Providence Medical Center joins IHP's 5 Million Lives Campaign

Providence Medical Center has joined the Institute for Healthcare Improvement's 5 Million Lives Campaign, a national campaign to dramatically reduce incidents of medical harm in United States hospitals.

The campaign encourages hospitals to improve the care they provide to protect patients from five million incidents of medical harm over a 24-month period, ending Dec. 9, 2008. The campaign represents a continuation of the largest improvement effort undertaken in recent history by the healthcare industry.

"Our participation in this campaign will have a positive impact on the patients that we care for," said Laura Gamble RN, Providence Medical Center's Director of Nursing. The campaign has been endorsed by the American Hospital Association, the Nebraska Hospital Association, the American Nurses Association, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, and the Joint Commission.

With a goal of ensuring that patients receive the appropriate care at PMC, and in an effort to avoid preventable injuries, Providence Medical Center has implemented and continues working on the following interventions as part of their participation in the 5 Million Lives Campaign:

- Prevent MRSA (methicillin-resistant staphylococcus aureus) infection by reliably implementing scientifically proven infection control practices throughout the hospital;

- Reduce harm from high-alert medications by starting with a focus on anticoagulants (blood thinners), sedatives, narcotics, and insulin;

- Reduce surgical complications by reliably implementing the changes in care recommended by the Surgical Care Improvement Project;

- Prevent pressure ulcers by reliably using science-based guidelines for prevention of this complication;

- Deliver reliable, evidence-based care for congestive heart failure by reducing readmissions;

- Get Boards on board by defining and spreading new and leveraged processes for hospital Boards of Directors, so they can become far more effective in accelerating the improvement of care;

- Deliver reliable, evidence-based care for acute myocardial infarction...to prevent deaths from heart attack;

- Prevent adverse drug events...by recognizing patient medications at every transition point in care;

- Prevent central line infections...by implementing a series of interdependent, scientifically grounded steps;

- Prevent surgical site infections...by following a series of steps, including reliable, timely administration of correct perioperative antibiotics.

"The participation of Providence Medical Center in the 5 Million Lives Campaign gives our facility yet another opportunity to improve our patient care outcomes," said PMC Administrator, Marcile Thomas. "We continue to make every effort to enhance the medical care services that our patients and their loved ones have come to expect from Providence Medical Center," she said.

Harvest facts shared

Wayne Head Start had a special visitor to the center recently. Alan Finn of Northeast Equipment, brought a combine for the children to explore. Finn talked about where the corn goes and how the combine harvests bushels of corn. Finn left some John Deere books for the children to look at.

Football players raising awareness of breast cancer

Members of the Wayne City Recreation sixth grade football team are wearing pink this season.

Although their jerseys are blue and white, each member of the team is wearing a pink armband to each game to help raise awareness of breast cancer.

Jana Anderson, a member of the team, is among the leaders in this effort as her mother, Jana, is currently undergoing treatment for inflammatory breast cancer.

Anderson's cancer was diagnosed in March of this year and she underwent several months of treatment before having a mastectomy in August. She has resumed her treatment, which is scheduled to last for four months. "Having the boys wear the pink armbands is helping make them aware of breast cancer. Many of them have been affected by either breast cancer or other cancers," Jana said.

She noted that her older son, Justin, formed a Relay For Life Team, Jana's Jocks, and took part in this year's Wayne County Relay For Life.

Anderson has high praise for all those who have been a part of her life since the diagnosis.

"I was very fortunate to have the diagnosis right away. Often times this type of cancer is mis-diagnosed or undiagnosed.

The doctors, nurses and staff who I have dealt with at Providence Medical Center have been wonderful," Jana said. "Our family has also had wonderful support from everyone in the community and the boys wearing armbands is just another example of the support of this wonderful community," Jana said.

At the present time, the sixth grade team is undefeated at 3-0, with three games to go before the season ends.

Coaches for the sixth grade team include Derek Anderson, head coach and Kevin Maly, Jason Trenhaile and Pete Kaiser, assistants.

Paraprofessional educators cohort gets together with NECC, WSC officials

It was get acquainted time recently for a cohort group of Hispanic students and officials from Wayne State College and Northeast Community College in Norfolk.

The students are part of the paraprofessional educators cohort currently working on their associate of arts degree from Northeast Community College with an emphasis as a paraprofessional. At the completion of their degree, they will be encouraged to transfer to Wayne State College to continue their studies for a bachelor's degree in elementary education.

Currently there are 18 students enrolled in the Pre-Kindergarten to Grade Six Paraprofessional Educators Cohort. The students are assisted with their college expenses through a $89,993 Improving Teacher Quality: State Grants Program award from the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education (CCPE). The goal is to assist bilingual Hispanics interested in careers in the elementary classroom.

"This effort is the culmination of a dream we've had at Wayne State for quite awhile. We are excited about watching Hispanics pursue a degree in education," said Dr. Frank Adams, Wayne State College professor. "You can best help your family and your communities by pursuing an education." He also encouraged the student/guests to stop by his office whenever they are on the Wayne State campus.

Dr. Anthony Koyzis, dean of the School of Education and Counseling at Wayne State, pointed out that he, too, is an immigrant from Cyprus and is bilingual. He told the student/guests that only about one-quarter of the bilingual jobs in the elementary classroom are now being filled. "There will be plentiful jobs available to you when you complete your education," he said.

Professor Adams said there is a desperate need for the bilingual. "We need teachers, writers, speakers," he said. "The only limit is you and what you want to do."

Donna Neimeyer, dean of humanities, arts, and social sciences at Northeast, said the cohort program can serve up to 25 and now has nine students enrolled in Norfolk and nine enrolled at Northeast's Education Center in South Sioux City. She also noted that these students will fulfill their practicum responsibilities in South Sioux City, Winside, Madison and Norfolk Public Schools.

Carr presented Heroes Award for saving woman's life

Jason Carr of Kansas City, Mo, originally of Wayne and a 1995 Wayne High School graduate, was recently awarded a Heroes Award for saving the life of an elderly woman who was choking. He is the son of Larry and Linda Carr of Wayne.

