Holocaust survivor shares story at WSC

Dr. Lou Leviticus of Lincoln, a Holocaust survivor, shared his story on Sept. 20 at Wayne State College. He is the author of the book, "Tales from the Milestone."

Dr. Leviticus was born in the Netherlands in July, 1931. He noted he was a privileged child, did not know of any anti-semitism and had no worries until May 10, 1940. That night, there was an attack by the Germans. Leviticus watched as planes flew over and bombs fell. He noted the Dutch were unprepared; they wanted to stay neutral as they did in WWI. Leviticus' father fought but the Dutch had old guns that had to be reloaded with single bullets in each shot. They had bicycles while the Germans had tanks. It took five days for Germany to win.

After that, life as Leviticus knew it was gone. There were no more movies, going to the park, to the swimming pool or even outside to play. No one could listen to the radio. His father lost his job because the company was taken over by the Nazis. The company was owned by a non-jewish Dutchman and he was forced to employ only non-jews. Jews could only shop in Jewish-owned stores. Even the street benches had signs on them stating that Jews were forbidden to sit on them. There were 140,000 Jews in the Netherlands in 1940. Eighty percent of those Jews never returned as they were either taken away to work and death camps where they were worked to death, died in the gas chamber or they fled the country if they could.

Every day more and more freedoms were taken away from the Jews. Every person of Jewish descent had to wear the Yellow Star of David. Leviticus was devastated; even his bicycle and dog were taken away. He couldn't visit his non-Jewish friends anymore; only his Jewish friends. If Jews tried to be friendly with non-Jews, the Nazis told them it could go bad for their family. Jewish people were made to feel as though they were the filth of the earth.

The Dutch had a lot of sympathy for Germany. There wasn't any memory of bitterness as there was in Belgium but there was some fear. Jewish children had to be careful or they could be beat up on the street. Leviticus and his friends were beaten severely once or twice. The Nazis decided to put Jewish and non-Jewish children in separate schools which Leviticus said was a good idea. There were 30-35 children in his class and he is the only survivor.

Life was tough and every day it became more dangerous. At any time, they could be rounded up. His dad was sent to a work camp. There were three camps for jobless men. The Germans said the camps were there so they could earn some money to send to their families but the real reason was so they could keep them together so they could be shipped out to concentration camps where many died in gas chambers. His father escaped which meant the family had to go into hiding.

The Dutch Resistance helped find places for Jews to hide but it took money for doctor care, medicine, etc. Leviticus' family had money so they were lucky. There were at least 25,000 who went into hiding. His family was placed on a farm where they helped the farmer. He loved the animals and was happy there most of the time. He was 10 years old.

One day, they had to leave and go to a city nearby where they stayed in a two room apartment. "That was hell after the freedom on the farm," Leviticus said. "We were imprisoned on the third floor of an apartment house where we had to be quiet 24 hours a day. That was hard for me because I was always loud. It was hard for our parents to keep us still. We read a lot and played a lot of board games."

Leviticus added that they couldn't even go to the regular toilet because if they did, there would be questions so they had to use a bucket. They were probably there for five weeks or so. On Sunday, Nov. 1 at 2 p.m. (he knows the date and time from the Nazi archives), a bell rang downstairs on the main floor and steps thundered upstairs. The words "Police, stay where you are" are etched in his mind.

"I froze," Leviticus said. "I was so afraid. It was a real nightmare. Everyone has had at least one dream where monsters are chasing you and you try to get away but can't; that you're stuck in mud, can't breathe but can't wake up. My mom was crying and dad was cursing. I never heard

Dr. Lou Leviticus, Holocaust survivor, spoke recently at Wayne State College. He is Professor Emeritus and curator of the Larsen Museum at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. The event was sponsored by WSC Multicultural Center and School of Education and Counseling. Northeast, WSC boards approve inter-local agreement with South Sioux City

The governing boards of Northeast Community College (NECC) and Wayne State College (WSC) unanimously approved an Interlocal Agreement for the construction of a proposed college center in South Sioux City recently.

The agreement was also unanimously approved by the City of South Sioux City through its Community Development Agency (CDA) Board of Directors. The NECC Board of Governors and Nebraska State College System Board of Trustees unanimously approved the agreement for Northeast and WSC, respectively, at their regular monthly meeting.

Under terms of the agreement, the facility would be built by the CDA and leased by Northeast and WSC for a period of 50 years or less if determined appropriate with the final terms of financing. NECC will acquire its interest in the facility through a lease-purchase agreement using a portion of its one-cent capital improvement levy while WSC funding must be approved by the Nebraska Legislature in a biennium budget request.

South Sioux City's CDA will issue revenue bonds for payment of construction costs for the proposed facility and the related public infrastructure improvements. When the bonds are retired, WSC and Northeast will become owners of their specified portions of the facility outlined in the contract for purchase.

In a historic ceremony last November, Randy Lanning, president of the South Sioux City CDA, transferred the deed for 57 acres of land on Highway 77 to Northeast Community College for construction of the proposed center.

"We continue to make history with this proposed project," said

Dr. Richard Collings, president of WSC. "To our knowledge, this is the first time such an interlocal agreement has been signed in Nebraska by a two-year college, four-year college and a city for such a center. We are pleased to have come to an agreement that is workable for all three parties. It brings us that much closer to breaking ground for this innovative project that will benefit those seeking another education alternative in the Greater Siouxland area."

When the proposed NECC-WSC College Center is open, place-bound students will take their freshman- and sophomore-level courses from Northeast and then take junior- and senior-level or graduate-level courses from Wayne State, all in the same location in South Sioux City. In addition to providing academic transfer courses, Northeast will offer vocational classes, continuing education, and customized training for business and industry. Officials say that special focus will be given to the large number of minority and first-generation students in the greater Siouxland region.

The next step in the process of making the education center a reality is approval by the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education. The Coordinating Commission will consider the college center project at its Oct. 12 meeting in Lincoln.

"Northeast Nebraska continues to be a hotbed of economic activity and the demand for quality education and training for our expanding industrial base is clear," said Lance Hedquist, city administrator of South Sioux City. "The new joint college center will provide a key to the economic prosperity for our Siouxland area."

"The community of South Sioux City continues to enthusiastically support us as we forge ahead with this exciting joint venture," said Dr. Bill Path, president of Northeast. "Our very special thanks to Lance Hedquist, South Sioux City city administrator, and Randy Lanning with the CDA. They have worked tirelessly to bring our vision closer to reality in their community."

Those involved in the award presentation included, left to right, Darrel Leisy, of Seger Funeral Home who made the presentation; Daryl Schruck, Jamie Peterson and Jamie's mother, Laurie Lieswald.

Heroic efforts recognized

Daryl Schruck, Wayne Elementary Principal, received a Hero Award recently.

The award was presented at Atkinson Public Schools recently to honor Schruck for saving the life of one of his students, Jamie Peterson.

Peterson was choking on a piece of food and Schruck performed the Heimlich Maneuver to dislodge the food.

Laurie Lieswald, Jamie's mother, nominated Schruck for the award, which was presented during an all-school assembly last week.

The award is presented by the Nebraska Funeral Directors Association. It is given annually to recognize those who have performed acts which have resulted in the saving of a human life.

Schruck noted that this incident was the second time in his career he had performed such life-saving techniques to save a student.

Those involved in writing "Steps Are What You Walk On," include, top to bottom, Rick, Patricia, Jason, Shannon, Josh and Nicole.

Book designed to assist blended families

More than 15 years ago Rick and Patricia (Jorgensen) Crosier decided to write a book about their experiences as a blended family.

Today, that book, "Steps Are What You Walk On" is available to offer guidance to those who are in similar situations.

Patricia, a graduate of Wayne High School, is the daughter of Arland and Dorothy Aurich of Wayne.

Both she and her husband had been married previously and had children from those marriages when they got married more than 20 years ago.

"Rick had a son, Josh, and before we got married he asked me if he could call me 'Mom' when we got married. I told him, 'yes, I would love that' and he said, 'cuz, steps are what you walk on,'" Patricia said. That is when the title for the book originated.

For a number of years the couple was busy raising their children, Shannon, Nicole, Josh and Jason and the idea of writing a book was put on hold.

However, approximately two years ago, the family came back to the idea of writing a guide to help blended families.

"Our books is designed to help others. We each wrote separately, neither telling the other what we were writing. Therefore, we have a male and female perspective throughout the book. We also asked our children to write about what they saw and how they felt growing up in a blended family," Patricia said.

Patricia noted that "blending a family takes hard work and needs a well thought out, deliberate plan. Was it easy, NO! Was it worth it, ABSOLUTELY!"

She also said that to succeed in creating a blended family, honesty, openness, trust and a sense of belonging are vital.

Patricia said the main purpose for writing the book is "to help children by helping their families. We all have a choice in how we handle each situation in our lives and these will directly affect the outcome of our blended families."

