Wayne State College will hold spring commencement ceremonies at 9:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday, May 5, in Rice Auditorium and the Willow Bowl respectively. A total of 524 degrees -- 167 graduate and 357 undergraduate -- will be conferred by Wayne State President Richard J. Collings.

Stan Carpenter, chancellor of the Nebraska State College System, which is made up of Chadron, Peru and Wayne State Colleges, will be the honored guest at the graduate commencement ceremony in Rice Auditorium. Zach Molacek, a physical education-exercise science graduate, will give the invocation at the graduate student ceremony. Of the 167 students graduating with advanced degrees, there are seven in master of business administration, 155 in master of science in education, and five education specialist degrees.

United States Senator Ben Nelson will give the commencement address at the undergraduate ceremony. Senator Nelson, a former two-term governor of Nebraska, is a native of McCook, a southwest Nebraska town that has been home to two of Nebraska's U.S. senators and three governors. Travis Coufal will give the invocation at the undergraduate ceremony. Coufal, a speech communication major, will receive a bachelor of science degree. He is from Brainard.

The Wayne State College Alumni Achievement Award will be presented to Robert Lichtenberg. Lichtenberg graduated with a B.A. in physics and mathematics from Wayne State in 1969. He and his wife, Linda (Kiestler) own Lincoln Machine in Lincoln. Mr. Lichtenberg is a member of the Board of Trustees for the Wayne State Foundation.

Wayne State College celebrates Earth Day

By DeManda Arkfeld
For the Herald

Earth Day was first recognized on April 22, 1970. Millions of people across the country took the time to learn more about their surroundings on that day and have every year since then.

Wayne State College began its own Earth Day festivities on Monday night with a fun run which started on the nature trail and followed the bike path through Wayne. The jog was led by Professor Joe Blankenau.

A 9:30 a.m. showing of the film, "America's Lost Landscape: The Tallgrass Prairie" by Director David O'Shields began Tuesday's events. The award winning film examines the record of human struggle, triumph and defeat that the prairie history exemplifies. It discusses the fact that before the 1820s there were more than 240 million acres of tallgrass prairie and how it steadily was developed into farmland between the 1830s and 1900s. The film also highlights recent prairie preservation efforts and explores how a tallgrass ecosystem may serve as a model for a sustainable agriculture of the future. For more information on the film visit its website, www.lostlandscapefilm.com.

At noon, Dr. Bill Slaymaker presented a Brown Bag Lunch event entitled "Cold Food With Hot Topics." He discussed Michael Crichton's bestseller, "State of Fear," and led a discussion about other environmental writers.

An afternoon lecture and demonstration of alternative energies was given by Dr. Todd Young and Dr. Paul Karr.

The next afternoon event was a poetry reading. Poet Twyla Hansen, who was raised on a northeast Nebraska farm which was once farmed by her grandparents of Denmark in the late 1800s, read poetry about the plains and prairies in the Humanities lounge. Hansen now lives in Lincoln on a wooded acre urban wildlife habitat.

Dan Owens of the Center for Rural Affairs presented students with information about the Center, the Farm Bill and ethanol. The Center for Rural Affairs focuses on enhancing rural communities.

"Farms and ranches cover over 50 percent of U.S. continental landmass," Owens said. "The United States has 375 million acres of cropland."

The Center supports the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), the Environment Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) and the Conservation Security Program (CSP). Without CRP lands there would be 13.5 million less pheasants, 450 million tons of topsoil would disappear and 2.2 million less ducks in the United States among countless other side effects. Celebrating the elders

The third annual Elderfest was an overwhelming success as more than 800 people took part in some or all of the day's events. Above, a full house watched square dancers from several local clubs in the afternoon. Below, Gina Puls models her grandmother's beaver-skin hat and her mother's cut velvet coat during the vintage clothing style show. Preparing for the real thing

The Department of Sociology, Psychology and Criminal Justice at Wayne State College conducted a mock disaster exercise on Tuesday. The event simulated a plane crash and began with a loud simulated explosion, after which emergency responders came to a location adjacent to campus to deal with the "situation." Students have spent months planning the details for the exercise complete with real airplane wreckage and volunteers with wounds created by make-up. Emergency response personnel will have to sort out the "wounded" volunteers and ask them about the injuries they sustained when an airplane crashed into a pretend fertilizer plant. The Wayne State College Department of Sociology, Psychology and Criminal Justice has recently added an emergency management minor.

Water rates, meeting time are debated

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Local residents will be paying more for water and sewer in the coming months and council meetings will remain at 5:30 p.m. following action taken during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Considerable discussion was held on the need for increasing the rates to cover current expenses and develop cash reserves and the need for a second increase in the near future to help finance a new waste water treatment facility.

Resolution 2007-39 will establish a 12 percent increase in water rates, beginning June 1.

For a residential customer using 7,000 gallons of water per month, the rate will go from the current $15.21 per month to $17 per month. A customer using 10,000 gallons per month will see an increase from $17.94 to $20.

Resolution 2007-40 will establish sewer rates, also effective June 1. The rate increase will mean a customer using 7,000 gallons will pay $17 per month, up from the current rate of $13.94. A customer using 10,000 gallons per month will pay a sewer charge of $21.50, up from the current rate of $18.02.

Additional rate increases will be necessary after a determination is made on what should be done with the city's waste water treatment facility. It is anticipated that this determination will be made late this summer or early this fall.

In a related issue, the council approved Resolution 2007-41, which approves a cost of study agreement with Olsson Associates to prepare a sewer rate based on cost of usage by sewer utility customers. This is being done to make sure the costs of a new treatment plant are distributed evenly.

Council members voted against changing the starting time of council meetings back to 7:30 p.m.

Beginning in January of this year, the starting time was changed to 5:30 p.m. on a trial basis. Several council members have indicated a conflict with the earlier meeting times and proposed that the meetings return to the later time.

Considerable discussion was held on the issue and several other possible options, including moving the meeting dates, were discussed.

The possibility of moving meetings to another day will be discussed at a future meeting.

A change order was approved for a leak proof coating for the west water tower floor.

It has been determined that there is a leak in the tower and it was decided that spending $9,100 now would be less costly, due to the fact that work is being done on the water tower at the present time.

Following a public hearing, council members approved a resolution for a use-

Pickup truck drivers urged to buckle up during special enforcement period

The Nebraska State Patrol joins the Nebraska Office of Highway Safety (NOHS) in an effort to emphasize seat belt usage among drivers of pickup trucks. The special "Buckle Up in Your Truck" enforcement effort runs from Sunday, May 6 through Saturday, May 12.

The biggest factor in preventing death or serious injury in a motor vehicle crash is the proper use of seat belts and child restraints. Statistics from the NOHS show during the past six years only five of 74 male pickup truck drivers ages 18-34 involved in fatal crashes were using safety belts.

"Drivers of higher profile vehicles may feel invincible behind the wheel, but statistics show that's not the case," said Colonel Bryan Tuma, Superintendent of the Nebraska State Patrol. "No matter what type of vehicle you drive, seat belts are proven to increase your odds of surviving a crash by up to 50 percent. Those are odds we hope everyone will take, and buckle-up."

Thanks to a nearly $17,000 grant from the NOHS, the Nebraska State Patrol will utilize approximately 300 hours of trooper overtime throughout the seven-day "Buckle Up in Your Truck" enforcement effort. Dispatchers will also be called on for an additional 90 hours of overtime. Special emphasis will be placed on efforts to raise awareness of the importance of fastening your seat belt each and every time you get into your vehicle.

Nebraska's seat belt law is a secondary law. Drivers can be cited for this violation only if stopped for a separate violation. Violating Nebraska's Seat Belt law carries a fine of $25, for each offense.

No one was injured when the boom of a sprayer on this truck became tangled in a tree on the south end of Wayne on Monday.

Sprayer becomes tangled in tree

On April 23 shortly after 4 p.m. a semi truck owned by Platte Valley Equipment, from Fremont, was pulling a flatbed trailer with a Nitro fertilizer sprayer on the trailer. As the truck was entering the narrowed construction zone in the 200 block of South Main Street one of the spray booms became entangled in the trees along side the highway. One tree was uprooted and one suffered significant damage. Tree limbs from both trees had to be sawed to free the entangled spray boom.

This accident caused a disruption to normal traffic flow while the equipment was being freed from the trees.

Middle Schools students took part in an assembly conducted by the motivational group R5.

Middle School hosts motivational group

Wayne Middle School hosted the motivational group, R5, for two assemblies on April 17.

