Rental policy, development plans debated by council

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

Discussion of the rental policy for the Wayne Fire Hall highlighted Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Dave Zach, Robert Woehler and Tom Mitzel, representing the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department, appeared before the council requesting the city waive the rental fee for the Fire Hall for a recent benefit for Vel Temme.

After considerable discussion on setting a precedent and what constitutes a benefit, the council voted unanimously to waive the fee for the recent benefit and consider future events on a case by case basis.

On a related issue, the firemen expressed concern with the condition of the fire hall after visits by the Siouxland Blood

The Blood Bank is currently using the facility on a monthly basis without paying a fee or cleaning deposit. It was the conshould be charged both a fee for use of the facility and a cleaning deposit.

The council also took action on bids for the purchase of a vehicle for the Electrical Distribution Department.

A bid of $18,756 from DJ Chevrolet at Wisner for a 2007 Chevy Silverado was accepted. City Administrator Lowell Johnson noted that because the vehicle will be painted a special color, the exact delivery date could be up to three months from now.

Prior to the regular council meeting, council members met as a Community Development Agency (CDA) to review a draft of the development plan with changes that were proposed at a meeting two weeks ago. The plan involves the area sensus of the council that the Blood Bank just to the west of Greenwood Cemetery.

Council members talked about the size of lots in the area and the price of houses to be built in the subdivision. The CDA sets the cost of the lots based on the cost of the land and improvements such as streets and water and sewer lines.

The group decided to schedule a meeting with possible developers interested in developing the property.

Also discussed were possible options for reducing the price of the lot, including grant funds from the Nebraska Department of Economic Development, grant funds through the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) housing program and Tax Increment Financing (TIF).

David Ley with the Wayne Airport Authority, spoke to the council about the allocation of property taxes to the Airport Authority.

State law requires that all political subdivisions subject to city level authority make a request to the council. The amount requested for the upcoming year is $51,988 and an additional $20,052 for debt incurred for previous improvements.

Ley also gave an update on current use of the airport and noted that it is a primary service airport with services available in Wayne that are not offered in other northeast communities.

Following his presentation, the council voted to adopt Resolution 2006-54 which will allocate these funds.

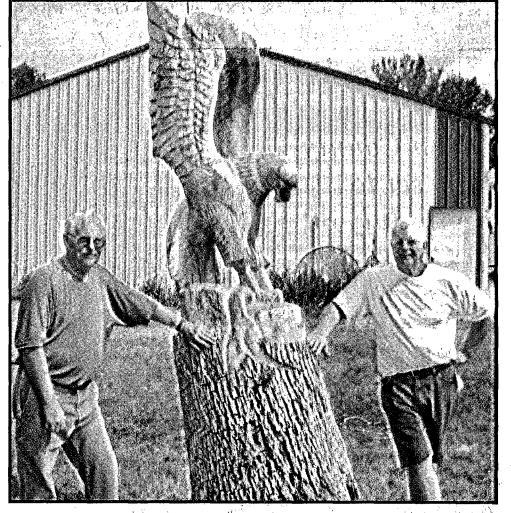

Laura Gamble and Melody Hill, representing the fundraising committee with the Summer Sports Complex Committee, spoke to the council with a request for permission to have naming rights to playing fields or a new building for major contributors to the project.

A proposal was presented with donation amounts ranging from $20,000 for having naming rights to an individual field to $75,000 for the entire complex. The council agreed to submit a letter of support with a grant application for funding for the Wayne Area Economic Development, Inc. (WAEDI) from the "Building Entrepreneurial Communities Act" to be used to develop and support area business start-ups. David Simonsen, Executive Director of WAEDI, said there was no financial obligation to the city.

In other action, the council approved Mayor Shelton's appointment of Vicki Pick to a one-year term on the Planning Commission.

The council's next regular meeting will be Tuesday, Aug. 8 at 7:30 p.m. in council chambers.

Broken tree leads to carving project

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

When a storm broke a large ash tree on the Don and Judy Koenig property northeast of Wayne, a decision needed to be made on what to do with the tree.

