Krugmans share experience of mission trip to Honduras

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

Recent speakers at Wayne Rotary Club were Kallie Krugman and her father, Dr. Robert Krugman, both of Pilger. Kallie is a third year dental student at the University of Nebraska Medical Center. The Krugmans spoke of their recent week-long trip to Honduras with LaCima World Missions, where Kallie and Robert, a group of fellow dental students and a few dentists went to improve the quality of oral health for some Hondurans.

LaCima World Missions is a Christian group that is run by Dr. David Sparrow DDS of Lexington, Kentucky, who saw a great need in Honduras years ago because so many children there become sick and die from tooth decay and infection. La Cima World missions branched off, as a strictly dental mission trip, from Hearts to Honduras which was a mission for more medical than dental. Dr. Sparrow's passion, when starting La Cima, was to ignite a hunger in young dental students to go to Honduras to reach out to those who are truly in need of dental treatment.

While there, Dr. Krugman helped with sterilization practices, which is very important as many in that country have HIV. He also held hands and calmed the nerves of many of the patients. One patient ended up with a dislocated jaw and Dr. Krugman was able to put it back into place. The team of dentists spent hours bent over their patients so Dr. Krugman's chiropractic abilities came in handy too.

Kallie said one boy they worked on was very sick before they pulled his tooth and drained infection. After operating on him, 30 minutes later, he was better. Without their help, he probably would have died in a couple of days.

MySpace has agreed to continue searching its site for registered sex offenders and to give Nebraska information about all offenders, including their e-mail and IP addresses.

On May 14, a working group of attorneys general from 52 states and territories, including Nebraska, sent a letter to MySpace demanding that the company turn over information about sex offenders. MySpace has confirmed that Sentinel Tech Holdings identified thousands of registered sex offenders as members of the site. Though MySpace deleted these users from its site, it has preserved information about them.

The working group, formed in May of 2006, encourages social networking sites to do a better job protecting children from threats such as sexual predators and inappropriate content. Since the group's inception, MySpace has begun screening profiles for inappropriate content and making certain profiles private.

Pet registrations due by May 31 The dispatchers at the Wayne

Police Department are beginning their second round of personal phone calls to pet owners who have yet to register their dogs or cats.

Records show there are still over 300 people who haven't renewed their pet registrations yet and time to renew at $5 is running out. Beginning June 1, the registration fee goes up to $20.

To register a dog or cat, owners need to come to the Wayne Police Department, 306 Pearl Street and speak to the on duty dispatcher. They will complete all needed paperwork and issue the pets' new tag. Pet owners must bring proof of rabies vaccination that is valid through May 1, 2008.

The Police Department is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

National Wildlife Federation praises introduction of biofuels bill

The National Wildlife Federation recently applauded introduction of an innovative bill in the U.S. Senate by Senators John Thune (R-SD) and Ben Nelson (D-NE) to help farmers switch to growing a new generation of biofuel crops. The Biofuels Innovation Program would enroll up to five million acres of land to promote the sustainable production of next generation biomass energy.

"Biofuels represent a big part of our energy future, and this bill represents a groundbreaking new direction," says Larry Schweiger, President and CEO of the National Wildlife Federation. "Native grasses, trees, and other plants have the potential to double energy yields per acre, with just a fraction of the energy needed to produce cornbased ethanol. As these new technologies come on line, they will be key to our future clean energy production. The use of these fuels will also help stem global warming by decreasing greenhouse gas emissions and storing carbon.'

Nelson for their vision and commitment to moving our nation towards a new energy future that will benefit both wildlife and farmers," says Schweiger.

The Biofuels Innovation Program would provide financial and technical assistance to landowners to produce native perennial energy crops and crop mixes in a manner that protects the nation's soil, air, water and wildlife. The growing of these dedicated energy crops would help support the development or expansion of facilities that use the material for biofuels, electricity, heat, or biobased products. The goal is to enact the bill under the energy title of the Farm Bill of 2007.

"Farmers, hunters, and anglers will reap the benefits of this program," says Julie Sibbing, National Wildlife Federation Senior Director for Agriculture Policy. "Our native grasses which are so important to wildlife have gram provides an important incentransportation costs. Most experts tive to plant mixes of natives that can do double duty for energy and wildlife while lessening our dependence on foreign oil."

The Biofuels Innovation Program would support a wide variety of feedstocks and technologies. In the true spirit of innovation, while the bill would support production of switchgrass for ethanol, it would also support jojoba for biodiesel, mixed prairie grasses for gasification to generate electricity, trees or grasses for "cogeneration" of electricity, and other alternative energies. The bill has cost-share incentives for farmers to assist with storage, transportation, harvest and delivery of dedicated feedstocks as well as agriculture and forestry wastes. There are also hunters and anglers and energy incentives to remove exotic species for use as energy.

The legislation is designed to address this issue by requiring groups of landowners to come together to apply for funding as a project, rather than as individual landowners.

> "To avoid the worst impacts of global warming, we need to use energy more efficiently, and use clean energy technologies," says Kurt Zwally, National Wildlife Federation Global Warming Solutions Manager. "The Biofuels Innovation Program provides an incentive to grow our energy future in a way that provides multiple benefits for farmers, wildlife, users. It's a win-win-win plan."

Local hairdresser marks 50 years in profession

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

Reaching a milestone, Mitch

Nissen of Mr. Mitchell's Styling Salon in Wayne, is celebrating 50 years in the hairstyling business.

Nissen graduated from Wayne Prep School in 1954 and started his hairdressing career in 1956 by attending Eden's Hairstyling School in Grand Island. He was a pioneer in his profession because at that time, he noted, there were maybe half a dozen male hairdressers in the state.

In February, 1957, he earned, Niemann-Marcus of the plains. first place in the state convention student contest. He received his license, April, 1957 and went to Lincoln. During this time, Reese-Sybil also opened their beauty school. Nissen worked part time in the salon as a hairdresser and also in the school as an instructor.

"There were a lot of politics at that time in opening a beauty school," Nissen said. "When they finally were approved, they knocked a hole in the wall of the salon and built into the next buildbest in the state. Reese won national awards and was on the official hair fashion committee.

Nissen was always interested in make up and in the summer of 1957, attended Comer & Doran School in Hollywood for advanced training.

In 1960, Nissen was drafted into the Army. He took his basic training in Kansas at Ft. Riley and also in Kentucky at Ft. Knox. The remainder of the time he was at Ft. Hood, Texas. He was released from active duty in 1962.

In 1963, he returned to Reese-Sybil's beauty school in Lincoln and taught again. Later, he worked at the Hovland-Swanson Beauty Salon. He noted that salon was the

The school was considered the year and then went to the east coast with intentions to be a color technician for Wella Corporation. He wasn't happy with the job so didn't take it and came back to Wayne where he worked for Beulah Jones in her salon that was by the post office.

Jones had asked Nissen to take "I drove to California in my '53; care of her shop while she took time off to go to the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota and also to tour Canada. "The WACs had bouffant hairdos and their hats were pinned in on top and I thought I would be way behind when I went back to work," Nissen said. "But, I learned how to put in rollers and how to backcomb and it wasn't as difficult as I thought it would be."

About the same time, there was a period when wearing wigs was in style. Nissen noted the good wigs were made of human hair and were fairly easy to work with but the synthetic ones were awful and they both were hot for the patrons. He feels sorry for cancer patients who have to wear them.

through the line." Nissen said. Redken used protein, which had to be water soluble. I've always liked Redken because they did a lot of scientific research with amino acids, which is reflected in their product line."

Nissen added the new styling products came just in time as styles requiring blow dryers and thermal equipment were popular then.