Based in Omaha, R5 is led by Mike Donahue, a dynamic speaker who has published a book titled, "Reinventing My Normal." The two assemblies, one for grades five and six, and one for grades seven and eight, were sponsored by the FRIENDS Drug Free Youth Group.

The name "FRIEND" stands for "Facts Raising Interest Ending Needless Drugs." According to the group's sponsor, K-8 Counselor Joan Sudmann, "The mission of FRIENDS is to provide information to students and to help them make good choices by being more aware of the choices they make each day, as well as choices they might have to make in the future."

The assemblies were introduced by FRIENDS officers Drew Hix, Zach Rasmussen, Kendra Dunker and Lindsy Frahm. The officers told the students, "Our lives are full of influences — some positive and some not so positive. There are pressures to smoke, and to use drugs and alcohol, pressures to fill our bodies with junk food and our minds with junk ideas, pressures to fit in socially, sometimes at the expense of other people. Some of us have negative role models when it comes to handling our emotions, being honest and being responsible. Each one of us can choose to be a positive person, to treat others with respect, to work hard in school and to avoid high risk behaviors. OR NOT. These are choices that we make. R5 is here to get us thinking about these choices."

In his presentation, Donahue got the students laughing with video clips and stories, but he quickly got to his deeper message — that each student carries around pain inside, and that often that pain is concealed beneath a "mask" that the student shows to others. When students tease and put down other students, they often don't realize how much the victim is hurting inside.

His message that "words matter" was taken seriously and many students became emotional as he spoke of the pain students can cause one another by their words. On the other side of the coin, when he gave the students an opportunity, many students apologized to others, whose feelings they may have hurt.

By talking about the dysfunctional family of his childhood, and his present commitment to his wife and children, Donahue tried to help the students realize, "We are all given a script in life. But each of us has the power to change that script, and write a new script if we have been handed one that does not work."

R5 stands for five ideas that begin with the letter "R." The first one is "Relevant communication." This means that R5 talks honestly about the things that really matter to students. The second "R" is "Reconnect with your dreams." This means that each student can have a great vision for the future, even if they are struggling with problems in their lives today.

The third "R" stands for "Rethink your perspective" about hate, prejudice and bullying. The fourth "R" is "Rediscover your influence" — each student has a much bigger impact on the world around them than they realize. And finally, the fifth "R" is "Remember every student." Every student in this school matters.

"The Wayne Middle School FRIENDS group would like to thank WEB and the Middle School Student Council for helping to sponsor R5. Wayne Middle School FRIENDS is supported in part by Wayne United Way," Ms. Sudman said.

Jacobs relates travel experiences

As a child I would ride a Schwinn stingray bicycle painted John Deere green that had a long lime green plastic seat. This bike would often carry me down the flat brown gravel roads between Fremont and Arlington in eastern Nebraska.

Riding on the tire worn groove of the road where the gravel was packed hard, I would wonder what things might I discover between home and there. My eyes were always glancing to the horizons for impending danger known as farm dogs that seem all too eager to set chase.

It never occurred to me what I might do had one of the thin tires went flat or if one of those dogs had actually caught me. But you see, all good adventures have elements of the unknown and the unforeseen. It is what you do in the face of these circumstances that end up being the fabric of the journey.

The other day I was speaking over the phone to an editor of a western Nebraska newspaper, inviting him to consider printing my column and stories. His reply was interesting; "the people in our community don't really care about the rest of the world."

I responded; "OK, good-bye." I was so shocked, that I wasn't quiet sure what to say.

Now, not only do I believe this not to be true, I know it's not true. I have spent the better part of my life traveling, whether it was across the United States, or around the world. From living in large cities, to scraping out an existence on a small plot of ground far from any road, I have met people from all walks of life. I have spent time with the wealthy and the poorest of the poor. Everywhere I have been people have shown curiosity, intrigue and interest in other people and places. They want to know what the humanity of another part of the world is like; I believe they look for things like hope and kindness.

I contrast my conversation with the editor with a moment I had in December of 2002 in northern Kenya where I encountered three guerrilla fighters walking through the bush. Miles from nowhere, I walked alone down a long brown muddy dirt road waiting for the truck I was riding in to get unstuck, when suddenly three individuals dressed in army fatigues carrying ancient guns appeared from the brush. Around their waist was a belt with five hand grenades attached, and a crisis-cross of bullets across their chests. They smiled and we walked together carrying on a conversation, which allowed me to put my concerns at ease.

They told me about the border war they were fighting with Ethiopia, a fact most of the world didn't know much about. One of the parting words came from the youngest of the group, "I would like a radio, because even though we are out here in the middle of nowhere, I would still like to listen to the BBC so I can know what is going on with the rest of the world." With nothing to offer him, I wished all of them well with their goal and waved good bye.

People are people, all around the world, the best and the worst parts of humanity can be found everywhere, this is just one element of what makes a journey like this so fascinating.

So, please come explore long brown muddy dirt roads with me, as I go on a new Wondrous Journey starting with Ethiopia.

Kaden Schmale is 'Super Hero' for this year's Relay For Life

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Kaden Schmale, a second grade student in Mr. Wall's room at Wayne Elementary School, will serve as one of the Super Heroes in this year's Wayne County Relay For Life.

Eight year old Kaden is among those who are cancer survivors.

His ordeal began in December of 2004, when he was a kindergartner at Wayne Elementary.

"He started getting sick in November. He had blurry vision and said his head hurt," said his mother, Sherri.

Sherri noted that this went on for several weeks. He was treated for migraines and took several other medications.

"He would go to school in the morning, get sick and I would come get him. By afternoon, he would be better. We have since come to find out that this is typical of the kind of cancer he had," she said.

The next step in the process was to have Kaden's vision checked.

"When Dr. (Larry) Magnuson checked him, he immediately arranged for Kaden to have an MRI. This was done in Norfolk and he was sent by ambulance to Children's Hospital in Omaha," Sherri said.

It was determined that Kaden had medulloblastoma, a fast growing brain tumor that is common for boys between the ages of six and eight.

The tumor was removed the next day and Kaden spent nearly a week in the hospital.

"After surgery, Kaden couldn't walk, talk or use his right hand. He went through physical and occupational therapy to deal with this. During this time, the doctors put in a port to administer medication and let the incision heal," Sherri said.

In mid January of 2005 he started six weeks of five-day a week radiation treatment.

"During this time, he was not able to go to school, but Miss Maggie' was his teacher in Omaha. His classmates in Wayne kept in touch and the Schmales and the staff at Children's Hospital made a video of Kaden to share with the class.

In March, Kaden started receiving chemotherapy treatments.

"His treatment involved an "A" cycle and a "B" cycle. The "A" cycle lasted six weeks and then the "B" cycle involved a different kind of chemo on a four week cycle. It involved a two day hospital stay," Sherri said.

The treatment procedure was repeated three times and took until February of 2006 to complete.

"During this time, Kaden had blood transfusions and platelets, but made it through without really getting sick until the last cycle. This was the only time he had to be hospitalized. However, because of the treatments he did miss lots of school during the second and third quarter of first grade," Sherri said.

"After I got done with treatment, we had a surprise party at Tacos & More. I had chicken strips and cheese balls," Kaden said.

Several changes occurred during Kaden's ordeal.

"He lost his hair several times and taught himself to be right-handed. We have also been working on some of his athletic skills," Sherri said.

Kaden's family was able to be with him throughout the time he was receiving treatments.

Since the completion of treatments, Kaden has had to go back to Omaha every three months for an MRI and blood work.

"The tests take two hours, but Kaden is now able to do them without sedation. The result have been good and now we are going every six months," Sherri said.

His family includes his parents, Ed Schmale and Sherri Schmale, sister, Kayla, who lives in Omaha, brother, Kyle, who farms with his father near Carroll, and Kourtney, a senior at Wayne High School.

A positive aspect of Kaden's illness was the fact that he was the fact that he got a Make A Wish trip to Disney World last July. All of his family members were able to travel with him to Florida.

"We stayed in an area called 'Give Kids the World' and got tickets to seven parks, which we visited in six days. We also met a number of other children from the Make A Wish organization," Sherri said.

Kaden received a scrapbook of the pictures of his trip and is quick to point out all the highlights of the week-long trip.

There have been several long-term effects of the treatment for Kaden's tumor.

His thyroid gland has been damaged, requiring him to take medication on a daily basis. Damage to the pituitary gland has resulted in growth issues and the family is now dealing with the need for hormone treatments.

Throughout the ordeal Kaden has remained positive and his mother has high praise for the staff and facility at Children's Hospital.

"They have a good set up in Omaha. The Child Life Specialist explained things to us in kid terms. We made friends with the nurses and still visit them when we go for check-ups," Sherri said.

