WSC president comments on possible budget cuts on campus

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

As economic conditions continue to worsen, Wayne State College received a letter recently from Chancellor Stan Carpenter with the State College Board in Lincoln regarding budget cuts during the next biennium. The cuts could include academic program elimination and a review of any vacant positions. The letter was sent to all three members of the Nebraska College System (NSCS): Wayne, Peru and Chadron.

In the letter, Chancellor Carpenter, stated there are tough economic times ahead. WSC President Dr. Richard Collings held a meeting on campus last Wednesday with faculty and staff to discuss the recent financial issues and what the budget reductions could mean for Wayne State.

He noted they will be putting together a committee of faculty members and union representatives to look at the viability of WSC programs. Ron Whitt, president of the faculty senate, will recommend names for the committee.

Dr. Collings has been president at WSC since 2004. He noted Wayne State suffered some pretty serious cuts in 2002-03. No programs were lost at that time though.

"We are looking at what could happen," said Dr. Collings. "The Nebraska Economic Forecasting Board predicts revenue collections slowing down, which has us concerned that we won't have the budget we need to maintain. We're not sure yet but are taking precautions. We plan to save what we can now on our operating budget so we won't be filling vacancies until we have a better idea what the budget will

Dr. Collings continued that the economy

70 years. He added that Nebraska hasn't been hit as hard as some states. In fact at this point, Nebraska has a surplus in their treasury but that could go fairly quickly in an economic downturn. A couple of states in trouble include Georgia with a $2 billion deficit and California, $14 billion.

Dr. Collings noted that they are trying to cut spending to save funds for later in case state revenue is short. Fifty-five percent of the budget at WSC comes from the state.

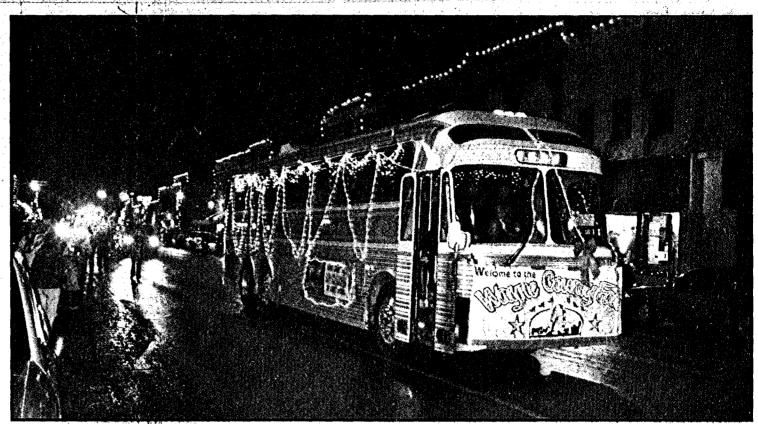

As for revenue from tuition,"We don't want a huge tuition increase to the students as that hurts their chance for a higher education," Dr. Collings said. "We've had modest increases in the last few years and want to continue that if possible."

Thinking about the economy in Nebraska, "We've been lucky so far," Dr. Collings said. "Budget cuts are happening across the country but with agriculture still thriving, we are doing pretty well here but the economy overall can't be ignored."

He added that projections show there will be more demand on the government as people lose their jobs and use more government programs. He noted that it's disheartening to see so many federal dollars go into the economy in the last six months and not see any noticeable impact.

"We will do our best to manage the college in what could be tough economic times," Dr. Collings said. "It is important to balance academic and support programs. Education is vital to the growth of the state. The majority of our students are from Nebraska and we would like to keep them in the state."

Dr. Collings ended by saying they are hoping for the best but planning for the worst. In a year from now, he would like to look back and say he was wrong about the economy and that everything was alright.

City of Lights

The weather cooperated for the annual Parade of Lights in Wayne on Thursday. A number of organizations and businesses took time to create lighted entries for the parade. Above, the Wayne County Agricultural Society used the Northeast Nebraska Lightning's bus for their entry. Below, a group of locals served as 'reindeer' and pulled Santa's sleigh.

After nearly four decades, Fuelberth gives up council seat

By Clara Osten Of the Herald

"We've had lots of good city council members, city employees and good city councils," said Darrell Fuelberth who recently completed 38 years as a member of the Wayne City Council.

In 1970 Fuelberth, who is a native of Wayne and remembers a population of approximately 2,700 residents, was approached by Al Wittig to run for the Second Ward council seat.

"In that election I was challenged by Gene Fletcher. I have been challenged several other times since then but have also run un-opposed in a number of elections,"

In 1970 the city of Wayne's population was under 5,000 and according to the State of Nebraska, Wayne was considered a City of the Second Class. At that time there were three voting wards in the city, with two representatives in each for a total of six council positions.

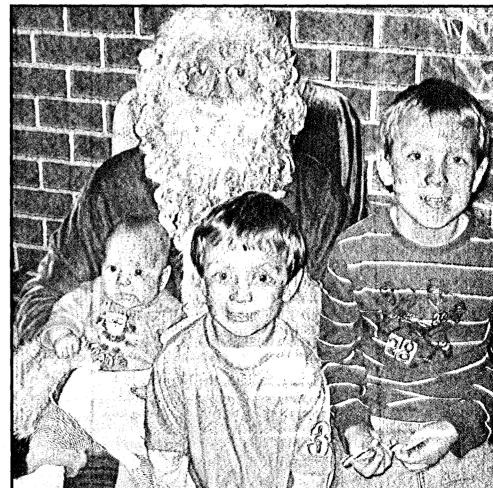

"At that time Dan Sherry was the City Clerk and we had no administrator. The city council and mayor managed the city. Committees of two people from the council were formed to administer over Public Works, Water and Sewer and the Electric and Distribution system," Fuelberth said. He noted that this system worked "because we have always had good, loyal employ-

The City Clerk's office was in the Wayne City Auditorium and the council meetings were in the North Meeting Room of the Auditorium. Fuelberth said that the city ran the hospital (the former Benthack Hospital), which was located just north across the street from the auditorium, until Providence Medical Center was established. At that time, the city moved its offices in to the hospital building. That building has undergone renovation since that time and currently serves as both the city offices and the location of council

The five young rock bands from northeast Nebraska that were involved in the competition each had 25 minutes to perform. The requirements stated that the majority of band members must be 21 years old or younger and at least two of their songs had to be original compositions by the band.