Jason and his wife, Becky, were in the hospital cafeteria in Kansas City in June after the birth of their daughter, when an elderly lady started choking on her food. He used the Heimlich maneuver and it took three thrusts to dislodge the food she was choking on.

Carr is a Junior High Health/Physical Education and Weightlifting Teacher and Assistant Boys and Girls Golf coach at Liberty High School. Much to his surprise, the Vice President of Service for North Kansas City Hospital came to his class at South Valley Junior High School in Liberty, Mo. recently. They were so appreciative of his gesture they wanted to say thanks and award him with a Heroes Award.

State Farm grant used to purchase music podium

State Farm agent Rusty Parker of Wayne was recently involved in a presentation with Wayne Middle School band director Deneil Parker, and Wayne High School band director Brad Weber.

A new conductor's podium was purchased for the Wayne Middle School through a $500 grant provided by State Farm Insurance.

State Farm agents are able to apply for grant money from the company by volunteering their time with a non-profit organization. During the 2006-07 school term, Agent Parker donated more than 40 hours to the middle and high school band programs.

"This grant money enabled us to purchase the podium and still have a little left to buy some smaller percussion equipment. It makes it easier for the students to see and follow the conductor and the podium is so well-constructed, it should last for a lifetime. We thank Rusty and the State Farm Insurance company for making this possible," said directors Parker and Weber.

Wayne Police Department arrests two in separate cases

Wayne Police officers recently arrested two men in unrelated incidents.

Company to produce hand painted pictorial of Wayne area

The Wayne Area is about to have a commemorative pictorial for Year 2008.

Town Square Graphics, Inc. project coordinator, Mick Thune, will be calling on area businesses and organizations to develop a poster size, full color, artist's rendering that will paint the Wayne area in a moment of time - Year 2008.

"With the lasting colorful graphic, it will depict the personality of the community in a unique, informative and fun way. This is a light way of looking at a very serious business, the business of promoting the community," Thune said.

The caricature graphics accentuate recreational areas, points of interest in the community such as churches, schools, public buildings, land marks, recreational areas, historical sights as well as businesses.

"Because of community pride and the Year 2008 depiction, we feel it is very important that all citizens receive a graphic. For that reason, we have contracted with The Wayne Herald to insert the commemorative rendering in the delivered newspapers. This will insure the most positive distribution available. Other organizations will have the Town Graphics available for ongoing distribution."

Town Square Graphics, Inc., an Alpharetta, Ga. based firm, has been in business for the past 20 years, and has created depictions of hundreds of communities all over Nebraska, most recently, Sidney and Valentine. Town Square Graphics is a Dun and Bradstreet rated firm and a member of the Greater Atlanta Metropolitan Better Business Bureau.

Celebration planned at Immanuel Lutheran Church

A number of activities are being planned for Sunday, Sept. 30 at Immanuel Lutheran Church of rural Wayne in observance of the church's 125th anniversary.

The celebration begins with a 10:30 a.m. worship service with District President Russell Sommerfeld as guest speaker. A catered meal will be served at noon and a program at 2 p.m.

Among those who will be part of the program are former pastors, teachers and members of the congregation. A buggy, similar to ones used by early members of the congregation, will be on display and other members of the congregation plan to ride horses to the celebration.

Church history indicates that in the spring of 1882, the Rev. W.G. Bullinger of Martinsburg met a group of men at work on the road. He noticed they spoke German and asked their religious affiliation. They were Lutherans. Some of them had come from Washington County where they had been members of a Lutheran church east of Hooper.

The group arranged for services

The 125th anniversary of Immanuel Lutheran Church of rural Wayne will be observed with a celebration on Sunday, Sept. 30.

the following Sunday. At that time the services were held in the home of people and later in the public school buildings of the vicinity.

On Nov. 24, 1882, Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Congregation was organized. A house of worship was constructed in 1884 and at this time the first resident pastor, Pastor H. Wehking, was called. The congregation joined the Missouri Synod in 1886.

A new church was built in 1898 and the old church was converted into a parochial school building. In 1917 a two manual pipe organ was purchased at a cost of $2,900.

In the early years of the church's history, services were conducted in the German language. However, during World War I the congregation decided to have services alternately in the German and English languages.

A complete basement was built under the church in 1929 and in 1932 the windows of the church were replaced with art-glass windows in commemoration of the 50th anniversary. The Constitution was translated into the English language in 1937 and in 1940 the Voters began conducting their meetings in the English language. In 1946 a basement was built under the parsonage and a pressure water system was installed.

Through the year additional improvements have been made to both the church and parsonage.

A school was part of the congregation almost from its beginning. For many years the school was taught by the pastor in the church building. In 1893 the school became known as District 75. In 1898, when the second church was built, the old church building became the school house.

In 1909 the congregation called its first regular Christian day school teacher.

The school continued to serve the congregation until 1952 when it was closed due to the shortage of available teachers.

The church is located four miles north and three miles east of Wayne or two miles north and five miles west of Wakefield.

Wayne State College student Allison Friedmann installed drywall at the HFH house on Saturday.

Interior of Habitat for Humanity home taking shape

Volunteers have completed the hanging of sheetrock in the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity house at 1014 Douglas Street. The house is being built in partnership with the Wanda Ryden family. In the following weeks, the drywall will be taped and mudded in preparation for painting.

Much of the construction work is done on Saturdays. Volunteers can stop by the house site on Saturdays and help out for a couple of hours or all day. For more information on volunteer opportunities, contact Kyle Rose at 375-2340.

On Sept. 15, lunch was provided to volunteers by Pac-n-Save grocery store. Mary Carstens, Marilyn Collings, Donna Hansen and Michelle Sterling provided food to volunteers on Sept. 22.

Many of the volunteers during the previous two Saturdays have been from the Wayne State College Habitat for Humanity Campus Chapter. Laura Hansen, Campus Chapter president, says "We have nearly 50 members in our campus chapter this year and we can't wait to start getting things going. We have already had two meetings and have some great new ideas about what we would like to do, in addition to our usual activities. This year, we are continuing our tradition of a Cardboard City, Trick or Change, Community Soup Supper, Spaghetti Feed, and an Inter-collegiate Challenge."