After discussion of several possibilities, including cutting it up for firewood, Koenig and his friend Ted Blenderman, a retired art teacher at Wayne High School, made a

"Although neither of us had ever done any wood carving before and we had no idea how it would turn out, we decided to carve an eagle into the trunk of the tree,' Koenig said.

The two men began the project in mid-June and put the finishing touches on last

"We generally worked three or four hours each morning and Don sometimes worked in the afternoon. I have no idea how many hours we put in altogether," Blenderman said.

A number of different animals were considered before the project began, but the contour of the tree made the choice of an eagle a natural one.

The eagle itself is approximately six feet tall and it sits on a base that is nearly six feet tall, making the total project 12 feet in height. Because of this, it was necessary for the two men to use a loader and ladder's to complete the sculpture.

The men did not follow a pattern to complete the eagle, but instead adjusted their plans to the shape of the tree,

"We started with a basic pattern, but the shape of the tree told us what we could and couldn't do," Koenig said.

"We used the chain saw and a lot of other tools creatively to complete the eagle," Blenderman said. Both men agreed that the most amazing part of the project was that "no injuries occurred. After the carving was completed, a protective sealant was put over the raw wood to help protect it from the elements. Both men said that the project turned out better than expected and the result is a "nice yard sculpture."

Debate continues over concealed gun laws

where guns are banned?

By Ed Howard Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association "We have a stop and frisk policy."

"Please wait for metal detector check before shopping." What do you think?

When Nebraska's concealed carry law takes effect in January, might some merchants display signs, and take such precautions, aimed at making sure their stores remain "smoking gun" free?

The law allows businesses to ban concealed weapons by posting signs that declare them off limits to the gun-toting element.

Question: If someone is carrying a concealed weapon, how would store personnel know it?

There are plenty of shoulder holster, handgun rigs that wouldn't be obvious under anyone's suit coat, sport coat, denim jacket, etc. Some fans of gangster movies might try those ankle holsters.

Don't forget there are "thigh high" holsters for women, too.

Can you imagine? "Yes, maam. Now, if you will just stand still while I run my hand along the inside of your thighs ... either that or you can lift your skirt so that everyone can see, uh, I mean, so that I can see ...'

Do you want to be the person who tells every woman entering a store that you are going to search her purse?

Let's just forego the thought of inspecting foundation garments that are worn on the upper body.

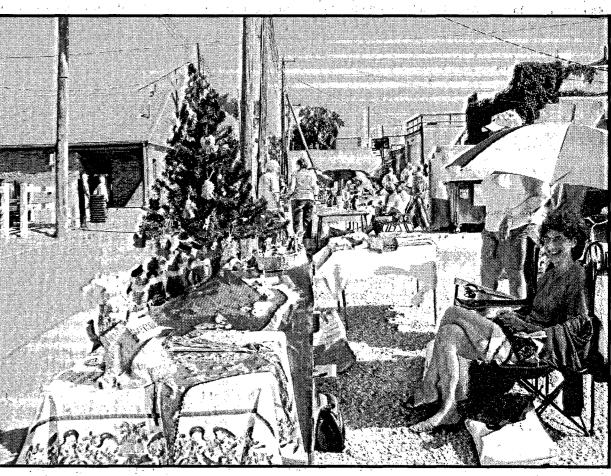

The alternative to hands-on inspection would be handheld metal detectors, or those big ones used at airports, some sporting events, courtrooms, schools and presidential debates. Expensive. And, consider that an employee would be needed to monitor the Veteran's Park in Wakefield is a tribute to veterans as well as a beautiful addition to the town. Area residents are invited to see the new site.

Wakefield Veterans Park is enjoyed by many bration in Wakefield not only enjoyed the many activities but also the new Veterans Park on Main Street, just south of the Legion Hall. The idea for the project started about seven years ago at a American Legion Post 81 meeting when it was decided that a military vehicle and veterans park would be placed uptown. A tank was considered but a helicopter seemed a better choice.