The book is currently available at Inspiration Book and Gift Store in Wayne and Hy-Vee West, The Abbey and Hastings Book Store in Norfolk. In addition, the book is available through the internet.

Main Street Focus

Congratulations to Wayne, Main Street Wayne and especially to the conference committee for the excellent Nebraska Lied Main Street Conference that was held last Thursday and Friday in our community.

I have attended every annual Nebraska Lied Main Street Conference since Main Street Wayne was accepted into the program and this conference, by far, was the best of them. A number of people deserve a hearty "thank you" for making the conference a success and I am sure there will be another article or advertisement today or in the future listing these people and businesses.

There were a number of awards garnered by our community, including WAEDI, Main Street Wayne, Team 15 Promotions Committee and the Wayne Main Street Volunteer of the Year was Mel Meyer and the Wayne Main Street Business of the Year was The Coffee Shop.

Again, much more will be written about these awards and winner in another column in this issue of the paper so I will not duplicate what will be said in these articles.

At our All-Hands meeting on Tuesday, we were told that Main Street will open up on Friday of this week. All the work is not finished so we caution people who drive Main Street to drive carefully and to be cautious of workers, other traffic and pedestrians. Parking will be limited and I suspect the best advice I could give anybody shopping and visiting downtown is to continue to use the side streets and alley entrances to the businesses. After dark may pose some problems since the street lights are not here and the street is dimly lit, so be especially careful when driving and walking Main Street.

This morning we were asked by a representative of the college to work with a Leadership Development and Exercise Science project promoting more bicycle riding on campus and in the community by providing bicycle racks in downtown Wayne and we will talk about that and the location of these racks next Tuesday.

Just a personal observation, Wayne has fewer bicycle riders than other college towns I have lived in. There are many good reasons to ride bikes and among the reasons are the price of gas, the health aspect and the parking aspect. So, why not promote bicycle riding in Wayne and on the campus?

We also found out this morning that downtown Wayne, between First and Third Streets, is very close to receiving a "Historic Downtown District" designation and we will attempt to find out what we need to get this designation. Why would we do this?

Research indicates that people traveling will drive 120 miles off their route to visit a historic district and would it be nice to get people traveling I-80, I-90 and I-29 to reroute themselves to visit downtown Wayne? In addition, our Design Committee is working with the city to come up with a Historic Preservation Ordinance to insure that new buildings and renovations comply with state standards for historic preservation.

And, as the Holiday Season approaches, our thoughts have turned to our typical Holiday events. First of all, we are again looking for a Christmas tree, 40 to 50 feet high, which we can place at the intersection of Seventh and Main Streets for the Holiday Season. If you know of such a tree, call Gary Van Meter at Mine's Jewelers. The Fantasy Forest, the Rotary Soup and Pie Supper and the Christmas Parade of Lights and Living Windows will all be held on the same evening, Dec. 7.

This will take a large number of volunteers to accomplish, so if you are interested, call the WAEDI office to find out how you can get involved or attend one of the Tuesday morning All-Hands meetings.

Best wishes to the college for a successful Homecoming Weekend. The parade is scheduled to go south on Lincoln this year and there will be no "Wake Up With Wayne" celebration until next year. Produce people and vendors for the Farmers' Market will continue to meet on the USDA parking lot until the end of their season. Next year we are hopeful we can find a place for you in downtown Wayne.

Capitol View

'Outside money' influencing politics

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

There is much talk in the Capitol and elsewhere these days about "outside money" influencing the petition process which allows Nebraskans to enact and repeal laws, along with provisions of the state constitution.

Gathering petition signatures once was regarded as a mostly homegrown thing. No more. Not for a couple of decades, at least.

New York City businessman Howard Rich has poured the better part of $1 million dollars into a controversial ballot proposal to restrict growth in state government spending.

Fact: There is virtually nothing to be done about it, neither in Nebraska nor other states where Rich seeks to influence government policy by bankrolling petition campaigns. The U.S. Constitution gives him that right. It does the same for interest groups, whether insurance companies or banks or public-advocacy outfits, etcetera.

Some find nothing to criticize in non-Nebraskans, whether individuals or groups, putting up big bucks to single-handedly fund the gathering of signatures and/or a campaign to popularize a ballot question.

Critics note big sums of money can hire petition circulators, pay for advertising and otherwise give life to a plan that would not have succeeded through a real grassroots effort — the kind that they say was intended when the state constitution was written.

The plain-spoken version: With enough money and enough time and the correct sales strategy, a group that is for or against a proposed policy has a far greater chance of success — whether gained through honest efforts or demagoguery — than a comparatively under-funded opposition. The view from here: It's going to happen every so often. You don't have to like it, but you have to accept it.

Business is business, especially in the business of politics. Even so, the Republican Party drew snickers, and outright guffaws, when it took a slap at state Auditor Kate Wittek.

Politics is often "weird" funny, or "funny" funny. This was just embarrassingly funny.

Wittek is the one-time conservative Republican who recently became the conservative Democrat seeking re-election. She jumped from the GOP to the Democratic side after initially choosing to forego a re-election bid to be the running mate of Representative Tom Osborne, the would-have-been governor. Osborne lost in the Republican primary. Wittek became a Democrat, was nominated at the party convention, and is now their candidate. Got it?

Wittek is a smiling but in-your-face type; she never hesitated to tweak the GOP hierarchy when she felt like it. She felt that way quite often, too.

So, get this: The political commandos at GOP HQ demanded that Wittek produce logs and other documents showing the amount of time she spent in her office.

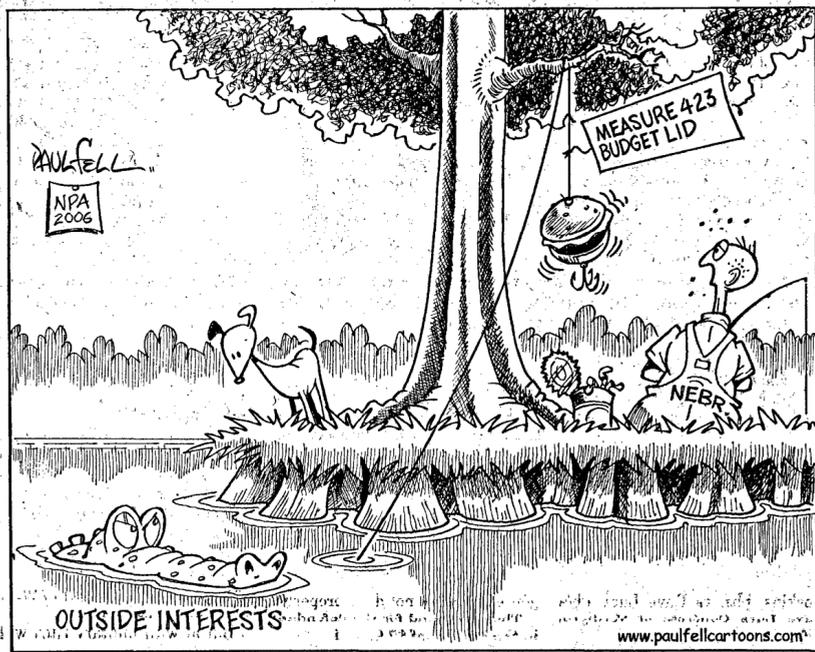

First: Elected officials don't keep such records. They don't have to, and it would be virtually impossible, anyway.

Second: The innuendo commandos looked silly or petty, or both, in the eyes of even the most cynical political operatives.

If Wittek needed to be checked out for some suspected neglect of duty, or whatever, how did that need arrive only after she switched parties? What is implied? Is it that Wittek was a shirker all along, but it was okay with the Republican operatives so long as she was a Republican? After all, the nonexistent records they wanted would have reflected her time served as a Republican, not a Democrat.

Goal exceeded

Dear Editor,
Roy Reed Unit No. 252, American Legion Auxiliary of Winside, as of Sept. 22, has reached 101,408 percent goal with 72 members, setting a new "All-Time High" membership again.

Continued community support would help foster an increase, especially in the membership campaign.

Membership in the American Legion Auxiliary is contingent upon two categories.

First, any female relative (mother, sister, spouse, daughter, granddaughter, great-grandmother, grandmother) of a veteran having served during World Wars I and II, Korea, Vietnam, Panama, Grenada, Lebanon and now the Persian Gulf/Iraqi Freedom conflict is eligible to join an auxiliary unit. If the veteran is living, he/she must be a current member of the American Legion for the female relative to join. If the eligible veteran is deceased, he/she did not have to be a member of the American Legion for the female relative to now join the Auxiliary.

Secondly, a female veteran having served her country during any of the above conflicts may hold a dual membership in the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary.

Junior membership is available to those relatives of veterans of the above dates of service who are under 18 years of age. A very fun group of young ladies!

It bears repeating that our Auxiliary Units are a visible and vital entity within the community for service to veterans, children, schools, churches, the community and more. Please give the member volunteers of Unit 252 - Winside the opportunity to be of assistance.

