Flushing out cancer

The Wayne Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge #54 has organized a team for this year's Relay For Life event. The team fundraiser is "Flush Away Cancer." A toilet has been decorated with flowers and it will be used as a lawn ornament. For a minimum donation of $5 to the Relay For Life, the "ornament" is placed on the lawn of a Wayne resident. That resident then must make a minimum donation of $5 to have the "ornament" removed. The resident also has the option of making an additional minimum donation of $5 to have the "ornament" moved to someone else's lawn. Wayne residents can also purchase "toilet insurance" for $5 to insure the toilet is not placed in their yard. If you would like to purchase "toilet insurance" or make a donation, call 402-841-9495.

Hospital Week being observed

Before hospitals build healthy communities, they build trust. That's the message organizers are touting with the 2007 National Hospital Week theme "Care You Count On, People You Trust."

The theme is the centerpiece of a promotional campaign aimed at uniting health care facilities across the nation during the May 6-12 celebration.

"National Hospital Week, first and foremost, is a celebration of people," said Marcie Thomas, administrator of Providence Medical Center in Wayne. "We're extremely proud of each member of our staff and we recognize the important role they play in extending a sense of trust to our patients and our communities."

National Hospital Week dates back to 1921 and is the nation's largest health care event. The celebration was launched in Chicago.

Wriedt, member of Wayne Volunteer Fire Department, speaks to local Rotarians

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Ron Wriedt of Wayne, a volunteer fireman in Wayne for 27 years, was guest speaker at a Wayne Rotary Club meeting recently. He noted being a fireman, he is on call 24/7, 365 days a year but it is one of the most rewarding experiences of his life. Wriedt is one of 41 volunteers on the department - (there are 38 men and three females).

"During Fire Prevention Week each year, long-time firemen Art Barker and Bill Kugler bring out the fire gear and talk to children who come to the fire station," Wriedt said. "The kids light up and it's that attitude that keeps me going."

Wriedt noted being a fireman is not a cheap endeavor. He bought his coat, helmet, boots, gloves and pants of his gear in 1984 and it cost $1,700, which he adds got him into trouble with his wife, Sandra, because he told her the department bought it. Pants and coats only now go for $2,400 - $2,500. Besides being on the fire department, Wriedt is also part of the Wayne Rescue unit along with 13 other emergency volunteers. He adds they are trained in automobile extrication, airway management, EMT-B and he is AED certified too. Plus, Wriedt is an ambulance driver for Providence Medical Center, which is how he got involved in being an EMT.

Being a fireman can be hazardous to your health, literally. Wriedt showed Rotarians his gear which includes air packs or SCBA.

"We used to think we had to breathe in smoke during a fire in order to be a good fireman," Wriedt said. "Hence the term, 'Osmoke eater.' Now we know lung cancer is 40 times higher in firemen than the general population. Air packs are very important."

Wriedt continued, saying that air packs use composite cylinders, which are 20 pounds lighter than earlier ones. In the past, they were steel bottles. Breathing air is in the tanks, not oxygen. Oxygen would feed the fire.

"Through a $65,000 Homeland Security grant that Wayne Fire Department got a couple of years ago, the department received 28 new complete air packs and 28 complete spare bottles," Wriedt said. "That's your tax dollars at work, thank-you."

"The City of Wayne recently put out for bid a new fire truck for the fire department," Wriedt said. "We are a progressive department, but wisely spending public safety dollars. The advantage of the upgrading of truck service will be to bring six firemen to a scene instead of four. The new truck will respond to city calls. At the station, there are a combination of city and rural fire trucks stored, as we man trucks for the rural fire department too."

Wriedt added that the new truck will also have increased pump capacity. "With heavy exposure to fuel loads being an issue these days in buildings and in houses. The more manpower and water power available, the better."

A fire can get out of hand quickly. Wriedt gave an example: a fire that is wastebasket size can easily be put out with a little water or a fire extinguisher but two minutes later, the couch may be involved and

Pet registrations due for renewal

Everyone in Wayne who owns a dog or cat must make the annual trek to the Wayne City offices to renew pet registrations. The new dog tags are green and the new cat tags are purple.

To renew a pet's registration, pet owners will need to bring proof of rabies vaccination that is current until May of 2008. The status of the rabies vaccination is an issue every year because people come in to renew registrations with a rabies vaccination record that is current but will expire before the registration period. Wayne City Ordinance requires that any vaccination be current through the entire registration period. For example, if a pet owner comes in with a rabies vaccination record that expires in August of 2007, they will be asked to get a rabies booster.

For anyone who renews a pet registration between May 1 and May 31, the fee is only $5 per pet. After May 31, renewals cost $20.

Anyone who has lived in Wayne more than 30 days and has owned their dog or cat for 30 days needs to have their pet registered. Pet owners are allowed up to four dogs and/or four cats. New born dogs and cats are required to be registered as soon as they are old enough to be vaccinated for rabies. "Pet registrations are important to the City of Wayne because this process helps insure that our pet population is safe. Pet registration is important to owners as well," said Wayne Police Chief Lance Webster.

Jacobs talks about travels

Editor's note: This is the third in a series of articles written by Dean Jacobs on his world travels.

The night air before Easter Sunday was saturated with anticipation. Two months of fasting by members of the Ethiopian Orthodox Church was about to come to an end.

Blaring loud speakers perched outside the church broke the quiet space with chanting that sounded more like a call to prayer from a Mosque.

Ethiopian Orthodox Christianity dates back to the 4th century AD and has a set of beliefs that make it unique.

One of the more interesting aspects of the church is its roots with Judaism. In each church is a tabot or replica of the Ark of the Covenant. Each church has one replica of the two tablets the Ten Commandments were written on. They are unveiled only on the holiest of days.

Easter is a large celebration for the church with a mass that lasts throughout the night into early Easter morning.

Around 11 p.m. with a fellow traveler from Austria I had met earlier, we walked up a long hill that had nightclubs blasting music from their open doors (apparently the fasting ended early for some),

A Christian Orthodox church in the heart of Addis Abba. The majority of the people in the country belong to the Orthodox Church. Its influence in Ethiopia dates back to the 4th Century.

until we came to Saint George Cathedral. At the entrance of the church was a gate where a woman sat on the ground selling long, narrow, yellow candles. After purchasing a couple of candles we walked into the churchyard.

The entire area was filled with people dressed or wrapped in white cloth, most holding burning candles. A beautiful sight of burning lights penetrating darkness filled the space. Some knelt and bowed, others sat, while others curled up on the top of mats, as the chanting blared out from the speakers.

A group of young people spotted us, and waived their hands to join them on their mat. They smiled and welcomed us into their space. One of them began asking us questions in the tone of a whisper to learn about the two who looked a little out of place. They were pleased we came to learn about this special day in their religion.

It was refreshing to be inside the peaceful space. After sitting quietly, we decided an hour was enough and left the devoted to spend the night.

At the end of the service the fast is broken and the party begins. Goats, cows and chickens are slaughtered and beer is drunk, as family and friends gather to celebrate Easter.

Although the Monday after Easter Sunday isn't a holiday, many take it off to recover from the festivities.

I asked Tina Bekele, the young entrepreneur who runs the Internet cafe I frequent what Easter meant to her. She replied, "it is a happy time to spend with family and friends where we laugh and talk, and to celebrate a special day in our religion."

Receives Rebensdorf Teaching Excellence Award

Dr. Tamara Worner, associate professor of mathematics at Wayne State College, has been named as the recipient of the Rebensdorf Teaching Excellence Award from the Nebraska State College System. Dr. Worner excels in the classroom, her profession and in the community.

Each year the Nebraska State Colleges name a recipient of the George Rebensdorf Teaching Excellence Award from one of the three state colleges-Wayne State, Chadron State and Peru State. Several Wayne State College faculty members have won this statewide award over the years, including Cliff Ginn, Cornell Runestad, Russ Rasmussen, Ken Halsey, Pearl Hansen, Deborah Whitt, Jean Karlen, Mary Ettl and Jason Karsky.

In the supporting materials for her nomination for the award, it was noted that Dr. Worner has worked extensively shaping secondary math teachers in Nebraska. At Wayne State, her dedication has resulted in improved assessment standards for students taking math courses. The nominator stated, "She is not only a role model for women in mathematics, but for all educators as well."

In a letter of support for her nomination, a colleague notes Dr. Worner's involvement in the development of curriculum and her real strength, which he says in the classroom. "Dr. Worner is a very gifted and talented college professor who works diligently to help students learn."

The Wayne State College nominee for the George Rebensdorf Teaching Excellence Award also receives the State National Bank Teaching Excellence Award in the amount of $1,000. Wayne State College Vice President for Development and Executive Director of the Wayne State Foundation Phyllis Conner presented both awards to Dr. Worner at the college's baccalaureate ceremony on May 5.

NECC, Faith Regional Health Services, UNMC sign letter of intent to establish UNMC College of Nursing Northern Division

In a symbolic ceremony in Norfolk recently, officials signed a letter of intent which fulfills one of three requirements toward establishing a nursing college in Norfolk. The letter was signed by officials from Northeast Community College and Faith Regional Health Services in Norfolk, and the University of Nebraska and the University of Nebraska Medical Center.