Gary Salmon and Jim Clark, both of Wakefield and Desiree Salmon Stevenson of San Antonio, Texas, along with many others helped get the park completed.

Three years ago, the building where the park is located came up for sale so Legion members bought it. The building was razed and the helicopter, which took two years to obtain through the defense department as it had to be de-militarized, was shipped here from the east

Stevenson, a Wakefield native and graduate, designed the park. Country Nursery of Wayne did the landscaping. The flag pole in the park is in memory of Harold Fisher, a long-time post adjutant of the American Legion in Wakefield. Money for the project is being raised by selling bricks with names of veterans (alive or deceased) engraved on them. By purchasing a brick, people can honor a veteran and also help pay for the project.

Dedication for the park was held on May 28 with more than 200 attending. Two Vietnam vets were present and addressed the crowd, Retired Brigadier General John Flanagan of Falmouth, Mass. and Alan Cornett of Anoka, Minn.

Through the years, Salmon and Clark, along with other Legion members, searched for information on former Wakefield soldier Willie Stark, who was listed as M.I.A. (missing in action) in Laos during the Vietnam War. Salmon read a book, "Six Silent Men" that led them to Stark's name.

Flanagan wrote a book, "Vietnam Above the Treetops - A Forward Air Controller Reports" that he dedicated to Stark and also to Russ Bott, who stayed with Stark during an enemy attack. Salmon and > Gen. Flanagan came to Wakefield in 2000 to meet Stark's family and speak at the Memorial Day service. The Army or Defense Dept. had given the family a different version because the men had mistakenly been put in Laos, a neutral country, due to poor weather conditions, and the Dept. of Defense continues to deny where their Green Beret (Project Delta) team was inserted. It was because of John Flanagan, an Air Force forward air controller in a light plane, who was in contact with them both visually and through the radio, that they were able to learn the facts of their final mission.

> For their actions, Bott received the nation's second highest valor award, the Distinguished Service Cross and Stark received the Silver Star, both posthumously.

Cornett was a Green Beret medic who was supposed to go on the rescue mission of the two soldiers but was pulled from the mission at the last minute due to a bad case of dysentery. The five who were on the rescue mission were shot down by the North Vietnamese and all were killed. Flanagan was in his small spotter plane directing them and witnessed the fireball of the helicopter going down.

At the base camp, Cornett listened to the conversation between Flanagan and the helicopter crew. This happened in December, 1966. Cornett considered Flanagan a hero but had never met him until he came to Wakefield. He also wanted to see the Veterans Park where the names of the five men are inscribed in brick. Cornett served seven tours in Vietnam, has written one book and is working on a second book about his years in

Members of Legion Post 81 invite area residents to stop at Wakefield and see the Veterans Park. Anyone interested in purchasing an engraved brick to honor a vet can call Jim Clark at 402-287-2355.

Library to sponsor family program

The importance of reading aloud to children of all ages cannot be stressed enough, even to children who can read on their own.

What are the benefits to be gained from reading aloud together? It can instill a love of reading in your child, increase vocabulary and understanding-because you can share books that your child may not be able to read alone, encourage reluctant readers, and increase family involvement. It is time together that you can treasure as a family.

The Wayne Public Library will be offering a program to encourage you to become "Treasure Hunters." and increase the amount of time you spend reading to your children. stone together. "When you sign up for the pro-

For each book you complete as a family, your name will be entered into a drawing for a family prize. Seniors Legion team closes out season at 11-13

By David W. Carstens Of the Herald

It was a combined effort that helped Wayne make it three days into the American Legion Seniors Class B Area 3 District tournament in Blair last weekend.

All season long, the Seniors have utilized the talents of the state-qualifying Wayne Juniors and the recent seniors district tourney also tapped into the talents of Wayne's baseball program.

Wayne head coach Chad Metzler adjusted the district team to include five Senior division players, plus a pair of Junior players the three Pony League players who got their first taste of playing for Wayne's Senior program.

