during Saturday's competition.

It was the third straight season that she qualified for the outdoor national championships. Stockwell entered the national meet ranked 14th in NCAA Div. II.

Stockwell closed her Wayne State career as a four-time national qualifier and was a three-time Northern Sun Conference champion.

Windy weather leaves mark on Wayne tourney

By Kevin Peterson
Of the Herald

It wasn't the warm summer breezes that greeted the 117 golfers that participated in Wayne Country Club's Annual Memorial Open on Sunday but rather the hot and extremely windy conditions that left its mark on many of the linksters.

When the wind subsided however, former Wayne State golfer and Sioux City resident Sam Prue emerged as the champion following a one-hole, sudden-death playoff with Wayne's Rob Sweetland.

Sweetland carded rounds of 34-40 and held a one-stroke lead heading to the final nine holes. He birdied holes four-and-five and was sitting two-under par after six holes before suffering a bogey on holes seven and eight. He parred number nine for an even round of 36 and a total of 110 over 27 holes (two-over-par).

Prue, sitting three shots back with three holes to play went par, par, birdie on holes seven, eight and nine to force the playoff with Sweetland.

Wayne's Doug Rose placed third in the championship with rounds of 38-39-36 (113), while Omaha's Jonathan Hanner finished fourth at 114. Dan Freed of Sioux City was fifth at 115 and Pender's Chip Sorensen was sixth with a 115, while Norfolk's Bruce Merchant placed seventh at 117.

Rounding out the top 10 placers was former Wayne standout Ryan Sturm with a 117 and former Laurel golfer Shane Schuster at 118.

Wayne's Mike Varley finished 10th with a 118. Varley carded the day's best score on the windy back nine with a two-under par 34 with Sweetland notching the best front nine score at two-under par 34.

There were also seven other flights of golfers including the following finishes:

First Flight: Jeremy Hunke, 72; Dave Anderson,

75; Jon Misfeldt, 78; Jerry Nelson, 79.

Second Flight: Rex Minert, 77; Doug Manz, 78; Thomas Kreikemeier, 79; Tim Carlson, 80.

Third Flight: Wayne's Reggie Yates, 80; Chad Jorgensen, 80; Dave Beetley, 81; Ted Ellis, 82.

Fourth Flight: Wayne Country Club's Brooks Blohm, 83; Mike Conley, 83; Terry Peterson, 84; Dave Knievel, 85.

Jarvi took the loss for Wayne in his six innings of work.

The Wayne Junior Legion baseball team overcame a first round loss to eventually win the Junior division of the Chuck Ellis Tournament last weekend.

The tourney opened on shaky ground for Wayne as five pitchers combined to allow 18 walks in a 22-2 loss to Pierce last Thursday.

Jesse Hill tallied both of Wayne's runs, while Shaun Jenkins took the pitching loss.

The second game of evening was a totally different story as Hill pitched a complete game and scattered five hits and struck out 12 batters in a 9-2 win against Wakefield.

"We usually also induct one to two faculty members each semester," he said. "There is usually a slate of nominees, and they are voted on by students who are active Phi Eta Sigma members."

The faculty members who were selected for membership into Phi Eta Sigma this year include Dr. Paul Bishop of the Department of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Leisure Studies, Dr. Anita Hart of the Department of Modern Languages and Dr. Barton Willis of the Department of Mathematics & Statistics.

For students to qualify for mem-

FRIENDs students serve as teachers

Nineteen seventh and eighth grade students at Wayne Middle School taught elementary students to be drug free as FRIEND Teachers during April and May. FRIEND stands for "Facts Raising Interest Ending Needless Drugs."

The FRIENDs Drug Free Youth Group provides educational, recreational and community awareness programs throughout the year to encourage youth to make healthy, drug-free choices.

In the FRIEND Teaching program, FRIENDs members apply to participate in teams that prepare and teach drug and alcohol prevention lessons in grades K - 4. To be selected, they must be responsible students who demonstrate a commitment to the drug free message.

They are assigned to a team, with the FRIENDs officers serving as team leaders. They participate in FRIEND teacher training led by middle school counselor and FRIENDs sponsor, Joan Sudmann.

The teams develop and rehearse their lessons prior to teaching the elementary students. Lessons focused on the effects of tobacco, alcohol and other drugs, as well as refusal skills and included puppet shows, demonstrations, skits and activity booklets. FRIENDs is able to purchase curriculum materials for the FRIEND Teacher Program because it is supported, in part, by Wayne United Way.

