Relay For Life 2006

Seventeen teams, nearly 50 survivors and a number of spectators were on hand for this year's Relay For Life event in Wayne. Designed to raise funds for cancer research, education and services, this year's Relay raised more than $33,000. Above, cancer survivors, many accompanied by a family member, walked the track at Wayne State College as the event began. Below, members of the White Dog team walked together to begin the night of continuous walking. Rain and lightning caused the walkers to pack up at approximately 3 a.m., after a successful evening of fundraising. Additional photos of Relay events can be found throughout today's edition of the Herald.

Two resignations are accepted and several positions are filled

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Wayne Community Schools Board of Education met in regular session Monday night. The resignations of Cheryl and Keith Kopperud were accepted with regrets and nine positions were filled.

The following were hired: Liz Garvin, high school girls golf head coach; Courtney Mass, high school girls basketball head coach; Deneil Parker, Middle School band; Monica Jensen, elementary school/Middle School vocal; Lyndy Williams, Middle School seventh and eighth grade health and math; part-time summer custodial: Ashley Hall, Karie and Kelly Mitchell and Dawn Jensen.

Supt. Dr. Joe Reinert discussed a payment of $66,923.70 to R.W. Rice Co. of Sioux City, Iowa for work on the heating and air conditioning unit at the Middle School. The system wasn't working correctly so R.W. Rice Co. was hired to find and fix the problems. Reinert noted that at this time, litigation against past contractors will be delayed until all the information and costs are finalized. Dr. Reinert said the first payment of $30,923 will be paid from the building fund in June and the rest will be paid in October from the budget.

Due to the payment of the Rice bill, the school district has a cash flow problem, therefore, the school district will take out a loan. The board approved a resolution for a loan for computers and equipment at Farmers & Merchants State Bank in Wayne. The loan is not to exceed $115,000.

Dr. Reinert informed the board of the air quality testing results from some of the rooms in the Middle School. He noted that he had spoken to the architect and it was determined that the fresh air supply to each room was there. Dr. Reinert also noted that some air vents in the ceiling were capped off. The capped vents were according to plans. Two rooms showed a high CO2 content and two rooms were above standard. The board did not approve payment of $14,000 for other testing. The recommendation was to test again in the fall when the students are there and to use a portable test meter.

Administration gave reports. Some of the reports included: High School Principal Mark Hanson: One hundred thirty students took drivers ed this year. Also, Distance Learning Psychology class went well. There were 61 students signed up for

Cornhusker State Games Torch Run passes through Wayne

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Local runners did their part in bringing the Cornhusker State Games Torch to its destination of Haymarket Park (Stadium) at Lincoln on June 20. A celebration will be held between innings of the Saltdogs game.

The run across Nebraska started May 24 near Kimball. On Sunday, Wayne State College student Jeremiah Herron ran the last 8 miles from Norfolk to Wayne. On Monday, Stan Sudbeck of Laurel took his turn south of Wayne with Gabe Hammer running next.

Two National Guardsmen followed in a Humvee. Casey Sullivan, a member of the firefighting unit in Norfolk is a driver. They have accompanied the runners on their 1,100 mile journey. The Nebraska National Guard is a sponsor of the Torch Run and the Wayne Unit helped with the event.

Following the runners in a vehicle is Jon Bohaty, who is marketing director for the state games and his friend, Levi Ashley, both of Lincoln. He noted there's a total of 800 runners bringing the torch across the state, most running 1-2 miles each but some more. If there's a stretch where no one is scheduled to run, Bohaty or Ashley run.

The Cornhusker State Games are non-profit and have been going for 22 years; they rely on volunteers across the state. The purpose of the Torch Run is to let people know it's time to sign up for the games. Early deadline is June 20. Entries will be accepted from June 21-27 with a $5 late fee. This year the games run from July 14-23. More than 12,000 athletes are expected to participate in the 58 competitive and participation sports offered.

"With 58 different sports, there's something for everyone, from chess to triathlon," Bohaty said. "It's Nebraska's version of the Olympics. With the gas so high, I would suggest families get together

Kopperuds provide more than 50 years of service

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Although not an easy decision, Keith and Cheryl Kopperud have decided to end their teaching careers with the Wayne Community Schools, effective at the end of the recently completed school year.

Between the husband and wife pair, they have provided a total of 54 years of teaching music at Wayne Elementary and Middle School.

Keith, a native of southern Minnesota, earned his bachelor's degree from Morningside College and began teaching at Wayne Middle School in 1974.

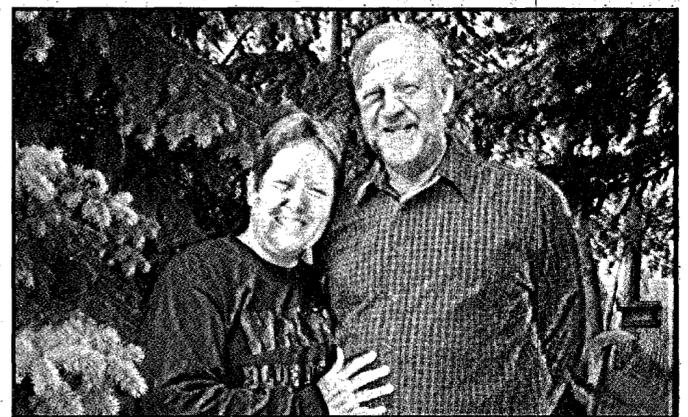

"At that time I was teaching fifth through eighth grade instrumental music and also fifth grade general music," Keith said.

He noted that through the years, the number of students involved in band has grown.

"These students always want to play drums, so sometimes it is a challenge to get good instrumentation for the band," he said.

In addition to his teaching assignments, Keith has been active with a Touch of Brass and the Sioux City Municipal Band where he plays the tuba. During the summer months, he also paints houses throughout the area.