"What has stayed the same, is that with a good foundation, it doesn't matter how the styles change, stylists can adapt," Nissen

As for retirement, Nissen said why quit something you enjoy. I've wanted to be a hairdresser since I was three-years-old. I really don't know of any profession I could have where I could have as much fun with people as I do."

Wayne State College to host Cheerleading and Dance Camps

Wayne State College will host, cheerleading and dance camps, June 12-15, for approximately 130 high school and junior high students. Instructors for camps will be provided by the Universal Dance Association (UDA) and the Universal · Cheerleaders Association (UCA). Individuals have the option to attend and stay on campus or commute to the camp. "Campers who attend, learn routines that are presented all over the country. Nebraska is right up there with schools everywhere using the most up-to-date presentations," said Frank Teach of Wayne State College.

UDA creates the majority of camp dance material at regional choreography sessions. Some routines originate from professional studios in New York and California. All the choreography is evaluated on originality, variety and complexity. Camp instructors have completed an intense training course and have been selected from select colleges, pro dance teams and studios.

UCA provides performance demonstrations and hands-on instruction. The UCA staff guides squad members through the learning process, adapting material to each squad's strengths and helping squads leave camp with their own had a story. The group worked on many people while they were there; around 45 each day and 61 on the last day. The group worked out of churches while there. The dental team was brought in to support the pastors by taking care of the people's dental needs so that hopefully they would return to that church to work on their spiritual needs. The pastors there are making a difference and the people who turn to Christianity are proud of their churches but the bars on the windows are reminders of the violence that is present.

Honduras is poverty-stricken and is full of gangs. People there, and they trusted us so much." who decide to become Christians are risking their lives because gang members hate Christians and kill, even telling the dental group of many of them. Many who join Christian groups are dead the next day. There are 215 murders a week but the conviction rate is only two and a half percent.

"The Mayan culture is of sacrifice, a mix of Christianity and Mayan ideology," Dr. Krugman said. "We take our lives for granted," Kallie said. "The Christian message is so important; there is forgiveness, a different way."

Despite the violence, there are 300 new churches in Nicaragua, Honduras and El Salvador. Kallie continued, "The people there have nothing, yet before they sat in our chairs to treat them, they took off their shoes. They are so gracious Honduras is corrupt. There are people at the airport who take notice of gadgets and money that travelers have. Later, often, hijacks occur to get those items.

Dr. Krugman noted that three years ago at a youth conference there, a van of 15 kids was pinned in by gang members who jacked up the vehicle so they could take all of their valuables. When the group Krugmans were with traveled, Dr. Sparrow stayed a few vehicles behind and always looked for an escape route. Several years ago, a missionary was driving and gang members stopped, shot and killed him with AK47s. The wife and family of the missionary stayed in Honduras and carried on his work, despite many warning them it was too dangerous.

Kallie ended by saying people there are dying in the name of Christianity, risking their lives everyday. "If they are willing to die for Christ, can't we at least live for

Dr. Krugman added that Kallie wanted to make this trip since she started dental college and it was exciting to watch her do what she has a passion to do.

Customers are top priority at Mr. Mitchell's Styling Salon

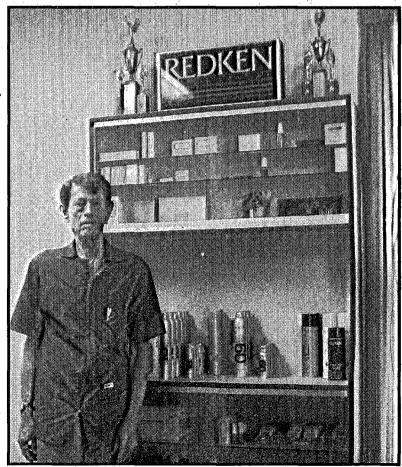

Mitch Nissen, owner of Mr. Mitchell's Styling Salon in Wayne, has been serving his customers at 313 Pearl Street for many years. His salon is open, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Nissen offers a full-line of styling services such as haircuts, shampoo-sets, blow drying, coloring including streaking and foiling, permanent waving, and more.

Nissen uses many Redken products. He also uses Zotos products. For coloring services, he uses Matrix and Wella products. "I try many products from various manufacturers and use those I like best." Nissen said.

"I have been very fortunate by being booked with all of the appointments I could accommodate," Nissen said. "I have never been particularly fast and when I opened my own salon, was determined not to overlap and keep people waiting as is done in some salons. I have always felt my patron's time is as valuable to them as mine is to me."

Anyone with a question or who is interested in making an appointment, can call Nissen 402-375-3880.

Bears claw way to state title

Laurel-Concord wins Class C championship

By David W. Carstens Of the Herald

Laurel-Concord saved its best race until the final event of the day. By the time all things were wrapped up at the 2007 State Track and Field meet in Omaha last Saturday, the Bear's boys' track team left Burke Stadium with its first state title in track and field.

LCHS won the 1,600-meter relay to propel itself to the top of the Class C field, along with Tri-County. Both teams finished the two-day meet with 53 team points to split the title.

The battle for championship bragging rights went on throughout the entire championship, which started on Friday, May 18.

Heading into the final event of the meet, the 1,600-meter relay, the Bears trailed Tri-County 52-43 in the team race and a state title seemed to daunting task.

Laurel-Concord coach Terry Beair told members of the undefeated relay team (Tony Jacobsen, Nathan Burns, Tyler Petersen and Brian Saunders) just to go out and do what they do best and try to win the event and then see what happened.

In order to secure at least a share of the championship, though, Tri-Country needed to place eighth or lower.

Good fortune was with the Bears on Saturday as two teams in the first heat finished with better times than Tri-County, which took sixth in the second heat

"We worked all year for this," Beair said after the race. "Going undefeated all year is the way to go

LCHS capped its undefeated season in the relay with a time of 3 minutes, 27.78 seconds for the Bears' only gold medal of the meet.

The Rears' team scores were holstered by Jacobsen who earned medals in four events during the meet.

On Friday, he ran the anchor leg of the Bears' second place 3,200meter relay team along with Andrew Gothier, Pat Harrington and Burns. In Saturday's events, Jacobsen finished second in the 800- and 1,600-meter runs.

Saunders earned two other medals at state as he finished second in the 400-meter dash and fourth in the 100. He also competed in the long jump.

Another LCHS boys' relay team also earned a medal on Saturday as the 400-relay squad of Justin Hart, Petersen, Colten DeLong and Michael Patefield finished in seventh place.

Harrington picked up another medal at the meet with a fifthplace finish in the 3,200-meter run. Other non-medalist Laurel-included Arik Diediker in the 110high hurdles and Josh Hart in the 100-meter dash. The Wakefield boys' team was also a solid Top 10 squad in Class C as the Trojans captured a gold medal in the 3,200-meter relay en route to seventh-place team finish with 24 points.

Concord boys' events at the meet

Joel Nixon kicked off Wakefield's 3,200-meter relay, and along with team members Ben Henderson, and brothers Eric and Tyler Bodlak, finished just ahead of LCHS in the race with a time of 8 minutes, 17,11 seconds.

The win was especially sweet for the Trojans as the squad avenged a loss to the Bears at the recent district meet in Hartington.

The victory also meant that the Trojans had successfully regained the gold medal that they captured in the event at the 2005 state meet. Laurel-Concord won the event last year.

Nixon also medaled in the 400meter dash with a fourth-place finish, while Eric Bodlak was third and Tyler Bodlak finished sixth in the 800. The Bodlaks also qualified for state in the 1,600-meter

Other non-medalist Wakefield boys' events at the meet included Henderson in the 3,200-meter run, Evan Bartels in the high jump and Ryan Klein in 300-intermediate Wayne High qualified for three events in this year's Class B meet with two individuals and one relay qualifier.