FRIEND Teacher Teams for Spring, 2006, were: Grade K - Alayna Theobald (team leader), Bayli Ellis, Vanessa Christiansen, Lindsay Frahm. Grade 1: Halsey Lutt (team leader), Kendra Dunker, Taylor Harris. Grade 2: Hannah Mitiku (team leader), Rebecca Jaixen, Haley Lambley, Jessica Henderson. Grade 3: Jordan Alexander (team leader), Lauryn Braun, Marcus Baier, Tory Booth. Grade 4: Shannon Jarvi (team leader), Jennifer Zink, Jared Klassen and Geoff Nelson.

Holstedt named top architecture grad at Oklahoma State

Sarah Holstedt, a native of Wayne, and 2000 graduate of Wayne High School, has been named the top 2005-2006 architecture graduate at Oklahoma State University.

She is the daughter of Craig and Susan Holstedt of Kansas City, Mo.

Holstedt, who completed her bachelor's degree in architecture with a minor in architectural history in December of 2005, was honored during the annual Melvin R. Lohmann Medal dinner and recognition, the OSU College of Engineering, Architecture and Technology's academic year-end awards ceremony. She received the CEAT Dean's Award, a recognition as the outstanding School of Architecture graduate as selected by a committee of faculty and students. The college's highest honor also is presented respectively to a graduating senior in engineering and engineering technology.

Holstedt has been employed as an entry level designer on the architectural staff at Callison Architecture Inc. in Seattle, Wash., since Jan. 30. At OSU, she was the first student in 20 years to complete a bachelor's in architecture with a perfect grade point average.

One of the nation's top architecture programs, OSU's School of Architecture has produced more national and international student design competition winners than any other. The five-year curriculum emphasizes time in the design studio, "where the lights never go off," and prepares students for employment with top firms around the world. But it is also extremely difficult to complete perfectly, according to Randy Seitsinger, professor and head of the school.

"In my 19 years on the faculty, we've had many exceptional students. More than you could count. But not to my memory has one graduated with a 4.0," Seitsinger said. "With the demands of our program and the general university courses that must be completed, it is almost impossible for a student not to slip up somewhere, especially in their first, second or third year."

"And Sarah has done this while excelling in the studio and holding countless leadership positions and participating in all of our student public service activities," he said. In addition to being recognized as a CEAT Leadership Scholar for three consecutive years, Holstedt served for two years as coordinator of Architecture Students Teaching Elementary Kids, a program conceived and maintained by members of OSU's chapter of the American Institute of Architecture Students to introduce elementary school children to fundamental architecture concepts. Recognized with the national AIAS Special Accomplishment Honor Award, the ASTEK program has received funding from the National Endowment for the Arts. Holstedt is also a two-time Outstanding Architecture Teaching Assistant Award recipient.

In the studio, Holstedt placed second in the competition for the Pella Prize, the award for best overall project in the School of Architecture's senior, capstone design course. She also won the Grand Prize in the Skyline Inc. Competition for Computer Rendering.

Holstedt's scholastic honors at OSU include the Lew Wentz Foundation Scholarship, the Boswell Scholarship for Engineering Students and the Callison Scholarship. She is a three-time recipient of the Cramer Scholarship, an award presented by the School of Architecture to the top student entering the third-, fourth- and fifth year of the curriculum. In 2005, the CEAT Student Council recognized Holstedt among the college's top five seniors with the St. Pat's Salutes Award.

Bruning speaks at conference at WSC

Attorney General Jon Bruning was among several speakers at the Community Effort to Stop Violence Now conference held Thursday and Friday on the Wayne State College campus. The conference was sponsored by Haven House in Wayne.

In his speech, Bruning noted no one wants to believe domestic or sexual violence happens but one in eight women in Nebraska will be victim of rape in their lifetime (there are 84,000 women in Nebraska) and one in six victims will report the crime to law enforcement.

Bruning said his office aggressively prosecutes people who hurt women and children. His office takes these crimes seriously and because they do, the Sexual Assault Task Force was created which helps victims and helps prosecute criminals. Other action taken includes implementing new standardized rape kits that makes the process easier on victims.

"To make sure batterers are held accountable," Bruning said, "I worked to change state law. The passage of LB 613 classifies domestic assault as a distinct crime, with tougher penalties for repeat offenders."