On behalf of the Department of Nebraska, Department President Gertrude Johansen and myself, thank you Unit 252 members for your continued commitment and devotion to this Auxiliary and your community.

"Veterans - Our Soul and Inspiration."

Supporting Moul

Dear Editor,
I am not one to write letters to the editor, and I am not one to participate in discussion supporting political candidates and political posturing because I find much of this posturing laughable and much of it filled with lies and exaggerations.

However, I do want to comment on Merle Ring's letter to the editor in Thursday, Sept. 28's issue of your paper.

In his letter, Mr. Ring was responding to a letter written by Pat Cook in the previous week's paper referring to her letter as a "shameful attack" on candidate Fortenberry. The amazing thing to me is that Mr. Ring did the very thing he accused Pat Cook of, using his own words, he had a "shameful attack" on Maxine Moul. Is this similar to the old saying, "the kettle calling the pot black" or the "pott calling the kettle black"?

Ironically, the very day after Mr. Ring's letter appeared in the paper, a luncheon was held in a Wayne restaurant where the Lt. Governor spoke and in which Maxine Moul was to receive a Service Award had she been able to attend.

I have known Maxine Moul for a number of years and had a number of meetings with her as a small business person, a business consultant and a volunteer in various organizations working for economic development in the Nebraska town that I have lived in. I have nothing but the highest praise for her and the work she has done in the various positions she has held. She has done right by me and many of the business people and communities that went to her for help. She is a true Nebraskan and had done much for Nebraska to grow economically and business wise. She has impressed me as intelligent, honest, energetic and enthusiastic about making Nebraska a better place.

That said, I would like to comment on several of the points Mr. Ring made in his attack. Mr. Ring said that Mrs. Moul resigned her job as Lt. Governor to take a government job she said was more important because it had a bigger budget and more employees. Mrs. Moul anguished at leaving the Lt. Governor's position, but it was only at the insistence of the Governor, who said she was the best qualified person to head up the Department of Economic Development - that her energy and drive would get results in economic development in Nebraska at a time in history where we needed help in this area.

Another point Mr. Ring stressed was that Mrs. Moul was a liberal Democrat. That, too, is laughable because had she not been a Lt. Governor under a Democratic Governor, I would never have known Mrs. Moul was a Democrat. Maybe a better term to describe her would be conservative Democrat. Mrs. Moul was raised in a Republican farm family in northeast Nebraska.

I don't know where Mr. Ring gets his information. I subscribe to and attempt to read four daily newspapers, all of which lean heavily Republican, and I do not recall reading any of the so-called facts Mr. Ring used in his letter. I suspect Mr. Ring gets his so-called facts on various internet web pages, many of which are designed and set up for use by various political people and we all know that much of the information found on these pages are intended to misrepresent politicians of the opposite party. None of the information on these kinds of web pages has to be substantiated and supported like they have to be in newspapers. I suspect part of this is because newspapers can be sued and because they are operated by professional people who verify the facts.

As I said in my first paragraph, I do not normally speak out in support of political candidates and I don't think I did in this letter. I wanted to defend Mrs. Moul from the lies and distortions presented to you in last week's paper. I think Mr. Ring owes Mrs. Moul an apology for the distortions he presented in his letter to the editor.

him curse before but he was so upset."

Leviticus concluded that he had to get away so he jumped onto the banister of the porch. Before he jumped, he looked back and saw his dad close the porch doors and wave him on to get away. That was the last time he heard his mother and saw his father. When he jumped, he landed on a big awning which he hit at the right angle and slid in front of a German soldier. He must have really startled the soldier because he didn't do anything so he ran. (Twenty-two years later he was to learn their fate; they were killed in Auschwitz in December, 1942. He also found out the little girlfriend he had when he was 10 had been murdered with her family in a concentration camp). Leviticus kept running until he was out of breath and then he ran some more. He came to an apartment where he found a galvanized laundry tub so he sat under it. From there, he went to a coal bin where it was cold and damp. He was in a city where his family had a friend but he remembered only visiting there three or four times so he wasn't sure of the address.

He remembered the house was by a big tower that rang every quarter of an hour so he followed the sound. He finally found the place at 9 p.m. but he couldn't stay because their friend had been betrayed along with other members of the Resistance. (Leviticus had been on the road for six hours since fleeing the German soldiers). Betrayal happened all of the time because the Germans paid well for information on escaped Jews or other criminals. Their friend's wife decided to turn Leviticus over to the police so he fled in the night and took food and clothing with him. He hid during the day and walked at night.

As he walked, he foraged. By the light of the moon, he headed east. From a farm, he stole eggs, milked surprised cows, took apples, carrots, and all sorts of fresh food which gave him diarrhea. He had a knife and tried to kill a chicken but it didn't work. He even took fresh bread from the farmhouse. Finally, he was caught by a farmer. Leviticus convinced the farmer to contact the Resistance who took him in and he stayed with them until the war was over. He was 11 years old.

Leviticus told the audience, "You are capable of doing anything if you have to."

Main Street numbers announced at conference

There were 70 new jobs and 25 new businesses created in communities participating in the Nebraska Lied Main Street Program in fiscal 2005-06, according to statistics reported by Lt. Gov. Rick Sheehy at the organization's Fall Conference last week.

Sheehy was in Wayne for the event and congratulated those involved with the program throughout the state. In addition to the businesses and jobs in the eight participating communities, volunteers logged 9,753 hours of their time to make things happen. That commitment alone was worth $175,945, Sheehy said.

There were 39 facade and building rehabilitation projects in those communities amounting to $1.2 million and one new construction project for nearly $344,000. Nine public improvement projects in Main Street districts accounted for $807,318.

Based on total community reinvestment of $2,541,409, the calculated reinvestment for every dollar spent on a local Main Street program, an average of $10.80 was reinvested in those communities.

Sheehy, who visited all of the participating Main Street communities last year, used his luncheon address to highlight the projects he saw and the people he met during those visits.

Beatrice, Burwell, Fremont, Geneva, Lexington, Plattsmouth, Sidney and Wayne are active participants in the Program. Elkhorn, Grand Island and McCook are new communities in the program and Bassett, Omaha Main Streets (neighborhood program) and York are member participants.

Vehicle purchasing made easy with Quality Auto Sales

Quality Auto Sales opened its doors to the public on Jan. 1, 2005 with the idea that people want quality automobiles at an affordable price. Owner Jason Schulz believes that buying a car, truck, van, or SUV does not need to be a difficult decision or process.

Schulz has been involved with automobiles since the age of 14. He has over 15 years of experience in the used car industry and specializes in custom vehicle purchasing. Whether you're looking for a slightly used 2006 vehicle under factory warranty or a more affordable car, truck, van, or SUV Schulz can locate just the right vehicle for you.

Quality Auto Sales normally carries between five and 10 used vehicles at all times, and Schulz attends the Omaha Auto Auction on a weekly basis. Schulz points out that many people are confused about auction vehicles, and that they think that all vehicles that come from auctions are undesirable. That is not the case. Most all late model used vehicles you see on dealers' lots come from auto auctions and were either lease returns, dealer demos, rental vehicles, or over 90 day units.

Whether you're looking for a Cadillac Escalade, Ford Fusion, Hummer H3, or Pontiac Grand Prix, the auction has it. Quality Auto Sales can help you find that special make, model, or color you have been looking for. They are located at 115 West 1st, Street, next to Godfather's Pizza.

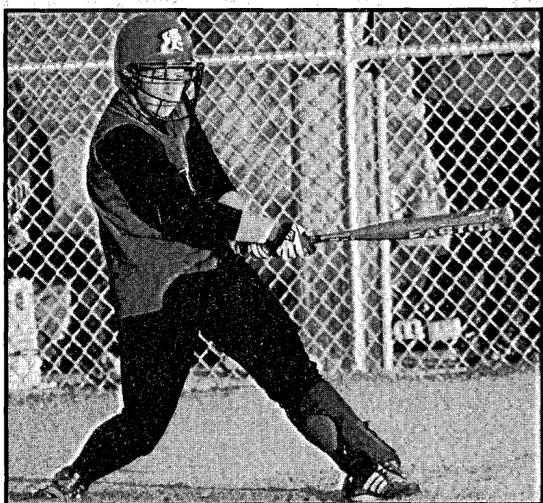

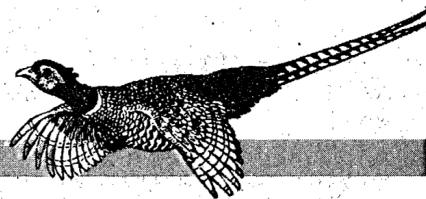

For more information on buying a pre-owned vehicle, contact Schulz, at 402-833-5300 or after hours at 402-369-0468. You can also email Schulz at q1signs@qwest.net.

Be sure to watch for the debut of his new website www.qualityautosalesne.com in the near future.