Cheryl is originally from Sloan, Iowa. She earned her bachelor's degree from Wayne State College and was a secretary for the fine arts department at WSC and taught at District #57 south of Wayne for several years before accepting the elementary music position at Wayne Elementary School in 1984.

"At that time, there were only two sections of each class. That has now grown to three sections. In addition, approximately 10 years ago, I added the fifth grade vocal music classes to my schedule.

The Kopperuds have accepted teaching positions in a small school near Marshall, Minn. in southwest Minnesota. Keith will be in charge of fifth through 12th grade instrumental music and Cheryl will be the vocal music instructor.

"We will definitely miss the kids, teachers and our friends," Cheryl said.

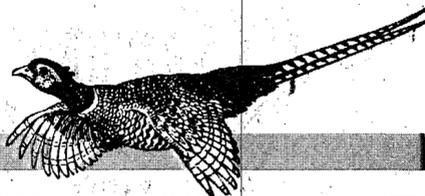

"Wayne has always had good support for the music program.

The Kopperuds have two children, Kristine is married and lives near Decorah, Iowa and Kenneth, who recently graduated from the University of Nebraska-Omaha and will be teaching sixth - 12 grade vocal music in Iowa.

"We have enjoyed working here. Wayne supports music and the fine arts program. This is unusual. Wayne is a good place," Keith said.

Northeast is site of Chamber of Commerce Biz Show

The Cox Activities Center at Northeast Community College in Norfolk is the site of the Fourth Annual Biz Show sponsored by the Norfolk Area Chamber of Commerce's Small Business Council.

The event is scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 26, from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. This year's event will have a theme, "United We Stand, Together We Thrive!"

Exhibitors will set up Wednesday, Oct. 25, from noon until 5 p.m. An exhibitor-only breakfast is planned for Thursday morning from 8-9:30 a.m., with a special presentation for the exhibitors from the Dale Carnegie Institute.

According to Chris Nitz, membership director for the Norfolk Area Chamber of Commerce, the Biz Show is the largest marketplace in northeast Nebraska for exhibitors to show their latest products and services, under one roof, for one day! There were 80 exhibitors at the Biz Show last fall.

"This event will bring potential clients to our exhibitors and save them months of work. The Biz Show can help eliminate the troublesome phone tag, long waits for clients on the phone or long waits to see a client," she said.

Mary Kay Uhing of MK Consulting, Norfolk, said, "I could not have made this many contacts in five months. The Biz Show was a blast!" about last year's show. Bank of the West was preparing for its name change last year. According to their client services supervisor, "Making partnerships with other businesses is helpful. We are in the middle of a conversion with another bank right now, so advertising and marketing are key for us...keeping in touch with customers and getting new ones while we are changing our name."

Nitz said the committee expects to fill the remaining slots in the near future. Those interested in reserving a display space should call her at (402)371-4862. Participants can also register online at www.norfolk.ne.us

Benches are welcome addition

Dear Editor,
Good Day.
My wife Janie and I often walk in the evening in Greenwood Cemetery.
At this time of year, the cemetery takes on a most beautiful appearance with all the flowers and decorations surrounding Memorial Day. And, one of the newest and most impressive sites is the area around the flagpole dedicated in the memory of Roy Sommerfeld. That area has now been enhanced by the addition of four beautiful marble benches, donated by the Rose, Swinney, Sturm and Morris families.

I would encourage all to take a moment and visit that portion of the cemetery.

Loss of schools will be mourned

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Lots of songs have been written about the end of the cowboy era. Most of them are sad songs, one way or another.

It isn't likely that musical tributes will be penned in remembrance of the small country schools that have been so important to rural Nebraska, from its areas in the Old West to the shores of the Missouri.

Those places of learning were, and are, called "Class I" schools.

The Legislature enacted a law that required those smallest of Nebraska schools, which offer only elementary education, to be dissolved. They must become part of a larger district, offering kindergarten through high school.

When those mergers are completed, if they are completed, the little schools with history that goes back to territorial days, might be mourned or remembered or celebrated with some lines from a tune that lamented the passing of the cowboy era, because its passing meant "...another piece of America is gone."

Efficiency (read costs) and educational opportunities demand that all rural youngsters be part a larger district, the Legislature said.

Supporters of the small districts disagreed. They launched a petition drive, intended to give voters a chance to undo what the Legislature did, and to bar state-ordered dissolution of school districts. They want to make it the law of the land, via a Constitutional amendment.

Most Nebraskans have never been in, or even seen, a Class I school. If asked to describe their idea of one, many would come up with some "Little House on the Prairie" type of thing. In some instances, they would be correct.

Urban residents have often supported their rural counterparts at the polls; especially when the issue has involved something regarded as rural business. "If that's what they want, what the heck. Why not?" Besides, it sometimes gave everyone a chance to slap down the Legislature.

What about now? What about those who argue that providing required educational opportunities to the most rural areas is too costly? State aid for those smallest districts, about 200 of them, comes from the pocketbooks of people, statewide, who pay state sales and income taxes and some other levies. Can town and city folk be convinced that the mergers are an overriding economic benefit to them?

And, what would happen if the constitutional amendment passed? The small districts have already been officially dissolved.

The view from here: That part of things simply represents proof of the adage that Democracy is messy. It would take a full school year to undo most of what has been done - and in many instances, it wouldn't be possible to turn back the clock. For some, done is done.

Question: Might suburban Omaha voters feel a kinship with those suburbanites felt the bite of anxiety when threatened with seeing their school districts taken over by the Omaha Public Schools.