The first game jitters haunted the Seniors on Saturday, July 22, as Omaha Roncalli handed Wayne a 22-0 shutout loss in the opening game of the tournament played at Blair's Veteran's Park.

Wayne was only able to muster a single hit in the game as Pony League player Derek Poutre hit a single in the fifth inning.

The Seniors responded to the challenge of playing in the loser's bracket with a 12-3 win against Platte

Center in the second game of the tourney on Sunday. The cycle was nearly complete for Nathan Milander, who was only a double from the cycle as he went 3-for-3 with a home run, triple and a single.

Milander's three-run homer in the third inning gave Wayne a 7-3 advantage to give the Seniors the edge they needed. He finished out the game with three runs and batted in four runners.

Wade Jarvi also tallied three runs, while Nate

Finkey closed with two runs and triple.

Milander also had a good showing on the mound as he pitched five and two thirds innings and recorded seventh strikeouts and allowed only one earned run.

Jacob Zeiss, Poutre and Phil Anderson all were part of an impressive double play late in the game to secure the win.

Wayne faced a familiar foe in Monday's elimination game but came up short at the hands of Madison in 2-1 in action on Monday evening.

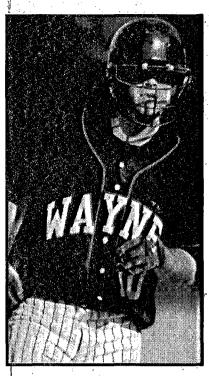

Nate Finkey started the game on the mound and was able to keep Madison's offense at bay until six and two-thirds innings into the game with he reached his 12 inning, 72 hour pitching limit in the seventh inning with two outs and a Madison runner on second

Things seemed to unravel quickly for the Seniors following Finkey's departure as a wild pitch, followed by a passed ball, a walk and an error in the inning allowed Madison to score two runs to take the 2-1 win to end Wayne's season at 11-13.

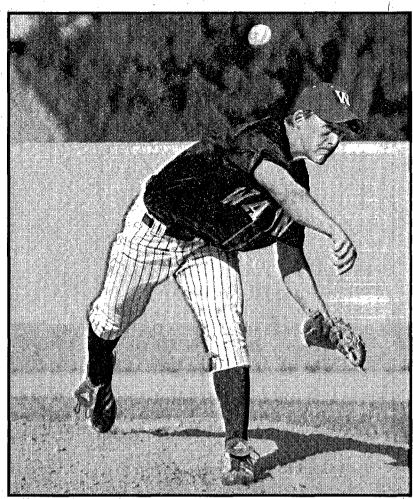

Finkey scored Wayne's only run after reaching home plate after a pair of Madison throwing miscues. From the mound, he struck out seven batters.

Kip Kolm pitched a Madison no-hitter to earn the win and Milander was tagged with the loss.

Monday's game was the final contest for two Senior players as Milander and Jarvi played their final games in a Wayne uniform.

Wade Jarvi (above) closed out his Senior career with Monday night's lose, while Nate Finkey (right) threw seven strikeouts in the season finale in district action at Blair.

Nebraska Health and Human Services System issues heat alert

Human Services System is re-issuing a heat alert this week because of triple-digit heat and high humidity. Parents are advised not to leave children in the car, even for a short

A Lincoln woman was cited by the Lincoln Police Department this week for leaving three children alone in her car unattended. Leaving young children unsupervised and in dangerous conditions is child abuse.

In a heat wave, people are at risk of heat stroke and heat exhaustion. The risk for heat-related illness and death is higher for infants and the elderly, whose internal thermostats do not regulate body temperature well. Others who are at increased risk are the obese, chronically ill (including heart disease, high blood pressure and asthma), and people who take certain medicines, such as antidepressants and tranquilizers that interfere with the body's temperature regulation.

