State Airport Fly-in to be held in connection with the annual Chicken Show

The 2007 State Airport Fly-in will be held at the Wayne Municipal Airport in Wayne in connection with this year's annual Chicken Show on Saturday, July 14. Coffee and donuts will be served at the airport from 7 to 10 a.m.

There will be static displays at the airport and judging for various aircraft will be at 11 a.m. with awards announced at 1 p.m. — there will be four divisions: vintage, custom built, ultralights and warbirds. Anyone wishing to have their airplane judged needs to notify the person welcoming them to the airport.

This event is being sponsored by Wayne Airport Authority, Becker Aircraft Maintenance and Nebraska Aviation Council.

The Nebraska Aviation Council has been associated with the annual Nebraska State Fly-in for 15 years. The purpose of the fly-in is to promote general aviation within communities that have local airports. Airports are selected by an NAC committee.

Anyone wanting more information on the council and this year's fly-in can visit: <http://www.avmechseminar.org> or contact Nancy Braden at 402-375-1733 or nancy@cityofwayne.org. Anyone wanting more information on the Chicken Show can go to www.chickenshow.com

All dressed up

Chickens of all varieties are now on display at the WAEDI office, waiting for Henoween. The chickens will go to the highest bidders on Friday, July 13 during the Henoween festivities. More than 20 cement chickens will be on display. This year's Henoween activities will be held on the newly renovated Main Street. Saturday's Chicken Show activities will take place at Bressler Park, due to construction at Wayne State College. A complete listing of both Henoween and Chicken Show events will be included in a special tab in next week's edition of the Morning Shopper.

Commissioners listens to regional jail update

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session on Tuesday. Lee Myers of Wisner Community Development, was present with a regional jail update. He noted since Cuming County didn't adopt the resolution, he wanted to see what the commissioners wanted to do. He was also visiting other counties to get input. He added, if the bond passes in Cuming County, they will probably build a jail there.

Commissioner Kelvin Wurdeman noted that it's hard to believe Cuming County wouldn't want to work with other counties, that they wouldn't need other counties revenue. Wayne and Stanton won't use the regional jail much if it's located in West Point. Thurston County wants to be in the groundroofs part of building a regional jail.

Wayne County Sheriff LeRoy Janssen wondered why Thurston wants to close as it has a jail and could continue operating. Wurdeman said that the facility needs work and if they close to do so, then they are in violation of jail standards. Sheriff Janssen noted that if Wayne County had 15-20 prisoners daily instead of 4-6, he would have strongly suggested having the regional jail here.

Myers said he had a good meeting with the West Point Chamber, who agreed less expense was good. He added that if West Point divides the vote, the bond is less apt to pass. If the bond fails, he can come back to look at the regional jail idea again.

Wurdeman said he would be willing to sit on a board if other counties want to get together to gather facts. Myers noted this is a political issue and that it will be decided in September if there will be a bond put into the November ballot. A fact paper will need to be put out to the public. Sheriff Janssen suggested websites as they are easy to access.

Myers ended with, if a regional jail is built, someone needs the incentive to sell empty beds and a committee needs to look into that too.

Highway Superintendent Elizabeth

Carlson gave commissioners her report on the traffic study she did on the unfinished portion of Highview Drive, which she found is not being traveled because it's not developed. She added she wrote letters to the local post office, NNPPD, the local schools and to residents of Muhs Acres; from the responses she's received, the majority doesn't object to the area being vacated. Her recommendation to the commissioners is to vacate the 200' x 200' area and have a public hearing on Tuesday, Aug. 7 at 10 a.m. in the courthouse meeting room. The commissioners adopted the resolution.

The commissioners approved a change order and application for payment for soft match project C009003915, Wayne South, located on 577th Avenue, Mile 852, one mile east and 3.2 miles south of Wayne.

New business included approval of a special liquor license application from Wakefield Redneck Mud Drags for their event on Aug. 26, west of the Wakefield Golf Course.

Approval was given for lodging tax grant applications for $1,500 to the Wayne County Ag Society for printing of fairbooks and $350 to the Wayne Community Theatre.

The next regular meeting of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners is set for Tuesday, July 17 at 9 a.m. at the courthouse in Wayne.

Biology students travel to South Dakota

Eight Winside students, Tucker Bowers, Ashley Doffin, Amanda Pfeiffer, Matt Peter, Will Janke, Michaela Staub, Samantha Harmeier and Ethan Taylor, along with instructor Paul Sok, recently completed a five day tour 'out west'.

The group departed from Winside High School on June 18 at 5 a.m. in one of the school vans.

The first stop for the day was at the Badlands National Monument near Interior, S.D. The group had a chance to hike around and take pictures of the scenic, eroded landscape before heading off to Rapid City.

Shortly after arriving in Rapid City, the group toured the Blackhills School of Mines Geology Museum to view various fossils and crystals along with having the opportunity to see replicas of the world's largest gold nuggets.

Before leaving Rapid City, the students were engaged in a tour of the Journey Center by Stan Lucas and received an historical outlook of the Blackhills region. The afternoon was completed with a trip to the world-famous Reptile Gardens south of Rapid City.

The evening of the first day found the group hiking around Mt. Rushmore and viewing the night lighting ceremony.

Tuesday came and it was a bright and early start for the group as they tried a little gold panning at Wade's Historic Gold Mill near Hill City. Host Robert Wade gave a guided historic tour of old mining equipment and then instructed the group in the art of gold panning.

Several members of the group were able to find a few flakes in a near-by stream on the property.

Next was a stop in Hill City where the group visited the Blackhills Institute of Geological Research and had the opportunity to view examples of T. rex fossils. The museum owners are world famous for their discovery of the nearly complete Sue fossil in the early 1990's.

Prior to lunch, the group took a guided bus tour of Crazy Horse monument and had a chance to view the memorial from near the base. They returned later that evening to be entertained by an elaborate laser show on the mountain.

The afternoon was spent doing a variety of types of physical activity, from touring Jewel Case to climbing around in the Needles and swimming in Sylvania Lake.

Wednesday started out with a drive-through tour of Custer State Park where the students were able to view bison, antelope, white tailed deer, burros, elk and prairie dog towns. Before leaving the park, the group toured the Blue Bell Lodge and took a hike up to the Rankin Fire Tower.

The latter part of the afternoon was spent crawling around for almost four hours on a spelunking tour of Wind Cave.

That evening the students had a guided tour of the Mammoth site on the south end of Hot Spring and later cooled down at the popular Evan's Plunge Water Park before turning in.

Thursday was off for more adventures as the group hit Cascade Falls for an early morning swim before spending a couple of hours looking for fossils at the Kevin and Twila Grote Ranch north of Harrison.

Some interesting finds were several bone and tooth fragments from 30 million year old Titanotheres (two horned rhino) and some fossilized tortoise shells. Tucker Bowers made the rare discovery of an ancient native scraping tool near the top region of the fossil site.

The site is approximately 15 miles west of the Hudson-Ming Bison Kill site north of Crawford and was probably associated with the Native Americans of that particular time period.

After fossil hunting activities, the group entered the Pine Ridge and made their way to Ft. Robinson for a horse-drawn hayrack ride and historic tour through the park grounds. It was then time to rush off and head east of Chadron over to the North American Museum of Fur Trade for a scavenger hunt sponsored by the museum curators.

The afternoon concluded with a tour of the Bowring Ranch and barbecue meal by the park staff before heading off through a rainstorm into Valentine.

The final day started out with a 25 mile drive and short hike down to Snake Falls and continued with another hike around the Ft. Falls area of Ft. Niobrara northeast of Valentine.

The group then concluded their outing with a guided tour of the Ashfall Fossil Beds near Royal.

"The group is especially thankful to Gardner Foundation and Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District for funding the majority of the trip. The group would also like to thank the Winside Board of Education and Administration for the use of the school van," Sok said.

This trip marks the 11th year Sok has traveled to this area with his students.

Outdoor injury prevention starts in your own back yard

Summer is the season for families to relax and enjoy traditional pastimes such as barbecues, pool parties and backyard gatherings. However, an increase in activity and guests can also mean an increase in summer accidents.

"Children are attracted to fire, and summer brings an increase in burn injuries from outdoor grills," said Jeanne Bietz of the Nebraska Health and Human Service System's Safe Kids Program. "Barbecue grills are hazardous because they are low to the ground and within children's reach."

Nebraska Safe Kids recommends these precautions for activities in the back yard:

- Designate the grilling area a "Kid-Free Zone" for the duration of the barbecue.

- Keep grills at least three feet away from other objects, including the house and any shrubs or bushes.

- Use only starter fluid made for barbecue grills when starting a fire in a charcoal grill; do not add liquid fuel to re-ignite a dwindling fire.

- Before using a gas grill, check the connection between the propane tank and the fuel line.