The musicians performed to a crowd of almost 200 parents, family, fans and friends.

Three judges from Norfolk based their critiques on stage presence, vocals, song writing and musician-

Calendar sales among topics discussed at recent Q-125 Committee meeting

The Wayne Community Q-125 Committee met Monday evening in a weather related make-up meeting at the Coffee Shoppe in downtown Wayne. Lauran Lofgren gave an updated report on calendar sales and she reported that sales are nearing a break even point. Members discussed ways to improve sales.

Lois Shelton reported on plans for the Feb. 2 birthday party kickoff to the year. A coordinated promotional effort will be made using public service announcements, advertising and posters in an effort to get 125 eight by eight inch cakes for the celebration's giant cake. Shelton gave a detailed report on the program for the evening and said that her subcommittee will be looking for suggestions for dignitaries to light the candles on the cake. Book matches were distributed with the Q-125 logo to illustrate how the candles will be lit and the souvenir book matches will be sold for $1 to interested people

Nancy Jo Powers reported on the Garden Walk to be held June 12 from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Four gardens have been volunteered by Dave Headley, Julie Nelson, Bonnie Fluent and Linda Anderson. The Wayne Greenhouse and Plant Market are sponsoring this activity and are providing a gift certificate to each of the gardens to help them in preparation for the event. Tickets for the event will cost $5 and the final logistics are being worked on and should be completed in the near future.

The Beard Contest was discussed which is being sponsored by the Masonic Lodge. The committee reviewed the badges and membership cards and made some suggestions that will be taken back to the Chairman sponsor. Kochenash had examples of various souvenirs that were used by the Hartington Q-125 Committee and he discussed the sales and recommendations that the Hartington Committee made to him. The committee then approved the purchase bration, his sources and possible help and to serve the community. suppliers. He was advised to get several more bids and to see if he could negotiate lower minimum purchases and terms. Kochenash was also given permission to purchase Q-125 stationery and envelopes.

In reporting on some of the activities for the Aug.7-9 weekend, Pat Cook recommended the group of Majestic Sound for the Saturday night Teen Dance and the reasons for her recommendation based on her research. The committee accepted the recommendation and asked Kochenash to complete the contract and advance the deposit to the group. A concern of the group was to have a back up location for the dance in case of rain. Plans will need to be developed for this. Cook also reported on progress for the Quilt Show for that weekend and final plans for that are pending because of a question on whether it will be both Friday and Saturday or just Saturday. A scheduling conflict at the Community Activity Center may restrict the Quilt display to just Saturday. Cook also reported that since she will be on a two month trip, Lynn Sievers of the Wayne Herald will be working on the "Old Time Pictures" project.

In closing, Kochenash advised the committee that he has been working with Donovan Roy, director of the WSC Multi-Cultural Center on various programs for Black History Month and for Hispanic and Native American Months. Kochenash asked the group and also invites the community to help the college celebrate Martin Luther King Day Jan. 19 at the Frye Conference Room on campus. The evening starts at 6 p.m. with a buffet dinner at a cost of $11 per person. Joe Smith, a WSC grad, will be the keynote speaker and a musical group known as Boss Philly will entertain. During February, the Multi-Cultural Center will be showing movies on the Civil Rights Movement. A schedule will be available at a future date.

Peterson contacted several relatives and each was able to provide one picture of family members or a family event that was familiar to

The photo album was then used by Hospice workers each time they visited Jackie and gave them something to communicate with her

In Peterson's case, her family and Hospice workers used the photo album for more than two years before Jackie died in August of this

"The Hospice workers told us

they really liked the album and said it made it easier to find something to talk about with Jackie,' Peterson said.

After Jackie's death, the family donated the album to Hospice of Siouxland, who had cared for her and used memorial money to purchase additional albums to be used by other Alzheimer's patients.

"The album allows anyone visiting something to communicate with the patient about and helps the patient recognize things that were an important part of their life," Peterson said. "In our case, it was family, but it could be anything, like a childhood home, or a pet."

She added that the album is "a nice gift and made such a difference in Jackie's case. It provided pleasant memories for her." Creative Memories has been supportive of the Alzheimer's Association for a number of years. Peterson has been a sales representative for the company for several years.

Radio tower damage discussed at recent commissioner meeting

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

Wayne County Board of Commissioners met in regular session Tuesday. They were joined by Sheriff LeRoy Janssen and Wayne County Emergency Manager Deanna Beckman (via telephone) to discuss possible repairs to the radio tower near Carroll. Janssen informed the board it could cost mously. up to $5,450 to fix the tower. At this point, he isn't sure if damages will affect communication but wondered where the amount needed for repair would come from.

Both Janssen and Beckman informed the board an expense account for radio repairs is needed. It was noted the fire department uses the same tower too for their communication so wondered if costs should be shared. It was noted that if the damage is not due to normal wear and tear they should check with insurance to see what type of coverage is on the tower. The sheriff noted the state will be placing five boxes for communication in 14 counties in Nebraska.

Each box is worth $60,000 and after five years, the counties will have responsibility towards upkeep of those boxes. Commissioner Kelvin Wurdeman said he thinks an interlocal agreement is needed with the counties for upkeep of the boxes. Beckman noted meetings will be coming to decide on that upkeep. As for the repairs to the radio tower, the sheriff wondered if it would be cheaper in the long run to pay for the amount themselves instead of turning it into insurance. He noted that more than anything, he wanted to bring attention to the fact that a radio expense account is from Wayne. In the mid-1970's the population of Wayne reached 5,000 and the city was then considered a First Class City. A fourth ward was created and two new council positions added. It was also at this time that the city began looking at hiring a city administrator.

"When we became a First Class City, it was determined that the mayor and council needed help in running the city and attracting industry. We therefore changed and hired for first City Administrator, Fred Brink," Fuelberth said.

