Each student was accompanied by a sponsor from her school. The workshop, referred to as WISE Women, was directed by Dr. Ann Fruhling, an assistant professor with UNO's College of Information Science & Technology (IS&T) at The Peter Kiewit Institute, who was assisted by Connie Jones, IS&T Outreach Coordinator.

Among those attending were Wayne High School senior Abby Kenny and her sponsor, Betsy Maryott.

"Our intent is to expose young women to career opportunities in information technology and engineering at a time when they are making important decisions about their future," Dr. Fruhling said. "We were very pleased with this year's participation."

WISE Women began Friday evening with a trip to the Henry Doorly Zoo, where participants got a behind-the-scenes tour of the zoo's research facilities and heard a presentation by reproductive physiologist Dr. Naida Loskutoff. After dinner, everyone enjoyed a showing of the 3-D IMAX movie "Deep Sea.

Saturday was a full day of technology sessions at PKI, including lighting and acoustics, bioinformatics, animation and programming, project management and assembled various components of a computer. During lunch the students were joined by PKI faculty members, followed by a career panel of women in information technology and engineering. Six students had their names drawn to take home a computer system of their own.

Letters were sent to high schools throughout Nebraska in early September asking school counselors to nominate students for WISE Women. Those asked to attend were chosen from this list of nominees based upon ACT scores, grades, and overall performance in

Bussing proposals to save transportation costs discussed

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

Wayne Community Schools Board of Education met in regular session on Monday. Approved were the minutes of both the regular meeting on Oct. 8 and of the special meeting on Oct. 31, where the board approved litigation settlement. Among agenda items at the Nov. 12 meeting, was Dave Vollbrecht of Nebraska School Bus, Inc. with bussing proposals to cut

Vollbrecht noted there are six routes and four in-town. He gave a proposal to the school board members that would provide five outof-town routes and eliminate all in-town routes, to save transportation costs. With the changes of the routes, Vollbrecht noted the first child on each morning route would board the bus at 6:30 a.m. and arrive at school one hour and 23 minutes later and the last stop in the evening would be at 5 p.m. He added that each route would run between 40-50 miles with 15-20

Dr. Joe Reinert, superintendent, asked what the cost would be if intown routes were eliminated and Vollbrecht said that might save a little on time but not much on cost. Several school board members noted it was their understanding that it cost $32,000 to add the that amount was also to add one of the other routes, not just in-town, plus he said the routes have grown ! needs to be figured in. Dr. Reinert noted there are a few that have opted in but really did not equate to many miles. Jeryl Nelson, school board member, said students were riding one hour and now are riding one and a half hours and they wonder what the change is.

Jodi Pulfer, school board member, wanted to know how many students are being picked up and would like the price of five routes also reminded them there were ways to reduce costs that he listed in the handouts. For example, they could try to reduce the number of busses to activities.

Approved was the hiring of Matt Menken as a part-time custodian. The hiring of a para-professional route in town. Larry Grashorn of for a special education student was Nebraska School Bus, Inc. noted a moved to executive session along with other personnel issues.

As for financial claims, Kaye Morris, school board president, with students opting in so that reminded everyone that they are trying to cut costs and that includes what they feel are excessive amounts charged for hosting meetings. Nelson added that half the budget for substitute teachers has been spent. Dr. Carolyn Linster, board member, said they need a better understanding of the spending. Peg Lutt, curriculum director, noted if they were referring to a recent meeting, she felt the substitutes hired were justif because it may not be worth it in fied and that the STARS grant the long run to change. Vollbrecht would reimburse the district. She said they could come back to the added she felt they had done a good next meeting with prices and he job keeping expenses down. Pulfer added that they are not just looking at expenses from this meeting but overall.

In administration reports, Lutt noted reviewers were here on Oct. 30 and found good things going on in the district. Mark Hanson, high school principal, said teacher Betsy Maryott voluntarily has started an environmental club (Tree Huggers Club) at school, which ties in well with Geo Science, which they want to build into the curriculum. One thing the group will do is recycling. Tim Krupicka, Middle School principal, noted WEB and their student council have been running the concessions at home games as a fundraiser and WEB recently purchased two projectors at $750 each for the Middle School.

Daryl Schrunk, elementary school principal's report included discussion on students singing for holiday events this year. He noted the third and fourth graders will be at Fantasy Forest on Friday, Dec. 7 at 10 a.m., second grade will be at the Senior Center on Friday, Dec. 14 at 12:45 p.m. and the first grade will be at the Oaks on Monday, Dec. 17 at 1 p.m.

Kelly Ballinger, SPED director reported on IDEA District Determination and said that Wayne had received the highest score possible. Dr. Reinert reported for Rocky Ruhl, athletic director and mentioned a couple of important dates: Nov. 19: Fall Sports Awards Night and Nov. 24: Basketball Scrimmage.

Dr. Reinert discussed the recent audit, which board members approved. Pulfer noted for board committees, the Foundation met and a mailing was going out towards getting donations for the music department, technology and for handicap accessible needs (elevator and restrooms). Approved was the second reading of Policy 1208 and also of 403b information sharing agreement.

School board members approved the resolution for the Voluntary Reduction-In-Force Severance Program (RIF), which would allow for the voluntary reduction of certified staffing.

The next regular meeting of the Wayne Community Schools Board of Education will be Monday, Dec. 10 at 5 p.m. at the high school in

Last week, lunch was provided to volunteers by Chartwell's, the Wayne State College food service provider.

Ann Witkowski was the first president of Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity and helped start the chapter in Wayne.

"Several years ago the Wayne Rotary Club designated the profit made from their fund raising soup suppers as a donation for Habitat for Humanity" Ann said. Club members were interested in the possibility of building a Habitat for Humanity house in Wayne, but it was not known if a town of about 5,000 could support a Habitat for Humanity chapter.

In October, 2001, Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity became an official chapter of the Norfolk Area Habitat for Humanity Affiliate. The Wayne Rotary Club and the First United Methodist Church of Wayne made significant monetary contributions that supported the first house build in Wayne.