Sheldon Onderstal finished in 22nd place in the 800-meter boys' race, while freshman Jordan Alexander also finished at No. 22 in the girls' 800-meter run.

Alexander also ran the final leg in the Blue Devil 3,200-meter relay that finished in 11th place. Other relay team members were Alesha Finkey, Regan Ruhl and Maddie Jager.

"We did not run our best times of the year at state, but finished at or above where we went in so the kids competed well," Wayne coach Dale Alexander said. "We will miss the steady performances and leadership of Regan Ruhl, however, the rest of the qualifiers will be returning and we hope will be leading a larger group to state next year."

In Class D, Allen's boys' team also recorded a seventh-place team finish at state.

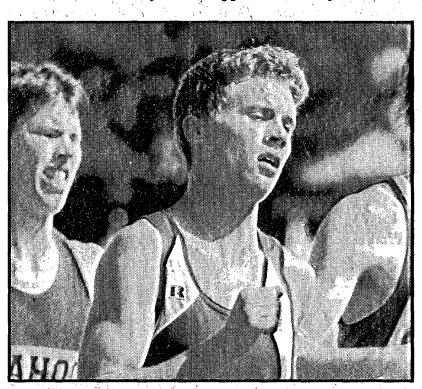

The Eagles were led by the firstplace 3,200-meter relay team of Luke Sachau, Michael Bock, Scott Wilmes and Chris Blohm who captured gold with a time of 8 minutes, 15.682 seconds.

Catbacker Tournament planned

WAYNE - The Wayne State College athletic department will be hosting the annual 2007 Catbacker Scholarship Golf Tournament on Friday, June 1 at the Wayne Country Club.

The day will begin with breakfast and registration at 8:00 a.m. followed by a welcome at 9:15 a.m. and a shotgun start at 9:30 a.m. The format for the tournament is a four-person, best-ball scramble. Lunch will be served to the teams from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

At the conclusion of the tournament, a steak dinner will be served with a program and awards to follow at 4 p.m. Prizes will be awarded to the top three teams in each flight.

The cost of the golf tournament is $110 per individual, which includes meals, refreshments, cart and green fees, and $420 for a team entry of four players. Individuals not able to participate in the golf tournament can attend the awards program for $20, which includes meals.

Registration is limited to the first 192 golfers. The application deadline is Friday, May 25.

For more information on the tournament, contact Ryun Williams at 375-7311.

Wayne Country Club to host tournament

WAYNE - The Wayne Country Club will also host the Mens' Amateur Stroke Play tournament on Sunday, May 27. The 18-hole tournament has a $35 flight player entry fee, $40 for all championship players and $30 for all country club members. The tournament is seeking players who prefer to play no slower than 15 minutes per hole or no more than four and a half hours per round of 18. For entry details, contact PGA Golf Professional Troy Harder at the golf course at 375-1152.

Youth tournament set at WCC

WAYNE - The Independent Insurance Agents of Nebraska will sponsor a qualifying tournament at the Wayne Country Club on June 5 at the Wayne Country Club starting at 9 a.m. Local qualifiers will advance to the state finals at Eldorado Hills in Norfolk on July 12-13, with winners there advancing to nationals. The tourney is open to junior golfers age 18 and under who have not started college. For additional registration information, call 375-1152.

Softball tourney plans under way

WAYNE - The Wayne Girls Softball Tournament is scheduled for Saturday-Sunday, June 2-3 at the Wayne Summer Sports Complex. Divisions include 10-under, 14-under, 16-under and 18-under in Classes B and C. Entry fee for each team is $135 and two game balls. Each team will play a minimum of three games with schedules determined by the number of entries in each division. Entry deadline is May 26. Space for each division will be limited to accommodate all play on Saturday and Sunday and entries will be registered in the order they are received. For additional information, contact Shannon Carroll at 375-2019 (home) or 369-0159 (cellular).

Wildcats

Emporia State downed third seed Wayne State 6-2 on Thursday afternoon in the opening round of the tournament.

The Wildcats were victimized by a couple of unusual plays in the first inning that set the tone early for the game as the red-hot Hornets posted their 11th win in their last 12 games.

Emporia State's Conner Crumbliss opened the game with a high chopper to WSC first baseman Marc Manganaro.

After it appeared Manganaro made the tag, first base umpire Dave Aschwege ruled that Crumbliss was safe.

The next batter, Brian Majors, reached on an error by Manganaro when he slipped on the infield making a play on Majors' bunt.

ESU's Mark McBratney then singled to right field to load the bases for the Hornets.

A single to center field by Keith Hernandez scored Crumbliss to give the Hornets a 1-0 lead, then ESU first baseman Matt Marasco grounded into a double play that brought in Majors to put Emporia State in front 2-0.

A solo home run by ESU designated hitter Nick Wolfe in the second inning gave the Hornets a 3-0 lead in the second inning.

WSC struggled early against Emporia State starter Trent Lare as the Hornet starter retired the first six Wildcats in order,

But WSC gained some momentum in the fourth and fifth innings to get back into the game.

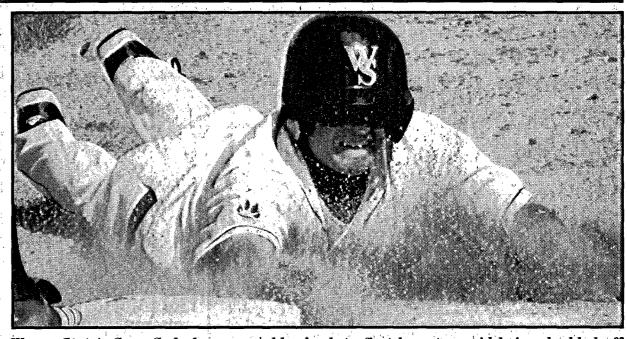

Adam Hoffman singled to left field to open the fourth inning, advanced to second on Bidroski's groundout to shortstop, and scored on Koch's RBI single down the left field line to put the 'Cats on the board, trailing 3-1 after four innings.

In the fifth inning, Sean Soderberg singled to left field, advanced to third on a failed pickoff attempt and throwing error by ESU pitcher Trent Lare, and then scored when Dustin Jones laced a single to left field, making the score

Hoffman then singled to keep the inning alive and advanced to second, with Jones moving to third, on wild pitch to put the go-ahead run in scoring position. Bidroski struck out to end the

regained momentum in the sixth up.

inning and scored three runs on four hits, chasing WSC starter Travis Mortimore, as the Hornets built a 6-2 lead.

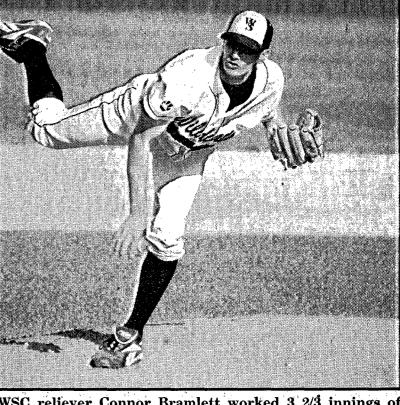

After Emporia State's Nick Wolfe struck out to open the inning, Andy Anderson singled and Tim Barger doubled to put runners at second and third.

Crumbliss laced a two-run double to right field that brought in Anderson and Barger to make the score 5-2, then McBratney's single to left-center field drove home Crumbliss to give Emporia State a 6-2 lead.