Two of this year's team's in the Relay For Life will have a connection to Kaden.

His second grade class, with Mr. Wall as captain, has organized Klammates for Kaden and a number of his family members will be part of Kaden's crew.

This year's Relay For Life will take place June 8-9 at Wayne State College.

Anyone interested in becoming involved in the Relay or contributing to the event may contact Sarah Claussen at 375-4846 or Brenda Lubberstedt at 375-4884.

Wildcats move to top of NSIC

The Wayne State baseball team wrapped up its final regular season home games with a 5-1 record to solidify its standing in both the league and region races over the past week.

The Wildcats, 30-11 overall and 20-4 in Northern Sun conference play, split with league leader Winona State last Wednesday, but stormed back against regionally ranked Concordia-St. Paul with a four-game sweep to conclude the home game schedule for the 'Cats last Friday and Saturday.

As of earlier this week, the team now shares the top spot in the league with Winona heading into the final stretch of the season.

WSC was scheduled to travel to Southwest Minnesota State on Wednesday (yesterday) for a league doubleheader.

The team plays at Bemidji State this Saturday-Sunday, April 28-29 to wrap up the regular season conference schedule.

Recaps for Wayne State's games over the past week include:

WSC vs. Winona State

WSC handed Winona State its first loss in Northern Sun Conference baseball play on April 18 in the first game of a doubleheader played in Wayne.

However, the visiting Warriors bounced back to earn a split in the second game with an 8-2 win and maintain a three-game lead over Wayne State in the NSIC baseball standings. Wayne State used strong pitching from starter Travis Mortimore to win the first game 4-2.

After giving up two runs on three hits in the first inning, the senior lefthander settled down and allowed just one hit the rest of the way to pitch his first complete game of the season, striking out nine batters to improve his season mark to 3-4.

After Winona jumped out to a quick 2-0 lead, WSC scored once in the bottom of the second on Sean Soderberg's sacrifice bunt that scored Joe Wendte to make it a 2-1 game.

WSC then scored three runs in the fourth to take a 4-2 lead.

Brian Sulzman's RBI double brought in Soderberg to tie the score at 2-2, then Dustin Jones grounded out to second, but a wild throw to home plate by Winona State first baseman Andrew Kes allowed Jordan Webb and Sulzman to score to give WSC a 4-2 lead.

That was enough for Mortimore, who shut down Winona State after a slow start, and handed the Warriors their first league loss.

Soderberg was 2 for 2 with a double and RBI, while Adam Hoffman added two singles for the Wildcats.

The second game saw Winona State take care of the Wildcats 8-2.

Sean Soderberg prepares to swing in last Wednesday's home doubleheader with Northern Sun conference co-leader Winona State. He finished the game going 2-for-2 with a double.

Five of their 10 hits went for extra bases with the biggest hit being a three-run homer in the third inning by Tony Lubarasky to give the Warriors a 5-0 lead, chasing WSC starter Michael Donohoe, who lost for the first time this season in five decisions.

Soderberg was 3 for 4 with a double and two RBI to lead Wayne State in hitting.

WSC vs. Concordia-St. Paul

Scott Bidroski became Wayne State's all-time RBI leader on April 21 as he led the Wildcats to home win over Concordia-St. Paul to conclude a four-game home sweep over the Golden Bears.

Bidroski, a senior from Omaha Roncalli, became the all-time RBI leader with a solo home run in the third inning of Saturday's second game, a 13-1 win over CSP.

Bidroski now has 180 career RBI at Wayne State, passing the previous mark of 178 set by Bill Schwartz from 1979-82, and finished the four game series going 11 for 16 with four homers, 12 RBI and nine runs scored.

The Wildcats completed a four-game sweep over the Golden Bears with 9-5 and 13-1 wins on April 21 and 17-2 and 9-5 victories on April 20.

On April 20, WSC rode the hot batting of Bidroski to a 17-2 win in the opener.

Bidroski was 4 for 5 with two home runs and seven RBIs as the 'Cats scored in every inning to control the opener.

Bidroski laced an RBI double in a three-run first inning, had an RBI single in a five-run second inning, belted a two-run homer in the fifth inning and added a three-run homer in the five-run sixth inning to account for his 4 for 5 day with seven RBI and four runs scored.

Hoffman had a solid game as well, going 3 for 4 with four RBI and three runs scored. Jones added two hits for the Wildcats.

Mitch Herrick was the winner on the mound for WSC, working six innings. He allowed two runs on seven hits with six strikeouts.

The second game saw the Wildcats rally from an early 4-1 deficit as Wayne State recorded a 9-5 win over the Golden Bears.

Concordia-St. Paul used a pair of two run homers to build an early 4-1 lead, but WSC tied the score in the third inning scoring three runs.

Marc Manganaro's RBI triple and a solo homer by Alex Koch were big hits in the inning.

WSC then used four straight walks to score two runs in the fourth inning to take the lead for good at 6-5.

The 'Cats added three insurance runs in the fifth inning to post the 9-5 win. Adam Hoffman's two-run single was the key hit in the inning.

John Snyder pitched five strong innings to earn the pitching win for Wayne State.

The first game on April 21 saw Bidroski go 3 for 4 with a home run and three RBI to lead the Wildcats in a 9-5 win.

The Wildcats scored at least one run in each inning to earn the win.

Jones was 2 for 3 with a home run and double with two RBI and two runs scored, while Koch added two hits to highlight Wayne State's 12-hit attack.

Ryan Kolo (3-1) pitched 3 1/3 innings of relief in place of starter Nick Schumacher to pick up the win.

The second game saw Wayne State roll to a 13-1 win as Bidroski capped his stellar weekend with the record-setting performance by going 3 for 4 with two RBI and two runs scored. Diego Marquez was a perfect 4 for 4 with two runs scored, while Soderberg had a 3 for 4 game with two RBI and two runs scored.

Connor Bramlet earned the pitching win for Wayne State, working five innings. He allowed just five hits and one run with five strikeouts.

Nathan Gettler and Adam McGuire each worked one inning of relief.

Wildcats ranked third

WSC is ranked third in the NCAA Division II Central Regional Baseball Rankings released by the NCAA Division II Baseball Committee last week.

Minnesota State led the rankings and Central Missouri is second, followed by Wayne State, Fort Hays State and Emporia State in the top five.

The top six teams in the region at the end of the season will advance to the Central Regional Tournament.

Bidroski honored by NSIC

Scott Bidroski of Wayne State College has been named the NSIC Player of the Week as announced by the league office following his performance last week vs. Concordia-St. Paul.

It marked the second time this season that Bidroski has earned the honor.

WSC softball team now 23-23

The Wayne State softball team pulled to .500 on the season at 23-23 after posting a pair of key road wins at Concordia-St. Paul earlier this week.

Wayne State was scheduled to travel to Winona State on Wednesday (yesterday) for a NSIC doubleheader.

The Wildcats will wrap up their home schedule starting today (April 26) with a doubleheader against South Dakota and will host Midland for a doubleheader at noon and 2 p.m. on Sunday, April 29.

Recaps from this week's action includes:

WSC vs. Augustana

Augustana College took a pair of games from the 'Cats on April 18 in Sioux Falls with 8-3 and 3-0 wins.

Augustana erupted for six runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to rally for an 8-3 win over Wayne State in the first game.

WSC took an early 2-0 lead in the first inning without a hit as the Wildcats used a hit batter and two Augustana errors to score two runs.

WSC also scored in the third inning on Kristen Humphries' RBI single that scored Amy Sandstrom to give WSC a 3-2 lead in the third inning.

But Augustana's six-run sixth inning put the Vikings in front for good as they took the first game of the doubleheader.

Amy Sandstrom, Kristen Humphries and Bre Parks each singled for Wayne State.

Karen Hain suffered the pitching loss as she allowed seven runs (four earned) on eight hits over 3 1/3 innings.

The second game saw Augustana's Jessica Cooper toss a five-hit shutout in a 3-0 win over the Wildcats.

Augustana scored once in the third and used a two-run homer by Kayla Henke to grab a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning.

WSC was held to five singles in the game with two coming from Caitlin Rowland.

Parks, Humphries and Sandstrom also singled for the Wildcats.

Kiley Peterson was charged with the pitching loss, allowing three runs on eight hits over four innings.

Northern Sun Crossover

The team went 2-1 on April 21 at the NSIC Crossover Tournament in Aberdeen, South Dakota.

The Wildcats opened the day with a 9-3 win over Minnesota-Crookston, then topped Bemidji State 6-1 before finishing the day with a 4-0 loss to MSU Moorhead.