Habitat for Humanity worked with the Wayne City Council, which helped the chapter obtain a lot at 201 South Nebraska Street.

"Much time and effort was put into selecting the right family for our first build. Eventually, the Charles and Malisa McCoy family was selected" said Witkowski. "Wayne Area Habitat for Humanity, with the help of several hundred community volunteers and Wayne churches and businesses dedicated this first house on Sunday, April 27, 2003."

Jason and Claudia Racely and their family moved into this American four-square style house in December of 1999. This style is characterized by the square shape, front porch and having four bedrooms upstairs.

The kitchen was completely gutted, new walls, ceiling, flooring and cabinets were installed. The guest bath also received the same transformation.

Throughout the house ceilings were replaced and old wallpaper removed. A deck was added to the back of the house, a new garage was built and landscaping was added.

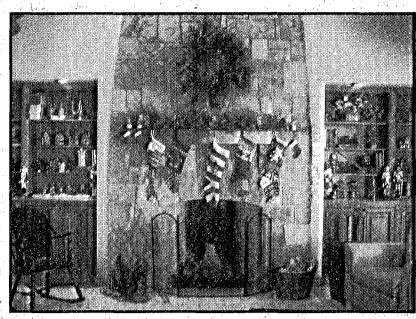

All the work was done by the Racelys with the help of family members and many friends. There are several renovation projects still in the planning stages.

Wakefield overcomes Hartington Cedar Catholic Trojans with solid defense — heads to state championship game

Wakefield's lone, second-quarter seems like he always gets 3 or 4 Hartington Cedar Catholic (HCC) Trojans in Wakefield on Nov. 10.

"We just keep doing what we are taught to do," said head coach Justin Smith. "[We] play fundamental and physical football, and the rest will take care of itself. Just don't give up the big play and make the other team earn their scores."

In their 7-0 victory, the Wakefield Trojans' defense held HCC to 156 yards of total offense, warding off any big plays.

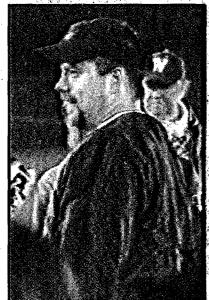

"All 11 guys on the field have to do their job for our defense to work," said Smith. "It is a team oriented defense, and they play that way."

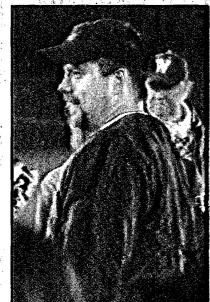

The defense had its work cut out for them, facing a much larger HCC team, and a tough rushing attack from running back Chad

Northern Sun Conference football crown Saturday afternoon with a 59-34 win over Wayne State at the NSIC Merchants Bank Metrodome Classic in Minneapolis, Minnesota

The 10-1 Warriors finished league play with a perfect 9-0 mark while Wayne State takes second in the NSIC at 7-2 and 7-4 overall. The Wildcats will represent the NSIC in the Mineral Water Bowl in State's momentum with a 76-yard Excelsior Springs, Missouri, on December 1, marking just the second time in school history that a Wildcat football team will play in a post-season game. The other appearance was 1970 when WSC lost to Franklin, Indiana 40-12 in the Mineral Water Bowl.

Wayne State started slowly as Winona State scored on their first two possessions of the game to grab an early 14-0 lead. Andrew Verbancouer hauled in an eightyard scoring pass from quarterback Drew Aber 2:21 into the game for the first score followed by an Aber to Scott Peters four-yard strike with 6:17 remaining in the first quarter. But WSC struck back as sophomore quarterback Silas Fluellen connected with Frederick Bruno on a 72-yard touchdown the score 14-7. After forcing a Winona State punt, WSC drove 80 yards on nine plays as junior running back Travis Rhone scored on a 30-yard run on a fourth and one play, cutting the Warrior lead to 14-13 with 14:51 left in the second quarter as the extra point kick by WSC was blocked.

The Warriors countered Wayne drive as Aber found Verbancouer on five-yard scoring play, giving Winona State a 21-13 lead with 11:46 to go in the second quarter. Winona later recovered a Fluellen fumble and took over at their own 32 yard line where on the first play of the drive, Aber delivered a 68yard pass to Peters to put the Warriors in front 28-13 with 9:55 left until halftime. After WSC was forced to punt on their next drive, the Warriors used another big play.

Winona State captured its 18th pass just 20 seconds later, making Wiese, to grab a 35-13 lead. Winona State closed out the first half scoring with a 42-yard field goal by Ryan Abbott on the final play of the half to give the Warriors a 38-13'

WSC opened the second half by marching 68 yards on nine plays as Fluellen connected with sophomore wide receiver Logan Masters on a nine-yard scoring play, making the score 38-20. Later in the third quarter, Winona State quarterback Drew Aber capped a 10-play, 79 yard drive with a 19 yard scoring run, giving the Warriors a 45-20 lead at the 5:03 mark of the third quarter. Wayne State responded on the next drive as Rhone scored on a five-yard run to culminate a sevenplay, 68 yard drive to make the score 45-27 with 3:19 to go in the third quarter. Wayne State College head men's year. basketball coach Rico Burkett announced Wednesday that Porter Birtell of Lutheran High Northeast High School has signed a national letter of intent during the NCAA's early singing period to attend Wayne State College and play for the Wildcats in the 2008-09 season.

"We are excited about Porter joining our program," remarked Coach Burkett. "More importantly, he is the type of quality individual both on and off the floor, and he will be a great addition to the Wildcat basketball program.

Birtell, a 6-7, 250-pound forward/center, averaged 18 points, 8.4 rebounds, 1.6 steals and 1.6 blocks per game as a junior last season. He became the school's first 1,000-point scorer and is the school's all-time leader in career rebounding entering his senior College at 7 p.m. at Rice.

Birtell was a member of the Bison/Runza Red Team last summer and was a major contributor to the team's success.