Bruning added that they are continuing to protect children from sex crimes, not only at home but online.

Other speakers at the two-day conference included Sue Michalski RN, MS on dispelling myths and misconceptions about strangulation.

Attorney General Jon Bruning spoke at the recent Community Effort to Stop Violence Now conference.

Olga Trujillo, JD, with a personal perspective: the impact of domestic and sexual violence; and Charlie Venditte on methamphetamine use and domestic violence. Each afternoon, there were two concurrent breakout sessions covering a number of topics dealing with domestic and sexual violence. Anyone with questions on domestic or sexual violence can call Haven House at 402-375-4633.

Many services are provided at the Wayne County Treasurer's office

Most business transactions in the County Treasurer's Office are done in person. Most of these include new vehicle licenses, renewal of motor vehicle licenses, paying real estate and personal property taxes and issuance of drivers license and identification cards. Other transactions include payment of special assessments and miscellaneous receipts for additional money paid to the county for various reasons.

The County Treasurer has the responsibility of collecting, disbursing and investing county money. All County money is deposited in banks that have been designated as depositories by the County Board.

The Wayne County Treasurer's office is the collector and custodian of state sales tax, county, school, fire districts, Lower Elkhorn NRD, Northeast Community College, Educational Service Units, County Agricultural Society, and City or Village taxes. Business is balanced each business day and at the end of each month. After balancing for the month, money is disbursed to each governmental sub-division in the County, State-Treasurer and Department of Revenue. There are approximately 150 different funds. A semi-annual statement is done of all funds collected, disbursed and the balance on hand of each fund for June 30 and Dec. 31 of each year.

For the tax year of 2004, Wayne County had 5,723 parcels of real estate taxes and 1,065 parcels of personal property taxes. The total amount of real estate taxes for the tax year of 2004 was $10,598,308.35 and the total of personal property tax for the tax year of 2004 was $607,359.49. The County Treasurer's office is responsible for printing and sending tax statements for all of these parcels. These tax statements are sent out in the middle of December. The first half of real estate and personal property tax is delinquent on May 1 of each year and the second half is delinquent on Sept. 1 of each year. Once taxes are delinquent, they draw 14 percent interest. If any personal property taxes are still delinquent as of Nov. 1 of each year, a distress warrant is issued to the County Sheriff for him to collect. If any real estate taxes are still delinquent as of the beginning of February the following calendar year, the legal description and amount of tax is listed in the advertising list in the Wayne Herald the first three weeks of February. If any real estate taxes are still delinquent on the first Monday in March, these taxes are offered at public tax sale, held at the Treasurer's office. As of Nov. 14, 2005, 97.05 percent of all 2004 real estate and personal property taxes have been collected.

Drivers license, learners permits, school permits and identification cards are issued in this office. Drivers license and identification cards are now good for five years. Permits are good only for a short time, depending on the type of permit. In order to receive a license, permit or identification card, a person must first see the drivers license examiners to complete an application, take an eye test, and complete testing, if necessary.

The drivers license examiners come to Wayne on Wednesdays with hours of 8:45 a.m. to noon from 1 to 4 p.m. Anyone needing a change of address, change of name, correction or duplicate can get replacement license on any business day, providing they have the proper papers with them. Those holding a Commercial drivers license, must see the drivers license examiners on a Wednesday, for a change on the license and must have the proper papers with them.

In the County of Wayne in 2004, there were 6,803 licensed drivers. They issued a total of 2,528 licenses, permits and ID cards in 2004. These are digital licenses, which only take about three minutes to process, have many features which make these licenses hard to alter.

The Treasurer's office issues approximately 11,000 registrations each year. These include renewals, newly purchased vehicles and vehicles that have been traded in for a different vehicle. Current insurance must be shown for all motorized vehicles before a registration can be issued. If a new or different car is purchased, the purchaser must also show the proper paperwork. There are 26 different types of plates that are used in Wayne County. For 2004, the registrations were: 4,884 passenger vehicles, 1,544 commercial vehicles, 1,518 truck vehicles, 1,609 trailers, 250 mobile homes, 134 motorcycles, 264 message plates, 66 dealer, and the rest were a combination of the smaller categories. Registrations must be renewed each year, with the exception of boats, which are good for three years. When a vehicle reaches 14 years and older, no taxes are paid, only the license fees. Courtesy renewal notices are sent each month as a reminder that a vehicle must be renewed. Renewal may be done at the office or they can be done by mail. The 2005 series license plates will be good for six years.