Wayne High set for district play in girls softball

The regular season is finished, now let the district games begin. The Wayne High softball team entered the C-1 district tournament at West Point on Thursday (this morning) after concluding the regular season with a 15-10 record.

The Blue Devils were scheduled to begin the road for a return trip to the state softball tournament with a first round game in district play against Hooper Logan View at 10 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 5.

Wayne finished the regular season on Oct. 2, with a 9-1 road victory against Schuyler.

Bayli Ellis earned her second pitching win of the season as she threw a complete game and allowed only one unearned run with 12 strikeouts. Wayne jumped from a 1-0 lead in the opening inning to plate four runs in the third to solidify its lead.

Alesha Finkey was 2-for-4 at the plate and notched a pair triples, three RBIs and a run to lead the Blue Devil offense.

Shannon Jarvi also went 2-for-4 and recorded a run.

Jarvi was the winning pitcher in the earlier junior varsity game as Wayne dominated in a 19-1 victory.

Jessica Calhoun plated four runs, while Caitlin Gustafson added a pair for WHS.

The junior varsity team ended its season with a 6-2 record.

Yutan Tournament

The Blue Devils dropped three games in the Yutan Tournament in the tourney finale of the season on Sept. 30.

Wayne lost its three tournament games to Auburn (9-8), Yutan (5-2) and Ashland (4-2).

"We had leads into the fifth inning of every game we played at the tournament, but couldn't hold on to any of them," Wayne coach Rob Sweetland said.

Bayli Ellis took the pitching loss in the first game against Auburn and the Blue Devil offense was led by Andrea Pieper with two runs.

Riley Hoffart's double and an RBI triple by Finkey weren't enough for Wayne to notch a win against host Yutan in the second game of the day. Mirisa Carroll was tagged with the loss in which Wayne allowed seven hits, three walks and a pair of earned runs.

Ashland broke away from a 2-1 Wayne lead with three runs in the sixth to defeat the Blue Devils in the third matchup of the tourney.

Carroll was saddled with the pitching loss, while the Samantha Denklau provided an offensive spark for the Blue Devils with a double.

Wayne vs. West Point Central Catholic

Wayne overcame an early 1-0 deficit to defeat West Point Central Catholic 4-2 in a home win in district play on Sept. 28.

The top receiver was freshman Logan Masters with four receptions for 92 yards.

Wayne sweeps area tourney

Area volleyball fans had the opportunity to see three of the area's top teams in one tournament last Saturday.

Wayne, Wakefield and Laurel-Concord all traveled to the Randolph Invitational quadrangular volleyball tournament on Sept. 30, for a full slate of competition at Randolph High School.

Wayne posted wins in all three of its games in the tourney, while Wakefield went 2-1 and LCHS finished 1-2 on the day.

Wayne had little trouble with Randolph 25-14, 25-16 to open the tourney.

Samantha Dunklau dished out 26 set assists and Angie Ahrenholtz was strong at the net with 12 kills in the Blue Devil win.

Wayne swept Wakefield 25-15, 25-22 in other tourney action in another game that saw Ahrenholtz pace the team with 15 kills to go along with 21 assists from Dunklau.

Wakefield was led by 10 kills from Alissa Bressler, while designated Trojan libero Anna Brownell came up with 16 digs in the game.

Wayne also defeated Laurel-Concord 25-18, 25-9 at the tourney.

Game leaders for the Blue Devils included Michelle Jarvi with eight kills and 19 assists from Dunklau.

LCHS' kill leader was Kari Schroeder with four, while Kim Lubberstedt went 35-of-35 with nine set assists.

Wakefield improved to 13-5 on the season with a sweep of Randolph, 25-21, 25-16 in the Trojan's final matchup of the invite.

Bressler led the squad with 10 kills and seven digs, while Whitney Rouse and Kelsey Bard also helped the offense with 12 and 10 set assists, respectively. Brownell paced the defensive effort with 10 digs.

Earlier in the day, Wakefield defeated LCHS, 25-20, 25-18 in a game that saw balanced performances by the Trojans.

Carly Gardner was a difference-maker at the net for Wakefield with her eight key blocks and Brownell recorded 17 digs in the win.

Laurel-Concord was led by seven kills and nine digs from Kari Schroeder. Other highlights included 11 set assists, courtesy of Amanda Troyer, for the Bear offensive effort.

Laurel-Concord's sole win of the tourney came in the three-set thriller to open the tourney with a win over Randolph, 28-26, 22-25, 25-14. Schroeder and Tarah Jelinek were a force to be reckoned with at the net with 11 and nine kills, respectively.

Jenny Schroeder and Jessica Pigg were also significant contributors in the win with 18 and 15 respective digs.

Braves hand WHS fourth loss

Earlier predictions of a tough district schedule for the Wayne High football team have proven to be true.

Still in search of a win in district play, Wayne was upended by Battle Creek for its fourth loss of the season in a 47-21 road defeat on Sept. 29.

Battle Creek established its balanced offensive attack early starting when Curtis Thompson connected with Jeremy Weidner on a 27-yard scoring strike.

Wayne responded a minute later when Nate Finkey ran for an 11-yard touchdown after an impressive downfield series to narrow the gap to 7-6.

Things started to unravel for the Blue Devils in the second frame as the Braves rattled off 19 unanswered points to take a 26-6 halftime lead.

The Battle Creek homecoming halftime ceremony featured a special honor for a former Wayne State graduate and former Battle Creek coach Bob Schnitzler, who guided the Braves to three state championships.

The ceremony highlighted Schnitzler's accomplishments at BCHS and culminated with the field being named in his honor.

Wayne was able to muster another touchdown at the 10:03 mark in the third quarter when Finkey ran in a 35-yard score on second and one, and then connected with Nathan Summerfield on the two-point conversion to narrow the Brave advantage to 26-14.

Battle Creek responded once more with two more scores, plus another TD in the fourth quarter to take the win and improve to 5-0 on the season.

Finkey scored his third touchdown of the game in the fourth quarter and Taylor Rately added the PAT to round out Wayne's scoring.

Finkey led Wayne with 115 yards rushing and was 10-of-20 passing for 112 yards.

Josh Fink picked up 114 yards in the game, while Ranson Broders caught five passes for 65 yards.

Finkey and Fink were also Wayne's leading tacklers with five solo stops apiece.

The Blue Devils will have another tough road challenge this week as they travel to Crofton on Friday, Oct. 6.

Last Friday, Crofton broke Norfolk Catholic's 27-game consecutive win streak with a 25-20 win in Norfolk.

WSC soccer goes 0-2-1 last week

The Wayne State women's soccer team pulled to 7-7-1 on the season after two losses and a tie in play last week.

Top-ranked and defending NCAA Division II national champion Nebraska-Omaha posted a 2-0 shutout win over Wayne State in non-conference women's college soccer played Sept 27 in Omaha.

UNO's Brandje Beal opened the scoring in the 35th minute, scoring her fourth goal of the season on a penalty kick to grab a 1-0 lead for the Mavericks. In the 71st minute, Casey Bigsby gave the Mavericks an insurance goal off an assist from Amanda Iwansky to round out the scoring.

UNO held a commanding 34-2 advantage in shots over the Wildcats, including 13-1 shots on goal. The Mavericks also had 11 corner kicks compared to none for Wayne State. Sophomore goaltender Jamie Anderson had 11 saves while allowing two goals for the Wildcats.

Wayne State and Upper Iowa battled to a 1-1 tie in Northern Sun Conference women's soccer played Sept. 30 in Fayette, Iowa.

Upper Iowa opened the scoring in the 32nd minute on a goal by Amy Campbell to take a 1-0 lead.

Wayne State responded seven minutes later when Megan Kenealy scored an unassisted goal at the 39:32 mark to make the score 1-1 at halftime. Neither team scored in the second half or in the two overtime periods as the Wildcats settled for a 1-1 tie.

WSC outshot Upper Iowa 13-12 and had a 9-6 advantage in shots on goal.

Anderson was credited with five saves, while allowing just one goal.

Winona State scored five first half goals, including three in the first nine minutes, to post a 5-0 conference win over Wayne State Sunday afternoon in Winona, Minn.

With the loss, Wayne State fell to 7-7-1 overall and 2-3-1 in the NSIC.

The Wildcats were held to just six shots in the game, while the host Warriors got off 26 shots, including 12 shots on goal to just four for the Wildcats.

Freshman Rachel Fuchs was in goal for the Wildcats, earning seven saves while allowing five goals. M.A. Liebenritt had four of the six shots recorded by Wayne State in the loss.

Rugby teams lose to Iowa State 'Clones

It was a hard-luck afternoon for the Wayne State men's and women's rugby teams last Saturday.

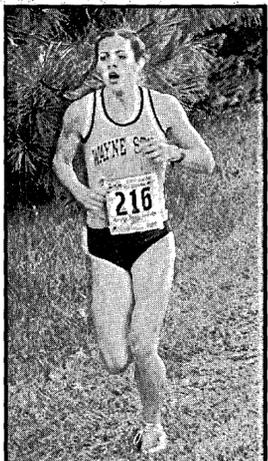

After WSC had the halftime lead at 14-13, WSC rugby men were still leading Iowa State in Wayne 19-15.