Those participating in the ceremony were Nebraska Sen. Mike Flood, Norfolk Mayor Gordon Adams, M.D.; Madison County

Commissioners Chairman Jerry McCallum; Northeast Community College President Bill Path, Ph.D.; University of Nebraska President James B. Milliken; Faith Regional Health Services Chief Executive Officer Robert L. Driewer; UNMC Chancellor Harold M. Maurer, M.D.; Northeast Community College Chairperson, Board of Governors, Don Oelsigle, Ph.D.; University of Nebraska Regent Charles Hassebrook; Faith Regional Health Services President, Board of Directors, Steffan Lacey, M.D.; UNMC

College of Nursing Dean Virginia Tilden, D.N.Sc.; and Avera-St. Anthony's Hospital (O'Neill) President and CEO Ron Cork.

Officials say the proposed UNMC College of Nursing Northern Division in Norfolk, which would offer bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees in nursing, could reduce the significant nursing workforce shortage in the region, which has a growing demand for health services, especially in acute care. In support for the division, the area has favorable population demographics, which show growth and a strong economy. A local program also would mean retaining students/community members upon graduation.

In January, the University of Nebraska Board of Regents adopted a resolution, which required three binding agreements before the board could give its approval to the establishment of a division -- the letter of intent, a joint operating agreement and an academic affiliation agreement. The Letter of Intent has also been approved by Northeast's Board of Governors and Faith Regional's Board of Directors.

In March, the Regents approved the letter of intent which satisfies the first of three conditions for the proposed nursing division. The letter spells out guidelines for the partnership, including governance and authority, financial commitments, curricula, clinical training, student quotas and research and clinical practice. Two requirements remain -- a joint operating agreement and an academic affiliation agreement -- both expected to be completed in 2008.

A proposed new facility, which would be funded with public and private sources, would be constructed to house Northeast Community College's licensed practical nursing and associate degree nursing program and UNMC's programs. Initially, the division would need to recruit 10 faculty and an assistant dean. Once the program reached its capacity of students, an additional five faculty would be needed for a total of 15 full-time faculty. Projected costs of a 35,000-square-foot facility are $10.8 million.

A UNMC College of Nursing division in Norfolk would mark the first baccalaureate nursing and graduate degree program in northeast Nebraska. The division would be the only publicly-supported nursing college in the area offering the degrees, which would allow students to attain the degrees at an affordable cost. The division would be led by Dr. Tilden.

Norfolk area students are looking forward to an opportunity to access higher nursing degrees in Norfolk.

The proposed Norfolk division was prompted by an inquiry in April 2006 from Sen. Flood to help address the growing demand for acute care in north and northeast Nebraska, and the associated need to increase the number of nurses with bachelor's and graduate degrees. Last October, Milliken asked the regents to review and make recommendations of a feasibility study for the proposed division. The study was presented to the regents last November.

Once fully operational, the nursing division could admit 48 students each year to its bachelor's degree in nursing program, 10 to 20 in its master's degree in nursing program, and some doctoral students.

UNMC officials say the first class of students graduating from the new division could boost the workforce in the region by about 13 percent.

Currently, UNMC has divisions in four Nebraska cities: Omaha, Lincoln, Kearney and Scottsbluff.

Three public hearings are held at Planning Commission meeting

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

The Wayne Planning Commission met in regular session Monday night. On the agenda were three public hearings: • a request for a variance - subdivision section 74-142 and section 74-143. Applicants are Dennis and Carolyn Linster and Linda Young; • use by exception request - section 90-394 (6) - applicant, Paul Lindner; • re-plot of the Kardell Industrial Park - applicant, city of Wayne. (The planning commission makes recommendations to the city council. There will be public hearings on these requests at upcoming city council meetings).

In Linsters and Young's request, they would like to re-plot the eastern part of the undeveloped Muh's acres development. They want to remove the platted but not yet developed road that separates the eastern side of the property. There is a dead end on Highview drive that stops between lots 5 and 7 of the western part of Muh's acres that is developed.

By vacating the existing plat and redefining a new plat, a cul-de-sac will be developed at the end of Highview drive. This would give a better area for turning around for snow plows and emergency vehicles. Creating a cul-de-sac would be outside the maximum distance of city code and would also be outside the maximum block distance, therefore to continue, the variances are required.

Wayne City Inspector/planner George Ellyson noted he hasn't received any calls for or against the variance. Commissioners Darrell Miller made a motion to recommend to the city council to accept the variance, Pat Melena seconded that motion and the request passed.

In Lindner's request, Wayne City Planner George Ellyson, noted he feels the use is consistent with the zoning language but yet a tattoo business is not specifically identified as a use by exception or a conditional use. (White Dragon Tattoo & Piercing plans to be located at 215 Main Street; Lindner owns the building).

Lindner said he called tattoo businesses in Columbus, Norfolk and Sioux City and found they were in B-2 districts (actually C-2 but the parameters were the same). He feels there would be no precedence set by doing this and that we need to be active in bringing new businesses to Wayne as it helps with the growth of the city.

Ken Allsman, owner of White Dragon Tattoo & Piercing in Columbus, noted he has had his business there for 11 years and also has one in Hastings. He added they follow state regulations, which has many rules. One of the rules is, no tattoos to underaged (no one under 18 years old without their parents and a signed release). Allsman continued with they run a clean business and have a shop license. In Columbus, their clientele comes from 200 miles around (including this area) and it would be a bonus to Wayne as it would bring commerce to the community.

Commissioner Mark Ahmann noted he was informed there is a petition circulating against allowing a tattooing business in town, so is led to believe there is one. He wondered what the procedure is for the Planning Commission if that is brought before them.

Ellyson said city zoning allows every legal business be provided a place to have that business, and this is a legal business. He added that commissioners make decisions and weigh public input, but no one has called. If commissioners choose not to allow the business on main street, then it's their responsibility to provide a place.

Lindner noted massage therapy is not identified in the zoning language but those businesses didn't have to go through this procedure.

Commissioner Vicki Pick noted privacy is a concern if on main street. Allsman said there will be a lobby as you come in the door. Bill Dickey, president of First National Bank located nearby, said he is concerned with the image if located on Main Street. He agrees businesses are needed but have to be careful not to set a precedence. Allsman answered by saying the stigma that used to be attached to tattoos is changing as many people from all walks of life have them.

Commissioner Melena made a motion to recommend to city council to approve Lindner's use by exception request and Commissioner Bill Kranz second the motion.

In the public hearing on the re-plot of the Kardell Industrial Park, Ellyson noted on the original plat, there was uncertainty where three monitoring wells (required by state) for lot #5, where old landfill is, would be placed. Once the wells were dug, a well was located on lot #2, which Great Dane is interested in purchasing. Great Dane officials don't want the well located on lot #2 or within 50 feet of there and it won't be but the re-platting is necessary to accommodate the wells. Pick made a motion to send recommendation to city council for approval on the re-platting (both preliminary and final plats), Miller seconded the motion.

The next meeting of the Wayne Planning Commission is set for Monday, June 4 at 7 p.m. in the Wayne city council chambers.

more heavy duty equipment is needed. Two more minutes and the room is on fire and then two more minutes and the whole house is in flames.

Wriedt prides the Wayne Volunteer Firemen with an average break from the station time of three and a half minutes to a fire; tops, five minutes in corporate limits of Wayne response time.

"We get about 30 to 40 calls per year in Wayne," Wriedt said. "When I joined the department, there were well over 70 calls per year. Our being pro-active in fire prevention has helped such as the education involved in the Junior Fire Patrol program."

Wayne Fire Department tries to stay on the cutting edge. A new piece of equipment the local firemen have is a thermal-imaging camera. They were able to recently purchase this camera partially through a $4,000 grant from the Lions Club of Wisner from the sale of pickle cards sold at Wayne East and also through fundraisers they had. Normally, the thermal-imaging camera sells for $14,000 but they got a deal on it through a federal government contract where too many were made and the price dropped to $7,500 each.

The thermal imaging camera has a small television camera that works on infrared. Firemen can read differences in temperatures; colder objects are darker and hotter objects are white. With the camera they have a better chance at finding people in a smoky environment.

Wayne Fire Department was the first department in Northeast Nebraska to have a jaws of life, which the local Lions Club helped fund.

Wayne firemen receive hours of training each year. One conference they attend is the State Fire School in Grand Island. The recommended number of hours of training for firemen in Nebraska each year is 12

Meeting dates could change

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

Future meetings of the Wayne City Council will be held on the first and third Tuesday of each month, following preliminary action taken at Tuesday's meeting of the council.

At the council's last meeting, discussion was held on moving the meeting time back to the 7:30 p.m. time slot. However, that vote failed and council members suggested moving the date of the meeting to help alleviate conflicts by several council members.

After discussion at Tuesday's meeting, the council voted to draft the ordinance necessary to change the meeting dates. The ordinance will be brought to the council at its next meeting.

Also receiving considerable debate at the meeting was retaining Kirkham Michael to do a "Value Engineering Review" of Olsson's Associates' Wastewater Treatment Facility Plan.