"Porter has the physical size and skills to become a great basketball player," added Burkett. "He has the ability to score with his back to the basket as well as step out and knock down the mid-range jump shot. Porter runs the floor and is a solid rebounder because of his physical abilities we expect him to contribute right away. In signing Porter, we feel we have added one of the best post players in the state."

Wayne State College is coming off a 15-13 season in 2006-07, the first winning season for the Wildcats since 1999-2000. The Wildcats open the 2007-08 season steals and second in career at home on Nov. 15 hosting York

2007-08 Wayne State College Men's Basketball Season Outlook

After finishing 15-13 last season, both ends of the floor." the Wayne State College men's basketball team looks for continued improvement in 2007-08 with the combination of experienced veterans and talented underclassmen.

The Wildcats lose just one starter and two seniors from last year's club that gave WSC its first winning season since the 1999-2000 season. Depth and experience should be two, key factors in the success of the Wildcats this season with seven top-scorers returning from last year's team combined with three redshirt freshmen and a stellar recruiting class with another four true freshmen.

"I expect we will be able to play 10-11 guys on any given night," said WSC head coach Rico Burkett, who enters his eighth season at WSC with a 84-109 record. "Our returning players have made tremendous progress during the off-season and our new players have done a great job in our pre-season conditioning and individual workouts."

A pair of seniors who are returning All-NSIC performers will be called on to carry the load this season for the Wildcats. 5-11 guard Bryce Caldwell, a graduate of Davenport North High School in Iowa, averaged 14.3 points and 3.8 rebounds per game last season to earn Second Team All-NSIC honors. His 99 three-pointers were the second most in a single season, and Caldwell is tied for fourth entering this season in career treys with 183.

Matt Rathje (raw-chee) 6-8 center is coming off a career-year, averaging 12.2 points and 7.4 rebounds per game to collect Third Team All-NSIC honors. He led the NSIC in field goal percentage last season at 66.2 percent, making 137 of his 207 shots.

"Bryce has a scorer's mentality and he has the ability to get hot and carry a team for stretches with his shooting ability," said Burkett. "Matt had a great junior year and finished the season playing his best basketball. He has the physical tools to dominate his position on

The third senior on the team this season is 6-8 center/power forward Eric Johnson from Newell-Fonda HS in Iowa, who led the team in blocks last season with 20 while averaging one point and two rebounds per game off the bench.

"Eric showed signs of improvement last season providing energy and rebounding," commented Coach Burkett on Johnson. "EJ has had a solid pre-season and seems to be a more consistent and focused player."

Juniors Jonathon Thomas and David Walters will provide plenty of help for Caldwell and Rathje as both players started all 28 games last season as sophomores. Thomas, a 6-6 forward from Maquoketa Valley HS in Iowa, averaged 8.5 points and 6.8 rebounds per game while shooting 55.7 percent from the field. Walters, a 6-2 junior guard from Conrad, Iowa, averaged 7.6 points and 2.1 rebounds per game.

Sophomores Jamar Diggs and Brian Metz gained valuable experience last season and will give the Wildcats two more scoring threats.' Diggs, a 6-2 sophomore guard from Minneapolis DeLasalle HS, was the NSIC Co-Newcomer of the Year last season after averaging 10 points and 2.9 rebounds per game as a backup point guard last year.

Metz, a 6-8 forward/center, who averaged 2.4 points and 1.8 rebounds per game last season, has added significant size over the summer and is expected to provide quality backup minutes at the center and power forward position this; season.

Three redshirt freshmen will be called upon to provide depth to the returning starters and letter winners from last season. Guards Blake McGriff (New Sharon, Iowa) and Ryan Rudloff (Newman Grove) along with center Sean Thurston (Minneapolis Patrick Henry HS) will battle for playing time after sitting out last season to learn the Wildcat system and add strength.

Four, incoming freshmen are expected to make immediate impacts this season, giving the Wildcats plenty of scoring options off the bench. They include 6-7 guard/forward Marcus Messersmith of Winside, a Class D-1 All-Stater last season who averaged 25.4 points and 7.0 rebounds per game; Elijah Miller from Galva-Holstein HS in Iowa, a 6-2 guard who averaged 15 points and 6 rebounds a contest; Nate Trueblood, a 6-5 freshman forward from Dixon, Ill. averaging 15.5 points and 6 rebounds last season and Zane Abner, a 6-5 guard/forward from Atkinson who averaged 18.8 points and 9.1 rebounds for West Holt HS.

"The nucleus is there for a successful season," added Burkett. "A lot will come down to staying healthy, playing together and competing to our maximum potential every time we take the floor. With a consistent effort on defense and rebounding the ball, we can become a very good basketball team."

Wayne State faces another rigorous schedule in the 2007-08 season, playing non-conference games against Nebraska-Kearney and Chadron State from the Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference, St. Cloud State and Augustana from the North Central Conference plus a road trip to California where the Wildcats face Biola University and Cal-San Diego.

The Northern Sun Conference schedule will be as tough as ever with perennial powers Winona State, last year's NCAA Division II runner up, and Northern State.

"Winona State and Northern State will again be the teams to beat in the NSIC with both teams bringing back a significant core of veteran players," stated Burkett. "Southwest Minnesota State, MSU Moorhead and Concordia-St. Paul will also return a solid group that could surprise."

The Wildcats open NSIC play on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 with road games at Minnesota, Crookston and Bemidji State.

season as women's basketball coach at Wayne State College. He will rely on three returning starters and a talented group of five incoming freshmen to match last season's 19-10 mark.

"We have many new faces in Wildcat uniform this year." remarked Williams, who is the alltime winningest coach in Wildcat women's basketball history with a 160-96 career mark, including 83-51 in Northern Sun Conference games. "The success of this group will be determined in how quickly . backup center, averaged 7.6 points into the starting lineup," boasted our freshmen can adopt to the collegiate game and the production of our returners. A lot will be expected of our returners both on the floor in their production but off the floor as well in leading the youth of this team."

