Local veterinarian uses acupuncture with traditional treatments

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

Mark Zink, DVM, of Wayne Veterinary Clinic in Wayne has been incorporating acupuncture in with his traditional treatment practices. Zink has been attending Colorado State University (CSU) to become certified, which involves 250 hours of training. Acupuncture can be used on dogs, cats, dairy cows and horses. "There are probably fewer than a dozen veterinarians in Nebraska who are certified and are using acupuncture," Zink said. "Acupuncture is not for every case. It is not a replacement for traditional methods but is another tool to decrease pain and help with treatment."

Acupuncture is the mainstay of Chinese countries for many years. The art of acupuncture has been misunderstood in the

and mistrust. Lately, that view is chang-

"Around four years ago the American Veterinary Medical Association declared acupuncture as credible after new research and repeat studies," Zink said. "Up until then there was no neurologic/anatomic medicine and has been used in eastern based training available because schools were reluctant to offer it."

Zink added that there are a couple western world, often seen with mystery of schools nearby, CSU and Iowa State

Curt Frye to retire

Curt Fige, Vice President and Dean of Students at Wayne State College, is retiring. A farewell reception is planned in his honor on April 27 in the Student Center Atrium from 2 to 3:30 p.m. with a program at 3. The event will be hosted by President Richard Collings. The public is welcome.

The last session of this spring's p.m. at the Wayne Senior Center, Expand Your Horizon will be held following the theme of crafting with Monday, April 27 at Wayne Public an emphasis on creativity, recycling and making memories.

> Tammy Meier, this session's presenter, has been stamping for over 10 years. A friend who is a Stampin' Up demonstrator introduced her to their products. Since that time, Tammy said, the whole paper crafting industry has taken off.

> "There are so many products and techniques available that you can make something to fit anyone's personal style. I especially like the challenge of taking all the parts and pieces and creating a piece of art. A handmade greeting card or gift is so much more personal," Meier said.

> For the Library series, Tammy plans to have a "make and take' card available for those who would like to try rubber stamping. She will talk about and show examples of gift bags & boxes, baskets, etc. that can be made.

Wayne Community Schools Board of Education accepts resignation of high school Spanish teacher

By Lynn Sievers Of the Herald

The Wayne Community School's Board of Education met in regular session on April 15. School board member Jeryl Nelson made a motion to move the teachers schedule for 2009-10 into executive session. School board member Rodnev Garwood seconded the motion which passed unanimously. Nelson made a motion to accept with regrets the resignation of Emily Duerst as high school Spanish teacher and Middle School World Studies teacher. School board member Mark Evetovich seconded the motion which passed unanimously.

Information was shared on the lease agreement with Dennis Preston on the school building (formerly District 51) west of Wayne. The school has a lease agreement with Preston for rental of that building for $400 a month. The school was notified that county funds are due. The amount of taxes needs to be determined and then the subject will be brought before the board

Also reviewed was the bid from Rasmussen Mechanical Services. The options are repairing the small boiler in the high school for $4,282 or replacing the existing large hydronic boiler for $225,582. Dr. Joe Reinert, superintendent, noted they will probably go with the first option but the problem is that the small boiler can't heat the building properly on cold days. The board will review this at the next meet-

Rocky Ruhl, athletic director, reported that quotes were received from Egan Supply Company and Chris Kadoo for screening, cleaning and recoating the gym floors.

Kadoo's quote ($2,450) was less. Garwood made a motion to approve the bid from Kadoo to apply premium finish to the high school and Middle School gym floors, Evetovich seconded the motion which passed unanimously.

Garwood made a motion to approve the ESU#1 2009-10 service contract for $333,758.80 (for all services). Evetovich seconded the motion which passed unanimously.

Mark Hanson, high school principal, discussed his proposal to use a portion of the funds that are generated through teaching dual credit courses for technology purposes. Nelson made a motion to approve a resolution in support of the technology proposal, Garwood seconded the motion which passed unanimously.

The board made note of Brad Weber receiving the Donald A. Lentz - Outstanding Bandmaster

A thank-you was received from Doug Kluth, who interviewed for the superintendent position.

Future agenda items for the next meeting are: boiler replacement, contract with Dennis Preston, SPED board policy, resignation update, etc.

Nelson made a motion to enter into executive session, Evetovich seconded the motion which passed unanimously. Nelson moved and it was seconded by school board member Ken Jorgensen, to come out of executive session at 8:40 p.m. All were in favor. Evetovich moved, Jorgensen seconded the motion to adjourn the meeting. All were in favor. The meeting adjourned at 8:41 p.m.

The next Wayne Community Board of Education meeting will be on Monday, May 11 at 6 p.m. at the high school in Wayne.

Kindergarten and first grade members of the Wayne Daisy Girl Scouts spent an enjoyable afternoon at the Wayne Plant Market this week. Lou Wiltse took time to show the girls the planting process and the different parts of the Plant Market, including the green house, above. She worked with the girls to plant seeds and to transplant small marigolds that were already growing.

trical impulses away from each of the neuron's cell body or soma. Some axons reach to the outside of the body. Chemicals from the nervous system connect with muscles. If that connection between the nerves and muscles gets damaged, acupuncture can re-establish the electricity between the two.

With bones, if something is out of adjustment, muscles contract and there can be muscle damage. Acupuncture allows the muscles to relax and repair. In chronic muscle fatigue, there is pain. Acupuncture can force muscles to contract thus building them up.

Another example of acupuncture helping in treatment is in the case of open sores. When needles are inserted around a sore, more healing cells come to that area.

Acupuncture allows the body to heal itself because it helps take away stress. The body is designed to defend itself and sometimes we are our own worst enemies. The body tries so hard to heal that the inflammation damages surrounding tissue. For example, acupuncture can help relieve muscle spasms by spacing treatments appropriately over a period of time.