At issue was whether other options were available, and if the costs presented by Olsson Associates were accurate. A number of other questions were presented by council members and City Administrator Lowell Johnson.

Council member Verdel Lutt said he didn't like the idea of "second guessing. We have the questions we need."

Following discussion, the council voted 5-2 to move forward with the second opinion. Council members Lutt and Doug Sturm voted against.

Several resolutions were passed in regard to roofing projects on city buildings.

The first, Resolution 2007-42, approves the specifications for re-roofing and insulating the middle building and north garage of the power plant. The funding for this project has been in the city's budget for several years.

The second, Resolution 2007-43, approves specifications for re-shingling the roof of the Library/Senior Center.

City Administrator Johnson explained the work he has done in attempt to find leaks in the roof and what needs to be done. He estimates the cost of this project to be $45,000. Of this, approximately $27,000 is left from the auditorium renovation project.

Approval was given to cost share the paving of the alley on the west side of the new First National Bank building and the east side of Casey's.

Council members discussed the width of the alley and the depth of the concrete. It is estimated the cost of this project to be $25,000.

Council members postponed any action on increasing the city's liability insurance coverage to $5 million.

The cost for the additional coverage would be approximately $19,000 per year.

Acting as a Community Development Agency, the council voted to grant a 60 day extension of the purchase option agreement between Great Dane and the Community Development Agency. The additional time will allow the city time to complete a survey of the property.

Two applications for Wayne Revolving Loan Funds were approved at Tuesday's meeting.

The first, for $100,000, came from Ken Jorgensen. It will be used for the purchase of an existing business, refurbishing some areas of the building and purchasing additional equipment.

All the necessary documents for the loan have been completed and Jorgensen told the council he wants "to be a fixture in the community again."

The second request for funds came from Dave Braun, doing business as Udder Delights.

Braun told the council that additional financing was needed to finish the project, due to several unforeseen expenses he incurred.

In other action, the council appointed Robert Woehler as the new fire chief for the Wayne Volunteer Fire Department. He served as fire chief for several years in the past and replaces Brenf Doring, who has served as chief this past year.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, May 29 at 5:30 p.m.

Benefit successful

Over 1,000 people attended a breakfast benefit for Dustin Soden held at the Wayne National Guard Armory on May 6. The proceeds will be used to help defray medical expenses. There were matching funds by Thrivent Financial. Above, Dustin and his wife, Kellie, greet the many people who attended the event.

Wayne Mayor gives presentation on waste water treatment plant

Lois Shelton, mayor of Wayne, was a recent speaker at Wayne Rotary Club. She spoke on the waste water treatment plant in Wayne, stating that when she started as mayor in 1983, her goal was to move the treatment facility out of town but that hasn't happened.

Most treatment facilities have a life of 20 years. In Wayne, the current treatment process is not capable of controlling the ammonia levels to the NDEQ standards. Near capacity levels go through the plant. There's around 600,000 - 700,000 gallons at peak; the system is geared to a maximum capacity of 850,000. Ninety-five percent of the treated water goes back into the Logan Creek each day. The rest is used to pump sludge into the lagoon.

"As for the lagoon or 'Lake Wayne,' there are 26 acres of land tied up and as for the smell, that is generated from the sludge," Shelton said. "Not as much space is needed as what they have tied up into it but that's what was set up years ago. She said to treat the wastewater, there are rotating disks where organisms grow to help with the break-down process. The rotating disks break down with some frequency due to their age. Aerated tanks are a simpler, easier process and better to maintain."

There are several issues to consider in either leaving the present process in place or moving the treatment center out of town. One problem is the lift stations; the plant sits higher than some places in town or in some cases on the other side of the hill. This requires a dependable source of power or a back up available so people don't get back up into their basements.

Also, a large area is served, including Country Club Road, which has to be pumped back into town. If the treatment plant was located out of town, it would gravity flow which then they would be able to do away with some of the high maintenance lift stations. But, in order to move the treatment plant out of town, an extra $6 million is required. If it did go out of town, only 5-10 acres would be needed which they're looking at several locations: east of Wayne; south of Northeast Equipment; a portion of Kardell property that the city already owns or by the Freese property. Also, if they went out of town with the treatment plant, they would look into drying the sludge and land applying it. Bagging it for sale to get rid of it is another option (dried sludge doesn't smell). That is how it is done in Norfolk.

Another way to use the treated water rather than just dump it into the creek is to pump the 'grey' water' to Wayne State College and water lawns and also to possibly water the softball complex, etc. Shelton said Wayne State has $500,000 available for this project from a grant but need $1 million more.

It was noted that any land application located near a water way has to be watched closely so leaching doesn't enter the waterway.

Shelton said that no matter what is decided, bonds will be used to pay for the project and they must do something soon. In fact, construction is set for next spring (2008). She added that with aerating tanks, the life span for the equipment is double (40 years) unless EPA comes up with changes. Shelton noted a committee is looking into the waste water treatment situation and will bring the issue before the city council who will decide what to do.

As far as 'Lake Wayne' goes, Shelton said, they will probably have to keep it no matter what is decided because it is so expensive to put it back to its original state. Extra water will probably have to be pumped in just to maintain it.

"The Wastewater Committee continues to explore options to make this the best project we can afford," Shelton said.

Homebuyer's education class offered

If you are interested in purchasing your first home or thinking about buying a home in the near future, plan to attend the "Homebuyer's Education Workshop" which is sponsored by the Wayne Community Housing Development Corporation.

household and covers the cost of materials and attendees receive a certificate upon completion.

Experts in the field of real estate, lending, title and escrow, credit counseling, insurance and fire safety will be in attendance to give presentations and answer any questions you may have.

Class size is limited so pre-registration is encouraged. Call Della Pries at 375-5266 for more information or for registration forms.

Wayne State softball team finishes improved season

The Wayne State softball team wrapped up the season last weekend with a fourth-place finish at the Northern Sun conference softball tournament in Marshall, Minn.

The team ended the season with a 23-22 record under first-year head coach Krista Unger.

The record marked an 18-game win improvement from last season's 10-34 mark.

Highlights from the tournament include:

May 4 games

The squad went 1-1 on the opening day of the tournament on May 4.

The Wildcats dropped a 2-1 decision to MSU Moorhead in the first round and bounced back with a 1-0 win over Bemidji State in the day's second game to stay alive in the double-elimination tournament.

Two first inning runs held up for MSU Moorhead as the Dragons held off the Wildcats 2-1 in the opener.

MSUM scored two runs on three hits in the first inning to grab the early lead.

Wayne State scored in the fifth inning when Kiley Peterson crossed home plate on a wild pitch. Caitlin Rowland, who had the potential game-tying run, was on third base with just one out, but Dawn Spale fouled out to the catcher and Valerie Robinson struck out to end the inning.

WSC put the tying run on in the seventh inning when Peterson singled and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Rowland with two outs.

But Amy Sandstrom grounded out to first to end the game as the Dragons hung on for a 2-1 win.

Both teams finished with five hits in the game.

Robinson was 2 for 3 with a pair of singles to lead WSC in hitting.

Sandstrom, Peterson and Rowland also had hits for the Wildcats.

Peterson suffered the pitching loss, allowing two runs on two hits in the first inning.

Karen Hain worked six strong innings of relief, allowing just three hits with eight strikeouts.

The second game saw Wayne State muster just two hits off Bemidji State starter Allison Wilford, but it was enough as the Wildcats posted a 1-0 win over the Beavers to stay alive in the tournament.

The lone run of the game was scored by Wayne State in the second inning when Bre Parks walked, advanced to second on a passed ball, and scored on Peterson's single up the middle.

The only other hit for WSC was a fifth inning single by Rowland.

Hain picked up the pitching win, tossing a complete game five-hit shutout with seven strikeouts.

May 5 games

The season came to an end on May 5 after a 7-1 loss to Winona State to finish the tourney in fourth place.

The Wildcats started the day with a 6-2 win over Concordia-St. Paul to eliminate the Golden Bears.

In the first game, WSC used a five-run fifth inning to rally from a 2-0 deficit.

Sandstrom's bases-loaded double with two outs keyed the big fifth inning for the Wildcats.

Stacy Shonka added an RBI double in the five-run inning for Wayne State.

CSP had a 7-5 advantage in hits over the Wildcats.

Sandstrom and Shonka doubled for Wayne State, while Robinson, Parks and Sara Salmen each singled for the Wildcats.

Hain was the winning pitcher for Wayne State as she worked a complete game and allowed two runs on seven hits with two walks and two strikeouts.

The second game saw Winona State take control early with a five-run second inning en route to the 7-1 win.

Winona State had 14 hits to Wayne State's four.

The Wildcats' lone run came in the third inning when Peterson and Rowland each singled with Peterson scoring on a sacrifice fly by Stacy Shonka.

Peterson, Rowland, Shonka and Cassandra Ward each recorded singles for Wayne State's hits.

Hain (16-13) suffered the pitching loss and allowed six runs (two earned) on seven hits in 1 2/3 innings.

Peterson pitched well in relief and allowed just one run on seven hits over the final four one-third innings.