In the Minnesota-Crookston win, Sara Salmen and Valerie Robinson each recorded three hits to help the Wildcats top the Golden Eagles 9-3. Wayne State scored three runs in the sixth and seventh innings to snap a 3-3 tie and pull away from UMC.

Sandstrom added two hits and two runs scored for the Wildcats in the win.

Peterson pitched the final 2 1/3 innings to pick up the win for Wayne State.

Cassandra Ward's three run homer boosted the Wildcats in a 6-1 win over Bemidji State in the second game as WSC avenged a 3-1 loss to the Beavers two weeks ago.

WSC made the most of their four hits in the game as Sandstrom laced an RBI double to go with Ward's three run homer.

Parks and Robinson each singled for the other WSC hits.

Hain earned the pitching win for Wayne State as she tossed a complete game four-hitter with nine strikeouts for the Wildcats.

MSU Moorhead scored four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to blank the Wildcats 4-0 in the final game of the day.

WSC was held to just two hits in the game, singles by Sandstrom and Parks.

On April 22, the Wildcats scored just one run in two games to go 0-2 on the second day of the tournament.

The team dropped a 7-0 contest to Mary and then lost a 2-1 10 inning game against Northern State.

In the Mary game, the Wildcats were limited to just two hits and Mary scored five runs in the first inning to pick up the 7-0 win.

Robinson and Humphries each singled to account for Wayne State's only hits of the game.

Hain suffered the pitching loss, allowing five runs in the first innings on four hits.

Northern State's Sam Francis delivered a two-out, two run single in the bottom of the 10th inning to give the Wolves a 2-1 win over Wayne State in the second game of the day.

WSC out-hit NSU 10-4 but left eight runners on base in the loss. The game was scoreless until the 10th inning when Rowland singled to bring in Salmen and give the Wildcats a 1-0 lead.

However, NSU scored twice in the bottom of the 10th to rally for the win.

Humphries was 3 for 4 with three singles, while Sandstrom went 3 for 5 with three singles to lead Wayne State at the plate.

Hain pitched the entire game for Wayne State and was tagged with the loss, allowing just four hits in 9 2/3 innings with four strikeouts and two walks.

WSC vs. Concordia-St. Paul

The team notched a pair of important road wins on April 24 at Concordia-St. Paul, topping the Golden Bears 1-0 and 4-2 in eight innings.

Salmen's single with one out in the top of seventh inning scored Parks with the game's only run as Wayne State won the first game 1-0.

WSC made the most of their three hits in the game as Parks singled to lead off the inning, advanced to second on Ward's sacrifice bunt and scored on Salmen's single up the middle for the lone run of the game.

Parks had the game's only other hit for WSC in the fourth inning and finished 2 for 2 with a run scored.

Hain pitched a complete game five-hit shutout striking out six batters to earn the win for Wayne State.

The second game saw WSC score twice in the top of the eighth inning as the Wildcats completed the sweep with a 4-2 win over Concordia-St. Paul.

Run-scoring singles by Parks and Salmen brought in the go-ahead runs for the Wildcats in the eighth inning.

Humphries was 3 for 4 at the plate to lead WSC in hitting, while Sandstrom went 2 for 4 with a double, RBI and run scored.

Hain (14-11) worked the final two innings in relief to get the pitching win, allowing four hits and no runs with two strikeouts.

Kiley Peterson pitched the first six innings and allowed just two runs on six hits for the Wildcats.

Wildcat golfers finish season

The Wayne State College men's golf team wrapped up the 2007 spring schedule on April 18 at the Northwestern Invitational at Landsmeer Golf Club in Orange City, Iowa.

Al Walton wins bicycle race in Lincoln and Devin Bethune takes second

By Jon Downey

Wayne resident Al Walton won the Category 5 (45+) category at the Lincoln Plating Spring Cycling Classic held this last weekend in Lincoln. Devin Bethune of Carroll took second place in the Category 4 division.

The Spring Cycling Classic is a race held in three parts over two days. On Saturday, Al had to ride a 12.8-mile time trial (individual race against the clock) and a 38-mile mass-start road race, both held at Branched Oak Lake northwest of Lincoln. On Sunday, Al rode the third stage of the event, a 30-minute circuit race over a 2-mile course inside of Pioneers Park in Lincoln.

Conditions for both days of racing were brutal: Saturday the heat climbed into the 80's with winds

Jared Roberts receives Achievement award

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Jared Roberts from Carroll has been named a United States National Award Winner in English, history and government and mathematics.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes fewer than 10% of all American high school students.

Jared, who attends Winside Public, was nominated for this national award by Penny Baier, Jill Houghtelling and Rachelle Rogers-Spann, teachers at the school. Jared will appear in the United States Achievement Academy's Official Yearbook which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Founder of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a qualified sponsor.

Jared is the son of Paul and Brenda from Carroll. He is the grandson of Larry and Jeanne Lindsay of Wayne and Ray and Lois Roberts of Carroll.

clocked at over 50 mph. Sunday was cooler but Al's class rode between rain showers early in the morning.

Walton, riding for the Norfolk-based Elkhorn Valley Cycling powered by Monster race team, won the road race and circuit race and placed second in the time trial. The weekend winner was determined by a combined time of all three events. Walton's winning time was 2 minutes and 21 seconds ahead of the second place finisher.

Walton has been riding with the Elkhorn Valley Cycling powered by Monster race team since 2006. He has been cycling for many years and racing in local cycling and running events successfully for some time. This was his first stage race and his first overall win.

Bethune, riding for the Norfolk-based Elkhorn Valley Cycling powered by Monster race team, started his weekend with a fourth place finish in the time trial. In the road race, Devin chased down a breakaway group of three riders early in the race and drove the pace from then on. Devin won a sprint to the finish line against the only other rider from the earlier breakaway strong enough to stay with him. In Sunday's circuit race, Bethune chose not to chase down a solo breakaway and won a second field sprint for second place. His combined time for all three races was good enough for the second place medal for the weekend.

The race was sanctioned by USA Cycling and promoted by Midwest Wheelmasters of Lincoln.

Siouxland Community Blood Bank kicks off campaign

The Siouxland Community Blood Bank has kicked off their 7th annual donor recruitment campaign, Heroes Unite, It's About Life. This campaign highlights the importance of blood donors ensuring a dependable blood supply is available for patients when needed.

Wayne will be holding their community blood drive on Tuesday, May 8 from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the Grace Lutheran Church.

The Heroes Unite, It's About Life campaign, runs May 1st to September 30th, during which the blood bank will be conducting blood drives in over one hundred communities in the tri-state area. Community support and participation is key to the success of this program, as the fire, rescue and police units in town are working hand in hand with area blood donors to help save lives.

The top three communities with the highest percentage of blood donors registering to donate in comparison to the combined size of their fire, police and rescue squads combined will win a sponsored donation towards community fire and rescue equipment. Cash awards for Heroes Unite, It's About Life are provided through corporate sponsorship from Cargill Inc.,

Prestige Collision Repair and McClintock Insurance.

"As a patient that has used many units of blood products to survive an injury, I saw first hand how important volunteer blood donors were to my survival," said Doug Campbell, a Sioux City resident that looked to heroes to save his life. "I relied on trained professionals in the fire, rescue and police units, but I also needed to rely on my fellow citizens donating blood out of the goodness of their heart. Without everyone's dedication and diligent effort, I would not be here today."

To be eligible to donate blood individuals must be at least 17 years of age; however there is no upper age limit as long as the donor is in good health. In addition donors need to weigh at least 110 pounds and have not donated whole blood in the past 56 days. A photo I.D. is required at the time of registration.

For more information about "Heroes Unite, It's About Life", the Siouxland Community Blood Bank or blood drives in your area, call 712-252-4208 or 800-798-4208 or visit their website at www.siouxlandbloodbank.org

April campaign focuses on parents and community during Week of the Young Child

A total of 200 Pinwheels have been placed on display across from Grace Lutheran Church on Highway 15 in Wayne. The pinwheels represent 450 children birth to age 4 residing in Wayne County, according to the most recent census data.

"Each pinwheel represents two children that Wayne County families and communities can impact," stated Susan Strahm, Early Childhood Professional Partnerships Coordinator.

Similar displays are being highlighted across Nebraska. There are 9,250 young children in the northeast 12 counties who are all being impacted by adults and communities in homes and out of home care. The message is simple:

- Parenting challenges are different today than when we were kids.

- Reaching out for help is a sign of strength—take advantage of parenting classes, readings and resources to help you in your role as your child's first teacher!

- Every parent faces challenges and joys in raising their kids.

- Positive discipline is the recommended method of guiding children—young and old alike—and involves taking time on your part to "teach" appropriate behaviors at specific times during development.