In the case of intervertebral disc disease, messages sent to the brain via the nerves in the spine are interrupted as they enter the spine by the muscles spasming. This can lead to chronic pain. Acupuncture can help relieve these spasms allowing nerve transmission to resume. Use of acupuncture releases endorphins, bringing relief to an affected area, aiding in repair of damaged tissue.

"In veterinary medicine, we don't deal with placebo effects so what you see is what you are getting. " Zink said. "In our training, we are taught to look for signs. Pets will tell you in other ways since they can't verbally tell you; you have to feel and observe."

Another example of acupuncture helping is in cats with kidney failure. High blood pressure can be a problem in these cats.

Acupuncture to a couple of points usage can help spare kidneys and by making the body take care of itself, the end result is better.

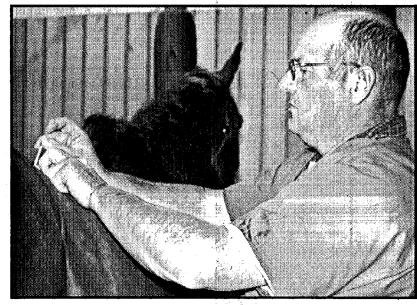

Zink noted he especially likes using acupuncture in treating horses because the process goes medicine and acupuncture together members in new and innovative 375-7020.

City gardens receive approval

By Clara Osten, Of the Herald

Residents of Wayne wishing to plant a garden will now have three locations within the community to

Action was taken during Tuesday's meeting of the Wayne City Council to allow residents access to city-owned property for gardening on a one-year, trial

In an effort to promote 'community,' a group of local residents spoke of the benefits of having garden space available for all community members. Two areas of city-owned property near the softball complex and an area near the Community Activity were approved for use by individuals for non-commercial

Council members discussed the city's involvement in the gardens and who would be responsible for monitoring them.

Council member Verdel Lutt said that while "this sounds like a good idea, I think we have enough areas for gardens. What about the water issue? Will those using the gardens be able to use city water for free? I think there are too many questions that need to be answered to make a decision tonight."

Council member Kaki Ley said that she felt the idea "was worth a try. If those using the gardens abuse them, we (the city) won't let them have the area again."

Jennifer Thomas, a third grade teacher at Wayne Elementary School, said she thought having the garden available close to the schools "would be a great opportunity for third grade students and allow them to take ownership of something and get to see success in their work."

City Attorney Mike Pieper told the council that he recommended several additions to the agreement before is could be approved.

Following discussion, the council voted 6-2 with Council members Lutt and Jon Haase voting against.

Peterson praised the work of city officials and staff for working to keep working conditions safe. He noted that the city has received dividend checks in 11 of the 15 years the program has been in exis-

Council members also gave third reading approval to ordinances dealing with preliminary plat information, dogs and the purposes and duties of the Planning Commission.

Also approved was a resolution approving an agreement with the Northeast Nebraska Economic Development District (NNEDD). The agreement will authorize the NNEDD to administer grant funds for the Downtown Revitalization grant.

The council voted unanimously to take legal action against Felix Industries for the remainder due on a Wayne Revolving Loan Fund

Council President Doug Sturm, who was in charge of the meeting in the absence of Mayor Lois Shelton, Fund for expenses, the city should make an attempt to try to get some or all of the $43,000 left on the loan.

Council members also spent considerable time in discussion of compensation for the Wayne Fire Chief.

Opinions on both sides of the issue were expressed and following the discussion, the council voted to table the issue to a future meeting and meet with members of the Rural Fire Board to discuss possible options.

Garry Poutre, Superintendent of Public Works and Utilities, presented his annual report to the council.

He discussed the projects completed by the various departments in 2008, including water issues, power outages, the city parks, trees and progress in the Western Ridge Subdivision.

The council will next meet in regular session on Tuesday, May 5.

The group includes transfers Ashley Arlen of Cascade, Iowa (Iowa State University) and Renee Wood of Fullerton, California (Fullerton College) along with high school standouts Marcy Amundson of Elgin, Iowa (Valley High School) and Chelsie Rohrs of Paullina, Iowa (South O'Brien High School).

Arlen, a 6-1 forward, transfers to WSC from Division I Iowa State and has three years of eligibility with the Wildcats.

She averaged 3.5 points and 3.1 rebounds per game for the Cyclones this past season as a true freshman after a stellar high school career in Cascade, Iowa where she earned Iowa Class 2A First Team All-State honors as a senior averaging 17 points and 8.9 rebounds per game.

Arlen finished her high school career as Cascade's all-time leader in points (1,542), rebounds (907) and blocked shots (143) and she was an AAU teammate of current Wildcat players Clare Duwelius and Micha

"Ashley has a rare combination of on the perimeter as well," Kielsmei-

"She is a very physical player that provides our program with much needed size. Ashley got tremendous experience playing for Iowa State and in the Big 12 Conference and will have an immediate impact on our program."

Wood, a 5-9 guard, transfers to WSC from Fullerton College in California and has two years of eligibility with the Wildcats. Wood averaged 8.3 points, 5.3 rebounds, 2.1 assists and 2.1 steal per game for Fullerton College this past season, helping the team to a 24-10 record and the Orange Empire Conference title in the California Community College Athletic Association.

She tied for the conference lead in three pointers during the season with 51 and shot 41.3 percent from the field, 37 percent from the three point line and 79.5 percent at the free throw stripe.

"Renee is a taller guard who is an outstanding three point shooter, but "She is also great at getting to the that four players (two transfers and free throw line, which is an area we need to get better at. Her two years of playing experience at Fullerton College will help her contribute right away with our program."

