All about airplanes

A total of 40 planes were at the Wayne Municipal Airport last week as part of the 31st annual Ercoupe Convention. Planes from as far away as Texas and Pennsylvania traveled to Wayne for the event. The planes travel at speeds of approximately 100 miles per hour under ideal conditions. A large crowd of spectators was on hand on Friday evening for the "Cars and Coupes" portion of the convention. Also included were homemade ice cream and a piano player. Plane rides were given to a number of the younger spectators. Additional information on the convention can be found in today's edition of the Herald.

Dixon mother finally home

By Suzie Johnson
Concord correspondent

Mrs. Tom Erwin, June, wished hard for one special thing, and that was to see son, Heath, and his friends and dates at the Grand March held just before Prom activities on Saturday evening, April 28.

June received a liver transplant at the Clarkson Med Center in Omaha back during the first week of February. After 11 weeks of complications, fevers, etc, her doctor released her to go home on the very day she wished for, arriving at the Laurel-Concord School Auditorium just moments before son, Heath, and date made their grand entrance. The news of her presence traveled quickly through the audience made up of many families and friends. Applause, answered prayers, and tears were shared. It had been a long time in coming.

June now travels during the week for blood tests and other scheduled tests, taken by her "in-laws," "out-laws," relatives and friends. Daughter, Tiffany, a student at UNL has been wonderful help and is now home for the summer. Son, Blake, lives in Omaha and Wyatt in Phoenix, Ariz. Husband, Tom, has been constantly close, traveling through the bad weather and caring for his farm responsibilities with help from brother, Brad, and Matt Schroeder and others not named. This is a wonderful community! Welcome home, June.

Pastor Browne looks forward to retirement

By Lynn Stevers
Of the Herald

Mary Tyler Browne recently retired as pastor at First United Methodist Church in Wayne and Carroll United Methodist Church in Carroll. She and her husband, J.C., plan to move to Albuquerque, N.M. when their house in Wayne sells. Pastor Doyle Burbank-Williams will begin pastoral duties at the two churches this Sunday. He is moving to Wayne from Lincoln where he was pastor at Calvary United Methodist in Lincoln.

Reflecting on her seven years at the Wayne and Carroll churches, "I enjoyed the children and youth the most," Pastor Mary said. "I loved teaching confirmation classes. Watching the youth grow and go to high school was exciting. I will miss being involved with the young people the most."

She noted she will miss everyone and feels it is a real blessing to be part of people's lives.

"Being a pastor, you are part of their most sacred times, such as birth, marriage, graduation, anniversaries, illness and death," Pastor Mary said. "It is amazing, I don't know any other vocation where people get to do all of that. But, there is also the ordinary things too, like concerts, plays, ballgames, Sunday School programs, Vacation Bible School and more — you become so involved in your members' lives."

Pastor Mary notes she wants to stay active in mission work (short-term) and has been considering going as a couple to the Gulf Coast and helping.

Prior to coming to the Wayne area, Pastor Mary was at the Methodist churches in both Oxford and Beaver City. Before that, she was associate pastor at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Papillion.

Pastor Mary was born and raised in Mitchell, S.D. where she graduated from high school and went on to Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn. Receiving her bachelor degree and later a master's degree in social work. She then worked with people with chemical dependency and with the homeless and realized that even with therapy she gave them, they wanted and needed more. She saw a need for spiritual connection; she wanted and needed authority of the church to help fulfill their needs. It was around this time, too, her husband, Stan Tyler, passed away leaving her with three children to raise and decisions to make. She decided to enter into the seminary at Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley, Calif. It was there she met her present husband, J.C., who had two children and was making a career change from a probation officer to a pastor.

While Pastor Mary served the Methodist churches in Wayne and Carroll, J.C. was pastor at the United Methodist Church in Laurel. Prior to that, he served at Trinity Church in West Point.

Looking ahead to retirement, "I need some time off so I will just relax for awhile," Pastor Mary said. "Now that J.C. and I are both retired, we can pick and choose what we want to do. We have grandchildren and friends we want to spend time with. I have two grandchildren, ages 10 and 7 and haven't been to their Christmas programs because that was always a busy time at the churches. Now, we can do that."

As for moving to Albuquerque, "J.C. has relatives there, it is warmer there and I love the southwest so it seems like a good place to move to," Pastor Mary said.

Pastor Mary notes they will miss everyone but it is time for a change in their lives and knows she is leaving the churches she served in good hands.

Pat Kayl

Local artist showing pieces at Sioux City Art Center

Pat Kayl and her husband, John, live on a cattle farm 20 miles west of Sioux City in Dixon county. If you met Pat, it would not take long to discover that she has a lot of energy.

Some of you may know her from her greenhouse days. She owned and operated her greenhouse business for 15 years near Jackson.

Today, you would find her working on her new Italian Villa-style home and creating and caring for her large gardens.

However, gardening is not her first passion. Pat is a talented acrylic painter. Her first inclination of talent was at the age of 12 when teachers would ask her to draw holiday figures on chalkboards in their classrooms. She started getting serious about painting when her four children were grown and gone.

According to Pat, "Using vibrant colors makes me happy and stimulated. In the past few years I started doing portraits and love it!"

Pat will be displaying her works of art at the Sioux City Art Center in July and August.

Sudanese refugees allowed to return home

Editor's note: This is the eighth in a series of articles written by Dean Jacobs about his travel excursions through Ethiopia.

The quiet and calm demeanor of the group of 50 Sudanese refugees had a slight nervous look in their eyes; they were about to take their first flight ever, home to Sudan.

Men, woman and children of all ages were dressed to the nines in the warm Gambella air, some in winter type clothing obviously donated by some place in the northern hemisphere. Quietly proud, happy and excited they filed through the Gambella airport office preparing to board the UNHCR (United Nations High Commission for Refugees) and IOM (International Office on Migration) plane.

A leader of the group called Marko is requested to, tell the group of 50 to use the bathroom before they leave. He speaks in the Dinka language "please use the bathrooms before we leave on our flight" as he points his finger in the direction of the shed that houses the toilet.

Peace in South Sudan has brought with it the opportunity for people to return home, some who have been away for up to 20 years. Out of the generosity of project coordinator, Rune Dyhr of Denmark, and the mostly Dutch flight crew, I was invited to join two flights of refugees being flown back to South Sudan for voluntary repatriation. They were on the tail end of a project that had moved 7,500 refugees home since last December from Central Africa, Kenya and now Ethiopia.

The crew was a genuine made-for-TV reality show. The captain, Derk, had the perfect gravelly voice and huge heart. The first officer, Jeroen, was a Clint Eastwood type, cool and collected. Masero, the flight attendant, was a saint, as she changed diapers of numerous babies in the walkway of the cabin. The flight engineer, Cyril, had the daunting job of keeping a plane flying in Africa. And Rune, who was the glue of the operation, which kept things moving forward despite all the constant obstacles and bureaucracy.

Sudan refugee passengers load the UN flight in Gambella Ethiopia as they make their way home to South Sudan.

Watching them work together, it was clear they loved what they were doing, they knew when to laugh and how to keep things in perspective.

The passengers for these flights had volunteered 18 months ago for this journey. As the plane raced down the runway, most stared out the window to watch Ethiopia fade away into the clouds, for the younger passengers, it is all they have ever known. "It has been 15 years since I last saw my brother," says Marko now 30 years old, "I hope I will be able to recognize him."

Unlike many refugees who have moved around from different locations, Marko has spent his entire time in the Gambella region. "I'm happy to be leaving Ethiopia and for the chance to go home and build a house for my family in Sudan," says Marko.