Fuelberth has worked with five city administrators - Fred Brink, Darrel Bruington, Phil Kloster, Joe Salitros and Lowell Johnson and six mayors - Kent Hall, Free Decker, Wayne Marsh, Bob Carhart, Sheryl Lindau and Lois Shelton.

The first women on Wayne's city council were Carolyn Filter and Jane O'Leary. Sheryl Lindau was the first woman to serve as mayor.

Fuelberth said that the reason he did not run for another term on the council was that for the past several winters, he and his wife, Nancy, have traveled to Arizona and he was unable to be present for a number of council meetings.

Darrel and Nancy's family also includes two sons, Dean, who lives in Lincoln, and Brett, who lives in Spirit Lake, Iowa and five grandchildren.

The 2008 Winside High School One Act play was entitled "A Buffalo in Sheep's Clothing" and won the Class D1 championship.

After 25 years, Winside captures One-Act state championship

The last time the Winside One-Act team won a state championship was in January of 1983.

That feat was repeated last week in Kearney when this year's production of "A Buffalo in Sheep's Clothing" won the Class D1 One Act title.

An interesting aspect of the two championships is that in 1983 Karlene (Benshoof) Woslager was one of the actresses in the production. This year, her daughter, Jaycie, was a member of the awarding winning production.

"The play that we performed in 1983 was called 'Waiting for the Bus.' It was the first time in Winside School history that a One-Act Play had won Conference and Districts. We went on to capture the Class D State One-Act Title," Karlene said.

Cast members included Karlene as Edith, Mark Schwedhelm as Andrew and Trisha Topp as Cynthia. The Director was Zoe VanderWeil.

"The funny thing was 25 years ago we had only three cast members and three props — a mailbox, a park bench and a baby buggy. Now, productions have several props, flats, scenery, etc. and includes several cast and crew members," Karlene said. Mark and Karlene received Best Actor/Best Actress awards at Conference and Districts. Karlene also was nominated for Best Actress at the State Contest. Zoe VanderWeil also received Best Director at the State Contest held in Kearney.

Warriors ambushed 54-41 by sixth-ranked Blue Devils

By Casey Schroeder

The sixth-ranked (Omaha World-Herald) Wayne girl's basketball team is off to a perfect 2-0 start after they chalked up 54-41 win over the Schuyler Warriors on Friday night in Wayne.

"We made a step forward with this game," said Wayne head coach Nate Wall.

In the Blue Devils' home-opener Wayne took a 11-4 lead over the visiting Warriors with 3:26 remaining in the first quarter as an Alesha Finkey steal found its way into the hands of a wide open Riley Hoffart.

Following Hoffart's score, Schuyler nipped at the Blue Devils' heels throughout the remainder of the quarter as the Warriors cut Wayne's lead to just three points at 13-10 going into the second quar-

Blue Devil boys sneak past Logan View 62-50; fall to Lakeview 46-30

By Casey Schroeder

After falling to Battle Creek 47-34 one week ago, the Wayne boy's basketball team notched up their first win of the season on Friday night as they defeated Logan View 62-50.

In Wayne's second contest of the year, the Blue Devils jumped out to an early 15-10 lead in the first quarter, but then watched as Logan View rallied back to take a seven point lead into halftime at

"We got off to a good start in the first quarter. In the second quarter we started to rush and not work the ball against their zone," said Wayne head coach Rocky Ruhl. "Our defense didn't communicate which caused a major breakdown."

While the Blue Devils relinquished their lead to the Raiders in the first half, Wayne regained what was rightfully theirs after halftime as they took a five point, 45-42 lead into the fourth quarter.

With only two possessions separating the two teams, Wayne went to work early on in the fourth quarter where they eventually put any hope of Raider comeback to rest as they outscored Logan View 17-8 while enroute to the 62-50 win.

"We regrouped at half and changed our defense which allowed us to come up with some turnovers and easier points," Ruhl said.

"We still need to work on our turnover situation where we had 21. We made our free throws down the stretch. We shot 10 of 11 from the line which was great."

Guiding the Blue Devils to the win were Jacob Zeiss and Justin Anderson who both finished with 15 points.

Additional scorers for Wayne included Jacob Triggs with 13 points while Ryan Pieper added eight and was followed by Dexter Brown with seven.

Following the win of Logan View, the Blue Devils returned home where they lost to undefeated Columbus Lakeview 46-30 on Saturday.

In the Blue Devils first home game of the season, Wayne took an early 7-4 lead over the Vikings and then went on to add another eight points in the second quarter to take an eight point 15-7 advantage into halftime.

"The story this season is playing a good half of basketball. In each of the first three games we have played a good half," Ruhl said.

"Holding them to seven in the first half and controlling the tempo of the game was a great accomplishment for us."

However, following the intermission break Wayne returned to old ways as they gave up 19 points to the Vikings which gave Lakeview a 26-20 lead going into the final quarter.

After giving up 19 points to Lakeview in the third quarter. Wayne continued to struggle defensively as they afforded the Vikings another 20 points and the 46-30

"In the second half we didn't play so well. It came down to us needing to answer Lakeview's run and we never got started," Ruhl said.

"We learned that we have to be able to match the intensity of our opponents and be willing to shoot shots when we are open.

Triggs led the Blue Devil effort in the loss with 12 points and was followed by Derek Poutre with eight.

Other scorers who contributed to Wayne's running total included Anderson with four points and Pieper at three.

Eagles come up short in 47-45 buzzer beater with Knights

By Casey Schroeder

After nearly upsetting the sixthranked Coleridge Bulldogs in their season-opener, Allen returned to action last Thursday night in Homer where they dropped a 47-45 decision to the Knights.

"I was very proud of these young men and the determination they showed in not giving up," said Allen head coach Dan Loofe.

"This was a hard loss to swallow after working so hard during the game and in being so close to either wining or at least to be in an overtime situation with the possibility of winning."

In the Eagles' second outing of the season, Allen jumped out to a 16-8 lead over the Knights before settling at 17-13 going into the second quarter.