The three returning starters are senior guard Andrea Schoepf, junior forward Kylee McGill and sophomore guard Teresa Case. Schoepf, a graduate of South Sioux City HS, is the 'Cats top returning scorer at 11.8 points per game last season and hit a team-high 48 three pointers.

"Andrea will need to be the perimeter threat for us," said Williams. "She can really shoot it, but the improvement of her penetration game will increase her ability to score more for us this year as well."

McGill, a 6-1 junior from Little River, Kansas, averaged 10.2 points and 7.7 rebounds per game last season to earn NSIC All-Conference honorable mention honors. She is ranked fourth in the Northern Sun Conference in rebounding while shooting 52.9 percent from the field, which was third-best in the

"Kylee is ready to have a great year," stated Williams, "She has very good perimeter skills and the ability to shoot the three. Kylee will be expected to score more than she has in the past as well as lead our team defensively."

Winside High School Twenty-nine junior/seniors and four chaperons attended the University of South Dakota's performance of the well known "Of Mice and Men" play in Brandon Valley, S.D. on Oct. 23. The Winside's Fine Arts Booster Club sponsored this trip, paying the $6 a person fee.

The voyagers departed Winside at 6:40 a.m. and arrived at Brandon Valley around 9:15 a.m. The performance lasted two hours and 25 minutes including a 10minute intermission.

The stage was by far the best part. The setup included a pond in the very front on the stage complete with water and covered with setup with massive barn doors the characters would slide to open and close. On the right side was the stable-hands' room that had a rusty bunk bed and old, broken windows.

After the intermission, the action was set in a barn with straw and a smoke machine, giving the impression it was dusty. All the scenes were enjoyable and very well thought out. All together, the performance was entertaining.

Following the greatly needed bathroom break, the students hopped on the bus, looking forward to their delicious sack lunches that awaited them. Who needs a steak a good 'ol sack lunch! For some

Every few minutes a car would go by honking their horn while the boys cheered and snickered at their own brilliance. Oh, how the bus driver loved it. Each honk brought her closer to going crazy; like a bomb waiting to explode. By 3:15, the students were back at school and ready to run, jump, or boogy around after sitting all day.

The students and chaperons had mixed feelings about the performance, Senior Heather Wylie stated, "For as good as the stage was set, the characters lacked presence." From a chaperon's point of or French fries when you can have view, Mrs. Kesting, a play and speech coach herself, concluded,

Thank You Day Dear Editor,

Nov. 19 marks the nation's third annual Public Health Thank You

As Thanksgiving approaches, the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services is asking Nebraskans to give special thanks to our local "public health heroes" who protect our health throughout the year.

We want to honor the people who safeguard our lives and health every day by helping us prevent injuries, infectious disease and chronic illness. They help us prepare for emergencies like tornadoes, ice storms and pandemic influenza.

Because of our local health departments like Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department, we live in a safer, healthier world.

Most Americans understand the important work of public health, but it is truly public health's prevention, health promotion and protection efforts that help our children grow into healthy adults contributing to a healthy economy.

So take a moment to think about all your local health department does for you, and to say thank you to our "public health heroes."

Sincerely, Joann Schaefer, M.D. Chief Medical Officer Director, Division of Public Health

Not in favor of the Leigh dam project Dear Editor,

On Oct. 17, 2007 the Wayne Herald ran an article extolling the virtues of the Leigh Dam being pursued by the Lower Elkhorn Resources District Natural (LENRD).

The points I offer below are just some of the more easily explained reasons for opposition to the dam. I have requested time on the agenda of several LENRD board meetings to try to address some of these issues with the LENRD Board denying each and every request.

The Leigh Dam is estimated to cost $6.9 million according to the LENRD's latest released numbers. The LENRD goes to great lengths to emphasize the cost for the project will be shared by the Nebraska Dept. of Natural Resources (DNR). Why does the LENRD emphasize this cost sharing in every news release regarding the Leigh Dam and at the same time omit that the DNR funds comes from Nebraska income tax? If the project is of such value to the public why not clearly state that the funding of the project is entirely by tax dollars?

The LENRD projects that the dam will prevent $44,077 in annual flood damages. This same study also indicates it will cost over $60,000 each year just to maintain the dam. Only government could trumpet a plan that spends over $14,000 more a year to "fix" a problem than what the problem costs and pat themselves on the back for their prudent management of the district's resources.

The LENRD asserts that 163 swimmers will use the facility each and every day of Nebraska's swimming season. The latest estimates for the village of Leigh indicates a population of 418 persons. Leigh's population would temporarily increase by at least 38 percent during the summer months if the LENRD's claims are correct. Yet the LENRD has not, to my knowledge, asked if Leigh Rescue has the volunteers available to mount water rescues. I am not aware that the LENRD board has offered to pay for training or equipping Leigh Rescue for these water emergencies even though Highway 91 will go right through the water pool. In addition the project straddles

the Platte/Colfax county line but I am not aware of any LENRD Board contacts with either county's sheriff's office in regards to how the jurisdictional issues will be handled. I am also not aware of any By Ed Howard curiosity by the LENRD Board in determining if law enforcement coverage by either county will be of any difficulty. I do not think that the Board or staff of the LENRD would ignore these obvious safety concerns if they truly believed these attendance projections were

The quality of the water being impounded by the dam is also questionable. The Dept. Environmental Quality in a letter dated 5-19-04 states, "a reservoir with such characteristics is approaching a state of eutrophication that could be considered less than desirable and negatively impacts the quality of recreational experiences and fisheries." This means that the water held by the dam may grow algae blooms that are toxic to fish and swimmers.

And what do you think the lion's share of the financial justification for the Leigh Dam is? If you guessed fishing and swimming you win. Neither the LENRD board nor the DNR will be held financially liable to the taxpayers if the attendance levels they claim as justification for this expenditure do not come to pass, but you will be liable to pay the taxes on the debt and annual maintenance of the project either way.