Answer: Yes. If the petition succeeds and the proposed repeal of the merger law is on the November ballot, it will get lots of support from metro-area voters who want to protect themselves, and cast a sympathy vote for the little guys. When suburban lawmakers wanted help from rural counterparts to block any OPS expansion, and then seeing OPS itself divided, they got a rude awakening. They got back what amounted to some lyrics, not from a cowboy song, but from an old Bob Dylan refrain. "... How does it feel? To be on your own ..."

Lawmakers eventually ordered OPS broken into three new districts, a plan being challenged in court on the basis of race. If OPS survives intact, it would renew its attack on those suburban districts. Could that fact help to persuade Omaha voters to go with the pending constitutional amendment? Maybe.

If the proposal to repeal the new law qualifies for the November ballot, be prepared for a very, very spirited campaign from both sides.

Remembering America's Heroes

By Congressman Jeff Fortenberry

This is a special time of year to honor our military veterans.

Two weeks ago I participated in Memorial Day services in Bellwood, Mead and Fremont. Each community went to great lengths to make its service unique and heartfelt, and the showing of local support was tremendous. Families and individuals decorated graves with beautiful flowers while taking time to honor their loved ones and local service members.

Commemorations like Memorial Day are both proud and solemn occasions. The formal remembrance of our fallen soldiers mixes feelings of sorrow and pride. We celebrate our freedom while we mourn its price. We pay tribute to our heroes while we feel the sting of their loss.

Each morning driving past Arlington National Cemetery on my way to work in Washington, I am given a solemn reminder of the honor and respect eternally owed our veterans. The white tombstones in ordered rows resemble lines of soldiers standing at attention. Captain Luther Fortenberry is buried there. He was a medical doctor killed in August 1944 in France during World War II. He was my grandfather.

America's sacrifices for security and liberty have been great. While our victories have been momentous, we have also suffered loss. Since the Revolutionary War, 42 million Americans have risked their lives for their country. Of those, almost 655,000 soldiers have died in battle. Their loss runs deep in the lives of Americans. Wives lost husbands, husbands lost wives, parents lost children, and children lost parents. A soldier's ultimate sacrifice is not merely his own.

The sting of loss is not distant for some whose loved ones have been killed serving in the Middle East and Central Asia. American soldiers, including some Nebraskans, have given their lives in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Over the last year, I have attended funeral and memorial services for Nebraska soldiers killed in Iraq. I have seen their families bravely bear the weight of devastation, and I have seen communities come together to honor their local heroes and help bring healing.

I did not know any of the young Nebraska soldiers personally, but I could not be more proud of them and their contributions. Their bravery, honor, character, and selflessness were remarkable. They were young men of the highest caliber - model American soldiers. Like so many heroes before them, they gave themselves for their country, fighting courageously for America to the very end.

This week Congress will debate a resolution on the Global War on Terror. The resolution will express a philosophical commitment to the work our soldiers are doing: supporting America's efforts to bring security and stabilization to Iraq, diminishing the prospects for terrorism, and building hope and opportunity in the Middle East for a more peaceful world. I believe a strong commitment to fulfilling our obligations honors those soldiers who have fought so valiantly on America's behalf.

Joining Nebraskans on Memorial Day to celebrate and honor the sacrifices of our veterans was a deeply meaningful experience. I was pleased to share this special time with so many committed to formally remembering America's heroes.

Teaching American History Grant is funded

A 2006 Teaching American History grant to support expanding teachers, understanding of legal and constitutional history has been awarded to Educational Service Unit #2 in Fremont in partnership with Wayne State College.

As with the Westward Waters and American Independence grants, graduate level courses will be offered through Wayne State College, according to Dr. Don Hickey, WSC professor of history.

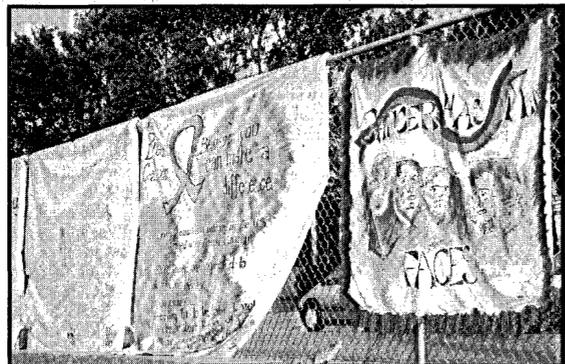

"This was the only grant in Nebraska funded in this cycle," said Hickey. "The grants are pretty competitive, and we are very fortunate and perhaps unique in being successful in landing three of the grants since Congress initiated the program."

The Teaching American History Grant program is a discretionary grant program funded by the U.S. Department of Education under Title II-C, Subpart 4 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. Its goal is to support programs that raise student achievement by improving teachers, knowledge, understanding and appreciation of American history.

Grant awards will assist local educational agencies, such as ESU #2, in partnership with entities like Wayne State that have extensive content expertise to design, implement and demonstrate effective, research-based, professional development programs.

The target audience for this project is fifth grade, middle school and high school American history teachers who teach in schools belonging to the Eastern Nebraska Distance Learning Consortium (ENDLC). Teachers will be selected through an application process set to begin early next year with program activities scheduled to commence the summer of 2007. Application materials will be sent to each ENLDC school sometime in January.

Teams involved in the 2006 Relay For Life each designed a banner with facts about different types of cancer and cancer prevention. The banners were then displayed on the fence on the south end of the track.

Deadline near for Homestead Tax Exemption filing

Low- and moderate-income older Nebraskans have until June 30 to apply for a homestead exemption to obtain relief from property taxes. This annual exemption excludes all or a portion of the value of a person's home and up to one acre of the land that the home is built on from property taxes.

Robert Courtney, a volunteer homestead exemption specialist with AARP Nebraska, said that people over the age of 65 need to look into the homestead exemption. "Many homeowners who qualify for a full or partial homestead exemption may not be receiving the exemption because they don't realize they are eligible," he said. "AARP Nebraska has been involved in a multi-year effort to raise public awareness of this important program for seniors on limited incomes."