Laura continues, "Our new ideas include developing a presentation about Habitat for Humanity International. This will be a very big project, but very rewarding. We would like to present this information to the campus and open it up to the entire community as well."

"The Campus Chapter's future plans also include participating in Habitat for Humanity Awareness Week," Laura said. "We are planning daily activities for the week and want to inform students about the homeless, and about poverty stricken communities."

For additional information about the Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity, contact the chapter president Roger Meyer at 375-2148 or Mark Hammer at 375-4768. For more information about Habitat for Humanity International, go to www.habitat.org.

New construction starts for Wayne Community Housing Development Corporation

South Nebraska Street will soon have another new house built on the much-improved street by the end of January, 2008.

The City of Wayne and Wayne Community Housing Development Corporation (WCHDC) worked in cooperation with the two lots, which had a dilapidated house that had recently been repossessed by HUD and was given to the City of Wayne. WCHDC had a client who wanted a new home of his own. It became a mission to start this process for the person who has Cerebral Palsy and wants to own a home.

Last February, the repossessed house was razed after the asbestos had been properly remediated and the Wayne City Council deeded the lots to WCHDC. In getting the lot ready for construction, a huge cottonwood tree was removed. The tree had a rotted trunk and many large branches that could have been a safety hazard for the contractors and the family building the new house.

Della Pries of WCHDC said that Wayne Community Housing Development Corporation, Wayne City Council, Mayor Shelton, Lowell Johnson, and George Ellyson have worked diligently on this project to make a dream a reality for an individual who may have never had a chance to own a home of his own if it weren't for the group of people mentioned above. There will be more updates on this project as the construction continues over the next few months and the many other groups that made this dream possible.

A new construction grant for $387,400 was recently granted to the City of Wayne and will help make 17 families' dream of owning a new home come true. Nine homes will be for families who have an income that is below the 100 percent Area Median Income (an example is: for a household of four, the income would be $54,000) and eight homes will be for families who have income that is above the Area Median Income and would like to build a home up to $150,000. Dirt work started on this new project as Release of Funds were granted to the City of Wayne. You will be able to watch the progress this fall.

If you or anyone you know would be interested in a new home to be built in the new subdivision, Western Ridge, located west of the cemetery, please contact Della Pries at 375-5266 or Nancy Braden at 375-1733.

WSC Campus Crusade for Christ offers Gospel study and a lot more

By Tyler Ellyson
Of the Herald

Religion is probably not what most people associate with college life, but Campus Crusade for Christ has quietly become the largest student organization at Wayne State College.

Campus Crusade for Christ, which has around 200 members at WSC, focuses on turning lost students into Christ-centered laborers and putting the Gospel into arm's reach of every student.

"We want to communicate the gift of salvation," Student Director Brady Hartman said. "Campus Crusade emphasizes that you don't have to be afraid, we challenge and encourage each person to spread the Gospel."

A unique aspect of the group is that it is operated by the students.

"I really want people to run with their passions, so I just facilitate," Hartman said. "We think about where God wants us to move next."

Bible studies, weekly meetings, and small groups aren't the only way that members spread their message. Activities such as speakers, retreats, barn dances and formal are held regularly.

"We even do random, fun, things like ice skating or making runs to Perkins at 10 p.m.," Hartman said.

Campus Crusade for Christ was founded by Bill and Vorette Bright in 1951. It currently has 8 million members on 1,029 campuses worldwide, and is open to any religion.

Of the Herald

Shane and Candy Guill of Wayne have taken over management of Wakefield Bowl in Wakefield from Rick and Shirley Dicus of Sioux City, Iowa, who ran the business for 15 years.

Shane and Candy also have other jobs as he works at Great Dane in Wayne and she has a daycare, so hours at their business in Wakefield will consist of evening hours: Tuesday-Wednesday, 5 - 10-10:30 p.m.; Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 5 p.m. - 1 a.m.; Sunday, 2 - 9 p.m.

The couple stated they are making small changes for now at their business in Wakefield but have some things in mind for the future. Those changes include going to automatic scoring and they want to promote bowling with young people, incorporating the sport into area high schools. Shane has years of experience working with young people as he coached Junior League Bowling in Wayne and started high school teams which qualified and competed in the State High School Tournament.

Guills also plan to bring in more tournaments and more leagues. They add that their business will be family-run, "We have been involved in bowling for years," Shane said. "Our whole family loves bowling and running a bowling alley has been a dream of ours. We have four boys and they all are on junior leagues and the oldest two are on the high school team at Wayne High School."

The couple notes they will be serving food at their establishment. The menu includes hamburgers, chicken strips, nachos, small fry items such as mushrooms, etc. They also serve beer. There will be Husker game day specials. There are accommodations for parties of all kinds.

For bowling, there are bowling balls and shoes on hand for rental or people can bring their own. For skating in the roller rink, which is called The Blade, there are rental skates or people can bring their own. There is open skating and bowling on Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons.

League bowling has started up with women meeting on Wednesday nights, men on Tuesday nights, college students on Thursday nights and couples on Saturday nights (starting Sept. 29). Guills are planning to have a mixed league on Fridays.

Anyone with questions can call the Guills at 402-375-4373 or 402-287-2740.

The anterior cruciate ligament (ACL) is the main stabilizing ligament of the knee. An injury to the ACL is an extreme stretching or tearing of the ligament. Over 100,000 ACL repairs are performed by orthopedic surgeons each year. According to statistics, female basketball, volleyball and soccer players between the ages of 15 and 25 are at the greatest risk for an ACL tear. The major ity of ACL tears occur during cutting, stopping or landing from a jump. Although these movements cannot be eliminated, athletes can make them safer through appropriate training and exercise. Please call Providence Physical Therapy (877 375 PTOI) to schedule an appointment if you have questions about specific exercises to prevent ACL injury.

Emergency Preparedness Week being observed

The week of Sept. 23-30 has been designated Home and Family Preparedness Week.

