Summer is here

After an unseasonably cold spring and recent stormy weather, temperatures have finally reached a point that area swimmers have been able to head to the pool for relaxation and fun. Above, Luke Trenhaile, Jacob Triggs and Taylor Racely enjoy a game of basketball at the Wayne Municipal Pool.

Barn quilts are plentiful in Sac County, Iowa and now can be found in Wayne County too

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Visitors to Garden Perennials south of Wayne will see not only a multitude of color in the thousands of daylilies and other flowers blooming but also in the whimsical barn quilts found there. Owner Gail Korn recently painted the colorful quilts to both grace their old barn but also to sell.

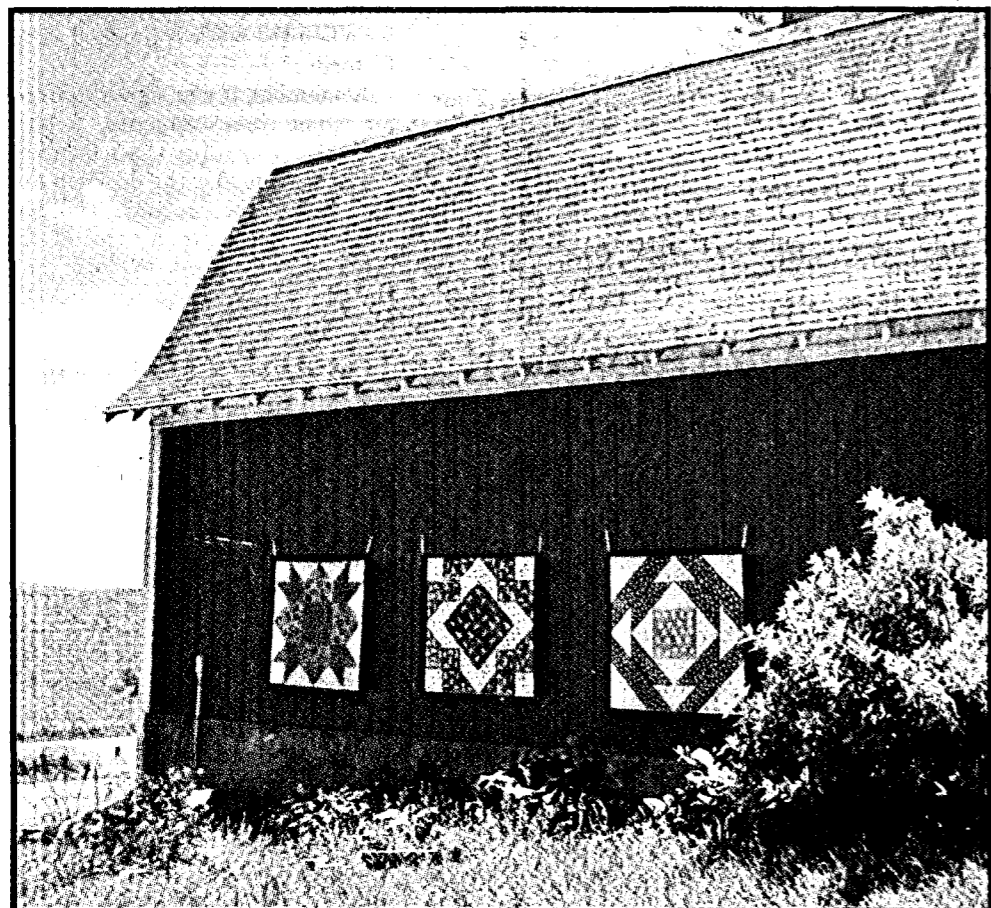

The designs found on the quilts include horseshoes, chickens, flowers and more on colorful calico backgrounds.

Barn quilts are plentiful in Iowa, especially in Sac County. The decorative blocks started showing up in 2005 and there are at least 55 of them to see, every 5 - 10 miles. The barn quilts in Iowa are large (most are eight foot square) and are on colorful wooden blocks. The project was started by Kevin Peyton of Sac City as a 4-H Leadership and Herbert Hoover uncommon Student Award project. School students, 4-H members and other youth and adult volunteers painted the quilt blocks. There are also barn quilts in Grundy County, Green, Pocahontas and Humboldt counties in Iowa as well as in Ohio, Tennessee and other states.

Korn got the idea to create her own barn quilts from her sister in Des Moines, Iowa Barn quilts can be found at Garden Perennials. Owner Gail Korn recently painted several for display on their barn and several for sale.

Council supports change in alcoholic drink classification

By Clara Osten
Of the Herald

The sale of flavored alcoholic beverages as beer rather than as distilled spirits was discussed during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council.

Steve Shear and Cassandra Shear, with Project Extra Mile, made a presentation to the council on the affects of flavored alcoholic beverages or alcopops on young people, especially teenage girls.

At the present time these beverages are classified as beer. Studies indicate that they are sold in locations, more readily advertised and taxed at a rate 12 times lower than distilled spirits. They said that more than 40 regulatory boards across the state have already signed similar resolutions, supporting the re-classification.

Dominic Consoli, representing the Wayne Police Department, told the council that the department is backing Project Extra Mile's efforts to have alcopops re-classified. He said the change would make it harder for youth to get their hands on them.

Following the presentation, the council voted unanimously to support the effort to reverse the decision made by the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission to re-classify alcopops as beer.

Kent Franzen, representing the LB840 Committee, reported on the recent town-hall meeting regarding a city sales tax.

He told the council his committee was recommending that a one percent, 15 year city sales tax be put on the ballot.

Funds generated by the tax would first go to street improvement through LB 904 and then split between capital improvement projects and economic development.

Franzen stressed that this and future city councils would be responsible for determining the projects to be completed and would have final authority over the funds.

After a public hearing in which no one spoke, LB 2008-56 received unanimous approval. It will allow for a preliminary and final plat of the re-plot of the Administrative Lot Split of Lot 1 of Tompkins Addition. The land involved will be used for the Industrial Road re-alignment in the area where the Opportunity Building is being built.

The action was necessary to obtain title insurance on the property.

On a 5-1 vote, with Council member Verdel Lutt voting against, the council approved plans and specifications and authorized bids for the Wayne Trail - Phase II project.

As a Community Development Agency, the council accepted a bid for water, sewer and street improvement projects in the Western Ridge II Subdivision. However, a contract will not be signed until approval is received from the Department of Environmental Quality for work in the area. The approval has not been given because the city has had an ammonia violation in a test of the city's wastewater discharge.

Mayor Lois Shelton presented reports on meetings she had attended in Schuyler and Hastings.

City Administrator Lowell Johnson presented a power point of a wastewater treatment facility he had toured in Firestone, Colo.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, July 1 at 5:30 p.m.

Let the project begin

Ground was broken last week for the Western Ridge II Subdivision on the west edge of Wayne. The project is a single family housing development designed to provide affordable housing opportunities. Involved in the ground breaking were, left to right, Don Buryanek, Chair of the Community Housing Development Agency, Vicki Pick, former owner of the ground, Mayor Lois Shelton, Lisa Hurley with the Northeast Nebraska Economic Development District, Della Pries with the Wayne Community Housing Development and Joel Hansen, representing the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District.

Ministry career spans four decades

By Clara Osten
of the Wayne Herald

After more than 40 years in the ministry, Pastor William (Bill) Koeber is retiring, effective July 1st.

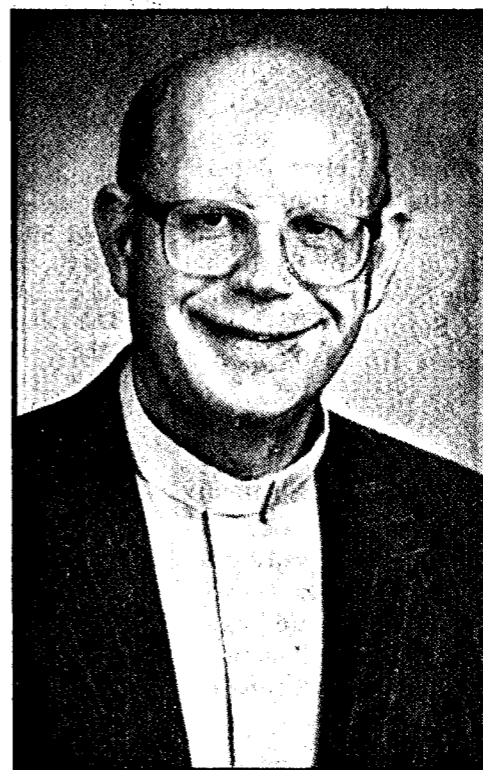

Pastor Bill, as everyone calls him, was born in Mineral Wells, Texas, and came to Wayne at the age of six years with his parents, William and Norma Koeber. He graduated from Wayne High School and received his Bachelor's degree from Wayne State College.

He then attended the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia, Penn. and received a Master of Divinity degree in 1967. In 1977 he received a Master of Science degree from University of Nebraska - Omaha in the field of counseling.

During seminary he served at Trinity Lutheran Church, Yeadon, Pa. and completed a one year internship at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Des Moines, Iowa. On June 18, 1967, 41 years ago, Pastor Hugo Welchert, Secretary of the Nebraska Synod, ordained Pastor Koeber at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wayne.

He began serving at First Lutheran Church in McCool Junction, Neb. He was then called to Resurrection Lutheran Church in Gretna, Neb. where he served for 21 years. In 1995 he served at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Wayne as interim pastor and on Jan. 1, 1997 the congregation called him to be Associate Pastor.

Pastor Bill credits his call to the ministry to a close relationship with two pastors through his early years and a love for the worship service. "I believe," Pastor Bill says, "that God has put us on this earth to on one of the gifts God has given me, that of visitation. It has been a blessing to visit shut-ins, the sick, those in need, and to be a comforting presence to families in crisis." Pastor Bill said.

Pastor Bill also notes that he has been fortunate to be able to be a part of 12 mission trips during his time at Our Savior, the most recent being earlier this month to Camp Tomah Shinga near Junction City, Kansas.

"Mission trips are special because friendships are built and teamwork created. We eat together, pray and worship together, and share fellowship and recreation together. The primary goal is to accomplish a task that benefits the people there by fulfilling an urgent need, but I have also heard members say they took vacation time for this and the trip became the best vacation they ever had," he said.

While they plan to remain in Wayne, Pastor Bill and his wife, Valerie, a retired nurse who worked at The Oaks, plan to travel some and visit family and friends. "I look forward to seeing our grandchildren more often," Pastor Bill said.

In addition, both have musical interests. Valerie plays saxophone in the Northeast Area Jazz Ensemble Band in Norfolk. Once a month she plays the piano for residents at The Oaks and at the Senior Center lunch. Pastor Bill plays the clarinet. Together they played in the Omaha Nebraska Wind Symphony for 15 years. They have used their musical talents in various ways in all congregations they have served.

Pastor Bill hopes to pursue other hobbies in retirement as well, especially golf in the summer.

have communion with him through worship and to be a little Christ to our neighbor through loving service."

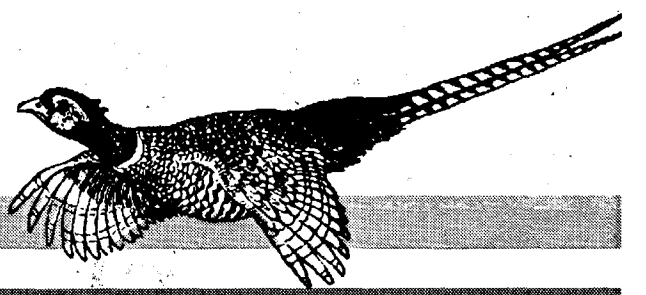

In the 13 years Pastor Bill has been at Our Savior, there have been 206 baptisms, 90 weddings, and 244 funerals.

"I have had the privilege of serving three wonderful congregations, First Lutheran at McCool Junction, Resurrection Lutheran at Gretna, and Our Savior Lutheran in Wayne. At Our Savior, I was able to focus

Winside biology students tour Blackhills and Western Nebraska

Fifteen Winside High School students, Amanda Backstrom, Katie Gray, Kaitly Clocker, Blake Hokamp, Aaron Mangels, Andrew Mohr, Caitlyn Prince, Shelby Meyer, Hillary Lienemann, Casey Lange, Jared Brockmann, Garet Hurlbert, Chelsey Milenkovich, Jaycie Woslager and BJ Cushing and, along with instructors Paul Sok and Mark Koch recently completed a five day tour out west.