Senior WSC players honored

Seniors Kristen Humphries and Karen Hain represented WSC on the 2007 All Northern Sun Conference Softball Team announced at the 2007 NSIC Tournament Banquet Awards Dinner held on May 4 in Marshall, Minn.

The time is here to get that garden planted to ensure a bountiful crop at summers end. Before turning over that first spade of dirt, always prepare your body for the strenuous activity that lies ahead. It is important to warm up your body by doing upper body, lower body and back stretching. Begin first with your arms and shoulders. Clasp your elbow with the opposite hand and pulling it across your chest and hold the stretch. Next warm up your legs, get two chairs that are of the same height and place them 1-2 feet apart. Sit on the chair and place one leg up on the other chair and lean your upper body forward until you feel a stretch. To stretch your back, begin by placing your hands on the top of your hips then lean backwards looking up at the sky without bending your knees. In the same position with the hands on your hips, side bend to each side and hold this stretch. Hold the stretches for the back 5-10 seconds, and all the other stretches for 15-20 seconds.

Siouxland Community Blood Bank kicks off Heroes Unite, It's About Life donor recruitment campaign

The Siouxland Community Blood Bank has kicked off their seventh annual donor recruitment campaign, Heroes Unite, It's About Life. This campaign highlights the importance of blood donors ensuring a dependable blood supply is available for patients when needed.

Wayne will be holding their next community blood drive on Thursday, May 24 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Fire Department.

The Heroes Unite, It's About Life campaign runs May 1 to Sept. 30, during which the blood bank will be conducting blood drives in over 100 communities in the tri-state area. Community support and participation is key to the success of this program, as the fire, rescue and police units in town are working hand in hand with area blood donors to help save lives.

The top three communities with the highest percentage of blood donors registering to donate in comparison to the combined size of their fire, police and rescue squads combined will win a sponsored donation towards community fire and rescue equipment. Cash awards for Heroes Unite, It's About Life are provided through corporate sponsorship from Cargill Inc., Prestige Collision Repair and McClintock Insurance.

"As a patient that has used many units of blood products to survive an injury, I saw first hand how important volunteer blood donors were to my survival," said Doug Campbell, a Sioux City resident that looked to heroes to save his life. "I relied on trained professionals in the fire, rescue and police units, but I also needed to rely on my fellow citizens donating blood out of the goodness of their heart. Without everyone's dedication and diligent effort, I would not be here today."

To be eligible to donate blood individuals must be at least 17 years of age; however there is no upper age limit as long as the donor is in good health. In addition donors need to weigh at least 110 pounds and have not donated whole blood in the past 56 days. A photo I.D. is required at the time of registration.

For more information about "Heroes Unite, It's About Life", the Siouxland Community Blood Bank or blood drives in your area, call 712-252-4208 or 800-798-4208 or visit their website at www.siouxlandbloodbank.org

ALLEN BOOK CLUB

Allen Book Club sponsored a fun Ladies Night Out on May 1 at the Fire Hall. Forty-five ladies enjoyed the social hour, book sale and salad buffet. The event raised $200 for new gym bleachers and $75 for book club projects. Norma Smith entertained the ladies with her Minnie Pearl imitation, and included a poem about the trials of trying to climb to the top of the bleachers and down again.

Gloria Oberg, Linda McDonald, Lou Ann Burcham, and Kathy Boswell presented the skit, "Kids Say the Darndest Things." Mary Lou Koester won a free book coupon for having the most children perform in the gym while attending Allen School. Other prize winners included ViAnn Stange for best recitation with "The Owl and the Pussycat" and Jo Ann Mae Quinn with the shortest birth certificate name.

Allen Book Club will meet May 16 at 2 p.m. at the Allen Fire hall with five-minute book report presentations: Punch and pretzels will be served. Books for June discussion will be The Last Town on Earth and Memory Keepers Daughter.

ALLEN TREE USA

Allen has been named Tree City USA Community by the National Arbor Day Foundation to honor its commitment to community forestry. Allen has received this national recognition for 14 years. Allen has met the four standards to become a Tree City USA community: a tree board, a tree care ordinance, a comprehensive community forest program, and an Arbor Day observance which was held on April 24, 2007. Tree board chairman, Marcia Rastede, announced to attendees of Allen's recognition. She then reviewed what had been done in 2006 and what is being planned for 2007.

Students have already cleaned up the outdoors Commons and gazebo area and planted flowers in both areas as part of Earth Day activities. She also reviewed the Re-Tree Nebraska cooperative initiative to raise public awareness of the decline in Nebraska's trees due to pine wilt and emerald ash borer. This program wants Nebraskans to plant one million new trees in the next decade.

Following, everyone participated in a questionnaire of "tree information" in Allen. Among the questions asked were the number of trees in the Historical Tree Grove and when it was begun. (34, 1991), sponsors of the Nature Grove and when it was begun (Village of Allen, Pheasants Forever, and Allen Consolidated School, 1995) and how many trees are on the school property (17). Winners of the prizes were Raquel Grimaldo and Joy Bock. The program concluded by handing out planting instructions to those who are planning on planting some trees this spring.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL

Community Vacation Bible School will be held June 10 - June 14 from 5:30 p.m. - 9 p.m. at the Commons Area at the Allen school.

The event is open to all children preschool through sixth grade. A light supper will be served at 5:30 p.m. each evening for those wishing to join in (cost for the meal is $1 per night). Sessions begin at 5:45 p.m. Pre-registration is requested. Students are asked to pay a registration fee of $10 to help cover the cost of lesson materials/craft supplies (multi student discounts are available - talk to Pastor Karen or Sara). Cash donations and adult volunteers are needed - please talk to Pastor Karen.

DRIVER'S ED

Mr. Wiseman from the Emerson Public Schools will be Allen's Summer Driver's Education Instructor. The 24 hours of classroom instruction will be the week of May 21, 2007 and should be completed by June 1, 2007. The six hour driving labs for each student will begin in the month of June.

ALLEN BOOK CLUB

The Allen Book Club selected two books for discussion in May: The Memory Keeper's Daughter and The Last Town on Earth. The next meeting will be Wednesday, May 16 in the Deanna Stark home. An instructional book about chickens, Who You Callin' Chicken by Thea Feldman, was donated to the Dixon County Farm Bureau Learning Barn which will be used to teach lower elementary school children about agriculture.

Locals attend Kentucky Derby

Though the sport of horse racing has taken a proverbial back seat in the eyes of America, it still shines on select Saturday's every Spring. Last Saturday the annual Kentucky Derby was held with all the pomp and circumstance that goes with it. In fact this year the event was headlined by the appearance of Queen Elizabeth along with Wayne's own Bob Jordan and Bill Kinney along with wives Jodi and Ann (I'll bet my own $2 wager that neither of these two fine gentlemen ever thought they'd be mentioned in the same sentence with Queen Elizabeth). At any rate, speaking of street-sense and maybe a little common sense, Swede Fredrickson got wind that Bill Kinney would be attending and asked his son-in-law if he'd be so kind as to put a $2 wager on horse number seven to win. Swede apparently thought number seven was a lucky number and he felt his luck might be doubled since his wife Shirley has a pair of sevens in her age. (I promised: I wouldn't tell her age literally in print).

For Pete's Sake
By: Kevin Peterson

Those that follow the sport at all know what happened next. Street Sense, the number seven horse, came from the 19th position at the half-way point of the race to win. Wow, is Swede a genius or what? And how about that $2 win ticket—payoff was a whopping $24. Sounds like a night out to me. Congrats to Swede, Shirley and to Bob and Bill for getting to go to this American classic. Both of these gentlemen attended with the White Horse Brigade of Sioux City's Shriners Club. This particular horse brigade was honored by being a part of the Kentucky Derby parade.

Speaking of great running, how about former Wayne High standout runner Todd Fuelberth. The now 33-year-old placed fifth overall in last weekend's Lincoln Marathon. The son of John and Anita Fuelberth ran the 26-plus mile marathon in an astounding time of two hours, 37 minutes and 44 seconds. I'm not sure I could clock that time in my golf cart. Congratulations to Todd.

Most of you all know our co-mingling editor Clara Osten. Those that don't know her, just need to know she's pretty much a stickler for the rules.....all rules.

Ms. Osten has been a bit frazzled lately and most likely for good reason as daughter Emilie graduates this weekend from Wayne High School. At any rate, recently she's accomplished a pair of firsts, earning a speeding ticket and following up with a jail sentence as part of the March of Dimes fund-raiser. Hmmm, speeding and jail. Sounds like our by the book editor is doing her best impression of Paris Hilton.

A quick note to our readers: If you run across any interesting tidbits of information such as the ones mentioned in this article, let me know. I'd love to write about it so everyone can share in your uh, joy.

Execution put on hold

By Ed Howard

Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
There is at least the possibility that a precedent-setting order by the Nebraska Supreme Court could delay - maybe by a couple of years - the setting of an execution date for condemned killer Carey Dean Moore.

Moore's situation is particularly interesting for several reasons. He was scheduled to die in the electric chair May 8, after previously ordering that no more appeals be pursued on his behalf. In short, he had told the Supreme Court he wanted to get on with his own state-ordered death. His death sentence stemmed from the murders of two Omaha cab drivers, crimes to which he had confessed in detail.