The cabin of the plane is actually quiet and comfortable, with cool air circulating through. Many of the young children fall asleep an hour into the flight.

"This is so much better than flying cargo," says Rune, "the emotion of the people is touching."

As the last flight touches the red gravel runway, the passengers break out into singing, a rejoicing of voices to be back home in Sudan. Most hope to complete their education and find a way to help their people or create a life with some kind of dignity.

The passengers unload, and the processing begins by UN staff.

As our plane leaves Sudan, I peer out the window and see the passengers we dropped off standing in the skeletal rusting frame that poses as a terminal and I wonder what their future will be.

The flight crew dropped me off at the Jimma airport after the second flight, saving me a day and a 12-hour bus ride. As I said goodbye to the crew, Captain Derk said, "stay at the airport, we'll do a fly by."

Waving goodbye to the crew as the plane took off from the runway, I stood there alone on the tarmac, like a solitary tree in a large open space. Several minutes later the plane came roaring back, flying quite low and much to the bewilderment of the Jimma airport workers. As the plane flew by, the captain tipped the wings from side to side three times before jettisoning back up into the blue sky. My eyes welled up as what I called, "the wings of hope waved goodbye."

Antiques on Main relocating

Citing the fact that "it was a good time to downsize," Antiques on Main will be moving across the street, effective July 15.

Owner Nana Peterson opened Antiques on Main at 207 Main Street in June of 1999.

"At that time we had four dealers who rented booth space and a number of items on consignment. Through the years we have had at least 60 dealers in the store. They came from California, South Dakota, Iowa and throughout northeast Nebraska," Nana said.

Early this year Nana and her husband, Cap, were approached by the Main Street Clothing Company about the possibility of the building being a location for the clothing store.

"We all agreed that this would be a good location for a clothing store and the fact that the building at the corner of Third and Main Street was available for our business made this a good time to downsize," Nana said.

After the move the business will be known as Antiques on Main, dba Nana's This and That.

"We will continue to carry the brands we have now, including Willow Tree Angels by Demdaco, Beanpod Candles by Soy Basics and a new line of Windchimes by Woodstock. There are six booths currently filled by dealers, with a total of 12 antique dealers providing inventory, including fine furniture," Nana said.

Store hours will be Monday through Friday, 10 to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday from 10 to 5 p.m., effective July 16.

All current employees will continue to be employed at This and That. They include Marla Austin, Margaret McClelland and Patty Wieland, as well as a number of part-time employees.

For more information about Antiques on Main, call 833-5152.

The Main Street Clothing Company will provide stylish, affordable, new clothing, shoes and accessories for guys and gals of all ages. It will have over 5,000 square feet for brands such as Savane, Haggard, Liz Claiborne, Miss Erika, Life Is Good, Oleg Cassine, Billabong, Roxy, Amy Byer, Skechers, Mootsies Tootsies, Lifestride, Dexter and many others.

The Main Street Clothing Company committee continues to seek support so that this project can move forward.

For more information on the Main Street Clothing Company, call (402) 375-2240 or any of the committee members, including Wes Blecke, Amy Bowers, Marilyn Collings, Irene Fletcher, Michelle Harder, Kathy Johnson, Kaki Ley, Deb Lundahl, Christin Lutt, Marie Mohr, Kevin Peterson, Lois Shelton, Dave Simonsen and Sheryl Summerfield.

Saying good-bye

Rod Garwood, lay leader at First United Methodist Church in Wayne, presented Pastor Mary Tyler Browne with a gift from the church along with a thank-you and how much she has meant during the seven years she served at the Methodist churches in Wayne and Carroll. A farewell reception was held at First United Methodist Church on June 17. Pastor Mary is retiring from active pastoral ministry but is looking forward to the next phase that God has in store for her.

Progress noted on Habitat for Humanity home

Work continues on the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity house #2 at 1014 Douglas Street, being built in partnership with the Wanda Ryden family.

On June 23 the interior walls were framed and the trusses were laid in place. About 10 volunteers worked under the supervision of Ryan Hobza and Gary French.

Volunteer coordinator John Witkowski said "Adults with any skill level can volunteer for the build. You can work for half a day, or a full day on one Saturday or all the Saturdays. We rely on volunteers and encourage community involvement." For more information on volunteering, contact John at 375-4509 or Kyle Rose at 375-2340. Interested individuals can also just stop by the house site during the day on Saturdays.

The weather has been warm and humid at the construction site, so volunteers take breaks and have lunch in the shade of the shelter at Bressler Park. Lunch is provided for all volunteers.

This coming Saturday, June 30, trusses will be stood and sheathing will be added to the roof. On the following two Saturdays the roof will be shingled and windows, sheetrock and siding will begin to be installed.

The first Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity house build was an exciting one-week 'blitz build'. Starting from the decking, the house was completed in just six days. The current build is following a more traditional 12-week Habitat for Humanity build schedule where most of the work is accomplished on Saturdays. If the weather cooperates, the Ryden house will be completed by the end of August, with a house dedication occurring in September.

For more information about contributing to the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity, contact Jeff Carstens at 375-3840 or write to P.O. Box 73, Wayne, Neb. 68787. For additional information about the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity, contact the chapter president Roger Meyer at 375-2148 or Mark Hammer at 375-4768.

Habitat for Humanity International is a nonprofit, ecumenical Christian housing ministry. Habitat for Humanity seeks to eliminate poverty housing and homelessness from the world, and to make decent shelter a matter of conscience and action. Habitat invites people of all backgrounds, races and religions to build houses together in partnership with families in need.

Keith Erickson was among those who volunteered time last week at the site of the second Habitat for Humanity home in Wayne.

'Sons of Satan' to reunite

It all started back in 1966 when Steve Schram and Duane Shell decided to form a rock 'n roll band.

Both of these teenagers were classmates at Wayne High School in the mid 1960's when the British music invasion hit America. Teens across the country wanted to be like and play like the Beatles. Rock bands were forming in every town while cars were being moved out of garages so that guitars, drums and amps could be set up for a practice. Wayne was no different.

The Wayne City Auditorium was rapidly becoming a Mecca for lives bands in northeast Nebraska. The Wayne Explorer Scouts routinely booked bands into the auditorium to raise funds.

"The Fabulous Flippers," "The SmokeRing," "Spider and the Crabs," "The Blue Things" and "The Red Dogs" were just a few of the bands to rock the halls of the auditorium.

Young people from all over the area would come to Wayne for the Saturday night dance. Teen dances were the core of a teenager's existence in those years.

The music world was not about to bypass Schram and Shell, who recruited enough classmates to form the "Sons of Satan," named in honor of all the members being Wayne High Blue Devils from the class of 1967.

Original members included Schram on guitar; Shell on bass guitar; Bill Blecke on vocals; Carl Matson on Drums and John Brandstetter on keyboard and vocals. Dennis Blecke and John Matson soon joined as the band began playing about every weekend.

The group played from 1966 until 1969 in Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota for proms, homecomings, weddings, fairs and community events. In Wayne, they were a mainstay for the city auditorium.

After many years in retirement, they reunited in 1992 to play for the Wayne High School class of 1967's 25th reunion and subsequent reunions in 1997 and 2002.

They will again play on Friday, July 6 at Riley's for the 40th class reunion.

They have recruited some additional family members to help them out and hope to get some of their retired members on stage. The event is open to the public. Music will begin around 9 p.m. and the reunion committee would like to invite parents, teachers and other community members to join in the fun.

Noffke tells of Christian mission project to help in fight against world hunger

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Edie Noffke, a nurse at Faith Regional in Norfolk, was a recent speaker at Wayne Rotary Club and discussed "Kids Against Hunger," a food packaging Christian mission project to help feed millions of starving people in the world. In 2005, around 20 million people died of starvation.