Payments can also be off for most transactions. There is a drop box on the north side of the courthouse for payments to our office or for any information that needs to be dropped off for any office in the Courthouse. This box is checked daily and receipts for any payments to the treasurer's office that are sent by mail. Many phone calls are answered daily for information that the public requests. A balance is done daily. All business done for the day must balance to the penny with all money taken in for the day. Deposits to banks are made daily.

Karen McDonald is the current Wayne County Treasurer. She has lived in Wayne County all of her life and started as a clerk in the County Treasurer's office in 1971 and became Deputy County Treasurer in 1995. She was appointed as County Treasurer in 2001 after Lorraine J. Johnson retired and was elected to a four year term in 2003. She was married to the late LaVerle "Curly" McDonald. Karen has two daughters: Cheri of Wayne is married to Stan Polenske and they have three daughters, McKayleigh, BrookLynn, and RyAnna. Cristy of Wayne is married to Jason Jorgensen and they have a daughter, Jayden.

Denise Broders is Deputy County Treasurer and has been employed in the County Treasurer's office for 18 years. Her husband, Dave, is Production Supervisor at Heritage Homes in Wayne. They have three children, Lilly Dayle of Omaha, Cali of Oregon and Ransen, a student at Wayne High School.

Mindy Lutt has been employed with Wayne County for 27 years, with the last seven in the County Treasurer's office. She is a lifelong resident of Wayne County and a Wayne State College graduate. She is married to Verdel, who is employed as a manager with the Prime Stop stores in Wayne and Norfolk. They have two children, a daughter, Tina and her husband, Brad Nuernberger of Wayne and a son, Jeremy and his wife, Shannon of Beaver Lake. They also have two grandchildren, Seth and Rachael of Wayne.

Tammy Paustian started working in the County Treasurer's office in September of 2001. She lives by Carroll and her husband, Ernie, is the Redi-Mix supervisor of the Gerhold plant in Norfolk. They have three sons, Joe, Jeff and Jacob.

THE FINAL TOUCH

NOT a good practice to have at any age. For example, adults may say: "Here's a piece of candy for being such a good girl or boy." Or they may learn that food can fill needs other than hunger, such as when they miss mommy, they suck on a bottle or eat a cookie.

The best guide to use for feeding children is to follow their appetite. In feeding infants, learn to recognize the first sign of fullness, even if the bottle still has formula in it. For toddlers and preschoolers often too busy to eat, it is best to offer small servings and allow children to serve themselves when they are able.

Encourage children to taste all foods served—at least one bite, but never force them to eat or punish them for not eating. Avoid praising children for "cleaning their plates," and do not withhold dessert if a child does not eat everything. This way, children learn to respond to their hunger and not someone's praise. Because young children have small stomachs, it is hard for them to get all the nutrients they need in three meals, so nutritious snacks are essential.

School-age children may change from day to day in the amount of food they want. If you watch children over time, you will notice that each child's appetite has a sort of rhythm. First, the child seems to eat you out of house and home but then eases up for a few weeks or even months. The increases in appetite correspond with increases in physical activity and with growth spurts. It is fascinating to watch the way children in the school-age years grow. First their bodies get a bit more thick and heavy, and they eat a bit more than usual; then they seem to stretch out overnight and get taller and a bit thinner.

Children have varying tastes and appetites, so it is best to plan nutritious meals and snacks that will provide the nutrients their growing bodies need. Do not skimp on carbohydrates because these contain essential nutrients. Between meals, encourage children to run, jump, dance, ride tricycles, and play outdoors to get lots of exercise.