Heatstroke, the most serious heat-related illness, is a medical emergency characterized by a body temperature of 105 degrees F or greater. Symptoms include hot dry skin, rapid heartbeat, shallow breathing, disorientation, delirium, and coma. An individual with heat stroke should be moved into the shade or an air-conditioned location and emergency medical assistance should be sought.

Heat exhaustion is a milder heat-related illness that can develop following exposure for several days to high temperatures. Symptoms include rapid heartbeat, cold clammy skin, nausea, dizziness, weakness, and fatigue.

Anyone suffering from heat exhaustion should be moved into the shade or air conditioning. If body temperature exceeds 102 degrees F, emergency medical assistance should be sought. There's help for low income individuals and families through the HHSS Low Income Energy Assistance Program. To be eligible for the cooling program, someone in the household must be age 70 or older or have some specific medical conditions that make that person susceptible to heat.

Applications can be requested by calling HHS at 402-335-4102 or 800-664-2050.

The household resource limit for the cooling program is $5,000, and annual income limits are: Household size 1, $11,108; HH Size 2, $14,894; HH Size 3, $18,667; add $3,786 for each additional member. Tips to stay cool:

Heat-related illness and death are readily preventable. Here are some tips for hot times:

• Spend as much time as possible in air-conditioned places;

Drink plenty of water and don't wait until you are thirsty to drink; •Avoid alcohol and drinks with

•Wear loose, light-colored cloth-

•If outdoor activity is unavoidable, slow your pace and take frequent rest breaks to cool off; Limit your outdoor activity to morning and evening hours;

 Try to rest often in shady areas; • Protect your skin by using a sunscreen lotion with a protective factor of 15 or greater and wearing a wide-brimmed hat, long-sleeved shirt and pants. Sunburn interferes with the body's job of heat dissipation, and too much sun exposure is a risk factor for skin

Being in an air-conditioned place for a few hours each day will reduce the risk of heat-related illness. Fans may provide comfort, but when the temperature is in the high 90s, fans will not prevent heat-related illnesses. Taking a cool shower or bath, or moving to an air-conditioned place is a much better way to cool off.

Design and Decorating Inspiration a real yarner ...

Recycling has been at the forefront of environmental efforts for decades. American consumers use and discard millions of plastic soft drink containers every day. Local, state and national recycling efforts helps gather these previously discarded products. Although not always at the forefront of media coverage, a critical step in recycling falls to manufacturers to find a means to reuse the tons of materials gathered daily. Many times in ways we might not have imagined.

Mohawk Carpets not only is the leader in the manufacture of carpet and flooring, but also a leader in producing quality products responsibly.

GREEN **₹

Mohawk has perfected a way to recycle plastic soft drink containers into beautiful, luxurious carpet.

Because beverage containers hold product for human consumption they are required by the US Food & Drug Administration to be made of top quality polyethylene terephthalate resins (PET). The result of Mohawk's recycled PET product is actually superior to lower grades of synthetic fibers used in making other brands of carpet yarm.

PET bottles are sorted, ground into fine chips, and deaned. These chips are melted and then extruded into fiber and spun into carpet yarn.

Who would've imagined that, thanks to Mohawk, the next time we kide off our shoes to walk across our luxurious new carpet... we might be walking over those empty Mountain Dew bottles we recycled last month !

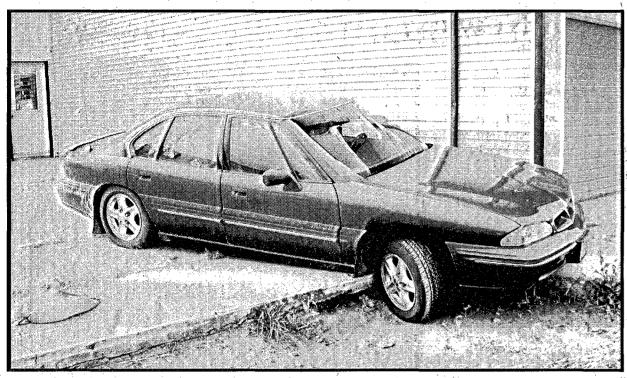

Visit our Design Showroom and our trained staff can dicuss the many reasons that makes Mohawk Flooring the best diolog for your home, lifestyle and budget.