Volunteers like Noffke have been getting together in Norfolk at the Orphan Grain Train warehouse and packaging the rice, soy, dehydrated vegetables with chicken flavoring product to send to the needy. The dried casserole mix has 21 essential vitamins and minerals and is prepared by adding boiling water.

From March 30 to April 30, the Norfolk group packaged 36,072 meals, had 192 volunteers from ages 3-88. On May 8, the Orphan Grain Train shipped out the first pallets of food to the Cornerstone Children's Ranch to help with the disaster relief efforts following two tornados which killed 10 people. The food was delivered to an area around Piedras Negras where 21,000 children were without food. Packages of food also go to orphanages, hospitals, refugee camps, disaster relief centers and other places where people are in need. They also deliver to local food banks.

Through this project, it is the hope that a sense of civic duty, world awareness, kindness towards others and appreciation for the blessings in our lives will be instilled into the volunteers and donors who are helping in the fight against world hunger. Approximately 5,000 meals can be packaged in two hours. Volunteers can include church groups, 4-H groups, scouts, sports teams, civic organizations, summer camps and individuals.

Looking back on how Kids Against Hunger began, Richard Proudfit, an engineer from Minnesota, was working in Honduras nearly 30 years ago when he saw a mother who was carrying her child who had died of starvation. He heard a voice tell him to "feed my children." He started sending granola bars and boxed food but the people didn't know what to do. He contacted a friend who worked for Pillsbury, along with scientists from Archer Daniel, Cargil and General Mills and they came up with this highly nutritious food product that counteracts starvation. Proudfit quit his job and dedicated his life to feeding starving children. He found the recipe of rice, soy, dried vegetables and chicken flavoring (no animal products) is acceptable with religions around the world.

Noffke, an empty nester, had been looking for direction in her life and felt something was missing. "I help with a new membership class at Our Savior Church in Norfolk and in one of the classes, we teach about 1st Corinthians 12, on spiritual gifts and how you are supposed to use them, not neglect them," Noffke said. "Also, in Ephesians 2: 8-10 on how we are created to do good works, which God has prepared in advance for us to do. I prayed and asked God to fill me with the Holy Spirit and walk me down the path to do the works He had prepared in advance for me to do."

She remembered she had heard about Kids Against Hunger mission in New Hope, Minn. a few years ago. She contacted Clayton Andrews of the Norfolk-based Orphan Grain Train and also talked to the Men's Bible study group at her church and they came on board to help start Kids Against Hunger-Norfolk. Besides Norfolk, there are 30 sites across the U.S. where the food products are packaged and sent around the world.

Noffke noted in order to continue packaging the food, they need more funds. Each package of food costs 23 cents, each bag costs $1.38 and feeds six children. Ten dollars provides 50 meals, $25 provides 125 meals, $50 provides 250 meals, $100 provides 500 meals, $200 provides 1,000 meals and $1,000 provides 5,000 meals.

If you can help, donations and volunteers are needed. Please call 402-371-3195. Donations can be sent to Kids Against Hunger Norfolk, PO Box 636, Norfolk, NE 68701. For additional information, go to www.kidsagainsthunger.org.

Plane enthusiasts gather in Wayne

The 31st annual Ercoupe Owner's Club National Convention was held in Wayne June 21-24.

The Ercoupe is a small, two-passenger plane that was built in the 1940's through the 1960's. The majority of these planes do not have foot pedals.

Approximately 120 people connected with the Ercoupe association attended the three-day event. In addition, hundreds of local residents were able to view the planes under the "Cars and Coupes" portion of the convention on Friday.

A total of 34 Ercoupe planes flew into the Wayne Municipal Airport during the convention. Additionally two planes are currently housed there and four other planes were also part of the event.

Among those in attendance was a pilot from Quincy, Ill. who had no legs.

"This gentleman noted that he had lost his legs from complications associated with truck driving for years. He is able to pilot an Ercoupe because it has no rudder pedals. Instead, he uses a hand brake for flying," said Scott Morgan, one of those in charge of this year's convention.

Planes flew into Wayne from Texas, Kansas, Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Florida.

The oldest Ercoupe pilot in attendance was Opal Walker, 96, of Roswell, N.M. He and his son, Carlton, were part of this year's convention.

The Ercoupe plane was first manufactured in the early 1940's and one of the planes on display last week was a 1941 model that was used by the military during World War II.

"There were 5,000 Ercoupes built in 1946. They were manufactured in an assembly line process, something that is unheard of, even today," said Skip Carden, Executive Director of the group. "After that year, when the plane didn't sell as expected, production dropped. The plane was manufactured into the early 1970's but never to the same extent as in 1946. Today, the planes sell for between $15,000 and $30,000."

Other notable persons in attendance were members of Fred Weick's family. Weick invented the Ercoupe in the late 1930's. Two of his sons, his daughter and several other relatives attended this year's convention.

Committee members for the Wayne convention were Dave Zach, Carl Rump, Doug Johnson, Lyle Carlson and Scott and Jean Morgan.

The 2008 convention will be held in Wausau, Wis.; the 2009 convention in Vicksburg, Miss. and the 2010 convention in Tallequah, Okla.

Council sets policy on Activity Center rentals at recent meeting

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

In what was the last meeting of Wayne City Council with its present schedule, the council set rates for non-profit organizations wishing to rent the Wayne Community Activity Center (CAC).

At the council's June 12 meeting Darin Greunke, representing the Sharp Shooters 4-H Club had asked the council to use the CAC for the 2008 Nebraska State 4-H BB Gun and Air Rifle Championship.

The council debated the amount, if any to be charged and voted against waiving fees for the 4-H Club. Instead, the decision was made to establish a non-profit rate of $150 per day for use of the gym and $100 per day to use the Community Room.

The 4-H Club can decide whether or not to accept this rate. They may also seek to obtain sponsors to help pay the cost of the rental.

The council voted unanimously to pay interest on the land sale cash reserves on money being held by the city.

The land was sold in 2003 and the amount of interest accumulated is $5,478.

Approval was given to move forward on the possible purchase of generators for city wells and lift stations.

Garry Poutre, Superintendent of Public Works and Utilities, will seek bids for the generators.

A decision on a memorandum of understanding between the city and Olsson Associates for the Kardell Subdivision Water and Sewer Improvements Projects was put on hold.

Council members agreed to wait with this item until costs are known and a decision is made on where the waste water treatment plant will be located.

Several plans were discussed and options noted for use of the present facility.

Resolutions receiving approval at Tuesday's meeting were Resolution 2007-60 and 2007-61.

The first approves a memorandum of understanding between the city and Olsson Associates for the Kardell Subdivision Paving and Drainage Improvements Project.

It was noted that there are several options for getting rid of water in the area and that the project could be done in phases.

The second resolution approves funding for services to prepare a water system hydraulic model and booster pump station preliminary design for the western area of the city.

As the city expands to the west, it has been noted that there is low water pressure in certain areas of town.

Preparing the model will help with future expansion and replacement of current water lines.

No action was taken on specifications and bids for lights at Hank Overin Field and the Summer Sports Complex.

Several of those involved with the fields were unable to be at Tuesday's meeting so decisions were postponed until the next meeting.

Also tabled was Resolution 2007-62, which would approve the terms of the manufacturer for repainting the decorative light poles on Main Street.

Action was taken to obtain bids for installing sidewalk near the Wayne Community Activity Center and along Windom Street.

Wayne City Administrator Lowell Johnson showed maps of the area between the CAC and Wayne Elementary School and between the CAC and Wayne High School.