On a 4-3 vote, a high court majority issued a landmark order on May 2, saying Moore's execution would be delayed pending a decision in the case of another condemned murderer, child killer Ray Mata.

The judges noted that the Mata appeal, scheduled for oral arguments in September, raises the issue of whether the electric chair represents cruel and unusual punishment.

The majority said it would be inappropriate to let Moore be executed while the possibility exists that electrocution could be declared unconstitutional via the Mata appeal.

To say the decision was stunning would be a pitiful understatement.

The Supreme Court acted upon "its own motion" to delay Moore's execution, meaning no appeal on his behalf was before it. The 4-3 majority simply decided that it should not have previously scheduled Moore's execution, because it was so close to hearing what it obviously regards as crucial arguments in the Mata case.

Chief Justice Mike Heavican, writing for the dissenters, responded with what would be summed up in this corner as: "That's ridiculous! It's a ridiculous stretch of our judicial power; there is no precedent for it and no justification. What the heck are you doing?"

Where does all this leave the Moore case?

Oral arguments in Mata's appeal are set for September. Give the high court at least a month or two to rule on it.

If Mata loses, he could begin his appeals in the federal courts. That process could take years.

The crucial question:

Did the May 2nd order mean that the majority would not set another execution date for Moore until the Mata case has completely run its course through the appeals process?

If such is the case, Moore's possible execution could be years off, as is that of Mata.

Courts have previously rejected arguments that the electric chair represents cruel and unusual punishment, and is therefore unconstitutional.

The majority of the Nebraska court seems to have said there is a chance that such a challenge could succeed in the near future.

Nothing like this has ever happened in Nebraska, and it probably hasn't happened anywhere else.

Important: There was one erroneous story from the AP which suggested that the court's decision had something to do with a letter it received from Senator Ernie Chambers. Chambers said Moore's execution should be delayed because the state Department of Corrections didn't follow proper procedure in establishing a new protocol for the execution process. It had to do with how much electricity is applied to the condemned man, and for how long.

The court's order gave no indication whatsoever that Chambers' letter influenced its decision. It didn't even mention the protocol in its order.

Could the judges decide independently to look at that issue, too? Yes - but it did not, not, not indicate it planned to do such a thing.

There were immediate howls that the high court ignored "the will of the people" in delaying Moore's execution.

Remember: No court is supposed to make any decision based on popular opinion. To the contrary, the job of the judiciary is to make decisions based on its reading and understanding of the law.

Throughout the nation's history, our courts have interpreted the meanings of statutes and whether they are in line with rights guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States. The courts have reversed and revised their views over the centuries - sometimes to cheers, and sometimes to the jeers, of millions.

Main Street Focus

Congratulations to all the young people graduating from high schools this week throughout northeast Nebraska. Main Street Wayne wishes you the best in your future endeavors.

WSC had an impressive indoor graduation last Saturday and Main Street Wayne sends their wishes for successful careers to all the graduate and under-graduate graduates. Kudos also go out to the WSC softball and baseball teams. The baseball team won the Northern Sun Conference regular season championship and will attempt to gain another post-season playoff championship. The softball team had a fabulous turn around and winning season.

Congratulations also go out to the Wayne Community Clothing Store committee for their fine work. They have been incorporated and are about to take their next step. They held a kick-off reception Monday evening for the merchants in the 200 and 300 blocks of Main Street to explain the progress they have made and to tell what is in store for the future. The law does not permit them to advertise but they can tell their story face-to-face. As a result they will be setting up in the Main Street office on Thursday evenings from 5 to 7 p.m. If you are interested, you are asked to join them at this time and to have your questions ready. At the meeting Monday evening there seemed to be support for the project and a general feeling that the group is headed in the right direction in developing economic stability for the downtown area and all of Wayne.

Several Wednesdays ago the Nebraska Lied Main Street officials were in town to conduct a community meeting and to conduct a brain storming session to develop a "Vision Statement for Wayne 2015." A the session we were divided in to four groups and we were asked to answer questions on the strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, challenges to Wayne, why downtown is important, what qualities or characteristics Wayne will have in the future, how will buildings and public spaces be used, who will our customers be, what will be our goods and services, what would attract people to Wayne, what will downtown Wayne be known for in the year 2015 and what benefits you anticipate achieving in your vision?

After each question, the groups were asked to list what they thought were the top three answers in their group to each question. These were listed on a screen and discussed by the total group. When all the questions were gone through, the Nebraska Lied Main Street officials took these ideas and formulated draft 1 of the Wayne Visioning Statement. These were presented the next day at a noon luncheon meeting and the visioning statement was refined and updated. Draft 2 is now available on the Nebraska Lied Main Street web site and suggestions are being accepted before the final draft will be made. In fact, all the Nebraska communities involved in the Lied Main Street Program with Vision Statements have their Vision Statement posted there.

Suggestions for nominations to the Main Street Board for 2008 are now being accepted. Remember that to serve on the Board, one has to be a paid up WAEDI member and be conscious to the fact that a major time commitment in leadership and attending meetings is required. Names can be submitted to Irene at the WAEDI office.

Much of the paper work for the application for the Historical Designation of Downtown Wayne is completed and in the final stages of being prepared for the Nebraska Historical Society. Final arrangements are being made for Henoween and Chicken Days. New for Henoween will be a Friday Flee Market from 8 a.m. to mid-afternoon. Farmers will begin Saturday, June 9 from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the area west of the old Fire Hall in downtown Wayne.

Letters

Thank you, Wayne
Dear Editor,

On May 1, a team of the University of Nebraska Medical Center's senior leaders and I visited Wayne as part of a two-day, six-city visit across northeast Nebraska. The trip also included stops in Norfolk, West Point, South Sioux City, Macy and Winnebago. During the two days, we spoke at several community events and toured health facilities.

My team and I offer a heartfelt "thank you" to the Wayne community for being a strong partner with UNMC for many years. On our recent visit, we enjoyed meeting with Dr. Richard Collings, president of Wayne State College, and some of the college's top faculty and administrators.

Since we started the Rural Health Opportunities Program (RHOP) in 1989, Wayne State College and Chadron State College have been providing us with some of their best students interested in pursuing a career in the health professions. Many of these students have returned to practice in rural communities after they complete their educational training at UNMC. We look forward to continuing this pipeline of students back to rural Nebraska in the years to come.

Our trip to Northeast Nebraska helped reaffirm our commitment to Nebraska and the people we serve. This year's trip marked the fourth consecutive year UNMC's leadership team has made a regional road trip in the state, and we plan to continue this tradition in the years to come. As the state's only public academic health science center, we take great pride in saying that UNMC has a 500-mile campus with a presence in more than 130 communities across the state.

We thank the local health professionals in Wayne - many of whom are our alumni - who provide their expertise and facilities to insure that UNMC students and resident physicians receive the hands-on training they need in their chosen health professions. In addition to the RHOP program, UNMC is currently working hard to establish a new nursing division in Norfolk. If successful, the nursing college could play a vital role in keeping more students in Northeast Nebraska after they complete their education.

UNMC has witnessed tremendous success in education, research and patient care. All Nebraskans can share in the pride of helping us as we seek to achieve our vision of becoming a world-class academic health science center. We at UNMC salute you.

Harold M. Maurer, M.D.,

Thanks for Elderfest

Dear Editor,
Many, many thanks are due to the Wayne community for another Elderfest. I'm totally in awe when I think of all the planning and work that went into producing this full day of enjoyment.

Not only were there all the dedicated people from Providence and the Oaks who were involved from the very beginning, but there were all the vendors, all the donors, all the entertainers, all the volunteers, all of whom gave generously of their time, talents, and energy. The day was a real tribute to a truly caring community.

THANK YOU!

Marie George,
Dixon

Appreciated Elderfest

Dear Editor,
Another year of Elderfest activities showed the talent and hard work of an excellent committee and the generosity of businesses in individuals in providing the food and drink and wonderful prizes.

What a showcase of the many, many services and shopping and fun opportunities which are available in our area.

Please don't forget to thank them all and also remember to shop in our stores. They show us their support - we need to show them our appreciation.

A big thank you from all the area 'elders.'

Lester and Donna Hansen,
Wayne

Try to become a positive parent

If you have any time to spend learning something this year, you might want to try "positive parenting." It might help you with the most important job you'll ever have.

Positive parenting doesn't necessarily mean what you think. "It's not heaping praise on your child or rewarding all behavior," says Charmaine Ciardi, a family therapist and author based in Bethesda, Md. "Instead, it is looking at childhood as a time of learning for kids and parents and dealing with difficulties in a child's challenging behavior may indicate easily addressed concerns," a point Ciardi, a mother of seven, including four foster children-makes in her books "Living With Little Kids" and "Living With the Big Kids."

"Look at their environment: sleep, food, medical, school, friends, or video games-what is there that needs fixing?"

"Parenting is not instinctive," agrees Kathleen Olson, who for 34 years as family relations educator of the University of Minnesota Extension Services has helped generations of parents change their approach. The website she helped establish at www.parenting.umn.edu is a great do-it-yourself guide to sticky subjects such as discipline and communication.