The village of Hoskins is recognizing Bruce Kathol as Hoskins'

Outstanding Citizen for 2006. Over a three-year period Kathol has spent many hours working at the Riverside Memorial Park on North Main Street in Hoskins.

The landscape design for the park has been completed. Kathol acquired a grant to add a parking lot, park benches and a cement base for a picnic shelter. Additional funds for this project came from the Village of Hoskins and other donations. Picnic tables are needed to complete the picnic area.

A good number of trees, shrubs and perennials have already been planted. Some of the plants have been given as memorials. Bruce Kathol is a contact person for purchasing memorials.

A flag pole is also an addition to the Riverside Memorial Park.

The village of Hoskins is grateful to Kathol for the time he has spent caring for the park through the years. It is enjoyed by many.

'Chemo Caps' help cancer patients

Six women from Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne traveled to Yankton recently to visit the cancer centers where they have sent chemo caps since October of

'Chemo Caps' Small Group Ministry at Our Savior began in September of 2004, when a group of ladies gathered to learn more about the need for chemo caps. An idea in "The Lutheran" sparked their interest and with a variety of patterns, sample caps and yarn they began their journey.

A group of ladies has been meeting once a month since September 2004 to chat, laugh and provide comfort for those facing chemotherapy-induced hair loss as they create "chemo caps." "Chemo caps" are knitted or crocheted hats that are designed and donated to area cancer centers, including the oncology, department at Yankton Medical Clinic, the Avera Sacred Heart Cancer Center and the Cancer Center in Norfolk.

On Thursday the group drove to Yankton to tour the Yankton Medical Clinic's new oncology department and see just how their creations are used. Diane Larson, RN, showed the women the newlyopened infusion center, explained the way the facility works-and offered her thanks.

She told the group, "Your caps are just great." "Many times cancer patients are chilled after chemo treatments and the caps are really helpful."

The ladies look online and try to find fun patterns and nice color combinations. When the group meets, the ladies hand in completed projects they have finished at home and share ideas and tips.

The group, which has up to 12 ladies participate, also makes Prayer Shawls. The Prayer Shawls are universal and embracing, symbolic of an inclusive, unconditionally loving God. They wrap, enfold, comfort, cover, give solace, mother, hug, shelter and beautify. Janet Bristow and Victoria Galo gave birth to this ministry as a result of their experience in a program of applied spirituality. Care and the love of knitting and crocheting have been combined into a prayerful ministry that reaches out to those in need of comfort and solace. Many blessings are "knitted and crocheted into every shawl."

Prayer Shawls have been given to members of Our Savior who reside in retirement centers and care centers on their birthday. Several other shawls have been given to members who have had special need of prayer and consola-

New program addresses shortage of veterinarians

University and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln have approved an agreement that will bring the nation's two leading livestock producing states together in addressing the region's increasing need for veterinarians.

The new cooperative Agreement in Veterinary Medical Education was recently approved by the University of Nebraska Board of Nebraska's and Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education, and signed by Iowa State University President Gregory L. Geoffroy and University of Nebraska-Lincoln Chancellor Harvey Perlman.

Each year up to 25 students from Nebraska will enter a four-year study of veterinary medicine and attend the first two years of the program on the UNL campus. The cooperative program will be part of the university's College of Agricultural Sciences and Natural Resources and the Departments of Veterinary and Biomedical Sciences and Animal Science. Students will complete their final two years and receive their doctor of veterinary medicine degrees at the ISU College of Veterinary Medicine. Nebraska students will pay ISU professional school resident tuition all four years. Nebraska will pay the difference between resident and non-resident tuition for the final two years. Before the agreement, Nebraska students would have attended out-of-state schools for their veterinary medical education and their tuition dollars would have left the state of Nebraska.