He noted that the area sees a lot of traffic as students travel from the schools to the CAC after school and expects the traffic to increase as the schools implement an early dismissal policy during the 2007-08 school year.

The area on the east side of Windom Street near Hank Overin Field also sees a lot of traffic and sidewalk there was also recommended.

The council will next meet Tuesday, July 3 at 5:30 p.m. as the newly established schedule of meeting on the first and third Tuesday of each month goes into effect.

State match play champ crowned

After three days of close competition a winner eventually emerged at the 2007 Nebraska Girls Junior Match Play Championship played at the Wayne Country Club.

Omaha's Kylie Smith claimed the championship after defeating qualifying medalist Anna Christenson of Lincoln in a grueling 19-hole match on June 20.

Smith's win was clinched by sinking a 30-foot birdie putt from off the green which closed the match.

Smith, who was 3 up after four holes, found herself battling back from a two hole deficit on the back nine.

After taking a 4 on fifteen and a 5 on seventeen Smith found herself all square with Christenson once again.

After halving the 18th hole with 5s the match went to extra holes.

The individual state championship is a first for Smith, who graduated from Omaha Marian in 2007 and will attend Idaho State University in this fall.

In the semifinal round played earlier that same day.

Christenson downed Kayla Knopik of Papillion, 3 and 2, while Smith defeated Omaha's Mary Narzisi 2-1.

In the first flight finals also played on June 20, Sara Wissing of Hastings defeated Betsy Havekosts of Beatrice, 2-up.

The event also marked a return home for Wayne native and former Wayne State golf standout Monica Novak.

Novak, who serves as the managing director of the Nebraska Women's Amateur Golf Association, served as a meet official and presented the championship trophy and crystal cup to Smith after she won her championship.

Troy Harder, PGA golf professional at the Wayne Country Club was also presented with a special award for serving as a tournament host.

Recent signees are announced at Wayne State

The Wayne State College track and field and baseball programs both announced names of athletes who will be contributing their respective talents to the WSC program.

WSC track and field coach Marlon Brink has announced that three transfers will join the Wildcat cross country and track and field programs for the 2007-08 season.

They include Misty Rystrom from Chadron State College and Garden City (Kansas) Community College standouts Cheto Cerda and Nate Preston.

Rystrom is a graduate of Pierce High School and will compete in track and field for the Wildcats with three seasons of eligibility. She competed in the high jump at Chadron State this past season and placed at both Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference meets, taking eighth indoors and sixth outdoors.

Rystrom helped Pierce win the Class B Girls State Track title in 2006 and was a teammate in high school with current Wildcat track and field standouts Kylie Herian and Jadrianne Lippman.

"We are pleased to have Misty joining our team," commented Coach Brink. "She placed in the RMAC meets in the high jump and has a personal best mark of 5 feet, 4 inches, just below the national qualifying mark. I think Misty can make an immediate impact at the NSIC Championships and she is also a very good student."

Cerda will compete in both cross country and track and field at Wayne State with two seasons of eligibility remaining after competing at Garden City Community College.

He placed 84th at the national junior college meet last fall with a time of 26:36 on the 8,000 meter course.

Cerda is a native of Baytown, Texas and was an Academic All-American at Garden City CC.

"Cheto has had success at the college level and has shown continued improvement," said Brink. "He should help add to our strength in the middle distance and distance events, as well as cross country."

Preston is a graduate of Omaha Benson and will compete in both cross country and track and field at Wayne State.

He was a two-time national junior college All-American in cross country and indoor track and field, placing 24th last fall at the national junior college cross country meet with a time of 25:12 over 8,000 meters.

Preston also earned Academic All American honors in 2006 at Garden City CC.

In high school at Omaha Benson, Preston was a two-time Class A runner up in cross country individually.

"Nate will be a tremendous addition to our men's distance squad," remarked Brink. "He has competed at the top levels in both high school and college and could possibly be one of the top distance runners in the Northern Sun Conference this year.

Results are given from bicycle race

After many delays, the first Norfolk Criterium Series bicycle race went off without a hitch. The Elkhorn Valley Cycling powered by Monster cycling club promoted the event. A sort sprinkle mid-race gave a preview of the shower that was to come right after the last rider crossed the finish line but it was a great night of racing. A technical course at Northeast Community College proved to be challenging for all levels of competitors. Mark Herzinger of Beemer led for the first portion of his Beginner class race, until he was passed by Dennis Smith of Norfolk on the downhill stretch on the back side of the course. Herzinger chased but came up with second in the end.

Duane Blair of Norfolk led brother Scott Blair of Pierce out for several laps in the Advanced class until a mechanical forced him out for most of the race. After that, Scott led the rest of the field to the final lap.

In Beginner Women, Jan Hake of Madison raced unopposed but rode hard and will do nothing but improve. "It was fun but I was ready to be done," she commented. Next race is the Maskenthine Mayhem MTB at Maskenthine on June 27.

Lincoln company ordered to cease offering securities

The Nebraska Department of Banking and Finance (NDBF) issued an Order to Cease and Desist on May 22, 2007, against Northern Utilities, LLC, 2840 South 70th Street, #360, Suite 7, Lincoln, and two managing members, David R. Anderson and Trent P. Anderson. The Order states that Northern Utilities is offering $48,000,000 in membership interests to finance the development of an ethanol plant in Bradshaw.

According to the Order, Northern Utilities filed documents claiming exemption from the registration provisions of the Securities Act of Nebraska. The Department reviewed a copy of the Private Placement Memorandum, a document containing information on the company and the offering which is given to prospective investors.

The Order alleges that the Private Placement Memorandum contained detailed biographical information pertaining to David R. Anderson and his business experience but failed to disclose a bankruptcy in 1988 and a conviction and prison sentence for bankruptcy fraud. The Order further alleges that the Private Placement Memorandum promoted Trent P. Anderson's involvement in the development of a golf course without also disclosing that the course had never been constructed.

A hearing on the Order has been scheduled for July 10, 2007, at Wells Fargo Center, 1248 "O" Street, Suite 571, Lincoln, NE.

For more information regarding Northern Utilities and the May 22 Order, Nebraskans should contact Jack E. Herstein, Assistant Director, or Mike Cameron, Staff Attorney, in Lincoln at 471-2171 or via the Department's toll free Consumer Hotline at (877) 471-3445.

Blood bank recognizes blood donors at annual dinner

The Siouxland Community Blood Bank held their Annual Donor Recognition dinner on Tuesday, June 19 at the Sioux City Country Club. This award banquet recognizes volunteer blood donors who reached 10, 15, 20, 25, 30 and 45 gallon donation levels from March 16, 2006 through March 15, 2007.

Guest speaker for the event was Holly Brees, an 18-year-old graduate of Sergeant Bluff-Luton High School. Holly's mother passed away in January of 2005 of cervical cancer. Holly has held over 15 blood drives in her mother's honor and has recruited students in her high school to become routine volunteer blood donors. "After realizing that the gift of blood added months to my mom's life, I became much more involved. From my experiences, I've learned how truly important it is to reach out, help someone and give blood."

"We would like to thank each donor for donating throughout the years. It's because of what they do that makes a difference in the lives of many patients," said Janette Twait, CEO of the Siouxland Community Blood Bank. "These donors donated a total of 13,680 pints of blood which in itself is remarkable".

Blood donors from the following Iowa communities were recognized: Akron, Alford, Anthon, Carroll, Charter Oak, Cherokee, Denison, George, Hawarden, Hinton, Hospers, Ida Grove, Lawton, Le Mars, Mapleton, Marcus, Maurice, Okoboji, Onawa, Orange City, Paullina, Remsen, Rock Valley, Rockwell City, Sac City, Sergeant Bluff, Sibley, Sioux Center, Sioux City, Storm Lake and Thornton.