Both Ciardi and Minnesota educator Olson say that reinforcing the small, good things your child does every day can build a self-confident child and stronger parent-child relationships. For every correction or punitive statement, try to recognize two good things the child has done. "Catch them in the act of being good," says Ciardi. "Wink at them, smile, tell them, 'I saw you being kind,' or 'I saw you being funny.'" And acknowledge specific actions rather than generalities about how special, smart, or pretty a child is. "When my daughter was young, I would catch myself saying, 'Oh, you're such a good girl,'" says Olson. "It made her a lot happier when I learned to say, 'I like the way you braided your pigtails.'"

Ruth Vonderohe

Brad Sachs, a family psychologist in Columbia, Md., and author of "The Good Enough Child," agrees. "I always say praise is like penicillin," says the father of three teenagers. "It's great in proper doses, but too much can be damaging." Praise can remind kids that they're always being evaluated and judged, notes Sachs, even when the praise is positive. "It exhausts them."

Being a positive parent does not mean always doing the right thing and always getting the right response back from our kids. "None of us has to be perfect," says Ciardi, a consolation to imperfect parents everywhere. "If we adjust our expectations, that in itself has a very positive effect."

Getting better in your job as a parent will never get you a raise or a promotion, but children who are happy could stay closer to you over the years. And that is a pretty good pension.

This story appears in the Dec. 25, 2006 print edition of U.S. News & World Report.

The Wayne-Dixon County Chapter of Thrivent Financial for Lutherans held their fourth monthly meeting on May 2 at Tacos & More. A business meeting was conducted by the three board members attending. New members were accepted into membership. Some planning was done for the Chapter's Annual meeting with more info to come. Nominations are needed for several chapter offices for next year.

For the January meeting, President Art Greve, and Financial Director Sue Olson, attended a Chapter Leader Retreat that was held in Norfolk. They reported to the chapter the information that was presented.

Thrivent funds requested have been Wayne & Wakefield Boys Scout Troop for a spaghetti feed fundraiser; Winside Girl Scout Troop had a spaghetti fundraiser; Wayne Volunteer Firemen Dept. Pancake fundraiser; Two medical fundraisers of pancake/omelet with bake sale, and a Breakfast Brunch, bake sale, raffle, a silent auction, and live auction. ### Women of the ELCA hold annual Northeast Conference Spring Gathering

The Women of the ELCA recently held their annual Northeast Conference Spring Gathering on April 28 at the newly remodeled historical site of Salem Lutheran Church in Wakefield with 122 registered participants.

The meeting opened with a devotion by Phyllis Rahn, Spring Gathering coordinator. She introduced the theme for the day, "I Am A Woman of Faith" and the Bible verse from Philippians, 4:13. Unit President Mae Greve of Salem Lutheran also welcomed the group with a finger prayer presentation.

A short business meeting followed and an election was held with 2007 planning committee being Phyllis Rahn of Our Savior, Wayne; Janice Roeber of St. Luke, Emerson; Marilyn Leonard of St. Mark's, Pender; Mae Greve of Salem, Wakefield; Lyla Swanson, Concordia, Concord and Shirley Kehne, Zion, Creighton. The outgoing board members were Judy Stahlecker, Our Savior; Spencer and Diane Frerichs, Immanuel, Coleridge. Nominating committee for 2007 will be Carole Norby of Trinity, Hartington; Lorraine Marvin of St. Mark's, Bloomfield; Sandy Boots of Grace in West Point and Mae Greve of Salem in Wakefield. Messages were heard from the State President Beth Meyer and State Treasurer JoAnn Rohrs. A skit by 12 women was presented in celebration of Saved to Serve's 10 years of mission. During the offering, Mollie Ludwig accompanied by Mardell Holm, presented two solo bell selections.

Following the meeting, the participants chose two out of four presenters to attend a session, Presenters for the day were Sue Stover, AIM and Rev. Karen Tjarks; Rev. Gretchen Ritola, who shared their Faith Journey and the NSWO officers gave one session where they shared the tools needed to successfully carry out the duties of these offices.

Following lunch served by Chefs on the Go, there was a sing-a-long led by Molly Ludwig and Mardell Holm. Following the sing-a-long, the women experienced a very colorful presentation by Alice Dietz portraying Fanny Crosby, a blind Christian poet of the 1800s. Several songs were sung that were her poetry set to music.

Diane Kelly, Director of Nebraska Campus Ministry, brought greetings as 100 years of this ministry is celebrated. Julia Shear of Wayne's Campus Ministry thanked the women for the tangible offering through a very colorful presentation.

Bishop David deFreese was greeted as he lead in the study based on Philippians 4:13, "I Have Strength for Anything Through Christ Who Gives Me Power." Following the Bishop, the officers were installed by President Beth Meyer and it was announced that the next Spring Gathering will be at St. Mark's in Pender. # FPU classes are beginning in Wayne at Calvary Bible Evangelical Free

Financial Peace University (FPU), the 13-week program taught by Dave Ramsey, has helped more than 300,000 families positively change their financial future. This life-changing program teaches families and individuals how to handle their money through common-sense principles and small group accountability. FPU is available for churches, companies, military bases, financial literacy programs, Spanish speaking organizations and community groups.

FPU classes are beginning in Wayne at Calvary Bible Evangelical Free, beginning Thursday, May 24 at 7 p.m. Contact Kim Halle at (402)375-1328 or khalles@esu1.org for more information or to register.

As they work on a total money makeover, the average family pays off $5,300 in debt and saves $2,700 in the first 91 days after beginning FPU and is completely out of debt, except for the mortgage, in 18 to 24 months.

"We've actually relieved ourselves of over $50,000 worth of debt in two years just from using these principles," said Russ Lee, former FPU participant.

Dave Ramsey began teaching FPU classes in 1994 every night around Nashville, Tennessee. In 1997, FPU was made available on video across the country with thousands of classes around the nation today.

The program is made up of 13 life-changing lessons taught by Dave in a fun and entertaining way. "I like to put the cookies on the shelf where everyone can reach them," says Ramsey. After each lesson the group meets to help each other plan budgets, discuss successes and temptations, and support each other in their journey to beat debt and build wealth. Topics covered include: Saving for emergencies, Budgeting, Relationship and money issues, Buying big bargains, Getting out of debt, Understanding investments, Understanding insurance, Retirement and college planning, Buyer beware, Real estate mortgages, Careers and extra jobs.

Each class participant needs a kit. Special rates are routinely available online at www.daveramsey.com or by calling 888-227-3223. Included in the cost of the kit is a lifetime family membership to FPU, allowing the participant to return to any class at anytime for a refresher course. The kit also includes an FPU workbook, an FPU envelope system, 13 audio lessons, bonus CD, budgeting forms, debit card holders, and Ramsey's best-selling book - Financial Peace.

"FPU classes are changing lives across the country every day," says Louis Falzetti, executive vice president of Financial Peace University. "There is something for everyone in this program whether you are barely making ends meet, just trying to plan for retirement, or seeking to build wealth. No matter what your financial situation, you will find FPU to be the best motivational tool available across the nation to help you attain financial peace."

Dave Ramsey is a personal money management expert, an extremely popular national radio personality and best-selling author of The Total Money Makeover. In his latest book, a follow-up of his enormously successful New York Times best-sellers Financial Peace and More Than Enough, Ramsey exemplifies his life's work of teaching others how to be financially responsible, so they can acquire enough wealth to take care of loved ones, live prosperously into old age, and give generously to others.

Ramsey knows first-hand what financial peace means in his own life - living a true riches to rags to riches story. By age 26 he had established a four-million-dollar real estate portfolio, only to lose it by age 30. He has since rebuilt his financial life and now devotes himself full-time to helping ordinary people understand the forces behind their financial distress and how to set things right - financially, emotionally and spiritually.

National banner project traveling nation-wide

Seventeen families of Nebraska's fallen servicemen and women will be united at the American Heroes Tribute community-wide event at the National Guard Armory in Chadron on May 19 at 2 p.m.

American Heroes Tribute is a non-profit, non-political organization dedicated to honoring and remembering the servicemen and women who have given their lives in Afghanistan and Iraq. Though it can not change the fact that these heroes have passed, they are remembered for giving the ultimate sacrifice for their country.

The event will include families of the fallen, various military members, guest speakers including Sen. LeRoy Louden, Gen. Roger Lempke, Pat Mracek, Bob and Chris Wolf, parent of heroes Sgt. Cory Mracek and SPC James Wolf. There will be special music by local musicians.

Large nine feet tall by three feet wide banners of the 17 heroes will be seen flying from light poles in front of the armory. These banners will fly from May 16 until May 30. Each banner displays a picture of the hero, name, rank, branch of service and a piece from their family. Banners will then travel state-wide and nation-wide and be displayed at a multitude of events in cities across the nation for many years.

NECC student attends college with assistance from ETV

Ask Northeast Community College freshman Teresa Johnson-Fisher what her preferred method of transportation is and she will probably tell you it's a horse.

An avid equestrian, she owns three horses. Some day soon, she hopes to bring those horses to college with her.