- Check for gas leaks, following the manufacturer's instructions, if you smell gas or when you reconnect the grill to the propane tank. NEVER use a match to check for leaks. If you detect a leak, immediately turn off the gas and don't attempt to light the grill again until the leak is fixed.

- Keep children and pets away from the grill area until it is completely cool.

Nebraska Safe Kids offers detailed guidelines about summer safety tips at <http://www.hhss.ne.gov/hpe/safekids.htm> or www.safekids.org

Bigfoot???

Bigfoot was sighted at the Wayne Public Library this week. Those attending Tuesday's Summer Reading Program had the opportunity to learn about North American Big Foot. The Summer Reading Program activities take place each Tuesday and Thursday and is designed for those in the Read-to-Me group through sixth grade.

Accident occurs east of Wayne

At about noon on July 2, an east-bound vehicle driven by Keith Newman of Dixon crossed the center line about three miles east of Wayne on Highway 35 and struck the rear duals of a tractor-trailer driven by Todd Holland of Wayne. Lutt Trucking of Wayne owns the tractor and trailer.

The Newman vehicle then continued off the road at that location, through a fence line and down into a depression that is about 20 to 30 feet deep. The car is considered a total loss.

PMC Ambulance took Newman to Providence Medical Center. There were no other passengers in either vehicle. The Wayne Fire Department Rescue Team assisted the Wayne County Sheriff's Office at the scene. The accident remains under investigation at this time.

Summer fun

The Wayne Public Library has been a busy place this summer as activities have taken place at both the library and throughout the community. Above, Matthew "Sitting Bear" Jones, a Native American, was the guest speaker at last week's kick-off for the second session of the Summer Reading Program. He spoke, attired in native dress, about the thinking and customs of the Kiowa People. His presentation was sponsored, in part, by the Nebraska Humanities. Also last week, a family event was held at the Wayne Fair Grounds - a Geo Cache Treasure Hunt! Those attending learned about tracking with GPS technology and were able to spend time with their children. Other activities taking place this summer at Wayne Public Library are geared for teens and include a murder mystery event.

Clean fun???

Participants were anything but clean during a mud volleyball tournament that was part of the Fourth of July celebration at Hoskins. Both men's and women's teams were part of the festivities that took place over the weekend. Other activities were scheduled to take place on the Fourth of July, including the annual Tractor Pull.

Traveler visits with Sudan Refugees in the Midwest

By Dean Jacobs

Editor's note: This is the ninth in a series of articles written by Dean Jacobs about his travel excursions through Ethiopia.

From the banks of the muddy Baro River in Ethiopia to the banks of the muddy Missouri, the Sudanese refugees have found their way to places like Nebraska.

Who are these quiet people that often have strange marks on their forehead they call gaar?

They are the people of South Sudan.

It's not that simple though, because South Sudan is made up of several cultures and some of these cross over political boundaries. The Dinka and Nuer tribes are two main groups in southern Sudan.

where thousands of people fled into surrounding countries like Ethiopia. Often they ended up in areas like Gambella in western Ethiopia situated close to the border with Sudan. Or in some situations they went to countries like Kenya, Uganda or Egypt. It is estimated that up to two million people have died in the conflict and displaced 4 million southern Sudan residents.

Most of the 15-30 thousand Sudanese refugees who are now living in Nebraska come from the Nuer tribe. The Nuer are most known for the love of cattle, maybe this is part of the reason why they ended up in a place like Nebraska.

Family ties are extremely important and play a key role in conflict resolution and status. They are also known for their acceptance of strangers into their community.

"If you would live long enough in a Nuer village, you could even become the chief of the village," said police commander Dawit Daboul of Gambella.

Nebraska is now linked to this part of Africa. This point is made clear when you walk down the brown dirt streets of Gambella and encountered people currently living in Nebraska back visiting family.

Lincoln resident Thomas Thoiucet who works for the Lincoln Literacy Council was back visiting family in Gambella.

"Nebraska is a great place to live; I have been treated more fairly there than anywhere else," said Thomas. "I do miss my culture, my extended family and our traditional food," says Thomas when asked about living in Nebraska.

During his visit Thomas was helping family members rebuild a house that had caught fire recently. It is important to get it done before the rainy season begins, according to Thomas.

"When I returned to Gambella,

A typical refugee village scene in the area called Newland. Newland is adjacent to Gambella and is the home for the Nuer people of Sudan.

all of my relatives had a welcome back party for me, we were so happy that we cried a lot," said Thomas.

Yean Riang, 34 years old, was originally brought to Des Moines Iowa in 1995 by the Lutheran Social Services as a refugee resettlement project, he now lives in Omaha. Riang, who is a University of Nebraska at Omaha engineer student, was on a break from school visiting family in Gambella.

"My first day in Des Moines, I went into a grocery store to look around and saw shrimp on the counter, I ran outside and threw up, I had never seen anything like it before, it looked like a bug to me," said Yean.

The next day he accidentally ate one and decided that shrimp tasted pretty good cooked.

Grocery stores are just one small thing to learn how to navigate through in a new culture in the Midwest.

The next challenge; snow. It was hard to adjust to the cold and snow. "I've gotten to the point where I don't have to put on three pairs of socks on my feet," said Yean, "but I still don't like it."

Some cultural differences are hard to understand says Yean. "The first time I saw a 15-year boy curse a 80-year-old man, I was shocked. In the Nuer culture, we are taught from the beginning to have a very deep respect for our elders. Often they are the ones who maintain the traditions and keep peace within our community."

"I miss my family here when I am back in Nebraska," says Yean, "but being in the US is a great opportunity for me."

"When I return to the refugee camps here in Ethiopia to visit my

Accident claims life

On July 1, Dakota County Sheriff's Department was dispatched to an accident where 21-year-old Ryan Otte of Wakefield had fallen from a trolley that was being pulled by a 1/2 ton pickup.

The accident occurred northeast of Emerson on S. Avenue between 220th Street and 230th Street in rural Dakota County. Emerson Rescue transported Otte to Highway 35 where Mercy Air Care life flighted him to Mercy hospital. Due to the injuries sustained as a result of the accident, Otte did not survive.

This is still an ongoing investigation and no more information is being released at this time.

Several Wayne Rotary Club members took the GSE team from Sweden on a tour while they were visiting this area. ## Rotary GSE team from Sweden find Nebraskans very friendly

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

A Rotary GSE (Group Study Exchange) team from Sweden visited in Wayne and area this spring. The group of five (Sven-Erik Paul Sahlen, Magnus Petersson, Susanne Nordberg, Lotta Sylven and Torbjorn Nilsson) stayed in the homes of Wayne Rotarians: Darrell Miller, Reggie Yates, Ann Nolte, Ann Witkowski, Dan Rose. Lowell Johnson, administrator, gave the Swedish visitors the keys to the city of Wayne.

While here, local activities the GSE team did included a tour of Heritage Homes and Heritage Industries, the men toured the Winnebago area with John and Ann Witkowski while the ladies participated in the TeamMates walk held in Wayne, the group visited a buffalo farm near Crofton and saw the sights in the Yankton area and the ladies visited Northeast Nebraska Equipment in Wayne and received John Deere shirts. The highlight of their trip was riding horses and watching calf roping at the new arena at Northeast Community College in Norfolk.

Sahlen, 58, is a senior advisor for Orebro Regional Development Council (labor market and education). His vocational interests are social and commercial planning, job training programs and educational system. His hobbies are golf, skiing and sports. He's married with adult children.

Sylven, 37, is an economic controller at Municipal Social Services in Arvika. Her vocational interests are in municipal management and finance. She likes to swim, hike, read, cook and sail. She is married with two children.

Petersson, 39, is manager of SEB in Orebro and is responsible for the private banking business. His vocational interests include banking and financial planning. Hobbies include sports, running, art, culture, architecture, history and cooking. Petersson and his wife, Marie, have two children, Ellen, 12 and Klara, 9.

Nordberg, 28, is a credit analyst at Nordea, the largest bank in the Nordic region. Her vocational interests include banking, corporate credit, entrepreneurship, and management. Her hobbies are travel, exercise, film and music, scrap booking and food. Her fiancé is Mikael.

Nilsson, 36, is the owner of a steel processing company. His interests are steel manufacturing, processing, other manufacturing. He enjoys entrepreneurship, skiing, golfing, biking, hiking and camping. Nilsson and his wife, Marie, have a daughter, Mayla.

The group gave information on their country including that the typical Swedish married couple has two children who are in sports (soccer is the biggest sport there), the father works in industry and the mother works in healthcare. The hi-tech couple makes around $5,000 a month.

The form of government in Sweden is a monarchy. Here we are proud of our flag, there they're proud of their writers, inventors and companies. For example, Alfred Nobel (1833-1896) was founder of dynamite. The Nobel prize continues to be awarded to worthy individuals. Other inventions in Sweden include the propeller, refrigerator, adjustable wrench; famous brands from Sweden include Volvo, Skype, Atlas, SAAB, IKEA, Scania.