However, with only one second left in the contest, the Cyclones ran in a touchdown from 30 yards out to win 22-19.

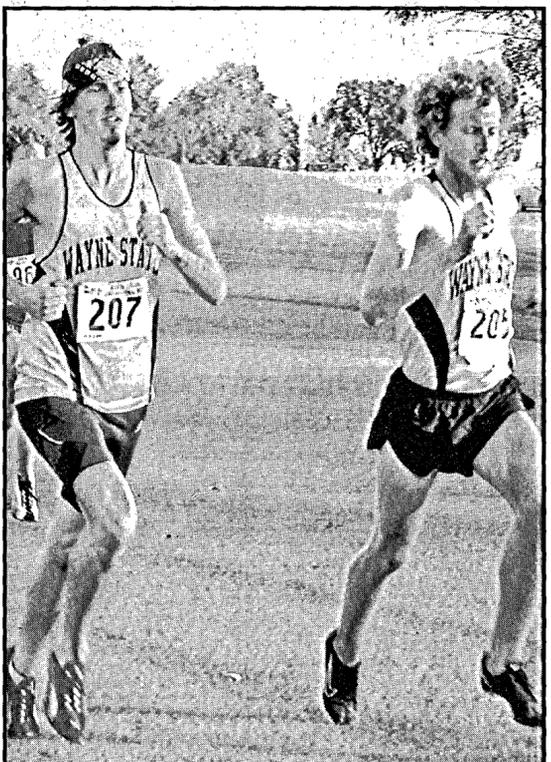

"Iowa State had a big scare from the Wildcats, but certainly did the difference between D-1 and small college rugby was evident with four players being from overseas and also a field goal kicker who was kicking attempts through the goal posts from 65 yards out," WSC coach Darrin Barner said.

In the other game, the Iowa State women jumped on the Wildcats very early with a quick 21-0 lead early in the first half, and cruised on to a 63-0 victory.

Program helps low-income seniors

The Goldenrod Hills Community Action's (GHCA) Commodities Supplemental Food Program (CSFP) distributes monthly packages of food carefully selected to provide a broad range of nutritious foods for a well-balanced diet, as well as nutritional education and information to enable clients to enjoy healthier eating habits and healthier lives.

CSFP provides food, nutritional education and related services to senior citizens 60 and over who are at or below 130 percent of Federal Poverty Income Guidelines. It also serves pregnant and postpartum women and children up to six years of age who are at or below 185 percent of the Federal Poverty Income Guidelines.

An elderly person earning $12,740 per year would meet income-eligible guidelines. Students recognized at Wayne Elementary

"Character Shines at Wayne Elementary School" is the motto this year, and the students have been shining with good character since school began. A lighthouse stands in the main display case to remind everyone that "Character Shines."

An assembly program was held on Sept. 28 to celebrate birthdays and to highlight the character trait, "respect." Mrs. Suehl's second grade reading class recited an original poem about respect and several members of the faculty performed a lip-sync of Aretha Franklin's well known song, "Respect."

Students of the Month for September were recognized with certificates and buttons, purchased for the school by WEB (Wayne Education Boosters.)

The character word for October and November is "Citizenship." Students of the Month honored included:

Kindergarten: Lutt - Cody Vaselaar; Tiedtke - Emma Walling; Heikes - Meghan Battles.

Driver's license station will be closed Oct. 16-19

Beverly Neth, Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles has announced that all of the state's 98 driver license examination locations will be temporarily closed from Oct. 16-19.

The Department's driver license staff will be attending a special training program.

"We do recognize that these office closings may temporarily inconvenience some of our customers; however, training to improve fraud detection and providing information on improved customer service and computer usage is essential," Neth said.

Most County Treasurer Offices will be open during these dates to issue non-commercial driver license and state identification card duplicates or replacements only. However, some may also close during this period. It is suggested that customers call their treasurer's office to be sure that they will be remaining open.

"We are encouraging those planning to get a new driver's license or permit, state identification card, or renewing their license to mark these closing dates on their calendars," said Sara O'Rourke, Examining Division Administrator. Individuals renewing their licenses can do so up to 90 days prior to the expiration date.

For more information, individuals may call (402) 471-3861 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. CST.

Dr. Karlen awarded at service-learning conference

Eleven WSC faculty/staff and three community partners attended the third Annual Midwest Consortium for Service-Learning in Higher Education (MCSLHE) Conference at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln, Sept. 21-23. During the conference Dr. Jean Karlen was recognized as the recipient of the MCSLHE Voyager's Award.

The award acknowledges individuals who "demonstrate outstanding commitment to furthering service-learning by developing infrastructure in their higher education programs and by creating programs that have sustainability." At the award presentation, Karlen was described as a "mentor" and a "promoter" and a "model to other institutional leaders." Karlen is a professor of sociology and service learning campus coordinator at WSC.

The theme, "Cultivating our Partnerships: Learning through Collaboration" provided the focus for the conference. Four sessions featured WSC professors who presented information about their service-learning projects.

Presenters included Dr. Jason Karsky-Criminal Justice, Dr. Laura Barleman-Dendinger-Business, Dr. Tammy Evetovich-Physical Education, Dr. Dan Miller-Psychology, and Dr. Jean Karlen-

Nebraska to receive $675,000 in grants

Interior Secretary Dirk Kempthorne announced more than $67 million in grants to 27 states to support conservation planning and acquisition of vital habitat for threatened and endangered fish, wildlife and plants. The grants, awarded through the Cooperative Endangered Species Conservation Fund, will benefit species ranging from orchids to bull trout that are found across the United States.

Authorized by Sec. 6 of the Endangered Species Act, the grants enable states to work with private landowners, conservation groups and other agencies to initiate conservation planning efforts and acquire and protect habitat to support the conservation of threatened and endangered species.

The cooperative endangered species fund this year provides $7.5 million through the Habitat Conservation Planning Assistance Grants Program, $46 million through the Habitat Conservation Plan Land Acquisition Grants Program and $13.9 million through the Recovery Land Acquisition Grants Program. The three programs were established to help reduce potential conflicts between the conservation of threatened and endangered species and land development and use.

The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission will receive $175,000 to purchase an important tract of stop-over critical habitat for the endangered whooping crane and essential breeding habitat for the threatened piping plover and endangered least tern. Wetlands and adjacent uplands in this section of the Platte River have a high risk of development in the near future. This section of the river also provides important migratory habitat for many species of ducks, geese and shorebirds.

Under the Habitat Conservation Plan Land Acquisition Program, the service provides grants to states or territories for land acquisition associated with approved HCPs. The grants are targeted to help landowners who want to undertake proactive conservation work on their lands to conserve imperiled species. HCPs are agreements between a landowner and the service, allowing a landowner to undertake otherwise lawful activities on their property that may result in the death, injury or harassment of a listed species, when that landowner agrees to conservation measures designed to minimize and mitigate the impact of those actions. HCPs may also be developed by a county or state to cover certain activities of all landowners within their own jurisdiction and may address multiple species. There are more than 650 HCPs currently in effect covering 600 separate species on approximately 41 million acres.

The HCP Planning Assistance Program provides grants to States and Territories to support the development of HCPs through funding of baseline surveys and inventories, document preparation, outreach and similar planning activities.

The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission will receive $500,000 for the Salt Creek Tiger Beetle and Eastern Saline Wetlands HCP. The HCP will cover a 200 square mile area, which encompasses the entire range of the endangered Salt Creek tiger beetle. This project is essential to preclude extinction of the tiger beetle, which is one of the rarest insects in the United States. At least 11 other species will be covered by the HCP. Given the range of these saline wetlands in Nebraska, their isolation from other similar habitats in the Midwest and their unique environmental conditions, it is likely that additional rare and possibly endemic invertebrate species occur in these saline wetlands.

For a complete list of the 2006 grant awards for these programs see the service's endangered species grants home page at <http://endangered.fws.gov/grants/section6/index.html>.

Sociology who gave presentations related to public awareness and disaster preparedness. Dr. Marilyn Mudge-Education, and Dr. Randy Bertolas-Geography emphasized their work with area schools.

Art Professors Steven Elliott and Dr. Pearl Hansen presented with their community partners Amy Jackson and Theresa Tiedtke on public art projects. Dr. Mark Hammer and Dr. Laura Barleman-Dendinger presented with staff member Steve Gross on natural prairie preservation and historic landmark projects at the La Porte Cemetery.

WSC campus service-learning advocates Dr. Deborah Whitt and graduate assistant Lisa Nelson were also in attendance for the 3-day event.

WSC is recognized in the region as a strong service-learning campus.