- Access quality care for your child to ensure their health, safety and nurturing.

What do parents need to know?

Nurturing and attachment are both critical for parents and caregivers who bond with and respond to the basic needs of their babies and young children. This lays the foundation for a positive and loving lifelong relationship, and stimulates brain growth as the child learns to interact in positive ways with others.

Knowledge of parenting and of child and youth development

Join the growing number of parents who are seeking information about typical child development, and how to utilize age appropriate discipline and teaching in their everyday interactions as their child's first teacher.

WOMAN Challenge promotes physical activity

The Nebraska Health and Human Service System's Office of Women's Health encourages all women to participate in a new program called the WOMAN Challenge.

WOMAN stands for Women and girls' Out! Moving Across the Nation. All women age nine and older are invited to participate. The event is an eight-week national campaign dedicated to increasing every woman's physical activity. The WOMAN Challenge begins Mother's Day, May 13, and ends July 8.

"This event is a great way to begin an active exercise program that will truly make a difference in how women feel," said Dr. Joann Schaefer, HHSS Chief Medical Officer. "Only eight weeks can make a big difference in how you feel and look."

This free eight-week challenge encourages women and girls to walk 10,000 steps or get 30 minutes of moderate exercise every day. Interested persons can register for the event online at www.womenshealth.gov/woman/register.cfm.

Participants will receive a free pedometer (while quantities last) and tracking log to record their progress throughout the eight weeks. They will also receive weekly e-mails with health tips to help them reach their goal.

Women and girls can participate either as an individual or as a team. Team participation is encouraged, with up to 10 people per team. Moms, grandmothers and daughters can form a team, or co-workers can participate as an office or company team.

"Women can also choose to travel one of six different 'virtual' courses across America," said Kathy Ward, Administrator of the Nebraska Health and Human Services System's Office of Women's Health. "The six imaginary routes include cross-country, Pacific Coast, Rocky Mountains, Plains and Midwest, Gulf and Caribbean and the Northeast. Each route can be accomplished within the eight-week period." Although personal goals may vary, a person with an active lifestyle walks approximately 10,000 steps per day. This is equal to about five miles in distance. A goal of 30 minutes of physical activity at least five times per week is also considered an active lifestyle.

The WOMAN Challenge will kick off the eighth annual National Women's Health Week, May 13-19. The event is being coordinated by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Office on Women's Health.

Pinwheels, representing the young children in Wayne County, are on display in the lot across the street from Grace Lutheran Church in Wayne.

Reading reward

Fifth grade students at Wayne Middle School who achieved their Accelerated Reading goals were treated to a pizza party last week. The students went to Godfather's Pizza and were able to make their individual pizzas to their specifications. At right, the students enjoyed the finished product. Below, an assembly line was created with each student being allowed to chose the toppings for his or her pizza. This has become an annual event for the students.

Hilda Valadez of Wakefield received instruction from Landon Grothe, formerly of Winside. He came to speak about being an EMT/Paramedic at camp last year. Hilda is a senior at Wakefield this year and plans to enter the nursing field.

Health Careers Camp to be held in Norfolk

Doctors and nurses are the professions first mentioned when students are asked to name jobs in the medical field. Rarely, if ever, do students mention Clinical Lab Scientists, Perfusionists or Dosimetrists. But those who work in healthcare know there are many jobs that are critical to providing complete care to patients.

Rural communities are facing a severe shortage of healthcare workers to fill those roles. That is where Northern Nebraska Area Health Education Center (AHEC) comes in. Northern Nebraska AHEC is a non-profit organization whose mission is to promote, recruit and retain healthcare professionals through partnerships among healthcare, education and community providers in Northern Nebraska. NNAHEC operates through a partnership with the University of Nebraska Medical Center and the Nebraska AHEC program office.

Northern Nebraska AHEC, in conjunction with Northeast Community College and Faith Regional Health Services, will be hosting a health careers day camp June 25-29, 2007. The camp is geared toward high school students, including incoming freshmen and outgoing seniors, who have an interest in working in the medical profession. AHEC hopes these students will pursue a pro-camp as there is a limited number of slots available. There is a nominal fee for attending. Camp applications can be obtained from school guidance counselors or from the AHEC website. Applications are due in complete form to the AHEC office by May 11, 2007.

The camp provides students with the opportunity to explore a variety of medical professions and some of the behind-the-scenes areas of healthcare. Mother tells audience story of daughter's alcohol-poisoning death

"You all have talents....please don't waste them on one night of senseless partying."

Patty Spady, the mother of the late Samantha (Sam) Spady of Beatrice, said that and much more to a capacity audience at Northeast Community College in Norfolk recently as she told the story of her daughter's 2004 death of alcohol poisoning.

She said her daughter, a sophomore at Colorado State University, was an extremely gifted artist. She displayed several of her daughter's high school pencil sketches at her presentation.

Spady said Sam was an easy child to raise. A leader at Beatrice High School, she was captain of the cheerleading squad, an All-American cheerleader her junior and senior year, homecoming queen, senior class president, a member of the National Honor Society and Girls' State delegate.

Her friends remember Sam as a fun-loving, sensitive and "amazing" girl, who was a champion for the underdog and a good friend.

"Sam went off to college in Colorado because she loved the mountains, wanted to meet new people and yet be fairly close to home," her mother said.

In the DVD shown to the Northeast audience, Death by Alcohol: The Sam Spady Story, her father, Beatrice auto dealer, Rick Spady, said there were few indications alcohol would become a problem for Sam. "There were a few times in high school when we knew she drank, like at a friend's one night when the parents were gone," he said. "But we really felt there were no serious alcohol-related issues."

Until the morning of September 6 when a policeman showed up at their door and asked if they had a daughter by the name of Samantha Spady. "We knew it wasn't good news," her mother said.

The chronology of Sam's final hours followed a police investigation by the Ft. Collins Police Department. A football game featuring riyals University of Colorado and Colorado State University was televised on the evening of Saturday, September 4th. Sam and a friend floated from house party to house party drinking beer as they watched the game on TV.

Around midnight, the two arrived at a fraternity house where Sam starting drinking straight shots of almond-flavored vodka. About 3:30-4 a.m., Sam stood up and fell straight back to the floor, so intoxicated she was unable to stand. She was then helped to an empty room, where she was left alone, and found dead Sunday, Sept. 5, at 6:22 p.m. by a man giving his mother a tour of the fraternity house.

Dean Beers, Larimer County deputy coroner, estimated that Spady consumed dozens of beers and/or straight shots of alcohol in a 10-hour period. Her blood alcohol level at the time of death was .436. In Colorado, a blood alcohol level of .08 is too intoxicated to drive.

Patty Spady told the Northeast Community College audience that Sam's death was unintentional, a horrible waste, and she blames no one. But she reminded the students to not ever think it can't happen to them. "What one person can handle can kill the next person," she said. She also advised against the ritual of 21 drinks on a 21st-birthday celebration. "I know of one young man who died at 17 drinks," she said.

She also reminded the audience that "If you should die of alcohol poisoning, it's not just your hopes and dreams that die. Those hopes and dreams are intertwined with those that love you."

"Just imagine your mom or dad standing here like I am today telling the story of your death from alcohol poisoning," she said.

After Sam's death, her parents established the Sam (Student Alcohol Management) Spady Foundation to help parents and students understand the dangers of excessive alcohol consumption.

She also said it was established because some parents didn't know that alcohol consumption could kill.

"I talked to Sam about the legal aspects of underage drinking, but never that it could kill you," her dad said on the DVD. Her mother said they live with that regret every day.

The Sam Spady Foundation also distributes credit-card-like plastic cards about alcohol poisoning and its symptoms. The card reminds people that the legal drinking age is 21 and advises never to leave an intoxicated person alone. "Stay sober to take care of drinking friends," it also advises.

The card says to call 911 if anyone drinking alcohol becomes unconscious or semiconscious; breathing is less than 10 times per minute or irregular; the individual feels cold or clammy or has pale, bluish skin; cannot be awakened by pinching, prodding or shouting or vomits without waking up. Spady also said, "drinking it off just doesn't work with these huge amounts of alcohol consumption."

"We are quite sure that Sam would have survived if someone had dialed 911 when she was placed in that room alone," her mother said.

Spady noted in her presentation that there are 1,400 alcohol-related deaths on college campuses every year. She said young women prefer flavored, hard alcohol rather than beer. "It tastes better and many believe if they drink hard alcohol rather than beer, they won't gain weight," she said. She also noted that often young women try to out-drink young men.

"No one should ever die such a senseless, preventable death," she concluded.