Looking back at Sweden, the country was poor in the 1850s but now is an economic miracle thanks to hydro power, ore, forests, technology development (manufacturing to service) and entrepreneurship. Thirty percent of each person's wages goes to the tax system which enables everyone to have healthcare from the cradle to the grave and pays for social insurance for each person there. Costs are higher there compared to here, especially for gas which is twice as much as here.

Swedish traditions include Easter, Christmas, Walpurgis (Welcome Spring), Midsummer (mid-june welcome), Crayfish party, Lucia, which is Dec. 13 and is celebrated to bring light to the people as the winter is dark (part of the country is in the Arctic Circle) and National Day. Some businesses in Sweden are government controlled such as daycare and farming. There is much diversity in the land including sea shores, mountains and more.

Nordberg had this to say about her visit to this area, "I had a great time in Nebraska and Iowa, the people we met were just awesome! Everybody was so friendly! And the time in Wayne was so interesting, since Lotta and I stayed at a real farm with the Noltes. They were great! It was so nice to see a farm up close! I would love to come back, I love the states and I have been to the east and west coasts before so I am happy that I got to see the real U.S.A.!"

family often people stare at me. It can be frustrating at times, they say I look different, that my skin looks smoother than theirs, or that I have become heavier. I guess it comes from all that fast food.

Someone asked Yean what is it like to go from sleeping in a bed in Omaha to sleeping in a traditional grass hut?

"I can sleep anywhere," responded Yean. Socially I don't distinguish myself as better, because I am one of them, I am willing to do what ever they need me to do."

Yean has a goal of having his own engineer company working in Nebraska, Iowa and throughout the Midwest.

Peace has brought a change to southern Sudan according to Kisut Gebregziabher, the Senior Public Information Officer at the UNHCR (United Nations High Commission for Refugees) office in Addis Abba with the signing and implementation of the 2005 peace agreement.

The UNHCR and IOM (International office on Migration) have begun repatriating Sudanese back into south Sudan. Since December of 2006, they have moved approximately 22,000 people back home to Sudan.

"It is a voluntary repatriation," says Kisut, "people are choosing to go home, some have been away for more than 20 years."

The process will take time, according to the rains and the ability of the area to receive people. This also means the refugee resettlement to countries like the US will begin to slow down.

Most people want to live in their homeland with dignity and safety, said Kisut, and we want to help them get there.

Lights, wastewater treatment plan debated

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The lighting of softball and baseball fields and the status of the wastewater treatment plant were among the topics of discussion when the Wayne City Council met Tuesday.

Garry Poutre, Public Works Superintendent, told the council that no money is in the current budget to upgrade or install lighting at either Hank Overin Field or the Summer Sports Complex. He also said that the lighting at Hank Overin Field is "adequate" and installing more energy efficient lights "would not result in enough savings to pay for the new lights."

Following considerable debate, the council voted 6-2 not to bid out lighting for Hank Overin Field and 8-0 to seek bids for one, two and three of the fields at the Summer Sports Complex.

Discussion on the wastewater treatment plant centered on the fact that many of the parts within the facility are becoming obsolete and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) standards are being raised so that the water leaving the plant is not able to meet standards.

Council member Verdel Lutt said "this is a major project. We don't want to just keep putting in pieces and hoping they will last."

Sometime in the near future the council will decide what option to take in regard to the wastewater treatment plant. Among possible options are repairing the existing facility, building a new facility at the current location or building a new facility at another location.

Several resolutions received approval during Tuesday's meeting. They included Resolution 2007-65 which approves the cost estimate, plans and specifications for a project to convert overhead electrical distribution to underground distribution in the Pine Heights area.

Garry Poutre told the council that many of the lines in the area are not accessible with trucks and "underground lines have a lot less exposure and are more reliable."

Resolution 2007-64 was passed unanimously, accepting the work on the west water tower.

Ordinances receiving approval included Ordinance 2007-5, amending the city code in regard to parking; Ordinance 2007-6, rescinding a 2005 ordinance which directed the sale of a tract of land to Kenneth Jorgensen and Ordinance 2007-7, rescinding a 2006 ordinance, which directed the sale of another tract of land to Jorgensen.

In other action, the council discussed various aspects of the planned construction at the Summer Sports Complex.

Doug Carroll and Laura Gamble, members of the fundraising committee for the facility, told the council that approximately $45,000 in cash has been collected for the project, with another $20,000 pledged.

Possible options for the construction of the new facility were also discussed, including how to deal with the volunteer labor and materials pledged to the project.

The council voted 8-0 to look into hiring a construction manager for the project and to cash flow the project as construction takes place.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, July 17 at 5:30 p.m. in the council chambers.

Jewell Schock works on the Habitat for Humanity home last weekend. Workers will be on the site each Saturday until the home is finished.

Progress continues to be made on Habitat for Humanity home

Trusses were lifted into place and sheathing panels were installed on the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity house #2 at 1014 Douglas Street, on June 30.

Fourteen volunteers helped Wanda Ryden and the Habitat for Humanity construction committee to accomplish the tasks. Alan Finn and Dave Olson of Northeast Equipment in Wayne volunteered their time and equipment to help with the construction activities. Lunch was provided for volunteers by Quality Food Center of Wayne.

On the next two Saturdays the roof will be shingled and windows, sheetrock and siding will begin to be installed. For more information on volunteer opportunities, contact John Witkowski (375-4509) or Kyle Rose (375-2340).

Construction on the house will be occurring during the Saturday of the Wayne Chicken Show. The Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity chapter encourages people to walk 1/2 block north of Bressler Park that day to see the progress on the house build.

Habitat for Humanity depends heavily on church congregations in the area communities. Jewell Schock is the chair of the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity church relations committee. According to Jewell, "Church congregations are an avenue of contact to their members who want to participate in Habitat for Humanity. Those individuals who participate express their faith in a conspicuous and meaningful way."

Although Habitat for Humanity is a Christian organization, it does not restrict participation to Christians. Habitat for Humanity is also not aligned with any specific Christian faith. The Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity monthly meetings are held in different cooperating congregations in Wayne and the surrounding communities. All church congregations are invited to participate in Habitat for Humanity.

Schock tries to visit all church congregations within a 20 mile radius of Wayne once a year. "I ask church members to consider contributing their prayers, their labor, and their financial support," Jewell says. "Habitat for Humanity is a good group to work with."

For additional information about the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity, contact the chapter president Roger Meyer at 375-2148 or Mark Hammer at 375-4768.

Eagle Court of Honor planned

Andrew Long will become the 131st Eagle Scout for Troop #174 during an Eagle Court of Honor on Sunday, July 15.

The ceremony will be held at 3 p.m. at First United Methodist Church in Wayne. The public is invited to attend.

Andrew Lee Long, son of Bill and Diane Long, started his scouting career as a Tiger Cub. His strongest memories from Cub Scouts were building derby cars and, of course, popcorn sales.

"During popcorn sales, our entire living room was filled with boxes of popcorn as we organized piles for each customer. The house was also filled with the smell of popcorn," Andrew said.

After receiving his Arrow of Light, Andrew joined Boy Scout Troop #174 in 2004. As a scout he helped with many more community service projects. Some of the projects included the paper drive,

Kiwanis pancake feed, Chicken Days activities, Wayne County Fair Barbecue, setting up luminaries for the Relay For Life, putting up flags at the cemetery for Memorial Day and bailing shredded paper.

Andrew has also enjoyed a number of camp experiences including Camp Cedar near Fremont, Camp Butterfield, Ben Delatour Scout Ranch in Colorado, Seabase in Florida and will be going to Philmont, N.M. in 2008.

"These camps have been a lot of fun and have given me the chance to try things that I would probably never gotten to try otherwise," Andrew said.

Andrew recently finished his last year at the Wayne Middle School where he participated in cross country, honor band, wrestling, basketball and track. This fall he will be a freshman at Wayne High where he plans to participate in sports and will be in varsity band.

He has been swimming on the Dolphin Swim Team for a number years. He is a member of the First United Methodist Church and also enjoys activities with the Calvary Bible youth group.

Andrew's Eagle Scout project was to put up the American flag pole and eight poles for the sports flags at the Wayne Public School football field and track. Anyone who attends activities will see the flags flying at the east end of the field. The poles can be taken down and stored when there is no activity.

"Before we put in the poles, there was no American flag at all at the field. I would like to thank Rocky Ruhl for the idea for this project and the Wayne Public School Foundation for providing money for supplies," Andrew said.

"My quest for the rank of Eagle was challenging. If I didn't have my family, friends and leaders behind me, I probably would have quit. I would like to give a special thank you to my father who provided the most and loudest encouragement," Andrew said.

Library to host adult reading program speaker

The Wayne Public Library Adult Summer Reading Program will continue on Monday, July 9.