In the Wayne State bottom of the sixth, Manganaro and Koch opened the frame with singles, but were left stranded and that would be the final threat mounted by the Wildcats as Emporia State starter Trent Lare didn't allow a hit the rest of the way as the Hornets posted the 6-2 win.

We were put on our heels early in the game by a couple of misfortunate plays and that is tough to overcome," said a frustrated WSC head 'coach John' Manganaro following the game. "They (Emporia State) had just won the MIAA (Mid America Intercollegiate Athletics Association) Tournament on this field and they got the momentum early in the game and that hurt

Despite the shaky start, Manganaro was quick to point out; that Emporia State is a club playing well at the right time of the sea-State: son and that his team never gave

For Wayne State, Hoffman and Koch each went 2 for 4 with Hoffman scoring one run and Koch recording an RBI.

Dustin Jones was 1 for 4 with an RBI, while Marc Manganaro and Soderberg also recorded hits for the Wildcats.

Starter Travis Mortimore (3-6) was tagged with the pitching loss,

Elkhorn Valley Cycling part of bike race in Bellevue

The Norfolk-based Elkhorn Valley Cycling powered by Monster had two entries in the River City Shootout mountain bike race held in Bellevue on May 20.

The event was second in the Nebraska Lottery Psycowpath Series and was held at Swanson Park mountain bike trail. This event was postponed from an earlier date and drew over 135 entries from Nebraska and Iowa and was sanctioned by the National Off Road Biking Association, the mountain biking division of USA Cycling.

Wayne's Tim Powell and Norfolk's Jon Downey rode for Elkhorn Valley Cycling powered by Monster in this event. Powell, the 2006 Psycowpath Beginner 45+ champion, took fourth in the Sport Men's 45+ category. By virtue of his championship in 2006, Powell was upgraded to Sport for 2007. This can be a difficult upgrade but Powell has been placing well this year already and took third in the series opener in April.

Downey was entered in the Beginner Clydesdale (Over 200 lbs.) class. The Beginner classes are usually eventful as many divisions of men and women beginner racers are started together. The tight race course and heavy traffic make passing difficult and there are frequent crashes caused by inexperienced riders. Downey was caught up in one such crash that allowed several of his fellow racers to get by and out of sight. As the only entry in the Clydesdale division. Downey brought home first place medal but was sixth in his wave of starters and third in his age division of beginners.

Elkhorn Valley Cycling powered Monster will host Psycowpath Maskenthine Lake near Stanton on Aug. 11. The trail system at Maskenthine was built and is maintained by the club and is open to the public year around.

Goldenrod Hills Community Action's weatherization happenings are given

In the beginning of May, Pete Davis, Weatherization Chief for the Nebraska Energy Office presented Henry Goldenrod Wilfred Community Action's Weatherization Director with a Community Service award for six years of service in Weatherization. Dawn Peatrowsky, Weatherization Service Coordinator was also presented an award for five years of Goldenrod in Community Action's

Weatherization Program. The awards were presented at the Life Long Learning Center in Norfolk. The Weatherization Program has a total of four employees, the other two employees are Ron Vonderohe Weatherization Inspector and Pam Browning Weatherization Clerical Aide.

Goldenrod Hills Community Action would like to congratulate Ron Vonderohe, Weatherization Inspector, for receiving the "New Employee of the Year" Award for State of Nebraska's Weatherization Program. Pete Davis, Weatherization Chief for the Nebraska Energy Office also presented the award to Mr. Vonderohe at the Life Long Learning Center in Norfolk. Robin Snyder, Executive Director of Goldenrod Hills Community Action says "We are very proud of Ron, he is an asset to our Weatherization Program." "The award is a big honor."

The Weatherization employees have helped thousands of low income families save on energy bill by assisting them with the weatherization of their home. The Weatherization Program enables low-income families to permanently reduce their energy bills by making their homes more energy efficient. It is this country's longest running, and perhaps most successful energy efficiency program. On average, weatherization reduces heating bills by 31 percent and overall energy bills by $358 per year at current prices. This spending, in turn, spurs low-income communities toward job growth and economic development.

Weatherization services include insulation of sidewalls, attics and foundation, door replacement and repair and window repair. Weatherization services reduce yearly average costs by $218 per household. This is a savings of 25 to 30 percent. The average home receives about $2,463.10 worth of repairs. The program also provides furnace repair and replacement for homes that meet requirements. Weatherization practices may be applied to mobile homes as well as frame and masonry homes.

The following are tips on weatherizing your home yourself:

•The first step in tightening up your home is finding the air leaks that need to be sealed. Why? A 1/16th-inch unsealed crack around a window can let in as much cold air as leaving the window open three inches!

•As little narrow space at the base of your exterior door isn't a big deal? Think again! A one-quarter inch gap at the bottom of a standard door drains away as much heated or cooled interior air as a three-inch-by-three-inch hole in the wall! You certainly would act quickly to seal up a hole, so be just as quick to add weatherstripping and a threshold to that door!

•An easy way to find air leaks is to hold a tissue between two fingers and hold it over the area drafts will cause the tissue to blow around.

•Primary places outside air can come into your home: windows, plumbing penetration, doors, fans, vents, fireplace, floors, walls, ceilings, electric outlets, ducts.

•Weatherizing your home by caulking and weatherstripping can effectively reduce energy waste. In fact, the cost of caulking and weatherstripping can usually be paid back in energy savings in only one or two years. This makes weatherizing one of your, best investments in energy conserva-

•Weatherstripping The constant use of a home's exterior doors means that the weatherstripping lining installed where the door comes in contact with the doorframe wears out eventually. The entire surround of your exterior doors should have quality weather stripping so that when the door is shut, a seal forms to prevent air intrusion.

•Caulking Most caulk is sold in 10-ounce tubes. Place a tube in a caulking gun, and cut a small angled opening on the tip. While caulking keep a damp cloth to wipe the excess caulk from the cracks, rinsing frequently in warm water to have a clean wipe rag. Start at one end of the crack and continue until the void is filled.

•Only about 1 in 5 homes built before 1980 are well insulated. The fastest and most cost efficient way to reduce energy loss is to increase the volume of insulation where it is easily accessible, like crawl spaces or attics. The attic has the easiest accessibility and since heat rises, a properly insulated attic will do wonders for comfort and cost sav-

South Sioux City project supported by Legislature, approved by Governor

approved funding for a historymaking higher education collaboration in South Sioux City. The appropriation will allow Wayne State College in Wayne, a member of the Nebraska State College System (NSCS) and Northeast Community College in Norfolk to construct a college center to serve the Souixland area.

"This is a great day for our state and community. We applaud the Governor's support for this unique joint campus. This action will pave the way for better training and educational services for citizens and businesses in the Siouxland area. The funding for this campus by the unicameral, led by Senator Pat Engel and Speaker Mike Flood, was instrumental in moving this phenomenal project forward," Mayor of South Sioux City Bob Giese said.

The new center was approved by the Nebraska State College System Board of Trustees and the Northeast Community College Board of Governors in February 2005. The Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education then recommended approval of the center in December

"It is obvious to me that Governor Heineman shares our vision for an innovative joint venture in South Sioux City," Northeast President Dr. Bill Path said. "He knows, as we do, that it will pay great dividends in a bettereducated constituency in northeast Nebraska, and at the same time, this combination of resources will save money. Rather than two institutions building two separate, competing facilities, this joint facility will become a model for other educational institutions seeking to expend their services."