Amundson, a 6-3 center from Valley High School in Elgin, Iowa, was a three-year starter in basketball and softball and a two-year starter in volleyball. She averaged 12.7 points, 7.3 rebounds and 2.5 blocked shots per game as a senior helping Valley High School to a 21-3 record, earning First Team All-District and Upper Iowa Conference honors. Amundson was a team captain that was selected to play in the Gatorade All-Star Game and earned Academic All-State honors. She was also a two-time All-District selection while earning First Team All Upper Iowa Conference honors as a senior and Second Team All-Conference honors as a junior. "Marcy brings a tremendous upside to our program because of her ability to change the game on both ends of the floor," Kielsmeier said.

"She is very effective with her back to the basket and is a great shot blocker on the defensive end."

Rohrs, a 5-9 guard from South O'Brien High School in Paullina, being able to score in the paint and Iowa, was a multi-sport standout starting four years in basketball, track and softball and three years in volleyball. Rohrs was a 1,000 point scorer at South O'Brien, earning All-War Eagle Conference honors three seasons in basketball and averaged 20 points, 10 rebounds and 4.5 steals per game as a senior.

Other accolades for Rohrs include two-year captain, MVP and Academic Team selection, as well as being selected to the Class 2A Gatorade All-Star Game. She was also a three-time All-Conference selection in softball and an All-Conference choice in volleyball.

"Chelsie is a guard that loves to attack the basket, but can also hit the three point shot effectively," Kielsmeier said. "Her offensive skills will make her very difficult to defend."

WSC finished the 2008-09 season at 15-13 overall and 12-8 in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference with a young lineup that had just one senior, one junior and seven freshman and sophomores.

Rauner to compete in first annual Renewal by Andersen Border Battle

The Southard Corporation/Renewal by Andersen, one of the largest home improvement companies in the Midwest, is proud to announce the rosters for its first annual charitable event, The Renewal by Andersen Border Battle.

The basketball games will feature recently graduated senior allstars from Kansas and Nebraska, including Nicole Rauner, a senior from Wayne High School.

The June 20th event, at the all new Hartman Arena in Park City, Kan., will included both a boys and girls game with each team featuring 12 players and two coaches for a total of 56 participants.

"We're extremely excited about the quality of student-athletes from Kansas and Nebraska for our inaugural Renewal by Andersen Border Battle games," said Wes Race Director of Marketing for Renewal by Andersen and Chairman of the event.

"We have over a dozen participants who've already signed on to play college athletics at major Division I NCAA programs. The response from the players and coaches has been fantastic and we already have quite a bit of a rivalry heating up. It's going to be a lot of fun."

The girl's game will tip-off at 5 p.m. with the boy's game following immediately after at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets to the game are $12 for adults and $8 for students. A limited number of seats on the floor will also be sold for $25.

Tickets are on sale now at www. rbaborderbattle.com and www.hartmanarena.com or by calling (888)-755-2538.

The games will benefit the V Foundation for Cancer Research. The V Foundation was founded in 1993 by ESPN and the late Jim Valvano, legendary North Carolina State basketball coach.

Since 1993, The Foundation has raised more than $70 million to fund cancer research nationwide. One hundred percent of all new direct cash donations and net proceeds of events will go directly to cancer re-

Schneider and Zavorka headline 'Cats exploits at Sioux City Relays

By Casey Schroeder

The Wayne State College outdoor track and field teams continued an already successful season with another six first place finishes at the Sioux City Relays held on April 17-18 at Olsen Stadium in Sioux City,

"Our teams competed very well at the 45th Annual Sioux City Relays. This years college field was better than it has been in the past, so I thought it really showcased some great WSC performances in front of the Siouxland area track and field fans," Wildcat head coach Marlon Brink said.

The women's team won three events while the men's team followed suit with three first place finishes that were further highlighted by a new meet record and an NCAA provisional national qualifying mark by Matt Schneider in the 3,000-meter steeplechase.

Leading the WSC women's team were individual wins by Christina King and Paige Pollard.

King, a junior from Millard West, crossed the line first in the 400-meter dash (57.07) while Pollard, a sophomore from Newcastle, earned first in the 400-meter hurdles in a time of 1:02.37.

The other win by the women's team was the 4 x 400-meter relay team of Danielle Wessel, Jade Lippman, King and Pollard who finished first in a time of 4:01.22.

Megan Zavorka also set a new school record and reached an NCAA provisional qualifying time in the 3,000-meter steeplechase with her fourth place finish in a time of ish in the 400-meter hurdles at the Sioux City Relays.

A Wind energy components manufacturer is considering Sloux City for their new plant and we need to prove that Sioux City and the surrounding areas have the workforce they need.

If you are interested in these positions, go to lowaworkforce.org/region 12 and click on the "turbine" link. You will fill out a preliminary application that the new manufacturer may use to fill positions AND you will have helped Sioux City and the Siouxland area secure more good paying manufacturing jobs.

Let's show this and the many other manufacturers that consider our great community how ready we are to work for growing manufacturers.

Wildcats pulverize Beavers in two-game sweep Sunday

Katie Goetzinger set a new single game WSC softball record with 16 strikeouts to highlight the Wildcats innings. sweep over Bemidji State in Northern Sun Conference play Sunday in Bemidji, Minn.

The sophomore from Harlan, Iowa struck out 16 batters in a 6-1 eightinning win over the Beavers in the first game of Sunday's twinbill.

The Wildcats then scored three runs in the top of the seventh inning to win the second game 5-2 and complete the sweep.

"They were big wins for us. Bemidji upset three teams in the NSIC and it's always good to get a sweep on the road," WSC head coach Krista Unger said.