Spady's presentation at Northeast Community College was sponsored by the Northeast Criminal Justice Club. For more information or to purchase the DVD, Death by Alcohol: The Sam Spady Story, visit www.samspady-foundation.org

Bruning files brief in appeal

Attorney General Jon Bruning recently urged the Nebraska Court of Appeals in a legal brief to uphold a lower court ruling that Robert Henderson of Omaha should not be reinstated as a state trooper. Henderson was terminated from the Nebraska State Patrol because he had joined the Knights Party, an organization with known ties to the Ku Klux Klan (KKK).

"Nebraskans need to trust that officers enforce the law without prejudice," Bruning said. "There's no place for card-carrying members of racist organizations in law enforcement."

After receiving a tip, a Nebraska State Patrol investigation determined that Henderson had joined the Knights Party. His employment was terminated March 15, 2006.

On Aug. 25, 2006, Bruning filed a lawsuit challenging an arbitrator's decision requiring that Henderson be reinstated as a state trooper.

On Dec. 13, 2006, Lancaster County District Judge Jeffrey Chevront vacated the arbitrator's ruling, finding that Henderson should not be reinstated. Henderson appealed the ruling.

Audrey Roberts

Audrey Roberts named winner

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Audrey Roberts from Carroll has been named a United States National Award Winner in English.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes fewer than 10% of all American high school students.

Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Founder of the United States Achievement Academy.

At this year's Girls State event, 434 young women, who have just completed their junior year in high school, will attend the 66th session of Cornhusker Girls State where they will learn about their city, county and state government.

Girls State delegates come from across the entire state and are sponsored by local American Legion auxiliary units and have been selected to participate in the program on the basis of their demonstrated qualities of leadership and character, participation in school and community activities and scholastic abilities.

Locally, the girls are being sponsored by American Legion Auxiliary #43, VFW Auxiliary #5291 and AmVets Auxiliary #22.

The main objective of Girls State is to educate the participants about their duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities in a democracy so they will return to their communities as better citizens with a desire to participate in our government.

The week-long program will be filled with speakers and activities designed to provide a participatory learning experience. Girls State citizens will file for a city, county or state elected office, campaign for that office, participate in candidate and platform debates, hold party caucuses and cast ballots.

The highlight of the week is a visit to the State Capitol where an inauguration ceremony will be held and citizens will visit the office of the position for which they were appointed. The Girls State Legislature and District and Supreme Court session will be held.

The experiences of the week at Girls State will result in delegates becoming more involved citizens in the future, aware of our unique form of government, its impact on individuals and what makes our country great.

Main Street Focus

The Main Street Board, volunteers and businesses send a special thank you to the Elderfest Committee and their volunteers for the wonderful job they did in putting on the third annual Elderfest celebration.

It was great and serves a perfect example of what can be done in this community if volunteers step forward to make something happen. More than 800 people registered from throughout northeast Nebraska and participated in the activities of the day. If you want more activities, we have some good leaders at Main Street Wayne that could use volunteers to get more things done.

On April 15 the Sioux City Journal started a two part, two-day story on "Quality of Life: What's it Worth?" It was interesting reading and made me think of Wayne and the quality of life in Wayne. The article stated that many people in Sioux City are talking about what they want in Sioux City and how much they are willing to pay to get and keep their "Quality of Life" venues open and running.

A closer look at Wayne indicates that we have many of the things in place that help improve our "Quality of Life." We have a very good school system and college with great sports venues - the Chapman complex and physical therapy laboratory are pluses. We also have many cultural opportunities through the college. We have a great clinic and hospital with many services provided by their outpatient clinics that make it special. Our Community Activity Center provides countless recreational opportunities for all age groups and appears to be well-used. Our public library and Senior Citizens Center are pluses. Our museum and the many historic sites within a short drive of Wayne provide us opportunities to enjoy historic perspectives of the area. We have a fine auditorium, armory and private convention center available for creative minds to use for various activities and conventions. We have a swimming pool on the college campus and one available for summer fun and recreation. Our walking trail is as nice as they come. We have most of the things in place that contribute and upgrade our "Quality of Life" in Wayne.

This past year our Main Street was redone and more than a year ago our city administration, mayor and council supported a plan for Economic Development under the leadership of WAEDI which combined and put the Chamber, Main Street Wayne and Wayne Industries under their wing. Forward looking, you bet! But the best part is that it is working and Wayne appears to be improving the "Quality of Life" for its citizens and others in northeast Nebraska.

All this costs, and we must ask ourselves, "How much are we willing to pay in terms of money and time?" We don't have much to say when it comes to money and taxes, except to speak up and out and render our opinions. On the other hand, how much are we willing to step forward to become volunteers in the various community groups such as the Chamber, Wayne Industries and Main Street Wayne to insure that these groups continue to work in the ways they do to improve the community and the aspects of the community that they serve. Main Street needs volunteers just as the other groups do and it was suggested at Tuesday's All-Hands meeting that we consider asking our businesses to send employees to participate in Main Street Wayne and our various committees. Many of us as "owners" and "managers" really have to manage our time to participate, but don't you have employees that you can encourage to participate to help make Wayne a better place to live and work?

Our Main Street light poles may not be changed - the cost of shipping them back to the manufacturer is a factor. The Main Street Building will be used as a business incubator to help fledgling businesses get started at a reasonable cost. One of our local businesses used Main Street's Architectural Drawing Services and got several beautiful drawings for $150, with the possibility of a $50 rebate if they use one of the drawings.

Main Street will be seeking nominations for their board soon. If you are interested and are a paid-up WAEDI member, you are eligible. Let Irene know at the WAEDI office.

The Community Clothing Store is making great strides and has been featured in several articles in state newspapers. Volunteers are needed to help with the cleaning of the old firehouse, call Gary Van Meter for times and dates.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

By Lowell Johnson, City Administrator

Next Council meeting

The next City Council meeting will be Tuesday, May 8 at 5:30 p.m. in the city council room at 306 Pearl Street

Waste Water Plant Update

The mayor and council members are touring the new waste water plant at Stanton next Tuesday night to check odor, operational costs, simplicity and construction.

The waste water committee will meet in the next 30 days and make a recommendation to the council for the type of plant to build and the location. We are preparing the costs associated with each of these for the committee and council to consider.

Utility Rate Increase

Last night the council raised the water rate by 12 percent and the sewer rate by 20 percent. These rates are the result of a water rate study done for Wayne by the Nebraska Rural Water Association. The assumptions used to set our water and sewer rates are: charge enough to: 1) cover annual average operating costs, 2) cover costs of future capital projects like the water main down town $75,000 and the west water tower renovation $80,000 and 3) maintain cash reserves of at least one year revenue for emergencies. We cannot operate to make a profit, only to cover costs.

The rate increase will affect the average household using 7,000 gallons of water per month as follows: The water bill will increase from $15.21 to $17 per month. The sewer bill will increase from $13.94 to $17 per month. The last per gallon increases in Wayne were made in 1996. The next sewer rate increase will be in late summer when we adjust rates to start paying for a new waste treatment plant and that rate increase will unfortunately be large.

Can Bruning defeat Hagel?

By Ed Howard

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Why does Attorney General Jon Bruning think he might be able to defeat U.S. Senator Chuck Hagel in a Republican primary?

Answer: He believes Hagel's positions on the Iraq war, and criticism of President Bush, have left him vulnerable within his own party.

By billing himself as a potential Hagel opponent now, Bruning gets a jump on trying to raise funds among those who are angry with the senator over issues involving Iraq.

Bruning also figures there is a chance that Hagel will seek the presidency, or leave politics, rather than seek a third term. Such a development would likely mean a free-for-all in the 2008 GOP primary.

Hagel says he will announce his plans later this year. Bruning says he will do the same.

Bruning let the word go out from the Statehouse last week that he might run against Hagel. That position conflicted with a March declaration by Bruning that he was interested in the Senate job, but that he would not challenge the incumbent.

Veteran Republican Hal Daub, a one-time congressman and former Omaha Mayor, says he might seek the Senate nomination, but only if Hagel does not run. Daub was previously defeated in a Senate bid by then-Democratic Senator Bob Kerrey.

Bruning has always worn his political ambition on his sleeve.

The one-time member of the Legislature wanted to run for governor last year, but forswore the race after then-Congressman Tom Osborne jumped into the fray to challenge incumbent Governor Dave Heineman. Bruning pretty much figured - as did most folk in the early going - that Osborne was unbeatable. Heineman beat him.

The Legislature will see more efforts to eliminate or further restrict abortion rights. The only question involves timing. With a new chief justice on board, the U.S. Supreme Court just upheld a federal law that bans so-called partial-birth abortions. The "old" court had rejected a Nebraska state statute intended to ban the practice.