In general, older homeowners qualify for a full or partial exemption if:

- They are age 65 or older and have an annual household income at or below $28,201 for a single person and at or below $33,251 for a married couple. People can deduct most of their medical expenses in determining their income and eligibility for the homestead exemption.

For more information about the homestead exemption, call the Nebraska Department of Revenue at 1-800-742-7474.

Homestead exemption application forms are also available on the department's web site at www.revenue.state.ne.us.

Beginning in 2007, Courtney said, many eligible older homeowners on fixed incomes will receive an even larger break on their property taxes. A revenue package enacted this year by the Legislature increases the amount of home value that can be exempted from property taxes. It also allows more people to benefit from the program by increasing the maximum home value that will be eligible for an exemption.

"These important changes will help offset increasing property taxes that have been driven by rising valuations," he said.

Homestead exemption applications must be submitted to the County Assessor on or before June 30.

Fair weather helps with construction project

Work continues ahead of schedule on the Wayne downtown improvement project, thanks, in part, to the fair weather conditions.

Water service lines on the east side of Main Street are finished and work is completed on the west side from Clark to Third Street.

Storm sewers are also being installed on the west side of the street and installation is complete up to Second and Main Streets.

Public meetings with the State Department of Roads, city officials and the contractor have been moved back to 8 a.m. on Thursdays in an effort to accommodate business owners. The meetings have been moved to the Coffee Shoppe on Main Street.

Paving has already begun on the Highway 15 North Project with work presently ahead of schedule.

The public transit bus continues to be available for any and all requiring transportation downtown for shopping. Merchants will provide free tickets for passengers using the bus for shopping trips downtown.

NSP encourages participation in National Night Out event

Statistics from the U.S. Department of Justice show approximately 58,200 children are abducted each year by nonfamily members, with about 45 percent of those incidents being perpetrated by strangers.

To raise awareness of the dangers facing our children, the FBI is partnering with the American Football Coaches Association (AFCA) to launch the National Child Identification Program (NCIDP), with the goal of providing inkless fingerprint identification (ID) kits for all 60 million children in the United States.

Information for obtaining NCIDP's inkless fingerprint ID kits for the National Night Out may be found on its web site at www.nationalnightout.org. There is a fee for the kits. Registration for the event is free and once registered, you will receive an organizational kit filled with "how to" materials.

For more information on the NCIDP and how you can help protect children in your community, visit their web site at www.childid-program.com or call (972) 934-2211.

Judy Johnson

Judy Johnson resigns from Wayne State

Judy Johnson has resigned her position as Director of College Relations at Wayne State College, effective July 15. "Judy has done an exemplary job at Wayne State College since her arrival here six years ago, and she will be missed by me and many others," said President Richard J. Collings. "Judy is a wonderful writer and has done an excellent job in working with Admissions, the Wayne State Foundation, the press, radio, television, printers and many others external to the college. She has made a positive difference in the lives of students, faculty and staff at Wayne State College."

Johnson will pursue a new career that she has considered for a long time — the ordained ministry in the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America.

Beginning Aug. 1, she will serve as vicar at two Lutheran churches in rural Hooper, Elim and St. Paul's. While serving these churches, she will enroll in the Theological Education for Emerging Ministries (TEEM) program at a Lutheran seminary, probably Wartburg Theological Seminary in Dubuque, Iowa. TEEM is designed for those changing careers. After three years of online and residential studies, Johnson will be ordained as a pastor.

"We are planning a farewell reception for Judy on Monday, July 10, at 10 a.m. in the Elkhorn Room in the Student Center," said Collings. "The reception is open to the campus and the community. I encourage everyone to stop in and wish Judy and her husband Dick well in this new endeavor."

Parking again debated

By Clara Osten

Of the Herald

Parking, or rather where not to park, was again debated during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Considerable time was spent discussing the language in Ordinance 2006-10, which would amend the city code in regard to where recreational equipment can be parked.

Council member Don Buryanek said he had received a letter expressing concerns with the language in the ordinance and whether or not the ordinance would allow for parking in front of detached buildings.

Council member Betty Reeg said those who own recreation equipment need to take the cost of storage into consideration when making a purchase.

Council member Doug Sturm said that concern by local citizens has led to the creation of this type of ordinance and "we want our neighborhoods cleaned up." He also noted that those who have special circumstances could ask for a waiver on an individual basis.

City Attorney Mike Pieper asked that language in regard to waivers be put into the ordinance before the ordinance goes into effect to assist with implementation.

On a related issue, the council took no action on the final reading of Ordinance 2006-4 which also deals with parking regulations. It was the consensus of the council that action on the ordinance should be tabled until Ordinance 2006-10 is passed.

During the meeting, City Planner George Ellyson presented an update on activities of the Problem Resolution Team (PRT) during the past year.

Ellyson noted that the group has met eight times in the last year and addressed five occupancy issues, five structure issues and three cosmetic issues.

Three resolutions received approval at Tuesday's meeting.

They include Resolution 2006-43, which creates an agreement for future subdivision agreement terms, including the dedication of land for a park fee.

Resolution 2006-44 was also approved, authorizing the acceptance of Northeast Nebraska Area Agency on Aging Nutrition Component Funds for Wayne Senior Center meals.

Resolution 2006-46 received unanimous approval, "finding that the acquisition and development of undeveloped and vacant land is essential to the proper clearance and redevelopment of substandard and blighted areas and is a necessary part of the general community redevelopment program and authorizing the acquisition of the same by the Community Development Agency."

After recessing as a council and convening as a Community Development Agency, the group appointed Don Buryanek as chairperson and Doug Sturm as vice-chair for the group.