Blood donors from the following Nebraska communities were recognized: Allen, Bancroft, Dakota City, Dixon, Emerson, Lyons, Newcastle, Pender, Ponca, South Sioux City, Wakefield and Wayne.

Blood donors from the following South Dakota communities were recognized: Burbank, Dakota Dunes, Elk Point, McCook Lake, Mitchell and Pickstown.

Local 10 gallon blood donors recognized were: David Dunn of Dixon; James Litchfield and Carol Ulrich of Wakefield and Keith Jarvi of Wayne.

Local 15 gallon donors recognized were: Thomas Eaton of Wakefield; Darold Beckenhauer, Ronald Milliken and Theodore Reeg, all of Wayne.

The evening was made possible by generous corporate sponsorship from Pall Medical Corporation.

To be eligible to donate individuals must be at least 17 years of age (16 in Iowa with a signed Siouxland Community Blood Bank parent consent form); however there is no upper age limit as long as the donor is in good health. In addition donors need to weigh at least 110 pounds and have not donated whole blood in the past 56 days. A photo I.D. is required at the time of registration as well as a list of medications they are currently taking.

ASK THE TRAINER

This week I have received a question asking what a person can do to improve posture. Posture is often a neglected area of our daily lives even though it can be very detrimental to our back and shoulder health. Extended periods of sitting or standing at work can lead to bad posture, which then leads to upper and lower back stress, poor shoulder range-of-motion, and a less confident appearance.

I hear many complaints from people about how their neck and upper back muscles are fatigued and that they feel these areas carry the stress of their day. What these areas are carrying is the roughly ten pound human head which is tilted forward from poor posture. Over the course of the day the neck and trapezius muscles become tired and sore. Poor posture not only gives upper back problems, but also low back problems as well. Weak abdominal and upper back muscles lead to low back pain from standing with exaggerated kyphotic and lordotic curves. When these curves become more pronounced and we start to excessively slouch, our shoulder's range-of-motion disappears. Try slouching and reaching your hands above your head and you will see what happens. Fortunately, these problems can be prevented with strength training and practicing proper posture technique.

When lifting, it is important to train the chest and back with equal volume and intensity. Many of us have a tendency to train the chest harder leading to imbalance and poor posture. When training the back focus on lifts which work the traps, lats, rhomboids, and rear-delts. Performing a bent over row is a good example of a lift to work all of these muscles. The abdominals, especially the transverse abdominis, are also important to train for core stability. These muscles are a key player in the support system for our lower backs. An example of a good abdominal posture exercise is the plank.

Standing and sitting up straight are both important for overall back health, but they are also important for how we are seen by others. Being up straight exudes confidence and makes us feel better about ourselves. Most people, including myself, need to work on posture and doing so will pay for future health.

If you have more questions give me a call at the Providence Wellness Center. Always check with your doctor before beginning any exercise program.

Make 2007 the year you take the time to improve your overall health!

Information Technology endorsement courses for educators offered in July

The Computer Technology and Information Systems Department at Wayne State College is offering two courses for educators seeking the Information Technology Supplemental Endorsement or wishing to enhance their information technology skills. The two courses are offered in the July Summer Session at WSC, but as space in the courses is limited, students are encouraged to enroll as soon as possible to ensure a place in the courses. Each course is three credit hours and has no prerequisites.

To make it convenient for students with busy summer schedules, the courses are taught as hybrid courses with the face-to-face portion of the courses offered in a few key class meetings and the rest of the course content delivered online. The courses begin July 9 and conclude August 8. A 500-level version of each course is offered for graduate-level students and a 400-level version is available for undergraduates.

The courses include CIS 454/554

Technology Platforms: Hardware and Operating Systems and CSC 442/542 Programming, Design, and Documentation. The face-to-face class meetings are held in Gardner Hall and Bentback Hall on the WSC campus. Both courses are designed to provide valuable learning for students from a wide range of technical and computing backgrounds, ranging from the beginner to the person well-versed in technology.

While designed primarily for educators, administrators, graduate students, and undergraduate education students, almost anyone who deals with computers and information technology can benefit from the courses.

Preregistration is required. Early registration is encouraged as space in each course is limited and available seats in the course are

Blood Bank's Heroes Unite, it's about Life campaign is in full swing

With the Heroes Unite, It's About Life campaign in full swing at the Siouxland Community Blood Bank, many towns are hosting community or employee blood drives and recruiting donors to ensure patients in their area will have blood products when needed.

Your next opportunity to donate in Allen is on Monday, July 9 from 3 to 7 p.m. at the Allen Fire Hall.

In Wayne, you can donate on Tuesday, July 10 from 1 to 6 p.m. at the Grace Lutheran Church.

Also on July 10, you can donate in Dixon from 5 to 7 p.m. at the fire hall.

The Heroes Unite, It's About Life

campaign began May 1 and continues through Sept. 30.

With about three months of the Heroes Unite, It's About Life campaign yet to go, many communities still have the opportunity to hold additional blood drives, and potentially affect their ranking a great deal. Community support and participation is integral to the success of this program, as blood donors are working hand in hand with fire, rescue and police units in town to save lives.

"We have witnessed area patients and their families who are experiencing tough times as they deal with illness or injury, and these struggles happen on a daily basis. We, as citizens, can guarantee blood is available when patients need it by supporting a blood drive and participating in Heroes Unite," said Terry Stecker, Director of Operations for Siouxland Paramedics.

To date, the top 10 communities include (in alphabetical order): Boyden, Carroll, Cherokee, Ida Grove, Le Mars, Manning and Onawa, Iowa, Pender and Wayne, Neb. and Yankton, S.D.

The top three communities with the highest percentage of blood donors registering to donate in comparison to the combined size of their fire, police and rescue squads will win a sponsored donation towards community fire and rescue equipment. Cash awards for Heroes Unite, It's About Life are provided through corporate sponsorship from Cargill Inc., Prestige Collision Repair and McClintock Insurance.

To be eligible to donate blood individuals must be at least 17 years of age; however there is no upper age limit as long as the donor is in good health. In addition, donors need to weigh at least 110 pounds and have not donated whole blood in the past 56 days. A photo I.D. is required at the time of registration.

For more information about "Heroes Unite, It's About Life", the Siouxland Community Blood Bank or blood drives in your area, call 712-252-4208 or 800-798-4208 or visit their website at www.siouxlandbloodbank.org

Norfolk Veterans Home names new director

Nebraska Governor Dave Heineman has named new administrators for three of the four Veterans Homes in Nebraska. He and other state and local officials were in Norfolk to name a new administrator for the Veterans Home there.

Outgoing Norfolk Veterans Home Administrator Duane Hodge has been with the Norfolk facility since 1972. He has also recently been the acting administrator for the Grand Island Veterans Home, and now, after 35 years of service will be retiring at the end of July.

Hodge will be replaced by Lewis Mashburn the third, who is originally from Atlanta, Georgia, but currently lives in the Omaha area. The 59-year-old most recently worked for a national Medicare fraud detection and prevention firm. He is a former hospital administrator with 22 years of military service.

Gov. Heineman, along with incoming State Director of the Division of Veterans Homes John Hilgert made the announcement.

Mashburn says some of the keys to success in the transition at the Norfolk Veterans Home will include the cooperation with the current employees and of course, remembering the sacrifices that these men and women that are residents here at the Veterans home have been through.

gettin' your summer color...

While you may think of your "summer color" as that great tan you got during vacation... summer is a great time for your home to get a little color.

