and of the filled resident Lengthy agenda highlights

The purchase of a second handi-van, the ability to pay city bills with a credit card and where to invest the city's money were lengthy discussion items during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City.

Connie Christensen, Senior Center Coordinator and Nancy Braden, City Treasurer, spoke to the council on the current opportunity to purchase a seven-passenger, front-wheel drive van at an 80-20 cost share with state funds.

"This is a great opportunity for us. A new van would get much better gas mileage and would be easier to get in and out of." Christensen said. She also noted that at the present time, riders are turned away because the van is busy and there may be a waiting period of up to an hour at certain times of the day.

Braden said that the city's share of the cost would be approximately $3,400 and the money for the purchase is currently in the budget from the sale of an old van.

Several council members voiced opposition to the purchase, noting that the van service operates at a loss in the city budget.

"I don't think we should keep operating at a loss. It will keep costing more and more," said Council Member Doug Sturm.

During the discussion suggestions were made to increase the cost of using the van. Braden said that because of state funding, some of the policies for using the van are mandated by others, but she felt raising rates was a possibility.

Following discussion, the council voted 6-2 to move forward with the application for purchasing the van. The city would have the opportunity to back out of the purchase at a future date if they felt it. necessary.

made by Council Member Darrel Fuelberth to allow for the use of credit cards at the Community Activity Center with an increase in fees. That motion died for a lack of a second.

. A motion was then made by Council. Member Don Buryanek to handle all credit and debit cards at the city offices for city bills, CAC memberships, traffic citations and other bills. That motion passed on a 5-3 vote with council members Sturm, Brian Frevert and Lutt voting against it.

The city investment and portfolio policy was debated at length also.

· David Ley, a member of a committee formed earlier this year, said the group had met twice and discussed the positive impact of keeping investments in the four local banks.

"We feel it is a good idea to re-invest in the community and support it," Ley said.

Council Member Lutt said, "this is a free society and we have a right to go out and look for the best offer we can get. I don't think we should be limited.'

Reggie Yates with Edward Jones said that his firm "tries to make money for people so they can spend it. We try to get the highest, safest rate possible."

Mayor Shelton said she had talked to the school district and county and both invest funds locally.

Following debate, the resolution to amend the policy to allow investments to be put in the four local banks was defeated on a 2-5 vote.

Public hearings were held to consider Planning Commission's recommendation for use-by-exception request for the construction of a communications tower and to allow a dental clinic to be built at 617 Pearl Street and 115 West Seventh Street.

US Cellular plans to erect a 250 foot self-supporting communications tower at 301 Pheasant Run on the Wayne County Fairgrounds. The resolution for this request received unanimous approval from the Planning Commission and from the council.

Merry Christmas!

The Wayne

Tour de Wayne

The Wayne High School Jazz Choir conducted its annual Tour de Wayne on Monday. The group performed in several locations, including the Wayne Senior Center, above. In recent days, many of the local students have presented musical programs. More photos of these events can be found in today's edition of the Herald.

Teens help local citizen

Two of our local teenagers were at the right place at the right time on Dec. 6. Cody Henderson and Brandon Biermann; students at Wayne High School, had gotten out of school early due to the snow.

The two teenagers were pushing snow with Cody's pickup for Chad Sebade. A Wayne resident, Mrs. Esther Hansen, had fallen on the ice on the way to get her mail near her home.

Cody and Brandon drove by and knew something was wrong when they saw Mrs. Hansen attempting to get up, so they stopped to help.

While helping Mrs. Hansen to her feet, the boys noticed the back of Mrs. Hansen's head had blood on it. Cody and Brandon were going to take Mrs. Hansen to the clinic in their pickup but could not get her in the pickup. Mrs. Hansen gave Brandon permission to drive her to the clinic in. her car. Cody went ahead to the clinic to advise the staff Brandon was bringing in an injured Mrs. Hansen.

When Brandon arrived at the clinic, Mrs. Hansen was loaded in a wheel chair and taken inside. The boys stayed to find out how Mrs. Hansen would get home and offered to take her home if need be. The clinic advised the boys that someone would make sure she got home. Brandon drove Mrs. Hansen's car back to her house.

Cody and Brandon then proceeded to clean the sidewalks and driveway for Mrs. Hansen without being asked.

It is not known how long Mrs. Hansen By Lynn Sievers had been on the ground, because she does Of the Herald not remember everything that happened that day, but she does remember seeing Wayne, a Wayne State College sophomore, cars drive by.

December is busy month for Wayne Police Department

Wayne Police Chief Lance Webster said December is shaping up into a very busy month for the police department, As of Dec. 17, officers have investigated five burglaries, three drug cases, one felony theft case, two misdemeanor theft cases and two criminal mischief cases, one animal cruelty case, one false imprisonment and books," Joe said. "I never apprenticed. I conducted one death investigation.

The weather certainly didn't cooperate either. While officers have investigated only four traffic accidents this month they served 46 snow removal notices. Of those served, 41 properties cleared the snow shops." themselves and the City hired contractors to remove snow from the remaining five. Any costs incurred will be billed back to the property owners.

Officers have also issues 132 warnings/ code violations

Cody Henderson, left, and Brandon Biermann provided assistance to Esther Hansen when she fell on the ice recently.

Local magician entertains with 'smile on his face'

Always interested in magic, Joe Brogie of is happy to entertain with numerous tricks. "Thank goodness Cody and Brandon He always has a smile on his face and a personality.

Looking back, Brogie fell in love with magic when he was around eight years old and saw a magician on television. He later received books and magic kits and after that, practiced tricks on his family and friends. But it wasn't until he started high school that his magic acts really took off. Brogie visited websites, got books and DVDs on the subject and his audience grew to include classmates and teachers. His first paid gig was when he was a sophomore in high school and his high school English teacher hired him to do a show for a block party. "I learned on my own and a lot was from don't think there are many magicians in Nebraska or at least I don't know any. My parents were always supportive and my friends loved my tricks. When we were on trips, my dad always tried to find magic Brogie has entertained people with his magic for years. He travels to his gigs; Atlanta. Ga. is the furthest away he has traveled when his uncle flew him there to do magic at a party. events including Christmas parties (hospitals, fire departments, Walmart), as well as post proms, private parties, children shows, and more.

"Card magic is my favorite," Brogie said. "Once you understand the principles, you can come up with your own effects, which is really fun! Or, I put my own spin on older effects.

Brogie notes that he went to David Copperfield when he was in Omaha, which was really great. He added that Copperfield's magic is stage magic and is different from what Brogie does, which is close up or walk around magic involving the audience.

There are hundreds of tricks that Brogie can perform. He loves the old tricks and simple is best but he always has different effects and stays up with what's new.

Brogie added that his older brother, John, has always been helpful in helping him come up with new twists in his routine.

While he prefers entertaining for adults because they understand more and can get more involved in his magic, he also enjoys performing for children. Brogie uses more props for his kids shows.

"Magic is one of the oldest forms of entertainment. The cups and balls trick is the oldest effect and magic routine," Brogie said. "Drawings of that routine were found on pyramid walls in Egypt."

One thing is for sure, Brogie never tires of magic and is more than willing to perform his tricks to anyone at almost any time. Anyone interested in talking to him

Scouts attend High Adventure camp

After over two years of planning that far out) that find these floatand fundraising, Boy Scout Troop 174 of Wayne attended the Florida National High Adventure Seabase camp in May of 2007.

The leaders of the 17 year-old and older crew were Dr. Joe Reinert and Greg Vander Weil. The scouts for this crew consisted of Brian Zach, Nick Klassen, Adam Reinert, Eric Carstens, Bren Vander Weil and Garek Bebee. Lance Webster and Mark Klassen led the second crew of the 15-16 year old scouts, including Collin Jeffries, Ian Webster. Andrew Long, Zach Long, Mason Wren and Jared Klassen.

Each crew was independent on day-to-day activities with their own Seabase leader but everyone did the same things.