In the first game, Goetzinger set the single game strikeout record and belted a grand slam in the one walk. eighth inning to carry the Wildcats to the 5-1 win.

but the Beavers knotted the score she's playing really well right now" Unger said.

The second game saw WSC score three runs in the top of the seventh as the Wildcats completed the sweep with a 5-2 win over the stubborn Beavers.

With both teams tied at 2-2 going into the seventh inning, WSC's Amy Sandstrom led off with a walk and scored on a double by Blair Kuhl.

Earleywine then doubled and scored on a single by Baird while Baird later added a run on a Brittany Greenwood single for the 5-2

WSC had 10 hits in the second game to just four for Bemidji State. Baird and Sandstrom each had two singles while Kuhl and Earleywine recorded doubles.

Goetzinger (23-8) earned the pitching win in relief of Baird by pitching the final three innings of the game where she struck out eight of the nine batters she faced.

Baird worked the first four innings, allowing two runs on four hits with two walks and two strike-

"Amber is doing a good job. She's been throwing a lot of off-speed and low pitches which really makes our defense work for her, but she's doing a really good job for us," Unger said.

With the wins over Bemidji State, WSC improved to 31-14 overall and currently sit in second place of the NSIC with a league mark of 14-3.

The Wildcats will return to action on Saturday, April 25 when they face Concordia, St. Paul in an NSIC doubleheader with games scheduled for 12 and 2 p.m. at the Pete Chapman Softball Complex in Wayne.

Wildcats rule the roost in two-game sweep

By Casey Schroeder

The 23rd-ranked Wayne State College baseball team combined for 13 home runs in a pair of wins over Northern State on Sunday afternoon in Redfield, S.D.

Scores of the games were 18-8 WSC 4564000-19 and 19-7.

With the sweep over Northern DP-WSC 1. LOB-WSC 7; NSU 7. State, WSC improved to 28-8 overall and 16-1 in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference (NSIC) er 2; Koch; Bisenius; Simons. HBPwhile the Wolves dropped to 5-21 overall and 1-13 in league play.

In the first game, WSC scored in every inning while connecting for nine home runs in the 18-8 win over

John Plasha and Eric Bond each had two home runs in the win while Justin Hemauer, Mike Bisenius, Nick Bidroski, Brandon Polk and Taylor Welk each added home runs in the lopsided win with Polk's being a grand slam to highlight a sixrun sixth inning.

Plasha finished the game a perfect 3 for 3 with four runs scored to lead the 17-hit barrage for WSC.

Additionally, Hemauer, Bond, Bisenius and Bidroski accounted for three hits each in the win.

Chad Moreland (5-2) won his fifth straight start as he gave up four runs on seven hits with four strikeouts and two walks in four and twothirds innings of work.

The second game saw more of the same as WSC had four home runs and jumped out to a 19-0 lead before settling for the 19-7 win.

Trey Hacker led the Wildcats offensively, going 3 for 4 with seven RBI's and four runs scored as he blasted a three-run homer in the first, singled in the second and hit a grand slam in the third inning to close out his big day at the plate.

Freshman third baseman Jake Ritzdorf finished 3 for 5 with four runs scored while Bisenius and Bidroski each contributed two hits in Freshman right hander Austen Wisroth (5-1) was credited with the pitching win, allowing six runs on six hits over four and two-thirds innings with nine strikeouts and four walks.

Also seeing time on the mound for the Wildcats were Jim Sake and Sam Rathbun who both worked in relief and held the Wolves to just one run over the final two and onethirds innings.

A special thank you as well to Quality and Pac 'N Save for providing the sacks for the all-thebooks-you-can-fit-in-a-bag Sunday special.

Weekly Legislative Update

The Legislature took up the Consent Calendar last week, debating and advancing more than 50 non-controversial bills.

Among the many bills advanced were two of my own - LB 412, which would align deadlines for Sanitary Improvement District (SID) elections with other mailin elections, and LB 537, which would enable smaller communities that rely entirely on volunteer fire departments to supplement their volunteers with paid firefighters during the business day. Both bills were advanced to Select File after brief discussion, and I look forward to speaking on their behalf at the next round of debate.

Most of the debate this week will center around state aid for K-12 education. This session the Chair of the Education Committee, Senator Greg Adams of York, proposed LB 545, which as originally written would have limited increases to the state aid formula to around $100 million for the two-year biennium. Fortunately, the passage of the federal stimulus package provided Nebraska with nearly $234 million to help fund our public schools. At the same time, the most recent state revenue forecasts have painted a grim picture, suggesting that the originally-proposed $100 million increase in state aid may no million in stimulus dollars to the state aid formula. Throughout this process my office has kept an open dialogue with local school officials, trying to gauge the effects that the bill would have on school districts in Northeast Nebraska. I believe that LB 545 as amended will maintain the Legislature's commitment to funding K-12 education, while minimizing the funding cliff that looms when the stimulus money runs out in 2010.

As always, I would encourage you to contact me if you have any questions or simply have an opinion on legislation before the Unicameral. Feel free to call my office at (402) 471-2716, send me an e-mail at bgiese@leg.ne.gov, or stop by in person any time you're in Lincoln.

April is National Alcohol Awareness Month

Month. Attorney General Jon Bruning, beach volleyball sensation Misty May-Treanor, and The Century Council, a not-forprofit dedicated to fighting drunk driving and underage drinking, have joined together to help kids say "no" to underage drinking.

"Communication between parents and children is key in our fight against underage drinking," said Bruning. "One bad decision can change lives forever. It's important to talk directly with your children about the dangers of alcohol use and teach them how to say no."

According to the National Institute on Drug Abuse, most kids try alcohol for their first time at the age of 12. The conversation needs to begin earlier than most parents think - as early as nine years old.