The council's next regularly scheduled meeting will be Tuesday, June 27 at 7:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Wayne 16s post wins

The winning trend continues to roll on for the Wayne 16-under softball team as it picks up steam at mid-season.

On June 6, the girls dominated Logan View in a 9-1 home victory that was highlighted by a five run explosion in the fifth inning.

The squad dropped an 8-4 road game on June 8 at West Point after the hosts jumped out to a six run lead after the first three innings.

Rauner finished with a pair of runs, while Andrea Pieper added another run to Wayne's total.

The 16s traveled to the North Bend League Tournament on June 10-11 and came away with a second-place finish in the two-day tourney.

In the opening game, the girls jumped out to a 5-0 advantage in the first two innings en route to a 6-4 victory against North Bend.

Alesha Finkey's home run in the first, plus runs by Rauner, Jarvi and Mirisa Carroll got things hopping for Wayne.

Wayne's win advanced the squad to the semifinals where the team took an 8-2 loss to Tekamah-Herman in fourth innings.

Rauner and Pieper each tallied runs for Wayne in the contest.

The 16s bounced back from the loss with an 11-0 shutout against Dodge on June 11.

Carroll led Wayne with three hits, while Jamie Barge and Kyna Minor both tallied a pair of runs in the win.

Both teams battled to a 4-4 tie through the first inning, but Wayne broke things open in the second with seven runs to take an 11-4 advantage.

It was a late rally, but Wayne made North Bend work for it's championship as Wayne slipped 4-3 in the tourney final.

North Bend held a 1-0 lead before runs by Carroll, Finkey and Jarvi gave Wayne a 3-1 advantage heading into the final frame.

Wayne's lead slipped away as North Bend mustered a pair of runs in the second to take the championship.

The team will travel to Uehling on Thursday (tonight) and will enter District tournament play on Friday-Sunday, June 16-18, at Tekamah.

The next home contests for the team will be on Wednesday and Thursday, June 21-22 against Norfolk Golden Girls and Tekamah-Herman, respectively.

Coaching changes evolve for Wildcat soccer and softball

Two developments were noted this week in the the Wayne State athletic department.

On Wednesday, it was announced that WSC head women's soccer coach Oliver Twelvetrees resigned his position at Wayne State College to become the head men's soccer coach at Barton Community College in Great Bend, Kansas.

Twelvetrees served two seasons as head women's soccer coach at Wayne State, compiling a 6-14 record in 2004 and a 10-9-4 mark in 2005. It was the first winning season in women's soccer at Wayne State since the 2001 season. In NSIC play, Twelvetrees had a 3-4 mark in 2004 and a 7-5-2 record in 2005 to finish in a tie for third place.

Before coming to Wayne State, Twelvetrees served two years as an assistant women's soccer coach at Bemidji State University in Minnesota.

Also this week, WSC athletic director Eric Schoh has announced the names of four finalists for the head softball position at the school.

The finalists are Krista Unger of Missouri Valley, Iowa; Joe Yegge of Terra Haute, Ind.; Michael Govig of Papillion and Amanda Harris from Milledgeville, Ga.

Unger was an assistant coach at St. Cloud State the past two seasons. She was an All-American pitcher at Nebraska-Omaha from 2000-2003, helping the Mavericks win a national championship in 2001.

Yegge has served as the top assistant at Indiana State University the last four seasons. Before that, Yegge was the head coach at North Iowa Area Community College in Mason City, Iowa from 1998-2002. He is a graduate of Buena Vista University in Storm Lake, Iowa.

Govig currently serves as the head coach at Papillion-LaVista High School, leading the school to 10 straight Class A state championships from 1995-2004. His team was the Class A runner-up in 2005. He also served as interim head coach at the University of Kentucky.

Harris is currently an assistant coach at Georgia College and State University, helping the team to a 45-13 record this past season and a berth in the NCAA Division II College Softball World Series.

The four finalists interviewed on the Wayne State campus this week and Schoh hopes that a new head coach can be named sometime next week.

Northeast plans electronics Career Night

Those interested in exploring career possibilities in electronics engineering technology are encouraged to attend a Career

Information Night at Northeast Community College on Tuesday, June 27. The event is set for 6:30-8:30 p.m. in the Maclay Building, Room 100B, on the Northeast campus in Norfolk. Three laptop computers, plus many other door prizes, will be given away that evening. Students are asked to pre-register by Friday, June 23, by calling (402) 844-7280 or emailing sandy@northeastcollege.com

The electronics engineering technology program at Northeast leads to an associate of applied science degree. Average salary in Nebraska for an electronics engineering technician is $45,100 in this growing field.

Technicians with associate's degrees build, test, troubleshoot, and repair electronic systems in several careers fields including computer, medical, consumer and industrial electronics, telecommunications, robotics, instrumentation and avionics.

"For an investment of two years and tuition/fee costs of about $4,170, our graduates can set themselves up for a great career in electronics engineering," John Blaylock, Northeast dean of business, math and technology, said recently. "Financial aid may be available. With or without that aid, the student's investment of two years' time and just over $4,000 in money can lead to a well-paying job with lots of opportunities for growth and advancement."

"We look forward to explaining more about this promising field at our Career Night on Tuesday, June 27, at 6:30 p.m.," Blaylock said.

Oh, The Places You'll Go! Relay For Life 2006

Relay For Life 2006 was held at the Wayne State College track on June 9-10. From left, more than 600 luminaries lit the track. Ruth Korth read a poem written by her husband, the late Wendell Korth, this year's honorary chairman before his death in May. The Color Guard led the survivors in the first lap around the track to start the evening's activities. A group of girls served as "Hush Angels" to remind those in attendance to remain silent during the reading of the list of those whose names were listed on the luminary bags. Cancer survivors in attendance walked or were driven around the track during the survivor lap. Four haircuts were given with hair donated to Locks for Love. The event raised $33,618.25 for the American Cancer Society.