"Offering students the combined resources of the region's two land grant universities provides our states with new veterinary medical education and care resources that support the health and growth of our agricultural industries and economies," said John U. Thomson, dean of the ISU College of Veterinary Medicine. "The program provides revenue advantages to both states as well as the benefit of exposing students to the learning and employment opportunities that exist in the region."

The cooperative program is designed to build on the strengths and assets of both universities to educate more veterinarians, particularly in food safety and security and food animal and public health, areas of high national demand. It also is intended to encourage collaborative teaching, research and program development between the two institutions.

Iowa and Nebraska are two of the leading food animal producing years. UNL will add seven new facstates in the nation. Iowa leads in swine and egg production, and collectively the two states rank second in total cattle production. Nebraska ranks first in red meat production.

"The program offers a truly regional approach to providing a veterinary medical education," said David K. Hardin, College of Agricultural Sciences and Natural Resources associate dean for the ISU-UNL Cooperative Program in head of UNL's Department of Veterinary and Biomedical Sciences. "There is a growing need for food animal veterinarians and this program provides experience that will benefit the states as well as the students."

Both universities are in the process of hiring new faculty and developing facilities to accommodate the new program. ISU is renovating laboratory spaces and classrooms, undertaking a major expansion of its Veterinary Teaching Hospital, and plans to add 30 faculty positions during the next five ulty and renovate facilities in its Veterinary and Animal Sciences

Steering committees and working groups at both universities are planning and implementing the new program. A joint oversight committee consisting of representatives from both universities will coordinate efforts. The first students will enter the program at UNL in the fall of 2007 and move to the ISU campus in the fall of 2009.

We have much to be thankful for, especially air conditioners

House the very first time, Monte remarked that we would be replacing the air conditioner. It was December, and the home inspector said there was no way he could check it out. We moved in in June, and enjoyed cool air all that long hot summer.

Early this summer, cousin Clarence and his wife Phyllis picked us up for dinner at the end of a hot day and were all bamboozled because their air had given out that day! And, of course, the heating and air conditioning company could not just get right over there. I do remember, though, that it cooled off at night at that time of the year, so I trust they were not too uncomfortable until the new one was installed.

Later, neighbor Shirley had a truck in her driveway. She had had them replace a hot water heater and check out the AC at the same time. They told her she was "running on luck" and since the furnace had given out on the coldest day of the year, she decided to have the air replaced before the same thing happened. I thought she was very wise, but there had not been a hint of a problem here.

You guessed it. The hottest days of the year. Two weeks ago, on

It's amazing how spoiled we've become. The house on the farm had a window unit, which kept the living room frigid and the rest of the house livable. Tree planting and landscape 375-3440 RR #2 BOX 199 improvement funds available WAYNE, NE SINCE 1951 Construction Inc. Tree planting and landscape enhancements for public spaces can get a boost from a grant program coordinated by the Nebraska Statewide Arboretum and Nebraska Forest Service.

"The funding assistance is meant to help communities develop landscapes that reflect and enhance the beauty of Nebraska. One of the goals of NSA, NFS and this grant program is to create long-term, sustainable projects that utilize diverse plants and encourage environmentally sound landscape practices," said Sue Kohles, arboretum special projects coordinator. "We hope that these projects not only improve the landscape of Nebraska roadways, but also provide an example for others and contribute to the health and viability of its communities."

The Nebraska Community Enhancement Program funds tree planting and landscaping that improves the state's transportation corridors, including public streets, highways, entryways and trails. This can involve areas along parks, schools, fairgrounds, college campuses, libraries, courthouses, hospitals, welcome signs and other public properties. Tree planting is an especially important component of this program, although shrubs and herbaceous plantings are also eligible.

The grants are funded by the Nebraska Department of Roads' Transportation Enhancement Program. It is an 80 percent-20 percent matching grant program with a maximum funding award of $20,000 per project. The application deadline is Nov. 17, with funding awards announced by next January.

Since 1996 the Community Enhancement Program has awarded over $3.5 million in landscaping grants to over 490 projects in communities all across Nebraska.