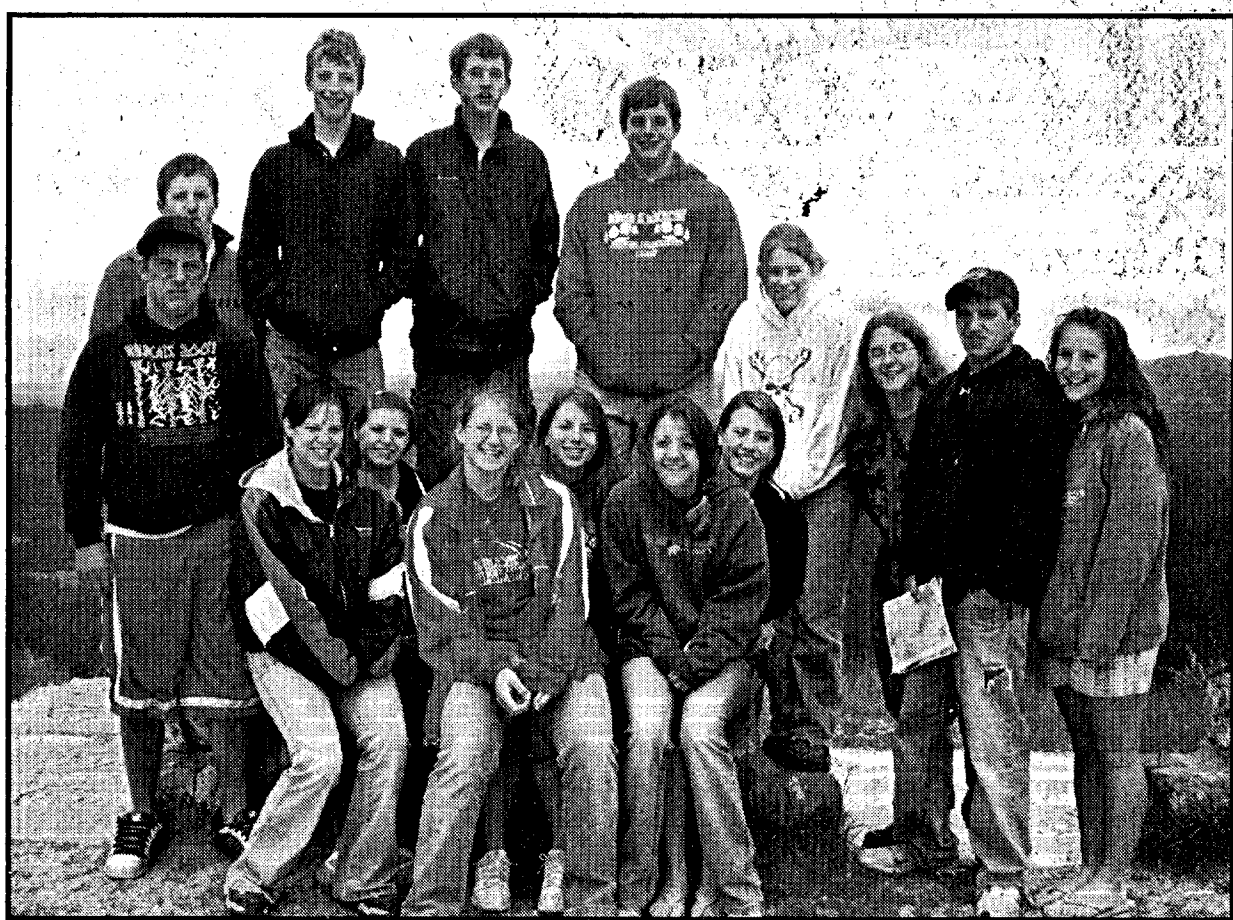

The group had a chance to view the dwelling and see some white prairie dogs. The homestead was developed by three families from Pierce County in the late 1800's. Next, the group entered the Badlands National Monument near Interior, S.D. They had a chance to hike around and take pictures of the scenic, eroded landscape and view some of the native wildlife before heading off to Rapid City.

Shortly after arriving in Rapid City, the students were engaged in a tour of the Journey Center by Stan Lucas and received an historical outlook of the Blackhills region. Next stop, the group toured the Blackhills School of Mines Geology Museum to view various fossils and crystals along with having the opportunity to see replicas of the worlds largest gold nuggets.

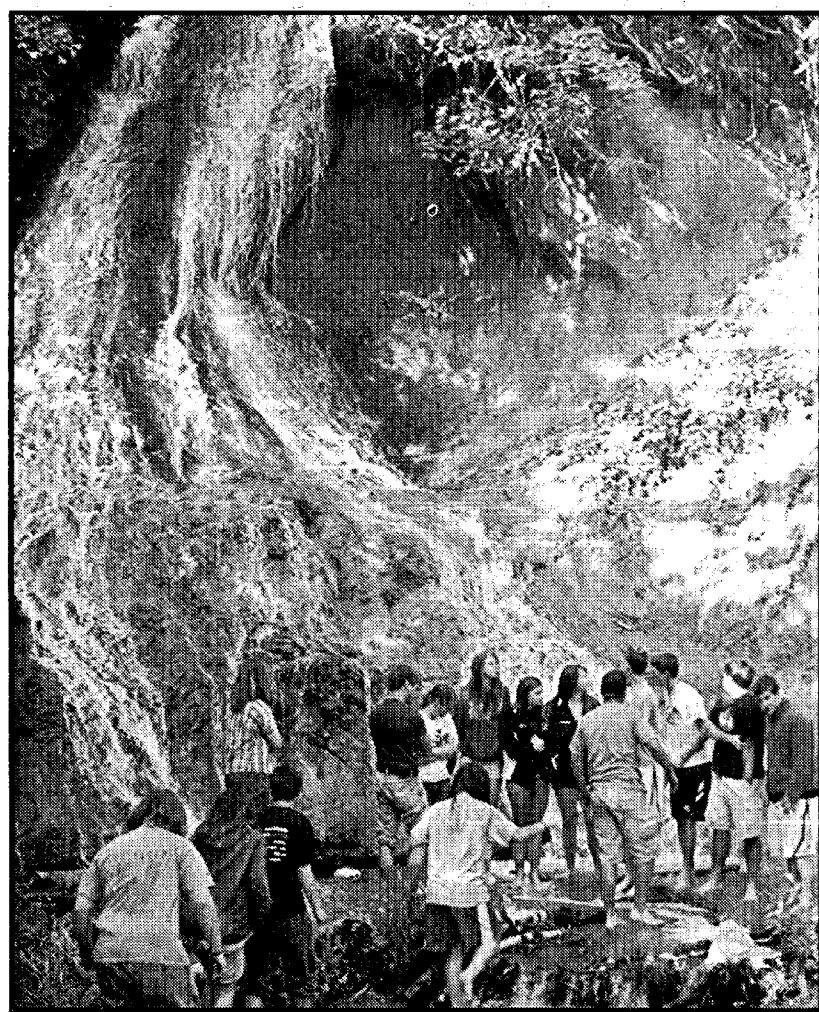

Before leaving Rapid City, the group was fortunate to be able to view some modern architecture with a short tour of the Rapid City Cathedral. The afternoon was completed with a trip to the world famous Reptile Gardens south of Rapid City where the students viewed a number of exhibits and were able to take in the Alligator and Snake Shows. The evening of the first day found the group hiking around Mt. Rushmore and viewing the night-lighting ceremony.

Tuesday came and it was a bright and early start for the group as they tried a little gold panning at Wade's Historic Gold Mill near Hill City. Host, Robert Wade, gave a guided historic tour of old mining equipment and then allowed them to view his own mining operation. Later on the tour was completed as he instructed the group in the art of gold panning. One member of the group, Jared Brockmann, was even able to find a gold flake in a near-by stream on the property.

Next was a stop in Hill City where the group visited the Blackhills Institute of Geological Research and had the opportunity to view several examples of T. rex fossils. The museum owners (brothers Neal and Pete Larson) are world famous for their discovery of the near complete T. rex "Sue" fossil in the early 90's. One of the resident paleontologists gave a tour of the institutes working operations and discussed the legal aspects of fossil hunting. Prior to lunch the group took a guided bus tour of Crazy Horse monument and had a chance to view the memorial from

Among the stops made by the Winside group was at Fort Falls at the Fort Niobrara Refuge.

The Amazing Arthur was part of this year's Summer Reading Program. Here, he questions his audience of young people during his presentation.

Summer reading program underway

"Catch the Reading Bug!" has caught a lot of readers attention and is giving the Wayne Public Library a banner year for summer reading.

As of June 16 there are 184 young people participating in June's summer reading session and so far they have read, 49,482 pages in 1,808 books.

Tuesday and Wednesday, June 17-18, marked the last program days of the June session. The awards party will be held Saturday, June 21 at 10:30 a.m. There will be snacks, fun and prizes for all the buggy readers.

July session readers can get a jump start on their reading by beginning to read June 19. The kick off program is now scheduled for Monday, June 23, at 1 p.m. The special performer will be Poppin' Penelope of the Balloon Brigade, who is the self proclaimed world's best balloon artist, period. "If you can dream it, she can twist it!" It's going to be a comedy, magic, balloon twisting, wonder show that the whole family will enjoy.

On Monday, July 7 the library will have more guest speakers, Alvin and Terry Skow, of Skow Farms east of Emerson. For the last 10 years, retired farmers, Alvin and Terry Skow, have grown wine grapes, and become beekeepers. They will come to show library patrons their equipment, possibly some live specimens, and share their knowledge of keeping and handling bees.

July session program days will continue on Tuesdays or Wednesdays; 12:30 for Pre-K/K, 1:30 for first - third graders, and 2:30 for fourth - sixth graders. Those participating will read and review books, make new creations and have fun activities.

On Friday July 18, there will be a Metamorphosis teen program. Can you guess the theme? Bugs! Get ready for a classic movie marathon, four hours of black and white, maybe even colorized terror, "The Wasp Woman-1960", "Beginning of the End-1957" and "Them!-1954." Don't be afraid to scream. It helps to relieve the tension. Bring your own spill proof drink and pillow to flop on, beginning at 5:30 p.m. and ending just after 9:30.

"You won't want to miss out on any of the action so be sure to add these dates to your calendar. For more information call us at the Wayne Public Library, 375-3135, with any questions," said Youth Services Director Julie Osnes.

The library welcomes children of all abilities. Those under seven years of age should have supervision. All programs are free of charge and open to the public.

near the base. The afternoon was spent doing a variety of physical activities from touring Jewel Cave (five members engaged in a guided, crawl-through spelunking tour), to climbing around in the Needles and swimming in the 48 degree waters of Sylvan Lake that were recently featured in the Nicolas Cage movie "National Treasure".

Wednesday started out with a drive-through tour of Custer State Park where the students were able to view bison, antelope, white tailed deer, burros, and prairie dog towns. Before leaving the park the group toured the Blue Bell Lodge, drove up to the Coolidge Look Out Tower and took a hike up to the Rankin Fire Tower.

For nine members of the group and Mr. Koch, the latter part of the afternoon was spent crawling around for over three hours on a spelunking tour of Wind Cave. That evening the students took a guided tour of the Mammoth site on the south end of Hot Springs, had the opportunity to view some unique, area brownstone architecture at the Hot Springs Veterans Center and later cooled down at the popular Evan's Plunge Water Park before turning in.

Thursday was off for some more adventure as the group hit Cascade Falls south of Hot Springs before returning to Nebraska to spend a couple of hours looking for fossils at the Kevin and Twila Grote Ranch north of Harrison. Some interesting finds were several bone and tooth fragments from 30 million year old Titanotheres (giant, two horned rhino) and some fossilized tortoise shells.

After the fossil hunting activities, the group entered the Pine Ridge and made their way to Ft. Robinson. Trip plans were to include a hayrack tour through the fort but had to be cancelled due to high winds and rain at the time.

It was then time to rush off and take a drive through of Chadron State College and then head east of Chadron over to the North American Museum of Fur Trade for a scavenger hunt sponsored by the museum curators. The afternoon concluded with a tour of the Bowring Ranch and BBQ meal by the park staff before heading off to Valentine.

The final day started out with a half hour tour of the Valentine radio station owned and operated by B. J. Cushing's uncle and continued with a drive on the wildlife loop of Fort Niobrara. The group then participated in a hike around the Ft. Falls area near the Niobrara River. The trip then concluded with a guided tour of the Ashfall Fossil Beds with Sandy Mosel.

"The group is especially thankful to Gardner Foundation and Lower Elkhorn Natural Resource District for funding the majority of the trip. The group would also like to thank the Winside Board of Education and Administration for the use of the school vans," Sok said. This is the 12th consecutive summer trip that Paul Sok has led to the Blackhills and Western Nebraska.

Commissioners hear update on UNMC nursing program

By Lynn Sievers
Of the Herald

Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session on Tuesday. Speaking to the board was Dr. Bill Path, Northeast Community College (NECC) president. Dr. Path gave the commissioners an update on the University of Nebraska Medical Center nursing program at NECC. Dr. Path said that through the project, NECC is attempting to keep UNMC graduates in Northeast Nebraska.

He noted they have collected $6.7 million towards construction of a building on the NECC campus where all nursing degrees can be obtained. NECC faculty would teach the freshmen and sophomore courses and UNMC faculty would teach the junior and senior classes. Graduates would have a UNMC diploma. They are hoping to have groundbreaking for the new facility in August, 2010.