Children catch things! They catch a cold or the flu by being around others who are sick. They catch behaviors by being around parents, teachers and other role models. Children "catch" what they see lived! It's tempting to tell children, "Do as I say, not as I do," but parents cannot expect children to learn a behavior they don't practice themselves!

Research shows that children retain less than 30 percent of what they are taught formally, but over 70 percent of what they see lived out by role models in their lives. How does this look in every day life?

Parents are teaching by what they do! In the area of safety, 86 percent of parents wear safety belts, resulting in 91 percent of children wearing theirs. By contrast, 86 percent of parents say it is important for their children to wear life jackets, but only 39 percent of the parents wore theirs. What happens to the children? Only 57 percent wear life jackets. What safety behavior are you modeling?

Another study found that a large majority of youth ages 13 - 17 said their parents were their greatest influence when it came to making decisions about drinking. The example parents set, along with talking with their children to explain their beliefs, was key in the decisions their children made. Are you taking advantage of this opportunity to model and talk about these decisions with your children?

Ruth Vonderohe
Extension Educator

What are you teaching your children about food? Do you use food as a stress reliever? Do you eat out of boredom? Do you say that healthy eating is important, but model eating junk food or being a picky eater? Youth quickly learn by the example you set. Make the most of meals eaten together at home to model good food choices and to build relationships with your children. The payoff: better grades, less non-desirable behavior choices, and of course, better nutrition.

What attitudes have your children caught? Do you always expect them to win? Do you show prejudice towards people who are different from you? Do your children love to learn by seeing you learn new things?

Like it or not, parents, you are role models. Take inventory of the messages you are living in front of your children. You can be certain, they will be caught!

Give us your feedback by clicking on the TIPS Feedback Form link below and tell us how you used this information in your family.

travelers with lodging, gasoline and food.

Contributions this year year came from the following sources: CROP Walk, nine percent; gifts, nine percent; the Thanksgiving and Good Friday offerings, 18 percent; and the Wayne United Way, 28 percent of needed funds.

The Rev. Steve Snead, president of WACM, the Rev. Bill Koeber, secretary and the Rev. Cal Kroeker, treasurer, said "thanks again to the Wayne community for a job well done in helping those in need."

From 1983 to 2001 he worked as a missionary in Nigeria in various capacities, including that of provincial superior. In 2001 he went to Rome to begin his doctoral studies, living first at the basilica of San Clemente and later at the basilica of Santa Maria sopra Minerva.

COUPLES/SINGLES CLUB

The Concordia Couples/Singles Club met Sunday evening in the Concord Park. "Camp Concord" was planned by Marilyn and Ron Harder. Marlen Johnson led the business meeting. Reports were accepted. Monetary help for Concordia's non-confirmands was discussed and an amount will be given to each to help defray camp expenses.

The July Ice-Cream Social was planned. A donation sheet will be hung on the bulletin board in the church narthex for anyone interested in donating food items. Home-made ice-cream, pie, cake, bars and drink will be served from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Marilyn and Ron gave the program on the 'Meaning of Grace' with scripture from the book of John and Ephesians followed with prayer. Marilyn read an article entitled "Don't Leave it on the Desk" which emphasized the suffering of Jesus as we, his people, receive grace freely or 'leave it on our desks'.

Special bags were made for the 189th containing life savers, personal notes and candy. Socks were also purchased to pack in the 10 priority boxes of goodies which were collected at Concordia and will be sent overseas this week.

The evening closed with root beer floats, popcorn, cookies and fresh strawberry shortcake.

PEARSON COUSIN REUNION

Descendants of the Oscar and Emely (Jonsson) Pearson children gathered at the Activity Center at the Ponca State Park on June 10 with more than 90 in attendance. Five children were born to Oscar and Emely. Sixteen cousins were born, of which three have passed and two were absent.

Hosts for the day were Anita (Pearson) Nicholson of Emerson, and Vonis (Pearson) Schroeder of Frankfort, Kan. A catered meal was served followed by the business meeting.

Each cousin introduced his/her spouse, children and grandchildren present. Many photos were taken and an afternoon lunch consisting of 'oostakaka', spritz cookies, and desserts were enjoyed.

Hosts for the Cousins' Reunion the second week of June in 2008 will be Lorraine (Miner) Wright of Mankato, Minn. and Phyllis Rubeck of Laurel. Families came from the area towns of Wayne, Wakefield, Wymore, Concord, Emerson, Laurel, Omaha, Lincoln, Norfolk and Tekamah. Attorney General warns of scam using candidates Osborn's name

Attorney General Jon Bruning has warned Nebraskans about an e-mail scam from someone claiming to be Navy veteran and candidate for Nebraska Treasurer Shane Osborn.

"This scam is deeply troubling. These criminals are using the name and identity of a man who honorably served our nation in an attempt to scam Nebraskans," Bruning said.

The e-mail, which is sent from Portugal, suggests Osborn is currently serving in Kuwait, and once served in Iraq. The message states Osborn needs help depositing $25 million in funds taken from Saddam Hussein. For the help, you are promised 30 percent of the money.

"Remember, if something sounds too good to be true, it probably is," Bruning said.

If Nebraskans receive this, or a similar e-mail, they should not respond or click on the links included in the message. Instead, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division toll-free at (800) 727-6432.

Youth cited for alcohol violations on 'Teen Night'

The Norfolk Police Department cited a total of nine underage youth for minor in possession of alcohol and one minor for a zero tolerance (.02 BAC) violation in The Depot parking lot during its teen nights. The event is held every Tuesday evening during the summer months. The violations occurred on May 30 and June 5.