With only three points separating the two teams, Allen relinquished the lead to Homer midway through the second quarter as the Knights scored 15 points to take a 28-23 lead into halftime.

Following the intermission break, Allen got as close as four points at 30-26, but the Eagles failed to get any closer as Homer led by as many as eight points before closing out the quarter with a five point lead at 40-45.

Down by five and with only one quarter to play, Allen struck first in the fourth period to cut the Knights' lead to just two points at 40-38 following a three pointer by Nick Schneider.

After Schneider's three pointer, a costly Homer foul put the Eagles into contention to tie the game at 40-40 with just under 6:25 remaining in the game.

But, Allen fell short of accomplishing the feat as Zach Mitchell hit only 1 of 2 free throws to bring the Eagles within one point at 40-

With only four minutes remaining in the game, Homer used a 5-0 scoring run to take control of a 45-39 lead over the Eagles.

However, Homer's lead was short lived as Allen used the final minute of the fourth quarter to go on a five point scoring run where they tied the Knights at 45-45, following a successful rebound for score by Schneider off of a missed A.J. Williams free throw.

With the game tied at 45-45 and with just eight seconds remaining on the clock, Homer worked the length of the court where they set up for a game winning shot, only to be denied by Allen's Cody Stewart.

Stewart, however, was called for the foul sending Homer to the line where they hit both free throws to record the 47-45 win over Allen.

Allen closed out the night hitting 34.0 percent from the field while also going 50 percent from the free throw line.

Homer was 36.0 percent from the field and made just 44 percent of their shots from the charity stripe.

Allen held a 38-24 rebounding advantage over the Knights while Homer gave up just 13 turnovers compared to the Eagles 15.

After going 2-0 on the road last week, the Wayne State College women's basketball team returned home where they were defeated by Augustana College 65-54 on Saturday night.

With the win over the Wildcats, Augustana improved to 5-3 overall and 1-2 in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference while WSC dropped to 4-5 overall and 2-1 in league play.

In the first half WSC took an early 8-2 lead over the Vikings, but then watched as Augustana rallied back with 11 straight puts to take a 13-8 lead.

"We just make too many mistakes on both ends of the floor.We have to become a more consistent basketball team," said WSC women's coach Chris Kielsmeier.

"We did not play well. We have to get better and our entire program needs to step it up."

Augustana led by as many as 14 points throughout the rest of half before they took a 37-33 lead into the halftime break.

Following the intermission break, WSC reclaimed the lead and matched their largest of the game of six at 46-40 with just over 13 minutes remaining in the game.

However, Augustana again responded, this time with a 10-0 run to take a 50-46 lead with just over 10 minutes to play.

With time working against the Wildcats, WSC took their final lead of the game at 52-50 with just over eight minutes remaining.

But as the case was all night, Augustana rallied back scoring the next 13 points to take control of the the Wildcats would get no closer than nine points as Augustana went on to secure the 65-54 win.

WSC hit 20 of 55 shots in the game for 36.4 percent while also going 4 of 17 from beyond the arch and 10 of 13 from the charity

"Our offense has to get more consistent. We go through stretches where we just don't execute very well and can't get good shots," Kielsmeier said.

"Other times we are just missing easy shots that our players should make. Defensively we are just making mistakes that have to be fixed fast."

"Augustana hit 26 of 74 shots in the game for 35.1 percent while also completing 10 of 29 attempts from the three point line and 3 of 7 from the free throw line.

The Vikings held a 46-42 rebounding advantage in the cost while WSC finished with 16 turnovers to just 12 for Augustana. Clare Duwelius scored a careerhigh 20 points and hit four three pointers to lead WSC offensively.

Laquisha Cook and Jodie Boss each had eight points and eight rebounds.

Amy Puthoff had 14 points to lead a balanced Augustana attack and was followed by Dani Arens with 13 points.

WSC will return to action on Saturday, Dec. 20 when they host York College at 1 p.m.

The Laurel-Concord boy's basketball team suffered their second consecutive loss of the season on Saturday night as the Bears were defeated by the visiting Randolph Cardinals 43-33.

The Winside varsity wrestling squad scored 98 points to finish in fifth place behind tournament champions North Bend Central (180 points) and runner-up Wisner-Pilger (147.4 points) at Saturday's North Bend Invitational.

"I think they lost focus in getting prepared for their matches ahead of time and during the matches in some cases. The positive side of this is that it is early in the season and hopefully we will be able to take care of this before the season gets too far along."

Sage Schwedhelm (189) finished in third place while Cody Wylie (160) and Justin Buresh (189) earned fourth place medals to lead the Wildcat junior varsity effort.

Also competing for the Wildcats' junior varsity team was Brady Wurdemann who wrestled in the 103 pound weight class, but failed to place.

From 'dusk to Don' - legendary coach Meyer prepares to make history after fighting for life

By Skylar Osovski Assistant sports editor

Wayne Stater There's more to life than winning and losing. Some may consider that a cliché, but to Don Meyer, head basketball coach at Northern State University in Aberdeen, S.D., winning has never been more important in his life than it has the last few months.

Before the start of the 2008-2009 season, everything was going as planned. Meyer, a Wayne native, was only 11 victories shy of breaking Bob Knight's all-time NCAA wins record.

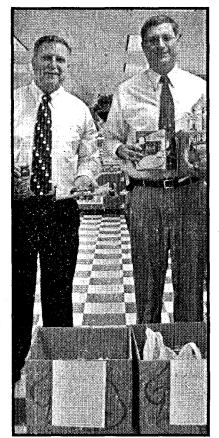

"If I end up breaking his mark, it just means I'm old," Meyer said jokingly. "All those wins mean nothing without the teams, coaches and memories we built along the wav."

However, winning took on a whole new meaning to Meyer on Sept. 5, when he achieved the ultimate victory. Meyer escaped death, surviving what could have been a fatal car accident.

On the way to the Wolves' annumuch of a choice but to try and were forced to amputate the bottom al team-building retreat, Meyer fell asleep at the wheel and collided head-on with a semitrailer truck hauling 90,000 pounds of grain.