Dr. Path stated he has been promoting this project for around two and a half years and has been visiting commissioners in the 20 counties having limited resources, partnership makes a lot of sense. He said there are at least 70 businesses in northeast Nebraska with nursing positions. Dr. Path asked the commissioners to consider giving a donation to the project.

Also on the agenda was Lauren Lofgren with the annual report of the Wayne County Library Association and 2008-09 budget request. Lofgren gave an update on what's been happening at the Wayne Public Library. She noted they are converting issues of the Wayne Herald to digital and should have issues accessible on Internet.

Lofgren stated Shannon Petersop is working at the Carroll Public Library. She said there is fundraising ongoing for a library/senior center in Carroll.

JoAnn Field, director of the Lied Winside Public Library, noted they have been updating and adding to their young people's collection at the library.

County employee Bud Neel gave a report on building and grounds and discussed the Trane chiller yearly maintenance agreement of $3,225. He noted the unit is seven years old and the company wants an agreement signed to provide maintenance. The commissioners asked Neel to see if maintenance can be done locally.

Wayne Chief Inspector/ Planner George Ellyson was present to have the commissioners sign an administrative replat of lot 1, Tompkins Addition. Ellyson explained that at one time, lot 1 was part of Tompkins land west of Felix Industries. Now, a road is being created and the utility easement needs to be vacated plus a replat done so the city can buy some ground to match up lines. The commissioners approved the replat.

Highway Superintendent Elizabeth Carlson discussed placement of horizontal curve signs acquired through Federal Aid Project STWD (079), which commissioners said they would do. There was discussion on biannual inspection of fracture critical bridges, which Carlson noted engineering firms will be responsible for fracture critical members but not routine inspections.

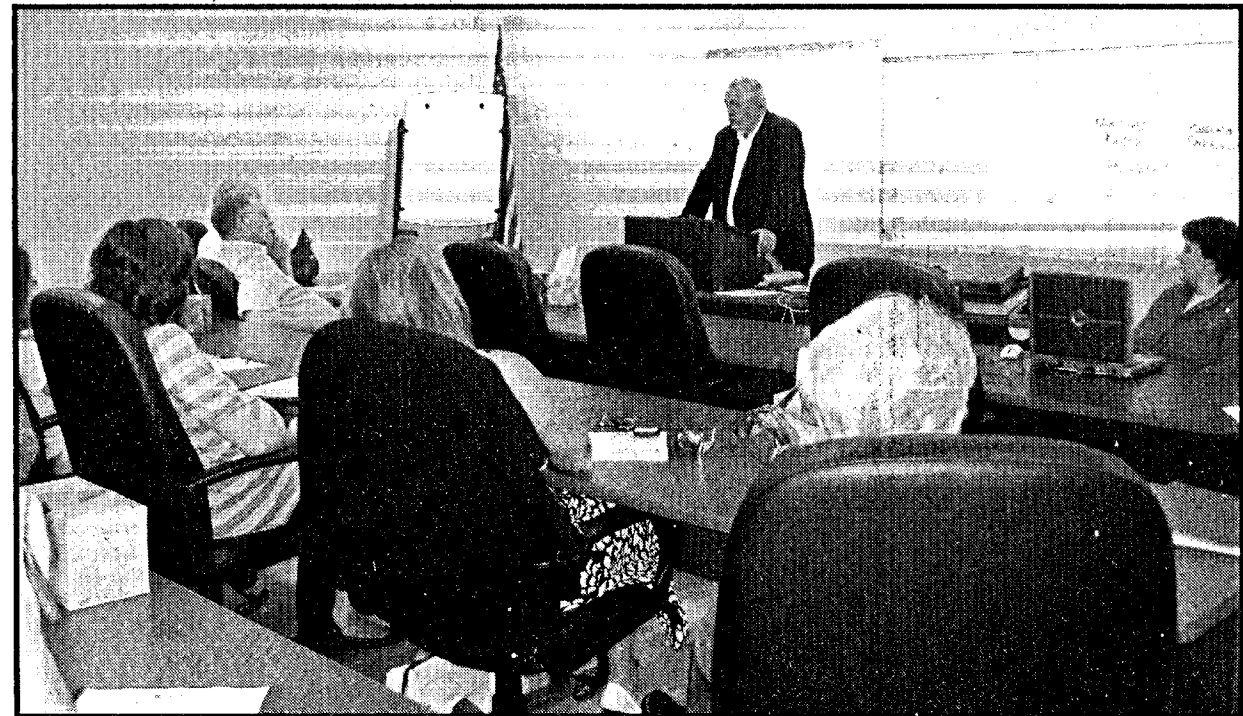

Carlson said there is a new procedure for acquiring a permit from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers when there is a federal aid project. The Fish and Wildlife Division must be notified first and there may be an environmental study ordered.

Wayne County Board of Equalization was held. Joyce Reeg, assessor, discussed higher valuations this year which are reflecting 100 percent market value. The increase has come in changing over from a manual pricing system to computer pricing system. Protest hearings will start on Tuesday, July 8.

A Trinity Lutheran Church representative was present to ask the board to consider taking the church parsonage off the tax list as it is non-profit. The commissioners discussed the five criteria necessary to get exemptions and stated it has to be used for religious purposes, which it isn't as a private citizen is living there.

Other action taken included the denial of a general assistance application, approval of the following: security substitutions, courthouse and court services building bond payments, county commissioner employment resolution and contracts (which states it is alright for the commissioners to work for the county when needed at the hourly rate of $8 and not to exceed 3,000 hours yearly) and fund transfer resolution from county road to snow removal and equipment.

The next meeting of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners is set for Tuesday, July 8 at 9 a.m. at the courthouse in Wayne.

J. L. Schmidt talks to his audience in Wayne on Monday as he explains the Heritage Nebraska Program and its benefits to community restoration projects.

Heritage Nebraska conducts listening session in Wayne

Preservation of communities was the topic of a gathering in Wayne on Monday.

The meeting was facilitated by J.L. Schmidt, current director of the Nebraska Main Street program.

Heritage Nebraska will become an umbrella organization for the Nebraska Main Street Program, which began in 1994; the Nebraska Preservation Fund within the National Trust for Historic Preservation and the Preservation Field Staff workers who provide advocacy and technical assistance.

Currently Nebraska is one of two states without a statewide preservation program. The Main Street

Program is limited to communities with populations of less than 50,000 and is devoted to helping communities in organizing, promoting and strengthening the economic base and improving the appearance of the downtown of the communities involved. Often, this excludes buildings not within the immediate downtown area that may be candidates for restoration.

Heritage Nebraska is designed to improve and expand historic preservation efforts and resources.

The Nebraska Preservation Fund would provide small, matching grants to Nebraska non-profit organizations to help them address preservation issues. The goal is to raise $1 million in donations for this effort.

Heritage Nebraska will consist of a 21-member board which will meet quarterly. Among those on the board is Sandra Bartling of Wayne, who has been active on the Main Street Wayne board for a number of years.

"Citizen input is important to the process," Schmidt said. "That is why we have scheduled meetings for all four corners of the state." Meetings were also scheduled in McCook, Gering and Hastings.

American Red Cross issues appeal

The American Red Cross anticipates spending millions as it moves forward with relief efforts for the victims of flooding and tornadoes across seven states, an enormous geographic area. From Kansas to West Virginia, the Red Cross is present with vast amounts of clean up supplies, dozens of shelters and tens of thousands of meals.

Already, more than 1,400 Red Cross workers are assisting people in the affected area, and the organization is gearing up to provide additional relief. The current relief operations follow two extremely busy months for the Red Cross, with 27 disaster operations in April and May. These operations will cost the Red Cross millions of dollars and the help of the American public is needed to meet the growing needs.

Over the past days, the Red Cross has responded to tornadoes in Kansas and floods in Iowa, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Indiana and West Virginia. Thousands of people are staying in more than 41 shelters and more than 115,000 meals and snacks have been served. This spring, the American Red Cross responded to more than 30 large scale disasters due to severe weather.

The Red Cross is coordinating with local emergency officials, community organizations and faith-based groups to pre-position relief supplies, such as cots, blankets and comfort kits, and is preparing to open additional shelters if needed.

The Red Cross encourages those affected to register their status on the Safe and Well Web site on www.redcross.org so loved ones can know they are safe.

It is anticipated that relief efforts will cost tens of millions of dollars. In order to quickly respond to anyone with disaster-caused needs, the Red Cross must have money available immediately. This emergency resource is provided by the Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund.

All American Red Cross disaster assistance is free, made possible by voluntary donations of time and money from the American people. You can help the victims of thousands of disasters across the country each year, disasters like the tornadoes and floods in the Central United States, by making a financial gift to the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund, which enables the Red Cross to provide shelter, food, counseling and other assistance to victims of disaster.

The American Red Cross honors donor intent. If you wish to designate your donation to a specific disaster please do so at the time of your donation. Call 1-800-REDCROSS or 1-800-257-7575 (Spanish). Contributions to the Disaster Relief Fund may be sent to your local American Red Cross chapter or to the American Red Cross, P.O. Box 37243, Washington, DC 20013. Seniors earn Tournament Championship with 8-4 win over Waterloo Valley

By Casey Schroeder

The Wayne Senior baseball team posted a 2-1 record enroute to their first place finish at the 2008 Wayne Baseball Association (W.B.A.) Tournament that was held at Hank Overin Field on June 14-15.

Wayne's climb towards a championship began on Saturday, as the boys in blue defeated Crete 8-3.

Jesse Hill led Wayne with three hits (two singles and one triple) and continued to find additional success on offense as he scored one run and added a lone RBI.

Aiding Hill in the win was Bren Vanderweil who posted two hits (both singles) and a sacrificed bunt.

Heath Erwin picked up the pitching win with a seven inning performance that included 11 strikeouts, three hits, two walks and one earned run.

After coasting to an easy win on Saturday, Wayne returned to action on Sunday, only to be downed by North Bend 6-5.

Hill led Wayne with a pair of hits (both doubles) and two runs while Nate Summerfield added two runs. Shawn Jenkins was tagged with the pitching loss, as he worked 1 2/3 innings and recorded just two strikeouts.

Other pitcher's for Wayne who were summoned to the mound for duty included, Tyler Schaefer and Hill who combined for two strikeouts while also allowing eight hits, two walks and two earned runs.

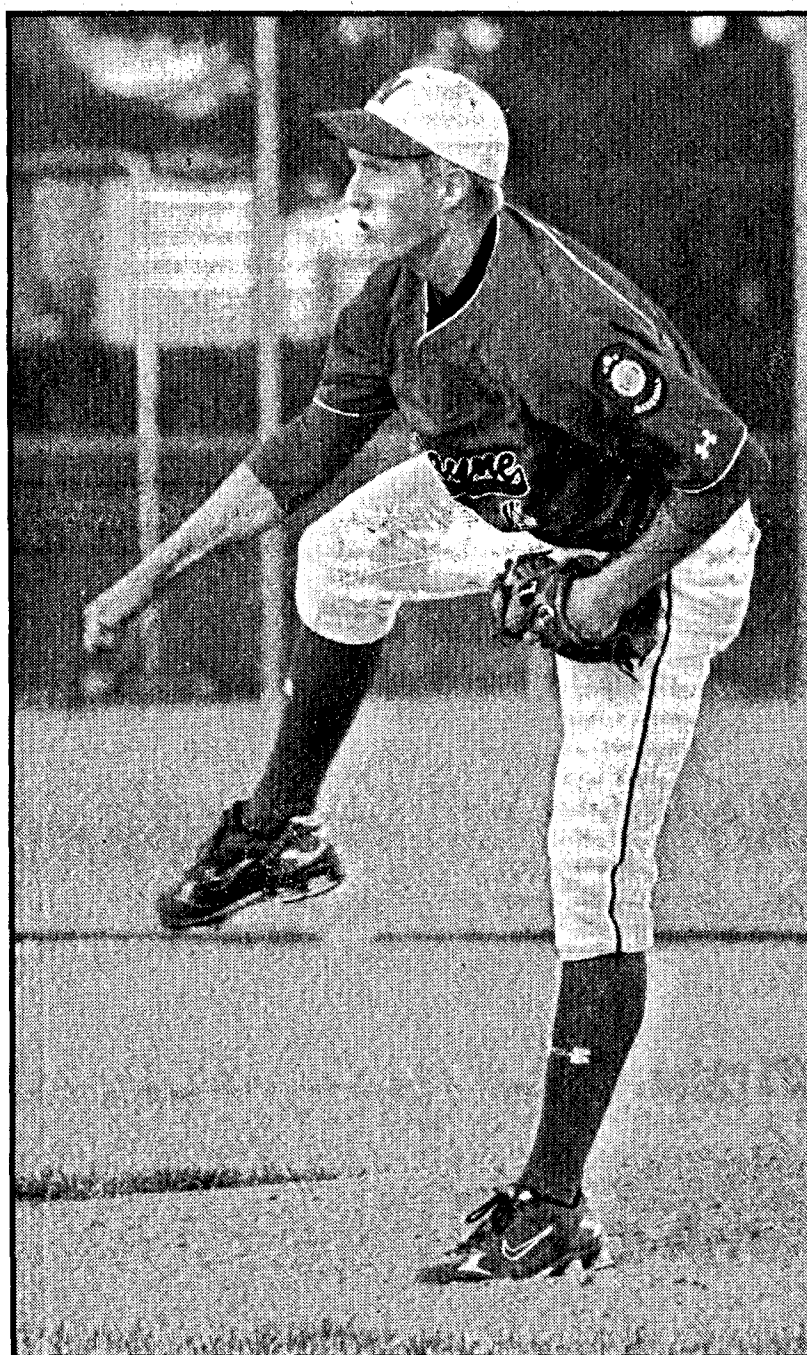

Despite Wayne's unfortunate loss to North Bend, they responded back when it counted the most as they ousted Waterloo Valley 8-4 in Sunday night's Championship game.