The LENRD Board actions do not seem to indicate they have any regard for other governmental bodies either. The Platte County Board has offered testimony both verbal and written to the LENRD that they do not approve of the water that will be retained against the county road north of Highway 91. According to the Columbus Telegram of 4-19-07 one Platte County Board member asked the LENRD's Mr. Berney, "What exactly is this bullying issue with the NRD?" and "Why is it that you couldn't even have the courtesy to come back to the county to iron out these issues we have with the road?" This is very curious considering this same article indicates Mr. Berney admitted Platte County owns and is liable for maintaining lawmakers in the 1970s and part of the road in question.

Another Columbus Telegram article dated March 3, 2004 reporting on the only LENRD hearing concerning the dam that was actually held in Leigh states, "Almost 90 percent of those who addressed the board were solidly opposed to the dam." Still the dam spending continues.

At the October LENRD subcommittee meeting we learned that the engineer supervising the project revealed that significant cost cutting needs to be done as the construction bids were much higher than anticipated. The big concern was that the cuts have to be made in a manner that retains the recreation functions so that the DNR will continue the cost sharing that goes with the recreation claims.

After listening to all of this and watching the acceptance of the board members to the engineer's news I begin to wonder if the project is really the goal of the LENRD or do they just have this uncontrollable need to spend tax dollars?

Who should pay for the water?

Statehouse Correspondent

The Nebraska Press Association The state Supreme Court isn't ready to decide whether the state or just taxpayers in the Republican River basin - should pay for water that Nebraska owes to Kansas.

Residents of the river basin will pay increased local property taxes that, in turn, will pay Nebraska farmers for water that will be sent on to Kansas. The Legislature approved the plan.

The Supreme Court turned down a request to take what is called "original jurisdiction" over the case. If the high court had agreed, the issue would have bypassed lower state courts.

The state's highest court will sometimes take up a case directly if it is obvious that those involved are virtually certain to eventually ask the Supreme Court to look at - no matter any decision by lower courts. Those asking the high court to accept original jurisdiction most often must also show that a delay in getting to the Supreme Court would subject them to irreparable damage.

The theory of the local taxpayers' case is an important one.

Nebraska's constitution prohibits state government from using property taxes for state purposes.

The question: Is the debt to Kansas a state obligation, since the state entered into the deal which Nebraska ultimately violated? If it is a state obligation, can any local property taxes be used to pay for it? In addition to the state, defendants in the case are the Upper, Middle and Lower Republican Natural Resources Districts. At the height of his career as a Statehouse lobbyist, David Tews was labeled by some critics as a "super senator." They resented his awesome ability to line up legislative support for interests he represented.

He had what in those days was a superabundance of clients. When a lobbyist represents a trainload of interest groups, especially when some of them are major players, influence is virtually automatic if one knows how to play the game. Tews, an attorney who once served in the Legislature, was arguably the best the lobbying game ever saw. He brought charm and wit and a keen intelligence to his work.

If a lawmaker was reluctant to support a bill championed by Tews, he often had the option of reminding them that he also was working for a bill they very much wanted. Or, he would offer to support their bill just to be a good fellow - and it was often seen as an offer that really was too good to refuse.

State employees in and around

Omaha and Lincoln will keep a close eye on a lawsuit filed against the administration of Governor Dave Heineman.

The action was filed on behalf of employees who argue that the insurance benefits available to them are inferior to that of other state workers - and that it reflects racial discrimination.

The determining factor in categorizing the state workers for one plan or the other? Zip codes.

The state denies wrongdoing, saying the benefits are comparable - without arguing that they are the

When administration officials had open meetings with workers last year, several state employees warned that the plan would be a certain target for a lawsuit, based on well-established legal precedents.

Omaha Mayor Mike Fahey continues to make clear that he doesn't want the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate. Will Scott Kleeb, who was defeated last year in the 3rd District House race, be talked into letting the party offer him to voters in a statewide race?

Kleeb is interested in a political career. At this stage he has to consider whether losing two consecutive elections will put a long-term "Loser" tag on him.

Republican Mike Johanns, a twice-elected governor who most recently served as U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, is the Republican frontrunner. Attorney General Jon Bruning was the first candidate for the GOP nomination.

This is not to say a Democrat couldn't win Nebraska's Senate seat. Anything can happen. Theoretically, the Cornhuskers' could beat Ohio State at football.

Open enrollment can serve as a retirement planning opportunity

Are you making the most of your plan? If your employer offers a 401(k) plan, take time during open enroll ment to review the plans details, including contribution limits, invest ment choices, employer match and a vesting schedule, if one is included. If you have questions about plan specifics, contact your employee ben efits office. A financial advisor may also help you fully understand your retirement plan opportunities and the best ways to make the most of

You can contribute as much as $15,500 to your 401(k) for 2007, according to Internal Revenue Service rules, and if you're over age 50 you can make an additional catch up contribution of up to $5,000. For the year 2008, the IRS contribution limit is $16,000, with a catch up contribution limit of $5,000 for workers over age 50.

Keep in mind that your employer may impose contribution restrictions below the IRS limits. For example, your company may limit contribu tions to 20 percent of an employees annual income. That means a per son earning $50,000 per year could contribute only as much as $10,000 even though the government limit is higher.

A savings opportunity that is hard to ignore If you're not contributing the max imum amount to your 401(k) account annually, consider increasing your contribution during open enroll ment each year (you most likely can change your contribution at other times of the year as well). Your com pany 401(k) plan can be an effective way to pursue your retirement goals. Advantages include:

Potential employer match Your employer may encourage your par ticipation by matching your contribu tions to your 401(k) account. Frozen pre stuffed turkeys also can be bought any time, but they should be kept fro zen until cooking time. Fresh tur keys should be bought one or two days before cooking and should not be bought pre stuffed. Pre cooked turkeys should be brought home and served within an hour or two. When attempting to choose the right size of turkey, use the basic rule of one pound per person. However, with frozen pre stuffed turkeys, estimate 1.25 pounds per person.