The purpose of this week is to create an awareness of "all hazard" preparedness, whether it be a natural, man made or a pandemic flu disaster. A few simple steps can help make you and your family more self sufficient and better prepared, according to the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department (NNPHD) and the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS).

"In Nebraska we've seen first hand how devastating floods, fires and ice storms can be," said Dr. Joann Schaefer, Chief Medical Officer. "Although we can't stop emergencies and disasters from happening, we can become better prepared to handle them when they do occur."

"Emergency preparedness starts with you," said Deb Scholten, Director of the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department. "We need to take time now to better prepare ourselves, our families and our communities for emergencies."

Some of the things you can do to prepare include assembling an emergency supply kit and developing a family communication plan. Templates for these types of plans are located at the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department. These plans are useful for all kinds of emergencies, including natural disasters and terrorism. Staying informed can help people cope in the critical and often confusing moments following a disaster or emergency.

"While we continue to work with businesses and communities, we need to remember the important role that personal preparedness plays during an emergency," said Ms. Scholten. "Each and every Nebraskan needs to take an active role in planning and preparing for an emergency."

"Nebraskans have focused a great deal of energy on being prepared to respond to emergencies of all kinds," said Dr. Schaefer. "Although much progress has been made, there is still a lot to do to make sure that all of us are prepared for emergencies."

For more information on emergency planning and preparedness, visit the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department's website at www.nnpbd.org or DHHS website at www.dhhs.ne.gov/preparedness. You can also learn more by visiting the Department of Homeland Security's personal readiness website at: www.ready.gov and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's Web site at www.cdc.gov.

Harvest is time to scout and plan for conservation practices

Fall harvest is an excellent time to scout fields for places where conservation practices could be put to use, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln agricultural engineer said.

Planning for grassed waterways, filter strips, field borders, windbreaks and/or no-till planting can start now, said Dave Shelton, agricultural engineer at UNL's Haskell Agricultural Laboratory near Concord.

"With most field scouting for insects, weeds and other pests winding down, harvest is a great time to scout and plan where conservation practices could be implemented or installed to help reduce soil erosion and improve water quality," Shelton said. "The combine cab offers an excellent vantage point to note where channels have developed in the field from the concentration of runoff water."

Filter strips and riparian forest buffers, placed along the edges of streams or other water bodies can serve as a last line of defense for sediment and other pollutants that might enter the water.

"These practices are very effective at trapping sediment and enhance the infiltration of runoff water," he said. "Buffers also improve safety by keeping equipment away from the edge of the stream and provide excellent habitat for pheasants, songbirds and other wildlife."

Shelton said many people aren't aware that filter strips and riparian buffers don't have to be of uniform width.

"They can be designed and planted to provide a straight field edge along a meandering stream, thus improving farming efficiency," he said.

Grassed field borders can provide a convenient location for unloading combines into trucks or grain carts, loading planters, or for turning combines, planters and other equipment around, he said.

"Controlling field traffic in this manner also can greatly reduce the likelihood of developing a compaction problem within the field," he said.

Field borders often can be used to eliminate crop rows that would otherwise be planted up-and-down hill, thus further reducing soil erosion. They also can provide habitat for wildlife.

Windbreaks, shelterbelts and living snowfences are similar practices, where rows of trees and shrubs are planted to protect an area from wind and/or blowing snow.

"Living snowfences often are established along roads or lanes to control drifting snow, whereas windbreaks/shelterbelts are usually planted to protect farmsteads, feedlots and other structures," he said.

Windbreaks also can reduce heating costs and improve livestock performance in the winter, and they provide excellent wildlife habitat.

"All these conservation practices require a commitment of land and the planting of permanent vegetation (grasses, shrubs, trees)," Shelton said.

"However, no-till is a proven conservation practice that often just requires a change in management and some equipment adjustments," he said.

Gullies or rills typically develop in the same place each year. Spring tillage may fill these spots, but they redevelop during the growing season.

"Consider installing grassed waterways in these areas," Shelton said.

A grassed waterway is a shaped or graded channel that is seeded to grass. The channel helps reduce erosion because the velocity and energy of flowing water is reduced by the grass.

The federal Continuous Conservation Reserve Program, the Nebraska Buffer Strip Program and other programs are available to assist landowners with the adoption and maintenance of many different conservation practices. For more information, contact a local Natural Resources and Conservation Service, Natural Resources District or UNL Extension office.

Energy projects receive funding

Agriculture Under Secretary for Rural Development Thomas Dorr has announced that 345 proposals in 37 states have been selected to receive a total of $18.2 million for renewable energy and energy efficiency projects.

Local recipients include Raymond Jensen of Wakefield ($6,003 for energy efficiency); Nicholas Spahr of Wayne ($8,850 for energy efficiency) and David Curley of Wayne ($4,147 for energy efficiency).

"These funds will help create economic opportunity and reduce energy costs for farmers, ranchers and small businesses in rural communities," Dorr said. "Our renewable energy programs have a significant impact on creating jobs and investment opportunities and maintaining financially viable communities."

The grant and loan guarantee/grant combinations are being awarded through USDA's Section 9006 Renewable Energy Systems and Energy Efficiency Improvements program. It provides financial assistance to agricultural producers and rural small businesses to install renewable energy generation systems or to make energy efficiency improvements. Of the $18.2 million total, $13.4 million are grants and $4.8 million are guaranteed loans.

Since 2003 when the program was established, Nebraska has delivered nearly $1.8 million in grants to 159 applicants. The recent funding brought into Nebraska 102 grants totaling $1,027,734. Of this total, two were for renewable energy and 100 were for energy efficiency improvement projects.

Funding of individual recipients will be contingent upon their meeting the conditions of the grant/loan guarantee agreement.

A complete list of the selected recipients is posted on the USDA Rural Development website at <http://www.rurdev.usda.gov>

Nebraska's NRDs celebrate 35 years

Nebraska's Natural Resources Districts (NRDs) have been helping you conserve your natural resources for thirty-five years. Before the birth of the NRD system, natural resources management was the responsibility of 154 special-purpose districts across the state. These districts suffered from funding problems and overlapping authority. Eventually it was decided that consolidating the districts would be the most effective approach.