"After losing earlier in the day and getting behind in the championship, I thought our guys really dug down deep and found a way to win against a quality opponent," Wayne head coach Jeff Zeiss said.

Cory Harm guided Wayne to the win with two hits (one double and one triple) and a pair of runs.

In addition to Harm, Erwin also came through for Wayne, as he added both a pair of runs and hits in addition to his two RBIs.

Hill resumed duties as pitcher for Wayne, and had nothing but success as he struckout 12 batters while allowing just four hits and three earned runs in seven innings

18-and-under Dirtdevils bargain for second place honors in League Tourney

By Casey Schroeder

The Wayne 18-and-under girls' softball team improved to 11-5 overall after they used a mark of 3-2 to grab runners-up honors at the League Tournament in Wayne on June 14-15.

Wayne began their ascension to the championship with a 8-0 win over Loganview on Saturday.

Leading the Dirtdevils to the win was Mirisa Carroll with two hits (both singles) and one run while Cali Rethwisch followed closely behind with a pair of hits (one single and one double) and a solo run.

Carroll (7-3) earned the win from the pitcher's mound as she worked six innings and gave up three hits and two walks while striking out four batters.

After a dominate win over Loganview, Wayne kept the momentum going as they downed Tekamah Herman 9-5 on Sunday.

Alesha Finkey led the Dirtdevils in their second game with three hits (two singles and one triple), one run and an RBI.

Also finding success in the win was Caitlin Gustafson who yielded three hits (two singles and one triple), one run and a pair of RBI's while Rethwisch added two hits (both doubles), three runs and an RBI.

"We fought hard and hit the ball well," Wayne 18-and-under coach Jean Pieper said. "Finkey and Gustafson lead with hits, but everyone contributed."

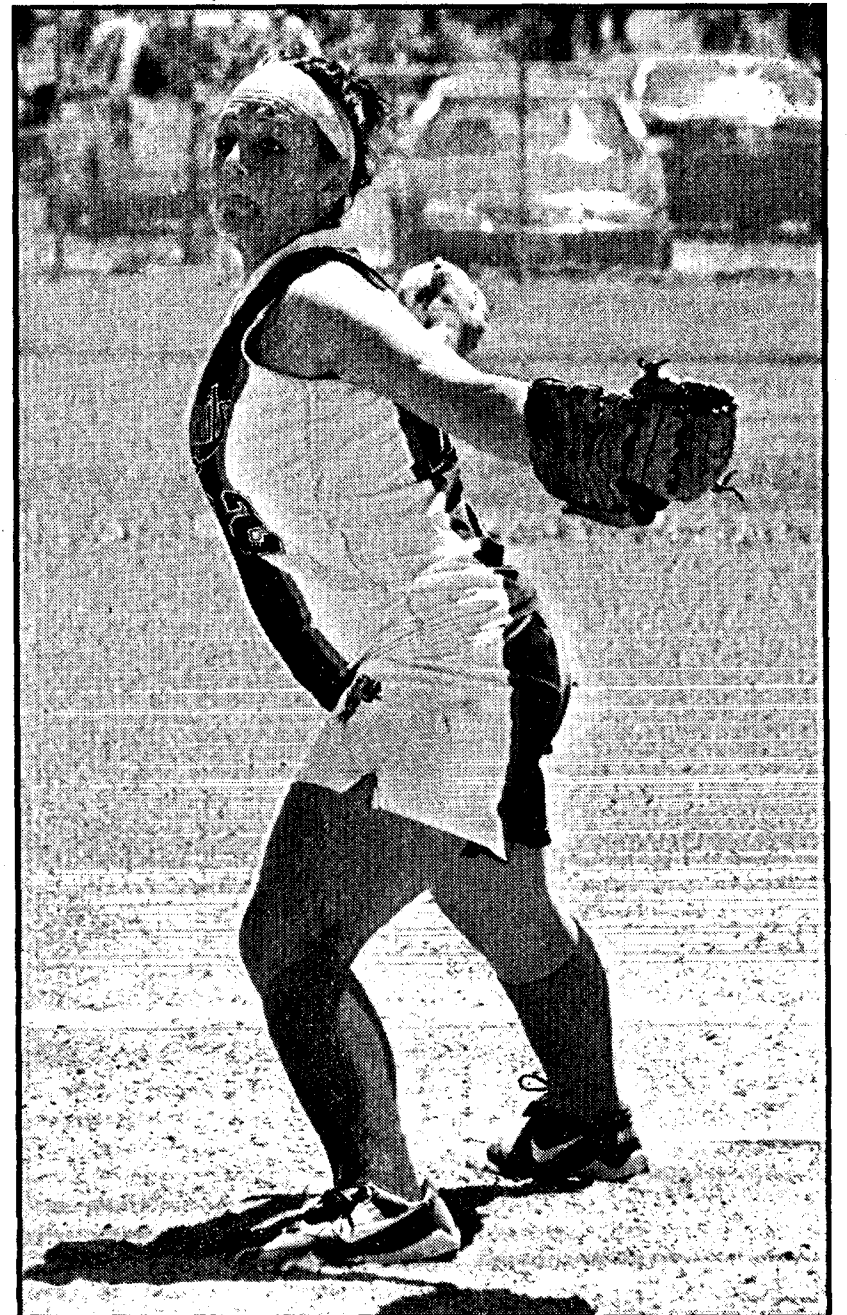

Carroll (8-3) was tagged with her second pitching win of the day as she allowed eight hits, two walks and five runs to go along with five strikeouts in six innings of work.

Following Wayne's win over Tekamah Herman, the Dirtdevils were knocked down a peg as they were defeated by Arlington 3-2 in game two of Sunday's action.

Finkey led Wayne with two hits (one single and one double) and a pair of RBI's and was assisted by Maddy Moser who added two hits (both singles) and a lone run.

Carroll (8-4) worked seven innings for the Dirtdevils and recorded the loss, even though she gave up just six hits, one walk and two runs while striking out 10 batters.

While Wayne lost some momentum after the loss to Arlington, the Mirisa Carroll guided the Dirtdevils to a second place finish at this weekends League Tournament in Wayne with three solid games of pitching.

Dirtdevils rebounded back in their third game of the day as they edged Loganview 8-7.

Rethwisch highlighted the Dirtdevils' offense with three hits (all singles), two runs and a pair of RBI's and was aided by Moser who contributed three hits (three singles), one run and two stolen bases.

Carroll (9-4) was tagged with the pitching win as she allowed two hits, one walk and no runs in addition to 10 strikeouts over the course of seven innings of work.

With the win over Loganview,

Wayne advanced to the League Championship game where they squared off against Arlington.

And once again, it was Arlington who crashed the Dirtdevils' party as Wayne was handed their second loss of the day in a narrow 4-1 decision.

Offensively, Wayne was led by Andrea Pieper who posted two hits (both doubles) and an RBI while Rethwisch, Gustafson and Michelle Jarvi all added one hit each.

Carroll dropped to 9-5 from the pitcher's mound as she gave up seven hits and three runs while striking out five in seven innings of work.

Wayne can next be seen in action on Thursday, June 19 as they host Arlington at 6:30 p.m. at the Wayne Softball Complex.

14-and-under Dirtdevils expel Friday the 13th myth with wins over Osmond

By Casey Schroeder

Friday the 13th has long been considered a day of bad luck, a day in which nothing can go right.

However, the Wayne 14-and-under girls' softball team quickly disposed of that myth on Friday evening as they traveled to Osmond, Neb. and picked up a pair of road wins.

In game one of the doubleheader Wayne used a powerful punch of offense to down Osmond 10-0.

Elle Schramm guided Wayne to the win with two singles while teammate Caitlyn Fehringer added a triple to highlight the Dirtdevils' offense.

Kristin Carroll pitched a complete game for the Wayne and recorded 12 strikeouts to come away with the pitching win.

Following Wayne's sweeping of Osmond in game one, the Dirtdevils returned to action and dealt out a 14-7 loss in their second game of the evening.

Fehringer and Schramm both led Wayne in hitting as Fehringer tripled while Schramm added a double.

Defensively, Wayne was led by the strong arm of Tia Jech who used five strikeouts to earn the win from the pitcher's mound.

The Dirtdevils will return to action on June 21-22 as they compete in the Class B District Tournament in Wayne.

Wayne's first game of the two day tournament is scheduled for Saturday at 1:15 p.m.

Wayne White Ponys swept at Wakefield Wooden Bat Tournament

By Casey Schroeder
The Wayne White Ponys' continued their run of misfortune as they were handed a pair of losses at the Wakefield Wooden Bat Tournament on June 14.
Wayne opened Saturday's tournament action with a 15-0 loss to the Helen Crusaders.
Despite Wayne's bone-jarring loss to Helen, the White Ponys' responded back in game two with a solid offensive effort against Pierce that yielded three runs.

However, it wasn't enough as Pierce managed to earn the 8-3 win over Wayne.
Wayne was guided in game two by Eric Schoh who had one double while Bradley Longe and Tyler Robinson each added a single and a walk.

Wayne 16-and-under trounce Columbus Lakeview in Tuesday night doubleheader

By Casey Schroeder
The Wayne 16-and-under girls' softball team improved to 14-5-1 following a two game sweep of Columbus Lakeview on June 10 in Columbus, Neb.
The Dirtdevils recorded their first win of the night as they downed Columbus Lakeview 11-3 in game one.
"Our small game was great," Wayne 16-and-under coach Nate Wall said. "We stole lots of bases and put a lot of pressure on Lakeview."
Jessica Calhoun and Bayli Ellis guided Wayne to the win with a mirror-like performance from home plate.
Calhoun and Ellis both recorded singles for the Dirtdevils, in addition to a trio of runs and pair of RBIs.
Earning the win from the pitcher's mound was Ellis who improved to 4-1 after she allowed just eight hits, one walk and two runs while striking out eight in five innings of work.

After knocking the wind out of Columbus in their first game of the night, Wayne continued to add salt to the open wound as they defeated Lakeview 7-2 in game two.
Riley Hoffart guided Wayne to the win with two hits (one single and one triple), one run and three RBIs while Lindsay Frahm added two hits (both singles), one run and an RBI.
Shannon Jarvi (10-4-1) was tagged with the pitching win as she struckout seven batters while allowing just three hits, two walks and one run in six innings.
Wayne will hope to keep their current win streak alive as they travel to Norfolk on Thursday, June 19 for 6:30 p.m. doubleheader against the Norfolk Golden Girls.

Kielsmeier looks to take WSC women's basketball 'a step further'

By Casey Schroeder
If you are an avid supporter and fan of Wayne State College women's basketball you are probably aware that Ryun Williams is out and Chris Kielsmeier is in.
Kielsmeier was appointed head coach of the WSC women's basketball program after guiding Howard Payne University in Brownwood, Texas for the past eight seasons.
The Iowa native (Hubbard-Radcliff High School), amassed a 179-44 career record and guided the Lady Jackets to a 33-0 record last season that was highlighted by winning a NCAA Division III National Championship.
So why, after all of his success at Howard Payne did Kielsmeier choose to leave the place that he's called home for the past nine years?