To thaw a whole, frozen tur key, plan well in advance as large turkeys could take days to thaw. The safest method of thawing is in a refrigerator, where the esti mated thawing time is roughly this measure, turkeys could take between one and five days to thaw. Turkeys can also be thawed in the microwave. Check the manu facturers instructions for the size of turkey that will fit in the micro wave and the time and power level settings to use for thawing. Be 24 hours per five pounds. Using sure to cook the turkey immedi ately after thawing.

> After a turkey has been thawed, remove the neck and giblets, wash the turkey inside and out with cold water and drain it well. To prevent contamination and possible food borne illnesses, wash hands, uten sils, the sink and anything else that has come in contact with the raw turkey.

> If choosing to stuff the turkey, mix and stuff the ingredients imme diately before putting the turkey in the oven. Stuff the turkey lightly, using about three fourths cup of stuffing per pound of turkey. Be aware that when stuffing is added, cooking time takes longer.

When the turkey is ready for cooking, place it breast side up on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Insert the meat thermometer in the turkey's thigh. Do not add water to the pan. Cover the turkey with a loose tent of heavy duty aluminum foil, which should be removed about 20 to 30 minutes before the turkey is done roasting. For safety and donesness, turkeys should be cooked to 165 degrees in the thigh as well as in the stuffing. Juices should be clear, not pink.

Following are turkey weight, cooking time without stuffing and cooking time with stuffing when roasted at 325 degrees:

4 to 6 pounds (breast, not stuffed), 1.5 to 2.25 hours; 6 to 8 pounds, 2.25 to 3.25 hours, 3 to 3.5 hours; 8 to 12 pounds, 3.25 to 4 hours, 3.5 to 4.5 hours; 12 to 16 pounds, 4 to 4.5 hours, 4.5 to 5.5 hours; 20 to 24 pounds, 5 to 5.5 hours, 6.5 to 7 hours; 24 to 28 pounds, 5.5 to 6.5 hours, 7 to 8.5

After roasting, remove any stuffing from the turkey. Let the bird stand 20 minutes for better carving, then serve. When stor ing leftover turkey, de bone it and refrigerate all leftovers in small, shallow containers. Use leftover turkey and stuffing within three to four days and gravy within one or two days or freeze the leftovers. With all this knowledge, you can safely serve everyones favorite holiday bird and enjoy the time with friends and family.

Retired school personnel meet in Wayne

The Wayne Area Association of Retired School Personnel (WAAR-SP) met at Tacos & More on Nov. 5. President Jo Ann Stoltenberg called the meeting to order with 14 members and one guest present. Marilyn Leighton gave the thought for the day. The minutes of the July meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was read and filed for audit. Members who did not receive the NARSP Newsletter did sign up for the subscription.

President Stoltenberg congratulated Leona Anderson who was one the three Nebraska Chairpersons to receive an award for working with the youth.

Others receiving an award for Youth and Community Service were Don and Marilyn Leighton, Betty Anderson, Mary Lou George, Lee Larsen, Gloria Leseberg, Leslie Hausmann, JoAnn Stoltenberg and Vera Diediker with a total of 2,092 hours of service.

Arlene Ostendorf reported on the side affects of the prescription drug Lyrica (LEER I kah) for persons who have nerve pain for diabetes or shingles.

This drug is not for children 18 years of age and under. The most common side effects are dizziness, sleepiness, blurry vision, dry mouth and trouble concentrating. She commented on "Smart Scents" from the Family Circle magazine, including perk up with peppermint, vanilla helps one relax, green apples for head and neck spasms. She also told the group that those needing to lose weight should eat a banana, flowers help with problem solving and planning, root beer contains less sugar and clear soda contains citric acid to help prevent tooth decay.

The members were reminded to keep in touch with local senators if there are any concerns. NRTA red caps will be ordered for those who work or visit shut-in persons on The Day of the Service Project, May 8, 2008.

Mary Lou George introduced the speaker, a representative from Orphan Grain Train.

He explained the Fish Boil fund raising program. This is a process of cooking a meal of potatoes, vegetables and fish in boiling water, a process that was started in Wisconsin about 10 years ago.

11 Money from this program is used to defray the cost of shipping goods to about 40 countries and disaster areas in the United States. Only two of the 13,000 loads shipped so far have been lost.

He said, "Using the gifts of God, we give people a sense of home."

Two of the greatest needs are for quilts and blankets and new, 100 percent cotton underwear. Some churches have an "Undi Sunday" to help with that kind of donation.

"Through these gifts given in the name of Christ, hope is restored and Christian Bible Study and churches are established," he family trees...

The family Christmas tree is a holiday tradition that brings back great memories for all of us. Finding just the right tree.. getting out the boxes of decorations.. and checking it daily to see if the number of presents had grown. This tree became the focal point of the home during the holidays. A wonderful tradition that should continue to be a part of every family.

Over the past few years the size, shape and quality of artificial trees has grown and provides us with the opportunity for many new decorating options and the ability to expand this timeless tradition.

Narrow and tall Alpine style trees can be added to several areas of the home. They take up little floor space and make a great addition to entry ways or maybe at the end of the hallway. You could put 2 or 3 different heights behind the couch to create your own indoor forest. These trees also give you more places to hang those ornaments that just won't all fit on one tree anymore.

How about giving a child their own tree for their room. Use the shorter 2-3' trees and decorate with a theme to fit the child.. from Hanna Montana to Legos. Or let them make their own ornaments on those " home from school. I'm sooo bored days".

These personal trees can even follow a child to a college dorm room or to their first apartment. You can even package these smaller trees up and send them off to children or family who are away and can't make it home this year. Include a few ornaments off the family tree to bring home just a little closer during the holidays.

Don't forget the elderly family members. These small trees might be just the right size for where they are living now. Add several photo ornaments of your family. Or with a little research you can literally create a "family tree" with photos of past generations.

Our showroom is "dressed for the holidays". full of beautifully decorated trees, wreaths and more. Stop and browse.. you'll find great ideas and products to spark your holiday imagination.