In 1972, the Nebraska Legislature enacted laws to combine the 154 special-purpose districts into 23 NRDs. The 23 NRDs are unique to Nebraska and the nation. Nebraska continues today as the only state that has successfully accomplished such a merger.

The NRDs are local government units with broad responsibilities to protect our natural resources, helping Nebraskans respond to natural resources challenges with local control and local solutions. Because major Nebraska river basins form the boundaries of each district instead of artificial political boundaries, such as county lines, they are equipped to deal with a broad range of natural resources issues and are able to respond efficiently to local needs. The result has been a wide variety of innovative projects and programs, uniquely tailored for the areas they serve.

Elected boards of directors govern the districts. Most of the funding for the 23 districts come from local property taxes. NRDs have experienced tremendous growth in the responsibilities given to them by state statute, especially in protecting ground-water. Many NRD projects leave permanent results: dams, terraces, drainage ditches, windbreaks, reservoirs and recreational trails. Often, the NRDs build partnerships with other agencies and organizations, including the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service, the Nebraska Department of Natural Resources, other state and federal agencies, municipalities, counties and private organizations.

The Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District (LENRD) office is located in the Lifelong Learning Center on the campus of Northeast Nebraska Community College in Norfolk. The district covers all or parts of 15 counties across northeast Nebraska. The LENRD's staff and directors are proud of the district-wide accomplishments of the past 35 years, including: the Logan East Rural Water System, Willow Creek State Recreation Area, numerous Flood Control Projects, the expansion of the Conservation Tree Program, Maskenthine Lake Recreation Area, water quality programs including the district's Groundwater Management plan, road structure projects to replace old bridges, land treatment programs, wildlife habitat incentives, outdoor classrooms and free educational materials for schools, community recreation and forestry projects, and much more!

With information, education and outreach efforts, NRDs touch Nebraska's future generations, the young people who will watch over the state's resources in the 21st century. Here's to another 35 years of conservation.

RC&D Council met at The Welcome Center

Sandy Patton, Royal and Curt Arens of Crofton updated the Northeast Nebraska Resource Conservation & Development (RC&D) Council at their Monday meeting on their activities with the Farm to Family Connection project. They've expanded the website www.farmtofamily.net, met with local farmers and ranchers in the three-state area about options for direct marketing and they recently hosted a Dietician's Food Tour.

The overall goal of the project is to make consumers and producers aware of the wonderful food grown right in the area and that if purchased locally would positively impact the region.

President Bud Knuth presented the winning logo designer, Dennis Wacker of Osmond, with a check and photo of the design. The Council passed a resolution recognizing the contributions of Bob Porter to the RC&D by naming their endowment fund in his honor.

Virginia Buerman, Creighton was appointed to serve on the Corps of Discovery Welcome Center Board as the RC&D representative. Virginia shared some of her thoughts about the facility and the need to support its efforts since it's doing so much good for the region.

Approximately 40,000 people attended the Missouri River Outdoor Expo this past weekend. And, 265 fifth graders from area schools took part on Friday in educational sessions. Donna Christiansen, Rhonda Kneifl and Gary Howey represented the RC&D at the event.

Art Kuhl reported that Laurel and Randolph are no longer involved in the Wau-Col Regional Water System project and Osmond is considering other options. The project is moving ahead with some redesign work.

The next meeting will be Oct. 22 at the RC&D office and all are welcome.

GENERATOR SAFETY

Some people use standby generators to power their homes, farms or businesses during utility power outages. Whether you own a generator or plan to get one, have a qualified electrician install a transfer safety switch to isolate the load from the power lines that connect to your home or building. This switch protects your generator from potential damage when the power comes back on and protects utility workers repairing lines.

The Nebraska Department of Banking and Finance announces its participation in the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System

The Nebraska Department of Banking Finance (NDBF) recently announced that starting on Jan. 2, 2008, the Department will join several states across the country in participating in the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System (NMLS) developed by the Conference of State Bank Supervisors and the American Association of Residential Mortgage Regulators.

The goal of the NMLS is to streamline and improve the licensing of mortgage lenders, brokers and servicers that hold licenses in multiple states.

"The Department is proud to be one of the first states to begin using the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System," said Karen Reynolds, Review Examiner. "The new system will save the Department significant resources in processing mortgage banker licenses and provide better supervision to protect consumers."

The NMLS is a web-based system which will use a single set of uniform applications that will allow state licensed mortgage lenders and mortgage brokers to apply for, amend, update or renew a mortgage banker license online in Nebraska, as well as in other participating states. Licensees will be able to electronically manage a single record in the NMLS for one or more state regulators; have real-time access to licensing information; have quicker response time from regulators; have the ability to run reports on license information; and pay fees electronically for all jurisdictions.

The NMLS will also improve public information through consumer accessibility. The NMLS will eventually allow consumers to check a single record to identify and track companies with which they intend to do business.

The NDBF began using the new licensing application forms on Sept. 1. All companies and sole proprietors who hold a license with the Department will need to complete a two-part process to set up a record on the NMLS. All current licensees must submit an online form requesting an account on the NMLS by Nov 1, 2007.

More information about

NMLS can be found at http://www.ndbf.org/forms/NMLS_Ovrview.pdf and also at <http://www.cbsa.org>

Political caucus important

Dear Editor,
While some may consider the election for 2008 already a burden on their sensibilities, this election cycle will become one of the most hard-fought elections in history.
For the first time in many years, the choices on both sides are diverse and filled with candidates who are seriously confronting the issues. How much influence will Nebraskans have in helping each party make their choice for their party's candidate next fall?
The Nebraska Democratic Party has decided to initiate a presidential caucus selection process, similar to the one used in Iowa. Under the new system the May primary vote will include all the regular primary elections, but the choice for the preferred presidential candidate from the Democratic Party will not influence delegate selection.
Nebraska Democrats will meet on Saturday evening, Feb. 9, to choose delegates for the various candidates. Many other states will be choosing on Feb. 5. If this Super Tuesday election does not give a clear winner, then our caucus on Feb. 9 may have a big impact on who wins the nomination.