Ask, Listen, Learn: Kids and Alcohol Don't Mix is a program that can help reduce underage drinking by providing both kids and parents with information and strategies to help jumpstart a conversation about the dangers of alcohol. As part of the program, a public service announcement, featuring Bruning and May-Treanor that encourages kids to live a healthy and active lifestyle and to say "no" to underage drinking, will air on radio and television stations in April is National Alcohol Nebraska starting April 8 and continue throughout the month.

"Living a healthy lifestyle includes being active and eating right, and definitely includes saying 'no' to underage drinking," said May-Treanor. "As a kid I was lucky to have parents who talked to me about underage drinking, so I knew it was something I should not consider."

Whether or not they realize it, parents are the leading influence on kids' decision not to drink alcohol. According to the 2008 Roper Youth Report, 79 percent of American youth (ages 8-12) identified their parents as the leading influence.

Susan Molinari, Chairman of The Century Council added, "Parental involvement in their children's lives, especially during the middle school years, can make a difference in preventing their children from consuming alcohol. We are honored to work with Attorney General Bruning to help get this important message out about keeping our young people alcohol-free.

Hot-button issues face senators

By Ed Howard Statehouse Correspondent The Nebraska Press Association

There was a time when the death penalty and abortion were thought of as hot-button issues. They shouldn't be thought of that way these days.

The death penalty fell into that category for just one year. It was in the 1980s, when lawmakers passed a measure that would have ended the state's policy of killing some of 'ferent. those convicted of first-degree mur-

To this day it is hard to figure out how it happened. Former Sen. John DeCamp led the effort. It was bolstered greatly when two important legislative leaders, Jerome Warner of Waverly and Dick Marvel of Hastings, urged their colleagues to do away with executions.

Sen. Ernie Chambers, the firebrand lawmaker from Omaha who traditionally railed against the death penalty, and those who endorsed it, was low-key during debate. It seemed he knew that this was not the time for lambasting any of his colleagues.

Voting to repeal the death penalty was quite the act of political courage in those days. The likes of the legendary Warner and Marvel weren't much at risk, but many of their colleagues knew that plenty of their constituents would be outraged by their votes, even if the quixotic effort failed.

The bill's passage was seen as the first cousin to a miracle. A bare majority was responsible, but the Nebraska Legislature had nonetheless said the death penalty should be repealed. It was the sort of thing that prompted the old "You're kidding!" reaction among the citizenry.

That's where the story began and ended, however. Republican Gov. Charlie Thone vetoed the bill. It never stood a chance of mustering the votes for an override.

It was rightly seen as a now-ornever thing. No level-headed soul thought a repeal would again be sent to a governor's desk. They were right. From that day to this, there has been no question that a majority of legislators stand firmly on the side of the death penalty.

They had not, at this writing, come up with a decision on approving lethal injection as the method for its infliction, but they are in favor of putting the condemned to death.

Abortion was and is entirely dif-

The emotional issue has generally drawn its most intense debate, and biggest crowds to the Capitol, when the imposition of more restrictive regulations was before lawmakers. Liberalizing requirements for obtaining legal abortion was never a possibility.

The political power of anti-aborslightest of doubt. They promised to go after those who opposed their efforts to restrict abortion rights to the greatest degree possible, and they did it.

Sen. Jenny Robak was a Catholic lawmaker from Columbus. Irreversibly and vocally against abortion. She crossed the church when she voted for a proposal related to stem cell research. Antiabortion forces lambasted her in the next election cycle, and she was virtually denounced from the pulpit the Sunday before election day. She lost.

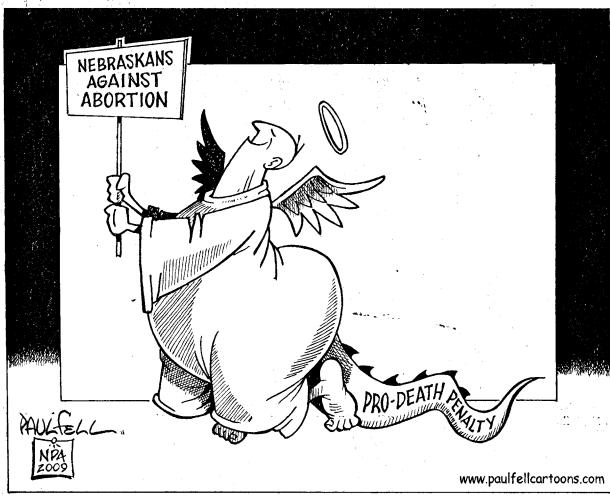

Like some other states, Nebraska passed a series of laws that were guaranteed to be overturned by the federal courts, and they were. The majority of the proletariat never seemed much upset about tion forces was never, ever in the the costs of such court battles; they were only annoyed with juris they regarded as lacking in prudence.

In 2009 the situation is what might be called stabilized. A law that is about as restrictive as the U.S. Supreme Court will allow is in place. Any move to relax those restrictions would hardly be taken seriously.

There are still battles over the details of abortion regulations. This year, the fuss is over whether a woman should be required to look at an ultrasound of a fetus, or whether a doctor should simply be required to offer to let her see it. or whether she should be required to be in the room while a film of the ultrasound is played, with the option to look or ignore it.

Conservation Service (NRCS) in Nebraska will recognize their Earth Team volunteers during National Volunteer Week, April 19 - 25, according to NRCS State Conservationist Steve Chick. Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) is one of NRCS's programs that use volunteers extensively to accomplish their goals and objectives.

"National Volunteer Week provides our Agency the opportunity to acknowledge the outstanding achievements our volunteers accomplish everyday. For example, during just the first six months of our fiscal year we've had 1,924 volunteers contribute over 33,000 hours in Nebraska through our volunteer program, the Earth Team, Chick said. stress.