What does the latest decision mean?

It means opponents of abortion rights will try again to have the Supreme Court revise or reverse the decades-old decision in Roe v. Wade - the landmark case which said women have a constitutional right to abortion. A state might quickly enact a law in hopes of producing a high court review of the abortion issue.

To argue that nothing in the decision on partial-birth abortion reflects a softening of support for Roe v. Wade is to miss the point. The point is that the nation's highest court is perceived to be more conservative than it was a couple of years ago.

The high court has long been closely divided on some abortion-related issues. The ban on partial birth abortion was upheld, 5-4, with conservatives on the winning side - reflecting the retirement of Associate Justice Sandra Day O'Connor.

Abortion opponents will understandably wish to test whether that same narrow majority will look favorably on allowing further restrictions on abortion.

Biennial budget nears finalization

By Senator Pat Engel
17th Legislative District

The Appropriations Committee has finalized their recommendations for the next biennial budget. Since the committee began meeting in early January, we have spent countless hours going over every agency and program.

The fiscal staff are currently compiling our recommendations and drafting the amendments in preparation for April 25 (the 70th day of this 90-day legislative session), when according to the rules of the Legislature, all appropriations bills must be placed on General File. The Appropriations Committee's recommendations allow for approximately $400 million to be used for tax relief measures over the biennium. I will discuss the committee's recommendations in more detail in next week's newsletter.

Most of this past week was spent debating the tax relief package. It is nice to be in the position to be able to discuss the reduction of taxes, after serving in the Legislature several years ago during the downturn in our economy.

As amended by the Revenue Committee amendments, LB 367 includes a property tax credit for all real property owners. It would amount to a property tax reduction of approximately eight cents per $100 of valuation (equivalent to an $80 reduction on a home assessed at $100,000) for tax year 2007 and a four cent reduction in 2008.

Legislative Update
By: State Senator Pat Engel, District #17

Additionally, in 2008, the maximum levy for school districts would be reduced from $1.05 to $1.00, thereby increasing state aid to school districts by approximately $60 million and thus decreasing property taxes.

LB 367 also eliminates the marriage penalty in our state's income tax system and reduces the income tax rate for the top bracket. Additionally, the estate tax exemption is increased, the sales tax on construction labor for commercial projects is repealed and the current tax credit program for renewable energy projects is expanded.

Although LB 367 was given initial approval without being substantially amended, there was much discussion on other options for tax relief, such as a sales tax decrease, an outright repeal of the estate tax, a $500 income tax credit for property taxes paid on a primary residence, a $150 income tax credit for taxes paid on motor vehicles, and an increase in the state earned income tax credit for low income working families. I look for further debate on alternative measures for tax relief during second round debate.

I believe that the Legislature's tax relief plan should include property tax relief. Several years ago the Legislature increased state aid to community colleges, which provided direct dollar for dollar tax relief that was clearly noticeable to Nebraska residents. I would support a similar measure this year. However, I want to emphasize that property taxes are not collected or spent by the state, but by local governments. If people are upset about their property tax rates, they need to attend their local city council meetings, county board meetings, and school board meetings. It is easy to say that government should reduce spending; the difficult part is to suggest what services you are willing to give up in order to reduce spending.

The Legislature also discussed a new method to help fund the Qwest Center in Omaha. The formula passed in 1999 is not bringing in the predicted amount of revenue. LB 551 would authorize 70 percent of the state sales tax revenue collected by retailers doing business at the convention center, the sports arena facility, and the hotel to be used to pay off the bonds. The other 30 percent can be used by other cities to build or refurbish similar facilities. I have concerns with this proposal, in that supporters in 1999 said that the City of Omaha would make up any shortfall. Neither the City of Omaha or Douglas County are close to their levy limits; therefore, they have the ability to increase taxes to pay off the bonds. The state has made a commitment to offer assistance, which I supported in 1999, but I do not support changing the formula mid-way through the process, providing for additional state support when local governments have the capability of funding it themselves.

If you have any comments on the tax relief measure or other issues before the Legislature, I encourage you to contact me with your thoughts and opinions. I can be reached at District #17, P.O. Clockwise, upper left, there were many exhibits from area businesses and individuals (shown is one by PMC), Elderfest committee members (shown are Sandy Bartling, Diane Peterson and Dianne Leighty) were busy meeting the needs of the many attendees, Brenda Nissen and Alan Brufat were part of this year's variety show; volunteer Betty Reeg helped out as people entered the event and Providence Medical Center Director Marcile Thomas greeted attendees; a candlelight buffet was provided as well as a candlelight dance with music by Artie and Gwen Schmidt; PMC employee Ann Gewee directed everyone to sign the Elderfest quilt; Marie George was part of the vintage style show; coffee and donuts were served as people entered and Our Savior Quartet was one group that entertained. This is the third year Elderfest has been held.

Take time when choosing the right summer camp

Summer vacation holds many possibilities for children and parents. One possibility could be summer camp. Summer camps incorporate outdoor activities into fun and creative day and overnight experiences that teach children important skills and values.

When choosing between day camps and overnight camps, consider the individual needs and preferences of the child. As many camps offer a variety of themes throughout the summer, talk with children to identify an experience they can be excited about. In addition, consider the location of the site, the length of the schedule and children's past experiences in being away from home overnight.

If overnight camps are the right choice, there are many strategies parents can use to prepare campers and ensure they have a positive experience, specifically if they are concerned about homesickness. First, talk with children about what they can expect at summer camp. Camps provide parents and campers with information in advance regarding the schedule, what to bring and what not to bring to camp and what are the rules and expectations at camp.

In addition, to ensure children still feel connected to home, consider sending care packages or communicating with children either via e-mail or postal mail during their time at camp. Finally, contact the camp staff in advance to address any concerns or questions or to schedule a day visit to ensure that both the parent and camper are familiar and comfortable with the environment.

Loess Hills Gospel Quartet to be in concert at The Barn

Members Myron Armour, Kevin Hummel, Richard Mack and Lael Steinhoff, all of the Loess Hills Gospel Quartet will be in concert on Sunday, April 29 at The Barn, east of Wayne, at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. A free will offering will be taken.

Armour, bass, of Cushing, Iowa has local ties to this area; his wife, Ardith (Roberts) is originally from Allen and the couple attended Wayne State College with Merle Ring. The other members also attended WSC. Armour served as the Choral Director at Westwood High School for 34 years. He received his B.A. in music from Wayne State College and his Masters Degree from the University of Northern Colorado.

Since his retirement, Armour keeps busy substitute teaching several days a week. He serves as music judge for music contests which cover a three state area. The couple has been married for 55 years and have five children, 11 grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Armour attends the Smithland United Methodist Church where he has been active as choir director for several years.

Hummel, first tenor, has lived in the Sloan, Iowa area for over 46 years. He graduated from Westwood High School. He and his wife, Denise, have been married for 32 years in November. The couple has two daughters, Heather, 22 and Nicole, 20. Hummel worked for many years as a car salesman. He currently owns and operates Hummel Insurance in Sloan, Iowa and his family attends Sloan Community of Christ Church.

Mack, second tenor, lives in the suburbs of Oto, Iowa along with his wife of 25 years, Adelle. The couple has one son, Johnathan, who is attending Buena Vista University. Mack is employed at S & S Equipment in Lawton, Iowa. He works in the parts counter and does corn meter repairs. His past time is mostly consumed by the duties of the quartet and working on his home in Oto. Mack and his family attend First Baptist Church in Climbing Hill, Iowa. Mack's love for gospel music came around 30 years ago when a friend took him to a gospel concert.

Steinhoff, baritone, was born and raised in the Holly Springs area. He graduated from Westwood School in 1968, attended WSC, where he met his future wife, Wanetta, who is the accompanist. He graduated in 1972 and was married three weeks later. The couple moved back to Iowa and started farming. They have two children and one grandchild with another on the way. Lael raises corn, beans and alfalfa and Wanetta gives private piano lessons and accompanies for school districts at solo contests. They attend Holly Springs Bible Fellowship Church.

Anyone wanting more information on the concert, can call Merle Ring at 402-375-3599.