The theme, centered on Nebraska's efforts during World War II, will be a discussion about Bob Green's book, "Once Upon a Town: The Miracle of the North Platte Canteen," and its meaning to the reader.

The program is free, open to the public and will be held at the Wayne Senior Center beginning at 6:30 p.m. Light refreshments will be served.

To round out the program, on Monday, Aug. 6, beginning with an all-American picnic, the library will host guest speaker Doug Rung. Rung is a retired Social Studies teacher and member of the Speakers Bureau for the Nebraska Humanities Council.

"Travel back with Doug to the 1940's and World War II for stories about local military installation, the people involved with their operations and how the war affected the economy and everyday life of many Nebraskans. Mr. Rung led his community's oral history project and helped to preserve a unique portion of Nebraska by those who recounted their memories of war years. He will have memorabilia from the war years on display and welcomes comments, stories and questions from the audience," said Rita McLean, Adult Services Librarian.

The August event will begin at 6 p.m. with a picnic. A free-will donation will be accepted to help defray the cost of the food. Help in funding for the program was provided by the Nebraska Humanities Council and the Wayne County United Way.

Planning Commission discusses zoning issues

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

The Wayne Planning Commission met in regular session Monday night. Commissioners present were Sharon Braun, chair, Pat Melena, Derek Hill, Mark Ahmann and Mark Sorensen, who is new on the Planning Commission (Jill Sweetland is also a new commissioner). City planner and inspector, George Ellyson was present.

Discussion was held on B-1 Highway Business District, B-2 Central Business District and B-3 Neighborhood Commercial District amending language to include Vehicle Towing Service and conditions for granting.

Ellyson drafted towing service language for review that was the same for each district: 90-355, Conditions for Granting: 7. Storage of towed vehicles: a. shall only be allowed on site pending disposition of vehicles by insurance carrier or owner, b. all towed vehicles shall be stored interior of the lot behind the front building line, c. no demolition of towed or stored vehicles shall be allowed in this zoning district, d. all stored vehicles shall be owned by persons other than the towing service owner/operator and or land owner, e. all stored vehicles shall be stored behind a barrier fence sufficient in height (max. height 6') to disallow sight by persons traveling along the property frontage, f. storage abutting a residential use but not across the alley or street from the residential use shall also provide a barrier fence along the entire property line abutting residential use.

Ellyson noted in the new language, they probably want screened fence to remain and they don't want to create harborage for dismantled vehicles (salvage yard).

He added that they should keep the commercial aspect of what a towing service is.

He also noted that other towing services in town are legal non-conforming status, which passes from owner to owner because they were businesses before 1979; Woehlers' towing service at 123 Fairground Avenue is not. All three districts were discussed as well as what types of businesses are in each.

Ellyson told the Planning Commission they can modify conditions for granting in each district. Karen McDonald, who lives in the neighborhood near Woehlers' business, said she is not opposed to the towing service as long as vehicles don't sit around for a long time.

Also discussed were barrier fences between commercial and residential property. Discussion was held that if a fence is put next to a landscape barrier, who maintains it as that can be a problem. Also, if the landscape barrier is cut down, what then? Ellyson said it would be the commercial business owner's responsibility to continue the fence.

Commissioner Braun said each situation is different and that should be built into the new language. Commissioner Hill asked if a time frame for having damaged vehicles around was possible. Ellyson said vehicles have to be monitored. Braun remarked that anyone with a towing service will want to get their money so will have vehicles in and out.

Commissioner Sorensen said he feels damaged vehicles should be kept a half block from both Highways 15 and 35. Commissioner Melena said that as you come into both Norfolk and Sioux City, Iowa, which might be a problem for some who want to keep the city as presentable as possible. He feels they need to look at what they're trying to accomplish and fencing does that.

The majority of the commissioners decided to strike B-2 and B-3 from getting new towing service language. Braun added that (height of fence) in the language should be subject to Planning Commission approval. She added there are public hearings so residents can give input as to type of barrier and the city council has the final say in the matter. Ellyson said he would draft language with the Planning Commission having the right to decide conditions for granting and bring it back for discussion again.

Discussion was also held on Sec. 90-710 (c)-Parking or Driveway Surfaces By Allowing Red Granite as an approved material. Ellyson noted he had received info and a photo from the street department about rock in driveways and how it gives way into the streets. He added that many alleys in Wayne have red rock surfaces but all rocked and graveled alleys have concrete approaches from street to the alley, which helps stop rock from going into streets.

Braun noted the council has been working a long time on parking regulations and feels it's suitable language. She added red granite should not be added to approved materials or next time it will be another color of rock. The consensus vote was to keep the proposal as written; four against adding red granite to list of approved materials.

The next regular meeting of the Planning Commission is set for Monday, Aug. 6 at 7 p.m. in the council chambers.

Wayne Legion teams post a successful week

Legion Juniors

A perfect week of baseball. The Wayne Juniors Legion baseball team went 7-0 in games played last week, including a tournament championship at the O'Neill Tournament last weekend.

The team opened the week with a 14-6 home win against Hooper on Jerry Meyer Award Night on June 27.

AJ Longe earned the win on the mound with 4 1/3 innings of work, while Mike Denklaue paced the offense with a single, three RBIs and three runs scored.

Wayne was quiet in the first two innings, but came to life in the third with a pair of runs. The team played six more runs in both the fourth and fifth innings to seal the win.

Ryan Pieper took the loss in 4-3 home defeat at the hands of Pender in a makeup game played in Wayne on June 28.

After both teams scored two runs in the opening inning, plus one more apiece in the third, Pender plated the game-winner in the fourth before Wayne's bats went silent.

Jacob Triggs and Jacob Zeiss each finished with base hits for Wayne.

The team bounced back with a road victory on June 29 with a 5-2 defeat of Tekamah.

Zeiss earned the save for Wayne when he entered the game with one out in the seventh after Tekamah had loaded the bases. He struck out his first batter and then retired the next hitter on a ground ball.

Triggs and Zac Braun each finished with doubles to pace the Wayne offense.

A two-RBI homer by Harm, plus three singles from Hill fell short in Wayne's effort to defeat Tekamah as Wayne dropped a 7-4 road loss on June 29.

Despite the district loss, the girls still qualified for a spot in the 24-team state tournament that runs Friday-Sunday, July 6-8 at Auburn.

Miller was cool under pressure and struck out the next two batters to keep her no-hitter string intact and end the inning.

North Platte opened with a two strikeouts, however Fehringer was able to reach base on a bunt single to set up Wayne's sole run. Fehringer was able to steal second to advance closer to home plate.

The Wayne 16-under team took fifth at the Class B state softball tournament in Hastings on June 29-July 1.

The team opened the tournament on June 29 with an 11-1 victory against the Grand Island Scorpions.

The offense stole the show in the opening game as Wayne batters sent four fly balls to the fence and scored on two suicide squeezes.

Wayne's hitters were led by Caitlin Gustafson with a triple, while Alesha Finkey and Carly Gardner both finished with two doubles apiece.

Shannon Jarvi and Nicole Rauner each had a pair of singles and Jessica Calhoon, Riley Hoffart, Andrea Pieper and Gustafson finished with singles.

Wayne came up big in the second inning when the team plated seven runs.

Wayne won the second game of the tourney on June 30 as Carroll struck out 11 batters en route to a 2-1 win against the Seward Jazz.

A double by Pieper, plus singles from Jarvi, Rauner, Finkey and Gustafson rounded out the offensive effort.

West Point Charter West plated three runs in the first inning and held on for a 5-2 win over Wayne in the third game of the tourney.

Wayne responded with two runs in the second inning before the bats fell silent in the rally attempt.

Jessica Calhoon, Rauner, Finkey and Carroll all had base hits for singles for Wayne.

Carroll took her fifth loss of the season on the mound.

The team wrapped up play at the state tournament on July 1 with a 6-3 loss to the Adams Outlaws.

Wayne held a 1-0 lead after the opening inning, but Adams added three runs in both the second and third frames to pull ahead for the lead.

Carroll and Jarvi combined pitching duties for seven strikeouts.

Rauner and Gardner each went 2-for-2 for a pair of singles, while Dacia Ganseboom, Finkey and Gustafson all had base hits in the game.

Wayne ends the season at 18-7-1.

State tournaments continue

Additional coverage of the state tournament will continue in next week's Wayne Herald as several local and area teams will take to the diamonds across the state.

The Laurel 18-under team competed in the Class B state tournament last weekend in Hastings, however, state results were unavailable at the early holiday press time on Tuesday morning.

The Wayne and Laurel 14-under teams will compete this weekend, Friday-Sunday, July 6-8 at Hastings.

Allen will open play at 8 a.m. on Saturday, July 7, at the Class C 10-under tournament in O'Neill.