One day the crews learned to sail a 30 foot ship on the ocean. We learned to navigate and set the sails to turn the ship or set a course. There was plenty of time for seasickness and swimming; usually in that order. The captain of each sail boat entertained us with stories of local history and the sea life we would encounter.

"Deep sea fishing was a highlight of our trip as we had several excited boys and leaders that wanted to catch the big one. The day began with strong winds that made fishing quite tough and tested our this bay. It was very exciting to stomachs. We leaders also found out that young men can sleep anywhere and through anything as the ing plants as they know the fish follow it too which eats it and then they begin their fishing for dinner as well.

Brian Zach caught a Mahi Mahi from the dolphin family (it did not look like Flipper!). It was rather large, over 30 inches and quite colorful with hues of yellow, silver and green. It also was quite a tasty white fish.

"We also fished for sharks which you can catch but are required to throw back. The boys were quite excited because the sharks were everywhere around our fishing dock that was out in the ocean," Klassen said. Several boys caught a Nurse shark, some of which were 4 feet long. The guide brought them into the boat for us to feel their sandpaper like skin. Andrew Long caught the only Bonnet Head shark. We also noticed the sharks had no odor which surprised us. One boy fought for 20 minutes with a stingray which finally broke the rod. When hooked they fan out and change their angle so it's like pulling a kite against the water. There were several occasions to fish for Red Snapper and other fish which were also quite good. We got to fish at night in a bay that you waded into. We also night snorkeled in see what goes on in the deep in the darkness.

verware among many other things was just like new after centuries of being under water," Klassen said. One day and night the scouts kayaked in a Mangrove maze on Big Munson Island which the Boy Scouts of America own. That was quite an adventure and quite a workout.It was particularly "tough" on the leaders trying to do the limbo in a kayak to avoid the vines and capsizing. While in the bay, scouts were able to pick up nonpoisonous jelly fish which were all around by the thousands.

"We also took a hike with one of our guides who showed us thousands of conch shells and corn snakes. We also saw the oldest tree in the Florida Keys at 3000 years of age but only 8 inches or so in diameter. There were crabs of every type and size. Some of which were in shells that made you wonder how they managed to carry the weight. The boys had fun collecting these island critters. We also got to see Brown Pelicans who dive into the ocean with such velocity it is simply amazing. They scoop up fish this way. Eventually they go blind by constantly doing this several times a day. They then die from starvation as it is their keen evesight that helps them spot the fish from high above. We also got to see some alligators which are a protected species," Klassen said.

"We were able to see in Key West ers scouts attend, the boys conduct- could not have done this without

"As you have read, we had a tremendous time and learned a great deal. It is definitely an adventure the boys and leaders will never forget. A soup and sandwich benefit lunch with auction and bake sale was held at the National Guard Armory in Wayne on Dec. 16. Louise L. Calhoon was diagnosed with Inflammatory Breast Cancer on Oct. 15, 2007. Her son, Joshua, had Carticel Cell implantation surgery in September to re-grow bone that had died near his knee cap (Joshua's procedure exceeded $50,000). Donations will be used to defray medical costs for both Louise and Joshua. There were an estimated 675 people who attended the benefit and over $13,000 (as of Dec. 11) was raised, not including supplemental funds from Thrivent Financial for Lutherans. Donations are still being accepted in the Louise Calhoon Benefit Fund at BankFirst in Wayne. The Wayne Softball girls and their families hosted the benefit. Above is Louise's family, left to right, Jessica, Joshua, Katie, Kayley and Marti.

Tiffany Faye Mullenhoff, a summa cum laude graduate, presented the commencement address. She is the daughter of Richard and Tricia Mullenhoff of Leigh. She graduated as valedictorian from Leigh High School. Mullenhoff majored in business administration with concentrations in management and human resource management.

The Wayne Herald, Thursday, December 20, 2007 4Å Possible road reclassification discussed

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session on Tuesday. On the agenda was the subject of possible reclassification of 858th Road, Mile 584 (on the south end of Wakefield, towards the golf course). Present were Jerry Schroeder and Betty Schwarten, Dixon County supervisors; Jim Litchfield, Wakefield administrator and Brian McDonald, Dixon approved the following: a resolution County highway superintendent and JEO contractor.

Litchfield noted an industrial tract is being déveloped near this road and having it paved is desirable. Litchfield wondered if Wayne and Dixon counties couldn't put in a joint request to the Department of Roads. Schroeder noted that Dixon County would be receptive to this idea. McDonald added that the project would probably be around $750,000 with 24 foot concrete.

Commissioner Kelvin Wurdeman project (80/20) and wondered about 1.655591 percent from the gen-STP funds. Schroeder asked time wise what they were looking at and McDonald said it would probably be four to five years out, as there is no bonding ahead anymore. He added the Concord road needs to be overlayed and that can't be put off. The remark was made that's too much money to do both at the same time but that reclassification is definitely the first step.

McDonald noted that county line roads have to be requested jointly. Litchfield wondered if Wayne County could take the lead and Wurdeman said the road is under Dixon County control. McDonald noted that the city of Wakefield Day; Jan. 21: Martin Luther King a.m. at the courthouse in Wayne.

Wayne and Dixon counties will submit a joint request to the Department of Roads to reclassify the road as "other arterial" or "collector" to be eligible for STP funding. Dixon County will take the lead on the project.

Wayne County commissioners establishing 2007 tax dollar distributions (the '07-'08 county budget was balanced by a fund transfer of $45,836.51 from general fund to noxious weed control fund and a transfer of $1,185,230.89 from general fund to county road and bridge fund. Also approved was the January commissioner meeting dates of Jan. 2 and Jan. 15 and check #07110171 was canceled.

Deanna Beckman, Wayne County emergency manager, updated commissioners on the agreement with Nebraska School Bus Co. (now, Mid States School Bus, Inc.). She noted Mid States School Bus, Inc. offered an idea for possible emermile, per bus; $15.60 per hour sit time (on scene not driving); per bus $35 minimum charge per bus, if their bus services are needed. She felt this amount was very reasonable and it is also probably their way of helping. She said they will still have to have a memorandum of understanding drawn up with them. Commissioners told her to continue working on the agree-

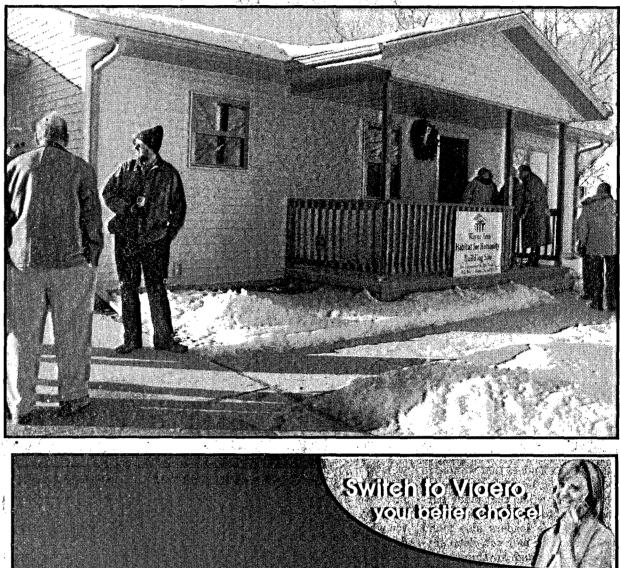

Also approved was the 2009 salary resolution for the commissioners of $34,000 with an increase of $1,500 in 2010. The salary resolution needed to be set because individuals filing for the 2008 elections must pay a one percent filing fee as the official county newspaper for , based on the 2009 salary for that position.

The next meeting of the Wayne employees for 2008 that were County Board of Commissioners will be on Wednesday, Jan. 2 at 9

Coalition discusses underage drinking

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

The regular meeting of the Wayne County Project Extra Mile Coalition was held Friday at Journey Christian Church in Wayne. Leading the meeting was Erin Baum of Project Extra Mile in Omaha. Baum discussed local adult awareness efforts including letters to the editor sent to area newspapers, as well as articles sent to area school newsletters. She noted Project Extra Mile is working to educate the public on the underage drinking issue, as well as the consequences for providing alcohol to minors.