Corn stalk grazing calculator now available

Lincoln spreadsheet allows farmers and ranchers to make better informed decisions about cattle grazing corn stalks.

The Excel spreadsheet, titled The Corn Stalk Grazing Calculator, can be accessed at www.agmanagerstools.com.

The spreadsheet, designed by UNL agricultural economists Matt Stockton and Roger Wilson and animal nutritionist Aaron Stalker all at the West Central Research and Extension Center at North Platte, not only estimates the number of animals that can be supported on a given field of corn stalks with a specified yield, but also has an economic evaluation including the cost to transport the livestock and check their care and condi-

"With corn harvest nearing completion and weaning time for many producers happening this month, farmers and ranchers are likely to be negotiating the terms of agreements with landowners to graze their corn stalk residues," Stockton

U.S. Department of The Agriculture's cattle inventory report counted more than 1.9 million beef cows that calved in Nebraska.

"With the USDA estimate of 9 million acres of corn harvest in Nebraska in 2007, the potential opportunity to graze cattle on corn stalk residue is huge," Stockton said. "The unique thing about this

A University of Nebraska- tool is that it allows farmers and The same is true with watering ranchers to analyze the cost to equipment. transport the livestock and check their care and condition, which may be more costly than the corn stalk rent."

One application of this tool would be to determine if the corn stalk acres leased are adequate to support the number and size of cattle for the planned grazing season, Stockton said.

"If not, either the number of cattle or length of the grazing system would need to be altered," he said. "These inputs can be varied quite easily until the acres required match the acres available."

Another possible use is to help cattle owners evaluate the feasibility of grazing their cattle on corn stalks at various distances from their primary production center, Stockton said.

"While corn stalks may appear to be economical to lease, the transportation cost and the cost to supervise and care for them may need to be considered carefully since they may increase dramatically the cost of using the crop residue," he said.

The two most common ways to price corn stalks used for grazing is on a per head per day and per acre

Rates can vary based on variations in lease terms and forage potential. In some cases, fences are built and maintained by the landowner, while in other cases the cattle owner provides the fences.

Exhaust dates extended for area codes 402 and 308

The forecasted exhaust dates for Nebraska's two telephone area codes has been extended from their previous dates the Nebraska Public Service Commission (NPSC) was informed at its Nov. 6 meeting. In its presentation to the Commission. Telecommunications Department shared a report it received from the Federal Communications and the North Commission American Numbering Plan administrator that the 402 area code gained one fourth of a year and the 308 area code's life was extended one full year as a result of an analysis of number usage throughout the respective area codes. In 1999 the NPSC was first informed that area code 402 was in danger of exhausting in the fourth quarter of 2000. Since that time various pro-active measures have been implemented by the Commission to extend the life of quarter of 2009 compared to the third quarter in the previous report That represents an extension of the 402 Area Code forecasted exhaust date of two and one half years since mandatory pooling was implemented in the area code in February of 2006 and nine years since the Commission was first informed that area code 402 was in danger of exhaust.

The Telecommunications Department said that 13 per cent of the numbers assigned in the 402 area code are pooled, numbers which now are allocated in blocks of 1,000 compared to the former assignment of numbers in blocks of 10,000. Another 13 per cent are the result of number portability, which permits consumers to retain a telephone number while switching carriers within a rate center. Number pooling and portability have been key components of the Nebraska Commission's efforts to extend the life of the 402 area code.

Other negotiable items can include who monitors the cattle, makes the minerals and supplements available and provides hay and feeds the cattle when winter conditions preclude grazing.

A calculation using the spreadsheet data found that 130 acres of corn stalks would support 70 animals weighing 1,000 pounds for 112 days if the corn yielded 200 bushels per acre.

If the grazing lease was $10 per acre, the cost for the stalks would be $1,300. If the cattle had to be hauled 75 miles at a cost of $5 per to haul the cattle to the corn stalks head per day.

and back would be $1,500, $200 more than the grazing lease.

If the distance traveled to check the cattle was 60 miles one way, it would add an additional $420 to the total costs if the cattle were checked five times using 45 cents per mile vehicle costs and $30 per trip for labor. The cost to lease the corn stalks would be 17 cents per head per day, the total costs including the lease, cattle transportation and supervisory checks would be an additional 24 cents per head per day making the actual total cost of 41 cents per head per day.

In this instance, every 10 miles of decreased distances in cattle load per loaded mile, and there transport and checking resulted in were 35 animals per load, the cost a reduction of about 3 cents per

MDA seeks volunteers for 2008 summer camp

Muscular Dystrophy Association is searching for summer camp volunteers who are looking for a rewarding and memorable experience. Volunteer counselors are needed to assist young people with neuromuscular diseases and help them enjoy weeklong MDA summer camps across the nation.

Applicants must be at least 16 years old and able to lift and care for a young person between the ages of 6 and 21. Each volunteer counselor becomes a companion to a camper with a neuromuscular disease and helps with daily activities such as eating, bathing and dressing. Counselors will also assist campers with recreational activities such as arts and crafts, swimming and horseback riding.

"Kids look forward to MDA summer camp all year long," MDA President and CEO Jerry Weinberg said. "Our campers get to experience a world in which all activities are especially adapted to their abilities. MDA summer camp offers a feeling of comfort and freedom, allowing kids to enjoy an environment where having a neuromuscular disease is the norm, not the

Weinberg noted that volunteer counselors often say camp is a magical and memorable time, which makes them want to return year after year. "It's such a family environment and a time to make friends for life," he said. "It truly is the best week of the year."

At no charge to families, MDA's summer camp program serves some 4,200 campers nationwide in nearly 80 locations. Last year, almost 5,000 volunteers helped make this possible

To obtain a volunteer application or learn about other ways to support MDA's summer camp program, call your local MDA office at (800) 572-1717. More information about summer camp volunteers can be found at www.mda.org/clinics/camp.,

MDA is a voluntary health agency working to defeat more than 40 neuromuscular diseases through programs of worldwide research, comprehensive services, and far-reaching professional and public health education.