Humor can be used to reinterpret stressful events. Everyone enjoys a good hearty laugh. It makes people feel good, and that feeling can stay with them even after the laughter subsides. It's difficult to think clearly in the throes of a stressful situation. Regretful decisions can be made based on the emotion of the moment. If people allow themselves to laugh when they are stressed, that laughter can enable them to step back and gain new perspective. Perspective gives people an opportunity to look at a stressful situation with increased objectivity and insight and not cloud thought processes with confusion.

While stressors can create friction within the family and disrupt relationships, humor and laughter rebuild and unify those relationships. It binds people together and lightens burdens. Laughter and appropriate humor can be caring and empathetic. It can invite others to share in the moment and create an environment or rapport between people in a relationship, whether in a personal or work situation.

In addition to acting as an antidote to stress, laughter and humor can emotionally bond people together and demonstrate support and acceptance. It can create new ways of thinking and adapting to stressors and can improve one's physiological, emotional and mental well-being. A hearty laugh can massage every organ in the body, including the heart and lungs. Laughter also can release endorphins, natural chemicals in the body that cause feelings of elation Senior Center or happiness when released.

Here are ways to enhance a sense of humor and enjoy some bellylaughs:

· Remember to have fun. When the going gets tough, just repeat "Life is crazy" or "It's OK to be foolish on occasion."

 Head off stress with regular doses of humor. Remember, a shot of humor is like a dose of medicine; the effects linger, dissipating gradually over several hours. Create your own humor library by clipping funny cartoons, pictures and getting cards. Post them where they can be seen and enjoy a chuckle.

·Rent or collect funny videos. Learn what tickles the funny bone. Some people like slapstick humor while others prefer subtle humor. It will be easy to choose movies when the type of humor appreciated is known.

 Make a silliness check at 4:30 in the afternoon. People around a person need to see his or her smile. whether at home or work. Laughter is contagious - when a person is happy and laughing, it rubs off on others. A well-developed sense of humor is essential to avoid burnout for people who are teachers, doctors, educators, nurses, counselors, farmers, ranchers and many other occupations. It's also essential for

Come Together - and Worship' event scheduled

Sunday, April 26 at 4 PM in the afternoon, the community is invited to attend "Come Together - and Worship!" at Our Savior Lutheran Church at the corner of Fifth and Main Streets.

Participating in music leadership and reading during the service will be musicians and pastors from area churches. Following "Come Together - and Worship!" the Our Savior congregation has invited all attendees to attend a reception following the event.

The worship service will contain music of varying styles, from "high church" hymns to less formal "praise and worship" music which is familiar to most congregations. The readings for the service will be from the book of Psalms and other sources in a worship experience which focuses on the Majesty of God.

Musicians and pastors who will be involved in the service are from the following communities: Laurel, Concord, and Wayne and represent Lutheran, Presbyterian, Evangelical Free, United Methodist, and Assembly of God congrega-

In addition to congregational singing (accompanied by organ or a small "praise and worship" band), "Special Music" will be presented by soloists, handbell ringers, ensembles, and choirs from area churches.

Don't miss this exciting worship service!

For more information about the event, please contact Phil Pfaltzgraff at: wayneamericaworships@yahoo.com

Prairie chickens performed

The Prairie Chickens performed right on time and the Northeast Nebraska Resource Conservation & Development (RC&D) Council tour group was there to see it. The booming ground was filled with over 30 birds "strutting their stuff". It was a great sight!

The tour began at Creighton's City Hall with 30 people boarding the bus headed for Winnetoon and Charlie Kienow's alfalfa field. Scott Wessel, private lands biologist for the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission shared lots of information with the birdwatchers about the birds, their habits and the type of landscape that keeps them here. He praised landowner Kienow for his conservation practices that not only provide a place for the birds to breed, but also ungrazed grass in the summer where the nesting females can raise their chicks and get them off to a good start.

Lucas Negus also of Nebraska Game and Parks Commission said this state is looked upon as one of the great strongholds of the Greater Prairie Chicken. Through the work of the Nebraska Natural Legacy Project in northern Antelope and all of Knox County there have been over 70 leks, breeding grounds for the Greater Prairie Chicken, identified. Annually the birds will come back to these same spots to perform their mating ritual. Most often there is one dominate male that will breed approximately 80 percent of the females.

Shooters 4-H Club braved the weather to compete at the Nebraska State 4-H BB Gun and Air Rifle Championships held in Mitchell on April 4-5.

Nine members participated in the BB Gun portion of the match. This comprised of shooting 10 shots for score in the prone, standing, sitting, and kneeling positions and a written test on firearm safety and knowledge.

Club members shooting BB Gun included Jameson Collier, son of Jay and Jane Collier of Wayne; Jacob Daum, son of Kurt and Deb Daum of Wayne; David and Joshua Greunke, sons of Darin and Staci Greunke of Winside; Cole Koenig, son of Kevin and Terri Koenig of Wayne; Landon Kraft, son of Roger and Donna Kraft of Allen; Logan Milligan, son of Shawn and Elisabeth Milligan of Wayne; Dylan Roland, son of Rich and Donna Roland of Allen; Andrew Simpson, son of Jeff and Colleen Simpson of Wayne. Lathan Kraft, son of Roger and Donna Kraft of Allen competed in Air Rifle only.

Wayne County Team #1, consisting of Andrew Simpson, Landon Kraft, Dylan Roland, David Greunke, and Cole Koenig, placed second overall in team placings.

Ten members of the Sharp Team #1 also captured the top award for test only score. Team #2 consisting of Jameson Collier, Jacob Daum, Joshua Greunke, and Logan Milligan finished 14th out of 18 teams registered.