Summer is a great time to tackle that painting project for a multitude of reasons:

- The days are longer and you have more natural light... sometimes hours after you get home from work. This will greatly help to get a better finished job than struggling to see with that old lamp without the shade.
- It is also an easier time to move some of that furniture around. It's warm... so maybe set it out in the garage for a few days.
- The nice weather also allows us to open the windows and let in a little fresh air. Although today's paints are very low odor... sometimes it's good to exchange a little air. Keep in mind though that the summer air will be humid and may add to the drying time.
- If your project involves a kid's room... maybe plan it around the time they are gone to camp. You can clear out the room and not have to have anybody bunking up or sleeping on the living room floor.
- You can also plan your project just before you head off for that vacation. When you get back everything has had plenty of time to dry and your ready to put the outlet plates back on and rehang the pictures. And both you and your home will have that great summer color !!!

Our paint department has recently expanded to include Valspar Medallion 100% acrylic paint. This paint rolls on smooth and has lots of great new colors. Our Design Team is always ready to help choose the right color and sheen for your specific project. From inspiration to application... you'll find everything you need for great summer painting.

Letters

Supports keeping the book

Dear Editor,
I would like to thank the board members of the Wayne Public Library for voting to keep the book, And Tango Makes Three, on the shelf in the children's section of our community's PUBLIC library. Thank goodness our library board ascribes to the Library Bill of Rights and the Nebraska Library Bill of Rights, both of which state "...no library materials should be proscribed or removed from libraries because of partisan or doctrinal disapproval." If a book were removed from a library each time a person was offended by content, or it went against his or her religious beliefs, we would have very few books left on the shelves!

And Tango Makes Three is a book based on a true story, not about humans, but about two male penguins living at the Central Park Zoo, who have been devoted to one another since 1998. After a "heterosexual" penguin couple doesn't take care of one of their two eggs, the zookeeper gives the abandoned egg to Roy and Silo. They are delighted to have an egg of their own, of which they take wonderful care. Tango, the chick, soon arrives, blessed with not one father, but two; two male penguins, both of whom love and adore the new addition to their family.

Steps were taken by the author of an letter published in the Wayne Herald on June 14, 2007 to get the above mentioned book removed from the library, based on her belief the book "promotes a homosexual agenda" and a lifestyle that "children shouldn't be acquainted with." These are her opinions, not facts. She also based her desire to get the book removed on her interpretation of the Bible - not everyone interprets the Bible the same way.

The author of the letter goes on to state, "The homosexual lifestyle is very detrimental and self-destructive." Once again, an opinion. She mentions several ills, such as cancer, abuse, suicide and psychological problems, supposedly rampant in the gay-lesbian lifestyle.

The last I checked, all of these are present (some at astronomical rates) in the heterosexual lifestyle, also. (Could it be possible, with regard to the homosexual population, some of the problems they experience might be a result of living in communities where they are discriminated against, assaulted, and even killed? What if they lived among people who had been raised to believe they should treat others as they would like to be treated?)

Parents have every right to protect their children from things they deem harmful and every right to censor what their children read, watch on television, or what they view online. It is their responsibility to peruse books before their children read them, watch the television programs they are watching and observe them while online (for those parents who want to try and control everything their children see and hear). Parents also have every right to teach their children specific religious and moral values.

However, they do not have the right to impose their values on others by attempting to keep certain written materials they find offensive, out of our public schools and libraries.

Our children, especially if they move from smaller towns to our nation's cities, are going to live, work and go to college with people from a wide range of differing social, cultural, religious and economic backgrounds. One component of their success and happiness in life will be their attitudes, and consequent behavior, toward others. Raising awareness, and educating kids about diversity, will help prepare them for the future. Books like And Tango Makes Three, with heart-warming messages of love, respect and inclusion, offer children, parents, and anyone who likes to read, the opportunity to reflect on people's (and in this case, penguins') differences - something no one should be denied.

Tracy Pierson,
Wayne
A Christian with a different perspective

Thanks to those who read books

Dear Library Supporters,
The Friends of the Library Wayne Public Library would like to sincerely thank those individuals and organizations who contributed to the success of this year's book sale by donating books, buying books or volunteering time, space or energy to the sale's operation.

The book sale is the Friends only major fundraising event. The proceeds from the sale underwrite or seed numerous library endeavors including, the Summer Reading Program, children's and youth programming, the College Knowledge Bowl, planting and maintaining the library's gardens, Humanities speakers, home and institutional (Oaks, Premier Estates, hospital) delivery services, digitizing the Wayne Herald, visits from Santa, as well as providing snacks for sundry special events (like the annual Open House and the Chamber of Commerce coffee).

Because we are a young organization, other, more established groups have generously partnered with the Friends of the Library to help us accomplish our goals. For instance, Pi Gamma Mu co-sponsored this year's college quiz bowl; the Minerva Club helps keep the library's gardens spiffy. The book sale too takes enormous and concerted effort by Friends volunteers and community partners.

We gratefully acknowledge the contributions made by the City of Wayne for allowing Friends to store book donations in the South Room of the Auditorium throughout the year as well as allowing the sale to be held in the main Auditorium and the Boy Scouts who helped move hundreds of boxes and tables during the tear down process. We couldn't have done it without you.

Again, thank you for supporting your library and be sure to drop in on next year's sale.

Sincerely,
Friends of the Library

Political officials face public scrutiny

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Fish bowls come in all sizes. Bigger the fish, bigger the bowl. The president, for example, is a whale. There are eyes on his bowl 24/7.

State and local officials come in for varying amounts of attention, usually during elections, or when elements of the electorate are really annoyed with them, or when questions are raised about the propriety of their official or personal behavior.

Elective jobs in the Statehouse represent "higher" offices than those at the local level, but the elected crowd in Lincoln usually faces a different kind of challenge when it comes to being under the public eye.

Any elected official involved with the local property tax system can be the subject of rumors worthy of a deviant, career criminal who, incidentally, is the likely offspring of a vampire and a rabid jackal. It comes with the territory. Whispered or shouted rumors of conflicts of interest can be standard fare. Accusations of incompetence are part of the environment. Homegrown meanness tends to have a more personal touch.

At the state level, it's appreciably different.

State Treasurer Shane Osborn is under scrutiny these days because he has continued to work for the SilverStone Group insurance brokerage. He is a former Navy aviator who was forced to land his plane on Chinese territory a few years ago. The episode led to President Bush declaring him a hero. Osborn thought out loud of running for the U.S. Senate; then someone poured him a shot of reality, and ran for the treasurer's office under the GOP banner.

Osborn gets paid $85,000 annually for the state job. He hasn't said how much he earns in commissions for the insurance job, but that it is less than the $85 K he gets from taxpayers, and doesn't require more than 20 hours each week, tops.

There is nothing in state law or the Nebraska Constitution barring Osborn's deal with the insurance company. He would only get jammed up if he used the power of his office, one way or another, to enrich himself.

Political reality pretty much gives a fellow in Osborn's position a pass, in any regard. He hasn't done anything illegal, no one has suggested a conflict of interest, and he is a Republican in an overwhelmingly Republican state.

Another headline grabber centered on a report from State Auditor Mike Foley. His crew said that most inspectors employed by the state Brand Commission were not working the full 40-hours for which they are paid.

The situation brought mixed reactions. Naturally, there were taxpayers who initially voiced outrage.

However, there also were a lot of other folks who noted that taxpayers don't pay a dime for the salaries of the inspectors. The commission is funded through fees levied on ranchers - not a dime comes from the general fund.

Most noticeably, defenders of the inspectors noted that they are on call 24/7 - going out to do all manner of duty at all hours, in all weathers.