Baum discussed the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission and ings. The public has opportunity the issue of flavored alcoholic beverages. Baum noted that 75 percent of current eighth grade drinkers had an alcopop in the past month (from Monitoring the Future Survey, 2005), Flavored alcoholic beverages are currently classified as beer in Nebraska, which results in a tax benefit for the alcohol industry and allows the products to be more readily available to youth. Taxes on beer are 31 cents per gallon compared to $3.75 per gallon assessed to distilled spirits - a tax rate 12 times lower for beer. She discussed resolutions of support for efforts to reverse the July 31, 2006, decision by the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission to classify these products as beer. Project Extra Mile believes the decision allows the alcohol industry preferential regulatory treatment. Baum noted that city councils and county boards received the resolutions and over 700 have been signed by citizens and community groups across the state. Baum added that Project Extra Mile has worked on this issue for over three years. According to handouts, in Nebraska, beer can be sold at 1,535 off-premise locations while distilled spirits can be sold at 718 off-premise locations (NABCA Survey Book 2005 edi-spirits means any beverage which contains alcohol obtained by distillation. Of 114 flavored alcoholic beverage products tested in a 2003 analysis, 105 contained over 76 percent alcohol derived from distilled alcohol (Federal Register/Vol 68, No. 54, March 24, 2003). Project

Extra Mile has filed a lawsuit in Lancaster County District Court to address the issue.

The question was asked regarding what citizens can do to help change the classification. Baum said that those who are interested in becoming engaged in alcohol-related issues should attend the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission hearto speak on the first day of each of their meetings. Baum noted that local communities can address the new wave of flavored alcoholic beverages, which are the alcoholic energy drinks. Energy drinks are popular among young people, and both alcoholic and non-alcoholic versions are sold in locations that young people frequent. The alcoholic products are difficult to distinguish from nonalcoholic energy drinks. One way to determine an alcohol energy drink from its non-alcoholic counterpart is by the nutrition label. The alcoholic version will NOT display a nutrition fact label on the container (a list of alcohol energy drinks can be found at www.main.gov/ds/ liqr/LiqrFruitMalts.htm.) Discussion was held on the placement of beverages in stores. Baum said that people can ask businesses not to carry flavored alcoholic beverages. Discussion was held on products known as "Zippers," which Baum said are alcoholic gelatin cups with 12 percent alcohol that were developed by two young men from Ohio. The issue was presented to the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission in 2003. After a voluntary ban was placed on the products, the company changed the packaging and the Liquor Control Commission lifted the ban. After a statewide effort to keep Zippers out of communities, Baum said she hasn't seen the products surface again. Recent liquor licensing issues were discussed, including the revocation of a license in Omaha. The group also discussed the issue of sales to a minor where a serious injury or death has occurred. In a recent case, a Scotts Bluff County establishment that allegedly sold alcohol to a minor was allowed to sell the business before a hearing was held at the Liquor Control Commission. "Project Extra Mile has been tracking penalties of businesses over the years and it's not uncommon for the process to take three to six months for businesses with violations to come before the Liquor Control Commission," Baum said. Nancy Hartnett, a nurse with the Northeast Nebraska Public Health Department, stated she used to live in the Chicago area, and community policing made a huge difference. ing one of his card tricks. She also noted that educating peo-Anyone with questions can ple is a piece of the puzzle in terms reach him at 402-369-0770. of creating community change. For tion). Nebraska statute states that communities working to prevent underage drinking, education must be coupled with enforcement and policy initiatives.

Lance Webster, Wayne Police chief, said online education is offered about underage drinking to business owners with liquor licenses, but many licensees don't use it. Carolyn Harder, a nurse at Wayne Elementary School, noted that unfortunately it seems money has to be tied to the issue. For adults who provide alcohol for underage drinkers, there will be consequences. Those who are found guilty of" providing alcohol to minors can receive up to a year in jail, a $1000 fine or both.

Webster noted that communities are struggling with the perception that there is nothing else for kids to do. Several noted that the problem has to do with the culture surrounding alcohol, which is hard to change. Hartnett said change can happen. She noted that the administration at Crofton schools doesn't tolerate alcohol or other drug use of their athletes. She noted that thei school's expectations are making a difference.

Anyone who is interested in helping prevent underage alcohol use is welcome to attend the monthly meetings. The next meeting will be on Friday, Jan. 11 at 10 a.m. at Journey Christian Church in Wayne.

conditions. These include the installation of some type of fence or vegetative barrier as landscaping. Rob Burrows who plans to build at the location, presented a rough draft of his plans to the council; He noted that he was aware that he would need at least 10 parking spaces on the site.

Following the hearing the council approved this request also.

Mayor Lois Shelton and Don Buryanek were appointed to the governing board of the Wayne Area Economic Development, Inc. Board. Shelton will serve a two-year term and Buryanek a one-year term.

Mayor Shelton made appoint ments to a number of committees during the meeting.

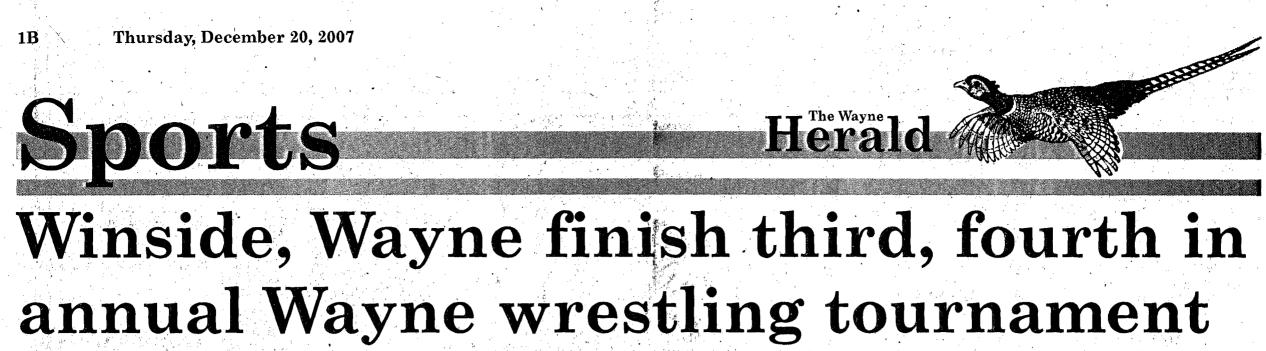

They include Mark Sorensen, Wes Blecke, Sharon Braun, Ken Chamberlain, BJ Woehler, Dave Simonsen, Kent Franzen, Lois Shelton, Lee Brogie, Jeff Morlok and John Vakoc to the Zoning Steering Committee: Darrel Heier reappointed to the Civil Service; Pat Gross, re-appointed to the Housing Authority; the mayor, council president, police chief, Wayne Wessel and Jim Lindau re-appointed to the Board of Health; Rozan Pedersen and Jeff Morlok re-appointed to the Board of Adjustment, along with Nancy Jo Powers, Pearl Hansen, Derek Hill and Doug Schwarten.

The council will next meet in regular session on Wednesday, Jan. 2. This is a change in date due to the New Year's holiday.

Winside girls on losing end of pair of games last week

by Lee Koch

The Winside girls' basketball squad was on the losing end of a pair of games last week when the Wildcats dropped an 89-28 decision to the visiting Bancroft Rosalie Lady Panther squad on Dec. 11 and lost to the host Coleridge Bulldogs by a46-30 score on Dec. 14.

The Panthers are the Class D-1 No. 1 rated team in the state and are considered by many as one of the top ten girls' high school teams in Nebraska.

Hillary Lienemann led the Wildcat offensive effort against Bancroft Rosalie scoring 11 points, and Sally Schwedhelm contributing six more scores to the Winside effort. Shelby Meyer added 3 points to the Wildcat total, and Cassie Mrsny, Amanda Pfeiffer, Jordyn Roberts and Marissa Prince each contributed 2 points each to the Winside total.

of 14 rebounds while Pfeiffer contributed three rebounds to the Wildcat cause.