"The collision of two vehicles moving in opposite directions at more than 50 mph looked like something you see on television," a witness told ESPN The Magazine. The crash only shook up the semitrailer driver, but Meyer sustained numerous injuries. Members of the team and assistant coaches immediately rushed to Meyer's side and called 911.

When emergency units responded, he was flown by helicopter to an Aberdeen hospital. There, doctors discovered that Meyer's diaphragm was torn away from the bone, his Donation boxes are located at Taco's & More for the Rotary and Kiwanis Food Drive. The Wayne service clubs are working together to bring awareness to the need for the local food pantry. The list of items needed includes: disposable diapers, juices not needing refrigeration, dry, boxed or packaged items: rice, complete meals, ramen noodles, jello, puddings and pastas, baby formula and food. Haven House's wish list of toys and family games can also be added to the drop box at Taco's & More. Stewart finishes hair design program

Kendall M. Stewart, a 2008 graduate of Wayne High School, recently completed the required 700 hours and all credits necessary to finish her program in Esthetics at College of Hair Design in Lincoln.

The graduation ceremony was held at Christ's Place Church in Lincoln.

After passing the Nebraska Esthetician State Board Exam, Kendall will be licensed to practice Esthetics in the State of Nebraska.

was confident that the doctors and care-providers were going to make a good decision."

The emergency-room doctors transferred him 200 miles away to Sioux Falls, S.D., in order for Meyer to receive extensive medical treatment. The removal of his spleen, partial subtraction of his small intestine, reattachment of his diaphragm and the condition of his leg were the top priorities.

Meyer again was victorious, outlasting the dangerous emergency surgery. But soon another challenge was presented, for the surgical staff discovered carcinoid cancer in his liver and small bowels.

Meyer did not consider defeat. "What's great about this is I would not have known about the cancer had I not had the wreck. God has blessed me with the one thing we all need, which is truth," Meyer told rivals.com. "I can now fight with all of my ability."

Two weeks after the accident, "In cases like that you don't have Meyer faced another test. Doctors hope for the best," Meyer said. "I part of his left leg, about eight said. "Without even giving it any team isn't going to work harder inches below the knee.

Once again, Don triumphed over the risky operation.

"Don has always been very intense in anything that he does," Nancy Meyer, Don's sister and Wayne State College employee, said. "His mind never stops, which is evident."

With strong support from the entire Northern State campus, the town of Aberdeen and coaching staff at the national level, Meyer was ready to tackle another obstacle. Don, hoping to get back to the Wolves' sideline, took on intense rehabilitation for his leg and started treatment for his cancer.

"The immediate concern, prayers and love shown for Don was very overwhelming," Nancy said.

On Oct. 30, Meyer sat in his wheelchair in a hospital hallway and signed the release paperwork. "When we found out that Don was to be dismissed from the hospital, someone asked me when I thought he would be going to work," Nancy guessed right." Now, with Meyer coaching in a Northern State is off to a perfect 6-only five victories away from tying

Help boost blood supply before the holidays

the corner, family and friends come together to share family traditions and the joy of the season. As you gather together and exchange gifts with loved ones, the American Red Cross asks eligible individuals to remember to share the gift of life with those in need this holiday season by giving blood.

"The blood supply is particularly vulnerable throughout the holiday season because donors are traveling to see family and friends and forget to make an appointment to donate blood," said Patricia Rubens, CEO of the local Red Cross Blood Services region. "Winter weather can also affect blood donations. Giving blood now can help build the blood supply throughout the season, ensuring enough is on hand for patients with serious medical needs."

Many blood donors have reasons for giving: friends and family members have received blood, blood old with a signed Red Cross

Control diabetes now, see later

A 25-year study of people with Type 1 diabetes in Wisconsin has some good news: People who controlled their blood-sugar levels over the long term were more likely to reverse certain abnormalities, caused by the disease, in the retina's small blood vessels.

But then there's the bad news: Serious eye disease is a very common side effect of diabetes. Based on the Wisconsin findings, 185,000 to 466,000 Americans with Type 1 diabetes may eventually develop proliferative diabetic retinopathy, a condition that can lead to severe visual impairment.

The study, led by Dr. Ronald Klein, professor of ophthalmology and visual sciences at UW School of Medicine and Public Health, appears in the November edition of Ophthalmology.

Klein and colleagues have been monitoring the health of 996 southern Wisconsin people who were diagnosed with Type 1 (insulindependent) diabetes before the age of 30. The Wisconsin Epidemiologic Study of Diabetic Retinopathy, funded by the National Eye Institute, began in 1979 and followed participants with Type 1 diabetes through 2007.

The research participants had their glycosylated hemoglobin levels (a measure of average blood sugar levels over the previous three months) measured regularly and their eye health checked through photographs of the back of their eyes (the retina) taken with a special camera. Diabetic retinopathy (signs of damage to the small retinal blood vessels) were detected by grading these photographs at periodic examinations over the 25 years of the study.

Nearly 83 percent of people in the study developed signs of diabetic retinopathy or had their existing diabetic retinopathy worsen. About 43 percent of study participants went on to develop the most severe stage of diabetic retinopathy, called proliferative diabetic retinopathy, in which abnormal blood vessels grow on the retina. This growth can cause bleeding and detachment of the retina, leading to severe visual impairment.

Poor blood-sugar control was strongly related to development of proliferative diabetic retinopathy. Other factors that increased the risk for developing proliferative diabetic retinopathy included being male; being overweight; having higher blood pressure; and having protein in the urine, a sign of diabetic kidney disease.

In about 18 percent of people, the diabetic retinopathy improved. This improvement was more likely in those with better control of their

There is some other good news in the study.

"Interestingly, we saw less progression to proliferative diabetic retinopathy among people who had a similar duration of Type 1 diabetes but who were diagnosed more recently," Klein said. "The biggest reason seems to be an improvement in the management of blood sugar and blood-pressure levels in people with diabetes."

Klein's collaborators include Ronald Gangnon, PhD, of the School of Medicine's Department of Population Health Sciences; and Michael D. Knudtson, MS, Kristine E. Lee, MS; Barbara E.K. Klein, MD, MPH, all of the Department of Ophthalmology and Visual Sciences.