Foley caught some criticism for allegedly using the situation for posturing of the political variety, since he said it was an example of government being and doing other than what it should.

A legitimate issue arose from the story. The attorney general has been asked to determine whether brand inspectors should be classified with employees required to work - and prove - 40 hours on the job.

The Legislature might be asked to look at both cases - involving Osborn and the brand inspection group - in 2008.

How small do we want to get?

By Lois Shelton,
Mayor of Wayne

As I attend meetings related to economic development and the need to invest precious capital in infrastructure and other growth opportunities, I have heard the question asked - "How big do we want to get?"

My education over the past 15 years, from being involved in the START Program to my present position, has led me to realize that communities need to be proactive or they die. I have lived in Wayne for 29 years and have seen quite an evolution in the business climate in our community. I know that similar changes are taking place in small towns across the country. The question becomes - How small do we want to allow ourselves to become before we take action?

It may appear that we are growing with all the building that has taken place. We have some wonderful new business buildings and many new houses. But how many of those new business buildings only replace ones that are gone or being used for other purposes? Think back even 10 years and count the number of retail-type businesses that are no longer part of our community.

As for the new housing, since 1996 we have lost 42 housing units in Wayne and built 116 units including the townhouses. That may seem like a good net increase - approximately 7 per year but somehow our population is showing a decrease. The school census certainly reflects this. The key is that family size is decreasing and many of our homes are now occupied by 1 or 2 people.

Congressman Jeff Fortenberry made the observation when he last visited Wayne that we are fortunate to have such a diversified industrial base. Wayne is an attractive community in which to locate for many reasons. We need to be vigilant in maintaining our momentum and be willing to invest up-front in the areas of infrastructure and housing to keep Wayne from sliding backward. It would be sad for the next generation to have to ask why we weren't proactive enough to keep this great community alive.

Welcome to Wayne

Wayne Ambassador Chair Jeryl Nelson, left, welcome Natalie and Adam Endicott to Wayne as new business owners. The couple recently purchased Jammer Photography from Bill and Sue Jammer. The business will continue to operate under the Jammer name for some time. The Jammers plan to pursue other interests.

Gale urges flag display on July 4th holiday

Nebraska Secretary of State John Gale encouraged Nebraskans to fly the U.S. flag on the July 4th holiday to show their support for U.S. military personnel, and especially those serving in combat zones in Iraq and Afghanistan.

"Independence Day is a time to reflect on the heroic efforts of our military personnel from the time of the Revolutionary War to the present, and their sacrifices for freedom and liberty," said Gale, who serves as chief protocol officer for Nebraska.

"Bringing stability and hope for freedom to Iraq and Afghanistan are worthy goals, and we need to express our support for our military personnel seeking to achieve those goals," he said.

"Let's never forget the extreme dangers they face and their valiant service," he said. "Our thoughts and prayers are with them."

Gale noted that displaying the U.S. flag is a good way to demonstrate pride in America. "The U.S. flag is the national symbol of our values of freedom, liberty and democracy," he said.

As a free public service, people may arrange with Gale's office to have U.S. and Nebraska flags flown at the State Capitol throughout the year in recognition of individuals, accomplishments and special occasions.

Those interested must provide the flags, deliver it to Gale's office and provide information as to why the flag is being flown. Flags flown at the Capitol are accompanied by a keepsake certificate signed by Gale detailing the date and purpose of the flight.

For flag arrangements, contact Kacey Nelkin at (402) 471-4070.

respected and recognized at all levels for her superior teaching education programs and teaching within Business Education."

Northeast Nebraska RC&D meets June 25

Prior to Monday night's meeting, many RC&D Council members joined in the celebration of the Klown Doll Museum expansion. Governor Heinemann congratulated the volunteers for showcasing their community through a unique and fun facility. The Museum now boasts almost 4,000 clown dolls and related memorabilia. This is a one-of-a-kind attraction for Nebraska.

Art Kuhl of Randolph reported on the Wau-Col Regional Water System project. A recent meeting provided the eight towns involved with information for grant and loan funding to make the project happen. Each community must respond by Sept. 15 with a yes or no to remain involved.

Lois Olson, Plainview Historical Museum, reported on their July 3 and 4 antique equipment event which includes something for everyone - from kite flying to musical entertainment. They've recently restored the original depot platform and have more projects planned. Forming a small museum network is being discussed.

A recent Northeast Nebraska

Weed Management Area (NNWMA) tour in Newcastle was reported on by Jerry Schroeder of Allen. Leafy spurge chemical plots in place since 2000 gave a good understanding of the variety of treatments available to control this noxious weed. The NNWMA will be applying for several grants to continue their chemical and biological attack on noxious and invasive weeds in the 8-county area.

All 12 Nebraska Councils have now received the "Circle of Diamonds," an award of excellence, from the National RC&D Association. Nebraska is the only state in the country that has all their Councils recognized with this status. NRCS State Conservationist Steve Chick says "It is great to see others outside Nebraska recognizing what we have known for a long time - when it comes to RC&Ds, there is no place like Nebraska".

The Council's July tour and meeting will be in Neligh on the 23rd. Be looking for the RC&D booth at the county fairs.

Control anger rather than suppress it

Anger is a natural and powerful human emotion. Often people are taught not to be angry, but really they should be taught how to express and control their anger. Uncontrolled anger can ruin or destroy relationships and affect jobs and job performance. In addition, anger negatively can affect physical or psychological health

Amy Topp
Extension Educator
4-H & Youth

because too much stress can be hurtful to bodies.

Some temperaments and personalities are more prone to become angry, but individuals can get a grip on anger by reasoning with themselves. Question whether the issue is important or worth being angry about. If the answer is yes, then it is OK to be angry. However, take action to correct what brought on the anger. Also, realize that other people are responsible for their own actions and even being angry cannot force anyone to change.

Think-stop is a good technique to help control anger. Individuals stop, think and count to three or 10 to give them some time to collect themselves. This technique really can help people act more responsibly.

Listening also can be vital to calming and reducing anger. Look the other person in the eye and reflect on what has been said. Avoid being judgmental.

Sometimes laughter really is the best medicine. Laughter banishes negative emotions and is relaxing. People don't laugh enough and they should laugh at themselves more often.

Do you have your SPANX?

It's time for an underwear revolution! Men have had the boxers and women have been waiting... Traditional underwear never stays in place and causes visible panty lines (otherwise known as VPL). Then g-strings came along and put underwear in the exact place we had been trying to get it out of! Body shapers are not much better. The leg band always creates a visible bulge on the thigh. The waistbands are too tight, and some styles even have fancy seaming that creates two derrières instead of one!

Armyworm moths are on the increase, and farmers should be on the lookout for developing caterpillar populations, University of Nebraska-Lincoln entomologists say.

"If you have been outside near your porch light the last week or so, you may have noticed a great number of moths flying around," said Tom Hunt, entomologist at the Haskell Agricultural Laboratory near Concord. "Many of these are simply a nuisance, but one, the armyworm moth, may have implications for Nebraska farmers."

UNL light traps at Hastings, Clay Center and Concord have been capturing increasing numbers of armyworm moths.

Armyworm moths migrate from the south and lay eggs on grasses, often in pastures, field edges, or on grassy weeds in cornfields. After eating the grass, or after the grass is killed by an herbicide, the larvae move onto the corn to feed. They feed at night, usually on the leaf margins, but can consume the entire leaf except for the tough midrib when populations are high, Hunt said. Armyworms often start feeding on the lower leaves and work their way up. The armyworm larvae also can injure wheat or other small grains.

Armyworm larvae are smooth with two orange stripes along each side and two dark stripes on the back. A distinguishing characteristic is a yellow-brown head with brown netlike pattern of dark lines.