In the Coleridge contest, turnovers plagued the Wildcats as they have all year.

The Wildcat ladies spotted the Bulldogs an eleven-point, firstquarter lead and couldn't close the gap in the remaining three quarters.

Shelby Meyer led a Wildcat fourth-quarter surge scoring 6 of her team high 11 points in less than a minute of play. Lienemann added 5 points to the Winside total with Jordyn Roberts and Schwedhelm contributing 4 points apiece. Pfeiffer added 3 points to the Wildcat scoreboard, and Cassie Mrsny added a single field goal. B J Cushing rounded out the Winside scoring with a single free throw.

Laurel-Concord rocks Plainview 66-35

The Laurel-Concord boys' basketball team hit 26 of 44 attempts for 59 percent shooting from the field in their win over Plainview on Dec. 14.

"The team played very well," said head coach Shannon Benson. "We were able to do a lot of things that we have been working on in practice, and it is always nice to see the hard work pay off in a game."

The Bears were able to utilize their bench and gain valuable experience.

"We really worked hard on both sides of the court, and we were able to play a lot of players," said Benson. "It's always nice to know that they [the players] have all played together in the big game, not just practice,"

Heath Erwin led the offensive attack with 18 points and five assists. Justin Hart boosted the Bears with 7 points. Tate Holiday Tournament held at WSC Cunningham dropped 6 points through the bucket. Eli Schantz, Travis Nelson, Johnny Saunders and Ross Kastrup sizzled the net, adding 5 points apiece, and Zach Thompson cashed in for 4 points.

The Bears controlled the boards, hauling in 36 rebounds; they were led by Schantz and Kastrup who both fought their way to a sevenrebound mark.

Lee Larson and Kyle Koester helped the defensive effort by logging two steals and one steal, respectively. Bryan Pippitt posted a single rebound and a single assist.

Benson said the win helped boost morale for the tough competition they will face in the Holiday Tournament. He said the team realizes they will have to continue to develop together in order to improve.

The Bears are on break until the on Dec. 27-29.

Allen scores victory

Allen broke away from the in with 7. Luke Woodward ended Raiders in the third quarter on the game with 5 points. Stewart their way to a 41-30 victory in Newcastle on Dec. 14.

In a game that went back and forth throughout the first quarter, the Eagles were sparked by the 7off-the-bench points by Cody Stewart, pushing Allen to an 18-15 halftime lead. And the third quarter only got better. After shooting only 29 percent from the field in the first half, Allen improved to 45 percent in the third quarter.

"It seems to help when the ball goes in the bucket," said head coach Matt Hingst "In the final quarter we really struggled shooting as we only shot 9 percent from the field and Newcastle narrowed the score gap by 2."

Hingst said a major problem was hesitation, and that this resulted in a lack of intensity, but the players pulled through the close game which gave them valuable experience.

Stewart led Allen's scoring with 15 points Scott Chase added 8 points and Drew Diediker chipped was also the leading rebounder with nine boards followed by Diediker, who nabbed six boards. Scott Wilmes and Woodward each grabbed five rebounds.

"All week prior to the game we practiced on patience on the offensive end of the court," said Hingst. "We worked on getting through our sets more than once, and I felt that this was as good of execution that we had all year."

Cold shooting hurts WSC men in 50-49 loss

Wayne State College was held to Wayne State just 35.7 percent shooting and scored a season-low 48 points Monday evening in a 50-48 loss at Biola University, an NAIA school in La Mirada, California.

suffered in their last five games falling to 6-5 overall.

The Wildcats got off to a strong start, taking an 11-6 lead with 12:14 to go in the first half following a jumper by redshirt freshman Blake McGriff. However, WSC's shooting chilled, scoring just five points over the next 10 minutes as Biola grabbed its biggest lead of the game just before intermission. WSC never held a lead in the second half: the Wildcats got within one point twice in the final two minutes of the game, but Biola hung. on for the win. A Bryce Caldwell three pointer pulled WSC within one point at 45-44 with 1:37 left and a Jamar Diggs jumper with 47 seconds left cut the Biola lead to one again at 47-46, but Biola's Marlon King scored on a layup with 23 seconds remaining to

WSC hosting fundamental softball clinic

 $3\mathbf{B}$

The WSC Softball Fundamentals Clinic will be held on Sunday, Jan. 6 in the WSC Recreation Center with registration starting at 8:30 a.m. and the camp running from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. The camp is open for girls in grades 9-12. The camp was originally scheduled for Dec. 9 but was postponed due to bad weather.

Instruction will be given by WSC head softball coach Krista Unger, assistant coach Stephanie Kuhl and members of the 2008 Wildcat softball team. The camp will cover all aspects of the game, including fielding, hitting, base running/sliding and short game. All participants will receive a WSC Softball Camp t-shirt.

Cost of the camp is $70. Registration will be held from 8:30-9:00 a.m. with the camp running from 9:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. Campers should come dressed for participation. It is recommended that you bring tennis shoes (NO black soled shoes) and water. All players must provide their own gloves, bats and appropriate attire for sliding.

For more information on the WSC Softball Fundamentals Clinic, contact head coach Krista Unger at (402) 375-7522. Registration forms can be found on the WSC softball website by logging on to www.wscwildcats.com.

WSC baseball program to conduct camps

The Wayne State College baseball program will be conducting two winter baseball camps during the month of January. The Total Skills Camp will be on Sunday, Jan. 13 with the Hitting/Pitching Intensity Camp set for Sunday, Jan. 20.

The Total Skills Camp will emphasize all aspects of baseball which include fielding, pitching, catching, hitting and base running. This camp is great for young baseball players. The Hitting/Pitching Intensity Camp is designed to give each camper advanced instruction in each area. The Wavne State coaching staff and the Wildcat baseball team will instruct the camps. One of the many great qualities of the camps is the one-onone instruction all of the campers receive from the Wildcat staff of instructors. Both camps will run from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. in the Wayne State College Recreation Center with registration starting at 8:30 a.m. in the WSC Rec Center. The camps are open to players ages 8-18. Players are asked to bring their glove, bat and gym shoes. The fee for one camp is $45 or $80 for both and includes a camp T-shirt. For more information on the camps or for registration information, e-mail WSC head baseball coach John Manganaro at. jomangal@ wsc.edu or phone the WSC baseball office at 375-7012 or 1-800-228-9972 ext. 7012.

SAFE WINTER DRIVING TIPS Clear snow and ice from

- windows, lights, windshield wipers, the hood, and the roof of your vehicle, before driving. The windshield-washer reserve should be filled with a freeze-resistant cleaning solution.
- When you see plows, stay at least 200 feet behind them.
- Leave room for stopping. Brake early and carefully.
- Don't use cruise control. The short touch of your brakes to deactivate the cruise control can cause you to lose control of your vehicle.
- Pay attention. Look ahead to see what other vehicles are doing. That way you will know about any impending road or weather conditions.
- Watch your speed. Even if your car handles well in snow and ice, other drivers' cars may not. Drive according to the conditions: Don't exceed the speed limit and drive slowly in harsh conditions. Don't try to out-drive bad weather.

Blue Devil girls' basketball gain two wins before break

In a low-scoring, slow-moving game, the Lady Blue Devils overcame Columbus Scotus on Dec. 18. "Columus Scotus is never an easy team to play," said head coach Courtney Maas. "They are one of the best man-to-man defensive teams in the state."

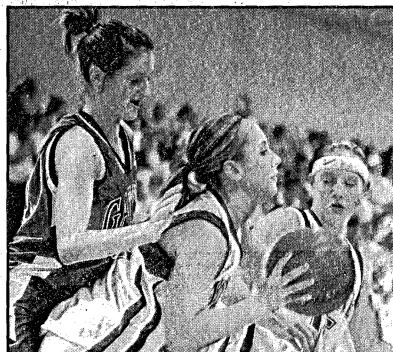

Scotus aims to take teams out of their natural rhythm by applying a half-court defense, resulting in low scores. However, Maas said her team held its own and won the defensive battle.