Regardless of the national implications of our caucus, Nebraskans will have the opportunity to participate in grass roots democracy by participating in the caucus system. As the Wayne County Democratic Party chair, it is my responsibility to help develop a county plan. In larger cities the caucus process will be conducted on a precinct level. This may not be effective in rural counties. Our tentative plan is to group all of Wayne County into one unit and have the caucus at the court house. Each person attending will still have one vote.
In order to participate a person needs to be eligible to vote, registered to vote, and registered as a Democrat. Provisions have been made for absentee ballots, and one can register to vote at the caucus and also register as a Democrat at that time. More information will be forthcoming. Anyone with ideas about this plan should contact me with comments before Nov. 1.
Thank you.

Charles Shapiro,
Wayne

Main Street Focus

At our Tuesday meeting there were several people who were concerned about the number and location of the handicapped parking spaces in downtown Wayne.
City Administrator Lowell Johnson explained that the City Council questioned this also so he checked with the Nebraska Department of Roads and this is a requirement established by the Department of Roads. They require one handicapped stall for every 22 spaces, while the city requires one handicapped stall for every 25 spaces. Another concern was that the parking spaces were not on Main Street, but the side numbered streets.
Women's Night, Out is coming along fine. Ticket sales are going well, but as of Tuesday, we are not yet sold out and tickets can be purchased at various locations in town, including the banks. The planning is complete and set up time for exhibitors will begin late Sunday afternoon. More volunteers will be needed to help collect tickets, work in the kitchen and as wait staff. If you can help, call Coleen at Copy Write.
We seem to be getting adequate calls to donate a tree for this year's decorated Christmas tree at the corner of Seventh and Main Streets. However, currently our problem is a lack of volunteers to help set the tree up. If you are interested in helping, please contact Gary Van Meter at Mines Jewelry.
The Christmas on Main events calendar looks like this:
Customer Appreciation Night, Friday, Nov. 2;
Parade of Lights and Living Windows, Thursday, Nov. 29 (Santa will visit with children after the parade at Jacob's Room);
Fantasy Forest on Thursday and Friday, Dec. 6-7 with Holiday Sounds on Friday, Dec. 7;
Rotary Soup and Pie Supper will be held on Thursday, Dec. 6;
TEAM Wayne is planning weekly $50 cash drawings with two $500 drawings on Dec. 28.
Mark these dates on your calendars and plan to do your Holiday shopping in Wayne this year.
The Promotions Committee is looking for youth groups, clubs, churches, businesses and organizations to enter the parade and to stage holiday scenes in downtown business windows. Entry forms can be obtained by calling or visiting the WAEDI office in downtown Wayne.

Wes Blecke announced that there will be an All-Board Meeting (Main Street, Chamber and Wayne Industries) held on Thursday, Oct. 11. The purpose is to bring all the boards together to gain greater input for WAEDI and its future operations.
Wes also announced that the 2007 Nebraska Lied Main Street Awards of Excellence and Presentation of new Main Street Communities will be held Sunday, Oct. 14 in Minden. There will be no more Fall Conferences such as we had in Wayne last year — the new plan is just to have a dinner to honor the year's award winners. He is looking for people who may want to attend. The cost is $25 per person and he is looking to fill a table of eight. The tables, if completed by a Wayne group, would reduce the cost to $22.50 per person.
It is my understanding that organizations and people from Wayne will be getting five awards at this dinner. The Wayne "Business of the Year" and "Volunteer of the Year" will be named and recognized at this time. The dinner should start at 12:30 and conclude by 2:30 p.m. so that should make it easy to drive there in the morning and head home in the evening.
Last week I attended the stockholders meeting of the Wayne Community Clothing Store group. The stockholders recommended to the board that they discontinue the operations of the store due to a lack of support and poor sales of stock. I was disappointed that this worthwhile project could not get the support of the community, especially the business community, very proud of the group who worked on the project and especially proud of the retired WSC faculty and staff that attended the meeting as stockholders and people who apparently felt that this project was a great need for our community.
The next Main Street meeting is Tuesday, Oct. 9 at the Main Street Office.

Capitol View

Political race heating up

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association
Mike Johanns is in the 2008 race for the U.S. Senate.
Oh, boy!
When the man who was twice elected to the governor's office resigned last week as U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, he became the most prominent Republican vying for the nomination. Johanns is also a former Lincoln mayor.
The other high-profile hopefuls are Attorney General Jon Bruning and former four-term congressman Hal Daub of Omaha, who later served as mayor of the river city. Bruning previously served in the Legislature.
At this writing, former governor and former two-term U.S. Senator Bob Kerrey had yet to say whether he would accept the Democratic nomination. What with Kerrey's previous popularity and success in electioneering, he is generally viewed as the lone Democrat who could mount a competitive effort for his party.
Thus, three of the men at the center of the political stage have Statehouse backgrounds. Only Daub has had to work over the years — in two previous, unsuccessful Senate campaigns — for statewide recognition and support.
It is important to note Republicans hold a powerful voter registration edge of more than 200,000 — and it has been 13 years since Kerrey last appeared on a Nebraska ballot. Don't forget Kerrey became president of New School University in New York City after leaving the Senate. He talked briefly about running for mayor of the Big Apple. His NYC connection will come up often if Joseph Robert Kerrey comes back to politics.
The Grand Old Party's edge in registered voters has more than doubled since the days when Kerrey was the political neophyte who unseated Republican Governor Charles Thone in 1982. Always keep in mind; A Democrat has no hope of winning a statewide general election unless thousands upon thousands of Republicans cast crossover votes.

If Kerrey, 64, wants the nomination, the stage naturally would be set for one of the nation's premiere political races. The seat left open when two-term Republican Chuck Hagel passed on the 2008 race is greatly coveted by both parties, given the very small majority Democrats now hold in the Senate. Such a marquee race would mean big-money campaigns, even by today's big-money standards.
Johanns, 57, was the early favorite in the GOP primary. For one thing, when he was the top man in the Statehouse, his job approval ratings were consistently very high. His service as Secretary of Agriculture might be a mixed blessing. On the one hand he returns with a prestigious cabinet post behind him. On the other hand, when was the last time a U.S. Secretary of Agriculture — regardless of political affiliation — was popular with Nebraskans.