As a licensed establishment, The Depot is responsible for activities in and around the immediate licensed area, which includes the parking lot.

Kids who attend the teen nights are allowed to leave the establishment once and return. After the kids leave for the second time, they are not allowed to enter again. With the number of kids attending the teen nights, the process of monitoring the traffic flow is unclear.

"Teen Nights in liquor licensed establishments send a mixed signal to youth about alcohol," said Nicole Wangler, project coordinator for Project Extra Mile. "By putting kids in an alcohol-related environment, it encourages them to drink underage and ultimately puts young lives at risk."

In addition, the teens cited were all from the Norfolk area; however, teens travel from several surrounding communities to attend the weekly teen nights.

"Youth travel anywhere from Wayne and Columbus to attend these teen nights at The Depot," said Capt. Hecker, Norfolk Police Department. "Often these kids are drinking and then driving home, an obvious safety concern for both young people and the entire community."

Information regarding the violations will be forwarded to the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission which oversees liquor licensing establishments.

On June 2, the Dixon County Junior Leaders met at the Hillside Bowl in Laurel at 6:30 p.m. to have some fun before a meeting. After a couple games of bowling, they went to Glen and Nancy Maxon's house for a bon fire and cookout. Just before eating, the meeting was held. President James Roeber called the meeting to order.

In old business: Kyle Koester, Becca Koch, Taryn Dahlquist, and Corrie Dahlquist are to attend a 4-H Council meeting on June 15 at 7:30 p.m.

At the April 23 meeting, the Junior Leaders had gathered together items to send the 189th

Also at the April meeting, Sandy Preston gave a presentation about the pros and cons of kids our age having credit cards. Thank you, Mrs. Preston.

In new business, the Junior Leaders signed up to sell popcorn at the Ponca Rodeo on June 23 and 24.

Presenting the kits to Coach Kevin Finkey was Lori Carollo, Executive Director of the local Red Cross Chapter. In the background are some of the athletes who were participating in their daily workouts. The weight room is opens from 6 to 9 a.m. in the morning and again around 4 - 6 p.m. in the afternoon every weekday throughout the summer.

Local Red Cross chapter donates first aid kits to Wayne High

The Northeast Nebraska Chapter of the American Red Cross recently presented some first aid kits to Wayne High School. A 10-person kit in a hard case that can be mounted to the wall was donated to the weight room that is being used by many Wayne High athletes this summer under the direction of Kevin Finkey.

A nylon Sports and Recreation kit was also given to Head Football Coach Finkey to be taken when he participates in many camps with his football players over the summer.

Carollo stated, "I told Coach Finkey that we hope he never has to use either of the kits, but we think the opportunity he gives the kids to stay in shape and do this conditioning over the summer is very beneficial to all our athletic programs. This was just a small way our chapter could help support the athletes and promote safety at the school."

Wildlife habitat contest held

Eight teams competed at the 2006 Wildlife Habitat Evaluation Program normally held on the first weekend of June each year.

This year the contest was held at the United Methodist Church camp location, Camp Comeca, just south of Cozad.

Teams had the opportunity to canoe and have fun with paddle boats in Midway Lake on June 2. The evening education event that day was provided by the Nebraska raptor Recovery program. Several different types of birds were discussed and shown inside with the highlight of the evening being the release of two bald eagles.

The team members also had the opportunity to take an early morning bird walk on June 3 to see or hear many types of birds found in central Nebraska.

The contest consists of identifying wildlife foods, interpretation of aerial photos for habitat, designing an urban plan for benefit of wildlife, evaluating a field site for the best management practices for specific wildlife and writing a wildlife plan for a tract of land to meet land owners' objectives.

Wayne County participants include Brian Greunke, novice and Pam Greunke, adult.

The Habitat Program allows the youth to compete against each other for their knowledge of habitat and its management.

The senior team winner of this year's contest was the team from Lancaster County. This team will travel to Wisconsin to compete in the National Contest from July 26-30. The trip is sponsored by several wildlife agencies, including Nebraska Pheasants Forever Chapters, National Izaak Walton League of America Endowment, Nebraska Chapter of the Wildlife Society and Nebraska Division, Izaak Walton League.

Next year's contest is being planned for Camp Catron in Nebraska City.

Spring into summer festival planned

For the second year the Northeast Nebraska Resource Conservation & Development (RC&D) Council in Plainview is sponsoring the Spring into Summer Festival. This year we have joined with the Plainview Historical Society to do a bigger and better Festival.

The Festival will be held on July 3 and 4 at the Plainview Chicago Northwestern Depot featuring Nebraska producers and artisans along with antique farm machinery and demonstrations. The events will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The festival will feature many fun activities for the whole family to take part in and a chance to learn about the history of Plainview with tours of the Depot and drive-bys of the old broom and brick factories, two old sod houses, an Indian trail and homesteader trail.

There will be demonstrations on quilting, butter making, weaving, knitting, and tours of historic Plainview. Charlotte M. Endorf and family of Norfolk will be speaking and signing her book "Plains Bound: Fragile Cargo" on July 3 from 10 to 1. There will be old fashion games for the children including a stick horse rodeo and pony rides.

On July 3, Michael Smith Director and C.E.O. of the Nebraska Historical Society will be on hand. Pauline Einrem's horse and buggy will be back by popular demand along with Amish baked goods and the Balloon Man making balloon animals for the children and young at heart. Tom Sladek on the accordion will be supplying music during the day. Marlowe Jensen a wheelwright will be demonstrating how he makes buggy wheels.

Doing the 'Dance of Life'

At our high school reunion last week, the class historian said, "We were the first class to have a prom. We didn't know how to dance, but we had a prom." We all chuckled, remembering. As you readers know, I grew up in a community that did not dance. I still don't dance, much to my chagrin.