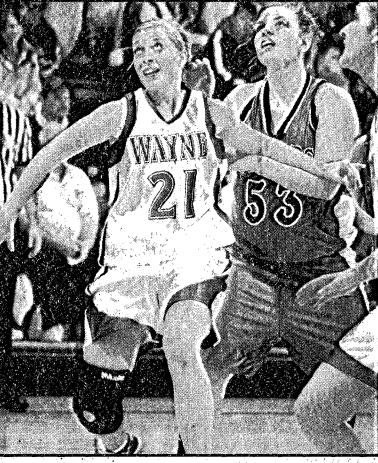

"The past two games have showed how well we can play, defense: I think that holding a team to 31 points in a game is great," said Maas.

The Blue Devils were led in their (offensive execution by Michelle Jarvi, who hammered out 18 points. Nicole Rauner and Samantha Dunklau added to the Wayne total with 10 and 6 points, respectively. Shannon Jarvi added 4 points, and Riley Hoffart knocked down 2.

Rauner and Jarvi both put six boards into the books.

home on Dec. 14.

"This win was a confidence booster for our girls," said Maas. "They proved to themselves how well they can play."

Maas said she wants her players to never be satisfied, but rather continue to strive for improvement. She feels that their performance was good on both sides of the ball.

"Their defense was much better and I think that was led by Samantha Dunklau," she said. Jarvi played a great game also," Dunklau, battled for six rebounds in the game. Jarvi lit up the offense with 19 points and eight rebounds. Nicole Rauner knocked down 18 points, and Dunklau, Shannon Jarvi and Maddy Moser cranked out 4 points apiece. Alesha Finkey (2), Kaitlyn Centrone (2), Hoffart (2) and Jessica Calhoon (1) rounded out the Blue Devil scoring. "Of course we still have some things to work on," said Maas. The Blue Devils are on break until the Holiday Tournament held at WSC on Dec. 27-29.

Blue Devil boys fall to Wisner-Pilger; rebound to defeat Columbus Scotus

The Wayne

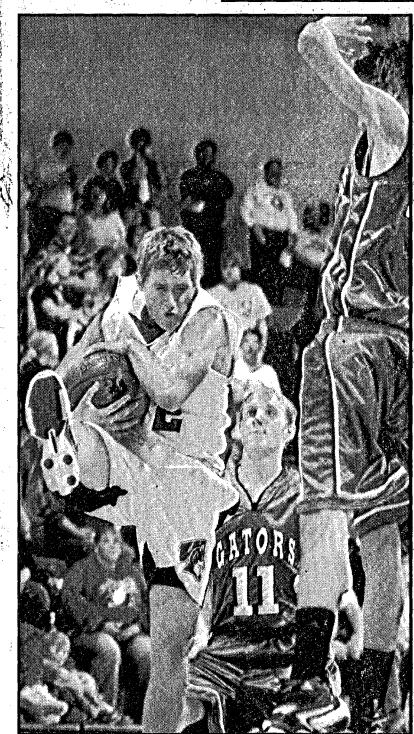

The Wayne boys' basketball squad roughhoused its way to a win against Columbus Scotus on Dec. 18 and dropped a contest against Wisner Pilger on Dec. 14. In a physical battle, Wayne overcame Columbus Scotus 48-33. "I was worried about this game, coming off a loss and playing a team who has a 0-4 record," said head coach Rocky Ruhl. "Scotus had played four rated teams already. They led Pierce with less than four minutes to go and were only two down to Boys Town with just under six minutes to go.

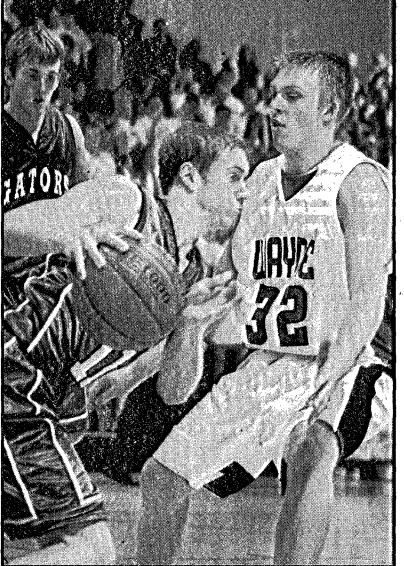

"They came in a played very physical. I thought we responded well and never backed off. We got a lot of bumps and bruises."

Jesse Hill and Reggie Ruhl led the Blue Devils to victory with 13 and 11 points, respectively. Sam Kurpgeweit tacked on another 9 points. Shaun Kardell and Max Stednitz added 6 points apiece. Shawn Jenkin's 2 points and Cory Harm's single tally rounded out Wayne's scoring.

"Our defense is improving having given up 51 points in the last six quarters. If we continue this improvement we will be very successful."

In last week's contest, Wisner Pilger played stifling defense and hammered home seven three pointers, building a 38-17 halftime lead on Wayne, but the Blue Wayne senior Shaun Kardell plays in-your-face defense against Wisner-Pilger's Bo Fullner. Devils clawed back in the second half.

"I was proud of the way we responded in the second half after giving up 38 points the first half," said coach Ruhl. "Wisner has a great team and did all the right. things."

Hill and Kurpgeweit both hit the mark for 10 points, leading the Blue Devils on their come back mission. However, Wayne would fall 16 shy of making up its half-time deficit, 55-39.

Reggie Ruhl also drained 8 points. Kardell brought 4 points home for the Blue Devils, and Max Stednitz added 3 points. Harm and Jenkins drained 2 points apiece.

Hill and Jenkins nabbed five and four boards, respectively to lead Wayne. The Blue Devils ultimately lost the battle of the boards to Wisner Pilger who outrebounded Wayne 32-15.

"They taught us some things about our team that we will need to improve. Our team will work hard to make the improvements," said Ruhl.

Jesse Hill wraps up the loose ball during first half action of Wayne's contest against Wisner-Pilger last Friday night. The Blue Devils fell to the Gators but rebounded to down Columbus Scotus on Tuesday to improve to 4-1 before Friday's game at Columbus Lakeview.

NECC division to introduce hybrid classes

In a continuing effort to accommodate students and their busy schedules, Northeast Community College in Norfolk will offer an English class next semester described as a hybrid class.

According to Donna Niemeyer, dean of humanities, arts and social sciences, the class will provide course content through face-to-face and online instruction. "Students who enroll in the English Composition I class will earn three credits while spending only half the time in a traditional classroom," Niemeyer said. "We know students are very busy and course delivery like this hybrid class is just another way that Northeast Community College tries to accommodate those busy schedules."

The three-credit-hour class, with course number ENGL 1010-12 or HawkNET Call Number #11532, begins on Monday, Jan. 7, and ends Wednesday, May 7. The class will meet in the Ag/Allied Health Building, Room 136, on Mondays from noon-1:15 p.m. and the remainder of the instruction by Jason Elznic will be done over the Internet. ni To register for this class, with a cost of $219, call Northeast Community College at (402)844-7265 or visit www.northeastcollege.com

Northeast's Multicultural Advisor-Recruiter helps, students to succeed

Chances for college success among minority populations have been enhanced with the addition of a multicultural advisor-recruiter at Northeast Community College.

Ted Myers began his responsibilities as multicultural advisorrecruiter last spring semester. He works primarily on the Norfolk campus with the Spanish speaking. In addition to the Spanish speaking, he also works with a growing Sudanese population at at Northeast's South Sioux - City Education Center.

The process of helping a non-English-speaking student is well defined at Northeast Community College. Prior to enrolling in courses at Northeast, students whose primary language is not English must complete the COMPASS English as a Second Language (ESL) assessment. The COMPASS test is a pre-enrollment evaluation. of academic abilities.

If necessary, students begin in English as a Second Language class or other courses appropriate to their English proficiency. After gaining appropriate skills, the student is admitted to Englishspeaking classes for the completion of a certificate, diploma or degree program.