Chris Kielsmeier

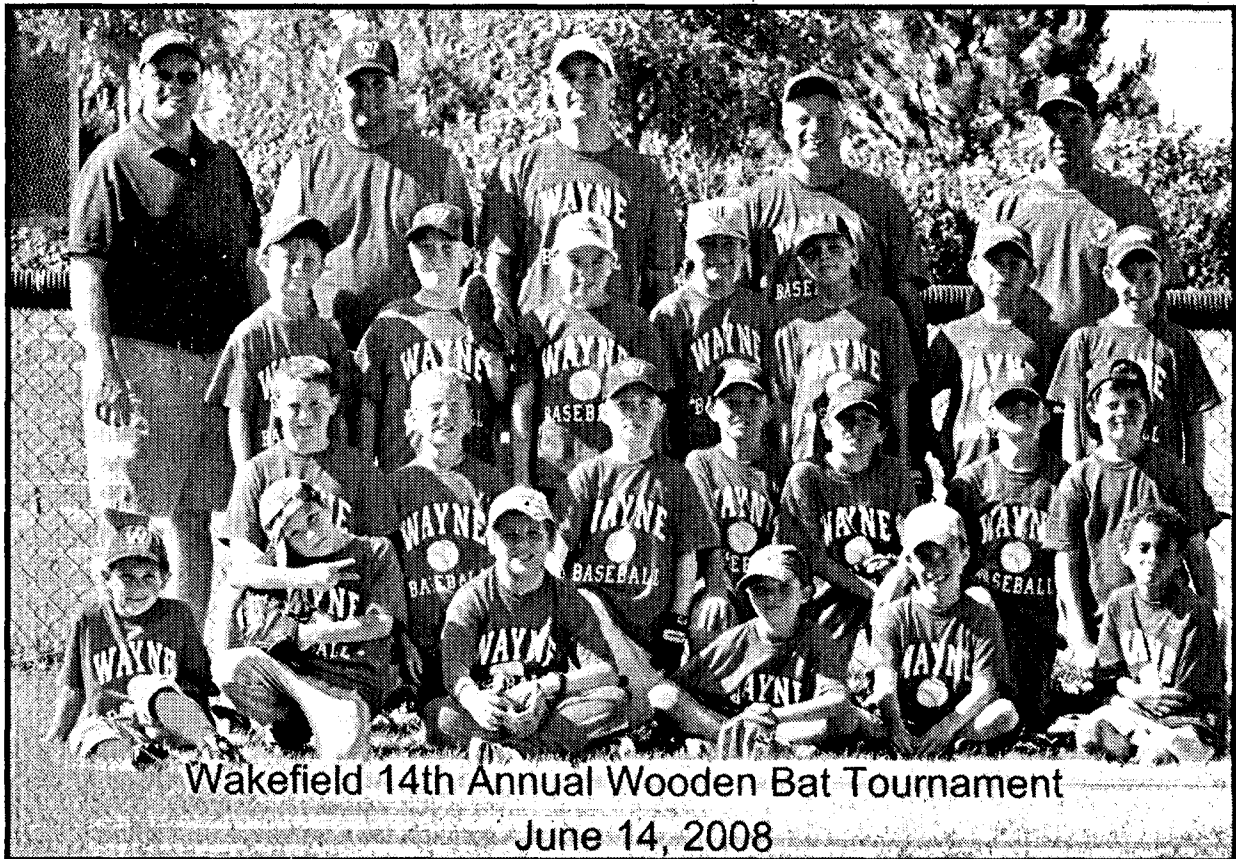

"I wanted to be closer to home. I graduated from ISU (Iowa State University) in the spring of 1999 and my family lives in central Iowa."
"It was difficult to leave Howard...I spent one-third of my life there as a coach and I was a member of the community."
"It was tough to realistically know that I won't see those people again. We had a program that knew how to win and the kids expected to win."
However, while it was hard to part with both Howard Payne and Brownwood, he indicated that he's been welcomed into both the WSC and the Wayne communities with open arms.

recruits.
"The biggest challenge will be to identify the players that we need to win a Division II National Championship," Kielsmeier said.

"Identifying the talent that we have and what kind of talent we need to win comes with experience and watching the current players."
Experience that Kielsmeier has yet to see, except for on game film.
"My biggest concern is that I haven't been able to watch the players and I won't be able to until the fall."
"I want to build those relationships and evaluate performances. I want to talk and see my players... to get to know my players."
However, while a National Championship maybe on Kielsmeier's mind, he pointed out that he is far more concerned with seeing his athletes succeed off the court as "basketball is just part of the experience."
At Howard Payne, Kielsmeier's students shined in the classroom as he guided 40 student-athletes to All-Academic honors.
"I want our players to graduate. Our players are expected to go to class and will go to class. Academics are first and foremost."

"They are why I have a job and why the kids are here. To be part of this program you have to be a great student and player, not just a player."
In addition to academic goals, Kielsmeier strives to instill skills within his players that can be utilized in life after college and basketball.
Skills that will allow an individual to find their path and then follow it, instead of meandering through life with little direction.
"Success won't be determined by wins and losses, but instead by good people in the community who graduate," Kielsmeier said. "What will they take from me in order to move forward into the future?"
While the jury remains out on "Coach K," and the future of Wayne State women's basketball, all that is asked is that we give him and the Wildcat women a 'chance'.
"Giving yourself a chance is what I want for this program and we'll give ourselves a shot at it in the near future."

A number of common changes in the musculo-skeletal system happen as people get older, such as:

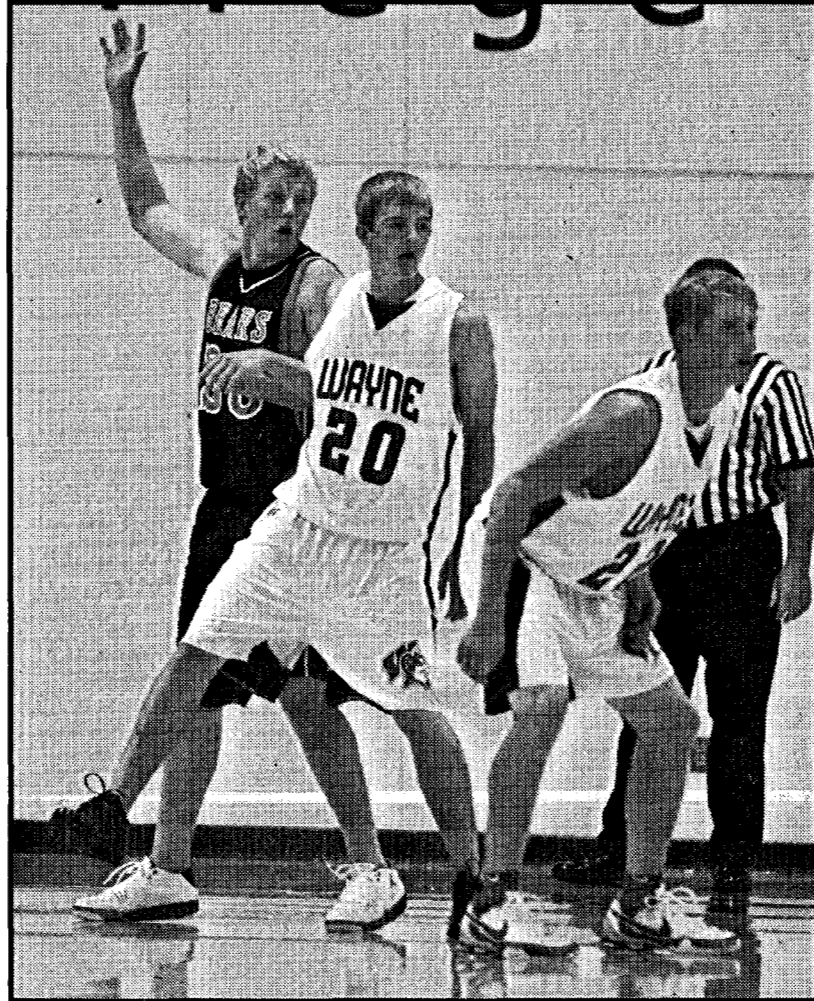

- The body tends to lose calcium, causing the bones to become weak, brittle, and easily broken. It's common to see older people with fractures of the wrist, hip, and back.
- Joints begin to wear down. Many people then develop arthritis (inflammation of the joints). Arthritis may cause the joints to become stiff, painful to move, and deformed.
- Muscles begin to decrease in size and strength, starting slowly at the age of 20.
- The discs between the bones of the spine become thinner causing people to "shrink" a little in height.
- With age, some people walk and move more slowly. They may lose their balance more easily and this puts them at risk for falls.

Getting older doesn't sound like much fun, does it? Well, the good news is that all these age related changes can be slowed down by making these healthy choices:

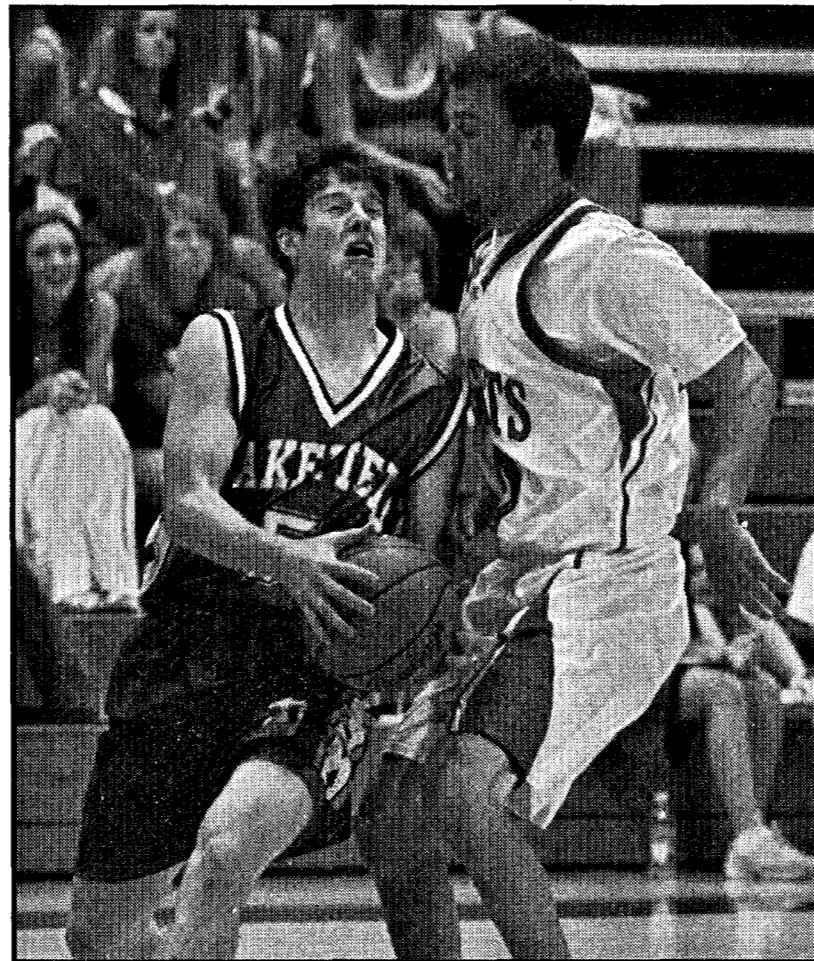

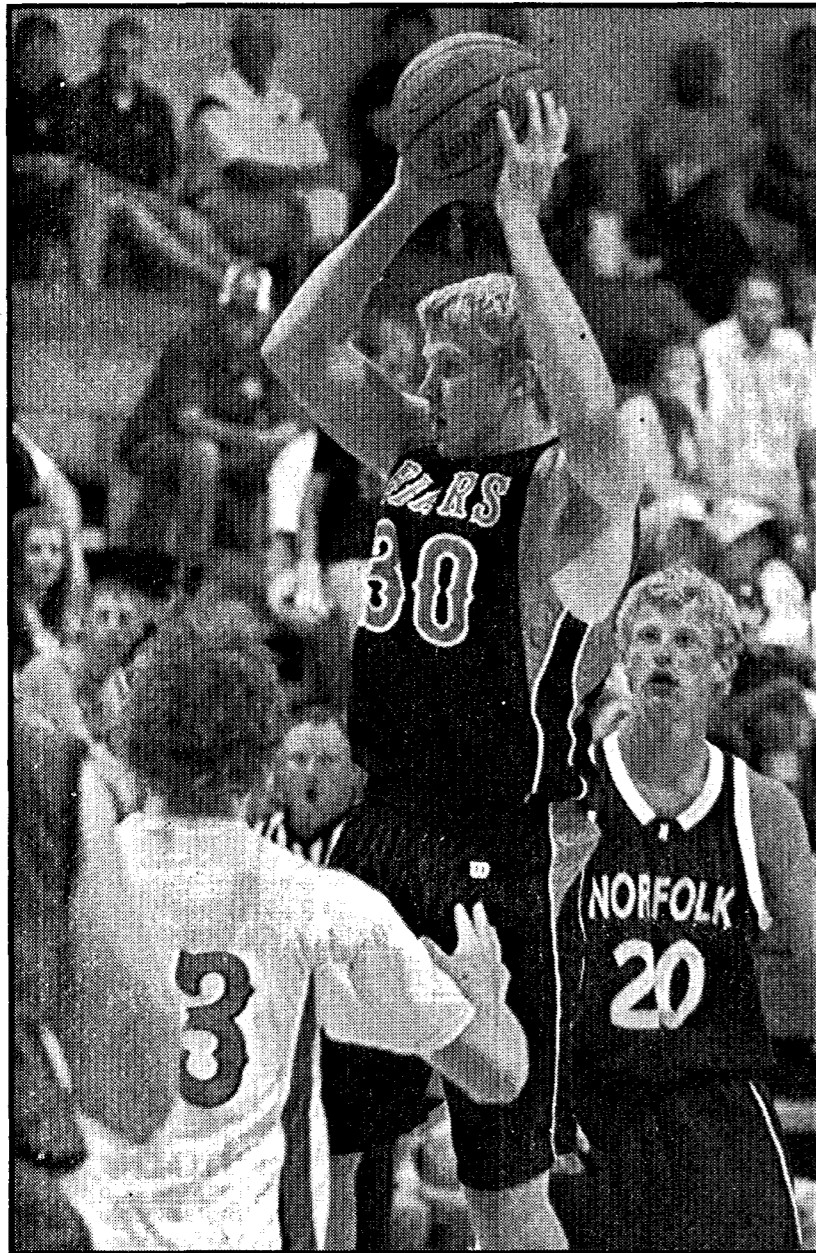

- Exercising regularly.
- Eating a well-balance diet.
- Avoid cigarettes and alcohol.