The Dixon 12-under team will meet Sutton Feed and Trailer in the Class C tournament at Auburn. Dixon's opening game is set for 7:30 p.m. on Friday, July 6.

The following tips on proper shoe fit are a continuation of our June 21st feature. Poorly fitting shoes can cause foot problems such as bunions, hammertoes, corns and calluses. Buy shoes based on how it fits your foot (when you are standing and walking), not by the size marked on the shoe. The ball of your foot should fit comfortably into the widest part of the shoe and the distance between the end of the shoe and the end of your longest toe should be 3/8" to 1/2". Lastly, don't purchase snug fitting shoes, especially athletic shoes, and expect them to stretch. Contact Providence Therapy Department with any questions regarding foot care or treatment 375-7937.

Ak-Sar-Ben's River City Roundup to host Pro-Rodeo playoff

The highly anticipated Wrangler ProRodeo Tour's playoff system will make its stop in Omaha on Sept. 27-29 for the third playoff featuring 96 of the world's best cowboys competing for $400,000 in prize money at the Qwest Center Omaha.

Ak-Sar-Ben's River City Roundup will serve as host in its fourth year in Omaha. Tickets for this event, televised by the Fox Sports Network are on-sale at all ticketmaster locations and the Qwest Center Box Office.

The first round will begin on Thursday, Sept. 27 where 12 cowboys in each event will face off. This performance is designated as "Tough Enough To Wear Pink" night where fans are encouraged to wear pink in support of breast cancer awareness. Other family friendly events scheduled for this night include Mutton Bustin and the Kid's Stick Horse Rodeo. Following the round one rodeo event will be a performance by country artist Gary Allan.

Friday, Sept. 28 is the second rodeo round where 12 in each event will again compete with only the top eight scoring contestants in each event advancing to the Saturday, Sept. 29 performance. Following the rodeo, two entertainers, Blue Collar comedian Bill Engvall and American Idol star Kellie Pickler, will perform.

From the top eight competing in the first round of the Saturday, Sept. 30 rodeo, only the top four contestants in each event will advance to the Championship round later that evening. All of the Omaha event champions will move on to compete in the Wrangler ProRodeo Tour Championship in Dallas. Once the championship cups are presented in Omaha, country superstar Trace Adkins will take the stage and play.

Ticket prices start at $15 and a complete listing of prices and special season and group rates is available at www.rivercity-roundup.org or by calling (402) 554-9600.

The 2007 Wrangler ProRodeo Playoff Three is one of the final four of rodeo events leading up to the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas. It is part of a 21-event Tour rodeo gauntlet where contestants try for position during the 21-event Wrangler ProRodeo Tour in hopes of qualifying for the Playoff Series. They can count 15 of those 21 rodeos toward the Tour standings, which consist of money won at Pro rodeos. From there, the top 35 contestants in each event (35 teams in team roping) will advance to the Playoff Series, in Caldwell, Idaho Aug. 14-18. The contestants will be joined in Caldwell by event champions from the 2007 Dodge National Circuit Finals Rodeo, who were awarded berths in the Playoff Series as "Wild Cards."

Following Caldwell's five performances, the top 22 contestants in each event in the overall Tour standings, along with Caldwell's event champions and the DNCFR Wild Cards, move on to the Puyallup (Wash.) Fair & Pro Rodeo, Sept. 7-9. After duking it out during Puyallup's five performances, the Playoff Series field will be cut to the top 12 contestants and top 12 team roping teams based on the overall Tour standings.

After three performances in Omaha, Sept. 27-29, the top 10 contestants in each event and top 10 team roping teams advance to the Championship of the Wrangler ProRodeo Tour, which will be held in early November in Dallas. The Tour Championship will conclude with three performances in Dallas, Nov. 9-11, with the Wrangler ProRodeo Tour champions being crowned.

The new Playoff Series format provides great opportunities for a variety of PRCA contestants - from weekend circuit cowboys to world champions - to achieve big paydays and glory on a national scale in front of a televised audience. Beginning Aug. 31 and running each week until the start of the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo on Dec. 6, the Playoff Series will be televised on Fox Sports Network and CBS.

Fox Sports Network will broadcast hour-long shows featuring the Wrangler ProRodeo Tour Playoff Series each week for 14 straight weeks, as well as a minimum of 14 additional hours of re-aired broadcasts. CBS will broadcast Dallas' final round on Nov. 17 at 2 p.m. ET, providing an exclamation point for the culmination of the Tour on a national scene.

"This provides a broad opportunity to PRCA members that, from a grassroots side, may only be surpassed by the DNCFR," said Steve Rempelos of ProRodeo Tour LLC, which has licensed the Wrangler ProRodeo Tour. "We can focus attention on the top stars and follow them week to week and follow them through the 14-week process. This system gives us access to the top stars at times when the TV production trucks are there on-site. This is great for the membership."

Rempelos said that plans are under way to secure a presenting sponsor for the Tour Playoffs, and specifics of the sponsorship will be announced in the near future. Contestants will be competing for a total of $1.62 million during the 16 performances of the Playoff Series. Caldwell will feature a $322,000 purse, Puyallup $348,000, Omaha $400,000 and Dallas $550,000.

Contestants will only be required to pay entry fees in Caldwell and Puyallup, and those fees will make up $120,000 of the Playoffs' $1.62 million total purse. The 10 contestants and team roping teams who advance all the way to Dallas will, in essence, compete for a total of $950,000 between the six performances in Omaha and Dallas, an average of $158,333 per performance.

Under the new system, contestants will battle each other through a progressive style format that rewards a combination of consistency during the Tour season and clutch performances in the Playoff Series. Throw in the extensive television presence, and the buildup to this year's Wrangler NFR through the Wrangler ProRodeo Tour Playoff Series should create even more excitement than in years past.

For more information on other RCR events, please contact the RCR offices at (402) 554-9610 or visit the website at www.rivercity-roundup.org.

One-session personal, business financial workshops set at Northeast

Get valuable information to help improve your personal and small business finances in two different, one-session workshops to be taught by Jeff Meyer at Northeast Community College in Norfolk in July.

Meyer will teach the class, Money for Life!, with Course No. FINP 0102-09/07F, on Tuesday, July 24, from 6-9 p.m. in the Lifelong Learning Center.

This Money for Life! workshop will teach students how to develop their own written, fool-proof, cash-flow management plan. Whether they earn $15,000 or $350,000 a year, participants can learn to gain complete control of their income and where it goes.

After attending this workshop, participants will learn to pre-fund every expense, even the unexpected, plan, track, compare, and adjust every expense, and implement a household cash flow system that makes communicating easy and fun. Participants will also learn to spend less than they make and eliminate debt or invest for the future, use credit cards without ever increasing debt, and successfully manage their income in today's cashless electronic society.

Participants will also develop their own net worth statement to be used as a benchmark for their progress and develop a personalized cash flow management plan to show them how to spend every dollar of income before the month starts. Cost of the course is $27 plus a $74 required materials fee, (payable to the instructor at the workshop), that includes a 215-page textbook/workbook, 12-week 'at home' sections, software, and a companion text.

Meyer will also teach legitimate strategies that may reduce taxes up to 50 percent in the "Crouching Taxes, Hidden Profits" class scheduled for Wednesday, July 25th, from 9 a.m.-noon in the Lifelong Learning Center. Course number is FINP 0102-10/07F.

This class is for the self-employed, small-business owner including home-based business operator, prospective business owners, and wage earners that also file a Schedule C.

Instructor Meyer will review how to "audit proof" a tax return, if participants should incorporate, use a LLC, partnership, or be the sole proprietor, and if he or she is eligible for a home office deduction. The benefits of hiring a spouse or children, meals, travel, and entertainment deductions, and when to use the standard mileage deduction or actual expense method for cars will also be discussed.

To register for either or both these one-session workshops, call (402)844-7000.

But the satisfaction that comes with "Service Above Self," is hard to describe but well worth it. Wayne Rotary Club tries to explore the needs of community members, (local, state, national and international) to see how club members can help. Part of this is accomplished by utilizing the talents and abilities of club members.

Rotary is a volunteer organization with over 32,000 clubs in over 200 countries and geographical areas. The organization initiates humanitarian programs that address today's challenging issues, such as hunger, poverty, and illiteracy.

Rotary club members represent a cross-section of business and professional leaders worldwide. These 1.2 million men and women donate their expertise, time, and funds to support local and international projects that help people in need and promote understanding among cultures.

Rotary's flagship program is its effort to protect children against polio, with the goal of ending the disease throughout the world.

Initiative aimed at military

The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) recently began accepting applications from lenders on behalf of borrowers in its new Patriot Express Pilot Loan Initiative for military community entrepreneurs. Patriot Express is a streamlined loan product based on the agency's highly successful SBA Express Program, but with enhanced guaranty and interest rate characteristics.