Myers' primary responsibilities at Northeast Community College involve recruitment and retention of minority students. He recruits students at area high schools, even junior high schools, college fairs, and other school or community activities. When students are ready to enroll in a course of study, Myers assists them with the registration, financial aid, and other admission processes. After enrollment, he continues to serve as an advisor to make sure students stay on track to complete their studies. "My door is always open to students who wish to talk or bring concerns to me," he said. Additionally, he is responsible for developing community outreach programs that promote education in minority communities.

Myers' brings valuable life experiences to his position as multicultural advisor-recruiter. He lived in Venezuela for 12 years as a child when his parents served as missionaries, Fluent in Spanish, he was hired as a para-professional in ESL for the Norfolk Public Schools in 2001. While working for the schools, he began working on a second bachelor's degree in secondary education at Wayne State College. "The connections I made there with the local minority community are of great benefit to me as I strengthen the relationship between that population and Northeast Community College."

He has also led teams of local high school and college students to India. "Those trips have helped me in my work with students to increase their understanding of different cultures. They have also helped fine tune my strategies for working with diverse groups," he said.

Myers said he is eager to help diverse populations succeed at Northeast Community College. To refer students or request assistance for minority students, call Myers at Northeast Community College at (800)348-9033, Ext. 7270.

The holiday season is a time for celebration and happiness. However, the combination of excited children and hurried parents may turn a safe home into a likely site for a poisoning. Research shows that the number of poisoning incidents involving children rises during the holiday season. Common calls to the poison center during the holiday season include cigarettes, batteries, food poisoning, holiday plants and ingestion of guests' medications by young children. The Nebraska Regional Poison Center offers the following tips for preparing your home during the holiday season: ·Use caution when using bubble lights, angel hair, snow sprays and fireplace color crystals. ·Keep hazardous plants, decorations, medications and gifts out of the reach of small children or pets. · Clean up immediately following all holiday parties so that alcohol and other potentially harmful items are not within reach of young children. Children often imitate adults and they will drink partially filled glasses regardless of the contents. •Keep safety in mind when shopping for toys. Check age recommendations for toys and refer to the Consumer Product Safety Commission for toys on the recalled-toys list (www.epsc.gov) •Be cautious of toys purchased at dollar stores, street fairs, vending machines, thrift stores or yard

The Wayne Herald, Thursday, December 20, 2007 5C Extension Meth program reaches out to thousands across the state

Lincoln Extension educational program on methamphetamine is taking aim at the dangerous drug and said. spreading the message to thousands.

Since the program started in 2005, the extension team has presented to more than 200 groups, locally and nationally to both youth and adults.

Meth use has reached epidemic levels in some parts of the U.S., said Marilyn Fox, UNL Extension educator in Hall County. "Nebraska is no different," Fox said, From 2002-2005, 1.24 percent of Nebraskans age 12 or older reported meth use in the past year. Meth is second only to alcohol and marijuana as the drug of choice in many Western and Midwestern states. "Citizens need to be aware of this problem and join the fight against this drug," Fox said. One such Nebraska community joining the fight is McCook in Red Willow County in southwest Nebraska.

"The program was a good awareness program for our community," said Red Willow County Sheriff Gene Mahon. "It gave people a good idea of what it consists of and its consequences. It served as a good refresher course for law enforcement and made our county more aware,"

Mahon said anytime they can be proactive with programming for drugs, it's good for the community. Red Willow law enforcement officials conducted programming in McCook and Indianola.

"(It also) made the community aware of what the ingredients and tools are to make and process it," Mahon said. 🤇 Susan Brown, UNL Extension Educator in Adams County, said the programs not only educate but increase citizen reporting and community cohesiveness.

"The programs really reach the adults and youth and help them gain knowledge about meth," she said.

Brown and Fox continue to conduct the meth awareness programming.

"We keep updating and checking to make sure we are using the most current information," Fox said, "It's not the same old program, We make sure we are keeping up with the times.

The major strategies of the program include: share information with others, educate children and Stress & Your Health Definition Traffic Jams. Paying Bills. Deadlines. Pesky Neighbors. These unpleasant or challenging situations create stress in our lives. So why is it some people deal with these stress situations better than others? The answer is complex and includes many factors from genetics to weather conditions, but an interesting study in The Journal of Manipulative and Physiological Therapeutics indicates that there is a relationship between chiropractic and the effect it can have on dealing with stress situations in your life.

This study revealed that nearly one in three patients viewed their lives as moderately to severely stressful, and more than 50% felt that stress had a moderate to severe impact on their health problems. Additionally, 71% of the patients indicates that it would be helpful if their chiropractor offered advice to help them cope with these stressful situations.

Communicating with your chiropractor about dealing with stress is the starting point, and you might be surprised to find that your chiropractor is full of sound advice on ways to effectively deal with stress in your life. Most people know that improving nerve and spinal function has a dramatic impact on improving emotional, mental and physical function. Getting the most out of your chiropractic care may include talking to your chiropractor about effective strategies to deal with the stress in your life, so be sure to inform your ciropractor about your personal situation so your Doctor of Chiropractic can help you improve your health and wellness at maximum levels. TREATMENT

Chiropractic involves touch; this factor alone sets the stage for release of muscular tension. Your chiropractic administers one or a series of manipulations ("adjustments") to the spine and surrounding musculature. The adjustments may help the fatigue or stress by removing nerve irritation, release muscular tension and improving blood circulation. To see if chiropractic may be able to help you, call 402-375-3450 today for a complimentary consultation.

Use caution when caring for storm-damaged trees

Recent ice storms have left a door-to-door soliciting business. trail of tree damage across the Midwest. In Nebraska, southeast Nebraska was hardest hit, a Nebraska Forest Service community forestry program leader said.

In the storm's wake, it is important that homeowners use caution when dealing with storm damaged trees, said Eric Berg, Nebraska Forest Service community forestry program leader.

Berg offers these tips: • When inspecting trees for storm damage, look for splits or cracks in the trunk and major limbs, as well as disturbed soil around the trunk. This indicates a possible structural problem. If a tree sustained structural damage, contact a certified arborist.

• Never climb a damaged tree to remove limbs or attempt any type of clean-up on a tree that is leaning or has a split trunk or branches. These tasks are best left to certified arborists.

• Never remove or trim branches that are interfering with power lines. Instead, contact a local power company.

• When removing fallen branches under the tree's canopy, watch for falling ice and limbs.

Reputable tree-care companies are typically too busy to do this.

• Say "no thank you" to anyone who offers to top your tree. Professional foresters and certified arborists agree that topping harms trees and increases the likelihood of structural problems, as well as a tree's recovery time after a storm.

For more information about caring for storm-damaged trees and proper tree care practices or to view a video about pruning stormdamaged trees, visit the Nebraşka Forest Service's Web site at http://www.nfs.unl.edu. To locate a professional arborist in your area, visit the Nebraska Arborists Association Web site at http:// www.nearborists.org/ or the International Society Arboriculture Web site at http:// www.isa-arbor.com.

Capitol View Tragedy leads to proposed law changes

By Ed Howard

The Wayne

Tragedy can be the springboard of controversial legislation, especially when it comes to government egulations and criminal law. Loss of life because a bridge collapses will prompt lawmakers from congress to the state where the tragedy occurred to respond quick ly. Proposals to upgrade construction standards, or to enhance the potential for civil and criminal liability are commonly discussed.

The same is true when it comes to tragedies involving the mistreatment of children - especially when the kids have been wards of the state, or otherwise in government custody.

Following the 9/11 attacks. historic and sometimes controversial enactments and revisions in federal law moved quickly through Congress.

The murders committed at the Von Maur store in Omaha, by a troubled young man wielding an assault rifle, will be in the background when the 2008 Legislature looks at a measure proposed by Senator Brad Ashford of Omaha.

Ashford's plan is simple enough, but even the most simple of plans can expect close scrutiny and criticism when anything related to regulating firearms is on the table.

When he talked about his idea last week, Ashford made clear it was not an attempt to ban ownership of assault rifles.

Ashford, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, wants a law requiring that the loss or theft of a' firearm be reported with 48 hours from the time the theft is discovered.