For questions please call the Providence Therapy Department at 402-375-7937 for all your therapy needs.

Set a Goal to Take Control - Last call for diabetes program participants Managing diabetes can seem overwhelming at times. There are numerous tasks required to keep it under control which can vary depending on your overall health and personal circumstances.

One thing everyone with diabetes needs to focus on is controlling blood glucose. When you improve your diabetes control, you win both now and in the future. With tighter control of blood sugar levels, you are likely to feel better and more energetic. The long-term effects are even more striking. Major clinical trials have proven that good blood glucose control is the best way to prevent or delay diabetes complications. Even small reductions in blood glucose levels can improve your health.

Good control requires both diligence and willingness to try new strategies. Learn new strategies by attending "Control Diabetes for Life." The Wednesday, June 25 session will focus on "Summertime Diabetes Self Management."

Set a goal to take control of your diabetes. Aim for lower blood glucose levels to feel better now and stay healthy for years to come. Wednesday, June 25, topics that will be addressed during the two-hour program include: Scoop on Ice Cream, Flavor Up Your Foods, Dental Health and Exercise for the Aging Body.

Participants will receive new recipes for a diabetic appropriate food. Team-teaching the program will be Phyllis Heimann, R.N. & Certified Diabetes Educator; Stacie Petersen, R.N. & Certified Diabetes Educator; Mary Clare Stalp, R.D.; of Franciscan Care Services in West Point and Debra Schroeder, UNL Extension Educator in Cuming County.

Control Diabetes for Life will be available Wednesday, June 25, from 1:30-4 p.m. at the Wayne County Courthouse.

"Control Diabetes for Life" is a joint project of University of Nebraska-Lincoln Extension and Franciscan Care Services of West Point. The program is offered free-of-charge. "Control Diabetes for Life" will help participants learn to control diabetes and prolong the onset of complications from the disease.

Participants are asked to pre-register for "Control Diabetes for Life" by calling their local Extension office at 402-375-3310. Please register by Monday, June 23, so the proper number of handouts may be prepared. Affiliated Foods supports public safety efforts Superintendent of the Nebraska State Patrol, Colonel Bryan Tuma was on hand June 16 to accept a $2,500 donation from Affiliated Foods Midwest in Norfolk. The monies will go toward the purchase of a Seat Belt Convincer, for Troop B Headquarters- Norfolk.

The funds were raised through a golf tournament sponsored by Affiliated Foods Midwest. The event entitled "Honoring Those Who Serve," was held at the Fair Play Golf Course near Norfolk.

"We want to thank Affiliated Foods Midwest for organizing such a great event," said Colonel Bryan Tuma, Superintendent of the Nebraska State Patrol. "The management and staff at Affiliated should be commended for their commitment to public safety. By realizing the importance of seat belt education they are helping in the effort to save lives on Nebraska roadways."

The Seat Belt Convincer is a machine that demonstrates the importance of wearing seat belts, every time you get into a vehicle.

The system enables the participants to experience what it's like to be involved in a low speed crash and the role seat belts play in keeping them safe from harm.

Affiliated Foods Midwest, headquartered in Norfolk, is a long standing supporter of law enforcement in northeast Nebraska. In 2006, Affiliated donated a $5,600.00 Hostage Negotiator Rescue Phone Kit to Troop B Headquarters.

Online tools will educate small business owners on economic stimulus package benefits

SBA has created an online tax savings resource center to help small businesses understand how they can benefit from the 2008 economic stimulus package signed into law by President Bush.

The package includes the following tax incentives for businesses: a 50 percent bonus depreciation allowance on equipment purchased and placed in service in calendar 2008 and an almost 100 percent increase in the amount (from $128,000 to $250,000) that a business can expense for equipment purchased and placed in the business tax year beginning in 2008.

"The stimulus package is designed to spur the economy by putting money back into the pockets of American workers and encouraging small businesses to invest and expand," said SBA Acting Administrator Jovita Carranza. "However, many small business owners are unaware of how it could boost their bottom line. In the roundtables I held with dozens of small business owners last week on tax policy, many were amazed to learn how much their companies could benefit from the temporary tax incentives in the package."

SBA's new tax savings resource center demonstrates the benefits entrepreneurs can gain from the 2008 economic stimulus package. The center, located on www.sba.gov/stimulus, contains three resources on the package:

1. Fact Sheet. The fact sheet provides a clear explanation of the small business tax benefits.

2. Depreciation Calculator. This useful tool provides an estimate of the first-year depreciation available under the provisions.

3. Online Seminar. This brief tutorial summarizes the tax benefits and concludes with the depreciation calculator.

These resources should help small businesses take advantage of the stimulus package. However, because there are exceptions and additional requirements, small businesses are encouraged to contact their tax advisor to determine exactly how the provisions and implementing tax code of the 2008 economic stimulus package apply to their business. They may also refer to the IRS Web site: <http://www.irs.gov/newsroom/article/0,,id=179227,00.html> for additional information regarding tax changes.

NECC information night to explore college possibilities

Alternative class schedules, financial aid, and special services like disability services and the New Beginnings program are among topics to be discussed at another College Information Night for Adults at Northeast Community College in Norfolk in July.

During the Information Night scheduled for Thursday, July 10, from 6:30-9 p.m. in the MacLay Building, Room 100B, students will learn how to take classes on their schedule even if they can't come to campus.

A student video and student panel discussion will open the evening. Academic deans, financial aid personnel, and admissions department officials will be on hand to explain different aspects of obtaining a Northeast Community College diploma or degree.

Potential students will be told they can now take several courses on-line through Northeast Community College. They will also learn that degrees in architectural drafting, administrative assistant, paralegal studies, entrepreneurship, business management and business administration can be earned on a part-time schedule. Paramedic, medication aide, nurse aide, and getting started in a health career classes will also be discussed. Other programs of study to be reviewed include agribusiness technology, renewable fuels, electromechanical technology, culinary arts/dietary management, success in on-line learning, and professional truck driver training.

Participants will hear that a degree in business can be earned by taking all classes at the Northeast Education Centers in West Point, South Sioux City and O'Neill.

Financial aid, tutoring, library resources, career planning, child care, and disability services will also be reviewed. Participants will learn that students taking only six credit hours are eligible for federal loans. The New Beginnings Program, a support program for single parents and displaced homemakers, may provide financial assistance for tuition, textbooks, supplies, mileage, and childcare expenses.

Potential students will also be told that they can still register for classes that begin Monday, August 18, at Northeast and an orientation session that precedes the first day of class.

For more information or to register, call Lisa Reifenrath at (402)844-7269.

Wayne Head Start holds Fatherhood Event

Wayne Head Start had their third and final Fatherhood Event for the school year on June 12. Each dad and child went on a nature hunt, looking for items on a list. If they found a special bug, they put it in the bug catcher and took it back to the center so all the children could look at them at the science center. Some of the Senior Legion Baseball team were a positive male role model for the kids by volunteering their time to help with the event for the children that didn't have a dad who could make it to the event.

Seth Mangels

Seth Mangels earns honors

The United States Achievement Academy (USAA) has announced that Seth Mangels of Winside has been recognized by the United States Achievement Academy as a student of excellence in Mathematics.

This is an honor very few students can hope to attain. The Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students.

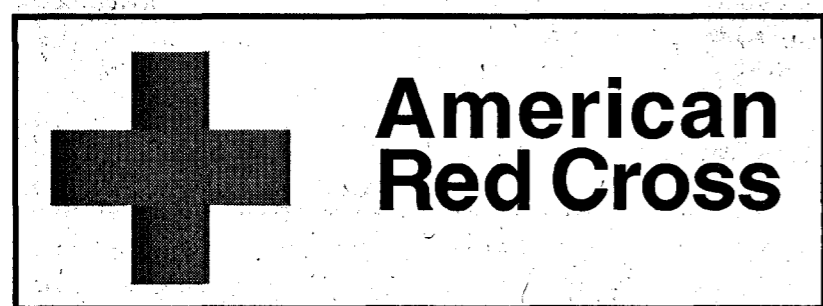

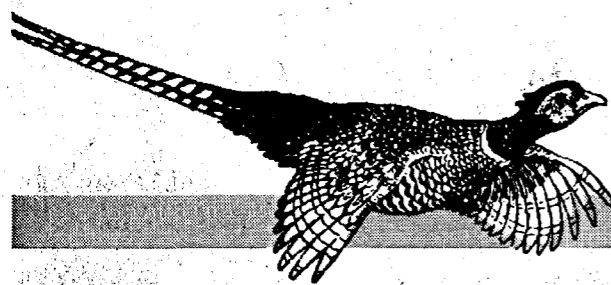

Seth, who will be a junior at Winside Public School, was nominated for this honor by Rachelle Rogers-Spann, a teacher at the school. His name will appear in the United States Achievement Academy's Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

Seth has also been named an All-American Scholar. His nomination for this award came from Mark Koch at the high school.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy students should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Founder of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy recognizes students upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards for Selection set forth by the Academy. The Standards for Selection include academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a qualified sponsor.

Aaron Mangels is the son of John and Karen Mangels of Winside.

American Red Cross aims to curb potential summer blood donation shortfall

While gasoline prices and the slumping economy may be on the minds of many this summer, the American Red Cross Blood Services has cause for an even greater concern - patients lives. Every summer, Red Cross officials say blood and platelet donations lag as many donors vacation or are otherwise occupied with summer activities and neglect to donate.

- Every 2 seconds a patient in the U.S. needs blood
- 38,000 red cell blood units are needed every day
- The average blood donor gives less than two times annually

The sometimes dire situation can be exacerbated by an approximate 50 percent drop in blood donations from high school- and college-aged donors because school is not in session and campus blood drives don't occur. Up to 20 percent of the Red Cross' blood donations come from high schools, colleges and universities during the regular school year.

What's more, the eligible blood donor pool in the United States was recently confirmed to be nearly half as large as previously thought - just 38 percent of the U.S. population - once taking into account common deferral criteria in addition to age. And only a fraction of those eligible - about 8 percent - actually donate blood.

"Demand for blood doesn't necessarily increase during the summer, but blood donations definitely decrease," says Dr. Ram Reddy, Interim CEO of the Midwest Region Blood Services. "It's not a usage issue we have, it's a donation issue. But the good news is that by working with generous blood donors and volunteer blood drive coordinators in our communities we can maintain stable blood supplies, curb blood shortages and 'meet the need' of every patient this summer."

Meet the need - give blood - To ensure stable blood supplies for area hospitals and patients, the American Red Cross developed a summer blood donation campaign focused on raising awareness of the challenging summer months for blood donation. The Red Cross hopes to engage new and current blood donors through frequent communication and special promotions that encourage them to give blood and Meet the Need for blood this summer.

"The need for blood doesn't take a summer vacation," added Reddy. "The need is constant and the blood supply must be replenished regularly."

The Red Cross began communicating with blood donors about summer challenges earlier this month and has planned regular updates to donors about the state of the blood supply and when they're eligible to donate.

Engaging youth through music saves lives - To engage youth blood donors during the summer months, the Red Cross is partnering with another non-profit called Music Saves Lives. The two organizations will offer presenting blood donors at participating blood drives a free backstage pass to the popular Vans Warped Tour music festival.

"Music fans won't have to wait in line for a chance at a back-stage pass if they're willing to help 'meet the need' and give blood with the American Red Cross," said Reddy. The Vans Warped Tour will take center stage at Verizon Wireless Amphitheater in Bonner Springs, Kan. on July 2. More information and a list of participating Music Saves Lives blood drives can be found online at givebloodgivelife.org.

Red Cross racing - Perhaps the most exciting component of the Red Cross summer blood donation campaign is the opportunity for racing fans. The American Red Cross teamed up with 3M and Roush Fenway Racing to launch Red Cross Racing, a campaign to raise awareness of the need to give blood among NASCAR fans and features Greg Biffle, driver of the No. 16 Roush Ford.