There is an internet phenomenon going around right now called Evolution of Dance that features a standup comedian illustrating dance moves, from Elvis to hip hop. It is very funny, and plenty raunchy. As our historian reminded us, the first time Elvis was on the Ed Sullivan show, the camera showed only what was above the waist. That seems rather provincial to us now. But a lot of those moves still make me uncomfortable.

ration, choosing and fitting costumes, photographs, hairdos, and even makeup because the stage lights call for it. We have now attended four at the Johnny Carson theater in Norfolk. And, because it involves dancers age two to 18, sometimes it becomes a marathon; a four hour marathon.

But it is an amazing production. The energy alone is impressive. The music is too loud for my ears, but it's basically contemporary, and I see the dancers singing along much of the time. The costuming, the lights and the choreography are all very professional.

When I stop at Hy Vee floral to pick up flowers, there are boxes of spider mums, roses, and carnations all in plastic sleeves, ready to be presented to the performers. In gift stores, we see ballet frames, and pink bags, and even music boxes highlighting dance.

Our Jacey seems to thrive on it all. Her smile makes her easy to spot, and she has "all the right moves." So we sit with all the other grandparents, and aunts and uncles and cousins, and clap and cheer to show our appreciation. Sometimes, I spot children of former co-workers. For instance two of the triplets who caused all of us at Lutheran hospital much concern 17 years ago are now dancers. And these older ones perform in at least a dozen different sequences: ballet, tap, and hip hop. It's truly a spectacular show, or as Ed Sullivan used to say, "A really good show."

It reminded me of a hymn: the Lord of the Dance, the chorus of which goes: "Dance, then, wherever you may be, I am the Lord of the Dance, said he. And I'll lead you all wherever you may be, and I'll lead you all in the dance, said he." I still wish I could dance, but I guess I'm still doing the Dance of Life.

Evaluating the animals

The 14th annual Steer & Heifer Show was held June 10 at the Wayne County Fairground. The event is sponsored by the Ag Taskforce of the Wayne Area Chamber of Commerce. Exhibitors from throughout northeast brought in animals to be evaluated at the event.

Boars - $16.50 to $25.

Actually, good dancing is an art form; one that takes a great deal of practice, coordination, stamina, and intensity. There are even forms of dance incorporated in some worship. After all, the Old Testament says Miriam danced in praise after the Israelites crossed the Red Sea and the Egyptians drowned in it.

This brings me to the annual spring ritual called the dance recital. It involves weeks of prepa-

Tips offered for using NebGuides and searching internet sites

I am always trying to find NebGuides for bit of information about topics I am not familiar. Crops and soils are more familiar to me, so for those horticulture questions I have not heard yet, I head straight for the NebGuides.

You can search for NebGuides at ianpubs.unl.edu. Be aware that all NebGuides written before the tered in their directory, kind of like a phone book. So a search for moles brings up 3,360,000 hits.

Google on the other hand searches nearly every page for the word moles ending up with the over 8 million hits. Which search site is better is a matter of preference. There are many search sites out there that can be useful including dogpile.com, ask.com, and msn.com just to name a few.

So are you ready to search. Here are a couple of more hints.

Limit your search by typing in more than one key word. Example; "moles + damage" gives me almost half of the websites found than searching "moles" alone. One challenge of the internet for me is knowing if the information I am finding is reliable. I don't know if the website is written by someone who knows about moles and their control, or just a bored college student typing in his blog after a night of drinking.

I prefer websites which are from colleges or universities that have professors in wildlife damage or horticultural fields that might know about moles. Educational websites from colleges and universities have .edu instead of .com. So one way to search google.com for hopefully more reliable mole information is to do an advanced search and set it to only search for .edu domain. This search gave me just over 2 million hits and Purdue University Extension and Virginia Tech Extension were the top two.

From just over 8 million to 2 million still sounds a bit intimidating but look over the first couple pages of hits and see if the info you want is there and if not, think up better key words.

Many of you have home computers and use them every day, but spending hours sifting through all the junk on the web to find that one helpful website is not my idea of fun. Search smartly and the info will emerge much faster. Always feel free to contact the extension office for more information but don't be surprised if we hand you a NebGuide for your reference.

Guide book takes guesswork out of identifying trees

With hundreds of different species of trees growing in Nebraska and throughout the United States, the average person might be hard-pressed to recognize and name more than a handful.

"What Tree Is That," a unique 72-page pocket guide available from The National Arbor Day Foundation, makes this detective work fun and easy by showing how to identify trees in a simple step-by-step process.

The guide book begins by noting the distinguishing characteristics that separate one tree species from another. Dozens of richly detailed drawings accurately illustrate the specific shapes and textures of different leaves, needles, acorns, berries, seed pods, cones and other identifying features.

Popular trees such as oaks, maples, firs and pines are covered. The pocket guide also goes beyond these familiar species to include the lesser-known horsechestnut and mockernut hickory, sassafras and shadbush, persimmon and pawpaw.

"Helping people enjoy and appreciate trees in central to the educational mission of the Arbor Day Foundation," John Rosenow, the Foundation's president said. "Being able to identify trees is important to knowing how to care for them and how to plant the right tree in the right place."

To obtain your tree ID guide, send your name and address and $3 for each guide to "What Tree Is That?" The National Arbor Day Foundation, Nebraska City, Neb. 68410. Or, go online to www.arborday.org to order.

year 2000 are will not come up. These older NebGuides are being revised and will come out over time. When I can't find the info in want in NebGuides I turn to the internet.

Searching the internet is kind of like searching for a needle in a haystack. If I search for moles on google.com I get 8,560,000 hits, so which site is the best one?

First we have to know what the search engine is looking for. Yahoo, for example, is a search directory and only searches webpages regis-