Lawmakers in states where comparable laws have been passed say that, at the very least, such statutes can alert law enforcement agencies that another weapon is on the street.

Other provisions in Ashford's plan would center on safely storing firearms, and/or the use of trigger guards. One consistent argument by regulatory foes: Someone defending their home might need access to a firearm quickly. Critics say retrieving it from storage, or having to remove a trigger guard. could cost potential victims of a crime valuable seconds in preparing to defend themselves.

"Planned giving" is a term often used by financial advisors and charitable organizations. But what does it really mean? After all, to give any gift requires some forethought. For purposes of financial and estate planning, the term refers to strategies, often created with the assistance of financial and legal advisors, that help you 1) maximize your charitable impact while 2) achieving your family's financial objectives. A bit of planning can make a big difference Perhaps the best way to define "planned giving" is to describe how several donors' situations might differ with and without it. Donating cash versus appreciated securities - Take two couples who want to donate $10,000 to their Alma Mater, for example. One couple simply sends in a check for the amount. The college gets a sizeable cash donation while the couple reduces their estate value for tax purposes and may be able to deduct the gift from their taxable income for the year, subject to adjusted gross income (AGI) limitations.

The other couple, meanwhile, consults their financial advisor and learns that they may give $10,000 in another way that will stretch their philanthropy budget considerably. They give the school $10,000 worth of stock that have appreciated significantly over the last several years. Even though the shares cost them only $5,000 initially, the couple is entitled to an immediate income-tax deduction for the shares' full appreciated value because they've held the shares for more than a year (again; subject to AGI limitations). What's more, they avoid paying any capital gains tax on the shares' appreciation since they gave them away. This double tax benefit helps boost the benefits from the gift while reducing ameripriseadvisors.com/jennifer.s.phelps the taxes they might otherwise have paid.

Bequest after death versus charitable remainder trust -Here's a different situation involving two wealthy couples. Both of them would like to continue benefiting from their investments, but they want to share their wealth with a favorite charity as well.

The first couple simply sends their charity a check once a year, which may be deductible for income tax purposes, subject to AGI limitations. Although this couple has provided in their will that a substantial share of their assets will go to the charity after they're gone, they're not sure how they could make a greater impact while they are still alive.

The other couple asked their attorney how they could give a large amount of assets to their charity now. The answer: Place assets to be donated into a charitable remainder trust, which pays income to the donors for their life or a specified term (the amount can be fixed or fluctuate with the trust asset balance). Because the gift is irrevocable, the donors may claim a charitable income tax deduction for the portion of the gift that will go to the charity (subject to AGI limita, tions) and, if the assets have appreciated, may avoid paying any capital gains tax. Perhaps best of all, the donors may be able to enjoy the emotional benefit of giving while they're alive. The charity knows it will receive whatever amount is left in the trust at the end of its term. Estate tax uncertainty highlights need for planning

One objective of planned giving is to reduce the donor's estate and other taxes. With sweeping changes in the estate and gift tax introduced by the Economic Growth and Tax Reconciliation Act of 2001, however, many taxpayers have decided they no longer need to plan. But although estate and gift tax rates have dropped steadily over the last few vears and the estate tax exemption amount has risen, the relief may be brief. Gift tax exemption has remained at one million since 2002. The estate tax will disappear completely in 2010, only to return in 2011 to where it would've been had EGTRA not been enacted, unless Congress acts. So planning remains important to making the most of your charitable gifts.

Take advantage of professional advice

Thoughtful planning can boost the benefits of charitable giving -. for recipients and for you. Many planned-giving strategies and tools are available beyond what, we've discussed here. A financial advisor can help you choose the right ones for your goals. Because planned giving may involve complex and binding legal instruments such as trusts, you'll also want to consult your legal and tax advisors as well.

Wayne State College students of Strategic Communication classes and the Association for Computing Machinery Club (ACM) of the School of Business and Technology have completed a service learning project for Wesley Crisis Nursery in Norfolk. Students participating through strategic communication class included from left: Bryce Caldwell of Davenport, Iowa; Johnna Rathje of Wayne, Tiffany Hansen of Wisner with Tracey Olson and Michele Lawson (both) of Wesley Crisis Nursery and Dr. Laura Dendinger of Wayne State College.

When buying meat at the grocery store, check that all beef, lamb, pork, veal and poultry have been inspected for wholesomeness by the U.S. Department of Agriculture or state inspection systems. Once at home, refrigerate the meat immediately. Cook or freeze fresh poultry within one to two days and fresh meats within three to five days

Wild game killed by hunters obviously has not been federally or state inspected, so care must be taken when handling it. Parasites such as trichinella and toxoplasma may be present. Improper handling can cause bacterial contamination, as well as off-flavors. Dress game in the field right after shooting. Dressed meat must be chilled as soon as possible. Keep the game cold, below 40 degrees, until it can be cooked or frozen. For more information about wild game, contact state or local extension offices.

To remove gamey flavor, soak wild meat or poultry in a solution of either 1 tablespoon salt or 1 cup vinegar per quart of cold water. Use enough solution to cover the game completely and soak it overnight in the refrigerator. Discard the soaking solution before cooking.

Wild game is leaner than its domestically raised counterpart Trim any visible fat because that is where gamey flavor can reside Then roast tender cuts of venison

Wayne Women's Club conducts meeting

WAYNE - PEO, Chapter AZ, met at the home of Margaret McClelland on Dec. 4 for the Christmas silent auction. Assisting hostesses were Betty Reeg, Sharyn Paige, Heidi Armstrong, Marie Mohr, Nana Peterson and Gail McCorkindale,

A musical program was presented by Monica Jensen, Colleen Jeffries and Tracy Anderson, accompanied by Deneil Parker.

While enjoying hors d'oeuvres, members were able to make silent bids on an abundant variety of gift items, crafts, decorations, and baked goods. Money from the auction will help to fund the scholarships offered by PEO.

The next meeting of Chapter AZ will be on Saturday, Jan. 12 at the home of Gerrie Christensen, followed by luncheon at the Wayne State Student Center.

and game birds covered with oilsoaked cheesecloth or strips of bacon to prevent the meat from drying out. Set them on a rack in a shallow pan and roast at 325 degrees. For tenderness and doneness, whole game birds should be cooked to an internal temperature of 180 degrees, as measured in the thigh using a food thermometer. Cook breast meat to 170 degrees. Ground meats and other cuts of game meat should reach an internal temperature of 160 degrees.

Roasting is the recommended method for cooking tender meats. To roast, place meat on a rack in a shallow, uncovered pan so it is cooked by the indirect dry heat of the oven. To keep the meat tender and minimize shrinkage due to the evaporation of moisture, heat the oven to 325 degrees.

Domestic ducklings have a great deal of fat. While it helps them float when swimming, fat is undesirable in a cooked duck. Therefore, it's recommended to prick or score the skin of a whole duck before cooking so the fat will render out. Although domestic geese are larger than ducks, they are cooked in the same manner. Oven cooking bags are helpful for cooking these birds because they hold the fat for easy disposal and keep the oven splatter-free.

Beef is leaner these days, so roasting cuts from the rib, tenderloin and eye round to medium rare or 145 degrees keeps these roasts tender and juicy.

There are two types of hams: fully cooked and those that need cooking. Fully cooked hams may be eaten cold or reheated to 140 degrees. When storing hams sealed at the plant, observe use-by dates. Use store-wrapped cooked ham portions within 3 to 5 days.

Uncooked hams must be cooked to 160 degrees to destroy harmful bacteria and should be used within seven days. Cook fresh pork to 160 degrees for medium doneness or to 170 degrees for well doneness. Heating to 160 degrees kills foodborne bacteria, such as Salmonella, as well as parasites that cause trichinosis and taxoplasmosis.

Some people view lamb as a fatty meat. However, leg and loin lamb meat has a similar fat content to lean beef and pork loin when trimmed of visible fat. The "fell" is a paper-like covering on a lamb and is usually removed from steaks and chops at the retail market. Leave the fell on leg roasts to help retain shape. Cook lamb to 170 degrees or well done. Use a food thermometer.