When the center opens, placebound students will be able to take their freshman and sophomore courses from Northeast and then take junior and senior or graduate courses from Wayne State College all in the same facility. The facility is scheduled to open by the fall of "The counties in and around South Sioux City have the fastest growing populations in the state. We wanted to build a new college center to provide extensive educational and cultural benefits to individuals in this area. This joint project is just another example of how our colleges - both community colleges and the Nebraska State College System - can work together for the benefit of the state," NSCS Chancellor Stan Carpenter

The 44,520-square-foot center will be built on 57 acres of land donated by the South Sioux City Community Development Association (CDA). The CDA Board of Directors approved the project earlier this fall.

"This appropriation will add state funding to resources from Northeast, the South Sioux City Economic Development Agency, federal sources, and corporate and private gifts. This unique collegecommunity college-city partnership Governor Dave Heineman will bring enhanced higher education to an area that is booming economically, but under served educationally," President of Wayne State College Dr. Richard Collings said.

The $14,619,087 project, including the estimated $2.1 million land donation, will house general, distance learning, and business and industry learning community classrooms, and computer labs. Additionally, two science laboratories, a medical and health lab, a library, testing and tutoring areas, a bookstore and administrative/ faculty/student services offices, and associated service and storage areas are planned in the facility.

The Nebraska State College

System serves close to 8,000 students from Nebraska and surrounding states through three geographically diverse institutions: Chadron, Peru and Wayne State Colleges. Combined, the three colleges offer more than 200 degree, certificate, and pre-professional programs that are accessible on the three campuses, via the Internet, and in several satellite locations throughout the state.

With more than 250 credentialed faculty members and 50,000 successful graduates, the NSCS provides significant human and intellectual capital that contributes to the current and future economic strength of the State of Nebraska.

Auction to follow open houses of student-built homes at Northeast

Two new homes designed and built by Northeast Community College building construction students will be open to the public for inspection this month and then sold at public auction in June.

The open houses are set for Tuesday and Thursday, May 29 and 31 from 7-9 p.m. at Northeast Community College. The homes will be auctioned Saturday, June 9, at 10 a.m. at the college.

The first home, a 1,500-squarefoot, two-bedroom home with double-attached garage, has two- andone-half baths. According to Lyle Kathol, dean of applied technology at Northeast, this home also has many great features, including custom cabinetry, coffered and vaulted ceilings, laminate flooring and oak millwork throughout. This home also features Andersen windows and leaded glass sidelights.

The second home is also a 1,500square-foot, two-bedroom, twobath home featuring an office, custom cabinetry, coffered ceiling, laminate flooring and oak millwork throughout. This home has Marvin windows and leaded glass sidelights, Both homes also include lighting fixtures, ceiling fans, central vac and Ferché oak millwork stained to match cabinets. Many built-ins in both homes are custom-designed and constructed by Northeast building construction students. Electrical work on both homes was done by Northeast electrical construction and control students.

Both homes include all water, vent and waste lines extended to floor joist level for ease of hook-up and 2 x 6-inch exterior stud walls with cellulose insulation throughout. According to Kathol, these homes meet or exceed local and state building codes. All electrical conveniences were installed in accordance with the national electric and FHA code. Circuits are tested and connected to a 200-amp breaker panel.

Buyers must pay 20 percent down the day of the sale and the balance when the home is moved at buyer's expense within 75 days. A sales tax of 7 percent will be collected at final closing.

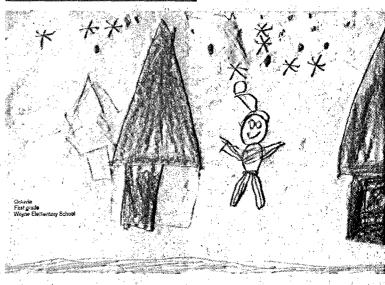

Bill Johnson purchased one of the student-built homes a few years ago and moved it south of Pilger to Willer's Cove Lake.

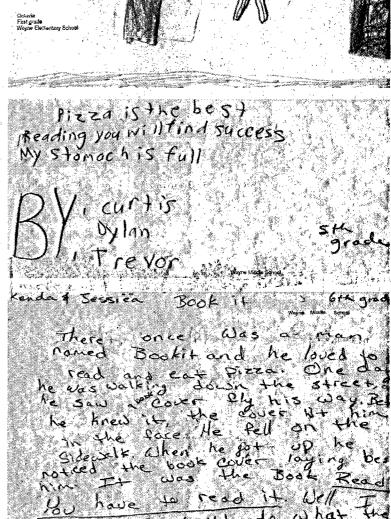

"The quality of the construction is very good," Johnson said. "The home passed the inspection and all the requirements of our homeowner's architectural committee in our subdivision."

"My wife and I have recommended the NECC home auction to several friends and acquaintances. One of our future neighbors will attend this year's auction to bid on a house," he said.

-Editorials-Message to America: Respect Memorial Day

editorial is by the national commander of The American Legion.

By Paul A. Morin,

American Legion Commander Here is a surprise, I am not going to defend the Iraq war. I won't even explain the importance of the war on terrorism. VA budget? Not today. That's because this column is about Memorial Day, a hallowed day that should be about honoring the more than one million men and women who died in the service of this nation in wars and conflicts dating back to 1775. It should be above politics. Period.

Yet one presidential candidate has blatantly violated the sanctity of this most special day. I recently received an e-mail from a group called "Supportthetroopsendthe war.com." It included a video of former Sen. John Edwards. He calls on Americans to use Memorial Day weekend as a time to "bring an end to this war." Shockingly, the video is titled "A Memorial Day Message from John Edwards," with the smoking gun note, "Paid for by John Edwards for President." Moreover, the e-mail recommends that Americans bring signs with the message "Support the troops, End the War" to local Memorial Day parades. Revolting is a kind word for it. It's as inappropriate as a political bumper sticker on an Arlington headstone. Edwards is hardly the first politician from either political party to exploit this day, a holiday that was consecrated with the blood of American heroes. But the e-mail makes me sick nonetheless. It needs to stop. This isn't about Edwards, it's about everybody. As ans organization.

Editor's note: The following guest national commander of The American Legion, I implore all candidates to refrain from politicking on Memorial Day.

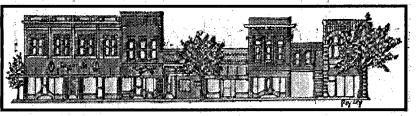

> The families of those killed in war should not be led to believe that their loved ones died for a lessthan-worthy cause. They died because they took an oath to defend this nation and its Constitution. The sacrifice is the same whether it's for a "popular war" or an unpopular one.

> Memorial Day should be an occasion to bring Americans together to honor heroes. It brings to mind the words of Army Sergeant First Class Jack Robison, who recently wrote from Iraq, "Sometimes I think God must be creating an elite unit in heaven, because He only seems to select the very best soldiers to bring home early."

> If you want to honor these heroes, visit a veterans' cemetery on Memorial Day. Attend a parade without the divisive political signs. Make cards for the comrades of the fallen that are recuperating in military and VA hospitals. Lay a wreath at the stone of a departed

We Americans need to remember why Memorial Day is special. It's not about picnics or trips to the beach. It's not about making pro- or anti-war statements. It's not about supporting political candidates. It's about honor, duty and the ultimate sacrifice. It's about people who have decided that the United States is worth dying for.

We have lights, trees are being community and improve the planted, waste receptacles have been selected — are benches next?

The painting of the light poles was discussed at Tuesday's meeting. The city manager brought to the meeting two poles, one showing the poles as they are now and one showing how the poles would look after being repainted. Many questions were raised and we were told that the poles would be painted without removing them. After much discussion, a vote was taken and it was resolved to recommend to the City Council that we should leave the poles as they are now.