The Grand Island Senior High School graduate is receiving help with her education costs through the Education Training Voucher (ETV) program administered by the Central Plains Center for Services in Broken Bow. The program, in partnership with the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services, assists wards of the state 17 or older, but not yet 21, with educational expenses including tuition and fees, books, and supplies. Students enrolled in the ETV program on their 21st birthday can receive assistance until they turn 23 as long as they remain in a post-secondary education or training program.

Students can be enrolled in two-year community colleges, four-year colleges or universities, vocational-technical schools or specialized, non-profit trade schools. Qualifying youth can receive up to $5,000 per year for educational expenses. Some 200 students in Nebraska are currently being served with ETV grants.

Johnson-Fisher was raised by two grandparents, Bill and Marie Johnson, now in their 80's, in North Loup. She was a ward of the State of Nebraska for two years, graduated from high school at 16, and is now completing her freshman year at Northeast Community College in Norfolk at 17. She plans to attend Northeast for three years and major in agribusiness, animal science and diversified ag.

She is among seven Northeast Community College students receiving assistance with college expenses from the ETV. The program began helping students in 2004.

"I doubt very much if I could go to college without help from the ETV," Johnson-Fisher said. "My grandparents live on social security and can't help me." She also said she gets financial assistance with a Pell Grant.

Johnson-Fisher and Michele Taylor, youth education specialist with Central Plains Center for Services, have phone contact once a month and get together once a year to discuss academic progress and other concerns the student might have.

She recently told Taylor about an upcoming competition in Hutchinson, Kan., that she would be attending with other Northeast Community College students. Northeast students returned from the North American Colleges and Teachers of Agriculture Judging Contest with Sweepstakes honors and Fisher's equestrian team placed second in Performance, third in Halter Judging, and third Overall.

About 400 students from 23 two-year colleges and 15 four-year colleges from 18 states participated in the event.

The Northeast freshman said she enjoys just about everything at Northeast Community College. She is active in the Diversified Ag Club and, as a member, helped with the State Dairy Judging Contest and a tractor pull sponsored by the Club. Following an eight-credit-hour summer coop internship at Central Valley Ag in Brunswick, she will return to campus in the fall and plans to become active in the Northeast Rodeo Club. Her preferred events are barrel racing and break-away roping.

For more information about the Education Training Voucher (ETV) program, call the Central Plains Center for Services in Broken Bow, (308) 872-6176.

Lincoln's Robert Lichtenberg receives Wayne State Award

Wayne State College presented the Alumni Achievement Award to Robert Lichtenberg at the college's baccalaureate ceremony May 5. The award recognizes outstanding contributions in their careers and their communities by Wayne State alumni.

Lichtenberg graduated with a B.A. in physics and mathematics from Wayne State College in 1969. He and his wife, Linda, own Lincoln Machine in Lincoln. Mr. Lichtenberg is a member of the Board of Trustees for the Wayne State Foundation.

After graduation from Wayne State, he taught at Wheeler Central High School for two years. He then moved to Ames, Iowa, where in 1974 he earned his master's degree in science in metallurgy from Iowa State University. He continued graduate work and research at the Ames Lab for the Atomic Energy Commission before moving to Valley to work for the Bank of Valley.

Lichtenberg left Valley Bank in 1980 as president to take a position as head of engineering with Brumko Magnetics in Elkhorn, where he eventually served as vice president of operations. In 1984, he accepted a position with IBM in Omaha in the company's sales division specializing in engineering and scientific products. He returned to Brumko in 1987 as general manager. The company grew to about 150 employees in Elkhorn and its Tijuana, Mexico, facility grew to about 300 employees.

Lichtenberg and a partner purchased Lincoln Machine in 1991. In 1995, he and his partner dissolved their partnership and Lichtenberg and his wife became the sole owners of the company. The business provides tooling, fixtures, and production parts for manufacturers and designs and builds automated manufacturing equipment.

Phyllis Conner, Vice President for Development and Executive Director of the Wayne State Foundation, presented the award on behalf of the foundation.

Department of Revenue plans sales tax class, contractor seminar at Northeast

The Nebraska Department of Revenue will host two seminars at Northeast Community College in Norfolk in May.

The first workshop, Nebraska Sales and Use Tax Seminar and Microenterprise Tax Credit, with course number BUS 0126-01, will meet on Monday, May 21, from 8:30 a.m. until noon in the Lifelong Learning Center.

This class is designed for those who find sales tax confusing and difficult to keep up with because of law changes. The facilitator of this class from the Nebraska Department of Revenue will explain sales and use tax in plain and simple language to class participants.

Participants will also learn about the new program under the Nebraska Advantage Act that provides refundable income tax credits specifically for individuals involved in Microenterprises. This seminar will explain who is qualified for this credit.

Other discussion will include why one should collect sales tax; who and what is exempt from sales and use tax, and what to do when you make a tax-free sale. Those in attendance will also learn how to complete their sales and use tax return, when delivery charges are taxable, and what use tax is and when one might owe it.

The second seminar, Nebraska Contractor Seminar, with course number BUS 0106-06, meets Monday, May 21, from 1-4:30 p.m. in the Lifelong Learning Center.

A presenter from the Nebraska Department of Revenue will explain the contractor law changes in plain and simple language during this seminar. Participants will also learn how to properly remit sales and use tax; when building materials may be purchased tax free; how to document tax-free purchases of building materials, the proper forms to use when doing a tax-exempt job, and how to properly avoid Nebraska tax when doing a job in another state.

Cost of each of these half-day seminars is $10.

To register, call Northeast Community College at (402) 844-7000.

Nebraska Legislature keeps Big Farmer busy

The Big Farmer has a new favorite television station, and that would be the Nebraska Legislature! Of course, thanks to the term limit law, there are lots of new faces there.

One would be Dave Pankonin, from Cass county, our former district. Dave is a third generation owner of the largest International dealership in Nebraska and we think he is one good guy. He replaces a long term senator, Roger Wehrlein, who also happens to be a "good guy." He hasn't had much to say yet, but when he does, he says it well.

Then there is "Cap" Dierks, a veterinarian from Ewing who was a charter member of Mike's fraternity in Ag college. Cap has been here before, and always offered a kind, conservative viewpoint. He was defeated a few years ago, but is back this term.

And, of course, the speaker is Mike Flood from Norfolk. I worked with Mike's mother at the hospital, she's a nurse; and his dad is the trust officer at Elkhorn Valley Bank. Mike has been interested in politics since he was a kid, and we expect him to be governor some day. He's the youngest speaker ever and we have been impressed with the way he conducts himself.

There is a physician from Lexington, Joel Johnson, who has that down home appearance and voice that you equate with a good old family doctor.

And, then, of course, there is Ernie. He announced the other night that he owns the legislature and that's why they call it the legislative chambers. Plus, the voters of the state have chosen to "emasculate" this body just to get rid of him. I'm afraid he's probably right. Giving the devil his due, he's smart, has an unbelievable memory and attention to detail, and can be gracious when he sees he is being voted down.

But, oh, my, the oratory he can spew! Frequently, I hear him droning on and on, and then the mute button gets hit. Last Thursday night, they did not recess until midnight. I have a problem with arrogance and this guy is loaded with it.

We have a great niece who is a page and sometimes, we see her walk across the chamber. There have been lots of fourth grade classes visiting the past month, and they are usually introduced. It's all very formal, and very polite, with lots of "thank you, Mr. speaker" and "thank you, senator so and so."

Frankly, as they debate taxes and schools and water bills and all the other features of government, I'm glad it's them and not me. You have to give them credit for actually campaigning for the job, which doesn't pay worth a hoot, and then trying to make a difference for the folks in their districts. And, also frankly, it still usually boils down to the metro area and the rest of the state. I don't know what we can do about that, as representation, of course, is by population. But it does get mighty frustrating at times.

It does keep the Big Farmer occupied and that's a good thing! He is even beginning to notice, and to comment, on the choices of ties, which are quite the fashion show. This, too, is a good thing; for someone who has limited choices himself.

Northeast Nebraska Development Network announces a renewable energy educational seminar series

Renewable energy, including wind and bio-diesel, will have a no-fee educational seminar series this summer sponsored by Northeast Nebraska Development Network, an organization of economic development professionals working in Northeast Nebraska.

The July 17 event will focus on solar and wind energy opportunities and will occur in Pilger. The morning session, beginning at 10 a.m. will outline happenings in Nebraska and will discuss wind rights and commercial developments. Lunch will be available for purchase. The afternoon session will be held at the farm of Dave Tobias where a 10 KW wind turbine has been operational since fall, 2005. A number of demonstrations and hands-on workshops are planned. An optional tour of an off-grid farm in Lyons or a methane digester will be conducted late-afternoon following the activities at the Pilger farm.

An Aug. 21 event will have a session focused on bio-diesel and biomass to be held in Scribner. The morning session, beginning at 10 a.m., will be a discussion outlining technology and oilseeds for bio-diesel. Lunch will be available for purchase. Workshops and demonstrations for oilseed crushing, crude oil refining and bio-diesel production are planned for the afternoon. A tour of the new commercial bio-diesel facility in Scribner will be included for those who pre-register.