For more information about this grant program and/or for an application contact Sue Kohles at (402) 472-2971 or skohles2@unlnotes. unl.edu. Information can also be found at http://arboretum.unl.edu.

Health and Human Services System. Kelly Heithold of Northeast

Health Nebraska Public Department, noted there are mosquito collection sites all around the state. There are three collection sites in Wayne and three in Ponca. Each week they trap and send them to Lincoln for testing. So far, the mosquitoes in Wayne have been negative.

"People should definitely take precautions against mosquito bites," said Dr. Joann Schaefer, the state's Chief Medical Officer. "It only takes one bite to infect you."

West Nile is transmitted through the bite of a mosquito that has picked up the virus by feeding on an infected bird.

Last year there were 188 human cases of the virus reported in the state with five deaths. In 2004 there were 54 cases and no deaths. In 2003 there were 2,366 cases with 29 deaths. In 2002, the first year that the virus appeared in the state, Nebraska had 174 cases and eight deaths.

Most people who are infected by only mild flu-like symptoms. Less than one out of 150 people who get bitten by an infected mosquito and become infected will get seriously ill. However, people over 50 and those with weakened immune systems are especially vulnerable to the disease and are more likely to experience serious consequences.

West Nile fever includes flu-like symptoms such as fever and muscle weakness. Symptoms of the more serious West Nile encephalitis include inflammation of the brain, disorientation, convulsions and paralysis.

To avoid mosquito bites, the Health and Human Services System recommends:

 Applying mosquito repellent containing DEET, picaridin or oil of lemon eucalyptus;

· Wearing long-sleeved shirt, pants and socks;

• Avoiding going out at dawn and dusk when mosquitoes are most active; and Eliminating standing water to reduce mosquito breeding sites.

St. Paul's Ladies Aid met on July 5 with 15 members. Pastor Steckling and three guests, Jessica Janke, Rachel Peter and Dalana Marotz, were present. Hostesses were Judy Jacobsen and LaJeane Marotz.

Vice President Faye Mann presided at the meeting. The ADOPTION: Young couple promise to LWML Pledge was read.

Pastor Steckling had a Bible Study on "The Greatest Gift is Löve". He closed with prayer.

Three young women's representatives from St. Paul's attended the District North LWML convention in Fremont on June 23 and 24. They were Jessica Janke, Rachel Peter and Blaire Hokamp. They gave an interesting report on what they did. Gertrude Vahlkamp attended the convention as St. Paul's delegate. She also spoke on the highlights of the two days.

Secretary and treasurer reports were given and mites were collected.

Erna Hoffman visited shut-ins in June. Evelyn Jaeger will visit in July.

Cleaning the kitchen will get started when a day and time is announced.

The birthday song was sung for Bev Voss and Helen Muehlmeier. A birthday card was signed for Helen as well and a get well card was signed for Daisy Janke.

Roll call was taken. The meeting closed with singing "God Bless Our Native Land" and Table Prayers.

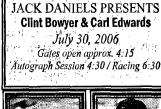

The next meeting will be Wednesday, Aug. 2 at 1:30 p.m. Hostesses will be Gertrude Vahlkamp and Bev Voss. REUNION

The Hilda Bargstadt family held their annual reunion Sunday, July 23 at West Point Park. The event was hosted by Bob and Deb Gustafson of Omaha. Thank you for all the wonderful cards, visits and telephone calls for my 90th birthday. It was a very special week long celebration. Thank you! Irene Reibold

We want to thank all of the wonderful people who were so kind with phone calls, cards & gifts for our 50th anniversary. We never dreamed it would be so wonderful. We know it took a lot of energy to come out in 100 degree weather to help us celebrate. Also, we would like to thank everybody at Mercy Medical Center, PMC, the doctors, nurses and the rehab personnel who helped after Roy's hospital stay. A special thanks to Pastor Bill for the prayers and the caring cooks. Last of all, to our kids and grandkids for all the help the last couple of months. We love you all and may.... God bless you all.