The Promotion Committee reported that the Flea Market being held Henoween Day will be held from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Friday, July 13. A letter telling the details has been sent to the Wayne businesses. If you do not get a letter and are interested in participating, you can contact dianne's or Nana Petersen at This & That or Antiques on Main, The Promotion Committee also reported that the person who manufactures the concrete chickens for the Henoween Auction and fund raiser has notified us that this will be the last year he will provide concrete chickens. A new supplier must be found. If any readers know of a possible supplier for the future, please let Irene know at the WAEDI office.

Wes Blecke reminded us that nominations for the Main Street Board are due by July 1. People interested in serving on the Board must be members of WAEDI and should understand that there is substantial commitment of time required for attending meetings and training sessions. If any of our readers are interested or would like to recommend someone, they should call Wes at the WAEDI office. Wes is also interested in volunteers to serve on the four Main Street Wayne Committees. There is a need on the Promotion, Organization, Design and Economic Restructuring Committees for interested members willing to help Wayne improve and get better. Call Wes or attend an All-Hands meetings on Tuesday mornings at 8 a.m. in the Main Street Wayne office.

Several columns ago we wrote in things that make Wayne a good expansion.

"Quality of Life" for all of us living in Wayne. In the past two weeks a Community Assessment was conducted in Wayne by an outside group that was funded by NPPD. The complete report can be found in the WAEDI office. Most of the things we cited as contributors to our good "Quality of Life" were also cited by this group - great hospital and health care, retirement homes and senior citizens center, good neighborhood park system and recreational activities with a super Community Activity Center, a great college, an Industrial Park which looks fully occupied and an airport.

Things of interest for us at Main Street Wayne were the suggestions to improve signage in Wayne. Their suggestion was to have major signs at the north, south and east entrances to the city and to move the west sign further west than it is now. More visible signs were suggested for Main Street indicating where city hall, the post office, the senior citizens center, the library, the county building, the college and other amenities are located. They also suggested that signs to the Softball Complex be implemented and to get rid of the "Dead End" and "No Outlet" signs that are currently there and which add to the confusion of people heading to the complex.

Other thoughts which came from this group were appropriate signs for some of the businesses on Main Street, get rid of weeds and grafetti and replace boarded up windows. They thought that the Clothing Store concept was a great idea, but we should consider another motel or bed and breakfast for Wayne and that we should recruit an engineering firm to Wayne. They also thought that we should upgrade Bressler Park and make it a show place, create pride here with fresh paint, a shuffle board place and plant new trees. It was also suggested that our swimming pool (1956) needs an upgrade.

They also thought that more visitor parking is needed at the college, that more uses be found for the Fairgrounds and that the Industrial Park needs to find land this column about the variety of larger than 10 acres for industrial

Veto makes governor popular

By Ed Howard Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association

A governor is virtually guaranteed to make points with the electorate when vetoing legislation that would increase taxes.

Governor Dave Heineman recently vetoed a proposed 1.8 cent increase in the state gasoline tax. You will be hard pressed to find a complaint among Nebraskans who have been coughing up $3.25 pergallon and more to keep their vehicles running. And the next time Heineman seeks election, voters will be reminded of his decision.

This guarantee of citizen approval, virtual rather than literal, because there could come a day - if you believe that all things are possible, even when unlikely - the Legislature slaps a humungous tax increase on people making more than $1 million or so annually.

If something of that sort were vetoed, the electorate might lay claim to the biggest rail Union Pacific has in captivity, and provide a governor with a splintered but xpress trip to a neighboring state.

Responding to some irresponsible use of those pain-in-thepatience "robo calls" from political campaigns in 2006, lawmakers approved a law restricting the hours during which they can be made, and the number that can be directed at a household in any 24hour period.

Some among us resent any type of robo telephoning. Add that to the fact that some person or persons went the dirty tricks route in the. 3rd District House race last year. Robo calls purported to be from Democratic candidate Scott Kleeb, but actually run by opponents of his campaign, were unleashed upon households en masse just prior to election day.

legislature nears end of session

The Legislature passed both the budget bills and the tax relief proposal this past week. The Governor has already signed LB 367 (the $424 million tax relief package) but has indicated that he will use his line-item veto authority in the budget bills. After the Governor submits his vetoes, the Appropriations Committee, of which I am a member, will meet to decide which vetoes should be recommended for an override by the Legislature. The Legislature gave initial approval to LB 551, which adjusts the formula authorizing additional state funding for the Qwest Center in Omaha because the formula passed in 1999 is not bringing in the predicted amount of revenue. Seventy percent of the state sales tax revenue collected by retailers doing business at the convention center, sports arena or hotel could be used to help pay off the bonds. Although this portion was drafted to apply to the Qwest Center in Omaha, it was amended during general file debate to allow Lincoln and other communities to take advantage of this incentive if similar facilities are built or refurbished in other locations. In an effort to appease Senator Chamber's opposition to the bill, an amendment was added to dedicate ten percent of this amount for the promotion of athletics and tourism in areas of high poverty in Omaha. fund the Qwest Center without fur-

I am contemplating offering an amendment that expands this proposal to areas of high poverty across the state.

The remaining 30 percent received from the sales tax revenue collected by retailers as described above, can be used by other cities to build or refurbish civil, cultural or convention centers. An amendment was added to prohibit a political subdivision from using both fund-ther assistance from the state. Raikes, the sponsor of LB 342, Neither the City of Omaha nor offered an amendment to reduce Douglas County is near their levy limits, meaning that property taxes could be increased to pay off the bonds. I supported the initial funding formula passed eight years ago, but I don't believe the state should contribute any additional revenue. However, if the bill does pass, I want to make sure that areas other than the metropolitan area can benefit to the extent possible.

My priority bill, LB 342, received second round approval this past week. It revamps the funding formula for the community colleges and equalizes the amount of property taxes taxpayers across the state pay to support their community college area. The accompanying appropriations bill calls for an additional $12 million per year. The formula still works with a lower appropriation; however, it would require higher property taxes or tuition. Senator Ron 479-0917.

the appropriation to $8 million per year. Senators were strongly supportive of the full appropriation, as it will provide for property tax relief across the state.

The Legislature began discussing LB 475, which would prohibit discrimination in the workplace based on sexual orientation. I do not personally believe this protected class status is warranted as it would give such class more rights than others.

As the Legislature enters into the last two weeks of this legislative session, I still encourage you to contact me with your thoughts and opinions on the legislation before us. counter overnight: Toss. Even if food left out overnight is reheated, some bacteria can form a heatresistant toxin that cooking won't destroy.

•Hamburger thawed all day on the kitchen counter: Toss, Thawing meat at room temperature makes it equally prone to bacteria that can form heat-resistant toxins that cooking won't destroy. The best place to thaw meat, poultry and seafood is in the refrigerator - 40 degrees Fahrenheit or lower - on a plate on the bottom shelf to prevent juices from dripping on other foods. Vegetables, fruit and cooked pasta and rice also should be thawed in the refrigerator.

•Leftover pizza placed in the refrigerator within two hours after it was cooked: Keep. If perishable foods have not been left at room areas.

temperature for more than two hours (one hour in temperatures above 90 F), they should be safe. Remember to refrigerate promptly and eat within three to four days.

• Cut or peeled fruits and vegetables left at room temperature more than two hours: Toss. The skin on fruits and vegetables protects the inside from harmful bacteria. Once this skin is removed, bacteria can enter. Therefore, refrigerate cut or peeled produce within two hours.

•Leftovers kept in the refrigerator for more than a week: Toss. Three to four days is typically the threshold in regards to food safety. Even though food doesn't look or smell bad, it may still contain harmful bacteria at this point.