"We are pleased the process of providing a special loan product to America's service men and women who wish to start or expand businesses has begun," SBA Administrator Steven Preston said. "This initiative builds on the more than $1 billion annually in loans SBA guarantees for veteran-owned businesses, and the counseling assistance and procurement support it provides each year to more than 100,000 veterans, service-disabled veterans and Reserve members."

Patriot Express is available to military community members including veterans, service-disabled veterans, service members leaving active duty, Reservists and National Guard members, current spouses of any of the above, and the widowed spouse of a service member or veteran who died during service, or of a service-connected disability.

Interest from the lending community is strong. More than 150 banks have already been approved to participate in Patriot Express, including many of SBA's largest lenders, even though the program was announced only two weeks ago. SBA has many more lenders in the approval process and continues to receive more applications from lenders to participate every day.

Loans are available up to $500,000 and qualify for SBA's maximum guaranty of up to 85 percent for loans of $150,000 or less and up to 75 percent for loans over $150,000 up to $500,000. For loans above $350,000, lenders are required to take all available collateral to secure the loan and may obtain collateral for smaller loans depending upon individual bank requirements. Interest rate maximums for Patriot Express loans are the same as those for regular 7 (a) loans: a maximum of prime + 2.25 percent for maturities under 7 years; prime + 2.75 percent for 7 years or more. Interest rates can be higher by 2 percent for loans of $25,000 or less; and 1 percent for loans between $25,000 and $50,000.

The Patriot Express Pilot Loan Initiative can be used for most business purposes. Details on the initiative can be found at www.sba.gov/patriotexpress.

Northeast culinary students serve magnifico meal at course conclusion

It was a meal that the Italian speaking might describe as eccellente, magnifico, splendido.

The meal was the final class project for Northeast Community College students enrolled in the new, 13-week culinary foundations class. The meal was prepared for and served to Northeast administrators, Board of Governors members, and special guests.

The class is part of the one-plus-one culinary arts degree program with Metropolitan Community College in Omaha. Students in the associate of applied science degree program take their first-year classes, including general education courses and culinary classes, at Northeast in Norfolk and then finish the two-year degree and graduate from The Institute for the Culinary Arts at Metropolitan Community College in Omaha.

Culinary classes to be completed at Northeast include culinary foundations, sanitation and food safety, supervision for food professionals, food service nutrition, and culinary math. Students must also take two English courses, an economics, another math, human relations and ethics, and Microsoft Office class at Northeast before transferring to Metro.

The 13 students enrolled in the culinary foundations class, which included several students planning to continue in the associate of applied science degree program and culinary hobbyists, were taught by International Master Chef, Domenico Berardicurti. He is executive chef at Divots Conference Center, Divots' new De Vent Center, Veranda Restaurant at Divots, Sandbar and Grill at Divots, and the Norfolk Lodge and Suites. The class was held at the Divots' De Vent Center.

The menu included appetizers of grilled shrimp, drizzled with extra virgin olive oil, lemon juice and white wine. The second course consisted of mixed spring greens, accompanied by sliced heirloom tomatoes, mozzarella cheese, and basil, lightly sprinkled with balsamic vinaigrette.

The main course was an entrée called airline chicken breast (so called because it included the chicken wing with a clipped tip). The chicken breast was stuffed with prosciutto and mushroom stuffing, and a light tarragon supreme sauce. The entrée also included grilled yellow squash, zucchini, eggplant and red bell pepper and Parisienne potatoes with parsley and butter.

Dessert was a sweet ricotta and mascarpone mousse with fresh berries.

Kevin Harrom, a recent graduate of the Northeast dietary management program and now a certified dietary manager, plans to continue in the one-plus-one program. Currently employed at the Norfolk Veterans Home, he hopes to earn his associate's degree from the Institute for the Culinary Arts at Metro and someday continue for a bachelor's degree in the culinary arts. He hopes to enroll in Metropolitan Community College classes this winter.

"I learned a lot from Chef Domenico," he said. "I particularly enjoyed learning about sauces and the different types of grilling." He also felt learning different knife skills from Chef was important.

"I have recommended this culinary foundations class to other employees at the Veterans Home," he said.

"This class was not only educational, but fun," he said. He noted that it included a nice mix of individuals taking the class for different reasons. While many planned to continue for their associate's degree, others took it because they like to cook. "One student, Scott Douglas, a Tilden banker, took it because his wife gave it to him as a birthday gift."

Tilden banker Scott Douglas serves Sarah J. Dempsey, Vice President of Educational Services at Northeast Community College, during the final class project of the Northeast culinary foundations course. Students in the class prepared a gourmet meal for Northeast administrators and Board of Governors members. The course is part of the one-plus-one culinary arts degree program with Metropolitan Community College in Omaha. Douglas, who loves to cook, was given the 13-week class as a birthday gift from his wife.

When asked if he enjoyed taking the class, Douglas said, "Definitely. I have loved to cook all my life. And, how often does the opportunity present itself to be taught by a Master Chef? Not very often, if ever."

"The class was a wonderful and rewarding experience taught by a very skilled and entertaining individual," Douglas said. "I would do it all again in a heartbeat."

During the course-ending luncheon at the De Vent Center, Northeast Vice President of Educational Services Sarah J. Dempsey congratulated the students and reminded them how fortunate they were to be taught by an International Master Chef like Domenico Berardicurti. She also thanked Divots' owner Donna Herrick for providing the De Vent Center kitchen as the instructional site. "We could not have done this without you, Donna," she said.

"Thank you." Chef Domenico said earlier that he agrees with a recent Community College Times article that said interest in culinary careers has dramatically increased since the Food Network went on the air on cable TV. "It has especially increased interest among the 18-19-20-year-old young adults," Chef Domenico said. "But I must advise those same young people that it takes lots of hard work to get to the levels of those chefs on TV."

According to the Nebraska Department of Labor, there are about 178 openings for food service workers/supervisors and 68 openings for restaurant managers every year in the state of Nebraska. The Department of Labor describes the growth rate as "fast" for both food service workers/supervisors and restaurant managers.

Those interested in enrolling in the Northeast portion of the one-plus-one program are asked to contact Keith Neal at Northeast Community College at (402)844-7334. Fall semester classes begin Monday, Aug. 20.

Woodworking project

Dennis M. Adams, Program Leader for Rural Forestry with the Nebraska Forest Service, center, operates the saw mill as trees are cut for the City of Wayne. The sycamore trees cut were those removed from Main Street last year as part of the Highway 15 project. Adams worked with Steve Rasmussen, District Forester and members of the Wayne Public Works Department to cut the trees into various sizes for a number of projects. Rasmussen also plans to cut several of the larger tree trunks into circular pieces for use in historical presentations in the future.

Main Street Focus

The next Board and All-Hands meeting of Main Street Wayne will be held at 8 a.m. on Tuesday, July 10 at the Main Street Office. The public is always welcome and we would appreciate your comments and suggestions on all matters of discussion.

At our last meeting the Main Street nominating committee presented a slate of officers for the calendar year 2008 that included Kathy Johnson, Brian Frevert, Dianne Vovos and Craig Walling. Vovos and Walling will be looking at a second term on the Board. No names have been submitted for the Main Street representative to the WAEDI Board. A final slate of candidates will be submitted at Tuesday's meeting.

Sandy Bartling reported that the Nebraska State Historic Society was in town to assess the possibilities of a Downtown Historic District for Wayne. The group working with the Historic Society is optimistic that we can become a District in 2008. One of the concerns seems to be how big we can make the district to make 75 percent of the buildings a contributing factor to the Historic District. The State Historical Society will be conducting educational sessions in the near future so that the public will have a better understanding of what this all means to the community of Wayne.

Wes Blecke reported that Gordon Schulz, the UNL Professor of Architecture, will be in town sometime in mid-August with some of his students and they will be doing a walking tour of the Wayne business district. The tour is open to the public and we will talk more about this in the future. The purpose of the tour will be to view various buildings in town to see how some could be "enhanced" to be more historically accurate or simply to look better, whether it be by an awning, paint, facade improvements, etc. The Nebraska Lied Main Street Program provides Main Street businesses an opportunity to get low cost architectural drawings through the program.

The Fire Hall clean-up was held June 23 with a small group of Main Street volunteers and theater group members participating. Some of the interior was demolished and the fire hall was cleaned. At least one more day will be scheduled some time in the future when the vacation season is over.

Henoween and the Chicken Show will be held on Friday and Saturday, July 13-14. A three panel brochure has been printed and includes all the activities of the weekend. There are a number of businesses in Wayne where one can get a copy. If you can not find one in the various businesses, visit the WAEDI office in the old Chamber office.

The cement chickens are being dressed and are coming to roost in the WAEDI office in anticipation of being auctioned off to the highest bidder at Henoween. If you have a chicken, please put the finishing touches on your artistic achievement and deliver it to the WAEDI office as soon as possible. There may be one or two chickens still available if you think you can get it painted by July 13.