notes from dianne

- ♥ We had such a wonderful week. Thank you, to everyone who stopped in to share our 2nd anniversary celebration with us. It's my prayer to celebrate many more with you!
- ♥ Thank you to the Coffee Shoppe for catering our anniversary barbecue. You all did a spectacular job, from start to finish. Scott - you are a wonderful chef!
- ♥ We hosted the Chamber Coffee on Friday - to celebrate our anniversary. What a great crowd! Thanks to everyone who attended.
- ♥ The Wayne Ambassadors presented Deb Reinhardt with the Congeniality Award at the coffee on Friday. It is a well placed honor. Pop in and congratulate her, whenever you have time! Besides being a great friend, she plays a big part in the success of our business. I am so grateful.
- ♥ I am excited about the release of the CACTUS HILL cd! What an amazing group of musicians! Their cd really is wonderful - and it is now on sale exclusively at dianne's for $11.99.
- ♥ Back in Touch is offering a certificate for a ONE HOUR MASSAGE each month, while Main Street is closed. The next drawing will be May 31st. Connie has asked that you register at dianne's. Be sure to get your name in this drawing!
- ♥ Everyone seems excited about our offer to refund the money you spend at dianne's between now and when Main Street opens. Each night we are recording individual sales. The day that the street opens, we will draw four names. $100, $50 and $25 gift certificates will be given to the first three names - and our grand prize winner will be refunded the total money they have spent during the improvement project (up to $1000).
- ♥ We have started a display of Ideas for Father's Day gifts. I'm amazed at how much we have in here for men! Our "dianne's for men" department has really grown! We sell a lot of ammunition - but isn't it time for fishing? We've got rods, reels and a wonderful selection of fishing... "stuff" (I know more about Shad Rap than I ever dreamed I would know. It's a very popular lure. I have even opened the shop after hours for "emergency" Shad Rap purchases! I will not name names or repeat secret fishing tips that are revealed to me... without some sort of bribe.) Anyway... the best fishermen in town are impressed with our inventory.
- ♥ We are continuing Thursday night "Needlework Night" from 5-8:00. Everyone is welcome to bring your project and stitch with us. (Thanks Heaven for stitching - to take your mind off it all.) Our series of needlework classes will begin again - at the end of the summer. Put your name on the list for the ones you are interested in!
- ♥ Check out the new patio that we've created. It will be fun to watch it evolve into the vision that Deb and I have for it!
- ♥ As always... free gift wrap, free local delivery and our gift registry are available.

Pre-application period opens for enhancement fund grants

A pre-application period for communities wishing to obtain grants from the second offering of the Nebraska Internet Enhancement Fund (NIEF) opens June 1.

The Nebraska Public Service Commission announced that the fund would start the application process with a pre-application period to determine whether potential projects might be qualified for a grant to install or deliver broadband or other advanced telecommunications products throughout the state.

NIEF was established by the 2001 Nebraska Legislature to give priority to high cost factors such as population scarcity and remote geographical locations. A share of the proceeds from public entities that lease unused, dark fiber optics principally funds NIEF. The maximum amount available to successful grant applicants is $50,000.

Forms for the pre-application period may be obtained online from the Commission's website at www.psc.ne.state.us or by contacting the Commission by telephone toll-free at 1-800-524-0017.

Commission Attorney Nichole Underhill said pre-applications would be accepted through Sept. 1 with the formal application period beginning Sept. 15. Pre-applications are required before an invitation to submit a formal application is issued.

A timeline recommended by an advisory board and approved by the Commission calls for final awards for the new grant period to be made in January 2007.

Six grants were awarded in the initial NIEF offering to the City of Chappell, Box Butte County, Cheyenne County, Dawes County and Nemaha County. The grants were used to finance projects ranging from construction and deployment of local high-speed broadband internet service networks to deploying wireless internet services to extend the range of high speed internet services to rural areas.

ALUMNI BANQUET/ REUNION

The 75th anniversary Concord High Alumni/ Banquet Reunion was held Saturday evening, May 27th, at the Student Union, Wayne State College, with dinner in the Frey Conference Center.

Alvin Anderson of Wayne, (*class of '50), welcomed the guests and recognized the Honor Classes of '36, '46, and '56. Evonnie Magnuson of Laurel, (*40), gave the Invocation and led the singing of the table grace, "Be Present At Our Table, Lord." Marilyn Wallin of Wayne, (*47), was the pianist for the evening.

Georgia Addison of Laurel and Peg Lutt of Wayne, sang musical numbers. They are the daughters of the late George and Bertha Vollers of Concord.

Following the meal, the Swedish Cleaning Ladies from Wausa, Mary Lou Erickson and Corlyn Wilbeck entertained the guests with "Swedish" jokes and comments about the guest present. Special recognition was given to former teacher, Waldo Johnson of Wayne (*31) who taught in the Bristow, Dixon, Concord and Wausa, where the High School Auditorium is named in his honor.