A quick rundown on what political kibitzers are saying about the Republican candidates.
Johanns is low-key. A solid party line man. He favors steady-as-you-go campaigns, adhering to positions Nebraskans regard as conservative. Political supporters will handle any rough stuff. If opponents make a face at him, he is inclined to lecture them on alleged "negative campaigning." He will talk about the war, and it would be a legitimate bulletin if he did anything other than support it. Johanns left his mayor's job to run for governor, and left the governor's job in his second term to take the top USDA job.

Daub, 66, is almost frenetic, with a history of consistently hardnosed campaigns. If he were a boxer, critics say, he would often hit hardest in the clinches; his opponent would probably complain about a stream of rabbit punches. Critics also say he is old news. Dependable party line man. Supports the war in Iraq, says Nebraskans do the same.
Bruning, 38, has been unabashedly ambitious since he was a state senator. He contemplated other Statehouse offices in his one-term Unicameral service. In his first term as attorney general, he said he was interested in the governorship. Although he has yet to reach Daub's league, he is quick to go on the offensive. Supports the war, says Nebraskans do the same.

Looking Ahead in Wayne

By Lowell Johnson,
City Administrator
Next Council meeting
The next regular City Council meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 2 at 5:30 p.m. in the council room.
Problem Resolution Team
In 1998, the mayor and council and the Wayne police department, established the Wayne Problem Resolution Team (PRT) to evaluate complaints about property maintenance and to guide the enforcement of the International Property Maintenance Code.
The team meets monthly to review complaints received and to evaluate enforcement options. Members include the police chief, a city council member, the city building inspector, WSC student services director, member of Wayne Landlord Association, Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services, Wayne Community Housing, and the city clerk, area utilities.
The city has adopted the 2000 edition of the Property Maintenance Code which sets minimum standards for interior and exterior safety issues, building condition and appearance in the neighborhood.
The standards in the Code require properties to be maintained at a reasonable level and are enforceable by law. When a complaint is received, the PRT reviews the complaint, the building inspector evaluates the property and a determination is made if repairs need to be made to comply with the minimum standards of the code.

If work maintenance is needed, the property owner is notified and given a deadline to make the needed repairs or demolish and clean up the property. The enforcement options available to the city are 1) hire the repairs done and bill the property owner, 2) require the property to be vacated, 3) seek an injunction to prevent the use of the property or 3) hire the demolition and clean up of the property and bill the property owner. Almost all repair required from complaints is done without the above enforcement options.

Food safety first when packing school lunches, snacks

An estimated 76 million cases of foodborne illness affect Americans annually. When it comes to packing school lunches, it's important to follow these food safety practices to minimize the risk of contracting foodborne illness:

- It's always important to practice good hand washing. Use soap and warm water for 20 seconds before and after handling food and eating. Encourage kids to sing "Happy Birthday" twice as they wash up.
- Be sure to rinse fresh whole fruits and vegetables under running tap water before packing them into a lunch.
- Be sure to keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. Insulated lunch boxes and insulated bottles for hot foods and freezer packs for cold foods can keep lunches at proper temperatures. Perishable foods such as meat, poultry or egg sandwiches not eaten at lunchtime should be discarded.

Extension Educator
4-H & Youth

- If lunches are made the night before, be sure to keep them in the refrigerator until it's time to leave in the morning. Also, foods should never be left unrefrigerated for more than two hours. Refrigerators should be kept at 40 degrees and below. A thermometer can help make sure the temperature stays at a safe level.
- When shopping for food for school lunches or after-school snacks, be sure to choose pasteurized milk and juice. Pasteurization significantly reduces the risk of foodborne illness.
- Be sure fruits and vegetables are free from bruises and damage—that's where pests and bacteria can more easily reside. Also, be sure to keep cut fruit and vegetables refrigerated and separate from household chemicals and raw foods, such as meat, poultry and seafood.

- Consume lunch meat within three to five days once opened. Unopened luncheon meat can be kept refrigerated for up to two weeks unless stated differently by the manufacturer.

The Wayne High School Class of 1947 met for a 60th class reunion on Sept. 13-15.

There were 55 members who participated in a Baccalaureate service on May 18, 1947 at the Municipal Auditorium and returned there on May 23, 1947 for Commencement.

Ten classmates and their spouses got together for a mini reunion on Aug. 2 when classmate Logene Sydow Wickwire, her husband, Bob, and daughter, Kathy, were here from Gainesville, Fla.

The Max Party Room was the gathering spot for an informal supper on Sept. 14.

Jim Bush was Master of Ceremonies, reminiscing about memorable escapades of their youth. He was assisted by Hollis Johnson Frese, Pat Hook Straight and Elaine Test Menke.

Darrell and Carolyn Hart, accompanied by Rae Kugler, sang a humorous AARP song. The decorating committee, consisting of Faye Beckman Mann, Ruth Shufelt Victor and Marion Foote Raymer, carried out the blue and white school colors.

Minerva Club begins 111th club year

The Minerva Club began the 111th year of the club on Sept. 24 at the home of Phyllis Rahn.

President Marilyn Wallin began the meeting by sharing thoughts of lessons to be learned from a tree. Quote for the day was "A smile adds face value." Roll call was answered by 13 members telling of their favorite vacation spot.

Correspondence included thank yous from Lila Brown and Donna Hansen.

Hollis Frese read historical minutes from the meeting held Sept. 23, 1996. The highlight of that meeting was making celebration plans for the club's 100th anniversary. The program theme for the 1996-97 club year was "Nebraska Land."

The birthday song was sung for Donna Hansen, Lois Youngerman, Marilyn Wallin and Fauneil Bennett.

President Wallin thanked Donna Hansen for planting and taking care of the summer flowers in front of the Wayne Public Library. The Friends of the Library group paid for the flowers.

President Wallin also thanked Joyce Mitchell, MaryAnn DeNaeyer and Fauneil Bennett for preparing the program books. The program theme for the 2007-2008 is "Potpourri" allowing each member to present a program of their choice.