Support is available Dear Editor.

The community of Wayne has long been blessed with an Al-Anon meeting that occurs each Wednesday at 8 p.m. on the third floor of the Wayne Municipal Building at 306 N. Pearl.

In 2007, a regular Al-Anon meeting was established at the United Methodist Church in Laurel on Monday evenings at 8 p.m. at 302 ELm Street. Though Alcoholics Anonymous meets at the same time and location, Al-Anon meets separately in the Prayer Room. Recently, Alateen has been added to the meeting options, and I am grateful to be able to serve as the Alateen Sponsor.

Al-Anon is a world-wide fellowship with one purpose - to provide comfort and support to relatives and friends of alcoholics, and to provide understanding and encouragement to the alcoholic. The "12 Steps of Alcoholics Anonymous" are the spiritual guide. Alateen is the same type of fellowship with its focus on the children who are affected by alcoholism.

At an Al-Anon meeting, the sharing of experience, strength and hope assists members in solving common problems. There is no "advice giving," yet through this confidential sharing, attitudes are changed and progress is made in the recovery from the family disease of alcoholism.

Anyone who is troubled by another person's drinking behavior is welcome to attend, whether or not there is an admission of alcoholism. "Many who attend no longer live with active alcoholism, yet feel that their lives have been deeply affected by the disease, or their family's reaction to it. They feel their adult lives have become unmanageable because of the heavy emotional involvement they continue to have with the past." ("A Guide to the Family of the Alcoholic," p. 15).

-Al-Anon is not connected with drug plan may increase your costs, any organization, church, political party or cause. It seeks to avoid controversy and requests no dues, only voluntary contributions. Local and national information can be obtained www.al-

Anyone wishing to know more about Al-Anon and Alateen is welcome to contact me anytime.

My husband succumbed to the effects of alcoholism last October. His drinking began casually in his early teen years, leading to a lifelong struggle. Al-Anon and Alateen have been secure life lines for my children and me. The "12 Steps" have deepened our faith in God, and given us the courage to keep trying "One Day at a Time."

regard as bulletin material. Here is the interesting thing.

When government is up against it for money, it would seem that what might be a majority of the people get what they want - philosophically. That is, less government spending.

What could be better?

The collective majority, however, will not make its voice heard in any particular way when the 2008 Legislature goes to work in

What will be heard? The voices of those who represent others who need, or purport to need, or truly need, government services.

You know the old thing about the citizenry having the "Not in my backyard!" attitude toward government. That is to say, no prisons, halfway houses, facilities for the mentally disabled, or challenged, or whatever your preferred politically correct term might be.

There is a counterpart to that mantra. When it comes to cutting government spending, the mantra from many, many quarters is "Not my program!" Such insistence will come from specific interests. Interesting, as previously promised, is that many of those who have specific interests in spending are usually, in other circumstances, part of the majority outcry for reduced spending in general.

Spending on what you regard as worthwhile is what you regard as good government. Spending that you don't regard as worthwhile is, predictably, that which you see as government excess.

The view from here: The very best example of this phenomenon was demonstrated when the late Rep. Virginia Smith was in Congress, representing the 3rd District in particular, but agriculture in general.

A particular county, not in her district but nonetheless agricultural in nature, saw its county board approve a resolution dropping its participation in what amounts to a federal program that provides surplus free cheese and other agricultural commodities to poor folks.

Mrs. Smith was on the phone like a good farm dog on a would-be chicken rustler. She strenuously emphasized to the locals that the program in question was an agricultural program, not an urban-oriented thing for those, among others, who then-President Reagan labeled "welfare queens."

If government programs didn't make use of immeasurable amounts of food, Mrs. Smith noted, there would be surpluses, and lower prices for commodities, and Legislature.

... she need not have said more.

If policymakers - the governor and a legislative majority - really reduce government spending, not just hold it even but actually reduce it - they can count on catching hell and hardnosed lobbying on behalf of potentially bereaved interests.

Here is a bit of government process that is little noted but particularly pertinent in what passes for hard times: Some interest groups will join forces, and their lobbyists will combine forces to deliver votes for one another. One senator is big on supporting Program A, another's constituents want Program B. That's when what might be the oldest rule of politics (a word derived from policy) comes into play. That is: "Gimmee some of yours and I'll give you some of What's given, or traded? Votes for programs, which is to say votes for spending.

A reminder is in order here. Don't fall into the ridiculous silliness of complaining about the power of lobbyists. Lobbyists are just people who represent interest groups. Lobbyists don't have power - interest groups have power. Their representatives, lobbyists, just carry their wishes to the plant.

1) South Logan Creek was reclassified from an agricultural stream to a seasonal "full body contact stream" which requires waste water to be disinfected and has lower limits of contamination

2) Our existing plant is running well but will not meet these requirements and must be rebuilt or replaced by August of 2011

3) Engineer cost estimates range from $3 million for a re-build to $10 million for new construction. Some systems consume a lot more labor and electricity to operate than others, so life cycle cost also needs to be considered.

4) The mayor and council have objected to the prospect of these potential costs for a town this size. We rejected the first five design proposals and the waste water committee will be looking at four more options from a different engineering firm.

If the cost of the project is $9 million and everyone keeps using the same amount of water we currently are, how will we pay for this with no grants or outside assistance?

1) A residence using 5,000 gallons water per month in the summer and does not irrigate a garden or lawn currently pays $14 sewer bill for the month. A $9 million plant could raise that bill to $29.20 per month with no grant funding and with the entire cost billed on a per gallon basis.

2) The same residence using 5,000 gallons per month in the winter could have a sewer bill increase from $21 per month to $36.10 per

Next week we will show some additional funding options we are considering. We will also show what irrigation rates may look like.

'Is your child's video game OK to play?'

By Nebraska Attorney General Jon Bruning

The holiday shopping season is well underway, and many children have video games on their wish lists. But, do you know if the game your child wants is age-appropriate?

Today's video games aren't made for players of all ages and some have content that isn't suitable for kids. As parents, it's important for us to take an active role in choosing games for our children. One of the best tools available is the Entertainment Software Rating Board's video game rating system.