"I'm proud to be an American Red Cross blood donor," said Biffle. "I give blood because it's easy to do and helps support our community. I hope NASCAR fans across the country will join me this racing season in helping to save lives, one drive at a time."

Race fans can visit redcrossracing.com to sign up for a new donor rewards program and earn points to be exchanged for Red Cross Racing gear including caps, t-shirts, jackets and limited edition die-cast cars. Registrants will also be eligible to win an all-expense-paid trip for two to the Checker Auto Parts 500 at Phoenix International Speedway on November 9, 2008. The prize package includes airfare, hotel and two race tickets.

"The number one reason people don't give blood is because no one asked them," said Reddy. "Consider yourself asked! The stability of the blood supply is in the hands of volunteer blood donors. Every blood donation counts."

How to donate blood - To learn more about the Red Cross' Meet the Need campaign and to donate blood and platelets visit givebloodgivelife.org call 1-800-GIVE-LIFE (1-800-448-3543). All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license, or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Donors must be at least 17 years old, 16 years old with a signed parent/guardian consent form in Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Wisconsin, and Minnesota beginning July 1, 2008, and must weigh at least 110 pounds.

About the American Red Cross - Governed by volunteers and supported by giving individuals and communities, the American Red Cross is the single largest supplier of blood products to hospitals throughout the United States. While local hospital needs are always met first, the Red Cross also helps ensure no patient goes without blood no matter where or when they need it.

In addition to providing nearly half of the nation's blood supply, the Red Cross provides relief to victims of disaster, trains millions in lifesaving skills, serves as a communication link between U.S. military members and their families, and assists victims of international disasters or conflicts.

Attorney General Bruning says watch out for home deed scam

Attorney General Bruning wants to warn Nebraskans about a certified deed scam. The Lancaster County Register of Deeds Office received more than 20 requests for certified deeds on local homes from a company called National Deed Service in the last few months.

National Deed Service preys on vulnerable Nebraskans, often first-time homeowners, senior or non-English speaking households. The company contacts people by mail. The letter says homeowners should have a copy of a certified deed to document homeownership. If they don't, the company offers to provide one for $69.50. The price of a certified deed through the Register of Deeds office is usually less than $5. The Attorney General's Office has received several complaints.

"Beware of companies using public information for profit," says Bruning. "Deeds don't cost big bucks, and you're not required to have a certified copy."

Lancaster County Assessor/ Register of Deeds says, "When our office receives a deed request from National Deed Service, it's basically too late. The homeowner has already been scammed and purchased an overpriced copy of his or her deed. Educating people ahead of time is the key to prevention."

What is definition of 'school'?

By Ed Howard
Statehouse Correspondent
The Nebraska Press Association

Say what you mean, and mean what you say.

It is an admirable goal, and one that lawmakers need to accomplish more often. And not just Nebraska lawmakers. Other states and Congress provide a bucket of stories each year, some funny and some not, by passing laws which are confusing, contradictory or seemingly senseless.

"Words have meanings," the soon-to-be-former Sen. Ernie Chambers told his colleagues on too many occasions.

Nebraska attorneys general have told them the same thing in thousands of opinions over the years.

The latest example of the need for specificity came out of a court case in Lincoln.

The Legislature enacted a law in 1994 that made it a crime to take guns into schools, or onto school property.

So, what are "schools"? When the law was enacted, there wasn't any doubt in this corner that lawmakers were talking about primary and secondary schools, not colleges. It's hard to imagine that anyone who listened to the debate, or read the legislative record, would think differently.

Last September, however, two guys were charged with violating the law when they showed up for a meeting of the College Republicans at the University of Nebraska - Lincoln, carrying rifles. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the National Rifle Association.

Prosecutors in Lincoln, effectively arguing that 'schools is schools,' and a university is a school, charged the two fellows.

In tossing out the charges, Judge Gale Pokorny said he had read the legislative record (it's good to know someone did) and concluded colleges and universities were not included.

In fairness, or at least in acknowledgment of reality, a different judge might have ruled differently. After all, institutions of higher learning are "schools," and if one goes solely by the definition of that word, ignoring the record of legislative debate, one could go that route.

The all-too-often-ignored point is that ambiguous legislation is too often a pain in the public's backside.

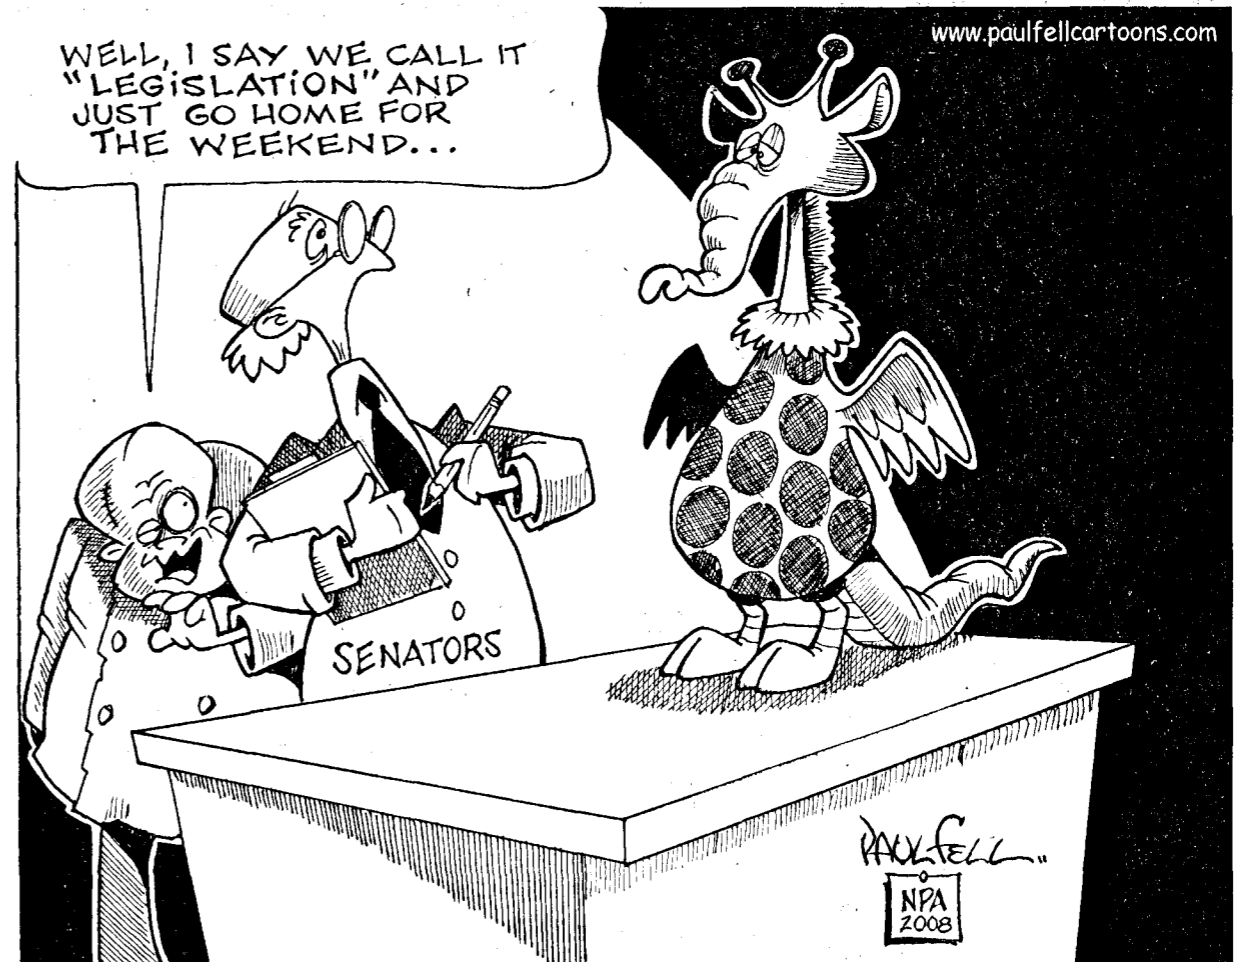

Something to consider: The Nebraska Supreme Court long ago ruled that, in interpreting legislative intent, the words within statutes will be given their plain meaning.

In the if, if, if category: If Pokorny's decision were to find its way to the Supreme Court, and if a high court majority were to decide that the legislative record wasn't sufficient to resolve the argument, and if the high court were to conclude the plain meaning of "schools" includes colleges and universities ... well, there you have it.

Some critics would charge that "activist judges" were legislating from the bench.

Others would note there would be no issue to argue if legislating from the Legislature was unambiguous.

Let's end fireworks injuries for good

As the July 4th holiday approaches, there is both good news and bad news about injuries from fireworks. The good news: These injuries dropped by 15 percent between 2005 and 2006. The bad news: There were still 9,200 people treated for fireworks-related injuries in emergency departments in 2006.

The American College of Emergency Physicians (ACEP) and the Alliance to Stop Consumer Fireworks is sending this safety message to July 4th revelers: Let's reduce that number to zero in 2008!

"We are pleased the rate of injuries from fireworks has dropped, but 9,200 people injured is still 9,200 too many," said

Dr. Linda Lawrence, president of the American College of Emergency Physicians. "Nearly half of the injuries were to the head, and one-third of the injured were for children under age 15. Emergency physicians can and do perform miracles every day, but there are some injuries we cannot undo. We can never replace a hand or an eye or a life."

Here are some facts and figures from 2006. Sixty percent of fireworks injuries occur in the month surrounding July 4th. Ninety percent of fireworks injuries treated in the emergency department come from consumer fireworks. Sparklers alone, which may burn at temperatures higher than 1,200 degrees Fahrenheit, were responsible for more than 20 percent of fireworks injuries. More than half of fireworks injuries were burns. Males accounted for three-quarters of all fireworks injuries.

"A drop of 15 percent in just one year is great progress, but it would be even better if we eliminated fireworks injuries completely," said Dr. Lawrence. "We encourage all Americans to celebrate July 4th safely and responsibly by attending only professional fireworks displays."

ACEP is a national medical specialty society representing emergency medicine with more than 26,000 members. ACEP is committed to advancing emergency care through continuing education, research and public education. Headquartered in Dallas, Texas, ACEP has 53 chapters representing each state, as well as Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia. A Government Services Chapter represents emergency physicians employed by military branches and other government agencies.

Vacations possible on a budget

The good news is that vacation season is in full swing! The bad news is that gas prices and food prices continue to soar. With your family needs for transportation and food taking up more of your family's budget, a vacation might seem out of the question for some families. But it doesn't have to be. Well, yes, my mother always thought we could just set up the kitchen chairs out in the back yard in two rows ...front seat, back seat. We could all take turns asking "How much further", or "Are we there yet?", "I need to use the bathroom!" or "He/She touched me!" But there are ways to make a vacation a great family time without being a great burden on the family budget. Travel, lodging and meals are three major expenses on any vacation, and many options are available to help trim these costs. Travel costs can be reduced by searching online for last minute deals available for Amtrak and air fares. Another alternative is just to drive and visit all the wonderful local places in Nebraska. Our state parks are great places to spend time, participate in activities from fishing, horseback riding, archery, kayaking, to workshops in outdoor cooking or even crafts made from nature's treasures. Check with Nebraska's Division of Travel and Tourism for specific suggestions and locations. Motels may be over-priced or over-booked, but check to see when they have openings so you can bargain for better rates or for more services. Some hotels and motels offer free meals for children, fuel cards and discounts on admission for local vacation venues. If these attractions are already on the agenda then the incentive programs can add up to real savings. Motels can be avoided by entirely by adventurous families who don't mind camping. Camping is a great way to get children outdoors and interested in nature. Activities like hiking, canoeing and swimming are enjoyable, low-cost activities that add variety to the camping experience. First-time campers, who don't already own the supplies, should look at borrowing or renting equipment to defray the cost. Even when camping is not on the agenda, packing an ice chest with cool drinks and snacks to help keep the vacation budget to a minimum. Beverages and snacks purchased while on the road are often much more expensive than those bought in local grocery stores. You might even plan to picnic at least one meal a day to save on costs since meals are perhaps the easiest place to save money when planning is done ahead of time. Picnicking is a fun and affordable way to spend quality time with loved ones while enjoying the outdoors. When you are eating at a restaurant, though, another easy way to save a few dollars is to forego commercial beverages. Ice water is free at most eating establishments, whereas soft drinks usually cost four to five times the amount they can be purchased elsewhere. An alternative to the typical vacation is the vacation spent volunteering. With many tragedies in our part of the country the past month, many families are choosing to spend their vacation helping others. They find that they make new friends, learn new skills, and come to appreciate their own homes and families even more because of their experiences. Whatever you decide, try to take advantage of summer to spend some "quality time" with your family. Whether the setting is your own backyard, at a lake or park, or at a volunteer work site, you will benefit in many ways. As always, contact your local UNL Extension Office for more information about these topics or others relating to the home, family, farm, business or community. UNL Extension helps you to "Know How and Know Now."