Cornfields with grassy weeds should be scouted regularly, particularly after the weeds begin to die following an herbicide application, Hunt said. Corn plants can tolerate quite a bit of early season defoliation, so farmers should not treat the field with an insecticide simply because they see some armyworm injury.

Hunt suggested treatment when more than 50 percent of the plants have armyworm injury and when the larvae are numerous and less than 1.25 inches long. Larger larvae are nearly done feeding, so little additional injury is caused by them.

Updated information on

Nebraska light trap insect capture, armyworm management, and insecticide choice can be found at www.entomology.unl.edu. Information also is available in the NebGuide, Insects That Feed on Corn Ears, <http://www.ianrpubs.unl.edu/publications/publicationD.jsp?publicationId=524>

Food and 4-H

Members of the Blue Ribbon Winners 4-H Club conducted a canned food drive. Members have been collecting the food for some time, but all collected items were taken to the club's Fun Day, Community Service and Picnic held in Hoskins recently. ## Bruning elected vice president of National Association of Attorneys General

Attorney General Jon Bruning recently was elected vice president of the National Association of Attorneys General (NAAG) at the organization's quarterly meeting in Atlanta.

"Protecting our families and children is a nationwide effort, and our state attorneys general are on the frontlines," Bruning said. "When we get together to share ideas and experiences, we make our home states safer."

As vice president, Bruning will sit on the NAAG executive committee. The position is in the line of succession for presidency of the organization.

NAAG facilitates interaction among Attorneys General. The organization coordinates state-federal working groups, plans and provides continuing legal education for state lawyers, and serves as a liaison between state attorneys general and the federal government.

LWML convention was a great 'spiritual uplift'

Once in awhile, a body needs a spiritual "uplift." I have often thought of signing up for a few days in the monastery at Schuyler; everyone says it is a beautiful, peaceful place where you can rest and meditate and get in touch with that is known as quartzite? It has a deep pink color and looks very strong. And did you realize there really is a falls? I certainly didn't. I had lived three hours from that town for 30 years and all I ever heard was that it had a great mall.

When the women of the LCMS meet for four days every two years, there is a huge amount of singing, some inspirational speaking, visits by missionaries and some of the people they have baptized, and a lot of fun. I remember going to my first local meeting and seeing two women in St. Paul's church in Winside do a little skit and I wondered what kind of organization this was.

Well, it is a powerful one, one that has raised thousands of dollars by putting our change in what we call mite boxes, by praying for our projects, by singing our hearts out and by having fun while we are doing it.

Just one example: the gal from Minnesota who kept us in stitches with her little vignettes talked about this affinity of the Norwegians for lutefisk. She explained that lutefisk is cod prepared with lye! She called it the "cod that passeth all understanding."

You don't sleep much at these conventions, and this week, I'm helping with VBS, but it was a great spiritual uplift, and I'll rest next week, I hope.

The Farmer's Wife

your spiritual dimension.

Well, I just came back from the LWML convention, and I've had had my uplifting, but it certainly was not restful or relaxing. But then, they never are. There is a national convention of our Lutheran Women in Mission every other year, with a local one the year in between. I had not attended one for over 10 years; they usually are in June, when the B&B was pretty busy.

In 1989, four of us from the area and one friend from California attended a great one in Rapid City and stayed in a Bed and Breakfast. That really helps with the 7 a.m. breakfast rush when 5,000 women stand in line at restaurants, trying to get some coffee and food.

Three of us from the area, and the same friend from California, attended this one in Sioux Falls and again stayed in a B&B. And it was another great experience.

Sioux Falls is not a big city, and their original arena is not new. The steps are steep, and the seats are wood, which gives you a clue. But they have a new Sheraton Hotel nearby, and they have added dining rooms and ball rooms, and there is even a huge athletic complex in the same area. Plus, it's easy to find off the interstate, and was close to the Victorian house we were staying in.

MERRY HOMEMAKERS

Merry Homemakers held their annual June tour on June 22 with 12 members traveling to the Dalesburg Lutheran Church, north of Vermillion, SD to celebrate "Midsommar In Dalesburg," an annual ancient festival originating in Sweden, to celebrate the summer solstice. It was introduced by Swedish Immigrants from Dalarna Province in 1868. It is always celebrated the Friday between June 19 and 25.

The afternoon program consisted of a harpist/accordion duet from Norway, playing and singing their homeland tunes, but also the national anthems of the USA and Sweden.

A sing-a-long with Mike Pedersen of the Nora Music Store, in the middle of nowhere, population of 1, singing the old familiar hymns making the pipe organ really talk.

LITTLE MISSY MOO MOO

Little Missy Moo Moo was born in March on the dairy farm of Dwight and Pam Anderson to a stock cow who had carried her full term. She was born with curly hair and with a hair lip and missing nostril. Hopes for a long life for the calf were not great. Feeding began with a cup or less of milk. She learned how to accept the bottle from the side of her mouth and became more eager to eat as the days went by.

She now has a full growth of curly brown hair, stands 22" high and loves her bottle, scampers around her pen and is excited over all of the attention given her. It will be interesting to see just how large she will get. Dwight named her and the name fits so well. She has been enjoying the sunshine outside. Haven't we all?

Ak-Sar-Ben's River City Roundup (ARCR), the region's premier celebration of agriculture and western heritage, announced the development of a Street Team which has numerous volunteer opportunities for individuals of all ages to participate in one the region's largest events.

Ak-Sar-Ben's River City Roundup is the host of the Wrangler ProRodeo Playoff Three, the Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show and the Douglas County Fair. The 2007 event will take place Sept. 27-30 at the Qwest Center Omaha.

Celebrating its 26th anniversary, several new events such as a road race and barbecue contest have been added. To produce an event of this magnitude, boasting more than 100,000 guests, the non-profit organization needs help! Volunteers are needed to assist with the Ak-Sar-Ben Street Team, 4-H Livestock Show, Giddy Up Gulch & AgVentureland kids areas, hospitality offices, Douglas County Fair exhibits and arena clean-up.

Depending largely on its volunteer force, individuals who are generous enough to donate their time will receive a free volunteer t-shirt, free parking, rodeo ticket discounts, a grab bag and other amenities-not to mention a great time. Each year more than 1,000 volunteers are needed for ARCR, and it is a great opportunity for local service groups, as well as rodeo lovers, to get involved in something worthwhile. Anyone age 16 and older is encouraged to volunteer in support of this important community event. Student volunteers are eligible to earn community service credits for their participation.

New this year, the Ak-Sar-Ben Street Team will serve as the core group of volunteers to work events leading up to ARCR. Promotions include volunteering to participate in parades, sporting events, and selling tickets over the lunch hour at various Omaha area companies. Street Team members will receive a T-shirt, invitations to the Trails End Party, parking passes at the ARCR and ticket discounts to the rodeo. Interested individuals or groups should call Sean Phifer at (402) 554-9600 ext. 102.

Volunteer submission forms for ARCR can be found online at www.rivercityroundup.org or call Jessica DeLay at (402) 554-9600 x 107 to sign up. Those interested in helping out should register before Sept. 1. A mandatory volunteer meeting is scheduled for Sept. 18 at 5 p.m. at the Qwest Center Omaha. Ak-Sar-Ben's River City Roundup is a family celebration of agriculture and Western heritage. It is managed by the Knights of Ak-

Sar-Ben Foundation, which has been a sponsor of the PRCA sanctioned Ak-Sar-Ben Rodeo in Omaha for 60 years. The Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben Foundation was established in 1895 with a mission of building a more prosperous heartland where communities can flourish and every child can succeed.