The Association's programs are funded almost entirely by individal private contributors.

On Nov. 17, the film will begin at 4 p.m., immediately following the open house. "The Business of Being Born" is a documentary about birth in America. It is scheduled for release in January, 2008. Following the open house at 4 p.m., will be Kitty Ernst, nationally recognized advocate for midwives and president of the American College of Nurse-Midwives. She is traveling from out of state to attend.

The events on Nov. 17, will kick off the effort to establish independent practice for CNMs in Nebraska

A new, one-of-a-kind million-dollar natural birth center has been completed in Northeast Nebraska, but it remains unopened because of state laws that restrict midwives' freedom to practice.

The center is the lifelong dream of Certified Nurse-Midwife (CNM) Gail Consoli, but remains unopened because of current birth policies in the state of Nebraska.

Since 1999 the number of births Consoli has attended has risen

The Gentle Beginnings Birth steadily, from just over 60 per year to 159 in 2006. She has attended more than 1200 births since beginning her practice more than 10 years ago.

The demand and desire for women to be attended by women in settings other than the hospital continues to rise, while the law in the state of Nebraska remains unwavering. Consoli's practice offers more choices for women in Kitty Ernst, the president of the American College of Nurse-Midwives, is expected to attend the open house, which will begin NFoM's preparation for the 2008 legislative session. NFOM plans to bring a bill that would grant Certified Nurse Midwives independent practice.

We all need humor (Livestock Market Report)

It must be the 12th; the Big been forwarded. Of course, many Farmer has asked me what day it is twice in the last hour! When one is retired, it's hard to keep track; really! One of the questions on that mini mental status test they give you to see if you have all your marbles is "what is today's date?" You would be surprised how many people have to look at the paper to tell

I've just come back from a meeting of a Beta Sigma Phi group in my neighborhood at which I was the speaker on Humor. I don't even need my notes for that one anymore. I tell everyone it all came about because of a three hour inservice I did at Northeast College one year on stress management. Humor is one stress management tool. After that, I was getting calls to come and talk about stress in 30 minutes or less! Folks, that is why we are stressed; we only give ourselves a little time to learn to deal with it.

So, I simply pulled out the fun part because that is what people want to hear, anyway. We all know we should eat better, exercise more, meditate, keep a journal, all that good stuff. That's no fun! If laughter helps, we definitely need to utilize it.

When I got back from the meeting, I checked e-mail. I can always times, it's the same joke, for about the 10th time, but that's okay; sometimes, I didn't remember the punch line, anyway.

The one that came tonight has to do with two old men sitting at a flower show, waiting for their wives. One says to the other, "I'm so bored, for $5, I'd take off my clothes and streak that show." The other fellow hands him a five dollar bill, so he gets out of his clothes and heads to the show. There is a lot of laughter and shouting, and smile, saying "I won the prize for. best dried arrangement!"

Well, I admit that is probably not in the best of taste, but it is funny and it made me laugh. I also got one that said we should run Maxine for president; I think that's a great idea.

The last two volleyball games and that football game last Saturday were sure a lot more fun! What a difference a week makes; where were those guys before? And the girls have their old fire back; plus, the women's basketball team is looking mighty fine.

I did get to one game at the state volleyball tournament; Coleridge played Paxton at 11 a.m. on Friday; Paxton was the eventual champ. The Lady Bulldogs only have nine girls out for yolleyball; I don't understand how they even practice. So, they should be commended for making it to State.

This Saturday, we can watch the high school football championships; there are a lot of unbeaten teams in the finals. I find it amazing that BOTH schools in Elgin are in the finals; that is some kind of achievement. I'm guessing there won't be many people left in town this weekend. And, of course, Wakefield will be back. We wish them all luck.

And they will have a great expe-

A Tribute to Agriculture

We all depend on agriculture. Around here agriculture is the engine that makes our economy go. When something's good for agriculture, it's good for our community.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank our area farmers and producers for all they do to make our area a better place to live. Thanks,

4-H News Country Classics 4-H club holds meeting

The 4-H meeting of the Country Classics 4-H club was held on Nov. 4. Jean Loberg, leader, informed the club of their gold seal recognition and how their goals are important to achieve this award.

The club members met on Nov. 5 at the Food Pantry to help stock shelves. The club members made ornaments for Fantasy Forest. Samantha Dunklau and Megan Loberg instructed the members on the assembly of the ornaments.

Other presentations were given by Hannah Belt, Jack Belt and Luke Pulfer.

Ande Schultz was the hostess for the meeting. The next meeting is Sunday, Jan.

The moisture captured by the residue enters the soil rather than losing it to runoff, added Brubaker.

Tillage reduces soil quality by destroying soil structure, which reduces infiltration rates and increases runoff. Tillage speeds up decomposition of crop residues resulting in less organic material being returned to the soil. All of these factors reduce soil quality according to Brubaker.

Even the application of fertilizer in the fall can have a negative impact on soil quality if it is not timed appropriately.

The University of Nebraska Extension guidelines indicate anhydrous ammonia should not be applied until soil temperatures are at a constant low temperature. The mid-day temperatures at a fourinch soil depth should be below 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

Applying nitrogen to warm soils creates a higher potential for losses to occur making nitrogen unavailable next year for a corn crop. Part of the nitrogen lost can leach into the ground water.

Nitrogen loss is an economic loss to producers and can be detrimental to water quality. Although soil temperatures are probably cool enough for fertilizer application, Brubaker says it would be better to hold off until spring.

"That would greatly reduce the risk of losing nitrogen during the winter months and would leave the soil surface undisturbed until spring. As a rule, the less the soil is disturbed the better," Brubaker

More and more farmers are catching on to this idea. Recent crop planting survey data released by NRCS shows a 12 percent increase in the amount of corn and soybeans being planted using "nono-till also showed an increase. No-that residue," Brubaker said.