The rating system provides symbols on the front and back of every game package. There is an age recommendation along with content information so it's easy to tell which games are family-friendly.

You can find more information on the ratings along with a Discussion Guide to help you talk with your kids about which games are appropriate for them to play on my Web site, www.ago.ne.gov, in the Kids and Parents section.

Make the most of game time with your children. Use the rating system. I use it when I buy games for my family, and I hope you will too.

Feed the spirit and the stomach. ed), are Julie Loberg and Lynn This holiday season is a great time to reflect on your spiritual well being. Teach the children about their family heritage and culture. Incorporate family values in activities. Consider helping those who are less fortunate with your gifts. This year, with the economic situation, it may be more helpful to give than to receive.

Keep in touch with family members and let them know they are loved. Don't pressure adult children to choose between families. Alternate celebration times. Be flexible. Things happen and holiday schedules can be unpredictable. Be open to change. Keep your old traditions if possible, but be open to new ones. Families grow and change, allow their traditions to be incorporated into yours.

Do things ahead of time. The more you can plan ahead and make things ahead, the less stress there will be during those holiday events. Make your candies and cookies ahead and freeze them, purchase presents ahead of time, and avoid the holiday crowds if possible. You will have more time to enjoy those children and grand children.

Turn chores into memories. Decorating the house or those cookies can become a fun tradition when shared with family and friends. When traveling, sing songs, share stories of holidays past and present, and involve the children in sending out those cards.

Relax. If you have to, block out time on your calendar to relax and renew your spirit. Do something for you; read a book, take a bubble bath, watch a movie, whatever it takes to help you unwind during the holiday season. Just Breath!!! Do something for you.

dip you also missed a treat!!

On Dec. 6, members met at the school and decorated the Christmas Tree for the "Festival of Trees." Glass ornaments were hung up that were 50 years old with 50 pictures from the museum. There was even a train on it's track at the bottom of the tree. It was free for the W.H.O. and 250 people attended the Festival. What a great advertisement for the W.H.O. Members gathered after the event and took the tree down and put the decorations at the Museum for our meeting on Jan. 13.

Soon Molly Curnyn's Class from Wayne State College will be installing the computer and Camcorder for the museum. We will begin to record the necessary inventory records for Graves Library Museum and for the Train Depot. This computer will help make all of this information for the public easier to research when they come to visit the museum. We will have wireless access to our computer and will be able to print pictures and information for our research.

Be watching soon for another doorway to the Train Depot. They are getting the South door painted and will soon be open to use for their meeting room. Jeff Olsufka designed and built this door to be exactly like it was in 1927 when the Train Depot was built.

The public is invited to come to the meeting on the Jan. 13, Tuesday, at 5:30 p.m. at Graves Library Museum. There was an article on Russ's Wrenches in the Sioux City Journal in December. Another plus for the museum and getting the news out that they have this wonderful facility. Members are needed; everyone is welcome to Holiday Hours...Now Open later Weekdays 9-7 Sat 9-5 Sun 11-5 information we can all use as the holidays approach. We seem to have two areas where problems or questions can arise regarding food.

The Christmas story

One is in the kitchen as we prepare more meals and party snacks than usual; they are things we don't typically prepare. Alice always helps. She has provided a website, "Cook it Quick", to help with questions about a variety of topics. She can tell us how far ahead we can freeze foods, how to substitute ingredients if we find we are out of something, how to decide how much food to buy, how to cook every kind of meat, from bison, duck, goat to beef, pork, lamb and seafood. The list goes on and on.

She also includes great "leftover" plans (she calls them "planned over" foods).

Another great section is on how to make quick meals with canned foods in case you are short on time or storage space. She even has a section on no-show guests to help decide how long the meal can be delayed and how to handle the food to keep it safe and appetizing.

Another great section, "Brilliant Buffets" is definitely worth looking at. You can find all this at http://lancaster.unl.edu/food/ciqholiday-links.shtml

The other food related problem facing us during the holiday season deals with all the snacks, party food, baking, and other situations where we might have a bite of food here and a bite there. Alice tells us how "Tiny Tastes" can total BIG calories over the winter holidays. For example, one little broken cookie in the kitchen supplies 30 -50 calories. One small piece of candy from the holiday tray someone brought to work can add another 80 to 100 calories. Those nice little ladies at the grocery store offer free food samples. Even one sample can give you an additional 40 60 calories!

Add three chips with dip at the party and you have 75 more calories. The small half cup of eggnog you have with the chips will give you another 200 calories. Later, when you are cleaning up the kitchen and have just a couple of tablespoons of leftover sweet potatoes that really aren't worth saving....well there is another 60 - 80 calories.

Well, all those "little bites", those "tiny tastes" that don't seem like much at all, can add up to enough calories to provide a gain of a pound a week if done each day. And that doesn't include the larger and richer meals we often eat during the holidays. If you want to learn more about those little bites, check unl.edu/FOOD/tiny-tastes.pdf

When you visit the Lancaster County UNL website you will also find many more of Alice's articles and power points as well as information on a variety of topics covered by other UNL Extension Educators.

As always, UNL Extension helps you Know How, Know Now. Happy Holidays!

News from the bailout bill...a year end idea...TAX FREE GIVING

The bailout bill has extended the Pension Protection Act for 2008 and 2009.

If you are over the age of 70 1/2 you can again donate as much as $100,000 from your IRA to charity. The distribution would be TAX FREE and can count toward the required minimum distribution that IRA holders who are 70 1/2 and older must take from their accounts each year.

Extracting this money from an IRA without having it count toward your adjusted gross income is good for many reasons (adjusted gross income can affect your Medicare Part B premiums, taxability of Social Security benefits, and eligibility to convert traditional IRA assets to a Roth IRA).

Here are the rules to follow: #1. The gift must go directly from your IRA to a qualified non-profit group. #2. Check with your IRA custodian, or your professional legal/financial advisors. #3. The Providence Medical Center Foundation is a tax-qualified non-profit corporation.

Women know what heartache feels like.

But not heart attack.