The meeting was adjourned. Phyllis Rahn presented a program about her recent travels to Alaska.

The next meeting will be Oct. 8 at noon at the Senior Center with Donna Hansen as hostess.

Women of the ELCA hold convention in Kearney

The Nebraska Synodical Organization of the ELCA celebrated its 20th anniversary Sept. 21-23 at the eighth biennial convention at the Holiday Inn in Kearney.

Also observed was the 10th anniversary of the organization's "Saved To Serve" projects, in which volunteer groups of women do service projects for groups associated with the church. The weekend opportunities also included Bible Study and fellowship.

Beth Meyer of Fremont was re-elected to a second term as president of the Nebraska Women of the ELCA. Other officers elected were Gwendolynn Edwards of Bellevue, vice president; Jane Johnson of Newman Grove, secretary and Nancy Johnson of Omaha, treasurer.

Elected as board members from the seven conferences were Laura Hunt of Stromsburg, Central; Bernice Gegenbach of Eustis, High Plains; Emily Laaker of Bennington, Metro East; Jane Flores of Hooper, Midlands; Becky Bahnfleth of Pierce, Northeast;

Carolyn Schlake of Beatrice, Southeast and Teresa Christensen of Rusk, Southern Prairie.

Two members of Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne, Dorothy Wert and Phyllis Rahn, were among the 180-some women attending the convention.

Bishop David deFreese of the Nebraska Synod, ELCA, led the worship on Friday evening and conducted a Bible Study on Saturday morning. Both developed the convention theme "Jesus Christ is the Same Yesterday, Today and Forever" (Hebrews 13:8 NKJV).

Carmen Richards of Hope, N.D. who is churchwide president of the Women of the ELCA, was a convention speaker and worship leader. The keynote address was given by Patricia Lorenz of Largo, Fla., a nationally-known writer and speaker, who spoke on the importance of friendships among women.

The women adopted a budget of $121,400 for 2008. A special offering was taken to be shared with companion synod organizations in Tanzania and Argentina.

This is the way to wash your hands

Stacie Ortmeier from West Point traveled to Wayne Head Start to teach the children about proper hand washing techniques. Stacie did activities with powder and a black light to let the children see how well they were washing their hands. The children were told how important it is to keep hands washed and prevent germs from making you or others sick.

Events are scheduled at Corps of Discovery Welcome Center

A number of events are scheduled to be held soon at The Corps of Discovery Welcome Center and one will be hosting local artist Michael Gibbs of Ponca who will be in the Gallery through the month of October.

Gibbs, after spending 19 years in Minneapolis, and 12 in San Francisco returned to his home of Ponca and opened an Art Gallery, ConCHAIRtino. Gibbs with no professional experience in the realm of Art states, "The success of my new business in Ponca is almost secondary to my exploring one of my earliest dreams, that is, to be a painter."

Gibbs said, "For most of the time I spent in San Francisco I worked at a private women's club called The Century Club of California. One of the presidents of the membership during that time was a woman named Polly Day who started taking piano lessons at the age of 50. She was much older than that when I attended one of her full length solo recitals but I happened to be 50 at the time so she became my inspiration for music composition."

Gibbs continued that he studied music and piano since the age of 7 or 8 and majored in music education during his years at Morningside College in Sioux City but did not seriously write for piano until she helped him see that it is never too late to begin the things that you are meant to do.

Gibbs dream of being an artist goes back at least as far as his first piano lessons. He says the time has come to act, and "Act like an Artist" may well describe him and his first show away from his own gallery/studio. Gibbs will have on display at the CDWC Gallery digital photographic prints, prints of images he calls photo pixel painting, acrylic paintings, and prints of his acrylic paintings.

There will be a reception and an opportunity to meet the artist from 1-4 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 14. Gibbs will have additional pieces that day and answer your questions about his art. Gibbs says, "Come and reinvent your Sunday, or your life."

Also at the Corps of Discovery Welcome Center will be artists Mary Schaefer-Roper from St. Helena in the Gallery through the month of October.

Schaefer-Roper from St. Helena said one of her life's dreams was to someday, become an artist, "I have been painting and drawing for over 30 years. My biggest challenge was to be able to draw something realistic, and I continue to learn something new all the time. Art is my life away from work."

She is fascinated by Indian artists and their culture. "They are very inspirational in their own way of life and the way some of them are natural born artists. They are very detailed and some of the colors they use are awesome."

Schaefer-Roper newest venture in art is comic caricatures. She draws from real life models and makes them look like a comic caricature. She will be on hand during an Open House featuring her work Oct. 27-28 at the Corps of Discovery Welcome Center from 1-4 p.m. She will be present to do Comic Caricatures. The public is invited to stop by and have a caricature drawing done by her.

Visitors are always welcome to stop in at the CDWC and check out the Gallery as well as the sales floor.

Upcoming events at the CDWC:
Gallery Exhibits through Oct. 30 include:
• Artists are Mary Schaefer-Roper from St. Helena, Michael Gibbs, from Ponca and Vicky Koch from St. James;
• Drawing Work Shop: Sept. 29, 9-4 with Randel Anderson, (two openings) contact 402-371-1267; Featured Member: Sept. 29-Oct 5; Ashfall Fossil Beds State Park; Meet the Artist: Oct. 14, 1-4 p.m., Michael Gibbs.
Also, Featured Member: Oct. 20-26, Neihardt State Historic Site; Meet the Artist Open House: Oct. 27 and 28, Mary Schaefer Roper. Featured Member: Oct. 31, Uncle Mike's Trading Post, serving BBQ all day from Smoker; HALLOWEEN FUN: Oct. 31, 4-6 p.m. Halloween Costume contest all ages, old time Halloween games, scavenger hunt, prizes and refreshments.
The Corps of Discovery Welcome Center is a non-profit 501 (C) 3 organization whose mission is to share diverse culture, history and landscape of northeast Nebraska and southeast South Dakota, thereby enhancing the economic prosperity of the communities. Please stop or call to find out more by calling Rhonda Kneif, Director at 402-667-6557.