Northeast's New Beginnings mentoring program wins honorable mention award

The New Beginnings Program at Northeast Community College recently received word that it had won an Honorable Mention Award in the third annual competition called "Programs and Practices That Work: Preparing Students for Nontraditional Careers Project."
The competition was sponsored by the National Association of State Directors of Career Technical Education Consortium (NASD-CTEC), Association for Career and Technical Education (ACTE), National Alliance for Partnerships in Equity (NAPE), and the National Women's Law Center (NWLC).
The honor was given for the New Beginnings' Nontraditional Recruit and Retain Mentoring Program that matches a second-year, non-traditional student with a freshman student at Northeast. The New Beginnings Program helps male and female single parents, single pregnant women, displaced homemakers (widowed, divorced, or separated men and women), and nontraditional students (students in programs that have 25 percent or fewer students of one gender in the program).
According to the Award Letter, "Northeast Community College, through its Recruit and Retain Mentoring Program, is making progress in providing students non-traditional role models who can help to increase enrollment in non-traditional career and technical education courses." Northeast's program will be recognized at a briefing for the U.S. Congress and media on Capitol Hill in June.

The award nomination included quotations from students involved in the Recruit and Retain Mentoring Program at Northeast. "I remember what it was like to be a first-year, nontraditional student with all the fears and questions," said JoAnn, a second-year architectural drafting student and mentor. The student JoAnn mentors wrote, "I have appreciated having JoAnn to talk to and answer my questions. It has helped me to have someone who knows the program take the time to be there for me."
"As a mentor, I helped Stephanie with areas she is unfamiliar with and build her confidence," wrote Suzanne, a second-year broadcasting student and mentor. "I have enjoyed seeing her progress in the broadcasting program and giving her a chance to ask a female questions and feel supported in a male-dominated program," wrote Suzanne, a second-year broadcasting student and mentor.
"Being mentored has helped me out a whole lot with questions I have about the program," wrote Stephanie, a first-year broadcasting student and mentee. "It's great having Suzie to show me and to talk to. I'm glad to be in this program."
Brandi Rossman is the New Beginnings director.

SBA announces improved web site

One of the federal government's best Web sites for small businesses just got better. With SBA's National Small Business Week, April 22-28, the agency is pleased to announce improvement in one of its finest resources, www.sba.gov.

According to a recent online survey of those who visited the Web site, SBA equaled or exceeded the benchmark standards set for 111 federal government agencies as measured by ForeSee Results, Inc. and provided in the research company's Web Site Satisfaction Performance Report to SBA.

"At SBA, our goal is to help small businesses by giving them the tools they need to succeed," said SBA Administrator Steven Preston. "Whether you need help developing a business plan, targeting clients, establishing a budget, or accessing financial assistance, the SBA Web site is the ideal place to start."

Recently called the "Best stop for one-stop shopping" by Money Magazine, the SBA continues to improve and build the Web site's reputation in order to help small businesses start, grow and succeed.

After a concerted effort to improve all aspects of the Web site from a user-centered approach, in mid-to-late 2006, the agency outperformed standards in areas such as: design, navigation, site performance and search capabilities. It also exceeded standards for its ability to return visitors to the site and have them recommend it to others. Content, functionality and overall satisfaction either equaled or exceeded benchmarks in various survey segments.

The SBA Web site offers more than 20,000 pages of information on starting, financing, developing and managing a successful business. Topics include information on SBA-backed financial assistance, contracting opportunities, training and counseling, disaster recovery, and international trade, to name just a few. Useful links to regulatory compliance and forms through www.business.gov and numerous related key sites are also available. On average, the site sees over one million unique visitors per month.

Small businesses can access online tools such as timely advice from experts, podcasts on topical business issues and services, a library, periodic newsletter, startup guide, statistics and much more. Key contact information for local SBA District Offices, Small Business Development Centers, Women's Business Centers, SCORE Chapters and Veterans Business Outreach Centers nationwide and in U.S. territories, are available.

The great mushroom hunt!

Ever since moving to southeast Nebraska, I've heard about hunting truffles every year about this time. But when I would ask where I could find some of these "elusive morels", everyone would clam up. I wasn't sure I even knew what they looked like, even though I had seen pictures in articles, usually in the World Herald.

One year, there was a gas station in Plattsmouth that advertised they would have some for sale, but every time I got there, they were sold out. It was very frustrating, especially after hearing the locals talk about how delicious they were.

Last year, I noticed an article saying there was a bed and breakfast near Peru that was offering a package deal that would include a mushroom hunt, a mushroom loaded pizza in the evening, overnight accommodations, breakfast, and another hunt. It sounded great, but I couldn't work it into my schedule.

This year, on the 15th, I saw an announcement that this gal was doing the hunts again; this time, you could sign up just for an afternoon trek. I e-mailed immediately, and reserved for my sis and me.

Monday morning, I met Mary in Murray and we proceeded south on highway 75. Through Nebraska City, my old stomping grounds, and on to the spur outside of Auburn that takes you to Peru, the "campus of a thousand oaks." Two miles out of town and a right turn took us to Honey Creek school, on the banks of, fittingly, the Honey Creek.

It's an all brick building, with a tin roof; and a restored interior, including indoor plumbing. A lady named Linda invited us to wait on the porch, in the Adirondack chairs, as they were just having lunch. Her friend, Beth, was there to help. Turns out Beth works for Canfield's, in Omaha, and writes their weekly e-newsletter. And Linda maintains the website, nebraskathegoodlife.com, which advertises all kind of things in the state: crane watch, wagon trains, trails, parks, etc.

Three people told me before we got there that it was too early because it had been too cool. And they were right, Linda and Beth had spent Sunday afternoon squiring two other much younger ladies around the trails, and they had not found one morel.

But we put on our hats and long sleeved shirts, and got into a pickup and drove to the old railroad right of way that is now a bike trail and set out. Beth has very sharp eyes! She actually found four of the little fungi and placed them in our orange net bags. But that was it. We went on to see the limestone carvings and then trekked back. We also had a short trip to the boat ramp and spent some time gazing at the Missouri River.

The locals say the morels are ready when "the leaves on the private hedge are the size of squirrel's ears." We did not see any privets, but we guess we really were early. I sliced my share and fried them in garlic and butter, and they were truly delicious. But I sure could have used a few more. The weather was perfect, the company delightful, and I think I'm going to try again next year. I slept very well last night!

PSC suspends warehouse license of Hergert Grain

The Nebraska Public Service Commission suspended the grain warehouse license of Hergert Grain, Inc. recently.

Hergert Grain operates warehouse facilities in Scottsbluff, Gering and some rural Panhandle locations and is owned by C. David Hergert.

The Commission's Grain Warehouse Department reported a shortage of 58,536 bushels of corn, 61.8 percent of the total needed in the company's grain warehouses, which came to light as the result of an audit that was concluded this week by a Commission inspector. The Commission also cited Hergert Grain for issuing grain warehouse receipts for 54,739 bushels of corn that were not in the warehouses.

The Commission locked Hergert Grain's warehouses to prevent grain from moving in or out of the facilities. The Commission assumed ownership of the grain on behalf of the owners, depositors and storers of record. Hergert Grain will have until a June 4 public hearing to rectify the situation. The Commission will then decide whether to permanently revoke the company's grain warehouse license.

If the license is permanently revoked, the Commission will schedule a hearing later in the summer to determine the owners, depositors and storers of grain.

The closure of Hergert Grain is the first such action by the Commission in 26 months. nity of Humboldt in February of 2005.

known as the home on Arbor Day. Since the inception of Arbor Day on April 10, 1872, all 50 states have an Arbor Day observance as well as many overseas countries.

Tree planting is more than a one day event as the planting season can span from early spring, as soon as the soil thaws out, until fall, or until the soil freezes. Planting a tree is important to help increase the number and diversity of species but is only the first step. Follow-up activities include watering of the tree on a daily basis with about one gallon of water for the smaller trees.

Mulching is very critical and needs to be provided as soon as the tree is planted. Mulch keeps the soil moist, roots cool and prevents weeds from competing with the tree.

Protection of the tree stem or trunk needs to be provided during the winter to keep rabbits and deer from harming the tender bark on the young tree. The protection can be hard plastic wraps available from garden centers. These devices need to be removed in the spring to allow sunlight to shine on the bark.

There is normally no need to tie or secure the tree with wire, twine and rope unless the tree is in a very windy site or high foot traffic area like a park or walking trail. If the tree needs to be held in place, the best material to use is lawn chair webbing. This provides a wide and soft material that will degrade over a couple of years and break as the tree moves in the wind.

The last other item that needs to be done is to prune the tree from year two to five to remove any dead, diseased, or crossing branches in order to have the best looking tree for the space provided.

Arbor Day provides the first step in getting a plant started for future generations to enjoy. Participate in Arbor Day observances sponsored at your local school or local community tree board activities.

The best time to plant a tree was yesterday, so if you have the space, why not plant a tree on Arbor Day in 2007.

For additional information on planting trees, contact your local community tree board or the University of Nebraska Extension Office near your area.