Those wishing to get involved or to display at the July or August sessions should contact Robert Byrnes at 402-685-4333 or Wisner Community Development at 402-529-3338.

On Sept. 13, Northeast Community College in Norfolk will host a series of seminars focusing on the technology of ethanol production and the impacts on those surrounding the industry, from jobs to agriculture.

A no-fee pre-registration is requested for the events but all are welcome to attend all sessions. If the afternoon tours fill up, then only pre-registered persons will be able to go on the tours.

The atmosphere will be for education of all perspectives regarding these renewable energy topics. You can get more information at this series as Northeast Nebraska focuses on renewable resources.

The idea for the series came for a need to have a look at all aspects of renewable energy, including speakers with hands-on tours of renewable energy installations happening in the northeast Nebraska area. All are invited, especially farmers, economic development organizations, schools and city and county officials.

For more information or to register, contact Wisner Community Development, PO Box 852, Wisner, NE 68791 or send an email to WisEcDev@gpcom.net.

Is it rose replacement time?

If you have a rose that was ripped pretty hard by the freeze, early to mid May is the time to assess damage and prune out damaged wood.

By now, you should be seeing new growth on roses. You should also be able to see how much of the cane, or stem, is dead as it will appear dark brown or black and be brittle when scraped with your thumbnail. In early to mid May, remove the dead wood by pruning just above a bud or leaf on healthy green wood. Don't worry about the shape of your rose for this year, just yet, give it until June 1. If there is no new growth by June 1, it's time to remove and replace the rose. Roses that were killed may have actually been winter killed prior to the freeze, or they may have been roses that were on the borderline of hardiness for our area and were more severely damaged by the freeze.

If new sprouts are coming from the base, check to see where the new growth is coming from. If the new growth is from the root area, it probably is the rooting stock that is trying to survive. Those sprouts are not what is wanted and the rose will need to be replaced. Modern tea roses are grafted onto rooting stock to help the roses survive and the new growth from the root will not be something that is wanted.

There are many different types of roses to choose from if new replacement roses are needed. Hybrid Teas and Grandifloras are those that produce a single rose on a stem and flower several times during the season. These require fertilization during the year to remain robust. Floribundas are lower growing and provide a lot of blooms, during the year. Rambler roses are used as ground covers, climbing roses are used for arbors and trellis, Rugosa roses for shrubs rows or screening and old fashioned roses for lower maintenance areas.

Decide on your level of maintenance and amount of time available to provide proper care of the rose before one invests in the type of rose best suited for you.

SENIOR CENTER

Eighteen members and two guests attended the monthly potluck meeting at the Concord/Dixon Senior Center. The guests were Deb Scholten and Ruth Beckman from Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department. There was one birthday and no anniversaries.

Scholten gave a program on the public health system and preparing for the pandemic flu and other health emergencies.

The business meeting was opened by Roy Stohler and reports were accepted. A nomination committee was asked to serve again - Betty Bothwell and Velma Dennis. The current treasurer is resigning so a new one was needed.

It was suggested that the group attend an evening meal at one of the other senior centers in the area. Also suggested was taking a tour to Ponca and visiting the senior center there, as well as the Ponca Museum and the interpretive center.

Upcoming events were discussed including the May 23 evening meal at Wayne. The suggested donation was $5.30. May 17 is the dinner at the Gardner Center in Wakefield. Linda Wells from the NE Area Agency on Aging will do a food presentation at the June 1 meeting.

Dennis has a quilt ready to tie. She bought the batting and backing. It was suggested to auction it off or have a raffle sale in connection with coffee and pie day.

Northeast Nebraska Master Gardeners sponsored the 2007 Plant Fair held at NECC.

Plant Fair successful

Around 600 to 700 people attended the 2007 Plant Fair at Northeast Community College in Norfolk. The event was sponsored by Northeast Nebraska Master Gardeners. This was their 16th annual plant fair.

Anyone interested in becoming a Master Gardener can visit <http://unl.edu/mastergardener/> for information on the group. The group meets monthly, the second Saturday of each month, except June, July, and August. During summer, they try to take tours or do other gardening activities. Their monthly meetings usually consist of a short business meeting and then a speaker, which usually counts as part of our educational training.

A year ago, the tour was to the Wichita Flower and Garden Show (which was a March tour that year) and the year prior they went to Des Moines and did a variety of activities. They have toured Prairie Pedlar in Odebolt Iowa, Lauritzen Gardens and Boys Town prayer garden in Omaha, Jan Riggenbach's garden in Iowa, Faller Landscape in York and Todd's father's garden - (Todd Faller's father used to manage the Earl May in Columbus).

The May 12 monthly meeting will be a plant exchange and plant fair wrap up. There will also be a plant exchange at their September meeting.

Everyone is welcome to attend a meeting and they can call Deb Daehnke at 402-375-1694, if they have questions.

J. Paul McIntosh has challenged members of the Nebraska Ethanol Producers to raise at least $100,000 for a permanent scholarship endowment for students enrolled in the new ethanol training program at NECC. McIntosh pledged to add an additional $50,000 if the Nebraska Producers raise a minimum of $100,000 in honor of the late Gary Kuester of Stanton, a pioneer in the ethanol industry.

The challenge was issued at a reception last week hosted by the Nebraska Ethanol Producers and honoring Nebraska state senators. In his remarks, McIntosh said a truly free society, with a sense of spiritual and moral responsibility, creates a climate for progress. He also said the entrepreneur has been the catalyst for almost all that progress.

"Look around here tonight," McIntosh said. "The health, the wealth, the clothes, the technology, even the food was not available to the richest potentate or king 200 years ago. It was because of a small group of hungry, entrepreneurial capitalists like Henry Ford, Thomas Edison, Bill Gates, and hundreds of others that we drive cars instead of carts, flip switches instead of lighting candles, and use cell phones instead of drums. We have progressed more in the last 100 years than in the preceding 100,000 years, all because of a bunch of dreamers, entrepreneurs, and risk-takers.

"The late Gary Kuester was one of those risk-taking ethanol missionaries. Although Gary was never boiled in oil like some missionaries," McIntosh said, "he put up with a lot of criticism and skepticism. But like hundreds before him, Gary never wavered," he said. "Nothing is done single handedly, of course, but it is probably safe to say that Husker Ag of Plainview would not have happened without Gary Kuester."

"Because of the success of Husker Ag and other pioneering plants, a lot more ethanol plants are going up and Northeast Community College is heading up an ethanol training program for Nebraska," he said.

McIntosh said he issued the challenge as he felt the Gary Kuester Memorial Scholarship was a fitting tribute to Kuester's promotion of the ethanol industry. He also noted that Kuester built the pilot plant that will be used for ethanol training at Northeast Community College.

"I am challenging you, the ethanol producers of Nebraska," McIntosh said, "to raise $100,000 to encourage young men and women to be trained for this dynamic, home-grown and green industry. If you do, the McIntosh family will add $50,000 to create a permanent endowment of $150,000 to insure that no one is denied the opportunity of ethanol training because they don't have enough money to go to school."

"You see, I believe that education is the Great Equalizer today," McIntosh concluded. "Back in the Wild West, the Colt 45 was the 'Equalizer,' but today you can help your industry even as you equalize the education playing field for future entrepreneurs."

Following McIntosh's remarks, Husker Ag LLC, with Seth Harder as general manager, answered McIntosh's challenge with a donation of $50,000. Harder is a graduate of Northeast Community College.

Northeast's ethanol training will include a dual-credit program for high school students, a two-year associate of applied science degree for ethanol production and management (which could be applied to a bachelor's degree from a four-year college), and several short-term training courses for current ethanol employees.

For more information on the Gary Kuester Memorial Scholarship, contact Angie McLean, director of development, at (402) 844-7056.

NECC, Nebraska Safety Council to co-sponsor classes

Northeast Community College in Norfolk and the Nebraska Safety Council will co-sponsor two half-day safety seminars in May.

The first, Safety Committee Training, meets Thursday, May 24 from 8-11:30 a.m., in the Lifelong Learning Center on the Northeast campus in Norfolk.

In this workshop, participants will learn that, according to Nebraska Law, LB 757, every public and private employer is subject to the Nebraska Workers' Compensation Act and needs to establish a safety committee.

This training is designed for safety managers, safety committee members, human resource professionals and staff, facility managers, and anyone wanting to improve the function of his or her company's safety committee.

During this seminar, participants will learn how safety committees can be a valuable resource in promoting employee safety and reducing employee injury.

The other half-day seminar,

Preventing Slips, Trips and Falls, is set for the same day, Thursday, May 24 from 12:30-4:30 p.m. in the same location.

This program tackles a major risk for all companies by helping to identify, evaluate and control workplace hazards that cause or contribute to slips, trips and falls. This course is intended for business owners, employers, managers, supervisors, employees, and/or representatives responsible for workplace safety but have limited safety and/or training experience.

Cost of each half-day seminar is $75 for Nebraska Safety Council members and $89 for non-members.

To register, call the Nebraska Safety Council at (888)704-7233, Ext. 108, or register online at www.nesafetycouncil.org