There is still room for more vendors at the Flea Market to be held beginning at 8 a.m. on Henoween Friday. If you have anything that fits the bill of a good Flea Market and want to display and sell these items, please call Nana Petersen at the This and That store or Irene at the WAEDI office. You have to reserve a spot so that we don't have two people attempting to take the same spot on Friday morning. Many of the spots are taken and we want every vendor to have an appropriate spot to sell.

Public needs to be aware of meningitis symptoms

Public health officials in northeast Nebraska are cautioning parents of young children as well as young adults to be on the lookout for a typically rare but serious illness known as bacterial meningitis. There have been two cases of bacterial meningitis illness in the past four to six weeks in the area. One person has died from the disease.

Meningitis can be caused from a variety of bacteria and viruses. Julie Rother, R.N., Director of Public Health Nursing with the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department, said bacterial meningitis most often attacks adults in their late teens and early 20's. Breakthroughs in childhood vaccinations in the late 1990's dramatically decreased the incidence of this disease in young children, Rother said. Vaccines such as Menactra, Menomune, Prevnar and Hib will protect against most, but not all, strains of bacteria responsible for causing meningitis.

Bacterial meningitis, a severe infection of the bloodstream and the lining of the brain and spinal cord, is relatively rare and usually occurs as a single, isolated event. Most people do not develop a serious illness from infection by the organisms, but when the disease infects the bloodstream, lining of the brain or spinal cord it can cause lasting disability and may be fatal.

The symptoms of meningitis can include fever, headache, vomiting, stiff neck and a rash. Symptoms may appear two to 10 days after exposure, but usually within three to four days. Many people carry the bacteria in their nose or throat and never become ill, while others may develop serious symptoms, Rother said. Forms of transmission include through direct contact with someone who is coughing or sneezing, sharing eating utensils, drinking from the same glass or kissing. Frequent hand washing and covering the mouth when you cough or sneeze is a major preventative factor in limiting the spread of disease.

Local Public Health Departments work in conjunction with the State of Nebraska Epidemiology Office and healthcare providers to investigate and contain spread of disease such as this and other communicable illnesses. The goal is to identify close contacts so that proper medications and precautions can be taken to prevent others from becoming ill. Rother said the two local cases are likely not connected.

Consult a health care provider immediately if meningitis is suspected. For more information on the disease or its prevention, visit with a healthcare provider or call the NNPHD office at 1-800-375-2260 or 375-2200 in Wayne.

State employees' pay raises discussed

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Late-night comedian Stephen Colbert might look at a recent memo endorsed by Governor Dave Heineman and say that it reflected "truthiness."

The latter is generally understood to mean that a given statement is not false, but that it might not reflect all of the pertinent truth.

The head of the Department of Administrative Services recently dispatched a memo to directors of state agencies, urging them to convey to some state workers that they would not get a pay raise July 1 because of the union that represents them.

That's one way to look at part of the situation. There is some truthiness about it.

The other side of the coin, however, is worthy of close examination.

It is true that some 9,500 workers represented by AFSCME/NAPE won't see a pay increase that will go into effect for more than 4,000 other workers.

The big "however" is that the union-represented workers have a case pending before the state Commission on Industrial Relations. The commission's decision could result in those employees getting far, far larger increases than those in the non-union ranks.

State law requires that workers receive pay based, in part, on comparable wages paid in states similar to Nebraska.

A comparability study endorsed by a special master, who reviewed the union's dispute with the state, came down four-square in favor of the union's position - that the workers it represents are paid far less than their counterparts that do the same or similar work in other states.

The commission - which could have released its decision by the time this column is published - is required by law to give "special deference" to the report from the special master.

If the commission goes along with the recommendation of the special master, based on the legally required analysis of comparability pay in comparable states, some employees could receive raises of up to 10 percent.

If that happens, you can imagine those employees saying:

"Oh, boy!"

You also can imagine the governor and the Legislature saying:

"Ohhhhhhhh, boy!"

The inflection by each party would, of course, be decidedly different.

The memo from the Heineman administration was intended to give contract employees the idea that, because of the union, they were being deprived of a pay increase. It didn't mention that, whatever settlement is eventually reached, it will include back pay (including some seven percent interest) for those workers.

The 2007 Legislature envisioned a pay hike for state workers of about 2.5 percent.

What will happen in some agencies if the state winds up on the losing side of the pay dispute?

Think about the word "efficiencies."

Bruning applauds court's ruling on key environmental laws

Attorney General Jon Bruning recently applauded a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that balances key state responsibilities under the Clean Water Act with the requirements of the Endangered Species Act.

In February, Bruning led a coalition of 12 states and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico as amici curiae (or friends of the court) in arguing in favor of the balanced approach adopted by the Supreme Court today. The Court's opinion limits the reach of the Endangered Species Act and insures that states retain authority to regulate water quality within their borders without additional restrictions.

"The Clean Water Act establishes a cooperative program between the states and the federal government that allows states to regulate and protect their water quality," Bruning said. "The lower court decision allowed the Endangered Species Act to override Congress' desire for local control. We could not accept that threat to state rights."

"I am very pleased the Court adopted our approach. There is no reason these laws cannot be read in harmony. This opinion provides a common sense application of the Endangered Species Act."

In 2003, environmental groups challenged in court an Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) decision to transfer authority to regulate water pollution to the State of Arizona under the Clean Water Act. The groups claimed the Endangered Species Act trumps all other federal laws.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals agreed with the environmental groups that the Endangered Species Act imposed additional requirements not included in the Clean Water Act, and federal regulation of water pollution was necessary.

In reversing the lower court decision, the Supreme Court today agreed with the EPA and the states led by Nebraska that, once the express requirements of the Clean Water Act are met, the EPA is obligated to transfer regulatory authority to the state, and nothing in the Endangered Species Act changes that obligation. Nebraska was delegated regulatory authority under the in 1974.

Ten illegal's arrested in bribery investigation

An eight-month long investigation by the Nebraska State Patrol Troop-A, Investigative Services Division, the Nebraska Department of Motor Vehicles and the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) Department has resulted in the filing of Bribery charges against 10 illegal immigrants.

The investigation began in October of 2006, when the Department of Motor Vehicles brought to the attention of the Patrol, an incident in which an individual was attempting to establish a way to fraudulently obtain driver's licenses and state identification cards for illegal aliens.

"Through our investigation it was determined the individuals were attempting to gain identification in order to secure employment and benefits," said Troop-A, Investigative Services Lieutenant Chuck Phillips.

Arrested each on charges of Bribery, for attempting to obtain the false documents were, Fahreddin Zabarov, 26, Tajikistan, Amit Patel Ashokhai, 23, India, Vijaykumar Patel, 34, India, Sumit Garg, 42, India, Ashokkumar Patel, 28, India, Narinder Singh, 29, India, Murtaza Ghulam, 28, Pakistan, Harnish Patel, 26, India, Kaushik Amrutbhai-Patel, 25, India and Hitesh Din Patel, 28, India.

The charge of Bribery is a Class Four Felony, punished by a maximum of five years imprisonment or a $10,000 fine or both. The men were all lodged in the Douglas County Detention Center.

"The investigation remains active," Phillips said.

PSC alters schedule E grain storage rate

Storage rates for the state's major grains remain unchanged for the next year in a recent action taken by the Nebraska Public Service Commission.

The Schedule E rate for dry edible beans and popcorn, however, was altered to make the rate a maximum that could be charged by grain warehouse companies rather than a mandatory rate as in the past.

The rates went into effect July 1 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2008. The Commission conducted a public hearing on the two rate schedules - Schedule A for most grains including corn, wheat, soybeans, and sorghum and Schedule E for dry edible beans and popcorn - on May 4. No testimony was made in person on either rate, but the Commission received written comments on the Schedule E rate from the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation and State Senator Philip Erdman.

In the past, warehouses were not permitted to charge less than the stated Schedule E rate. Now the Schedule E rate of .0039 per hundredweight per day, about one third of a cent, will be a maximum rate only. Warehouses will continue to be authorized to assess one-time receiving and delivering charges of 15 cents per hundredweight on dry edible beans.

For popcorn, the storage rate maximum will be .0025 cents per hundredweight per day with a one-time combined receiving and delivering charge of 30 cents per hundredweight.

Schedule A rates remain unchanged for the new fiscal year.

Commissioner Jerry Vap said, "The minor change in the Schedule E rate does not increase storage costs, but rather makes the rate more flexible to meet the needs of both the producer and the warehouse."

Wind and solar renewable energy will be the focus for first session of 2007 series

Small farms and homes are the focus for three sessions on renewable energy beginning July 17 in Pilger. Nebraska's use of energy and information on how individuals may utilize renewable energy will be available for all people in northeast Nebraska, including farmers, community leaders, and small businesses.

The Northeast Nebraska Development Network, together with Nebraska Renewable Energy Systems, has planned the first session to be focused on wind and solar energy.