In 2005-2006, approximately 940 students were involved in service-learning projects logging over 9,000 hours of service in 37 classes covering 15 disciplines, supported by over 25 faculty/staff members and partnering with 70 area agencies and 15 area schools.

Karlen earned her Ph.D. in 1981, M.A. in 1975 and B.A. in 1970 at University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Her professional activities and awards include: president, Nebraska's Women's Foundation; president, International Board of Trustees; member of Pi Gamma Mu National Social Sciences honorary, Midwest Sociological Society (MSS) chair and member of the Long Range Planning Committee, Nebraska Humanities Council Speaker's Bureau member, American Association of University Women member, Nebraska Undergraduate Sociological Symposium (NUSS) member, Rural Sociological Society (RSS) member, Distinguished Service Award for Midwest Sociological Society and board of directors member of MSS, Nebraska Commission on the Status of Women Service Award and Pi Gamma Mu Service Award.

Nebraska ranks second for immunizations

Vaccines are one of public health's greatest triumphs. Healthcare providers say vaccines are the best way to protect children and adults against 16 different diseases throughout life.

Nebraska ranks second in the nation for the immunization of 2-year-olds, according to the National Immunization Survey for 2005, just released by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). The CDC conducts this annual survey to see how well children are immunized.

"Nebraska's immunization coverage rate is almost 84 percent, well above the national average of 76 percent," said Dr. Joann Schaefer, chief medical officer for the Nebraska Health and Human Services System (HHSS). "Healthcare providers in Nebraska have done a wonderful job immunizing the children in their care."

The survey looked at 2-year-olds (19-35 months). Officials picked that particular age group because children who get their shots on schedule should complete their primary series before age 3.

- The children received at least:
 - Four doses of diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (DTP);
 - Three doses of polio;
 - Three doses of haemophilus influenza type B (HIB);
 - Three doses of hepatitis B
 - One dose of measles, mumps and rubella (MMR);
 - One dose of varicella (chickenpox)

"There's no question that vaccines help keep people healthy. Immunizations should start at birth and continue through life. HHSS along with Nebraska healthcare providers will continue their commitment to help protect children and adults against disease," said Barbara Ludwig, Immunization Program Manager for HHSS.

For more information, contact the Immunization Program at 402-471-6423. Recommended vaccinations are also on the HHSS website, www.hhss.ne.gov and search for "Immunizations."

All Banks Have Green Money

All banks have green money. All banks offer savings, loans and services like checking accounts. So, does it matter where you bank? Yes, you bet it does. Why? Because it's how we offer financial services that make us different. Take for example, the length of time you have to wait to get a straight up or down, yes or no, answer on your loan request. We don't have to consult an out of town loan committee. We make our decisions right here.

Bruning provides for education to Nebraska's Natural Resources Districts

Attorney General Jon Bruning presented $69,000 for environmental education efforts to the Nebraska Association of Resources Districts at their annual conference in Kearney. The money was made available through the Attorney General's Environmental Court Ordered Settlement Fund. The fund is comprised of voluntary payments collected in court-approved settlements from entities that have violated state and federal environmental regulations.

"The NRDs are a main provider of environmental education in the state, particularly in our schools," Bruning said. "Helping prevent environmental problems in the future and investing in the health and well-being of our children is an ideal way to use these funds."

Ted Hughes, President of the Nebraska Association of Resources Districts, said, "Attorney General Bruning's support of environmental education will help the NRDs educate Nebraskans about the importance of protecting our natural resources."

The NRDs currently provide numerous environmental education programs, including educator workshops, the Leopold Education Project, Project Wild, Natural Resources Educator of the Year and many other environmental education programs.

Building Your Nest Egg Quickly: Advice for Those Who Have Delayed Saving for Retirement

If you are someone who hasn't made regular contributions to your 401(k) plan or been investing in an IRA since you were 23, then you may find you are approaching retirement feeling financially unprepared. With so many other financial obligations - college tuition, health care costs, and even daily living expenses - you may have short-changed your retirement fund over the years.

Just because you are getting a late start doesn't mean you can't accumulate savings quickly and meet your retirement goals. But, it's time to face the issue head-on. There are strategies to help you focus on retirement savings and make up for lost time. Remember, your investment time horizon is the rest of your life, not your retirement date.

Be informed. To meet your retirement goals, you need to figure out how much money you have, how much you need, and what it will take to make up the difference. You'll need to estimate your expenses after retirement throughout your life expectancy. To get a good idea of your proposed Social Security benefits, visit www.ssa.gov to review detailed benefits information or request a copy of your statement. Be sure to talk to your human resource representative to determine if you are eligible for pension benefits through your company. You'll need all of this information to set up a clear strategy for meeting your retirement goals.

Max out retirement savings contributions. One of the easiest ways to save for retirement is to participate in an employer-sponsored plan, such as a 401(k). If your employer offers one and you are eligible, it is usually wise to contribute as much as you can. And, if your employer matches any portion of your contribution, your savings will grow even more quickly. If you've already made the maximum contribution to your 401(k), you may want to consider other retirement savings vehicles such as an IRA. If you are self-employed there are other options to consider such as Individual(k) or SIMPLE IRA. There are contribution limits and restrictions for each of these plans, so be sure you understand the rules and regulations.

Increase savings with "catch-up" contributions. The standard amount the government allows you to contribute to a 401(k) plan is $15,000 annually; however, if you are over 50, you can take advantage of "catch-up" contributions by saving an additional $5,000 in your 401(k) plan for a total of $20,000 in contributions per year. Be sure to check out the details of your company's plan to ensure you are eligible for the maximum contribution. If you are over 50 and contribute to an IRA, you are eligible to contribute an additional $1,000.

Plan to work longer. According to a November 2005 survey by Ameriprise Financial, baby boomers are planning for a retirement far different than the one chosen by their parents. Survey results show boomers see their retirement as a time for "learning and self-discovery" (85%), for "re-inventing oneself" (65%) and for a "new beginning" (51%). Almost nine in 10 (88%) see it as a new phase of personal growth and development. Six in 10 say they plan to work because they want to, not because they have to. Whether you delay your retirement date or work part time in retirement, the additional earned income can help build up your retirement accounts and help preserve the assets you already have. Putting off full retirement may also increase your Social Security income, help maximize your retirement plan benefits, and offer a smoother transition into your retirement years.

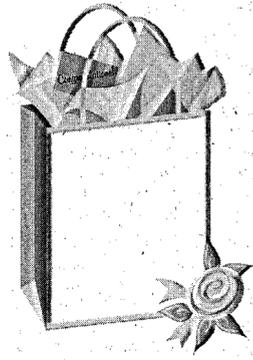

Make smart investment decisions. Even if you have reached your retirement date, you need to make your savings last. According to 2004 Congressional Budget Office (CBO) estimates, Americans in their early 60s can expect to live another 20 years past retirement age. Measure your tolerance for risk against your long- and short-term goals and be as aggressive as your comfort level will allow.

Get started today. You've still got time to make changes and build your nest egg. Regardless of how you decide to invest your money, the important thing is to develop a plan and get started now. A professional financial advisor can help you determine the best strategies for reaching your goals and maintaining financial security throughout retirement.

Include fiber in diet to improve digestive health Engagements

Cleaning the outside of the body is a daily routine, so cleaning the inside of the body should also become routine. Eating the recommended daily amount of fiber, 25-35 grams, can help prevent certain digestive problems and help clean out the digestive tract.

Ruth Vonderohe
Extension Educator

Fiber is a non-digestible carbohydrate. There are two forms of fiber, soluble and insoluble, and they both can be found in fruits, vegetables, legumes and whole grains.

Insoluble fiber is important for preventing constipation by helping the food flow through the digestive tract. It also may prevent diverticulosis. Insoluble fiber is cellulose and hemicellulose and can be seen in the peels or skin of fruits, vegetables and whole grains.

Soluble fiber forms a gel in the intestine, trapping bile and preventing the reabsorption of bile. It helps lower cholesterol and can be found in oat bran, rice bran and the meat of apples and pears.

Here are four ways to add fiber to a diet:

Eat a variety of fruits and vegetables. Try to add colors to meals, such as leafy greens, yellow squash or red peppers or tomatoes.

Eat whole grains. Look at the nutrition label. A good source of fiber has between 2-4 grams of fiber. Also, look at the ingredient list to make sure it reads whole grains.

Include bran in the diet, such as bran cereals, oatmeal or wheat germ. Wheat germ or All-Bran can be added to salads or foods for extra crunch and fiber.

Eat legumes because they are a good source of protein and fiber. Legumes include beans, peas, lentils and peanuts.

Not many people welcome the sight of insects and spiders or the idea of sharing their kitchen with a mouse. However, unwanted pests can be avoided as long as homeowners take time for early prevention strategies, University of Nebraska specialists said.

"The biggest thing is to recognize the problem before it happens," said Barb Ogg, University of Nebraska-Lincoln extension educator in Lancaster County. "Most people don't think about taking action until it is too late."