The Farm Bureau House of Delegates adopted a policy emphasizing opportunities for agriculture, rather than restricting business arrangements, in the event the legislature considers corporate farming policies. Farmers should be able to form joint ventures with non-immediate family members and neighbors without all parties being required to be involved dayto-day, the delegates said. they also called for fees levied on wells and surface water diversions as an alternative to using commodity be important for the 2008 checkoff funds to address the state's water problems. On national issues, the delegates supported a substantial increase in the 2012 Renewable Fuels standard and urged EPA to expedite issuing regulations allowing sale in the U.S. of fuel blends containing 11 to 20 percent ethanol. They asked the U.S. Department of Agriculture to push Japan to accept beef animals 30 months and younger as an interim step to adopting World Organization for Animal Health standards. Currently Japan only accepts beef from animals 20 months and vounger.

Speaker of the Nebraska Legislature Sen. Mike Flood told the convention participants it will Unicameral to strike a balance between the need for roads funding and a need for spending restraint. million cash reserve, he said. The state needs to maintain a substantial cash reserve to avoid future tax increase, he said but noted, "We can't grow in rural Nebraska without expressways connecting rural communities to the Interstate." Economic development, community corrections and immigration also will be major issues in the legislature, he said. "The federal govern-ment has failed to articulate a policy on illegal immigration so I expect we will see bills on illegal immigration," he said.

from animal rights' groups successful 2006 ballot campaign to ban use of accepted food animal care practices in has state. Arizona was targeted because it has fewer than 3,000 commercial ag operations, Klinker said, and was viewed as "low-hanging fruit." Livestock producers must be willing to be aggressive in advocating for their good animal care practices, he said. and they must engage the public on an emotional level.

In his annual address, Nebraska Farm Bureau President Keith Olsen said environmental and animal rights groups and religious organizations are working to shape the next farm bill, but they do not have farmers' and ranchers' best interests in mind. They criticize the approximately $280 million cost of the bill, but do not point out that two-thirds is for nutrition programs such as food stamps; that the bill covers five years; and that payments to farmers are reduced when market prices are good, as is currently the case. "We have a tremendous responsibility and need to make that the public understands why it is important that we have a new Farm Bill and why it is good, not only for agriculture for our country," he said.

I had not heard of this choir until our church bulletin started saying that we were going to be having a concert by them in December. Then, I spotted a news clip, on Omaha television featuring costumed children doing a lively song and dance and the commentator informed us that it was the African Children's Choir. I put it on our calendar and made plans to attend. Then the bulletin announced that there would be a need for host homes for the choir and the adults who accompany them. I didn't sign up immediately, and when I finally did, the housing chairman said they were all spoken for However, a week later, she called to say someone had backed out. It's Saturday afternoon, and I that serves as our worship center, names of hosts and their guests. The little munchkins came dressed in khaki slacks and black sweat shirts that said African Children's Choir. They had on parkas and caps and carried very heavy bags. But they insisted they could carry them, and they greeted their hosts with hugs.

Staying with us were Jerome, Daniel, and Martin, with their volunteer sponsor, Amanda, who is from Dallas. We had a snack, preceded by a prayer by Jerome, and when they finished, they announced, "thank you for the food, God bless you, and may we be excused?" Then they went to bed and I washed their clothes.

After breakfast, they did puzzles, played Chutes and Ladders, and used the coloring books I had laid out. They were just like regular little boys when it came to the games, but the politeness and respect for elders were always evident. As one of the other hosts said to me, "My grandchildren could take some lessons."

The choir will be singing in Norfolk this Friday, at the Junior High auditorium. I would highly recommend that you add this to have it in their homeland and they your list of enjoyable Christmas activities. You will be blessed!!!!

SPECIAL NOTICE

With deep and heartfelt comfort, the family of Brian Steffensmeier, is grateful to God for seeing us through this past year, and to our extended family, friends and neighbors, and those at Carson Cancer Center in Norfolk where Brian's journey began, to Faith Regional in Norfolk, to all the staff at St. Francis Memorial Hospital in West Point, especially Dr. Eckmann and Dr. Hass, to those at Bergan Mercy in Omaha, to the personnel with the West Point Rescue Unit, to the staff at the West Point Living Center and Odyssey hospice for assisting in Brian's care where his journey on this earth ended. To Father Frank for his meaningful words of comfort, the St. Mary's High School Choir, Patti Meiergerd, the organist, and Alex Kelly, the guitarist, for their beautiful prayers of music, to the kind women who prepared and served the lunch, and to William & Stasia Stokely of Stokely Funeral Home, who left no detail unturned.

And last but not least, to those of you who graciously donate blood, for without your generous gift, Brian's life on this earth would have ended long ago. All of the food, flowers, cards, memorials, calls, and words of comfort are so much appreciated as well.

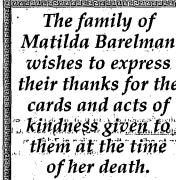

Memorials are being sent in remembrance of Brian to a local AA Chapter, a local Bloodbank, and to St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Brian's time on this earth may have been short, and at times painful and somewhat confusing for him, however, in this past year, he has taught our family so much about the importance of just that....family, and of unconditional love, and of the simple things in life. That is the legacy that Brian has left us with.

May all of you enjoy the peace of the season, and may the ensuing years be filled with a renewed spirit of faith in family and love and in he one who is the creator of all....God.

President Dr. Bill Path has returned from Washington, D.C., where he was one of three invited panelists for a presentation before the U.S. Senate and House Congressional Community College Caucuses.

The presentation before the caucuses was sponsored by the American Association of Community Colleges and the Association of Community College Trustees.

Other invited panelists from community colleges across the country were Dr. Karen Stout of Montgomery County Community College in Blue Bell, PA., and Dr. Sandra Kurtinitis of the Community College of Baltimore County, MD.

The three were invited to explain how each institution is using grants awarded through the President's Community-Based Job Training Grant (CBJTG) program administered by the U.S. Department of Labor. In December of 2006, Northeast Community College was awarded a $1,999,999 grant, the largest in its history, to develop and implement a renewable fuels training program through the Nebraska community college system.

Dr. Stout spoke about her institution's use of the grant monies for a health care project while Dr. Kurtinitis detailed a new automotive technology program funded by the grant at the college she leads. Nebraska Senator Ben Nelson and North Carolina Senator Richard Burr co-chair the U.S. Community College Senate Caucus. Chairs of the House

Miller (N.C.), Michael Castle (Del.), David Wu (Ore.), and Roger Wicker (Miss.)

The CBJTG program, according to the invitation, was developed in 2005 to assist the nation's 1,200plus community colleges to train the American workforce to reach full potential. The grants are to be used to initiate or expand specialized training for high-growth, highdemand industries like health care, biotechnology, financial services, and energy. Competition for the grants is intense and growing, the letter read.

"It was a great honor to be one of three community college presidents from across the country invited to present at this special event," Dr. Path said. "It was even more exciting to tell all those U.S. Congressmen and Senators about Northeast Community College's cutting-edge training program in renewable fuels."

stores give refunds, some gore credits only and some fer all sales to be final. A ie is not legally required to accept items for refund, exchange, or credit unless the merchandise is defective or was misrepresented.

The BBB reminds shoppers to know their return rights before making the purchase. It's always better to ask, than to assume. Following these tips will help you to keep your holiday spirit just a little bit longer,

Ask the store about its return when shopping online. If returns are permitted, ask what procedures and timeframe need to be followed.

If you are the gift-recipient, do not assume you have the right to return or exchange an unwanted present. Like the shopper, you are bound by the merchant's return policy. Health regulations, which can prohibit the return of hats and intimate apparel, also apply.

To help ensure a positive outcome, save your gift receipt. Keep the item in its original packaging and be aware that some merchants charge "open box" or restocking fees. You don't have to brave the crowds the day after Christmas, but don't wait too long to return the item. Pick a time when the store is not likely to be crowded and be polite when talking to customer service. If you are a regular customer, or have a store credit account, mention that fact as you discuss your return options. Merchants are usually willing to accommodate loyal customers.