In the Air Rifle match, Members shot a three position (prone, standing, and kneeling) 20 shots each for score. Members shooting this were, Lathan and Landon Kraft, Andrew Simpson, David Greunke, and Dylan Roland. The Wayne County team of Lathan, Landon, and Andrew finished sixth out of 8 teams registered.

"The 4-H'ers did really well, especially considering the bad weather conditions. We all were pleased with the results," said Darin Greunke, Leader.

Ak-Sar-Ben opens nominations for Nebraska Pioneer awards

The Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben Foundation and the Nebraska Association of Fair Managers announced recently that nominations for the 54th annual Nebraska Pioneer Farm Awards are begin accepted. The program honors farm families in Nebraska whose land has been owned by members of the same family for 100 years or more.

To date, over 6,000 families in 93 Nebraska counties have been honored at various county fairs. Each honoree receives an engraved plaque and gatepost marker as permanent recognition of this mile-

Nomination forms can be obtained from the local County Fair Board Office or by writing the Ak-Sar-Ben Pioneer Farm Awards, 302 South 36th Street, Suite 800, Omaha, Něbraska 68131 or online at www. aksarben.org. All nominations must be received by the county fair board office in which the land is found no later than May 1, 2009.

Older windbreaks may need renovation

While tree windbreaks may last for 50 years or more, some older windbreaks may need renovation because of reduced effectiveness due to age, poor health or neglect, says Dennis Adams, forester with the Nebraska Forest Service.

There are some questions to answer before renovating a windbreak. First, what is the condition of your vindbreak? Are there dead or dying trees, insect problems or gaps in the windbreak or is it dense enough to provide the desired protection? Next, what is the objective of your windbreak? Does your windbreak meet your primary purpose for snow management, wind erosion control, protecting a building or livestock?" asked Adams.

Adams offers a brief list of options depending on the type of windbreak to be renovated. Renovations of course will vary with the type of situation to be addressed. If the windbreak is a one or two row field windbreak:

· if 50 percent or more of the undergrowth is perennial grasses or broadleaved weeds, chemical control is recommended because cultivation may be difficult and injure tree roots; · for gaps in young windbreaks, if less than 10 years old, replanting small trees will work, and if more than 10 years old, larger trees planted with a tree spade may be necessary. Weed control and mulching windbreaks with low density in the understory may need an interplanting of low growing shrubs to fill in and add to plant diversity and wildlife habitat; livestock grazing should never be allowed; · field windbreaks are often planted at close spacing for early wind protection. Some thinning without creating gaps may be in order to maintain tree health; • for Cottonwood, Siberian Elm, and Osage orange trees in a windbreak, or other trees with spreading root systems, root pruning will reduce moisture competition between trees and cropland. Root pruning is not as effective with other tree species.

If the windbreak is multi-row for farmstead or livestock protection:

· controlling sod forming grasses, filling gaps in windbreaks, and adding low growing shrubs to increase density all apply; some thinning techniques for better growth or root pruning may be in order;

· multi-row windbreaks should have a mix of deciduous and coniferous species which adds wildlife values and reduces disease depending on space perhaps a row of shrubs can be added to either side of the windbreak but snow trapping locations should be considered; • in some aging windbreaks where overcrowding could be a problem complete windbreak removal might be needed but results in the loss of a barrier for 10 to 15 years. Removing a row of trees or thinning of individual trees could help. Before removal of any trees, seek the advice of a forester. · Farmers or ranchers interested in planting a new windbreak, or replanting an older deteriorating windbreak, can contact their Natural Resources District or USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service

Commenting on the week's news

It's Tuesday morning, and I've there be amazed? just put a pan of brownies in the oven. I am taking lunch to the Habitat for Humanity volunteers today; something I do once a month. Thank goodness for plenty of Kant hamburger in the freezer, because I typically take taverns, using Marian Iversen's recipe from the Winside cook book. But this means I have 25 minutes to get this written and sent to Clara.

Sometimes, Mike Kelly, in the World Herald, writes a column called From the Notebook. That's what I feel like I'm doing today. There were so many things I noticed last week that I wanted to comment on.

Number one, did you see the great article about Sand Creek Post and Beam barns? I was vaguely aware of this company in Wayne, but did not realize how much it has grown. The barn on the bed and breakfast acreage was of post and beam construction, so I learned what that meant. In fact, I think my brother appreciated it more than he did the house. Now, people from all over the country are ordering barns with that format delivered, ready to assemble. Wouldn't our grandfa-

' I think it was in the same paper, or shortly thereafter, that I saw a photo of the little Loberg girl, hunting beeping Easter eggs at Boys Town Hearing Institute. I had read about the hunt, and was thrilled to see a Wayne county gal featured. And what a fun experience for her.

At the first of the last week, I read about a British woman named Susan Boyle who was taking the You Tube audience by storm with her rendition of I Dreamed a Dream from Les Miserables. Before I could search for it, I think half a dozen people forwarded to me. And, just like everyone else, I burst into tears when I heard her. You know the old adage? Don't judge a book by its cover. That is such a powerful song in the first place, and she does justice to it, in the second place. I'm waiting for her to produce a CD.

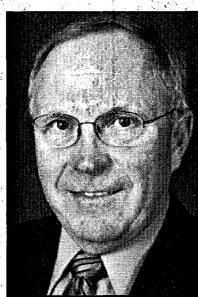

Last night, I was privileged to hear Margaret Hoelzer, the Olympic swimmer, speak about the sexual molestation she experienced from her friend's father. She was five, and it stopped when the man and his family moved away. She didn't tell her parents until she was 11. And she didn't talk publicly until last fall, after winning three medals in Bejing.