One bacterium in food can grow more than 2 million bacteria in seven hours. In order to avoid this growth, take time to cook food correctly and wash fruits and vegetables. Bacteria on the outside of fruits can be transferred to the inside when fruit is peeled or cut. Rinse fruits with peels - even when the peel is removed - such as melons and citrus fruits.

A few other tips for cleaning fruits and vegetables include:

•Remove and discard outer

•Rinse under clean, running water just before preparing or eating. Don't use soap or detergent as it can get into produce and cause

•Rub briskly with a clean brush or hands to clean the surface.

•Dry with a clean cloth or paper towel. Moisture left on fruits and vegetables helps bacteria grow. Dry them if they won't be ate or cooked until later.

The Carroll St. Paul Lutheran Ladies Aid & LWML met May 17 with Pastor Steckling and four members.

The League Pledge was recited and mites were collected.

The Bible Study, led by the Pastor, was taken from Genesis. 4:17, "The Curse of Cain." It included the next seven generations that followed. (Sin is like a weed, Chapter 5:6-8.) The wickedness of the world caused the flood. Noah defines faith.

The business meeting was conducted. Nancy Junck had attended the workshop at St. John's in Wakefield. The Pastoral Council met at the church on May 1.

Edith Cook was remembered for her birthday on May 14.

A monetary gift will be given to the Orphan Grain Train from the "Gift From the Heart." The group's contribution will be given to National Convention at Sioux Falls, S.D. June 21-24.

The next meeting will be at Premier Estates at a time to be determined. Lucille Schnoor will be honored for her birthday. Nancy Junck and Mardelle Wittler will furnish lunch.

The meeting closed with The Lord's Prayer and the common table prayer. A no-host lunch was

'Click It or Ticket' enforcement stresses importance of buckling up

Nebraska State Patrol will take part in a national effort to get motorists to buckle up. Raising awareness of the need to wear your seat belt every time you get into a vehicle is the goal of the "Click It or Ticket" campaign.

Statistics from the Nebraska Office of Highway Safety (NOHS) show one in every 23 licensed drivers in Nebraska will be involved in a motor vehicle collision each year. Safety belts cut the risk of death or serious injury in a crash by up to 50 percent.

"The Nebraska State Patrol stresses the importance of seat belts," said Colonel Bryan Tuma,

May 21 through June 3, the Superintendent of the Nebraska State Patrol. "The two-week long "Click It or Ticket" campaign is a high profile way to draw attention to the consequences motorists face if they don't wear their seat belt. Not only in the form of a citation or warning, but the likelihood they could be seriously injured or even killed if involved in a crash."

Thanks to a nearly $17,000 grant from the Nebraska Office of Highway Safety, the Nebraska State Patrol will conduct special enforcements designed to raise awareness of the need to buckle up over the two-week time period.

"The special enforcement encompasses the Memorial Day holiday weekend," Tuma said. "The unofficial start of the summer travel season provides the perfect opportunity to make sure everyone in your vehicle is buckled up before you hit the road for that first summer travel excursion."

eXtension launches wildlife damage web site

Whether it's squirrels digging up bulbs, moles in the lawn or coyotes terrorizing a neighborhood, consumers now have instant Web access to research-based solutions for helping humans and wildlife coexist. The extension Wildlife Damage Management Web site from the national extension project helps consumers manage wildlife problems and links people to experts who have this information. The site, available at http://www.extension.org/human-wildlife+relations, offers a wealth of information and is an excellent resource for anyone needing information about managing wildlife problems. "While many sites say this or that technique works, eXtension provides what actually works and it does all this for free. With the public's growing environmental awareness, the need for quality information is more important than ever. Thankfully, eXtension accomplishes this by providing its information 24/7/365," said

Stephen Vantassel, nationally certified wildlife control operator and a wildlife damage project coordinator at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln who worked on the project. The extension Wildlife Damage Management Web site was developed through the collaboration of nationally recognized wildlife biologists, nuisance wildlife control operators, educators and people interested in the field of human-wildlife relations. "The backbone of our site is a series of illustrated pages on 65 wildlife species that cause damage or nuisance problems in North America," said Scott Hygnstrom, professor and extension wildlife damage specialist at UNL who also collaborated on the project. "We included everything from alligators to polar bears. For each species, you can easily navigate through life histories, behavior, damage identification, economics, legal issues, and a complete list of methods for managing wildlife damage."

The eXtension site builds on more detailed information available from the Internet Center for Wildlife Damage Management's Web site at http://icwdm.org/, Hygnstrom said.

The eXtension Wildlife Damage Management Web site also features: • Frequently Asked Questions, which allow users to submit queries about wildlife management.

• Ask the Expert, which provides an answer to questions not already available in the Frequently Asked Questions section with a response usually within 24 hours. • News and Upcoming Events, which keeps the news and calendar of events current at the local, state and · Glossary and Diseases, which lists terms and illnesses commonly found in wildlife damage management. "People need to understand how to resolve or manage problems caused by wildlife with solutions that are humane, ecologically sensitive and responsible, and economically viable. This site is developed to do just that," said Robert Schmidt, associate professor and certified wildlife biologist at Utah State University who also collaborated on the project. eXtension is an educational partnership of more than 70 land-grant universities helping Americans improve their lives with access to timely, objective, research-based information and educational opportunities. eXtension's interactive Web site, www.extension.org, is customized with links to local Cooperative Extension

Land-grant universities were founded on the ideals that higher education should be accessible to all, that the university should teach liberal and practical subjects and share the university's knowledge with people throughout their states.

Remembering

In my book, there is no pet like a dog. I work with a bunch of cat lovers and it's almost more than I can stand some days! They (the cats) are all so spoiled. I have to look at pictures on screen savers of Gracie and Lucy and hear about all their various ills. We left Angel with the realtor when we moved to town because we didn't want a pet in the house. I admit I miss her, a little bit, but not enough to get another one.

There are all kinds of dogs in our neighborhood, though, and I can meet them on my walks. And I will say this for the cats; they can be litter trained. I would have a dog here, but I cannot see myself walking a dog with a plastic bag in my

I also happen to believe that every boy should have a dog. Therefore, I was delighted when the Bainters brought a Black Lab home several years ago. Labs are special; they are so friendly, rambunctious, and loveable. They named this one Socks because he had white feet.

Monte dabbles in script writing and movie making and they made a short film featuring Socks and entered it in a local contest, winning the Audience Choice award. But Socks had many health problems and he finally had to be sent to Dog Heaven last week. We all had an official obituary notice in our e-mail mail boxes and I just have to share it.

May 17, 2007 -Seward, Nebraska; the popular canine film sixth of eight born on a farm near Stromsburg. Originally "Anthony Bernatelli", he quit school at the age of two months to pursue what he believed would be a better life with an adoptive family in Seward. While generously supported by his new family, he struggled professionally during the early years. Often hampered by inexperienced directing and type-casting in numerous fledgling stage productions (usually credited as "Anthony Burns" or sometimes "Tony Burns"), his career finally took a turn when noticed by critics in his gripping portrayal of Seth Pecksniff in a 2001 stage adaptation of Dickens' "Martin Chuzzlewit."

While the production itself was a box office disappointment even by stage production standards, Socks' performance brought him critical acclaim, and he soon accepted a film contract joining an upstart company that would eventually become White Box Films.

He was first credited as "Socks" (on the advice of studio executives) in the 2002 production of "Popcorn" (Audience Choice Award - Middle of Nowhere Film Festival -- 2002). Sadly, that performance proved to be the pinnacle of his career, as he was shortly after diagnosed with chronic allergies, aggravated by innumerable environmental and food allergens.