All living things need a way to survive the winter months. While some hibernate or migrate, others find a warm place to overwinter. Many spiders and insects squeeze into cracks and crevices where they won't freeze, Ogg said. Typical places are around windows, under siding, cracks of foundation and utility entrances.

Spiders and crickets enter at the ground level, but other insects such as Asian lady beetles and boxelder bugs can fly and enter homes at a higher level, she said. Therefore, it is important to seal up homes from top to bottom.

Mice typically enter homes looking for shelter, food, water or any combination of the three, said Stephen Vantassel, UNL wildlife damage management specialist. Availability of these resources is what makes one home more appealing than the next. "People have to eliminate friendly habitat," he said. "If shelter, food or water is removed, the problem isn't going to be there."

Wood piles, sheds, debris and ground shrubs all provide a place for wildlife to harbor. These types of hiding places don't guarantee a problem exists, but increase the possibility, Vantassel said. Food sources, such as wasted bird seed, also contribute to the number of wildlife an area contains.

"Even if someone keeps resources far away, it will only delay the inevitable. If there is a supply, there will be a demand to meet it," he said.

Vantassel recommends sealing cracks and crevices that measure one-fourth inch or larger and closing chimneys with stainless steel caps. However, homeowners should make sure no animals are actively occupying these areas. This can be done by corking a suspicious area with newspaper, waiting four to five days, provided the weather is good, and checking to see if the newspaper has moved, he said. The same is true for bees, but the opening has to be watched for activity during warm daylight hours.

When it is too late for preventative action, there are some things homeowners can do to decrease the problem. However, professional help isn't always the answer, Ogg said.

Glue boards can be used to capture crawling pests such as spiders and crickets. Vacuuming is another option. However, an old vacuum cleaner is best for the job because large numbers of some insects, Asian lady beetles in particular, tend to give off unpleasant odors that can contaminate the vacuum cleaner, Ogg said.

Poisons also can lead to odor problems when used to control mice, Vantassel said. When toxins are used, mice can die anywhere and odors accumulate. Traps allow dead mice to be disposed of right away.

Even though a few house mice don't normally pose health risks to healthy people, unless the infestation is extreme, keeping them out of the house is still important. Mice will chew on electric wires that can cause fires when they short, Vantassel said.

"Prevention might be tedious but can save a world of worries later on," he said.

Test nitrogen levels this fall, begin planning for spring fertilization

Testing nitrogen levels this fall can save producers time and money next spring, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln soils specialist said.

Fields that will be planted into corn or sorghum next year may show higher than normal nitrates. Soil sampling for nitrogen levels following harvest will determine exact nitrogen levels. This gives producers a chance to plan for spring fertilizer applications, said Charles Shapiro, soils specialist at UNL's Haskell Agricultural Laboratory near Concord.

"Fall is a convenient time for farmers to test nitrogen levels because they have the winter to develop a fertilizer plan before spring planting. In some years they also can save money by taking advantage of lower fertilizer prices," Shapiro said.

Nitrogen generally is available for plant growth. Therefore, the purpose of nitrogen testing isn't to determine whether or not nitrogen exists in the soil, but to determine how much nitrogen is available for plant use, Shapiro said.

"Nitrogen carry-over should be relatively high this year due to the drought," Shapiro said. "In situations where yields were low, a lot of the nitrogen didn't get used."

One benefit of high carry-over is the decreased need to apply nitrogen fertilizer in the spring. However, producers need to remember that nitrogen levels can decrease over the winter months. Wet winters cause nitrogen to leach below the root zone, thus resulting in a lower nitrogen level than indicated by fall measurements, he said.

"There are some environmental conditions that would reduce soil nitrogen in the spring compared to the fall, but if conditions do not get excessively wet, then the fall soil tests should be valid," Shapiro said. "It is possible that where fields received rain this fall, which increased soil microbial activity, released a flush of nitrogen."

Nitrogen tests are taken using a soil probe to collect samples from different locations within the field. It is important to take soil samples correctly, Shapiro said. Soil probes generally are inexpensive or can be borrowed from fertilizer consultants or local extension offices.

The samples are then sent to a lab for testing. Analysis cost depends on whether a complete soil analysis is done or one only for soil nitrates, Shapiro said. The cost for soil organic matter and nitrates is around $10-$15. A complete analysis is about $25. Each laboratory has their own combinations, Shapiro said.

For more information about fertilization for corn, consult UNL Extension NebGuide G174, Fertilizing Suggestions for Corn, available online at <http://www.ianrpubs.unl.edu/public/pages/publicationD.jsp?publicationId=142> or at local extension offices.

Wayne County 4-Hers and leaders to be recognized

Wayne County 4-Hers and leaders will be receiving special recognition at the Wayne County 4-H Achievement Program to be held Sunday, Oct. 15, starting with the program at 5 p.m. at the Wayne County Fairgrounds in Wayne.

Several 4-Hers will be awarded county medals for project achievement. Special awards will be presented in various curriculum areas. 4-Hers with one, five, 10 and 11 years of 4-H membership will be acknowledged, as well as leaders with five, ten, 15 and 20 years of leadership service.

Wayne County 4-H Council members will also be elected in conjunction with the Achievement Program. All 4-H parents and leaders will be eligible to vote for the adult members. All 4-H youth will be eligible to vote for the youth members. A slate of nominees is being prepared. Newly elected council members will replace outgoing adult members Kris Loberg and Pat Gray, and youth members Karissa Meyer and Derek Schardt. Council members with one year to serve are Shelley Gilliland, Todd Greunke, FayeMarie Roeber and Derick Dorsey.

The Wayne County 4-H Council plays an important role in leading the 4-H Program by developing county policy and implementing the University of Nebraska 4-H guidelines.

All 4-H families, as well as prospective 4-H members, are invited to attend. A picnic supper, sponsored by the Wayne County banks, will follow the program.

Hoskins ladies 'spend' morning donating to fire department

Only in a small town! The Big Farmer and your's truly made our semi-annual trip to the farm on Monday. Since I had a couple cups of coffee for breakfast, we stopped in Hoskins so I could use the facilities at the bar. It was about 8:45 a.m., and the combines were already in the fields. But there was a long row of pickups on Main Street, which made us wonder what was going on.

I stepped inside the bar and was greeted by "Well, hi, Pat!" There sat about eight of the local retired ladies, having coffee at the Monday morning gathering of the group that meets two mornings a week to socialize. But that's not all. They had a stack of dollar bills on the table and they told me they were gambling. I could not believe it, knowing most of them to be true blue church members. Well, it seems they buy pickle cards, and whatever they win, goes to the fire department. And last Monday, they won $125!

I say, more power to them. What a fun way to contribute to a worthy cause. And if we hadn't had a 9 o'clock appointment, I would have been joining them. As I drove away, I felt a pang of homesickness.

By: Pat Meierhenry

I have these pangs periodically. Like last week, when I was pulling away from a Lincoln nursing home. A Wayne county car was pulling in. So, I stopped and waited for the driver to get out. It was a young lady who looked a bit puzzled so I hurried to explain that I used to live in Wayne county. She is moving here, and going to work at the nursing home. We smiled at each other, and I drove away.

You know, I do the same thing when I see a Cass county vehicle. And since Eagle is in Cass county, and is close to Lincoln, I see a lot more Cass county cars than any from Wayne.

I miss those good folks, too. And when I have occasion to visit Faith Regional Health Center, I just sigh. For one thing, it looks very different from the one I worked in. I guess it's true that change is the one constant in life. And I'm finding that it's also true that we wax nostalgic with age. I'm just grateful for all the good memories.

And I informed my Mom when we got back today that the leaf colors in northeast Nebraska could match anything we saw in South Carolina when we visited there in October. But who would have thought we would set a new record high on the first!

I have no comment about this week's football game, except it was a long evening!

Date of last alfalfa harvest dependent on variables

The last alfalfa harvest is dependent on many variables.

The one most important variable is your need for more forage. If you have plenty of hay for the winter, leaving the alfalfa in the field may be your best bet. In case you do need the hay, then winterization period and hard freeze date are important considerations.

Alfalfa needs about six weeks of uninterrupted growth to be fully ready for winter, says Bruce Anderson Nebraska State Forages Specialist. This winterizing period is important to the stand's health.

"The winterizing process generally begins about three weeks before the average date of first frost," (Sept 2 - Oct 13 in northeast Nebraska). "Your last harvest can take place anytime before winterizing begins or after the winterizing period is over with little worry about affecting stand life. But harvest during winterizing can be risky," Anderson said.

The risk of harvest during winterizing depends on how much total stress the alfalfa stand experienced this year. "The most important factor is how many cuts you took this year," he said. "Fields cut four or five times are more susceptible to winter injury than fields cut three times or less." Young stands of winter-hardy, disease-resistant varieties are less vulnerable to winter injury than older stands of less hardy, disease-susceptible varieties.