Ardyce Johnson of Laurel, (*48) and Mae Schwarten of Wakefield, (*47), gave tribute to the first graduating class of 1931, Wymore

Goldberg, now of Texas, and Irene Magnuson, now residing in Norfolk. They were remembered with gifts and notes were read from them and others who could not be present. A moment of silence was had in memory of those deceased since the last reunion in 2004. Door prizes were awarded. Special thanks were given to this year's committee: Alvin Anderson, Marie George, Ardyce Johnson, Evonne Magnuson and Mae Schwarten.

The next reunion will be held in 2008 with the following committee in charge: Norma Backstrom of Wayne, Mary Dahlquist of Laurel, Verdel Erwin of Concord, Suzie and Marlen Johnson of Concord and Joleen Kraemer of Ponca. The evening closed with the song "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Edward Jones ranks highly as advocate for clients

The financial-service firm Edward Jones is among the best advocates for its clients, according to a study by an independent research group.

Edward Jones was the highest-ranking brokerage named on the customer advocacy list, released May 22 by Forrester Research Inc. an independent research company that identifies and analyzes trends in technology and their impact on business.

This is Forrester's third customer advocacy ranking. Edward Jones has consistently landed at the top of the rankings for the past three years, according to Forrester.

Based on a survey of nearly 5,000 consumers, the rankings rated 32 leading U.S. financial-services firms according to the key driver of customer loyalty: customer advocacy. Customer advocacy is the perception on the part of consumers that their financial-services firm does what's best for its clients, not just the firm's own bottom line, according to the study.

"It is such an honor to be recognized by our clients," said investment representative Ken Marra. "As our firm has grown, its fundamentals have remained the same and will continue to remain the same. We have principles that guide us and a brand that distinguishes us. We must maintain our single-minded focus on doing what's right for our clients."

Many top-rated firms, the study found, have a structural advantage: they're private. Edward Jones is employee-owned.

"Without the currency of stock shares to spend on acquisitions, (Edward Jones) is able to grow its revenues organically, a testament to the favorable economics of customer advocacy," according to the report.

The two Wayne Edward Jones investment representatives are: Reggie Yates at 375-4172 or Ken Marra at 375-2354.

Edward Jones provides investment investment advice and financial services for individual investors in the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom. Every aspect of the company's business, from the types of investment options offered to the location of branch offices, is designed to cater to individual investors in the communities in which they live and work. The firm's 9,000-plus investment representatives work directly with more than six million clients to understand their personal goals -- from college savings to retirement -- and create long-term strategies for their investments that emphasize portfolio diversification and a buy-and-hold strategy. Edward Jones embraces the importance of building long-term, face-to-face relationships with clients, helping them to understand and make sense of the investment options available today.

Edward Jones is headquartered in St. Louis. The Edward Jones interactive Web site is located at www.edwardjones.com

The Winside schools (grade 8 - 12) recently collected funds for the Northeast Nebraska American Red Cross. The combined grades raised a total of $615.90, with the eighth grade class alone collecting around $200 of that amount.

On May 23, the eighth graders presented a check to representatives from the Red Cross and in return they received a plaque that reads "The Winside School is a HERO of the Northeast Nebraska Chapter of The American Red Cross" as well as a first aid kit to keep in their school office.

That afternoon, the eighth graders were treated to free pizza donated by Godfather's pizza in Wayne in recognition of their great fundraising efforts.

On hand for the presentation on Tuesday was Winside School Counselor Julie Volwiler, Heather Hemminger - Service Delivery Director with the Red Cross, and eighth grade class president Kalin Koch presented Lori Carollo, Red Cross Executive Director with the check. School principal, Mr. Jeff Messersmith is "relaxing" in front of the group for the photo.

Huskers come through again

Oh, ye of little faith! The Huskers came through the Big 12 tournament just fine until the final game. And, they have another NCAA bid, with home field advantage. Just goes to show, I don't know anything about baseball, (or basketball, or football.) But I think we were all pretty discouraged there, for awhile.

Friends from Orlando are here for the holiday weekend. Husband happens to be from Kansas. So, of course, he enjoyed Sunday's game. We had to watch it in the lounge of the Chances R because they were here for our fiftieth class reunion and we were meeting in York. Tough venue! I actually watched two different Memorial Day ceremonies in two different cemeteries this weekend, which is a first for me.

Also last week, I received the DVD of the WSO show; what a hoot! I think Lowell Johnson made a perfect Bob Hope, and the lady who was Minnie Pearl sounded very authentic. Curt Jeffries made a darling Jimmy Hendrix, and the Andrews Sisters were easy to listen to.