This July 17 event will begin at 9 a.m. at St. John's Lutheran Church in Pilger. After an hour of registration and coffee time, the morning will consist of four speakers. Topics include small wind applications and history (Martin Kleinschmidt of the Center for Rural Affairs), solar energy applications (Randy Schantell, SW Energy), legislative issues (Robert Byrnes, Nebraska Renewable Energy Systems) and views from an owner/operator of a wind turbine on the grid (Dave Tobias).

Information also will be available from NPPD and from federal energy agencies. At noon, Nebraska Farmer's Union will provide a speaker and a locally grown, organic lunch.

The afternoon session will begin at the farm of Dave Tobias where a 10 Kw wind turbine has been operational since fall 2005. A number of demonstrations and hands on workshops are planned until 3:30 p.m., including solar panels and small wind turbines. An optional tour of a pilot methane digester at an off-grid farm in Lyons will be conducted late-afternoon following the activities at the Pilger farm. Great Plains Communications will host the afternoon refreshments.

The Aug. 21 event will focus on bio-diesel and biofuels. Its morning session, beginning at 9 a.m. at the Scribner Steakhouse in Scribner, will be a discussion outlining technology and oilseeds for bio-diesel at both the commercial and farm scale. Lunch will be available compliments of Nebraska Renewable Energy Systems. Workshops and demonstrations for oilseed crushing, crude oil refining, and bio-diesel production are planned for the afternoon. A tour of the new commercial bio-diesel facility in Scribner will be included for those who pre-register.

On Sept. 13, Northeast Community College in Norfolk will host a seminar on regulatory issues with ethanol plants. This ethanol summit, beginning at 9 a.m. at the Lifelong Learning Center, will address such issues as ethanol/bio-fuel curriculum development and implementation, water quality and quantity, air quality, state agency compliance, OSHA regulations, and spill response. Also, an afternoon tour of a farm-sized ethanol distillation will be open to those who pre-register.

A no-fee pre-registration is requested for the events, but all are welcome to attend all sessions. If the afternoon tours fill up, then only pre-registered persons will be able to go on the tours.

Keep a trustful relationship with neighbors Engagements

It isn't uncommon for next-door neighbors to be complete strangers. However, taking action to build a positive relationship with neighbors can mean a trustworthy, lending hand in times of need.

People typically don't associate with neighbors for fear of intruding on someone else's personal life. It can be intimidating to take a risk at building an outgoing relationship. Even so, it is better to take the risk than to avoid making any effort at all and losing the opportunity to make good friends.

A healthy relationship between neighbors doesn't mean being best friends. Instead, it means there is a shared sense of trust and honesty. It is comforting to know a neighbor tion time.

When new people move into a neighborhood, it is important to make them feel welcome. Take time to stop and introduce yourself. Show interest in them by asking questions and answer their questions in return. Offering a simple gift like a plate of cookies always is a nice gesture as well.

Misunderstandings between neighbors can result in negative relationships. These misunderstandings often stem from the result of miscommunication. Although some people prefer not to talk and remain private, it is a good idea for them to share their opinions and listen to others' in return. Once differences are aired, it is easier to respect those differences and not be as judgmental.

It's a good idea to move into neighborhoods that share similarities to personal lifestyles. Families with children often move into communities that are mostly composed of young families, while an elderly couple may wish to move into a community with mostly older residents.

Do you have your SPANX?

It's time for an underwear revolution! Men have had the boxers and women have been waiting... Traditional underwear never stays in place and causes visible panty lines (otherwise known as VPL). Then g-strings came along and put underwear in the exact place we had been trying to get it out of! Body shapers are not much better. The leg band always creates a visible bulge on the thigh. The waistbands are too tight, and some styles even have fancy seaming that creates two derrières instead of one!

Residents can help provide school items for Wayne youth

The Salvation Army has been helping meet the school needs of Wayne children in grades 1-8 by providing back-packs, filled with school items. Boxes will be placed in businesses in Wayne from July 9 to Aug. 3 if people want to purchase school items and place them in the boxes.

This is the fifth year that Salvation Army has been involved in filling back packs. Usually around 30 backpacks are donated to local youth, this year they are anticipating filling close to 40.

Plant diseases on flowers, trees, lawns

Spring is a good time to plant flowers and trees but is also a good time for diseases to infest the plants.

Most of the diseases on plants occur on the plant leaves and are easily seen. Iris plants can show leaf spot during this time of year and can cause brown spots which can enlarge to cover the entire leaf and cause death of the leaves. Iris are early flowering plants and after the flowers are through, it is best to cut off the leaf tissue as soon as the flowering is completed and discard the residues. If the disease is not serious, one can wait until fall to remove the diseased foliage and discard by burying or placing in the trash.

Del Hemsath
Extension Educator

Peonies commonly show a leaf disease which causes black areas to show on the leaves and stems. This can cause yellowing of the leaves, death and early loss of leaves towards fall. Once the frost has killed the foliage, remove all the foliage and discard to remove the residue as that is where the disease stays until the next spring.

Trees are showing signs of leaf diseases with curled leaves, crinkled shapes and black areas on the leaves. The leaf will be killed and drop off the tree in early summer. Other tree buds will replace the lost leaves so the tree will look normal later in the year. Early loss of tree leaves is not a serious concern for the health of the tree. The tree has reserves built up on the inside to help the tree meet the challenges of diseases, insects and weather. Under most conditions, it is not necessary to apply any chemicals for control.

There are exceptions with one being the Sycamore tree. Young Sycamore trees can be killed by the leaf diseases, especially the disease called "Anthracnose." This is a leaf disease that causes the black discoloration on the leaf. Spraying a young Sycamore tree is necessary to prevent early loss.

Lawn diseases are showing up as the weather stays warm during the night. Prevention is the most successful method to help with lawn disease problems. Summer patch is very common and the grass will turn brown in patches. Fungicides can be used to prevent lawn diseases easier than curing the problem after it has occurred. Keeping a record of lawn diseases and knowing where they occurred can help with application of a preventative the next year. Consult the fungicide label for proper application time and the amount to apply.

Weather conditions were ideal this spring for many types of leaf diseases to be noticeable now. Chemicals can be used as a preventative more successfully than as a curative control method.

The Country Classics 4-H club painted garbage cans at the fairgrounds on July 1. The garbage can project was one of the club's goals for the year of community service. In the picture above are, left to right, Ken Loberg, Anna Loberg and Sylvia Jager. The trash cans were painted green and a 4-H clover and the club's name will be painted on in white.

Vacation Bible School is over; now, getting ready for the Fourth!

An early morning call from the Herald reminded me that Wednesday is a holiday and I had better get this thing written. My flag is flying, and the fireworks are ready; here's hoping the weather cooperates.

Yours truly is now an athletic director! It said so yesterday in the church bulletin. I know, it's hard for those of you who know of my athletic ability to believe. But a director doesn't have to be able to play sports, just organize them, right? Of course, there are some of you out there who have personal knowledge of my organizational skills, too. So that would make the title equally hard to believe.

Actually, I was the first aid person/another adult supervisor for VBS last week. That's Vacation Bible School; and as my classmate, Millie, says, "it doesn't sound like any vacation Bible school I've ever been involved in." It wasn't. It was called Power Zone, and the curriculum is by Fellowship of Christian Athletes. The theme was The Heart of a Winner, and the Bible studies focused on Hope, Endurance, Action, and Respect. I don't know what the T stood for, as I was absent on Friday. It was for grades three to six, and each day focused on learning a different sport.

On Monday, a member of our congregation who played football at Concordia and coached high school football took us through some warm ups and drills and fundamentals for that sport. Monday was hot, and we weren't out on the field for more than 10 minutes when one of the kids complained to me about the heat. The wimp!

Tuesday was volleyball, and we were actually in an air conditioned gym. Now, that's luxury! But 35 kids hitting volleyballs is rather overwhelming, believe me. Wednesday was baseball, so we were back outside, but it was cooler that day. And Thursday, it was back out doors for soccer.

The coach for that is the soccer coach at Lincoln Lutheran High School, and they have been to State the past four years. So I believe he knows something about what he calls "the beautiful game." I know I learned a lot, as that is one sport that eludes me. I know there is a lot of running, and a lot of tricky foot work.

Mostly, I dealt with nose bleeds, balls to the face, and stomach aches. My commander in chief, the gal who was the real athletic director, is a newly graduated physical therapist who has worked as an athletic trainer in the past. An experienced athlete, and a real organizer! It takes a lot of ice water, ice towels, juice cups, and popsicles to run a good sports camp. In fact, it took 500 water balloons on Thursday afternoon!

All in all, it was a great experience, for those of us who helped and for the kids who participated. But going from the convention directly to this was pretty hard on this old body. I spent the weekend recuperating. Now, it's time to clean a neglected house. Happy Fourth!