F. John Day

Frost date is also a consideration. Harvesting after a killing frost (20-24 degrees Fahrenheit for 4-6 hours) will work if done very soon after frost to conserve nutritional value according to Iowa State Forage Agronomists. Avoid harvesting alfalfa after a light frost as plants will still be growing and spring growth can be hurt.

"Hay is short in some areas so the extra hay you cut from this final harvest may be worth the risk of lowering next year's yield," he said. "If you have plenty of winter forage and don't have a good market for any extra, the risk may be too high. If the need is not immediate, it may be wise to wait until after winterizing to cut, thus reducing the risk to the stand."

For more information, John Day can be reached by phone at 402-329-4821 or by email at jhay2@unl.edu

After the coronation, a parade will be held at 3 pm. The Allen Community Club in conjunction with Allen Consolidated School is hosting the parade. Anyone interested was invited to have an entry in the parade. The parade route will begin in front of the school, proceed to Main Street, go one block west, turn and then proceed south to 5th street where the parade will turn back west and finish with a pep rally at the Allen Football Field.

That night, the football game will be held at 7 pm versus Wausa. Following the game, a dance will be held at the gym.

CORNHUSKING FUN DAY

As a corn harvesting time approaches, the combines will move through the field with speed and efficiency. But, if you would like to see and experience the slowness and labor of earlier generations of farmers, you can have that opportunity at the Dixon County Hand Corn Husking Fun Day on Oct. 8 from 4 to 6 p.m. (note change of day and time). Held at the Rex Rastede farm, 2 miles south and 3 1/2 miles west of Allen or 3 miles east of Concord at 58158 866 RD, both the experienced and inexperienced can have a chance to try their "hand and hook" at hand corn husking.

Everyone is invited to watch and/or participate at this family-fun experience with instruction provided at the time of registration for novices. Contestants will pick and throw the corn into horse-drawn wagons with FFA members serving as counters and gleaners. Age categories for picking are 1 to 10 years old; 11 to 18 years old, 19 to 50 years old and 50+ years old. Winners will be determined after the five-minute pick by who has the greatest number of ears picked (deductions will be made for ears left on the stalk or ground.) There will be no admission or registration charges; a concession stand will be available on the ground.

The Dixon County Historical Society will have items relating to corn picking on display at the site. The Dixon County Museum will be open on "Cornhusking" Day which will be Oct. 8 from 2 - 4 p.m. to serve cornbread, honey and beverages. The items that will be on display during the Cornhusking Fun Day at Rex Rastede's will be on display at the museum.

Eight copies of the October selection, A Perfect Evil by Alex Kava, were passed out. These books were made available through the Nebraska Interlibrary Loan program. If you would like your name on the waiting list to borrow a copy of A Perfect Evil, please contact Kathy Boswell.

ALLEN UPDATE

The Allen Update newsletter was mailed last week to 1169 mailboxes across the country. Extra copies of the newsletter have been tacked to the Post Office bulletin board. The letter included information about remodeling the Allen gymnasium, including changing the bleachers and the possibility of creating additional practice floor space. The remodeling project is still in the planning phases. The school board has selected a committee to work on the project proposal.

The next open meeting about the proposed gymnasium changes will be Monday, Oct. 9 at 6:30 at the school, prior to the regular school board meeting. The public is welcome to attend.

Surcharges lowered and wireless telephones real milestone

Two telecommunications surcharges were lowered, and wireless telephones usage reached a Nebraska milestone by surpassing the number of landline telephone users this year.

are important to Nebraskans," Johnson said. Among other highlights: •Competitive local telephone companies as a group now serve more landline telephones than the state's largest single incumbent local exchange carrier.

•The Nebraska Internet Enhancement Fund (NIEF) completed its first round of grants with five successful projects.

•Solicitations for new projects to extend Internet access to underserved areas of the state have been requested," Johnson said.

•The Nebraska Telephone Assistance Program has 27,000 Nebraska customers enrolled in the program, which reduces monthly telephone bills by up to $13.50 and provides assistance with connection charges as well.

•The wireless E-911 program began funding the development of databases necessary to support Phase II E-911 as well as continuing the implementation of Phase I technology in cooperation with county programs.

•The Commission supported legislation that changed state law to unburden Nebraskans from a requirement to pay all costs for implementation of Phase II E-911.

The Nebraska Public Service Commission's annual Telecommunications Report to the Legislature notes that on October 1, 2005, the Commission lowered the Nebraska Universal Service Fund surcharge from 6.95 percent to 5.75 percent per month.

The NUSF provides funds for telecommunication services in high cost rural areas. The Nebraska Telecommunications Relay Service monthly surcharge was reduced from seven cents to five cents per line. The relay service makes it possible for Nebraskans with hearing and speech impairments to use telecommunications. The service handled an average of 17,250 calls per month.

Wireless telephone usage was nearly equal to the number of lines providing traditional telephone service at the end of the 2005 calendar year. Commission Chairman Lowell Johnson of North Bend, in an introductory letter to state senators, said, "The number of cell phones exceeded the number of landline telephones during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 2006." At that time, wireless telephones claimed 54 percent of the combined wireless and wireline market, the first time wireless telephones held a majority share in Nebraska.

Johnson said the new report, which is available online from the Commission's website (<http://www.psc.state.ne.us>), highlights several facets of Nebraska telecommunications in addition to reports on national leadership roles taken by the Commission on number pooling and area code exhaust relief. "Both of these items

Johnson, who announced in January that he would not seek reelection to a third term on the Commission, said the climate surrounding the work of the Commission has changed dramatically over the years. "The Public Service Commission brings stakeholders together to resolve concerns and problems. In the performance of this responsibility, the Commission serves as a liaison between state government represented by the executive and legislative branches, the telecommunications providers, and the public for which everything is done."

Update given on recent RC&D happenings

The Missouri River Outdoor Expo at Ponca State Park had a huge response recently with approximately 18,000 people in attendance.

Donna Christiansen and Rhonda Kneifl, RC&D representatives to the planning task force reported to the Northeast Nebraska RC&D Council on the event. Excellent outdoor activities for everyone, a fabulous art show, good food, and great organization made it a great success.

If grant funds become available the RC&D Council will host three household hazardous waste collections in 2007 in Niobrara, Hartington and Ponca. Citizens have been requesting this type of service where paint, batteries, household chemicals, cleaning supplies and more can be properly disposed of.

Many times Council members and staff hear people say they don't know what the RC&D stands for or what the organization does. So a project was approved to develop a communications and public relations campaign. Hiring someone to manage the campaign will be contingent upon available funding.

The State RC&D Association's annual meeting was scheduled for Alma. Several from this Council will attend. The RC&D Council's annual meeting will be held in November.

Announcements included the Plainview Historical Society is hosting a 7:30 p.m. reception at the Johnson Hotel on Saturday, Sept.

30 with a speaker on the blizzard of 1888. They are also sponsoring a preservation workshop on Oct. 3 where participants will learn how to properly care for memorabilia and clothing. Ashfall Fossil Beds has just launched their fundraising campaign for a new barn.

The next meeting is Oct. 23 at the RC&D office and all are welcome to attend.

Alpha Lambda Delta initiates at Midland Lutheran College in Fremont

On Sept. 23, 20 sophomores at Midland Lutheran College were initiated into National Alpha Lambda Delta Honor Society.

Midland Lutheran College's initiates included Benjamin J. Franzen of Wayne.

Membership in Alpha Lambda Delta is open to full-time students who have earned a scholastic average of 3.5 or better their first year at a four-year college or university. New officers were also installed.

Founded in the spring of 1924 at the University of Illinois by Dean Maria Leonard, Alpha Lambda Delta is a national honor society that recognizes and encourages academic excellence among first-year students. Today, Alpha Lambda Delta has 244 chapters throughout the United States, and more than 700,000 students have been initiated into membership since the first chapter was started 80 years ago.

Alpha Lambda Delta emphasizes that educated persons have a responsibility to "have tolerance in your dealings with all persons, generosity in giving to those in need, and insight into the feelings of others," says Dr. Glenda Earwood, Executive Director of the Society. Members are challenged to make a "meaningful contribution to society."

THANK YOU
I would like to thank my son, Logan, and his friend, Andrew Krueger, for finding and reporting our house fire. Also, thanks to the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department for their quick response and expertise in putting the fire out. Because of you, our home and loved ones were safe as well as all that is so very precious to us. Special thanks to Tom Mitzel for his hard work in getting us back into our home, also to the Red Cross for their assistance and to the Ladies of Our Savior Lutheran Church for the special gift they gave us. We appreciate all of the kind words and well wishes of friends and family. I would like to remind people not to run appliances when away from home-dishwashers included.
Kathy Berry

A sincere "thank you" to relatives and friends who remembered me during my recent confinement at Providence Medical Center and Premier Estates with cards, telephone calls, visits and flowers while recovering from rib fractures. A special "thank you" to those who brought in food when I returned home. May God bless each and every one of you!
-Etta Fisher