The support the community has shown the 189th has been tremendous, and last week's article about the things they are doing in Iraq was inspiring. I love the corn stalk logo!

Our Nebraska baseball team is wearing flag patches from a group of supporters in Iraq. I try to focus on the positive things about this endeavor, because there are certainly plenty of negatives.

We were thrilled by the performance of the girls' 3200 relay from Winside at State Track. Running that far, that fast, takes a lot of stamina, and training, and cooperation. As usual, one day there was HOT, and one day was rainy. You can just about always plan on both.

We've been having rain at intervals, and everything looks lovely and green. But that hot wind over the weekend makes us think about what may be coming. Memorial Day is past; summer is officially here. Bring on the Regionals! Go Big Red!

Irrigation Field Day planned to discuss efficiency

The price of irrigation diesel fuel has risen about 70 percent in the past two years with prices for other fossil fuel energy sources rising more or less in proportion to diesel.

Now is the time to take a hard look at the efficiency of your pumping plants to identify and correct those that are wasting energy. An Irrigation Field Day will be held on Tuesday, June 13 starting at noon with a free lunch. The field day is at the intersection of 859 Road and 548 Avenue north of Pierce. Topics covered will be a live pump efficiency test (discussed below), how to save on pumping costs, irrigation scheduling to save water, evapotranspiration and crop water use. Call the UNL Pierce County Extension office for more information 402-329-4821.

Testing pump efficiency
Most irrigation in Nebraska depends on groundwater as the water source and uses multi-stage, vertical turbine pumps. The University of Nebraska has field tested hundreds of pumping plants over the years. Based on these field tests and laboratory tests of engine efficiency, UNL has developed the Nebraska Pumping Plant Performance Criteria (NPC). This criteria states the amount of useful measurements are used to calculate the performance of the particular pumping plant. Finally, the performance of the pumping plant is compared to the Nebraska Performance Criteria and is given a performance rating, expressed as a percentage of the NPC. A rating of 100 percent indicates that the pumping plant is operating as expected. A rating below 100 percent indicates the pumping plant is using more energy for the work that it is doing than the criteria

F. John Jay

calls for. For example, a pumping plant operating at 70 percent of the NPC is only producing 70 percent of the useful work it should for the energy it is consuming.

Nebraska test results
UNL's most recent statewide pumping plant efficiency study tested 165 pumping plants. Of those 165, 85 percent of the pumping plants were found to use more energy per unit of work than would be expected by the NPC with a few using about twice the energy they should.

When the performance ratings of all 165 pumping plant tests in the study were tallied, the average pumping plant in Nebraska was found to be using 130 percent as much energy as it would if it were operating at the NPC.

Causes
When the efficiency of a pumping plant is not what it should be, the problem is either in the power unit or in the pump or both. Causes for poor pump performance include: pump designs that are poorly matched to the job they are currently doing (perhaps the operator has switched from gated pipe to a center pivot sprinkler or a high pressure to a lower pressure sprinkler package), pumps that had worn impeller vanes and/or internal seals as a result of pumping sand, or impellers that were not properly adjusted within the pump bowls.

Making adjustments
In recent pumping plant tests, 58 percent were determined to potentially benefit from adjustments. Adjustments made with a wrench in the field either to the engine or pump or both resulted in 14 percent average savings in energy costs compared to the initial test results. An equally important result was inefficient pumping plants were identified and the feasibility of making repairs beyond the field adjustments were calculated. On some pumping plants, the potential savings in energy costs from major repair or even replacement of the pump would pay for itself in only a few years.

Caution! Impeller adjustments to pick up a bottom seal must be performed by a qualified person who knows how to calculate the lineshaft elongation that occurs when the pump is operating under load. Great harm can be done to the pump if the impellers are improperly adjusted. Do not attempt to adjust the impellers yourself unless you know how to account for line shaft elongation based on your particular impeller model, lineshaft diameter and length and the total head the pump is producing.

John Jay can be reached by phone at 402-329-4821 or by email at jjay2@unl.edu work (water horsepower-hours, whp-h) one should reasonably expect to achieve in the field for each unit of energy consumed by a pumping plant.

In a pumping plant test, the technician measures total head (lift plus system pressure), flow rate (gallons per minute), and rate of energy consumption. These four