On a prescription diet and virtually housebound, he was unable to work. In a failed gamble to restart his career and offset rising medical expenses, he resorted to prescription steroid treatments, contributing eventually to decreased kidney function and eventual renal fail-

When asked by Barbara Walters in a 2005 interview at his Nebraska home whether he felt shortchanged by illness, he replied, "I'm the luckiest dog in the world. Now pass the popcorn." A private service is to be held this week with family and close friends. (He did love popcorn, and could catch a kernel thrown to him.)

Bird house care important to make it last

Ron Johnson, UNL wildlife specialist, shares his knowledge on backyard birding.

Providing bird houses and shelves can be a fun and rewarding part of a wildlife program! A wellbuilt house that is durable, rainproof, cool and easy to clean also can add to the attractiveness of a

To determine what type of nest box or platform to build, think about the pirds most likely to visit the yard. Bird houses and shelves can be constructed from a wide variety of materials, including PVC pipe or natural items, such as gourds. Avoid using metal for bird house construction because it tends to overheat. Any good, solid, untreated wood generally is the best construction material. Cedar, pine or poplar particularly are easy to work with and weather well. Cedar is durable and its naturally occurring aroma may discourage parasites inside the house. One-inch boards, which actually measure three-quarters of an inch, provide sufficient insulation and are widely available. Re-using scrap wood from other building projects can save money and cutdown on waste.

Galvanized sliding or aluminum nails or screws are preferable because they don't rust and are readily available. Also, nails with roughened shanks are better than smooth nails. To prevent injuries to occupants from sharp points, make sure there are no nails protruding from the box cavity.

Bird houses and shelves, especially those made of durable, longlasting cedar, don't need to be painted. Exterior paint, however, will prolong the life of a bird house or shelf made of less durable pine or poplar. If colors are used, natural tones, such as light brown, gray or dull green, usually are best.

Drilling a few small holes in the floor of the birdhouse allows proper drainage. Leaving half-inch gaps under the eaves or drilling several quarter-inch to five-sixteenths of an inch holes along the top of the sides provides adequate ventila-

Birds can be particular about the entrance hole size, so measurements should be fairly exact. Also, properly sized entrance holes may keep out unwanted species. Avoid perches at the entrance hole because birds don't need them and perches make handy grips for would-be nest predators. In Nebraska, facing the entrance hole in a southeasterly " northeaster-ly direction may help prevent chilling from cold spring noie just below the entrance so young birds can climb out of the house easily. This can be done by sawing grooves an eighth of an inch deep or by punching dents in the wood with a screwdriver.

Houses need an access door that allows easy inspection with minimum disturbance to occupants. One of the sides can be made to swivel out for side access or hinges can be placed on the top. Also, houses mounted on smooth metal poles are less vulnerable to predators than those mounted to a wooden post or tree. Clean nest boxes and shelves are more likely to be occupied. Proper sanitation improves the chances of a healthy and successful brood. Nest boxes and shelves should be cleaned prior to each nesting season and immediately after any broods have left the box, even if the adult birds show signs of re-nesting. Old nesting material, eggs and dead nestlings should be removed from the box or shelf to keep parasites down. A nearby birdbath with clean water and a place for sand or dust baths also will aid in discouraging parasites.

Monitor bird houses once a week to prevent non-native nuisance species, such as house sparrows or European starlings, from taking over. If cleaning boxes after each prood has fledged, the box may be sed again throughout the summer. In the fall, after cleaning out the boxes for the last time, the boxes can be left up as shelter in the winter or access to the boxes Roughen the inside portion of the can be prevented by plugging the entrance noies, or the poxes can be put in storage. If left outside, squirrels may gnaw to enlarge the entrance holes of boxes.

> Know when not to disturb nesting birds. Avoid disturbing nest boxes at night and during rainy or windy weather because under these conditions, frightening the adult birds away could result in chilled eggs or nestlings. Also, avoid checking boxes the first few days of incubation, in the morning when females are laying eggs and when the young are close to fledgling. Adults may abandon nests and nearly-fledged young could leave the nest prematurely.

Forty-eight faculty members College, May 10-11. The event brought faculty members from Chadron, Peru and Wayne State Colleges together to share best practices in teaching and learning.

System Chancellor Stan Carpenter said, "The idea to hold a Faculty College was discussed during our strategic planning efforts with the Board of Trustees. Those who remembered the Faculty Colleges held years ago thought it would be worthwhile to revive the event so faculty could discuss academic issues. We have some of the best faculty in higher education and we wanted to provide them with the opportunity to learn from

Robert McCue, vice president for College, spearheaded the initial planning efforts. A committee of former NSCS Teaching Excellence Award recipients, the highest faculty honor within the system, designed the meeting structure and facilitated the sessions. McCue and his assistant, Linda Teach, took care of the operational side. Faculty members on the planning committee included: Judy Grotrian, the Fred and Pam Robertson Honors Chair in business administration and associate professor of business at Peru State College; Pearl Hansen, professor of art at Wayne State College; Dave Peitz, associate professor of chemistry at Wayne State College; Robert Stack, associate professor of mathematics at Chadron State College; and Deborah Whitt, chair of the department of communication arts and professor of speech communication at Wayne State College.

The two-day event also included sessions on service learning, disacademic affairs at Wayne State tance/online teaching, and international programs. Focus groups were held to develop strategies on collaborative ventures between campuses and making faculty connections.

"I found the sessions that allowed faculty to collaborate both by discipline and also by common interests in various topics, such as online instruction, assessment, etc., particularly informative, Stack said.

The workshop also provided time for the participants to network. A reception and dinner jointly sponsored by Platte Valley Financial Services, LLC in Scottsbluff and Northeast Nebraska Insurance Agency in Wayne was held at the Wayne Country Club.

"After talking to participants and reading the evaluations, I am very favorably impressed with the program and its impact on our faculty. Faculty members expressed gratitude for opportunities to learn from each other and get to know their colleagues at Chadron and Peru State Colleges," Dr. Richard Collings, president of Wayne State College, said.

Grotrian agreed, "It was a wonderful opportunity to meet the other state college faculty, see the beautiful Wayne State campus, and collaborate about educating students in the Nebraska State College System."

The next Faculty College will be held at Peru State College. Grotrian said, "Peru looks forward to hosting the 2008 Faculty College. This gives us the chance to expand and market each others' strengths, because we do advertise 'thousands of opportunities'."

Verna Mae Baier of Wayne received a Melvin Jones Fellowship award. It was presented by Fred Mann, President of the Wayne Lions.

Baier receives Melvin Jones Fellowship award

Verna Mae Baier recently received a Melvin Jones Fellowship award. The award was presented by Fred Mann, President of the Wayne Lions.

A Lions Club is allowed to name an outstanding member for the Melvin Jones award if the club donates at least $1000 to the SightFirst II campaign. The goal of SightFirst II is to raise $8 million dollars by July 1, 2007 to help eradicate preventable blindness in the world. The latest information indicates that this goal has already been reached.

Verna Mae serves as Secretary of the Wayne Lions and is involved in all of the club activities.

"This bill is worth $500 million annually in economic benefit to Nebraska," Bruning said. "It strikes the right balance between the recreational, economic and environmental interests throughout the Missouri River basin."

The Attorney General's office in 2006 won a lengthy court battle to secure approval of the Army Corps of Engineers' new plan for river management. That plan includes Nebraska's proposal for balanced river operations.

The Attorney General's office also led the effort to draft language for the Missouri River portions of the bill and built a coalition of support for the legislation among all eight states in the Missouri River basin.

The bill now proceeds to conference committee between the U.S. Senate House and Representatives.