Jane Armstrong

Week full of emotion Livestock Market Report

It's been another week of emotion, full of sadness and concern. I was downtown when the storm began Wednesday evening, and had a difficult time driving home because of the hard-driving rain. Plus, the radio was warning that we would not be able to spot a tornado in that rain.

By ten o'clock, we had heard that some boy scouts had been killed by a tornado in an outdoor camp north of Omaha. The next day, Ann Curry was in Iowa, interviewing survivors of that tragedy. As I read of the expectations for scouting, I thought of the article I had read the week before about a young man from Falls City, Nebraska, who had graduated from West Point: duty, honor, country. I began to think that every young American should be exposed to scouting.

Then, my Mom called to say that Tim Russert had died. At work, at age 58! How could this be? Tim was full of life, as we like to say. On Sunday morning, Tom Brokaw moderated a panel of fellow journalists on the Meet the Press set. We saw clips of almost every presidential candidate from the last two decades telling him they did not intend to run! He almost had a smile on his face, even when asking tough questions.

Today, there is an editorial by a woman who chairs the Journalism Department at Creighton University. She points out the recent loss of Jim McKay, whom we all knew from the Wide World of Sports. But he also is the one who called that hockey game with Russia a "miracle on ice."

She says she sees a "haunting similarity in the way McKay and Russert practiced journalism. Both modeled the primary values of Jesuit education: respect for the dignity of all people because God made them, intellectual rigor and a search for the truth, a desire to change the world for good, interest in accountability and a devotion to justice.

I became very aware of these values when Sue attended Creighton; I see them still encouraged in the alumni magazine she receives. And I thought that maybe we should all strive to send our kids to a Jesuit university.

But really, aren't these the very things we all hope to model for our children? I guess I don't sit down and write these things out as a family vision statement. I consider them all to be American values, and I still cling to the optimistic belief that most families are doing their best to instill them.

Since the news still typically consists of the bad stuff, we forget all the good things going on. I think it's why we enjoy the College World Series so much; it's a bunch of young men playing our great American sport.

And then, also in today's paper, I read of an 85 pound Labrador retriever who jumped into the Platte river at North Bend to save a 125 pound young man who had not realized how swollen the river was from the recent rains. And I cried tears of relief and joy. And thought again of the black Lab we had on the farm, and of Socks, another lab who belonged to our daughter, Sue. Maybe they know more about duty and honor than we do sometimes! Jake's family described him as "squirrely" most of the time, and that is exactly what our dogs were. But he certainly came through at a crucial time. I hope we all would do the same.

Let's remember the flood victims; I can't imagine what it must be like to see your home covered in mud. And the crops that have been washed out; the businesses that have been destroyed. And let's pray for moderate weather. Amen!

What would the flooding be if not for dams, conservation practices?

"Silent Guardians" are what we call the hundreds of dams, farm ponds, terraces and no-till farming systems Nebraska farmers and ranchers continue to apply to the land," said Steve Chick, State Conservationist for the Natural Resources Conservation Service.

"They're silent because they are quietly doing their job of slowing runoff water, holding back large volumes of excess water for a time, and reducing high flow pressures on rivers and streams. Without them, the situation would be much worse," he said.

Frequent and high volume rains over large parts of the state, from McCook, to Norfolk, to Beatrice, are saturating the soils, filling many dams and ponds, and yet causing flooding. The 900-plus flood reduction structures built in Nebraska since the 1950's, hundreds of terrace systems, farmers planting their crops no-till are all working to slow runoff water.

For example, watershed dams from rains on June 4 and 5 in southwest Saline County reduced damages by $1.15 million had these structures not been in place. The "Guardians" were ready, said Chick.

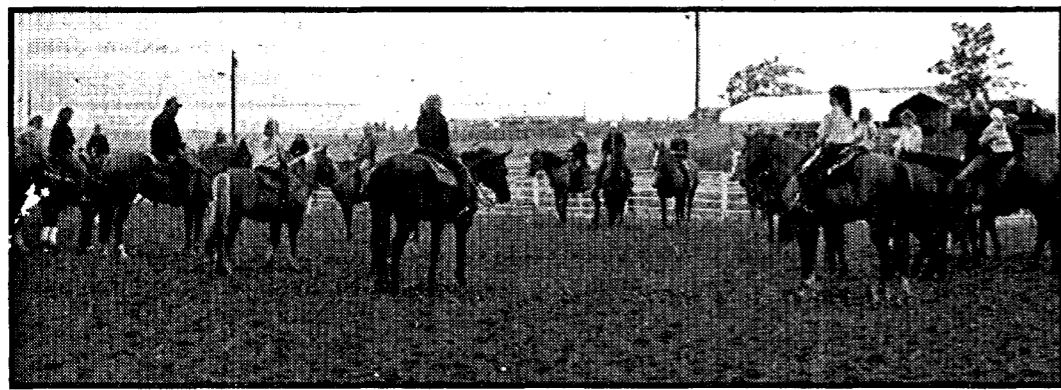

Over the last five years, the Natural Resources Conservation Service has provided Nebraska farmers and ranchers with about $25 million per year to install more of these practices. "That $25 million is more than matched by the individual landowner to protect their land," said Chick. That is quite an investment to combat the unpredictable ravages of nature, he added.

"As for storm damages, many of our offices are coordinating with county commissioners and others to determine if the Emergency Watershed Program through NRCS can help with some storm repairs for bridges, roads or other impacts of storms," he said.

"With all the rains, tornados, and hail striking the state, people need to recognize the good with "silent guardians" on the landscape working to protect them. Not long ago we were concerned about drought, which still exists in parts of western Nebraska. Nature and its impact are pretty unpredictable. We will continue to work with Nebraska landowners to be able to deal with the weather extremes," said Chick. With the volunteer soil stewardship spirit of Nebraska farmers and ranchers, we will continue applying conservation to the land, he added.

Current Farm Bill programs like the Environmental Quality Incentives Program, Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program, and Wetland Reserve Program all have a continuous sign-up meaning landowners can request financial and technical assistance at any time. Interested landowners should contact NRCS in any USDA Service Center.

Summer learning

Wayne County 4-H'ers were able to take part in several workshops in recent days. These workshops provide the opportunity to gain skills in a number of different areas. The Horse Workshop was held June 4 at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. Gary Stauffer, Extension Educator from Holt County was the clinician with 21 participants. 4-Hers learned horsemanship and showmanship skills.

The Marbling Workshop was held June 5 at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. Seven 4-Hers participated to make various fabric and cork board swatches which they can use to make into a home environment exhibit. The fabric pieces can be framed or made into pillow or quilt blocks. The marbling was done in a special gel with paint being dropped into the gel.

The Wildlife Conservation Workshop was held June 6 at the Wayne County Fairgrounds. Eight 4-Hers participated to make a bluebird birdhouse. 4-Hers also learned about making various mammal, reptile or fish boards for display at the fair. LeNell Quinn presented on the Wildlife Conservation projects which her family has participated in and Todd Greunke helped assemble the birdhouses.

Aaron Mangels recognized

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Aaron Mangels of Winside has been recognized by the United States Achievement Academy as a student of excellence in Mathematics.

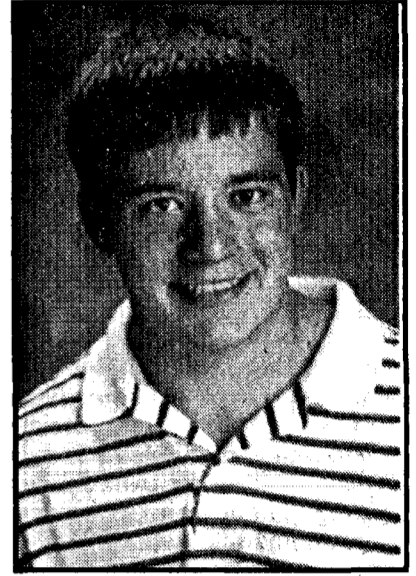

This is an honor very few students can hope to attain. The Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students.

Aaron, who will be a senior at Winside Public School, was nominated for this honor by Rachelle Rogers-Spann, a teacher at the school. His name will appear in the United States Achievement Academy's Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

Aaron has also been named an All-American Scholar. His nomination for this award came from Mark Koch at the high school.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy students should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Founder of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy recognizes students upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards for Selection set forth by the Academy. The Standards for Selection include academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a qualified sponsor.

Aaron Mangels is the son of John and Karen Mangels of Winside.

An auction was held at the Allen Firehall on Saturday, June 14. The donated items were auctioned off with the money raised going to towards the Expansion Fund of the Allen Gym. The event raised around $3,000.

Educators attend Career Education conference

Annette Rasmussen, Business, and Karen Schardt, Family and Consumer Sciences, teachers at Wayne Community Schools, attended the Nebraska Career Education Conference in Kearney June 9-11.

All expenses for their attendance were provided through Carl Perkins grant funding.

On Monday, Mrs. Rasmussen attended the all-day Entrepreneurship workshop while Mrs. Schardt participated in the Culinary Arts instruction and lab experiences.

The conference gave the teachers knowledge in the latest technology updates, along with motivational sessions and content area workshops.

The Nebraska Department of Education sponsors this annual conference in partnership with several groups, including Association for Career and Technical Education of Nebraska.

NECC in South Sioux plans another Elmer Miller workshop

Leadership development consultant, seminar leader, and speaker Elmer Miller returns to the Northeast Community College Education Center in South Sioux City to present a workshop on Planning for Action.

The workshop, with course number BUS 0106-01S/08F, meets Wednesday, July 2, from 1:30-4:30 p.m. in Room 113 of the Education Center located at 3309 Daniels Lane in the Westside Business Park.

Miller will explain to participants that goal setting is a science that focuses the creativity of the mind towards specific targets or results. He will also say that study after study proves that goal setting is one of the greatest success secrets of all time.

This seminar will focus on how to achieve specific and realistic goals, make a plan, find support, and put the goal to action. Miller will also teach participants how to review and follow-up on a regular basis.

Cost of the workshop is $49. To register, call (402)241-6400.

WINSIDE AUXILIARY

Roy Reed Unit 252, American Legion Auxiliary met on June 9 with eight senior and two junior members attending. President Rose Ann Janke called the meeting to order and Chaplain Adeline Anderson provided prayer. The members recited the Pledge of Allegiance and Preamble to the Auxiliary Constitution. Treasurer Greta Grubbs provided the financial report. It will be placed on record. Minutes of the May meeting were read by Beverly Neel and accepted.

Delegate and Alternate cards were received from Department for the upcoming convention in Kearney scheduled for June 26-29. Delegates representing Unit 252 include Rose Ann Janke, Beverly Neel, Bonnie Wylie, Laura Neel and Adeline Anderson. Alternates are Evelyn Herbolsheimer, Greta Grubbs, Dorothy Wert, Marilyn Morse and Mary Lou George.

The Unit received a thank you card from Chelsia Milenkovich, the Unit's Cornhusker Girls State Citizen for 2008. They will have Chelsia give her report soon.

The 2008 Poppy Poster Contest was successful again this year with the fifth grade students at Winside Public School participating. Winners of the contest were all the students but first place went to Calli Jorgensen ($3), second place to Brianna Lemke-Elznic ($2), and third to Mackenzie Gray ($1). Each additional student received 50 cents. All of the posters were displayed at the Legion Post for the Memorial Day Dinner.

Members assisting with Poppy Day 2008 in Winside were Greta Grubbs, Nancy Bottelsson and Pat Miller. Members that went to Hoskins were Adeline Anderson and Evelyn Herbolsheimer. Greta and Nancy also presented a poppy to everyone attending the Memorial Day program at the Winside Auditorium on Memorial Day. They received generous donations of $257.00, which will be shared with the Department of Nebraska to purchase additional poppy supplies and pay Veterans for making them as well as the Norfolk Veterans Home for a donation to the District III President's Project. They appreciate the support they receive from these relatively small communities. It speaks volumes on how everyone loves the Veterans.

Elections were held for the positions of Unit Vice President and Unit Secretary. Filling those positions will be Laura Neel and Beverly Neel, respectively. Continuing on as Unit President is Rose Ann Janke, Treasurer/ Membership will be Greta Grubbs, Chaplain is Adeline Anderson and Beverly Neel will serve as Historian. A special note of appreciation to Marilyn Morse and Kathy Jensen for their years as Vice President and Secretary, respectively. Hostesses for the evening were Adeline Anderson and Rose Ann Janke.

The next meeting will be on Monday, July 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the Legion Post with Bonnie Frevert and Pat Miller as hostesses.

The 2009 Membership campaign will begin July 1. They encourage any female relative of a Veteran to come visit and join the group. They may be a small group but they get involved in as many projects and events as they are able. They are always seeking new ideas and talents. Give them a chance and stop in and visit.