For women, as for men, the most common symptom of a heart attack is pain, pressure or discomfort in the chest. But women are more likely than are men to also have symptoms unrelated to chest pain, such as:

■ Shortness of breath ♥ Nausea or vomiting

◆Abdominal pain or "heartburn" ♥Sweating

▼Lightheadedness or dizziness

Poll: rural residents see community shortcomings, but like their lives anyway

In rural Nebraska, "Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home" is no cliched wall hanging. It captures the tradeoffs residents make in choosing to live in small towns. That's one way to interpret the Nebraska Rural Poll's consistent finding, during 13 years of surveys, that rural Nebraskans recognize their communities lack some amenities. But they stay put anyway, drawn by a sense of trust, security and belonging.

Surveys for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln poll were mailed to about 6,200 randomly selected households in Nebraska's 84 rural counties last March. Results are based on 2,496 responses.

One trend the survey has tracked over the years is rural residents' perceptions of their communities. This year's findings are similar to those of past surveys.

Seventy-three percent of rural Nebraskans rate their communities as friendly, 61 percent say trusting and 67 percent say supportive. About two-thirds agree that "my community is very special to me," and 63 percent say "I feel I can really be myself in my community." The smaller the community, the stronger those feelings were, according to the survey.

Ninety-four percent of respondents rated a sense of security and safety as an important factor that contributes to their community's quality of life. Other factors seen as important include: quality of community services and facilities, 86 percent; economic well-being, 85 percent; and interactions with neighbors and others in the community, 84 percent.

On the other hand, at least onethird of respondents expressed dissatisfaction with entertainment, retail shopping, restaurants, streets and roads, arts and cultural activities, local government and public transportation.

At the same time, respondents rank some services very highly. Eighty-six percent are happy with fire protection; 75 percent are happy with parks and recreation; 75 percent with library services; 73 percent with religious organizations; and 70 percent with educa-

"People who make a decision to live in smaller places give something up in terms of amenities. They recognize that, " said Randy Cantrell, a rural sociologist with the university's Rural Initiative and Center for Applied Rural Innovation. "They could wish for more, but in general they seem content with the social environment."

Bruce Johnson, a UNL agricultural economist, added, "There's a sense of security and safety in rural areas. That's probably even more of an issue as time goes by."

The poll also shows that rural residents' warm feelings about their communities deepen the longer they're there.

Other findings:

• Thirty-six percent of residents living in or near larger communities (population 10,000 or above) said their communities had changed for the better during the last year, while only 23 percent of those in communities with populations of 500 or fewer said that.

· Only 5 percent said they were planning to move from their communities in the next year. Of those planning to move, 50 percent are planning to leave Nebraska -- up from 39 percent a year ago.

• Thirty-three percent of rural Nebraskans rate the quality of life in their community as very good, 4 percent rate it as excellent and 46 percent as good. Fifteen percent rate quality of life as fair and 2 percent say poor.

The Rural Poll is the largest annual poll of rural Nebraskans' perceptions on quality of life and policy issues. This year's response rate was about 40 percent. The margin of error is plus or minus 3 percent. Complete results are available online at http://cari. unl.edu/ruralpoll/.

The university's Center for Applied Rural Innovation conducts the poll in cooperation with the Rural Initiative with funding from the Partnership for Rural Nebraska and UNL Extension and the Agricultural Research Division in the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Week includes Christmas miracles beginning to look a lot like Christmas! I just returned from a short trip to my Mom's and the streets are slick. In fact, there was a pickup in front of me that kept sliding at intersections, making me very nervous!

Hopefully, I can get the rest of the Christmas letters addressed today; I'm glad I don't have to get out and see patients. As usual, my Mom plans to bake; that's her strategy for any day she has to stay

We really had a couple of Christmas miracles last week. The first was the choir cantata, on Wednesday eve. The Big Farmer and I had sung in several of these in Winside and it had become sort of a tradition. Then, at Louisville, we did not attempt it after the first couple of years. The numbers were too few.

Now, there is a group of about thirty, with a dozen instrumentalists, who do a Christmas and a Lenten program. The chancel choir is the core group; I don't typically sing with them, as they sing at 8 a.m. service. We don't make it to that one. But a lot of us enjoy doing the special seasonal music.

This year, I don't believe we had one rehearsal when everyone was there. And on Tuesday night, we sounded sort of ragged. But our director kept assuring us that it was never going to be perfect, and God would be pleased and would

Dr. Wes Jamison, an animal sci-

in Nebraska."

It's Tuesday morning, and it's bless our efforts. Well, He did! The 10:30. It made me too nervous, as soloist did an arrangement of My Soul Magnifies the Lord, the Magnificat, which is the most beautiful I've ever heard. The choir joins in on the last, and I was having goose bumps and tears.

The whole thing went very well, and the congregation was appreciative. The solo is my new favorite song about Mary, replacing Mary, Did You Know?

The other miracle was the Nebraska volleyball team's win in our prayers, as she battles a recur-Washington. I don't presume to believe that God is that concerned about our wins and losses, but it did seem supernatural.

The game did not start until usual, so I sat in the other room, reading the paper. After two sets lost, I suggested we go to bed. In fact, I'm sure a lot of people did that very thing. But Mike waited for the third, and announced we had won it. Good, I thought, at least we didn't just give up.

Then, somehow, those girls won the fourth. After they were down by six in the fifth, and last, set, I thought how sad to lose it now. Oh, ye, of little faith! They came from behind, the Huskies had a net serve, which we had been doing all night, and Jordan Larson served an Ace! In fact, none of the girls on the other side of the net even seemed to move towards it; it was hard to believe.

It was 1 a.m.! We don't even stay up that late for New Year's Eve. And I had a hard time getting to sleep even then, because those last few plays were so exciting. Now, I'm just hoping they can take one set from Penn State; a team that was national champ last year and has not lost one set all year. John Cook is right, this is a special group of home grown seniors, who have overcome a lot of adversity and found a way to get back to Omaha! And we keep Jordan's mother in rence of her cancer.

I hope you are all staying warm, and safe, and remembering the real "reason for the season".