It was a wonderful fund raiser for the Child Advocacy Center, and featured a children's choir singing, Darkness to Light. The chorus says; Hear me, when I can't speak. Find me, wherever I hide. Hold me, when I feel weak. Lead me, from darkness, into light.

Community leaders from the mayor, to the police chief, to the sheriff, and including John Cook, our esteemed volleyball coach, and Rhonda Revelle, the softball coach, all joined in to support the center. It was heart warming. And sad, at the same time, especially when the director of the center read some of the statistics.

One other positive experience was a luncheon honoring the nurse who has trained parish nurses here in Lincoln for fifteen years. There were wonderful tributes, good music, and heart-warming fellowship. Which is always good for the

Directed by Janice Fronczak, UNK associate professor of theatre, "Oklahoma!" is set in a western Indian territory just after the turn of the century. The high-spirited rivalry between the local farmers and cowboys provides a colorful background against which Curly, a handsome cowboy, and Laurey, a winsome farm girl, play out their love story. Amy Jensen of Kearney is cast as Laurey, and Joseph Knispel of Kearney is cast as Curly.

Although the road to true love never runs smooth, with these two headstrong romantics holding the reins, love's journey is as bumpy as a surrey ride down a country road. There is no doubt that they will succeed in making a new life together. It is this new life, which will begin in a brand-new state that provides the ultimate climax to the triumphant "Oklahoma!" The production features well-known songs "Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin" and the title song "Oklahoma."

"Oklahoma!" was the first musical written by Richard Rogers and Oscar Hammerstein II. The musical debuted on Broadway in 1943 and showed 2,212 performances before closing in 1948. There have been three Broadway revivals over the years, the most recent in 2002. The production was awarded a Special Tony Award in 1993 for its 50th anniversary. The musical has also run in London in 1947, 1980 and Curtain times for the produc-

to benefit the American Red Cross

Senator Chris Langemeier has announced plans for the Rotunda Ball Classic 2009. This charity basketball game has been scheduled for April 28 at Lincoln Southeast High School with tip-off set for 7 p.m.. The game will feature teams consisting of the 2009 Nebraska State Senators against a team made up of 2009 Registered Lobbyists.

The theme for this year's contest is "Playing for Blood", with the benefit proceeds going to The American Red Cross. The American Red Cross, with chapters in Nebraska, shelters, feeds and counsels victims of disasters; provides nearly half of the nation's blood supply; teaches lifesaving skills; and supports military members and their families. The Red Cross is a charitable organization, dependent on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its mission. Sponsorship ads can still be pur-

Grow Your Own Garden

Vegetable selection for economics

Submitted by Mary Loftis

Interest in vegetable gardening is on the rise as people look for ways to save money and for new hobbies to enjoy. With economics steering some of this interest, it's a good time to look at results of studies aimed at détermining which vegetables bring the most value per square foot of garden space.

While a number of factors make it difficult to evaluate the economic value of home grown vegetables, studies have found vegetables most economical to grow included tomatoes, cucumbers, carrots, snap beans, beets, onions, leaf lettuce, peppers and summer squash.

Vegetables less economic to grow in small home gardens were corn, winter squash, melons and pumpkins. These studies were based on pounds produced per square foot, retail value per pound at harvest time, and length of time in the gar-

If you have limited space or time, this list may help determine which vegetables to grow and which to buy. The most important question is what vegetables do you and your family like to eat? There is no value in taking up garden space with a crop no one will eat. Make a list of your family's favorite vegetables, ranked in order of preference, to use as a guide in deciding what to plant and how much to plant of

How much garden space you have available will also determine which vegetables to grow. You can grow a larger variety and quantity of vegetables in a larger space, but keep in mind a small weed-free garden will produce more than a large weedy mess. Know who will be doing the work and how much time they have to spend on the

Once you decide which vegetables to grow, other selection considerations include days to maturity, pest resistance, and how you plan to use the produce (fresh, canned, frozen, dried or stored). It's also important to know which vegétables are cool season and warm season crops.

Days to maturity are the number of days to harvest. If a variety is labeled as 55 days, it will be ready to harvest about 55 days after planting seed or transplants. Growing factors, such as wind and temperature, may lengthen or shorten this time period. Days to maturity are important in planning the garden to reduce waste. If you plan to preserve a vegetable, will it mature when you have time to can it or freeze it?

Succession planting is a method used to spread out the harvest of a single crop if you plan to use it mostly for fresh eating. This is done by planting sections of a row or a new row with the same variety on different dates, often about one week apart.

In most cases, vegetables need to be planted at the best time for their growth and not at a time when it is most convenient to harvest them. For example, cool season vegetables like broccoli, leaf lettuce, beets and onions grow best and have the best eating quality if they grow and mature during cooler weather. Warm season crops need warm temperatures to grow and mature.

Knowing if a crop is a cool or warm season plant can save money by not planting at a time when the vegetable will not grow well, will be killed by frost, or will have poor flavor. For example, if a warm season crop, like tomato is planted too early into cold soil, it will not grow well and may be killed by spring frost. If plants survive, yield may be greatly reduced by stress. Follow the information on the seed packet or transplant tag for the best time to plant vegetables.

Pest resistance is an important factor in economically growing vegetables. If crops highly susceptible to pests are grown, you can lose money if the crop is lost to a disease or insect or if you need to apply pesticide for control. Some pest control will be needed for a garden, but selection of vegetables and varieties resistant to common pests can save money on pest control and lead to higher yields and better quality produce.

If some of the vegetable will be canned, frozen, dried or stored, this will be a factor in selecting varieties to grow and how much to plant of a vegetable. Some varieties are best for fresh eating and others have better qualities for preservation of storage. Make sure the varieties selected are adapted to your garden site and intended use.
